Racism Charged In Arrest Of Gooden, Companions

Staff And Wire Reports
New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden and four companions were charged with resisting arrest with violence in an alleged tussle that left the baseball star with a bruised head and cut arms.

Police said Gooden, 22, was charged with disorderly conduct, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest with violence after the Saturday night incident in which he allegedly kicked an officer in the head. The officer suffered a mild concussion, police said.

Gooden, the 1985 National League Cy Young Award winner and Florida's Pro Athlete of the Year selected by the state's sportswriters and sportscasters, was released on his own recognizance Sunday.

"All the facts aren't out," said Gooden's attorney, Charles Ehrlich, talking to reporters in front of the baseball star's home in Tampa. "There is more to it than what is in the police report."

Ehrlich told The New York Times there "was reason to believe that racism was involved" in the police actions. Gooden and his companions are black and the six officers involved are white, the lawyer said.

The confrontation began when police saw Gooden's Mercedes-Benz and another car swerving toward each other on a street in the city's north side, police Lt. Tim Cotter said Sunday.

New York Mets' spokesman Jay Horwitz said Gooden, who was "pretty well beaten up," did not know why the police pulled him over. Horwitz said Gooden received bruises on his head and cuts on his arms in an ensuing struggle.

Cotter said police never determined "what these guys were up to" when the vehicles were seen swerving toward each other.

The officers stopped two cars, Cotter said, then approached Gooden's car, questioned him, examined his license and told him to stand on the sidewalk while they questioned the other driver.

Gooden's lawyer said the driver of a third car — a red Corvette — was a friend of the pitcher who was traveling behind him but sped off when the incident occurred and returned to the scene later. "The officer noticed Mr. Gooden walking behind him, and at that time Mr. Gooden grabbed the officer's arm and pulled him toward him and a physical confrontation ensued," Cotter said.

"Two officers grabbed Mr. Gooden and attempted to handcuff him. He resisted by kicking and punching the officers with his fist and utilizing his elbows to strike the officers."

"As they attempted to handcuff him, the red Corvette came back and four people came over and grabbed the officers and began pushing and kicking them away from Mr. Gooden," Cotter added.

Cotter said other officers arrived and subdued Gooden and his companions. Witnesses said Gooden was shackled with ankle cuffs.

Arrested with Gooden were his nephew, Gary Sheffield, 18, a minor league infielder in the Milwaukee Brewer farm chain, Vance Lovelace, 23, a minor league player in the Montreal organization, Philip Walker, 23, and a 17-year-old companion.

The four were charged with resisting arrest with violence and battery on a police officer and were released on their own recognizance.

Gooden, a native of Tampa, was 17-6 with a 2.84 ERA and 200 strikeouts last season as the Mets won the championship.

Sanford's Impact Fees Going Down

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

By year's end, developers will be paying several hundred dollars less to hook into Sanford's water and sewer systems. And, the city's plans to reduce the impact fees it charges for these water and sewer connections should equate to a cost savings for consumers, according to Pete Knowles, Sanford's former city manager and a member of the citizens advisory board that conferred with city staff on the fee decreases.

Knowles said the impact fee charges gets tagged with the impact fee charges because developers usually add them to the sale price of their units. The decreases should have money from unit's retail price, he said.

A first reading of an ordinance reducing the fees was unanimously approved by commissioners Monday and will be followed-up with a second reading next week for final adoption.

The ordinance pares the $1,800 sewer and $700 water impact fees Sanford currently charges. Homes and mobile homes with more than three bedrooms will be charged $650, rather than $700, for water system hook-up and $1,700, instead of $1,800, for sewer system tie-in. Homes and mobile homes with less than three bedrooms will be charged hook-up fees of $1,275 for sewer and $487.50 for water.

The recommended fee reductions were presented to city commissioners by Engineering Director Bill Simmons.

Simmons' recommendations followed a fee study the city undertook at the request of the Florida Homebuilders Association. The homebuilders association also requested formation of the city's Growth Advisory Board, which Knowles sits on.

Throughout the late summer and fall, staff had a series of meetings with the Homebuilders group and the growth board to reach accord on the fee reductions.

The resulting agreement will be reviewed by the city each year and, at the request of Commissioner Dave Farr, the review will include a public hearing to enable developers' input.

City Attorney William Colbert said it is his opinion that Sanford's move to reduce impact fees is legally sound and will not have an adverse effect on the city's $17 million wastewater management bond. Impact fees and water and sewer utility charges serve as collateral for the bond.

Colbert said the city's bond counsel and financial advisors concur with his position regarding a lack of derogatory affects the impact fee changes will have on the bond issue.

It could be a North Pole annex, but actually it's the board room at the Port of Sanford where Port Administrator Dennis Dolgner, center, inventories toys donated for needy children by about 3,600 attendees at the annual Orlando Margarita Society ball. The Margarita Society was established in 1983 by Sanford businessman Larry D. Mattingly. Today, 25 Central Florida businessmen pay annual dues to put on a gala ball in November each year. Invited guests are asked to bring a toy for a child and no other admission fee is charged. At the ball, margaritas flow from a fountain, with wine and hors d'oeuvres also offered, all to the tune of a straitlaced mariachi band and a dance band. This year's ball was held at the Peabody Hotel in Orlando. The toys are distributed through area charities, Dolgner said.

Sanford Woman Saved From Sea Credits God For Rescue From Ordeal

Joyce Clark of Sanford was a holy promise Sunday while trapped with her son and a friend in the cold, water-filled belly of an overturned cabin cruiser — if God save her 3-year-old, her girl friend and herself, she would serve him.

"I have a large debt to pay," said Mrs. Clark today from her hospital bed at Fish Memorial in New Smyrna Beach.

"And the first thing I'm going to do when I get out of here is hang on to my husband and my baby until they force me to let go."

Mrs. Clark, 39, was in good condition today as was her friend, Linda Hall, 48, of Smyrna, Ga. They were being treated for exposure, cuts and bruises. Kyle, her son, was in fair condition at Halifax Medical Center in Daytona Beach where he was being treated for hypothermia.

They were trapped below deck when the 30-foot cabin cruiser they were on capsized off Ponce Inlet Sunday around 4 p.m. Mrs. Clark's husband, Ronald, 38, and Mrs. Hall's husband, James, 48, were thrown clear of the boat when a large wave swamped and rolled it. They suffered minor injuries.

The Coast Guard sent two boats and a helicopter to the scene. Waves were peaking at 9 feet and prevented the Coast Guard, which almost had a boat flip in the rescue, from righting the vessel. By knocking on the hull, the Coast Guard learned the trio were alive and with the help of a masonry saw loaned by a passer-by cut a hole in the hull.

If the saw was not made available, the sailors were prepared to ax their way through to the victims, according to a report. The women and the child were pulled out of the hull about three hours after the boat went down.

"I'm alive, thank God," said Mrs. Clark. "It was a terrible experience."

"The seas were getting rough, and we were coming in. A wave just snuck up on us, caught us, and flipped us so fast nobody had any time to do anything."

"The men were thrown off the boat. I had been down in the cabin with my baby and so was trapped down there.

"Just before the wave hit, my husband yelled down that it was getting pretty rough and I better hang on. All I had time to do was stand up, get on my feet. It was just an instant, a mere instant later, that I was knocked to the floor. The next thing I knew the boat was upside down and I was being thrown all over the cabin," she said.

"The water came in so fast. The next thing I knew, my girlfriend was down there, too. The water must have pushed her into the cabin."

"We were trapped there for a little over three hours with an air space of about four inches for all three of us to breathe and try to survive. Every time a wave — and I bet they were ten-foot waves — would hit, it would drive the water straight through the boat and push us under. It would, thank God, recede out of the boat just enough for us to stick our noses up to breathe."

When the water first rushed in, "My God. We're going to die," was Mrs. Clark thought. She fought the crushing weight of the water to reach her three-year son on a nearby berth.

"The water was coming in so fast as I tried to get to my baby," she said. Within seconds, they were sealed in darkness.

"It was terrible. I kept telling them 'we've got to breathe to let them know we're in here. There must be people, there's got to be people. They'll come eventually. We've got to keep hollering to let them know we're alive.'"

"Kyle was fantastic. He didn't cry or scream. He was so, so good. I held him above the water, all that I could. It was difficult. There was nothing to hang on to, to keep our heads above water. And you couldn't stand up because the boat was too tall. We would've sunk, drowned. I can't believe we didn't. I'll tell you. Those Coast Guard people, the firemen, and all of them, are messengers or angels from heaven."

"I guess when they finally got a hole in the boat, my baby had just collapsed. I hadn't heard anything from him in the last few minutes and he wasn't

Congressman's Brother Accused Of Spying

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — U.S. officials said they have not been permitted to visit an American, believed to be the brother of a congressman, arrested on suspicion of spying on a Nicaraguan air base for the United States.

The man, identified as Samuel Nesley

Hall, 49, of Dayton, Ohio, was arrested Friday in a restricted area of Punta Huete air base, 12 miles north of Managua, Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto said late Saturday.

D'Escoto said Hall, who has played a role in supplying Nicaragua's Miskito Indian guerrillas, admitted that he was working for a private U.S. espionage company "collecting information for the U.S. government."

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the mission was informed of the detention but did not know anything about the suspect or the activities for which he was arrested.

Hall is the second American arrested by the Nicaraguans this year.

Defeated City Candidates May Be Board Appointees

The nine former city commission contenders who lost in the Dec. 2 election have been thanked by Mayor Bettye Smith for displaying an interest in municipal matters and also offered possible positions on Sanford advisory boards.

The two commission candidates who lose in Tuesday's run-off will receive the same combination of expressed appreciation and suggested board service, the mayor said.

In letters sent to the nine contenders who lost their bids on Dec. 2, Mayor Smith wrote: "On behalf of the people of Sanford I want to thank you for being a candidate. Local government is the keystone of our democracy and of our continuing liberty. Thank you for caring enough to become involved in this process."

She added, "Because you care, would you like to submit an application for a future appointment on one of our advisory boards?"

IN BRIEF

California Man Arrested After Not Paying Cabbie

A 30-year-old California man who allegedly took a taxi ride in Seminole County at about 9:30 p.m. Friday and couldn't pay the $11.40 fare, ended up in jail.

Casselberry police were called to Regency Square Apartments, 400 E. Semoran Blvd., where police found Yellow Cab driver Gregory Gunderson, 36, of Winter Springs, arguing with a man in the cab.

Gunderson told police the man didn't tell him he only had one dollar after he picked him up in Maitland and took him to the apartment complex. When they arrived the suspect reportedly said he would have to get the cash from inside an apartment, but when he returned to the cab he didn't have the fare.

When the suspect asked to be taken to the Hideaway Lounge where he thought he could borrow some money, Gunderson refused and he and the suspect began arguing.

Gunderson called for assistance from the police and at 9:51 p.m. Walter Blount, 30, of Concord, Calif., was charged with theft of services and released without posting bond.

2 Charged In Spouse Abuse

Winter Springs police reported charging Carl Heinman Jr., 23, of 203 S. Moss Circle, Winter Springs, with spouse abuse-battery at about 4:31 p.m. Friday. He is accused of hitting his wife in the head and back during an argument. The victim reportedly defended herself by hitting Heinman with her purse. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Sanford police also charged a 34-year-old man with spouse abuse-battery, Henry Mitchel, of 121 Hughes Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 1:10 a.m. Saturday at his home after allegedly hitting his wife in the face. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Search Brings Drug Charges

City and County Investigation Bureau agents with a warrant, who searched a home at 1485 County Road 427, Longwood, at about 4:30 p.m. Friday, arrested a resident of that home.

John Boyd Wilson, 54, was charged with trafficking in cocaine and was being held without bond after agents reportedly found cocaine and drug paraphernalia in a bedroom of the home.

Parade Floats Take Awards

Kmart's nativity scene float has won the Grand Marshal award for best overall entry in Sanford/Seminole Jaycees' Christmas parade held Saturday. Entries were judged on how well they depicted the parade theme, "First Christmas."

Trophies and plaques were given at 9 a.m. today at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce by parade chairman Larry Blair.

Hamilton Elementary School was the only group entered to win three trophies.

The judges picked the Lutheran Church entry for first place in the Religious Floats category followed by the Fast Forward Calvary Assembly entry, which received second place.

Sanford Gymnastics Association took first place for the best entry in the Civic Float category and the Seminole County 4-H was second.

Idylwild Elementary got first place in the School Float category and second place went to Hamilton.

Hamilton also received first and second place in the School

Marching Unit category for its drill team and recorder units. Seminole County Head Start PTA was first place in School Vehicle category and Oviedo High School Future Farmers of America, second.

P.J.'s Cycle received first place in the Commercial Vehicle category and Seminole Ford was second.

Rotaract Club took first place in the Civic Vehicle category and Cub Scout Pack 34 was second.

The Degillette Girls were judged first in Civic Marching Units and the YMCA Indian Guides were second.

Sweet Harmony No. 338 was first place in Religious Vehicles.

Best Individual and Horse went to The Nicks and Kicks Entry 32, first place, and Nickers and Neighs Entry 24.

Bands received the following ratings for their performance in the parade: High Schools — Lyman, excellent; Seminole, superior; Middle Schools — Lakeview and Tukawilla, excellent and Sanford, superior.

moving," she said, pausing before continuing in a shaky voice. "And... I said... Oh please God, not now. And... when they pulled him out, hundreds of people were on the beach and they just cheered and cheered."

The chilly nearness of death nudged Mrs. Clark towards contemplation of her fate, and that of her son.

"I promised the Lord that if he pulled us out of there, and kept that boat afloat long enough for us to get out, I'd do anything I could to serve him in any way... I've got a big debt to pay," she said.

"My friend's banged up pretty good, but she was great. We look like someone worked us over with a billy club.

"We didn't panic. I think if we had panicked like we wanted to we've never have made it. We kept out heads, held on to each other, and the baby, and worked together. She kept trying and trying to find a hole, a door so we could get out. But the furniture kept rushing into us. It was impossible to decipher where we were.

"Strange things go through your head," she said. "I thought of the 'Poseidon Adventure,' which was a movie about passengers trapped in a tidal-wave-flipped ocean liner." She also thought about all the people who have died by drowning.

"The fear is undecipherable," she said, "undecipherable. I think it has changed my priorities. I can't really tell you how, but it definitely changed my life. My girlfriend and I were just discussing you don't get too many chances to live again. That's the way I feel. We've been given another chance to live."

Nice Day For Most States

By United Press International
Most of the country enjoyed clear skies and the promise of unseasonably warm weather today, although rain fell in the southern Plains and the Pacific Northwest and snow flurries dusted areas of the Great Lakes and New England.

Temperatures dipped into the teens in most of the Northeast early Sunday, but warmer weather was in store today, forecasters said.

"It should be warming up there, into the 30s and 40s," Bill Barlow of the National Weather Service said early today. "We'll have warmer than average temperatures across most of the country."

The NWS said rain today doused south Texas, rain and snow was reported in Washington and scattered snow flurries were reported in the Great Lakes and New England.

Icy roads in the Midwest were blamed for at least three fatal traffic accidents during the weekend, one of them in Kansas and two in Missouri.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., had the nation's coldest temperature Sunday with a reading of 11 degrees below zero. It was 10 degrees in Hartford, Conn.; 12 in Providence, R.I.; and 19 in New York City.

Winds gusting to 35 mph prompted gale warnings for lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario. A travelers advisory for dense fog was posted late Sunday in north-central Kansas. Fog began to develop in the area early Sunday evening.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highest temperature reported Sunday by the National Weather Service, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 82 degrees at Naples, Fla.

Three Family Members Dead In Puzzling Shootout

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Police today are still trying to piece together the details of a triple killing involving a father apparently bearing Christmas gifts, his ex-wife and their daughter.

Those dead in the shooting late Sunday were identified as Ellis Ashley Russ, 41, of Lake City, Fla., Annetta M. Russ, 38, and Ann Elizabeth Russ, 17, both of Gainesville.

Alachua Sheriff's Department spokesman Spencer Mann said Ellis Russ was the ex-husband of Annetta Russ and Ann was their daughter. Two other children, a 9-year-old girl and a 10-year-old boy, ran from the shooting scene and were safe.

Mann said Ellis Russ came to the residence of his ex-wife about 8:39 p.m. and the two argued. Russ then shot the daughter, Mann said. Afterward, there was more gunfire but investigators are still trying to piece together the details.

Voyager Damaged On Takeoff, Crew Remains Undaunted

MWOJAVE, Calif. (UPI) — The Voyager experimental aircraft, its crew undaunted despite damage to its wingtips on takeoff, soared out over the Pacific on the last great adventure in aviation — a historic attempt to fly non-stop around the world without refueling.

Tucked inside a cockpit the size of a pup tent, co-pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager lifted off the Edwards Air Force Base runway at 11:05 a.m. EST Sunday into cold and partly cloudy skies and circled above the Mojave Desert about 90 miles northeast of Los Angeles before heading toward the vastness of the ocean.

At 11 p.m. EST, Voyager was about 1,600 miles west-southwest of the base, a little more than halfway to Hawaii, project spokesman Peter Riva said. The craft was expected to pass south of Hilo, Hawaii, early today.

Contra-Aid Man Found Dead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A man who had provided information about his role in a private network supplying arms to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua has died of a possible drug overdose, authorities said.

Steven Carr, 27, was identified Saturday by his sister, Linda Nichols, the Los Angeles County Coroner's Office confirmed Sunday.

Carr, a key witness in a federal lawsuit that charges U.S. officials and weapons merchants with ferrying arms to Nicaragua, reportedly provided information to federal investigators looking into allegations of wrongdoing by the Nicaraguan rebels, known as the Contras, and their U.S. supporters.

Carr collapsed outside a home in the Van Nuys district at 4 a.m. Saturday. His death was listed as a "possible drug overdose," police Officer Rodney Manning said. The coroner's office said an autopsy was inconclusive and toxicology tests were being run to determine the cause of death.

Slain Mayor Eulogized

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (UPI) — Mayor Edward King, shot and killed last week during a City Council meeting by a man apparently upset over sewer problems, was eulogized at his funeral as the "finest mayor in Iowa."

An overflow crowd of more than 2,000 people in the city of 7,300 turned out Sunday at services for King, 53, who also will be honored with a fountain to be built in the Mount Pleasant town square during the spring.

Hastings Tries To Stop 'Witch Hunt'

MIAMI (UPI) — A 381-page report by 14 federal judges that U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings called fundamentally unfair and part of a witch hunt against him could lead to the impeachment of Florida's first black U.S. district judge.

Hastings, 50, of Altamonte Springs, is expected to respond by Wednesday to the report that concluded he agreed to take a bribe and then fabricated evidence that earned him an acquittal.

His primary goal is to stop the judges' secret report, based on an unprecedented 3 1/2-year investigation, from reaching Congress, which has the power to remove a life-tenured federal Judge from office.

Nevada's Harry Claiborne, a convicted tax dodger, is the only judge who has been impeached in the last 50 years.

A federal jury rejected bribery charges against Hastings in a 1983 trial in Miami and his response to the inquiry will argue that the panel's reasoning was faulty and their efforts were misguided, which resulted in incorrect conclusions, said Terry Anderson, Hastings' attorney.

Hastings has called the investigation a "witch hunt" and said it was fundamentally unfair to be the subject of a secret inquiry into the same charges he already has been acquitted of.

A specially appointed committee of five judges began looking into the case shortly after Hastings was acquitted. They concluded not that the jury was wrong, but that the panel was misled by Hastings.

The 14-judge council of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals endorsed that conclusion in a secret resolution adopted Aug. 29.

If the U.S. Judicial Conference agrees with 11th Circuit council, the report will be sent to Congress, where the House Judiciary Committee can choose to begin impeachment proceedings.

Hastings was acquitted in February 1983 on charges he conspired with Washington D.C. attorney William Borders to solicit a bribe from two convicted racketeers Hastings had sentenced.

Borders was arrested after he accepted $125,000 from an undercover FBI agent.

Hastings said Borders, who was convicted of the charges, acted on his own in the scheme.

He said the complaint against him was the result of a judicial conspiracy to remove him because he was outspoken and frequently made controversial remarks.

Panel: Iran-Contra Investigation Stymied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The leaders of the Senate Intelligence Committee say they will not pay for the missing pieces of the Iran arms-Contra aid puzzle if the price is immunity for the principals involved in the clandestine scheme.

Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the intelligence committee, described his panel's investigation as stymied and — counting from when the secret Iran arms deals first surfaced — said, "We're in the 43rd day of something that looks like it's going to go 430 days."

But Durenberger and Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., rejected the idea of immunity for the two key figures in the scandal, former national security adviser Vice Adm. John Poindexter and National Security Council staffer Lt. Col. Oliver North.

affair that has shaken the administration to its foundations.

"(There) are other people in the government who knew exactly what went on," Durenberger said, identifying CIA Director William Casey, who is to face the panel Tuesday, as one who can shed more light on the murky arrangements.

He said the panel also will call White House chief of staff Donald Regan in its effort to discover how arms profits were filtered to the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan Contra rebels at a time when Congress had barred direct military aid, and who was involved in — or cut out of — the decision 18 months ago to use weapons to curry favor with elements in Iran.

There were these other developments Sunday:

—The Lowell (Mass.) Sun reported that some of the Iran-arms profits were used to support GOP candidates in the November elections. Also, The Miami Herald said North was instrumental in arranging a pro-Contra PR campaign in 1985 but said it found no evidence showing that funds were diverted to that effort.

—Senate GOP leader Bob Dole of Kansas said Regan should stay in his top White House job and that Regan had told him he intends to stay. At the same time, Dole said the president should name a special counselor, such as former Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., to advise him on coping with the controversy.

—Lawrence Walsh, reported by United Press International last week as the leading candidate to become special prosecutor in the case, has been selected for the post, National Public Radio reported. Walsh, 74, a retired federal judge, is expected to be formally named this week by a special federal court.

—White House aide Patrick Buchanan renewed his attack against Congress and his support for North. Buchanan charged that certain members of Congress are using the Iran-Contra scandal to cripple the administration and said North acted with "the highest motivation ... to help the Contras contain communism in Central America."

Report: Hawkins' TV Ads Paid With Arms Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House officials, including Lt. Col. Oliver North, knew that $5 million in profits from arms sales to Iran went to conservative political action groups in the United States, a newspaper reports.

The Lowell (Mass.) Sun, quoting unidentified sources, reported Sunday that the money was diverted to groups supporting congressional candidates who backed President Reagan's agenda, including aid for the Nicaraguan Contras and the "Star Wars" anti-missile defense.

North and other members of the National Security Council were aware that the money was being used for political purposes, with some of the profits used to purchase air time for negative ads against liberal Democrats, the Sun said.

The Sun reported candidates benefiting from the money included first-term Republican Sens. Paula Hawkins of Florida and Jeremiah Denton of Alabama — vehement supporters of the Contras. Both were defeated Nov. 4.

The money also went to boost the Senate bid of Rep. Ken Kramer, R-Colo., who was defeated by Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo.

Also, The Miami Herald reported Sunday that North supervised the financing and production of a national media campaign to gain support for the Contras and undermine congressional foes of U.S. aid to the rebels.

And the Los Angeles Times reported today that North took a direct role in aiding a private television ad campaign aimed at members of Congress opposed to aid to the Contras.

The Times, citing people involved in the campaign, said North introduced a major conservative fund-raiser to Contra rebel leaders, spoke to groups of donors to the political campaign and requisitioned a videotape from the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency for use in a political commercial.

Storm Clouds In The Senate

If you think President Reagan has problems now, just wait until the 100th Congress convenes on Jan. 6.

The Democratic majority on Capitol Hill is already positioning itself to set the national agenda during the next two years. That much was obvious in November when Robert Byrd, the new Senate Majority Leader, urged President Reagan to send his budget to Capitol Hill early in January, a month ahead of schedule.

Of course, such negativism has been commonplace on the House side during the last six years. But now that the Democrats have captured the Senate, they will have an even greater opportunity to take potshots at the Reagan budget and the president's other programs as well.

For example, Sen. Lawton Chiles, who will chair the budget committee, is expected to take issue with President Reagan's spending priorities. The Florida Democrat favors expanded federal expenditures for education and research and development. He says additional federal revenues will be necessary to finance these and other programs.

Another certain trouble spot for the president is the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Claiborne Pell. The Rhode Island Democrat bitterly criticizes Contra aid, referring to the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan resistance as "our terrorists."

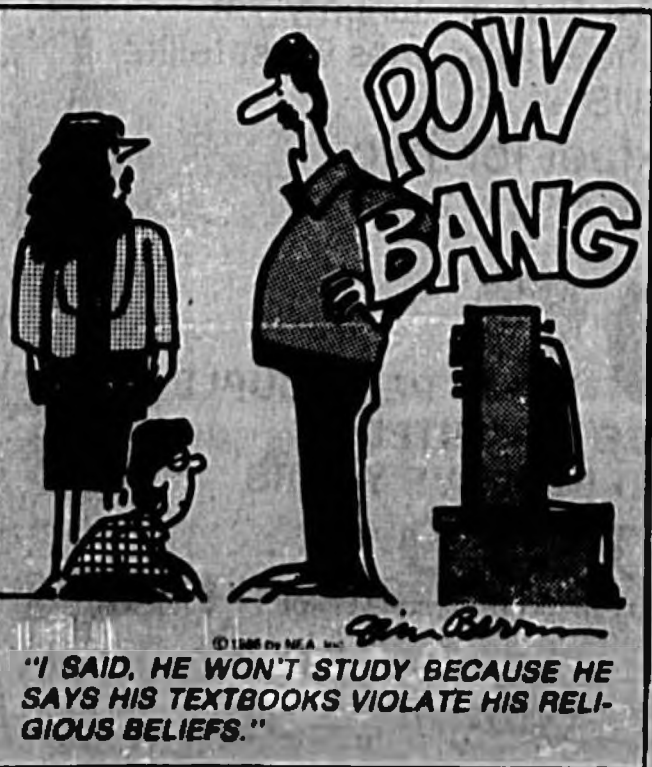

Things won't be any easier on the Judiciary Committee, where Sen. Joe Biden will hold sway. A probable presidential candidate, the Delaware Democrat could turn his chairmanship into a bully pulpit from which to assail conservative nominees for federal judgeships.

Sen. Ted Kennedy, the old liberal war-horse, will head the Labor and Human Resources Committee. He will no doubt push for costly job-training programs, increased federal health-care funding and a higher minimum wage.

Other problems could arise at the Senate Finance Committee, where chairman and perpetual gadfly William Proxmire, D-Wis., is expected to harass the nation's financial community. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, has promised that his Finance Committee will begin drafting a protectionist trade bill by February.

Thus, President Reagan finds himself in a position somewhat similar to that of Harry Truman in 1948. Although surrounded by a hostile Congress, Mr. Truman was nonetheless able to govern effectively and, in fact, turned the "do-nothing" Congress to good account.

BERRY'S WORLD

DICK WEST

On The Importance Of Being Rambo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hollywood actors Sylvester Stallone and Clint Eastwood head a list of the "25 Most Important Americans" published by, you should pardon the expression, Penthouse magazine.

Although the publication deliberately excluded President Reagan and other government officials, it obviously retained the right to select important former federal biggies.

Both Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger are on the list. Also mentioned as important are "corporate raiders" Saul Steinberg and T. Boone Pickens.

Likewise curious, considering "their money" was one consideration, there was no mention of Ross Perot, the billionaire said to have been involved in efforts to free American hostages in Lebanon.

Far be it from me to suggest that Stallone's and Eastwood's movie roles had anything to do with their being chosen.

Yet even Reagan himself apparently admired the way Stallone portrayed the screen character "Rambo." And he once used an Eastwood line — "Go ahead, make my day" — to characterize his own dealings with Congress.

As a magazine publicist wrote, Stallone showed in his performances that "the ordinary American could achieve the goals of justice and dignity by the use of violence."

It further was alleged that Eastwood's movies demonstrated "an unerring knowledge of what is right and wrong" by portraying the star as "utterly without pity."

I'm not saying Reagan admired the way Rambo shot up the North Vietnamese. It could be he merely likes screenplays that call for an ordinary American to obtain justice by force.

Anyway, I think it's a pity there hasn't been a more modern sequel. It could be titled "Rambo Visits the Middle East." Or some such title.

I'd like to see any Iranian-controlled Lebanese hostage-taker stand up to Rambo's concept of justice.

Let's assume that when Stallone goes to Iran he takes along an arm load of weapons not to trade for hostages but for his own use.

Then he discovers a pro-communist government in Central America is holding still more hostages and that its opposition leaders only respond to cash.

There might be a law against supplying the Contra forces, but what's an actor to do?

Rambo does what any other ordinary American bent upon achieving justice would have done. He white washes profits from the Iran arms through a Swiss bank and gives it to the Contras.

Sure enough, a hostage in Lebanon is released. It may not be the hostage Rambo had in mind but he learned long ago not to look a gift horse in the mouth.

Rambo, as you can tell, had a good cliché teacher.

As far as sequels are concerned, it might be less costly simply to cast Eastwood in another "apaghetti western." Any oater filmed in Lebanon with an Italian director will do.

But if budgetary considerations play a part, why not reappoint Kissinger to some federal post?

Kidney Transplant Problems

Americans with life-threatening kidney disease may be paying more for transplants because kidneys removed from cadavers are being sold for profit overseas, the Health and Human Services Department's inspector general has concluded.

In 1985, between 200 and 250 human kidneys were shipped out of the country, while 300 foreign nationals received kidney transplants here.

The inspector general estimates that Medicare could save $37.5 million a year on kidney transplants if the competitive pressure from wealthy foreigners is removed. The Health Care Financing Administration has agreed with the inspector general's recommendation that kidney exports be embargoed unless it is determined that no suitable American recipient is available.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Partisan sniping is accepted behavior in this town, but could it at least be faintly believable?

We refer to the alleged first-family spat in which President Reagan supposedly snapped at his wife: "Get off my blanket-blank back!"

Here are a few questions that some responsible editor should have asked before this tripe was printed: Where did the spat occur? At a state banquet? If so, why didn't anyone else report it?

In the Reagans' bedroom? If so, how could it possibly have been overheard? Is the room bugged? Or are you suggesting one of the Reagans leaked the story?

REAGAN'S DILEMMA: Our mail on the Iranian affair is divided.

Some believe President Reagan is up against a totally unscrupulous adversary and, therefore, cannot fight back with Marquis of Queensberry rules.

Others insist that the president must not abandon the principles that have characterized America.

If you agree the president was right in dealing with Ayatollah Khomeini's people at their level, dial 1-800-210-3280. If you think the president was wrong, dial 1-800-210-3284.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Comes now a psychiatrist to diagnose the high rollers who have made Wall Street a weird mixture of Pimlico and piracy. He says, as we understand it, that the speculators are in it mainly for kicks. They get their "high" by pulling off a deal, outwitting their fellow buccaners and conning the public. Greed is common enough at any level to be understandable. But money jugglers who ruin small investors, throw people out of work and flout the law just for the merry thrill of it are truly frightening.

Spreading 'Liberation Theology'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Leading clerics of controversial "liberation theology" attended a week-long seminar in Mexico to discuss ways to spread their ideas in the Third World, despite the opposition of Pope John Paul II.

Open sessions were held in Mexico City, while the group also held closed-door meetings in the resort of Oaxtepec, 25 miles south of the capital.

Among the clerics was Gustavo Gutiérrez, a priest from Peru and one of the founders of the movement.

He was joined by a group forming a virtual Who's Who of the movement, including Allan Boesak of Malawi, Blinmenyi Kwashi of Cameroon, Jose Miguez Bonino of Argentina and the controversial Brazilian priest Leonardo Boff.

Gutiérrez summed up the conference by saying: "If I am hungry, it is

SCIENCE WORLD

Odors Affect Menstrual Cycle

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Male and female body odors play key roles in regulating a woman's reproductive system and may point the way toward new methods of birth control, researchers say.

They said the potential for using body scents to control fertility grows from their discovery that humans produce subtle but powerful odor chemicals, called pheromones, that affect the body activity of those exposed to the odor's essence.

Scientists from the Monell Chemical Senses Center, working with the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, reported that prolonged exposure to underarm odors secreted by a man increased a woman's likelihood of having a normal menstrual cycle lasting 26 to 32 days.

The research team, headed by biologist Winnifred Cutler and organic chemist George Preti, also reported that a woman exposed to underarm scents from another woman for three months would start menstruating at the same time as the scent donor.

Cutler and Preti said the discovery about female odors helps explain the long-observed fact that women who work or live together tend to have synchronized menstrual cycles.

Scientists had long suspected that humans, like insects and some mammals, produce pheromones. But the suspicion had never before been proved true in a carefully controlled experiment.

"This is the first experimental evidence of pheromones in humans, and the system they appear to be influencing is the female reproductive system," Preti said. "This may lead to new ways of fertility enhancement and control."

Preti said one possibility is that essence of male scent might be used to normalize irregular menstrual cycles, while essence of female scent might provide a way to trigger ovulation at a specific time. He said the non-profit center has filed applications for four patents with that possibility in mind.

Cutler carried the implications of the discovery even farther, saying male scent apparently plays a key role in maintaining female sexual health.

"A man — or his essence — seems essential for an optimally fertile system," Cutler said. She said the findings raised the possibility that commercial perfumes, sprays or creams containing male essence might be manufactured eventually to improve the sexual well-being of women.

Cutler and Preti conducted their experiments by collecting underarm secretions from male and female donors, distilling the essence of those secretions and daubing the essence on the upper lips of female recipients.

Careful "double-blind" safeguards were set up to filter out influence by outside factors, the researchers said, and subjects were exposed to the scents exactly one year after they were collected to cancel out lunar and annual influences on menstrual activity.

Although the scent was applied just under the subject's nose, Cutler and Preti said there was no way to determine whether the pheromones were inhaled or absorbed through the skin. Nor, they said, was there any way to tell which of some 200 underarm chemicals caused the effects they recorded.

Taking A Look At The Fifth

By Arnold Sawiak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What goes around, the saying has it, comes around. And so it is with the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, delivering on this orbit a classic irony for people who have lived long enough to see the circle joined.

About 30 years ago, when the anxieties of the new-born Cold War were replacing the national unity of World War II and congressional committees were falling all over themselves trying to find communists to blame for post-war problems, "The Fifth" fell into some diarepute.

People were summoned to Washington, put under oath and ordered to tell all about their political activities and associations a decade or more before.

No one was charged with any crime at these hearings, but some of the witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendment, which guarantees that "no person ... shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

The Amendment, which with the rest of the Bill of Rights took effect exactly 195 years ago, also contains four other major protections for private citizens who get into trouble with the law, but it would profit all Americans to brush up on them and the rest of the Constitution as well while they're in the neighborhood.

At the time, there was a lot of comment and discussion which often boiled down to the proposition, "If they didn't do anything wrong, they wouldn't have to take the Fifth." People who used their constitutional rights to refuse to testify were assumed in some circles to be guilty of something.

Some of those who refused to testify may have violated laws; others certainly were protesting what they regarded as a political witch hunt. But to the extent that the public viewed the Fifth Amendment as some kind of legalistic dodge for law breakers, all who used it were tarred.

That was bad news then and it remains so now. The central idea of the American justice is that everyone is innocent until proved guilty. Using the Fifth Amendment proves no one guilty and Americans who say it does are denying one of the key tenets of the political system they believe to be the best ever devised.

Now comes the irony. Many of those who took the Fifth or cited other constitutional protections in the 1940s and 1950s were liberals (and, in some cases, communists) from what was then Ronald Reagan's world, entertainment.

Catholic Church Rejects Condoms In AIDS Fight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The nation's largest archdiocese has withdrawn its support from an AIDS program because it endorses the use of condoms, prompting new charges that the Catholic church is out of touch with the modern world.

"In 1986, one of the facts of life which all Americans need to face is that any penetrative sexual intercourse necessitates the use of prophylactics," said Eric Rofes, executive director of The Gay & Lesbian Community Services Center.

Despite evidence that condoms are effective in decreasing the spread of the deadly AIDS virus, Archbishop Roger Mahony announced Dec. 8 that the Los Angeles archdiocese would not support the AIDS education program aimed at Hispanic parishioners.

Mahony withdrew his support because the use of condoms was among the preventive measures recommended in a program sponsored by a consortium of 13 service organizations.

His statement means church property cannot be used for lectures that are a part of the program.

"The Roman Catholic Church does not approve of the use of condoms," Mahony said. "In the issue of AIDS, such use implies either heterosexual promiscuity or homosexual activity. The church approves of neither."

The Los Angeles area has the third highest number of AIDS cases in the nation following New York and San Francisco. County health officials say a total of 2,360 AIDS cases have been reported through Oct. 31, with another 172 suspected cases under investigation.

Victims of the disease are predominantly gay men. The latest controversy comes during a period of increasingly vocal Vatican condemnation of homosexual activity and reiteration of the 'Abstinence is not a very viable piece of advice for the Roman Catholic population as it exists today.'

—Sheila Briggs Theology professor

church's opposition to all contraceptives.

Church officials have suggested sexual abstinence as a way to combat AIDS, which the national Centers for Disease Control said has claimed nearly 16,000 victims. It says the number of cases is doubling every 13 months.

Sheila Briggs, a theology professor at the University of Southern California, said, "Abstinence is not a very viable piece of advice for the Roman Catholic population as it exists today."

Briggs said that despite church doctrine, there is statistical evidence that the nation's 52.5 million Catholics are more "irresponsible" in their sexual practices than non-Catholics.

"There is also evidence to suggest that Catholics have a higher incidence of AIDS than the general population," she said, citing a survey in "New Wave Ministry," a journal produced by Catholic lesbians and homosexuals.

In Los Angeles, which has the nation's largest Hispanic population, the archdiocese's refusal to support the AIDS education program has been criticized by sponsors.

They cited statistics showing 14 percent of AIDS victims are Hispanic, more than double the percentage of Hispanics in the total population, and said language barriers have impeded the dissemination of information.

Mahony, who has been active in the Hispanic community, said he would reconsider his support of the education program if condoms are not included in the presentation.

But Judy Siegel, director of education and training for AIDS Project Los Angeles, one of the sponsors, said, "You can't talk about prevention if you don't talk about condoms."

Professor Briggs, who is Catholic, said Mahony is hamstrung by church doctrine.

"To be fair to Bishop Mahony and other U.S. bishops, they are aware of the church's responsibility (in fighting AIDS)," she said.

"Unfortunately, the American bishops are in a difficult position because the Vatican feels at the moment that the U.S. church is too liberal in its views on sex."

"This continuing pressure on the bishops to reaffirm the church's teachings places the bishops in a dilemma when presented with departing with church teachings."

Earlier this year, the Rev. Charles Curran lost his license as an official church theologian at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen of Seattle was stripped of many of his duties because the Vatican was unhappy with their liberal stands on moral issues.

Curran maintains that contraception is not "intrinsically evil" and that homosexual acts "in the context of a loving relationship striving for permanency" can be "morally good."

Hunthausen, meanwhile, permitted church affiliation with homosexual groups and sterilization in Catholic hospitals.

The cases sparked a fire of revolt among U.S. church leaders. But in November, after an agonizing debate, bishops decided to back the pope.

Fingerprint Computer To Speed Crime Probes

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Department of Law Enforcement's new $21.7 million computer will scan hundreds of thousands of fingerprint records in minutes and help bring criminal investigators into the space age, officials said.

The Automated Fingerprint Identification System will be in place by next spring and will be connected to 28 substations within five years.

Alan Knudson, bureau chief in the FDLE's Division of Criminal Justice Information Systems, said the advantage over existing microfilm records goes beyond the speed of identification.

As it stands, police usually use fingerprints to confirm a suspect was at a crime scene. That means they must already have a physical description or an actual suspect and have a complete set of 10 prints to work with.

Lake Mary Spirit Willing, Flesh Yet To Hit Its Peak

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Lake Mary's spirit is willing, but the flesh has not hit its peak.

Coach Doug Peters and his Ram wrestlers wanted to win the 15th annual Emerson Electric Lyman Christmas Wrestling Tournament in the worst way. With perennial powerhouse and two-time defending champion Brandon absent from the field, the time was ripe for the Rams to establish themselves as the wrestling power in Central Florida.

The spirit: "We wanted to win this tournament so bad," Peters said.

The flesh: Orlando Colonial 164, Orlando Bishop Moore 156, Lake Mary 128 1/2.

Yes, the spirit was willing Saturday night at Lyman High School, but the flesh has not hit its peak. Ditto for Saturday morning when the Rams lost two big matches in the semifinal round.

"We are about a month away," Peters said. "We wanted it, but maybe it will do us some good in the long run. We thought we were king of the hill in Central Florida, but we're not."

"Colonial has a heckuva team."

The Grenadiers, co-coached by John Hauser and former Seminole High mentor Scott Sherman, carried an eight-point lead into the finals. Early victories by Jerrod Foster (101 pounds) and Vic Mendoza (107) and Jason Clevenger (141) assured Colonial of the top prize before 951 fans Saturday night at Lyman High School.

Not all of Lake Mary's flesh, however, has yet to reach its peak. Troy Jackson, with 400-plus pounds of flesh, Bill Richards, an underized 156-pounder, and surprising 115-pounder Scott Flores each picked up individual championships.

Flores, an unseeded junior, was so impressive with his march to the title that he was voted the outstanding lightweight for the tournament. Orlando Evans 223-pound Corkey McCoy was the outstanding heavyweight.

"We want the whole team to wrestle the way

Wrestling

Richards, Jackson and Flores did," Peters said. "We had a couple of guys who aren't in shape yet and one guy who had a big head. I'm sure they'll learn from this and be ready the next time."

Flores wasn't as dominant as Richards and Jackson but was just as effective. The scrappy 115-pounder found a way to win the close ones, taking three narrow decisions and a pin en route to his first Christmas title.

In the final, he worked his way to a 9-6 decision over Winter Park's Jimmy Lott. Holding a precarious 7-6 lead with 45 seconds to go, Flores cemented the victory with a reversal with three ticks left.

Richards, who missed weight at 148 Friday, moved up a class and still overpowered the opposition. He collected three consecutive pins in the preliminaries before mauling Bishop Moore's Ryan Greeno, 10-2, in the final.

Richards, unbeaten in five matches, used two takedowns and an escape for a 5-0 lead midway through the second period. He let Greeno escape before using a nifty front headlock for another takedown and a 7-1 edge.

"He (Greeno) was looking for a cradle move and I just threw my arm past him," Richard said.

Jackson, unbeaten in four matches, had to work beyond his normal first-period stick, but the big fella said he relished the overtime. "I kinda figured he would give me a tough match," Jackson said about Stuart Martin County's Scott Randal who finally fell victim to a pin at 3:58. "That was only the second match I've gone into the second period and I've got to get used to it."

Jackson used a takedown and a reversal for a 4-2 lead after one period. Two takedowns sandwiched a Randal escape for an 8-3 edge midway through the second period. The end came suddenly.

No Kicks: Girls Fit To Be Tied

By Chris Fister

The score might not indicate it, but Seminole High's Lady Seminoles and Oviedo's Lady Lions did play 80 minutes of soccer Saturday at Seminole High.

In those 80 minutes, there were a total of 23 shots on goal, but not one of them went through the pipes as the two Seminole Athletic Conference squads battled to a scoreless tie.

Seminole, 1-2-2 overall and 0-2-1 in the SAC, is at DeLand Tuesday and returns to SAC play Wednesday at Lake Brantley. Oviedo now stands at 1-1-3 overall and 0-1-2 in the conference. The Lady Lions host Lake Mary Wednesday.

Seminole coach Susy Reno said the key to holding Oviedo scoreless was shutting down the high-scoring tandem of Cathy Bergman (seven goals for the season) and Kelly Price (three goals). Seminole's Cindy Bengel marked Bergman while Jennifer Roberts marked Price.

"The defense did an outstanding job keeping Oviedo scoreless," Reno said. "Cindy (Bengel) and Jennifer (Roberts) didn't give Bergman and Price a chance to do much of anything."

Oviedo took 12 shots on goal compared to Seminole's 11. Seminole keeper Sherri Rumler had 19 saves for the match including numerous saves where she came out of the goal to take away an Oviedo shot. Oviedo keeper Lori Blackburn came up with four saves.

On offense, Reno said Melissa Shuckman, Julia Robert, Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic and Heather "Worm" Brown helped create some good opportunities for Seminole but the combination of Oviedo's tough defense and a gusting wind kept the Lady Tribe off the scoreboard.

LAKE MARY TIES LYMAN

Donna Rohr's goal on an assist from Kelley Broen with 42 seconds left enabled Lake Mary's Lady Rams to pull out a 2-2 tie against Lyman's Lady Greyhounds Saturday night at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary, 4-1-1 overall, now stands at 1-1-1 in the SAC while Lyman, 2-1-3 overall, is 0-0-3 in the conference. Lake Mary hosts Oviedo Wednesday with Lyman at home against Lake Howell.

"For four years the closest we came to Lyman was a 3-1 loss," Lake Mary coach Bill Eisacie said. "We're happy to get away with the tie, but we're obviously disappointed because if we finished better we could have possibly upset them."

Lyman took a 1-0 halftime lead on Kim Mitchell's goal. Karen Abernethy booted a dead ball toward the goal and it bounced around in front of the goal before Mitchell put it away.

The Lady Greyhounds scored again 10 minutes into the second half when Abernethy hit another ball into the middle and Bonni Steeves knocked it in for a 2-0 lead.

Lake Mary pulled within 2-1 when Michelle Mattingly's shot off the crossbar was kicked in by Cristie Snow. Lake Mary kept the offensive pressure on but Lyman kept turning the Lady Rams away until the last minute of play.

With 42 seconds left, Broen took a free kick from 25 yards out and put it to the far post where Rohr slammed it in for the tying goal.

For the game, Lake Mary took 18 shots on goal compared to Lyman's 16. Lyman keeper Sarah Cobb made 12 saves and Lake Mary keeper Tammy Scott came up with nine.

Defensively, Eisacie said Vicky Warner, Amy Alexander, Michelle Padilla, Lisa Fraher and Dorrie Ehlers all did an excellent job.

PATS BLANKS BUCHHOLZ
Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots ran their record to 4-0-1 overall with a 2-0 victory over Gainesville Buchholz Saturday at Gainesville.

Michelle Herbst scored the Lady Patriots' first goal for a 1-0 halftime lead and Colleen Lievertz's scored made it 2-0 in the second half. Brantley dominated on offense as it took 35 shots compared to Buchholz's two. Brantley keeper Wendy Vickery had to make just one save in recording her fourth shutout of the season.

Brantley, as well as the other five Seminole County teams, will compete in the Burger King Girls Soccer Tournament beginning Friday at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary wrestling coach Doug Peters watches Saturday night's championship action. Peters wasn't satisfied with the Rams' third-place finish but said his team will be tournament-ready by district time in February.

Raines Day

Seminole High Assistant Principal Bobby Lundquist, left, presents Tim Raines a check for $500, which will go for the first Seminole baseball scholarship in Raines' honor. Raines was honored by almost 200 friends and fans, and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Saturday at the Sanford Civic Center. The appreciation included kind words by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, Seminole Principal A.W. Epps Jr., assistant principal La Marr Richardson, coach Emory Blake and other friends. The highlight of the day was a documentary: Solid As A Rock: Tim Raines Comeback Story which detailed Raines' struggles with cocaine and the major role his family played in his recovery. Bucs Lose But Gain Albatross

By Ian Kaufman

United Press International
TAMPA — In losing a game, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers may have gained an albatross.

The Buccaneers, who have owned the rights to the top pick in the NFL draft five of the last 11 years, tied Indianapolis at 2-15 Sunday by dropping a 21-7 decision to Green Bay. Gerry Ellis and Paul Ott Carruth each ran for a short second-half touchdown and the Packers sacked Steve Young seven times as Tampa Bay lost its sixth consecutive game.

Green Bay, 4-11, defeated Tampa Bay for the fifth straight time and shut out the Buccaneers until Steve DeBerg flipped a 9-yard pass to Calvin Magee midway through the final quarter.

After some past mistakes trading away the top pick, Tampa Bay chose Bo Jackson with the league's No. 1 choice last year — and then failed to sign the Heisman Trophy winner. Because the Buccaneers have played an easier schedule than the Colts, Tampa Bay would again get the top pick if both teams finish with the same record. The Buccaneers, who have lost 25 of their last 26 road games, would clinch the No. 1 pick in the 1987 draft if they lose in St. Louis next week.

"It's not a position I'm very happy about," said Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett about the futility battle with the Colts. "I haven't really made any plans concerning the draft. We go to St. Louis with the idea that we're going to win the ballgame."

Bennett realizes the No. 1 pick in the draft has often felt like a burden to the Buccaneers franchise. Tampa Bay has rebuilt its offense around Young, a second-year quarterback praised by Bennett virtually every week for his constant improvement. With the availability of Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Scavone in the draft, Bennett was asked if he would consider selecting a quarterback and replied, "Sure."

Quarterback Randy Wright's 8-yard touchdown run helped Green Bay to a 7-0 halftime lead before a crowd of 30,000 at 72,000-seat Tampa Stadium. Ellis scored from two yards out

NFC Focuses Its Playoff Picture

United Press International

The NFC postseason participants were settled Sunday while the Super Bowl remains a possibility for at least nine teams from the AFC.

The New York Giants, Washington Redskins, Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers will enter the playoffs from the NFC, though there is still some scrambling left for positions and home-field sites.

The Giants and Bears have won the East and Central, respectively. A New York victory Saturday over Green Bay will guarantee the Giants the home field throughout their playoff run.

The Bears had the best regular-season record last year and earned a bye in the first round. They then played the Giants and Rams in the cold at Soldier Field and posted shutouts en route to the Super Bowl.

Chicago will earn the home field again if it wins Monday night against Detroit and next Sunday against Dallas, and the Giants lose to Green Bay.

Regardless of next weekend's outcomes, the Giants and Chicago will host first-round playoff games either Jan. 3 or 4.

The Rams, 10-5, and the 49ers, 9-5-1, will play Friday night at San Francisco with the

Football

West title on the line. The loser will play the Redskins in the wild-card game Dec. 28 at Washington.

In the AFC, the Denver Broncos have clinched the West title and the Cleveland Browns the Central. The Browns, 11-4, can clinch the home field throughout the playoffs with a victory next week over San Diego.

If the Browns lose to San Diego and Denver beats Seattle Saturday, the Broncos would earn the home field throughout the playoffs.

In the East, the New York Jets and New England Patriots are both 10-5. The Jets have clinched at least a wild-card berth. The Jets will win the division if they beat Cincinnati next Sunday and the Patriots lose to Miami Dec. 22.

The Patriots will win the division if they beat Miami. If the Patriots lose to Miami and one other AFC team finishes 10-5, not including the Jets, New England would be a wild-card team. If the Patriots lose to Miami and two or more other AFC teams finish 10-5, not including the Jets, New England does not make the playoffs.

Hillsman Would Swap Some Points For Wins

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
A 26 points per game average is pretty impressive, but Seminole High sophomore Adrien Hillsman would gladly trade a couple points off her average for a few Seminole victories.

Hillsman has scored 22 or more points in each of Seminole's four games this season with a high-game of 32 in the opener against Orlando Colonial. Behind Hillsman, however, the next highest scorer is Liz Long with a 7.2 average. No other Seminole player is averaging more than five points per game. Hillsman also leads the team in rebounds, assists and steals.

Seminole fell to 0-5 Saturday with a loss to Macon, (Ga.). The Lady Tribe will look for its first win tonight at home against Spruce Creek's Lady Hawks.

Hillsman is the only player in Seminole County averaging over 26 points per game but Erin Hankins is closing in on the 20 per game mark.

Hankins, the Lady Silver Hawks' zonebuster, is averaging 19.2 points per outing in five games. She has scored 20 or more points the last three games after coming off an ankle injury. Hankins also leads the county in free throw shooting as she has hit on 20 of 26 attempts for 76.9 percent accuracy.

Lake Mary's Lady Rams are off to a 7-1 start and will most likely move up in the 4A rankings this week after downing sixth-ranked Winter Park last week. Lake Mary has four of its five starters averaging in double figures led by the "Crunch Sisters," Cynthia Patterson (13.5 ppg.), and Tonya Lawson (12.0). Senior point guard Gabby Olden (11.1) and junior center Teri Whyte (10.3) round out the double-figure foursome.

Olden, an exchange student from Sweden, also leads the county in assists (7.4 average) and steals (7.3). Whyte, at 8-5, leads the county in blocked shots with a 3.0 average.

Along with Hankins, Tammy Lewis is another reason Lake Howell is off to a 6-1 start. Lewis, a junior guard, is fifth in the county in scoring (11.7), second in assists (5.9) and third in steals (6.3). The Lady Hawks also have the leading rebounder in senior Denise Arriola who is averaging 9.4 boards per game.

Lake Brantley, 4-3 overall, is led by senior center-forward Laurie Rivers who leads the team in scoring (9.4) and rebounding (6.9). Sophomore point guard Tracy Brandenburg leads the Lady Patriots in assists (3.1) and steals (3.1).

Oviedo has come back from a slow start to post a 3-4 record behind the strong play of sophomores Suzanne Hughes and Kristin Harrell. Harrell leads the team in scoring (6.9 average) while Hughes is second in scoring (6.8) and leads the team in rebounding (4.1), steals (1.6) and blocks (1.0).

Phillips Cites Balance For Oviedo's 6-0 Start

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer
Garth Bolton led a well-balanced scoring attack as the Oviedo Lions destroyed St. Cloud, 74-53 in prep action Saturday night in front of 501 fans at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo upped its record to 6-0 and coach Dale Phillips will now gear up his team for the annual Oviedo Classic Christmas Tournament. The Lions will return to action Thursday against the winner of Wednesday's Daytona Beach Father Lopez-Kissimmee Gateway opener.

Phillips said the Lions are becoming accustomed to their team play style which has been the key to their six consecutive victories. "This is the most balanced team I've had in a while," Phillips said. "We just spread out the scoring and had five guys in double figures again."

Bolton, a junior guard, led the way with 17 points as Oviedo had five players in double figures. Dana Hill and Chris Griffith each had 11 and both Robb Hughes and Brian Wilson added 10 for the Lions.

Oviedo led from the beginning jumping out to a 19-14 first quarter lead. "We gradually pulled away leading 37-26 at halftime and 58-45 after three quarters of play."

The Bulldogs cut the lead back to nine in the fourth but back to back buckets by Hill put the lead back up and take the wind out of St. Cloud.

Bolton ran the show for the

Basketball

Lions as he handed out seven assists and snatched four steals to go along with his scoring.

"He played a real good game," Phillips said. "He had an excellent all-around performance."

Wilson had four steals and picked handed out four assists as the Lions also hit the boards well. Hill picked up seven boards and Hughes and Robby Bowers each gathered in six rebounds.

Oviedo will hope its all-around play continues at the same level for its tournament. The tournament will open on Wednesday with the finals to be held Friday night.

In prep basketball action tonight, Lyman, 3-1, returns to the friendly confines of its gym to host DeLand. The Greyhounds are 3-0 at home. And Lake Howell, 0-2, will look for its first victory at Apopka.

In girls play tonight, Seminole entertains Port Orange Spruce Creek. Oviedo hosts St. Cloud and Lake Howell is home for Orlando Bishop Moore.

Brevard Avenges Loss To SCC

Raiders Blow 10-Point Lead In 3 Minutes, Succumb In OT

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer
Seminole Community College found out how hard winning on the road can be Saturday night in the finals of the Brevard Community College Christmas Tournament.

The Raiders couldn't hold a 10-point lead with three minutes to go as Brevard pressed its way into a 77-77 tie at regulation before running off en route to a 91-86 victory at Cocoa.

Seminole now stands at 14-2 and will resume play against Waukusha, Wis. on Jan. 2. Brevard is now 11-2 and looks to enter the top five teams in the state with the victory over Seminole.

It was the second time the teams had met this season. SCC won the first battle, 77-74, in the SCC Raider Tournament in November but came up short in the Titans' gym.

SCC, which received 20 points from Vance Hall and 19 from Malcolm Houston, held a 76-66 bulge with three minutes to play. The Titans, however, outscored the Raiders, 11-1, the remainder of the game.

In a span of 21 seconds the Raiders saw everything turn around. After the Titans had tied the score, SCC came down and attempted to set up a last-second shot attempt. James Morris was whistled for an offensive foul while trying to call the time out.

"He (Morris) came down and tried to call time out," Seminole coach Bill Payne said. "When the official didn't see him, he tried to turn to the other official. When he pivoted he hit one of their (Brevard's) players and was called for a foul."

Basketball

The Raiders escaped into overtime when the free throws were missed and had a hurried chance to win in regulation. Hall came down with the rebound, tossed the outlet pass to Houston who missed the shot at the buzzer.

"We thought he was fouled on the shot," Payne said. "The officials didn't see it that way, so that's the way it stands."

"They're a good team," Payne added. "They converted every time they needed to."

Payne said he was not happy with the outcome but was not displeased with the performance of the Raiders.

"We played well, really well," Payne said. "We just turned the ball over at a couple of bad times and it obviously hurt us."

Payne said he hopes to keep his troops healthy and injury-free going into the better part of the Mid-Florida Conference schedule which resumes in January.

LSU's Defense Shackles Tech

United Press International
Louisiana State Coach Dale Brown, who frequently expresses his opinion on U.S. foreign policy, could only offer a basic assessment Sunday night after the Tigers defeated Georgia Tech 52-49.

"I thought our defensive effort tonight was the best I've ever seen any time anywhere," Brown said.

At Baton Rouge, La., LSU held the Yellow Jackets to 38 percent shooting and Anthony Wilson led the Tigers with 19 points. Georgia Tech drew within 2 points with 2:33 remaining on Tom Hammonds' outside shot. But LSU, 3-1, answered with Wilson's baseline jumper to regain the lead.

"We're still a young team, a team that's not totally there yet," Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said. "I feel there are moments when we've gotten there, but there's still times when we are not very organized, not working together in getting the ball into the right people's hands."

"We never really had a point where we could have taken control."

The game marked the return of LSU forward Nikita Wilson, who had sat out last season with academic problems. Wilson scored 6 points.

"I was just looking forward to stepping out on the court," Wilson said. "I didn't realize how much I missed it. I struggled in the first half. I was not nervous, just anxious to get that first shot off."

For the 3-2 Yellow Jackets, Bruce Dalrymple scored 21 points and grabbed 21 rebounds and Hammonds added 12 points.

Elsewhere, Memphis State downed Georgia 82-71 to capture the Cotton States Classic, Boston College defeated Holy Cross 71-62, Texas A&M edged Nebraska 66-64 and Clemson outscored South Carolina 71-65.

At Atlanta, Marvin Alexander scored 20 points to lead Memphis State over Georgia in the championship of the Cotton States Classic. The Tigers, 5-3, shot 65 percent from the field and received 15 points apiece from Sylvester Gray and Vincent Askew. Georgia, 4-2, was led by Chad Kessler's 18 points.

At Worcester, Mass., sophomore guard Dana Barros scored 27 points, including 5 3-pointers, to lead Boston College past Holy Cross. Skip Barry added 19 points for the Eagles, and Glen Tropp paced the Crusaders with 18 points.

At College Station, Texas, Texas A&M guard Todd Holloway sank 4 free throws in the final 90 seconds to lift the Aggies over Nebraska. Holloway finished with 12 points, including 4 of 5 from the line, as the Aggies capitalized on a 20 of 28 free-throw performance and a 44-27 rebounding edge.

McCorkle: Where's Killer Instinct? — Lions Win 6-Man Tourney

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Now that Lake Mary's Rams have the passing, defense and goalkeeping down pat, killer's instinct is the main ingredient coach Larry McCorkle is looking for from his state-ranked team.

This past Saturday, the Rams out-shot DeLand's Bulldogs, 37-10, but only came away with two goals in a 2-1 victory at DeLand. Lake Mary, 4-0-1 overall, returns to Seminole Athletic Conference play Tuesday night at home against Oviedo. The Rams are 0-0-1 in the SAC while Oviedo stands at 1-0-0.

McCorkle hopes the Rams can capitalize on their opportunities Tuesday against one of the most improved teams in Oviedo's Lions. Oviedo striker Greg Brick is hard to shut out, as evidenced by his 10 goals in four games, and goalkeeper Gordon King is not easy to beat.

"We should have had six or seven goals just in the first half Saturday," McCorkle said. "The defense and midfield play is strong and they're creating a lot of chances. Now we need to put them in. With more time and seasoning, we'll be able to finish better later on."

Frank Ramseur, a substitute who entered the game in the first half, scored both goals for the Rams on Saturday. The first one came 18 minutes into the match when Ernie Broennele served a ball to Scott Schmitt who headed it toward the goal. DeLand's keeper got a hand on the ball but Ramseur was there to put away the rebound.

Lake Mary took a 2-0 lead with two minutes left in the half when Ramseur scored on an assist from Lee Alexander.

Just when it seemed Lake Mary would take a 2-0 halftime lead, DeLand struck for a goal with just two seconds left in the half on a long free kick by Thad Bostic.

"The half would have run out but the referee stopped the clock because he determined one of our guys interfered with the progress of the play," McCorkle said. "His (Bostic's) free kick glanced off one of our guys' shoulder and went into the goal."

McCorkle said the last-second goal inspired the Bulldogs who came back to shut out the Rams in the second half. Lake Mary's defense was equal to the task, though, as it kept the Dogs out of the cage as well.

"The goal definitely fired up DeLand for the second half," McCorkle said.

Soccer

"They hustled and kept themselves in the game. But our defense kept them from really getting any good opportunities."

Lake Mary's defense was led by Scott Schmitt, Pete Kinsley, Chris Risko and Rick Morales with goalkeeper Scott Betsinger coming up with four saves.

Lake Mary's junior varsity evened its record at 2-2 with a 3-0 victory over the JV Bulldogs on Saturday. Manuel Roldan had two goals to pave the way for the JV Rams while Eric Chase also scored.

OVIDEO TAKES BOONE TOURNEY

Oviedo's Lions won five consecutive matches on Friday and Saturday to claim the Boone Six-Man Tournament title at Orlando Boone High.

The tournament was played with only six men on the field for each team instead of the usual 11 and the time limit was reduced from 40 minutes per half to 25. Although victories and statistics won't go in the Oviedo record book, coach Dave Jekanoski said the championship will give the Lions momentum going into this week's action.

"This does a lot for our confidence going into a big week," Jekanoski said. "We're playing really well and I feel we've already proven we can compete with anyone."

Oviedo, 3-0-1 overall, hosts 10th-ranked (4A) Lake Mary on Tuesday and 3A powerhouse Orlando Bishop Moore on Thursday.

In the Boone Tournament, Oviedo claimed victories over Orlando Oak Ridge (3-0), Leesburg (6-0), Spruce Creek (8-2), Boone (2-0) and Seminole (5-1).

Brick had eight goals and seven assists for the tournament while Jekanoski said Mike Moody and Jimmy Guggenheim were also major contributors. King was voted the tourney's Defensive MVP.

Others who Jekanoski said excelled on defense were Rob Seltzer and Mark McDonald.

LYMAN TRUNCES WEST ORANGE

Todd Luke pumped in four goals and Mark Dubin and Eric Luben had two assists each as Lyman's Greyhounds trounced West Orange's Warriors, 7-0, Saturday at Winter Garden.

Lyman, 3-0-2 overall, has a big SAC game Tuesday night at Lake Howell High. Lyman is 0-0-1 in the SAC while Lake Howell stands at 1-0.

Greg Bailey, Dubin and Brett Wortham also scored for the Hounds Saturday. Lyman's previous high score for the season was three goals in a game.

"The guys worked really well on the attack," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "They moved the ball around and found the open players which is something we needed to improve on."

Defensively, Sandidge said Chris Walden, Kevin Smith and goalkeeper Kelly Walden led the way. Lyman's defense has given up just three goals in five games.

BRANTLEY, MERRITT ISLAND TIE

Chad Marten's second half goal enabled Lake Brantley's Patriots to come away with a 1-1 tie Saturday against Merritt Island's Mustangs at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Brantley, 2-2-1 overall, is at Seminole High Tuesday. Both teams are 0-1 in the SAC.

Merritt Island took just two shots on goal for the game, but converted on one of them as Todd Meacham's goal gave the Mustangs a 1-0 halftime lead. Brantley, on the other hand, took 19 shots on goal and managed to put just one of them in.

"I thought he had me once," Jackson said about his 270-pound opponent. "But he tried to come up again with the same move, and I caught him. I just used a reverse half for the pin."

Richards and Jackson both said the flesh will catch up with the spirit eventually.

"This tournament will tell us what we need to work on," Richards said. "We have some first-year varsity wrestlers. It was a good experience for them."

Sanford's Jackson agreed. "Come February we'll be a different team," he said. "We still have dual meets with Bishop Moore (Jan. 23) and Colonial (Feb. 4). Look out for us when the district comes around."

There may be more to look out for too, Richards' junior brother, Rob, lost an 8-7 heartbreaker to Orlando Oak Ridge's Corey Scott. Tied with 40 seconds left, Scott gambled, giving an escape, and came through with a takedown 10 seconds later.

Lake Mary veteran Enrique Carbia, the top seed at 122, was upset in the semifinal but came back for a consolation title. Peters said Jon Kolbjornsen (223) will be another solid performer.

In other championship matches, Lake Howell's Brian Horvath (129) ran into an ankle pick he couldn't handle and dropped a 12-4 decision to Martin County veteran Craig Schramm. Howell's Henry Heim got caught early and pinned by

Hallberg, Hoch Ease Frustrations

BOCA RATON (UPI) — Gary Hallberg's crystal ball played a trick on him Sunday.

After he eagled 17 to give himself and teammate Scott Hoch a two-shot lead in the Chrysler Team Championship, Hallberg said he started thinking he and Hoch would somehow finish second for the third straight year at Boca West. Hallberg and Hoch, though, collected the $140,000 winner's check that helped ease the frustrations of the previous two years.

Hallberg and Hoch shot a 9-under 63 Sunday to finish at a tournament-record, 37-under-par 251, one shot ahead of Bob Tway and Mike Hulbert, who had led the tournament until Hallberg's eagle. Tway and Hulbert, who shot 67 Sunday, collected $76,000.

The first three rounds of the best-ball tournament were played on two courses at Boca West — the 7,233-yard Course No. 1 and the 6,778-yard Course No. 2 — and the 6,510-yard course at nearby Broken Sound Golf Club. Sunday's final round was played on Boca Course No. 1. All are par-72.

Golf

Tway and Hulbert, playing two groups behind Hallberg-Hoch, birdied the 17th hole to pull within a shot of forcing a playoff, but neither could sink long birdie attempts on the 18th hole.

"I knew one of those guys was going to make a birdie on 18, then we'd go to a playoff and lose," Hallberg said.

"Throughout my career, it seems every time I was ready to get over the hump, it seemed someone would do something to knock me back. I really didn't want to count on it (winning) until the tournament was over."

Brad Faxon-Denny Hepler finished third at 33-under, and Clarence Rose-Tim Simpson and Jack Nicklaus-Jack Nicklaus II finished tied for fourth at 32-under 256.

Hallberg had eagled the 17th hole last year to get himself and Hoch into a five-team playoff won by Ray Floyd-Hal Sutton. After he hit a one-iron 20 feet from the pin on the par-5 17th Sunday, Hallberg said, he knew he'd make the putt as long as he maintained his control.

"It was one of those things," he said. "I knew it was going to go in and all I had to do was make sure I didn't do anything crazy."

Hallberg's eagle concluded a four-hole stretch which his team played in five-under par to rally from three shots behind into the lead. The most important hole on the back nine, Hallberg and Hoch agreed, was the par-3 13th, which they bogeyed.

"That (the bogey) was the best thing that could have happened," Hallberg said.

"We got real ticked off" after the bogey, Hoch said. "We should not have bogeyed. Luckily, it fired us up, but you don't plan on those things because they can put a dent in your armor."

Said PGA champion Tway: "We had birdie putts almost every hole on the back nine, but no short ones. We were 15-20-25 feet away, and that's not good enough. I don't feel any hurt. All I know is we gave it our best and it wasn't quite good enough. We played well all week."

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 12.80 last week, was down 10.12 to 1902.14 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 858-241 among the 1,273 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 7,393,000 shares.

The stock market lost ground last week in moderate trading.

A slightly weaker bond market was able to provide little support to equity prices. Ongoing investigations into insider trading and into the Iran-Contra arms scandal continued to hang over the market.

Investors were also wary of the impact of the next "triple-witching hour," coming Dec. 19. The hour is a quarterly phenomenon during which stock index futures contracts, options on those contracts and options on individual stocks expire simultaneously, sometimes causing wild swings in stock prices.

advisory boards, including Planning and Zoning, Scenic Improvement, and Code Enforcement. Any of the former contenders is welcome to apply for a board position, Mayor Smith said. "I don't think we want to lose their concern and interest because they didn't happen to win the election. Their service would be valued as members of any one of our boards."

City commissioners agreed last month on a new system for evaluating prospective board appointees. It involves a "talent bank," where applicants submit background data for commissioners' appointment considerations.

Gold Edges Up As Dollar Declines

The U.S. dollar opened lower in light trading against most major European foreign currencies today, reversing an earlier trend in the Far East. The price of gold moved higher.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed higher at 163.26 yen after fluctuating throughout the day, up from 162.98 on Friday.

The dollar opened lower on all major European exchanges, trading within a narrow range.

In Frankfurt the dollar opened at 2.0120 German marks, down from 2.0232 on Friday.

In Zurich the dollar opened at 1.8952 Swiss francs, down from a previous close of 1.7005; and in Paris at 6.80 French francs, down from 6.63.

In Amsterdam the dollar was 2.275 Dutch guilders, down from 2.288; the dollar fell below the 1,400 lire mark in Italy, opening in Milan at 1,395.37 lire, down from 1,402.25.

In London, the pound opened at $1.4337 against $1.4285 on Friday.

Chemical To Merge With Bank

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chemical New York Corp. and Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc. today said they have agreed to merge, creating a bank holding company with assets of $75 billion.

Chemical's assets of $56 billion combined with Texas Commerce assets of $18.9 billion make this one of the largest interstate banking mergers in history.

"The merger brings together two institutions with strong corporate and institutional client relationships and strong regional banking franchises," said Walter V. Shipley, Chemical's chairman and chief executive officer.

Texas Commerce is the holding company for 70 member banks in 28 markets throughout the state. Chemical New York is the holding company for Chemical Bank, which operates branches and has affiliates in 22 states and 38 foreign countries.

The merger is subject to shareholder and regulatory approval.

The applicant can target a specific board, or ask for appointment to the next advisory body that experiences an opening.

Willie King was commissioners' first "talent bank" appointee, named to the code enforcement board last month after he was the only applicant to submit the requested background information.

King submitted his application to Commissioner Bob Thomas, who then forwarded it to the full commission for consideration. They voted unanimously to give the appointment to King, who became the code board's first black member.

Each commissioner has "talent bank" application forms and the documents are also available through the city manager's office at city hall.

Mayor Smith said the forms will be "looked at first" whenever commissioners consider advisory board appointments. "I think it's a good way of knowing who's interested, by their willingness to submit information about themselves to the city," she said.

In the past, commissioners would vote on board appointments after one or more of them nominated an appointee and accompanied their recommendation with some background information on the prospective candidate.

Cary Grant's Trademark Was His Inimitable Style

Dear Abby

DEAR READERS: A few years ago, Carrie Dolan, a bright young reporter for The Wall Street Journal, was assigned to interview Cary Grant, who was in the San Francisco area for one of his rare lecture appearances. She began her article this way:

"Recently, I was alone in an elegant hotel suite with Cary Grant. My life has not been wasted."

"Sure, it was a Sunday morning, and we only had coffee. And actually we were alone for only a few minutes while his wife went downstairs to mail a letter. It doesn't matter. There are only two good reasons to become a reporter: to help change the world or to meet Cary Grant."

"Mr. Grant is perhaps the only living man who can inspire lust in any red-blooded American girl — and her mother and her grandmother. He was the one Mae West invited to come up and see her sometime. Mr. Grant is 80 years old. I am 24. It doesn't matter."

Cary Grant, who was every bit as good as he looked, deserved to live a long and rewarding life, and when it ended, to exit peacefully, swiftly and mercifully. And he did — on Nov. 29, just seven weeks before what would have been his 83rd birthday. Not a bad score. He couldn't have written a better ending himself. And the timing was just about perfect.

Over the last half-century, Cary Grant had probably more imitators than any other star of the stage or screen. Not only was he devastatingly handsome, he had a stylish all his own. The way he walked and talked and moved was unmistakably Cary Grant. Both on the screen and off, he was charming, witty and debonaire.

Cary Grant was a superstar in every sense of the word. He wore his stardom with grace and dignity, and for all his fame and adoration, he remained miraculously unspolled.

He quit making movies more than 20 years ago by choice, but in recent years he made occasional appearances in theaters around the country, billed simply as "A Conversation With Cary Grant." He didn't need much advertising. One small ad would appear in the local newspaper and the house was immediately sold out. Everywhere he played, he received a standing ovation for simply walking on the stage. He had no routine; he just sat perched on a long-legged stool in the middle of a bare stage with the spotlight beamed on his famous face, and for an hour and half he would answer questions from the audience. They loved it. And so did he.

Cary Grant closed his "conversation" with a piece he called "A Meditation," clearly stating that he did not know who wrote it, but it expressed his own sentiments about growing older.

And here it is:
"Now Lord, you've known me a long time. You know me better than I know myself. You know that each day I am growing older and someday may even be very old, so meanwhile please keep me from the habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion."

"Release me from trying to straighten out everyone's affairs. Make me thoughtful, but not moody, helpful but not overbearing. I've a certain amount of knowledge to share; still it would be very nice to have a few friends who, at the end, recognized and forgave the knowledge I lacked."

"Keep my tongue free from the recital of endless details. Seal my lips on my aches and pains: They increase daily and the need to speak of them becomes almost a compulsion. I ask for grace enough to listen to the retelling of others' afflictions, and to be helped to endure them with patience."

"I would like to have improved memory, but I'll settle for growing humility and an ability to capitulate when my memory clashes with the memory of others. Teach me the glorious lesson that on some occasions I may be mistaken."

"Keep me reasonably kind: I've never aspired to be a saint ... saints must be rather difficult to live with ... yet on the other hand, an embittered old person is a constant burden."

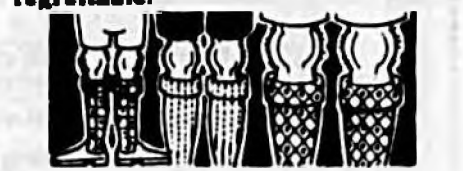

"Please give me the ability to see good in unlikely places and talents in unexpected people. And give me the grace to tell them so, dear Lord."

Anesthesia Overdose Not Necessarily Fatal

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — What damage, if any, will an overdose of general anesthesia have on one's body? Will large amounts of muscle relaxers do any harm?

DEAR READER — General anesthesia can cause respiratory and cardiac arrest. Muscle relaxants, if given in excessive quantities during surgery, also can cause paralysis of respiration. The damage from these drugs usually is acute and life-threatening. The patient requires total life support until the drugs can be neutralized. If a patient is inadvertently given an overdose of anesthesia — but can be carried through the immediate difficulty — long-term problems are not apt to develop.

Anesthesiology is, at times, an exact science. However, complications and overdosage ordinarily can be satisfactorily handled by qualified specialists both during and after surgery.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am in my 20s and just lost a great deal of weight. Everything seems to be firm except my breasts, which sag and have stretch-marks. What can I do to firm them up?

DEAR READER — A woman's breasts are supported by tiny "guy-wires" called suspensory ligaments. If, because of inadequate external support (in the form of a bra), the breasts are permitted to sag, the suspensory ligaments stretch and stop giving internal support. They never regain their elasticity. Many women who were overweight (or whose bras did not give adequate support during pregnancy) find that their breasts have stretched and won't return to normal. There are no medicines or exercises to correct this. However, plastic surgeons are quite skillful at remodeling breasts. Ask your doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon if you wish to have your breast condition corrected.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm male, 54, and started using a hair product to remove the gray. It works fine, but at night it rubs off onto the pillowcase. In the morning, my eyes are sticky and gummy. The box says not to get it in the eyes. Is this product safe to use?

DEAR READER — Although it's probably safe to use, I wouldn't use it. The material could get into your eyes at night or cause an allergic reaction. Change products. Better yet, let that gray show through. You won't be able to change the wrinkles in your skin that come with age, so leave your hair alone. If you're having an operation, you should know all you can about it. Dr. Gott's new Health Report, AN INFORMED APPROACH TO SURGERY, covers everything from second opinions to outpatient surgery.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Here is a deal that illustrates many interesting aspects of the game. First there is the bidding. The only justification East had for opening such a strong hand with a pre-emptive bid was the unfavorable vulnerability. West was right in deciding there was no future in bidding after partner's pre-empt. North had a problem that could be solved only by taking a chance with a takeout double. It was risky since he lacked support for diamonds, a suit South might have had to bid. But all was OK when South was able to bid hearts, although declarer would normally be off the first five tricks. But these were not normal circumstances. After the opening lead, West could have ended the contest quickly by underleading his diamonds to partner's jack, but he needed to see through the backs of the cards. Anyway, he had control of clubs, and declarer would eventually have to lose some spade tricks. That's what defender West thought, but look what happened. After cashing the second diamond, West led his heart. Declarer won, played A-K of clubs, pitching a spade, and ruffed a heart. He then played another heart to dummy and played the last club. When East showed out, South threw a spade and West won the fourth club. West had to lead a minor suit, allowing declarer to ruff in the dummy while getting rid of his last losing spade. There was no way for West to escape giving this "sluff and ruff," and friendly distribution had made it possible for declarer South to bring home a thin game contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
DECEMBER 16, 1986
 Healthy financial accumulation is a strong possibility for you in the year ahead. However, you must be careful not to spend your funds as quickly as they come in.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Prudent judgment is required in your financial dealings today. If you let your guard down, someone will gain, but it's not apt to be you. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals that signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you say one thing but mean something else, you will irritate others today. Be forthright instead of playing games.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't force your friends to listen to the details of your little aches and pains today. Your ailments are of interest to you, but could bore your listeners.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An attractive person of the opposite sex may flatter you with lavish attention today. It will give you ego a lift, but you shouldn't take it too seriously.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't hem and haw if there is an important matter you want to finalize today. You won't reap benefits if you're a procrastinator.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Usually you are a realistic and practical thinker, but today your perceptions could be fuzzy from too much wishful thinking.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are going shopping today, try to deal only with firms that you trust. Be sure that defective merchandise can be returned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, avoid associating with persons who have dubious reputations. Your motives will be honorable, but you'll be labeled by the company you keep.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your leo and intuition could play tricks on you today, so rely solely on your logic instead of on signals you get from within.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let yourself be drawn into a game of one-upmanship today. If a pretentious friend of yours puts on an act, there's no reason to try to top him or her.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Self-doubts mustn't be permitted to get the best of you today. It is better to make a few mistakes instead of timidly sitting back and doing nothing.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Debating with friends on topics you are unfamiliar with is a no-no today. It's wiser for you to say nothing than to try to defend doubtful premises.

ANNIE by Leonard Starr
