For Building Near Longwood

Developer Wins Approval Second Time Around

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

What a difference a month can make, particularly when it comes to zoning matters.

Last month, when developer Walter Judge asked Seminole County commissioners to approve a change in the site plan for a piece of property he was buying, Judge was met by stiff opposition from Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather.

But Judge received approval for a site plan change this week when he appeared before the board. And Feather even seconded the motion.

Judge had planned to construct a two-story building on a lot at the corner of East Lake Brantley Drive and Wekiva Springs Road near Longwood.

But Feather, who has owned the property prior to his 1980 divorce from Dodie Simerson, opposed the two-story building because it did not conform to the one-story site plan which Feather had submitted to commissioners.

He claimed the two-story building would change the character of the neighborhood.

Judge's plan was rejected by a 3-2 vote.

But this time Judge came in with a plan to double the 4,800-square-foot plan for the site by constructing two one-story buildings. And while Feather still held some reservations about Judge's plan, he voted with the 4-1 majority in approving it.

In other business, commissioners voted to vacate a portion of West Centre Street near State Road 431 in Paola.

The property is owned by Central Florida Inland Development Co.

—Approved a permit to erect a boat dock on Deep Lake near Sanford for David Gloeckner. The dock will extend 72 feet into the lake.

—Approved a zoning change from Commercial 1 to Commercial 2 for Zimmer Poster Service along Alafaya Trail and Park Road in Goldenrod. The company wants to construct a service station on the 1.43-acre site.

—Approved a waiver of the two-year waiting period for a one-acre parcel west of Brantley Square near Altamonte Springs. The property, owned by Johnny Walker and the JoMAR Trust, is being annexed into Altamonte Springs.

Commissioners waived the waiting period on the portion of the property which lies above the flood plain.

—A preliminary plan was approved for Chira Development's subdivision along General Hutchinson Parkway and County Road 427.

United Way

Drive Goal Increased 25% To $500,000

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Although the United Way of Seminole County raised approximately $400,000 in 1982, its volunteers will try to collect $500,000 this year.

The 25 percent increase in the United Way's goal from one year to the next was announced Wednesday by Sharyn Dickerson, 1983 United Way campaign chairman.

She was introduced to agency representatives by newly elected President Larry Strickler at the luncheon meeting at Aggie's Restaurant in Sanford.

Mrs. Dickerson told the group she did not think this year's campaign goal of $500,000 was unrealistic. Mrs. Dickerson also was elected by the board to serve as first vice president. Other officers elected at the board's first 1983 meeting immediately prior to the luncheon were David Joswick, second vice president; Maxine Marsh, secretary; and George Duryea, treasurer.

New members appointed to the United Way board include Duryea, Lou Whitney, who also will be deputy campaign chairman; Mrs. Walter Gleiw; John Daniels; and Dr. Sara Irgang.

Strickler, who served as 1982 campaign chairman, said he expects the final tally from the drive conducted last October to be less than the $400,000 announced at the Victory Dinner.

When the audit is completed in two or three weeks he expects the total will be approximately $375,000, which Strickler said, is still well in excess of the last year's goal of $338,000.

Newly elected United Way President Larry Strickler, left, discusses 1983 campaign ideas with Sharyn Dickerson, 1983 campaign chairman.

President Emeritus of the United Way of Seminole George Touhy presented plaques of appreciation to outgoing president Dick Fess; former treasurer Val Colbert and 1982 campaign chairman Strickler.

Strickler announced United Way will cooperate with Dr. Ned Johnson, director of Adult and Continuing Education at Seminole Community College, and volunteers from the community in conducting a community needs assessment of services available and services needed. The evaluation will help the United Way to better appropriate funds where they are most needed.

Strickler told the group there will be a year-round effort to keep the United Way before the community in Seminole County.

He said there will be more frequent board meetings, possibly on a monthly basis, and more frequent feedback from the participating agencies to provide the board with facts and budgets on their programs.

The 20 participating agencies were presented with their first United Way allotment checks for this year and all except the two new agencies—Spouse Abuse and Jewish Family Services—received bonus checks totaling $9,000 from last year's surplus. The second allotment distribution will take place on April 15 at the Casselberry Senior Center.

Executive Director Bob Walke introduced Clara Shannon as the new secretary in the United Way of Seminole County office in Sanford.

And SR 436 Overpass

State To Build New St. Johns River Bridge

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

The 5-cent increase in the federal gasoline tax will allow planning to begin on construction of an overpass at State Road 436 and Red Bug Lake Road near Casselberry and replacement of the U.S. Highway 17-92 bridge over the St. Johns River.

Bill Gray, a Florida Department of Transportation engineer, said the projects are in line for construction over the next five years because of the new funds which will be available through the gasoline tax hike.

The two projects were not previously on DOT's work plan for the next five years.

Other projects already on the plan may be speeded up, Gray said.

DOT officials revealed the two projects in a meeting Wednesday with Seminole County officials. But Gray warned that the projects have not been finalized. He said the state Legislature will discuss highway funding when it meets later this year.

Gray said the new interchange at SR 436 and Red Bug Lake Road would alleviate a traffic congestion problem there. Currently, only one car at a time can turn onto SR 436. The new interchange would elevate SR 436 and carry it above Red Bug Lake Road, permitting traffic to flow more freely on the access road. Gray estimated the cost of the project at $5 million and said construction could begin within five years.

The St. Johns River Bridge replacement could be financed through federal bridge repair funds, Gray said.

That project, estimated to cost $15 million, is not anticipated until 1988, Gray said, and would replace the current 2-lane drawbridge with a high-rise span.

The transportation department is planning to improve the electrical system on the existing bridge this year at a cost of $250,000.

Other projects which could be speeded up include the rebuilding of State Road 419 between State Road 434 and U.S. 17-92.

Gray said the cost of repairing the 3-mile stretch of SR 419 would be about $1.2 million.

He said work on a planned Interstate 4-SR 436 bypass also could be speeded up. That

Winter Springs Move

For Annexation Opposed

The proposed annexation of four parcels of about 360 acres into Winter Springs is being opposed by Seminole County commissioners.

The proposed annexation violates state laws for compactness, creating enclaves, does not conform to the county's comprehensive plan for development in the area and fails to follow the county's procedure for density changes, commissioners said in a letter to Winter Springs Mayor John Torcaso.

Acting County Administrator Jim Easton explained commissioners' opposition to the plan.

"State statute says you will not create enclaves," Easton said. He described enclaves as isolated pockets which cause a disruption of services from one section of county property to another.

An enclave is an area surrounded or nearly surrounded by another government's territory.

Easton said the annexation, in the opinion of county officials, would create at least one enclave and cause an inefficient use of tax money.

Winter Springs City Planner Jacqueline Koch said the owners of the property — Circuit Court Judge Kenneth M. Leffler, Madeline Luttrell, Charles Cottle and Edward, Robert and Richard Parker — asked the city to annex their property.

Additionally, Mrs. Koch said, a zoning change to low density residential was sought by Mrs. Luttrell and a change to light industrial was asked for by Cottle. All the property is currently zoned agricultural by the county.

Easton said the city did not follow the county's development review process which provides information on the impact to water, sewers, roads and other county systems.

Under the county's statutes the landowners must apply directly to the county for a waiver of the two-year prohibition on a change of density for the property.

"If we have gone along with their request we would have been without any of that information," Easton said.

Easton explained that the changes in density on two of the properties involved would violate the county's comprehensive plan for land use in the area.

The changes would not provide for "an orderly planned growth in the area," Easton said.

Assistant County Attorney Robert McMillan will attend the Winter Springs City Commission meeting Jan. 25 to express the county's opposition to the plan.

The annexation is scheduled for final reading at that meeting.

Easton said the county must raise its objections at the meeting if an appeal is to be filed.

If Winter Springs commissioners approve the annexation request, the county has 30 days to file an appeal in Seminole County Circuit Court. — MICHAEL BEHA

State Lawmakers Give County No SR 434 Funding Promises

Seminole County officials' plea that the state take over paying the $411,000 annual payments on a 1973 bond issue floated by the county for the widening and improvement of State Road 434 fell on deaf ears at Wednesday night's meeting of the Seminole County Legislative delegation.

The legislators told county officials there is little or no chance that the Legislature would favor the request when Seminole County has not opted to put the issue of a 1 cent gas tax increase for road funding before the voters.

"It is hard to sit here and say we want to help you when you have made no effort to help yourselves," said Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, referring to the ninth cent of gas tax, which counties have the option of levying if voters approve.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather, representing the county commission, noting a referendum must be called on the issue, predicted that one will be scheduled soon.

Feather was representing the county commission since Chairman Sandra Glenn was in Tallahassee meeting with state Department of Resource officers about funding to provide public access in the north end of the county to the Wekiva River.

County Engineer Bill Bush said the county used $6.2 million of its bonding capacity in 1973 to purchase additional right-of-way and widen and improve State Road 434 and it is slated to continue paying $411,000 annually on that bond issue until 2003.

Since the state took over the road as quickly as the county got it improved and now owns the highway, Bush said the county would like to recapture the money it is paying on the bond issue each year.

Bush said if the state would take over payment of that bond issue for its road, the county would then have the ability to float another bond issue for other badly needed road projects in Seminole County.

"If we are one of only two or three counties in the state with a similar problem, we want something done," Bush said.

Julie Feather, County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather's young daughter, amuses herself by taking notes, following the example of commission secretary Teresa Coker.

"We don't enjoy paying debt service until 2003 for a state road when we so badly need the bonding capacity for county roads in Seminole County," Bush said.

Bush said while the county wants the state to pay the bond issue payments, the county has no desire to hurt the state Department of Transportation.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, chairman of the delegation, said that three of the five counties he represents are offering the same argument on refunding money spent for roads taken over by the DOT after improvements.

Bill Gray, an engineer with the DOT district office in Deland, said Seminole County is the only county in the DOT's fifth district with the specific problem of having to pay a bond issue for a road taken over by the state.

Brantley affirmed Langley's early remarks about how the Legislature would look at Seminole County's request. "When the rubber hits the road, the reality is that if nothing is done about the ninth cent locally the state won't do anything. I agree it's not right, but that's reality," Brantley said.

The county also received no assurance from the delegation that it would seek the additional $275,000 funding to widen and rebuild East Road entranceway to Seminole Community College from U.S. Highway 17-92.

Feather, Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, Bush and Commissioner Bob Sturm told the delegation East Road is probably the third most highly traveled road in the county and its intersection with the federal highway presents a dangerous situation.

The road is within the city limits of Lake Mary, but the college campus is in the city of Sanford.

Two years ago, then-state Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, was able to get legislative approval for $225,000 for the one-half mile stretch of road. Bush said Hattaway got the most money he could out of the Legislature.

And Sturm said even then it was known that it would probably cost about $450,000 for the improvements. R.T. Milwee, a SCC official, said in excess of 23,000 students are using the roadway.

Estimates by DOT are that it will cost $500,000 for the improvement, including $100,000 for acquisition of right of way and the balance for the road construction and to locate a traffic signal on U.S. 17-92 at the entrance road intersection.

Dreams

We all have dreams — that we're rich, famous, good-looking ... But for most of us, those dreams never become reality. Michelle Feldman, 14, of Longwood, had a simple dream — to own her own horse. Recently, her dream came true. Herald staff writer Jane Casselberry tells Michelle's story in Friday's Leisure magazine.

NATION IN BRIEF

Environmentalists Sue To Halt Watt Wilderness Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's leading environmental groups filed suit today against Interior Secretary James Watt, challenging his department's removal of wilderness protections from about 800,000 acres of lands in the West.

The federal court suit is a response to the Interior Department's Dec. 27 announcement eliminating the lands in 10 states, from consideration as part of the 80-million-acre federal wilderness system.

The lawsuit also is part of an effort to "head off at the pass" any further withdrawal of protections from millions of acres of potential wilderness areas, a coalition spokesman said.

Anti-Icing Steps Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One year after an Air Florida jet crashed in a snowstorm into the frozen Potomac River and killed 78 people, a government agency says airlines must take immediate steps to prevent plane crashes from ice buildup.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday Boeing 737 planes either should have on-ground wing de-icers, or pilots should be required to take off at higher speeds to avoid a repeat of the crash of Air Florida Flight 90 one year ago today.

In a break with the Federal Aviation Administration, NTSB Chairman Jim Burnett said the increased safety measures should be taken now "for the current cold weather season" instead of waiting further studies.

Arms Control Chief Fired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move that should please conservatives, President Reagan has fired his chief arms control official because of what one official described as an "accumulation of differences."

Reagan requested the resignation of Eugene Rostow, 69, as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. The president also fired Richard Star as U.S. Negotiator to the conventional arms talks with the Soviets in Vienna.

For months, Rostow has been the target of sniping from conservative Republican senators who did not view him as sufficiently hard-line, and succeeded in torpedoing the nominations of his deputy and one of his chief assistants.

Reagan appointed Kenneth Adelman, deputy U.S. representative to the United Nations, to replace Rostow and replaced Star, a political appointee, with Morton Abramowitz, a career foreign service officer.

Scottish Games Saturday

They're coming to help celebrate the sixth annual Orlando Scottish Highland Games and gathering of the clans. They're coming for a day of Scottish music and dance, athletics, fellowship, Old World tradition and pageantry.

The clans will gather Saturday at the Central Florida Fair grounds, 4603 W. Colonial Drive, Orlando. The competition and exhibitions will be open at 9 a.m.

Headlining the activities will be the Scottish Athletic Competition. Professional athletes will test their skills in the seven traditional Scottish field events including the Caber Toss, Hammer Throw, Sheaf Toss and Clachnaert (Stone of Strength).

Other athletic events will include the Inter-Clan athletic challenge; the running of the "Kilted Mile," Junior Highland competition and a Tug-of-War. Special interest areas include sheep dog demonstrations, Scottish Fiddling, Scottish Shoppes and aerial rides in Rosie O'Grady's Balloon.

The sound of bagpipes will be heard as pipe bands from all over the South and East will compete for piping and marching honors. Individual piping and drumming competition will also be held. The featured host band will be Rosie O'Grady's Scottish Highlanders.

Former Altamonte Springs Resident

Judge Hastings Goes On Trial Today

MIAMI (UPI) — More than one year after his indictment for bribery, trial begins for the first federal judge ever to be tried for crimes allegedly committed while on the bench.

Alcee Hastings, 46, Florida's first black federal judge, former civil rights activist and one-time U.S. Senate candidate, crowded into his home courtroom with 313 prospective jurors at 10 a.m. today.

What transpires under the eyes of presiding U.S. District Judge Edward T. Gignoux of Maine will make or break the career of a man unabashedly proud of his hard-won rise to a high judicial post.

Hastings, an Altamonte Springs native, stands charged with planning to bilk $150,000 from two racketeers he convicted, in exchange for reduced sentences.

The evidence against him is largely circumstantial, and Hastings has accused the government of singling him out because he is black, because of his liberal rulings and lenient sentences, and because of his attacks against the Reagan administration.

Jury selection alone could take up to a week, observers say, and will be bogged down by a list of more than one hundred questions that Hastings and his co-attorney Patricia Williams plan to ask them.

Gignoux has also said that he will consider motions made by Hastings and Williams that he bar certain evidence—taken during an illegal search of Hastings' chambers.

The case against Hastings is based on an 1981 FBI undercover payoff of longtime Hastings friend and prominent Washington D.C. attorney William A. Borders Jr.

Borders allegedly first accepted $25,000 and then $125,000 from an undercover FBI agent in exchange for reducing the sentences and releasing the property of Frank and Thomas Romano, two south Florida racketeers convicted by Hastings.

Borders was convicted last year of bribery conspiracy, and sentenced to five years in prison by Gignoux. Hastings never reduced the sentences, but did release some of the Romanos properly.

Following the conviction, Hastings said, "I had absolutely nothing to do with whatever Bill Borders did."

Since then Hastings has said that Borders was using his name to bilk the racketeers of their money, without Hastings' knowledge. Hastings also said the property reduction he ordered was in accordance with an appeals court ruling in a separate case.

Federal judge Alcee Hastings and his attorney walk outside the courthouse on the first day of his trial on charges he conspired to accept a $150,000 bribe and obstruct justice while on the bench. Hastings has a fool for a client," Hastings has won that right from Judge Gignoux. It is one of his few legal victories in the case so far.

What makes the Hastings' case unusual is not only its historic uniqueness, but the unconventional and aggressive defense that Hastings has put up.

While remaining silent in the courtroom during the grand jury investigation, Hastings denounced the government to the press.

Defying the legal tradition that "A lawyer who represents

Lawyer Questions Reliability Of Breathalyzer Test

An Altamonte Springs lawyer, who claims that police radio transmissions can affect the accuracy of the breathalyzer, has filed motions in Seminole and Orange county courts challenging the reliability of the alcohol detection device.

Steve Horneffer, part of the Attorney's Defense Group which is fighting for the formulation of rules for the operation and maintenance of the breathalyzer, says that the group will be making its arguments to the state Department of Health and Rehabilitation Services next month.

Horneffer claims that experts have determined that the breathalyzer unit built by Smith and Wesson can give grossly inaccurate readings because of the effects of police radio transmissions.

The absence of rules governing the machine's use calls the reliability of the breathalyzer into question, Horneffer said. "There are no rules to test the reliability, how it should be operated or how it should be maintained. There are no rules at all."

Horneffer has argued his position before Seminole County Judge Alan Dickey, asking that a client charged with driving under the influence be acquitted.

Dickey is expected to rule on the motion Jan. 20.

Even if Horneffer's challenge is successful and rules are laid down for the operation of the breathalyzer, it will probably not affect the cases of those already convicted of drunken driving where the breathalyzer was used to gain a conviction, prosecutors say.

GUNMAN SUBDUED

Police wearing bullet proof vests surrounded a Sanford house on Tuesday after a gunman barricaded himself inside. Police rushed to a house at 403 Mattie Street about 7:45 p.m. after receiving a report from neighbors that a man was firing a gun in the area.

Winter Comes South

United Press International

Up to 14 inches of snow closed schools and sent cars bashing into each other in the Southeast and a freeze threatened Florida today, but temperatures climbed to an unseasonable 60 degrees in the Plains. Three people died as a result of cold, ice and snow.

A fast switch was played by winter upon the Great Lakes region Wednesday where temperatures plunged into the single digits after more than a week of readings near 40. Forecasters called for highs again today near 40.

At the same time, parts of the Great Smoky Mountains in east Tennessee and western North Carolina were covered with up to 14 inches of snow and another 2 inches was expected overnight.

Northern and central Florida braced for a freeze and a hardfreeze warning was issued for southeast North Carolina. There were travel advisories in the mountains of western North Carolina for icy and slippery roads.

Midday temperatures in the Plains rose 40 degrees in 24 hours. The mercury topped 60 as far north as Rapid City, S.D., and Sheridan, Wyo., and parts of Montana had readings in the upper 50s.

Light snow showers were reported scattered from northern Minnesota to southwest New York State and across central New England. Schools were forced to close in five East Tennessee counties and in western North Carolina because snow made travel impossible. Cars and trucks bashed each other on icy bridges.

A mixture of snow and rain pelted eastern North Carolina.

"We got 10 inches of snow here... and whenever we get that much snow it sits around for a while," said Cindy Holda, wife of the park ranger at Soco Gap, N.C.

Light snow dusted Atlanta on the anniversary of the 1982 storm that crippled the city.

Two men were killed and another was missing in Alabama after an unsuccessful attempt to rescue three stranded duck hunters ended, when the rescue boat sank in icy Tennessee River waters.

Hot desert winds scoured Southern California, pushing mercury levels toward the 90-degree mark. Fire officials issued a "red flag" brush-fire alert because of the unusually warm temperatures and the drying winds.

ABSCAM Ruling Expected By Summer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government prosecutors seeking reinstatement of the Abscam bribery conviction of former Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., do not expect a ruling in the case for four to six months.

U.S. Attorney Mike Farrell made the estimate Wednesday, a day after a three-member panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia heard arguments on the government's appeal of a ruling throwing out Kelly's conviction.

Kelly, the only Republican among seven members of Congress convicted in the scandal, was filmed taking a $25,000 payoff from an FBI undercover agent posing as a sheik.

He was convicted by a jury, but U.S. District Judge William Bryant on May 14, 1982, threw out the conviction on grounds the FBI violated the former congressman's rights.

Bryant, who at the same time granted new trials to two of Kelly's co-defendants, ruled that law enforcement exceeds its bounds when it "manufactures crimes and creates criminals."

The government is appealing Bryant's ruling on grounds the FBI never exhibited the kind of "demonstrably outrageous" conduct the Supreme Court has ruled is a reason for barring prosecution.

Richard Kelly must wait 4-6 weeks before learning if his 1982 ABSCAM conviction, thrown out by a federal judge, will be reinstated.

Kelly openly admitted at trial that he took the money, but said he did so as part of his own investigation of "shady" characters. He claims he was entrapped by the FBI.

Mrs. Dole May Win Senate OK Unanimously

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Never has a president's Cabinet nominee stood a better chance of winning Senate confirmation unanimously than Elizabeth Dole.

The new transportation secretary-nominee will win speedy approval from the Commerce Committee and then from the full Senate not only for her own political strengths. She has brains, experience, ability, a Southern background, former status as a Democrat and an independent, and the backing of the president of the United States.

Yet even the most popular Cabinet nominees sometimes have a few negative votes cast against them.

Not Mrs. Dole. Whoever would vote against her, no matter what issues of policy or principle might be in dispute, would be voting against the wife of one of the Senate's most powerful members — Bob Dole, the Kansas Republican who chairs the Finance Committee.

The senator's power derives not so much from his national stature as the man Reagan must deal with on taxes, but from the committee's long-revered power to grant special tax breaks to special interests represented by other members of the Senate. Antagonizing Dole would guarantee a Senate tenure devoid of any help from the man in a position to dispense political plums and a lifetime of glares from the man whose glower during a debate can be more effective than a speech.

While Dole's successful career in the Senate and national politics no doubt helped his wife advance, she has also helped him — softening him to the point that the one-time Nixon clone — a self-described partisan "hatchetman" — has become a darling of the Washington media and political establishment.

His words are now given equal weight with those of the president on legislative matters, his jokes are now clever instead of bitter, and he is now the voice of GOP moderation instead of a carping backbencher.

During his 1976 campaign for the vice presidency and his 1980 run for president, it was apparent to reporters traveling with him that "Liddy" Dole was at times the better candidate. She spoke often and convincingly on his behalf, met with the backroom boys and glad-handed crowds far more effectively than he.

For as long as they have been married — since 1975 — the question of conflict of interest has come up. When he ran for vice president less than a year later while she was a federal trade commissioner, Dole always answered the question by saying, "No conflict — lots of interest."

Recently, when Mrs. Dole was Reagan's assistant for public liaison and Dole was sometimes at odds with White House policy, he was asked if he was speaking often with the administration. "I talk to the White House every day," he said. "She calls me at 7 and tells me what to put on for dinner."

Now, however, Mrs. Dole outranks her husband in salary, protocol, access to the president and bodyguards, if not power.

The residence of such political and governmental power in one couple may be unprecedented in the American meritocracy. And it raises some interesting, perhaps amusing, possibilities.

Will Commerce Committee member Nancy Kassebaum, Senator Dole's Kansas colleague, or anyone else on the panel, ask tough questions of her? Will committee chairman Bob Packwood, the maverick Republican who is feuding with Reagan?

As a member of the Cabinet privy to official secrets, will she have to promise not to talk in her sleep?

When the couple is invited to a party or a state dinner, will she have to sit apart from her husband, whom she outranks in seating protocol? How are invitations to be addressed — Secretary and Senator Dole?

How will the senator feel knowing his wife is more popular among his colleagues than he is?

And what if Mrs. Dole winds up, as her predecessor Drew Lewis did, having to lobby for an administration-backed gasoline tax that has to win the approval first of her own husband.

A final oddity is that Dole, widely admired for his World War II heroism, for which he suffered a permanent disability, was a mere lieutenant. His wife, now, as transportation secretary, will head a military service of her own — the Coast Guard.

MONEY HAPPY

Why are these people smiling? They have good reason to smile. Each is a recipient of a check for their favorite charities by the Historic Longwood Rotary Club totaling $5,750. From left are Jack Siranni for the drug rehabilitation program Straight, $500; Judy Peterson for Beta, $1,500;

Joan Madison for RSVP, $750; Patti Brantley for the Drug Awareness Task Force, $200; Tom Hunt for the Ronald McDonald House, $1,500; Julie Fisher for Junior Achievement, $500; Charley Fritch, for the Grove School, $500; and Jack Gurr for the Karis Jail ministry, $300.

School Field Trips Approved

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Proposed field trips to Washington, D.C., and New York City have been approved by the Seminole County School Board.

Board members voted 4-1 in favor of the trips at Tuesday's meeting. Board member Nancy Warren voted against approval.

Sixth and seventh graders from Teague Middle School in Longwood will travel to New York April 29-May 4. Teacher chaperones will be Mrs. Dorie Sherman, sixth grade mathematics teacher, and Mrs. Susan Macomber, a sixth grade social studies teacher.

There will be 64 students and 10 parents participating.

The board was concerned that $6,500 already had been paid out for the trip in non-refundable deposits and disbursements before the trip was approved by the board. The cost of the trip will be paid by the parents.

County School Superintendent Robert Hughes told the board, "Teachers have been instructed that before they solicit any money for field trips it must be approved. It won't happen next year."

Forty students from Spring Lake Elementary School in Altamonte Springs accompanied by six adult chaperones will visit the Nation's Capital April 25-29. The teacher sponsor is Barbara Gruber. Her classes have been studying U.S. government and American history.

An eighth grade class of gifted students from Jackson Heights Middle School in Oryedo will go to Washington, D.C., by way of Amtrak March 26-31 during the spring vacation. Mrs. Patricia A. Feverson is the sponsoring teacher for the 16 students. There will be one adult chaperone for each five students. The trip is made available through the cooperation of the POGO (Parents of the Gifted) group.

Angry Men Die Early

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Hostile and angry men appear to have higher rates of coronary artery disease and an increased risk of premature death than those who are content with the world, a Duke University psychiatrist reported today.

Dr. Redford B. Williams Jr. said a recently completed study showed doctors who scored high on the hostility section of a psychological test 25 years ago had a 12 percent rate of heart attacks or other coronary events — nearly five times higher than those with low scores.

"An even more striking finding to emerge from this study was, in addition to higher coronary disease rates, high hostility scores also predicted mortality from all causes in this physician sample," he said.

In addition, Williams said in the report, released at an American Heart Association meeting, a separate study conducted on 1,900 middle-aged Chicago-area men came up with similar results. He said reports of both studies will be published soon in the medical journal, Psychosomatic Medicine.

Williams said there are several factors that can indicate a high level of hostility.

"Someone coming up and spitting in your face would make just about anybody angry," he said. "But an elevator that doesn't arrive quite as fast as you might like would only make some people angry."

There also are those who have hostile attitudes toward other people. And he said hostility might show up in what a person does when he or she is angry.

He said he thinks people who express their anger are those more prone to coronary disease. Those who hold their anger in, he said, might be asking for other problems, such as depression or possibly some other ailments.

Williams said the new studies indicate hostility may be the key aspect of the Type A personality that increases a person's risk of developing heart disease.

Guardino: Psychic To The Stars

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — David Guardino says he makes dreams of wealth and happiness come true as the "Psychic to the Stars."

"I am not God. I am a gifted human being, but I am not God. For instance, I couldn't make Nancy Reagan divorce her husband and marry you. But if you and your girlfriend had a tiff, I could be 90 percent sure of getting you back together."

"I don't bother much with readings and predictions. I specialize in making things happen."

Guardino is, at the very least, a confident man. The modern-day Merlin said he has helped stars find true love, get big movie parts, make millions. He said he has even helped politicians get their bills passed.

But Guardino can't do these things for himself. ("Lawyers don't defend themselves in court. Brain surgeons don't operate on their brains.") Guardino, 40, spends half his time in Las Vegas and the other half in Lenoir City, Tenn., where his wife, Dedra, 19, was raised.

"We met over the telephone," explained his wife. "After about 30 or 40 seconds, he said, 'Will you marry me.'"

It didn't happen that fast. First she flew to Las Vegas. Eleven days after they met face-to-face they were married.

"It has worked out very good," she said. The former social worker gets his clients what they want through telekinesis — the ability to influence people's thoughts. More simply, he puts "wammies" on people.

"If a politician wants a bill passed, I'll put a whammy on his opponents. If a star wants a choice film role, I just zero in on the producer and that's that."

The scientific name for his specialty is psychokinetic energy. He explains that life itself is a result of biochemical reactions. Those reactions create unique electromagnetic fields around all human beings. "Every scientist in the world would agree with me on that," he said. "Psychics call those fields vibrations. I have the gift of being able to tune into those and read them."

What Guardino does is "psychic regression."

"Let's say you and your wife got along famously the first year you were married and then things went sour. Now she's going out with someone else. I put a whammy on him, put a whammy on her, break them up and make her come back to you. I psychically regress her to feel about you the way she felt during the honeymoon."

Sounds too good to be true, right? "I claim 90 percent success. Actually it's higher," he said.

Guardino said his biggest failure was Elvis Presley.

Clinical Lab Managers Will Form Association

The organizational meeting of the Central Florida Chapter of the Clinical Laboratory Management Association (CLMA) will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Laboratory managers from hospital and private laboratories throughout Central Florida also will attend the luncheon which will feature James D. Tesar, CFRH administrator, as speaker.

Objectives of both the national and local organizations will be discussed by the organizers of the meeting, Ann Cole, lab manager at CFRH and Tom Dryden, lab manager at the Winter Haven Hospital.

CLMA is a national organization with over 1,000 members designed to meet the professional and educational needs of directors, supervisors, managers and administrators of laboratories and management personnel from industry serving the clinical laboratory.

Genetic Engineering On To Something Big

The memorable news photos of 1982 must include the side-by-side pictures of two mice, one of them normal sized, the other almost twice as big.

The accompanying story told how a "super mouse" had been created by transplanting into it the growth-hormone gene of rats.

The pictures of the mice may have been more significant than the experiment they illustrated.

They took the new science of genetic engineering out from under the microscope and put it before the naked eye. The oversized mouse shows exactly what gene-splicing can do and explains why genetic engineering is causing such scientific excitement.

The world doesn't need bigger mice, of course, but the techniques proven by the mice experiments at San Diego's Salk Institute and University of California at San Diego School of Medicine are pointing toward far more significant achievements.

Genetic engineering may prevent birth defects and hereditary diseases. It may provide a defense against cancer. Scientists are gaining the kind of control over biological processes that they have long exercised over chemical processes.

The super mouse explains why gene-splicing may have as much impact on agriculture as on medicine. The manipulation of growth hormones could produce meatier livestock, dairy cows that give more milk, and grains more rich in protein. Some experiments point toward a "sunbean" — a new food plant that would grow like a weed and vastly increase the productivity of the land.

It is not surprising that such bold biological engineering raises uneasiness at the same time it raises hope of progress against disease and hunger. Researchers have been accused of tampering with the secrets of life or of trying of "play God."

This is not unfamiliar in science. The same concern arose with the harnessing of electricity in the 19th century, and with the splitting of the atom in the 20th.

There is indeed a risk of abuse in "tampering" with genetic material to create new life forms or change a code of heredity. But we think the moral issue resolves itself in the fact that the good to be realized in reducing human suffering far outweighs any risk that genetic engineering would be used for evil purposes.

A decade ago when the possibilities of research with recombinant DNA first began to emerge, fears were expressed that a new, artificial strain of virus might escape from a laboratory and cause a devastating epidemic.

Years of study by the government and academic institutions have led to the conclusion that such fears are exaggerated. A proposal that genetic experiments be encompassed by a new set of federal laws was dropped. The rules of individual agencies and institutions are considered sufficient to prevent danger or abuse.

The experiments with growth hormones that produced the oversized mice are being conducted on the very frontier of genetic science. There is no doubt that the scientists pushing at that frontier are on to something big — perhaps an end to scourges of famine and disease which have haunted humanity from the beginning of time.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hey, 'Golden Parachute,' wake up! It may be time for us to worry about things!"

EDWARD J. WALSH American Generosity Powerful

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) — While liberals rage about the Reagan administration's alleged "insensitivity", this past Christmas season was witness to the overwhelming rightness of the President's basic approach to helping the poor: that individuals and private organizations do it best. Throughout the nation, churches, charitable organizations, and individuals fed the hungry, found beds for the homeless, and added a small glimmer of Christmas cheer to those who otherwise heard no glad tidings this holiday season.

In Nashville, the Big Brothers, a group devoted to finding caring older friends for orphaned boys and girls, distributed 3,500 boxes of food to underprivileged families. Sausage, bacon, fruit, vegetables and Christmas treats were delivered by private citizens, using their own vehicles and their own gasoline, not to mention ingenuitly at finding the oft-hidden homes of the city's poor.

In stark contrast to the soul-deadening processes of public welfare administration, the Big Brothers' system of assigning volunteers addresses and loading food boxes into their vehicles was precise and efficient. Participants simply loaded as many cartons as they could take, and received addresses to which the food was to be delivered.

Those volunteers who were unfamiliar with the trappings of poverty learned much from their experience. Poor people in America are seldom scarred by genuine malnutrition. The function of welfare, after all, has been to keep hunger at arm's length. One might be surprised, even indignant, at discovering color television in the homes and apartments of the poor. But television is the cheapest form of entertainment, that reminds the poor constantly of what they cannot have.

For the average middle class American, stepping through the doorway of a ghetto home is as a voyage to another planet. He sees the dark eyes of the poor, dulled by dependence on public assistance. Those eyes glow with gratitude, however, when proffered a Christmas gift from the Big Brothers — a private organization.

What stands out most is the consummate failure of welfare to do anything but cultivate the habits of dependence. Almost always, the doors of poor homes are opened by women, who have substituted welfare checks for unemployed or lazy husbands or unmarried partners. Real poverty is at times hard to recognize. In Nashville, the beneficiaries of public assistance usually own the basic necessities: electricity, running water, furniture. Some enjoy huge stereo systems.

But the poor in America suffer a deeper deprivation: a lack of hope, engendered by the cloying hand of welfare. The government check, whether looked on as a godsend or a pittance, is always there, a reminder that the State gives and the State can take away.

Yet the faces light with smiles at a personal gift. So we were reminded, this difficult Christmas, that the essential generosity of individuals in America is still the most powerful weapon in the war against poverty.

Jordanian Minutemen Part Of Plan

WASHINGTON — There has been much agitated whispering on Capitol Hill about a secret Pentagon plan to establish a rapid deployment force in Jordan. The secrecy of the project has prevented open discussion of an extremely controversial issue.

Basically, the secret plan calls for perhaps two brigades of elite Jordanian troops, who would serve as modern minutemen ready to respond immediately to any crisis in the Persian Gulf area. This "mini-Rapid Deployment Force," as it has already been nicknamed in the Pentagon, would be trained and equipped by the U.S. military.

The details are considered so sensitive politically that only top congressional leaders have been informed of the plan, and they have been sworn to secrecy. The intent is to keep the project hush-hush and to finance it secretly.

ROBERT WALTERS

TV And Party Coverage

WASHINGTON (NEA) — An intriguing approach to televised news coverage of future presidential nominating conventions has been suggested by the chief executive officer of one of the three commercial networks.

Leonard H. Goldenson, board chairman of ABC, has proposed that "the Public Broadcasting Service assume responsibility for complete coverage of the official record of the convention proceedings."

To enable PBS to assume the heavy financial burden of providing "gavel-to-gavel" television coverage of the Republican and Democratic conventions in 1984 and beyond, Goldenson says ABC would contribute a proportionate share of the substantial expenses involved and has invited CBS and NBC to join in the cost-sharing arrangement.

That innovative approach is attractive to both the television networks and to viewers who take their politics seriously for a number of reasons, all of which Goldenson discreetly failed to mention when he advanced the idea in a mid-December speech at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

First, the networks have now all abandoned their highly publicized, self-imposed commitment to providing gavel-to-gavel coverage of the conventions.

ABC, the most obvious in discarding comprehensive convention coverage, in recent years has offered its viewers situation comedies, films and similar fare on the evenings when the major political parties' conventions were in session.

CBS and NBC have maintained the pretense of providing complete coverage by beginning their broadcasts when the evening sessions of the conventions are gavelled to order and remaining on the air until the close of the proceedings.

But they have broadcast only a small fraction of what occurs at the podium. Much of that material is admittedly tedious and irrelevant (the obligatory welcoming speeches from the governor, mayor and weekend animal encounters and public relations for the zoo.

Docents come from all walks of life. They volunteer their time and enthusiasm and share a common commitment to the betterment of their community zoo.

If you would like to be a docent call the Education Department at 323-0181 for more information.

The Sanford-Seminole Jaycees will be celebrating the 63rd anniversary of the U.S. Jaycees on Jaycee Week, Jan. 18-22. An open house will be held on Sunday from 1-6 p.m. at the Jaycee building at Fifth Street and French Avenue. Any young men (18-35 years old) living in the Sanford area who would like to be in the Jaycees or who would like information are invited to attend. The Jaycees will also have a Jaycees Membership Night on Wednesday, Jan. 19 at the Jaycee building at 7:30 p.m. for interested young men.

They will climax the week's activities with a Distinguished Service Award banquet at the Holiday Inn in Sanford at which outstanding young persons from various fields of endeavor will be recognized.

Saddle up, partner, and head for the Seminole County 4-H horse banquet to be held at 7 p.m., Jan. 21 at the Agri-Center auditorium. The event is for 4-H'ers in the horse program, parents and leaders. There are sure to be some nervous youngsters at the banquet awaiting an exciting announcement.

The winner of five-month-old chestnut saddlebred horse filly by the name of Aurora's Morning Star (Dawn for short,) will be announced. Deadline for entries from 4-H'ers wanting the horse donated by Dr. and Mrs. P.M. Mabry is Jan. 14.

This will be the second time in three months that a lucky young 4-H'er has won a horse of their own, because someone donated a filly to Seminole County 4-H. Michelle Feldman was the winner of an Arabian horse in November. The yearling was presented to her by Carolyn and Eli Pietrack of Orange County Arabian Horse Ranch. Child Gum Disease Inherited?

By SHARON RUTENBERG

CHICAGO (UPI) — Researchers say juvenile periodontitis, a rapidly advancing gum disease in which teenagers could lose permanent teeth, may be inherited from mothers.

"Up to this point, I think the genetics of this disease was controversial," said Dr. Thomas Leinbach of the University of Virginia Hospital.

Periodontitis, or juvenile gum disease, affects up to 10 percent of the children in the United States.

"It's usually more prevalent in girls ... and though it can affect males, we have found no evidence of the disease being passed by males to their offspring," Leinbach said in the Journal of the American Dental Association.

"It appears to be linked to the X, or female, chromosome."

Leinbach and colleagues traced the dental history of a Virginia family through four generations back to a great-grandmother on the mother's side. They found a history of the disease among several female family members.

Existing dental records for male family members showed no sign of the disease.

Juvenile periodontitis is an "unusual form of periodontal disease that young people get and it's real bad," he said in an interview. "The cause of it, even though we know it's inherited ... what's going on in their mouths, we don't know," he said.

In periodontal disease, bacterial plaque that everyone has stays on the teeth too long — if teeth are not being cleaned sufficiently — and gets hard and calcifies.

It then grows down the root surface of the teeth underneath the gum, causing an inflammation. The gum — and bone in which the teeth are imbedded — begin to pull away from the teeth.

"And the eventual outcome is that as the teeth lose their gum support and bone support, they become loose and eventually fall out," Leinbach said.

General periodontal disease usually appears in older people — during the 40s to 60s — and "the amount of destruction is somewhat a function of the dirt or debris around the teeth and how well the person is taking care of their teeth," he said.

But juvenile periodontitis is inherited and even occurs in teenagers taking good care of their teeth, Leinbach said.

It "usually begins about puberty and it progresses really fast through the teens and the 20s and probably by the early 30s they've lost the teeth that they're going to lose."

The permanent molars are the "first ones that are attacked by this disease and it can spread to the other teeth," Leinbach said.

"There is no cure. Some cases respond to standard periodontal treatment, whether it be surgery or antibiotics, or just cleaning. But some of them do not. And we don't know why the ones who respond respond," he said.

The disease can be slowed in such cases but is virtually impossible to stop, Leinbach said. "The sooner we can detect it, the better the chances of treating it successfully."

"Women who have a history of periodontitis in their family should be counseled about the probability of passing the trait to their children," he said.

Needless to say, the Pentagon's secret plan has already raised concern, especially among senators who believe Israel, not Jordan, is better equipped to protect American interests in the Middle East. They fear it will damage our relations with our most dependable ally; the Israelis would understandably be concerned that a crack Jordanian military force could be used against them.

— Emergencies in friendly Persian Gulf states: This is the main purpose for creating the Jordanian RDF. It could be dispatched quickly to put down insurrections against regimes in Saudi Arabia, Oman, Kuwait, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates.

— Possible use in inter-Arab wars: The Pentagon apparently sees the Jordanian RDF as a potential surrogate force to promote U.S. interests in the area, without the need for American troops.

The use of friendly Arab troops would be infinitely more palatable to Saudi Arabia, which has expressed displeasure over the possibility of calling in American forces, even in a direct emergency.

There is also uneasiness on Capitol Hill over the idea of establishing a special relationship with any Middle East potentate. Some senators are still haunted by the disastrous results of such an arrangement with the late Shah of Iran.

But the Pentagon can presumably count on strong White House support. Jordan is crucial to President Reagan's Middle East peace plan.

The Stars Name Their Corporations

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — For reasons of artistry and economy, there's a boom in Hollywood corporations these days. Almost every actor, director and producer has his own personal corporation.

According to California's laws, no two corporations can have the same name. The office of the secretary of state has the power to approve any new corporate name. The result is a challenge to an individual's imagination, and a small survey shows an incredible array of strange, wonderful and awful names.

Maybe it began with Kirk Douglas. Back in 1955, he started his Bryna Productions, perhaps the first instance of an actor incorporating. He named his company after his mother. Since then, stars have incorporated using the names of relatives, pets, animals, streets, home towns, trees and vegetables, Greek and Egyptian gods and goddesses. They often invent words with no meaning at all.

Probably the acronymic construction is most common, in which parts of names are taken and a new name built from those parts.

Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis are Bil-Mar Inc. Michael Caine calls his company Mikira, from himself and his wife — Michael and ShaKIRA. Dom DeLuise's company is Petmida, an acronym derived from his three sons, PETer, Michael and David. Greg Morris has GLLIP Inc., which comes from Greg, his wife, Lee, and his children, Linda, Iona and Phillip.

Acronyms are also made from other combinations. Mariette Hartley and her manager, Arlene Dayton, are partners in Maraday Inc., from MARIette and DAYton. Phyllis Diller has Phylidil, an acronym contraction of her own name. Jacqueline Bisset takes the same route and comes up with her corporate entity, Jacquet.

Robert Hays uses his name another way. He is known to accountants as NOEE Inc. — "that's because I want people to know there is no E in the way I spell Hays."

Carl Weathers — Rocky's opponent in the first two "Rocky" films — is Stormy Weathers Inc. Marcia Wallace, who used to be Bob Newhart's receptionist when he played a psychologist, is Off-the-Wallace Inc. Soap opera heroine-singer Gloria Loring and her husband, talk show host Alan Thicke, are mutually incorporated as Thickoff Inc. O.J. Simpson uses his real first name — Orenthal Inc. — and Robert Stack uses his middle name — Langford Inc.

Leslie Uggams and Diana Ross both turned their names around, and so Leslie is Smaggu Inc., and Diana is Anaid Inc.

Sometimes, actors use a facet of characters they play for their corporate names. Melissa Gilbert used to be known as Half-Pint on "Little House on the Prairie," so she is Half-Pint Inc., and Peggy Rae, who was Rose on "The Waltons," became Roseland Inc.

Sometimes, the names actors choose are designed to be funny or self-deprecating. Karen Valentine is Egg Money Inc. Ted Lange of "The Love Boat" is Rock Bottom Inc. Mills Watson, a fine character actor, is Third Base Productions, because he says people always said he'd never even get to first.

Willie Aames, ex-"Eight Is Enough" star, is partnered in Keep Working Kid Inc. Paul Williams and his partner are Tugboat Productions since, Williams says, "everybody else is thinking big so I decided to think small."

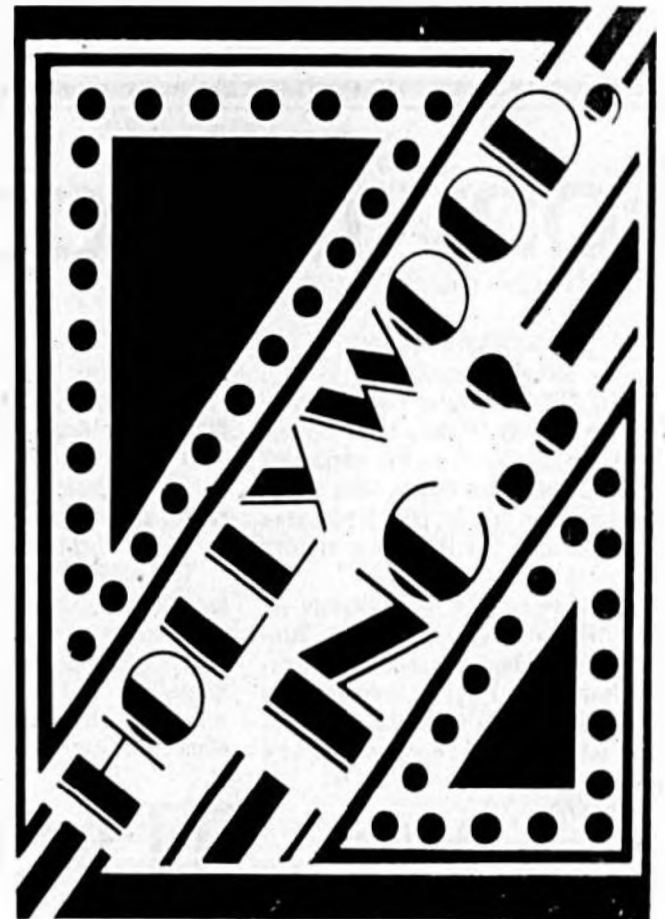

Bo Derek and her husband, John Derek, are incorporated as Svengall Inc., a reference to the frequent charge that Derek is a Svengall to Bo and her career.

Animals are often the source of corporate names. Werner Klemperer is Babka Inc., after a dog he had as a boy. Karen Grassle is Clownfish Inc. Shelley Duvall is Platypus Inc., and explains that she loves animals "but armadillo and aardvark were already taken."

Other names are exotic. Richard Thomas is Melpomene Inc., after the Greek muse of tragedy. Georg Stanford Brown has two — Nexus (a Latin word for "joining") and Ptah (an Egyptian deity.) Henry Winkler picked an Australian slang expression, Fair Dinkum, which means a good guy.

Gavin MacLeod is Persun Inc., and says "I just can't spell very well." Danny DeVito of "Taxi" is New Street Productions, and explains that he grew up on New Street back in Asbury Park, N.J. Leslie Easterbrook of "Laverne and Shirley" is McCadden Place Productions and says that, no, she didn't ever live on McCadden Place, but that's where she spent a lot of time, because the Unemployment Office is there.

There are many, many more. But you get the general idea. And that's a great name for a company — General Idea Inc.

New Heart Pump Unveiled

TAMPA (UPI) — Two medical researchers unveiled a magnetic heart assist pump Wednesday they said could be implanted into the chest of a patient, leaving him fully mobile.

Surgeon Michael D. Yarnoz and biophysicist Stephen G. Covacs of the University of South Florida Medical School said the heart device is still two years away from being implanted into animals and five to seven years away from being ready for human use.

Research on the pump — called MALVD for Magnetic Advanced Left Ventricle Device — is being funded by a Veterans Administration grant, the researchers said.

Yarnoz said the concept of the device differs from others under development because the pump has no moving parts, unlike electric pumps.

The MALVD pump, the researchers said, operates off a battery pack that sends electrical impulses, setting up an electrical field that activates the electro-magnet and forces the diaphragm to move forward and backward.

The researchers said the pump, which will weigh less than a pound, will duplicate the action of the human heart, pumping six liters of blood per minute while the patient is at rest and 10 liters when he is exercising.

The Future Is Now In Florida

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Author John Naisbitt says Florida may become the country's "number one state" and leader in its transformation from an industrial economy to a computer-based one.

"California is slipping and there is a great opportunity for Florida to be the number one state in this country, the bellwether," the Washington-based writer and planner said Tuesday. "We can see much of the future by looking at the present in Florida."

He met with Gov. Bob Graham and the six Cabinet members Tuesday in the beginning of a series of monthly luncheon conferences between high-level state officials and noted intellectuals.

Naisbitt is the author of "Megatrends," a best-seller in which he contends the country is shifting from an industrial economy to "an electronic, information economy" and the transformation will be as dramatic as the shift from an agricultural-based economy to an industrial one 150 years ago.

Texas, California and other states in the southwestern quadrant and Florida will lead this development of a new economy and, essentially, a new country, Naisbitt contends.

And his message to Florida's major elected officials Tuesday was that their state could be the leader.

Conventional industry, including automobile manufacturing and steel production, is on its way out, Naisbitt said, and Florida no longer should recruit old-style industrial firms.

It should concentrate, instead, on the new high technology firms, like the computer companies that have huddled near San Francisco in California's "Silicon Valley."

Florida has an advantage in the competition for this new type of industry over other states because of its high "quality of life," which now is more important than the requirements of conventional industry like roads and water.

It should fight to protect and improve this quality by curbing crime and increasing the level of its colleges, universities and schools.

"These new companies we're creating now, we can put them anywhere, so we look not for the infrastructure, but for the quality of life, the ambience," Naisbitt said.

While it has an advantage over other states, it has some peculiar problems and the rest of the country will be watching to see how it deals with them.

Don't Frighten The Horses

Judith Martin Minds Your Manners

NEW YORK (NEA) — Call her a response to the Me Decade.

"There's been a tremendous lack of consideration in the name of self-assertiveness and honesty," says Judith Martin. "If I asked you how I looked and you said 'awful,' you'd then congratulate yourself for being so honest. A lot of this honesty has simply been an excuse for bad behavior."

She carefully crosses her legs and continues. "People have tried all of that and they don't like it. They thought they could do without kindness, and they were wrong. That's why they're rediscovering manners."

And discovering Judith Martin, a gracious, 43-year-old Washington Post drama and film critic who is never without her white gloves and her tart wit. The daughter of a diplomat, she realized two key things about herself a few years back.

1) She was tired of being insulted by sales clerks;

2) She was the only person at the Post who knew the correct thing to wear to an afternoon wedding.

And so Miss Manners, arbiter of correct behavior, was born. As Miss Manners, Judith Martin pens a wickedly funny Q & A etiquette column that is syndicated thrice-weekly to 70 newspapers. Her columns have just been compiled in a handsome, 745-page hardcover volume, "Miss Manners' Guide to Excruciatingly Correct Behavior" (Atheneum) that has set off a tasteful zoom in her popularity.

She is on the verge of becoming a household name — the new Amy Vanderbilt, if you will. But with a decided difference.

Her book does cover the standard reference volume queries about forks and fingerbowl and wedding invitations. What makes her a breath of fresh air in the manners biz is her wit (when asked by a Gentle Reader the proper way to walk in high-heeled shoes she replies, "Left, right, left, right") and her willingness to chart new social waters.

Times have changed. Gentle Readers these days have etiquette questions about everything from living together to one-night-stands to homosexuality. Miss Manners is ready with the answers.

"Where there are rules, I know them," she says. "Where there aren't rules, I make them up. Manners are evolutionary, like language. I don't legislate morality. Do what you have to do, I say, just so long as you do it gracefully and don't frighten the horses in the street."

"Actually, the question I'm asked most often is why we need etiquette at all. My reply is so we won't kill each other. To me, etiquette is any interaction between human beings. Americans sometimes confuse it with snootiness. Far from it. Snootiness is bad manners."

Miss Martin calls this a terrific time to be a manners professional. "Manners are at their very best during times of great social upheaval. There is a sense of chaos right now. In the past, middle-class husband earned the living, middle-class wife handled the social life. Now, both men and women work. But business manners for women hardly existed before, or manners for men at home.

"You see, no matter how much we evolve, someone still has to go through the door first. Since the Middle Ages, the strong have yielded to the weak. Nobody wants to be defined as weak today. Women don't want to be defined as weak. The disabled don't want to. I'm afraid we're sticking the old folks with it.

Judith Martin, author of "Miss Manners' Guide to Excruciatingly Correct Behavior," believes good manners are essential. "No matter how much we evolve, someone still has to go through the door first."

"The result is you have a situation where a young woman gives up her seat on the bus to an old man, who then shoots her a dirty look. There has never been such a period for the inadvertent insult."

With her Washington base, Miss Martin is a much respected, much feared critic of White House ceremony. She was not high on the Carters. "Excessive informality can be just as bad as snootiness," she says. "Carter didn't use his formal first name when he was sworn in. He insisted on carrying his own suitcase getting on and off planes. That's a case of trying to do something you're not. He was the president, and people wanted him to uphold the dignity of the office. The state dinners were quite nice though."

The Reagans? "They're struggling along. They implied they were going to bring formality back, but they still haven't had a single white-tie state dinner. They're probably allergic to the smell of mothballs."

Miss Martin, who was raised in several world capitals and has been a lover of old etiquette books and 19th-century novels since her childhood, is married to a genetics researcher. They have two children, age 11 and 16. Two very well-behaved children.

"A woman once asked my daughter whether she had to be polite at home and my little girl looked up at her and said 'You bet your Aunt Fanny I do.' My children have been required from birth to behave themselves. I like good manners, and I don't believe in just having them when you're in public. I believe manners are more important in the home than out of it. You should be polite to those you love."

Miss Martin admits that becoming a heavyweight etiquette expert has one big drawback — she can't help but make people uncomfortable.

"Strangers do make remarks to me as if I'm an etiquette meter maid who gives out tickets. Sometimes when I go to lunch with someone I think I should just dump a bowl of soup on my lap right away to make them feel at ease. But I don't. The cleaning bills are too high."

Want To Save Big On Your Mortgage?

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A Jacksonville businessman is selling computer printouts that show how much a homeowner can save in interest on his mortgage loan if he "accelerates" his monthly payments.

For instance, for $50 a month above the regular mortgage payment a homeowner can save $91,500 in repaying a $50,000, 30-year mortgage at 15 percent interest, says Robert B. Norris.

Norris, 47, is the founder of Accelerated Mortgage Payoff System, which markets computerized payment schedules for homeowners.

"All you have to do is not go out once a month, apply the $50 you would spend on that evening out to the outstanding principal of your existing mortgage on a regular basis, and you would be surprised how much money you can save," Norris said.

On the mythical $50,000 mortgage, Norris said, a homeowner actually would pay the mortgage company $227,613 over the 30-year term. That does not include the down payment, closing costs or taxes and insurance.

Of that amount, $177,613 is interest. By kicking in an extra $50 a month with each payment, the interest payment would be reduced to $86,112.

"Simply put, these accelerated amortization schedules call for extra payments of $50 monthly, or whatever amount you can handle with no great strain," Norris said. "This money is applied directly to your principal balance, each time trimming just about one full payment off the end of your mortgage."

Norris said it is not necessary to rewrite the original mortgage, and what he is doing — encouraging people to pay off their mortgage loans early — is perfectly legal.

"Mortgage lenders cannot deny your right to speed up retirement of your home loan," he said. "They cannot refuse legally to accept any extra payment to the principal of any loan at any time. That is the law."

Norris charges $10 for the first schedule and $7 for each additional one. Some people want schedules for different additional monthly payments — $25, $50, or maybe $100 — for purposes of comparison.

All he needs from the homeowner to print out the schedules are the interest rate of the existing mortgage, the original amount and the total number of payments, the date of the first payment on the original loan and the monthly payment (principal and interest only), the specific date the last payment was made and the balance of the original mortgage after the last payment was made.

The computer does the rest, he said.

10 Worst Dressed Women Are...

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — One of the world's 10 worst-dressed women is a man. Dustin "Tootsie" Hoffman made fashion history by becoming the first man named to the list.

Hoffman, who crossed the fashion line by playing a woman named Dorothy Michaels in the film "Tootsie," shared his No. 10 spot on the annual list of Mr. Blackwell with Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire, who resembles the film character.

Blackwell called the pair "look alikes ... wearing Betsy Bloomingdale discards."

Princess Diana topped the list and drew a typical Blackwell barb — "Sby Di has invaded Queen Victoria's attic!"

The list of worst dressers included Bonnie

Franklin, star of television's "One Day at a Time;" Victoria Principal of "Dallas;" singer Bette Midler; Charlene Tilton of "Dallas;" Greek shipping heiress Christine Onassis; Princess Jasmine Khan; golfer Jan Stephenson, and actress Cathy Lee Crosby of "That's Incredible."

Blackwell described Miss Principal as a "Dallas Valley girl," and stung Miss Tilton as "a Victorian lampshade holding her breath."

Miss Crosby's wardrobe "looks as if she bought out a rummage sale, wore it all and ... that's incredible," the designer said.

The designer claimed first lady Nancy Reagan committed the "fashion flop" of the year by appearing in public last year wearing knickers.

Fonville Factor Just Enough To Stop Raiders

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor

LAKE CITY — Lester Fonville, Lake City Community College's 7-3 center, isn't yet a big factor on the basketball court. But the Mount Bayou, Miss. freshman, did make one big play Wednesday night against Seminole Community College.

Fonville rejected a layup attempt by SCC's Ricky Sutton with the Timberwolves holding a diminishing four-point lead with 1:30 to play to preserve an eventual 87-77 victory over the Raiders in Mid-Florida Conference basketball

"Lester's only 19 and he came from a very, very small high school where he didn't have much competition," said Lake City coach Joe Fields about his long-armed prospect. "This was just his second college game, but he's a factor inside the lane."

"That block he made late — and I can see where they (the Raiders) might have questioned it — was a big one. Lester causes problems. He helped us late in the game."

Fonville, who scored just three points, pinned the shot on the backboard. SCC

J.C. Basketball

coach Bill Payne felt the ball was coming down — thus goaltending. "I thought we had a goaltend there which they (the referees) didn't call," he said. "But our shooting percentage (36 percent) was terrible. If we'd shot the ball anywhere decent, we could have won this game."

But the Raiders didn't as the 29 of 80 field-goal inaccuracy will attest, although they got off 22 more shots than Lake City. The Timberwolves, ranked

No. 1 in Florida and No. 11 in the nation, hit 32 of 58 for 55 percent. The Timberwolves are 16-2.

SCC, 11-7, evened its record at 1-1 in the conference (Lake City is 2-0). The Raiders host Central Florida Community College from Ocala Saturday at 7:30 p.m. A free throw contest, with the county mayors toeing the line, will be featured at halftime.

Free throws, incidentally, were a factor Wednesday night. SCC hit 15 of 22 in the first 20 minutes to stay close, 37-33, at halftime while the Wolves converted just 3 of 7.

In the second 20 minutes, however, it was quite the opposite as the Timberwolves converted 18 of 23 down the stretch and SCC hit 3 of 5. The Raiders never reached one-and-one.

Lake City opened with a very tough 2-1-2 zone defense which forced SCC's guards to fire away from the outside. The results were disastrous as the Timberwolves jumped to a 27-14 lead with seven minutes to play.

"If we could have hit anything from the outside we could have won this game," re-emphasized Payne. For the game, Sutton hit 5 of 18, Whitney was 2 of 12 and Jimmy Patyon connected on 1 of 8. Combined, the guards hit just 8 of 38 shots. Payton's was a three-pointer.

Seminole came back on rebound buckets by Bernard Merthie and Delvin Everett and two free throws by Payton with 34 seconds left to pull within 35-33 but a travel against Whitney and a basket by sharpshooter Tony Eady put Lake City up by four at halftime.

SCC hit just 9 of 33 (27 percent) in the first 20 minutes to 17 of 31 (55 percent) for Lake City. Eady, a deadeye left-hander, hit 10 points and freshman Donald

Martin Chortles Over Big Money

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first thing Billy Martin and George Steinbrenner had to get straight between them was the contract.

"That was done and Martin won." "I wound up getting more money again," he chortled. "I've got a great contract. A lotta money."

Then they had to settle the ground rules and, as an old hand Martin knew how perilous a journey this could turn out to be.

He wanted to find out at the very beginning, right at the top of the show, how much interference he could expect from Steinbrenner if he agreed to manage the New York Yankees again following a pair of previous hitches he never got to finish.

Steinbrenner looked Martin straight in the eye and gave him the answer. It was such a beautiful answer — the answer he was hoping for.

"I'll come into the clubhouse and talk to the players only in spring training," Steinbrenner said to Martin. "And only once more at the All-Star break because I want the players to know where I'm coming from. That'll be it, though. I promise you."

Promises, promises. The first time Martin was hired to manage the Yankees, replacing Bill Virdon on Aug. 1, 1975, he lasted 2½ seasons. The second time, taking over for Bob Lemon on June 19, 1979, he kept it only four months.

How long he will endure this time is anyone's guess although Steinbrenner added two years to the three unexpired ones Martin had when the Oakland A's let him go this past Oct. 20, so theoretically Martin can manage the Yankees through 1987.

Depending on who you listen to since neither Steinbrenner nor Martin would talk about the money he's getting, Billy will be paid at least $350,000 a year by the Yankees and with what he'll settle for with the A's, his gross will be considerably more. No matter what, now he'll have enough to pay his taxes.

Tuesday, in one of the huge rooms at Yankee Stadium, Steinbrenner, Martin and Billy's friend and agent, Judge Eddie Sapir, all were on hand for the rehiring announcement.

It took less than two minutes for Steinbrenner and Martin to start arguing again after the Yankee owner said how glad he was to have Martin back and how he hoped he'd finish up with the Yankees this time.

"It's a pleasure to be back," Martin said, acknowledging Steinbrenner's warm introduction. "This is where I started and this is where I'd like to finish. We've straightened out a lotta things. For instance, I'll be handling all the trades."

Sitting nearby, Steinbrenner suddenly leaped up.

"Whadd'ya mean?" he insisted sharply. "There'll be no phone calls in the dugout," Martin sought to ignore him. "Whadd'ya mean?" Steinbrenner demanded to know again, getting hotter by the minute. "That's not right. I'm handling the trades."

"That's not the way it's gonna be, George," Martin said, evenly.

"Damn right, it is," Steinbrenner snapped. "And if you don't like it, you're fired!"

It was all in fun, of course, choreographed by them beforehand and then staged for the benefit of the assembled media.

Beyond question, Billy Martin is wiser now than he was when he took over the Yankees' managerial job the first time.

Martin sounded a lot more conciliatory than he had before — "I'm not gonna say mine will be the final opinion." Maybe that was because Steinbrenner was showing so much good-will, too.

"Billy and I are going to deal more directly than we did in the past," Steinbrenner said and Martin agreed.

U.N.C.-Asheville Turns Back SCC

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Nobody expected the Seminole Community College Lady Raiders to upset Division II NCAA power North Carolina-Asheville Wednesday night, and they didn't. But, had it not been for foul trouble late in the second half, SCC might have pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the year.

The Lady Raiders stayed within one point, 38-37, of UNCA at the end of the first half and even took the lead at one point in the second half. But, when point guard Munday Patrick fouled out, SCC lost its quarterback and wound up dropping a 69-65 decision to UNCA at SCC.

"It was a pretty good game despite the loss," SCC coach Solomon Batson said. "Just for a junior college to stick with a Division II team like UNCA is good."

Sanford's Cathy Jones poured in 23 points to lead the Raiders, whose record fell to 6-8, Valerie Roessler added 16 and Patrick tossed in 14.

UNCA, 11-2, was aided by the efforts of 6-3 Sheila Ford. Ford is the leading rebounder in the nation (Division I and

J.C. Basketball

II) and went into Wednesday night's game averaging 20 boards per outing. Against the Raiders, Ford owned the boards with a game-high 24 rebounds and she chipped in 15 points.

SCC was in the game all the way, but foul trouble in the second half took some of the Raiders' strength away. Both Patrick and Katrina Andersson were in foul trouble much of the second half.

"After we lost Mindy to fouls we broke down up front," Batson said. "Mindy is the team's quarterback and when we lost her, it caused us a lot of problems."

Black Colleges Not Angry, Says Byers

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The executive director of the NCAA has denied reports that mostly black colleges were angered by new rules requiring higher academic standards for student-athletes.

"Since yesterday I have talked to six or seven leaders of predominantly black institutions and none of them has said anything to me," Walter Byers said after the NCAA convention adjourned Wednesday.

"The decisions made on the floor were made by the delegates," Byers said. "There was a full exchange of views. It was conducted in a most orderly manner and I don't know anything about relationships that have been breached."

Byers said he knew more black conventioners than the reporters and said he did not sense "friction and animosity."

Black educators Tuesday told reporters in the lobby of the San Diego Convention Hall where the NCAA annual convention was held this week, they would consider pulling their schools out of the NCAA.

Oak Ridge Upsets Ram With 5 Pins

The last thing Lake Mary wrestling coach Frank Schwartz had in mind Wednesday night was his Rams losing to Oak Ridge.

After all, the Rams were sailing along with a 6-1 record and the hapless Pioneers had yet to win in six grappling contests.

Five Oak Ridge pins later, however, Lake Mary was looking up from the short end of a 35-30 decision which gave the exuberant Pioneers their first win of the season at Lake Mary.

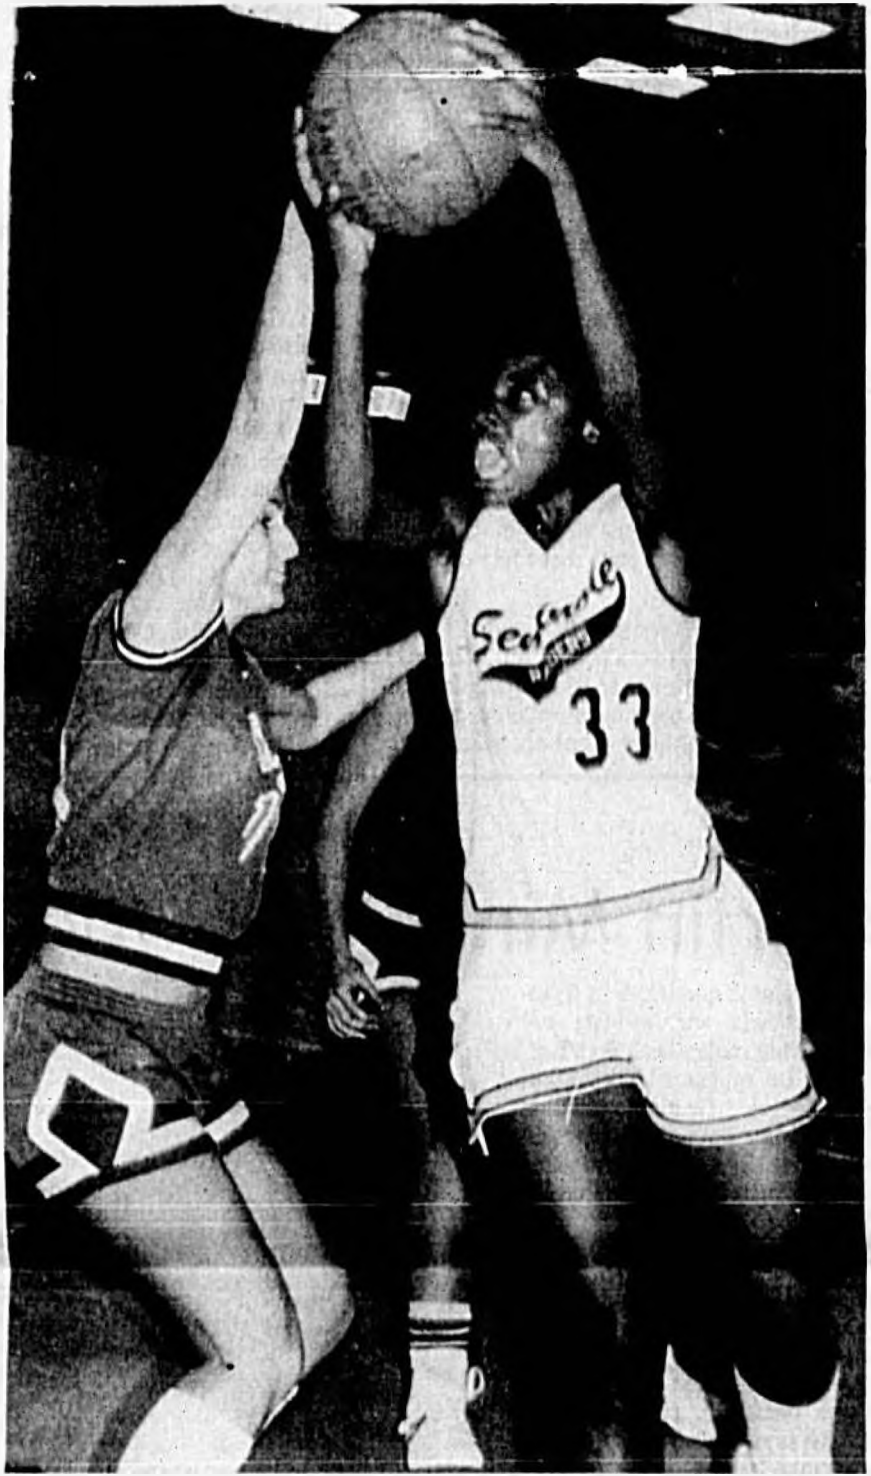

"They were 0-6," repeated Schwartz in disbelief. "But we had five guys get pinned and there's no way you should win a match when five guys get pinned. We're really going to have to work on fighting out of a pin. When some of these kids get on their back, they quit."

Schwartz also got fooled at 101 pounds. "They'd been forfeiting that class all year," he said. "But they surprised us. They sucked somebody down."

The result was Cedric Wilson sticking substitute Joe Johnson in 55 seconds. Ivan Carbia, who has been having trouble making 101, wrestled up and lost, 8-6, to Steve Farrell at 108.

Trailing, 21-9, Lake Mary junior Bob Olson (141) squashed Doug Vershum in 3:53, but Mark Lindquist (148) and Brent Blakely both lost by pins to swell the Pioneer lead to 33-15.

Lake Mary rallied in the upper weights as Willie Green (170) decisioned John Mallard, 6-5, and Ned Kilbjornsen (189) battled tough Eric Emerson to a 4-4 deadlock.

Ed Ades (221) wiped out Ray Thomas, 11-3, and Robert Rawls (UNL) stuck Cliff Mosley in just 29 seconds, but the Rams still came up five points short. It was Rawls' 11th pin in 14 wins. The 6-9, 320-pound junior has lost just once.

"Our four upper weights came through," said Schwartz. "We're just not powerful enough to overcome two people (Carbia up a weight and Jeff Farmer (135) out with flu) being out of the lineup."

47-0 Panthers Host Vanguard

The Crooms Panthers had little trouble disposing of Lake Howell's freshmen Wednesday night as the Panthers breezed to its 12th straight victory this season and 47th straight over the past three years.

Robert Hill poured in all of his game-high 18 points in the first half as the Panthers ran up an 18-4 lead after the first quarter and a 36-12 halftime advantage.

Mike Wright added 13 points and Daryl Williams tossed in eight for Crooms. Hill and Alan Mitchell pulled down 10 rebounds apiece and Williams handed out 11 assists.

Once Crooms was in command, coach John McNamara was able to clear his bench as 12 players scored for the Panthers.

Tonight at 6:30 at Seminole Community College, the Panthers go up against Ocala Vanguard in what should be a tough test for Crooms. Vanguard was the last team to beat the Panthers but that was back in 1981. Crooms has already beaten Vanguard once this season in a game played in Ocala. CROOMS (63)

Tonight Wrestling

The junior varsity wrestlers take their spot in the limelight tonight when Seminole High hosts the 4th Annual Seminole County Junior Varsity Wrestling Tournament. Weighins will take place from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. with action beginning at 5 p.m. Lake Brantley is the defending champion after unseating two time tournament winner Lyman. The Greengrunds, however, placed second in the College Park Junior Varsity Tournament in December and loom as the favorite.

7 p.m. Seminole girls at Apopka
The Lady Seminoles were upset by Lake Brantley Monday night while Apopka was busy upsetting Lake Mary. The last time these two teams collided, Seminole routed the Lady Blue Darters. Seminole starters include Mona Benton and Arlene Jones at the guards, Maxine and Patricia Campbell or Genevieve Stallworth at forward and Dieder Hillery is the center.

6:15 p.m. Lake Brantley girls at Lake Mary
The impressive play of Rhonda Vazquez has the Lady Patriots playing well while the Lady Rams are looking to pull themselves up out of a slump.

For the Rams, Laura and Peggy Glass have been consistent all year both offensively and on the boards. Michelle Swartz has been playing well lately and Lisa Gregory runs the show at point guard. Kim Cavill is the other guard and is looking to fish out an end for 15 shooting drought against Apopka. Courtney Hill, Andrea Fenning and Andrea Johnson are strong off the bench while Liz Stone is the Rams best free throw shooter.

For Brantley, Linda Trimble and Kara Pritchett join Vazquez inside while Linda Nunez and Michelle Brown are the guards. Sherry Aspin, a freshman sharpshooter, had 10 points against Seminole.

8 p.m. Lake Brantley boys at Lake Mary
This should be an interesting matchup. Brantley has strength inside with high scoring 6-4 Paul Hily Rams are looking to pull themselves up out of a slump. The Patriots may have a slim advantage underneath but Lake Mary is faster. Joining Miller and Merthie in the starting lineup are Reggie Medlock, Jeff Reynolds and Donald Grayson. Bobby Counts and Chris Jackson and Billy Dunn provide strength off the bench.

For Brantley, Mike Evans, Mike Garriques, Mark Shorey, Dennis Groseclose and Eric Trombo bolster the lineup.

6:30 p.m. Ocala Vanguard vs. Crooms at Seminole Community College
Ocala Vanguard was the last team to beat Crooms, but that was back in the early going of the 1981 season. The Panthers, 12-0, this season and winners of 46 straight, have already beaten Ocala Vanguard once this season.

Crooms starters include Daryl Williams, Alvin Jones, Mike Wright, Melvin Brinson and Robert Hill.

Robinson, Marichal Enter Hall Of Fame; Killebrew Comes Up Short

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two of the most stylish players of the modern era reacted to baseball's most cherished honor Wednesday ... with style.

Brooks Robinson, a clutch hitter who earned his All-Star reputation primarily with a magic glove at third base, and Juan Marichal, a high-kicking righthander with more pitches than a traveling salesman, were elected to the Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Marichal, who spent 14 of his 16 big league seasons with the San Francisco Giants, received 313 votes (83.6 percent) to become the first player from the Dominican Republic to gain admittance to the Cooperstown, N.Y., shrine. For the six-time, 20-game winner who posted 243 career victories, the third time proved happen to you as a player," said Robinson, who attended the news conference with his wife, Connie. "So many of the players in the Hall of Fame were idols of mine growing up in Little Rock. When I thought about the Hall of Fame I thought it was unattainable."

The two men will be officially enshrined at ceremonies at Cooperstown on July 31.

Sluggo Harmon Killebrew missed election by only 12 votes. Minnesota's muscular third baseman received 269 votes and was followed, in order, by shortstop Luis Aparicio (252), relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm (243), pitcher Don Drysdale (242) and first baseman Gil Hodges (237). It was Hodges' final year on the ballot.

Marichal made the Hall of Fame despite having pitched only four innings in World Series competition (1962) and never having won the National League's prestigious Cy Young Award. He did, however, pitch a no-hitter in 1963 and his lifetime 2.89 ERA ranks No. 7 in baseball history.

A winner of 16 Gold Gloves for defensive excellence during his illustrious career, Robinson said he felt his election was a boost for defensive players.

Although he accumulated 2,848 hits, including 268 homers, and was named the Most Valuable Player in the American League (1964), in an All-Star Game (1966) and in the World Series (1970), Robinson said the most memorable moment of his career was appearing in his first World Series game in 1966.

happen to you as a player," said Robinson, who attended the news conference with his wife, Connie. "So many of the players in the Hall of Fame were idols of mine growing up in Little Rock. When I thought about the Hall of Fame I thought it was unattainable."

The two men will be officially enshrined at ceremonies at Cooperstown on July 31.

Sluggo Harmon Killebrew missed election by only 12 votes. Minnesota's muscular third baseman received 269 votes and was followed, in order, by shortstop Luis Aparicio (252), relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm (243), pitcher Don Drysdale (242) and first baseman Gil Hodges (237). It was Hodges' final year on the ballot.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Wire-To-Wire Action Spices Inter-County Cage Play

The Inter-County Basketball Association opened its inaugural season with 10 games this past weekend with six of the games going to the wire.

Katie Jacobs tossed in a layup at the buzzer to give the Jackson Heights Terrors a 28-27 victory over the Tuskawilla Mighty Warriors. Suzanne Hughes led the Terrors with 12 points while Joyce Shaw paced the Warriors with 17 and Robin Bell added 10.

In other girls action, the South Seminole Kittens squeezed by the Jackson Heights Lone Strangers, 15-13. Malorie Osgood had six points for the Kittens while Karla Karpinka led the Strangers with five.

In varsity (8th grade) boys play, the South Seminole Bobcats hammered the Altamonte All-American Rebels, 64-28. Vince Florence led four South Seminole players in double figures with 18 points, Oscar Wilder tossed in 16, Darryl Reliford 14 and Phil Florence 12. Ryan Lisle had 10 points for the Rebels.

The Jackson Heights Pac-men slipped past Winter Park, 49-38, as Randy Ferguson and Rob Hughes pumped in 16 points apiece. The Jackson Heights Orange Pickers edged the Eastmont Greyhounds, 35-34. Glen Reichle led the Orange Pickers with 11 points while Henry Oxford had 21 for Eastmont.

The Tuskawilla Black Knights were upended by the Eatonville 76'ers, 41-40. Brian McKnight was impressive for the Knights with 29 points.

In junior varsity action (6-7th grade), the South Seminole Tomcats outmaneuvered the Jackson Heights Bobcats, 34-25. Mike Sandeman led the Tomcats with eight points while John Flath, Danny Rubin and Eugene Rivers had six points apiece.

The Jackson Heights Bruins got a pair of baskets in the closing seconds to claim a 37-32 victory over the Tuskawilla Lakers. Garth Bolton poured in 17 points for the Bruins while the Lakers were led by Eric Gammons and Gary Peterson with 10 points apiece. Jeff Pantalamen scored 10 points and Robbie King added six to lead the Jackson Heights Dirty Dozen over the Eastmont Greyhounds, 20-17. The Tuskawilla Celtics tripped the Eatonville 76'ers, 32-28 behind Tim Lamoureux' 18 points.

Coeffield's 18 Boost Tip Top

Bobby Coeffield poured in 18 points, 14 in the second half, to lead Tip Top Supermarket to a 38-28 victory over McCoy's Cleaners Wednesday night in Sanford Recreation Department Junior League basketball action at Westside Center.

Dwight Brinson's nine first-half points lifted McCoy's to a 20-12 lead at halftime but McCoy's held to just eight points the entire second half. Brinson finished with 13 points.

Oilers Blast Chicago, 10-4

The Chicago Black Hawks got jolted twice Wednesday night — they lost to the visiting Edmonton Oilers, 10-4, then were blasted by Coach Orval Tessier. "A few heads are going to roll and we're going to make some line changes," Tessier said, discounting his team's 27-11-6 record. "They've been enjoying the good life (and) I've been a little too easy on them. That's going to stop."

Edmonton didn't know when to stop. Pat Hughes, who scored two short-handed goals in a 25-second span against St. Louis Tuesday night, tallied twice in a five-goal first period and Wayne Gretzky added two goals and an assist to offset a hat trick by Chicago's Tom Lysiak.

Paul Coffey added a pair of goals for the Oilers, who notched the most goals against Chicago since Nov. 26, 1980, when the Oilers beat Chicago, 10-3.

In other games, Buffalo edged Quebec, 2-1, Winnipeg and the New York Rangers played to a 5-5 tie, Minnesota blanked Pittsburgh, 7-0, Boston dropped Toronto, 6-4, and Calgary defeated Vancouver, 6-4.

Tripucka Guns Down Bullets

To Kelly Tripucka, the Silverdome seemed more like the Twilight Zone.

"It was strange; it seemed like a new surrounding," said Tripucka who scored 25 points Wednesday night, in his first game since Nov. 24, to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 116-100 triumph over the Washington Bullets.

Tripucka, who strained ligaments in his right knee and missed 23 games, hit 11-of-18 shots, including a seven-point spree late in the third quarter that gave the Pistons an 86-70 advantage.

Sixers 122, Bucks 121
At Philadelphia, Marc Iavaroni scored a season-best 19 points, including two free throws with five seconds left, to carry the 76ers to their ninth straight triumph. Celtics 139, Warriors 117

At Boston, Danny Alinge and Quinn Buckner scored 10 points apiece in the third quarter as the Celtics cracked it open to win their sixth consecutive game. Nets 120, Pacers 116

At Indianapolis, New Jersey, led by Albert King's 21 points, won its 11th game in a row. Bulls 86, Cavaliers 86

At Richfield, Ohio, Reggie Theus scored 16 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter, including two free throws with eight seconds left, to help Chicago snap a three-game losing streak. Mavericks 112, Clippers 110

At Dallas, Mark Aguirre, who finished with 35 points, tied the game, then connected on a 23-footer with four seconds left as the Mavericks won for only the third time in their last 15 games. Kings 118, Spurs 113

At Kansas City, Mo., the Kings moved into first place in the Midwest Division as Steve Johnson led the way with 23 points. Nuggets 128, Jazz 118

At Denver, Kiki Vandeweghe hit 15-of-20 shots for 30 points to spark Denver. Darrell Griffith led Utah with 22.

Martina Hammers Bondar

HOUSTON (UPI) — At ease despite the burden of carrying the label of No. 1 tennis player in the world, Martina Navratilova began a new $150,000 women's circuit tournament as she ended the last one.

Blasting 17-year-old Lisa Bondar 6-0, 6-2, Wednesday, Navratilova, of Dallas, advanced to the second round as effortlessly as she dispatched Sylvia Hanika on Monday for the Washington, D.C., title.

Sampson's 33 Too Much

United Press International
North Carolina State, making the most of the Atlantic Coast Conference's 19-foot, 3-point bonus shot this year, struck for 10 of them against Virginia Wednesday night.

It was not enough. No. 2 Virginia, behind Ralph Sampson's 33 points (14-of-23 shooting) and 21 rebounds, rallied to an 88-80 victory in Raleigh over No. 19 North Carolina State. The Cavaliers, trailing, 50-34, in the first half, were nearly buried by the Wolfpack's Dereck Whittenburg and Thurl Bailey.

"The key was the defensive effort on Whittenburg and Bailey in the second half," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "Obviously, we began by playing them tough defensively."

Whittenburg scored 27 points, all in the first half, and led the 3-point parade with seven. Virginia failed to hit a 3-point shot. Thurl Bailey had 25 points, hitting 11-of-18 shots.

Whittenburg left the game with 15:24 remaining when he broke his right ankle. There was no immediate word on how long he will be sidelined. However, Dr. Don Heibel, the team's physician, said such injuries take "a long time to heal."

College Basketball

A layup and foul shot by Ricky Stokes with 5:47 to go put the Cavaliers up, 78-76. Ernie Myers tied it 10 seconds later on goal-tending by Sampson but the All-America center stuffed a shot a half minute later to give Virginia a lead it never lost.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, it was: No. 8 Louisville 91, Duke 78; No. 11 North Carolina 72, Maryland 71; No. 13 Houston 54, Texas Christian 51; No. 15 Missouri 91, Northern Iowa 62; Michigan 63, No. 16 Minnesota 58; and No. 17 Villanova 66, Pittsburgh 48.

At Durham, N.C., Louisville rolled to its 12th victory in 14 games behind 21 points by Milt Wagner and 16 by Lancaster Gordon.

At Chapel Hill, N.C., Jim Braddock sank a 3-point field goal with nine seconds left as North Carolina won its Atlantic Coast Conference opener.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., Leslie Rockynore scored 15 points and Michigan surged from a 9-point deficit in the second half to surprise Minnesota in a Big Ten game.

...Fonville Factor Just Enough

Johnson had eight. Luis Phelps hit 10 for SCC and Everett had seven.

The Timberwolves opened with a man-to-man defense in the second half and Phelps, a 6-6 freshman, immediately went to work inside. His turnaround jumper at 17:02 tied the game at 31 all.

Six minutes later another Phelps' jump shot gave the Raiders their only lead of the night, 54-53. At that juncture, Fields called off his man-to-man defense.

"Phelps is a good athlete and they were lobbing the ball to him," said Fields. "So we really started concentrating on him and putting more heat on the guards."

The strategy paid off as Phelps scored just six points the rest of the way and none in the last five minutes. "We had trouble getting Luis the ball," said Payne about Lake City's 2-1-2 shadow defense. "But he has trouble wanting the ball. He doesn't want the ball hard enough. I think the guards and forwards are looking to get him the ball but Luis is not working hard enough to get it."

A rebound basket by Everett at 1:35 pulled SCC within 79-75 but Fonville's block and five straight points by Ulyen Coleman put the game out of reach.

Phelps hit 8 of 15 field goals and 4 of 6 free throws to lead all scorers with 22 points.

Everett tossed in 13 and Sutton had 12. SCC outrebounded the taller 1-6-5, 6-6, 7-31 Timberwolves, who played without floor leader Willie Lawton (injury) of Oak Ridge High, by a 43-35 margin. Phelps and Everett each had 10. Whitney had a good night passing the ball with seven assists. Payton had five.

Coleman and Donald Johnson each tallied 19 for the Wolves. Herb Washington, a swift point guard who shredded SCC's press in the last seven minutes, contributed 18 while Eady had 14.

"I'm not upset," said Payne about the near miss. "The kids came up here and did a good job. I think we ran out of gas at the end." SCC (77)

Everett 5-12-3-4 13, Sutton 5-18 2-4 12, Phelps 9-15 4-6 22, Whitney 2-12 3-4 7, Payton 1-8 4-6 7, Merthie 3-4 0-0 6, Gallagher 1-3 0-0 2, Smith 3-8 2-3 8. Totals: 29-80 18-77.

Police: Bombings May Be A New Wave Of Terrorism

MIAMI (UPI) — Two bombs which exploded in Little Havana businesses may be the start of a new wave of anti-Castro terrorism in Miami, according to police investigators.

Omega 7, an international militant anti-Castro organization, claimed responsibility Wednesday for planting the two bombs and for a third device which failed to explode at a Spanish-language magazine.

No one was hurt by the explosions, which ripped through the offices of Paradise International Travel Agency and the Padron Cigars factory just before midnight Tuesday.

An apparently authentic message from Omega 7, delivered to a Spanish-language radio station, warned the Justice Department and the FBI to back off from an investigation into the group's activities.

$50 Dock Tax Opposed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Department of Natural Resources wants to collect a $50 one-time tax on the 6,000 private docks built over state-owned waters and that has created an uproar.

It is part of a plan prepared by the Cabinet's Marina Committee which consisted of marine industry representatives, government officials and environmentalists.

The plan, which goes before the Cabinet next Tuesday, also includes a reduction in the annual licensing fee for most commercial marinas and a $200 one-time registration fee for commercial docks that don't pay a licensing fee because they were "grandfathered in" when the fees were established in 1970.

Shark Watch Still On

HALLANDALE (UPI) — The beaches abutting the tourist bungalows of Hallandale will be off limits to bathers for a third day if police helicopters spot any further sign of hundreds of blacktip sharks lurking off the coast.

Following reports that as many as 500 sharks were still hovering nearby Wednesday, beach patrol officials kept swimmers from entering the waters for a second day.

In nearby Hollywood Beach, however, lifeguards lifted their swimming ban Wednesday after searching the waters in skills for the dreaded predators.

U.S. Compromise Debated At Troop Pullout Talks

United Press International

Lebanese, Israeli and U.S. negotiators meeting for the sixth time today agreed on an agenda for the trilateral talks on the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon, an Israeli spokesman said.

In Jerusalem, U.S. envoy Philip Habib met with Prime Minister Menachem Begin in a session both Israeli and Lebanese sources said earlier would be pivotal to the success of the talks.

The state-run television said Wednesday, both Israel and Lebanon appeared ready to endorse the latest U.S. compromise formula on a negotiating format — although both were seeking some changes in the U.S. proposal.

Israel has insisted the talks lead to future diplomatic relations but Lebanon maintains they must focus on withdrawal of 30,000 Israeli troops from the war-torn country.

Poland Expels Reporter

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish military authorities announced the expulsion of United Press International correspondent Ruth E. Gruber, accusing her after nearly 24 hours of detention of gathering "intelligence" material.

Miss Gruber, 33, was instructed to appear at the Foreign Ministry today where she was handed an expulsion order and told to leave the country within 48 hours.

A UPI secretary who also was held by the authorities had not been released as of early today.

The order came less than a week after expulsion of British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Kevin Ruane and was seen as the latest move in an official campaign against Western news media by the Polish military regime.

Did Drug Dealer Have Judge Killed?

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A government prosecutor said today Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra ordered the assassination of Texas federal judge John Wood because "he was afraid" the judge would give him a maximum sentence in a narcotics trial.

"Judge Wood had a nickname of Maximum John because of his penchant for imposing the stringent penalties on drug offenders," assistant U.S. Attorney Ray Jahn told the jury in opening arguments. "Jimmy Chagra was afraid... He took every legal recourse he could to get Judge Wood removed from the court."

"Failing that, he decided to murder Judge Wood." The trial was moved to Jacksonville because of the extensive publicity surrounding the case in Texas.

Bill Will Be Prepared, Knowles Says

Sanford Wants Part Of Lake Monroe Bottom

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

City-county cooperation, a definition of "real and substantial" benefits, proposed state certification of building inspectors and a problem with city ownership of part of the Monroe Harbor Marina were the topics discussed by Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles with the Seminole County Legislative delegation Wednesday.

Knowles voiced the city's opposition to a proposed law calling for state certification of building inspectors, saying Sanford's requirements for the job are much higher than the ones being considered by the state.

Knowles said while the proposed law is purported to be an effort to increase the competency of building officials, actually it calls for an open book, true and false, multiple choice test.

Knowles said that Sanford requires its building officials to be licensed in the building trades and to take additional courses in building inspections.

Knowles pointed out that the proposed competency testing which would be mandated by the state will cost the 467 units of government in Florida $1.4 million annually. The proposal "is being used as a political ploy by some building inspectors to enhance their ability to get higher salaries," Knowles said. "Adding the state certification will not increase building officials' competency."

Rep. Tom Drage, R-Orlando, said that the intent of the proposed state testing is to prevent, for example, the mayor of a small community from hiring his son or nephew, who is not competent in the construction trades, as a building inspector.

Drage said testimony given to a legislative committee shows this to be the case in at least one small town in Brevard County.

The delegation appeared to be less concerned with Knowles' protestations than with Sanford's claim that it does not have legal ownership of a portion of the lake bottom at the marina.

Knowles said that 17 years after the marina was built, the city has discovered that part of the east harbor and part of the east seawall are not owned by the city.

He said there was an error in the legal description of the property when it was conveyed by the state to the city in the 1960s. The error was found recently when the city asked the state for a permit for dredging of the harbor.

Knowles urged the delegation to straighten out the problem by pushing through a special act.

Drage said the proposed legislation should be prepared by the city in a proper bill form and Knowles said this would be done within two weeks.

Knowles, representing the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County, reported to the delegation that Seminole's city and county governments have taken a positive approach toward solving the double taxation controversy. The problem is being worked out cooperatively and thus the necessity of going to court on the issue is being forestalled.

... DOT To Speed Work

work, expected to cost at least $2.4 million, is currently slated for completion by 1988.

Gray said most of the project, construction of Maitland Avenue further west and upgrading of Forest City Road, lies within Orange County but it would help ease congestion along SR 436 at the I-4 interchange in Altamonte Springs.

Seminole County Engineer William Bush Jr., said even though the meeting in DeLand was largely ceremonial, it was encouraging in several areas.

Bush was encouraged by the inclusion of the new projects and with DOT plans to increase resurfacing and traffic improvement projects.

"I thought it was probably one of the best meetings we've had," he said. Three members of the county's legislative delegation — State Sen. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, and newly elected Republican Reps. Carl Selph and Art Grindle from Seminole County attended the meeting along with County Commissioners Robert Sturm, Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Bill Kirchoff.

Bush said Wednesday's meeting was the first any of the county's state legislators had attended.

"Just having their presence was impressive," he said.

But Bush said there was some disappointment at the meeting.

The state did not include improvements to SR 419 between SR 434 and Tuskawilla in its list. The road is highly traveled because of new developments in the area and because of new industries like Martin-Marietta and Westinghouse which have located in Orange County.

Business, Consumer Spending Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two main sources of economic strength, business spending and consumer spending, were disappointing in the latest government measurements, raising new skepticism about recovery.

The nation's businesses, after cutting capital spending 4.8 percent last year, told the Commerce Department they will cut deeper this year, lowering capital investment by 5.2 percent after inflation, the department said Wednesday.

The Commerce Department's annual survey of business plans for 1983 revealed deepening pessimism among businesses that contradicts the administration's forecast of an impending economic recovery.

Since some other averages hit new records in the mixed and active session, most analysts expect the market to make another charge at the 1,100 level.

Police Storm Kidnappers; 8 Die

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Police tactical units, firing tear gas and bullets, stormed into a house today where a wounded policeman was held hostage by a group of religious zealots. Police said eight people, including the hostage, were killed.

Police administrative assistant Bob Graham said police were fired on first in the assault on the white, three-bedroom house where officer Robert S. Hester had been held since Tuesday night.

He said one officer was cut on the hand when police stormed the house and reported no further injuries to tactical squad members.

The dead included the leader of the religious sect, Lindberg "Lynn" Sanders, 48, and his son. Sanders was a black with a long history of mental illness who apparently formed a cult that preaches police "are the anti-Christ." Sanders' wife, Dorothy, was led from a schoolhouse across the street from the house, screaming, "Oh my son, oh my son. Why did they have to kill my son? Oh my husband."

Police moved reporters into a guarded room in a schoolhouse that served as a command post across from the house just before the assault. Afterward, the house was cordoned off and police, wiping tears from their eyes, were seen around the structure.

Reporters could hear gunshots from the room and later heard screams and sobs from the room where Mrs. Sanders and the relatives of the group inside the house were waiting. "You didn't have to kill them," one woman cried.

Using a bullhorn, officers shouted to the people inside, and there were shouts back.

Officers had not heard any voices in the house since 2 p.m. Wednesday, and no word had been heard from Hester since dawn Wednesday, when he shouted, "Do whatever they want."

But Graham said at the time Hester was believed to be in "good shape" because "we haven't had any indication by movement or noise inside that would indicate otherwise. Some of the conversations we're assuming are directed toward the officer," Graham said.

Police attempted to negotiate with Sanders throughout the day Wednesday both by bullhorn and telephone, but said he did little but curse and threaten to kill Hester.

Hester and two fellow officers were jumped by several people when they went to the house in the north Memphis suburb of Hollywood Tuesday night. One was shot in the jaw and the other struck on the head, but both escaped.

Hester was trapped inside and had been injured in the altercation.

Wednesday night, Graham said three people fled the house "during the altercation" late Tuesday in which Hester was taken hostage.

He said one man, identified as T.C. Smith, was arrested and charged with three counts of aggravated assault.

Groom's Mom Out Of Line On Reception Guest List

DEAR ABBY: Marty and I are being married in three weeks, and Marty's mother (Ethel) wants to post an invitation to our wedding and reception on the bulletin board at the school where she works! (She works in the cafeteria.)

My parents are paying nearly $4,000 for a catered affair, and I've told Ethel I need to know the exact number of guests, but she doesn't seem to understand the position she's putting me in.

My mother has offered to send individual invitations to anyone Ethel considers her close friend, but she refuses to put an invitation on the bulletin board.

Now I'm in the middle. Ethel says maybe she won't come if she doesn't get her way. Please help me, Marty thinks his mother is out of line, but he doesn't want to take sides.

Dear Abby

UPSET BRIDE: DEAR UPSET: Explain to Ethel that yours is a catered affair and you cannot accommodate her by making it a free-for-all. And tell Marty he'd better start standing up to his mother when he thinks she's wrong, or you'll be starting down the aisle on the wrong foot.

DEAR ABBY: Where on earth did some so-called "men" ever get the idea that they have to "pucker up" like a monkey to kiss a woman? The gentleman I am now dating insists on "puckering up." I think it's gross and does not fit into the soft, passionate love scene. I get all set for a tender kiss, and here come these two puckered-up lips, turning me off completely! I will look for your answer in the paper.

MONKEY-LOVED IN OHIO: DEAR MONKEY-LOVED: Your man is kissing you the way he learned to kiss. However, kissing is a learned activity. And what has been learned can be unlearned, so if you want to swing with this monkey-lover, first tell him, then show him.

DEAR ABBY: So you think you've heard everything? I got this "invitation" from an out-of-state niece who in the past rarely acknowledged receipt of other specialoccasion gifts (Christmas, graduation, etc.).

"Dear Aunt Sue and Uncle John: I am being married Nov. 13. I'm sure you would like Mike.

"I am enclosing a list of gifts I have already received, as well as my crystal, silverware and china patterns.

"The Hi-Price Store in your area carries these, and any duplicates I get can be exchanged here for whatever I need.

"If you are unable to attend the ceremony, you will be in our thoughts. Love, Janie"

Well, Abby, how is that for an "invitation" to a wedding? I'd appreciate your comments.

HAD IT IN ARKANSAS: DEAR HAD IT: It appears that your presence wouldn't be missed, but your presents would.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOOKING FOR MS. RIGHT: A clergyman in Worcester, Mass., told me: "In marriage, it's not so important to find the right person as it is to be the right person."

What you don't know can hurt you. For Abby's booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," send $2 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Gallstones: Remove Or Let Them Alone?

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 52-year-old male and in generally good health. Recently I found (rather by accident) that I have gallstones. I have never had any symptoms or any discomfort from my gallbladder.

My physician advised that I have my gallbladder removed now before I have any problems with it. Another physician advised the opposite. He said I may never have a problem with it but if I do that would be the time to have the operation. What would you advise?

DEAR READER—I'm not surprised that you obtained two different answers. There are different opinions regarding which is the best course. And there is very recent information that bears on what to do about gallstones.

First, in a person like yourself who does not have and never has had any symptoms and really has silent gallstones, the likelihood that you will ever develop problems from the stones is small. In a recent study at five years only 10 percent of patients in that group ever developed problems. By 10 years only 15 percent, and after 15 years or more only 18 percent had. Stated another way, that study indicates that you have a better than 80 percent chance of not having any problem from your silent gallstones for 15 years or longer.

Only 2.5 percent of the entire group developed acute cholecystitis (acute gallbladder attack) or pancreatitis.

That is why one doctor advised against an operation in your case. But there are still many physicians who feel that gallstones should come out, because in older studies there was an increase in cancer of the gallbladder or liver in such people, and the concern that you might require surgery in later years when your health is not as good as it is now.

Second, what about dissolving your gallstones with medicine? After an exceptionally long delay in national studies, chenodeoxycholic acid (CHENO) has not proved to be very useful. In more than two years there was no evidence of a decrease in stone size in 60 percent of the cases. But there may be other, more successful, medications in the future.

To give you more details I am sending you my new issue of The Health Letter number 20-6, Your Gall Bladder: Stones and Attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Why does an alcoholic drink help some to sleep, or calm them down when it is said to be a stimulant? If one drink is good, is two better?

DEAR READER—Alcohol is definitely not a stimulant. It is a depressant. It has even been used as an anesthetic because it depresses sensation. Its depressing action on the brain removes inhibitions which may result in a person being overactive, quarrelsome or loving. It depends on the person.

Alcohol is not a good sleeping medicine. Studies at the University of Florida Medical School at Gainesville show that men who drank alcohol before going to sleep were prone to attacks of sleep apnea. In 20 subjects, 18 men had periods of not breathing for 10 seconds or longer.

Such attacks of sleep apnea have been found to be a frequent cause for insomnia. They are more apt to occur in men.

Alcohol's action as a depressant is why it increases the actions of sedatives and tranquilizers—which can be downright dangerous or even fatal.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, January 14, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY

January 14, 1983

Don't be afraid to involve yourself in projects or ventures this coming year which are large in scope. You are more likely to succeed where your ambitions are grand in scale.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Complications may develop in areas which normally run smoothly, while you could be extremely lucky in matters where Dame Fortune sometimes ignores you. 1983 predictions for Capricorns are now ready. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Clarify your objectives today so that you don't waste time going after something which might not be what you want after you get it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Early developments might not be totally to your liking today, but don't let this upset you. Before the day's over you should get hoped-for results.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

It's possible today that you may not see eye-to-eye with friends on specific issues. Rather than risk any unpleasantness, change the subject if things heat up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Important goals are reachable today, but they may not be attained too easily. However, if you are persistent you should enjoy substantial rewards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Do not make major judgments in haste today. There's a possibility you could overlook some key points in your initial evaluation.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)

A situation presently not to your best advantage can be adjusted today so that it will come out in a manner to yield you benefits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Be tactful and diplomatic when dealing with co-workers today. With a little extra consideration, you can turn those who now oppose you into allies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

In areas where you are concerned about only your own needs, results might be slim today. However, you should be quite lucky when you try to help others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Social activities or fun diversions will be what you need today to refurbish your psyche. Don't be trapped by dull routines.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Your possibilities for personal gain look very good today, but potential returns might not arrive until the last minute.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Things should go quite smoothly for you today, provided you don't get self-doubts cloud your thinking. You're a winner, so act like one.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

It takes skill to win a World Pairs championship, but the winner needs some luck also. Here we see Kennedy and Sanders picking up extra tricks for another top score. Note Betty Ann's 20-point two no-trump. Like most experts she added a point for her one 10-spot, or maybe because it was a good day for her biometrics. In any event, she found herself in a very normal three-no-trump. She could count nine easy tricks after the diamond lead, but knew that she would need 10 for a good score and that 11 tricks would be close to a top. She got her 11 tricks with a little help from her opponents.

Dummy's queen of diamonds held the first trick and East dropped the heart five-spot. Obviously, it was the start of some sort of strength signal. Betty Ann led a diamond to her ace and East completed the signal by playing the heart deuce. Now she led her queen of spades. West grabbed her ace and continued with the ace and six of hearts.

Betty Ann's king had become a winner and she was up to 10 tricks, trying for 11.

She got them with no trouble. She simply took the rest by cashing her spades and diamonds. On the last diamond, poor East had to chuck a club in order to keep the queen of hearts over dummy's jack and all four clubs were now winners. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
