Purchases For U. S. Defenses May Be Studied

Legislators Desire Probe To Determine Whether Full Value Is Being Received

Nation Observes Armistice Day

Roosevelt Appeals For Aid To Sufferers In New Strife

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Congress may ask the Army and Navy to determine whether full value defense dollars, some legislators said after a disclosure that the Navy had to correct structural defects in the newest class of destroyers.

Senator Norris said he thought appropriation requests should be examined minutely to determine whether there was no wastage of defense expenditures.

Senators Smith (D-S. C.), Holt (D-Va.) said they thought the navy committee should want full details of the construction problems before approving additional authorizations for extending the fleet.

Neither could recall that Navy officials had ever informed the committee of the discovery of structural defects in any ships. Structural defects had been noted in the heavy 10,000-ton destroyers in the fleet.

Celery Growers Make Effort To Spread Out Crop

Acreage In Southern Part Of State Reported About Same

Although the plantings of celery in Seminole County in Nov. were approximately 250 acres less than for the same period last season, there seems to be no prospect of an acreage reduction in this county but only an effort to spread out the plantings to partially eliminate the ruinous peak weeks during the harvest which occur during the month of March, according to those close to the industry.

A report from the United States Department of Agriculture's marketing service, disclosed that approximately 2,000 acres of celery were set up in Nov. 1.

Farmers Urged To Make Full Use Of Market

Lehman Says Produce Sales Since Beginning Of 1939 Season Total $5,226

Market Manager H. J. Lehman today urged all growers in Seminole County to make full use of the facilities provided and maintained for their benefit at the Sanford State Farmers Wholesale Market.

Mr. Lehman, who was selected as manager of the market, effective Nov. 1, declared that the value of the market as an outlet to markets in the Southeast for the crops grown in this section is limited only by the growers themselves.

"The more produce that can be brought to the market, and the greater the variety, the more assured will be the buyer or the trucker that he can procure what he desires at this market," Mr. Lehman pointed out, adding that this assurance for the market's patrons means more than anything else in increasing the volume of business.

The market manager declared that he did not believe the farmers of the county realized the importance of the facilities provided for them by the State as a ready cash outlet for almost any kind or amount of products that are offered for sale there.

He conservatively estimated that there has been a daily average of approximately 20 trucks visit the market for loads of produce in the last 10 days but pointed out that many of these trucks which have begun to come to Florida a little earlier this year, were forced to go elsewhere for loads of the commodities they desired.

Since the opening of the market for another season, Mr. Lehman's records show that the sales total over $5,226 and the season scarcely has begun.

At the market packinghouse, Harry E. Tooke, manager, reports a much greater volume of business than during the same period last year and anticipates

Bundsfuehrer's Trial For Larceny Begins

AN EFFORT TO SHOW THAT "LAWYER SENTIMENTAL" INTEREST IN A WOMAN WAS CONNECTED WITH FRITS KUBA'S ALLEGED THEFT OF MONEY FROM HIS PRE-NAZI GERMAN-AMERICAN BUSINESS WAS BEGUN YESTERDAY IN THE TRIAL OF THE SUEDE, WELL KNOWN BUNDSFUEHRER FOR GRAND LARCENY.

While Assistant Attorney General in his opening to the jury, last projected his case, Kuba's counsel, Peter L. F. Robinson, set up this two-fold defense.

First, that the larceny was the victim of persuasion brought by District Attorney Dewey for "political reasons."

Second, that Kuba was the victim of a "lawyer's sentimental interest" in a woman who was connected with Frits Kuba's alleged theft of money from his pre-Nazi German-American business was begun yesterday in the trial of the Suede, well known Bundsfuehrer for grand larceny.

Sanford Went Crazy 21 Years Ago On First Armistice Day

Sanford went crazy when the news came in that the war had ended.

It was the greatest event in history since the birth of Christ for at 6:00 o'clock on the morning of Monday, Nov. 11, 1918, orders were given which brought the World War to an end.

The following is in part the story of Sanford's first Armistice Day as it appeared in The Sanford Herald for that day.

"When the news came in the railroad boxes immediately woke up, all the engines whistled all the shop whistles and all of the bells cut loose at one time. The automobiles started down town and from that time on there was something doing every minute. All the churches opened up the bells rang, the people formed impromptu parades, staid and respectable citizens did the honny hug and the Turkey Trot on the streets and lunged each other.

There were fire crackers, and cannons, muskets, shotguns and pistols adding to the din. Mayor Forrest Gatchel, Ed Cameron, Lyman Baker, E. S. Ward, Robert Deane, Tenney Deane, F. J. Storer, Douglas C. Griffin, W. M. (Continued on Page Three)

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS many of the great nations of the world are at war and Armistice Day Observances are dedicated to World Peace,

We, the members of the Sanford Garden Club, proclaim our desire for peace—peace in the hearts of men and women everywhere and preservation of human likes and ideals.

As Garden Club members we are very mindful of the devastation of the earth's natural beauty, resources and wild life wrought by war,—that of the most recent date being pictured on the screen, visualized over the air and graphically described in newspaper. The wreckage of Poland! The gutless destruction of trees on Unter den Linden in Berlin! To make way for the tramping feet of the youth being trained for military duty! In a fight for food a country offering hunters a bounty for all the wild life they can bag! We pray that beautiful America might be spared this devastation not only at the hands of war lords and industrialists but also at the hands of careless, unthinking citizens who destroy with fire, ax and gun.

A noted conservationist, J. N. Darling, says "Our nation's resources are our 'life insurance policy' and when we come to the vanishing point of our great endowment there comes social unrest and political upheaval." Conservation tends then to promote peace. Listen to the words of the master musician, Beethoven.—"Words, trees, hills and rocks give the response which man requires. Every tree seems to say 'Holy, Holy!'"

May all of us appreciate the paradise that is ours in Florida and recognize it as the handwork of God to be cared for and protected. Picture Florida blighted of her beautiful trees, lands and streams, flowers and birds!

In humble gratitude we wish to unite with others at this season in paying tribute to those who gave their full measure of devotion that the peace, sanctity and beauty of our land might endure.

Byrd Is Named As Chairman To Push Homecoming Plans

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 11.—John Mcarty, the Blue Key for the University of Florida 1939 Homecoming, Nov. 24 and 25, has announced the appointment of Bradford Byrd as chairman for Sanford to stimulate interest there among alumni and friends in the two-day celebration to be climaxed by the Florida-Georgia Tech football game.

Familiarly known as "Brad Byrd, the Old Gator Scrub," he kept the news of Florida constantly before the readers of The Atlanta Journal during his 38 years service on that paper's editorial staff. It was during that period that he was called to the University campus and awarded his letter "A" 25 years after finishing school. Epitaphs he said, were his only athletic decorations up to that time. Due to illness Mr. Byrd retired from The Journal and moved to Sanford nearly two years ago.

A "smoker" for Florida alumni of Seminole County will be held Wednesday night, at which time football movies will be shown and the Homecoming program outlined.

Gen. Andrews Asks Re-Dedication To Democratic Ideals

Much Still Remains To Be Done, Speaker Tells Crowd At Armistice Service

Introduction Is Made By Rev. Root

Pershing Aide Pays Tribute To Those Who Died In Battle

"It is for us the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought have thus far so nobly advanced," General Avery D. Andrews said this morning in an Armistice Day address at the Band Shell.

Declaring that the cause for which the American soldiers sacrificed their lives in France during the World War still existing, General Andrews asserted, "Their work is unfinished," and quoting from Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address, said, "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

Capt. Ralph Rose of the Salvation Army and president of the Sanford Armistice Association, acted as master of ceremonies at the service. The speaker was introduced by the Rev. J. B. Root as a "graduate of West Point in the same class with Gen. John J. Pershing and as the author of recent book entitled 'John J. Pershing, My Friend and Classmate.'

"Let me on this Memorial Day invite your thoughts for a moment to far-away France where the mortal remains of more than 30,000 brave Americans rest in eternal peace under the protection of the flag for which they made the last supreme sacrifice," Gen. Andrews said. "Time will not dim the glory of their deeds but make them a lesson for us to do."

On the day when the Armistice became effective on the battlefields of France, Gen. Andrews said he was serving as the chief of staff of the General Staff of the American Expeditionary Forces at the General Headquarters in Chaumont, France.

"Twenty-one years ago, on this day and at this very hour, an appeal was made to a close, the great adventure known as the World War. It is important that we remember and profit by the lessons of those tragic years.

"Again war rages in Europe. It is not yet a world war, and must not be a world war. Whether or not the world is to be again engaged in war, depends, to a considerable extent, upon our own attitude and conduct. Brave men won the World War at a staggering cost of life and treasure, but the peace that resulted, and the international controversies which have raged since, have largely destroyed the ideal for which we fought and the noble civilization of the fruits of victory.

"It is our hope that the World War would not be a world war, but a world peace, and inaugurate an era of international justice under an effective system whereby all international controversies would be settled by peaceful means. The Armistice brought the military war to a halt, but political, economic and racial wars have continued ever since with increasing intensity; while during recent years military wars have been resumed.

"As we look abroad today we see a world in a large part of which solemn treaties are made only to be broken at will, where the promises which men live by are ignored; where personal freedom and the rights of property are a sham; where absurd racial theories are used as a pretext for persecution; where the individual exists for the benefit of the state, and not the state for the benefit of the individual; where religion has become a mockery, and where moral distinctions are blurred.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

MAKE TODAY A GREAT DAY!

Wherefore I perceive that these are nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his own works; for that is his portion: for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?—Ecc. 1:22

HAD I BUT KNOWN

(From Kaleidograph)

Had I but known the potency of words,

Their tenfold meaning, I'd have held at bay never the countless few, keen as chronic the birds,

That had betrayed the cause of my dimmy,

Had I but known, although my pride would weep

Disconsolate beholding the offense, I should have plunged to where

Whimpered with the fluff of spindrift, loquacious.

With aid of sighs, and such apt trickeries

Of pretty speech as lovelorn girls employ,

I could have held you; though my lips would eloy,

I should have voiced a thousand faintlies,

Had I but known how maggoty is pride,

With solitude for husband at its side.

There are some who will let anyone who has a "little corporal" with the big head govern the state.

There must be something about that governing of Florida that destroys men's sense of reason. For the sake of Jim Martin, he will let anyone who has a "little corporal" with the big head govern the state. There are some who will let anyone who has a "little corporal" with the big head govern the state.

Armistice Day

It was just 21 years ago today that the order to cease firing was given on the Western Front and the war which had laid low millions of lives and destroyed billions of dollars worth of property came to an end. Early in the morning of November 11, 1918, millions of Americans poured into the streets in every American city and town to celebrate the joyous news.

Babies born in that year are just now coming of age and live their fathers before them find themselves confronted with another awful conflict. People in this country are still hoping that the war's terrible effects will not touch our shores, but already in Europe these same war babies now grown to manhood are being shot down from the skies, are being bombed in scouting patrols, or being down to the sea in ships.

America's part in that war is not a pleasant chapter to contemplate. We went into the war to make the world safe for democracy. Twenty-one years later we can think of not a single country in the world where democracy is safe, not even our own. We went into the war because we were told it was a war to end wars; twenty-one years later we find an even more frightful war in the making, while dozens of lesser wars have fought.

That last war cost the lives of 126,000 brave young men who came from the best of American homes. More than 234,000 American soldiers were wounded, some of them to live in agony for years then to die, others to live on and until even yet they survive but wish they were dead. Others contracted illnesses from which they have never recovered, or were taken prisoners to Germany where they suffered the horrors of prison camps.

What that war cost this country in dollars and cents has never been fully computed, but it more than doubled federal taxation, increased the national debt from a little over one billion dollars before the war to over 28 billion dollars at its close, left our Allies owing us 13 billion dollars, most of which they still owe, and created certain fixed charges for soldiers' bonuses, pensions and medical services, the end of which is not yet in sight.

More than any other one thing, the war was responsible for the ten years of depression which began in 1929. Over-expansion resulting from the sale of billions of dollars worth of resources for non-productive uses finally caused a contraction in our national economy which put over 10,000,000 persons out of work and resulted in losses to business estimated at 200 billion dollars.

These are indispensible facts well worth contemplating as the nation celebrates Armistice Day and another war dawns upon our horizon.

Foreign Trade Essential

Because the United States was afraid of Germany, it has withdrawn all its ships from the European run. This has been done in the effort to keep America out of war, on the grounds that if American ships carrying supplies to England or France were sunk by German submarines, the people of this country might become so inflamed as to seek revenge.

Because of this prohibition placed upon American shipping interests, large numbers of workmen are thrown out of jobs. The American sailors who operated the ships, the longshoremen who loaded and unloaded them, the office employees of the shipping companies themselves, are now out of work. At the same time the stockholders who owned the companies are faced with a loss of dividends and the companies themselves are confronted with bankruptcy.

To overcome the plight in which they have been placed, some of these companies decided to transfer the registry of their ships to the little nation of Panama in Central America whereby it was hoped they could continue to sail from European ports. This raised a storm of protest from isolationists who regarded it as a subterfuge to get around the Neutrality Act, and also from the State Department which saw in it further possibilities of our involvement in Europe.

The controversy serves to indicate the lengths to which this country would have to go in depriving men of their jobs and business of its legitimate profits if it were to carry out in full the doctrine of the isolationists and thoroughly shut ourselves off from all relations with the outside world. You cannot do that without causing a depression in business which would cause suffering and hardships to millions of Americans.

A few weeks ago no one suspected that keeping our ships out of war zones meant the destruction of the livelihood of thousands of men. It is now perfectly clear that ships which normally ply the trade routes between America and Europe supply work to men who will naturally become unemployed if these ships are tied up at their docks. When the isolationists talk glibly of leaving Europe to its own evil devices and shutting this country up within the confines of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to trade only within itself, it sounds at first almost like the Utopia which Thomas Moore wrote about, but when we stop to consider what the people would do for a living, if they were being shut things to Europe, the suggestion takes on a more serious aspect.

Few of us stop to realize that about half the cotton grown in the South is sold abroad. The cotton planters have already been having more than they could do to make a decent living. Suppose all their markets abroad were shut off. What would they do with the other half of their crops? And what would the field hands who work them do? What would the railroads which haul their crops to ports do? What would all the other people connected with the export of cotton do?

A large proportion of our tobacco and wheat crops are sold abroad. So is much of our corn, beef and pork, to say nothing of manufactured commodities. These producers cannot find sufficient markets to meet their needs even now while we can still trade throughout the entire world. What would they do for a living, if their markets were confined to the United States?

The United States has got to carry on trade and commerce with the outside world and it has to protect that commerce wherever it can.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVES

WASHINGTON—The business of distributing congressional patronage has been forced upon attention. The conclusion is we would rather occupy a cottage between the Maginot and Siegfried lines than have to distribute postmaster's checks.

The nearest thing to a patronage heaven we have discovered has been worked out in Arizona. Even there tactics lie hidden in the golden streets.

It is for good reason that Senator Norris of Nebraska says that he would rather occupy a cottage between the Maginot and Siegfried lines than have to distribute postmaster's checks.

Senators Ashurst and Hayden thought at one time it would be nice if they retained for themselves the job of naming the members of the federal project on the upper Gila river. There were 238 such jobs. Surely, they thought that would be enough to go around. But the news got out that they were distributing the patronage. Promptly they were confronted with 1,200 applications.

Correspondence piled high and delegations called at the senatorial offices. In desperation the senators framed a message for the project superintendent. "Name them yourself," was the gist of it. The superintendent did. The senators did not escape unscathed, however, because hundreds of potential foremen felt the senators had done badly by them in surrendering them to the mercies of a hard-as-nails politician.

Other than that, patronage flows smoothly in Arizona. The representative there is called in Arizona and his name is Murdoch—names all the postmaster's checks. As patronage goes that is fairly nice because in the range country of Arizona the postmaster sees all the neighbors at least once a week when they pull in for the mail. He was he had forgotten. He had neglected to buy a hunting license.

A diamond will melt at a temperature of 75,000 degrees centigrade.

While Hayden was representative in the pre-Murdoch days, Senator Ashurst said he would like to name the postmaster at Flagstaff and Hayden said, "Sure, go ahead." Promptly three candidates appeared in Flagstaff, both from the area. All were important friends of Senator Ashurst. After weeks of desperation Ashurst came to Hayden's office in his usual philosophic mood and appealed for deliverance from his friends.

Both have enjoyed telling the story since. The two Arizona senators go even farther. When they name the district attorney, for instance, he must pick his own subordinates. Naturally he selects friends of his friends.

Senators Thomas and Leo of Oklahoma have worked out their patronage with reasonable success. Patronage can help in elections years. The type Oklahoma cooperate. Thomas got to name most of the better jobs when he was up for election in 1932. Leo gets the lion's share now. He will be up for re-election in 1946.

Ordinarily a representative names men only for jobs within his district. If he is a Republican, he names nobody just now. In Ohio, where there are Republican representatives, Senator Denney becomes the "arbiter" in non-Democratic districts. Senator Taft is a Republican so he gets none of the gravy.

Members of the Congressional Record will recall that patronage in West Virginia was not amicably distributed between Senators Holt and Neely. Holt, criticized Neely got all the pudding and he filled the Record with scathing indictments.

The fright of it is members of Congress can't dodge the trouble. Lobbyists make them choose and then revile them for choosing the other man.

Isenberg To Give Sermons On Theme "The People Love"

A series of sermons on themes "that people love" will be delivered by Rev. Arthur V. Isenberg, minister of the First Christian Church at Sanford Avenue and Sixteenth Street on Sunday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

These themes are: "The Ideal Marriage," Nov. 12; "The Ideal Boy," Nov. 19; "The Ideal Girl," Nov. 26; "The Ideal Home," Dec. 3.

These messages will bring the heart, softly strum the strings of that vital harp. Reverend Isenberg said, "and will show the true relationship of earth and heaven. There is not one unchurched person in town who shall not be interested in these subjects that have to do with the hearth stone and the altar-stone."

"My own great farm father was a Bible school teacher, and deacon, or elder, of the old Hales Chapel Church, Washington County, Tenn. When the preacher preached his funeral, and it was a beautiful service, he spoke on the subject of 'A Righteous Man.'"

"The text was, 'What is man, that he should be clean? and he which is born of woman, that he should be righteous?' Job, 1:6-14. 'Yes, I had a righteous father. Eleven months after that, after the preacher had visited my lonely mother, and after she had told him, 'I don't want to live, Brother Mack,' she too closed her eyes in death, and the preacher preached the strangest sermon: 'What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.' Matt. 19:6. Then he said that my beloved parents were one in life, one in death, and that they would be one on the sunny side of the chilly waters of the Jordan of Death."

"This preacher boy, the writer, and the minister of the First Christian Church, while a 'mother's boy' could look through the tears and appreciate this notion of unity. Knowing that the union with his own wife had been blessed by the advent of a little 'bit of heaven,' a little curly-headed girl, these themes should enrich the thought of all."

ALMOST READY HUTCHINSON, Kans., Nov. 11.—(P)—James Davis carefully called his shotgun, purchased plenty of ammunition and then drove Saturday night, to his hunting lease where he planned an early morning duck hunt at the season opened. He couldn't recall until 4:30 a. m. Sunday—the moment he was ready to start hunting what it was he had forgotten. He had neglected to buy a hunting license.

MARKET TOWN NEWS

By BRUCE TUCKER

Sanford State Farmers Market

After four months of hanging around the market, and the dealers playing checkers of all kinds, things have taken on more of a business like character. Several found out who was the champion checker player, but the following really were out for blood at times: Tooke, Longwell, Aiken and Wade. Several others played but did not take their checkers as seriously as the above named.

Now that all the tractors are coming into the market, things have settled down a bit and each dealer is looking for the big business for the season of 1939-1940. Mr. H. J. Lehman has taken over the responsibility of marketing the tractors as he succeeds Mr. G. Michael, who has assumed a responsible position in Jacksonville, under the State Agricultural Marketing Board.

Mr. Lehman tells us he really does not know how he will handle the present office force, meaning Margaret and Sara, but he will try. Market things have settled down a bit and each dealer is looking for the big business for the season of 1939-1940.

Counties Win New Point In Tax Fight

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 11.—Florida counties won another point yesterday in their efforts to keep surplus gasoline tax revenue collected before a new distribution law went into effect. The Supreme Court refused to grant an alternative writ requiring the State Board of Administration to pay to Escambia county the surplus from the levy on gasoline sold prior to June 9. Previously the county commission received all revenue from the tax in excess of amount needed for its road and bridge bonds.

Big Celebration Was Staged On 1st Armistice Day

where it was going but they were all there and they all wanted to go somewhere. They were led by the Seminole Guards under the command of Lieut. Turner and Maxwell and Major Forrest Lake, with the rifle and drum corps, all the railroad men, the Red Cross and mothers of soldiers. Everybody young and old paraded and everybody shouted and made all the noise they wanted to for one time. It was a discharge of pent up feelings, the letting down from the awful strain of war, the relief that comes from a duty well done.

A banquet was scheduled by the members of the Music Department of the Women's Club. The Sanford Herald pointed out that the terms of the German Armistice were read at a conference by President Wilson. "Strictly military terms of the Armistice embraced in 11 specifications include the evacuation of all invaded territories, the withdrawal of German troops from the left bank of the Rhine, the surrender of all supplies of war. The terms provided for the abandonment by Germany of the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk.

The naval terms provide for the surrender of 160 submarines, 50 destroyers, 6 battle cruisers, 10 battleships, 8 light cruisers and other miscellaneous ships. All allied vessels in German hands are to be surrendered. Germany is to notify neutrals that they are free to trade at once on all seas with Allied countries. "Financial terms include restitution for damage done by armies, restitution of cash from the National Bank of Belgium, and gold from Russia and Rumania.

The military terms also included the surrender of 5,000 guns, 2,000 airplanes and immediate repatriation of prisoners without reciprocity included.

A special Armistice Day program was given at the Lake Monroe School Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock featured by special music and a short address by a member of the American Legion Post.

A candidate for the home accident death list is the individual who instead of a stepladder uses the arms of a chair for support while hanging curtains.

HOME accidents, seldom regarded as a serious menace to life and limb, were responsible for more than one-third of the accident death total in the United States last year, according to the National Safety Council.

Somewhat obscured by the mounting concern over automobile accident fatalities, the home accident problem needs to be brought more forcibly to the attention of the public, American Red Cross authorities on accident prevention state.

It is pointed out that in comparison with the 22,450 automobile accident fatalities last year, there were 21,500 deaths from home accidents. In non-fatal injuries, home accidents exacted a far greater toll, with 4,500,000 temporary disabilities as compared with 1,050,000 for automobiles; and 140,000 permanent disabilities as against 90,000 caused by motor cars.

Those who lost their lives within the four walls of their homes were principally the victims of the following types of accidents: falls, 16,500 dead; burns and explosions, 8,300 dead; food and drug poisoning, 1,600 dead; mechanical suffocation, 1,300 dead, most of whom were infants; poison gases, 1,000 dead; and firearms, 1,000 dead.

Realizing that the vast majority of these accidents are the result of carelessness or lack of knowledge, the American Red Cross is placing increased emphasis this year on its Home and Farm Accident Prevention campaign. In this connection approximately 10,000,000 check lists will be distributed through the school children of the country and the American Junior Red Cross is drawing attention to the common hazards to be found in the home and on the farm.

Army To Ask For Billion And Half To Insure Defense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The army is prepared to ask Congress next January for $1,500,000,000 as its share of a two-year $3,000,000,000 defense expansion program to insure the western hemisphere from attack, authorized Administration quarters disclosed last night.

The tentative plan, which already has received the approval of high congressional leaders, calls for an initial protective force of 500,000 men—largest in this nation's peacetime history—instead of the present maximum of 300,000 in the regular army and 200,000 in the national guard.

Under the plan congress would be asked for between $750,000,000 and $950,000,000 during the 1945 fiscal year. Additional funds would be asked in subsequent years.

The naval and army expansion programs are expected to encounter only negligible resistance in congress, but probably will touch off substantial debate on government fiscal policies.

The War Administration feels toward lifting the $45,000,000 statutory ceiling on the national debt have been rejected by a Republican and Democratic congressional majority who are fighting to curb expenditures.

With the national debt standing today at $41,168,071,000 and an additional expense of $5,000,000,000 looming as a near-certainty unless the debt limitation can be lifted or additional revenues created to meet deficit expenditures.

President Roosevelt was reported without confirmation recently have been to Democratic congressional leaders the administration's proposal to increase the national debt to $46,168,071,000.

The new expansion proposals will be reported to congress in the next few days.

The product or service which you find advertised so appealingly in your daily newspaper must, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion.

For the shortcomings of unworthy merchandise, which always might have safely concealed, are always rapidly revealed by the spotlight of publicity. And it is by this token that advertising proves so great a public boon. It is, indeed, the true searchlight of selection.

Read, then, the varied advertisements in this paper with confidence and assurance. For, if an insurance company, a taxi company, a pastry shop or dressmaking establishment, a taxi service or a sporting goods store, or any other business, is advertising, it is because it is above suspicion.

New Evidence Of Disaster At Sea Found

Verobeach Residents Find Wreckage And Note From Steamship Cripple Creek

Oil Drums Found Near Titusville

6,320 Ton Freighter Sailed For Liverpool Pool On Nov. 1

VERO BEACH, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Additional evidence of a sea disaster was reported by waterfront residents today who said they have found bits of wreckage, an oil slick and a note in a tobacco tin washed ashore on the ocean beach south of Sebastian Inlet.

Nearly 1,000 gallons of oil in drums, and six 5-gallon tins of lard were discovered on the beach near Titusville yesterday. A six-mile oil slick, wreckage, and a lifeboat were washed ashore near Jupiter, and Hope Sound about two weeks ago.

Fred Eakin and George Martin said they found 500 yards of the beach at Sebastian Inlet had been washed away. They found a note, a tin of lard, and a tube containing the ship's distress signal outfit.

Eakin also reported that he found a metal tobacco box in which there was a note, the writer, a sailor named Olan, aboard the steamship Cripple Creek, sailed from England for New York City Oct. 19.

The Coast Guard Division headquarters in Jacksonville had reported no report of the oil and lard found at Titusville or the oil, the wreckage and the note found near here.

Florida Expects Biggest Tourist Invasion In Years

MIAMI, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Certain this time it has found the corner around which prosperity has lurked these 10 years, Florida busily and optimistically is completing preparations yesterday for what it expects to be a half-billion dollar winter tourist season.

If expectations are achieved, it will be the greatest pay-off season Miami has had since the boom of 1925.

The generally improved business picture in the nation and the interruption of travel to Europe, which usually attracts 400,000 Americans at this time of year, are a result of the war are expected to bring 1,500,000 visitors to Florida to escape the north's winter rigors.

Travel into the state by plane, train and bus and automobile is reported to be 25 percent above a year ago at this time. There is abundant evidence, increases in hotel rates, more telephone company lines, greater consumer activity and even in garage collections.

The prospect of record tourist through this winter has been reflected clearly in the building trade, banking, business and industrial activities.

New construction to accommodate the anticipated tourist influx is being planned in Jacksonville, Orlando, Tampa, St. Petersburg and other winter resorts.

5,000 Persons Get Free Fish Armistice Day

Event Is Proclaimed Most Successful Ever Held In Sanford

An estimated 5,000 persons were fed at the free fish fry on Armistice Day, officials of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce said today in proclaiming the event one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held in Sanford.

The merchants, too, reported increased patronage during the day from the many people residing in outlying sections of the County who visited here.

Thousands lined both sides of the streets along the line of the parade which was more than a mile in length, visited the Band Shell for the Armistice Day services and then were served free fish and coffee at the softball field.

Chairman Gus Schmah of the fish fry committee reported that more than 3,000 pounds of fish were prepared and that "there wasn't a man left who didn't get a pound of fish but because of the large number who attended the affair the servings were reduced since there were no more fish in town to be purchased."

Both City and County officials joined in proclaiming the affair one of the most successful ever staged here, and exportation of fish to other parts of the county would be made an annual one.

Earthquake Is Registered On Pacific Coast

Survey Shows Minor Damages Recorded; Quick Check Indicates None Injured

SEATTLE, Nov. 12.—(AP)—An earthquake described by United States Geological Survey geologists as the heaviest in their seismograph's records, rocked large areas of the Pacific Northwest shortly before midnight.

A check of state and other officials indicated none was injured. In all parts of Seattle residents rushed into the streets in night attire and many spent the remainder of the night at auto camps.

A high tension wire fell in the Tacoma tidal flat, causing a flash fire several feet high, but quickly extinguished.

British, French Purchases Swell American Sales

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Leading Wall Street financial analysts said yesterday British and French purchases of American products in quantity have begun, and will swell to high volume during the next several weeks.

A number of French purchasing commissions already here have accepted and approved the first orders, which are now being placed through Maurice Garreau, French consul general and chief of the French Embassy.

Yesterday's announcement placement of an order for 4,000 cavalry and 2,000 artillery horses, for France was (except for previous orders in the airplane field) merely the beginning of a vast program which may run into billions, they said.

The British War Supplies Commission is expected to "open up shop" here in the next week or so. Already some orders have been placed, through the Ottawa office, Wall Street sources said, and conversations were held here during the past few days in which participants included members of French and British buying agencies, bankers and post office representatives of those countries, and leading United States financiers and manufacturing representatives.

Also except for airplanes, British war orders in volume may be expected before the end of the year, or shortly after, they said.

These responsible financial sources said there now remains no doubt that British and French war orders for munitions, supplies and provisions are likely to be a major factor in the United States economy during 1940.

Estimates were made that probably that a total of not less than $2,000,000,000 for non-requirements will be spent by the two countries here in the next 12 months these quarters suggest.

Webster Hicks Is Killed In Auto Collision

Five Others Seriously Injured In Mishap Sunday Night

Webster Hicks, 48, of Maitland, was almost instantly killed Sunday night in a head-on auto collision on the Sanford-Oviedo highway, about six miles south of Sanford, last night about 10:30 o'clock.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Williams investigated the fatal accident for the Sheriff's Office, but that the accident occurred when the auto in which Hicks was riding attempted to turn right into a truck lane on the highway.

The British War Supplies Commission is expected to "open up shop" here in the next week or so. Already some orders have been placed, through the Ottawa office, Wall Street sources said, and conversations were held here during the past few days in which participants included members of French and British buying agencies, bankers and post office representatives of those countries, and leading United States financiers and manufacturing representatives.
