Replacing him called 'vindictive;' complaints from developers cited

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD - The city commission last night voted 4-1 to oust planning and zoning commission chairman Brent Carli when his term on the commission expires in June.

The bid to replace Carli came less than a week after he criticized the city commission for its effort to reduce minimum living area re-quirements. Carli, who also has been critical in the past, said the commission ignored the planning and zoning recommendation to keep the requirements at 900

City Commissioner Lon Howell, who made the motion to remove Carli, said he had received at least five complaints from builders and developers "about the way he ramrods things through."

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein voted against the replacement. He said he was unaware that board replacements would be considered last night. "I would like to have seen Mr. Carli stay on the board. I think he is an expert on the city comprehensive plan and the land devel-opment regulations....He always did his homework."

Carli said in an interview this morning he is not surprised about his replacement. "I'm more than disappointed in the city's decision not to appoint me to my last three-year term. What I have accomplished on this advisory board may not be appreciated by the majority of the current commission. ☐See Critic, Page 5A

County agrees to purchase Lake Monroe Utilities

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Seminole County commissioners reached a tentative agreement Monday to buy Lake Monroe Utilities from James L.

Commissioners and Hickman agreed to a $1.2 million price and to provide 40,000 gallons per day (gpd) of water and sewage treatment to Hickman's I-4 Industrial Park without charge. Commissioners agreed to reserve 60,000 gpd of water and sewer capacity for Hickman to allow him to complete development of the industrial park north of State Road 46 and east of Interstate 4. Any water and sewer usage by Hickman over 40,000 gpd will be paid at regular county connection fee costs, currently a $9.83 per gallon hook-up charge.

The county negotiated with Hickman for more than two years for the utility service because its service area includes the rapidlydeveloping 1-4 corridor between County Road 46-A to the St. Johns River, its service area includes the Port of Sanford and the site for a proposed regional mail at the northeast intersection of I-4 and CR

Hickman said he wants to sell the 15-year-old utility company to avoid the day-to-day problems associated with operating a utility company.

County officials said the plant probably will be closed in about two years when the Yankee Lake sewer treatment plant begins operating. Deputy county manager Jim Bible said the Lake Monroe water plant could continue to serve the northwest region of the county for 10 years or more.

Hickman included a 2,500 aquare-foot parcel in the price for the county to build a sewage pump station after the Lake Monroe sower plant is closed. The county will lease a four-acre parcel used for treated sewage irrigation for $1 dollar the first year of the agreement, but $16,000 for each additional year.

Another Hickman company, Spaceport U.S.A., owns the fouracre effluent parcel and Hickman said the state Public Services Commission, which regulates private utilities in the state, has authorized the lease agreement between the two Hickman companies. Hickman said Lake Monroe makes an annual $16,000 payment to Spaceport U.S.A. for the lease.

Final approval of the purchase agreement by commissioners will be considered in about a month.

License change would cut down alcohol use by underage drivers

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Bob Martinez unveiled Monday new Florida drivers licenses designed to make it even harder for underage drivers to obtain alcoholic bever-

Shortly after May 1, all drivers licenses issued to Florida residents under 21 will be stamped "UNDER 21" in large red figures overlapping the right side of the driver's picture.

State transportation officials have already begun issuing licenses with yellow picture backgrounds to younger drivers. The pictures of drivers 21 or older have distinct blue backgrounds.

Martinez said the "UNDER 21" stamp would just make it a little easier for bar managers and liquor dealers to spot underage would-be drinkers. "The new license itself (with the yellow background) along with the impact of 'UNDER 21' will be very helpful in keeping the underage out of bars and taverns, and keep them from consuming alcohol," he

When a younger driver turns 21. he will be able to obtain for $1 a replacement license without the yellow background and "UNDER 21" stamp.

The stamped licenses will cost 2 cents each more than the standard licenses. Martinez said the extracost would be paid by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles out of its existing budget.

There are about 758,000 drivers under 21 in Florida. They make up about 7 percent of the state's 10.6 million licensed drivers.

Martinez also said he is giving serious consideration to legislation filed by Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Lakeland, denying drivers licenses to school dropouts.

All of the passengers, including 19 children and three pregnant women, surrendered without incident and docked at the Coast Guad's Miami Beach station. They were only yards from Fisher Island when they were spotted, said spokesman Jerry Snyder.

"They probably would have had only 100 yards to swim to shore," he said.

Spending report bill stalls

TALLAHASSES — A House committee decided Monday to put saide indefinitely a bill that would have required state legislators to submit an annual accounting of their $18,000-a-year expense allowance.

But the bill's sponsor, Rep. Mike Langton, D-Jacksonville, public pressure makes lawmakers open their books.

"It's important that we have an accounting of public dollars," Langton said. "I find it somewhat fudicious that we have to account for every dime of campaign contributions, which are private donations, on sometimes the candidate's own money, but we don't account for office expenses that are public dollars."

Chairman S.L. "Spud" Clements, D-Brandon, and Repa. Tim Ireland, R-Cape Coral, and Sam Mitchell, D-Vernon, each said they opposed the mandatory reporting requirement.

Faced with such unanimous opposition from his colleagues. Langton asked the committee to shelve the bill rather than voting it down, .

Groups can adopt a road, stash some trash

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - In an effort to beautify Seminole County's roadways, county commissioners have endorsed an "Adopt a Road" campaign for volunteer groups to pick up litter along their "adopted" highways, roads and streets.

Commissioner Jennifer Kelley. sponsor of the program, said the Adopt a Road idea originated in the Sanford Republican Women's Club last year. Similar programs have begun in Virginia needed in Seminole County because the county doesn't have a county litter crew that picks up garbage thrown along local roads. As a result, busy roadways in the county have become strewn with garbage tossed from passing autos.

Larry Sellers, director of the county Public Works Department, said the program, adapted from the Virginia and Texas "Adopt a Highway" plans, will allow civic and homeowner's groups to select the road they want to maintain. They would apply to the county and receive instructions on roadside safety rules and set up a schedule with county crews to pick up the bagged litter.

Schools to celebrate Media Week

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - To coincide with Gov. Bob Martinez' proclaimation of School Library Week, county schools will be honoring their media centers during the next two weeks with contests, "read ins" and media presentations.

While Martinez has proclaimed the week of April 9 through 15 as School Library Media Week, the festivities in Seminole County will take place over the next two weeks.

Media centers used to be called libraries, but there's a lot more to the media center than just books these days, according to Nancy Haigh, coordinator of instructional media services in Seminole County.

"Media centers have books, of course, but there are also video and audio materials and computer equipment," she said.

The purpose of the celebrations, she said, is to focus the attention of the students and teachers on the resources available in the media centers.

Serina Fisher, media specialist at Tuakawilla Middle School, is on a statewide committee that is helping the state promote the school's media centers. The committee, made up mostly of media specialists, wants everyone in each school to be aware that they can use the library for many things. "We want to promote public aware-ness that in 1989 the media center is more than books and that information equals power," she said. "We are trying to emphasize the recreational aspect of reading as well as the informational aspect of reading. Reading can be fun."

Midway Elementary School will be participating in the Reading is FUNdamental program during this week. Media specialist Linda Smith said the students look forward to the three visits annually by the Lyman High School Keyettes who dress as storybook characters and distribute books to the students and read to some of the younger students.

Shirley Muse, media specialist at Sanford Middle School, said her school has participated in School Library Media Week for each of the six years since its inception. Every year, enthusiasm grows, she said.

No free lunch

Rep. David Obey (D-Wis.) believes President Bush means what he says about taxes, and he believes there is no such thing a a free lunch.
Obey tried to explain some of these beliefs — and truths — to a seemingly uncomprehending Secretary of State James Baker at a recent bearing of the Manage Abstractions. hearing of the House Appropriations Com-mittee's subcommittee for foreign operations, which Obey chairs.

Baker was pressing the administration's request for a $300 million increase in foreign aid spending for facal 1990, to $14.7 billion. But neither Baker nor anyone cise in the administration has statisfactorily explained how existing programs — much less expanded once— was be supported without more taxes.

Alluding to Bush's vow of no new taxes, Obey told Baker, "I have read his lips and I do believe. I think it's totally unrealistic to expect any new revenues in this year's budget." But without them, sharp cuts will be needed in federal spending to meet the requirements of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction law. Obey thus proposed a cut of $1.4 billion in the foreign aid request, to $15.3 billion.

aid request, to $15.5 minon.

It's a pity that such a cut has to be made; many foreign countries are in urgent need of financial help. But foreign aid programs (like hunches) must be paid for; Baker can't come before Congress seeking approval for governments. ernment programs without a credible plan to pay for them. The foreign sid obligations of the United States are "very real," Baker said. So are the laws of economics. When the latter fact it better understood at the White House, the foreign aid program might have stronger support in Congress.

Challenge innumeracy

Like everything else, the recommendations the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics can be taken too far, but most of the nation's schools, mired largely in "basics," are a long way from such danger.
What the council proposes — more emphasis on estimating, reasoning and problem solving — is based on survey after survey: American students learn the basics in math, but are unable to apply them to more sophisticated tasks. They are, in brief, unable to think mathematically.

The council is not recommending a new curriculum; it is wisely staying out of that thicket. But it stresses a number of things—essentially a set of guidelines—that any math program ought to include: going beyond the rote learning and drill in which the basics movement has left much of mathematics teaching, especially in the elementary schools; integrating different fields such as algebra, geometry, statistics, probability, logic; using calculators and computers when appropriate; promoting more cooperative work among students to stimulate learning and simulate the environments in which most of them will later be working.

None of this is radical. Most of the council's proposals are based on successful programs already operating across the country.

What may be most significant about this report is what it could do in breaking down what one critic has called innumeracy — a culture in which math is regarded as an unpleasant chore, in which even supposedly educated people proudly proclaim their mathematical ignorance and in which classroom math assignments are more readily regarded as punishment than as challenges. The faster that comes to an end, the better.

A Gingrich in Michel's future?

WASHINGTON - In general, we think of the Republicans as the conservatives and the Democrata as the liberals in the American political system.

That probably is accurate in most cases, but the exception that proves the rule is the Republican Party in the House of Repre-sentatives, which since the end of World War II has suffered more leadership coups than many anana republics.

The House GOP has been unusually stable in recent years, but the election of Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia to be party whip suggests the Republicans may be be getting ready for another bloodletting.

Some history first.

When World War II began, Sam Rayburn of Texas led House Democrats as speaker and eph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts headed he Republican minority.

Martin, who led the House GOP for 20 years. was to become speaker twice, in 1947-1949 and 1963-55, the only Republican to preside over the House since 1931.

GOP successes in the early 1950s led to Martin's downfall. The 1952 election of Dwight D. Eisenhower to the presidency gave the GOP control of Congress for the second time since the Depression, and his landslide re-election four years later led the Republicans to believe they were-on the road to majority status at last. But they lost congressional control in 1954 and in 1956 suffered a disaster, losing 13 seats in the Senate and 47 seats in the

Like a baseball team that fires its manager when the players start losing games, the House Republicans turned on Martin in 1959 and installed his lieutenant, Charles W. Halleck of Indiana, as Republican House Republicans new momentum.

Halleck was indeed a tough politician, but it didn't take long for his own colleagues to begin plotting his removal. Just two years after Halleck brought down Martin, a group of young Republican House members banded together to oust Rep. Charles Hoeven of lows as chairman of the Martin Con Balter Constant the House GOP Policy Conference and install one of their own — Rep. Geraid R. Ford, R-Mich.

Hallock laughed off the wisecracks that there was "a Ford in Charlie's future," but four years later the same group that mounted the Hoeven campaign unscated Halleck. Ford took over the House GOP and held it until he became vice president in 1974.

While all this was happening on the GOP side of the aisle, the Democrats were quietly passing their torch in an orderly procession from speaker to majority leader to whip.

The Republicans haven't had a coup since the 1960s, but folks who were around then remember the look on Halleck's face when Ford pushed out Hoeven, who was allied with the indiana congressman. It was much like the expression House OOP leader Bob Michel had on his face last month when Gingrich beat Rep. Charles Madigan, Michel's candidate for the job.

To what end the North trial?

WASHINGTON - Few will come right out and say it, but there's great disappointment among the journalists and political junkies in Washington over the ruling that former sident Reagan need not testify in Oliver North's trial.

The prospect of Reagan being put on the stand for tough questioning had a lot of folks salivating. Liberals who never previously had expressed much sympathy for the former National Security Council aide and his efforts to supply the Contra forces in Nicaragua began to speak feelingly of North's right to "present his best defense."

As the much-publicized courtroom drams approaches its end, the real question is not whether Reagan should have been put on the stand. Judge Gerhard A. Gesell properly dismissed the defense effort to subpoens Reagan as a flahing expedition. The question is why North was ever put on trial.

That we are going through this expensive legal exercise is not a tribute to the American system of justice. It is, rather, a reflection of the American people's current inability to reach — and enforce — a moral judgment of its own. It is a cop-out for our failure to ban — or shun — a prominent ne'er-do-well. And, as Richard Nixon's prominence reminds us, it is far from our first failure.

No question in my mind, or in the public record, that North, the cocky Marine lieutenant colonel, betrayed his trust. The majority report of the congressional committees which investigated the fran-contra affair concluded an operation whose principal ingredients "were secrecy, deception and disdain for the law."

Have we really forgotten what was said at the end of that exhaustive study? The committees said North "admitted that he and other officials lied repeatedly to Congress and to the American people about the Contra covert action and Iran arms sales, and that he altered and destroyed official ducuments. North's testimony demonstrates that he also lied to members of the executive branch. including the attorney general, and officials of the State Department, CIA and NSC."

Once that point has been made, what further is to be gained by putting North on trial on criminal charge? Clearly, the courts do not lack work. They, and the nation's prosecutorial forces, are all but buckling under the caseload generated by the upsurge of violence and drug-trafficking in our major

After such an exhaustive congressional inquiry and such a clear judgment against North and the other central figures, there can be only two justifications for holding a criminal trail. One might be the discovery of additional facts or clarification of the historical record. But the North trial has added little to our understanding of what happened. Nor could it. The central conspiracy charge was dismissed before the trial began, because Gesell concluded that national-security sensitivities were incompatible with the defense North would have to present against those charges.

The colonel is being tried essentially on collateral matters now, not on the questions that will occupy the historians of the Reagan preaidency.

The other rationale is that if North has done something wrong, he should be punished. But North already has been canned from the White House and he has resigned his commission in the Marines. His old career is finished. What more would be gained by sending him off to Allenwood or one fo the other federal prisons for white-collar criminals?

And, as Rich-ard Nixon's prominence

reminds us, it is far from our first fallure

No one presumes that North would spend more than a short period in comfortable conditions of custody if convicted. And then he would return to American society.

The critical question is not whether he goes through a trial, but whether we as a society are prepared to treat him as someone who has breached his trust and betrayed his oath of office. And that is up to us, not to the 12 men and women now aitting as the North Jury.

In a society which understood the principles underlying the Constitution, the principles on which our freedom and out democracy rest, a man who did what Oliver North did could anticipate being shunned if he ever sought to reenter public life in any way.

But we do not do that. Instead, what probably awaits him - whether or not he is convicted and punished for these peripheral charges - is a lucrative book contract, a continuation of a profitable lecture career and adulation as a celebrity.

Unless and until we learn to enforce moral judgments in this society, rather than asking the courts to do our job for us. that cynicism will be well-merited.

Congress pretends to cut, but spends more

WASHINGTON — As the taxpayers await their annual plucking, the prodigals in Congress are scheming to extract new taxes and increase their lavish spending at the same time they pretend to cut back.

They operate the world's biggest shell game, hiding expenditures under a bewidering array of shells, confident that the politician's hand is quicker than the taxpayer's eye. So prosaically, gradually and invisibly do they extract the money, that the invisibly do they extract the money, that the taxpayer never appreciates the extent of the rip off. A stick-up men is more direct. He gets the victim's cash by waving a revolver. Congress peaceably and effortlessly accomplishes the same end by deceptive budgeting. Here's how the game in played. Congress uses accounting tricks to make spending increases look like spending reductions and tax hikes look like tax cuts. The eleight-of-hand begins with a planning budget called the current services budget. It invariably calls for more spending and higher taxes.

Then, Congress happily slashes the planning budget and boasts that it has saved money. By juggling the figures, the planned budget is decreased, but the actual spending is increased.

Members of Congress use the same trickery to portray tax increases to the public as tax cuts. Now they're trying to convince the public that a shortage of revenues is to blame for the Pikes Peak deficit and that more taxes are urgently needed to bring the deficit down to a manageable mound.

This is a monstrous lie calculated to justify higher taxes so that Congress can continue its reckless spending. The truth is that taxes have not been cut, that 13 tax increases were enacted during the Reagan years and that revenues shot up nearly 90 percent.

Meanwhile, with great fanfare, Congress passed the Gramm-Rudman Act, which is supposed to reduce the deficit each year and balance the budget by 1992. The spendthrifts In Congress have overcome this problem simply by shifting the shells on the table.

Instead of budgeting the money they want to spend, they underwrite loans and back them with government guarantees. The loans are kept off the budget and are not counted as part of the public debt.

The government has guaranteed more than 84 trillion in loans, debts, crops, pensions, bank deposits and foreign investments. This off-budget financing gets around the Gramm-Rudman restrictions. Yet, the off-budget guarantees are still part of the crushing financial burden that weighs down the taxpayers.

J. Peter Grace, an indefatigable cruaader against government waste, has called on Congress to stop the calculated confusion and adopt a truth-in-budgeting law. True financial disclosure will show that the urgent need is to cut spending, not raise taxes. As the first step, Grace has urged Congress to eliminate the horrendous waste that the Grace Commission uncovered.

Footnote: Jack Anderson is co-chairman with Grace of Citizens Against Government Waste which has already eliminated $110 billion in waste. So far, 154 members of Congress have joined the Grace caucus which is pushing more reforms. The campaign has the support of nearly five million Americana who have expressed their opposition to government waste. Those who wish to add their voices can write to Citizens Against Government Waste, P.O. Box 2300, Washington, DC 20013.

property. Williams' parcel is the final piece of land needed to complete the city's acquisition for the city hall site, at the northwest corner of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Boulevard.

City Attorney Ned N. Julian Jr. said Monday afternoon the mediation proceedings were confidential and refused to comment on the details.

"The results are that J.R Williams, his attorney and (his) mediator have submitted an offer." Julian said. He said he is in the process of analyzing that offer and will prepare a statement to the city commission.

Williams has refused several offers from the city for his two-acre parcel of land which is needed for the city hall site. After Williams would not accept $236,000, the city condemned the property and in January raised its offer to as much as $322,000 which was the middle point between the city and Williams' appraisals.

The offer was an attempt to avoid court costs and attorneys' fees. The commission had decided it would pay the lower offer of $273,000, the city's appraised value of the land, if the Issue went before a court

'As a result of the mediation, we reached an amount we feel is fair," J. Christy Wilson III, Williams' attorney, said Monday afternoon. However, Wilson did not disclose the amount of the tentative settlement.

Wilson said Williams' property appraisal was "significantly different from the city's."

Whether or not the issue goes to court depends on whether the commission accepts Williams' final undisclosed offer, which was described as more than the $322,000 previously offered by

"They want more. The offer they came back with is the one I can't reveal until it's in the city package," Mayor Dick Fess said yesterday. At this time, it will be made public, he said.

"There was obviously a dispute between their appraiser and our appraiser. The commission is going to make the decision whether to accept the counteroffer or to go to court on it." Fess said.

Previously, Harriet Mixon sold eight lots on Lakeview Drive to the city for $159,516.31 and moved her homestead across the street. The city is preparing to buy another parcel of land from Seminole County for a price not to exceed $145,500. The county purchased the parcel for $202,500 for the Lake Mary Boulevard road-widening project. The city wants to purchase a portion of that property the county does not need.

"I would like to resolve this," Fess said. "If the commission accepts this offer, then we can move forward with the purchase. If the commission does not accept, it will go to litigation May 30. The commission wants to be as amenable as possible." A pre-trial hearing is set for May 22. he said.

The new city hall is a $1.2 million project which will house several departments, offices and the city commission chambers. The mayor will have a separate office with a workroom. There will be public and staff parking lots, and eventually an urban park with a fountain.

The city set a construction goal for May, but construction cannot start until the city purchases the needed land. That should be sometime in June, according to Fess, think I have done some good for this community," he said.

"When (the city commission) sees me walk in the room, they get littery because they know Brent Carli does his homework." he said. "I'm outspoken, and sometimes sarcastic, but I'm honest. All I do is ask the questions."

Planning and zoning member Jay Malone called the move "a vindictive political maneuver." He said this morning he supported the city commission right to appoint members of their choice, "but to do it in a manner three months prior to expiration just strikes me as being very insensitive and unappreciative of volunteer service....lt's a slap in the face."

Malone said he was disturbed by the vote to replace planning and zoning members because it was not on last night's agenda and was "coincidental" to Carli's criticism of the city commission.

Carli has served on the planning and zoning commission since 1983. Under past protocol, Malone said, "Brent was probably entitled to serve another

Ex-Marines battle in North trial

WASHINGTON - Prosecutor John Keker's crossexamination of Oliver North has become a tense courtroom showdown between an ex-Marine who stands uccused and an ex-Marine who is making the accusations.

North, the retired Marine lieutenant colonel on trial for 12 felony charges, did not even exchange the ritual pleasantries Monday with Keker, the smooth San Franciscan who is chief deputy to independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh.

Instead, as Keker's examination unfolded. North was by turns forgetful and combative, and the prosecutor was both needling and demanding.

North and Keker were Marine second lieutenants in Vietnam. North retired in May: Keker left the service and started a San Francisco law firm.

In his third day of testimony. North shed his almost bashful demeanor in confronting Keker. When North again pointed to former CIA Director William Casey as the shadowy force behind his clandestine work to aid the Nicaraguan Contra rebels. Keker remarked, "The late William Casey?" — emphasizing the word "late." Casey died in May 1987.

Exxon spurns offer of troops

VALDEZ, Alaska - With the weather alternately hurting and helping the cleanup of the nation's worst oil spill, Exxon Corp. spurned an offer of federal troops to help in the battle and indicated the public might ultimately foot the bill.

Monday brought high winds and choppy seas to Prince William Sound, forcing Exxon to pull in several skimming boats that were helping clean up the devastating spill, but the same conditions also helped disperse some of the oil.

Exxon opposed an offer from President Bush to send troops to help clean up the slick that has been spreading and fouling the once-pristine bay since more than 10 million galions of oil gushed out of an Exxon tanker that went aground March 24.

The world's largest petroleum company has promised to pay the entire bill for the cleanup, but an Exxon official acknowledged Monday that the consumer might ultimately HONOLULU - The captain and three crew members of a marijuana-laden freighter that burned and sank off Hawaii as the Coast Guard approached last December pleaded guilty in federal court Monday to drug charges.

Greyshock, 35, pleaded guilty to intentionally possessing five tons of marijuana with intent to distribute and to intentionally destroying contraband to prevent seizure.

Also pleading guilty to one count each of possession with intent to distribute were defendants Scott Davidson, 31; Michael Stewart, 46, and Larry Landis, 45.

All will be sentenced by Conti July 5. The three crewmen face prison sentences of 10 years to life.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. - A federal jury, in the first trial of the Pentagon corruption scandal, must decide whether three executives of Teledyne Electronics knew of and condoned a company consultant's scheme to bribe a Navy contracting official.

U.S. District Judge Richard Williams directed the jury to resume deliberations Tuesday morning.

Fusion experiment duplicated

United Press International

DALLAS - A Utah fusion researcher welcomed word that scientists in Texas and Georgia successfully repeated his experiments on a mysterious new way of producing energy in a flask of water.

"This means that there will be an increased effort to determine what the source or nature of this new reaction is," University of Utah electrochemist Stanley Pons said in a news release issued by the school.

"The reaction is most likely nuclear," Pons said. "It can't be explained any other way, but the scientific community will have to now try to understand the process involved."

Pons and co-researcher Martin Fleischmann of the University of Southampton in England announced March 23 they had created nuclear fusion at low temperatures, surprising both the scientific

"Our data convinced me that we are making neutrons in that vessel. There is no way to get neutrons unless something nuclear is going on."

But the Georgia team concentrated soley on the release of neutrons and did not measure heat or energy production. Researchers said they did observe a temperature increase, but could not immediately

The commission was scheduled to vote on an ordinance lowering minimum square footage in SR-1 to 700, to 1,200 in SR-IA and to 1,500 in SR-1AA. Commissioner Lon Howell made the motion to table the action until city staff could provide more information about average square footage in SR-1 zoning. Commissioner A.A. Mc-

"Let the community that has to live with (a 700-square foot home) be the ones to decide -not us," Malone said.

McClanahan told Malone the requirement had been 700 square feet for several years until it was upped to 900 square feet in recent years. The proposed requirement is identical to that in Orlando and 100 square feet higher than those in Seminole and Orange Counties. Former city commissioner

John Mercer, representing SR-1 homeowners in the downtown residential district, said he opposed reducing the requirements, and suggested increasing the threshold to 1,200 square feet in the historic district. He proposed granting power over downtown zoning matters to the city historic preservation board.

"You have a historic district because we have deemed it could be called a historic district," he said, "...but it does not carry any controls peculiar to the historic

Neel said allowing 700-square foot homes might shrink city tax rolls by creating additional homestead exemptions for $25,000-and-under homes.

The ordinance will be tabled until the May 8 commission meeting.

Two weeks after the commission adopted an ordinance to abolish marina launching fees, city attorney Bill Colbert has been advised to draw up an ordinance addressing parking on the marina.

The commission asked Colbert to draft an ordinance according to recommendations presented by the director of engineering and planning last week, setting askie 23 spaces on the marina for boat trailer parking. The ordinance will also increase fines for parking violations from $5 to $25, and mandate towing of violators.

Rams gain ground on 'Hounds

By MARK BLYTHE Herald sports writer

LONGWOOD - Lake Mary used a strong relief appearance by Andy Anson and a four-run rally in the top of the third inning to battle its way to a 4-2 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lyman Monday night before 301 fans at Lyman High School.

The Rams improved to 14-8 and 7-2 in the SAC. one-half game behind Lyman, and will return to action Thursday at Spruce Creek. Lyman fell to 14-8 overall and 7-1 in the conference and will travel to take on Lake Brantley Wednesday in another intersting SAC confrontation.

"(Andy) Anson just came in and mowed them (Lyman) down with fastballs," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "He didn't throw anything else. Lyman had what they wanted in the final two innings and he shut them down.

Aaron latarola had started the game for Lake Mary and was doing well as he allowed just a single run in the bottom of the second inning. latarola then came unglued in the sixth as Kevin Wainscott reached on a throwing error before Andy Spolski singled to right. That brought cleanup hitter Kenny Jackson to the plate. Earlier in the season Jackson had blasted a game winning homer against the Rams, so after a passed ball advanced the runners to second and third. Jackson was latarola then walked Jim Lucas to bring in a run and Tuttle brought on Anson. Anson stayed calm as the he worked the county to 3-1, then threw the next two pitches for strikes to get the first out. He struck out the following batter before a groundout ended the inning.

"We had a chance to tie and win the game," Lyman coach Bob McCullough said. "Their (Lake Mary's) reliever just came on and shut us out. We played well. but that's baseball."

The Hounds opened the scoring in the second inning as Soto reached on double to right with two outs. Charlie Curley followed by ripping a double to left center to bring in Soto and give Lyman a 1-0 advantage.

Lake Mary responded scoring all of its runs in the top of the third. After an out Chad Dunbar walked and latarola sent a shot over the center field wall of Lyman. just left of the 370 foot mark. Joe Difrancesco then reached on an infield single before Shane Stufflett connected on a hit-and-run play that was misplayed by Chris Radcliff in centerfield allowing the runners to reach second and third. A balk was then called on Lyman pitch Jim Lucas scoring Difrancesco and moving Stufflett to third. Derek Wolfe then stroked a run scoring single to right to give the Rams a 4-1 advantage.

Lyman didn't give up, though, and rallied for its run See Lake Mary, Page 2B

THAT TRESPASS

DEAR FORGIVE: While a handshake may do for you, some are not all that eager to shake hands. One reader actually changed religions in order to escape the hand-shaking routine. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: After many years of reading your column, I finally came across a subject I feel so strongly about that I'm writing a letter to you. It was regarding the importance of washing one's hands after leaving the bathroom.

Hands are an incredible repository of germs. In fact, I recall reading that there are more germs on one's hands than on any other part of the body. That's why washing them frequently is so important. Which brings me to the main point of my letter: Many colds are spread by shaking hands. A person with a cold sneezes into his hands, shakes hands with you, and if you touch your nose, mouth or eyes before washing your hands-bingo, you've caught his cold!

Why does this archaic form of greeting still exist in most parts of the world? Actually, it began as a guard against treachery. (If you were holding someone's right hand, neither of you could go for your sword) I abhor shaking hands because I am susceptible to colds. I've even changed religious for this reason. I was a devout Catholic from birth, but became a Protestant when the "sign of peace" (shaking hands with the people around you) was introduced into the liturgy of the Mass. I couldn't stand to see people blowing their noses and sneezing into their hands for 40 minutes, then offering those same hands in greeting. At work, I take a vacation day on Christmas Eve because all day long, co-workers stop by to shake your hand and say, "Merry Christmas." This, at the height of the flu season!

Abby, I am not an anti-social person, but we could all take a cue from the old-world Oriental people who bow in greeting while shaking their own hand! Sign me...

Mexicans arrest drug trafficker

United Press International

MEXICO CITY - Mexico's reputed top drug trafficker, who faces narcotics charges in the United States, was arrested along with at least nine police officials who allegedly offered him protection, the country's attorney general an-

The arrests come as Congress prepares for a key vote affecting U.S. aid to Mexico.

Miguel Angel Felix Gallardo, 43, who is sought for alleged drug trafficking activities by a number of other countries and has been indicted on narcotics charges in Los Angeles, was arrested Saturday night at his home in Guadalajara, officials said Monday.

A senior U.S. Drug Enforcement Administra-tion official in Mexico City said more arrests related to drug trafficking are expected soon.

Attorney General Enrique Alvarez dei Castillo said at least nine officials from the federal, local and highway police also were detained for allegedly providing protection to Gallardo and his collaborators. The attorney general said he plans to prosecute them as well.

Dozena of other policemen were detained for questioning and then released.

Del Castillo told reporters Monday that police found 120 grams of cocaine, radio equipment and telephones, a beeper, one carbine, two hand grenades, one machine gun, three pistols and other ammunition in Gallardo's home He said the arrest was made without incident. Edward Heath, director of the DEA's Mexico office, said Gallardo's arrest is "extremely "Undoubtedly, there is going to be more arrests, more exposures. This investigation is not over yet," Heath said.

He said that Gallardo was reponsible for siphoning most of the 4 tons of cocaine shipped every month through Mexico to the United States, the world's largest drug-consuming nation.

Heath said Gallardo, who was charged with drug trafficking in Los Angeles in 1986, could be extradited to the United States to face charges. "There is opportunity to do so, but I doubt that it will happen." Heath said, adding that the Mexican government already has leveled serious charges against Gallardo that could leave him in jail for most of his life.

"We don't expect that this person (Gallardo) is going to be released," Heath said. He said that Gallardo, whom del Castillo branded as the intellectual mastermind of drug operations in Mexico, was involved in narcotics trafficking for more than 15 years and was receiving protection from Mexican authorities.

Heath denied that the arrest of Gallardo and other officials had anything to do with voting in Congress this week. He said the DEA was not involved in the arrest operation, but had cooperated with Mexican authorities in investigations for the last three months.

"This arrest does not coincide with anything programmed. If we were able to do this two or three months ago, we would have done it," Heath

Ibis widely believed that the arrests of Gallardo and the police officials will help President Bush, who has urged Congress to certify Mexico for continued military and economic aid, trade preference, loans and U.S. support for financial assistance through multinational organizations.

Last year, the Senate voted to decertify Mexico, but the House refused to go along.

'Gallardo has confessed his involvement in narcotics trafficiding," del Castillo said, adding the suspect's case will be presented in a criminal court for possible indictments on drug trafficking and illegal possession of arms.

A statement issued Sunday night by del Castillo and the Interior Ministry said Gallardo is the most important drug trafficker captured by Mexican authorities and has been a target of a nine-year hunt by Mexican police.

Gallardo's name first appeared on the interna-tional scene in February 1985 after the kidnapping and subsequent murder of Enrique Camarena Salazar, an agent of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Heath said that Gallardo is a major suspect in the Camarena case.

Del Castillo said Gallardo denied involvement in the murder.

BEIJING - An American exchange student was in critical condition in a central Chinese hospital Tuesday, three days after his skull was fractured in an attack by an unknown assailant while aboard a ship sailing on the Yangtze River.

Derron Craft, 23, of Bozeman, Mont., was listed in stable but critical condition at Tongji Hospital in the central city of Wuhan, said Feng Baosheng, head of the Hubei Province foreign affairs office.

Craft, a student at the Beijing Foreign Languages Institute since September, suffered a skull fracture when he was struck with a "blunt object" on the right side of his head, the overseas edition of the official People's Daily newspaper

"He is still in danger but his condition has improved compared to yesterday," said Feng. adding that Craft underwent surgery for his Injuries Sunday.

The attack on Craft, who was slipping in and out of consciousness Tuesday, occurred at 2 a.m. Saturday while he was in his cabin aboard the cruise ship Jianyu No. 10, traveling to Wuhan from the southwestern city of Chongqing, Feng

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said robbery was the apparent motive, adding it appeared the atudent surprised the would-be thief or thieves in Police were still questioning passengers aboard the cruise ship in an effort to identify those responsible but had made no arrests, he said.

Feng said the State Council, China's cabinet, ordered medical experts flown from Wuhan to the site of the attack near the port city of Shishou. Craft was later evacuated by helicopter to Wuhan, about 1,000 miles south of Beijing.

Although assaults on foreigners are extremely rare, they have increased steadily in recent years as China has opened its doors and more tourists and long-term residents have poured in.

An 18-year-old American teacher was killed last January in her parents' home in the northeastern city of Shenyang. It was the second reported murder of a U.S. citizen in China since the communist takeover in 1949.

Soviet sub may be cracked

United Press International

MOSCOW - Naval experts Tuesday studied the logs from a Soviet nuclear submarine that the defense ministry said may have sustained cracks to its hull as it sank off the Norwegian coast with two nuclear-armed torpedoes aboard.

Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov told the official Izvestia newspaper Monday that a preliminary investigation showed the fire that caused the subto sink in the Norwegian Sea last Friday appeared to have been caused by an electrical short circuit. Officials said 42 sailors died in the accident.

But Yazov repeated assurances given earlier Monday by government spokesman Gennady Gerasimov that there was no danger of radioactive contamination.

Israeli police seek gunman

United Press International

JERUSALEM - Police pressed their search Tuesday for a uniformed man who opened fire with a submachine gun outside the walls of Jerusalem's Old City, killing an Arab and wounding three others.

Jerusalem District Police Commander Josef Yehuda'l sald the gunman who started firing Monday evening near the Jaffa Gate of the Old City escaped and the reason for the shootings was not known. An anonymous caller to state-run Israel Radio.

A half-hour after the shootings, Shawccsh's body still lay a few feet from the 16th-century wall of the Old City as investigators searched the area. A large circle of blood stained the wall above the body.

Police roped off the area, but curious tourists approached to find out what happened. Two walling Arab women, apparently relatives of the victim, tried to get to the body, but were stopped by police.

Since the start of the Palestinian uprising on Dec. 9, 1987, two Arabs have been killed in Jerusalem, but none in the Old City area. At least 405 Palestinians and 14 Israelis have been killed In the popular revolt in the occupied territories.

U.N. in Namibia

United Press International

WINDHOEK, Namibia - U.N. peacekeeping forces gathered at several assembly points Tuesday to await the arrival of SWAPO guerrillas who will be escorted back to Angola in a bid to revive a faltering independence plan for Namibia.

'We will do our damnedest to be ready by noon tomorrow," U.N. Special Representative Martti Ahtisaari said as peacekeeping troops prepared to accept the guerrillas.

Ahtisaari said Monday blue and white U.N. flags would fly "as high up as we can get them" over the assembly points for the guerrillas beginning Tuesday in an attempt to get them out of Namibia and revive the independence plan for Africa's last colony.

U.N. officials began making arrangements following an agreement Sunday by South Africa. Cuba and Angola on the procedures for the withdrawal of the SWAPO guerrillas who moved into the territory after the U.N. independence plan took effect April 1. At least 290 people died in eight days of fighting.

The incursions violated regional peace accords that had required SWAPO lighters to remain north of the 16th parallel in neighboring Angola. 100 miles from the border, and was viewed as a bid to establish bases in Namibia. "Don't expect me to start passing judgment and blaming people for what has happened,' Alitisaari told a news conference Monday. "There was a major mistake. 'My job is to build bridges and get this operation back on track. We are not a warring organization," he said. Assistant Secretary of State Chester Crocker, the chief U.S. negotiator in the regional peace effort, said, "In the past week or so we have confronted a grave crisis with implications for the whole (African) sub region."

"It is fair to say the worst of the storm has been weathered," Crocker said.

Sunday's declaration came from the Joint Monitoring Commission created last year to monitor compliance with a series of agreements based on the 10-year-old U.N. Security Council Resolution 435 in which South Africa agreed to grant Namibia independence after 74 years of rule

In exchange, Cuba agreed to withdraw its estimated 50,000 troops supporting the Marxist government of Angolan President Jose Eduardo dos Santos against U.S.-backed UNITA guerrillas in a deal that linked solutions to two of the region's most protracted conflicts.

Under Sunday's agreement, orders were issued to police and army units deployed in northern Namibia to allow the estimated 1,500 insurgentaunimpeded movement to Angola until next Saturday, when compliance will be verified.

Angola agreed to receive the SWAPO fighters and hold them north of the 16th parallel in the declaration that was hammered out a day after SWAPO leader Sim Nojoma announced in the Angolan capital of Luanda he would order his forces out of Nanabia within 72 hours of a wounded in the Moslem sector of the city, raising the death toll to 180 dead and 761 wounded in the latest bloodletting in Lebanon's 14-year-old civil war.

Takeshita took nearly three hours of verbal attacks from opposition party members, including a yelled demand from Socialist Party member Kanji Kawasaki that he "resign or destroy democracy."

Child with fever needs to see a pediatrician

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mom and dad won't tell me if my problem is fatal. I'm 12 and every morning on the bus, I get a bad headache, a fever of 102 and I can't remember what my friends are talking about. Is this

DEAR READER: I doubt that your problem is fatal, but you certainly need professional attention to discover the cause of your fever.

From your brief description, I'd say that the fever is making you delirious. Once the cause of the fever is identified, you can receive treatment and return to normal. Ask your parents to make an appointment for you to see your pediatrician.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm in a dilemma. I have hemochromatosis, which requires regular phlebotomies. My health insurance does not pay for this procedure. On the other hand, various blood centers will not knowingly accept blood from a carrier, but don't test. If I continue to donate blood, will I make someone sick?

DEARREADER: Hemochromatosis is a rare discase marked by excessive build-up of iron in the body. It causes liver enlargement, skin discoloration, diabetes and heart failure. The most effective treatment is phlebotomy, the periodic removal of blood (and iron) from the system.

Hemochromatosis is a hereditary disorder due to an abnormal gene. It is not transmissable or catchable in the way an infection is. Therefore, the blood you donate is probably not going to harm a recipient. However, you should check with your local blood bank authorities.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Insuring Your Good Health." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369, Be sure to mention the title.

It's not easy for South to describe his hand after East's opening diamond bid. Many would simply overcall with one heart and await further devel-opments. But the choice of a takeout double was magic when North jumped to three clubs. South had an easy bid now of three hearts, and North judged well to raise to four on the K-9 doubleton. The declarer, our old friend Willy Nilly, ruefully con-templated dummy. "I don't suppose there was any good way for us to reach slam," he com-plained. With those words he ruffed the opening diamond lead and played king and ace of hearts. When West showed out, playing the queen of spades, the pace of play slowed considerably. Finally Willy played the queen of hearts and gave up a heart to East. Maybe he would be witness to some kind of miracle, a possibility if East had been dealt A-K doubleton of spades. Not this time. East played his top two spades and continued the suit. So the defenders took a heart trick and four spades to set the contract two tricks.

Willy would have been welladvised to call for his friend Careful Charlie to sit in for him as declarer. After ruffing the opening diamond lead, Charlie would simply have played a low heart to dummy's nine. That would have guaranteed his game contract even against a bad heart split. East could take the heart jack and a spade trick, but the remaining heart in dummy would stop the defense from reeling off three more spade tricks.

By Bernice Bede Osel YOUR BIRTHDAY April 12, 1989

In the year ahead it looks like you will target several major objectives. Although each may not be attained, you are still likely to do well with the one that offers the greatest benefits.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are overly protective or too restrictive of those in your charge today, your measures will not be understood or well received. Ruling with tight reigns could create rebellion in the ranks. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Bring it out into the open today if someone you care about has done something that has hurt you. There's a chance the of-fender might be completely unaware of the infraction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Continue to exercise your very best judgment in matters that are meaningful to you financially. This is a sensitive area where mishaps could occur.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be diplomatic and tolerant in any dealings you have with the boss today. Although the boss may be wrong. this is the person who signs the paycheck, not you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you might secretly resent having to do something for another who you'll feel is making unreasonable requests of you. Don't make an issue of it if this person has helped you in the past.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A friend of yours who likes to keep confidential might get angry at you today if you ask too many prying questions. Subdue your curiosity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You might not be in too strong a position today when it comes to negotiating agreements. Don't impulsively say yes to something without thinking it through just to be nice. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov 22) It might be wise today to temporarily shelve tasks or assignments you don't enjoy doing. When your mood changes you'll be far more effective doing the same

BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Envy or jealousy mustn't be permitted to gain the upper hand today if someone you love seems to be paying more attention to another than to you. Keep your emotions in check. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

you and your mate could turn into something rather serious today if they are mishandled. Don't be the one who starts to rev up the mean machine. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today if you are required to be of service to another, don't do it in a way that will let the recipient know your heart isn't in it. Your resentment will evoke resent-PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It might not produce the results for which you hope if you try to appease someone you've angered in material ways. A sincere, simple apology will be far more effective.

19) Minor differences between
