Smith Elected Mayor; Mercer Wins

Herald Staff Writer

Bettye Smith was elected mayor of Sanford Tuesday, marking the first time in the city's 107-year history a woman was voted in to public office.

She will assume office Jan. 8. Unofficial totals gave her 1,549 votes to 1,155 for Thomas Speer.

Although there are 147 absentees to be counted today, they will not effect the outcome.

Meanwhile, banker John Mercen for the second time in two weeks, edged out A.A. "Mac" McClanahan for the District 1 seat on the Sanford City Commission.

Smith and Mercer will join Robert Thomas Jr., elected in the Dec. 4 election, as newcomers on the city commission. Thomas is the first black ever elected in Sanford.

Mercer got 448 votes to 320 for McClanahan in their second go-round Tuesday.

McClanahan conceded defeat, despite the absentee ballots that could theoretically change the outcome. The absentees votes were to be counted by the Sanford City Commission, sitting as a canvassing board, at noon today.

McClanahan said as many as 100 of the absentees are probably for him, but it still would not be enough.

After Mercer bested McClanahan by 12 votes in the Dec. 4 election, McClanahan found at least 18 persons had either voted in District 1 while they live elsewhere in the city or were denied the opportunity to vote in District 1 even though they live there. Errors were made in the elections office in preparing voter lists, said Seminole Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard.

On a petition from McClanahan, Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler ordered that a new election be held in District 1 on Tuesday because of the errors.

In the first election Mercer received 368 votes to 356 for McClanahan, In Tuesday's election, Mercer increased his lead and McClanahan lost votes.

Speer said he covered the city as best he could and personally contacted

Mrs. Smith, who waited at the county 1,000 homes. "We presented our position and program on conservative government," Speer sald. "And I want to wish the people of Sanford a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Mrs. Smith said running for mayor of Sanford was something she had to do. And holding the office will be a challenge. "I appreciate the problems but also feel I can do a good Job."

Asked whether her election is a victory for women, Mrs. Smith said she suspects she lost a vote for everyone she gained because she is a woman.

"I am the most qualified person for the job," she said.

In the Dec. 4 election, Mrs. Smith took 1,309 votes, compared with Tuesday's 1.549, while Speer got 917 compared with 1,155 Tuesday.

Mercer gave credit for his victory to the 60 volunteers working in his campaign who called friends and asked each to call others urging them to vote for Mercer.

Mercer also said the predicted early today that he would get 462 votes and he came close with 448.

When the results were announced, McClanahan said, "We lost, We didn't get our voters back," he said. He congratulated Mercer on his victory.

Some 2.742 of the city's 10.940 qualified voters east ballots at the polls for a 25 percent turnout, 5 percent more than anticipated by City Clerk Henry Tamm.

In the Dec. 4 election, the turnout was 3.105.

Goldberg Victory Dooms Chacey Administration

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Larry Goldberg, 45, has won the District 5 City Commission seat in Longwood, not only defeating David Gunter Sr., 46, but spurring as well the promised retirement of City Administrator David Chacey.

Last week Chacey said he would resign if Goldberg were elected and he reaffirmed that today.

Goldberg defeated Gunter 645 to 495 in the Tuesday run-off. That figure includes 24 absentee ballots, which were evenly split. Goldberg took 56.5 percent of the total vote while Gunter received 43.4 percent. "I'm thrilled to death," Goldberg, a former city commissioner, said on learning the results, "not just for myself but for the town, that the people voted that heavy. The people have won and the town has been returned to the people. We will take care of the drainage and we will take care of the sewage.

As for Chacey's vow to resign,

Goldberg said, "If he doesn't turn it in. I'll make a motion to fire him. It's a definite promise — he will go."

Goldberg said the city needs to hire 'a professionally schooled administrator with a good track record immediately.

Chacey, a retired Air Force colonel, who has been city administrator for 101/2 years in Longwood, said today he plans to follow through with his promise to retire if Goldberg was elected.

"It's not the end of the world," Chacey said. "The city has been good to me, it's seen me through a heart attack, a by-pass operation and a gall bladder operation. Until (Commissioner Harvey) Smertlson came on with his negative attitude, the job was fun and a challege,'

Chacey said that even when retired. he will be involved in community work as president of the board of OASIS in Sanford and chairman of the board of the Longwood-Winter Springs

Sanford Case Unaffected By Ruling

Court: Bar Owners Not Liable - Usually

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

An appeal court ruling upholding a state law that exempts bar owners from liability for serving customers who later die in traffic accidents will probably have little effect on a Sanford case filed under the same statute.

The 1st District Court of Appeal. Tallahassee, in a 3-0 roling Tuesday refused to strike down as unconstitutional a state law exempting bar owners in most cases for serving intoxicated customers who then die in traffic accidents.

The decision will probably have little effect on a case filed by Deena Stephens of Lake Mary, who is sulng a Sanford bar in connection with the Aug. 20, 1983, death of her husband, Patrick A. Stephens, according to her attorney Thomas Whigham, of Sanford.

Stephens was killed when Lloyd Edgar Albritton, 42, of Chiefland, left the Islander Tavern, drove southbound in the northbound lane of U.S. Highway 17-92 and ran head-on into Stephens who was riding a motorcycle. Stephens died at the scene. Albritton was senteneed Jan. 25 to a 15-year prison term for the death.

The case before the appeal court involved the death of the customer of a bar - not a third party - as in the Sanford suit.

Hughes To Clarify Yule Rule Next year Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes will rewrite and clarify guidelines governing Christmas observances in Seminole schools. But the memo he sent to principals this year prohibiting "school-wide" programs depicting the birth of Jesus will stay in force, according to a schools spokesman Ken Bovio.

A sentence from state-issued guidelines upon which the memo was based will be included next The statement, drafted in 1977 by Florida

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington, says: "While schools must exercise extreme caution not to endorse the religious dogma of the holidays, sensible programs illustrating the history and significance of these holidays can be significant to the education of American youth.

For a school to completely overlook this element in the children's environment simply because of its religious orientation would be to violate established and proven principles of learning and leave the child in a vacuum."

Boyto said the memo will be broadened so that activities connected with other religious holidays, like Hanukkah, will be included.

"It will not just zero in on Christmas," he said. The Rev. George Crossley, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lake Monroe, said he was satisfied with Hughes' response. "I'm really encouraged. They're going to clarify the memo and in doing so Christians will no longer be discriminated against."

Study: Americans Will Spend $25 Billion On Christmas Gifts

NEW YORK (UPI) - The average American family will spend about $300 on Christmas gifts this year, with people in the 35 to 44 age group the biggest spenders and people in the Midwest the most conservative.

NFO Research Inc. Tuesday released results of a 5,000-household survey and projected that America's 85 million households would spend about $25 billion on gifts

The survey showed that 30 percent of the families polled will spend more than $400 during the season and another 35 percent will spend between $200 and $400. Another 35 percent estimated their shopping needs will total less than Geographically, the survey found that families in the Northeast will spend more on gifts than any other group. New England families will spend an average of $342, while Middle Atlantic residents, New York and Pennsylvania included, will spend $319.

Residents of Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri indicated they would spend the least during the holidays. about $259 per family.

Cause Of Stroke Sought

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) - Doctors hope radioactive tests performed on artificial heart patient Bill Schroeder will determine the cause of his stroke - which has left him confused and uncertain of the day — and prevent another.

"He still has problems with orientation and day and so on," Dr. Allan Lansing told United Press International. Lansing is chief medical spokesman and chairman of the Humana Heart Institute at Humana Hospital Audubon where Schroeder received his artificial heart Nov. 25.

Lansing said Schroeder was less depressed Tuesday and had regained his appetite, but doctors said he was still not the same man who only last week was cracking jokes and talking with the president.

In searching for the cause of last Thursday's stroke, doctors are using a radioactive isotope to trace the possible sources of wandering blood clots. The tests will not be completed until Friday, and doctors will not have the results until early next week.

Unknown Bach Chorales Found

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) - Almost 300 years after his birth, Johann Sebastian Bach is having a good week. First, he made the cover of Newsweek. And now 33 of his previously unknown works have been discovered in the music library at Yale. The find, announced Tuesday, was called "one of the most significant additions" to Bach's work in 85 years.

The 33 unknown organ chorales were found in an obscure 18th-century German music manuscript owned by

Of the 38 Bach chorales in the collection, only five were previously known to exist. Both style and context suggest that the Bach compositions are authentic early works, most likely written by him before 1710, experts said. Bach lived from 1685 to 1750.

Falling Prime May Spark Resurgence In Early '85

GNP Shows Economy Slowing

national product is expanding at a weak annual rate of 2.8 percent in this quarter. part of the same slowdown that pulled the third quarter's rate down to a revised 1.6 percent, the government said today.

The Commerce Department's tentative estimate of economic growth, known as the flash projection, showed the increased consumer demand in the October-December quarter is being balanced by slower business purchasing to restock inventories.

The economic pace remains in sharp contrast to the first half of the year. The first quarter roared ahead at an annual rate of 10.1 percent and the second quarter moved at a 7.1 percent expansion rate.

Because of the first half's vigor the year as

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The U.S. gross a whole, compared to 1983, is seeing a 6.7 percent gain in GNP, the broadest economic indicator of all, the department said.

As soft as the economy seems to be now. most analysts are changing their forecasts for early next year to include a surge in buying, based on this week's lowering of the prime rate to 10% percent, the lowest in 17 months

Wall Street responded to the drop in the prime Tuesday, forgetting its doubts to stage its biggest rally since late summer. When the markets closed the Dow industrial average was up nearly 35 points at 1,211.57. Economists generally believe a sustained 3 percent to 5 percent growth in the GNP is necessary to shrink the unemployment rate.

Gains in that area have been slower lately but have not disappeared, with the jobless rate in November at 7.2 percent.

Price increases for the entire economy, not just consumers, are running at a moderate 2.9 percent rate in the fourth quarter, compared with 3.9 percent in the third, the department's estimated "implicit price deflator" showed.

Today's tentative estimate of economic growth will be followed January 22 by the first formal report based on far more data.

In the last quarter the department's initial flash estimate was far too optimistic, seeing a 3.6 percent rate of growth that has been continually revised downward to the 1.6 percent reported today.

acrospace worker allegedly out for "big money" told FBI agents posing as Soviet spys that he had access to top secret 'stealth" bomber technology that could save the Russians billions of dollars, authorities said.

Thomas Patrick Cavanagh, 40. of Downey, Calif., was arrested at a Hyatt hotel near downtown Los Angeles Tuesday by agents posing as spies. He went to the meeting armed with a .45 caliber automatic pistol and classified documents, according to a court affidavit.

It was the fifth major U.S. espionage case announced this year, prompting FBI Director William Wedbster to say, "We have more people charged with espionage right now than ever before in our history."

Cavanagh, who was cleared to view "secret" material and was awaiting a "top secret" clearance, was charged with espionage for allegedly removing highly sensitive material from his employer, the Advanced Systems Division of the Northrop Corp., federal prosecutors said. He faces a possible life sentence.

OPEC Vows To Win Any Price War

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) - OPEC ministers vowed to hold firm on prices and production at their annual end-of-year conference today and to win any price war with other oil producing countries. OPEC's market monitoring committee Tuesday urged the 13-member cartel to maintain daily production at 16 million barrels and respect individual output quotas to defend the $29-a-barrel base price.

United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Saced Otaiba sold the committee would make the recommendations at the full two-day session of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries beginning today.

OPEC, beset by sagging prices and competition from other producers in face of weak world demand for oil, cut its daily production ceiling from 17.5 million on Nov. 1, but only Saudi Arabia, Iran and Algeria are honoring their quotas.

Otaiba, chairman of the monitoring committee which also includes the ministers of Algeria. Indonesia and Venezuela, gave several reasons for the slump in free market oil prices currently $2 below the OPEC level.

He blamed other producers for increasing their production despite weak demand caused by slower Western economic growth and the "abnormally" mild winter weather. "This irresponsible behavior by non-OPEC producers, especially Britain and Norway, could lead to a price war," Otalba said. "But if we are forced into a price war, we are in a stronger position. We will not be the first losers. Other OPEC officials said the monitoring committee was also warning ministers that the cartel may have to cut its base price in February or March unless production quotas are strictly honored.

Ministers speaking privately said the conference, while holding firm on production and the official price, would readjust differentials for the various types of crude oil.

The Protest Against Apartheid

There is no country in the West where injustice is as black and white as in South Africa.

The crushing hand of racist apartheid, instead of opening to integration, has further tightened its grip on the black townships. More than 100 blacks were killed in antiapartheid riots this year. Thousands more were forcibly evicted from their shantles and sent back to impoverished tribal "homelands."

The South African government had hoped that creating a new mixed-race house of parliament would bring "Coloreds" and East Indians to the side of the whites. But the token gesture falled. And events outside South Africa have triggered a chain reaction of resistance.

First, Bishop Desmond Tutu, a black minister and supporter of constructive change, was chosen for the Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo. Then, civil rights and labor leaders in the United States began a series of symbolic protests at the South African Embassy in Washington and at consulates across the country.

Within South Africa, the first general strike of black workers virtually shut down the country for two days. The government lashed back by arresting 21 black labor organizers and holding other black leaders as political prisoners.

This triggered further protests in the United States. Labor leaders, congressmen and even two children of Robert F. Kennedy were arrested for civil disobedience in protests. On Capitol Hill, Bishop Tutu testified before a House subcommittee that the Reagan administration's policy of behind-the-scenes diplomacy was making things worse, not better. The president reacted by meeting with Tutu. But after their talk, Tutu repeated his criticisms of the Reagan policy. He was joined in criticism by a number of Republican congressmen, including Rep. Newt Gingrich, a conservative from Georgia.

South Africa announced the release of 11 of the black labor union leaders. The gesture was viewed by Johannesburg as a way to support the Reagan administration — not change the apartheid system.

Meanwhile, the drumbeat of protests mounts and Sen. Richard Lugar, the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, has announced he will hold hearings on South Africa.

Where is all this leading?

The direction is clear: to bring pressure on the white-supremacist government of South Africa to dismantle its apartheid system. That goal deserves the support of every American. It is intolerable that a modern capitalist nation, with a well-educated European population, such as South Africa, should treat the black majority of its population as laborers without rights or political power. It is wrong that blacks can't live in white neighborhoods, can't go to white hospitals, can't eat in white restaurants, but must clean those houses and hospitals and restaurants for a pittance and be out of the white neighborhoods by nightfall or be arrested.

Americans know it as wrong, because we have done wrong to blacks in our recent past. From the Civil War that freed the slaves to the sit-ins that led to civil rights law. Americans have learned the painful price of righting wrongs.

The protests must go on, to pressure the Reagan administration to toughen its antispartheid policy, including, if necessary, an economic boycott of South Africa.

The letter, sent to more than 70,000 schools nationwide in October but keyed to the holidays, was instrumental in getting a quarter-million American children to sign a petition asking boys and girls of the world to join them in striving for peace and goodwill.

The signers are second, third and fourth graders who attend private, public and parochial

In the days before Christmas the signed petitions will be presented to officials at the Soviet and other embassies in Washington, D.C. Samantha Smith. 12, of Manchester, Maine, who visited Russia on an unusual mission in 1983, is expected to call on that country.

Smith's visit to Russia, at the invitation of the U.S.S.R., resulted from her letter to then President and General Secretary of the U.S.S.R., the late Yuri Andropov.

The holiday petition for goodwill was instigated by television's "Get Along Gang" — Montgomery Moose and 11 other cartoon animals who think, play and act like children. (They are licensed by "Those Characters from Cleveland (TCFC), a subsidiary of American Greetings Company, who introduced the world to Ziggy, Holly Hobby. Herself the Elf. Strawberry Shortcake and the Care Bears.)

"As we approach the season of peace and goodwill, we the children of America want to spread the message of getting along to children everywhere," the petition says.

"We pledge to set an example right here at home, and hope that children in other countries will see this petition and share this message with their friends."

A sampling of comments from teachers shows the idea was good. They also indicate "Get Along" is making its way into classrooms.

Avoiding Holiday Heartburn

By Elizabeth Pennisi UPI Science Writer

Holiday traditions call for food and drinks no longer favored by health-conscious eaters. But this is the time when exceptions are made, when guilt, nostalgia or a little too much wine lure even dieters back for seconds.

Don't worry, say the experts. Just don't eat too much at one time. Don't eat too fast. If you are on a special diet for health reasons, stick to it. And don't drink too much.

Overeating, especially rich food, takes its toll, said Dr. Walter Rubin, chief of gastroenterology at the Medical College of Pennsylvania in Philidelphia. When the stomach is too full, the acid sloshing around inside can wash back up the esophagus, irritating the food pipe and causing a burning sensation—heartburn.

To avoid heartburn, eat less food, said Dr. Moshe Shike, physician at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. "But more importantly, don't lie down after eating. When you lie down, you encourage things to go backwards.

"It's much better to go for a

"If you want to eat a big meal, take a couple of hours to do it," suggested Dr. Harvey L. Katzeff, assistant professor of medicine in the nutrition division of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. By eating more slowly, the body has a enough.

A multi-course feast gobbled down in 20 minutes can put a lot of strain on the body, "After eating a meal, the amount of blood that pumps through the heart increases. It's like exercising inappropriately," he said in a telephone interview. For people with heart disease, that could mean trouble.

The Nutrition Information Center of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College and Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center suggests that by planning, cooks and hostesses can avoid heavy holiday-eating debts.

For example, turkey (and not the self-basting kind) is better than ham, goose, beef, or duck for holiday dinner. Serve the bird without skin. Make gravy ahead of time, cool it, and skim off the fat, said Barbara Levine, center director.

Serve fresh fruit or angel food cake for dessert; wine spritzers or champagne in lieu of eggnog. Cook without salt and serve sauces on the side, so guests can fix a plate best suited to their diet needs.

Speakership Struggle

By Arnold Sawislak UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Much will be made in the next four years of the Jockeying among Republicans who want to replace President Reagan in 1989, but a struggle of almost equal importance will be under way in the next two years among Democrats who want to succeed Speaker Tip O'Neill in 1987.

O'Neill has announced that he is going to pack it in at the end of his 1985-86 term, so none of his potential successors will be in the position of plotting a coup by seeking support during his last two years. Short of erecting billboards on the Capitol lawn, they can and will begin lining up votes now for the showdown after the 1986 election.

The prize is big. Although the speakership isn't the autocratic flefdom it was in the days of Uncle Joe Cannon, it remains one of Washington's most power-laden offices. One indication of its standing is the fact that the speaker is next in line behind the vice president to succeed to the presidency.

Furthermore, there is everything to indicate that the Democrats are likely to be electing the speaker in the near future. The party has had some rough times in the presidential arena in recent times and for the last two elections has been unable to win control of the Senate, but Democrats have held on to the House in the face of four Republican presidential victories in the last five elections, including GOP landslides in 1972 and 1984.

In the past, O'Neili's declared intention to retire would make House Democratic leader Jim Wright the prohibitive favorite to become speaker and Democratic whip Tom Foley the front-runner for floor leader. There used to be a "leadership ladder" in the House leading from whip to leader to speaker, and it was almost impossible to skip any of the rungs.

But this is a different House from the one that saw O'Neill, Carl Albert and John McCormack move inexorably to the leadership. The House has abandoned the strict adherence to seniority that it once religiously observed and new members no longer are routinely advised to keep their eyes open and their mouths shut until they have been around 10 years or so.

That does not mean that O'Neill is likely to be succeeded by some congressman-come-lately. It does mean that the junior members will have more to say than any time in the recent past about who will lead House Democrats, and that the person selected might not be on the leadership ladder or one of the senior committee chairmen who are to the speaker as the English barons were to the king in the days of absolute monarchs.

However, it does not seem likely that the next speaker will be someone strongly identified with either the liberal or conservative wings of the Democratic Party. More likely it will be a border state member with at least a dozen years of experience and the demonstrated ability to work behind the scenes to bring opposing views into compromise.

ROBERT WALTERS

Tempest In An Oven

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — The first time a union official visited Bakers of Paris to check on alleged "substandard working conditions," he complained that the new bakery's delivery-truck drivers were being inadequately compensated.

"I told him he was right," recalls Lionel Robbe-Jedeau, one of the bakery's three founders and owners. "Our drivers were being underpaid because I was the only driver and I wasn't making any money yet."

The saga of Bakers of Paris has become something of a cause celebre here, but it deserves wider dissemination because it illustrates what happens when powerful unions — and their political allies — become abusive and coercive.

San Franciscans are very serious about their unions.

San Franciscans also are very serious about their bread, Sourdough bread, as much a local institution as the city's cable cars, dates back to the Gold Rush and is produced today by bakeries founded more than a century ago.

For more than three decades however, the contracts between those bakeries and the Bakery Wagon Drivers and Salesmen Union's Local 484 specifically prohibited the delivery of any bread on Wednesdays and Sundays.

Bakers of Paris had a better idea: It would provide fresh bread seven days a week. Moreover, a staggered work schedule for all employees would ensure that none was on the job more than five days a week and all would receive two consecutive days off, a benefit not enjoyed by union workers.

Shortly after Robbe-Jedeau, a 36-year-old native of Paris, and his two partners opened for business in a converted South San Francisco warehouse in mid-1981, the union picketed the bakery, principally to protest the all-week production schedule.

Bakers of Paris acquiesced to the union's demand that it not deliver on Wednesdays and Sundays, but many of the city's finest hotels—the Fairmont, the St. Francis, the Clift and others—were so impressed with the bakery's superior products that they sent their trucks for pickups on those days.

As Bakers of Paris continued to lure wholesale accounts away from the city's older, unionized bakeries, the union became more aggressive. It threatened, for example, to place 5,000 picketers in front of the city's major hotels during last summer's Democratic National Convention

JACK ANDERSON

China Confident Of Nuclear Force

WASHINGTON — China claims to have so many nuclear weapons squirreled away that it no longer fears the massive Soviet missile force arrayed against it. At least two — probably four — of China's long-range missiles are also capable of hitting the United States.

Peking's confidence (or at least its attempt to appear confident) in its ability to strike back is stated most plainly in a secret Defense Intelligence Agency report seen by my associate Dale Van Atta.

It quotes a high-level Chinese defense official as claiming in a private conversation that "the Soviet Union no longer had a first-strike capability against China because the Chinese nuclear arsenal is so well hidden that it ensures sufficient retaliatory capability to inflict intolerable damage to the U.S.S.R."

The DIA deduced from the official's statement that Chinese nuclear security depends on hiding its missiles rather than hardening the missile silos. The remarks "indicate that sufficient sites remain undetected," the report states, adding:

"While his remarks could be based on misinformation, China presumably is aware of published Western estimates of the size of its missile force and may have found such estimates to be low. On the other hand, the published figures may accurately reflect the size of China's force, and (his) remarks could be interpreted to mislead potential enemies. The latter assumption is less likely, since the Soviets would be the primary target of such disinformation, but probably would not be aware of his remarks."

The secret report continues: "Only one national stockpile site and no regional sites have been observed in China. Thus, if nuclear weapons for air delivery are deployed to air bases, they have been effectively hidden. Most of the detected missile sites in China are hardened, but a number of sites consist of unhardened buildings."

In addition to the two to four

In addition to the two to four intercontinental ballistic missiles, the Chinese have as many as 10 other long-range missiles, anywhere from 85 to 125 intermediate-range missiles and 40 to 60 short-range models, according to Pentagon reports.

Another conversational "slip"—this one to a visiting French delegation—indicated that Peking is slowly building a supply of tactical nukes for air and artillery delivery. According to the DIA report, yet another loose-lipped Chinese defense official disclosed "that China has no tactical nuclear weapons deployed at 'ground division level or below.' He was interrupted by (a subordinate) who said that information was beyond the scope of the discussion."

The DIA's expert pointed out that this statement and others "do not deny that such weapons as atomic demolition munitions may be held at higher echelons." The DIA report adds: "Some tests of low-yield devices during the 1970s suggest that China sought to develop tactical nuclear weapons and that some are now available for delivery. China may also be trying to develop artiliery-delivered nuclear weapons, but it is unlikely nuclear artillery rounds would be available before the end of this decade."

The Chinese are believed to have about 150 nukes available for air delivery, the DIA report states, adding: "The Chinese have employed extensive efforts to conceal the strategic missile force and probably have successfully hidden a significant part of the force from potential enemies. The statements indicate the growth of China's nuclear capabilities and the resulting confidence (Peking) has in its ability to deter potential enemies from using nuclear weapons against China."

Floridians' Consumer Confidence Tops In Nation

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - A slowdown in the economic recovery has eroded Floridians' optimism in the economy but the state's consumers still think they are better off than the rest of the nation, a University of Florida study says.

The November survey, released Tuesday, showed a 2.8-point drop in confidence when compared to the inaugural survey taken in October.

Despite the drop in November, the Florida consumer confidence index remained 5.5 points ahead of a national

When asked if they expect good times financially in Florida in the next 12 months, 70.6 percent of Floridians said they do, up from 68.5 percent last month.

When asked if they expect Florida to be better off than the nation as a whole in the next 12 months, 60.3 percent said yes compared to 58.9 percent last month.

Reagan Facing Tough Decisions As '85 Nears

By Norm Sanger

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The holiday spirit so evident at the White House these days belies simmering division within the administration over two issues that will consume President Reagan's attention as the new year begins.

With official Washington easing into a traditional end-of-the-year lull, Reagan still faces crucial decisions on how to proceed toward his top domestic and foreign policy objectives: a deficit-reduction agreement with Congress and arms control negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Both will be the subject of meetings at the White House this week. And both pit various factions within the administration against one another, with Reagan - predisposed so far to serve as listener rather than referee - the final administration, blaming them on news leaks that "are without solid foundation."

Reagan has taken issue with the widespread

But in private, his own aides make no secret of the difficulty the president and his advisers have encountered in developing proposals to present to Congress on the fiscal 1986 budget and to the Kremlin on arms control.

Late last week, Reagan appeared headed for a clash with Congress over military spending as White House officials hinted he may side with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and resist sharp cutbacks in the Pentagon budget over the next three years.

Such a move would run counter to the advice of budget director David Stockman, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and others in the administration, as well as the counsel of Republicans on Capitol Hill, who have put Reagan on notice that his ambitious plan to cut $200 deficits in half by reports of division and disagreement within his 1988 will go nowhere if he does not demonstrate up front that the Pentagon will share the burden of fiscal restraint.

> One official said Reagan, committed to continue the pace of his military buildup, is inclined to side with Weinberger's plan for $1.1 trillion in spending over the next three years — down just $19 billion from his original request, compared to $121 billion in reductions proposed by Stockman.

> The Pentagon similarly has dug in its heels in deliberations on what the United States will - or should - offer the Soviet Union during the upcoming meeting between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and any subsequent revival of formal arms control negotiations.

> Administration sources said the Pentagon and State Department have been at odds over negotiating strategy. The extent to which the United States will address Soviet concerns over space weaponry as an inducement for renewed negotiations on nuclear weapons has yet to be decided, with the Shultz-Gromyko meeting less than three weeks away.

As he affixed an inaugural license plate last week to the limousine that will carry him into a second term. Reagan said he was "making progress" on the budget and denied the discussions were paralyzed by intramural wrangling similar to that reported in the area of arms

But much remains to be done before Reagan skips town Dec. 27 for an annual New Year's retreat to California - Including tough Judgments that could get his second term off to a quick. successful start or cast a cloud over his relations with two powerful adversaries of the last four years: Congress and the Kremlin.

Oil Giants Fixed Prices, Documents Show

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Ten years ago a state auditor going over the oil pricing records at Mobil Corp., saw an unusual memo that indicated Mobil and Union Oil of California were fixing prices and cheating

The discovery led to one of the most sweeping price-fixing cases in history in which seven of the country's biggest oil companies allegedly conspired to keep the price they paid owners of heavy California crude oil below what it was worth on the open market. The conspiracy may have cost California $300 million in lost revenue, state officials said.

The memo was one of a virtual mountain of previously secret documents released Monday after a 21/2-year legal battle by the Wall Street Journal.

The documents show price information and sensitive marketing data was freely exchanged among oil industry glants from the early 1960s to the early 1970s.

Thousands of pages of once-secret memos, internal reports and depositions ordered released in the antitrust suit detail how oil firms consulted one another in a pattern of price fixing. Oil company executives allegedly called each other every day and met weekly at the Petroleum Club to further the alleged conspiracy.

The documents were compiled during more than 10 years of litigation begun by California Controller Ken Cory. One of the producers involved, Atlantic Richfield Co., agreed to settle its portion of the case last week by paying $22.5 million to the state.

Six other companies - Texaco, Exxon. Union, Shell, Mobil and Chevron - refused out-of-court settlements.

The documents were previously ordered sealed by a federal judge to protect company secrets pending a trial of the case. But U.S. District Court Judge William Gray signed an order releasing most of the papers Monday

The documents show major oil companies in constant communication with each other for a decade to set bargain basement prices they would pay for supplies of heavy crude oil. In addition, the records show efforts to bolster retail prices for gasoline at the expense of consumers and independent

The documents show that even after a 1969 Supreme Court decision prohibiting direct contact between competing oil firms. some company officials may have continued to hold face-to-face talks.

In one legal brief, the California Attorney General stated: "The industry operated ... as a single fraternal organization. The exchange of information within the petroleum industry was so pervasive, regular and commonplace" that it resembled "a single company.

The records indicate that during 1961 and 1962, representatives of major oil companies often met to work out a system for swapping California crude oil among themselves without assigning cash prices.

They also routinely used legal loopholes to hold private meetings and swap internal pricing information and strategies to try to 'stabilize" the volatile gasoline market in California and elsewhere until the Supreme Court outlawed such direct communication.

In announcing the settlement with Arco last week, Cory said he expects it will be at least 14 months before the antitrust case with the remaining companies goes to trial.

Federal Government Workers Are Overpaid, Study Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A government study, released as a defense of a proposal to cut the pay of federal workers by 5 percent, has concluded what many people already believe - federal employees are overpald.

The report, released by the federal Office of Personnel Management, said a 5 percent pay cut for federal workers in the fiscal 1986 budget would begin moving federal pay toward market levels, as well as trim the budget deficit by $13 billion over three years.

"Such a proposal would be more humane than the only realistic alternative, the separation of 125,000 employees in order to achieve a spending reduction of the same magnitude," the report said.

It said a study of federal workers found fewer quit their jobs compared to those in the private sector because federal workers are so well compensated. "The federal government's quit rates are much lower than those in the private sector," the report said. "The federal average quit rate is 3.8 percent. ... The quit rates from GS-10 to 15 (mld- to high-level government jobs) were all below 2 percent."

According to the report. private sector quit rates were all above 12 percent.

"There quit rates are very low for just one reason: overall, compensation is too high." the report contends. "Compensation rates should be lowered to reduce the government's unfair competitive advantage over the private sector.

The report also recommended the setting of pay rates on performance, market demand and local conditions.

Rep. Michael Barnes, whose suburban Washington constituency includes many government workers, said it was a serious mistake to ask federal employees to take a 5 percent pay cut, as is under consideration for inclusion in President Reagan's new budget. Barnes, D-Md., in an in-

Morning America" program earlier this week, warned such a cut could "demoralize the entire work force." But Donald Devine, director of the Office of Personnel

terview on ABC's "Good

Management, defended the pay cut plan, arguing "we need to share the burden" in reducing the deficit.

"If you make cuts," Devine said, "then it means it is going to hurt a lot of people. We think it makes sense in spreading the burden."

J.T. Turnipseed Was The River's Best Friend

J.T. Turnipseed

That was part of the resolution of commendation given the late J.T. Turnipseed of Sanford, founder and president of the Friends of the St. Johns. A copy of the resolution was presented last week to his widow. Alice.

Turnipseed, 73, died on Dec. 5 at his home after several months' Illness. At his funeral, the chapel was filled with not only family and friends, but with people from all walks of life from September and October, moved all over the St. Johns basin who on in search of food before knew and respected him for his efforts on behalf of the river.

The district's governing board recently honored Turnipseed for his outstanding contributions. which were "motivated by a selfless desire to protect and preserve the beauty of the St. Johns River for untold generations to come and donated many thousands of hours of his time and a substantial portion of his own personal energies and resources on behalf of the river."

The resolution stated that the board could "always depend upon J.T. Turnipseed for counsel and support, and could also depend on him for a dose of constructive criticism when he felt they might be embarking on a course which he deemed ill-advised. His influence and that of the Friends of the St. was more easily able to gain public acceptance for actions which otherwise may have been unopular. Even before Turnipseed moved to Sanford from Atlanta in 1972 after retiring from Oeneral Electric Corp., he was a frequent visitor to Central Florida. He was on the river often — fishing, hunting, or just enjoying its beauty.

He was disturbed when he noticed that catches of fish were growing smaller and the number of waterfowl was declining. The ducks, which migrated south in hunting began in November.

A report by the Stetson University Biology Department that the Lake Monroe portion of the river was on the verge of dying came as no surprise to him. In 1978, he was quoted as saying. "You don't have to have three or four degrees to do research. When you dropped your anchor and you came up with muck and sludge. The water elevation was decreasing. In January and February of 1975 It was already two inches below sea level. The heron and this were not along the shoreline in the numbers they once were, it was easy to

Gordon Goes Wild, Tribe Shaves Rams

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

There wasn't a barometer in the world to measure Kenny Gordon's heart and hustle Tuesday night. In a game where every player would give his best Nikes to win - Seminole's senior forward wanted it most of all.

Gordon, playing like a man possessed, jumped six inches higher, shot 20 percent better and gave 10 percent more than possible.

"I wanted to win...real bad," said Gordon about the Tribe's fifth win in six games. "At first, I wasn't sure that we could do it. Once we got hot, I knew we would win."

The figures agreed. Gordon scored 19 points and pulled down 14 rebounds as Seminole shaved Lake Mary, 50-45, before 1.000 screaming fans in Five Star Conference basketball at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium. Every point was vital and every rebound crucial. "Kenny Gordon," were the first two words coach Chris Marlette uttered as he closed the door on a jubilant Seminole locker room. "The big turning point was the fourth quarter when we kept them off the boards. It seemed like Kenny got every rebound."

He snatched seven in an explosive final quarter in which he also scored 11 points as Seminole erased a 37-35 deficit. It was a Gordon and Darryl Merthie duel down the stretch for city bragging rights.

Gordon hit one from the wing to tie the game but Lake Mary's Darryl Merthie came right back from the inside to put Rams up

Supersub Robert Hill and Jeff Reynolds then exchanged buckets as Lake Mary kept a 41-39 lead. Gordon then started to turn on. He swished a jumper from the corner for a 41-41 tie but Lake Mary's Ray Hartsfield dropped in a 15-footer and drew Hartsfield, though, missed the free throw and Gordon drilled home another short-range jump shot for a 43-43 deadlock. Donald Grayson, who ruled the backboards in the second quarter, couldn't find the range on two free throws and Gordon made the Rams pay at the other end when he rebourded a Rouse miss and put shoveled it home for a 45-43 lead.

After a Lake Mary turnover. Rouse canned a 10-footer on a pretty bank shot. Merthie came back quickly at the other end but missed both shots from close in. Henderson blocked the third Lake Mary attempt and Gordon grabbed the rebound.

Merthie, though, picked the ball cleanly away and laid it in to cut the Seminole lead to 47-45 Hartsfield comes up from behind.

Driving enthusiasts are impressed by the new Sumitomo ULTRA HT/R80. Just ask Joe Casella, pro-racer, delving instructor and president of the Z Club of Amercia.

Joe started the Z Club of America in 1970 with a $14 ad in an automobile magazine. Today the club has more than 16,000 members. "We run eight driving school sessions a year in the nor-theast. Mostly novice drivers with Zs, Porsches, theast. Mostly novice drivers with 2s, Fursaire, BMWs and other sports and performance sedans." Since Joe recommends tires to Z Club members, he was intrigued when we asked him to test the new Sumitomo ULTRA HT/R60.

ULTRA HT/R60: Max performance rain or shine

Tires play a major role in my work. I only recommend tires I drive. Running them on the street is the only way to find out what a tire's going to do

Before Joe put them on the track he ran the ULTRAs on the street and drove them hard...for 1,800 miles. "The ULTRA HT/R60 is incredible. It's predictable in every circumstance, wet or dry. Some tires give you a very unsettled feeling when you change road surfaces. Not the Sumitomos. According to Joe, how a tire works in the rain is the real test. "The ULTRA HT/R60 doesn't give you the sensation of wanting to get away from you. Once during a driving class I tried to get the car to spin 180 degrees on a wel track. I couldn't do it with the ULTRAs."

Cup Antics Of 'Mac The Gripe,' Connors Embarrass U.S.

Team Sweden took the U.S. Davis Cup team behind the woodshed and gave it a good thrashing this past Sunday and Monday in Goteborg, Sweden. This was the finals of the Davis Cup competition for 1984 and even though two matches remained to be played as of this writing. Sweden holds an insurmountable 3-0 lead.

The competition is played in a best of five match format. The two matches left to be played have even been reduced to the best two of three set format instead of the standard Davis Cup match of best three out of five

Indeed both teams may substitute its number three and four players to play these final and meaningless matches. Jimmy Connors' wife Patti is expecting a baby at any time so Connors is anxious to get out of Sweden.

I suspect the entire American group is more than ready to return home. We got kicked, we got drubbed, we got embarrassed, directly in the eye of the tennis world. Not only did we lose but we simply did not handle the losing

Connors was fined $2,000 for all the antics he come up with during his loss to Mats Wilander and McEnroe was his usual self in his match against Henrick Sundstrom

This, of course, means that "Mac the Gripe" was ranting, raving, and complaining even long before the first ball was hit. To add the final and perhaps most devastating blow to all this, the No. 1 doubles team in the world. McEnroe and Peter Fleming lost in four sets to Anders Jarryd and Stefan Edberg.

At least in this match the U.S. won a set. It was the first set the U. S. had managed to win in the entire competition, pointing out the total and complete domination, of the Swedes in taking this Davis Cup title.

Of course, the finals were played in Sweden, on slow clay courts. Of course there were 15,000 very partison fans. That's called home court advantage and is why the site of the Davis Cup matches rotates every year. The young Swedes are very much at home on slow surfaces. They grew up on it.

Most American players, particularly Conners and McEnroe, would much rather play on a faster surface. The point is you must be able to give your best and perform up to you maximum on any court under any circumstances. Neither Connors nor McEnroe was ready to play that type of competition under those circumstances when he went to Connors had taken several weeks off for a voluntary rest and McEnroe was sitting out a suspension levied on him because of poor conduct in past tournaments. So we were not ready. we got caught short (many experts predicted this and had made Sweden the favorite even though we had the top doubles team in the world and two of the top three singles players on our team.}

I guess the loss is not as hard to take as the embarrasment that was felt over how we reacted to it. The U.S. Davis Cup team did not win many friends in Sweden this past week. In contrast. I think back only a short time ago when the U.S. and Sweden last met in the Davis Cup final. This time the finals were held in the U.S. on fast indoor courts. Perfect for the U.S., not so good for the Swedes. Still It was hard fought contest with the U.S.

coming out on top 3.2. The difference was that the Swedish Davis Cup team fought hard all the way, did not embarrass itself or its country with on the court antics and almost made off with the Davis Cup Championship even playing on "our"

Tennis in Sweden has come a long way. Borg started it all and hundreds of fine young players have follwoed. Indeed, the depth of talent in Sweden goes even deeper than the U.S. and certainly in the top 20 or 30, it is now superior. Sweden is a good and classy Davis Cup Champion and may be for

Horner Surgery Is Successful, Optimistic Doc Says Wait, See

DALLAS (UPI) - Atlanta third baseman Bob Horner underwent "successful" surgery on his broken right wrist. but his surgeon would not predict when the power-hitter would be able to play again.

"It's much too early to tell what's going to happen," said Dr. Peter Carter, who implanted a screw in a bone in Horner's wrist Tuesday. "I'm optimistic. But we are just going to have to wait and see. I will say that I am pleased at what happened today.'

Horner broke the wrist last May for the second time in less than a year. He sat out the rest of the season and eventually agreed to the revolutionary form of surgery. The operation lasted 3 1/2 hours.

Akeem Outshines Jordan, Bulls

It was the first time for NBA premier rookles Michael Jordan and Akeem Olajuwon to spar as professionals and the decision was Olajuwon by a knockout.

The 7-foot Houston center scored 13 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night to lead the Rockets to a 104-96 victory over the Chicago Bulls.

Meanwhile, Jordan, the 6-6 master of midair, shot just 8-for-20 from the field, scoring 18 points and catching an elbow in the left eye when Houston's Robert Reid went in for a layup near the end of the first half. A cut in Jordan's eyelid required three stitches, but he returned for the

"I didn't think about the matchup (against Olajuwon), I just wanted to win," said Jordan, who was picked third in the NBA draft. "These injuries (back, ankle and eye) are starting to get frustrating."

Mills' Steals Lift Arkansas, 74-67

United Press International

Arkansas forward William Mills learned Tuesday night that no one player is bigger than the team. And it didn't take Mills long to begin reaping the benefits of that valuable lesson.

At Little Rock, Ark., Mills, benched by Coach Eddie Sutton early in the second half, made key steals in the final minute and the No. 16 Razorbacks held off hot-shooting Texas-San Antonio for a 74-67 victory.

Mills stole a pass and missed a layup but was fouled and hit two foul shots with 40 seconds left. With 20 seconds to go, Mills intercepted a lob, scaling the victory.

Sutton sat the 6-foot-7 transfer from Tennessee early in the game because Mills wasn't hitting the boards. But the sophomore said it did him a world of good.

I guess he was trying to show me that the team could win with me or without me," he said. "I'm glad he gave me a second chance."

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 Illinois ripped Cincinnati 87-65 and No. 13 Georgia Tech crushed North Carolina A&T 81-43.

Gipson's 27 Lead FSU Triumph

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Alton Lee Gipson scored 27 points to lead the Florida State Seminoles in a 90-73 victory over the University of Tennessee-Martin Tuesday.

Florida State led by two points during the first five minutes of the game, then edged away to lead 16-10 with 13:34 left in the half. UT-Martin pulled within two points. but the Seminole defense allowed only two polints in the final four mintes of the half to lead 40-31 at intermission.

UT-Martin cut the Seminoles lead to 44-40 during the first three minutes of the second half. But the Seminoles took control at 60-49 midway through the final half on a Jump shot by Gipson.

few weeks late for Leonard Tose, the debt-ridden owner of the Philadelphia

Hoping to come away with a tidy piece of change from his fellow National Football League owners Tuesday, Tose instead was told he would have to wait as long as 45 days to learn how they intend to help him refinance the Eagles.

For Philadelphia fans, though, the news was good as Tose repeated his statement that he no longer intended to move the franchise. Until this past weekend, the Eagles appeared to be headed to Phoenix,

Following a meeting of representatives of all 28 teams that lasted almost five hours, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he would appoint a committee later this week to work with Tose and his counsel on how to refinance the Eagles. Rozelle said he had yet to determine who would serve on the committee, but that it will have a maximum of 45 days before returning to the league with its recommendation.

"Leonard agrees with this," Rozelle said as Tose stood beside him. "Leonard further committed to his partners that he intends to keep the club in Philadelphia.

"There is considerable support for doing something for Leonard. They want some time but they are willing to work out something."

One of the key issues to be resolved is how much control Tose will be allowed to retain in the Eagles.

APPROPRIATE FINISH FOR MARINO

MIAMI (UPI) - Dan Marino's gamewinning touchdown bombs were an appropriate ending to the best regular season an NFL quarterback ever had.

On network television Monday night, the Miami quarterback hurled the Dolphins to a 28-21 victory over the Dallas Cowboys with two touchdown bombs to Mark Clayton in the final minutes.

The victory gave the Dolphins a 14-2 record and assured them the home field through the playoffs.

Along the way, Marino became the first quarterback to pass for 5,000 yards at 5,084 and eclipsed Dan Fouts' completion record with 362. He already had broken the touchdown pass record of 36 and wound up

"It really is exciting setting all those offensive records and it really means a lot," said the second-year pro. "But playing on a team that won so many games and has the home field advantage all the way to the Super Bowl means even more."

It was fronte that the play that knocked the Cowboys (9.7) out of the playoffs for the first time since 1974 - a 63-yard bomb to Mark Clayton with 51 seconds to go - is called "70 Texas." "It was the same play that Clayton scored the first touchdown on," Marino said. "Clayton is a big-play guy and I'm very fortunate to have guys like Mark Clayton and Mark Duper on my team." The last score was Marino's fourth touchdown of the game and Clayton's third.

LIPPS KISSED WITH ROOKIE AWARD

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - Louis Lipps has been named the Steelers' Rookie of the Year for 1984 by the Pittsburgh chapter of the Professional Football Writers Association.

Lipps, who was drafted No. 1 last spring out of southern Mississippi, doubles as a wide receiver and a punt returner for the Steelers.

He led all National Football League rookies in all-purpose yardage with 1,587 and led the league in punt return yardage.

In other games Tuesday, Lake Howell crushed Apopka, 12-0, and Lyman battered Spruce

Rouse started the quarter with a basket and when Henderson added a free throw, Seminole trailed by just two. Rouse then went to the offensive boards for a rebound and was fouled. He cashed in both for a 13-13 tie.

After Newby droped two free throw to regain Lake Mary's lead. Rouse whipped the crowd into a frenzy with two long jumpers for a 17-15 edge. Jumping Jack Alvin Jones then found Gordon with a length of the court outlet for another layup and a 19-15 edge.

"Rouse was great," said Gordon. "He carried us in the second quarter."

Gordon got back into the act with a field goal and when Rouse canned another one, Richardson signalled for a time out with the Rams suddenly on the short end of a 23-15 score.

Andre Gray then broke a five-minute scoring drought for the Rams with a bucket from underneath and when Chris Jackson hit two free throw, Lake Mary began to get back into the game, 23-19.

Just as quickly as the Rams regrouped, however, they came apart. Jones scored on a drive to offset a Jackson steal and basket before Williams tossed a great a 27-21 lead.

Williams then stole the ball but Gordon missed a free throw. Hartsfield found the range from below the key, but Hill snatched a missed shot and put it back in for a 29-23 Seminole advantage at halftime.

It was Seminole's turn to fall apart at the beginning of the third quarter. "I thought Lake Mary might halfcourt press us. but I didn't think a fullcourt press would bother our quickness," said Marlette.

It did. Merthie hit a jumper to open the quarter but Gordon followed to square things. Merthie then missed a dunk but Williams stole the ball from Merthie after he rebounded at the top of the key.

The 5.7 guard took the ball hard on the dribble as Gordon trailed the play. "As I was coming down court, I saw Kenny," said Williams. "I thought Kenny could get a slam. so I just put it behind my back."

Gordon didn't get his slam but the one-handed bouncer was right on the money and the fans went up for grabs as Gordon's layup put the 'Noles up, 33-28.

Hartsfield came right back with a bucket and then the Rams threw out the press. It produced three straight Tribe turnovers which Reynolds, Grayson and Merthic, who finished with 12 points, all converted into baskets for a 33-33 deadlock.

Grayson then stole the ball and scored to for Lake Mary's 35-33 edge. Henderson blocked a shot at the other end but Grayson came back with lob to Henderson for a deuce and another basket for a 37-33 edge.

Gaines Leads Lake Mary JV Past Tribe

Lake Mary center Roosevelt Gaines doesn't like to sit the bench. He'd rather pick up his splinters of the glass than the top of some bench. So when he returned to action Tuesday night against the Seminole juntor varsity, he made the most of it.

Gaines threw in four straight jumpers to start the fourth quarter to rally the Lake Mary Rams to a 54-52 victory over Seminole in junior varsity basketball at Seminole High's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

For the Rams, it was their win in as many games. Coach Tom Smith's Seminoles lost for the first time in four games. Both teams return to action Thursday in the Lake Mary Junior Varsity Christmas Tournament.

In a hurry. Lake Mary trailed by six points entering the final eight minutes. Gaines, though, hit his first three shots while Seminole went scoreless to tie the game.

The Tribe moved back in front on a sky tip by sophomore center James Dennard and two free Prep Basketball throws by Mike Franklin, but a Gaines jumper. two free throws by Danny Gibbs and another by Gaines tied the game at 46.

Seminole's Craig Dixon then stole the ball and scored with a layup for a 48-46 lead with just 1:53 to play. Twenty seconds later, though, Lake Mary's Matt Napoli drilled on in from the corner to deadlock the game at 48.

Terry "The Cat" Miller then stole the ball and drew a foul on a drive at the other end. Miller bit his first free throw for a one point lead,

The Patriots went in with a five-game losing streak but they played well in losses to Spruce Creek and DeLand.

While Lake Howell's woes continued Tuesday night, Lake Brantley III up the nets from the perimeter in the first half and used a devastating fast break in the second half en route to a 73-55 thrashing of the Hawks before 400 fans.

'When Lake Howell collapsed on us on defense we got good outside shooting." Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson said. "And we were able to Prep Basketball move down the floor on the fast break. We played well as a unit and it's nice to have a win after four tough losses."

Lake Brantley now stands at 2-5 overall and 1-2 in the Five Star. The Patriots also avenged a loss to Lake Howell in the finals of the Patriot Tipoff Tournament. Lake Brantley returns to action Thursday in the Oviedo Outlook Tournament. Brantley goes up against the winner of the Oviedo-Orlando Luther first round game tonight.

Lake Howell fell to 4.3 overall and 0.3 in the conference. The Hawks go up against Mount Dora tonight at 5:30 in the Outlook Tournament.

"We won't beat anybody if we keep shooting the way we did tonight," Lake Howell coach Greg Robinson said, "The shots are available, we just can't make them. It's something we're just going to have to work on.'

The outside shooting of Mark Moser and Mark Shorey enabled the Patriots to build a 14-10 lead after the first quarter. Moser scored eight of his game-high 18 points in the opening period and Shorey hit a pair of jumpers late in the quarter to break a 10-10 tie.

Hayward Beasley and Efrem Brooks kept Lake Howell close with four points each in the first quarter. Brooks hit a pair of jumpers in the quarter but the senior sharpshooter didn't hit another field goal the rest of the game.

Lake Brantley cooled off a bit in the second quarter and Lake Howell stayed within striking distance by making 9 of 9 free throws in the quarter. Scott Anderton's three-point play with 37 seconds left in the half pulled the Hawks within one, 22-21. Brantley then turned the ball over and Lake Howell had a chance to take the lead. But the Silver Hawks returned the favor and the score remained 22-21 at halftime.

The Patriots came out running in the second half and recled off eight straight points to take a 30-21 lead with 5:16 left in the third quarter. Anderton's jumper broke the Ice for Lake Howell in the second half but Greg Courtney's threepoint play put the Patriots up by 10, 33-23.

Lake Howell stayed within 10, 47-37, going into the fourth quarter. Lake Brantley scored the first three points of the final period and Moser's fast-break layup, on an assist from Todd Hill. gave the Patriots a 50-37 lead with 6:36 left in the

Cook Of the Week

Reviving The 'Plain Home Cooking' Of Her Youth

By Brenda Lowe Herald Correspondent

This week's cook. Robbie Scarber, grew up on a farm in Georgia, along with nine sisters and brothers, so cooking was something she learned early from her mother and older sisters. She says that it was just "plain, home cookin"," but was very good and plentiful. Robble says that having been raised so close to nature was a wonderful way to grow up. Having baby animals to play with and living near beautiful woods to explore, instilled in her an enduring love of nature. She says that one of her favorite childhood memories is playing in the hayloft of the barn on rainy days. She had a box of paperdolls which were her imagmary "family." She adds that there was usually a litter of kittens or piglets in the barn at any given time, so there was no lack of things to do.

hometown. She admits, though, that she misses some of the familiar old landmarks which have disappeared along the way - the town clock, the bandshell on the lakefront and the little Sanford zoo.

Family is important to Robbie and her cozy home is filled with photos of her five children, 10 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. She adds that she is expecting a very special Christmas present this year - her fourth greatgrandehild. She says that she has an "open door" policy all year round for her family, but that Christmas is her favorite time of year to get together. She says that she loves baking pies and cakes and watching everyone eat, talk and enjoy themselves. "The more, the merrier" seems to be her motto.

After fifty years in the work force. Robbie will be retiring in January. Her last thirteen years As a resident of Sanford for of employment have been at nearly 30 years, she says that Stromberg-Carlson in Lake time to pursue her hobbles of Traveling is also something which Robbie says that she likes to do. Last summer she enjoyed Cancun, Mexico. She also visited the World's Fair in New Orleans and more recently had a delightful trip to Asheville, N.C.

The following are some of Robbie's favorite holiday offer-

Widow Doesn't Like Playing Second Fiddle To Boyfriend's Ex

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow there was no problem, but this who has been going with a man. Christmas Eve I will be all alone. for nearly a year. He's been divorced for seven years. He still "ex" every week and spends a few hours visiting with her. He says he has a right to see his children, who are grown but still living at home. He also spends some weekends making repairs on the house

I say his children could meet him somewhere else, and all those adults should be able to take care of the house without his help. Also, I think he should mail the checks to his ex.

My friend announced that he always spends Christmas Eve with his children (at his ex's house, of course) and Christmas Day with his "lady." If he asked me. I would have preferred that he spend Christmas Day with his children and Christmas Eve with me, but he didn't ask me.

Condry Named Director Of Loyola Hospital

Dr. Richard A. Matre, provost and chief administrative officer of Loyola University Medical Center, has appointed Robert S. Condry director of Foster G. McGaw Hospital.

Previously, Condry has been acting director of the hospital since April of this year.

"Loyola's President, Rev. Raymond Baumhart, S.J., and 1 are confident Robert Condry will provide the leadership and creativity required to operate our 510-bed hospital. He has a solid background of health care administration in an academic environment," Dr. Matre said.

The Provost stated that more than four dozen qualified candidates applied for the position. and he and the director of personnel interviewed more than a dozen before four finalists were chosen.

The four finalists were then interviewed by six senior university administrators, and this was followed by interviews with Father Baumhart and Dr. Matre.

"Bob beat out tough competition for the position."

Condry, 43, is a graduate of the University of Charleston. Charleston, West Virginia, and holds an M.B.A. in health care administration from George Washington University. Washington, D.C.

From 1969-70, he completed a hospital administrative residency at Georgetown University. Washington, D.C., and then joined the Virginia Commonwealth University Medical Center of Virginia Hospitals. Richmond, as assistant hospital

Diet Menu Makes Holiday Season Less Fattening

One of the most surprising facts about the holiday season is the level of unhappiness that seems to accompany it. There are many who find the period between Thanksgiving and New Year the most difficult time of the year.

Ads, media programming. films and the frenzied activities of others around you are all indicating a level of merriment that, is actually artificial. Trying to live up to this illusion can put a tremendous burden on some. Unrealistic expectations of what a happy holiday is can create a great deal of disappointment.

"Frequently these problems are solved with food," says Sy Aufseher, Area Director for Weight Watchers in Central Florida, "only to create new and perhaps greater problems. For many, the good alone becomes the only reflection of, or participation in, the holiday, Then, every January, thousands bemoan the excess weight they've put on, or the important diet they've neglected, the previous Christmas, or New Year. But there is a way to defeat this pattern and enjoy the holidays as they were meant to be enjoyed."

If you haven't been invited to a party, throw one. And if weight ls a problem, Weight Watchers has developed some recipes that make the party season easter.

This menu is great for a Trim-a-Tree get-together, a New Year's fetc, or even a Twelfth Night gathering, for those who get the post-holiday blues. The recipes were designed to be enjoyed without guilt, and fit into any sensible weight loss plan like Weight Watchers Program featuring Quick Start.

Writers like to make bridge a game of adages, and I am no

"Two chances are better than one" is one of my favorites, but sometimes a player has to be careful to make sure he gets the second chance.

South won the queen of spades and, exercising normally good declarer technique, he ducked a club. The defenders cleared the club ace and was a goner. If he gave up a club to East, he would be unable to enjoy his high diamonds. If he cashed A-K-Q of diamonds, East, upon getting in with his last club winner, would set the hand.

If clubs are going to split 3-2. South really doesn't need all that communication. He should play a club to the king and a club back to the ace. If clubs split, fine. He can give up the last club while he still has the heart ace for a dummy entry.

But when they do not divide in friendly fashion, he is now in his own hand and can play a low diamond. Because the diamond spade suit. Declarer played the jack eventually comes down, he can score four diamond tricks, two spades, two clubs and one heart for his contract.

By playing in this manner, he preserves both chances for the contract - first, a reasonable lead a diamond to partner's jack club division; second, the and West's spade winners would diamond jack falling.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 20, 1984

The year ahead will be a busy one with lots of new activities and interests. Many pleasant adventures are in the offing that will add to your wisdom and abilities to deal with life.

BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to avoid people today who could make heavy demands on your time and talent. You'll be happier if you can function independently of others. Major changes are in store for Sagittarius in the coming year. Send for you Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) What you do for others today will afford you greater satisfaction than what you do for yourself. Let compassion set your course.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Plan your social activity around friends who know how to enjoy themselves. Their attitudes and actions will serve to buoy your spirits.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your standing in the eyes of others will begin ascending as of today. Do not be surprised if you find yourself more in demand than usual. ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Pay heed to your insights today. Your flashes of intuition pertaining to the outcome of events will be more on target than usual.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Focus your efforts and energies today on situations that coud provide you with an additional source of earnings. You may tap a gusher.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The results will be favorable today in matters where you think in terms of "we," not just CANCER (June 21-July 22) knocks, move quickly.

Later you will regret it if you waste too much time today on frivolous pursuits. The reverse will be true if you engage yourself in worthy activities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Projects or ventures you originate or personally manage have excellent chances for success today. Get out front and show 'em your stuff.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Hold positive thoughts regarding the outcome of events today and you might amaze even yourself at how closely everything will conform to your script.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Spend as much time as possible today catching up on matters that require communication. such as finishing your Christmas cards or making neglected calls.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Exciting developments could occur both today and tomorrow that will be meaningful to you financially. When opportunity

When we think of the holidays one of our Joys and concerns is entertaining family and friends. An "open house" is a way to entertain many at one time. In doing so, a considerate hostess will provide beverages and foods that are easily eaten without inconvenience - that are appetizing in appearance and taste really good. A wide variety of foods are appropriate; some hot, some cold, some crisp, some soft, and some sweet, some tart.

SPICED CRANBERRY TEA 1 package (12 ounces) fresh

cranberries

2 quarts water

11/2 cups sugar

3 bags black tea 2 cinnamon sticks 2 cups orange juice

Wash and sort the cranberries. Combine the berries in a 3-quart microwave safe casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 18-20 minutes, or until boiling. The berries should pop open. Stir several times during this timing. Strain mixture to remove the pulp and suds. Extract all the juice. Drain pulp. Return juice to 3 quart container. Add tea bags and cinnamon sticks. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 4-6 minutes, or until boiling. Allow to stand 2-3 hours. Remove tea bags and cinnamon sticks. To serve, microwave on 100 percent power, covered, 10-12 minutes. or until steaming hot. Stir in orange juice. Garnish with orange slices. If going to be served immediately, it can be ladled into heat resistant cups. If it is to be served over a long period of time, it can be poured into a crock pot and kept warm on a medium temperature setting.

If eggnog is what you want, this recipe is simple and the non-alcoholic type.

MICROWÁVE EGGNOG

4 cups milk 1/2 cup sugar I teaspoon vanilla

4 teaspoon salt 2 beaten eggs 1 beaten egg yolk I egg white

1/2 teaspoon vantlla 2 tablespoons sugar Fresh ground nutmeg

In a 2-quart batter bowl, combine milk, 4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla and salt. Microwave on 100 percent power 6-8 minutes or until hot Stir. Combine eggs and 1 egg yolk. Gradually stir 1 cup of the hot mixture into beaten egg mixture. Return to hot mixture; microwave 2 minutes more. Stir once. Beat egg white and ½ teaspoon vanilla until soft peaks form; gradually add 2 tablespoons sugar, beating to still peaks. Pour eggnog into mugs. Top with dollops of the egg white mixture. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Will make 8 (4 ounce) servings.

Hot hors d'ocurves made quickly in the microwave oven will permit you to spend more time with your guests.

Sophia Loren Rewrites Her Script; Playing Mother Now Comes First

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - "I don't think I look too bad, for 50," says Sophia Loren.

That may qualify as one of the classic understatements of the year, along with: "President Reagan may carry a state or two.'

She looks great. Maybe greater than ever. But we won't be seeing her as often in the near future as we did in the near past. And for a curious

Sophia Loren has two sons. Carlo is 15 and Edoardo is 11. And she wants to spend more time with them now than she did when they were

This is a reversal of the way most working mothers operate; it conflicts with the usual feelings that children need mothers most when they are young.

"I think my sons need me more now than they did when they were small," she says. "They needed me then, too, of course. But now is even more important that their mother be around." Now, she says, is when they need somebody to talk to who knows them and has their best interests at heart. When children are young, a good housekeeper or nurse can handle their problems — food, hurts, essentials like that — but as they grow up their problems require more loving consideration.

So Sophia isn't working often these years. She recently did a TV movie, "Aurora," but primarily because there was a part for a young boy about Edoardo's age. Since he is interested in acting. she took the part with the proviso that he be cast in the movie as well.

Carlo, her older son, is not a budding actor. "He has always been shy," Sophia says. "His world is music. He plays the plano very well, both classical and modern things. But Edoardo has always said he wanted to act, so I felt it would be a good thing for him to get a taste of what acting is really like. Now that he has had that taste, he is more anxious to act than he was before."

The self-imposed schedule of working less is no hardship for Sophia. In the first place, she says most of the things she has been offered lately have been "rabbish," which is her way of saying "rubbish."

"I suppose it was always rabbish," she says. "But years ago I had to do II. Now I don't. Besides, it seems as though there is more rabbish now than there was before."

So she has turned to writing. She has a book out now called "Women and Beauty."

"For a long time," she says, "many publishers have wanted me to do a beauty book. I didn't want to do one that was like all the others. Why bother? But then 1 met a writer - Kathy Matthews - who was bright and had some good ideas and we talked for several weeks and this book was the result.

"It is a beauty book, but it has much more to it than that." She says she has never spent much time trying to make herself look more beautiful. "I've done my own makeup for so long that I can do it now in half an hour," Sophia says. "And I do my own hair, too. I don't want to spend three hours in the beauty parlor, so I always do it myself."

Now she wants to write a book of stories for children. She has a good reason for that, "I think children today must be very lonely." she says. "Mothers are working more than they ever have before, and the children are left at home or with friends or relatives, and so I think they need good

Retarded Child With Down's Syndrome Guest Stars On 'The Fall Guy'

By Joan Hanauer UPITV Reporter

also is a 10-year-old retarded victim of Downs Syndrome.

Jason, who lives in Chappa-qua, N.Y., plays a child with Down's Syndrome on ABC's "The Fall Guy" episode to air tonight, and by the time shooting was over Lee Majors was flashing him a special "I love you" sign and the slim, elfin little boy had won the hearts of everyone on the set.

The episode, titled "The Winner," was co-athored by Lou Shaw, executive roducer of "Fall Guy" and the father of a 5-year-old daughter with Down's. In it Majors in his stuntman role helps Jason's character compete in the Special Olympics for the handicapped.

Jason sat coloring by the numbers one recent afternoon while his mother, Emily Kingsley, talked about the first day on the set.

"Jason sometimes gets very spooked by violence." she said. and I was terrified that if they started him out with the fight scene, they might lose him because he'd have a negative attitude about the whole thing. I asked them, if at all possible, to schedule the fight scene way down in the shooting after he had formed some relationships."

Jason and his mother arrived on the set on the first day of shooting and Jason's first scene was, of course, the fight. She said there were about 60 people - technicians, cameramen, light men. prop men. whatever watching.

"This is a child we had beeen told can't sequence things or process complicated sets of instructions," Jason's mother said. "The very first shot, the director says to Jason:

"Now Jason, when I say action, I want you to get down on your hands and knees and climb under the truck. Go over by the right wheel and look at the legs of the man in grey. Then also a kid who is sweet and nice look at the man in brown. Look and capable. I'm very proud of back at the man in grey. The my son and what he has acman in grey is going to fall down complished."

and hit his head. I want you to hunch back so he can't see you NEW YORK (UPI) - Jason but hunch up high enough so I Kingsley is not just another can see you. They'll drag the "guest star" whose name flashes body away and leave the on the credits for "The Fall Guy" envelope and when they're gone, along with Larry Holmes, Bruce 4 want you ever so slowly to Jenner and Lou Ferrigno - he reach forward with your right hand and pull the envelope back and walk out the way you came. You got that?"

> Jason said he did and the director told Jason, "Okay, Jason, go."

"Jason just stood there," his mother said. "'Okay, Jason, now,' and Jason still just stood there. I looked at my husband and, I mean, we wanted to be in Hong Kong. Wnose Idea was this anyhow?"

Suddenly, in the silence that had descended on the set. Jason

'You forgot something." he told the director. "You forgot to say action.'

Everybody laughed. The director said action. Jason went through his complicated movements perfectly.

"He made 60 friends at that moment," his mother said. "And, of course, he proved that he could do it."

That's the whole point of Jason appearing on the show to prove how techniques of infant stimulation and early intervention programs have changed and improved the future for Down's Syndrome

"When Jason was born the obstetrician said we should institutionalize the child immediately because he would be a vegetable, he would never sit up. never stand, never walk, never talk, never have a single meaningful thought in his head," Mrs. Kingsley said. "He said we should go home and tell our family and friends that the baby had died."

She and her husband refused to write Jason off without trying - and wound up with a child who has been the most meaningful thing in their lives.

"I want people to know that this may not be optimal, it is not what you dream about - but it's not a tragedy, either. Here is a kid with limitations, sure, but

Democrats Say Weinberger Hasn't Cut Budget Enough

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense Secretary Caspar Weger has surrendered to White House pressure and given up $8.7 billion in defense spending next year as the Pentagon's contribution to shoring up the federal deficit.

But congressional Democrats, as expected, complained he didn't go far enough.

"We have a very satisfactory budget result decision," Weinberger said Tuesday in giving the bare bones outline of his proposed $277.5 billion budget outlay for fiscal 1986, which begins Oct.

The reduction was made by lowering the proposed military pay raise from 6 percent to 4 percent, to save about $1 billion; cutting civilian salaries 5 percent; slicing $2.5 billion from weapons costs without canceling any programs but a torpedo, and saving several million dollars through lower inflation and fuel cost estimates.

In an apparent compromise following a weeks-long wrangle over the budget. Weinberger emerged the long-term winner over budget director David Stockman.

In surrendering $8.7 billion, Weinberger gave Stockman more than the $8 billion he wanted to save. But the Pentagon chief fended off more than half of the reductions Stockman sought for fiscal

According to figures from the White House, Weinberger agreed to only $9.2 billion in reductions in 1987 and $10.2 billion in 1988, while Stockman had urged $20 billion and $30 billion, respectively.

Weinberger unveiled the $313.7 billion budget for fiscal 1986 that he will propose to Congress next month only hours after President Reagan decided to reduce Pentagon spending by $28.1 billion for the next three years in line with trying to reduce the projected $200 billion federal

Although Republican congressmen remained mute. Democrats balked almost immediately.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., a member of the Appropriations Committee, predicted there will be "a lot of blood all over the floor" of the Senate unless Weinberger comes up with deeper cuts. He said more than $50 billion should be sliced from defense during the next three years.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., an acknowledged defense expert, said the Pentagon budget will be a "fat target" that can be tapped further to siphon money to further reduce the deficit and to bolster domestic programs.

"I think it's a meaningless gesture," Rep. Thomas Downey, D.N.Y., said of the $8.7 billion cutback. "It's absurd, it's laughable. There's a lot more to save there and everybody realizes it's got to be done."

The total $313.7 billion budget represents a cutback of $11.1 billion from the $324.8 billion Weinberger originally planned. That translates into $277.5 billion for spending in fiscal 1986 only — $8.7 billion less than the original $286.2

Weinberger said his new budget represents 5.6 percent in real growth over this year's $292 billion budget.

Congressional leaders have warned that Pentagon spending must be cut if Congress is to go along with Reagan's proposal to slash $34 billion out of social programs to achieve his deficit-reduction target.

6 Sentenced For DUI In Seminole

The following persons have either pleaded or been found guilty of driving under the influence, or having an unlawful blood alcohol level.

As first-time offenders, most have had their driver's license suspended for 6 months, ordered to pay a $250 fine, pay court costs of $27.50 and complete 50 hours of community service. When a guilty or no contest plea is entered or if the defendant is found guilty of an alcohol-related charge, other charges are usually either not presecuted or dismissed. Most of the first-time offenders are allowed to apply for business-only driving permits. In cases where the sentence differs, the actual sentence is reported:

-Michael Douglas Donohue, 34, of Kissimmee, arrested at 9:57 p.m. Dec. 4 by Lake Mary police after he was spotted driving with an expired license plate on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary. Charges of driving with a suspended driver's license and driving with an expired license plate were dismissed.

-Earl John Cissell, 28, of Naples, arrested by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper at 10:35 p.m. Dec. 5 after his car, which was traveling 60 mph, almost hit the median and swerved on U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park. A charge of following too closely was dismissed.

-Bradley James Schuh, 25, of 273 Thomas Drive, Casselberry, arrested by an FHP trooper at 2:10 a.m. Dec. 6 after his car drove off Sunset Drive, Casselberry, and onto the shoulder of the roadway. Charges of having no valid driver's license and failure to drive in a single lane were

-Johnie Cleveland Spivey, 35, of 170 Sorrento Circle, Winter Park, arrested at 2:12 a.m. Dec. 1 by Oviedo police on state Road 426, Oviedo, after police were notified by a motorist that a possible drunk driver was headed that way.

 Pamela Ann Wolf, 25, of 316 Red Wing Court,
 Casselberry, arrested 2:20 a.m. Nov. 28 by a trooper in Longwood after her car crossed the lanes of Highway 17-92.

-Sandra Huggins, 18, of Florida Avenue, Oviedo arrested by a trooper in Fern Park on Nov. 30. Charges of unlawful use of driver's license and careless driving were dismissed.

Soviet Missiles Pierce Ice?

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) -Researchers mapping ice movement in the Arctic have discovered evidence the Soviet Union has the ability to launch missiles from submarines hiding under the ice pack.

Juan Roederer of the University of Alaska-Fairbanks said his group has photographs that a technical magazine says shows Soviet subs can knock holes in the ice to permit the missiles' firing. The photos were taken by a civilian satellite last March 28 northwest of Wrangel Island In the Soviet Arctic.

Roederer said the pictures present what appears to be broken ice and indications of up to three large jet aircraft circling the area. Calculations suggested the aircraft were full-size jets and that the experiment lasted at least several hours.

Aviation Week and Space Technology Magazine, which was given copies of the photographs, said in this week's edition that unnamed officials believe the, experiment is evidence the Soviet Union is first with the ability of subs to bore through ice so missiles could be

U.S. Becoming Debtor Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The United States, an international creditor since World War I, is rapidly becoming or may already be a debtor nation, the government says.

The Commerce Department reported Monday this country had a record $32.9 billion deficit in its International current account in the third quarter. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the figure will exceed $100 billion for the

A country's current account is like a householder's ledger of "current" expenses and income, exclusive of investment transactions such as taking out a mortgage to buy a house.

In both cases a deficit means the household or country is currently spending more than it makes and is going into debt - or, if it was a net creditor, headed toward being a net debtor.

The United States was a debtor nation, importing capital to finance its growth, until about World War I. Subsequently it became the world's biggest creditor, helping to finance post-World War II reconstruction of Europe and Japan and development in the Third World.

For the last three years a strong dollar, causing a worsening deficit in merchandise trade, has resulted in the United States spending more internationally than it takes in on a current basis, drawing down its position as a net investor

In 1983, its net investment position was $106 billion. A $100 billion current account deficit in 1984, accompanied by an inflow of investments seeking high U.S. interest rates, would just about push this country to net debtor status.

Commerce Department analysis said their figures are not precise enough to say just when that threshhold would be crossed. "It may already have happened." one analyst said.

Baldrige said the U.S. domestic budget deficit, causing high interest rates which hurt trade and attract inflows of capital, are the main cause of

McDonald's Opens In Historic Home, Without Drive-Through

McDonald's wanted to convert an historic mansion into a restaurant badly enough that it agreed to install a smoke filtering system, build a stockade fence on one side and make sure all deliveries are made during daylight. The thing that went down hard, company officials said, was the local Board of Appeals' prohibition against a drivethrough window.

"The board said we couldn't have one, so we don't have one." said Doug Quagliaroli, McDonald's director of operations. "But I think it would benefit the community."

it would also benefit McDonald's, since the company estimates that a drive through window usually accounts for 30 percent of its revenue.

McDonald's might need the drive-through to pay for the new restaurant, a state-of-the-art hamburger palace built inside the 150-year-old Greek Revival home on Main Street.

Officials wouldn't reveal the cost of the new restaurant, but it contains original stenciling onthe walls, mahogany tables and chairs and cherry wainscoting.

Residents were concerned last year when it became known that a local dentist had sold the historic Gore House to McDonald's. A group which called itself the Freeport Mac-Attack was formed to oppose the plan.

The group claimed that a fast food outlet should be located in a commercial area, not in a residential neighborhood. They said the restaurant would cause traffic congestion, noise problems and might even attract rats.

FREEPORT, Maine (UPI) - But the local board of appeals decided in favor of McDonald's, and the Freeport Mac Attack's opposition withered.

> McDonald's was able to diffuse much of the opposition by promising to build an unusual McDonald's that would include a restored Gore House, complete with mahogany furniture, original paintings by Maine artists and no golden arches, the company's symbol.

> McDonald's conducted private tours of the new restaurant Monday prior to Tuesday's official opening. Part of the newly constructed restaurant contains fairly typical fast-food seating. but two front rooms contain mahogany tables and chairs. original stenciling, wall-to-wall carpeting an even an expensive-looking vase on a small table.

> "What we did was restore the Gore House externally, and we tried to restore the interior as best we could and still provide usable floor space for dining," said architect John Weinrich, whose firm, Weinrich and Woodward Associates of Brunswick, handled the design work on the new restaurant.

> The Gore House was built in the 1850s by William Gore, a successful Freeport merchant. Weinrich said McDonald's was concerned that the design be carried out in a way that would not disturb the lines of the

"For the most part it's a nice looking building, they've done a good Job." said Cooper, the neighbor across the street. "But it's still a McDonald's, still a commercial enterprise in a residential area, and we still have to wait to see what happens."

Making Fudge The New-Fashioned Way

Food Processor Takes The Trickery Out Of Yuletide Favorite

It is claimed that fudge originated in the dormitories of one of the Seven Sisters Ivy League Women's Colleges, but there is no doubt that homemade candy, and particularly fudge, are associated with the holidays.

Unfortunately, preparing homemade candy the oldfashioned way can be a tricky, time-consuming activity, and is often abandoned in the interest of convenience. But with the help of a food processor, homemade candy may easily return to your lineup of Yuletide goodies.

The most critical step in making fudge is determining when to stop beating the heated mixture and pour it into the pan to set. The following New Fashioned Christmas Fudge recipe from the Home Economists at KitchenAid takes the guesswork out of the fudge making process. Once the sugar and milk mixture reaches the right temperature on the candy thermometer, simply pour it into the food processor in a steady stream, process for about 30 seconds with the chocolate mixture, and you have a foolproof fudge sure to invoke visions of sugar plums. For delectable, festive treats try the recipe for Apricol Bon F). Bon Lollipops. Only you need to know they were prepared in milk mixture through feed tube

¼ cup seedless raisins

Mix coconut with cereal, brown sugar, prunes, apricots and sesame seed in large bowl. Combine oil and honey in saucepan and bring to a boil over medium heat. Pour over cereal mixture and mix to coat well. Spread evenly in 13x9-inch pan. Bake at 325° for 20 minutes, stirring several times to toast evenly. Sprinkle with raisins and spread out on a tray to cool. Break into small pieces and store in airtight container. Makes 7 cups.

Making fudge, usually a tricky and time-consuming task, is more convenient and precise when a food processor is used. The results are these delightful treats.

New Books Celebrate 200 Years Of America's Homegrown Cooking

It took more than 200 years of next door, cooking and eating, but America has finally convinced the publishing industry its native chefs have created a cuisine as rich and varied as those revered in Europe and the Orient.

An avalanche of new books celebrates American cooking as an overdue rebellion, as a magnificent chapter in history, as an essential part of the national personality.

Each book, of course, seeks a market - not the essiest thing. to find amid the stiff competition. But each also seeks its own unique voice crying in what no longer is a desert.

There was a time when it was hard to talk about American food and be taken seriously. Comments invariably strayed to hot dogs and hamburgers, and their typical fast-food surroundings. rather than to New Orleans red beans, Key West conch chowder or New England boiled dinners.

What little interest there was in American food got a tremendous boost from the Bicentennial in 1976, when the nation's arts, crafts and long-forgotten dishes got a healthy going-over by the public and the press.

Three years later, at New York's swank Tavern on the Green, an assortment of food industry representatives gave a seven-minute ovation to Paul Prudhomme of K-Paul's In Louisiana and Alice Waters of Chez Panisse in California applauding a wizardry that was refreshingly home-grown.

Finally, in 1983, there was colonial Williamsburg.

The choice of foods for the European Economic Summit had all the drum rolls of official sanction - North Carolina barbecue, deep-fried catfish and hush pupples. Prudhomme's own gumbo, Key lime ple and black walnut ice cream.

Though Europeans had years ago discovered America's regional bounty (with tiny restaurants serving catfish or red beans popping up from Paris to Berlin), it took this international event to make Americans accept that what they'd been eating all their lives was actually a cuisine.

With the latest batch of volumes, brought out by major houses in New York or by tiny presses nationwide, it is clear that publishing has finally accepted this fact as well.

Here, then, is a casual tour of the latest offerings, starting with those that aspire to be comprehensive in treating the national food movement and ending with a few quirky examples on food groups or American regional cuisines.

One of the most elegant looks at a cooking style that often tends to be down-home is offered in "The American Table" by Ronald Johnson (Morrow, $19.951.

from the best Basque table in fishing camp in Georgia to the ultimate burrito palace right

"Back-to-Basics American Cooking" by Anita Prichard (Putnam, $9.95 paperback) takes a more militant tack. Prichard sees American cuisine as an art form almost extinct by the end of World War II but ushered into new life by the natural food movement in the

Her book, the result of 30 years of research, serves up 450 recipes reflecting her insistence on absolute freshness.

For years, Pearl Byrd Foster ran Mr. and Mrs. Foster's Place f-the-beaten-path landmark for American food pioneers. Since her retirement, she has gathered the experiences and recipes of her restaurant work and produced "Classic American Cooking" (Fireside, $9.95 paperback). It contains not only the basic recipes of the national cuisine but a wonderland of her own culinary creations.

As Joan Nathan demonstrates in "An American Folklife Cookbook" (Schocken Books, $18.95), she is one heck of a reporter as well as a tireless gatherer of recipe Americana. Her collected dishes have to vie for fascination with a wealth of anecdotes and colorful vignettes. This is an extradinary book to read as well as use in the kitchen.

For sheer reference value, not to mention unexpected dollops of charm, it's hard to beat "The Dictionary of American Food and Drink" by John F. Mariani (Ticknor and Fields, $11.95 paperback). Mariani comes up with 477 pages of definitions, hints, tall tales, trivia and recipes, all compiled with true gourmet gusto.

Two familiar American food names - Fannle Farmer and Betty Crocker - are represented with interesting new collections. "The Fannie Farmer Baking Book" by Marion Cunningham (Knopf, $16.95) was inspired by America's redisceovery of itself. It offers more than 800 recipes. most as American as apple ple. not to mention a great recipe for apple pie.

Betty Crocker's Buffets" (Random House, $13.95) is a lavishly illustrated cookbook devoted to the nation's favorite method of entertaining. From casual open houses to former dinner parties, there's something for everybody among these 270 recipes.

Preparation The Key To Holiday Baked Goods

Despite hectic holiday schedules, heavenly homemade baked goods can be part of the season's calendar by using advance preparation as the key to successfully managing holiday

Some essential ingredients for hassle-free homemade holiday baking also include a clean, well organized kitchen.

 Store spices and herbs in a cool, dry place, not near the heat of the oven as convenience would seem to dictate. Spices can clump together and lose flavor and aroma in heat and humidity.

 Cover all foods when not working with them. Place Handi-Wrap* II over homemade dinner roll dough as it cool-rises gradually before baking.

 Store rolls and breads at room temperature, covered securely in a plastic film designed for long term storage, such as Saran Wrap brand plastic film.

Refrigerated breads and rolls become stale faster than those stored at room temperature.

· Keep knives sharp for efficient cutting. A dull knife is dangerous because of the pressure needed to cut. A slip could result in a wound. Serrated knives are best to use for breads and pastries.

• Keep butter flavor fresh by wrapping securely in Saran Wrap so it doesn't absorb other flavors and odors.

OVERNIGHT HERB DINNER ROLLS

1 cup plus 2 tablespoons warm water ¼ cup sugar

1 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley

1/2 teaspoon dried basil flakes I package active dry yeast l tablespoon vegetable oil

31/2 cups sifted flour Melted butter for brushing

Combine warm water, sugar, salt, parsley, and basil in a large bowl; add yeast and stir until dissolved. Add oil and gradually stir in half of flour; mix well. Add remaining flour and mix until dough leaves sides of bowl. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and knead 10 minutes. Cover dough on board with Handi-Wrap II and let rise for one hour, or until doubled. Punch dough down; divide into 12 pieces. Shape each piece into a ball and arrange in a greased 9-inch round cake pan. Cover completely and loosely with Handl-Wrap II; refrigerate for four hours or overnight. When ready to bake, carefully uncover rolls and let stand at room temperature 10 minutes. Bake at 375° for 25 minutes, or until lightly browned and rolls sound hollow when tapped. Remove from pan; brush with melted butter and cool on rack. Makes one dozen rolls.

Books

host of lovely recipes. Americana of a different sort is presented by Jane and Michael Stern, already veterans of the nation's bizarre self-absorptions. After chronicling highway cooking and strange attractions, they turn their touch to what might be called anti-cuisine. "Square Meals" (Knopf. $17.95) is a fun-loving tribute to the all-American cooking most people grew up on, from the 1920s through the 1950s.

"Tailgate Parties" by Susan Wyler (Harmony, $5.95) is a pleasurable attempt to take yet another national standby into the realm of recognizable artistry. It provides 128 pages of recipes and tips for tallgate parties of all kinds, from Fourth of July celebrations to "apres ski" get-togethers.

New books about American food offer thousands of recipes for standards of the native cuisine, not to mention hundreds more that reflect a quirky sort of creativity.

For a taste of how rich and varied American cooking can be, try Potted Deviled Crab from "Classic American Cooking" by Pearl Byrd Foster and Chicken Charleston from "The American Table" by Ronald Johnson. Potted Deviled Crab

3 tablespoons butter 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour 11/2 cups light cream 11/2 teaspoons Dijon or Creole mustard

2 tablespoons grated onions sult to taste 1 tablespoon lemon juice

16 teaspoon cayenne pepper 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, preferably homemade I tablespoon chopped fresh paraley

l tablespoon minced green peppers 4 egg yolks, beaten

2 cups cooked lump crabmeat, bits of shell and cartilage removed 1 cup soft bread crumbs

Lime slices and fresh parsley sprigs for garnish Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Melt butter, mix in flour and, over medium heat, stir to a smooth paste. Then add cream. blend well and cook for a few minutes until sauce thickens. Remove from heat and add mustard, grated onion, salt. lemon juice, cayenne, mayonnaise, parsley, green pepper and beaten egg yolks. Blend well, then add crabmeat, trying not to break the lumps.

Toss all ingredients lightly. Place mixture in a buttered bake-and-serve dish, sprinkle the top with soft bread crumbs and bake for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve from the baking dish, garnished with slices of time and sprigs of parsley. Serves 8.

Chicken Charleston

i chicken, cut up 4 tablespoons butter 4 cups chopped onton I clove garlie, minced Salt and freshly ground pepper 2 1/2 teaspoons curry powder 1 cup heavy cream One-third cup dark rum (or brandy)

Hot cooked rice Wash and dry the chicken pieces. Melt the butter in a frying pan and saute the chicken lightly. Lift the pieces onto a plate. Add the onlon and garlic to the pan and cook over medium heat until straw-colored. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place the chicken pieces, skin side down, into the onion mixture. Cover and cook slowly on top of the stove for 15 minutes.

Remove the cover, turn the chicken, and cook slowly, uncovered, for 20 minutes more. Add water if it gets too dry. Remove the chicken from the pan when its juices run golden when stuck with a fork. Keep it

Sprinkle curry powder over the onion and cook a few minutes, stirring, then add the cream and rum. Botl down, stirring, until the sauce is slightly thickened. Taste for seasoning, pour over the chicken and serve with fluffy rice. Serves
