Pellagra Caused By Vitamin Lack

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—Can you tell me something about a disease called pellagra? Does it cause the mouth to be sore? What causes it? Is there any cure? DEAR READER—Pellagra is a rare disease in our society. It is a good example of how our nutrition has improved over the past 50 years. Pellagra was widespread among the poor in the United States in the 1930s, particularly in the South. It is a vitamin deficiency caused by lack of niacin in the diet. People who subsist on a corn diet are particularly apt to get it. Much of the world escapes pellagra because the people eat corn and beans in combination, and the beans provide sufficient niacin and protein to prevent pellagra. Pellagra has been known to exist for at least 250 years. An old dermatology book from my library refers to it as a disease from fermented maize (corn), and notes it was especially common in the chronically insane (no doubt some of the insane were that way because of the pellagra). The text goes on to state that of 258 cases in the Peoria State Hospital, 50 per cent died. We know that pellagra is caused by a lack of niacin. Niacin and other vitamins were not even known to exist when that text was written in 1924. I mention this only to point out that despite all the concern about our modern food, our nutrition is far superior to what it was a short 50 years ago. Yes, it can make your tongue sore, but so can other vitamin deficiencies and other diseases. A person with pernicious anemia may develop a sore tongue. Pellagra causes a wide variety of symptoms, including skin changes, usually of the parts exposed to the sun, inflammation of the lining of the mouth and entire digestive system — which leads to diarrhea and weight loss. It can cause psychic and emotional disorders including hallucinations. It is an outstanding example of how nutrition can be a factor in mental disease. Niacin is essential in forming enzymes that the cells use in complex chemical reactions to metabolize your food. The disease is still found in some parts of the world where the people live on corn and corn products and have a protein deficient diet. You can cure or prevent the disease by eating a healthy diet. A diet with enough good proteins is important. Niacin is in enriched flour and bread making it almost impossible for anyone who eats bread to become deficient in niacin and develop pellagra. Niacin is found in lean meats, poultry, liver, whole wheat cereals, peanuts and mature bean seeds. Anyone who takes a standard daily vitamin preparation which you buy in most grocery stores will not have pellagra. Balanced diets certainly are important to your health and will prevent a host of illnesses. To give you more information on what is included in a balanced diet, I am sending you The Health Letter number 44, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Here is a hand that decided a team match when the declarer at one table and a defender at the other went wrong. Both South players arrived at the normal three-trump contract. Both Wests opened the seven of spades and both declarers won with the jack. At table one South promptly plunked down the king of clubs. West played low and East was in with the king. East was his last spade to clear the suit and declarer could only come to eight tricks. At the other table South led his jack of hearts to dummy's queen and played the deuce of clubs. East played low and South's queen took care of West's ace. This left West with no way to bring home his last two spades. South ran off with his game contract with three diamonds and two tricks in each of the other suits. East criticized his partner's opening lead and it is quite true that if West had opened any suit except spades South's contract would almost surely have wound up in the ashcan! But East was the real culprit! All he had to do was to top up with his king of clubs when the suit was led and knock out the ace of spades while West was still in control of the club suit. Ask the Jeopardies Here is another question about a revoke. This reader wants to know if the penalty must be claimed at the first opportunity. The answer is that it may be claimed at any time before the score for the hand has been agreed on. On the other hand, it is best to establish your claim immediately since otherwise there may be an argument about whether or not a revoke has actually been committed.

Administrators Object To 'Caps' School Class Sizes Debated

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Staff Writer

Class size remains one of the main bones of contention between the Seminole County school administration and the Seminole Education Association (SEA), as evidenced at Thursday night's continued public hearing on special master Douglas Stowell's report on docked contract issues. The school board will take action on issues aired at the public hearing after the SEA and administration have each summarized their cases at a continuation of the public hearing Jan. 20 at 7 p.m. at the county courthouse. Both the administration and SEA have agreed to accept the special master's recommendation that "every effort will be made to keep the class size at an acceptable level district-wide." This acceptable level is 25 pupils in kindergarten classes, 27 in grades one to three, and 30 in grades four to 12. However, the SEA wants the contract to include a requirement that the teacher be consulted first, if it becomes necessary to increase class size above the acceptable maximum. The administration contends that determination of class size is a managerial prerogative. "In general, class caps are undesirable," said Dan Dugg, assistant superintendent of instruction. "Caps would mean we were moving in the direction of mandatory class size — and we like the flexibility we now have." Dugg said there are times when a class of more than 30 students is reasonable. "Some classes tend themselves to higher pupil-teacher ratio than others," he commented. Dick Barnett, Lake Brantley High School principal, testified that teachers in high schools are consulted about class size when schedules for the year are being drawn up, and that flexibility is needed to accommodate the differing needs of various classes, and to provide for students who join the school late in the year. Barnett argued that the SEA position was "rigid and arbitrary." He said that their proposal that a teacher be consulted before a class size is increased above a cap "has the implication that the teacher's response be followed after consultation." Jim Neville, Red Bug Elementary principal, said that in his school teachers are assigned a class, and it is the teachers who then divide the students into groups. He said that usually the slower groups had significantly fewer students than the more advanced groups. Neville commented that he believed the school system was giving students "as equal a learning opportunity as we can afford."

requirement that the teacher be consulted first, if it becomes necessary to increase class size above the acceptable maximum.

COWLEY

The administration is opposed to the special master's recommendation (which the SEA supports) that the base salary be increased to $8,600. School Supt. William P. Layer has recommended the base be increased to $8,300. Ernie Cowley, the administration's chief negotiator, said he was aware that teachers wanted a salary increase commensurate with the cost of living increase — "but our revenues this year did not increase in line with the cost of living increase," he said. Cowley argued that the school board in recent years has regularly increased all salaries, and that there had been a $2,500 increase in the base over the past 10 years. He said the Seminole school system was in line with surrounding counties in salary increases, especially for experienced teachers. He said Seminole's increments are one of the best in the state. Cowley said it would cost the school system $246,000 to increase the base from $8,300 to $8,600. In the area of supplements, the special master has recommended that categories recommended by the SEA be adopted for athletic supplements. He also recommended a schedule of supplements for teachers sponsoring extra-curricular activities in areas other than athletics. However, Layer has countered that the 1975-76 supplement schedule be maintained this year while an ad hoc committee is established to propose changes in index values and any additional supplementary positions. The administration does not agree with the special master's recommendation that the school board pay $200 annually per teacher toward medical insurance. Layer has proposed raising the board's contribution from $150 to $160 per teacher. The SEA proposal would cost the system $60,000. Cowley said this was the agreement signed with the school systems three other employees unions, and that it would not be fair to agree to more for teachers. He proposed the establishment of a 15-member insurance advisory committee, including five SEA members. The SEA had balked at the committee proposal partly because of the verbiage which called for a non-specific "substantial representation" from members of SEA. The administration's six-hour presentation concluded with an argument from Cowley that the term of agreement of the contract be limited to two years. "I feel any contract clause has a beginning and an end," he said. The SEA favors a continuing clause, which it maintains could be needed in cases of impasse.

Murder Suspect Says Dead Man Held A Gun

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Raymond Eugene Phillips told a circuit court jury in Sanford today that he fired two pistol shots Nov. 5 at a co-worker in self-defense following a night of drinking and two fistfights with the man. Phillips, 40, is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Robert W. Thomason, 30, who lived in the same apartment complex as Phillips at 700 S. Magnolia Ave., Sanford. Phillips testified that he didn't intend to kill Thomason when he ran into Thomason's apartment after hearing women screaming. "I was scared," Phillips said. "I was afraid he was going to hurt someone." Phillips said a woman in Thomason's apartment, across from Phillips' apartment, had "bothered that he had a gun." The defendant said he entered Thomason's apartment to see two women struggling in the living room and Thomason standing in a bedroom door pointing a pistol, held in one hand, down a hallway in Phillips' direction. "He said 'I'm going to kill you or 'ya'll' and something else,'" Phillips told the jury. Phillips said he then raised a .357 magnum pistol he had grabbed from a bar in his apartment when he ran to Thomason's apartment, "and fired ... because he had a gun pointed at me." Phillips said Thomason darted behind a door but his hand and gun were still pointed at Phillips. Phillips said, "I fired again ... I felt my life was in danger." Phillips said he was deafened by the shots and ran to the bedroom where he saw Thomason lying on the floor with a wound in the forehead. Phillips described an earlier incident that night in which Thomason had come from his apartment, cocked a pistol and pointed it at Phillips and other neighbors, including sheriff's deputy Randy Pittman, in the apartment complex parking lot. "As he pulled the hammer back he said 'I'm going to kill you,'" Phillips testified. According to earlier testimony in the three-day trial before Circuit Judge A. J. Hosemann Jr., Phillips, Thomason and two women had joined Pittman and his wife Christine for drinks and dinner at a restaurant celebrating the Pittman's fourth wedding anniversary. Several people who live adjacent to the apartment complex testified that they heard loud arguing voices before two gunshots early the morning of Nov. 5. Mrs. Mary Carpenter, an apartment complex resident, testified that she'd seen the parking lot gun-pointing incident from her living room window. She said she heard Thomason say, "I'm going to shoot you" or "I'm going to kill you" before Pittman approached Thomason and Thomason went back into his apartment. State witness Thursday testified that Thomason died from a bullet wound in the forehead, and that the bullet came from the pistol fired by Phillips. They said the bullet went through a door jam before striking Thomason. Police said a second bullet was found in an eave outside the dead man's bedroom. Police said they found the death weapon buried in loose dirt behind the apartments. A neighbor testified that he was awakened by the disturbance at the apartment complex, heard two shots, and then saw a man and a crying woman come behind the complex and kneel near the spot where the buried weapon was found. The trial was expected to go to the 12-member jury this afternoon for deliberations. The jury was to vote on verdicts of first-degree murder, second-degree murder, manslaughter, justifiable homicide, and, lesser offenses including aggravated assault.

Sanford May 'Go It Alone' In Improving Sewer Plant

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

The City of Sanford is now considering the possibility of improving local sewage treatment facilities on its own without the use of federal funds. The city is facing a deadline from the federal Environmental Protection Administration (EPA) which requires a "zero discharge" of effluents into Lake Monroe by July 1. EPA has told the city that if it can't meet the deadline, it must submit to EPA by February 5 a schedule of compliance for meeting the zero discharge requirement after July 1. Sanford, Lake Mary and Seminole County have formed a regional sewer plant interim study committee to develop a proposal for a regional approach to the problem which would be eligible for federal funds. At a Wednesday night meeting of the committee, Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles warned the group that time was running out for Sanford. Knowles informed the city commission in a Thursday memorandum that "I am now taking up two schedules with our engineering staff and consultant: (Clark, Dietz & Assoc. of Sanford) a tri-party, regional approach; and a Sanford approach to go it alone without the use of federal funds." Seminole County Commissioner John Kimbrough, a member of the interim committee who did not attend the Wednesday meeting, said today that a go-alone approach by Sanford "would probably be possible. I don't know if it would be practical." There may be "a considerable amount of overreaction" in Knowles' reaction to the EPA deadline, Kimbrough said. "Perhaps he should take EPA's statements with a grain of salt." Sanford's wastewater treatment plant permit was issued by EPA "about a year-and-a-half ago" pursuant to the 1973 amendments of the federal Water Pollution Control Act, according to engineer Paul Porter, of Clark, Dietz and Associates. His firm is working with the city and the interim committee to improve Sanford's facilities. The federal government has set a 1985 deadline for eliminating effluent discharge into America's waterways. The state has established planning districts to meet the problem on a regional basis, and Sanford's region includes Lake Mary and north Seminole County. Under a regional approach, facilities would be improved in a three-step process: facilities planning, detailed engineering design work and actual construction.

Porter's firm is now working on the first step, which will answer such questions as where the plants should be, expected costs, how the costs will be split among participating jurisdictions and what lands will be needed. This step also includes a detailed sewer system evaluation survey. Sanford has put up $67,500 for the survey, to be matched by $382,500 from the EPA. The other phases of first-step planning will cost $125,000. Sanford, Lake Mary and Seminole County have contributed 25 per cent of the amount. The rest is being provided by EPA. Porter said, "We're almost done with Step 1, and the sewer system evaluation survey" and that the survey is "partially completed." The federal government has approved its share of the survey, and now it's just a matter of final paperwork."

Diet Poses Peril, Senate Panel Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor diets are one of the leading public health problems, a Senate committee report said today. It recommended a major new federal program to educate Americans on what they should eat.

"The public is confused about what to eat to maximize health," Chairman George McGovern, D-S.D., of the Senate nutrition committee said in the report entitled "Dietary Goals for the United States."

The report said changes in the average diet in the United States since the beginning of the century "may be as profoundly damaging to the nation's health as the widespread contagious diseases of the early part of this century."

"The over-consumption of fat, generally, and saturated fat in particular, as well as cholesterol, sugar, salt and alcohol have been related to six of the ten leading causes of death: heart disease, cancer, cerebrovascular disease, diabetes, arteriosclerosis and cirrhosis of the liver," it said.

Over-consumption in general is a major problem but under-nourishment due to dietary patterns may also lead to malnutrition, the report prepared by the committee staff said.

In its suggestions to consumers, the report recommended increasing consumption of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, poultry and fish. It recommended decreasing

Lake Howell Now 'Back To Normal'

The situation at Lake Howell High School, where 200 protesting students held a sit-in for 90 minutes Wednesday outside the school office was back to normal today. Principal Richard Evans said there had been an apparent breakdown in communications between the student body and the student council and information was not filtering down.

As a result of the protest, a representative was elected from each third-period class to form a representative assembly which will meet and report back to the classes. Evans said he met with the representatives yesterday to clarify issues.

Among the alleged student grievances was cold food, prepared at another location and transported to Lake Howell. Evans said he had contacted the Department of Food Services about providing equipment for keeping the food warm.

Evans said he still is investigating a charge that a male student entered the girl's bathroom and had not found anyone who saw this.

The dean has denied it, claiming he knocked to make sure all students were in class after the bell had rung.

Students also complained about rules concerning tardiness and public displays of affection. Evans said only a few of the 1800 students had caused a problem with prolonged kissing in the hallways.

Ski-Masked Bandit Caught, Charged In Murder Attempt

BRUNSDIDGE, Ala. (AP) — A 17-year-old member of a skimasked gang that terrorized rural Central Florida in 1975 has been recaptured in this southeast Alabama town and charged with trying to murder a police officer.

Larry Marshall, one of two inmates who fled a Florida jail Tuesday night, was arrested Thursday after threatening Police Chief James Parks of nearby Clio and stealing his patrol car, Parks said.

The other escapee, James David Bass, was not with Marshall and is still at large.

Suwannee Causes Floods

GAINESVILLE (AP) — The Suwannee River, on a rare winter rampage, has inched slightly higher but is expected to recede before reaching flood stage along most of its length in North Florida, forecasters say.

The National Weather Service in Jacksonville reported Thursday that the only flooding has occurred at the point where the Santa Fe River flows into the Suwannee River in a sparsely populated area northwest of Gainesville.

Tanker Rules Established

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A federal agreement requiring strict safety precautions on super tankers using the Gulf of Mexico should super as a model for the entire country, Florida Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin says.

He announced Thursday that U.S. Transportation Secretary William Coleman has agreed to impose the strict safety standards sought by Florida officials when he licenses offshore supertanker ports for Louisiana and Texas.

Migrant Students Unreported

TALLAHASSEE (AP) Officials say local school districts aren't reporting the attendance of about 10,000 children of migrant farm workers. And they say it's costing Florida at least $5 million a year in federal funds.

Dale Hillburn, administrator of the state's migrant education program, said Thursday that it's necessary for the attendance to be reported if Florida is to get all it's due in federal migrant education funds.

Tickets Threaten Insurance

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida drivers who fail to pay traffic tickets on time face more than the loss of their licenses. They may also wind up with higher insurance costs, or no insurance at all.

Dale Hillburn, administrator of the state's migrant education program, said Thursday that it's necessary for the attendance to be reported if Florida is to get all it's due in federal migrant education funds.

HRS Practices Under Fire In House

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Angry lawmakers say at least 10 former employees of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services were put on consulting contracts at pay higher than their state salaries.

And members of a House appropriations subcommittee say that violated a 1975 legislative order limiting HRS program personnel to 450.

Tough-talking committee members chastised HRS Secretary William Page on Thursday and demanded that he do something.

"Whoever did that — there ought to be some heads rolling on it," fumed Rep. Billy Joe Riah, D-Port St. Joe.

After lawmakers lambasted Page for an HRS memorandum outlining ways to get around the limit, Page countered with one showing that he had decided circumvention would be illegal.

"I'm beginning to believe that people do some things different than what I told them," Page added. He promised an investigation.

Committee staffers reported that some of the former Career Service employees, whose contracts were later canceled, are now subcontractors for a private firm with a $237,000 HRS contract.

Page said Sunland officials had started working on the problem before the expose. Officials said state prison inmates would be taken to the center to help in the clean-up.

Assistant Secretary David Pingree said an undetermined number of patient abuse complaints were referred to local prosecutors, but so far all contained insufficient evidence.

However, he said HRS was looking at personnel policies for possible punishment.

Panel Eyes $50 Million Tax Relief

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Senate's tax-writing committee is taking a serious look at proposals to provide about $50 million in property tax relief to homeowners and renters.

The committee got its first view Thursday of various types of "circuit-breaker" ideas, tax relief proposals geared to a person's income.

Finance and Taxation Chairman Jack Gordon, D-Miami, directed the committee to come up with exact figures on what each proposal would cost in lost revenue.

The review appears to give the circuit-breaker concept, which has been before the legislature for more than four years, its best chance of passage.

Gordon said he favors the tax relief he most favors and Senate President Lew Brantley has said property tax relief is his top goal.

SCOPA Lease Under Study

The Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) is scheduled to discuss final approval of a land lease for construction of a 10,000-square-foot building at its regular board meeting Monday night.

The authority "has a tenant waiting in the wings ready to take over 2,500 square feet," Administrator Jim Ryan says.

The prospective tenant is Standard Medical Supply of Seminole County, a manufacturer of wheel chairs, bandages and medical equipment.

Clifton Construction will lease the land and build the facility. SCOPA is looking for businesses to lease the remaining 7,500 square feet.

Also to be discussed at Monday night's meeting will be an inquiry to locate a marina and a steel plant on SCOPA-owned land.

Congress' Load Will Be Heavy

The 95th Congress convened Jan. 4 with confronting Democrats in the House and Senate anticipating a fruitful session and a long honeymoon with the White House.

They have a right to. Their majorities were first elected in the November election, and for the first time in eight years, one of their own is about to be sworn in as president.

This is a heady political atmosphere. What brings it down to earth is that the issues on the congressional agenda have not become simplified—making the government problems easier to solve—because of the new faces at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Not the least of these issues, and the one commanding first attention, is the economy. If Congress and the President decide it needs more stimulation to create jobs, and even the outgoing Ford administration may conclude that it does, that is only the point at which the work begins.

How much stimulation, and what kind? What mix of tax cuts and direct job-making programs? What about the impact on a federal budget already burdened with deficits considered by some economists to be inflationary?

There are the same questions that beset President Ford and the 94th Congress in their struggles over economic policy. Mr. Ford's final tax and budget proposals to be sent to Congress Jan. 17, are likely to contain data that Congress cannot ignore, even if it would prefer to for political reasons.

Since Mr. Carter and other Democrats have promised to act positively to bring down unemployment, the economic issue may be brought to a head sooner than others. Among the others, energy policy surely has top priority. Here, Congress may face heat from two directions.

An energy program with heavy emphasis on fuel conservation—as Mr. Carter has mentioned—could demand that the new Congress take steps the old one was reluctant to take. The evidence now is that Americans will need more than slogans to change their energy-consuming habits, especially where gasoline is concerned. Significant energy conservation will require sacrifice, which makes it doubtful that such a program can be both effective and popular at the same time.

Further, Mr. Carter's plan to gather energy agencies in a new Cabinet-level department means a disturbance of vested interests within the Washington bureaucracy. As with the President-elect's other plans for government reorganization, this could create a conflict of loyalties in Congress—loyalty to the party leader in the White House vs. loyalty to government careerists who represent a potent force on Capitol Hill.

The former Georgia governor will be the first president since Dwight Eisenhower to enter the White House without previous congressional experience. This fact, and the anti-Washington theme of his campaign, are the source of some reservations about the duration of the honeymoon atmosphere attending the recent congressional opening.

Long Look Needed

President Ford's proposal that Puerto Rico be admitted as the 51st state came as a surprise. The two men who would be most intimately concerned with actual implementation of statehood—President-elect Jimmy Carter and Carlos Romero Barea, Puerto Rico's new governor—reacted cautiously.

That's a good approach. It would be an error for anyone to overreact. President Ford is aware that any decision on statehood for Puerto Rico will not be made during the days that he has remaining as President. He also knows that those decisions will be made by the Puerto Ricans. His proposal, therefore, undoubtedly was prompted by a desire to "get on the record" his support for the Republican platform plank on Puerto Rico.

The GOP platform supports full statehood for Puerto Rico "if that is the people's choice in a referendum...." On that score, the proposal should be helpful to Mr. Carter. In the Caribbean, and elsewhere in the Third World, the U.S. offer can counter claims that the United States wants to remain "colonial power" by conferring only second-class status on its associates.

President Ford's offer also will serve as a warning to Fidel Castro in Cuba that the United States takes its responsibilities in the hemisphere seriously. Castro's attempts to subvert other nations should be weakened.

BERRY'S WORLD

These slick mobsters have now taken over the rackets, including unlawful wagering. States that have adopted legalized gambling, unfortunately, have not put the underworld lords out of business. The truth is that legalized gambling has helped their business.

To get the story, we sent our reporter Rick Sokolow to New York, which was the first state this side of Nevada to establish Off-Track Betting parlors.

At the street level, the mobsters still wear flashy clothes, acquire gaudy girls, and frequent bars, bistros and race tracks. But the crime bosses are more likely to be found in suits of conservative cut and color. They could pass, say, for Madison Avenue advertising executives.

"There were fewer war toys on the market this Christmas. Sad, isn't it?"

RAY CROMLEY Soon They Are Like Everyone

WASHINGTON—Over the years I have watched new men come to Washington in one capacity or another in government. They arrive with fresh ideas. Their proposals are sharp and to the point, their words crisp. They are impatient with red tape and bureaucratic stalling, determined to get things done.

I talk to these same men a year or so later. They speak in bureaucratic, find it difficult to come to the point. Their sentences are long and involved, their plans nebulous. They speak ponderously of long-term gains and the need for a slow pace of pushing for change.

Some of these appointees come in rip snorting, shifting bureaucrats right and left, yanking officials almost bodily, replacing them with others. Soon they find to their sorrow that nothing is different. For the bureaucracy digs in and the next layer takes the place of the old.

Some newcomers become discouraged, convinced that no one can get a handle on the bureaucracy. These men usually end up resigning their posts and going back home.

Most newcomers, however, roll with the tide in the end. They become, as suggested above, more like Washingtonians than the Washingtonians and more like the bureaucrats than the bureaucrats themselves.

They're caught in a pattern of encirclement. When a new department secretary and his assistants take over an agency, the established bureaucracy begins shunting their way a host of perks—privileges, conveniences and special treatment. The newcomers find a variety of doors quietly opened for themselves and their families on a scale never imagined. They find that officials rush to obey their slightest personal request. They are smothered with everything possible to build their egos, treated with deference.

In stage two they're briefed to the gills with endless sophisticated, elaborate briefings, complete with colored slides, charts and whatnot on every conceivable operation in which the agency is engaged. These briefings, in some agencies, occur daily and are carefully designed to obfuscate anything the bureaucrats and their supervisors don't want brought to light.

The bureaucratic staffs follow through by making certain the newcomers are occupied with a myriad of details on everything imaginable. Every insignificant problem is brought to their attention for decision.

With all this, the time and energy the newcomers have left to deal with reorganization or with key agency problems are minimal. They must perforce depend on the subordinates who have been there for years—the established bureaucracy.

When the new department secretary ventures into changes the bureaucracy does not want, he finds something has gone amiss here or there, and what he's requested or ordered doesn't happen. No one refuses to do what he's told. No one defies or argues. But little problems of one sort or another arise after another—days pass, then weeks and months. Slowly the proposal has disappeared into the woodwork.

In the end little changes.

JACK ANDERSON

Legalized Gambling Favors Crime Lords

Under their direction, organized crime has become the nation's biggest business, and one of its most profitable operations is illegal gambling. The underworld tycoons have their hands in the till of most friendly neighborhood bookies.

In New York, Sokolow found that business has been booming for the bookies since the state opened Off-Track Betting parlors, which accept lawful bets on the horses. But the legal wagering, apparently, attracts new gamblers. Many of them wind up placing bets with the neighborhood bookies, who offer other sporting wagers, tax-free payoffs and easy credit.

Sokolow visited a legal betting parlor and a bookie joint two blocks apart in one of New York City's old ethnic neighborhoods.

The state parlor has chairs, no food, no beverages. A stark light exposed a dirty floor littered with discarded newspapers and tickets. The bettors stood in line before bank-style windows and placed their bets with faceless tellers.

In contrast, the local bookie operates out of a neighborhood bar under an elevated train. The atmosphere is cozy and congenial; dim lighting softens the harsh regards; the bookie is a likable, if larcenous fellow who presides over a clearing.

He agreed to talk to us if we would call him "Frankie Numbers," which is not his name.

Next week we will witness another presidential inauguration, a once-simple ceremony that has burgeoned into a full-blown orgy of pomp and circumstance.

The event is expected to cost some $3 million, much of which will be paid by the taxpayers. The inaugural platform alone is expected to cost some $25,000.

Presidents have come a long way, baby, since the modest ceremonies conducted by the Founding Fathers.

One wonders what would be Thomas Jefferson's reaction if he could be brought back to life long enough to view the antics in progress in Washington. Feisty old Tom probably would run out and start another revolution.

Carter's bash, however, will be a bargain compared to that thrown by Richard Nixon four years ago. That spectacle reportedly cost a cool $6 million, and the public was barred from many of the events, which accepted guests by invitation only. Ironically, it turns out that those well-heeled guests were actually slumping and didn't know it.

All this preoccupation with expensive rituals, of course, has more significance than just the cost to the taxpayer. It reflects a glandular condition on the part of the Office of the President, which has become bloated with its own power.

The Imperial Presidency has become a reality. Whether by the dictates of realpolitik, or by deliberate usurpation of power, the Oval Office now is stronger than ever before.

The President can make war by executive fiat, while Congress flounders in its own parliamentary procedures.

Presidents retire in a style fit for kings (some deserve their pensions more than others.) Will Americans grow resentful of the Imperial Presidency and seek to change it? There is no indication that any change is likely in the near future, although some groups are actively trying to slice the tentacles emanating from the White House.

It has been said that Americans use movie stars as a substitute for royalty—as objects for the human tendency to worship heroes. Fortunately, we should start demanding our money's worth from the men we hire to run this nation.

his proclivity to bow down to the sovereign has so far been less evident in America than in other countries.

Consider Britain. That beleaguered, bankrupt, post-socialist welfare state is up to its Big Ben in financial problems. And at the top of the heap sits the Royal Family, a pathetic gaggle of parasites feeding off the national treasury.

Yet any move to sever the Royal Family's financial umbilical cord is met with a storm of outrage from the British citizenry. It is as if the British have inherited a gene for loyalty.

They love their Queen. What a disgusting word for an American to have to write.

The British situation should serve as a lesson for any of us Yankees who grow too impressed by our President who, after all, is merely a public servant.

Perhaps there is still time for us to abandon the attitude of 'yes, Mr. President' and, whatever you say, Mr. President."

We should start demanding our money's worth from the men we hire to run this nation.

DON OAKLEY Ford Turns Activist In Final Days

A lame-duck president, however badly he may have been lamed in November, exercises all the powers and prerogatives of his office until the stroke of noon on the following Jan. 20.

He may have little real power in terms of pushing legislation through Congress, but he can do some dramatic things.

Fortunately, no outgoing president has ever gotten the country into a war, but it was in the last days of his administration in 1961 that President Eisenhower broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba, thus presenting the incoming Kennedy administration with a fait accompli and setting it up for the later Bay of Pigs disaster.

President Ford, emerging from virtual hibernation following his defeat in November, has turned positively activist.

He has, for instance, proposed statehood for Puerto Rico, to the surprise of many, including that commonwealth's new governor.

He announced he would take the question of amnesty for Vietnam war exiles under advisement, although no one really expected him to relieve Jimmy Carter of that campaign promise.

He indicated he would take executive action on the matters of pay raises for government workers and the lifting of gasping price controls, actions which would require immediate legislative consideration by Congress.

In Britain and other parliamentary democracies, a new government takes over within hours of its election. The situation in this country is not as bad as it was before 1933, when the 20th Amendment to the Constitution changed the date of presidential inauguration from March to January for eight months. The fix on the nation's affairs were to be held in a state of limbo for only two and a half months instead of four when a new administration succeeded an old.

But it is still a sloppy system.

What is going on in China? Scattered, disconnected reports of wide-spread disturbances continue to filter out of that country, keeping China-watchers busy trying to piece together a coherent picture.

Apparently, even before the death of Mao Tse-tung and the subsequent purge of his widow, Chiang Ching, "radical" followers of Chiang began mounting outright rebellion. According to one West German news agency report, fighting has occurred in 10 of China's 21 provinces and in one pitched battle in Sechwan, "many hundreds, if not thousands" of people were killed before the uprising was suppressed.

In another report reaching Tokyo, "radical agents" are said to be shaking a tractor factory in Kiangsi province for eight months. The factory is occupied in 10 of China's 21 provinces and in one pitched battle in Sechwan, "many hundreds, if not thousands" of people were killed before the uprising was suppressed.

Disturbances continue in Peking, only 90 miles from Peking, and in other major cities, although the worst seems to be over.

Horse Throws Hackman During Film Movie Filming

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Gene Hackman is recuperating from an injury to the sciatic nerve suffered when he was thrown from a horse in Morocco during the filming of "March or Die."

Hackman's horse was spooked by a camel during the filming of the French Foreign Legion picture shortly before Christmas.

A spokesman for the actor said Thursday he was having some discomfort, but was not hospitalized by the injury.

He said Hackman would complete final scenes for the picture in Arizona, then play the role of Lothar in "Superman."

Ford Back To Ivy

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — President Ford, a former assistant Yale football coach and a graduate of Yale Law School, will return to the Ivy League university for a short time after he leaves office.

The White House said Thursday that Ford has accepted a Chubb Fellowship and will spend Feb. 6-8 meeting informally with students and faculty members. He will live in a dormitory and eat in student dining rooms.

Ford graduated from the law school in 1941. He was an assistant coach in 1935.

McGovern Back To Teaching

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is returning to teaching, at least parttime.

The South Dakota Democrat will travel from Washington to Columbia University in New York City each Monday to teach a special evening course, "American Foreign Policy, 1945-75."

"I seized on it," McGovern said. "I think it's going to be a fascinating experience to be required, after 20 years away from the classroom, to systematically organize my thoughts on foreign policy."

McGovern taught history and political science at Dakota Wesleyan University before entering politics.

Redgrave Linked To Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — Actress Lynn Redgrave says she is puzzled over her possible involvement in the obscenity trial of Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt and three magazine employees.

Miss Redgrave — along with journalists Vincent Canby, Liz Smith and Patrick McGrady — is included on a list of possible defense witnesses announced Monday.

"She didn't seem to know anything about it," said a theater spokesman for Miss Redgrave in New York.

Flynt, his wife Alta Leasure Flynt, his brother Jimmy R. Flynt and Al Van Schaik are charged with engaging in organized crime and pandering obscenity.

Black Asks Church Deal

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Rev. Clennon King, who has failed so far in attempts to join President-elect Carter's hometown church, says he is willing to drop the matter if the church accepts another black person as a member this weekend.

If this condition is not met, King, 56, warned here Thursday, he will resume the battle by establishing residence in the county where the Plains Baptist Church is located.

The church's Watch Care Committee denied membership to King because he is not a Plains resident. King makes his home in Albany, Ga.

Anthony Eden, Ex-British Leader, Dies

ALVEDISTON, England (AP) — Former Prime Minister Anthony Eden died peacefully in his sleep this morning at his country home in southern England after a long illness, his doctor announced. He was 79.

Eden, a successful foreign minister who failed as prime minister when he joined France in the abortive Suez invasion in 1956, was flown home from Florida last weekend when it became apparent that death was near.

His doctor said he had had cancer of the lung and bone for a year and it had spread to the liver. One London newspaper reported he was suffering from progressive liver failure.

The suave, aristocratic statesman who resigned from Neville Chamberlain's cabinet to protest Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler, was a brave soldier in World War I, a member of the House of Commons for 34 years, a brilliant diplomat before, during and after World War II, and a bitter and disillusioned loser in the Suez war that destroyed him as a political leader.

Eden, who was elevated to the peerage as Earl of Avon in 1961, became gravely ill while spending the winter at the Florida home of American diplomat Averell Harriman, and a Royal Air Force plane equipped as a flying hospital was sent from London to bring him and his wife home.

"Lord Avon was an eternal Englishman," a close friend said. "He had told his family that if he looked like he were dying they must do all they could to see he died in Britain."

He is survived by his second wife, Clarissa, a niece of Sir Winston Churchill, whom he married in 1952, and one son by his first marriage, Viscount Eden, 46, who succeeds to his title. His first wife, whom he divorced in 1950, died of cancer of the liver in 1967, and their elder son was killed in World War II.

Born June 12, 1897, Robert Anthony Eden was a baronet's younger son whose ancestors included a governor of colonial Maryland. He went to France as a soldier in World War I, was the youngest brigade major in the British army, won the Military Cross and lost two of his brothers on the battlefields.

After the war he went to Oxford, studied Persian and Arabic, and served in the Indian Army. He was a member of the House of Commons from 1924 to 1935, and was a member of the House of Lords from 1935 to 1961.

Eden lost his first race for the House of Commons in 1922 but won a year later in the constituency of Warwick and Leamington. His rise in politics was rapid: undersecretary for foreign affairs in his early 30s, lord privy seal at 37, minister of state for League of Nations affairs at 37 and foreign secretary at 38, in 1935.

Eden was a diplomat of great skill and a man of sturdy character who argued for rearmament and a firm stand against Mussolini and Hitler.

When Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain refused to adopt such a stance, Eden resigned and retired to the sidelines. The outbreak of World War II vindicated him, and Churchill made him foreign secretary again, launching their long and close association.

When the war ended, the British public retired Churchill from office but he stayed on as opposition leader, with Eden still No. 2 and growing older. When the Conservatives returned to power in October 1951, Eden was back again as foreign secretary.

Churchill finally retired in 1955, and Eden succeeded him as prime minister.

Ex-Brinks Guard Nabbed; Took $500,000; Has $400

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Former Brinks guard Richard Rees, who brazenly made off with $500,000 cash from an armored car 11 months ago, has been captured with less than $400 in his pockets.

Rees, 27, described by police as "maybe the greatest rip-off artist of all time" was arrested by a federal magistrate today on a charge of bank larceny after his arrest Thursday by the FBI and New Mexico state police.

The former guard had been sought since Feb. 11, 1976, when he asked his driver to stop at a restaurant in San Mateo, Calif., and he could deliver a box of champagne to a girl. He stepped off the truck and vaned with the money.

The FBI said Rees was taken into custody at Villanueva, N.M., a small community about 40 miles north here, following a stakeout by authorities who had learned he was in the area. Details surrounding the arrest were skimpy. The FBI said only that Rees was known to have been camping out in Texas, Nevada and New Mexico and that the bureau had been tipped that he was in Villanueva.

He was arrested while at the home of a man identified by state police only as Kent Scott. Scott was not taken into custody.

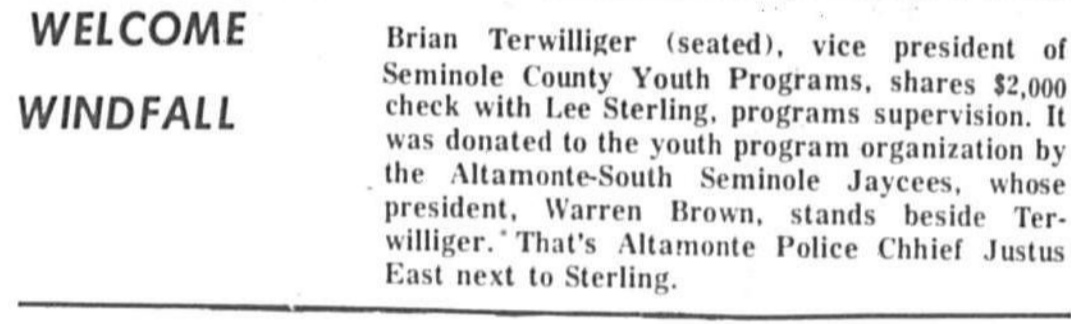

Following the theft, a San Mateo police sergeant said Rees, who left a wife, an exile and a daughter behind, might be "the greatest" rip-off artist ever.

"We can't think of another case where a single man, using no violence or weapons, escaped with such a large amount of untraceable cash," the policeman said.

The arrest came a week after the FBI in San Francisco was given a 17-page letter Rees addressed to San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen asking that it be relayed to the federal agents.

In it, he described how he played his way through most of the $500,000 through associations with women in Ft. Worth and Austin, Tex., and $2,000 in race track bets.

The letter, which the FBI said was authentic, was postmarked Kansas City, Mo., and was the first word from the former Marine since he disappeared.

CAREER SALES OPPORTUNITY

Would you like to earn $300 - $700 per week as a salesman?

You can do it in and around Orlando, Florida. No overnight travel is required. We offer an excellent training program which will permit immediate earnings. There is opportunity for rapid advancement.

Of the 21 men in sales positions in Hollywood, Florida, one is earning $15,000; the others are earning over $25,000. We have a very successful marketing system which provides you with leads, thereby allowing you to spend the major part of your time selling instead of prospecting. This is the key to how our salesmen are more successful than the average.

A sales background and a college degree are desirable, but certainly not essential. We have successful men under 25 years of age and some grandfathers. We have no particular requirements. We are looking for honest, hard-working men (and possibly women) who meet people well and who will work very hard and follow our proven sales system.

Take five minutes to investigate this challenging, satisfying and rewarding career. Call Mr. Miller at Holiday Inn, phone number 862-4455 on Friday between 5:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. or Saturday between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 Noon.

Oral Roberts

Question: My son has just recently married a fine girl. My relationship with him has always been good, and I want it to continue. But he's so taken up with her that he hardly listens to me any more. Do you think I'm wrong to feel hurt?

Answer: I've read that mother-in-law problems stem from the fact that two women love and are interested in the same man. I think there's a lot of truth in that. And even though it hurts, it's right that your influence is less now that he's married. His first responsibility should be to his wife. The Bible says that a man should leave his father and mother and cleave or stick closely and permanently to his wife (Mark 10:7).

New Series: Old Days Return

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Quinn Martin, long noted for tough cop shows, doesn't see his new anthology series as a departure but as a return to his origins. His new show, his fourth on the air, is "Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected," which premieres on NBC at 10 p.m. EST Wednesday, Feb. 2. "It's back to Square 1," he said. "The first show I ever wrote for was 'Four Star Playhouse.' The first show I ever produced was 'The Jane Wyman Show.' The second I produced was 'Desilu Playhouse,' from which emerged 'The Untouchables.' It was 'The Untouchables' which stamped Martin with an image for two-listed series. Such as 'The Fugitive,' 'Dan August,' 'Gunsmoke,' 'Mann- ing' and the current 'Streets of San Francisco,' "Barnaby Jones" and "Monty Young." "Quinn Martin's Tales of the Unexpected" — it's not often that you see a producer's name in a show — is an anthology series of terror and suspense. It will feature NBC's new search computers split out his name as the producer best known to the public. "NBC came to me and asked,

SPIDER-MAN by Stan Lee and John Romita NEW YORK'S UNDERWANTED FUGITIVE SPIDER MAN HAS TWO MAJOR PROBLEMS TO SOLVE WITH THIS WEEK—

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau ABEV'S BIRTHDAY I TOLD SPIDER I'D COME TO HIS PARTY BUT I'VE BEEN SO BUSY WITH MY WORK I CAN'T GO TO HIS PARTY.

Alcohol Causes Excitement Phase

DEAR DR. LAMB — When a man who sleeps very quietly drinks too much, hollers, yells and curses, is he having the DTs or what? Is there an organization that works with alcoholics when the alcoholic does not want to quit?

DEAR READER — More than likely he is just drunk. Alcohol is an anesthetic and has some parallel actions similar to ether. At one stage along the route to total anesthesia there is an excitement phase. With ether anesthesia the patient gets excited, thrashes around and is difficult to control unless more ether is given until he passes on to full anesthesia.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 3-year-old son was born with lactose deficiency. He was hospitalized at three weeks because he was dehydrated. It was never really explained to me exactly what it was and when and if he will grow out of this.

FROM BECKY TO JIMMY And Away They Go!

To Mr. Carter, the man I believe to be true, I prayed, I campaigned and argued 'til I was blue.

It seems this area I'm from went for Ford But, yet the news and debates kept them bored.

I tell ya I stayed excited by your smile And you can believe that trail will go on file.

Oh, yes, they tried to convince one and all, That eventually you would meet your downfall—

And all they could say was a Southern unknown Could not keep going completely on his own. . . .

But you kept going and showed such compassion, But, possibly, hopefully you started a new fashion.

The feeling I got from your win keeps flowing; I guess for two weeks or more I was glowing.

Oh, I know it must have been hard for them after Because as you know, they were hoarse from the laughter.

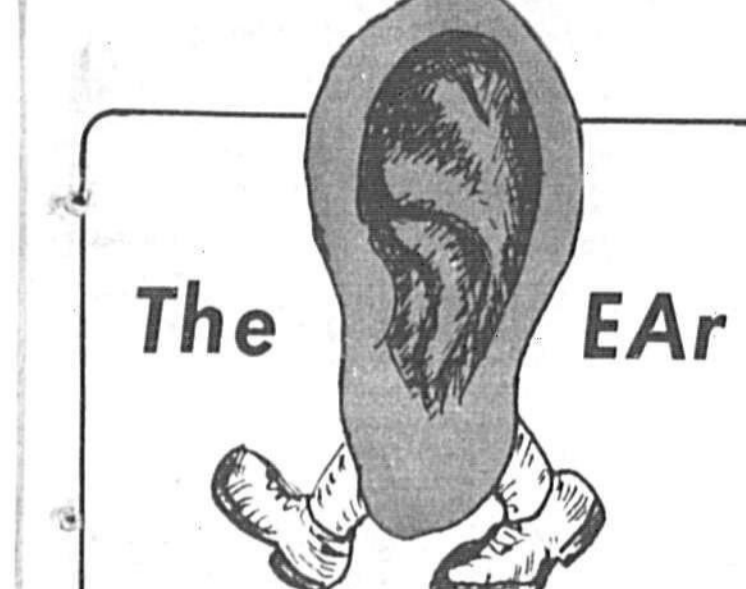

Well—now they're going to have to say good-bye And do their best not to break down and cry.

To you and your wife, I wish the best For the next four years will be quite a test.

And if I could help you in anyway. . . . I want you to know, all you have to do is say.

SUNDAY EDITION Evening Herald

69th Year, No. 126—Sunday, January 16, 1977 Sanford, Florida 32771—Price 20 Cents

Oh, what price glory? And what price judges have to pay just to be able to sit on that high and mighty throne and earn a paltry $36,000 a year.

Though Salfi was elected once, seems he told the students unless something is done to raise the $36,000 annual salary, he will not be a candidate for re-election in two years.

And what was the reaction from students? "If he makes $36,000 a year, he must be already rich," one awed youngster whispered to the E.A.R.

The E.A.R., peering over the shoulder of Seminole County Commissioner Bob French as he perused The Evening Herald, was surprised to see the normally placid French red hot over statements made by Sanford City Manager W.E. Knowles.

"What does that mean?" fumed French, the county commission's liaison to SCA. "From what I've seen if anyone is a political activist — it's Mr. Knowles." The last The E.A.R. heard, French was so hopping mad he was thinking of setting up a protest meeting with Knowles.

POL-ETICS, or politics, whichever. . . The E.A.R. tuned in and heard there are a lot of invitations flowing in Seminole County to the Jimmy Carter inauguration in Washington, D.C.

Latest one to receive an invite was former County Commission Chairman Greg Drummond, a staunch Republican who tried unsuccessfully to oust State Rep. Bobby Hatway from office. It's ironic that Drummond was invited to the same ball that Hatway plans to attend because the Altamonte Springs Democrat, like Carter, is a big devotee to the Democratic party.

Seems Bebe Knowles, Exec. Asst. Roger Neiswender's secretary, is upset about the E.A.R. report of a courthouse telephone operator who didn't know who Neiswender was. The operator is a RELIEF operator, and as such, wouldn't necessarily know Neiswender.

Besides, says Bebe, the operator is doing a bangup, good job and shouldn't be held up to criticism from The E.A.R. because she's new. E.A.R.'s to you Bebe. . . Harry Kwiatkowski, the county commissioner, also feels he was wronged. Kwiatkowski says he was pleased that a planner criticized political bosses for a decision that could harm the environment by placing a car lot on 17-92. The E.A.R. looking at Kwiatkowski's track record, thought the Democratic Commissioner was miffed and might "zap" the planner. Kwiatkowski has been known to do. . . E.A.R.s to you, E.A.R.lings, 'til next week. . .

Convicted Of Lesser Assault Charge Slayer Faces Up To 5 Years

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Raymond Eugene Phillips, a 40-year-old Sanford pest control firm employee accused of first-degree murder in the Nov. 5 slaying of a co-worker, was being held without bond in county jail Saturday after a circuit court jury found him guilty of the lesser charge of aggravated assault.

Circuit Court Judge A.J. Hoemann Jr., ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Phillips when the 12-member jury returned the verdict late Friday night after six hours of deliberation at the end of the three-day trial. No date has been set for the sentencing.

Phillips could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison on the aggravated assault conviction. Had he been found guilty of the first-degree murder charge he could have received life imprisonment or the death penalty.

Phillips, who admitted having a record of four convictions for crimes, testified that he shot and killed Robert W. Thomason, 30, who lived in the same apartment complex at 700 S. Magnolia Ave., Sanford, in self-defense. He said Thomason was pointing a .38-caliber pistol at him and saying, "I'm going to kill you" when he (Phillips) fired twice with a .357-magnum revolver.

Thomason died from a gunshot wound in the head, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay. Phillips said he panicked after the shooting and buried the revolver behind the apartment complex.

Phillips testified that he didn't intend to kill Thomason, with whom he planned to go into a cleaning business, when he ran into Thomason's apartment after hearing women screaming. "I was scared," Phillips said. "I was afraid he was going to hurt someone."

The jury heard several versions from a number of witnesses about drinking by three couples and a dinner earlier celebrating the fourth wedding anniversary of sheriff's deputy Randy Pittman and his wife, Christine.

Assistant State Atty. William Heffernan argued that the jury could find Phillips guilty of first-degree murder without the testimony of Pittman.

"We're dealing with someone with a driving, burning desire to kill," Heffernan said as he looked at Phillips. "A human life was needlessly snuffed out when he couldn't control his passion."

Mason suggested to the jury in closing arguments that Pittman's mind "was a little confused and he drank more than he thought" that night.

The Downtown Development Corporation (DDC) has received a $6,250 grant from the State of Florida to plan the historic preservation of a block of Sanford's First Street.

DDC Chairman Sara Jacobson announced receipt of the grant Friday. A letter dated last Tuesday from Secretary of Land Design-Research Inc., the Columbia, Md., DDC's consultant on planning and strategy in redeveloping downtown Sanford.

The preservation of the Sanford Commercial District is an important step in preserving of Florida's historic heritage," Smathers' letter stated. He offered to make the secretary of state's office available to assist DDC in its goals.

The north side of First Street from Park Avenue to Palmetto is part of the downtown Sanford area which last year was placed on the national register of historic sites. DDC has designated the First Street area as a model-restored area.

DDC must spend twice the amount of the grant and will be reimbursed for the grant amount.

DDC has established a four-man team to produce the design. Team members are: Chris Raleigh, commercial designer of Winter Park; Carl Gutmann, Sanford architect; Bert Foster, Orlando landscape architect; and Cy Paumier of Land Design-Research Inc., the Columbia, Md., DDC's consultant on planning and strategy in redeveloping downtown Sanford.

THE W. H. MATTHEWS OF LAKE MARY

FROM BECKY TO JIMMY And Away They Go!

To Mr. Carter, the man I believe to be true, I prayed, I campaigned and argued 'til I was blue.

It seems this area I'm from went for Ford But, yet the news and debates kept them bored.

I tell ya I stayed excited by your smile And you can believe that trail will go on file.

Oh, yes, they tried to convince one and all, That eventually you would meet your downfall—

And all they could say was a Southern unknown Could not keep going completely on his own. . . .

But you kept going and showed such compassion, But, possibly, hopefully you started a new fashion.

The feeling I got from your win keeps flowing; I guess for two weeks or more I was glowing.

Oh, I know it must have been hard for them after Because as you know, they were hoarse from the laughter.

Well—now they're going to have to say good-bye And do their best not to break down and cry.

To you and your wife, I wish the best For the next four years will be quite a test.

And if I could help you in anyway. . . . I want you to know, all you have to do is say.

"Don't flip your wig," Becky Louwsma heard her mother say through the telephone receiver, "but you got an invitation to the Inauguration!"

Since the call, Becky, an X-ray technologist at Seminole Memorial Hospital, has excitedly made arrangements for a three-day trip to Washington, D.C. The avid Carter fan and her husband, Wesley, will be leaving for their first visit to the capital on Wednesday.

Mrs. Louwsma actively led her own, independent campaign for the President-elect. She also wrote a letter to him — and, after he was elected, she sent Carter a poem she had written about him.

Lake Mary residents, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Matthews, also received a personal card and an Inaugural invitation. Last September, Virginia Matthews wrote a letter to the Democratic candidate expressing support for him and her opinions on the Social Security system and rising crime in our country.

"I showed an interest in Carter's election and that is why we were put on the mailing list," explained Mrs. Matthews. "I like to express my thoughts where they can be put to good use."

In 1971, the energetic citizen wrote a poem to Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower. She has since composed letters, poems and songs for local and national politicians. A bulging scrapbook contains the mementos.

The Matthews will not be able to attend the ceremony and parade, but both Seminole County families will frame and proudly display their first Inaugural invitation. As will Marion P. Egbert of Fern Park, who wrote Carter a letter before his nomination suggesting he was "not bearing down hard enough on Watergate." Egbert, 89, will not be going to D.C. "He's too old," says his wife.
