MIDLAND, Texas (UPI) - Jeanica McChare was in stable condition Saturday from her 58-hour ordeal in an abandoned well, but while doctors marveled at her resiliency they were concerned the toddler might face amputation of her right foot Clad in a blue shirt, a diaper, socks and thongs, her face bloody and swathed in bandages, the 18-month-old girl was holated out of the reacue shaft at 8:55 p.m. EDT Friday in the arms of paramedic Steve Forbes.

She had failen into the 8-inch opening of a dry water well shaft while playing in her aunt's backyard at about 10 a.m. Wednesday and became stuck 22 feet underground. For more than two days, rescuers dug a shaft parallel to the well and then bore slowly upward into the cavern where the child was resting.

Pulled from the tunnel to the euphoric cheers of family, friends and dozens of volunteers, Jessica was taken to Midland General Hospital, where doctors were concerned she might face amputation of her right foot because of an area of poor circulation, according to Dr. Carolyn Rhode. While trapped, the girl's right leg was appar-ently wedged parallel with her body in the shaft and her hip was out of position. Rhode asid.

No internal injuries were found and Jeasica's condition was upgraded from actious to stable late Friday, officials anid. She weighed 17.5 pounds, down four pounds from her most recent weighing six weeks ago. The toddler, who slept about 3 ½ hours during the underground odyasey, also suffered from dehydration, minor acrapes and a bruise un her head. Rhode said she undoubtedly will suffer emotional trauma as a result of her ordeal.

"She's kind of bewildered," the doctor said Friday night. "(but) she's a real spunky girl and has done great."

Jessica ate an orange Populcie, the only food she had since her ordeal began, and underwent treatment for 90 minutes in a hyperbaric oxygen chamber designed to speed healing of tissues. Doctors said the blueness in her toes, a possible indication of gangrene, was nearly gone when she came out of the chamber.

When Seminole County Sheriff John Polk. who has held that post 18 years. first ran for office, one of his campaign promises was to develop a Civil Service Board and to gain civil service employment status for most of his staff.

"It was important not just to me, but to law enforcement professionals, to protect their jobs. Under the old system a new sheriff could come in and fire everyone. Every four years deputies had to worry if they were going to lose their jobs. They weren't treated as professionals. I don't think that's right." Polk said.

Other than being available to hear appeals from protesting punished or fired employees. the Civil Service Board also has two other primary responsibilities:

The board develops tests for. and screens, new employment applicants and oversees applicants' interviews by a five-member sheriff's department panel, comprised of various workers representing in most cases the division in which the applicant is seeking to work. The department panel, which always includes one Civil Service Board member, decides who gets hired by the sheriff.

2 Rapists Receive Sentences In Years In Prison

By Deane Jerdan Herald Staff Writer

The two men convicted of attempted murder. kidnapping and robbery of an Altamonte Springs woman were each sentenced to more than 200 years in prison by Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. Friday.

Phillip James Savino, 22, of 107 Pine St., Longwood, was found guilty in August of attempted first-degree murder, kidnapping and robbery. Friday he received a combined sentence of 235 years and 60 days.

Randale Lavaughn Cole, 27, of Orlando, also was found guilty in August of attempted second-degree murder, robbery and kidnapping. Cole received a sentence of 250 years and 60 days.

The guideline-recommended sentence is 17 to 22 years. Assistant State Attorney Tom Hastings said 200-year sentences mean they will have to serve 80 to 90 years which is tantamount to life.

Savino received sentences of 175 years for the kidnapping conviction, 30 years for attempted first-degree murder, 30 years for robbery with a weapon. 30 years for sexual battery, and 60 days for petty theft.

Cole was sentenced to 150 years for armed robbery, 100 years for kidnapping. 15 years for attempted second-degree murder, and 60 days for petty theft.

Savino and Cole were tried separately on charges stemming from the same May 4 incident involving a 26-year-old woman. Police found her abandoned, beaten and near death in a Winter Springs orange grove. The woman was so beaten that initially her identity could not be determined. Her larynx also was fractured and she nearly bled to death.

The woman was located after the car Savino and Cole were in was stopped by an officer because it had an improper temporary license plate.

The Winter Springs officer, along with another officer, noticed the men were blood-splattered and did not believe their story of fighting with each other. The officers also saw a woman's purse in the vehicle and confiscated it. They also found $850 on the floor of the vehicle."

A sheriff's deputy and his police dog were called to the scene, and the woman was located. Barely conscious, she told a sheriff's investigator that two men beat her with a tire iron and intended to kill her. Savino and Cole then were arrested.

The woman testified at their trials that she was so afraid of them, she tried to pay them to leave her alone.

She said she met the men in a bar where she went because she was angry at her husband. They went to a second bar, then to an isolated area in Orange County. She said that after she got out of the car to go to the bathroom, she and Cole began fighting and she tried to escape in the car. Savino, stopping her, then reportedly ordered her to strip or he would kill her. The men then reportedly raped her. Since that allegedly oc-

Longwood To Hear Auto Dealer's Appeal

By Jane Caseelberry Herald Staff Writer

A developer seeking a zoning change on a proposed site for a new Mazda dealership at southwest corner of Highway 17-92 and Orange Avenue in Longwood will get another hearing Monday at the 7:30 p.m. city commission meeting.

The property, originally zoned commercial in the county and when annexed in the city, was later split in the Land Use map with the front part designated C-3 General Commercial and the back 282 feet, R-2 Residential Single Family Duplex.

Leroy Strickland, who is buying the property, is asking that the whole piece be designated C-3. The request was turned down 4-1 on Sept 14 when several residents objected because it would be near the Longwood Elementary School and might present a safety problem for the children coming to and from school.

There is another R-2 zoned piece of property between the dealership site and the school.

With more information available, the commission voted 3-2 on Sept. 28 to give the request a rehearing. Mayor Ed Myers, in voting for the rehearing said the commission had been mialed by opponents of the project at the first hearing.

Stephen Cold, architect with HDS Consultants of Longwood, has been working with the Local School Advisory Committee and the PTA to allay concerns of parents. Cold said he has a child at the school himself.

Cold said there will be no entrance/exit onto Orange Avenue, just onto U.S. Highway 17-92.

and there will not be a traffic hazard for school children as a result of the zoning change.

Public hearings are scheduled on amendments to the non-exclusive commercial garbage franchine with six refuse firms franchised by the city.

Public hearings are also slated for changes in the application fee schedule, ratification of a $380,000 loan from Freedom Savings Bank for the purpose of paving streets.

A proposed interlocal agreement with Seminole County would give Longwood $5,000 from Community Development Block Grant to fund an architectural survey and nominations for historic preservation in the city's Historic District.

City Planner Chris Nagle will ask the City Commission when it meets Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pil because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat parti-cles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

Within 2 days you will notice a change in the color of your stool as the fat particles are being eliminated. "Pills Do All the Work"

According to the doctors, the fatmagnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% asfe. You simply take the

Welfare Cuts Stopped

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Health Secretary Otis Bowen managed to avert "a firestorm of criticism" by taking a rare step to avoid cuts in welfare benefits to poor, elderly and disabled Americans who get charity in food, clothing or shelter.

Bowen hurriedly invoked what he conceded was a "highly unusual waiver" Friday to allow the Social Security Administration to continue omitting charitable donations when computing benefits for Supplemental Security Income recipients. SSA officials had begun to include such contributions in calculating welfare benefits — thereby reducing payments to those affected — because a law enacted May 1, 1983, expired Sept. 30. News of the lapse became public Friday.

In the late 1960s, the League of Women Voters recognized the unique qualities of the Spring Hammock area and campaigned for a bond referendum to finance the purchase of several pieces of land in the area. In 1974, the parcels were purchased and became Soldier's Creek Park.

In 1976, the Environmental Studies Center was established in this park under joint sponsorship of the county school board and county board of commissioners.

Handwriting Expert Says Mother Forged Birth Certificate

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - A federal handwriting expert in a landmark child abuse trial save a mother charged in her daughter's suicide forged the girl's birth certificate so the teenager could dance nude.

Tina Mancini, 17, shot herself to death March 24, 1986. and her mother. Theresa Jackson, 40, is charged with aggravated child abuse, procuring sexual performances by a child and forgery.

Officials say the trial marks the first time an adult has been charged with "mental child abuse" in the case of a teenage suicide. If convicted, Jackson would face a maximum penalty of 25 years in jail.

The state claims Jackson is responsible for her daughter's suicide because she forced the girl to striptease. The prosecution says Jackson forged her father's signature and used his notary seal to alter Mancini's birth certificate to make it appear she was 18, the legal age for nude dancing.

Tom Dewan, an FBI handwriting expert who testified for the state Friday, said he examined samples of Jackson's handwriting and found the samples and the writing on the altered birth certificate were "one in the same."

Mancini put a .357 magnum in her mouth and pulled the trigger 10 days after she began working at Thee Doll House Ill in Pompano Beach.

day's action," said Trude Latimer, analyst at Josephthal & Co.

Last week's selling reflected Wall Street's gathering pessimiom about rising interest rates, inflation and the possibilily that economic growth will prove slower than originally projected, said A. Marshall Acuff Jr. portfolio strategist at Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co.

Heightening investors' fears was a 95.23-point sharp drop in the Dow transportation average. For investors who follow the so-called Dow Theory, a confirmation of a decline in the Dow industrials by the Dow transports means a stronger downtrend might be in place than previously thought.

Acuff said his firm does not believe that the long-term bull market is over, but rather that the declines since late August have turned out to be "a very substantial correction" in line with what has occurred in past bull markets.

"We will continue to are violence and volatility both on the upside and the downside and it will probably take a while to see if the market can sort things out before renewing itself," said

Acuff. He said such a renewal will require the Federal Reserve to adopt a more expansionary monetary policy. Latimer said she believes the worst of the selling is over. 98%.

"The selling Friday was abso-lutely climactic." said Latimer. "Cooler heads will prevail. Over the weekend, people will take a good, hard look at the improved corporate earnings and when that's discussed at Monday morning (investment strategy) meetings, you will begin to see demand develop."

Analysts said program trading had an "obvious" impact on week's decline. "I don't believe we would have

County Officers' Branch Offices To Open

By Brad Church

Herald Staff Writer New branch offices for county constitutional officers in the southwest part of the county will he open the first week of November.

County commissioners approved a lease agreement to locate the offices now at Sand Lake Center and Palm Springs Center to a former savings and loan building in Lochmann's Plaza on State Road 434, almost directly across the highway from Sand Lake Center. Loehmann's Plaza soon will be renamed Shops of Altamonte Springs.

Branch offices for the tax collector, property appraiser (during January and February) and supervisor of elections are now located in Sand Lake Center and a branch office for the clerk of court is located in Palm Springs Plaza.

Montye Beamer, assistant county administrator, said rent for the new quarters will be expected to be complete for all per square foot less than the present quarters at Palm Springs Plaza, and about #2 per square foot less than the present Sand Lake quarters. The two-year lease calls for no payments for the first three months and $5,787.09 per month for the following months, and $5.551.57 per month for the following year.

Remodeling of the building is $12.25 per square feet. 45 cents offices, except perhaps the clerk of court's to move in by Nov. 1. The clerk's employees will be able to move soon afterward, if not at the same time as the other, Beamer said.

The county also plans to open a branch in the eastern part of the county, somewhere between Caselberry and Oviedo. Beamer said quarters for those branch offices will probably be found by next spring.

Officials Warn Unanswored Attack Improve Iran's Hand

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Western officials said an apparent Iranian missile attack on a U.S.-flagged Kuwaiti tanker could improve Iran's hand in the Persian Gulf unless the United States retaliates, but President Reagan refused to say how U.S. forces would respond.

"I cannot and will not discuss what our future action may be, but we're in discussion with the government of Kuwait and it would be very unwise to hint or suggest at anything we might do," Reagan said Friday when asked about a possible U.S. retaliation.

Reagan met in Washington with his top national security advisers to discuss the apparent Iranian Silkworm missile attack early Friday on the Sea Isle City, and spokesman Martin Fitzwater said later no decision had been made.

A Western diplomat in the Persian Gulf said the United States had placed itself in a position where it was likely to be forced to retaliate.

Weathermen Admit Mistake

LONDON (UPI) — Weather forecasters admitted today they made a "terrible mistake" in failing to predict Britain's worst storm in nearly three centuries — a tempest of hurricane-force winds that killed at least 13 people.

Government ministers demanded an urgent report from Britain's Meteorological Office on why it failed to issue warnings of the storm, which hit Britain with winds of up to 110 mph and left the worst devastation since the Nazi bombing bits of World War II.

Based on early estimates, insurance claims for damage could run more than $165 million, the Evening Standard said.

"We've made a terrible mintake." one forecaster said.

The unexpected hurricane-force storm — the worst since 1703 — blew up from the Bay of Biscay south of Britain early Friday, uprooting thousands of trees, wrecking homes and buildings and leaving up to a third of the population without power.

Airliner Crash Cause Sought

COMO, Italy (UPI) — Investigators sought today to determine why a small Italian airliner plunged more than 5,000 feet before crashing into the Italian Alps and killing all 37 people aboard.

The plane, an ATR-42 "Hummingbird" prop-jet operated by Italy's ATI airline, crashed Thursday in the mountains above Lake Como while traveling from Milan to Cologne. West Germany. It was carrying 34 passengers — 29 Germans and five Italians — and a crew of three.

Flight controllers who received a mayday message from the pilot said the two-engine plane suddenly lost 5,250 feet altitude in 30 seconds as it was approaching its cruising altitude of 15,000 feet.

Shuitz, Saudis Meet

JEDDAH. Baudi Arabin (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz met with King Fahd and other Saudi Arabian officials Saturday to discuss the sound relations the two countries maintain amid the escalating war in the Persian Oulf.

Before arriving Saturday in Jeddah, Shultz began his three-day trip to the Middle East Friday in Jerusalem, spending the day in talks with laraeli officials. He is scheduled to fly back to Jerusalem for more talks with laraeli leaders.

and conducts interviews of employees who are seeking promotion. The board evaluates the candidates based on test results and an oral interview. with some consideration given to seniority.

The candidates compete with each other for a limited number of openings to attain rank. The board presents Polk with a tist of those qualified for promotion and he usually promotes from the top of that list, although in some cases Polk has chosen to promote someone who was not at the top of the list because of special qualifications of that candidate, Chief Deputy Duane Harrell and.

Acting independently, the board generally agrees with Polk's decisions and he also complies with decisions of the board, Harrell said.

In the only three cases where employees' appeals of their terminations have been heard by the board, the board upheid Polk's decision.

Later this month the board is scheduled to hear the appeals of two Seminole County jail guards who were fired Sept. 4. after they failed to perform cheeks on juvenile prisoners — as mandated by state law — and falstfied logs asying the checks were made.

In an appeals hearing, both the appellant and the aberill can be represented by legal coursel and can subport witnesses. If the fired employee or the aberill are not satisfied with the board's ruling, their only other recourse is to pursue the case through civil court. The Sanford Herald previously reported that the chairman of the Seminole County Commission would be called on to deside the outcome of a stalemate case, but Harrell and that is not the case.

Charles and a grant a company of the

Under the civil service program the majority of the sheriff's staff have civil service status. The exceptions include his administrative side, the chief deputy, heads of budgeting, personnel, computer services, purchasing and communications along with juil cooks, school crossing guards and courthouse balliffs.

That means they can't be fired without cause and any change in their job status which would change their pay scale or their rankt, can be appealed to the Civil Service Board.

That keeps a new sheriff from being able to come in and "clean house" and bring in a new staff, except for his closest aides. It's a measure that not only gives job security to workers, but also, Harrell said, is the foundation of development of a "professional" department and saves training costs.

After winning his first term as sheriff, Polk took his plan for a civil service program to the Orange-Seminole legislative delegation and won its approval for his proposal, which was also approved by the state lawmakers.

Polk established his department's Civil Service Board with three positions. He selects one board member from his staff and chooses another member who is not affiliated with the sheriff's department.

Those two posts have been held by Shertff's Chief Deputy Duane Harrell and Sanford City Attorney Bill Colbert ance 1970. The third position has been filled by various sheriff's department employees who have been elected to that post by their co-workers.

The terms are for two years, with appointments made and an employee election held every two years. Sheriff's Sgt. Ken Starr helds that elected post. His first term expires in January.

first term expires in January. The employee representative and the sheriff's internal appointee must approve his choice of the "outside" representative. If they didn't agree on the choice, that slot would be filled by the chairman of the Seminole County Commission.

Colbert said that since the early 1970s Civil Service Boards have been established to serve the employees of many Florida government agencies, including the city of Sanford.

"It seems to be effective." Colbert said. "The Civil Service Board is an independent body created by the Legislature. Prior to that, everybody served at the pleasure of the sheriff (within a given sheriff's department) and had no rights. Now, after they pass a probationary period of one year they can be dismissed only for cause. About 96 percent of the staff (including deputies with rank has high as captain) are protected by civil service."

If a civil service employee is fired by the sheriff and feels the firing was unjust he or she can request a hearing by the Civil Service Board. The board has the power to either support the firing or to order the employee remainted.

Harrell said he thinks the reason only five fired employees who have qualifed to appeal have appealed or requested an appeals hearing is because. "I think John Polk goes the second mile and then a third mile sometimes, and by the time he terminates them they don't have much to appeal. Some ought to be glad to get out of here."

"I've never felt intimidated by any of the people, even as a sergeant on the hoard dealing with a lieutenant." Starr said. "When it gets to the board, we're not a sergeant and not the chief deputy. We sit equally and talk frankly. There is no rank.

Harreli said the board worked closely with Polk to develop its operating procedure.

"The board is here to complement the department rather than be a hinderance. We've never had any head-on with the sheriff," Harrell said.

The Saudi armed forces have been on a high alert of readiness for the past two months. Recent Iranian missile attacks have raised that level even higher, according to officials.

World Series Pits Magrane Against Viola

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - The World Berten beginn Saturday night, matching a team that nobudy expected to be there against one that can't un-derstand how it get there. Saturday night's game (3:30 p.m. on Orlando's WFTV-9) will be the first World Series contast ever played indoors and will be attended by 35,000 frenetic fam. waving handkerchiefs called "Homer Hankies" as if they were some kind of state flag. Many of these fans traipsed into the city from the backwoods and farms and stood in line for hours to purchase their Homer Hankies from a local newspaper.

These same fans will make the noise level in the Metrodome so intense that for the first time in World Series history one of the starting pitchers maywear carpluga.

Welcome to the Are You Serious? Series.

Rookie Joe Magrane of the St. Louis Cardinals and veteran Frank Viola of the Minnesota Twins, a pair of left-handers, will be the starting pitchers in the opener of the best-of-seven Series and Magrane said he plans to wear earplugs to help shut out the noise.

"You're always sware of the crowd," he said. "How much of a factor it is depends on how good your concentration is. I think I'm going to wear earplugs to cut down the notee."

The noise will be deafening and start from the opening pitch. "Once all those Swedes and Norwegians learned how much fun it is to make noise, there's been no stopping them." Bill Lester, executive director of the Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission, told the St. Paul Ploneer.

The state has a very heavy case of Twins fever. It is only the club's second World Series appearance ever and first in 22 years. Few expected the team to get by the Detroit Tigers in the American League playoffs. When the Twins won the pen-nant Monday in Detroit, 50,000 fans turned out at the Metrodome to welcome the club

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor Seminole put its Cash on the line Friday night and effectively reversed a football season which was tottering on the brink of bankruptcy.

Sophomore Brandon Cash scored twice on tight end revenues and Seminole's defense turned in yet another goal-line stand as the 'Noles enhanced their state playoff chapters with a dramatic 19-13 District 4A-7 facthed victory over Leesburg before 3,501 fans on Parents' Night at Seminole High School's Stadium.

The previous three weeks, Seminole had put up the big numbers statistically, but had failed to get into the end zone in crucial situations, resulting in three successive actbacks.

Now that the Twins are in the Series the fans will do their part to help them win it.

"I was overwhelmed by the whole thing," said 'Twins' third baseman Gary Gaetti. "There was a feeling of mutual respect between the players and the fans. I couldn't hold my emotions. It says a lot for the people of Minnesota."

Viola hopes the thrill of pitching the first game of the World Series won't adversely affect him

"We just have to approach it as another regular season game," Viola said. "The biggest thing I learned in the playoffs is you have to control your adrenalin flow. You have an unbelievable high to start off with. Then by the sixth or seventh inning you're drained and that leads to being physically tired. You have to stay in control and stay within yourself."

Viola will not be facing the same Cardinal team that dominated the National League during the first half of the season. In fact, the team that will take the field tonight bears only a slight resemblance to the one that beat the San Francisco Giants for the NL pennant.

Jack Clark, the club's leading slugger who missed the last month of the regular season and the playoffs with torn ligaments in his right ankle, has been removed from the post-sesson roster. His place has been taken by pitcher Lee Tunnell.

The Cardinala also will be without the services of third baseman Terry Pendleton for most of the Series. Pendleton, who has a pulled muscle in his rib cage, will remain on the roster as a designated hitter against right-handed pitching.

It will be up to the bench and players like Tom Lawless, who starts at third base tonight, Jose Oquendo and Jim Lindeman to pull the Cardinals through. They did a first class job during the playoffs, a turn of events that greatly surprised St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog.

'We've been able to overcome things all season long." said Pendleton. .....

COOK: CARDS IN 5 - Time for Minnesota to begin playing like the Twinkles again. Look for St. Louis to take World Series in five games.

Offensive coordinator Emory Blake said it was time to add a new wrinkle in order to break the plane. "We had been able to get down to the goal line in those game, but not get in." Blake said. "They were reading the first thing, so we needed something to show them the lead (dive play) and then reverse it."

The victory halted a three-game losing streak as Seminole improved to 3-3 overall and 2-0 in 4A-7. Leesburg (0-5, 0-2) dropped another close one. The hard-luck Yellow Jackets have lost two one-pointers, one six-pointer and a seven-pointer.

More importantly for the Noles, the victory moved them one-half game ahead of Oviedo in 4A-7. After a Friday off, Seminole can win the district with a victory over Oviedo Friday, Oct. 30. Oviedo, which dropped a 10-7 decision to Lyman Friday, can win the district by beating Seminole and Orlando Edgewater (Nov. 13).

"This was the big win," Seminole coach Roger Beathard said. "The new season started tonight. The defense had to bend but not break (on the goal-line stand) and then the offense mixed its plays and went 99 vards."

The goal-line stand, incidentally, was Seminole's third of the season. In each game when the defense has supplied a back-to-the-wall effort, Seminole's offense has come alive to pull out the victory.

The biggest defensive hero Friday was unheralded Ron Cox, who replaced Steve Warren at middle linebacker after Warren quit the team. The hard-hitting junior turned in a ton of tackles and on one fourth-quarter series, threw Lee Hanks for a four-yard loss before sacking quarterback David Fischer for 12 yards om the next down. Hanks, making his first appearance to me one more time," defensive coordinator Bill Zeiss said. "(Ralph) Hardy and (Randy "Pork") Bryant scraped away the blockers, then the linebackers got him."

Offensively, the contributions were as many as on defense. Along with Cash's scoring runs of 13 and 9 yards, quarterback Jeff Blake put together his best performance in four weeks. Blake, a rifle-armed senior, completed 9 of 13 passes for 190 yards and one touchdown without an interception. Wide receiver Terrance Eady, the county's leading receiver, caught four serials for 69 yards. Junior halfback Jerod Jones continued his steady play, rushing for 40 yards and catching a 42-yard scoring toss from Blake. Senior fullback Curtis Rudolph picked up the tough, inside yardage.

The Blake-to-Jones' fullback swing pass crased a 3-0 Leesburg lead, courteay of a Rick Rausch field goal with 4:15 left in the first half. Blake, who concentrated on throwing shorter routes. found Eady for 15 yards to the Leesburg 42. On the next down, Blake, under heavy pressure, just got the ball away to Jones on the sideline. The shifty junior shed a tackler and then juked past the last defender for the go-ahead score. J.J. Partlow booted the PAT for a 7-3 lead with 3:02 left in the first half.

"The play was designed to shoot up the field." Jones said. "I knew Jeff was getting pressured, so I looked back. After I got the ball. I just leaned. forward like I was going inside. Then, I went by him."

Leesburg, though, came right back, using a 13-yard run by Flacher, a 17-yard scat by Hanks

"I'm starting to believe," 110 said of Tysons' ability. With promotor Butch Lewis at his side, however. Spinks quickly reasserted his conifidence in his ability to stop Tyson's seemingly invincible march to legendary status.

"He's got to hit you, though." Spinks said. "I'll do everything I can. I'm gonna be throwing punches all night. Whatever he gives me, I'll take. I'm not afraid of him.

"I never could take punches too well. I can sure dish them out, though. If he acts like he did tonight, I'll dish them out all night. I'll do whatever it takes to win."

Holmes struck a more conventional pose, choosing to discredit the young champion.

'Mike Tyson was dirtier than I've ever seen him." Holmes said.

Valdosta: Georgia Town 'Does Football Right'

VALDOSTA, Ga. (UPI) - In the South, serious thinkers have determined, football is partly entertainment and mostly religion.

How else could Alabama faithful believe Bear Bryant is still able to call an occasional fourth-and-goal for the Crimson Tide?

But if college football is church to Southern pigskin fans, then high school football is a spirited version of Sunday school. And the game is played with no more devout spirit than at Valdosta High School, where faith runs deep and so does winning.

Self-proclaimed as "the winningest football team in America," Valdosta might get an argument from America's other prep powerhouses. But no doubter can deny autumn Friday nights are a wholly different ballgame in Valdosta, where, in sheer passion, the high school - Sam Cook and city stand second to none.

"This community just loves its football," said Bud Hatcher, a former Valdosta player (halfback-defensive end, class of 1961) and current president of the Valdosta Touchdown Club. "I don't really know how to explain it. People around here just live for Friday nights."

The first thing anyone needs to know about Valdosta and football is the Wildcats lose about as often as it snows in south Georgia.

Said Hatcher, "We try to be good losers, but we haven't had a lot of practice at it."

including the first five games (all wins) this season, Valdosta has posted a record of 624-129-33 in the 72 years it has fielded teams. The Wildcats have won 32 regional championships, 19 state titles and the mythical national championship five times, including last season.

Valdosta has known only 11 head coaches, all of whom left Valdosta winning 19 of 24 with a winning record. Indeed, the Wildcats have suffered only four losing seasons since 1913 and have outscored their opponents by a staggering 14,000 points over the years. Dozens of Wildcat players have won college scholarships.

No matter who's doing the figuring, the numbers add up impressively.

"We've pretty much held our own against everybody except Valdosta," said Joe Wilson, head coach of nearby Lowndes County High School, the Wildcats' chief rival.

Many football people, particularly Wilson, who played for Valdosta in the early 1950s, consider Lowndes-Valdosta the best state rivalry this side of Georgia-Georgia Tech. But it has been a one-sided rivalry with games. However, Lowndes is in exclusive company; only seven teams have beaten Valdosta more than five times in more than seven decades. Said Wilson in admiration, "Valdosta does football right." ....

The highway leading into Valdosta - a city of fewer than 40,000 merely a screen pass from the Florida border and much closer to Alabama than Atlanta - is paved with giant white paw prints. This is Wildcat country and the community never lets anyone forget it.

A billboard near Interstate 75 declares Valdosta as "Winneraville U.S.A." Valdosta also is known as the "Azalca City," but football, not flowers, is the main topic of conversation. "It's hard to carry on a regular conversation with anybody, said Matt Butler, a Wildcat sophomore offensive lineman. "Everybody wants to talk foot-ball. But that's OK. I like seeing the sparkle in their eyes." And with good reason. Head Coach Nick Hyder, now in his 14th season as the secondwinningest coach in Valdosta history, figures his football program generates $250,000 in revenue each year from season' tickets to its 13,000-seat stadium, game programs, Wildcat paraphernalia and other fund-raising projects.

That kind of money lets the Wildcats enjoy such extravagances as a traveling 200-piece marching band and a $100,000 weight room.

But money cannot buy high school players even at Valdosta. so the Wildcats do it for the most part with exceptional coaching. grass-roots player development from pee wee leagues on up and tradition, an ingredient that has no price tag.

'You don't buy tradition," said Hyder. "It's something you carn.

'Scabs' Pack Bags; Coaches Open Door

United Press International Like a play with an encore nobody wants to watch, the NFL stages its final act of strikebreaking games Sunday and Monday, with the players, owners and fans looking forward to the replacing of the replacements. The strike ended too late for most of the regulars to play this weekend, but the NFL should return to normal - at least on the field - in another week. This week's games will feature Lawrence

Taylor, Eric Dickerson and Joe Montana in uniform alongside a bunch of players who soon will be packing their bags.

"It's the greatest feeling in the world that they're coming back." and Chicago Coach Mike Ditks, no doubt speaking for all 28 NFL head conches.

But the fifth game of this 15-week season will be the third in which mostly non-union players represented NFL teams. The owners used the replacement teams to force the players back without an agreement but sacrificed a great deal of the 1987 season's integrity.

"This whole season will have a big fat asterisk." New York Giants linebacker Harry Carson said. "Some people are bitter lover the strike). And it's across the league." Even some of the non-union players, who drew three paychecks during the strike, are relieved it

"That's what everyone wants," said Eddie Hunter, a running back cut in pre-season by the New York Jets and brought back during the strike. "They want to see the real guys, the veteran guys. This has been a good experience for

The season resumes with the Super Bowl champion Giants the league's only winless team at 0-4 and the Bears the lone 4-0 team. Other surprises so far are Houston. San Diego and Dallas, all 3-1, and the 1-3 Los Angeles Rams. As happened last week, games Sunday probably will have some mismatches created by an inbalance of regulars playing. "If these players' chances of playing in the playoffs are affected by these (replacement) games, it's their own fault," Miami owner Joe Robbie said of the strikers. On Sunday, it's New Orleans at Chicago, the

Monday night, Washington is at Dallas,

At Buffalo, the Giants will try to salvage what is becoming a lost season. Outside linebacker Taylor, the league's best player last year, and backup quarterback Jeff Rulledge returned by the Wednesday deadline and can play. #### UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK - The 24-day NFL players' strike showed fans the value of good planning, the power of television and the strength of 28 rich men with the common goal of getting richer. - The players failed to best use their power as a bargaining unit. Shaking hands at midfield was as powerful a sign of solidarity as wearing the union label inside your collar.

If the players really wanted to demonstrate power, they should have walked off the job before, and not after, the Jets-Patriots Monday night game on Sept. 21.

Better yet, they should have come out for the game and just sat on the bench. There on national television, with millions watching, would have been 90 players sitting on the sideline. Then Gene Upshaw should have went to the ABC booth and asked Frank. Al and Dan one simple question: "Who is the game?"

- Next time Pete Rozelle says he is the commissioner of all the NFL, watch if his nose grows. Where was Rozelle to protect the players when the owners refused to pay them or let them play this week? How is the "integrity" of the game being upheld this weekend when substitutes are playing when the real players are willing to?

If Rozelle was really the commissioner of the players, not just management, he would have said. 'Nice try fellas' to the owners and allowed the players back this week. - The players' sense of when and how to fight wasawful First, why strike after two weeks when players have had only a pair of paychecks to fall back on and the season has not progressed to the point to put pressure on owners. What if the players would have struck after 14 weeks? It's unlikely the owners would have brought in "replacement" players to hold a playoff and Super Bowl. That would have created great pressure on the owners to settle in time for their glamour events.

Second, if Upshaw really has intentions of becoming a lawyer, he has much to learn. Every good lawyer knows you never ask a question you don't know the answer to. In this case, Upshaw pulled a strike without a clear view of what type of outcome there might be.

Third, the players let themselves get pushed into defending an issue, free agency, that the owners would never cave in on and the public could never support. The players needed to speak more, and with greater passion, about pension and health benefits. Few fans can come to grips with a player averaging $230,000 a year wanting more money. Public opinion would be strong though if the union humanized issues. Remember players have sick children, too.

- The New York Giants and New York Jets don't play in New York anymore, the Los Angeles Rams and the Los Angeles Raiders don't play in Los Angeles, the Daltas Cowboys don't play in Dallas, the Colts left Baltimore for Indianapolis and the Houston Oilers and St. Louis Cardinals are looking seriously at Jacksonville, Fla., and Phoenix, Ariz.

"We made a lot of mistakes last week, and we can't afford to make them against some of these other teams that we will be playing in the next few weeks." Slack, who threw for 1,799 yards as a junior, had his poorest outing of the season last week as he was 10 for 27 for 150 yards' and a touchdown. He also threw two interceptions, raising his interception total to 10 for the year. "We throw so many passes" that we expect to be intercepted once or twice a game." McDowell said. # Farrier's Jaunt Breaks Lyman Past Lions, 10-6

By Chris Floter Serald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD - Victor Farrier's 41-yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter, the only big play in a game domi-nated by the defenses, gave Lyman's Greyhounds a 10-6 victory over Oviedo's Lions in Seminole Athletic Conference action Friday night before 3.301 fans at Lyman High.

With its third consecutive victory over Oviedo, Lyman improved to 3-2 overall and 1-2 in the SAC. The Greyhounds host Spruce Creek in a District 5A-4 game this Friday. "The defensive kids played their best game tonight and they all deserve the game ball," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "Oviedo carried the fight to us in the first half and at halftime we challenged the kids to go out and play their hardest in the second half. They accepted the challenge." Ovido saw its record even out at 3-3 overall while the Lions dropped to 1-2 in the conference. do is idle this week, then 0.0 has a crucial District 4A-7 game on/Oct. 30 at Seminole.

"We had a couple opportunities that we didn't capitallse on," Oviedo coach Jack Bianton said. "In a good defensive game like this, you have to take advantage when you get the chance.'

Oviedo took advantage of only one of three Lyman turnovers in the first half but the Lions' defense made the 6-0 lead stand ug for nearly three and a half quarters. Lyman pulled within 6-3 with 8:45 left to play and the Gieyhounds' defense enabled the offense to get the ball back with 6:58 remaining.

drive. Farrier got the drive going with 10 yards on three carries and Steven Jerry then ran twice for 12 yards and a first down at midfield.

Oviedo's Emery Sneed then made a big defensive play as he sacked Mike McNamee for an 11-yard loss. Farrier, though. came back with a determined 12-yard run and Jerry picked up seven more, but it was still one-yard shy of the first down.

On fourth and one at the Oviedo 41. Farrier got the call up the middle but Oviedo plugged the hole in a hurry. Farrier. though, bounced to the outside, bolted into the open and ran untouched for the 41-yard TD with 1:27 left in the game. Greg Fulsang added the conversion for a 10-6 lead and the defense snuffed out Oviedo's last chance drive to seal victory.

"We were going for the first down on the touchdown play but I told Vic (Farrier) to get everything he could out of it." Scott said. "He has the ability to make that kind of run because he has good leg power and can bounce off tackles and keep driving."

Farrier picked up 85 of his 113 yards rushing in the fourth quarter and scored his ninth touchdown of the season. His earlier run of 20 yards, the second biggest offensive gain of the game, set up a 24-yard field goal by Fulsang with just under nine minutes left to play.

While Farrier and the Lyman offense finally got on track in the fourth period, the two teams locked up in a hard-nosed, no-holds-barred defensive battle for three quarters.

Lineman Andy Palmer and linebackers Willie Pauldo and Pete Lingard led the charge as Oviedo held Lyman to practically nothing in the first three quarters. Oviedo held the Hounds to just 191 yards total offense with more than half of that coming in the fourth quarter.

"Pauldo and Lingard are two of the best around," Scott said. "I think Oviedo has a real good shot at winning their district. Oviedo may be only 4A but they are as tough as any 5A team in the conference."

For Lyman, linebacker John Scherpf and linemen K.C. Roberson and David Kendrick had their biggest games of the season as Lyman held the Lions scoreless the last three and a half quarters. The Greyhounds limited Oviedo to just 113 yards total offense.

'The kids came out and got physical, especially on defense, in the second half." Scott said. "It seemed like every kid who played defense for us came up with at least one big play."

Lyman's defense had to make a lot of big plays in the early going to keep Oviedo from blowing the game wide open. The Hounds held tough on Oviedo's first possession and forced a punt but Lyman's Oviedo's Chad Duncan as Chris Radcliff, left, and John Scherpf arrive on the scene. Steven Jerry mishandled it and Hector Diaz recovered for Oviedo at the Lyman 24.

Oviedo drove to the nine where, on third down, quarterback Matthew Blanton pitched to Frank Diaz who swept around left end for a nine-yard touchdown, his first of the season, with 3:02 left in the first quarter. Oviedo faked the extra point and Mike McCurdy's pass fell in and out of the hands of his receiver and the two-point effort fatled.

Oviedo got the ball back three plays later when Chuck Lee pound senior defensive tackle, for a five-yard loss. Scherpf also had one sack for an eight yard caused Petiti to lumble on the loss, one tackle for no gain and play and John Spolski recovered one for loss of yardage. He was a for Lyman.

"We were playing our regular major factor in holding the Lions defense," Scherpf said, "On the "David (Kendrick) has been first sack, nobody blocked me at coming along well the past few all. On the second one, I was first downs in the second half games." Scott said. "But he had blocked but I got around it and and the offense finally got on Scherpf, Roberson, Kendrick: 3 Defenders To Remember territory and had a second down when Pettit dropped back to pass. Pettit tried to go over the middle but Roberson batted it down at the line of scrimmage.

Lyman's defense held Oviedo to just 49 total yards and three track in the fourth quarter as Greg Fulsang kicked a 24-yard field goal and Victor Farrier broke off a 41-yard touchdown run. It is Farrier's outstanding run that fans will remember most about Friday night's game, but the game-winning score would not have been possible without the impressive defensive play by the Greyhounds' no longer no name defense.

"The defense played a super game." Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "They came out and played hard-nosed football and held a very good team scoreless for three quarters."

Lyman's only scoring opportunity of the first half came after John Spolski recovered an Oviedo fumble at the Oviedo 42. The Hounds got down to the 21 but Fulsang's 38-yard field goal attempt fell short with 2:17 left in the half.

Oviedo had one more acoring on the last play of the half. Johnny Luce intercepted Pettit's Hail-Mary pass.

Valdosta

Hyder feels fortunate to still be pert of the Valdosta tradition. In 1974, he succeeded a coach, Charlie Greene, who was 17-3 in two seasons and then run off for "philosophical differences." Of course, Greene had followed Wright Bazemore, who in 28 asons won 268 games and 16 state titles.

Hyder came to Valdosta from West Rome High School in north Georgia to "rebuild" the Wildcate and their legendary reputation. His first season, Hyder dismissed a dozen players for disciplinary reasons and the Wildcats finished 3-7. The nátives were restless.

"But you know, that might be my proudest year of coaching." Hyder recalls, "because that team could easily have been 0-10."

Valdosta rebounded the next senson, winding up 10-2, and Hyder's teams have lost only 13 games in the last 11 years. He recently became the first coach in Georgia history to win 200 gimes in only 20 seasons. But, as Hyder still discovers, some legends are more entrenched than others.

<sup>PI</sup> was at a funeral the other day and these two nice little old lattics came up to me," Hyder mid. "They asked, 'Are you Nick Hyder?' I said I was. Then they neid, just as serious as could be, 'Ch, it's so nice to meet the new conch."

"I guess to some people I'll always be the new coach."

Besides money, fame and glory, football has brought something else to Valdosta. Harmony. A traditional Deep South town, Valdosta was no stranger to racial tensions of past decades. But Hyder says football, with blacks and whites blocking for

"I think history will show that football has taught us how to live together," said Hyder.

their town, helped smooth a rocky road.

"The Supreme Court told us we had to live together, but they didn't tell us how," he said. "That's what football has done for this community."

On another level, Valdosta football seems to send the entire community off the deep end of fanaticiam. Season tickets for seats on the home side of Cleveland Field are handed down from generation to generation. The Touchdown Club has more than 1,200 members. some of whom no longer live in the same time zone, and fans line up to hear Hyder narrate game films each week.

Dozens of townspeople routinely show up to watch Valdosta practice: Hyder does not believe in blocking sleds or tackling dummles, only contact. One recent afternoon, a man who said he was a building contractor taking a few hours off kept a close watch from the sideline.

"I could be over at my girlfriend's house," he said. "But there are nine months out of the year when there's no football when I can be over there. This is the high point of my year." The man asked not to be identified. ....

Valdosta's long-running success is no big secret.

It starts with the coaching staff, typically a highly transient unit in high school. But not this group. Veterans all, the Valdosta assistant coaches have spurned numerous high school and college offers to stay. In the last 12 years, there has been only one coaching change.

Even more amazing is the feeder program. From the time boys are in grade school, they each other under the banner of "hear about the virtues of being a Wildcat. Hundreds of youngsters heed the call, learning the game in recreation department leagues that use the Valdosta style and terminology.

Interest is so high at the junior high that four complete teams are fielded. By the time they reach high school, the players are thoroughly versed in the Valdosta system and there are enough quality players for two virtually equal teams, which means lots of rested Wildcats and lots of weary opponents.

These kids grow up craving to be Wildcats," Hyder said. "You can see it in their little eyes when they look up at you."

Hyder believes the biggest key of all is the list of priorities he preaches to his players day in and day out.

"God, Family, Academics, Friends, Wildcats," scribbled on a lockerroom chalkboard in that order, is Hyder's philosophy in a nutshell.

At a team meeting prior to practice, Hyder gathers his 90 players to discuse the coming opponent. But he starts by mentioning a Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting and a potential problem that has surfaced.

"Fellas, there are several young men on this team who are struggling with selfish egos." Hyder said. The rest of his talk is a combination sermon-pep talk and before it's over he's made the opponent sound like the Lombardi Packers.

Sufficiently inspired, the Wildcats head for the practice field and an afternoon of headbanging among themselves.

At a school that would even consider dumping a 17-3 coach. the flame never goes out on the hot seat. But Hyder dismisses talk of any pressure. However, he acknowledges a little misgiving over the reputation that precedes Valdosta.

'My biggest problem is sports writers who make people get mad at me if we don't have 14 points on the board before we even kick off," Hyder said.

But, Hyder conceded, with tradition comes an assumption of winning. He was asked what might happen if hard times hit and there were several 3-7 seasons in the future.

"Well," Hyder mused, "I don't think they'd let me hang around long enough to find out.

Louisville's Major Math Exam: 110-point Edge For Seminoles

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A quick math check shows that when Southern Mississippi played Louisville, they won by 59 points, and when Florida State played Southern Miss, they came out 51 points ahead.

So does that mean the seventh-ranked Seminoles should be 110-point favorites when they play Louisville Saturday night in Doak Campbell Stadium? Coach Bobby Bowden is trying to downplay the apparent overwhelming superiority of his Seminoles.

"it's like i've always said, when you're a top 10 team everybody wants to get after you," nowden said. "Beating us could make Louisville's entire season." After losing 65-6 to Southern Miss Oct. 3, the Cardinals came right back with an unspired 34-31 joss to Marshall to fail to 2-3-1. Louisville also has a 25-0 loss to Cincinnati on its record.

The Seminoles are one of the country's strongest leams, with a heart-breaking one-point loss to Miami the only blemtsh on their 5-1 record. And it seems as if the Seminole players recognize that the most dangerous thing they could do to overlook Louisville.

"I think a team can beat any team on any given Saturday," said tailback Sammle Smith, who has rushed for 662 yards this year, averaging nearly 8 yards a carry. "We'll take the same approach we've taken for the past six Saturdays. We'll work hard and try o go out and play well next week. We're going to try and make it a 10-1 season and see where we can go from there."

NBC's Vin Scully, a veteran of this type of criticism, once noted he received angry letters from fans of both sides in a World Series he covered.

'They both thought I was favoring their team." Scully said. "Got letters from both sides, too. I thought I was being impartial but I guess there is no such thing in this case."

Scully got a reminder last week in his coverage of the National League Championship Series between St. Louis and San Francisco. In the first game, he made a seemingly innocent reference to a ground-rule dou-ble in the eighth inning of a game.

"You'd have thought Vin said something really obscene. The reaction from the St. Louis fans was unbelievable," said NBC spokesman Kevin Monaghan. 'We were getting calls all day.'

St. Louis talk shows were filled with callers more upset about Scully's alleged bias than the results of the games.

In Detroit, angry commentators on local radio stations complained that NBC was picking on Kirk Gibson by showing so many close-ups of the Tiger outfielder after a strikeout or a bad play.

The incidents weren't the first. nor will they be the last, of their kind.

Said Dick Stockton, who handled the playoffs for CBS radio: "The World Series, the playoffs, the Super Bowl, they are all in the focus of national attention. Fans of the teams involved listen extra carefully."

Jack Buck, who will do the World Series for CBS radio. knows the other side as well. A popular figure in announcing the Cardinal games on their 120station network for the past 30 years, Buck understands loyalty.

Missing Cards Deal Matchups In Twins' Favor

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - The absence of St. Louis first baseman Jack Clark and the possibility third baseman Terry Pendleton may be of imited use could be important factors in the World Series.

Without Clark, who has torn ankle ligaments, Minnesota has a big edge at first base in Kent Hrbek both offensively and defensively. Hrbek is regarded as better defensively, anyway. If Pendleton is limited because of a pulled hamstring muscle, Minnesota has a bigger edge. St. Louis pitching does not fit the Minnesota batting order well overall because of the presence of five left-handed Twins.

Shertstee ST. LOUIS — "The Wizard of Oz," Ozzie Smith, may be getting older but it's still going to be another 3 to 4 years before he comes down to the level of his peers. His offense has perhad up markedly in recent seasons, especially since Manager Whitey Herzog put him high in the betting order. MINNESOTA — Greg Gagne is one of the most underrated players at his position in the American League. Has some pop in his bat and is a far better fielder than most give him credit for. St. Louis speedsters try to shoot by him. EDGE: Cardinals. But don't overlook Gagne's importance to the Twins. He could be the key player in the series. Twins. He could be the key player in the series. Third Base ST. LOUIS — Pendleton is a good fielder and has improved a good deal from his first Series appearance in 1985. A good hitter. Hurt an ankle in San Francisco, then pulled a hamstring muscle in St. Louis. Tom Lawless may see some action. MINNESOTA — Gary Gaetti showed the country in the AL playoffs just how good he is — deserving of his Gold Glove and worthy of being the playoff MVP. Just an excellent, mistake-free player.

EDGE : Twins, even if Pendleton is at full strength.

Catcher ST. LOUIS — Tony Pena rebounded from a poor regular season to have an excellent NL playoff. Easy to overlook in the lineup, he can hurt you. #### By Sam Coo Herald Sports Editor

Victory is just a goal-line stand away. Strange but true for Sanford's Fighting Seminoles in 1967. In each game they have held on fourth-and-1, the offense has jelled thereafter and provided a victory.

• The first stand came against Titusville Astronaut. Seminole won, 28-0, so it did not appear to be earth-shaking, but solid hits by Leonard Lucas, Ron Blake and Earnie "Sackman" Lewis kept the War Eagles off the scoreboard.

Later, coach Roger Beathard called the stand - four running plays inside the 3-yard line - the "turning point of the ball game."

• The second stand came against Orlando Edgewater. There was no doubling the importance of No. 2. The Eagles held a 20-15 advantage and were knocking on victory's door. This time, Steve Warren and Paul Newell combined to dump Luther Walls short of the goal line.

The courageous stand immediately innired the of ne Quarter

Smart, Garrett Prime; Indiana Bid To Defend

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) -The trony of Indiana's bid for a second straight college basketball title is that the Hoosiers are in a far better position to succeed this time.

Just go back a year, when questions were numerous and options limited. Last season the sources started practice with two unproven junior college newcomers, both of whom were needed as starters. There was little depth and the team had to reestablish its self-esteem after being knoched out by Cleveland State in the first round of the 1986 NCAA Tournement.

This year, the questions are few. Once untested Keith Smart and Dean Gerrett are established college stars. Depth is a strength, particularly in the frontcourt, where Coach Bob Knight has several lineup combinations to try. And, the national title was the ultimate answer to any doubts of Indiana's grit.

The Housiers aren't openly talking of a second straight title. but they are resolved and far more confident about the opportunity to become the first school since UCLA in 1973 to take back-to-back championships.

"I think we can be at the Final Four again." said Ricky Calloway, a junior forward on a personal mission to erase memories of an inconsistent sophomore scago

Basketball

"If you had asked me last year at this time, I probably wouldn't have said that. At this point, we didn't know how Dean and Keith would come along. Now, we have Dean and Keith and we have guys on the bench we know can step in and do the job."

For now, the priority question to how much indiana will mise Steve Alford, who provided both the fuel and fire to last season's 30-4 record. Alford not only led the scoring (22 points a game). he was the leader.

Much of Alford's scoring will he picked up by Smart, who was MVP of the Final Four and hit the winning shot to beat Syracuse 74-73. Smart will take over Alford's role as the focal point of Indiana's motion offense and, though he can't match Alford's shooting range. Smart is a superior athlete who needs fewer screens and picks than did

"Keith has so much more confidence now," Calloway said. "If you look at our season, Keith only had one outstanding game fore the tournament started He just did what he had to do, get the ball to the right people and score when he was open.

"Then, the Syracuse game and the Pan American trials is where he started asserting himself. At the trials, nobody could handle him, none of the guards could handle him."

Garrett, who led Indiana in rebounds and blocks, also has improved. Veterans Steve Kyl, Todd Jadlow and Magnus Pelkowski will vie for minutes vacated by Daryl Thomas. And Joe Hillman, a fourth-year junior, gets the first chance to fill Alford's leadership void.

The newcomers are more of a luxury this time, but forward Mark Robinson, a junior college transfer, and freshmen guards Jay Edwards and Lyndon Jones have the talent to contribute.

Indiana's trump card could be Calloway. He was UPI's Big Ten Freshman of the Year two seasons ago when he averaged 14 points. Then came a difficult second year - three injuries within 10 months, tentative and hesitant play, and finally a benching from Knight for the final home game against Ohio State.

The benching had an effect. Calloway came in and scored 20 points in 24 minutes.

found Eady for 19 yards and Jerry Governali for 28 yards to the Leesburg 23-yard line. Blake's 10-yard scamper pushed the ball to the Leesburg 13.

On the next play. Blake handed the ball to fullback Rudolph who headed toward the right end. Cash, lining up on the right side, broke across the backfield, took the handoff from Rudolph and followed a Blake and Jones escort around the left end and into the end zone.

"The offensive line just has to turn the defense away from the play." Seminole guard Kevin Straub said. "The two blockers out front do the rest."

Cash's second romp into the end zone came even easier. Getting there, however, took a determined effort. "We were only six inches from the goal line." QB Blake said about Seminole's field position following the goal-line stand. "I told the backs. 'Get what you can and the receivers and me will get the rest."

Which is exactly what happened.

Blake sliced for two before Jones bolted for three to the Seminole 6. Blake then found Eady with a slant for 18 yards and a first down at the Seminole 14. Jones then went off left tackle for 15 yards to the Seminole 39.

After Blake's only misfire of the second half, the 6-11/2 senior came back to Eady for 15 yards to the Leesburg 46. Jones then got off a 12-yarder before Blake loacted Rudolph for 15 yards to the Leesburg 34.

With five minutes to play, Jones and Rudolph each picked up five yards to the Leesburg 9. On the next play, Cash cruised around the left side.

'They were so big, we couldn't run straight at them." Beathard said. "But they were stepping up (into the hole) real quick. A little mis-direction was all it took."

Cash agreed. "There was nobody else around." he said. "I just 'Cadillaced' it In."

Which is a pretty nice ride after three weeks of Toyotas.

fullback Curtis Rudolph and halfback Jerod Jones promptly moved the 'Noles 99 yards for the go-ahead score. Blake's 36-yard screen pass to Jones culminated the touchdown drive.

The third stand came Friday night. almost certly. The goal-line stand squeiched off a Leesburg touchdown attempt at the 8:46 mark of the fourth quarter. The game was tied at that juncture, but the Yellow Jackets were on the move via quickstepping Lee Hanks to the Seminole 3.

Facing a third-and-3. Hanks tried the middle. He managed two yards before Lewis buried him at the Seminole 1. "We knew who they were going to go to" on fourth down." Zeiss said alluding to Hanks.

Sure enough, quarterback David Flacher tried Hanks up the middle but Ralph Hardy and Randy "Pork" Bryant stripped Hanks of any blockers. Then, it was open season for Lewis, Cox, Lucas and Ron Blake. They mauled Hanks with the "gang of gang tackles."

"We were in our 6-5 defense," Lucas said. "We knew we had to fire out on them. The defense just stuck in there."

And then the offense stuck it to Leesburg. going 99 yards in 11 plays and using Brandon Cash's tight end reverse for nine yards and winning TD. The score put Seminole up, 19-13. Leesburg did not cross midfield on its next possession.

"There were butterflies everywhere before the snap," Lewis said about Leesburg's fourth-down effort. "This was the season, this was the season, right here. Everybody just blew open the holes. Ralph (Hardy) and "Pork" (Bryant) did a great job and the rest of us just dove on him."

And rescued a chance for the state playoffs.

O'Meara Solves Two-Thirds Of Puzzle

LAKE BUENA VISTA - Mark O'Meara of Escondido, Calif., has solved two-thirds of the $600,000 Walt Disney World Classic puzzle.

The tournament, played on three different courses over a four-day period, has 54 separate greens, fairways and hazards to learn. O'Meara went into today's third round with a a 36-hole total of 13-under 131, shooting rounds of 63 and 68 on two different courses. Veteran Bob Gilder, 36, was one stroke off the pace at 12-under after shooting a sizzling 65 at the 6.763-yard Lake Buena Vista course, considered the easiest of the three Disney layouts.

Both players have made the most of their opportunities, scoring well at the Buena Vista course, where O'Meara shot his opening round 63, and avoiding disaster at the more difficult courses. Both O'Meara and Gilder have played the first two rounds without a bogey.

Despite the difficulty of adjusting to the different courses and particularly the different greens, Gilder says some things remain constant.

'If you're not putting well, you don't make birdies," he said. "It doesn't matter how short or long the holes are."

Third-year pro Andrew Magee shot a 67 at the 7,190-yard

Magnolia course and stood alone in third place at 11-under. Magee made only one bogey. Veteran star Tom Kite led a group of four players at 10-under par. Kite, long noted for his consistency, broke the pattern somewhat by firing a 65 on the Magnolia after settling for an opening 69 at Lake Buena Vista.

Don Pooley, who won the prestigious Vardon Trophy in 1985, and South Africa's David Frost fired 65s Friday on Buena Vista after opening on the 6,957-yard Palm course with rounds of 69.

Steve Pate completed the quartet at 10-under. He opened with a 66 at Lake Buena Vista and followed with a 68 on Magnolta.

7 Shows In 7 Weeks Artist Paints A Unique Look To Her Works

By Buson Loden Herald Staff Writer

Senford artist Sherry Lynn Lee mixes the traditional look of her watercolor Florida landscapes and nature studies with odd touches that transform her realistic perspective into the abstract. Her themes vary, and some of her paintings are more traditional views of Florida waterways, greenery and flowers. But to most works she adds series of mini pictures within the pictures. These white-edged mini pictures, along with stripes that are added across some backgrounds, are a visual surprise and give those completed works greater complexity and a more abstract feel, especially when viewed from afar.

It's a unique look, which last weekend won Lee a Fine Arts Award of Honor at the Winter Park Autumn Art Festival at Rollins College.

That was the kickoff of fail arts exhibitions which for seven consecutive weekends will put Lee and her paintings on display at seven festivals in Central Florids. This weekend she's scheduled for the Maitland Art Festival and the following weekend her work will be seen at the Licke Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts at Heathrow.

This spring. Lee won first place at the Coconut Grove Art Festival and a merit award at the Mount Dora Arts Festival. Those awards top a list of various awards won during the last two years, by Lee who during the last five years, since the birth of her son Christopher, has concentrated on her craft.

Lee trained as an artist at Daytona Beach Community College and earned her fine arts degree at Florida Atlantic University where she experimented in all mediums.

Art is an avocation she said she couldn't pursue without the support of her husband of 10 years, Warren. It's a family affair when Lee takes to the road for fall and spring art shows. Warren and Christopher go slong and help her set up her large display and often stay through the shows.

When she's preparing for a show, Lee sometimes tends to let her homemaking duties slide, and said that her husband, who is a computer specialist, is supportive and helps her pick up the slack.

Although their professional interests aren't similar. Lee said some times she and her husband work together through the night. He works with computer programs while she paints.

while she paints. It's hard to tear away form her work to go to the grocery store or to fix disser to the Lee said. She is especially busy restocking her supply of paintings because by the end of the season most of her works have been sold and families. She also worked as a vocalist on the Up With People: Live in Concert Album, as well as on the nationally televised Easter Seal Telethon.

As a native of Central Florida. Molly was proud to be crowned Miss Florida of 1966. She represented her state at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N. J. where she won the talent award. During her reign, Molly's duties included presiding over local pageants, performing at special events and acting as a motivational speaker for schools and special interest organizations.

Loos and with music by Julie Styne, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes tells the story about a "little girl from Little Rock" who leaves her wealthy button manufacturer flancee behind in New York to take a trip to Paris with her friend, Dorothy. The 1924 Olympic team is on the ship as well as many wealthy tycoons, among them Sir Francis Beekman and Josephus Gage, a zipper mogul.

One thing leads to another, and well, you'll just have to see for yourself.

For information on the dinner and play schedules, call The Mark Two, 305-843-6275.

A large rack displays Lee's paintings at art festivels.

"I'm inspired by things around me. All of my work is just a little different — not just a straight view of things. It's realistic, but there's a little abstract in there, asid 30-year-old Lee.

There are touches of the Orient in some of her paintings as well as in the decor of her home. Lee, a petite brune/te with blue eyes and a ready laugh. said that her husband is half Chinese, but her interest in the Orient predates her interest in him.

Children Have 2 Lasting Bequests: 'Roots' And 'Wings'

"There are only two lasting bequests we can hope to give our children. One of these is roots; the other, wings." The words by Hodding Carter sound simple enough, but diligently practiced involves years of earnest and focused efforts on the part of parents and significant others. Developing positive independence in offspring is the major parenting responsibility of all animals.

Members of Sallie Harrison Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution met at the Sanford Civic Center for their October meeting.

In an impressive, patriotic ceremony, the ROTC Cadets of Lake Mary High School gave the presentation of colors.

Mrs. Talmadge Wiley, chairman for DAR Service for Veteran-Patients, introduced the guest speaker, U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum who is in his fourth term in the U.S. Congress. Among McCollum's outstanding accomplishments is having been chosen to be one of the 15 members of the House Select Committee to investigate covert arms transactions with Iran on the recent televised hearings.

In 1983, McCollum gained national prominence when he organized a humanitarian airlift of medicines and medical supplies to the thousands of displaced persons in war-torn El Salvador. McCollum's speech titled "Veteran-Patients and VA Hospitals" brought out several items of interest to veterans. First, there are two important pieces of legislation pertaining to veterans. There is a bill to establish the VA Administrator as a member of the President's Cabinet. This bill probably will become law, he said.

Secondly, the other bill, hopefully, would restore travel allowances of veterans to and from VA Hospitals.

McCollum also mentioned the need for an East-Central Florida Veterans Hospital. Studies clearly indicate that the greatest population to be served is in the Orange-Seminole region, he said.

Grace Parks, vice-regent presided over the business meeting in the absence of the regent. Elisabeth Boyd. The closing devotion was given by Elizabeth Kelly.

Susan Sperrazza can be an inspiration to all women. Raising just two children can be a trying experience when you are a single parent. But Susan is in charge of many children, teaching a first-grade classroom at Woodlands Elementary School in Longwood during the day.

During many evenings she's the dedicated president of the PTA there. In addition to her full-time community service activity, she's working toward her third college degree through Nova University of Fort Lauderdale.

Ms. Sperrazza's latest, an Educational Specialist degree, emphasizes leadership in education. That, explains Susan, is why she ran for PTA President."I wanted to see if I could truly be a leader. And, I love children. I really enjoy teaching and I hope I'm an influence. I'm in it for the kids."

Supportive of her own two daughters. Jessica, 15, and 7-year-old Natalie. Susan is very involved in their lives. "I want them to feel like they come from a happy, healthy home." Also, she tries hard to prepare a nice dinner for her and the girls every night that

Last Friday evening. Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Lake Mary, hosted a Box-Dinner Social, helping to raise funds in order for Chuck Suggs to receive a heart and lung transplant.

Dinners, prepared and placed in pretty boxes and lovely baskets were auctioned off by State Rep. Art Grindle to the highest bidder. Also many local restaurants were generous enough to give gift certificates to aid the cause and be auctioned.

These were: Goldies Kitchen. East Ocean Chinese, Dunbars, Cafe Sorrento, Pizza Hut (both Lk. Mary and Sanford). Famous Recipe, Captain Nemos, Quincy's, The Kumquat Tree, Carlos Italian, Friendly's, Subway Subs, McDonalds, Burger King, Hardees, and Albertson's gave a $25 gift certificate. Captain D's gave several "money-off" coupons, too.

The Luthern Brotherhood Securities Corporation had promised to match donations two to one, and along with gifts from other area churches, $2,000 was raised. That means a grant total of $6,000 is available now for Chuck.

They stayed with family in Prentiss. Harold's hometown, and were delighted at seeing a bit of the fall-colored leaves on the trees.

Almost everyday, Harold went Saltwater fishing in the Gulf while Marjorie was invited all over town to visit with friends and relatives. But, they both are happy to return home ...

Discouragement and dependence are promoted when we do everything for a child. We demonstrate that we're more capable, more deft, more experienced, and more responsible. We create "yes people" who are deprived of the thrill of becoming independent. Completely discouraged from taking the lead, a child may come to feel helpless and expect to be shielded from life's difficulties. We wonder why so many children later fall prey to peer pressure.

Confusion regarding how children learn to achieve selfcompetency abounds. Commonly, daily chores are expected to provide the solution. Washing dishes, cleaning rooms, and taking out the garbage are im-

Children who are always told what to do without regard for their special talents and initiative have little opportunity to reason, to make choices, and to internalize worthwhile standards.

By slow degrees, with careful guidance and loving nurturance. we celebrate childhood by giving our children "roots and wings." Our confidence in their abilities instills a sense of esteem which builds strong foundations. Life can then be handed over with a blueprint of independence to experience all of its negatives, challenges and satisfactions.

WORDS FITLY SPOKEN

Anger shot through me like a double-edged sword. It turned and twisted, threatening to wound me for a day whose plans would demand my best energies and most creative ideas.

It happened when I opened a monthly bill that had been victimized by a computer-gone-sour, and no doubt by several clerks who had been "out to lunch" while the computer compounded the complications.

I girded for battle as I dialed the offending company's number. But the answering voice of the young lady completely diffused me! Her pleasant voice-tone, her readiness to help, her sincere apology, all combined to ease my pain and soothe my anger.

By the time the conversation concluded, I left good. The young lady solved the problem and her beautiful voice, reflecting genuine concern, turned my day into "a thing of beauty

As I hung up the phone and turned to the demands of the day, that beautiful phrase from Proverbs surfaced: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in baskets of silver. (Proverbs 25:11)

And so it is.

Catholic Priests Seeking Religious Freedom Face Arrest

By Paul Wedel HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam (UPI) -When government security agents tried to arrest an anti-communist priest this summer, they found themselves facing a crowd of angry Catholics armed with knives and scimitars.

Father Tran Dinh Thu. 81, and his followers escaped as the crowd manhandled the security men. They were recaptured a month later and now await trial.

A Communist Party newspaper account of the confrontation in the Ho Chi Minh City suburb of Thu Duc and the priest had been training an "army of priests for the Virgin Mother" and waging a propaganda campaign against the socialist state.

The incident was an outbreak of the underlying tension between the socialist government and some 4 million Catholics whose numbers and demands for religious freedom are growing.

Both sides still do not have complete confidence in each other," and Ho Chi Minh City Archbishop Paul Nguyen Van Binh. "There are still limits and restrictions."

The tension between church and state is inherent is Vietnam's 1980 constitution. which proclaims freedom of worship but warns that "no one may misuse religion to #### violate state laws or policies."

Nguyen Cong Al. deputy chairman of the people's committee of Ho Chi Minh City, said there is no conflict between the two.

"The evidence through 30 years in the north (North Vietnam) and 10 years here is that Catholics can adjust to socialism since the wishes of the church and those of the government are the same - peace and a good life." he said.

Church leaders must realize that "they can only practice their religion as long as there is national solidarity," he said.

However, the church is worried that such solidarity means coming under the direct control of the government.

The human rights organization Amnesty International has reported that about 150 priests have been detained or imprisoned on religious grounds. Catholic sources said the number could be as high as 300 out of the approximately 1.900 ordained priests in the country.

Philippe Nguyen Kim Dien, the outspoken archbishop of Hue in central Vietnam, and two other priests were held under house arrest and were subjected to long police interrogation in 1984.

Despite government restrictions, the number of Vietnamese Catholics has grown from about 3 million before the Vietnam War to about 4 million now, including about 450.000 in Ho Chi Minh City.

Even weekday services at the Ho Chi Minh City Cathedral are well-attended and many who worship young people. But while the number of faithful has grown, the government has kept a tight grip on the physical expansion of the church and has some influence in the ordination of pricets.

A section of the Ho Chi Minh Seminary has been taken over by a handicraft cooperative run by a priest and the government has limited the number of eminariana to 50.

The government says it must see how the seminary is operating before allowing the enlargement that we will probably need," Binh said.

The Vatican has retained power over the ordination of priests, but Binh conceded that the government's opinion is asked and given "very discreetly."

"If a priest has not adapted himself to his role, then he is not up to his religious responsibility in the new society," he said.

The state allows churches to be repaired. but does not allow construction of new places of worship.

Baptist Seminarians To Defy Trustees

WAKE FOREST, N.C. (UPI) - faculty - 33 members strong -Defiant faculty at the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary greeted the school's board of trustees. under fundamentalist control for the first time, with yows to fight for academic freedom.

The faculty members said Monday they will resist any effort by the board to force teaching of fundamentalism at the expense of other doctrines.

"We are unwilling to accept that directive." said Richard Hester, a professor of pastoral care at Southeastern. "No other agency or institution has stood up to these people and told them 'no.'''

Trustees arriving on the campus of the Wake Forest school were greeted by yellow ribbons, signs and banners - all hung by students backing the faculty in its battle to retain scademic freedom.

The panel was to begin a three-day meeting at which it would elect new officers and discuss the stance faculty and staff should take regarding in-signed on with the school's chapter of the American Association of University Profeasors as the group girded to preserve its freedoms.

A Raleigh law firm has been hired to help faculty members keep their jobs if the trustees adopt a rigid policy. All but one of the elected faculty members have tenure.

"We're not leaving," Hester said.

Jesse Chapman, Southeastern trustees chairman, said the faculty's stance could be interpreted one of two ways.

That position can either be interpreted as an act of deflance or an act of conscience," said Chapman. "It depends on how the words were meant. People of conviction must stand by what they believe, and if that's what the faculty is saying. I hope the trustees understand that. Personally, I'm for treating them gently."

Trustees generally have said the faculty members are overreacting, and that they don't plan drastic action. Some howmoderates believe the Bible is divinely inspired, though not absolutely free of error. They are dismissed as theological liberals by their fundamentalist brethren.

Hester said Southeastern is the first of six Southern Baptist seminaries to be targeted for imposition of the inerrancy doctrine, and he fears a domino effect.

"We tend to be more likely to be active on matters like this than our sister schools." Hester said. "For a lot of the faculty at the other schools, we will be carrying the banner."

Faculty at other Southern Inerrancy doctrine.

Contributions To Churches

Those who call themselves Baptist seminaries also were preparing to resist a rigid doctrine on fundamentalism.

President Roy Honneycutt of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., has told faculty not to give in to pressure from fundamentalists.

Honeycutt told faculty members last month at a campus meeting to go on teaching what they believe is right. The Louisville seminary has been another favorite target of funadmentalists as it is regarded as among the most liberal of the denomination's seminaries, but trustees have not publically stated any plans to impose the

The Day Of Miracles Is Not Passed

Mr. Rosen was a floorwalker who walked his beat in a Brooklyn department store in the 1930s. A now extinct species, floorwalkers "walked with a slow, almost grave gait around a store to answer customers' questions about where items were located."

Once, according to author David Mazel, a lady, exasperated by her futile efforts to find some article she wanted, blurted out. "Heavens, it will take a miracle for me to find it. Do you believe in miracles?"

Mr. Rosen's still-famous answer was, "No, but 1 rely on them all the time."

Miracles abound in this world. You might not know it by reading the daily newspaper. But you would know it if you subscribed to Guideposts, an inspirational magazine published by Norman Vincent Peale.

Each month you can find stories by and about people sometimes famous people like Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Shirley Temple Black and baseball star Mike Schmidt - who have had miracles happen to them. And it isn't always people to whom these miracles happen.

"Even before I took Kate, my big, beautiful German shepherd to the veterinarian." one story begins. "I knew she was in great trouble. She had been limping

As we see by reading Phyllis Hobe's story, it took a miracle to heal Kate, but a miracle "isn't always God stepping into our world and wiping out all our problems with a wave of His mighty hand," as Kate's owner found out. A miracle sometimes is "God's love motivating us to do what we didn't know we could do."

When it comes to miracles. most of us think, of course, of Jesus' miracles. And because we don't see anybody walking on the water or turning water into wine, we figure the day of help often comes to us in miracles is past. But there are things happening in our world today proving that the wonder-working power of God still operates in human affairs.

In another Guideposts story. Zimbalist describes a personal experience not unlike what happened to the disciples as their boat was foundering on the stormy lake and Jesus came to them, walking on the water, to save them.

Zimbalist's car blew a tire. leaving him stranded as he was on his way to an important engagement. He had no jack.

An old white-haired man drove by out of nowhere in a sputtering, battered jalopy and offered the use of his Jack. After changing the tire, the actor "looked back to thank the old gentleman. And I gasped! Jalopy and man had vanished. Without a sound ... Years later, when 1 drew closer to God. I felt - and I believe now - that the old man was sent to help me."

Like the adrift disciples, Zimballst discovered that when we are in trouble and all seems lost.

seemingly impossible ways.

Another Guideposts article tells the story of John Sroka. When he was 11 years old in Depression-wracked Johnstown. Pa., John's father sent him to stand in the milk line at Long's Garage. After his pail was filled. the boy carried the milk up the hill to his house.

"In that milk line there was no hope," John said later. "I went home and told my father. 'Dad. I'm never going to stand in that line again."" And no Sroka ever did. Today John is a successful businessman.

He had rejected the idea of lack, just as Jesus had done at the wedding in Cana before his miracle of changing water into wine. When he was told, "There is no wine," Jesus replied harshly to this instituation of lack ("What have I to do with thee?") and set out to demonstrate the miracle of abundance.

Living in a world of inexorable natural laws, we moderns naturally don't believe in miracles. But like Mr. Rosen, we rely on them all the time.

Back came a club to dummy's ace, and declarer was at the crossroads. pockets of brutal humor.

She lives in the woods among tail pine trees and ten as ural surroundings add to her work. Within recent weeks two baby rabbits abandoned by their mother were under Lee's care and became the subject of a sketch or two. They may work their way into one of her paintings. Lee, who grew up in Ormond

Beach and moved to a rural area just west of Sanford about six years ago, has studied the techniques of most mediums of art. but has picked watercolors as her favorite because "they're so challenging and you can do so many things with them."

However, Lee, has been considering expanding into prints or etching, where she would produce multiple copies of each of her works. With her watercolor works, when one sells, it is out of her hands forever, and most of her work has been sold. "It's always nice to know that the people who buy them really like it and are enthuastic. It makes it a lot better. It's kind of neat, so many people have my work now. It's amazing. I've been doing this for about five years," she said of her displays at Florida art shows.

But it's not alway easy to part with a painting. "I remember selling some and tossing and turning all night. When there's only one it's really hard sometimes. That's why I might like to get into etchings or printmaking. so I could always keep one," Lee sald.

She said that the first year she exhibited at art shows taking the criticism of show goers, where everyone has critic status, was rough. "You hear everything from isn't this great to 'ugh.' Mostly it's a great positive thing. A lot of people get to see my work. I get a lot of feedback. It wears you out, but you get so many people to see your work. You get the masses. It's not like in a gallery. To me it's worth it.

"Sometimes you get nothing out of a show. You don't meet anybody or sell anything. In the shows you get to meet other artists and make friends.

"I'm just taking it as it comes.

I think the more you do the better you get. I may want to branch out into printmaking. but for now will stick with watercolors.

"I really love Florida. The paim trees. The typical Florida things. It's fun to put these things into a painting that's not typical."

Lee works on one painting at a time, from start to finish in about three to four days for a large piece. "I don't want to do anything else. No house work, no anything. It's hard at times." she said.

And sometimes while working on a piece she hates the picture she is creating. "I think, I just hate this painting. I'm not going to finish it. Then it's finished and framed and I say, 'I really like this." I'll turn it upside down and look at it in another way. It usually doesn't turn out exactly like I planned.

I start with a basic idea and draw it out and work with it. As I go I add a lot of detail to the work.'

Lee said she usually works from photographs, which she takes herself. She also photographs her completed works and frames them as well.

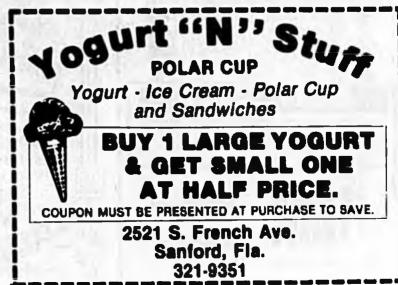

There's a lot of physical labor involved in moving her large paintings and readying them for show.

In the off season Lee takes a month and abandons her art. 'But I really miss it. I want to get home and start painting again," she said. This is what I've always wanted to do. I really wanted to be an artist. I'm still working at it. It was hard at first to actually call myself an artist. It's getting casier. "It's exciting to get recognized with awards. I go in with the attitude, you can't count on winning a award. It doesn't really matter. But it's always nice when it happens." And it seems receiving awards in recognition of her unique work if a feeling Lee will just have to get. used to.

Sanford Barber For 24 Years

Trend: Fewer Customers, Long Hair

Richard Whittaker Herald Staff Writer

Business, said downtown Banford barber Charles D. Hayes, is like short hair: It just ion't there anymore. And that's the one thing the Ashland Kentucky native said he would like to see in the city, a return of downtown shoppers."

Hayes is 68 years old and moved here in the April, 1943, after marrying his wife. Maybelle, a Sanford native. He said he first came to central Florida because of his duties with the Army-Air Force in 1942.

With four children, three grandchildren, and two great grandchildren Hayes said he has enjoyed his life in Sanford. He said he was going to settle with his family in Kentucky after the war, but that doctors ordered them to move back to Florida because of the asthmatic condition of one of his sons.

Originally coming back to Florida as a beautician, Hayes said he had difficulty making ends meet just after the war, and was about to re-enter the service when his mother-in-law tailed him into going to barber achool.

Women were prejudiced against men (beauticians) back in those days." Hayes said of his reasons for not staying in that field.

After graduating from barber school, Hayes started to work 24-years-ago in a shop on Park Ave. owned by John Carver. Hayes has owned that same shop for the past 16 years.

"We're getting to be antiques together," Hayes said, pointing around to the various old style barber shop chairs and fixtures. He said the shop still retains most of the original equipment that was there when he first started working there.

Hayes said he could remember much happier times for the people. making up the barber profession. He talks about a time before the sixties. when people got their hair cut at least every two weeks.

"In those days if you didn't get a haircut at least that often, people would ask you if you needed money for one," he mid. But, that was before the invasion of the Beatles and long hair in this country. according to Hayes.

"I can remember when this was a successful six-chair shop," Hayes said as he lightly trimed the hair of the one customer in his store. He said that 90 percent of his customers now are 45-years-old or better.

"The younger people either have long hair or they get it styled." he said. He added that if people with long hair wear it just a little bit longer nobody would notice much. Hayes said he feels the "old fashioned barber" business has just gone right out the window because of all the changes in society and the way it wears its hair.

Hayes said he's heard that short hair is really making a comeback up north. "That trend will probably take five or six years to reach here."

Like the changes in the hair styles over the years. Hayes said he doesn't care for the way the downtown area of Bassford has changed. He said the city's effort to improve the looks of the area has made it almost im-possible for small businesses like his to survive. Hayes said he thinks parking is part of what draws people to a shopping district, and that the Sanford district lost a great deal of drawing power by removing avail-able parking spaces to try to make the place look better.

"I can't imagine those stupid merchants thinking just because you beautify something people will walk a country sale just to get to your place." he said.

"What really hurt us (downtown businenses) is letting Penny's get away from us. The department store abandoned its downtown store to move to Sanford Plaza when it first opened in 1967.

"Little stores just won't make it because there's not enough people on the streets," he said.

The biggest problem Hayes see Sanford having to battle now and in the future is growth.

"Orlando's going to enguif us. We're going to get big whether we like it or not, and there ain't nothing you can do about it." he said.

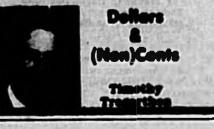

Even with all the complaints Hayes may have about business and hair trends, he said he still feels Sanford is a beautiful city in his way of thinking.

"If I hadn't thought so I'd have been long gone," he said. "In fact, one of the best places on earth is down on that lake (Monroe) front down there," he said.

Hayes said he has enjoyed every bit of his life as a downtown Sanford barber, especially the opportunity he got to meet different and new people. And there's one thing he said he learned a long time ago that unlike the city hasn't changed at all, which is to try to please people.

I cut their hair the way they want it cut, not the way I think it should be cut," he said.

THE REPORT OF

Charging Congress For Fixing Prices

Not everything in a 1,000-page bill is likely to be bad, and the trade bill about to emerge from Congress is no exception. Nearly all of it is bad, of course, but there are a few gems that warrant positive notice.

One is a provision that would provide a rebate to sugar refineries for the import duties on sugar they have paid for the last 14 years. While this little item, which will cost nearly a billion dollars. is widely regarded as a sop to a special interest, the concept of reimburning a firm for the cost of a program, in this case the restriction of sugar imports, that never made any sense anyway has real merit.

Surely it will not be long before Congress extends the same opportunity to the rest of us. I've already written my claim:

Dear Congress.

I'm really grateful for the chance to get a refund for some of the things you've done to me over the years. Since almost nothing you've done in the last several decades has made very much sense. this is going to be a pretty long list, so I better get started.

First, when I was in high school you raised the minimum wage to $1.15.1 was working 15 hours a week at the time for $1 an hour. That job was promptly eliminated when you made it cost more, and it took me eight weeks to find another one. I figure you owe me $120 for that one.

I don't eat much sugar, so I won't charge you very much for all the silly ways you keep sugar prices up. The average household pays an extra $100 a year for sugar on account of you. I figure I est half as much as the average, so I'll just charge you $50 for this year. I'm not sure how much to charge for all the years before this one, but why don't we just say $500 for sugar and call it equare?

While I don't est much sugar, I do est a lot of wheat. And you're been trying to make wheat expensive by paying farmers not to grow it since I was a little tyle. I figure what you've done with wheat is at least ten times as ridiculous as what you've done with sugar, so I think $5,000 would he fair for that.

I bought a new car three years ago. Your restrictions on Japanese imports made the car about $2,000 more expensive than it would have been otherwise, so I'll add that to the list as well.

Other than the car. I haven't bought much that contained steel, so I haven't been hurt directly very much by your stilly policy of restricting steel imports. I do want to make a statement, here, however, so I'll just charge you $50 for that.

Your policy of regulating prescription drugs appears to have made consumers worse off

Hurricane Risk: Too Many People Too Little Time

The state of the second

By Jeff Wiee United Press International

After Floyd, the first hurricane to strike the United States this year, concern over which communities run the greatest risk from the deadly ocean storms is again on the minds. of the 43 million people who live along the beaches from Maine to Texas.

No deaths were reported in the wake of Floyd. The National Hurricane Center in Miami reports nine deaths in just two hurricanes last year, a low figure compared with 30 killed in 1985.

Contrary to common belief, the high winds and hard rains generated by the swirling storms are not the lethal elements. Neil Frank, in a June interview with United Press International shortly before leaving his post as director of the National Hurricane Center, said. "It's the moving water that's devastating. ... It's the killer element.

'Nine out of 10 people who die in the hurricane drown in the storm surge."

A "storm surge" is literally a huge dome of water generated by the winds and pressure of the storm. Difficult to visualize because of their tremendous size - surges can be 50 miles long - a storm surge can bring the ocean level 10 feet above its normal height, often submerging entire constal areas when the hurricane makes landfall

When assessing the relative safety of coastal communities, hurricane experts look mainly at how easily people living along the coast can escape the storm surge. They concentrate on three factors: geography, population and access.

Basically, the further south you are, the more likely you are to be hit by a severe storm. The National Hurricane Center in Miami estimates that the Florida Keys have greater than a 13 percent chance of being hit by hurricane winds this year, while Newport, R.I., has a 4 percent chance.

The other important geographical variable that experts use to assess safety is the kind of protection communities have from the storm surge. A coastal town located on a bluff is not as much at risk from floodwaters brought in by the storm surge as an exposed island.

Most of the islands along the coast from New Jersey to Texas - commonly called barrier islands - were "constructed" through centuries of sand deposits. Barrier islands face the open sea and can become almost completely submerged during a severe hurricane.

Hurricane experts point to one famous disaster when several Islands off the Georgia and Carolina coasts were submerged in 1893 and 2,000 people were killed. A 17-foot storm surge inundated Hilton Head, a popular tourist island off the coast of South Carolina, which lies only 5 fect to 15 feet above sea level.

According to Bob Case a hurricane specialist at the National Hurricane Center, Daufuskie, a nearby island is planning for a population upwards of 15.000 with only one way off the island, a 30-minute ferry ride to the coast. Says Case, "It's a perfect example of the 'out of sight, out of mind' mentality where the hurricane threat is concerned. People have forgotten the possibility of being swept away again and they're building death traps. It's suicide."

Both Case and Frank are emphatic on the point that they are not against the development of offshore islands. "But developers have to make sure that people can get off the island with enough routes and with roadways that are more than just a few feet above sea level." says Case. Small coastal communities might just be the safest places to live on the coast. These small communities are easy to evacuate because of the relative case of simply driving a short distance to get away from the coast.

The "sitting ducks," the experts say, are the island communities where access to the mainland is limited to one or two bridges or ferries. A heavily populated taland or island chain, such as the Florida Keys, would take up to 30 hours to evacuate in a severe hurricane.

Case cites Dare County, N.C., to illustrate the risks that living on a barrier island present. Dare comprises a long string of barrier islands called the Outer Banks that skirt the coast of North Carolina.

Although the official population stands at 17,300, the summer population balloons to three times that amount in August and September, the peak of the hurricane season, making a rapid evacuation unlikely.

The problem is made even more critical by the existence of only two routes to the mainland, a highway on the north tip of the chain and a ferry on the south end.

generally by keeping a lot of drugs out of the country that have been performing effectively throughout the rest of the world for years. This may have been one of your most costly programs in terms of lives lost, but I can't think of any drugs that might have helped me, so I won't charge you anything for that.

I have to mail a lot of things. Your continuance of a government-run postal monopoly has taken an enormous financial and emotional toll on me; 1 figure you owe me at least $10,000 for that.

You've gotten rid of some regulation in the last few years. Deregulation in transportation, communication, and the financial sector has brought prices down and has generally improved service. You're still fouling up with the airlines with your policy of not charging enough for landing right, but I'm pretty happy with deregulation overall, so I won't charge you for the higher costs I had to pay before you deregulated.

As you know, productivity growth has slowed : sharply in the last two decades, causing real; wages to fall. Relative to the pre-1969 trend, this has left the average worker worse off by about" $17,000 a year. I figure most of this slowdown is a result of your meddling in the economy. I'll. charge you $50,000 for that.

Well, that comes to $67,670. Now, I figure it's only fair to subtract from that the benefits I've. gotten from your efforts over the years. After all, 1' make my living pointing out how silly you've been, so where would I be without you?

Mr. Gorbachev Needs Our Help

A bipartisan group of 40 prominent Americans has suggested that the United States take advantage of "the opportunities offered by the new directions in Soviet policy." The group, which convened under the auspices of the respected institute for East-West Security Studies in New York, was talking about glasnost, Mikhail Gorbachev's policy of openness and economic reforms.

The task force urged Washington to see stepped-up talks on cc ventional arms reductions, regular summit meetings and a relaxation of trade barriers that is keyed to Soviet performance on human rights. Observer status for Moscow in global financial organizations such as the International Monetary Fund also was promoted.

Much of this has been run up the flagpole before. Not many people, East or West, saluted. One of the proposals that ought to be pursued, however, is the call for deep, asymmetrical cuts in conventional forces in Europe. The reasoning and timing are sound.

Gorbachev is committed to restructuring perestroiks, the decrepit Soviet economy. To carry that off he will require extended stability in the international area. The U.S. experts argued, correctly we think, that the Soviet leader would be receptive to Western overtures that achieve both substantial cuts in conventional arms and reduction of the U.S.S.R.'s excessive military budget.

It was, after all, Gorbac ev himself who raised the prospect that Moscow might accept proportional reductions in conventional European forces. The Warsaw Pact, with its enormous edge in men and materiel, would sustain larger numerical losses if 20 percent of both NATO and pact forces were trimmed.

The Soviet leader has further suggested that "sufficiency." rather than superiority over the United States, or even parity, should be the litmus test for restructuring the Soviet military. That paved the way for Gorbachev's acceptance of President Reagan's proposal to remove medium-range ballistic missiles in Europe.

But the U.S. group, for all its good intentions, apparently overlooked one significant factor: Gorbachev's staying power.

Arguing the panel's case recently on the op-ed page of The New York Times. Whitney MacMilan, of Cargli, Inc., and Princeton professor Richard Uliman wrote that the Soviet leader "convincingly demonstrated (at last June's Communist Party Central Committee meeting) that he enjoys sufficient support to set change in motion."

Oops! Bork Foils Press Corps Watchdogs

rrer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge Robert Bork gave reporters the slip recently when he visited the White House.

They manned most of the gates at the White House on learning that Bork would meet with President Reagan. But they decided that since the southwest gate was broken and he would not be allowed to drive through it. Bork would use another gate.

Wrong. He walked in through the southwest gate and foiled the watchful press corps.

Reporters finally have the reason why Reagan has held so few news conferences this year only two and the last one in June in Venice at the Economic Summit. White House chief of staff Howard Baker says frankly that the inner circle did not want Reagan quizzed about the Iran-Contra scandal.

The president has had a number of personal interviews lately and the interviewers have only touched on the scandal. Some did not even bring it up But Baker says that once over the hump the president will be holding more formal news conferences.

Dukakis Believes Crisis Over

BOSTON (NEA) — Although their optimism may be premature, top presidential campaign aides for Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts believe the flap about the Joe Biden video tapes is over. They feel that no lasting damage has been done to Dukakis' bid for the 1988 Democratic nomination.

But the affair — which helped to sink the '88 presidential bid by the U.S. senator from Delaware actually caused the Dukakis campaign two problems.

Both of the problems are potentially serious, and possibly even terminal:

1.) Just when the campaign was operating amoothly and in high gear, it lost its top officials — Joe Samo and Paul Tully.

2.) Dukakis, who has thrived on a "Mr. Clean" image, was suddenly accused of political dirty tricks against a rival Democrat in the distribution of the tapes. They showed Biden lifting phrases from other speakers.

Most experts believed problem No. 2 would prove the lesser of the two. This appears to have been born out.

Initially, Dukakis was besieged by questions about the Biden tapes. Then he made successful swings through lows, New Hampshire and several key states in the South. The tapes issue had all but disappeared. It is expected he may decide to hold a question-and-answer session after Secretary of State George Shultz returns from Moscow, where a summit date is expected to be nailed down.

Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev are expected to hold a summit in Washington next month during the Thanksgiving season. Administration officials also are hoping that Gorbachev will want to see a slice of American life, touring farms and factories. It is expected he will get invited to the president's mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara. Calif.

When Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev met with President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1959, he created quite a stir when he took a tour of the U.S.A., including Disneyland. Khrushchev was his own kind of salesman.

Khrushchev was his own kind of salesman, pulling no punches, and saying. "We will bury you." He was reportedly speaking in terms of surpassing the United States economically, but he made headlines in the process.

Howard Baker is learning that he is the bull's eye for everything that goes wrong in his capacity as the White House chief of staff. As a moderate, he is blamed by the president's conservative followers for measing up the strategy to win Senate confirmation of Judge Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

and a second second as a second with the second second second second second second second second second second

Although the domestic policy staff is heavily tilted toward conservative staffers. Baker and his team outweigh them in crucial instances. At the same time, Baker is a more live-and-let-live person who does not push his viewpoint aggressively and take control as did his two predecessors, James Baker, now secretary of treasury, and Donald Regan, who was pushed out of the White House by Nancy Reagan. Baker came into the White House with the Baker came into the White House with the premise that in the twilight of his presidency. Reagan would want to be more conciliatory, more prone to compromise. But Baker has been wrong. Confrontation is the only style Reagan is comfortable with and Baker has to live with that.

Baker also has been hesitant to push his own view that Reagan can get more through a reluctant Congress by reasoning together. In some ways he has had to throw in the towel.

Callous To Tibetans

In a few days we will forget the Tibetans again. Their recent brave and bloody protests for national recognition will slip from Western news, lost in the silence China has reimposed on that vast territory.

We will also probably forget the shabby performance of the U.S. State Department during this remarkable episode. Incredibly, it all but sided with a communist government persecuting a minority. plously warning off critics of Beijing in the Senate. Why such gloomy predictions? Because all over the world native peoples struggle for autonomy and even survival against encroaching central governments, and yet almost no one seems to care. Their anguish reaches our cars only when they become proxies for either the United States or Soviet Union - as happened in Nicaragua when the Miskito, Suma and Rama Indians rose up to resist Sandinista bullying.

Yet China is hardly the only nation to overwhelm an independent-minded people with a flood of result of increased emissions from the burning of fossil fuels, forest clearing and other human activities. Scientists fear that more carbon dioxide in the atmosphere will lead to a "greenhouse effect" in which the gas inhibits the escape of heat from the planet to space, resulting in a gradual warming of the atmosphere.

Soviet and French acientists reported in the British science journal Nature that analysis of ice cores from Antarctica has given them an indication of atmospheric conditions on Earth through the past two glacial periods — or from 160,000 years ago.

The accentiata used the cores to determine there was a sharp increase in atmospheric carbon dioxide during the ends of the past two glacial periods, a shift from 190 parts per million to 280 parts per million as Earth's atmosphere warmed.

It was an opinion echoed the same day by Soviet commentator Viadimir Pozner in a discussion with members of the San Diego Unic 's editorial board.

But some compelling facts say otherwise. The Central Committee in June refused to approve the 12 key laws Gorbachev wanted that would have circumscribed the hostile, entrenched Soviet bureaucracy. Moreove, the committee forced him to wait until 1991 to implement the majority of his reforms. It was hardly a "convincing demonstration" of support.

Gorbachev is unquestionably popular in the Soviet Union and his reform ideas have substantial support. But a magician he is not. The acclaim he enjoys does not extend to two of the three key organs of Soviet rule: The Politburo and the Central Committee. Only the Secretariat belongs to him lock, stock and barrel.

Gorbachev finds himself in a spot dangerously similar to Nikita Khrushchev's. Then, as now, the party leader had popular support and even used the term glasnost. He freed tens of thousands of political prisons, the arts flourished and the spotlight of public scrutiny was trained on the Stalinist nightmare.

The honeymoon did not last long.

Khrushchev gambled and failed with missiles in Cuba, giving the Central Committee the pretext to show him the door. One faise move by Gorbachev now, especially as he attempts to dislodge powerful foes in the party and government apparatus, and the same could happen to him.

BERRY'S WORLD

"In short, Mr. President, I hope we have not been tricked into a Peace Race we cannot POSSIBLY win." In lows, Dukakis received a standing ovation from 300 Democratic party activists at a fund-raiser. In Georgia, Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young was on hand for the opening of Dukakis' Southern regional campaign headquarters. While not an endomement, Young's presence was a definite political plus. In New Hampahire, people seemed more interested in Dukakis' energy policy than in his campaign tactics.

Asked if the recent campaigning had assured him that the tapes issue was behind him, Dukakis responded: "I think so. I hope so."

It will take longer to assess the damage done to the campaign by the loss of Susso and Tully. Dukakis moved quickly to fill the void when he moved Susan Estrich, 34, his deputy campaign manager, to the top spot.

Estrich, a Harvard law professor on leave, gained attention within the Democratic Party as co-chair of its Fairness Commission. She is the first woman president of the Harvard Law Review and she was invited to join the faculty only four years after graduating law school.

Dukakis says Estrich fits right in because, as he sees it, he is running an issues-oriented campaign. Those Indians deserved our sympathy and support. But then so do the Tibetans: yet the same State Department that waxes so indignant over Nicaragua counsels forbearance for the even worse oppression inflicted on the Tibetans by the Chinese.

We mustn't disturb the diplomatic status quo, you know. The present relationship with China is comfortable and familiar to American officialdom. It permits the cautious, correct dialogue that in turn conveys an impression of progress — whether justified or not.

In a perverse sense, alas, the State Department may even have a point. Why bother about the Tibetans when so little is said or written #### allen workers. Ever heard of inan-Jaya? It's what Indonesia calls western New Guinea, which Indonesia absorbed in the early 1960s. Now it is settling the area with farmers from crowded Java, dooming New Guinea natives to marginal status and perhaps cultural estinction.

The Soviet Union exploits this tactic, too, with Russians playing the role of industrious immigrants. Russians poured into the Baltic states after World War II, for example, and especially into Latvia and Estonia.

Perhaps the most obscure example of a traditional group battling to preserve its way of life is taking place in Bangladesh. It involves the non-Bengali, non-Muslim people of the Chittagong hills. According to Professor Bernard Nietschmann of the University of California at Berkeley, who has followed the tragedy, as many as 180,000 people have died in clashes so far.

Then there are the Kurds of Turkey, Iraq and Iran: the Eritrians of Ethiopia; the Bahais of Iran ... well, the list could go on and on.

In the chord of anguish sounded by so many threatened, outnumbered people, the Tibetans count as no more than a single, poignant note. We couldn't do much for them even if we tried. "The record appears to be a irrefutable evidence that a fundamental link between the global climate system and the carbon cycle," Eric T. Sundquist of the U.S. Geological Survey and in comments published in Nature.

Scientist had kn levels of carbon dioxide increased at the end of the last glacial period 10,000 years ago, but this is the first time they have gathered data on the glacial period before that, Sundquist said.

Ice ages are characterized by a cycle of cold glacial periods alternating with relatively warm interglacial periods of tens of thousands of years.

The brilliant fail foliage in many cooler parts of the nation represents a tree's last attempt to stock up on nutrients for the winter ahead.

Douglas Ryan at the University of Pennsylvania's Morris Arboretum said the change in leaf color enjoyed by nature lovers is the result of the tree draining all the nutrients it can from a leaf before it dies and falls to the ground.

"Trees get a third of the nitrogen and phosphorous they need to survive by draining those nutrients from their leaves before dropping them," he said.

Bork Opines Black Bag Jobs Be Legalized

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - During his four-month tenure as acting attorney general after the firing of the Watergate special prosecutor in late 1973. Robert Bork suggested that the FBI might need legislative authority to conduct "black bag jobs" and harass suspected radicals. In a memo he wrote to FBI Director Clarence Kelley on Dec. 5, 1973. Bork said it was important that the FBI be able to "counterviolence," but that "there be no occasion for public doubt concerning the legitimacy of its actions." He added: "It may be that the best solution would be additional legislation."

In other internal memos, obtained by our reporter Tanya lsch. Bork proposed a study of FBI policies so that he would have something to refer to "when the crunch comes" in the event of disclosures that G-men had been carrying out illegal counterintelligence operations against radicals. The FBI activities had been conducted under the so-called COINTELPRO program from 1968 to 1971.

Although he showed concern about illegal FBI behavior, Bork did not express opposition to the discredited COINTELPRO program itself. The problem apparently struck Bork as one of public relations.

In an internal FBI memo dated Nov. 1. 1973, for example, Bork is quoted as saying that "there may be a need for some assurance that a program such as COINTELPRO would not be reinstituted without careful consideration and perhaps approval by the (Justice) department."

Kelley agreed enthusiastically with the proposal for additional legislation. In a memo to Bork dated Dec. 11, the FBI chief wrote: "I fully support the idea of a study being launched for the purpose of considering the need for additional legislation to enable the FBI to counter violence in the time of crisis as existed at the time the FBI implemented the COINTELPRO-New Left.

"As you know." Kelley continued. "the FBI has conducted an in-depth study of the scope of FBI jurisdiction and authority, and it was concluded that additional legislation is needed to enable us to more fully discharge our responsibilities relating to the national security."

The immediate cause for concern at the time was the imminent release to NBC reporter Carl Stern of two COINTELPRO documents under the Freedom of Information Act. The internal documents confirmed that FBI agents had used such illegal factics as break-ins and anonymous telephone calls designed to disrupt the lives of suspected radicals, their friends and familics.

Bork's Dec. 5 memo appears to be an attempt to defuse the anticipated unfavorable publicity by calling for a report on "actions taken to insure that the rights of individuals are not violated while essential FBI investigations are pursued."

In 1978, two FBI officials, Edward Miller and Mark Felt, were convicted on charges of violating clitzens' constitutional rights in 1972-1973 by giving illegal authorization for FBI break-ins and wiretaps aimed at the Weather Underground.

It seems unlikely that Bork would have learned about the Weather Underground break-ins during the brief period he was acting attorney general in late 1973 and early 1974. However, if Bork had treated the matter as an organic problem, instead of viewing it as a public relations matter, he might have discovered that the FBI was still using illegal techniques.

Crisis For Nursing Homes: Attracting Employees

By KIN PRANCELING UPI Feeture Writer

BOSTON (UPI) - Cannel Johnson moves briekly on her morning rounds at Elliott Manor Nursing Home. She helps patients greet the day, tidies their rooms, gives them baths. She feeds those who cannot do it themselves.

Johnson, born and raised in Honduras, has worked at Elliott Manor in suburban Newton as a nume's aide for 12 years. The job seems routine, but it has hectic moments. She and her five colleagues are doing work that used to be handled by nine aides.

"I was raised by my great grandmother. She gave me the kind of care and comfort that I was not able to give her in return in her last days. So I want to give it to someone else. I owe it to the old folks.

"This is what I have to do in life," Johnson explains. "When I finish here and go home, I feel like my job is complete."

At a time when the elderly population is mushrooming. America's nursing home industry is finding fewer and fewer Carmel Johnsons. fewer and fewer people who can be satisfied with a job of changing beds and diapers, spoon-feeding toothiess mouths and cheering up the bedridden. Some in the industry call it a crunch. Some call it a crisis.

The reality is that even the best of the nation's 19,000 nursing homes are having trouble recruiting and retaining staff, particularly nurse's aides - who provide 90 percent of direct patient care.

A PROPERTY AND A DESCRIPTION OF THE REAL PROPERTY AND ADDRESS OF THE PROPERTY AND ADDRESS OF THE PROPERTY ADDRESS OF THE PROPE

And as more nursing homes and rest homes are being built to accommodate America's aging population, no one knows who will staff them.

Personnel turnover at some homes exceeds 300 percent a year, particularly in inner city neighborhoods: help-wanted newspaper ads seeking nume's aides often go unanswered.

Staff shortages are so acute that some facilities have waiting lists to get into new wings, which cannot be opened because they cannot be staffed. Last spring, one rural New Hampshire nursing home was so strapped for help it used inmate volunteers from the county jail to help feed patients.

Meeting the increasing demand for long-term care, and paying for it, is becoming a major insue that Congress is wrestling with this session.

"They say we are moving toward a service economy, but in truth, few people are willing to do the human services. They think of cleaning the house, of washing the car. But no one wants to wash mama," said Dr. Monica Fretwell, geriatrics chief at Roger Williams General Hospital in Providence, R.I.

Prospective nursing home employees often go elsewhere because so many job opportunities with better pay - are available.

"It's not just nurse's aides. It's the entire spectrum of the nursing profession. We've gotten ourselves into a crisis the likes of which this nation has never seen." says Paul Willging. executive vice president of the American Health Care Association, which represents 9,000 nursing homes

Willging points to the many professions now open to women, "all of which provide more money than nursing does."

"The average nursing aide gets up at 6 a.m., goes to work to a minimum wage job," he said. "On the way to work, she'll stop at a Burger King or McDonald's, all of which will offer her 85 an hour to do easier, less tedious work. They have so many opportunities available to them.

So why can't nursing homes pay higher wages? Many nursing home operators say they cannot compete in the wage market because roughly 70 percent of their funding comes from Medicare and Medicaid. through strict reimbursement formulas.

"I've been amazed that people can expect even the quality of 24-hour, skilled nuring care we're providing in states with an average $35 reimbursement rate," said Willging.

Staff shortages also translate into substantial overtime and employee burnout for workers who remain. When shortages become chronic, the regular staff begins to call in sick or quit.

In Massachusetts, where unemployment is below 4 percent, the state Federation of Nursing Homes reports serious staff shortages at most of the commonwealth's 550 nursing homes, with an average of 10 job vacancies per facility.

Starting pay for an entry-level nume's aide in Massachusetts ranges from $4.78 to $5.33 an hour. Some homes must pay wages far above that to attract and keep help.

Daniel Salmon, administrator of the 142-bed Beaumont Nursing Home in Northbridge, Mann., offered low-cost on-site rental housing to attract second- and third-shift employees. He found no takers, even with a $7.50 hourly starting wage for untrained aides. Salmon plans to use the housing for Irish nurses he recruited.

Charismatic Preachers' Sex Appeal

In the November tasue of Playboy magazine - and not in the most balanced piece of journalism you'll ever read - Jessica Hahn has finally told her side of the event that brought down Jim Bakker.

We'll probably never know whose version is the truth - Hahn's, Bakker's or the third-person account Jerry Falwell used as a media tool in the PTL power play.

But having lived in a hotbed of fundamentalist Christianity all my life. there's part of Hahn's tale that strikes me as absolutely accurate: the hero worship that some charismatic preachers inspire in women.

I've heard women talk about these men as if the fellows were just a notch

Proposed Expressway Would Cause Hardship For Community

To build the beltway or not to build: This is the wave of the future?

Maybe some of the engineers are opposed to building this, but are compelled to at the insistence of the people who have money. What if, when these high and mighty people get caught up on these roads and it's hot- no shade trees or air conditioners that are working. what are they going to say then? Getting rid of trees and animals is going to affect us very much. Man is bringing about his own extinction. but does bot have the foresight to realize it. Those that remember the Buck Rogers series will remember no seeing any trees or animals, except perhaps in zoos.

These proposed roads will take us to where? Can't they use other roads and extend them, instead of building new ones? Use what there is first, and don't split towns!

I wrote a story around the proposed expressway, but the Apopka paper refused to print it, saying in effect it couldn't affect them. Think againf

People are just not interested. They's better be, or this will be one H- of a mess. You think I'm talking through my hat? Think about these small towns that are joined together like Fern Park and Casselberry. Like I've said before, this is supposed to be progress, but you can out-progress yournelves to the point of no return.

'These proposed toll roads will cause more problems. Anytime you want to go anywahere, you will have to pay: say $1 just got to church, or to our town of Sanford. Where is all this money coming from? This will cause discord among the citizens and I can't blame them. People are working their butts off to provide for their families now, without making it worse; but what do the expressway authorities care?

Post Office Improvements Called For

A few observations concerning our local post office:

Now that the shrubbery and grass is about dead, this would be a good opportunity to add more parking. The pad of gram and shrubbery north of the post office could be converted to additional parking area. There is no excuse for not having sufficient help at the counter in the post office when it is needed. Also, the front door to the post office is a diagrace, and a new door would be helpful. However, if it is necessary to increase the cost of postage to accomplish these improvements. then things are fine as they now exist.

lower than God, and only a teeny-tiny notch at that, with awe that these men even exhibit human tendencies. They have pampered these men with a fervor that rivals the mourners at Rudolph Valentino's funeral.

A young woman I knew had an especially rocky young adulthood that included alceping with a lot of married men who treated her as a convenience. Then, she became "born again" and began attending a large chariamatic congregation headed by a former salesman who'd been "annointed by God" to lead this tribe without benefit of theological seminary. Like Hahn, she worked at the church in any capacity they'd have her. She did not hold a paying job, although she had held a very responsible one before her conversion.

"You know," she told me when relating how much the church meant to her, "I was down at the church working when Reverend Bill came by riding a bicycle. A 10-speed; he wasn't even driving his carl And he had on Reeboks and a Nike sweatshirt just like anyone would wear. He doesn't think he's anything special."

When I read Hahn's story, I felt the same chill come up my back. Contrast my friend's statement with these comments of Hahn's:

•"Profeta - the regular pastor would come up to me and say ... 'Could you watch my son?' I thought. my God, he asked me to watch his son. You've got to understand - to me, this was like God talking."

•"I always wanted to be special; I always wanted to be in on something. I hated being on the outside looking In...'

O"You know, when you're 14, these preachers are like what rock stars are to 16-year-olds."

What better way for a woman with low self-esteem to be "in on something." than to be near this power, to minister to the man at the right hand of God? It's the same desperation that seizes rock star grouples, and the result has sometimes been the same.

Was Jessica Hahn, as she charges, raped and brutalized? Or was she, as Bakker alleges, the seducer? Whatever happened, both Bakker and Hahn agree that Jim Bakker, the most famous charismatic preacher in the world, slept with a 20-year-old church secretary just hours before he wooed the buck on a telethon. He is colossally human.

There is a lesson in this, and a powerful one: Men like Jim Bakker are not gods. Since the Bakker scandal, some ministers have worried their image is tarnished. I believe, rather, it is put back into perspective. If they are messengers of God, that is all they are.

The U.S. Postal Service is a disgrace to our country. Today I received the third letter that was returned within a month and was returned in a United State Post Office envelope with a note enclosed stating. "Damaged in handling in the postal service."

Every time I get a letter back. I have to get another envelope and put the letter in it and use another 22-cent stampt to mail it. That makes in cost me almost 50 cents to mail each letter.

The postal workers get above average salaries, because they have on average education, but there service is way below average. This extra expense has to be absorbed by the patron and the postal service does not accept the liability.

SINGAPORE (UPI) - With the Chinese "Year of the Dragon" beginning Feb. 17. officials in Singapore are reporting a dramatic increase in pregnancies as families hope for offspring born under the sign of wealth and prosperity.

Many private hospitals already are booked solid, and others are quickly expanding facilities. Physicians coping with standing-room-only waiting rooms are referring the overflow of expectant mothers to colleagues.

Stores are reaping in a bonanza from sales of maternity and infant clothing, and government officials are estatic, counting on the Dragon Year to end an alarming drop in the birth rate.

"What amazes me is all these babies are lanned," said Dr. Kowa Nam Sing. a pediatrician with a waiting room that spilled into the hallway. "I didn't realize so many people still relied on astrology. "We're going to have a baby boom.

Former Hoffa aide and strong-arm Joseph Franco teams up with author Richard Hammer in a book that recounts the searing events and violent schemes that marked Hoffa's rise to power and his ultimate deacent.

Franco breaks a 12-year silence and says that he witnessed the July 30, 1975, abduction of Hoffa from a suburban Detroit restaurant by "either federal marshals or federal agents."

"There was a black driver and two white guys and these guys got out," Franco says in the book. "They were typical lvy Leaguers, with sports jackets and shirts and ties, and you could see that they were either federal marshals or federal agents."

Franco speculates in the book that Hoffa then was driven to a nearby airport and dropped out of a plane, possibly into one of the Great Lakes that surround Michigan.

That scenario differs greatly from three other theories about Hoffa's disappearance. Those include Hoffa being disposed of in a Hamtramck. Mich., incinerator, being put in 50-gallon containers and dumped into the Florida Everglades, and being cemented into the foundation of the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit.

According to Hammer. Hoffa's abduction "points to a criminal conspiracy reaching into the very highest levels of the American government."

Franco says Hoffa disappeared while preparing to to challenge Frank Fitzaimmona for the Teamsters presidency.

"I'm going back." Franco quotes Hoffa as saying. "When we get back in, we're gonna clean house. ... I got a list and they're all gonna go."

Out on the Rim, by Ross Thomas, Mysterious Press, 311 pp., $17.95.

Things are not going well for terrorism expert Booth Stallings. He still can't come up with a definition for terrorism, despite his recent book on the subject, he just turned 60, and he just got fired.

It's a soft job market for terrorism experts, but shortly after he gets the sack. a figure from his past breezes in with an offer he can't refuse.

The fall of Ferdinand Marcos apparently isn't sitting too well with some U.S. interests. Stability is what they want and they're a little shaky about a rebel leader up in the mountains. It's time to pension him off and $5 million seems about right.

The leader is none other than Alejandro Espiritu, who served with Stallings in World War II, when a loud-mouth medic nearly got them killed until Espiritu's bola put a slice in his neck and a posthumous medal on his chest.

Espiritu has sent word he trusts no one but Stallings to deliver the retirement fund. Stallings accepts, then decides the $5 million might be put to better use elsewhere - like his pocket - but he'll need some help. His search leads him to Otherguy Overby, a con man extraordinaire and his sometime business partners, mastermind Artie Wu and the volatile Quincey Durant.

They are joined by Georgia Blue, no stranger to clandestine operations on both sides of the coin, who's supposed to shepherd the money through but agrees to look the other way if the slice is right.

So the game begins, taking them through the Pacific island region known as the Rim, where rules can change as quickly as governments.

There's another rim out there, too, that comes from living on the edge, relying on wit and cunning, and facing the next 24 hours as if it were the last.

Thomas expertly draws us into this complex web of deceit, chicanery and double-cross through Stallings, the novice in a company of artful dodgers.

The plot not only twists and turns, it doubles back and reverses yet again, becoming a maze of mirrors in a frightening funhouse, with interchangable good guys and bad guys and dead bodies piling up on both sided.

But it's a pleasure to climb aboard this roller-coaster of suspense, with Thomas at the helm.

"Out on the Rim" may be about gambling in its purest form, but even though Thomas has the winning hand. ante up the $17.95 and enjoy.

The problems facing Dare County face other island communities, too.

In 1970, Hilton Head's population of 5,000 was served by one two-lane roadway off the island. By 1980, the population on the island had tripled, while no new roads had been built. According to Charles Haigh, the supervisor for roads and bridges in the area. a four-lane roadway off the island was completed in 1984, bringing the evacuation time for the taland down to a relatively safe margin.

Case believes that in many communities adequate access will always chase population. Despite efforts to develop comprehenaive evacuation plans, the safety problem seems to be getting worse as coastal populations boom and access to safety increases slowly.

The population of coastal counties has doubled since 1950, when 23 million people lived on the coast from Texas to Maine. Much of this development has proceeded at an even faster clip on vulnerable barrers Islands like Galveston, Texas.

in 1900, Galveston built a sea wall to limit future flooding. Since that time, sand and soil surge."

But if New Orleans meets a hurricane like Betsy in 1965 a significant portion of the city would have to seek higher ground. Betay killed 56 people in New Orleans when dikes holding back the Gulf to the south and Lake Ponchartrain to the north burst. The storm caused more than $1 billion in damage in Louistana alone.

It's the severe hurricane that gives the hurricane expert nightmares. Should any type of large-scale evacuation become necessary, the figures are not encouraging.

"It's really an issue of too many people and too little time," says Case.

While the Hurricane Center reports that on average it can give about 19 hours advance warning, to evacuate the areas vulnerable to the storm surge in Miami, for example, would take 32 hours. According to Gil Clark at the Center, the important issue in determining evacuation times for inland cities is not so After a devastating hurricane much access as terrain. "The more low-lying a city is, the more vulnerable it is to the
