PERSHING SAYS REDUCED ARMY IS TOO SMALL

General Breaks Silence to Sound Warning Note That Army Cannot Go Farther Without Serious Results

Highly Developed Defense Is Needed

Enlisted Strength Of Army 14,655 Below The Total Authorized By Congress

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—

Gen. John J. Pershing broke the silence he has maintained for more than a year to publicly sound warning last night that the army has been reduced to a point "below which we cannot go without most serious results."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—

Speaking before the Military Order of the World War, the commander of the American Expeditionary force told his one-time soldiers that the world "is not yet free from jealousy and covetousness" and that the situation at home now and in the future demands the maintenance of a highly developed nucleus for national defense.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—

Only a "vociferous minority" is opposed to such a program, he said, adding: "There can be no earthly justification for saving a few million dollars a year in the army during peace, if as a consequence we must spend many millions in an emergency in attempt to make up the difference."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—

Seen Serious Results "There can be no earthly justification for saving a few million dollars a year in the army during peace, if as a consequence we must spend many millions in an emergency in attempt to make up the difference."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—

The general departing from a discussion of the army, referred to what he described as an "unusual condition of lawlessness" throughout the country. "It is not to our credit that an unusual condition of lawlessness exists in our country today," he said. "High-handed criminals occupy the law and go unpunished. Officials elected by the people fail in the enforcement of the law."

Hardy, Dean Of English Literature, Writes Despite His Advanced Age

ROCHESTER, England, Oct. 9.—Thomas Hardy, the aged dean of English literature, continues to write vigorously despite the infirmities which 60 years are wont to bring upon him.

He is spending the twilight of his life at his home here in Dorsetshire—the first love of his life. It is the fiction which made Hardy a name that he is probably finishing up now.

Hardy's venerable author reputation is based on his verse in the "Poems of Thomas Hardy" which were published during his forty years he has produced a volume of the world's greatest literature. Just what he is doing is not divulged, as he is waiting for publication.

Hardy's poems will ever be known in the world as a matter of fact, but he has not decided.

Hardy is at present writing for himself and his wife, and may have few old and cherished friends.

BERLIN LETTER

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—An attempt to solve the housing shortage by curtailing Cupid's activities is being made in Waldenberg by Director Schade of the Municipal housing commission.

A warning which the commission is sending all couples whose marriage intentions are posted in the city hall in accordance with the law reads:

"Don't get married. If you do you will be forced to live with in-laws. You know what that means. There is no such thing as a 'home of your own.' The commission cannot promise you a place in which to live alone for 8 or 10 years."

The commission controls absolutely the allocation of living quarters, determining even the number of rooms each family is entitled to.

LONDON LETTER

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Now that the cross word puzzle, which swept across England from America leaving a trail of humbled die-hardies in its wake, has spent its force, England has turned to Peter Piperisms for solace.

Peter piperisms are alliterative sentences containing at least eight and not more than 12 words, each word of which begins with the same letter.

"Since short skirts still seem stylish, silk stockings shouldn't sag," is the contribution of one expert. Another hopes "many more liners migrate, mummy methodical minds, make much money."

Other tongue twisters are: "Mr. Manager, money might make Mand marry my miserable Max-Max's mother." "Stephen, Shy, striking Sylvie's shining shingle, seemingly surmises smiling Sylvie's single, and 'Lily Lokes Lokes lookee."

Lady Hoare, wife of Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for air, will accompany her husband on an air flight from London to India late this year. The trip will be the first flight over the new India route planned by Imperial Airways, Ltd.

Gossip is to have a recognized center in London. The new theater is being transformed into an amusement center similar to the Potinere in Paris. Both the stage and auditorium are to be altered to make the place more intimate than the entertainment will be at unless departed relatives are so invited, the marriage will be unhappy.

In an effort to curb the activities of coffee bootleggers federal judges are imposing some of the heaviest sentences on record. As receipts from the high tariff on coffee make up a substantial part of Germany's reparations, payments, the government is eager to let none of the revenue slip through its fingers. Eight wealthy importers have been sentenced to 18 months in jail each and fined a total of $1,500,000, for attempting to smuggle in only 650 sacks of coffee. Bootlegging of the bean through Hamburg is almost as lucrative as run running in the United States, because the retail price of coffee average $1 a pound.

Cats are having such a hard time in Berlin that numerous societies for the protection of the felines are being organized. The society matrons owning high priced Angoras rub elbows with workmen who fupily scrub tom cats at meetings called to protest ill treatment of cats. Speakers at these meetings deplore the fact that civilized people should have so little sympathy with the midnight howls of cats to "throw missiles at them from the windows."

There is no subject on which more nonsense is talked than that of food, declared Sir James Browne in a speech in which he dealt with the craze for vitamins. It is necessary, he said, "to discriminate between vitaminic science and vitaminic facts." When he reads of dinner arranged on vitaminic principles so as to ensure the most abundant supply of those elements, he says he wonders that some enterprising restaurant had not added to its menu the most copious source of all vitamins, green grass. "Perhaps it is because the example of Nebuchadnezzar was not very encouraging," he said.

Manual Taylor Continues His 50-Year Search For Gold Vein In New Mexico

HILLSBORO, N. M., Oct. 9.—(AP)—After 50 years of search for a "lost lead" of red ore said to have assayed $2,100 gold to the ton, Manuel Taylor, aged but active American-Mexican who says he is a descendant of General Zachary Taylor, still pokes about this section of the southwest with two burros, confident that he yet will "strike 'er rich."

His life and the faith that goes with it stamp him as one of the last of that picturesque type—the old-west gold prospector.

One More Grubstake
Taylor is now oking out a living and saving toward one more grubstake by prospecting and placer mining near Gold Dust, N. M., with a primitive machine he calls "the poor man's concentrator." But he is reputed to have mined on a vast scale at various times in his life and to have made at least six big mineral strikes and spent many fortunes.

For instance, in 1906-1907, when an epidemic of influenza struck this part of the country, Taylor is credited with having bought 165 coffins and paid the funeral expenses of as many poor in his community.

Early in the seventies an Indian friend told young Taylor he could lead him to "heap much gold." They outfitted and penetrated the wild San Matillo mountains country. Finally they reached a spot where the Redskin pointed to a streak of red earth, much like brick dust and grunted dramatically: "Here heap much gold!"

Last Gold's Location
Taylor was disappointed to see no trace of gold in it. He was then ignorant of metallurgy. However, he wrapped some of the stuff in a handkerchief and threw it into one of his pack bags. They returned to Silver City, N. M. One day months later Taylor was cleaning his bugs and found some of the red dust. He rubbed it between his palms he suddenly noticed many particles of light six, Speed Six and Ad-fine gold appearing as the coarsest mineral six models which were in grains broke away. He went to a prospector to learn that the dust assayed $2,100 gold to the ton. In the meantime his Indian guide had died. And for 50 years Taylor has failed to relocate the treasure spot again.

September also established a new Nash overseas sales record for our volume of export business for the month exceeded that of any other month Nash has ever known.

The urgency with which Nash dealers all over the world are requesting rush shipments in order to make immediate deliveries indicative of the phenomenal success that has greeted the new Light Six, Speed Six and Ad-fine gold appearing as the coarsest mineral six models which were in grains broke away. He went to a prospector to learn that the dust

Nash Motors Breaks Sales and Production Records Last Month

Last month was the largest September in the history of the Nash Motors Company in point of sales and production, according to a communication received here by the Smith Motors Company, Sanford sales and service agency for the Nash automobile. The letter was from E. H. McCarty, general sales manager.

"September would also have won the honor of being the biggest single month of business Nash ever achieved if we had been able to produce all the cars that were on order," reports Mr. McCarty. "September business brought the total volume of Nash sales and production for the nine months of 1925 up to 111,965 cars, as contrasted to 75,317 cars for the same period in 1924, which was the largest previous Nash year. September was also the twenty-fifth consecutive month with three exceptions that Nash sales have shown an increase over the same month of the previous year. The three months that were exceptions were months when production was temporarily curtailed to enable us to bring new models into manufacture."

 They took a little gravel
 And took a little tar,
 With various ingredients
 Imported from afar;
 They hammered it and rolled it
 And when they went away

 To last for many a day.
 They came with picks and spade it
 To lay a water main,
 And they called the workmen
 To put it back again.
 They lay a railway cable
 They took it up once more,
 And then they put it back again
 Just where it was before.
 They took it up for conduits,
 To run the telephone,
 And then they put it back again
 As hard as any stone.
 They tore it up for wires
 To feed the electric lights;
 And then they put it back again
 And were within their rights.

Driven Out of Town to Buy Supplies
 An Ohio woman who leased a cottage in a Wisconsin town for the summer months stirred up an exciting time for the merchants there. Having come from a progressive, live-wire town the woman was accustomed to make her shopping lists through the aid of the advertisements in her home newspapers. In the Wisconsin town she discovered that the two little newspapers that were published every day carried scarcely any advertisements of the local stores. Indeed they had so few advertisements of any kind they were able to tell all they had to tell in four pages.
 The Ohio woman wrote a letter to each of the papers asking for a list of the best merchants in a neighboring town. She said that she had a large family, several servants, and liked to buy whatever the market afforded, and in generous quantities.
 Neither of the papers published the list of merchants she asked for but one of them published her letter. Then progressive stores in the neighboring town sent solicitors to get her trade, and the neighbors saw truck loads of goods from the neighboring city delivered at the home of this visitor.
 On one side of her cottage lived the town's leading hardware man. When he came home from business one night, his wife told him that a full set of dishes, "not any prettier than the ones we carry," had been taken into the newcomer's house by a truck from the other town.
 On the other side of the cottage, the next door neighbor stopped one of the grocery trucks from the other town and gave an order for a bill of goods for herself. She might have been wanting to show her approval of the newcomer's course, or she might have seen a way to save money in so buying.
 The Wisconsin town is small enough for everybody to know everybody's business, and within forty-eight hours there had been many a heated discussion regarding this outrageous disloyalty to home merchants, and a committee was selected to call on the visitor and ask why she felt unfriendly to local people.
 The committee was graciously received. The lady told her callers that she would like very much to buy her supplies, and to advise other cottagers in the rapidly growing summer colony to buy their supplies from local merchants. But, she explained, she could not do this until she could see their advertisements and know what they had to sell.
 The newspapers from the neighboring town, she showed the committee, carried the store news she wanted. "I am too busy a woman," she said, "to go on fruitless errands. I read advertisements, then I go after the goods advertised."
 This story was told The Herald by a banker from the Wisconsin town. He says that within a month the local stores were advertising "for all the world as if they were intelligent human beings," and instead of home people sending to mail order houses and to the merchants of the neighboring town for supplies, people from all the country around are beginning to divide their trade between the two towns.
 The Herald thinks there are Florida towns where an experience of that sort would be beneficial.

"Home—Center of Everything Worth While"
 "Home—the center of everything worth while"! How much happiness there can be on that word! And yet how often 'home' becomes simply a place where one sleeps, eats breakfast and keeps his spare clothes. In such a place one doesn't live—he just exists. As Eddie Guest writes:
 "It ain't home 't'ye, though it be the palace of a king,
 'Till somehow your soul is sort o'wrapped round everything."
 All of that comes from an advertisement of The American Magazine, promising its readers the Edger Guest poems as part of the good things it will give them each month.
 But advertisement or not, it is a great definition of "home"—"the center of everything worth while." When a person has a home which stands that way to him, he has just about all there is to have in this world. When he has a home where love rules, where considerate, kindly people are ever on the look-out for opportunities to make each other happy, he has a bit of heaven here on earth, and protection against most of the evils and the sorrows of life.
 Some one has said "home is where the heart is," and likely that is true, but there is something infinitely sad about one of these "dream homes." Some day the imagination won't make it seem real. Some day the heart will find itself out in the cold, wishing so pitifully for a real house with windows closed against the storms, and a fire on a clean-swept hearth.
 Folks with real homes, moreover, sometimes do not appreciate what they have. They take the blessings of such a home for granted. They accept the sacrifices and the services of people who love them quite as if they were getting only such benefits as are rightly due them. And never in years and years do they rise to the point of seeing the rare beauty of a home like theirs.
 The Herald is told that real homes are not as common as they used to be. People like to talk about the careless attitude of the modern family toward home ties, home customs, and home happiness.
 Perhaps such allegations are true, perhaps they are not. Home is home, and it is bound to be blessed if it is a place where love abides.

NEWSPAPER NOVICES
 KEY WEST CITIZEN

Every year a procession of young people march up to the newspaper offices and ask for work in the field of journalism. It is one that looks very fascinating to many of them. They see it giving them a chance to meet many kinds of people and obtain access to interesting things without cost and it looks like a position of novelty and adventure.
 But after a year or two a final tangle of these novices drop out. Many quit because they are not able to measure up to its exacting standards. Their carelessness works mischief in the newspaper game with its pitfalls, and they are invited to seek occupations where the consequences of error are less serious.
 Many of them quit for the reason that they can not "see any money" in this field. They look merely at the pay envelope, and they say that it is not sufficient to offer them all they want of pleasures and luxuries.
 If people have that money-making motive so very strongly, it is just as well that they should quit this game. It is not a big money-making field, except for a limited few. It may not be advisable for people to stay in it unless they feel a distinct urge for it, a love for printer's ink, and respect for its power and usefulness.
 But those who stay in it, if they labor faithfully and intelligently, will always find a demand for their work. It is an essential service that the community must have. And so the young men who leave feel that they have the world at their feet.

THE YOUNG Men's Christian Association, when it finishes hearing from union labor men throughout the country, will perhaps be less young and more Christian.
 It forbade a representative of union labor to speak in a Y. M. C. A. because it did not want "controversy"—so it said.
 The sort of Christianity that will not hear the argument of workmen, but listens on hands and knees to any kind of talk by a man with a hundred millions, hasn't much Christianity about it.
 THERE IS a humorous aspect to the Young Men's Christian Association, in certain places.
 It limits Jewish membership seven percent of the total membership, gather poor mathematics, considering that the founder of Christianity was the son of a Jewish girl, and therefore, so far as his earthly parentage was concerned, 100 percent Jewish. Seven percent seems a small allowance for her people.
 WELCOME TO Queen Marie of Romania. She will not bring any Jews, does she? Thank heaven she will not. A good example to some of our Jewish brethren who think there is something beautiful about their own conspicuous knees, fat, thin, thick or sharp. There isn't.
 WELL, THE Bambino's big bat did not do any wonderful work yesterday. In fact, it struck out at a critical point. But New York won and St. Louis is as sad as Carthage when the Romans had finished taking Cato's advice. (For the information of the vulgar, it may be said that the "Bambino" is a baseball player called Babe Ruth.)

CHAOS IN CHINA
 NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE

Such dim rays of hope as have shown through the gathering darkness in China are rapidly fading. With two or six military chief-tains disputing the control of various sections of the country, with the base of civil war sweeping back and forth across the provinces, with the department of government in Peking in charge of subordinates while politicians wrangle over the choice for President and ministers, with local boy-cotts cutting deep into commerce with increasing hostility between selfish factions and more vehement agitation against the foreigner, it might seem as if the nadir of disintegration had been reached.
 Yet there is every possibility of worse to come. The labor disputes of Tientsin, Shanghai and Hankow, exacerbated by the student into clashes with the foreigner, have been followed by direct attacks upon foreign life and property, notably at Canton and Wanchow. In both of these affairs the foreigners have been forced to the use of firearms, and, as is usually the case, more Chinese have been killed than foreigners. Distorted accounts have been spread through the country which represent the incidents as wanton massacres of the Chinese. These reports invite to further clashes.
 It may be possible for the Chinese themselves to put a stop to this sort of thing, but the means is not in sight. If it takes its course it may well lead to a repetition of the Boxer revolt of 1900 where there were murders of foreigners in many places and when the legations in Peking were under siege for two months.
 American policy has been directed toward the preservation of China's integrity, the building up of a strong China, able to withstand aggression from whatever quarter it might come. At the Washington conference and at the more recent Peking conference this country vigorously insisted upon China having a chance to recover her sovereignty. Our representatives have made it clear that America is opposed any resumption of the old policy of force, aggression and penetration.
 But China has always been the despair of her friends, and evidently proposes to continue to be. Instead of allowing the opportunity thus afforded her she has allowed internal conditions to go from bad to worse while her political leaders stir up dangerous and fruitless strife over trifles.
 The traditional American policy has the full approval of the American people. China should have every chance to establish herself as a free and independent nation, but this does not mean that she is entitled with impunity to become an international nuisance. The other interested powers will take steps to protect their interests even if America holds aloof. Great Britain has held her hand in the Wanchow affair, but would she next time? Would France? Would Japan? The menace to China's integrity involved in forceful action by individual powers has been amply demonstrated. The folly of waiting for another Boxer uprising is equally evident.
 The time may be at hand when wise statesmanship would propose international co-operation to avoid a repetition of such a disaster.

CONSIDER THE WATER LILY
 LAKELAND LEDGER

They tell a story in deed earnest that a Philadelphia lady, residing somewhere in Florida, allowed a Japanese hyacinth to get into the St. Johns river many years ago. She thought it was a beautiful thing, and she planted it. Stranger things, as the book reviewers might say, have happened.
 The lady ought to take a look at the St. Johns river at Sanford today. The lady or her descendants might cast a glance at the Kissimmee river anywhere—not to mention smaller streams and lakes almost in Lakeland's back yard. The gentlemen who borrowed numerals from the ancients and improved on them lacked the imagination to venture on the number of water hyacinths in our streams and lakes. Figures were never intended for such things.
 Before we heard this story, which was related on one of our fishing trips to the Kissimmee, we had worked out a theory that sounded reasonable to us. It accorded the water lilies the honor of being native or of having been among our earliest settlers, probably antedating Gasparilla, Blackbeard, Captain Kidd and others of the older pirate heroes. To our mind the pirates landed them to Florida in ships if that was the way they got their start.
 So prolific are these lilies, so rapidly do they grow, that we really believed they were a part of the scheme of things, thriving on water, sun-line and air, they as rapidly will or drift down stream in huge clusters, fitting in a nook here and there. Their function then, we figured, was to occupy space, to make land, if you please, and to reclaim the low places.
 In a thousand years these lilies would change the surface of the land; they would convert swamps into tillable ground. Likewise they would destroy many a beautiful lake. Nature is constantly filling in the low places between hills and coasts, and Nature's greater helper is the water lily. It may be a pest but it is a land builder of first importance.

In this baby newspaper, less than two months old, there are to be found 24 pages full of interesting news about Sarasota's development and reports covering its business activities. Eight of these pages are full page ads, offering to the public opportunities for investment in some of the finest and most promising subdivisions ever placed on the Florida coast. A. S. ## High School Parents And Teachers Gather For 1st Meet of Year

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association for the High School was held Thursday afternoon at the High School Auditorium, being presided over by the chairman, Mrs. John Sneed.

As this was the first meeting of the year no regular program was carried out. It was decided, however, to continue the work of last year and the patrons and parents were urged to co-operate with the members of the association, in having the students confine their school activities to Friday and Saturday, and also to encourage the girls and boys to read better literature.

Several committees were appointed and work was outlined for next meeting. During the social hour punch and wafers were served.

MILADY'S SHOPPE HAS ITS ANNUAL FALL DISPLAY OF MILLINERY

Damo Fashion held full sway Friday afternoon when the Milady's Shoppe held its fall showing of the latest modes in millinery together with matching scarfs and other accessories.

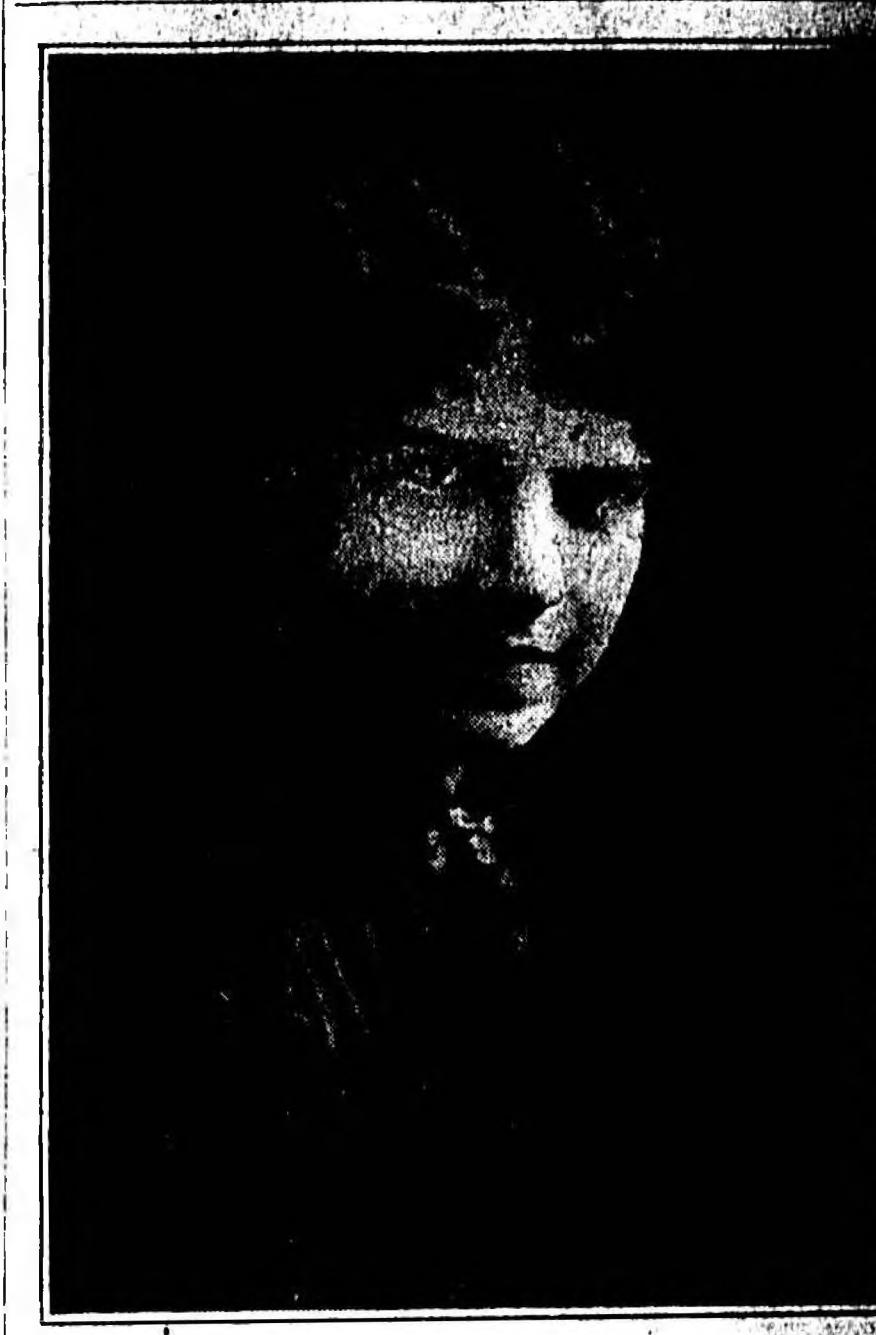

The interior of this shop was attractive with its colorings of brown and other autumn shades depicting a woodland scene. Tall potted palms and pedestal baskets filled with deep hued red and golden zinnias and exquisite red radiance roses presented a most delightful picture.

In the artistic window display, the central decoration is a dainty evening creation of turquoise blue georgette, the small brim being of gold lace, while the adjustable crown is held securely with a wide band of gold ribbon which ties in the back. A touch of contrasting color is lent with tiny French flowers. A chic accessory to this Parisian model is the scarf of gold lace, banded with turquoise blue georgette.

Another unusually pretty picture hat shown in the window is of felt velvet, with facing of peach blue velvet. The simple but elegant trimmings are of applied motifs of hand-made French flowers.

"Surprise blue" one of the new fall colors, is noted in one of the afternoon hats of velvet, faced with erise, and having handsome motifs of pastel tinted-flowers

MRS. R. E. TOLAR HOSTESS TO D.A.R. MEMBERS HONORING MRS. WHITE

Mrs. Brooks White of Jacksonville, state regent of the D. A. R., who is visiting in Sanford as the guest of Mrs. John Leonard, was the charming honor guest on Friday at luncheon given by Mrs. R. E. Tolar at her home on Magnolia Avenue. The guests were the officers of the Sallie Harrison Chapter.

The spacious home was converted into veritable bower. In the living room, the D. A. R. colors of blue and gold were emphasized with quantities of cut flowers, while in the dining room the national colors of red, white and blue predominated.

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower Given By Church Circle Three

One of the most delightful of the many social courtesies with which Miss Lillian Shuboler, a bride-elect of this month, has been honored was that of Friday afternoon when the members of Circle Three of the Methodist Church, of which Mrs. R. L. Shuboler is a member, entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. R. L. Griffin on Myrtle Avenue.

Gold and black were the colors emphasized in the decorations. Numerous black hats, gowns, hats and other suggestions of the Halloween season were used in decorating. The rooms were darkened and the only light came the rays from the various Jack o' lanterns. The members were dressed as ghosts which added to the spooky atmosphere.

When the honor guest arrived she was greeted with ringing of bells and she was led by two ghosts to her throne, where silently one by one the weird figures hid their packages in her lap.

After the shower had been presented the guests served refreshments of orange sherbet and individual cakes iced in yellow. About 35 members attended the affair.

Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Robson and S. S. Baumel motored to Daytona Beach Friday where they spent the day.

Rev. Paul Redfern left Saturday morning for his home at Wildwood where he will spend the week end.

Mrs. P. M. King Gives Courtesies in Honor of Lottaphun Members

Exceptionally enjoyable was the bridge party given Friday afternoon by Mrs. P. M. King at her home on Third Street, the guests being members of the Lottaphun Bridge Club.

Vari-colored garden flowers were used in charming profusion in the rooms where the card tables were placed and formed a pretty setting for this affair.

Scores were kept on tallies done in quaint, old-fashioned maidens and after the card games, it was found that Mrs. M. Minarik was holder of top score while the low score was held by Mrs. Ellsworth Harner.

Late in the afternoon the tables were cleared and covered with dainty cloths, and refreshments of sandwiches and fruit punch served by the hostess.

Mrs. Clifford Walker substituted for an absent club member. The club members present were Mrs. Ellsworth Harner, Mrs. J. E. Watham, Mrs. M. Minarik, Mrs. A. C. Foster, Mrs. Chris Matthews, Mrs. Heyward Walker and Mrs. P. M. King.

THE GAME OF THE YEAR WILL BE PLAYED TODAY

St. Louis Team With Grover Alexander Doing Pitching

Shawkey Hill Choice Of Manager Huggins

Out of Game Will Be Missed by Cardinals; Holm Will Take His Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—With a realization that the situation has narrowed to a question of when, never, the St. Louis Cardinals declared today that they will fight desperately for the title of the World's series in what is expected to be a seventh game of the series.

New York Yankees, the baseball championship team, if they should win today, will have no secret of a determined effort to be offered to the Cardinals in the west. The Yankees thought a rains in the west today better than a possible hit tomorrow.

Managerial forecasts indicated that youth must wait for another World series to be served. Rogers Hornsby was grabbing his baseball all of Grover Cleveland Alexander, who will be 40 years of age Feb. 26, and such a good pitcher as long as ago as 1916 he was able to contribute 16 shutout victories to the cause of the Philadelphia Nationals. He has spent 16 summers in the major leagues.

Shawkey To Oppose Alex

Miller Huggins frankly favored Grover Alexander, three years younger than himself, over the Cardinals' pitcher behind him. Shawkey will celebrate his thirty-sixth birthday on Dec. 4. He has been a member of the New York pitching staff 11 years.

Both veterans have been down for a baseball count but were on their feet again before the fatal "pop" sounded. Alexander, this season found his way into the record World's series when the Chicago Cubs asked waivers on him and the Cardinals refused to pass.

The Philadelphia Athletics sought waivers on Shawkey, once known as "Bob the Gob" in 1926, when the Yankees claimed his services. Shawkey's red undershirt, made famous as a part of his equipment, has been carried into the World's series.

Strung by an unexpected defeat in the last game at St. Louis, the Cardinals sought to perfect their handling of pop flies before game time today. Pint sized drives falling safe cost the Red Birds an opportunity to leave home in a blaze of glory instead of being cast today in the role of last standers. Pop flies may decide whether the Cardinals, so popular in St. Louis, are to ring again or remain mute until next season.

Doubt Out of Series

The Cardinals had to go into the crucial game without the services of Trolley Douthit, sensational young California outfielder. He came to New York with the St. Louis team but unless he stages a remarkable recovery he will see the remainder of the series from a place beside Ray Blades, another fast but disabled Cardinal outfielder. Douthit was injured in a collision with Chick Hey in the fourth game of the series.

The crash left Douthit's ribs in poor condition for further play although he completed the game in which the injury occurred, throwing out a Yankee runner at the plate and later getting a base hit. Bobo Holm will play centerfield. In St. Louis Thursday, Holm played one of the deepest centerfields on record, almost a sub-center. Fair weather was forecast for today.

With the returns from at least one county not in there is a three-cornered neck and neck race for possible nomination as the so-called hero of the series. Pennock, Hays and O'Farrell claim prominent consideration among the score of more eligibles. Pennock has earned (in two well pitched victories) Ruth's three home runs in the Yankees to a victory they needed at the moment, and O'Farrell's offensive and defensive work throughout has been impressive.

Have Faith in Alexander

Cardinal fans, anticipating a possible brilliant pitching performance from Alexander's still young right arm, pointed with pride that the Nebraskaan, had an unbroken string of 21 Yankees rebuffed in order. In last Sunday's game he allowed only four hits, 10 batters to miss third base and kept every New York batter away from first base after the first baseman in the third inning.

The Yankees camp, however, claims that there is nothing in Alexander's record that indicates he is a better pitcher than the other Cardinals.

Football Weather To Be Experienced In Southland Today

(By The Associated Press)

A lowered mercury generally over the South today brought the first football weather of the season for Southern conference football teams, twelve of which went into action against conference opponents. Five in inter-sectional encounters and the remainder with opponents outside the conference.

Chief interest in the inter-sectional combats centered about the Georgia-Yale contest in the Yale bowl. In addition, Maryland was in the Middle West for a clash with the University of Chicago; Kentucky played the University of Indiana at Bloomington; Princeton was host in Washington and Lee and Virginia Poly. was in Hanover for a contest with Dartmouth. Tulane's Green Wave and the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech came together in Atlanta with the feature encounter within the conference. Other games saw Alabama meeting the Mississippi Aggies at Meridian; Clemson encountering North Carolina State; Florida and Mississippi University come to grips at Gainesville, Florida; Louisiana State faced a hard game with Tennessee and North Carolina and South Carolina clashed at Chapel Hill, N. C.

In addition Vanderbilt went outside the conference for a game with Henderson-Brown; Auburn played at Birmingham; Virginia Military Institute, at Roanoke College and Virginia Tech. entertained Lynchburg at Charlottesville.

Notre Dame Meets Minnesota Eleven In Western Classic

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A fair share of mid-western football interest in Saturday's games descended on the University of Minnesota today with Knute Rockne and his 1934 Notre Dame machine.

The renewal of traditional Minnesota-Nebraska hostilities at Lincoln, tomorrow, draws Missouri Valley attention but an S. R. O. sign over the 50,000 seats in Minnesota's stadium served as a warning to show the bent of Western conference and general fancy.

Notre Dame is a leader in itself and Rockne's first full invasion of the Big Ten ranks makes the tilt the day's classic.

Some share of the spotlight flickered on the rather elusive Thelma Fanning, Notre Dame back, who is hailed already as one of the year's sensations.

Otherwise, particularly individual attention was drawn today to Illinois' own aspirant to the place of Red Grange, "Frosty" Peters.

The coming conference race also was reflected at Michigan, where Yost is frankly making Saturday's contest with the Aggies an incident in preparation for Minnesota a week later. Wisconsin's varsity had to forget the Big Ten battle to think about Saturday's game with Kansas, where Coach Cannon has been polishing up an aerial game he studied under Little, when the Badger coach assisted at Michigan.

Chicago's Maroons were concerned with the game Maryland brought in from the East, and Indiana's team was shared with the invading Kentucky Wildcats.

Tide Meets Aggies At Meridian Today

MERIDIAN, Miss., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Prospects for an overflow crowd were bright here today as the hour approached for the Alabama-Mississippi A and M football game. The crimson Tide has an advantage of 12 pounds per player in weight. However, it is minus its star center, Sherlock Holmes, who is ill. He will be replaced by Pearce.

Couch Bernie Blorman, of the Aggies, had nothing to say concerning the outcome of the clash other than that his team will fight hard. Boosters of Alabama also are optimistic over the prospects of victory.

ed in the series. Twice called to rescue slipping mates, he has stopped the attack each time and retired under his own power to permit pinch hitters to take his place at bat. He has needed no substitutes on the pitching mound.

Haines May Oppose Shucker

In the sixth game results in a St. Louis victory, thus necessitating a seventh game. Manager Hornsby will undoubtedly call in the widely travelled Jesse Haines, who has won distinction on two undisciplined counts in the series. He pitched the only shutout game and has been the only pitcher to drive out a home run. Manager Huggins is counting no game lost until the winning run has passed the Yankee catcher but he will have Shucker ready if there is baseball tomorrow.

Millionaire's Golf Course

The Prince of Wales may have a villa near Biarritz-Anglet, the new millionaire's golf course between Biarritz and Bayonne. It is in the heart of the wealthiest district in France, for the promoters of the club are selling property only to millionaires.

The golf course, when finished, will be one of the show places of France. More than 25,000,000 francs already have been expended. A pine forest was uprooted and 200,000 tons of soil and sod have been laid.

Stagg's Views of Football

Amos Alonzo Stagg, full rank professor of Chicago, gridiron god and father of hundreds of celebrated players, and at 61 years of age, the oldest active football authority in the United States, speaks on American Football in the new Britain.

"Fortunately," says Stagg in his resume of the development of the game, "offensive football will never be completely standardized, because the possibilities of maneuvering the players are so many that coaches of inventive genius are constantly lured into the multifarious forms of strategy always possible to a clever tactician."

Youngest Team Manager

Lowna this year provided the youngest team manager in professional baseball.

George ("Dutch") White, a wide range infielder and a 300 hitter, took over the management of the Cedar Rapids Club in the Missouri Valley League for the last two months of the season after two previous leaders had failed to bring the club out of a slump. He was just 21 when he took the reins in hand. He was sold at the close of the season to the Danville club of the Three-I League.

Golf At Extreme Ages

Illinois lays claim to the oldest and youngest performers in major golf tournaments this season.

Lewis W. Pitzer, G. A. R. veteran, won second low net honors in the Illinois Senior tournament a few weeks after his 84th birthday. Sammy Alpert, a 15-year old south-paw, won the Western junior championship after a training period which began when he was 11 years of age.

Mr. Pitzer, who is president of the Senior Association, frequently drives 200 yards, and is remarkably steady on the greens.

Kentucky Race Finals

Kentucky race tracks may be the field of battle to settle this year's dispute as to the leading two and three year old thoroughbreds. Churchill Downs, with the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes, will be the scene of the two-year-old battle, while the Latonia course with its Championship Stakes, may determine the year's leading three-year-old. The Championship Stakes will be worth more than $30,000 to the winner.

Thirteen of the best three-year-olds in training are among the 85 nominated for the Latonia race to be run a mile and three-quarters at the fall meet, opening October 12. Only two outstanding 3 year olds, S. D. Riddle's Crusader, and A. L. Wagner's Haste, have not been nominated for the race.

Old Dropkick Record Stands

A record that has stood for three collegiate generations challenges the kicking talent which the 1929 football season will uncover.

Thirteen years ago, Mark Payne, a halfback on the Baker Western University football team, made a 63 yard dropkick against Northern Normal of Aberdeen, S. D., on the hazy field, and none of the phenoms uncovered in the more recent years of football's greater popularity have come within seven yards of the mark.

Payne's powerful foot fractured a record which had stood for seven years by a 62 yard dropkick, which Pat O'Brien of Wisconsin made against Northwestern in 1908.

But since 1901 only three men have made a drop kick from beyond the fifty four yard line. Robertson of Dartmouth dropped 54 yards against Cornell in 1919, and Lamont Johnson of St. Mary's college, Kansas, dropkicked 55 yards in 1925.

"Hole In One" Decision

If you make a hole in one and fail to discover the fact before playing another ball you fail to qualify for the famous "Hole in One" club, the powers of golfism have decided. At least you can't count the hole as having been done in a single stroke, but have to take whatever figure was made in playing the second ball.

Michigan Fails To Get Place of Princeton On Schedule of Harvard

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The "Big Three" in eastern football—Yale, Harvard and Princeton—will remain the "Big Three" for another year at least, in preparation for Minnesota a week later. Wisconsin's varsity had to forget the Big Ten battle to think about Saturday's game with Kansas, where Coach Cannon has been polishing up an aerial game he studied under Little, when the Badger coach assisted at Michigan.

Chicago's Maroons were concerned with the game Maryland brought in from the East, and Indiana's team was shared with the invading Kentucky Wildcats.

The substitution would be "counter to the understanding and practice of the triple agreement it was mutually agreed after full conference," a statement said.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard said: "Athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard are excellent and I am confident that nothing will disturb the amicability of this relationship."
