County Residents Unable To Help Relatives In Poland

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Many Polish-Americans in Seminole County are upset over the desperate situation in Poland and frustrated that they are unable to help relatives there.

"Things are very, very bad," said Mrs. Ted Morski of Chuluota, who has close relatives in Poland. "We got a letter just two days before martial law was imposed. Things were getting worse, and now it is like hell. The poor people are suffering and nobody does anything for them. Everything is business, but someday they will get it when the Russians move into their country and they find out what it's like to be under the Russian boot."

Mrs. Morski was born in the United States, but when she was six years old her parents took her back to live in Poland, where she grew up. She returned to the United States in 1934.

"I went to Poland in 1938 for a vacation and got out just in time," she said. "In 1939 the war started and my sister, brother and mother, who were there at the time, got stuck in a concentration camp for Americans for the duration.

"My husband was born in Poland and grew up there. He came to the United States and became a merchant seaman," she said.

Mrs. Morski has close relatives on her mother's side who live near the Baltic Sea, and on her father's side in the Cracow area. She said they are farmers or work in factories.

Under martial law, life in Warsaw is dull and dreary. Story, Page 2A.

"We're praying, crying and feeling bad," Mrs. Morski said. "I used to send packages through the post office, but they don't go through any more. The people in Poland are hungry and cold. They have to wait all night in line for one bar of soap to last a whole month. They have to line up for everything, and after waiting 8 to 10 hours they often come away empty-handed."

"The Polish people didn't like communism from the beginning, but they were sold by (Franklin D.) Roosevelt to the Russians. It's a miserable situation, and we're all very upset," she added.

"My aunt in Poland wrote a letter in August and I received it in November," said Mrs. Sophie Snodgrass, immediate past president of Polish National Alliance Lodge 3216. "She was extremely upset because she thought I wasn't writing her. She said the situation was that people were making money working in the mines and shipyards, but there was no food and you can't eat money. That's the reason they were striking. They have no tea, coffee, or sugar, and meat is rationed."

"My aunt is old and lives in a little village. She has to depend on someone to take her 15 to 20 miles to the bank, so instead of sending her checks I enclosed cash in the envelopes I sent her," she said. "She can't get food or heart medicine."

"A Polish priest who had been distributing some of the aid sent from here wrote and said, 'Don't send cash because they are censoring letters and taking the money from the envelope,'" she added.

"A $20 bill would feed a family for a whole month there," said Mrs. Snodgrass, who lives in south Seminole County, near Casselberry. "because of the favorable exchange rate."

"Some individuals in the Alliance said the Solidarity is too strong and the Russians will have to make some sort of concession," said Mrs. Snodgrass. "My personal opinion is that if history repeats itself the Communists will eliminate the top union leaders. They should have kept quiet for awhile after the initial strike and built themselves up and gotten their capital up."

"If you're a farmer in Poland, if you raise 50 bushels of grain three-fourths goes back to the government. For every $100 you earn, $70 goes to the government," she said.

Warrant Due For The Arrest Of Higginbotham

The Seminole-Brevard state attorney's office is expected to ask a judge to issue a writ for the arrest of a former Lake Mary police lieutenant in connection with the sale of several guns he allegedly stole from the department.

The ex-police officer, David E. Higginbotham, 34, was indicted by a county grand jury early in October for allegedly stealing the weapons from an evidence locker and selling them at a Sanford auction house.

A spokesman at the state attorney's office in Sanford said his office will ask the judge to issue the writ, called a capias, sometime during the next six days.

Higginbotham was discharged Nov. 8 from Florida Hospital-Altamonte, where he had been since Aug. 28, when he was admitted for a gunshot wound to the leg. In that incident, Higginbotham reported he was shot with his own gun during a scuffle with suspects he encountered during a routine patrol at the Southward Orange Groves off County Road 46A.

Higginbotham reported he was checking out a suspicious person rummaging around a shed at the groves. When he approached the suspect and ordered him to "freeze," he was jumped from behind by a second suspect who grabbed the officer's weapon which discharged in the struggle, Higginbotham said.

That incident happened just a few days before Higginbotham's resignation was to take effect.

Higginbotham spent several weeks at Florida Hospital-Altamonte, where he underwent surgery to his leg eight times, according to hospital officials.

He was indicted by the grand jury while in the hospital.

Drug Bust 5 Arrests Made; Price Out On Bail

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

One man is free on $10,000 bond and two other men are being held on $25,000 bond each today in the Seminole County jail following their arrest Wednesday as suspects in what police are calling a multi-million-dollar drug operation. Bond was reduced from $100,000 for each of the men arrested.

Arthur C. Price, 38, of 2903 S. Park Ave., Sanford, was released from the jail on bond following his arrest Wednesday on charges of aiding and abetting in trafficking of marijuana. Price, a former sheriff's deputy and suspended sheriff's reserve deputy, was arrested along with two other suspects in the drug-related crackdown, police said.

Price resigned from the Sheriff's Department in 1979 after establishing an aircraft maintenance business at Sanford Airport and worked as a volunteer deputy until his suspension Dec. 9.

Alex I. Tindall, 42, Oviedo poultry farmer, is being held at the county jail along with truck driver Johnny B. Jones, 46, of Cochran Road, Geneva, on $25,000 bond each on charges for conspiracy to traffic in marijuana and Quaaludes and conspiracy to traffic in cocaine.

Tindall was recently released on $100,000 bond, reduced from $500,000 bond, from the Cass County jail in Fargo, N.D., following his arrest Dec. 20 in that city for illegal delivery of cocaine.

A total of 11 arrest warrants were issued by the Brevard-Seminole County state attorney's office Tuesday evening for persons suspected in the drug operation, based on information filed with the state attorney's office following an eight-month police investigation. "I have been told that two other men being held in Fargo in conjunction with charges made against Tindall there were served with our arrest warrants Wednesday," said Herb Shea, assistant to Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler. "I have also been told at least three others (suspects) will be picked up today."

Fred J. McConeghy, 58, an Oviedo roofing contractor, and Buford "Buddy" Higgs, 27, a bell pepper farmer in Oviedo, are being held in the Cass County jail in Fargo on $250,000 and $200,000 bond respectively, following their arrest Dec. 20 along with Tindall. The three men are slated to appear before the grand jury in that state in February.

Shea said there has been "some difficulty" in arresting three West Palm Beach suspects in the drug-related incident because only their first names are known.

"Our agent is familiar with the men, but it is difficult for him to communicate to officials in West Palm Beach, so those arrests are a little slow in coming," he said.

Among the other suspects slated for arrest in conjunction with the narcotics trafficking bust are Robert Collier, of an unspecified address in Seminole County; Aubrey Clark, Oviedo; Gary Hamilton, Maryville, Tenn.; a man known only to police as "Russell," of an unspecified address in Seminole County; and two men, known only to police as "Tom" and "Steve," of West Palm Beach.

Although sheriff's deputies were called in to assist with Wednesday's arrests of the drug suspects, Shea said there was a "mixup in communications in our (Sanford police) not notifying Sheriff (John) Polk of the events until Wednesday morning."

State To Buy Spring Hammock

Park Surveying: Who Should Pay?

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

County property marked for state park land acquisition needs to be surveyed, and the state, not individual property owners, should pay for the work, say state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials.

About 1,500 acres adjacent to Seminole County's Soldiers' Creek Park is designated to become another state park, known as Spring Hammock. In 1979 the state Legislature appropriated $1.2 million to purchase the low-lying acreage bordering on Lake Jesup from its 36 property owners, said Joyce Sellen, principal planner for Seminole County.

Ms. Sellen said DNR officials recently endorsed a plan for funding a survey of the 1,500 acres with state money. If the state cabinet approves the concept, individual owners of those 1,500 acres will be freed from paying for the required surveying, Ms. Sellen said.

Before the state purchases any land for park use it must be surveyed. Exact boundaries need to be established certifying where state-owned land would end and private property begin, Ms. Sellen said.

"We need boundaries established so appraisal of the land can begin," she said.

Designating the land within the heart of Seminole County as a state park would guarantee a parcel of undeveloped land within the county for future generations, Ms. Sellen said.

"All the property is vacant," the planner said. "There are no structures on it, and the land is low and flood-prone."

County planners have known of the DNR's endorsement of state funding for the required surveying work for about two weeks. The state cabinet will consider the matter in the next two or three weeks, Ms. Sellen said.

Soldiers' Creek Park's 300 acres was acquired by the county in the early 1970s on a bond issue. The county land will directly border Spring Hammock, Ms. Sellen said.

All fifth-graders in Seminole County get an opportunity to spend two or three days at the park as an environmental-studies project. The project is funded jointly by the county commission and school board, Ms. Sellen said.

The Spring Hammock property is central to Seminole County's water supply and wildlife preservation. Ms. Sellen said the low-lying property is a collection site for water drainage in the county.

Preserving the Spring Hammock area in its undeveloped state would ensure a large area for water to percolate back into aquifers. The 1,500 acres would also serve as a wildlife preserve for breeding animals, Ms. Sellen said.

Although the land would be minimally developed for public use, it would play a vital role for county residents, she said.

"The benefits (of designating Spring Hammock a state park) would include establishing 1,500 acres of open space in perpetuity," Ms. Sellen said. "It could be enjoyed by all Central Floridians."

She described vegetation on the property as "a mixed hardwood hammock."

"There are a variety of trees and vegetation growing there," she said.

None of the $1.2 million appropriated has been used for purchasing any of the 1,500 acres yet, Ms. Sellen said, and most of the property owners involved want to sell their land to the state.

"Some property owners would like to hang on to their land for future development potential," she said. "But most of it is too low and flood-prone for that."

Gustafson Moves Ahead With Plans For Restaurant

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Dale Gustafson, businessman and entrepreneur, is moving forward with his plans for a country-style restaurant-lounge at the renovated and modernized former Southward Fruit Co. packing barn at French Avenue and 13th Street, despite the displeasure of the Sanford City Commission.

The city commission Monday night was disturbed by a report from City Manager W. E. (Pete) Knowles that Gustafson is seeking city and state approval to purchase a liquor license that has become available in the south end of the county. He is also seeking a restaurant-type liquor license which requires that 60 percent of the operation's business be from serving food and no more than 40 percent from serving alcoholic beverages.

Gustafson attempted to quiet the fears of the commission today by affirming that he still intends to have a family-type, country-style restaurant no matter what type of license he is successful in acquiring.

And his lawyer, Jack Bridges, said Gustafson wouldn't have told Knowles he is applying for three different types of liquor licenses if he meant to hoodwink the commissioners.

The commission earlier this month agreed to settle a lawsuit filed by Gustafson against the city by granting him permission to seek a 60-40 state liquor license. The news that Gustafson is also seeking a liquor license which does not require that food be served upset the commissioners.

The commission earlier turned down a request for a permit for a 60-40 license after adjacent property owners and members of a nearby church protested. They changed their minds after the lawsuit was filed when the city staff pointed out that prior City Commissions waived for 30 out of 44 applicants the city requirement that establishments selling alcoholic beverages be at least 500 feet apart. The commission based its

"It's still an old barn, but a classy old barn. We've changed her character, but not her quality. Someday we'll have entertainers like Mel Tillis, Tom T. Hall, Johnny Rodriguez and other country stars of that caliber appearing here."

earlier refusal to Gustafson on the basis that his business is less than 500 feet from George's Bar on French Avenue. City Attorney Bill Colbert advised that the city might have difficulty in court upholding the city requirement, since it was waived so many times. Agreeing to grant Gustafson the 60-40 permit to settle the lawsuit, and after granting similar permits to two other establishments in the city, the commission called a 60-day moratorium on issuing any additional permits until a new city ordinance is adopted.

Bridges said today that his client has applied for all three licenses.

Noting that the state fee for a 60-40 license is about $1,750, Bridges said the usual market value of a full-fledged liquor license purchased from an individual is about $75,000.

Since the 60-40 license is so much less expensive, why would Gustafson be interested in a $75,000 license instead if he still plans to serve meals, Bridges and Gustafson were asked.

Bridges said liquor licenses are "worth gold." In years past, when Gov. Reubin Askew was in office, a moratorium was placed on issuing new licenses. The procedure for acquiring new licenses today under Gov. Bob Graham is through a "blind lottery," Bridges said.

He said Gustafson has been told by a business broker that a south county liquor license is on the market. Bridges said that if Gustafson is able to acquire a license on the market for less than $75,000, it will be a good investment. "He could sell it the day after acquiring it and make money."

Secondarily, Bridges said, "Suppose Gustafson opens his restaurant, and try as he will with his menu and entertainment he can generate food sales of only 58 percent. The state Department of Business Regulation then could shut him down.

"You can't make people eat. You can only provide them with the restaurant and the facilities to eat. By buying the license he is also buying insurance."

Bridges noted that if Gustafson is successful in buying the liquor license at a below-market value price, he will still have to pass state requirements for the license, including a character and background investigation.

Gustafson said today that regardless of what kind of license he is able to acquire, his plans remain to have a "full country-style entertainment center with food, drinks, live entertainment, dancing—something the people of Sanford will enjoy."

He said he plans to open the establishment within two weeks after all licenses and city approvals are gained. Currently a kitchen is being constructed within the building.

Gustafson today said the 40-plus-year-old building has had a facelift. "It's still an old barn, but a classy old barn. We've changed her character, but not her quality. Someday we'll have entertainers like Mel Tillis, Tom T. Hall, Johnny Rodriguez and other country stars of that caliber appearing here," he said.

"And my intention is to serve barbecue and country-style meals—the best food possible. I will do whatever I can to attain and maintain quality," he added.

NATION IN BRIEF

Cop Kills Guardian Angel By Mistake

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A Newark police officer shot and killed a Guardian Angel on patrol at a housing project for senior citizens, officials said today. Police declined to give any details of the shooting except to confirm that it occurred at 11 p.m. Wednesday at the complex. The Angels' spokeswoman, Lisa Sliwa, identified the dead member as Frank Melvin, 27, and said police told the group he was shot in a case of "mistaken identity."

4 Survived, 1 Didn't

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (UPI) — Four survivors of a Christmas Eve plane crash in the Colorado Rockies huddled together inside the wreckage for warmth, ate snow and read a biblical tale of enduring faith until "miracle workers" ended their five-day ordeal. The last of the four was brought down from the snow-bound wreckage high in the Collegiate Peaks range Wednesday, but searchers abandoned efforts to find pilot Gary A. Meeks of Dallas, who had walked away from the site to get help the night of the crash. He was presumed dead.

Computer Mail Hits Snag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service's much-heralded new electronic mail service, scheduled to debut on Monday, may end up in the "dead letter" file, at least temporarily. The Justice Department filed suit Wednesday to block the Postal Service from starting the electronic service for bulk mailers, contending the new service never was legally approved.

Housing Starts May Jump

CHICAGO (UPI) — Housing starts will increase by 37.5 percent if mortgage interest rates drop to 12 percent by mid-1982, one of the nation's leading title insurance companies predicts. The Chicago Title Insurance Co. predicted Wednesday that 1.65 million single and multi-family dwellings will be built next year if the interest rate on home mortgages drops to the 12 percent level.

Cable Rates Going Up

Sanford subscribers to Orange-Seminole Cablevision's "Home Box Office" (HBO) or "Cinemax" will be paying $1 more monthly for each service beginning Friday. Michael T. D'Ambra, Orange-Seminole general manager, has notified Mayor Lee P. Moore and the City Commission that rates for the cable services will be increased from $8.95 per month to $9.95 for HBO and from $9.95 to $10.95 for Cinemax "due to increased costs." D'Ambra said the current $3 discount for viewers subscribing to both services will remain in force. City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles today said the city's franchise agreement with the cablevision firm does not require prior city approval before rates are increased, nor even notification to the city of an impending increase. Knowles said the franchise agreement does, however, limit increases to one per year.

Seminole Plagued By Armed Robbers

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Investigations were continuing today into a rash of armed robberies which have plagued Seminole County over the last two days.

The first holdup occurred about 2:35 p.m. Tuesday when a man entered the Sherwin Williams Paint Store, located at 318 S. French Ave., pulled a gun on 18-year-old clerk Delores D. Reese and stole an undetermined amount of cash, according to Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

The man then forced Ms. Reese into the store's restroom and fled on foot.

In another incident, a Maitland man was robbed of an undetermined amount of cash while he was getting out of his car in the parking lot of his apartment complex at about 8:07 p.m. Wednesday.

Deputies said Hoyt E. Kilgore, 59, of 34F Plantation Apartments, Howell Branch Road, was getting out of his car when an unknown man approached the car displayed a pistol, and robbed him.

Karen J. Mercer, 37, of 1313 Dickens Ave., Orlando, was also robbed as she and another employee of the Direct Oil Company, 300 E. State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, were closing the convenience store service station Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mercer said a man came up behind her, put his left arm around her neck and placed an unknown object against her back, saying, "This is a hold up. Give me all the money."

When Mrs. Mercer answered that she didn't have any money, the man grabbed her purse, knocked her to the ground and fled into a wooded area behind the station, deputies said. Mrs. Mercer was not injured in the incident.

Sheriff's deputies said the perpetrators appear to have entered the lab through a door adjoining another business, which was also burglarized. The adjoining door had been kicked down.

An inventory is being made of the lab to determine if any other items were stolen.

FLAG STOLEN

Someone stole a 4-by-4-foot American flag and a set of pulleys from a flagpole at Carl's Produce in Sanford sometime between 9:50 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The flag and pulleys, valued at $200, were cut from the flagpole on the west side of the produce store, located at 2911 Orlando Dr., police said.

SANFORD HOME ROBBED

A Sanford man's home was robbed at about 8:45 a.m. Tuesday of about $232 worth of jewelry and coins.

The home of Buford R. Carroll, 61, of 1909 S. Oak Ave., was broken into through an unlocked window, Sanford police said.

SANFORD WAREHOUSE BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a Sanford warehouse and stole a sleeper sofa and two tables sometime between 4 p.m. Dec. 21 and 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Owner Theodore W. Detrel, 21, of 223 Hickman Dr. (also the location of the warehouse), said the stolen items were valued at about $525. There was no sign of forced entry, Sanford police said.

LONGWOOD MAN FREE ON BOND

A Longwood man is free on bond from the Seminole County jail today following his arrest at 4 p.m. Tuesday on charges of trafficking in stolen property.

Allen R. Vaughn, 19, of 670 S. Grant St., was arrested and charged with selling stolen property after a Casselberry pawnshop owner bought a ring, previously reported stolen from a Seminole County woman, from a man identified as Vaughn, sheriff's deputies said.

RESIDENTIAL ROBBERY

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home by kicking down the front door at about 9 a.m. Tuesday and made off with about $1,870 worth of property.

Stephen M. Lyon, 30, of 134H Springwood Village, reported the incident to sheriff's deputies. Lyon is conducting an inventory to determine exactly what was taken.

MONTGOMERY WARD BURGLARIZED

Burglars broke into the Montgomery Ward warehouse in Sanford sometime between 5 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, stealing about $1,150 worth of equipment.

Sheriff's deputies said the burglars entered the warehouse, located at Eighth Street and Perimeter Avenue, by pushing down a large steel plate at the southwest garage door.

The thieves stole a typewriter, calculator and battery charger valued at about $1,150, deputies said.

Seminole Native To Fight Bribery Charges

Judge Hastings Predicts Acquittal

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings is blaming "no-goodniks" for his bribery indictment and predicts he will be acquitted.

"I'm prepared for the combat," Hastings said Wednesday on the steps of the federal courthouse. "I'm not going to be convicted. I'll plead not guilty. I'm innocent."

Hastings, a native of Seminole County was indicted Tuesday on charges of conspiracy to commit bribery, defrauding the government and obstruction of justice. He spoke to reporters Wednesday for the first time since the indictment was handed down.

"Did being black have anything to do with this indictment? Did the Reagan administration have anything to do with this indictment?" Hastings asked. "The fact is that it really does not matter and that is the answer to all of the questions."

"I have learned who the no-goodniks are and I shall deal with them in court, and for life," said Hastings, the first black to sit on the federal bench in south Florida.

Also indicted was Hastings' longtime friend, Washington D.C. attorney William A. Borders Jr. FBI agents said Borders was paid $150,000 on Hastings' behalf in exchange for judicial favors.

Borders also was charged with crossing state lines to commit bribery.

Hastings labeled the grand jury investigation "aimless and unmethodical" and accused prosecutors of manipulating the grand jury process by delaying the investigation and allowing jury members access to news accounts.

"I think there has been innuendo. I think there has been speculation," he said. "The grand jury is a rubber stamp for the prosecution."

But he added, "I have no fears about whether or not I'll get a fair trial."

Hastings, recently named "Man of the Year" by a black Fort Lauderdale civic group, will appear before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo Jan. 6.

The Hastings indictment culminated a 2½-month grand jury investigation that began after Borders was arrested in Arlington, Va.,

Oct. 9. The indictment said a retired FBI agent, posing as convicted south Florida racketeer Frank Romano, met with Borders and was told Hastings would reduce his and his brother's sentence in exchange for $150,000.

Frank and Thomas Romano were convicted of racketeering in December 1980 and were up for sentencing. The arrangement also called for Hastings to lift an order impounding $1.2 million of the Romanos' assets, the indictment said.

FBI agents said Borders was paid the bribe money in two installments at the Twin Bridges hotel in Virginia. Borders allegedly received $25,000 in the first payment and $125,000 in the second. After the second transaction, agents arrested him.

Warsaw Diary: A Bleak Tale

By BOGDAN TUREK

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — I am writing this just before midnight Tuesday at my home in central Warsaw.

It was a little more than two weeks ago, just at this hour, that communication lines in Poland were cut and government security forces launched surprise raids on Solidarity union offices around the country, heralding the imposition of martial law.

I remember feeling utter shock as I rushed to Solidarity headquarters and found the street blocked at both ends by police trucks and lined with steel-helmeted, shield-carrying riot police.

Tonight, the big traffic circle six floors below my window is empty, except for the patrol of soldiers warming themselves over an orange coal fire against the night.

Nothing is moving as far as I can see along Marszałkowska Street, the city's main boulevard.

After the nightly curfew begins at 11 p.m., only occasional police and military vehicles pass or convoys of snowplows with orange lights flashing.

Wednesday:
The curfew, communications blackout, closing of theaters, cinemas and the like have changed people's social habits. Friends and neighbors feel free to drop in on each other at all hours of the day. I feel as if I have seen and spent more time with more friends in the past couple of weeks than at any time before.

The one night since martial that curfew was lifted was Christmas Eve, in order to allow people to attend midnight Mass.

People have brought sleeping bags to the gatherings I have attended during martial law, spending the night in adult slumber parties.

Family members were allowed over the Christmas holiday to visit the thousands of Solidarity activists, dissidents and intellectuals who have been interned in Warsaw.

Their reports, as well as letters received from internees elsewhere in the country, tend to confirm government spokesman Jerry Urdan's assertion at a news conference Tuesday that they are held under good conditions.

The visits and the letters indicate such prominent figures as Adam Michnik, Jan Litynski, Andrzej Gwiazda, Janusz Onyszkiewicz, Jan Rulewski, Krzysztof Sliwinski and others are in good spirits.

They are eating good food, which they can cook themselves, and are kept in open accommodations allowing them to meet and talk with each other. Occasionally they go outdoors and build snowmen. The visitors and letters say they get regular exercise and have access to a chapel.

The internees have organized discussion groups, courses and singing groups to occupy their time. One complaint was that prison libraries were too small and bedtime is too early.

None of the internees is charged with a crime. Urban stressed internment was meant to "isolate" them and was not a prison term for a specific crime.

For those "arrested," it is different. They are liable to court-martial, subject to stiff sentences and definite prison terms. No length of time has been specified for the internees' detention.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa is neither interned nor arrested. He is confined to quarters somewhere in the Warsaw area and has had regular contact with his family, his priest from Gdansk and other clergymen.

Warsaw was brightened this week by new red, blue, green and black posters—hung to replace Solidarity posters that have been scraped from walls and billboards.

The new posters urge discipline and cooperation with military authorities and a war on black marketeering.

New Year May Start Off Badly For Woman Wanting To Be Free

PORT CANAVERAL (UPI) — The New Year might bring a 20-year-old Cuban woman a trip back to South America, just a few days after she had come within a few yards of the biggest goal of her young life — the United States.

Clara Inez Moynelo Nunez has spent a year and a half traveling from her native Cuba to Africa to Argentina and Venezuela to Port Canaveral, seeking freedom in the United States.

She arrived aboard the freighter Oceania Freesia which docked at the east-central Florida port last weekend. She remained aboard the ship and on Monday filed papers requesting political asylum.

Immigration and Naturalization Service officer Jim Breslin said word might come today, but it might be bad news.

During her journey, Miss Moynelo spent one year in Argentina as a clerk in a toy store for $200 a month and that might be her downfall, he said.

Breslin said the fact that Miss Moynelo was able to settle in another country before arriving in the United States would

No one understands what I feel inside. I just want to be free.

count against her. If entry into the United States is denied, it will mean the Cuban woman must leave with the ship which is scheduled to depart for Colombia and Argentina on New Year's day.

"Oh, no. I don't want to think that," she said, holding her hand to her heart. "No one understands what I feel inside. I just want to be free."

A cousin, Renaldo Ojada and his family have offered to share their home in Miami and teach her English. "She's not going to be a dependent of the state," said Ojada. "They have to let her in."

"I think she has done a great feat," Ojada said proudly. "I think it took great courage. Something had to push her to do all this."

The young woman's journey to freedom began 18 months ago at Puerto Maria, Cuba, where she swam to a Greek freighter moored offshore and an officer hid her in the hold.

"I found a ship I could be free with and I took it to where it was going," she said.

It went to Angola on the southwest coast of Africa where Cuban troops are based. That was not free enough for her so she stayed aboard the freighter until it docked in Argentina.

Then came her year in Buenos Aires. But she longed for a more complete freedom she believed she could only find in the United States.

When she heard in November that the Oceania Freesia was coming to Florida via Venezuela, she befriended a ship's cook who hid her on board. She was discovered as a stowaway Dec. 22 after spending 23 days in hiding.

Her brown eyes flashing and speaking in rapid Spanish, Miss Moynelo said through an interpreter aboard the freighter: "I just want to come to a free country. I want to be able to have freedom of speech."

"There's too much oppression in Cuba," she said, adding that her brother is in a Cuban prison for talking against the government. "The way of life here is entirely different. For working, you can get what you want."

New Retirement Law Means Billions For The Economy

New Year's Superstitions

HOUSTON (UPI) — Heat the black-eyed peas, stir in the hog jowl, pass the kettle and enjoy a healthy helping of good fortune in 1982.

That is just one of the superstitions surrounding the dawning of a new year, says folklorist Carl Lindahl, who has found most New Year's beliefs fall in the general categories of predictions, purification rituals and changing behavior patterns.

They also generally have to do with good or bad luck, he said. For example:

—If you change residences on New Year's Day, some member of the family will die that year.

—If you see a man and a woman in front of the fire when you arise on New Year's morning, you will get married within the next 12 months.

—If you take up ashes on New Year's Day, you will have bad luck.

—The first one you kiss after New Year's will love you most during the year.

—If you leave the Christmas tree up after New Year's, you will meet misfortune.

And, as most people know, on New Year's Day, to have plenty to eat the rest of the year, you must eat black-eyed peas and hog jowl and every member of the family must stir the pot.

Lindahl, an assistant professor of English at the University of Houston, believes that last bit of Southern-flavored folklore originated after the Civil War when planters who had nothing to eat but black-eyed peas for New Year's dinner were lucky enough to regain their fortunes. They credited the New Year's meal for their good luck.

But most New Year's traditions originated much earlier, including the traditional "no holds barred" revelry on New Year's Eve.

"It's a time for people to be other than themselves, get disguised, adopt a different identity," Lindahl suggested.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The president of the Southeast's oldest investment counseling firm believes the new federal law allowing all employed persons to set up their own tax-free retirement accounts will pump billions of dollars into the economy.

"It's the most attractive investment opportunity that's ever come down the pike," said Solon P. Patterson, head of Atlanta-based Montag and Caldwell.

"Everybody needs to consider this and consider taking advantage of it."

Using what he termed conservative estimates, Patterson said the new individual retirement accounts (known as IRAs) will attract about $25 billion into the nation's banks, savings and loan associations and money market funds in 1982, the first year they become available.

"It will help all the financial markets," Patterson said in an interview. He predicted that much of the money flowing into the financial sector will be used to finance the federal deficit.

The availability of these funds to help pay the interest on the national debt will contribute in part to declining interest rates next year, according to Patterson.

Montag and Caldwell offers investment services to corporations, institutions and individuals throughout the U.S., managing around $500 million for institutional and individual investors. It is a subsidiary of Alexander and Alexander, a major international financial services firm.

Patterson, unlike others in the financial community, is a firm supporter of President Reagan's Economic Recovery Act. He said the tax relief program "is the most far-reaching piece of tax legislation enacted since World War II." It provides "tremendous incentive" for long term investment that will help create more jobs and greater economic growth.

He is particularly partisan to the expanded availability of IRAs, formerly restricted to persons not under private pension plans. Beginning in 1982, any employed person, whether covered or not by his company pension program, can invest up to $2,000 in an IRA or $2,250 if he has a non-working spouse. If both are employed the investment ceiling is $4,000, all of which can be deducted from taxable income.

"After January, 1982, there will only be three classes of wage earners in the United States," said Patterson, "the ones unaware of the IRAs, those who are broke and the smart ones who will take advantage of it."

The IRAs significantly increase opportunities for workers to take part in their own retirement plans create greater savings and provide much-needed investment capital, he said.

A "justified fear" that the Social Security program might not be able to meet its obligations in the future could be another attraction of the IRAs, Patterson said.

He said a $2,000 annual investment in an IRA, earning 10 percent interest, would compound tax free to $31,874 in 10 years.

"Assuming a 10 percent return for 30 years, the capital accumulated would grow to $328,988; over 40 years it would total $885,186. These last two examples of capital accumulation could, in turn, enable their owners to make annual distributions to themselves in amounts of $36,244 and $97,519, respectively, over each of the next 25 years."

Federal government forecasts put the number of additional wage earners opening IRAs in 1982 at 4.5 million, with an annual average contribution of $1,500 per individual. Total assets estimated were estimated at $6.7 billion.

Patterson said it was more likely that 20 million Americans will participate in their own retirement accounts under the new law, and that the figure will grow each year. He estimated that 20 million persons investing $1,250 on average would produce assets of $25 billion, four times the government estimate.

Patterson bases his belief of IRA popularity partly on what he hears from the people he meets on a day-to-day basis. "Everybody I've talked to says 'it sounds good to me.' They're going to do this to the extent they can afford it."

New Face, Same Problems

Argentina's ruling military junta seized power seven years ago pledging to end left-wing terrorism and to clean up the economic mess exacerbated by the misrule of Isabel Peron, widow of the late dictator Juan Peron.

The junta succeeded in crushing the terrorist Montonero movement, but only by adopting some exceedingly brutal tactics of its own. The generals had less luck with the economy. Despite some economic growth during the late 1970s, inflation and unemployment rates remained punishingly high.

The junta reacted last March by replacing President Jorge Rafael Videla with another army general, Roberto Eduardo Viola. Gen. Viola promised ambitious economic reforms and a timetable for returning the country to civilian rule.

Since then, the economic reforms have gone nowhere, the timetable hasn't been announced, and inflation has soared to 115 percent per year. Official statistics put unemployment at 15 percent and the actual figure is probably closer to 20 percent. Moreover, Argentina is suffering from an accelerating brain drain as highly skilled technicians and professionals leave the country in droves seeking opportunity elsewhere, including the United States.

It didn't come as much of a surprise, then, when the junta took advantage of Gen. Viola's recent hospitalization for heart trouble to remove him from office. His announced successor is to be yet another general, Leopoldo Fortunato Galtieri.

Gen. Galtieri might be forgiven for wishing the job had gone to someone else. To save the economy, he must impose painful fiscal and monetary reforms, sell off failing state-owned enterprises whose stockholders include numerous military officers, and fend off pressure from irresponsible labor unions clamoring for economic benefits the government cannot afford.

While accomplishing all of this, he must keep a wary eye on the surviving Montoneros, now regrouping in Central America with Cuban assistance.

More than a few Argentines are wondering whether they could be any worse off under a civilian government. The answer — possibly so — shouldn't dissuade the junta from admitting that its record hardly justifies an open-ended lease on power in Buenos Aires.

A Feathered Nest

It took a lot of gall on the part of Congress to give itself a big tax break and other perks before adjourning for the holidays.

The tax deductions are for living expenses and for members of Congress who maintain second homes in the Washington area. The exact cost of living benefits cannot be computed at the moment because both houses directed the Internal Revenue Service to determine how much they can deduct from taxes without showing proof of expenses. However deductions for a second home are expected to amount to $10,000 a year or more for each congressman, costing the government millions over the next three years.

The second-home deduction was moved through swiftly and covertly by attaching it to a bill that doubles the excise tax on coal from 2 to 4 percent to provide black lung benefits for coal miners.

The House of Representatives also has adopted a new rule that allows its members to earn twice as much as before for speeches and other appearances. The new limit is $18,198, or 30 percent of the $60,662 annual salary. This year, senators were able to earn as much as they could in fees for speeches, articles and personal appearances.

Congress also approved automatic cost-of-living raises for itself, starting in 1983, and approved franking law revisions to allow senators free postages for statewide mass mailings. This all comes on top of office allowances, travel expenses and medical and pension benefits.

The actions are further proof that Congress cannot be trusted to manage its own destiny when it comes to money matters.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Daddy, why can't WE have a battered old '63 jeep like the one President Reagan has on his ranch?"

As 1981 ebbs out to sea and 1982 rushes to the shore, many south Seminole County municipal government officials are hoping old habits and past events are swept away and that the tide of the new year brings good things for their families, themselves and their respective city governments.

For starters, Altamonte Springs City Clerk Bobbi Floyd resolves to, "find something enjoyable about yearly city elections. We have them every year because of the commission's staggered terms and I hate them (the elections). In addition, Mrs. Floyd said she plans to try to look and act older in 1982.

"I'm 34-years-old and everyone thinks I'm about 29- or 30-years-old," she said. "So, I'll work on looking, talking and acting more mature."

Cheney Colardo, Altamonte Springs commissioner, said, "I can't resolve to quit smoking like so many other people do because I quit five years ago, but I do resolve to continue to be a good wife and mother. In addition, I hope to do my best to serve the people who put me in office."

City councilmen in Casselberry echoed Ms. Colardo's resolutions saying they too hope to serve the people of their city in the best interest of the residents.

"I learned a lot in 1981 and I resolve to utilize that knowledge and experience to continue in serving the Casselberry residents effectively and efficiently through my council post," Councilman James Lavigne said.

Casselberry Councilman Frank Schutte said he hopes to be able to "continue the cooperative spirit between the council members and city residents in the coming year."

"I'd add that I'm quitting smoking but I already did that nine months ago from Christmas Eve," he said. "And I don't plan on starting again. It was tough to quit that time."

Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard said he resolves "not to make any resolutions but if I did it would be to smile more in 1982."

However, Mary Hawthorne, Casselberry's City Clerk for the past 18 years, has definite ideas about making resolutions.

"Not that I have the power to do so, but if I could I'd put a cap on council meetings so that no meeting could last past 10 p.m.," she said.

A toast to Mary.

The East's Senate Races

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Thirty-three U.S. Senate seats will be contested in November 1982.

The Republicans think that they can strengthen their hold on that chamber, while the Democrats think that they can regain the control that they lost in 1980.

Twenty of the contested seats currently belong to the Democrats, and 12 belong to the Republicans. One is held by retiring independent Harry Byrd of Virginia.

We will examine the Northeast in the first two parts of this series of state-by-state reports on the 1982 Senate races.

CONNECTICUT:
Lowell Welcker, perhaps the Senate's most liberal Republican, has angered party regulars with his at best lukewarm support of the Reagan administration.

Anti-Welcker Republicans in the state are trying to convince Prescott Bush, the brother of Vice President George Bush, to challenge Welcker in the party primary or at the state GOP convention.

If Bush decides to run and if he appears to have enough support to win the nomination, Welcker can be expected to drop out of the Republican contest and to run in November as an independent.

The Democratic candidate will most likely be Toby Moffett, one of the most outspokenly liberal members of the House. As an Arab-American, he may encounter some opposition from Jewish organizations.

The early polls give Moffett a slight lead over Welcker in a two-way race and a strong lead in a three-way race. The Democrats may well win this seat.

DELAWARE:
Republican Sen. William Roth captured 64 percent of the vote six years ago. Early polls show him doing even better against businessman David Levinson, his probable Democratic challenger.

However, an upset is not impossible in this race if voters turn against the Reagan economic policies in which Roth has played a central role. He is, after all, one of the authors of "Kemp-Roth."

MAINE:
Democrat George Mitchell was appointed to the Senate in 1980 to succeed Edmund Muskie.

Traditionally, an appointed incumbent has trouble in his first test with the voters. Moreover, Mitchell has never run for public office.

Many Democratic regulars were lining up behind Ken Curtis, a former governor and Democratic national chairman, to challenge Mitchell in the party primary. But Curtis' political future is in some doubt following his recent mild heart attack.

The Republican candidate will be Rep. David Emery, who had an almost insurmountable lead over Mitchell in polls taken last summer. But Mitchell is running hard, and recent polls show the race to be almost even.

Many Democrats now are urging Curtis to make the much easier race for Emery's House seat and to leave the Senate race to Mitchell. That contest now has to be rated a toss-up.

MARYLAND:
Democrat Paul Sarbanes captured 59 percent of the vote six years ago.

He is likely to do even better this time in light of the unpopularity of the Reagan administration among the many bureaucrats who live in the District of Columbia's Maryland suburbs and the heavy Democratic majority in Baltimore and environs.

Outhouse Joke Irks Interior Secretary

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt has probably drawn more criticism than any other member of President Reagan's Cabinet.

Environmentalists have collected more than a million signatures on a petition demanding his resignation. The nation's political cartoonists have had a field day with both his policy statements and his balding, bespectacled appearance.

Through it all, Watt has managed to maintain at least a public image of good humor. In fact, his ability to laugh off the sometimes shrill denunciations heaped on him may be one of his strongest attributes. The public retains a soft spot for the politician who can take a joke.

But "clearcut," as Watt is not affectionately known in the department — an apparent attempt to link his high forehead to his forest-management policies — has not shown equal patience with opposition among his own subordinates. He has reportedly asked for a list of all Interior Department

Honesty Vs. Indignation

There are reactions and then there are reactions to Poland's agony.

An especially interesting one surfaced the other day in a Wall Street Journal report concerning the impact on the business to which the Poles are in hock for all those billions.

"Most bankers think authoritarian governments are good because they impose discipline," an unidentified American executive was quoted as observing. "Everytime there's a coup d'etat in Latin America, there's much rejoicing and knocking at the door offering credit."

As reactions go, that has to take the hard-nosed prize. But coming from a business that can't afford to be governed by emotion and sentiment in responding to the world's crises, it at least represents honesty.

An honesty, however, that is not only in striking contrast to the righteous indignation with which the many spokesmen for the West, in governments and media, have been responding to this crisis.

Poland's generals and the men in the Kremlin presumed to be behind them have been denounced in the strongest terms for the suppression of a nation's desire for freedom. After being solemnly warned against the use of force, they have used it.

In retaliation, the West — although with something considerably short of unanimity — has threatened them with an array of economic and financial countermeasures. The editorialists, meanwhile, exhort us to do "everything possible" to assist the Poles.

In all this denouncing and exhorting, however, it is notable that no one is seriously discussing, let alone advocating, the ultimate sanction.

No one is suggesting that December of 1981 should be a replay of September of 1939. No one is proposing that the West or any part of it put itself on the line for Poland now, as Britain and France so reluctantly did then.

No one is even calling for precautionary mobilization of the West's undermanned divisions or revving up the transports of the emergency strike forces, just in case.

And because no one is doing any of this, there is a quality of frustration about the West's righteous indignation, a desire to sound like something is being done because it is recognized that the crucial decision has already been made, instantly and instinctively: World War III will not begin in Poland in December of 1981.

Much of what is being said to make us feel better may be true.

Poland — as Czechoslovakia and Hungary before it — tellingly demonstrates the bankruptcy of communism and exposes the system in Eastern Europe for what it is, a Soviet empire based on bayonets. An empire that in the long run is more of a threat to than a guarantee of Soviet security.

Further, the Soviet Union itself is, if anything, in fundamentally worse shape than its vassals, including prostrate Poland. Its ponderously inefficient economy is incapable of meeting the needs of its people, its frozen society incapable of accommodating the change essential to the system's survival.

It may be true that in the end, the Soviets will be the losers.

All that said, however, Poland remains under military occupation, by Polish generals acting on their own or at Soviet behest, whatever the true case may be. Elsewhere, troops remain in their barracks and missiles remain in silos.

And no one is saying it should be otherwise: The leadership of nations, to be honest about it, is a business in which neither sentiment nor righteous indignation ultimately determines reactions.

Politics and prudence do.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

For A New Start Next Year

As the first year of the Reagan administration draws to an end, Americans are making appraisals of its performance.

Political foes of the administration are depicting it as reckless abroad and inhumane at home. This is an absurd judgment. If anything, the administration has been too cautious in dealing with the Cuban-Soviet menace in Central America. At home, the country suffers from economic problems that stem from earlier administrations. We aren't in a "Reagan recession," as Tip O'Neill says. The recession is the result of the so-called New Frontier, Great Society social programs and the Carter administration.

Nevertheless, the economic problems are real and must be handled by the Reagan administration. One doesn't envy Mr. Reagan this task. He is trying to deal with wasteful practices that date back almost 50 years to the beginning of the Roosevelt New Deal. He is having to reckon with the "something for nothing" mentality that came into the national consciousness decades ago. U.S. auto workers, for example, want more pay than their work warrants.

One tremendously important result of the first Reagan year — perhaps the most important — is action towards rebuilding the nation's deteriorated defenses. The American people should be thankful that President Reagan gave priority to new defense programs. Without these programs, there would be no chance of peace in the future. The Soviets gauge our resolve on the basis of our action with respect to arms.

On the economic front, President Reagan also was right to press for tax cuts so as to encourage new investment. There's no hope for America as an industrial power if it can't modernize its factories. Modernization would be impossible without changes in the tax law. The liberal administrations penalized investment in productive equipment.

Mr. Reagan has had less luck in dismantling the edifice of Big Government. Countless regulations are still in place, as are the bureaucrats who conceived them in the first place. He is saddled with Civil Service employees who want more government, not less. He could have helped himself and the country by putting more committed conservatives in key policy posts. One of his worst mistakes was to hire Pendleton James as his top personnel man. Mr. James wasn't interested in getting qualified conservatives in the top positions in government. The President is paying for this mistake right now.

Few administrations remain unchanged during four years in office. No doubt this will be the situation in the Reagan administration. A personnel shakeup is needed in many departments. Too many liberal retirees are in place at the State Department. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) seems committed to the liberal solutions of yesterday. A few cabinet changes would be in order.

Prompt action to curb the flood of imports is essential, as is labor legislation to end monopoly unionism. The top White House advisers seem unwilling to tackle the union hierarchy, to which they attribute political power which they don't possess.

As a starter, the Reagan White House could stop catering to the thug-infested Teamsters Union and launch some tough prosecutions aimed at union abuses.

The conservatives in Congress, who are letting the union monopolists off the hook, need to take the same line. They promised much more in the election than they have attempted since they were elected.

Jackson: Conditions For Refugees An 'Outrage'

MIAMI (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson is calling for "some of the most massive disciplined demonstrations" in the nation's history if the government doesn't improve conditions at the Krome detention center for Haitian refugees.

Jackson toured the camp on the fringe of the Everglades Wednesday and called the conditions for 508 Haitians and 43 other aliens an outrage. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials argued that conditions are clean and more than adequate.

No Raises For Fla. Workers

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Jack Gordon says state employees may have to live without a pay raise if the Legislature is to pass a 1982-83 budget which would meet Florida's most critical needs.

"I'm inclined to conclude that state employees will have to forego a pay raise," the Miami Beach banker said in an interview Wednesday. "The choice seems to be fewer people and big cuts in programs or no pay raises."

Once Really Wasn't Enough

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Bay County sheriffs deputies say Giovanni Vigliotto was a smooth talker — slick enough to con over 80 women into marrying him so he could run off with their money.

Vigliotto, 52, arrested in Panama City on Monday, may have married more than 80 women across the country. He ran "a confidence game for women," Bill Marshall, chief of the U.S. marshal's office in Pensacola, said Wednesday.

China Blasts U.S. Plans To Sell Arms To Taiwan

PEKING (UPI) — China criticized the Reagan administration today for its intention to sell arms to Taiwan, saying the United States was using "tricks" to violate a 3-year-old agreement to normalize relations.

The U.S. government "has aggravated the seriousness of the problem, pushing it to the point where there is no alternative but to solve it," the Communist Party newspaper People's Daily said in a leadership-approved commentary.

The article did not say how China would act in such a showdown.

The commentary clearly was intended as a response to the Reagan administration's decision to ask Congress for approval of a $97 million sale of military spare parts to Taiwan.

No decision has been made by Washington yet on Taiwan's request for sophisticated fighter jets to modernize its fleet of U.S.-built planes.

The editorial repeated China's opposition to the sale of U.S. arms to Taiwan and said the Chinese government "definitely cannot adopt an unprincipled stance of tolerance" on the dispute.

It said the United States and China could have negotiated a settlement to the dispute over Taiwan.

"But what is regrettable is that during the three years since relations were established, the U.S. government not relations, it also used all kinds of tricks to evade the constraints," it said.

Today, the Chinese people have stood up. They will absolutely not tolerate any foreign country that violates China's sovereignty, partition Chinese territory and interfere in China's internal affairs.

The United States and China opened liaison offices in each other's country in May-June 1973. Relations between the two countries were restored Jan. 1, 1979, after a break of 30 years.

From Peking's point of view, Washington recognized Peking as the only government of China and Taiwan is a part of China. The U.S. government, therefore, has no business selling arms to Taiwan, the Chinese maintain.

"Today, the Chinese people have stood up," the commentary warned. "They will absolutely not tolerate any foreign country that violates China's sovereignty, partition Chinese territory and interfere in China's internal affairs."

Chinese leaders have warned Sino-U.S. ties would suffer if any arms were sold to Taiwan. So far, there have been no Chinese actions but the commentary indicated that point might be near.

Chinese officials had indicated a series of responses have been considered, including downgrading diplomatic relations to charge d'affaires level but public statements have never spelled these out clearly.

Bitter Cure For Hiccups

BOSTON (UPI) — Folk wisdom advises sufferers of hiccups to eat granulated sugar. Or breathe from a paper bag. Or arrange to be startled with a loud noise to scare away the hiccup demon.

A former bartender and a doctor have another cure. They advise hiccups to eat a lemon wedge of the size served at bars, saturated with Angostura bitters. Sugar can be added to make it go down more easily. Leave the rind.

David S. Nolan, the bartender, and Dr. Jay Howard Sherman wrote in a letter to the New England Journal of Medicine today the remedy cured hiccups in 88 percent of the people they tried it on.

The hiccups stopped within a minute for at least two hours. Some victims required two doses.

The two investigators from Baltimore said this method has been known for a long time to bartenders, but hasn't been accorded scientific recognition with a listing in a medical journal. They were unsure what the active ingredient was.

There was one qualification: The treatment worked on hiccups caused by drinking. Whether other types would succumb also was unknown. "Further clinical trials are in progress," they wrote.

Hiccups are caused by involuntary spasms of the diaphragm, the thin sheet of muscle under the lungs, followed by closing of the space between the vocal cords and windpipe.

They are triggered most of the time by irritation of the nerves controlling the muscles involved in breathing. Culprits can include swallowing hot or irritating substances, pneumonia, alcoholism, stomach and intestinal disorders, pregnancy, bladder irritation and other conditions.

Hiccups can be temporary or last for years. Raising the carbon dioxide in the blood is the most common way of stopping hiccups and there are all sorts of ways of doing that, most involving slowing down breathing.

She had a twinkle in her eye like that of a new bride coming down the church steps with her favorite man securely latched on to her left arm.

Evans High basketball coach Dorothy Starbird had been stood up at the basketball altar the past two years by arch-rival Edgewater in the championship game of the Lady Hawk Invitational at Lake Howell.

This time, however, there would be no jilting. Lady Trojan attendants Tonya Burton, Ava Anderson, Jackie Hill and Kim Dean would see to that.

The talented foursome combined for 49 points as Evans turned back a stubborn Winter Park crew, 56-49, to capture the Fifth Annual Lady Hawk Invitational's title trophy Wednesday night in the Silver Hawk gym.

"I was getting so tired of taking home that second place trophy," admitted Starbird after the game. "It sure is nice to get first place.

"We have the talent, it's just getting them to think out there on the court or maybe not think too much out there," laughed the veteran coach while receiving congratulations from exultant fans and players.

The talent was never in doubt as displayed Tuesday night when Evans blew away a speedy Seminole High club, 84-69. The Tribe bounced back to beat Edgewater, 62-53, and capture the third place trophy. It was the third such trophy in the tournament's for Sanford.

In Wednesday's first game, Apopka dealt Lake Brantley a 45-35 lacing for the fifth place trophy in a battle between two Five Star Conference teams.

The Five Star, nevertheless, once again took a back seat to its powerful Metro Conference rivals in the tournament. The Orlando conference has won the top prize four years running. Evans finally succeeded Denis McCarty's Edgewater group which had a streak of three in a row. Lake Howell won the tournament in its baptismal year.

Despite an off-shooting night, Evans took control immediately as Burton, who was named the tournament's most valuable, forward Jackie Hill and junior Ava Anderson took control of the backboards en route to a 16-10 first-quarter lead.

The Trojans connected on just 6-of-18 field goals, but Burton and Anderson combined for 10 points on rebound efforts. Winter Park was just as cool with 5-of-15 fielders, but quick guard Laura Pinkney turned in a steal and a layup to keep the Wildcats within striking distance.

Pinkney, along with passing wizard Pam Marr, battled the 'Cats back from nine points down in the closing minute of the half to 27-24, but guard Tonya Little popped in a jumper at the buzzer for a 29-24 Trojan edge at halftime.

Evans was just 12-of-38 from the floor for 32 percent, but Winter Park was slogging along at only 10-of-24 for 42 percent. Burton and Anderson each had eight points, while junior center Felisha Johnson tossed in nine and Pinkney eight for the 'Cats.

Burton, who had 20 points Tuesday, initiated a spurt which buried Winter Park with six minutes left in the third quarter. Burton hit a jumper from the baseline, then fired in a fallaway jump shot and was fouled. Her free throw put Evans up, 36-28.

The Trojans then ran off a 12-4 streak which had Winter Park down, 48-32, entering the final eight minutes.

Evans held a 50-36 bulk midway through the fourth quarter when coach Bill Streitberger's club started its comeback. Senior Phyllis Millspaugh, Johnson and Pinkney hit jumpers to pull the 'Cats within, 50-40.

Both clubs traded several turnovers before Anderson dropped in a bucket with two minutes left for a 57-40 game. The irrepresible Mary, however, canned two free throws and two long bombs to pull the Parkers to 52-46 with 50 ticks to go.

Pinkney then stole the ball and was fouled on her layup attempt with 48 seconds left. She converted one free throw, but Hill dropped in a bucket with 33 seconds to play and point guard Kim Dean hit two free throws with seven seconds left to ice the victory.

Lake Brantley's Linda Nunez fires a jump shot over Apopka's Sandra Ashley in fifth place game action Wednesday. The Blue Darters used a strong third quarter to tip the Pats, 45-35.

Hillery Hoists Tribe Into Third Place

Seminole High sophomore Dieder Hillery came off the bench and poured in six straight points Wednesday night to ease the Tribe past Edgewater, 62-53, to the third place trophy in the Fifth Annual Lady Hawk Invitational at Lake Howell High School.

Sanford held a precarious 43-41 lead entering the fourth quarter when coach Ron Merthie called on his 6-0 sophomore. Hillery responded with a rebound bucket, a short jumper and two clutch free throws to boost Seminole's lead to 49-42.

"I knew she could do it, but I was kind of surprised to see her do it in that pressure situation," said Merthie about his quickly-developing young center. "She controlled the boards and I was glad to see her have that much confidence in the clutch."

After Hillery's stellar showing, Sanford's veterans — seniors Robin Higgins, Tony Hardy and Cathy Jones — took control of the game. Hardy broke loose for a layup and a rebound bucket after Jones had put Sanford up by nine with a nice baseline move.

Higgins converted 5-of-6 free throws in the final 45 seconds to hold off the charging Eagles. The steady senior also ran the 'Noles delay game to perfection for Sanford's seventh victory in nine games.

In the first quarter, Jones hit three of her patented baseline jumpers as Seminole cruised to a 16-10 advantage. Hardy and another senior, Johmie Bennett, bewildered the Eagles with their speed as Hardy supplied the passes and Bennett the points.

"She's changing her image," Merthie said about Hardy, who had been primarily a scorer her past two years. "Before, she had more confidence in her layup, but now, she's learned to pass the ball and pick up the assists."

At one point, the speedy senior had four straight assists. Hardy finished the night with 17 points, 10 assists, six steals and 10 rebounds. Jones tossed in 14 points, Bennett dropped in 11 and Higgins popped in 10.

Edgewater's fine forward Suzi Cranford totaled 17 points, while versatile Zena McKenzie added 15. Seminole reopens its Five Star Conference season on Monday at DeLand.

In Wednesday's opening game, Apopka went on a 14-6 spurt in the third quarter to break open a tight game and whip Lake Brantley, 45-35, for the fifth place position in the tournament.

Apopka held a narrow, 13-12 halftime edge, but senior Pauline Barnes and Sue Grant the third-quarter outburst which jumped the Blue Darter lead to 27-18 at the end of the third period.

Barnes finished with 18 points to lead all scorers, while Grant contributed 10. Linda Trimble had 10 points for the Lady Patriots and point guard Linda Nunez chipped in nine. The Patriots are 7-3 for the year.

Keymont Cuts Hornets Into Pizza Hut Trophy

Bishop Moore's Mark Keymont booted home three goals Wednesday to lift the Hornets past Lyman, 5-1, at Lake Brantley for the Pizza Hut Invitational soccer tournament title.

Keymont, who was named the tournament's most valuable player, now has 106 career goals placing him third on the all-time career scholastic goal list. He had eight for the three-game tournament.

Prep Soccer

Evans, who blanked Edgewater, 6-0, for third place, was paced by the tournament's most valuable defensive player, Mark Monbarren.

Host Lake Brantley was edged for fifth place, 2-1, by Oak Ridge.

In the Boone Junior Varsity Soccer Classic, Lake Howell dropped

Seminole, 4-1, Wednesday for the championship.

The Silver Hawks bolted to a 4-0 edge before the Tribe JV added a goal in the closing minute.

Coach Walt Morgan's Lake Mary Rams finished third by beating Colonial, 5-3. Don Kelly added two goals and Mark Volchko added two more. Assists went to Jeff Cashion and Joe Dalton.

On Tuesday, Jay Sapp had two penalty kick goals as the Rams dropped Apopka, 4-3. Volchko and Kelly added the other Lake Mary scores, while goalie Paul Ayala, who splits time with Dalton, turned in the save of the game — stopping a 12-foot penalty pick by the Blue Darters.

Seminole topped Lake Mary, 2-1, in the opening round Monday.

Gators Chase Luck

Peach

ATLANTA (UPI) — Florida and West Virginia, two teams featuring offenses built around the pass, collide today at Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium in the 14th annual Peach Bowl.

Florida is favored by a touchdown. West Virginia features the passing of Oliver Luck, while Florida will bank on the strong arm of Wayne Peace. Each team averaged about 30 passes per game.

The 6-2, 190-pounder from Cleveland, who holds most of West Virginia's passing records, will be relying on his strong arm to speak for him against the Gator defense.

Luck passed for 2,341 yards as the Mountaineers ran up a 6-3 record in 1981.

Florida finished its Southeastern Conference season with a 7-4 record while West Virginia ended the regular season campaign at 8-3.

Kickoff was scheduled for 3 p.m. The opposing quarterbacks have two outstanding receivers in Mark Haugh and Spencer Jackson.

Haugh caught 61 passes from West Virginia quarterback Oliver Luck, who finished the 1981 season with a fine 54.4 percent average on 202 completions in 371 attempts, including 15 touchdowns.

Peace, a sophomore who warmed up for the post-season contest by throwing four scores in the Gators' 35-3 rout of Florida State, completed 39 passes to Jackson for 449 yards and five touchdowns during the season.

"It's going to be a wide-open shootout. We just hope we get the last shot," said Florida Coach Charley Pell.

"We like to throw it," said West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen.

The Gators rate a 7-1/2 point favorite, mainly on a defense keyed by their linebackers which ranked first in the Southeastern Conference and 11th in the nation.

Linebackers Wilber Marshall, Fernando Jackson and Tom Wiegmann racked up 352 tackles among them with Marshall, a converted tight end, the leader at 121, including 11 quarterback sacks. Free safety Tony Lilly added another 107 tackles.

Peace, who has not put the ball up as much as Luck but still completed 159 of 273 tosses for 1,803 yards and 11 touchdowns, will leave the running mainly to 234-pound fullback James Jones who gained 617 yards in 166 tries, including nine touchdowns, and caught 22 passes for another 182 yards.

In three previous Peach Bowl visits, West Virginia won two and lost one and has a 5-3 post season record overall. Florida is 6-6 in a dozen bowl games but is making its first appearance in the Peach Bowl.

ROBIN FISHER ...runs for luck

Buckeyes Use Third-Quarter Surge To Spoil Navy's Sendoff For Welsh

Liberty

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Navy, a two-touchdown underdog, looked like it might stun heavily favored Ohio State in the Liberty Bowl.

But Ohio rebounded to overcome a 20-17 Navy lead in the third quarter to win the 23rd annual bowl, 31-28, Wednesday night.

For Navy Coach George Welsh the game marked the end of an era. For more than nine seasons he was Navy's winningest coach with a tally of 55 wins, 46 losses and one tie. Now, he is taking over the Virginia Cavaliers.

"I'm going to miss a lot of things at Navy particularly the players," said Welsh, whose team went 7-4-1 this year. "I can take great pride in this football team. We didn't quit. It was a good effort."

Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce, who shunned social events most of the week to prepare his team for the game, said, "We came to win a bowl game, and it worked out well."

"Navy's a tough team. A lot of people have been putting them down, but they were really tough."

Ohio State senior quarterback Art Schlichter completed 11 of 26 passes for 159 yards and two touchdowns, including a 50-yard bomb to a favorite receiver, Gary Williams, and a 9-yard scoring pass to flanker Cedric Anderson, former Apopka High standout.

But, Navy quarterback Marco Pagnanelli unexpectedly won the duel of the signal-callers. He completed 14 of 27 passes for 201 yards and two touchdowns.

Ohio State opened a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on a 35-yard field goal by Bob Atha, the Buckeyes' backup quarterback, kicker and part-time flanker. The score was set up after a Steve Fehr punt was blocked and the ball recovered at the Navy 24.

Navy tailback Eddie Meyers, who ran for 117 yards and named the game's most valuable player, fumbled on the Midshipmen's next possession.

Ohio State recovered and on the next play, Schlichter fired a 50-yard spiral to Williams for a touchdown to make it 10-0.

The ensuing Navy drive appeared to bog down at their 45. It was fourth and 13 when Fehr faked a punt and lobbed the ball to defensive back Brian Cianella, who gained 39 yards for a first down on the Buckeye 16. Six plays later Pagnanelli threw a 1-yard scoring pass to tight end Gregory Papajohn that made it 10-7.

In the second quarter, another Navy drive stalled at the Ohio State 24 and Fehr kicked a 41-yard field goal to tie it at 10-10.

The Buckeyes pulled ahead again minutes later when tackle Jerome Foster recovered a Pagnanelli fumble and seven plays later tailback Jimmy Gayle ran in for a one-yard score.

Navy then drove from its 20 to the Buckeye 23 and Fehr kicked his second field goal, a 23-yarder that made the half-time score 17-13 for Ohio State.

Navy's George Herlong blocked the punt of Karl Edwards in the third quarter and Kenneth Olson ran in for the touchdown that gave the Midshipmen their only lead at 20-17.

Ohio State took the lead back for good at 24-20 when Gayle ran for a two-yard score, his second touchdown.

Schlichter threw nine yards to Anderson in the fourth quarter as Ohio State took a 31-20 lead and Navy scored its last touchdown with eight seconds remaining.

In that score, Pagnanelli threw one yard to Papajohn and repeated a pass to Papajohn for a two-point conversion.

Dallas Focuses Attention On Bear's Cotton Hunt

Cotton

DALLAS (UPI) — When third-ranked Alabama comes to town, the attention immediately focuses on Coach Bear Bryant, and this week in Dallas has been no exception.

But that's fine with the Crimson Tide players, because they look upon him as the star of the team. In most cases, Bryant is the reason they're at the school in the first place.

"It's been wonderful just being here, just knowing him personally," said Lyles, who was named the Cotton Bowl's most valuable defensive player a year ago in Alabama's 30-2 dismantling of the Baylor Bears.

"If you can survive in this system for four years, then you come away knowing the facts of life and how to survive in the world."

With Bryant, as well as others, the theory goes that the head man sits back and leaves most of the work and decision making to the assistants.

"But this business that he leaves everything to other people is so much bunk," said one member of the Cotton Bowl selection committee and a good friend of Bryant's. "There is not one thing that happens with that team he doesn't know about and have a hand in."

And when it is lecture time, Bryant is there to deliver one.

"Back during our two-day workouts this year," Lyles recalled, "a lot of the guys were not getting up and eating breakfast. They were trying to get as much sleep as they could because those two-days are hard times."

"Well, the cooks were getting there at 3 a.m. or something like that to prepare the breakfast and they were mad because nobody was coming down to the cafeteria to eat. They complained to Coach Bryant."

"One morning I'm in the training room early for treatment. I had eaten breakfast already, thank goodness. And Coach Bryant came up to me and asked what I thought about him going over to the dorm and knocking on the doors and telling everybody they should be eating breakfast."

"I said I thought it was a good idea. I thought it was a good idea because I was in the training room and not in my room asleep."

"So the coach did just that. Not too many people missed breakfast anymore."

SLIDE-LECTURE PROGRAM ON RUSSIA

Longwood Woman's Club president Gladys Piloian, left, introduced the club's guest speaker, Ruth Hamilton, at the annual December holiday meeting. Mrs. Hamilton, world traveler, educator and artist, has visited the Soviet Union three times. Her slide-lecture theme featured the peasant society of Russia that, for centuries was called "baptized property" and was released from bondage after the 1917 revolution and the 350 years of cruel rule by the Romanov dynasty. Mrs. Hamilton also displayed many arts and crafts items from Russia.

Many foods have a high percentage of water. An egg is about 74 percent water; a watermelon, 92 percent; and a piece of beefsteak, about 73 percent.

Resolutions: Take A Day At A Time

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published some New Year's resolutions. I cut that column out and taped it on my bathroom mirror where I could read it every morning. I want you to know that it has helped me to become a better person. I am not saying that I kept every one of these resolutions every day, but I kept most of them and they have now become habits that have made a remarkable improvement in my personality and character.

I hope you will repeat that column every New Year's Eve. I'm sure it will benefit many others as it has me.

NEVERTOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: By popular demand, my "resolutions" column has become an annual tradition, and here it is:

DEAR READERS: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own:

Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appeal me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things that I can change and accept those things I cannot change.

Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do a good deed for somebody — without letting him know it. (If he or she finds out I did it, it won't count.)

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to cut down. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I will force myself to exercise—even if it's only walking around the block, or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I will be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not try to bluff; I'll simply say, "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet, or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true? Is it kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. Just for today I'll not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Hernia, Reflux All The Same

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time ago, after a barium X-ray, my doctor told me that I have an esophageal reflux. He recommended nothing but Maalox. This eased the problem when it occurred, so I continued using it.

Later I saw another doctor and explained my symptoms, burning pain in the chest between my breasts, especially strong when I lie down after eating. He said I have a hiatal hernia. He recommended no other treatment but Maalox either.

What is the difference between these two conditions? Do I need to know which one I have and how do I find out? Can either lead to an ulcer? What other treatment can I use? Should I change my diet to eliminate certain foods? My weight is good, so that should not contribute to my problem.

DEAR READER — Both of your doctors really have the same opinion. Hiatal hernia means that a portion of the stomach slides through an enlarged hole in your diaphragm. It slides intermittently, when you lie down or when your stomach is too full.

In some patients with a hiatal hernia the closure mechanism at the top of the stomach doesn't work right and that allows the contents of the stomach to leak upward into the lower esophagus. That leakage is called esophageal reflux.

The catch is that some people have esophageal reflux problems even if they do not have a hiatal hernia and some people with a hiatal hernia don't have reflux problems.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux, which will help you.

Maalox or other antacids used to neutralize the stomach acid help to prevent the burning you feel in the lower esophagus when reflux occurs. It usually is more apt to occur when you lie down. You would be better off to eat small meals and remember not to lie down for at least two hours after eating. When you do lie down, keep the head of the bed elevated. Avoid bending over and tight belts or garments around your waist. If you have any extra pounds eliminate them. Avoid coffee, tea and alcohol.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My brother has a hemochromatosis, excess iron in his system. What causes this? How can it be treated? Is it hereditary? This condition was not discovered even after tests until he was operated on for what the doctors thought was cancer. His only treatment is to give one pint of blood each week. He is 68 and his diet has always been normal in every way.

DEAR READER — Hemochromatosis is a rare disease caused by excess storage of iron in the tissues, and the liver is usually the first organ severely affected.

This can be an inherited characteristic. It can occur in people who have some defect in developing red blood cells and in people who tend to ingest too much iron or absorb too much iron for any reason. The combination of iron and alcohol enhances the likelihood of iron deposits in the liver.

The body really loses very little iron each day and normally we absorb only about 10 percent of the iron in our food. The best way to eliminate the excess iron is through removing blood regularly as is being done for your brother. The regular removal of iron in the hemoglobin gradually diminishes the body's iron stores. It will take some time to accomplish.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, January 1, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

January 1, 1982
This coming year you could be luckier than usual in enterprises or ventures you personally conceive. Don't discount your bright ideas for moving up in the world.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're rather good at remembering what you have to do, but today it will prove helpful to make a written list. Your memory might be unreliable. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your new Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Look gift horses in the mouth today. Another could offer to give you something, or do something for you, with many strings attached.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your expectations will be high today. Unfortunately, you're apt to talk more about reaching your goals than you're prepared to do to pursue them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There is a chance you may be more of a daydreamer today than a visionary. Recall: Ideas must be practical as well as clever.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today is not the time to enter into any schemes which may be of dubious merit. Double-check all ramifications instead of hastily agreeing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you really aren't up to participating in an activity with another today, speak up. His or her disappointment will be greater if you go along, but show no enthusiasm.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're far better at rationalizing today than you may be at performing. Excuses come easy to you, but the energy to do the task won't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If an opportunity today can be had only at the expense of another, turn your back on it. Your nobler instincts won't let you enjoy it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A close associate may lead you to think too negatively today. You must be able to distinguish between fact and illusion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you agree to do something today solely to get another person out of your hair, chances are you'll bungle the job anyway. It's best to find a way to put it off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're likely to be a trifle restless today and will want to break your customary routine. This is a good idea, but steer clear of expensive activities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're apt to be very sharp today in evaluating things which could contribute to your material security, but you might not be too keen at judging the character of others.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Except for Edith Kemp the only living woman to have won the Spingold is Margaret Wagar of Atlanta. Maggie won it in 1946 and 1948, but her string of women's and mixed victories started in 1940.

She has stopped serious play the last few years, but still appears occasionally to lend her charming presence to Atlanta tournaments.

Her 1948 win came with a pretty good team consisting of Sam Stayman, George Raape, John Crawford and Howard Schenken.

We are not going to name whether Howard or John was the North player who put her in seven hearts in this hand from one of the early matches. Suffice to say that if she had gone down the team would have been eliminated right then and there.

As you can see, there is no serious play for seven. Maggie studied dummy for a couple of seconds, but no one could tell from her expression that she was in trouble. She took her ace of diamonds and led a trump to dummy's king. She returned to her ace and then led the queen of spades.

West ducked quickly and was conspicuously unsuccessful since Margaret led the queen riddle and had stolen the grand slam.

We still sympathize with poor West, but still must give our lady from Atlanta greatly deserved credit for devising and executing the lucky play.
