HOROSCOPES

Lessons you've learned from experience, both bitter and sweet, will provide the framework for some new successes in the year ahead. It could be a time of exciting and rewarding happenings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Today may be the day when you'll get a chance to spend some time with someone you've recently met who you're very anxious to get to know better. Fire your best shot. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1788, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10118.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Should you need anything from a bank to a bicycle pump today, get to a reliable customer who has been helpful to you in the past. She or he can be of considerable assistance to you again.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Align yourself with someone today whose objectives closely parallel yours and both of you stand an excellent chance of achieving your aims. Teamwork will double your odds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Only if both management and worker receive something of value for their input in any labor agreement, can long-term success be realized by each side. Do your part to comply.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It shouldn't be necessary for you to become aggressive in order to get your way with others today. Persons you have dealings with will sense your strength and resolve.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) If your mate has a special wish that is within your power to grant, make it come true today. This loving gesture will not readily be forgotten.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20) Share your day with friends whose companionship you enjoy, or if you feel actually obligated to some one, make them your guest. In either case, your time will be well spent.

VRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20) The most precious belongings we possess are our family and friends. Today you might be counting your blessings for those in your life. You are lucky indeed!

LIBRA (Sept. 21-Oct. 20) You could be tempted today to adjust your standards to put others at ease. However, if you do everything in accordance with your highest ideals, extraordinary things could happen.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 20) Although you might do your utmost today to conceal your tender inclinations, you won't be able to stop yourself from displaying certain charitable and compassionate behavior towards others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 21-Dec. 20) Without asking, someone who owes a great deal about you may put off something on your behalf that's made a difficult job much easier. Be ready to show your gratitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 21-Jan. 19) Even if it is a mystery to others, you'll intuitively know how to bring something that appears to be beyond everyone's reach a reality today. Be happy!

WIN AT BRIDGE

Don't do something careless

By Phillip Alder

In many situations, we tend to be careless, incorrectly thinking nothing can go wrong. So we unconsciously break things, including ourselves. For example, when you lift heavy objects, do you always keep your back straight and bend at the knees?

At the bridge table, we are careless too because we tend to assume odds will divide favorably. Yet it is critical not to provide for bad odds whenever possible — as in this deal.

South of the auction might surprise you, but it is logical. South is too strong for a simple overcall, which should be limited to a bid 17 points. So, he starts with a takeout double. In reply, North is nearly worth a jump to three clubs, which would promise 9-11 points. Then, when South bids two spades, he is showing a hand with some 17-19 high-card points. Suddenly North has the values for game, but which game? He transmits exactly this message by cue-bidding three hearts.

After a heart to East's ace and a heart to South's king, the overcautious declarer immediately leads a trump honor. Yet here it is fatal. East wins with his singleton ace, cashes the diamond ace (though that isn't necessary with this layout), and returns the heart queen. This promises a trump trick for West: one down.

As East is marked with the spade ace from his opening bid, South should cross to dummy's club ace at trick three, then lead a trump through East. Here, the spade ace falls on low cards. This allows South to ruff the third heart high, draw trumps, and drive out the diamond ace.

Phillip Alder's "Win at Bridge" column appears in the Comics in over issue of the Seminole Herald.

ASK DR. GOTT

Son's tumor needs immediate care

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son has been diagnosed with an early adenocarcinoma, but he refuses any treatment. Because he needs your column, perhaps you can explain how urgent it is for him to do something about his condition as soon as possible.

DEAR BRADEN: I certainly hope that your son is reading this particular column. If he refuses therapy, he is abandoning himself to a certain, certain management in the future.

Adenocarcinoma is a brain tumor that usually grows slowly. However, it does tend to invade surrounding tissues. Often, in its center, it forms a highly malignant outer called glioblastoma. If the adenocarcinoma is discovered early — as, I gather, your son's was — it can certainly be removed surgically. However, if treatment is delayed, the growth can become so widespread (especially in the brain) that it is difficult to remove that disabling neurological damage will result.

I think your concern and, without hesitation, urge your son to follow Dr. Gott's advice about therapy. Procrastination is a recipe for disaster.

BRADEN GOTT: Because of adenocarcinoma, I strongly advise brain to stop

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

Can this be diagnosed in any way?

DEAR BRADEN: I can not agree that the sudden addition of glioblastoma is in any way inevitable. However, if you notice negative medical changes over your son, including that kind of loss of your own judgment.

In a 10-degree stroke from your son's glioblastoma, doctors have recognized high-risk signs for many important conditions, including stroke, dementia and depression. In addition, with such early prompt treatment, your son could avoid the high-risk signs that can have more serious outcomes.

From a review of 100 glioblastoma patients, I strongly advise brain to stop regularly good sources of fiber — as, rather than loading all your eggs in one basket, you might enjoy more variety in your diet if you wish to complement your brain with healthy, or balance. With brain, too, is good for you.

Current research indicates that Americans need to increase their consumption of fiber. Your intake of an average is well below that, but you can avoid a significant risk of a stroke or heart disease. Your health can improve.

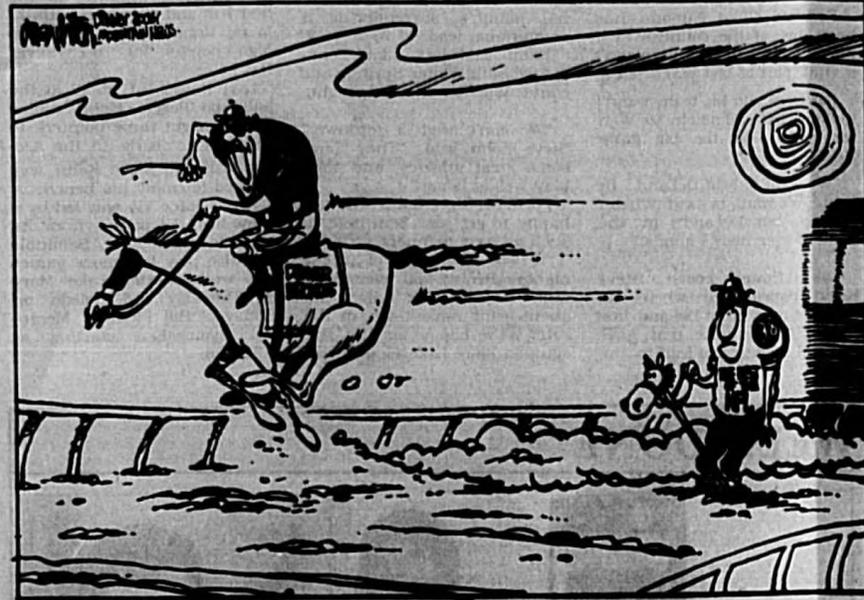

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my new book, "The Brain: The Super-Intelligent Machine." This volume, which would be a great addition to your library, is available for $9.95. You can order it from P.O. Box 887, Sanford, FL 32771, or from the Seminole Herald, P.O. Box 1788, Sanford, FL 32771.

Thank you for your interest in my work. I am sure you will find this information helpful.

GFC sets April 3-and-4 as Free Freshwater Fishing Weekend

SANFORD - The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) set the 1999 Free Freshwater Fishing Weekend for April 3-4. Anglers will be able to fish in the state's fresh waters without having to purchase a license during those two days. Commissioners adopted a rule making the first fall weekend in April Free Fishing Weekend during Friday's meeting in Tallahassee.
 Commissioners also took under consideration a packet of proposed fish and wildlife regulation changes ranging from licensing restrictions on possession of certain birds which have fishing to changing next year's wildlife management zone regulations. The GFC is scheduled to consider the proposals, along with staff recommendations, for official action during the March meeting.
 Also, during Friday's meeting, Commissioners approved the staff recommendation for adopting projects to be funded with revenues from the sale of the new "Conservative Wildlife" license plates and appointed Sen. Anna Owens to serve on the Florida Advisory Council on Environmental Education.

Da' Bomb!

All locked up!

The kids at Wilson Elementary School were asked to do a 45-minute timed essay about how they would respond to being locked in somewhere and what they would do if they couldn't get out. Here's what they had to say:

A night in Candyland

By Jacob Horner
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

There have been a lot of weird things in my life but this is the weirdest.

One Tuesday afternoon, my parents gave me my allowance. So I ran over to the biggest candy store in the world. When I had reached the candy store, I didn't know which candy to buy. So I spent hours picking out the candy I wanted. While I was looking at red hot, though, the manager said something.

"The shop is now closed," he said.

All of a sudden, the doors closed. I was locked in!

For a little while I thought this was horrible. Finally, my brain hit my senses. This was actually fabulous because I could eat all the candy I wanted! I ate so much candy, though, and I got a stomach ache. At 9:30 p.m., I made a bed out of candy canes and went to bed. At 7:30 a.m., though, there was a mysterious knock on the door, then someone unlocked the door. There stood a person who worked there and my mom and dad.

My mom told me thank goodness you are okay, and we went home. I decided just so this would never happen again that I would go to another candy shop. Ever since that day, I have never gone to that candy shop.

2 days stranded inside a book store is too long

By Kelly Grady
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

I like spending time at the book store, but two days is too long. I had experienced doing that. I was walking and looking at books. All of a sudden, something hit me really hard. Everything started going black. I woke up hearing the sounds of the door shutting. I was locked in the book store!

"Oh, great," I whispered. "I am locked in the book store. Oh, man, the book store is closed up for the weekend."

Yet I thought everything would be okay. I tried to escape through the window, but I could not. The window was jammed tight.

The next day passed, and I read almost every book in the store. I remembered I had to do an essay about what it was like to stay in some place. I called "Trapped in the Bookstore." It was about me being stuck in the book store for two days.

The next day came and I was starved. I ate some old food from my lunch box. It looked yucky but it sure was good.

"I can't wait to get out of here," I mumbled to myself. I went to sleep.

Then, someone tapped me and I answered, "Yes, what do you want?"

They said, "It's me. Now wake up. You were here all weekend. Let's go home, Kelly."

"Okay," I answered. "I'm hungry, too!"

So whenever I went to the book store I always went in the morning. I also looked around me so no one could hit me!

Da' Bomb hears all...

Da Bomb says that the kids in Mrs. Rick's class at Caseberry Elementary had an awesome time last month during Business in Education Sharing Time and Talent when they got to shadow different career opportunities while learning the importance of education. Some of the places they visited were Home Depot, McDonalds, Books-A-Million, Big League, NationsBank, Eye Associates, Chamberline's and Popeye's Chicken. They learned about reading and math and had a great time.

Congrats to Mrs. Kingston's class over at Hamilton Elementary. Da Bomb hears that her 5th graders beat Mrs. Gamble's kids in the kickball championship.

Speaking of Hamilton Elementary, you have to check out their latest newspaper. One of Hamilton's students, Brittny Martin has an awesome poem inside. Da Bomb says it's some of the best we've seen all year.

Bowl-ing for the community

Over 50 students at PACE-Brantley Hall School in Longwood sculpted bowls to be held in a musical luncheon held at the Presidential Ballroom in Church Street Station to benefit the Second Harvest Food Bank. Proceeds were used to feed those who struggle to feed themselves.

My birthday was a real bad day; I'll never forget it

By Amanda Bennett
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

I was having a bad day on Nov. 23. My name is Amanda Marie Bennett. It was my birthday. My mom, Dana Bennett, saw that my birthday was absolutely awful. My mom said, "Amanda, I know how it feels not to have a party on your birthday. When I was your age, I never got to have a birthday."

I was still down in the dumps so my mom went on.

"I'll tell you what," she said.

"What," I asked her softly.

"I'll take you to Books-A-Million."

My face lit up in surprise. My mom only took me every blue moon. My mom was happy now that I was happy and excited.

"Let's go, come on," I cried. Finally, we got there.

"Dad?"

"Yes, mom."

"I'm going to be next door. I'll get you when I'm finished looking around."

"Okay, mom," I told her. Around 10 p.m. I fell asleep in a chair reading. "Locked in a Book Store."

It was a really good book. Finally, at 10:30 p.m., the manager walked around the store making sure everyone was out. While he was looking, I was fast asleep. He did not see me. He took the keys to lock up the store. The keys were right by me, but he still did not see me. He left the store.

My mom also fell asleep in the store next to Books-A-Million.

At 11:30 p.m., I woke up. I was scared to death. I was also starving. I saw the snack bar. I started heading for it. I went in and got five pieces of pizza and a large Sprite. After I was through, I picked up my trash and threw it into a black hole. I was still hungry, because I never had lunch. I decided that I should wait until breakfast. I went back on the couch and fell asleep.

In the morning, the store that was next to Books-A-Million opened first. My mom got out. The Books-A-Million opened and I walked out. I said, "Mom, why didn't you come and get me?"

"I fell asleep in the store when I was looking at a book at Old Time Pottery," she mumbled, half awake and half asleep.

"Oh," I continued. "I will never forget last night." And I never did.

Over-hyped Super Bowl unmatched for dullness

SANFORD - What a let down. In true Super Bowl fashion, this year's 33rd installment of the biggest football game of the year did not live up to the hype.

It doesn't really matter what team won. It doesn't really matter what montage of performers were thrown together for the halftime show. And it doesn't matter which commercial was the most entertaining. (It was the Budweiser lizards that were the most entertaining, by the way.)

What matters is that the most hyped game of the year was once again a real nail-biter where the team who was favored to win blew the underdog out of the water.

Every year, thousands of people rush to grocery stores and pick up their favorite munchies and beverages in order to get ready for the big game. They invite their friends and family over and place friendly wagers on the game to make it more fun.

Then, after two weeks of pregame show after pregame show, the big moment arrives. It's time to introduce the players in stadiums where most people don't know or care who they are.

Then the coin toss, which everyone actually got right this year.

Then the National Anthem is played by a performer who couldn't find a better outfit than jeans to wear on national television.

Finally, just before everyone turns to a corpse, the teams kick off.

Even if the game were the most exciting thing ever with a million touchdowns and a tied score until the last play, it couldn't live up to the hype.

Top that off with the fact that every year that I can remember has resulted in a totally one-sided game, and the Super Bowl doesn't even stand a chance at competing with the hours and hours that are spent talking about it.

Granted, I didn't care which team won this year. I was pulling for Denver because of John Elway, who plays the game and lives his life the right way, and the local connection of defensive tackle Trevor Pryce who attended Lake Howell High School.

It would have been nice for Atlanta to win, since nobody picked them to be in the big game come year's end and the touching story of Dan Reeves and his quadruple bypass.

Frankly, I wanted to see a game. I do enjoy the pregame show (this was a little over the edge, the half-time show, the post-game show and the stuff in between).

But the reason why most people watch is to see a good football game between the supposed two best teams in the National Football League.

Once again, we were all disappointed. And there wasn't even any bad news.

I don't know what will be the situation. Truly, there is an argument that one league is stronger than the other.

There is also a good argument that one team seems to get to the big game through luck or heart. Every team should have a little of both, so that's a main point.

It is sad, however, when the best memory I take from the Super Bowl is that I finally got to see a new bad commercial with that hypnotized head and the bugs (who finally spoke, by the way).

Wouldn't it be nice if for once on the Monday after the game the conversations were about what a close, exciting game it was rather than the inevitable halftime show?

Silver Hawks stay focused

No. 4 state-ranked Lake Howell boys run past Seminole, 75-32

By Jeff Bartolotta
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - It would have been easy for the Lake Howell boys basketball team to look past last night's game against conference rival Seminole.

The Noles came into the game with a losing record and the Silver Hawks have run roughshod over everyone on the way to a number 4 ranking in the state's Class 6A poll.

Friday night, the Silver Hawks host DeLand, which lost its first game of the season Tuesday night to Mainland, in a game which will decide the district title and tonight, Lake Howell travels to take on dangerous Winter Springs. Both games are set to begin at 7:30 p.m.

But Lake Howell certainly wasn't looking ahead, pounding Seminole, 75-32, in a game pitting teams that were expected by most to vie for the conference crown.

Last season, Lake Howell emerged as district champions, but lost twice to Seminole, which went undefeated in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

This season, Seminole lost most of its players from last season and has stumbled while Lake Howell, which also lost suffered a heavy loss to graduation from last year's district champions, has thrived.

One of the main reasons is that the one returning starter -

Reggie Kohn, a University of South Florida signee - is back, and his supporting cast has been outstanding.

Forward Chad Parsons has been one of the county's best players even though he wasn't a vital, part of last year's team.

Parsons said his team wasn't looking past Seminole to Winter Springs at the big game Friday.

"We want to beat DeLand," he said. "We want to beat Winter Springs but DeLand's in the back of everybody's minds."

Lake Howell coach Steve Kohn remembered when the Silver Hawks faced DeLand last month in the game that gave DeLand a one-game lead in the district race.

In that game, which DeLand won 71-61, the Silver Hawks were outscored 20-1 in the final minutes, surrendering a comfortable lead.

Kohn said he's more concerned with Winter Springs and center Winston James tonight.

"We don't need a letdown," Steve Kohn said. "They have some great athletes and they play well at home."

For now, Steve Kohn was just happy to get past Seminole in such an easy manner.

"It was just one of those nights when we did everything well," he said. "We talk a lot about being ranked 4th in the state. We're happy for the recognition since Lake Howell has never been there before." Against Seminole, the Silver Hawks put it away early. Parsons netted 14 points in the first half and ended up with 17 to tie Reggie Kohn for team-high honors for the Silver Hawks.

Lake Howell led 35-12 at the half and Reggie Kohn nailed three straight three-pointers to ice the game early in the second half and Steve Kohn was allowed to empty his bench.

Arrow Force VII was led by a game-high 19 points from its star, Cornelius Blue. Seminole will also play two more games this week, hosting Lake Mary on Thursday and Oviedo on Friday at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Lake Howell girls post upset in 6A-3

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - Stephanie Martinez and the Lake Howell girls basketball team took out a season of frustration in the Class 6A-District 3 Tournament at Lake Mary High School Monday night.

Martinez poured in a career-high 29 points as the Silver Hawks (11-21) clobbered DeLand (16-12), a team it had lost to twice in the regular season, 68-46.

Lake Howell will now meet No. 2 seeded Lyman at 6 p.m. tonight, with No. 1 Lake Mary will host Lake Brantley, which ousted Oviedo on Monday, AT 7:30 p.m. The championship game will be on Friday at Lake Mary at 7 p.m.

In the Class 1A-District 6 Tournament at Alamosa Christian, Croome's season came to an end at the hands of Mount Dora Bible, 64-37.

In other action:
• Boys basketball - Lake Mary made it two straight over Lyman, edging the Oryrhounds, 59-56, behind 35 points from Adonis Smith at Lyman High School; Croome got 35 points from Terrance Perkins, but the Panthers dropped a 68-57 decision to Orangewood Christian School at Allen Gymnasium; West Orange outscored Lake Brantley 30-18 in the second and fourth quarters as the host Warriors prevailed, 59-47 in Winter Garden; No. 1 ranked Melbourne-Florida Air Academy outscored host Winter Springs 20-1 in the second quarter and the Bears could not recover, falling to the Falcons, 61-43.

• Boys soccer - Lake Highland Prep. (19-2) scored twice in the second half to break a 1-1 tie and went on to eliminate Winter Springs (3-19-1), 3-2, in quarterfinals of the Class 3A-District 6 Tournament at Trinity Preparatory School Tuesday.

• Boys wrestling - Lake Mary took down Lake Howell, 54-21; Edgewater pinned Oviedo, 53-18.

On tonight's schedule:
• Boys basketball - Lake Howell at Winter Springs, 7:30 p.m.; Lyman at Oviedo, 7:30 p.m.; Lake Brantley at DeLand, 7:15 p.m.

• Girls basketball - Class 6A-District 3 at Lake Mary High School: Lyman vs. Lake Howell, 6 p.m. and Lake Brantley vs. Lake Mary, 7:30 p.m.

said. "It is my intention to request that a Committee be formed to explore how we can both fight fraud and still respect the privacy of an individual."

The committee will seek input from citizens, and the findings will be presented to the Legislature, Feeney said.

"The rapid advance of technology and personal information available on the internet is a genuine threat to our personal privacy and it is the responsibility of the Florida Legislature to pursue any means available to protect reasonable privacy interests," Feeney said.

Under the repealed amendment, a driver's license photograph would flash on the screen of sales clerks for eight seconds to assist in preventing fraud. As of Monday, no further licenses are being sold.

Bush directed that the contract be terminated so the Florida Legislature can reconsider its elimination of the previously tight restrictions on access to license photos. The sale was permitted as a result of the Legislature's adoption of a statute last year permitting the sale of driver license photos to prevent consumer fraud.

"I am personally not comfortable with the state mandating license photos for the purpose of identifying authorized drivers, and then selling those photos at a profit for a completely different purpose," Bush said. "In addition, I want assurances that anyone who objects to the disclosure of their photograph has the opportunity to voice that objection and have his or her photograph removed from any database being sold."

The information on drivers' licenses has been public record for 32 years, Feeney's spokesperson Marcie Regan said. People wishing to keep the information private, only open to law enforcement agencies, can contact Feeney's office at (407) 877-6500, Regan said.

"(Feeney's) long been against the idea of drivers' license information being public record," Regan said.

Irish pined for Carlton O'Henley

'Twas a wondrous trip Seminole County Manager Gary Kaiser and Tourism Development Director Jack Wert had last week to County Wicklow in Ireland.

Many of those on the Emerald Isle asked what was going to happen to President Bill Clinton. Some also inquired about Seminole County's new Chairman, Carlton Henley. Or as the Irish might say, Carlton O'Henley.

"The Irish are pulling for the president," Wert said. "Their economy is good and they thank Clinton for helping it be good. They can't understand what the big fuss is. They asked if we knew what the outcome was going to be - thinking we had some crystal ball."

County Wicklow officials invited the Seminole officials to the opening of a much-needed bypass that will enable a number of new businesses to take root in the area. Carlton Henley was invited but couldn't attend because he was speaking at a Seminole County Chamber of Commerce function.

Seems the chairman missed some great hospitality and the opportunity to observe the optimism and joy of the Irish who live in the southeastern coast of the Isle. "These people are constantly smiling," Kaiser said. "They're perpetually happy. Optimistic."

For the past several years, officials from Wicklow and Seminole have had a growing relationship. They've offered each other tourism development and business suggestions that will enhance the quality of life in both communities.

The Irish are pleased that the Seminole School Board named one of its newest facilities Wicklow Elementary. Kaiser and Wert said that there is no Seminole School in Wicklow.

Wert said the Irish aren't as hooked on television as Americans. "We saw TVs on in a couple of pubs. Those inside were watching soccer, rugby and Gaelic football. There was no mention about our Super Bowl."

It fascinated Wert how everyone recalled Ireland's National Soccer Team training in 1994 for the World Cup at a facility in Seminole County. "Reports went back each day and the fans remembered a lot about Seminole County," he said.

The Seminole County visitors arrived at Dublin's airport prepared to see some nasty January weather but found sunshine instead. They told the Irish they had brought this weather from Florida. Upon returning to Florida, Wert said they walked into a deluge of rain.

The Irish are preparing to be in Florida in late March. Many of the Wicklow folks will march in the St. Patrick's Day Parade in New York City. There is a Wicklow Battalion each year. Then it's on to Seminole County. By that time Kaiser will be in the final days as county manager.

Seminole County is preparing a national search for a new manager. The job pays a six-figure salary and offers the winner an opportunity to live in the sunshine. There is also an occasional perk like a trip to County Wicklow, Seminole's sister county on the Emerald Isle.

Parents honor daughter's memory with theater art

LAKE MARY - A theater foundation honoring Jennifer Leah Kairis, a 1996 Lake Mary High School graduate, is raising funds to further the careers of local art students.

A student at Rollins College, Jennifer died in March 1998, during her sophomore year. A combination of prescription medicine and alcohol, contributed to her death.

The Jennifer Leah Kairis Memorial Foundation for the Theatre Arts, Inc. has been formed to honor Jennifer's memory and provide funding for theater education scholarships.

"As Jennifer's father, I decided to do something worthwhile to honor her memory and continue her dream to enhance the Theater opportunities for children in Central Florida," John Kairis, Jennifer's father and the chairman of the foundation, said.

The Civic School of Theatre Arts, the Lake Mary High School Drama Department, and the Rollins College Theater Department will receive support through the foundation.

The foundation will raise funds with the Civic Theatres of Central Florida through a play, "Triumph of Love", to be performed Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Civic Theatres in Orlando Loch Haven Park. Proceeds will be used to form the basis of the foundation's general fund.

The play is a romantic-comedy set in 18th century Paris. Kairis said his daughter loved romantic-comedies.

"Jennifer liked parts in romantic-comedies," Kairis said. "She was so good at them. The write-up of the play sounded like something Jennifer would act in, with the things she liked to do."

Kairis said the foundation is formed to continue his daughter's dream in honor of her memory.

"Jennifer's dream was to teach children theater," Kairis said.

Jennifer Leah Kairis was active in Lake Mary High School's Drama Department, and a member of Thespian Troupe 3506. She was a Theater Major at Rollins College, and was a teacher at the Civic School of Theatre Arts.

In mid-April, Lake Mary High School will raise funds for the foundation through a performance of the play "Nunsense." In May, Rollins College will raise money through performances dedicated to Jennifer Kairis during its Springfest.

On July 17, the first annual formal gala ball in honor of Kairis will be held. Her birthday was July 18. Kairis is negotiating with the Orlando Citrus Club to host the gala ball.

"Triumph of Love" performance tickets can be purchased for $25 through The Civic Theatres

Students shadow workers, view real life

By Bill Kerns

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Students in Seminole County and across the state are taking a break from class to venture into the work place this week.

In Sanford, 40 students from Winter Springs High School students shadowed employees of BellSouth Mobility. Sanford is one of six different BellSouth sites being used for the job shadowing program.

"We're trying to help students to understand the importance of learning," Larry Strickler, a BellSouth representative and a member of the Seminole County School Board from 1992-1996, said. "What is always amazing to me is that the employees get as much satisfaction as the students. They are amazed at how worldly the students are."

Students participating in the second annual National Groundhog Job Shadow Day are shadowing workers as they go through their normal days.

More than 4,279 businesses in Florida are partnering with 13,519 students.

Students from Winter Springs rode in a bus Tuesday to the work center in Sanford. After getting a broad overview of the company, Strickler said students were shown details such as how to splice fiber optic cable. Students viewed people at work both in offices, and in man-holes, Strickler said.

The job shadowing experience lasted four hours.

"For the students, this is a cross between a classroom and a lab," Strickler said. "Students will learn that we require them to not only read write, and have computation skills, but that they also have to have good speaking and interpersonal skills, they need to show up on time, and be productive members of a team."

Strickler said too many students think that a high school diploma or a college degree will guarantee a good job. He said students also need to have a

Seminole tries to stay on track with light rail

By Russ White

SEMINOLE COUNTY - On the same day Vice President Al Gore said the president is willing to spend $44 million on Central Florida's light-rail proposal, Orange and Seminole County commissioners had their doubts.

Orange officials are worried that Lynx underestimated the cost of a light-rail system by at least $85 million. The original estimate was $600 million.

Seminole County Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide said the only interest he would have is a light-rail route off Interstate 4. Seminole would not hook into light-rail for at least 10 years after Orange puts it in place.

Nevertheless, Seminole officials continue to show interest in light rail. Commissioner Grant Maloy distributed a report on his trip to San Diego to see first-hand that city's trolley (light-rail) operation. Maloy joined a Lynx delegation consisting of elected officials, Lynx staff, lobbyists and business representatives.

Maloy said the San Diego trolley averages 68,000 users per day. The number shot to 150,000 one day during the 1998 Super Bowl week. The initial phase of the trolley line was $6 million per mile in 1981 when there were low costs for right of way. The most recent line cost was $60 million per mile, Maloy said.

Maloy said that the San Diego trolley averaged 23 miles per hour out of town and 18 miles per hour in town. He said the bus average speed was considerably lower. He said that the trolleys were not noisy and that in town operators used a buzzer for warnings. Out of town an air horn was used. It was louder than the buzzer but not as loud as the a freight train warning.

Vice President Gore telephoned Orlando Mayor Glenda Hood on Tuesday to praise Central Florida's light-rail proposal. He told Hood that the president was very excited about the project. "We'll be with you every step of the way," he said.

Orange County Chairman Mel Martinez was less enthusiastic, saying that parts of the light rail system were half baked. Advisors said that the light rail system would not lessen the I-4 traffic problems - which is one of not the most important aspect of the project.

Hood said that it would be "irresponsible" to kill the proposal. She urged the Orange County commissioners to support the plan.

Seminole County Commissioner Randy Morris said it was SEMINOLE COUNTY - The sponsor of an amendment that permitted the sale of drivers' license photographs to a New Hampshire based company for resale to stores for the prevention of retail fraud has withdrawn his support from the amendment, and is calling for a committee to study privacy issues.

State Rep. Tom Feeney, R-Oviedo, announced the repeal of the bill Tuesday in Tallahassee. Governor Jeb Bush announced Monday that the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles terminated its agreement to sell drivers' license photographs to Image Data of New Hampshire.

Feeney said he intends to work with the House leadership to form a committee studying privacy issues, particularly on the internet. The Legislative session will reconvene March 2.

"Many people have expressed concern about privacy with regard to the amount of information that is being processed through the internet," Feeney
