ILL WHEN CRIME WAS COMMITTED

No Technical Terms
Dr. White in his testimony as an expert alienist and psychiatrist never used a technical term. In language that did not belaud his testimony by the use of polysyllables and scientific phraseology, he "talked" from the witness stand in a slow well rounded tone that held the tense interest of Judge Sawyer, the attorneys and the spectators.

The witness reached his observation on the dual personality of the defendants after a long review of the life history of each. He referred to Loeb as "Dickie" and to Leopold as "Babe," explaining that he fell into the habit of applying the diminutive to the former, and that Leopold had insisted upon being called by his college nick name.

"Emotionally the boys are in an infantile state," said Dr. White. "Loeb is about four or five years old in that respect and Leopold not more than five to seven."
"Both, too, started with a feeling of inferiority but while Dickie succumbed to this and developed antisocial tendencies Babe defended himself by consciously building up a feeling of intellectual superiority, fortified by a philosophy of meekness in which there was no God, and emotion was stifled."

Big Riddle Not Solved
The big riddle of the case as to which boy actually stunned and strangled young Franks was not solved by the doctor. Mr. Crowe asked him about it on cross examination but the expert said he had not taken up that aspect of the crime with his subjects.
"It really made no difference as to their guilt," he explained.
"Who do you think killed Franks?" persisted Mr. Crowe.
"It must have been Dickie," said Dr. White.
Loeb visibly gulped when this came out. He leaned forward and appeared to grip himself. Leopold looked thoughtful and stroked his chin.

MALARIA RAVAGES SIBERIA

KRASNOYARSK, Siberia, July 31.—More than 8,000 persons have been stricken with malaria which has been spreading alarmingly throughout Siberia, especially in the Yenisei district. Emergency medical stations have been established in the worst affected areas, but the presence of large bodies of stagnant water and marshes has made the relief work difficult.

Clearing Houses Have Less Excess

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The actual condition of the clearing House banks and trust companies for the week show an excess reserve of $25,965,800, a decrease of $3,914,510.

"Dickie with his inferiority complex developed definite anti-social tendencies," he said. "He needed an audience and in reality Babe was that audience. In Dickie's phantasies his imaginary criminal gang was his audience. But Babe constantly reinforced Dickie when he needed bolstering."

Needed Complement
"Babe also needed a complement and he picked out Dickie. They took turns in playing the parts of inferior and superior—king and slave. Their phantasy lives fit into each other with almost devilian ingenuity."

Dr. White stated that in the Franks case it was Babe who evolved the alibi stories that were to save them if adhered to. It was Babe, too, he said, who insisted upon the last telephone call to Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, in a final effort to collect the $10,000 ransom money.
"Dickie, by this time, was convinced their cause was lost and it was useless to run further risks," said Dr. White.
In his outline of the boys' lives, Dr. White dwelt in Loeb's case upon the influence of a "frater foolish, somewhat prudish and austere governess," who cared for Dickie for about six years, starting from the time he was four. The suppression of this woman forced on her young charge kept Loeb from leading a normal child life, the doctor said, and left him totally unprepared for adolescence.

THIRD PARTY IS LIKELY TO GET LABOR'S SUPPORT

"Bid Made for Labor Support."
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—While the principal attention of leaders of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential campaign organization were centered yesterday upon Atlantic City where the executive council of the American Federation of Labor is in session to consider the question of endorsing the independent movement, reports were received by the Wisconsin senator upon progress in other sections of the country.
Word was received during the day from Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, the national campaign manager with headquarters at Chicago, that success had met efforts of the executive committee to have LaFollette-Wheeler placed on the ballot in Nevada. Although but 2,700 signatures are required to petitions nominating LaFollette-Wheeler electors in that state, he said 3,000 had been obtained and he promised another 2,000 within 48 hours.
Emergency action had been taken in that state by the National Progressive Executive committee, since nominations will close next Tuesday.
It was also pointed out at LaFollette headquarters that the new third ticket organization had been the first to attack the war department test plan scheduled for national defense day. In support of this claim, Basil M. Manley, one of the executive committee members, gave out copies of a resolution approved by the convention at the national conference for progressive political action at Cleveland July 4, denounced the scheme as militaristic.

State School Fund Has $2,358,667 In Gilt-Edge Bonds

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 2.—The Florida state school fund now has in gilt-edge bonds $2,358,667. This was disclosed by Governor Harden during the course of a talk at the banquet marking the close here Friday of the Florida State College summer school. This amount, he said, compared to $1,809,667 in bonds held in the fund on January 1, 1921.
The fund is created by adding to it 25 per cent of the proceeds from sales of state lands, and the entire proceeds from the sale of school lands.
The governor pointed out that the fund has increased more than half a million dollars during the present administration, which he said had refused to sell school lands to any extent so the increase has come about through the 25 per cent from public land sales.
Creation of the school fund is provided for under the constitution which specifies that it must remain inviolate and that the interest must be pro-rated by the treasurer to the counties on their pro-rata school attendance.
Possibilities of creating a school fund from the sale of school lands alone may be seen from the fact that the state now holds something like 200,000 acres of these lands, according to the last available report. With lands increasing in value, and the state authorities pursuing a policy of holding them for top prices and enhanced values, possibilities of a school fund of unusual proportions are seen by those conversant with the situation.

Office of R. C. HUNTER & BRO., Architects
(House A-90)
AN ATTRACTIVE ENGLISH COTTAGE.

For the small house, the English cottage style is one of the most popular; there is a character and charm peculiar to this type of house that instantly appeals.
The house herewith illustrated shows how attractive this type can be made when properly designed. Here the roof lines have been so handled as to give the low cottage effect of the old English farmhouse type and still maintain a full second floor.
This is important when considered from the standpoint of economy, as every foot of floor space represents dollars expended and it must be used to full advantage. In other words, the house should have a charming exterior but it must also have an economical plan. In this little house the architects have completely met these requirements.
The plans are very compact. From the front door one enters into a small vestibule which opens into the living room, with a generous coat closet provided on one side.
The main stairs start up from the living room, opposite the entrance; while the cellar stairs go down from a rear entry, thus serving the kitchen as well as allowing access to the cellar from the outside. This rear entry provides space for the ice box, so the ice man does not enter the kitchen.
A generous sun porch opens from the living room. This porch has windows on three sides with flower boxes beneath.
On the second floor we find two large bedrooms, a smaller room and a good size bath room. There is ample closet space.
Throughout the house there has been reserved sufficient wall space for all of the furnishings, while at the same time the windows are large to give bright, cheerful interiors.
The house has a cellar under the full area and here is the laundry, heating plant, coal bin and storage space.
The front entrance of this little house is distinctive in design.
Cost about $7,500.
Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-90.

Each Reads The Riddle Its Own Way

Here comes a new obstacle to the success of the Democratic party at the polls in November—or is it an indication of Democratic success, a sort of "expression of confidence" in better days ahead?

We are referring to the prices of wheat and corn and pork. They are going up, up, up. The Northwest whence only a few weeks ago came nothing but news of financial disasters now begins to smile.

To the Republican party the better times for the farmers means support for the G. O. P. ticket in November. To the Democrats—that is to some of them—it indicates quickened business and more confident prices in face of the hope of a change in the government at Washington.

In the meantime, the dollars are traveling into the Northwest and into Kansas and its neighboring corn-raising states. There is a chance, it seems, for the farmers to get back on their feet.

And it all rests with the farmers' general memory and their general confidence regarding political parties as a whole, whether they turn en masse against the G. O. P. because of the lack of aid the Harding-Coolidge administration has given them, or keep on keeping on, sometimes up and sometimes down according to what the stock market gamblers decree!

Only in the count of the vote in the November election can we read the answer to the riddle.

Results Of War

The American Legion, Weekly in its issue of August 1 prints a series of statements made by many widely different notables concerning their views as to the results of the World War.

After reading over these various statements one cannot say there is any "consensus of opinion." Their authors all think differently. Some feel that the lives lost were wasted while others think that a great victory was won for democracy or that the very existence of the American nation was secured.

JANE ADAMS: America: President, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. (1) A revelation of what modern war is, when systematic propaganda arouses world-wide hate and when the latest methods of industrial efficiency achieve the maximum of slaughter and destruction.

FREDERICH WILHELM HOHENZOLLERN: Germany: The former Crown Prince. The United States entered the war believing to destroy militarism and to make the world free for democracy.

SAMUEL GOMPERS: America: President, American Federation of Labor. The world gained as a result of the great war a freedom from the menace of organized militarist imperialism without which all peoples sooner or later would have been enchained in bondage and vassalage.

CHARLES W. ELIOT: America: President Emeritus of Harvard University. The World War destroyed the huge, ignominious, German and Austrian autocracies, revived several freer nations which those autocracies had crushed or cut into pieces.

GEN. HENRY T. ALLEN: America: Formerly Commanding General, American Forces in Germany. The World War, for which we sent two million soldiers to Europe and for which we had an equal number in readiness for embarkation, afforded an exceptional opportunity for us to get an insight into the lives and motives of other nations.

NEWTON D. BAKER: America: Secretary of War during the World War. Until some effective arrangement is made whereby the United States will participate with the other great peoples of the world in the interest of peace, it will be difficult to extract from the consequences of the World War enough gains to console us for the tragic sacrifices which that war entailed.

UPTON SINCLAIR: America: Author; exponent of the radical viewpoint. The world gained by the World War an opportunity to learn thoroughly that capitalist governments are incompetent to manage civilized communities, and that national competition for raw materials and foreign markets will wreck civilization unless the present generalship is checked by a system of international co-operation.

MAXIMILIAN HARDEN: German educator, intractable enemy of the Hohenzollerns. The certainty that war has lost its last gliding charm of romantic chivalry or knight hood, that it has lost the manly nobility of a fight to be decided by personal valor, and has become an endless war of industrial masses of matter and physical and chemical devils' work.

SIR PHILIP GIBBS: Great Britain: War correspondent, author. The only gain to humanity from the World War, as far as I can see now, was the inspiration that comes from the sudden release of youth and its ready sacrifice for ideals higher than self-interest.

As Brisbane Sees It

Here Comes a Broom, Wheat Train, 2 Miles Long. It's Darwin's Fault. Poor Little Peggy.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

A HAPPY day all around Thursday for those that own things or speculate in them. Stocks went up with grain. The big steel company, selling more than 70,000 shares for the day, went above 107, in spite of steel conditions, thoroughly bad on the surface.

If that settlement of European troubles does come, even with innocent Americans pouring their savings into foreign bonds, you will see fireworks on the Stock Exchange and in business generally.

THE "DAWES Plan of Reparations" is making progress. Unless the wise men are mistaken, that is progress toward a boom in prosperity.

You find on important points "unanimous agreement." Something new. If the plan goes through Europe will begin spending money here for American goods. They will be paid for with money borrowed from us, but that won't interfere with the "boom," at least for the present. Merchants would do well to look over stocks and see what they need.

MEANWHILE Germany shows that she has paid 8,500,000,000 German gold marks in cash and merchandise, more than 2,000,000,000 gold dollars, as the price of being beaten.

If that money had all been spent to rebuild Europe and purchase raw materials, instead of being spent to keep soldiers on German soil, and increase armaments, half the trouble would be over.

ONE TRAIN two miles long pulled out of Newton, Kan., Thursday, carrying 360,000 bushels of winter wheat. Four locomotives pulled the train, divided into two sections, made up of hundreds of cars.

Mr. Coolidge could have stood beside the track, figuring up how much the farmer would get, he wouldn't have found it the least bit tiresome. Agriculture, as Mr. Curtis truly says, is $1,000,000,000 better off than it was a few weeks ago.

ONE THING is going to hurt both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis in this campaign, if they keep it up, and that is the ABSENCE of fighting. Americans think they are entitled to a good political fight, at least once in four years. If Davis and Coolidge adopt an "after you, Alphonse" method, they will turn many red-blooded men in the direction of LaFollette.

THE PRICE OF wheat started traveling up again Thursday. Patented the wheat king of Chicago, predicts "about $2.00 a bushel." Disintegrated judges think it will go to $1.50, perhaps higher. Every little penny added to the price of wheat has a meaning of its own, for the Republican candidates.

THE GEORGIA legislature is discussing evolution. One statesman calls the theory "rotten stuff." Another, Mr. McCrory says if he was descended from a monkey, he is ashamed of it.

Darwin, as it happens, didn't think he was descended from a monkey, either. THE GEORGIA statesman conclude that the young murderers, Loeb and Leopold, wouldn't have killed anybody if they hadn't been taught to believe in evolution. If that's so, it is very important. However, some have committed murders that couldn't read and never heard of evolution. Cain, who killed his brother, Abel, for instance. Where did he get that killing impulse, only once removed from the first man? Perhaps the serpent taught him.

POOR, LITTLE Miss Peggy Hopkins Joyce, four times married, says: "Madame de Sevigne was 100 per cent right when she said, 'The more I see of dogs, the less I think of men.'"

IT IS hard to find a perfect man, no matter how hard you try. Miss Joyce has tried patiently, marrying four of them, three with a title, but no money. The one without the money lasted the shortest time of all.

WOMEN, SUPERIOR beings, "leading us upward," as Goethe truly says, must reconcile themselves to civilizing man through the future ages, as they have done since the age of the cave. It can't be done in any one delirious happy matrimonial whirl.

DAILY THE radio offers something new. This time it is broadcast church music for rural weddings. The bride, trembling, will give the last poke at her hair, the last tug at her veil. The sexton will tune in and up she will march, in Farmingdale, N. J., to the tune of "Faithful and True," played in Chicago, Ill.

HENRY FORD, 61 years old Wednesday, hid to escape congressional subpoenas. It is announced that a recent physical examination proves he can be insured in any company. He was not nervous about the examination, having, it is said, already provided for his family.

WHEN MA'S AWAY

AN INCENDIARY HOLIDAY

NEW YORK WORLD

Governor Bryan's attitude toward Mobilization Day is sound and sensible. He will obey orders and mobilize the National Guard; he will not call out the civil and industrial population at the request of representatives of the War Department. Unless we are greatly mistaken, he speaks for a large majority of the citizens of the United States when he repudiates the "military gesture" of "a national holiday devoted to preparation for war."

There is no occasion for a military gesture at present. There is every reason for avoiding it. The only possible purpose in setting aside a date for testing the national strength is to revive the drooping interest in armament and preparation for war. As a test the "exercises will be a farce. Everybody knows that there is no national military emergency and no prospect of one.

Despite President Coolidge's insistence that the term "Mobilization Day" is a misnomer, it remains a fact that the flame was championed by friends and sponsors of the celebration and that the activities planned may roughly be described as a mobilization. It is a review of military forces, and "every patriotic citizen." General Pershing has stated "will be expected to participate."

It is true that a definite preparation for war is essential for defense. None but the doctrinaire pacifist denies it. But this preparation can be met by a study of the situation by experts. A day devoted to whipping up enthusiasm for the army, the National Guard, the navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard and other branches of the service can have but one result, the confusion of the issue with army propaganda and jingo enthusiasm.

Under the National Defense Act of 1920 a yearly defense test is legalized but is not made compulsory. If the Government feels that such a test is necessary, surely it could have chosen a more fitting day than Sept. 12 of this year. At any time this celebration would, in our opinion, be both senseless and dangerous to international good-will.

BUILDERS BUSY EVERYWHERE

PALM BEACH POST

Persons who keep their fingers on the business pulse of the country every now and then produce maps that show where business is good, where it is fair, and where it is poor. These maps take in all phases of business with an eye as much as to the farmer and the blacksmith as to the merchant and the banker. Perhaps they are quite accurate in the maps they make and represent the volume of trading quite fairly. There are some lines, however, in which more is being done now than ever before and which do not stand out distinctly on these maps.

Such a one is building. Though construction has slackened in some cities and sections, the country as a whole continues to build in more than normal volume. Here in the Palm Beaches the great volume of building done last year almost is equaled at this time for 1924 and the issuing of permits daily goes on merrily. Other places may not be breaking their records by such large margins, but permits issued in three hundred twenty-eight cities and towns during the first six months of this year amounted to nearly two millions of dollars, representing a gain of eight per cent over the corresponding period last year. The permits for last June were ten per cent higher than for June, 1923.

Generally speaking, the smaller communities have caught up with their building first. The greatest activity now is in the larger cities. There is talk in many such cities of an impending slackness, but there are few actual signs of it. Building materials have dropped a little but labor costs as much as ever, and in some places, more. Thousands of builders and homeowners would give a good deal to know how long this situation is going to last throughout the country. Surely the building deficit for the country must be made up before long at the present rate. Yet it may be that the old standards of housing, office quarters, factory facilities, and so on, have changed so much that it is going to take a great deal more of building of all kinds to satisfy the normal demand hereafter.
