Plans Contingent On Property Owners, City Approval

Historic Area Expansion Sought

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

A move is on to continue preserving Sanford's past by securing historic designation for up to 800 structures in a residential zone adjacent to the city's commercial historic district. Also eyed for historic designation are certain homes lying beyond the targeted residential area.

The designations are hoped to be secured within a year, after surveys and a number of public hearings. The effort is being spearheaded by Sanford's Historic Preservation Board and is contingent on property owners' support, said board chairman Jerry Mills.

"If a majority of owners spoke completely against it, it wouldn't go through," he said. "But I feel this will be a tremendous advantage for them."

Mills, a restoration architect, said he's optimistic the move will be supported as property owners learn of the designation's benefits. Although historic status wouldn't provide tax breaks, property values would be expected to increase, he said.

Most of the homes in the targeted area were built during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. "They deserve to be maintained and kept as a symbol of our architectural heritage," although presently this is not always the practice, according to Mills.

"Some of the stock is being diminished, by parts being changed and demolition," he said.

The historic designation would require owners to maintain their structure's exterior attributes and incorporate historic criteria into whatever external alterations they might plan, Mills said.

Structural alterations would require an appearance before the board, or an arm of it, to secure approval for the effort.

If the city condemns a property, the board would offer "technical assistance" to the owner to help enable the structure's restoration, Mills said.

Demolition would not be opposed "if the structure is a threat to people's health, safety and welfare," he said.

County, Utilities Talks End

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners this week terminated talks with principals of two utility companies which they had been negotiating to purchase. Commissioners had authorized negotiations with one water and sewer firm 18 months ago, and another only two weeks ago.

County administrator Ken Hooper asked the commission to authorize termination of negotiations with Sanlando Utilities and Central V Utilities because agreements could not be reached.

Hooper said that in both cases the county and the utility companies were far from reaching an agreement on prices, and that both companies wanted to close on the sales before the end of 1986, when the capital gains tax law changes, meaning the seller will be more heavily taxed on income from the sale.

It was the second time the county stopped negotiations with Sanlando.

Two years ago, a purchase price of $16.9 million had been discussed, but not officially offered for Sanlando, a water and sewer company which serves about 12,000 customers in the areas of Wekiva Hunt Club, Sweetwater Oaks, Woodlands, and Springs Landing.

The county halted negotiations then pending the outcome of a Public Service Commission audit and rate study.

Commissioners authorized negotiations to be reopened with Sanlando just two weeks ago, but Hooper said there was a "substantial difference" between Sanlando asking price of a reported $23 million and what the county was willing to pay.

The principals of Sanlando Utilities are Lester Mandell and John Lowndes.

Commissioners also terminated negotiations with a second utility, Central V, which has about 2,000 customers in the areas of Dommerich Woods and Indian Hills. Like Sanlando, Hooper said Central V wanted to close the sale before the end of the year, and the county wanted to pay less than the asking price of $3.3 million. Hooper said the county had been negotiating with Central V for about 18 months.

Manna Haven Thanksgiving Feast

More than 100 people enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner at Manna Haven. Feasting on turkey and dressing, gravy, corn, sweet potatoes and pie, the guests were served by willing volunteers between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The 40 pies for the dinner were made by students in Mildred Patterson's Home Economics class at Seminole High School. The diners and servers shown above were part of the thousands enjoying the traditional holiday feast in Seminole County. Others were at the First Baptist Church of Longwood, Sanford Christian Sharing Center, the South Seminole Christian Sharing Center in Longwood and other locations served by volunteers and supplied by generous donors.

Mayoral Review Goes To P&Z On Housing Review

Mayor Betty Smith will attempt to quell Planning and Zoning Board members' uncertainty about the focus of their elder housing review, which was placed on hold Nov. 20.

The mayor will provide board members with a written follow-up to the review request she made during a commission meeting last month. Only one or two of the P&Z's eight members were at the commission meeting when Mayor Smith proposed the study.

City staff, who had been at the meeting, began discussing the review with a full P&Z board on Nov. 8, then board members disagreed over the focus of Mayor Smith's request during an often discordant review session Nov. 20.

"There was some confusion at our last session about what direction you'd like our board to take," P&Z chairman John Morris told the mayor during Monday night's city commission meeting.

He requested "additional direction" before the board's next review session, and suggested the data be submitted in written form. It will be forwarded to the P&Z early next week, Mayor Smith said Wednesday.

The P&Z study will determine whether zoning revisions will open more parts of the city for residential elder care operations. The mayor, with commissioners' concurrence, requested the board's deliberations last month after four elder care facilities were cited for operating in violation of city zoning law.

P&Z members were at odds Nov. 20 over whether facts, emotions, or a combination of both should guide their considerations.

In commenting on the matter Wednesday, Mayor Smith said she wanted the review to be "thorough," and for board members "to use their minds and hearts" during the deliberations.

She also said, "At the moment, it appears we do have a need to expand areas for elderly housing to places where they can live in a family type environment."

The mayor added, however, "I don't want to preempt the P&Z's considerations. The board members will be studying all possible aspects of the situation, including protection of seniors and property owners' rights."

Sanford's zoning laws prohibit residential elder care operations in single family zones. The lowest zoning density they're allowed in are multi-family zones.

Longwood Commission Faces Double Agenda

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

It will be a double-header for Longwood City Commission Monday night with a special meeting scheduled at 6:30 p.m. prior to the regular 7:30 p.m. session at city hall.

Street paving will dominate both agendas. At the special meeting, the commission will act as an equalization board holding public hearings to consider paving assessments for South/North Milwee Street (formerly West Lake Street) from West Warren Avenue to Florida Avenue and West Church Avenue from Milwee Street east 256 feet.

The commission is then scheduled to vote on resolutions to pave the streets with the adjacent property owners picking up 90 percent of the cost and the city paying the remaining 10 percent.

The South/North Milwee project is expected to cost $128,809.77 and the West Church Avenue project will cost $28,353.27.

During the regular session, three public hearings on equalization and resolutions continued from the Nov. 10 meeting will be held on paving West Warren Avenue from Lemon Lane to Lot 18, South Wilma Street from State Road 434, south/southwest for 1,085 feet, and Georgia Avenue from Credo Street to Lot 12, Block H, Lake Wayman Heights.

The hearing on West Warren Avenue was tabled at the last meeting to permit a study of the stormwater drainage and to determine if Hospital Corporation of America's permit to discharge water into the drainage system is still valid. James Poucher, administrator of HCA's South Seminole Community Hospital, questioned the necessity of widening the entire street and said drainage improvements were more important. John Massey of HCA questioned whether the proposed drainage was adequate. Fernand Tibbler, assistant city engineer said the proposed widening of the street to 26 feet would make the entire

Land Use Changes Approved

Two requests for amendments to the county's comprehensive land use plan and a change of zoning request were approved by county commissioners this week. The land use changes will allow for the development of the two properties. Neither request was opposed, and won unanimous approval by the commission.

A request to change the land use designation from low density residential to medium density residential for 1.7 acres of land east of Lake Howell Road north of Howell Branch Road was approved.

Gary Massey and Greg Samona requested the change to allow for the development of duplexes on the site. They also requested a change in zoning from agricultural to one and two family dwelling district. Each request was approved.

The commission agreed that the proposed use of the land was consistent with uses and development trends of other surrounding properties, and that central water and sewer service was available.

A land use change for a half-acre of land owned by William Duffie was also approved. Duffie requested a change in land use designation from low density residential to medium density residential for the parcel, located on the southwest corner of State Road 436 and Avery Lane in Forest City. The change will allow an existing building on the lot to be used as an office.

Commissioners agreed that water service is available and sewer service is not required. Planning staff also noted that the office use would add little traffic impact.

No change of zoning request accompanied Duffie's land use amendment. —Paul C. Schaefer

Arson Investigated Crooms Road Fires

County and city fire departments fought two suspicious vacant house blazes early today in south Seminole County.

Both fires flared up on Crooms Road, near Dean Road off State Road 436 in Goldenrod, according to Battalion Chief Chris Johnson at the scene.

The first fire was reported around 2 a.m. by a passerby on SR 436 who saw a red glow in the sky. The wooden building, around 100-years old and 400 yards from the roadway, was fully involved and nearly burned to the ground when firefighters arrived. The fire was put out within 30 minutes, the chief said.

About 30 minutes after firefighters left the scene, investigators saw another house about 150 yards away also on fire and called for help. See FIRE, page 14A

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Casselberry Man Charged In Third Armed Robbery

A 27-year-old Casselberry man arrested Tuesday in connection with November armed robberies of two Seminole County restaurants was arrested at the jail on a third similar charge at 10:23 a.m. Wednesday.

In the third case, David Scott Richardson is accused in the Nov. 7 armed robbery of the Pizza Hut at 2706 N. Semoran Blvd. He had been arrested earlier by Seminole County sheriff's deputies in connection with the Nov. 1 robbery of Pecker's Oyster Bar, State Road 436, and the Nov. 15 robbery of Good Times Pizza, Howell Branch Road.

He was being held without bond, charged with armed robbery in the three cases, and reportedly also faces similar charges in Orange and Brevard counties.

Woman Charged In Forgery

Sanford police allege that a 38-year-old Sanford woman forged and cashed a $400 check drawn on the account of Benjamin Highsmith, Nov. 13.

Linda Ellen Roberts, of 915 Park Ave. B, was arrested at 3:55 p.m. Wednesday at 101 E. 10th St., Sanford. She allegedly cashed the check at First Union Bank in Sanford; and Highsmith had reported the alleged forgery to his bank, Freedom Bank, a police report said.

Ms. Roberts was charged with uttering a forgery and grand theft. Bond was set at $1,000 and she has been released from jail.

Wine Coolers For Young Girls

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy, who watched as a man took money from two females in a car parked beside his car outside Albertson's liquor department, Springs Plaza, State Road 434, Longwood at about 10 p.m. Wednesday reported arresting the three after the man returned from inside Albertson's and allegedly handed over some wine coolers to the females.

Jeffrey Dean Reynolds, 20, of 895 Tudor Court, Longwood, has been charged with giving alcohol to minors and released from jail. A 17-year-old girl, along with Stacey L. Wood, 18, of 3520 Vestavia Way, Longwood, have been charged with possession of alcohol by persons under 21 years of age. Ms. Wood has been released from jail. The juvenile was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Driving Under The Influence

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on charges of driving under the influence:

—Terry Stephen Vargo, 41, of Apopka, was arrested at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday after his westbound car turned in front of an eastbound car on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. He was also charged with violating the right-of-way.

—Edward J. Laako, 29, of Orlando, at 1:30 a.m. Thursday after his car was clocked traveling 75 mph in a 45 mph zone on U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park. —John Steven Crenshaw, 23, 603 Windford Drive, Altamonte Springs, at 3:53 a.m. Wednesday on East Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, after he was seen driving erratically.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

CHAS R. SMITH, 49, of Apt. 204, 185 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies a $500 cassette recorder was stolen from his home Tuesday or Wednesday.

Two motorcycles, a 1986 Yamaha valued at $2,400 and a 1985 Honda valued at $1,400 and belonging to Rick Maier, 22, and Brett Addler, 18, of Altamonte Springs, were reported stolen from 128 Oak St., Altamonte Springs, Tuesday or Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

A radar detector, a citizen's band radio and cassette tapes with a combined value of $435 were stolen from the car of Vincent F. Holmwood, 59, of 458 Spanish Trace Drive, Altamonte Springs, Tuesday or Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Two household appliances with a combined value of $900 were stolen from a home being built by Florida Residential Communities of Altamonte Springs, at 2821 Revere Court, Casselberry, Tuesday or Wednesday, according to a report a property manager filed with sheriff's deputies.

A sabel palm valued at $150 was stolen from the home of Janet Ann Evans, 36, of 3033 Harbor Landing Way, Casselberry, Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Collin Cantrell, 25, of 112 Willow Ave., Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies Wednesday that $450 worth of scuba gear was stolen from his home.

U.S. 17-92 Interstate Ramps Close Dec. 1

The westbound on-ramp and eastbound off-ramp of Interstate 4 at U.S. 17-92 will be closed for two weeks beginning Monday, Dec. 1.

C.A. Benedict, deputy assistant secretary for the Florida Department of Transportation's Fifth District, said the ramps will be closed due to construction of a rubberized railcrossing on CR 15.

The eastbound on-ramp and westbound off-ramp will remain open during construction. The westbound on-ramp will be open to traffic on Orange Boulevard west of I-4.

Traffic which normally uses the two ramps are advised to use interchanges at SR 46 or at Dirksen Drive in Deltona. Signs will be placed to direct motorists to US 17-92 in Sanford from other interchanges.

Plan Ahead For Dodd Road Closing

Dodd Road will be closed at 8 a.m. Monday, Dec. 1, for that one day. The road will be closed from the 4-way stop at Dike Road, south to Howell Branch ford from other interchanges. Vehicles headed west on I-4 bound for the Port of Sanford which normally uses the US 17-92 interchange must continue to SR 46 then use Orange Boulevard.

County Road 15 will be closed at the crossing. Residents west of I-4 who normally use CR 15 must detour west on Orange Boulevard to SR 46.

Crews from CSX Transportation Inc. will begin work Monday morning on the crossing. The work is scheduled to be complete by Friday, Dec. 12.

"We regret the inconvenience this causes for motorists using the interchange," Benedict said. "But this work is necessary. The end result will be a smoother, safer railroad crossing."

Road. Signs indicating the recommended detour will be posted, according to road officials.

Stragglers Rounded Up In Jury Scurry

Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

"The trial must go on," or words to that effect said a circuit judge in Sanford Tuesday and ordered deputies to round up six registered voters when a trial for a Sanford man came up shy of a jury.

That sent deputies scurrying, and in short order they waylaid several potential jurors to make up the seven-member panel — a maintenance man, clerks, a couple in court to sign divorce papers. They weren't needed, however, because other efforts to reach already-selected jurors were successful. The trial began with the jury of five women and one man returning one guilty and one not guilty verdict Wednesday afternoon.

The problem began when a Tuesday morning trial fell through ending in a mistrial. McGregor, who had picked two jurors Monday, ordered that the second trial, a drug possession trial scheduled to begin Wednesday, start Tuesday afternoon. That meant locating the Wednesday jurors.

As the 1 p.m. trial time approached, the jury was several members shy, so McGregor ordered deputies to find six registered voters. By the time efforts coalesced, six of the seven original jurors had been located plus several other jurors "recruited."

Attorneys for both sides agreed to go to trial without the seating of an alternate and used the original six jurors.

The trial was also not without its unusual elements for during the proceedings the defendant dismissed his public defender and pleaded his own case.

The jury found Lenard Thomas Sutton, 39, of 1020 Cypress Ave., guilty of possession of marijuana. He was found not guilty of possession of cocaine. The printed forms the jury recorded its verdict on, however, were miss-marked. McGregor had to ask if the initialed marks and changed verdict was the final deliberation of the jury. They said it was and the verdicts were announced.

According to court records, Sanford officers were in the area of Persimmon Avenue when a car passed them on a double yellow line. The incident occurred June 20. After stopping the vehicle the officer noticed a marijuana cigarette on the seat and a further search reportedly turned up some cocaine.

Sutton was then arrested on charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana.

Girls Have Man Charged In Lewd Acts 2 Times

A 22-year-old Altamonte Springs man arrested Nov. 19 on charges of committing a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child was arrested at the Seminole County jail Wednesday for a second time on that charge.

The man who allegedly said he was going to kill himself when first arrested by Longwood police has been on suicide watch at the jail where he is being held without bond.

The allegations in the second case are similar to those in the first. In each instance, 12-year-old girls accused the man of exposing himself and making sexual comments to them.

In the first case the victim reported seeing the suspect in her Longwood neighborhood three times, May 16, Oct. 16 and Nov. 5. She got the license number of the suspect's car and that led to the first arrests.

In the other case the victim said the suspect followed in his car as she walked on Orange Avenue on April 9. She saw him again April 9 and April 11, a Longwood police report said.

The second girl reportedly identified a suspect Nov. 20 in a police photo lineup. The first girl had also reportedly identified the suspect, his car and license plate in photo lineups.

Richard Mells, of 445 S. North Lake Drive, who has refused to tell police his occupation, has been charged in the cases.

Shooting, Abduction Falls

A 17-year-old Oviedo girl reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that two men, one armed, apparently fired three shots at her car and tried to pull her from the vehicle when she stopped on County Road 418 in Chuluota at about 1:20 a.m. Thursday.

Denise Augusta Bell told deputies the men followed as she drove her boyfriend's car on County Road 418 from the Circle K in Oviedo. She was alone. They flashed the bright light of their car and she heard a backfire type sound, just before her car pulled slightly to the right.

There was a second backfire type sound and Ms. Bell's car swerved to the right and she stopped. Two men, one with a revolver in hand approached her car. They tried to pull her from the car. One said, "We want the car." The armed man said, "I have a gun; I'm going to kill you." Ms. Bell heard a shot sound at the rear of her car. The unarmed man tried to pull her out of the car and hit her in the face, arms and legs. They couldn't get her out, because she was secured by a seatbelt.

The suspects, who are believed to be in their early 20s, fled eastbound on County Road 418. Ms. Bell went to the nearby home of Mary and Leslie Gross, Sheriff's deputies and fire department rescue workers were called to the scene. Ms. Bell was treated for a cut on her face and released to her mother.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Soweto Mayor Resigns Amid Reports Of Loss Of Confidence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The mayor of Johannesburg's Soweto black township resigned saying he lost the confidence of the people, newspaper and radio reports said today.

Ephraim Tshabalala turned in his letter of resignation to the Soweto council Thursday, citing the loss of confidence of some 2.2 million blacks living in the sprawling township on the southwestern suburbs of Johannesburg as the main reason.

Tshabalala's letter expressed the hope that an interim committee could be established to normalize the situation in Soweto, the site of frequent clashes between opposing black political factions and between white officials and black rent boycotters resisting eviction.

Earlier Thursday, a human rights organization charged that government security forces had detained at least 8,000 children, some as young as 11 years old.

The group released a 210-page report saying at least 8,000 children had been detained without trial since a state of emergency was imposed June 12.

Fighting Stilled In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A cease-fire agreement eased battles today between Shiite Moslem Amal gunmen and Palestinian guerrillas in a hilltop village in southern Lebanon and around three refugee camps in Moslem west Beirut.

The truce, reached late Thursday at a meeting in Damascus between Palestinian and Amal militia representatives, is set to go into effect at 3:00 p.m. today.

Attacks and counter-attacks with artillery and rocket fire in Maghdousheh, a Christian hilltop village about two miles southeast of Sidon, eased to sporadic early today, police said.

The agreement also called for the withdrawal of Palestinian guerrillas from positions they occupied in Maghdousheh to the nearby refugee camps of Miyeh Miyeh and Ain El Helweh, on the outskirts of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut.

Pope Shows Scar To 4-Graders

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Pope John Paul II showed fourth-grade students where an assassin's bullet hit him and said kangeroos helped him recover from jet lag.

A surprise question Thursday came from one boy who asked, "Could you just point to where you were wounded?"

John Paul, sitting in a chair with the children huddled around him on the classroom floor, pointed to his right side and said, "It was here, I suppose."

John Paul was seriously wounded by a Turkish gunman in St. Peter's Square on May 13, 1981.

The pontiff, who is on a two-week tour of Asia and the Pacific, spent 20 minutes with 27 Roman Catholic students at St. Leo The Great primary school answering 14 questions from the 10-year-old boys and girls.

Arrest Warnings Issued

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — The government said today it expects a rally for direct presidential elections to turn violent and police will not hesitate to crack down on the demonstrators.

Prosecutor-General Suh Dong-kwon said the rally by the New Korea Democratic Party "is an unlawful gathering" and ordered police to "pick up and punish according to law all those who stage illegal gatherings and demonstrations or use violence and cause disturbances."

Suh said dissidents including "left-leaning student activists" and disgruntled workers are likely to get violent and take advantage of the planned rally.

Authorities planned to post 12,000 policemen around the park where the NKDP planned to stage the rally to demand direct presidential elections and seal off the area early Saturday. "Nobody will be allowed to get to the place," a police spokesman said.

Growth Creates Work Overload

Rapid county growth which has created a work overload in the county engineering division has caused a lag in processing and approval of development engineering plans, according to county Public Works Director Larry Sellers.

Seminole County Commissioners this week offered some help. They authorized the expenditure of up to $4,500 for an outside consulting firm to help review final engineering plans for proposed developments.

Commissioners agreed to hire the firm of Conklin, Porter and Holmes, Sanford, to help in engineering plan review.

He said that outside firms have been used for preparation of plans and specifications, right-of-way maps, preparation of surveys, and other activities related to the start-up of construction projects.

Sellers blamed "a continuing large volume of engineering plans being submitted for review" for delays.

However, this will be the first time a consulting engineer has been used for quality assurance in the review process for development in the county.

Sellers recommended Conklin, Porter and Holmes "by virtue of their long history if experience in providing engineering services to the development community in Seminole County, and their thorough knowledge of Seminole County's Land Development Code."

Firm president Bristol Conklin said in a letter to the commission that his firm is "very pleased to... assist the county... at a time when your personnel are experiencing such a heavy workload... We will do our best to be a real help."

Depending on the classification of Conklin's staff who will review plans and the type of plans being reviewed, the county will be billed between $25 per hour and $75 per hour, up to a maximum of $4,500.

TV Satire Threatens

ROME (UPI) — A skit on a television variety show satirizing the secret U.S. arms sales to Iran has caused a diplomatic crisis between Italy and Iran.

Radio Tehran and the Iranian news agency Irna reported Thursday that the State Political Council was expelling three Italian diplomats, closing the Italian cultural centers in Iran and recalling its ambassador from Rome.

RAI President Enrico Manca said the television network "never intended to offend Iran's political and religious sentiments."

Diplomacy In Disarray

That something is terribly awry in the conduct of American foreign policy is evident in Secretary of State George Shultz's admission on television that he lacks the authority to speak for the Reagan administration on its dealing with Iran. This extraordinary spectacle is made worse by Mr. Shultz's public contradiction of the president's assertion that "there's been no evidence of Iranian government complicity in acts of terrorism" since the White House began covert overtures to Teheran last year.

As Ronald Reagan completes his sixth year in office, American diplomacy is evoking scorn at home and abroad. Constancy and firmness in foreign affairs, once the hallmark of the Reagan presidency, are now conspicuously lacking. The secretary of state, whom this president pledged to make the principal architect of U.S. foreign policy, hints he might resign because the White House undertook the Iranian initiative without informing him.

Meantime, the president's personal credibility is vanishing as he tries to deny the obvious and persuade the American people that the United States did not trade arms to the Ayatollah Khomeini for American hostages in Lebanon.

How did the president get into this mess, and what are the likely consequences for his lame-duck administration with 25 months left to govern?

Despite the temptation to blame this dilemma on misguided advice from his White House aides, Mr. Reagan himself must bear full responsibility for the disarray. It was the president who, after rejecting warnings from Secretary of State Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, authorized the clandestine Iranian operation. It was carried out by the president's own National Security Council staff, described by Senator John Glenn as "a rogue elephant on a rampage through the jungles...."

Once the president decided to pursue this mistaken course, he unwisely sought to keep it secret not only from the Cabinet secretaries who opposed it, but also from the Senate and House intelligence committees, thereby creating the impression that he wanted to avoid congressional oversight and sidestep legal requirements that key lawmakers be informed. As a result, Mr. Reagan compromised what should be a prime legacy of his tenure in office — the return of presidential dominance in the formulation of foreign policy.

With the Democrats returning to power in both chambers on Capitol Hill, the White House undoubtedly will face new efforts to restrict presidential flexibility to act decisively abroad. A prime target of this move will be the Central Intelligence Agency, whose influence has been restored by Mr. Reagan. Some Democratic lawmakers already are discussing the need to clip the agency's wings, in part because of allegations that it tried to circumvent Congress in supplying arms to the anti-government Contras in Nicaragua.

Mr. Reagan risks unraveling other foreign-policy gains as well by his recent clumsy encounter with Mikhail Gorbachev at Reykjavik. Serious arms control has been supplanted by a propagandistic debate over whether the president agreed to the abolition of all nuclear weapons, as though such a goal were practical.

Setbacks stemming from the Iceland summit will further embolden Democratic lawmakers to seek arms reductions by legislation rather than negotiation. The new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, attributes the lack of superpower progress to the Reagan administration's lack of "will to reach that agreement." The inevitable result of such sentiment will be more cutbacks in defense spending, limits on U.S. nuclear testing, and curbs on the president's strategic-defense program.

With two years left in power and his popularity still relatively high, Mr. Reagan cannot be discounted as the pre-eminent source of American leadership around the globe. But what remains to be answered is whether the twilight of Mr. Reagan's presidency will mark a steady decline of America's more-muscular stance abroad after six years of White House efforts to establish it.

Our New National 'Festival of Holidays'

Do American Indians celebrate Thanksgiving? It depends on which Thanksgiving. The "old" Thanksgiving commemorated the Pilgrims' tribute to God for surviving in their new land and coexisting peacefully with the Indians.

The "new" Thanksgiving is the unofficial first day of the Christmas shopping season, replete with gaily festooned stores.

Native Americans (misnamed Indians) might actually find it easier accepting the holiday that glorifies nationwide mercantile paganism instead of the one that ultimately exalts their own genocide and the theft of their land.

After 200 years, this nation can feel no pride in the open-air concentration camps euphemistically called "reservations."

Perhaps Thanksgiving's larger meaning is unfinished business.

On the lighter side, it also introduces a period of some serious partying.

In the six-weeks between Thanksgiving and Jan. 6, six holidays are celebrated by various religious and ethnic groups: Thanksgiving, Christmas, Kwanzaa, Hanukkah, New Year's Day and Three Kings' Day.

I call this period the American "Festival of Holidays." It's what Walt Whitman meant when he wrote, "I hear America singing, the varied carols I hear."

The second of my American Festival of Holidays, Christmas, needs no explanation, but most Americans are unfamiliar with the third, Kwanzaa, which begins the day after Christmas.

Founded in 1966 by black nationalist philosopher and scholar Maulana Ron Karenga, Kwanzaa, which means "first fruits" in Swahili, is "Afrocentric." Karenga felt that black Americans should have a holiday that celebrates their legacy.

Over the years Kwanzaa has caught on, and it is celebrated by an increasingly large cross section of black Americans.

Each of the seven days is dedicated to a different principle of life, described by a Swahili word — "ujima" (unity), "ujima" (collective work and responsibility), "ujamaa" (self-determination), "ujamaa" (cooperative economics), "nia" (purpose), "kuumba" (creativity) and "imani" (faith). A candle is lit each day.

Children are given presents, told stories and asked each day what they have done to carry out one of the seven principles.

The fourth in the American Festival of Holidays, Hanukkah, is also celebrated by lighting candles, this time in a menorah, for eight days.

While Hanukkah commemorates the miracle of a small crucible of oil that burned for eight days in a temple after Judas Maccabaeus defeated the Syrian oppressors in 165 B.C., it has never been a major Jewish holiday. But its close proximity to Christmas increased its popularity, and many Jewish families give Hanukkah presents to their children.

All of us ring in the new year on Jan. 1, and five days later the American Festival of Holidays closes with "Fiesta de los Tres Reyes Magos" (Three Kings' Day).

This holiday has historical authenticity.

For the next six weeks, during the American Festival of Holidays, let us, as the Indian philosopher Radakrishnan so eloquently put it, "learn to enjoy each other's proximity."

Troubles Caused By Secrecy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Reagan's penchant for dealing with foreign policy and national security issues in strict secrecy is surely a primary cause of his current difficulties.

The weapons shipments to Iran are only the most recent example of the White House's fascination with clandestine operations and its paranoia about sharing information, even with responsible officials inside the government.

Thus, the president has been running a covert paramilitary operation out of the White House basement offices of the National Security Council staff.

But most of the senior officials who are statutory members of the NSC — the secretaries of state and defense, and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — have been given limited information or none at all about the Iranian initiative.

The Intelligence Oversight Act requires the president to provide advance notice to the House and Senate intelligence committees whenever he plans a covert operation.

In addition, CIA Director William Casey pledged two years ago that he would inform both committees within 48 hours of any intelligence activities or clandestine operations whose sensitivity required presidential approval.

In a misguided attempt to shroud the Iranian arms transactions in absolute secrecy, Reagan early this year directed Casey to violate that written commitment. In addition, the president invoked a provision in the federal law that allows him to waive the advance notice requirements under extraordinary circumstances.

Even in those special cases, the law requires congressional notification "in a timely fashion" — and a year's delay surely is not timely.

The principal characteristic that distinguishes the Iranian operation from earlier secret Reagan initiatives is that in the previous cases the president has deftly avoided major public disputes.

Those prior covert operations include full-scale military operations against the Nicaraguan government and an attempt to destabilize Libya's government through "disinformation" in this country's news media.

During Reagan's tenure in the White House, the Defense Department's budget for its most highly classified "black" programs has increased by 80 percent.

Reagan Pursues U.S.-Soviet Space Mission

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Despite the mild chill that followed the "summit summit" at Reykjavik, the Reagan administration is actively pursuing the resumption of a detente-era program that worries some of the president's hard-line advisers: another joint U.S.-Soviet space mission.

Those pushing hardest for the mission are key officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, including director James Fletcher. It's no coincidence that Fletcher was also head of the agency during the only previous U.S.-Soviet space venture, in 1975. NASA sees a new superpower cooperation in space as a way to free the agency from the military embrace it has had to endure to hold onto even minimum funding.

In Geneva, Dale Van Atta has learned that several State Department officials and some of their Soviet counterparts there support a joint space mission. The Soviets have demonstrated a clear interest

WILLIAM RUSHER

Ottawa's Hot Potato

Brian Mulroney, the Progressive Conservative prime minister of Canada, is trying to decide what to do with the hottest potato that has yet landed in his lap. Before the year is over, he must make up his mind whether to try to cover up one of the worst security scandals in Canadian history, or to publicly acknowledge that one of his predecessors as prime minister (and one from the opposition Liberal Party at that) may knowingly have supplied classified information to a Soviet espionage ring in Washington during World War II.

As recounted earlier in this space, a book recently published in Canada ("No Sense of Evil," by James Barros, a professor at the University of Toronto) makes it clear that Herbert Norman, a Canadian foreign service veteran who committed suicide in 1957, was a lifelong communist and probably an agent of Soviet intelligence as well.

Since liberals at the time of Norman's death accepted the assurances of the late Lester Pearson, then external affairs minister, that Norman was innocent of all wrongdoing, the conventional liberal wisdom ever since has been that Norman was driven to suicide by false charges.

But Professor Barros thoughtfully appended to his book on Norman a bombshell involving Pearson: the full text of testimony by Elizabeth Bentley, who had been a courier for the Perlo-Silvermaster espionage ring in Washington during World War II, before a heretofore secret session of the U.S. Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee in 1951.

Bentley (whose veracity as a witness has withstood every test) told the subcommittee that her information gatherer in Canadian circles in Washington was a Canadian communist named Hazen Sise, and that Sise told her that Pearson, then Canada's second-ranking diplomat in Washington, "knew Sise was a communist and was willing to help." The subcommittee's counsel, Robert Morris, nailed down the charge:

MORRIS: "Then he used to give the information he obtained to Hazen Sise?"

BENTLEY: "That is correct, and he passed it on to me."

And she passed it on to the Russians.

The response in Canada to this double whammy — the exposure of Norman and the evidence against Pearson — has been, understandably, rather ragged. Reviewers of the Barros book have tended to hem and haw over Herbert Norman, and to ignore the deadly testimony about Lester Pearson altogether. Given the near-total dominance of liberals and leftists over the principal Canadian communication channels, until recently it seemed possible that they might manage to sweep the whole mess back under the rug for another 30 years.

But early in November, Dr. Alex Kindy, an M.P. for Calgary East, rose in the House of Commons and placed on the Notice Paper four sticky questions concerning the Barros book, which the government must answer orally within 45 days. If Prime Minister Mulroney is less than completely candid, he runs the risk that the whole truth will come out anyway and that history will record that he was one of those who tried to conceal it. If he lets the chips fall where they may, he may well preside over the posthumous destruction of the reputation of Lester Pearson for honor or even simple patriotism.

SCIENCE WORLD

Sunshine Declined Steadily

Sunshine as measured by an orbiting solar observatory declined steadily from 1980 to 1985 but now appears to be leveling off, suggesting the slight drop off may be related to the 11-year solar cycle, a physicist says.

Richard C. Willson of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at Pasadena, Calif., said the total radiation output from the sun dropped nearly one-tenth of 1 percent from 1980 to 1985.

While that may sound insignificant, Willson noted that a drop of only one-half of 1 percent over an entire century is enough to cause drastic climatic changes.

The radiation measurements were made by NASA's Solar Max satellite, that was repaired in orbit by space shuttle astronauts in 1984. The satellite began its observations at the height of the solar cycle and sunspot activity has been decreasing since then.

The quiet period of the sun was apparently reached this year, and Willson said the initial indications from early 1986 data from the satellite suggest that the decline in solar output has started leveling off. If it is related to the solar cycle, sunshine should soon begin a slow increase.

Willson reported his findings through 1985 in the journal Science.

Killer Bees

Contrary to some predictions, a Smithsonian Institution entomologist says "killer bees" are not expected to spread into the United States with the same intensity they moved through South America.

David Roubik, an expert on the insects that scientists know as Africanized honeybees, said mating competition from European bees in North America will slow if not stop their advance into the United States. He said there was no such competition in South America.

"Africanized bees will not be able to establish themselves so densely, if at all, in the United States," he said in a report from the Smithsonian.

The bees were imported from Africa to boost honey yields in Brazil and were accidentally released into the wild in 1957. The bees have been advancing through the tropics, sometimes at rates of more than 300 miles a year. The Smithsonian said the killer bees have reached as far north as southern Mexico to date.

in such an effort during recent talks in Geneva.

Hard-liners in the Pentagon and the National Security Council oppose the idea, however. Their argument — made particularly by Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Perle — is that the Apollo-Soyuz mission 11 years ago was a classic case of the United States giving away valuable technology; which the Soviets then adapted to military programs.

A top-secret CIA report on that 1975 space flight explains why the critics of the new joint venture are unhappy.

The Soviets, according to the CIA, wanted to win propaganda points then by "demonstrating to the world that the U.S.S.R. was on a par with the U.S. in space research and development" — which it wasn't at the time. (Nor is it today.)

The CIA report said the Soviets also expected to "profit from close exposure to U.S. space technology and proven operational procedures and techniques." And, the CIA added, the Soviets did just that.

The Soviets "gained a great deal from their exposure to U.S. hardware and software technology," the CIA reported. And while not all of the technology was "of direct military significance, (it) enhanced their understanding of the U.S. state of the art," and provided at least some spillover to their military programs. The same thing would happen in a joint mission today, the CIA said.

The Soviet space program also profited by observing and experiencing the training given to American astronauts, which was then adopted to improve the training of Soviet cosmonauts. The Soviets involved in the joint space flight "spent several hours training on U.S. equipment," and were considered "better prepared than any of their predecessors" in the Soviet space program, the CIA report stated.

In 1975, according to the CIA, the Soviets had poor command-center procedures, and the joint space venture helped to correct that. Until then, the Soviet "ground contingent had generally been unable to respond quickly to suspected or known emergencies in space, and often required several hours to identify a problem, discern its cause and find a solution." After observing the U.S. methods, the Soviets were able to "improve (their) capabilities in this area."

The 1975 cooperative mission even helped the Soviets improve the quality of their hardware, the CIA maintained, because of the "exhaustive pre-launch simulations and checkouts insisted upon by the Americans."

Didn't the United States gain anything from the 1975 Apollo-Soyuz mission? One thing: an era of friendly relations — detente — with the Soviet Union. In other words, it won precisely what many hard-line Reagan advisers consider not worth winning. The White House will now have to decide whether the value of a new detente is worth the technological gains the Soviets would make from a new joint venture in space.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Spends Thanksgiving Behind Wall Of Silence

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — With President Reagan out of public view at his mountaintop ranch, his aides insist they want any wrongdoing "out in the open" concerning U.S. diversion of secret Iran arms money to Nicaraguan rebels.

Yet while Reagan spent Thanksgiving eating turkey with his family and riding horses under sunny skies, the dark storm of controversy rumbled closer to his inner circle of power.

The White House, hoping to ease political heat from Capitol Hill and the sort of negative public reaction reflected in early polls, appeared set in its strategy of stonewalling — at least until Meese's internal investigation and a presidential panel's review of NSC operations are complete.

As Reagan went horseback riding and performed ranch chores at his 888-acre Rancho del Cielo in the Santa Ynez Mountains, spokesman Dan Howard deflected all questions about the latest rash of revelations, which not only widened the scope of Meese's probe but also deepened concern among some Reagan associates.

Anti-Drug Project Unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Education Secretary William Bennett assures state leaders across the country that he's moving quickly toward implementing a $200 million anti-drug program because of the "emergency" presented by young drug abusers.

In a letter to governors, governors-elect and chief state school officials nationwide, Bennett said Thursday his department is taking unusual action on the program by not drawing up new regulations that would slow distribution of the funds.

The secretary also noted California, Texas, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio are being allocated the largest sums under the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act signed by President Reagan Oct. 27.

Hopes Held For Hangovers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An experimental anti-alcohol drug that revived drunken rats and kept others sober in recent testing may hold hope for humans as a future treatment for alcoholism.

The drug, Ro15-4513, apparently blocks access to the brain cell receptor that ethanol, the alcohol in liquor, normally acts on. It also prevents or reverses certain symptoms of drunkenness.

Report: Arms Deal Known By Regan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House chief of staff Donald Regan is challenging an administration official to give investigators evidence that he knew details of the secret scheme to divert U.S. arms profits from Iran to Nicaraguan rebels.

The White House official told UPI Thursday on a condition of anonymity about Regan's role in the possibly criminal operation, and the chief of staff denied it strongly. But the source promised to relay his information to investigators if they are willing to dig deeply into the scope of the clandestine dealings.

The official said Regan was informed regularly about the operation by Navy Vice Adm. John Poindexter, the national security adviser who quit Tuesday, and Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, the National Security Council deputy fired for handling the scheme at a time when U.S. military aid to the rebels was banned.

Poindexter had been informed by North about the operation to fund the Contra rebels "every step of the way," the official added.

"Regan approved the concept of using Iran funds to finance the Contras," the source said. "And he was informed every time there was a development — such as when the Iranians responded to an overture."

Briefings for Regan took place between once a week and once a month in the White House, the official said, declaring: "I will tell the Justice Department what I told you if they conduct a thorough investigation."

He said knowledgeable White House people have not been interviewed yet.

Regan, in Santa Barbara, Calif., where President Reagan remained in seclusion at his ranch for the Thanksgiving holiday, called the allegations "ridiculous" and through a spokesman argued, "If any of these people who claim to know this have any evidence, they should take it to the Department of Justice."

Asked about his own Thanksgiving, Regan told reporters, "I feel like I'm the turkey."

"I was never briefed thoroughly on all of this," he said. "I never heard of it until the news came out on Monday about what was happening with the Iranian money and the Contras ... I don't know where the story came from. How can you comment on an unnamed source?"

Thursday, Vice President George Bush's name was mentioned for the first time in connection with the arms operations.

An administration official denied a report in The New York Times that Bush might be sent to the Middle East to try to quell criticism of U.S. policy, saying, "We're not sure he's going to come out clean." The administration was considering sending Secretary of State George Shultz.

Meese's internal probe, which began as a weekend inquiry that included talks with North and a dozen top officials including the president, has expanded to include the FBI in a search for criminal activity. Some members of Congress are urging the appointment of a Watergate-style independent counsel.

Several reports said Thursday it appears the Pentagon and CIA were involved in arms deals as part of Reagan's 18-month Iran operation on a wider scale than first suggested.

ABC News said Pentagon officials confirmed that Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, thought before to have disapproved of such arms deals, ordered TOW anti-tank and Hawk missiles shipped to Israel four times in 1986 knowing they were destined for Iran.

ABC quoted a Weinberger spokesman as saying the secretary was unaware of the arms profits being funneled into a Swiss bank for the Contras, but at least three newspapers said the Defense Department, National Security Agency and the CIA had received top-secret communications "intercepts" in the last year that provided clues Meese used to unravel the operation during the weekend.

Hoskins Is Tops In Yards

Lyman's Glenn Is Leader In Tackles

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

For a little man, Lake Howell High's Nate Hoskins sure had a big year.

Hoskins, Lake Howell's 5-7, 161-pound running back rushed for 1,005 yards and scored 10 touchdowns for 80 points to lead Seminole County in both categories as the prep football regular season drew to a close last Friday.

The county leaders are based on regular season games only. Each school played a 10-game schedule.

Hoskins, whose Silver Hawks lost a District 5A-5 championship playoff Monday to Apopka, finished with a 9-1 record. The determined senior was one of the main reasons. Hoskins picked up 118 yards against Oviedo to surpass the 1,000-yard mark and scored two touchdowns to run his season total to 10.

"Nate is just one solid muscle," Lake Howell coach Mike Blacoglia said. "We counted on him to carry the load and he exceeded our expectations."

Lake Mary High's John Curry was second with 929 yards and nine TDs for 54 points. Howell teammate Jeff Phillips was the top kick scorer with seven field goals and 20 extra points for 41 points.

Defensively, Lyman High senior Benny Glenn came away with the biggest prize as he led the county in tackles. Glenn, a linebacker, collected nine solos and 11 assists in his last game against Lake Mary. He finished with 70 solos and 97 assists for 167 total, an average of 16.7 per game.

"Benny was our defensive player of the year," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "He was consistent every time out. You could count on him every game to do his job."

Seminole High's Earnie "Sackman" Lewis matched Glenn's final-game total with 10 solos and 10 assists against DeLand to finish second. Lewis, a junior linebacker, finished with 83 solos and 80 assists for 162, an average of 16.2 per game.

In what proved to be a dominant defensive year, 11 players averaged 10.0 or more tackles per game. Seminole junior Steve Warren (14.0), Brantley senior Grant Carpenter (12.6), Lyman senior Scott King (12.3), Seminole senior Rick Kelley (12.0), Oviedo senior Jeff Joyce (11.3), Howell senior Jeff Harris (11.3), Mary senior Mike Smith (10.5), Brantley junior Jeff Stanphill (10.5) and Mary junior Lance Stewart (10.0) all turned in outstanding seasons.

While Hoskins and his offensive line took care of the ground attack, Lake Howell received strong leadership at quarterback from senior Mark Wainwright who led the county in passing yardage (683), completion percentage (53-113 for 48.9 percent) and touchdown passes (seven). Senior teammate Bill Wesson had four TD receptions to lead that category.

Lake Brantley High's Jason Lanham, who tossed three scoring passes in his last game, finished strongly for five touchdown passes and 452 yards. He was second to Wainwright in both categories.

The beneficiary of Lanham and Brantley junior Greg Ebbert (433 yards on just 79 attempts) was junior Nigel "Hands" Hinds. The glue-fingered wide receiver tormented 29 passes for 547 yards. He averaged a superb 18.9 yards per catch. Lake Mary's Sheldon Richards was second with 21 grabs for 291 yards.

Gordon King, like Hinds, put a comfortable margin between himself and runner-up Scott Radcliff for the punting leadership. King, a left-footed senior, boomed 44 punts for 1,870 yards and an excellent 42.5 average. His strong leg continually stuck the opposition with poor field position and was a major factor in Oviedo's 6-4 season.

Radcliff followed up a good sophomore season with a strong junior year. He booted 31 times for 1,042 yards and a 39.1 average.

Mary's Richards also had a fine season on the defensive side of the ball. Richards and Howell's Terry Gammons went

Gordon King, left, averaged 42.5 per punt and Nigel "Hands" Hinds had 29 grabs.

Steve Warren, left, had six sacks and Pete Lingard had five fumble recoveries.

Stats Go Out Window For Gators-FSU Clash

By Mike Andrew Special to the Herald

When the Florida Gators travel to Doak Campbell Stadium on Saturday to battle the Florida State Seminoles, every statistic, record or comparison involved is thrown out the window.

This is the game that decides "the" university in Florida. Will it be the 6-3-1 Seminoles who are slated for a matchup against the Indiana Hoosiers in the All American Bowl? Or will it be the Gators, who at 5-5, will apparently be at home over the holidays?

The 'Noles started the season poorly. After an opening game victory over Toledo, FSU lost to Nebraska, then tied North Carolina and lost again to Michigan in a close one, 20-18. After four games, coach Bobby Bowden's team was an unimpressive 1-2-1.

The Gators were even worse. After an easy win over Florida Southern, 38-14, things for the Gators went down hill fast. First was the loss to Miami, but only by eight. A loss to Miami was not unusual for Florida, but a loss to Alabama the next week was. It would mark the first time in Galen Hall's three tenure that the Gators would lose two games in a row. In fact, it was the first time a Hall-coached team had lost two games in the same season.

Mississippi State was next, and most thought the Gators would be on track. Wrong. The surprising Bulldogs stunned the ineffective Gators in Starkville, 16-10. That loss was followed by a 28-17 drubbing at the hands of the LSU Bayou Bengals, and after five games, the Gators were 1-4.

FSU followed with wins against Tulane, Wichita State, Louisville, South Carolina and Southern Miss while losing to Miami.

Football

The Gators started on the road to respectability with wins against Kent State, Rutgers, Auburn and Georgia, before returning to ineffectiveness against Kentucky two weeks ago.

None of that matters now, though. This is the Florida-FSU game.

"We'll get up for them and I'm sure they'll be fired up to play us," Gator center Frank McCarthy said. "It's always a hard-hitting game, the kind we like to be in. They have a good team and we will really have to concentrate in preparing for them. Hopefully things will work out, and we'll end the season with a good showing."

Florida owns a 21-6-1 lead in the series, which began back in 1958, and has won five straight against the 'Noles. Last year, the Gators trounced the Seminoles, 38-14, at Florida Field. They face a tougher obstacle this year, nonetheless.

"Florida State is a young team which has steadily improved," Hall said. "They are extremely talented, probably as talented a team as we've seen this year."

The Seminoles will be the seventh team the Gators will play that has been ranked in the Top 20 this year.

"What they needed was game experience to develop the tremendous skill level of their team," Hall continued. "Now they've gotten that. I truly believe they could play any team in the nation on equal terms at this time."

Key matchups in this game will include FSU

Torretta's 3 TDs Keep 'Canes Date With Penn State

MIAMI (UPI) — With a Vinny Testaverde-type performance, Miami backup quarterback Geoff Torretta kept intact the Hurricanes' date with Penn State for the national championship.

Torretta, replacing injured Testaverde, threw for 328 yards — the second-best by a Miami quarterback this season — to lead the top-ranked Hurricanes to a 36-10 triumph over East Carolina Thursday night.

The victory improved the Hurricanes to 11-0 and guaranteed them a Jan. 2, Fiesta Bowl showdown with the 11-0 and No. 2 Nittany Lions, a game that should decide the national title.

Torretta, a senior making his first collegiate start, completed 20 of 30 passes to come within two yards of Testaverde's team-best, passing output this season. Testaverde had suffered severe abrasions Tuesday in a motor-scooter accident and watched the game from the sidelines.

Torretta threw touchdown passes of 42 and 50 yards to Michael Irvin and 29 yards to

Football

Brett Perriman.

"I didn't have any jitters going into the game. I felt very confident," Torretta said. "It's a chance I've been waiting for for a long time. No one wants to be a backup quarterback. But you've got to make the best out of it and you have to prepare yourself in case of an injury."

"We told him when we recruited him that he was one play away from starting," Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson said. "He prepared himself in the proper manner and performed in the proper manner. I am very happy for him."

Johnson and Athletic Director Sam Jankovich accepted the Fiesta Bowl bid after the game and then retired Testaverde's jersey. Testaverde is expected to be fully recovered and able to play Jan. 2.

"Now we can think about Penn State, and really, we've been thinking about them for a long time," Johnson said. "There is no way I can describe the feelings that I have for these players and this team for going through the season undefeated. But we still have one game to go."

In addition to Torretta's touchdown passes, the Hurricanes also scored on a 2-yard run by fullback Alonzo Highsmith, a 12-yard rush by running back Warren Williams and a 22-yard field goal by Greg Cox.

Gardening

Save Time And Money With A Low Maintenance Landscape

Everybody wants to save money. One way to reduce the amount of maintenance you give your home landscape. But I'm not suggesting you let your landscape become the neighborhood eyesore. Just that you modify what you're doing to reduce the time and money it takes to keep everything attractive.

When we think of establishing a beautiful landscape, we should consider the cost and expense required to plant and maintain it. We don't have the time or money to do the job, we're apt to give up the whole idea and set for a very ordinary yard.

It doesn't have to be that way. A good-looking landscape isn't necessarily an involved high-maintenance one. Reducing the expanse of your lawn and garden is often the simplest and most effective way of cutting down costs. Let your cultivated home grounds to a size that can manage economically.

Keep your design simple. Let each plant have a definite function. Plant arrangement is important, too. Scattered or cluttered plant groupings hand edging and weeding and makes weeding much more difficult.

Your lawn is one place you can save a lot of time. If your property is too sandy, too dry or too steep to be mowed safely, you're better

Alfred Bessen
Urban Horticulturist
323-3500
Ext. 161

off planting a ground cover rather than grass. Ground covers and mulch beds make mowing the rest of the lawn much easier by eliminating the need to edge everything. Using mulches around trunks of trees and other plants can minimize weed growth and conserve soil moisture.

Edging the lawn is a time-consuming task. You can reduce it tremendously by using a metal or plastic edging between the grass and paved areas. These edgings make an attractive border and will define your landscape more clearly.

A wood fence or a hedge of low-maintenance shrubs can be very useful. In addition to providing privacy, a well-built fence will make an excellent backdrop for shrubbery, and will serve as a property divider.

One way to save a lot of time and effort is to acquire a set of power tools to maintain your landscape. Don't cut corners here. The initial cost may seem high, but you'll save hours of work. Cheap, poorly built and underpowered equipment just isn't worth it.

From a cultural point of view, don't over-fertilize. All plants should be given a minimum amount of fertilizer necessary for good health. Over-fertilized ornamentals and lawns grow rapidly, thus requiring a lot of pruning and mowing.

When planting a vegetable garden, remember that you can grow a lot in a very small space. Overplanting will result in many hours of extra work. Consider the size of your family and plant only enough to meet their needs.

Make your flower beds narrow. They're easier to reach for weeding and spraying. And, plant only a few flower varieties in each bed. Planting too many kinds of flowers in one bed means more work for you.

Keep your trees and shrubs properly pruned. By removing the lower limbs and thinning the branches, you let more light get through to the grass or ground cover below. And, pruning allows wind to move through the trees and shrubs easily, reducing the danger of wind damage.

Proper plant selection is most important. Choose plants that are well adapted to the soils and climate we have here. Use native plants wherever possible. Avoid exotics or plants that make high demands on your time, such as gardenias and camellias. Choose slow-growing plants. They may cost more to begin, but they'll require the least amount of maintenance over the years.

Before you buy any plants, inspect them carefully. Choose only those which appear healthy and vigorous. Examine the leaves for insect damage. And, look for colorful, compact plants with a well-established root system.

Getting new plants off to a good start in your landscape is another key to low maintenance. Take time to select the proper planting site and prepare it carefully. When selecting and preparing planting sites, you should give careful consideration to fertilization, aeration and drainage, watering and the amount of light the plants will receive.

Try to anticipate problems before they occur. Take steps to control insects and disease problems before they become established. Keep your landscape simple and you'll find you'll not only save time, but money, too. And I'm all for that — how about you?

Happy gardening!

Woman's Student Lover Wants Graduate Course In Marriage

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is a wonderful guy who's in college and will graduate in two years. The problem: Len thinks we should get married now, and I should help him finish school. I realize that this would be beneficial to both of us in the future; however, I don't feel good about the idea at all.

I'm an attractive, 27-year-old woman with an 8-year-old daughter. Len loves me and my daughter and wants more children soon. I make $20,000 a year, which is enough for me and my child to live comfortably and not worry about Len's education or his desire to have more children.

Perhaps I should mention that I'm an alcoholic who's been "dry" for a year. Len helps me to stay dry. I lack confidence to live alone and maintain my sobriety. What do you advise?

THINKING IT OVER

DEAR THINKING: Maintaining your sobriety should be your top priority, and if Len helps you to stay dry, you're lucky to have him. It appears that you need him as much as he needs you, but if you don't feel good about the idea of marrying him and helping to put him through college, don't commit to anything as permanent as marriage. You need to sort out your feelings before making a decision. Nowhere in your letter do you say you love Len. When you can answer that question truthfully, you won't need a Dear Abby to tell you what to do.

DEAR ABBY: I am a post-menopausal woman who wants very much to have a baby with family genes. I am thinking about asking my unmarried 20-year-old daughter to have an egg fertilized ex utero by the sperm of my 18-year-old son. Would this be incestuous?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: It would be not only incestuous, it would be illegal, immoral and outrageous.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and am expecting a baby in December. I live with my boyfriend, who is 29. He just moved in, and even though we are very happy, we have no plans to marry until after the baby is born.

My boyfriend's physician told him that his chances of having children were almost nil because of a low sperm count, so this baby is a blessing as well as a surprise. We love each other, but because our relationship is relatively new (10 months), we don't want to rush into marriage.

My question is, should the birth announcements read: "A child was born to Jane Doe," or "A child was born to Jane Doe and George Smith"?

I prefer the latter, but I've never seen any announcements printed that way. If it matters, the baby will have my boyfriend's last name.

CHRISTMAS SURPRISE

DEAR SURPRISE: I also prefer using both your names. In view of the circumstances, if you are concerned about the "proper" way to announce the birth of your baby, I suggest you send handwritten personal notes, and forgo printed announcements.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a 20-year-old "mature" college girl who was living at home rent-free, but said her parents were "ruining" her life by making her live by the house rules.

You told her to quit complaining and count her blessings.

May I add my 2 cents' worth? Our eldest son lived with us (rent-free) until he married three years ago. (He's now 31.)

Our youngest son is still single and chooses to live at home (rent-free) because "we're not so bad after all." He works full-time and abides by the house rules.

Gardening

Save Time And Money With A Low Maintenance Landscape

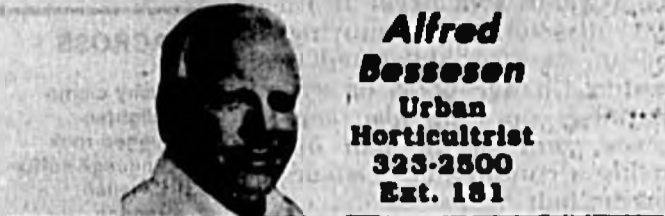

Everybody wants to save money. One way is to reduce the amount of maintenance you give your home landscape. But I'm not suggesting that you let your landscape become the neighborhood eyesore, just that you modify what you have to reduce the time and money it takes to keep everything attractive.

When we think of establishing a beautiful landscape, we should consider the effort and expense required to plant and maintain it. If we don't have the time or money to do the job right, we're apt to give up the whole idea and settle for a very ordinary yard.

It doesn't have to be that way. A good-looking landscape isn't necessarily an involved, high-maintenance one. Reducing the expanse of your lawn and garden is often the simplest and most effective way of cutting down costs. Limit your cultivated home grounds to a size that you can manage economically.

Keep your design simple. Let each plant serve a definite function. Plant arrangement is important, too. Scattered or cluttered plant groups need hand edging and weeding and makes mowing much more difficult.

Your lawn is one place you can save a lot of time. If your property is too sandy, too wet or dry or too steep to be mowed safely, you may be better off planting a ground cover rather than grass. Ground covers and mulch beds make mowing the rest of the lawn much easier by eliminating the need to edge everything. Using mulches around trunks of trees and other plants can minimize weed growth and conserve soil moisture.

Alfred Besssen
Urban Horticulturist

Ext. 181

Edging the lawn is a time-consuming task. You can reduce it tremendously by using a metal or plastic edging between the grass and paved areas. These edgings make an attractive border and will define your landscape more clearly.

A wood fence or a hedge of low-maintenance shrubs can be very useful. In addition to providing privacy, a well-built fence will make an excellent backdrop for shrubbery, and will serve as a property divider.

One way to save a lot of time and effort is to acquire a set of power tools to maintain your landscape. Don't cut corners here. The initial cost may seem high, but you'll save hours of work. Cheap, poorly built and underpowered equipment just isn't worth it.

From a cultural point of view, don't over-fertilize. All plants should be given a minimum amount of fertilizer necessary for good health. Over-fertilized ornamentals and lawns grow rapidly, thus requiring a lot of pruning and mowing.

When planting a vegetable garden, remember that you can grow a lot in a very small space. Overplanting will result in many hours of extra work. Consider the size of your family and plant only enough to meet their needs.

Make your flower beds narrow. They're easier to reach for weeding and spraying. And, plant only a few flower varieties in each bed. Planting too many kinds of flowers in one bed means more work for you.

Keep your trees and shrubs properly pruned. By removing the lower limbs and thinning the branches, you let more light get through to the grass or ground cover below. And, pruning allows wind to move through the trees and shrubs easily, reducing the danger of wind damage.

Proper plant selection is most important. Choose plants that are well adapted to the soils and climate we have here. Use native plants wherever possible. Avoid exotics or plants that make high demands on your time, such as gardenias and camellias. Choose slow-growing plants. They may cost more to begin, but they'll require the least amount of maintenance over the years.

Before you buy any plants, inspect them carefully. Choose only those which appear healthy and vigorous. Examine the leaves for insect damage. And, look for colorful, compact plants with a well-established root system.

Getting new plants off to a good start in your landscape is another key to low maintenance. Take time to select the proper planting site and prepare it carefully. When selecting and preparing planting sites, you should give careful consideration to fertilization, aeration and drainage, watering and the amount of light the plants will receive.

Try to anticipate problems before they occur. Take steps to control insects and disease problems before they become established. Keep your landscape simple and you'll find you'll not only save time, but money, too. And I'm all for that — how about you?

Happy gardening!

Sorority Honors Seniors At Thanksgiving Luncheon

Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority honored some of the senior citizens of Seminole County Sanford area with a Thanksgiving Luncheon held at the Chamber of Commerce Nov. 22. The gathering reflected gladness, love, friendship, joy and thanks.

Soror Susie Blacksheare presided, with expressions of love given by Soror Juanita Harold. A solo was presented by Soror Carletha Merkerson, and the grace and meditation were given by Soror Queen Jones.

Guests were served a delicious meal of tossed salad, carrot salad, potato salad, baked turkey with dressing, peas and carrots, candied yams, pumpkin pie, hot rolls and butter and ice tea, all served and prepared by Ernest Colbert Catering Service.

The program continued with a solo by Ms. Wanda Clark. Soror Merian Johnson presented the speaker for the afternoon, Lt. William Bernoaky of the Sanford Police Department who spoke to the guests of the Neighborhood Watch Program and safety of homes and community where they live. He held the attention of all present. Lt. Bernoaky received plaudits for his concern for our senior citizens for our community. An award of appreciation was presented to him from the AKA's by Soror Lurline Sweeting. Also receiving financial gifts to help with the work of their special services were Sickle Cell Anemia, NAACP, RSVP, United Way, UNCF, Job Corp and the Boy Scouts.

Another highlight of the luncheon was an elegant hat show narrated by Soror Priscilla Parks. Modeling were Althea Dixon, Mattie Holt, Mildred Wilson and Thelma Phillips. Words of acknowledgement were expressed by Soror Kathryn Alexander who said, "Let us earnestly and humbly pray that God will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men."

Pool Water Has Affect On Hair

DEAR DR. GOTT — I swim daily for fitness. How can I prevent the terrible haystack condition that my hair is in? It also is developing a greenish tinge. What can I do about this?
DEAR READER — Your hair appears to be drying out because the oil is being washed away during your swims. The greenish tinge is probably due to an improper balance of antimicrobials and chlorine in the pool water. I've never heard of the discoloration occurring in ocean water or untreated fresh water. Change pools or wear a bathing cap. You also can replace some of the hair oil by using a conditioner or shampoo for dry hair.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My friend says that weather has nothing to do with how one feels. I believe that weather conditions affect the body in many ways. Can you enlighten us on this subject?
DEAR READER — This subject produces a lot of disagreement in the medical profession. I think it's fair to say that weather does play an important role in our emotional lives, but its specific effects vary from person to person.

For example, studies have shown that most people feel better when they are exposed to sunlight. Several consecutive gloomy days can make people irritable and moody, as any mother knows when the children are kept inside during a rainy spell in the summer.

Inhabitants of northern climates, particularly in Scandinavia and areas around the Arctic Circle, are well aware that the short, cold winter days cause a national depression.

Certainly, some people are more affected by bad weather than are others. Arthritis kicks up, appetites fall off, moods change from optimistic to disgruntled. There is much individual variation here, but we can't blame our woes entirely on the weather.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Can you get septicemia from poor living conditions? What happens if it is left untreated?
DEAR READER — Septicemia is a bacterial infection that is spread from an infected portion of the body through the bloodstream. Septicemia is often fatal unless treated with antibiotics. The illness is not necessarily a consequence of poor living conditions, although poor personal hygiene may allow the infection to begin and spread. Septicemia can be started by a minor (or major) injury, a surgical procedure or a longstanding urinary infection.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
One must never get so excited playing a slam contract that he forgets the bidding. North made a nice bid when he bid six spades, reasoning correctly that South had to have a seven-card spade suit plus something outside, in which case North's four quick tricks should be enough for the slam. Look what happened when West led the club king.

Declarer took the ace and immediately tried to draw trumps. When they failed to split, he went after diamonds in a panic, fearing that if he gave up a spade trick, East would play back a club. Of course East trumped the third diamond, and now declarer had to lose a club at the finish to go one away. How would a better memory on the part of declarer have prevented this disaster?

It's just a matter of counting, if East has five hearts or more for his overall and turns up with four spades, then it will not matter if he has three diamonds. South can play queen and ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond low. If East follows to three diamonds, declarer can then safely give up a spade. East will be able to shed his clubs on the remaining good diamonds.

Another way also works. Declarer can give up a spade, relying on East's having started with only one club. Then he can win the heart return, come to the queen of diamonds and run all his trumps. On the actual hand, West will be squeezed.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 29, 1966
In the year ahead you will experience powerful urges to do things on a grander scale than you have in the past. Bigger earnings, a bigger home and a more expensive car are all possibilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If there is something special you really want in your Christmas stocking, this is the right day to drop a few hints. Your Santa Claus will add it to his or her list. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't turn down any invitation today, even if it's to a gathering that might contain a group of people you don't know. You could meet a new friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Lady Luck is busy lining things up for you careerwise today. A development that seems insignificant at first could turn out to be something lucrative.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Look for the bright side today, because you, above all, should be able to find it. Don't put any restrictions on your optimism.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The wheel is now turning in your favor, so don't be surprised today if persons to whom you've been kind in the past start treating you in exceptionally generous ways.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Good things could happen for you today through persons with whom you have close ties. People who like you will put your interests above theirs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something big is in the wind where your work or career are concerned. When it comes to pass, it should please you considerably.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others will find you enjoyable to be around today, and you'll make a lasting impression on persons you meet under convivial circumstances. You'll not be readily forgotten.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It looks like material benefits are going to be coming your way, not so much through your own efforts, but through persons in the background who have clout, and who want to help you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) That rabbit's foot that you have hanging around your watch fob is working for you today, and you should be luckier than usual, especially in partners.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Small good-will investments you make now can pay you handsome dividends later on. Brighten your tomorrows by casting a little bread upon the waters today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't be deliberately doing a selling job, yet you'll still get others to enthusiastically support you in a cause that is of vital interest to you.

The Ultimate Driving Machine
THE BMW 325es. A CAR DESIGNED TO FIRE UP THE DRIVER'S INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINE.

To the embarrassment of some two-seater, so-called sports whirlwinds, we present the BMW 325es.
 "A beautifully refined hot rod from Bavaria" (Motor Trend). Its 6-cylinder Eta engine provides a torque-rich driving force. A BMW sports suspension endows the car with rare turn-and-corner prowess. Delivering you from speed to safe standstill is BMW's anti-lock braking system (ABS) as standard. And further performance hallmarks include spoilers front and rear, low profile tires, sports seats, and an M-Technic steering wheel.

Stocks Open Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues with the Dow Jones Industrial average on its way to an all-time high.

The Dow Jones industrial, which climbed 4.84 Wednesday, was up 1.12 to 1917.88 shortly after the market opened. The Dow's record high close, set Sept. 4, is 1917.88.

Advances led declines 419-315 among the 1,122 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 8,190,600 shares.

The stock market closed mixed Wednesday in active trading as a spurt of late buying pushed the Dow within three points of its record close and set the stage for a possible break-through after Thanksgiving Day.

But the gain occurred at the end of a session in which the market appeared to be suffering from some fatigue.

"The market is laboring and a little tired and could be set for a retracement," said Monte Gordon, director of research at Dreyfus Corp.

Gordon said the Commerce Department report Wednesday showing the U.S. merchandise trade deficit shrank to $12.06 billion in October was "better than expected" but was offset by the report Tuesday showing a 6 percent drop in durable goods orders for October.

Downward Trend Seen For Dollar

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar fell on major foreign exchange markets today, dipping at the opening in Europe with no fresh incentives expected on the partial holiday. Gold rose.

U.S. markets were closed Thursday for a holiday and most trading rooms will be lightly staffed Friday. The dollar was slightly higher on other markets Thursday, but dealers said the rise was not significant and many expect a continued downward trend.

The dollar opened Friday in Frankfurt at 1.9785 marks, down from Thursday's 1.9898 close. In Zurich at 1.8480 Swiss francs against 1.66 and in Paris at 4.6830 francs against 6.5175. The dollar fell in Amsterdam to 2.2345 guilders at the opening against 2.2485 and in Milan to 1.370.5 lire against 1.378.90.

In London, the pound opened higher at $1.4355 compared to Thursday's close of $1.4295. In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 162.20 Japanese yen, down from the previous 162.80.

Gold opened higher in Zurich at $386.25 close and in London at $386.25 from the previous $383.50.

Silver also rose, opening in London at $5.36 an ounce against the previous 5.29.

Air Cargo Pilots Take Pay Cut

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pilots for Flying Tiger Line Inc. have agreed to a 3 1/2-year plan that will cut their pay by 25 percent and reduce other benefits in an attempt to keep the world's oldest and largest air cargo carrier flying.

Flying Tiger announced the agreement Thursday with the Air Line Pilots Association without disclosing the details, but the Los Angeles Times said the 850 pilots will take a 25 percent pay cut — the largest ever in the airline industry — and accept a two-tier wage scale. The pilots also gave up $8.4 million in yearly supplemental pension benefits and $10 million a year in other benefits.

In return, Flying Tiger said it will allow its pilots to share in profits and will grant employees one seat on the board of directors. The plan will go into effect Dec. 1. Stephen M. Wolf, the airline's chief executive officer, said the package will help Flying Tiger rebuild its operation.

"The final economic package meets our needs for beginning to revitalize the airline while providing our pilots with a fair and flexible package of compensation, benefits and work rules," Wolf said.

"Our pilots have taken a significant first step in our effort to rebuild Flying Tiger."

Flying Tiger announced last week it would liquidate its assets and close its operations. In part, because of the union's failure to take wage and productivity concessions.

Iran To Keep Buying Arms, From Anyone

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — The speaker of the Iranian parliament said today Iran will keep buying American arms anywhere on the free market — except Israel, a nation that he said had never sold arms to Iran.

"We have never had any dealing with Israel," Speaker Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said at prayer ceremonies in Tehran.

He said if Iran found the arms they had were from Israel, "we shall not use them even if they are at the front."

He said references to Iranian dealings with Israel were being made "to defame the Islamic Republic." U.S. officials have said arms were sold to Iran both directly by Washington and by Israeli middlemen in an attempt to build new contacts in Iran and help win the release of Americans held hostage by pro-Iranian groups in Lebanon.

The "political crisis" in the United States "following the revelations by Iranian officials," constituted a political victory for Iran, Rafsanjani said.

"We have always said and we say again that if the Americans stop their bullying and return to us our property which they seized, we shall ask the people of Lebanon to assist (the U.S.) in the problem of the hostages," he said.

Rafsanjani apparently was referring to the American hostages.

"It is useless to digress from the problem," he said. "Do not describe this as arms purchasing because we will take steps to acquire spare parts for our American-made arms and equipment from wherever we can by them."

Mary Hemingway, Widow Of Ernest, Dead At 78

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mary Hemingway, the wife of author Ernest Hemingway, has died at age 78, a published report said today.

Mrs. Hemingway, the author's fourth wife, died Wednesday in St. Luke's Hospital following a lengthy illness. The New York Times said.

A journalist who wrote for both Time and Life magazines during World War II, she met Hemingway in Paris in 1944, a period covered in Mrs. Hemingway's autobiography be necessary because of the number of homes involved in the targeted district, Mills said. Right now the board's authority extends to about 30 structures in the commercial historic zone, which takes in about 24 blocks. Between 800 and 800 structures lie within the 36 block area targeted for the historic residential designation. It is tentatively mapped out by the board to extend south from Third Street, north to 13th Street, east to Sanford Avenue and west to French Avenue.

The area is presently under residential zoning and it includes part of the area Sanford redistricted from multi-family to single family in 1983.

Yet to be determined is the number of homes which lie beyond the proposed zone, but deserve the same historic recognition, Mills said.

As is the case for Sanford's commercial historic district, the board, or an arm of it, "would be an information source for appropriate renovations of the structures, in addition to being a governing body which protects the district," Mills said.

The board was established by ordinance in 1985, when Sanford's commercial historic district was created. A board review is required for any exterior alterations to structures in the zone. The commercial district is bounded by Myrtle Avenue on the west, Sanford Avenue on the east, Fulton and Commercial avenues on the north and Third Street on the south.

Surveys to firm up the residential district's boundaries and pinpoint the number of structures are planned through contract with a private firm early next year, Mills said. The board has $10,000 from commissioners, budgeted in October, and a $5,000 grant received earlier this month to fund the surveys.

Mills and Sanford Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons prepared the application which secured the grant earlier this month from the state Department of Archive History and Records Management.

The grant will be matched with $5,000 of the board's $10,000 in budget money for the residential survey downtown. Once complete, public hearings will be held by the historic board and city commission, Mills said.

The board also plans to ask commissioners to approve its $5,000 budget fund balance to pay for surveys of certain homes beyond the proposed downtown zone, Mills said.

These structures "are equally as important as those in the (proposed) district," and lie throughout the city, he said.

street the same width and said the drainage improvements designed by Dyer, Riddle, Mills and Precourt engineering firm would help everyone.

The price tag on the West Warren project is $119,339.

The South Wilma Street hearing was tabled after Colin Burgess, who said he owns 560 feet of property on the street, but was not notified of the hearing and did not think it would be fair to charge him $18,000 for paving because his property is only 65 feet deep and could not be built on without a variance.

Burgess was asked to contact City Planner Chris Nagle for information on what use could be made of the property. The South Wilma paving will cost $69,362.

The resolution on Georgia Avenue was tabled at the Nov. 10 meeting after several property owners questioned assessments. Michael Rayl objected to paying 45 percent of the paving costs and said with the western section of the street was paved, residents paid only 25 percent. He said his portion of Georgia Avenue had no drainage requirements and he did not believe he should be required to pay for drainage requirements for another block. He asked if retention walls would be constructed because his property is two feet higher than the road.

Tibbler said he would investigate the need for a wall. Commissioner Perry Faulkner asked police to do a traffic study to see if stop signs were necessary.

The Georgia Avenue paving and drainage will cost $104,399.

Also on the agenda will be a public hearing and final action on increasing development assistance fees for sewer services to $8.50 per gallon per day of sewer service capacity in order to provide additional money needed for the proposed connection with Seminole County's sewer system.

City Attorney Ann Colby will report to the commission on the status of the sewer agreement with the county. Ms. Colby met with County Attorney Nikki Clayton Friday to make changes in the proposed contract after the commission made recommendations. The contract in its final form will have to be approved by both the city and county commissions.

Other business includes: Approval of a contract with United Telephone Company to provide central telephone service for the city.

Recommendation regarding bids for lease/purchase of two tractors for Public Works Department.

Site plan for Commerce National Bank, 1400 State Road 434. Zoning is C-2 commercial.

Site plan for Commercial Air Conditioning, Inc., 1101 N. County Road 427 submitted by Hal B. Parker. Zoning is C-3 Commercial.

Acceptance of guarantees from Brian Pinkney of Longwood Green, Inc. regarding installation of street lights by Florida Power, street signs and traffic signs.

Extension of performance bond for Hidden Oak subdivision by Centex Homes.

City Administrator's report on the Dec. 2 city election: fall cleanup Dec. 8-11, and city Christmas Parade on Dec. 13.

In addition to clarification of the mayor's request, board members on Nov. 20 asked city staff to secure demographic and population data for the next review session.

Staff was asked to determine the percentage of city land already zoned to allow elder care housing and the percentage of Sanford residents over 55.

Board member Jay Malone cited his own figures at the board's session, although staff members said they were not in a position to affirm the numbers without research.

Malone said his own research indicated 45 percent of Sanford is zoned to allow elder care facilities with conditional permits and 18 percent of the city's population is over 55. Malone said the figures indicate to him that sufficient areas are already provided, when compared to the number of seniors living in Sanford.

P&Z member Eddie Keith took issue with Malone's "facts," saying seniors, "shouldn't be restricted from living wherever they want."

Morris indicated support for Keith's position. He said the elder care operations should be allowed in single family zones as long as they don't pose a disruptive burden to nearby property owners.

Morris also said P&Z considerations should include discussion of allowances for elderly "who want to live in a loving, family type environment, rather than an institutionalized setting."

Also during the session, P&Z member Lon Howell expressed concern that alleviation of residential zoning restrictions could open the door to drug, alcohol and juvenile rehabilitation housing.

Morris said if the board's review led to development of a proposed ordinance it could be drafted to exclude all but elder care operations. —Karen Talley

...Fires

Firefighters were hampered in fighting the second blaze because their vehicles got stuck in the small dirt road leading to the house so water lines had to be hand-laid to a tanker on the nearest hard-top road. That fire, involving an 80-year-old house, burned for about an hour before being put out. No damage estimates were available.

Neither one-story house was occupied and no injuries were reported among firefighters.

A task force of state and local fire inspectors and the sheriff's department are investigating the burns, Johnson said. While there were no immediate physical indications of arson, such as burn patterns, Johnson said the coincidence of the fires is suspicious prompting an investigation.

Up to nine units responded to the scenes including firefighters from Seminole and Orange counties and the city of Winter Springs, Johnson said. He said firefighters expected to be on the scene through the morning. —Deane Jordan

Union Leaders See Labor Strife

MIAMI (UPI) — Two bitter Eastern Airlines union leaders predict more labor strife for the carrier because they were ousted from the company's board of directors following Eastern's merger with Texas Air Corp.

Larry Callahan, head of Eastern's flight attendants' union, and Charles Bryan, the machinists' union leader, reported they were not on a list of nominees for the new board submitted by Eastern to Texas Air of Dallas after the $676 million merger was formally approved Tuesday.

Bryan and Callahan were outspoken opponents of the merger and led a union coalition in an attempt to thwart it.

They warned Thursday that the move would exacerbate labor tensions.

Bonsai

An Artform Ever Changing

Photos And Story
By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Almost five years ago Lake Mary landscaper Fred Hoffower decided to cut his workload down to size, so he shifted his cultivation to bonsai, growing miniature trees in pots.

"I only dreamed about bonsai before," Hoffower said. "This is the most enjoyable thing I've ever done in my life. This is my place, where I've always wanted to be. I'm loving it."

Bonsai, he said is the only "ever changing" artform, the change based on the "living" aspect of the plant.

Some, Hoffower said, think bonsai means old. It really means a plant grown in a small container, although some of these tiny trees are thousands of years old, handed down through the generations.

It's an ancient art first developed by the Chinese and then pursued by the Japanese, who Hoffower said, want to grow tiny trees that look like aged, weatherbeaten, full-scale plants. These mini-plants are ideal for Japan, where they have very little space to spare for plantlife.

Americans after World War II, Hoffower said, brought home the principles of bonsai from Japan, but made a few changes in the concept.

The Japanese, he said, use wire to help twist their trees into gnarled shapes that make them look like they've been grown in a mountain top crevice and whipped by the wind for a thousand year.

Americans who cultivate bonsai are more interested in the scale than in developing a look of antiquity, Hoffower said, although some do pursue the Japanese wiring techniques.

The basics of bonsai, he said, involve careful pruning to strike a balance between the roots and the foliage of the plant. "If you don't balance it the plant will die on you," he said.

Another killer of the plants, according to Hoffower's wife Lona, is many buy bonsai plants that are outdoor plants and try to keep them inside.

They just don't know any better and many who sell bonsais don't tell people if their plant is only meant to live outside, to perhaps be brought in for a few hours as a decoration for a special occasion.

The movie Karate Kid, in which an outdoor juniper, which has a very traditional bonsai look, was shown being cared for as if it were an indoor plant, has created confusion among the novices who want an "indoor" bonsai like the one seen that movie, Mrs. Hoffower said.

An outdoor bonsai, if kept inside, will die within a month, Hoffower said.

Some indoor houseplants, such as jade, aralia, camellia, citrus, holly, can be adapted as bonsai plants, Mrs. Hoffower said.

Once pruned and placed in a small pot, with about one-third of the upper root system placed above the soil, the plants must be watered daily and fed time-release plant food.

A plant will stay in its first small pot three to five years and then will be repotted after another pruning of roots.

Fred Hoffower shifted his cultivation to miniature trees.

Unless a bonsai is placed in a circular pot, Mrs. Hoffower said, the plant is always placed off-center in the pot, to enhance its natural look of a miniature tree that might be growing wild.

The first bonsai trees were taken from the wilds, and that can still be done. In fact some bonsai fanciers, Hoffower said, take great pleasure in transforming a wild plant into a bonsai. However most buy their first bonsai, and then get hooked and decide to try their hand at starting their own.

"What's fun is to take something from your back yard and bonsai it," he said.

Some plants are not adaptable as either indoor or outdoor bonsai, Mrs. Hoffower said. For example plants with overly large leaves, such as the avocado and the sycamore, can never scale down to the small leaf style of bonsai. "The smaller the leaves the prettier," Mrs. Hoffower said.

Some also can't accept that plants that blossom or bear fruit can be bonsai, but they can, the Hoffowers said.

The Hoffowers have tiny bonsai pines that are 12 years old, a 50-year-old jade plant that's valued at $100.

The cost of a pre-started American bonsai is in the range of other decorative plants, with prices starting around $10 and going up, depending on the age and beauty of the plant.

To enjoy bonsai all you have to do is think small and remember that some are only meant for the outdoor life. With a bit of pruning, and care, your bonsai may live on to be enjoyed by future generations, as have some that got their start long ago in the Orient.

Growing Up Amid Poverty, Neurotics – And Love

Jean Hanauer
UPI Feature Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carol Burnett, the child of alcoholic divorced parents, was brought up in a squalid one-room apartment by a manipulative, hypochondriac Christian Scientist grandmother who was on welfare and took out her false teeth to amuse her granddaughter.

Her grandmother and her mother — who lived down the hall in a rundown building in Hollywood — battled a great deal. Her mother had an illegitimate child when Carol was 8. The father, a married man, walked away.

Burnett's own father, a sweet, defeated man, wasn't around much and died in a charity hospital.

Did she have an unhappy childhood? No, Carol Burnett says today.

"It was not a pleasant childhood," Burnett said in an interview. "There are some that were happier and some that have been really miserable. Mine was not miserable."

She has recorded the story of her childhood — from her earliest memories in San Antonio to the move to Hollywood and her life there to her early showbiz years — in "One More Time" (Random House).

It is a frank, strangely cheerful account of a distressing childhood that ends happily when the comedienne was 26 and on her way to stardom. She explained why she looks back with fondness on that childhood in a chaotic room, amid her grandmother's compulsive clutter, with clothes hanging from all the furniture.

"First of all, I was loved. And I loved Nanny (her grandmother) and Mama and Daddy. Certainly I was not abused.

"Then, all my friends had something like my life. I may, my best girlfriend, lived with her grandmother — her parents were divorced — and most everybody in that neighborhood was on relief. It was the Depression.

"There were two kinds of people — us and the people in the movies. I didn't know anybody in between.

"The older I got the more unhappy I was, the more scared I got. I could see Nanny getting older. I could see Mama was getting sicker. I could see Chrissy (her half-sister) growing up a little bit wild."

With high school graduation coming up, she had decisions to make.

"Nanny used to drum into us, 'Get a man and get a rich one.' How was I going to do that? Nor did I want to. I wasn't beautiful like Mama was and even Mama couldn't do that because she was a romantic. If there was potential in me I wanted to find it — I just didn't know what it was."

There are echoes of her sad family in one she constructed for The Carol Burnett Show, still in reruns across the country.

"When I played Eunice, I put a lot of Mama into her — not that Mama looked anything like Eunice or even sounded like her. But there was this philosophy of 'if only...' and 'I could have...' and 'I should have...' It was always, 'if this hadn't happened...' or, to Nanny, 'if you hadn't rained on my dreams...' There was a lot of Mama that I put into Eunice.

"Nanny was nothing like the Mama character Vicki Lawrence portrays. Nanny could undercut everything and she knew just which buttons to press, but she never yelled that much — Mama did the yelling because Nanny would frustrate her so much.

"It was a totally different situation, but the frustration that Eunice felt I just knew was the kind of frustration that Mama felt."

The book started out as a memoir for Burnett's daughters, Carrie, Jody and Erin.

"I would have adored having my mother do the same for me; having my grandmother do the same for me — to be able to look back and see how they felt when they were 5, when they were 12 and on and on."

"I started out doing it for them and I wound up also doing it for me. Mama and Daddy both died when they were 46 and there was no way when I was little that I could understand them when they were in their 20s or 30s. Now I can look back and understand and let go of a lot of emotional garbage.

"There was an awful lot they were going through that I, as a child, took personally. It had nothing to do with me, I didn't cause it. But as a child when your parents drink or there's some kind of problem — the child is center stage and says, 'Oh, it's all my fault.'"

Her book ends when she is 26 — after UCLA where she began her performing career, after her early years in New York, her unsuccessful first marriage, her run in the Broadway hit "Once Upon a Mattress" and her appearance on the Garry Moore show.

Now, fresh from the CBS miniseries spoof "Frasno," she has been touring to promote her book, then will head back to California. Slim of figure and with a disarmingly frank manner, Burnett discussed her home.

Professionally, she said, she just plans to "keep on truckin'."

Pool Champ Coached Cruise, Newman

TIMONIUM, Md. (UPI) — Actor Tom Cruise prances and dances around the pool table in the movie "The Color of Money," but when the man who taught the actor to play picks up his Joss cue, it's the ball that does the struttin'. Film director Martin Scorsese and Cruise first spotted former world pool champion Mike Sigel in a tournament in Norfolk, Va., where they noted that Sigel is a lefthanded shooter — just like the movie's young co-star.

Sigel was invited to New York City by the producers of the movie, a 20-years-later sequel to "The Hustler," in which Paul Newman portrayed pool shark Fast Eddie Felson. Not knowing the meeting was an audition, Sigel walked into a large room furnished only with a pool table and showed Cruise and Newman, the movie's stars, some of his shots.

"I was really nervous when I first met them," Sigel said. But once Sigel got a pool cue in his hands, he said, he felt fine. Newman asked for help on his break. Some schooling from Sigel satisfied Newman and apparently Scorsese, who appeared from behind a curtain. "Put him on the payroll," he said.

"He had natural form, but we had to start from scratch," Sigel said of Cruise. "I could see that he has natural talent in the game. He worked at it. He devoted a lot of time and it paid off."

Cruise completed all of the difficult shots in the movie save only one when Sigel catapulted the cue ball over several others to sink a shot.

The movie has given a certain amount of celebrity to the man who has won more pool tournament titles — 79 — than anyone else.

What's Happening?

In The SOAPS

By Nancy M. Reichardt

ALL MY CHILDREN

Jeff Martin returned to apply for Cliff's vacant hospital job. Erica's prison break attempt was foiled when Jeremy refused to leave with her. Erica and Jeremy's wedding didn't take place. To cover for the prison break attempt, Matt and Erica lied that Matt helicoptered into the prison and whisked Erica away because she loves Matt, not Jeremy. Jeremy realized that Erica was protecting him with her lies. Rosa gave Natalie big bucks, then told her to leave town. Tad and Roy sparred over Hillary. Nina told Cliff she doesn't want him to leave Pine Valley. Mark stole the money Erica planned to live on once Jeremy was out of prison. Matt later took the money from Mark and vowed not to return it to Erica, who spurned Matt's love. Natalie denied Donna's suspicion that Natalie loves Palmer. Skye lost her singing job when Tom's club was closed down. Adam realized that Skye is a good influence on Stuart.

ANOTHER WORLD

Michael and Adam learned that Reginald's "Trump" includes deeds to nearly all the property in Bay City. Jamie told Michael that someone had given Donna a drug that reacts like LSD, which is causing her physical and mental deterioration. M.J. got defensive when Adam questioned her reaction to the prostitute murders. Brittany was arrested after Peter charged her with attempted murder. Mitch followed Matthew's trail to New York City. Mitch got Matthew to phone Rachel, who accused Mitch of kidnapping Matthew. Zach agreed to defend Brittany. Cheryl and Scott celebrated her birthday and he admitted that he loves her. Vince and Mary posed together for Cheryl's birthday photo. Gomez and Reginald hired a man to impersonate Vince, then told the man to take an attempt on Reginald's life. Mitch and Matthew spent Thanksgiving in a public shelter. Michael suspects Gomez drugged Donna.

AS THE WORLD TURNS

James made love to Lucinda, then romped in the sack with Emily. Margo isn't so sure that Henley was the drug dealer dubbed "The Falcon." Emily told Roy that when she was in England she had an affair with Hensley. Lily and Holden returned to Oakdale together after realizing that Lucinda had tried to sabotage their planned Thanksgiving meeting in London. After a visit from Roy, Duncan burned papers and a letter in which Beatrice wrote that she suspected Duncan of evil deeds. Seth won a short-story contest, but isn't sure he's cut out to be a successful writer. Margo's doctor said that Margo and Tom should wait two years before trying to have another baby. Duncan told Roy he had a coin, called a rickel, like the one found in Jester's room. Barbara remembered that Emily also has one of the coins. Frankie had nightmares about her lookalike and the mystery woman, Mona.

CAPITOL

Thomas caught up with Kelly, who took Scotty and went into hiding at Hal's farmhouse. Brenda told a shocked Myrna that Dylan is now a very wealthy young man. Jordy took over as president of Myrna's little publishing empire, but he

Gless Exercises Playing Regular Poker

Dear Dick: I am a great, great, great fan of "Cagney & Lacey." My friend is also a great fan. We have a bet about Sharon Gless. I say she plays racquet ball. My friend says she doesn't. If she doesn't, what does she do for exercise? J. and S., Pasadena, Texas.

Dear J. and S.: Sharon once told me that, for exercise, she swims and plays poker. I'm not sure if poker should be considered exercise or not, but she never once mentioned racquet ball.

Dear Dick: My husband says Jim Nabors, who was Gomer Pyle on "The Andy Griffith Show," is the same person who played Enos on "The Dukes of Hazzard." I say that Enos was played by another actor, but I can't remember his name. We have a $100 bet riding on this. S.E., Lockport, N.Y.

Dear S.E.: I declare you a wealthy lady, and your husband broke. Enos was played by Sonny Shroyer.

Dear Dick: My question is a simple one. Why does TV allow a program like "Solid Gold" to continue? The girls always look like common street walkers. The clothes they wear should be for the bedroom, not for TV. I am a 22-year-old female and I feel they exploit women for sex and not our ability. No wonder the guys are getting out of control. C.V.,

Ask Dick Kleiner

Saginaw, Mich.

Dear Dick: I think "Hee Haw" stinks, especially when they get up and spit in each other's faces. And can't those tramps dress more modestly? They hardly wear anything. Is their purpose to incite men to adultery? D.D., Springville, Utah.

Dear Readers: One person's street walkers and tramps are another person's things of beauty and joys forever. TV tries to provide something for everybody, even those who admire face-splitting. There is one solution: If you don't like a program, don't watch it.

Dear Dick: We all know and love George Burns, and he often talks of Gracie, but whatever happened to his two children, Ronnie and Sandra? R.M.D., Riddle, Ore.

Dear R.M.D.: I put your question to George's manager and good friend, Irving Fein, who replied: "Ronnie is living in Pacific Palisades and is involved in various businesses, including raising Arabian horses. Sandra is living in San Diego and is teaching kindergarten. Ronnie has three teenage sons and Sandra has four daughters and is a grandmother three times."

Dear Dick — I have been a real big fan of "Charlie's Angels." I heard recently that the voice of Charlie was John Forsythe of "Dynasty." Is this true? Do you think there is a chance for a reunion with all the "Angels"? — R.K., Hollywood, Fla.

It sounds like a good idea, but might be impossible. Kate Jackson (Sabrina), is busy in her TV role as Amanda King on CBS's "Scarecrow and Mrs. King." Jaclyn Smith (Kelly), who recently gave birth to a baby daughter, has just completed "Sidney Sheldon's Rage of Angels: The Story Continues." Cheryl Ladd (Kris) has an upcoming film. And we all know, John Forsythe is enjoying his role as Blake Carrington on "Dynasty."

isn't sure he can do the job. Baxter and Carla learned that Victor wrote the letters "MAD" in the sand before he died at the hands of an assassin. "Baxter" kept an eye on Clarissa, who confided her troubles to Mark. Sam doesn't feel guilty about the kiss he and Kate shared. Hubert followed Sloane to Washington.

DATE OF OUR LIVES

Barbara freaked out, but kept it a secret that her adopted son, Teddy, is really Kimberly's kidnapped son, Andrew. Orpheus tranquilized Marlana, then pretended to shoot her. Roman remembered how he had accidentally shot and killed Orpheus' wife during a shootout. Patch and Kayla rescued Roman and Marlana from Orpheus. Orpheus escaped from a flooded storm drain and is back on the loose. Melissa told Lars that she loves him, but that she has to stand by Pete until he is no longer paralyzed. A recuperating Shane was returned to Salem. Shane and Gillian teamed up to oust Vaughn from the I.S.A. A heartbroken Kimberly is convinced that Shane now loves Gillian. Mike made a last-ditch effort to stop Robin's wedding, but she ended up marrying Mitch. Frankie kept mum about his love feelings for Jennifer while he helped Glenn to reconcile with her. Orpheus gave the Treasury bonds to the I.S.A.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Frisco convinced Angus MacKay that Damon Grenville is a traitor. To prove his loyalty to the organization, Frisco was ordered to kill Damon. Rick and Ginny bid a goodbye to their friends and to Port Charles, then left for their out-of-town jobs. Bobbi and Jake were married in a quickly prepared ceremony. Lucy quizzed Gretchen Fielder, who agreed to Bobbi and Jake's surrogate-mother plan. Jimmy Lee decided to stay in Pautauk a few days after he went there to check up on Charity. Anna admitted to Duke that she loves him, but isn't sure that they have a future. Anna and Angel are helping Frisco and Robert, who hope to thwart Bert's takeover of the Port Charles dock area. Duke worried about Anna's safety when he learned that she and Bert are both boarding a boat named "Sister Island." Felicia fretted that the organization will catch on that Frisco's working with Robert. Angus met with a man named Pilgrim.

GUIDING LIGHT

Reva and H.B. joined Josh at Lewis Oil in South America, where Josh and another man, Harry, are trying to find out who's sabotaging the oil rigs. Dinah was pleasantly surprised when Cameron kissed her. Calla worried that Rosa and Vanessa will be reunited romantically once they locate their daughter. Joe, Shelly and Ramona learned from Vanessa's senile Aunt Grace that Vanessa is Dinah's mother. As part of his plan to share in Dinah's new-found happiness, Joe and his pals confronted Dinah at Lillian's home. Gerhardt, the agent who wants Josh dead, fumed when his henchman, Paul, failed another attempt to kill Josh. Josh and a comrade, Victor, searched for Gerhardt, who's one step ahead of them. Claire is spending more time with Michelle. Phillip and Chelsea plan to go to France to talk to Jean-Claude's parents. Kyle fumed to find Josh at Reva's pad. Rick took a leave of absence from the hospital.

LOVING

Stacey was relieved to hear that Jack came through his brain operation with flying colors. Lottie accepted Curtis's marriage proposal. Jim said he'll marry Shana outside of the church. Eban nixed Alma's advice that he forget about Lottie. In New York City, Kelly got friendly with a bag lady named Clara. Jim regained consciousness after a nasty fall, but he still hasn't regained his memory. In an effort to control Harry, Nick had his thug, Gus, threaten Kate's life. Zach went to New York City to look for Kelly.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Cord freaked when he learned that Tina bought Devil's Island with Asa's money. Viki told Clint to look for other living arrangements since he doesn't believe that she didn't kidnap Jessica. Maria got really nervous when she learned Thomas offered to help Viki find out who's framing her for Jessica's kidnapping. A jealous Dimitri put Johnny (Jonathan) under house arrest when Dimitri caught him in bed with Dimitri's woman, Agrippina. Johnny (Jonathan) was trying to get Agrippina to give him info on Dimitri's planned coup. Dorian arrived on Devil's Island to "rescue" Jonathan. Cord set off some explosives on the beach as Kate helped Jonathan escape after Dimitri ordered her to kill Jonathan (Johnny). During the fighting, Tina fell into Dimitri's clutches. Rafe was suspended from the police force because he withheld evidence that suggests Viki kidnapped Jessica.

RYAN'S HOPE

Rick was forced to arrest Johnno on charges that he murdered Harlan. Johnno told Frank that Harlan was barely alive when Johnno arrived on the scene. Siobhan was furious that Max ordered Erik to stick by her while she worked undercover on a drug case. Jill and Frank suspect that Della murdered Harlan. Jack is suspicious of Erik, who said Max hired him to guard Siobhan. Ryan and Rick let Lizzie bunk in their apartment. Della admitted that Harlan had attacked her. Roger and Maggie found the fake necklace left by Dakota.

SANTA BARBARA

After talking with Courtney, Brian shared a reunion with Alice, but said that he still doesn't want to see Pearl. Mason and Julia signed a legal contract, then slept together in hopes of producing the child Julia wants. Courtney kept mum that Madeline was her sister, when she discussed Madeline's murder with Brian, who thinks Madeline was killed by someone she knew. Lionel watched Caroline comforting Alice, who wished she had known her mother. Rosa was upset to see her son, Danny, strung out on drugs. Lionel's puzzled that Caroline shows no motherly affection for Jane. Keith has romantic feelings for Eden. Eden told Keith that at the time of Katie's drowning, Cruz had tried to help Katie, while Tori had believed Katie had managed to swim to safety. Keith dropped his vendetta against Tori and Cruz. Mason flashed back to Mary's sudden death when he saw Tori on the roof of the Capwell Hotel.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW

Stu was hospitalized after Miss Hobbs pushed him down an elevator shaft. Kat was furious at Quinn for abducting her from her wedding. Malcolm was shot and wounded by one of his own men who was trying to stop Quinn from abducting Kat. Kate, who's no longer hospitalized, tried to contact Malcolm. Miss Hobbs forced Jo to the roof of Liberty House. Patti and Hogan were arrested on charges that they helped Quinn kidnap Kat. Zophie told Malcolm that Kat belongs to Quinn. Estelle fumed to learn that Bela had married Sunny.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

The governor's office asked Paul to serve on an anti-crime committee that's declared war on pornography. Lauren went nuts when she saw copies of the magazine with Paul's nude photo in the centerfold. Nikki was relieved when Victor insisted that he's through with Ashley for good. Ashley is haunted by the sound of a baby crying. John assured Brad that his job at Jabot is secure, even though Jack has returned to the staff. Jack didn't show up for his first day at Jabot because he was helping Ellen at her shelter. Jill was shocked to learn that Kay has filed legal papers to adopt Philip. Philip told Jill he spent his summer vacation with Kay and is attending a local college, and he'll fight Jill if she tries to keep Kay from adopting him. Carol is working for Jack again. Ellen needs more funding for her shelter. Nina was surprised to learn that Cricket hasn't slept with Danny.
