Wounded Knee Aftermath Congress Finally Beginning To Respond power too great

When militant Indians seized the historical hamlet of Wounded Knee, S.D., last February and occupied it by force for 71 days, their purpose was to focus public attention on their wances with the federal government and Congress and to push for corrective action. Since the occupation was ended in early May, the normally sluggish bureaucratic machinery and congressional committees are beginning to respond. A package of Indian affairs reform legislation proposed in late 1970 by the Nixon administration is being acted on by Senate and House committees, which had let the legislation lie dormant for two and a half years. The administration says the Democraticcontrolled Congress finally was moved to action by the public concern generated by the Wounded

The Democrats say they would have acted sooner but the White House would not push its own legislation until the headlines this spring forced it to urge Republican support in the Interior Secretary Rogers Morton ordered a reorganization of the BIA. Basically, the plan would reduce the Washington headquarters from 1,050 employes to 715 by moving BIA personnel out to regional offices which would be given more authority.

For Energy Problem

No Early Solution Is In Sight

Copley News Service

With less than 6 per cent of the world's population, the United States manages to consume over 34 per cent of the world's energy, based on the best figures obtainable. U.S. consumption of energy has doubled in the last 20 years and is projected to double again over the next 12 years, if supply keeps up with demand. Judging largely from the strength of the ecological movement, compounded by the fact that the remainder of the world is increasing its use of energy at a faster rate than we are, an energy crisis in the years just ahead appears almost

'A large segment of the American public is inclined to view the present so-called gasoline shortage as contrived, and indeed there may be merit in this assumption, but down the road somewhere ahead lie genuine energy problems. Expert opinion outside of vested interests is unsettling, to say the least. The United States already has moved from an energy exporting nation to an energy importing one. A confidential economic analysis by Lionel D. Edie & Co., widely known advisory firm, points out that 54 per cent of the nation's energy is derived from oil. Yet, domestic production is down 10 per cent from its peak of two years ago and new fields have not been discovered and developed to offset this decline in deliverability. Edie researchers comment:

"U.S. oil imports are expected to rise from the present 22 per cent of consumption to 41 per cent by 1975 and to 49 per cent by 1980. The country historically has been an oil and energy exporter, and the shift toward dependence upon imported oil has occurred at a time when the international petroleum industry has switched from a buyer's to a seller's

Some fundamental disequilibrium is feared. Edie researchers conclude that "for the short term, there is little that can be done, short of direct rationing, to curtail the rate of demand and consequent import of energy. The problem is the long lead time required to respond to changing requirements.' They point out the following: It takes three or more years to develop a coal mine, as long as six or seven years to explore, drill and bring crude oil to market, even longer if offshore, and at least three years to build a refinery or construct a liquefied natural gas liner. It takes four to six years to build a conventional fossil fuel electric generating plant and eight to 10 years to license and bring a nuclear generating plant on stream.

Pets Help Teach Responsibility

By JOAN COLBY Copley News Service

Our children are always bringing home little live things to join our family circle. If this story were fiction, the bedraggled stray they adopted would eventually rescue us from fire or drowning, thereby carning our endless devotion and a lifetime supply of Doggie biscuits. But this is not the kind of dog that is attracted to our family. Our dogs have invariably felt they were doing us a favor by honoring as with their presence. They would never roll over, shake hands, or jump through hoops even for a handful of Puppy

Instead, we were always broiling the ground round to tempt their delicate appetities.

We have the kind of dogs that graciously usher burglars into the living room, pointing out the tape deck and the silver drawer. Next day, naturally, the same accommodating canines viciously

Once in awhile, when the cat feels her status getting shaky, she will prowl forth and catch a mouse, which is then presented to us: alive Naturally, the mouse speeds off to a new home in the kitchen cabinets, while the cat, having done her number, returns to her pillow.

For exercise, the cat does calisthenics on the draperies. If you yell at her for this, the cat will be so wounded, she will rush off and throw up on our bedspread in order to

Sees presidential

One great lesson we are supposed to draw from President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war and the Nixon administration's Watergate affair is that presidential power today is too great and is almost certain to be abused. But there is about this judgment an air of inevitability which I think we should distrust. Doctrines founded in rigid certitude seldom apply so precisely to human behavior - in politics or anything else.

George Reedy, once press secretary to Lyndon Johnson. voices the judgment on presidential power in his newest book. 'The Presidency in Flux.' A key quotation:

"Power breeds isolation Isolation leads to the capricious use of power. In turn, the capricious use of power breaks down the normal channels of communication between the leader and the people whom he leads." Obviously, Reedy believes there is an inescapable progression at work, once the idea of a great concentration of power

Since presidential power has in fact been growing, at least since Franklin Roosevelt's time, that part comes easy.

It may be more questionable whether isolation follows inevitably. Mr. Nixon is of course famed for his isolation. But he appears to have lived that way most of his adult life. Mr. Johnson, for all his midnight calls to favored advisers and his personal cajoling of lawmakers and bureaucrats. seems also to have been seriously isolated from the people

Yet FDR, who really started the latest upward bound in a presidential power, did not live and work in similar isolation, V though his physical crippling perhaps gave him more excuse.

He did indeed sometimes use his great power capriciously. N as biographers like James MacGregor Burns point out convincingly. Yet it would be difficult to demonstrate that this capriciousness seriously affected the channels of communication he had developed with the people. In fact, FDR has for years been cast up as a model of the presidential com-

Presidential power surely did not diminish under Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy. All three at times | used that power arbitrarily, if not capriciously. Gen. Eisenhower usually is thought of as a low-key power wielder, but he did not hesitate to land troops in Lebanon when he perceived a threat to peace in the Middle East.

Without blinking an eye. John Kennedy sent 3,500 soldiers to the Thai-Laotian border when Laos was seen to be totter-Yet, again, it is hard to argue that any of these three was

It is doubtful presidential power is going to be seriously reduced in an era when swelling numbers of Americans want action, and can't get it from a debilitated Congress or the glacial mess of their governmental bureaucracy. Disturbed at reports that many people are reluctant to plan summer vacations and weekend trips out of concern for the energy shortage, or are delaying purchase of recreational vehicles for the same reason, it claims that a family on vacation with a recreational vehicle uses less than one-fourth the amount of energy consumed at home. "A family of four living in an average-sized home normally uses around four times more electricity and natural gas than the same family on vacation," says the Institute's president Robert L. Stewart. And as far as gasoline is concerned, he points out that with 1973 pollution control equipment, there is little difference between a 1973 sedan and a medium motor home or a car towing an average-sized travel trailer. Where this leaves the person with a large-sized motor home or both a 1973 sedan AND a trailer is not quite clear. Maybe we had better think about pooling our vacations, ...

Inlaws anniversary

becomes hairy problem

By Abigail Van Buren E 1973 by Chicato Tribune N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Like so many others I can't believe I am actually writing a Dear Abby letter. My inlaws' anniversary is coming up so I called my mother in law and told her that John [my husband] and I wanted to take her and Dad out for a small dinner celebration on their anniversa-

She said she'd ask Dad and would let me know. She called me back the next day and said [and I quote], "Dad said he was not going anywhere with John until he gets his hair cut.'

I couldn't believe my ears! John is over 21 and nobody has to tell him when to cut his hair. He wears it longer than he used to, but it's clean and well-groomed and not really long by today's standards When I told John about it he said, "Well, I guess we won't be with them on their anniversary. As things stand now, we aren't speaking to his parents until we get an apology. Don't you think we deserve one? DAUGHTER IN LAW

DEAR DAUGHTER IN LAW: I happen to believe that John has the right to wear his hair the way he wishes, and his parents also have the right to absent themselves from his company if they so desire, but I wouldn't hold out for an apology. Start talking. But be careful what you say.

DEAR ABBY: It's Little League baseball time again and I need your help. The father of one of these boys piles all these boys in the back of his pickup truck-some with their feet hanging over the side, and you know how boys are-they don't sit still, and some of them like to show

I have been driving behind them in my car and my heart has been in my mouth many times. The driver of the truck can't keep his eye on the boys in the back, and sometimes he's watching scenery instead of the road ahead of I have heard this man's wife say they both read your column, Abby, so maybe if you print this it will do some I don't want him to think I don't appreciate his hauling those Little Leaguers around, because I think he's great,

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1973.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to maintain poise and steadfastness and to show you value your country and the good things you have from being a citizen of if. Get everything arranged so you will be able to do a better job of whatever your work is in the future. Take time out to build up your health, too ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any work of any kind should be done well if you are to get the benefits from it that you desire. You have good ideas so don't permit a fellow worker to change them Show you know what you are doing.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you want to have fun, be sure you do not sacrifice fine plans you have made, but follow through wisely. Take the treatments that will make you flook more charming Stay within your budget. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't jeopardize something important you have to do at home just to get out to what is exciting for a few hours Get rid of whatever is causing trouble at home. A stranger has no business trying to disrupt the harmony of your house MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Quietly stop one who is trying to pull the wool over your eyes. General toutines are best to stick with now. Not a good day for getting into new and untried ways of living. Show loyalty to mate, also

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) There are some important matters for you to attend to so don't frivol your time away, or to suggest. Avoid that smart aleck who could only get you into spend money unwisely. Listen to what a wise businessman has VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out of that slough of despondency by looking at your problems objectively and then doing whatever is constructive about them Attend social affair but don't enticize others. Show courtesy instead LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) This is a good day to talk over with bigwigs informally how you can become more secure and then get rid of whatever is a deterrent to this aim. Try to please those you love more instead of being contrary SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas that should be followed instead of going along with a friend who is most enthusiastic but hardly practical. Look into periodicals that can be most enlightening Avoid friction at home SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to get busy collecting bills and making out checks, so do just that and get your financial affairs in order. If you are less talkative and kinder with mate, you get good results now. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you study you can do much to improve your mind and character as well Look to that clever person you knew if you want to solve that personal matter well. Make sure you drive with utmost care. AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Fine day for getting all that work ahead of you done constructively and efficiently. even though you feel like going out for fun Take more modern treatments and improve your health and charm PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar. 20) You can get into entertainments that have been found attractive in the past and get more pleasure from them now. You have a special talent that can be put to work with good results. Avoid one who is IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those delightful young people full of talents of all kinds who can work on various interests and tasks in a most steadfast manner, provided some person does not come long and try to spoil it all by interesting him or her in some crackpot scheme. So teach early to have will power and not go along with whatever is not desired. Give as fine an ethical training as you can and don't neglect the important spiritual
