

Augusta Tigers Play Sanford Tonight And Tomorrow

Winners Of Two-Game Series Will Be Champions Of Southeast Section

Cleo Jeter Will Pitch For Lookouts; Carroll To Play First Base, Buddy Lake To Take Third

The Augusta Tigers, winners of the playoff title in the South Atlantic League, will play the Sanford Lookouts two games tonight, for the championship of the Southeast.

The Tigers just finished a series in Pensacola last night and left early this morning for Sanford where they were expected to arrive early this afternoon.

In the absence of Manager Dale Alexander who has returned to his winter home in Chattanooga, Red Lane will take over the reins of management in addition to his duties behind the plate. Alexander's place will be taken by Walter Carroll, long hitting utility player for the Lookouts.

Hills Layne's place on third base will be taken by a local player, Buddy Lake, who played with St. Augustine during the past season. Layne returned to Chattanooga with Alexander.

Jeter will take the mound tonight against the Bally League champions and the Sanford fireball artist declared he was ready to show the Bally Leaguers they were only a Class D club masquerading under the guise of a Class B outfit.

The entire benefits of the two games will go into a players' pool which will be divided among members of both clubs after expenses have been paid. A large turnout will assure that fans not only want to see a clash with a Class B club but that they appreciate the great playing of the team this year.

Speculation has run rife all season that Sanford could beat a Class B club and these two games will tell the tale.

The Augusta lineup is as follows: Adam Sh. Garrison, 1F, Johnson, cf, Rebel, rf, Ousia 1B, Huston, 3B, A. Biggs, Delisage, 2B. Who will pitch for the Tigers was not announced.

Rollins To Meet South Georgia Football Team

WINTER PARK, Sept. 23.—Jack McDowall's Rollins Tars will perform on Florida soil tonight when they meet Mike Herndon's South Georgia College gridders at Orlando Stadium at 8:15.

The Tars rolled over Erskine in an early season game at Anderson, S. C., and then trimmed a hefty Appalachian eleven last Saturday, in a game played at Asheville, N. C.

A last minute setback in the loss of Bob Davis, capable spinning back, may weaken the Tar chances to clinch their victory of the season. Davis, whose soaring punts are counted on to bolster the Blue and Gold defense, is lost temporarily because of a sinus infection.

Herndon will bring a scrappy team to Orlando tonight, with a line that averages well over 180 pounds, and a backfield headed by Kucan, 190 pound fullback. The visitors are out to avenge an early season defeat, suffered last week at the hands of Tampa University.

Coaches McDowall and Waite were noncommittal about the Tar chances for victory. "You never can tell just what that Georgia bunch has up its sleeve," said Jack McDowall. "Two years ago we were supposed to be heavy favorites, but just barely nosed them out, 13-6. I look for anything."

But those who have seen the Blue and Gold machine in action this season feel that Jack McDowall has his usual number of tricks up his sleeve, too.

The usual McDowall offense, with its whirling backs and deceptive, well timed play, is in evidence again this year, and a wealth of fast, versatile backs are available for service. Sam Hardman, diminutive rabbit of a back, who tore off long gains in the first two tussles, is expected to open the eyes of the crowd with his fancy ball totting, and Joe Justice, Clyde Jones and Buck Johnson, all powerful runners, will bear the brunt of the attack.

In the line, the Tar mentors have ample cause for concern, for although the starting line is strong and experienced, the lack of seasoned reserves is expected to weaken the Rollins chances.

Radical Shift In Lineup Made For Next Hatter Fray

DELAND, Sept. 23.—A radical shift in the Stinson lineup is being tried out this week by Coach Brady Cowell and Ben Clemons in an effort to get more manpower on the field against the South Georgia State Teachers College here Friday night.

In the Florida game last week Cowell made his tactical arrangement of the small squad in order to maintain a strong reserve. The success of this scheme, defensively, was demonstrated when the Gators were unable to score in the second half of the contest.

Against the Georgia Teachers and other teams less formidable than the Gators, however, Cowell feels that he cannot afford to leave a group of his best men sitting on the bench, since the Hatters will be fighting to score and win, rather than to hold down the enemy's score.

Ed Hughes, aggressive sophomore who played a great game at tackle in the opening engagement, represents the major element in the proposed shift of manpower. He is now being worked at end, and Ralph Brant, powerful newcomer from Cumberland, Md., has been thrust in at tackle in Hughes' former place.

Bob Gaughan is another line man his coaches consider too good to be sitting on the bench. He will probably start against the Georgia outfit Friday night, at one of the guard positions.

Caught up in the line, Hughes 190, and Brant 205. They are all superior fighting men and will contribute manfully to improve the offensive for the DeLand squad.

WATER SHORT COURSE
 GAINESVILLE, Sept. 23.—The ninth annual Short Course in Water and Sewage Treatment will be held on the University of Florida campus Oct. 18-21. It was announced by B. C. Riley, dean of the general extension division. The course has been arranged by the general extension division with the cooperation of the Florida State Board of Health and the Florida section of the American Waterworks Association.

NEW CITRUS PROCESSING PLANT
 A new citrus processing plant is now under construction at the Plant City State Farmers Market. Work is expected to be completed within three weeks. There will be a separate manager for the citrus plant, which will be operated under the supervision of the State Market Board, of which William L. Wilson is director.

CHALKING 'EM UP

Over the lights in the City Hall ballroom for the night play, R. M. Hardaker, director of recreation, has installed three new spotlights above the court. The lights help a great deal but it is likely that a better arrangement will be found and perhaps more lights put up. If the City Hall had a higher ceiling, there would be few courts anywhere that were better arranged for play.

The work of the department is continuing rapidly and it won't be long before new facilities are offered for the use of sports lovers. Establishment of bowling alleys in Fort Mellon Park will definitely take place before very long. A miniature golf course may also be established. Visitors a week as townspeople will soon have a wide range of recreational activities to choose from.

YANKEES A CLASH?
 With the World Series so close at hand and the Yankees in the Red Sox practically so, we may just as well look at the comparative chances of each club. The Yankees have just about everything it takes to make a great ball club. They have pitching and hitting. They are the strongest behind the plate by a country mile. Their infield ranks right along with the greatest of all times. Their outfield is not far behind, many declaring it is the best the national pastime has seen for many years. The Red Sox have two fine pitchers in Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer but it will be more than two fine pitchers to beat the men of McCarthy. It will take a combination of super-great playing plus good luck—and on top of that Joe Dimaggio, Billy Dickey, and Red Ruffing will have to break their legs.

THE FLORIDA GATORS
 The Florida Gators have started on the long trek to Texas to engage the Longhorns of Dana S. Bibbe. This will be a stern test for the Gators. If they can beat the Longhorns they may be in for a very good season but if they lose, the wolves will be on the collective necks of the Gator mentors and the situation will be much as it was last year. Only Cody will be on his way out before the season gets started good. Miami seems fairly well set for a good season. At least their publicity releases would indicate that they're gunning for every foe on the schedule, the least of which is not Florida. Stinson is definitely weaker than last year. Tampa is stronger. The State race is wide open but the scrap will be between Miami and the State University.

HUNDREDS OF VISITORS
 Hundreds of visitors attending the Madison County Livestock Market last week saw approximately 500 head of cattle and 1,200 hogs sold for prices which were a better than the regular market price.

Naval Battle Off Norway Unconfirmed

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The situation off the Norwegian coast for the last 24 hours or more remained a mystery last night, in the absence of British, French or German confirmation of reports telling of a "naval battle."

The latest reported action was between noon and 1:40 P. M. (9:00 and 7:40 A. M. E.S.T.), today, off Lister fjord in southern Norway. Inhabitants of that region said they clearly saw three warships, two submarines and smaller warcraft and heard between 20 and 40 shots and the drone of airplane motors.

They said eight or 10 merchant vessels steamed toward shore during the activity.

The mystery deepened when newspapermen at Trondheim, near Lister, questioned by telephone from Copenhagen, said police had forbidden them to talk to any points outside of Norway.

The Norwegian admiralty discounted any connection between sound resembling gunfire heard yesterday off Bergen and ships reported maneuvering offshore. An official statement said dynamiting in necessary works on nearby islands caused the explosions and concussions heard and felt in the area.

Feds Scrimmage In Preparation For First Game With Eustis Friday Night

Sending his Celery Fed squad through a hard scrimmage yesterday, Coach L. L. McLucas today said he wasn't completely satisfied with results, but that the players had shown considerable improvement in the past week.

The Feds will depend on a varied attack, having neither superior running or passing threat sufficient to make them certain of victory along either channel. In the passing department the squad will depend on Dubb Epps or Bob Wilkinson but who will carry the brunt of the battle against Eustis' tomorrow night is not yet known.

About 25 players will make trip to Eustis.

Despite last week's victory over a weak Groveland team, the Eustis Panthers hardly expect to best the heavier and more experienced Celery-Feds. At times during the Groveland contest, the Eustis tackling was poor and the blocking ragged.

Perhaps the greatest obstacle to the success of the Panthers are the dearth of experienced players and the lack of competent reserves.

This will be the first conference start for both teams, however, and the Panthers hope to make a fight of it.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

DO NOT MISS THE ESSENTIAL THING: Wee unto you, scribbles and Phariases, hypocrites! For ye pay tithes of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith; these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.—Matt. 23:23.

If we were the dinosaurs—prepared With armored skin

Rally Day

Go to church Sunday. For Sunday is Rally Day. Throughout the whole nation churches of all denominations are making preparations for special services Sunday when grown-ups and children alike will be welcomed back into the fold after summer vacations.

Now, more than at any other time the church is needed in our community. Prohibited in some countries, persecuted in others, the church will need the combined support of all free peoples, and at a time when such faithlessness spreads over the world, the church alone remains the only rallying point for Christian people.

"The church," writes Edgar Guest in the Christian Herald, "has outlived persecution from without and open disloyalty from within. It has withstood bitter and unrelenting attacks of atheists and the cynics of every age. It has outlived changing times of peace and war, prosperity and depression, and many a fad and fancy."

Throughout all this period, in spite of wars and persecutions abroad, in spite of disloyalty at home, the church has done its part for the salvation of mankind. "The church is a hospital for sick and weary souls," Mr. Guest writes. And at a time like this how many sick and weary souls there must be throughout the world! In many countries the very thing which millions of sick and weary souls need more than anything else is the church, and this they are denied by autocratic rulers.

"The church stands against all the errors and blunders of life," writes Mr. Guest. "It is the united voice of a group of people who want their children to know what is best. It is a plea in brick and stone or board for all that is most worthwhile. It offers to give more than it asks; it would end murder and theft and jealousy and hatred; it would keep men out of prison, and send them there; it tries its best to comfort the bereaved and it works without cunning or connivance."

Who can deny that the curse of the world today is "murder and theft and jealousy and hatred?" Help your church to end these sins. And you will be doing your part to make a better world.

Your Carrier Boy

As this is National Newsboy Week, The Herald would celebrate the occasion by giving its readers a brief insight into the relationship which exists between this newspaper and its carriers, as well as calling attention to some of the more significant relationships which sometimes exist between the carrier and his subscriber.

The Herald carriers are not employees of this newspaper. They are in fact little-business men. They buy their papers direct from us. What they do with them after that is their responsibility and is not the immediate concern of this newspaper.

The money which you pay your carrier at the end of the week is not for the publisher. It is the carrier's. He has already paid us for his papers. If you do not pay him, it is not our money you are withholding but your carrier's. He is always the loser by your failure to pay.

Most newspapermen of today, as well as many successful leaders in other lines of work, got their start as newspaper boys. The lessons they learned then, the importance of punctuality and regularity, the advantages of courtesy and politeness, the problems of credit, have all stood them in good stead ever since.

We well remember to this day many of the individual subscribers whom we had thirty years ago. There was one particularly who never failed to have a slice of cake for us when we called on Saturday to collect. There was another who always growled at us whether we were collecting or just delivering the paper.

On the whole The Herald believes it has an excellent carrier force. There may be some weak spots in it but they are constantly being eliminated. They are boys who earn more proportionately to their time of work than boys in any other occupation. They are boys who help support their families and who are ambitious to develop into prosperous and successful citizens.

You will find no lazy, shiftless idlers among The Herald's carriers. You will find no lounge lizards or druggators cowboys there. The boy who delivers papers is certainly worth his salt. He is trying to go places. Help him along.

Loquats Ripening In Southern and Central Florida

Loquats—big, sweet, orange-fleshed ones and juicy, aromatic, white-fleshed ones (take your choice)—are ripening all over the middle and southern Florida. To have the finest flavor the loquat fruits must not be removed from the tree until they are fully ripe and ready for immediate consumption. The fruit is easily bruised and should be clipped carefully in bunches or clusters, or singly if necessary because of uneven ripening in the cluster. However, if the fruit is to be used for canning, for jelly making, as a wonderful preserve, or in a pie, it should be gathered ahead of the time when it is best for eating fresh.

The seed of the loquat, which in the common varieties is rather large in proportion to the flesh, is of a beautiful golden-brown color and as highly polished as though varnished. The seeds are of a strong almond flavor, but more delicate than peach pits. These seeds are usually removed from the fruit before it is canned, while the highly bitter almond flavor which develops is desired. Loquat pie, if made from fruit that is not fully ripe, can be prepared and distributed from the refrigerator without spoiling.

The following recipe is for a Loquat Pie which is very delicious and is easy to make. It is a good idea to use a pie tin which is well greased with butter.

Ingredients: 2 cups of sliced loquats, 1/2 cup of sugar, 1/4 cup of butter, 1/4 cup of flour, 1 egg, 1/2 cup of milk, 1/2 cup of cream, 1/2 cup of raisins, 1/2 cup of nuts.

Directions: Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease pie tin. Mix loquats, sugar, butter, flour, egg, milk, cream, raisins, and nuts. Pour into pie tin. Bake for 45 minutes.

Notes: This pie is best served warm. It is also good cold. The raisins and nuts can be omitted if desired.

TEN LITTLE INDIANS

SUNRISE OVER THE WORLD'S FAIR

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

The most exciting thing happened the other day. The World's Fair asked me to do one of the broadcasts on my "Fun At The Fair" radio program on the sunrise from the Perisphere. I came to the Fair before dawn in a police car and felt like a visiting dignitary.

I've talked a lot about seeing like Alice in Wonderland since I came to the World's Fair. Well, I was Alice in Wonderland when I watched the sunrise over Flushing Meadow. What a morning! Mr. Dillon, the manager, was kind enough to provide a special pass, and I arrived at 4:30 under the stars. I stood on the rim of the perisphere pool and saw the great gray ball, a gigantic planet swimming in a deep black abyss.

At the foot of the largest escalator in the world, I looked up to where it soared out of sight. The current was off, and I made the steep ascent step by step, 102 steps in all, singing of heaven and golden slippers. At the top the perisphere staff did the nicest thing—they served coffee for me—John Tavis, James Matlack, Fred Lincoln, Joe Remibus and Sam Henry, I raised the cup in salute. "Breakfast inside of Heaven," I said, and the watchman grinned. I stepped outside. The world about me, seen from the heli-cline, was the World of Tomorrow as few visitors have ever seen it, a tomorrow drained of most of its rich glowing color, a World of Tomorrow crouched in silent shadow in vast brooding shadow.

I went back inside the perisphere. I looked down from the upper gallery; gazed on democracy, silent and grave in the tremendous gloom. My whisper echoed, from the artificial suited skies, as whispers echo in great caverns. Sleep every where about—World of Yesterday—on the far horizon—World of Tomorrow spread before us—all asleep.

Then the watchman asked, "Would you like to go down and walk around in the City of Tomorrow?" We went down. He opened a small door, called Jim to turn up the lights in the make believe city. The mood changed. It was gay enchanted country, and I was Alice who slipped through the looking glass into wonderland. Alice who drank the stuff if the bottle that made her very big after she had gone through the little door. Sprung around my feet were gay villages, rivers and ships. I was Gulliver in Lilliput. I picked up a church and held it in my hand. Underneath was the socket of the vacuum cleaner that furnishes power when the World of Tomorrow gets cleaned up every night.

I went upstairs on the catwalk to the power room where the huge machines are that control Kallenborst's voice the music of the spheres. And then downstairs on the catwalk to the very bottom of the perisphere where I could reach my hand down and almost touch the water in the pool below. As I dozed in a small office off the gallery upstairs at five minutes of five, the watchman tapped my shoulder, with his whisper, "Miss, here comes the sun."

"Out we went and stood high up on the heli-climb like the crew on the bridge of a ship. We stared the moment. We were out with the sky, the morning and the World of Tomorrow. Behind the Federal Building where the two towers rose strong and dark the sky showed a faint yellow rose. On the horizon a band of tender blue above driving stars. George Washington's statue and the great sun dial with the three fates and the white leaves carved in stone looked gray.

The sky grew brighter rose and gold. The windows in far off Flushing caught the fire. The lights in the foreign pavilions winked out one by one—Turkey, Russia, England, with her golden lions. Roma, the figure on top of the Italian building, held out her arms to the sun and the shafts of wheat from wonder bread stood pure gold against the sky. The banners of the avenue of pioneers stirred with the wind, and the tower of the Florida building rose from the mist above the museum.

I leaned my hand against the perisphere and looked down constitution mall. The trams made two dark bands of green along the sides. A rosy glow lay on the world. On the court of peace. On the quiet waters of the lagoon where the shadowy shapes of statues showed white and still, on the side of the trylon that soared upward to the sky. Suddenly from behind the Japanese pavilion slipped the rising sun, and day boiled faster and more fast until Flushing Monday was all afire, and I was not Alice any more; but Pige in a golden world of Tomorrow.

INSULTING LOYAL AMERICANS

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

With every allowance for personal bias and for other possible mitigating circumstances, the testimony before the Dies committee that the Nazis hoped to have in the German-American Bund an organization as their back and call cannot but arouse deep indignation among Americans. It is bad enough that an alien group should thus organize in behalf of a foreign government. What hurts is the implied insult to the rank and file of Americans with German blood in their veins by the calm assumption that they are, or should be, willing to become tools of Nazi Germany in this country.

It is the old blind folly of the earlier Germany, the complete lack of understanding that serves as a lesson to the French, such a thing as an American nation and an American people, and that this nation and these people have survived and grown in a new nation and a new people. They are not Europeans. Proud as they may be of their kinship to certain peoples in Europe, they are even prouder of their forbears on this side of the ocean and of the part they played in the birth of this new nation. They do not look on themselves as transplanted Englishmen or Germans or Swedes but as Americans, and those who have the blood of several different European strains, as is the case with a large proportion of our people, do not even have a sentimental leaning for one or other of those stocks.

The Nazi doctrine of race seeks to break up all this and to turn back into Germans the sons and daughters of men and women who left Germany, or whose parents or grandparents before them left the "old country." To add to the indignity of the contemptuous implication that these people belong to the "Dustbitch" is the evidence that in numerous instances Nazi agents have used the same tactics on some individuals in this country that have been used against persons of German origin in Chile, Argentina and Brazil. These agents reminded their intended victims that he or she has relatives in Germany and have hinted that these relatives might "forget" the request is not complied with. That this is a form of blackmail against a government that is willing to resort to such tactics. It seems as if a method of enlisting the co-operation of persons of German origin in this country as was Herr Hitler's reference to the West Wall in his appeal to the French, to be friends with Germany.

Like all good Americans, we resent the political activities of an organization like the German-American Bund. It is an insult to be friends with Germany. Germany Rushes Reinforcements to Siegfried Line

Polish Movements Out of Poland Appear To Be At Height

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 23.—If the French and British plan to strike the Siegfried Line before German eastern forces are established there it must be within the next few days.

Movement of German troops and material from Poland to the Western Front now appears to be at its height. The movement began a week ago.

French communiques themselves reported allied aviation increased its observation flights deep into Germany over various lines of communication.

Trains loaded with troops and war supplies moved all day and all night through Baden, central Germany, from the Polish front.

Most of the troops which fought actively on the Polish front were given a rest by relieving garrisons outside the western front war zone, which in turn, were sent into the Siegfried fortifications.

Some units participating in the fighting in Polish sectors where resistance was weak were sent directly into the Siegfried line. There stories of the Polish campaign were expected to raise the morale of the Germans on the Western Front although it already is high because of the speed of the Polish campaign.

French troops, save for small patrols west of the Saar River in the Nied valley and in the Mandel and Blies Czech sectors and parts of the Wissembourg front in the Vosges Mountains, left most of the fighting to artillery and planes escorting officers.

In Paris the French general staff reported a successful attack near the Moselle against German forces as advice reaching Paris told of raids by the French and British planes, including American-made fighters, deep into German territory.

A general staff communique disclosed number of German units which inched into the German-held area along the eastern bank of the Moselle River, near French and Luxembourg border at the extreme northern end of the Western Front.

Further east on the 90-mile northern front, a German infantry attack led by tanks was repulsed but had been hurried back to the front by French machine guns and artillery shattered the assault in the no-man's-land outside Saarbrücken.

"To Uphold and Defend the Constitution of the United States."

Every man, woman and child in the United States can participate in the program of The American Legion and help uphold the above principle. Every veteran should help promote it by lending his prestige through his membership in the Legion. JOIN today!

PREPARED BY THE AMERICAN LEGION

When the constitution of the American Legion was being drafted, it was not natural that the first of ten principles which formed its foundation should have been a sacred pledge of allegiance to the Constitution of the United States.

The men who founded the Legion came fresh from the battle field of the world war, political anarchy had been let loose upon a world bed white with suffering, sacrifice and stark tragedy. Revolution had buried its flags deep in the throat of Europe; class hatred clutched at the heart of civilization. The men who had defended America in battle were determined to defend the American form of government against this new menace.

Strangely enough, there were some folks back home here who actually dreaded the return of the soldiers and sailors. They were afraid they had been tainted by the spirit of revolution which was sweeping Europe; they actually were silly enough to believe that the very men who had defended America in battle were determined to destroy it and turn it over to the reign of communistic terror!

The American Legion gave a quick and positive answer to these unheeded brothers of fear. It accepted the Soviet Union as its constitution, the ten principles of which left no room for doubt that the veterans was far above that of those citizens who held them in such fear. And the first one of those ten principles was a pledge decated that Russia had achieved virtually complete military domination of Estonia. The Tallin government, however, was committed to have won a point in that Soviet political and economic practices are not extended to Estonian soil.

The pact consists of a pre-amble and seven articles. Article III, which grants Russia military rights, is most important. It reads:

"The Estonian republic agrees to place at the disposal of the Soviet Union all naval bases and aircraft bases for aviation on lease terms at a reasonable price on the Estonian islands of Saaremaa (Ezeli) and Hiiumaa (Dago) and in the town of Paldiski (Baltiskil part). The exact sites for bases and airfields shall be selected and their boundaries defined by mutual agreement. For the purpose of the U. S. S. R. has the right to maintain at its own expense on the sites allotted for bases and airfields a strictly limited strength, their maximum numbers to be determined by special agreement."

A Soviet announcement yesterday said the captain of the Russian steamer Pioneer had advised that at 2 A. M. while entering Narva bay off the Estonian coast, he was attacked by unknown submarines and forced to run on the rocks in the area of Vigrud bank.

Salvage vessels were sent to salvage the steamer which was described as in no great danger.

Girls Advised To Discipline Selves For Own Benefit

By PATRICIA LINDSAY Probably it isn't easy for you young girls to be back at school. Vacation days seem very remote and you grieve about the restriction you are now under. Discipline is distasteful after the carefree days of summer and you are irked by the sensible requests made by those who are responsible for your training.

First let me say, be glad that you have the opportunity to learn. Thousands are denied the privilege. Make the most of it—school days are all too brief and care-laden days many! Cherish every opportunity that comes your way to help you grow into an intelligent, charming woman. Both the knowledge and charm will be called upon to serve you for the rest of your days.

President Day of Cornell University spoke wise words about education before the Institute of Parent Leadership. He said bluntly that there are six educational needs and parents and teachers should be instructed in them. I might add that children might try to achieve them without the aid of parents and teachers. And whether you are in school or through with school those six needs are pretty vital to a well balanced, successful life.

You should 1—Acquire the basic skills such as reading and writing. 2—Cultivate interest in sensitivity. 3—Form good work habits (learn to concentrate). 4—Learn to live with one's feelings. 5—Protect your health and acquire good health habits especially in mental health. 6—Cultivate the art of critical thinking.

President Day pointed out that those of you who fail in cultivating these six characteristics will be the perpetual juveniles of the American way of life and will be dependent upon other persons in simpler words—you will not be among the successful; you will not be happy for only the independent are truly happy as life you have within the elastic limits of the great charter, as written now or later amended, will be found the means to accomplish all that is needed for the common good. The right to change is not theirs; their basic law can not, and must not, be denied. It is provided in the Constitution itself.

The American Legion does not fear it does not oppose, the right of any citizen or citizens to propose changes to be brought about in the orderly constitutional way respecting the individual right of support or oppose such changes as we see fit. We do oppose, and ever will oppose, those who seek to overturn our form of government by force and violence. You do not have to be a Legionnaire to participate in this program. You only have to be an American.

Good health habits are essential to all. Keep your body and mind active, up to par, and permit both to grow. Don't dwarf them by going limp, or growing indifferent, or being untidy in your actions and thoughts. Let your healthily be encouraged successful living.

The last is what you will grow toward. If you succeed in the first five you will be capable of critical thinking. You will be able to determine right from wrong—for yourself, your family, your community, your country. You will be cherished by all.

Proposed Law Would Modify Anti-Lean Act

(Continued From Page One) Glass himself said on several occasions that he never spoke of him after his denunciation of the court reorganization bill. The President had made an appointment to the federal judiciary in Virginia which both the senator and his colleague, Harry F. Byrd, considered a slap in the face and an act of presidential friendship toward Gov. James H. Price, whose political followers are rivals of Senator Byrd's supporters.

Shortly before Senator Glass' recent visit to the White House, the President took steps to end the feeling that grew out of this dispute. He inquired, through others, whether Glass would object to the appointment of Eli Heath, government attorney, to be port collector for Virginia. Heath, though a strong supporter of the administration, was also an old and staunch friend of the senator. Regardless of whether the appointment was pleasing politically to Glass, the senator sent back word readily that it would not be objectionable to him.

When word spread in the capital yesterday that Glass was ill, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were the first to send flowers to his hotel apartment. A personal message accompanied the bouquet.

"Information of the much-criticized Ministry of Information may be considered by the cabinet at its next meeting."

WIDER VIEW CLAYTON, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The "national picture" must be kept in mind if the Federal farm program is to accomplish intended objectives, agricultural leader yesterday said. Southern States were said to be suffering here yesterday.

NATURE'S WAYS

Edited By C. R. Mason, President Audubon Society

CARDINALS IN TEXAS It is always interesting to get into an entirely different section of the country and observe the common birds found there. Recently a trip through East and central Texas was quite revealing. Along the roadside we found many of the same species as in Florida though they might belong to different geographical races. The same Turkey Buzzards soared over the fields and woods, with keen eye searching for dead calf or injured rodent. In scrub growth and town clipped oak sang what appeared to be our Florida Cardinal. The authorities say this is a different subspecies, the Gray-billed Cardinal. On close examination, the female does seem to be considerably lighter in color than our peninsular Cardinal, and the male appears a somewhat different shade of red; of its our imagination weeding nothing.

Over the fields of grass or of cotton; or perched on the roadside wire, we noticed abundant Herring Doves; perhaps more plentiful to locate even though the hunting season on these birds just opened in Texas, and the first day we could hear guns popping and sound in. In the scrub growth we found the Mexican form of the Ground Dove; but the graceful Inca Dove, though supposedly common even in the towns of the Austin region, we failed to locate even though we paused hopefully at every chick on yard, and at all the lawns that looked promising.

BUTCHER BIRDS COMMON The Butcher bird was probably noted more than any other species. However instead of the Loggerhead Shrike of the southeast, this is the Migrant Shrike of the Gulf Coast, moving into Texas at the summer's end after migrating further North. In the field the birds seems indistinguishable from the Butcher bird of Florida, but apparently finds here his quota of grasshoppers and crickets.

A few years ago, on Anzac Day in Sanford, Jack Russell discovered that section of the Florida scrub had the Scissor-tail Flycatcher. Evidently the bird had wandered into Seminole County on a northward breeze and attracted much attention during several days of sojourn. Here in East Texas we were delighted to again make the acquaintance of this beautiful bird. They seemed as common to the Kingbird in the scrub of the country. One day we counted eight in one farmyard tree, and others were gathering there in groups if for a bird convention. The scrub has a black and white tail as long as its body and I recalled on seeing it, Jack Russell's observation that when he first noticed the species in the Kingbird in the scrub of the Texas prairie he thought it was a mockingbird with its tail falling out. The Scissor-tail has a light gray back and wings, white underparts, with sides and underparts a deep cinnamon red. We spent many minutes watching them flatter from fence post to field after insects, in order to get the full benefit of the sun shining in that beautiful way as they spread their wings on flight.

As in Florida, so in Texas, you find many folks interested in bird life. A friend at Houston put me in touch with a friend in Austin (and he in turn lived with three University of Texas students, real "bird men," who made us acquainted with some of the typical birds of the region. As usual we were given the guaranteed nothing, not even a mockingbird; but a guarantee wasn't needed since we saw more than expected or hoped for. In a scrubby-cactus region, that was in Florida would call "scrub," we found species that normally would seem to have their range further to the Southwest. Here the little Verdin bird, its commonest, nest with entrance at the side, and here we found a beautiful male Black-throated Sparrow to provide the surprise of the day. The Texas Wren, whose nesting air snag with their colorful songs as if were springtime, and even the Lark Sparrows joined in the chorus.

The most abundant bird of all seemed to be the little Blue Gray Gnatcatcher of our Florida oak trees. Here the scrub was alive with these "mockingbirds" in imitation of the many of them migrating to South Texas and Mexico for the winter. Woodpeckers did not seem to be as common as in Florida but we did note a few Texas Woodpecker, closely related to our little Downy and the Golden-fronted Woodpecker.

(Continued from Page One) to defend her interests in the eastern Mediterranean. Capt. de Wolski stated that Stalin's mobilization of 5,000,000 soldiers on Russia's western boundaries, was not to take Poland, but that the move was directed against Germany. However, he declared that Stalin is smart enough to work with the Nazi dictator so long as he can get the lion's share of the spoils of the division of the smaller European nations.

Russia, he said, is ripe for revolution, for like the Nazi regime, the communists only have about 10,000 full fledged members which rule the nation by force with their secret police.

The speaker criticized the British for dropping pamphlets on Germany instead of bombs which he declared would be considerably more effective. "The German people don't know what war actually is," he said, "their cities have never been destroyed or their civilians terrorized by invading troops. The Allies should have given the Germans a real taste of war by bombing every military objective in Germany while the Reich had 96 percent of its air force concentrated in Poland," he said.

Counter Attacks Indicate German Lines Are Weak

Observer Says Nazi Forts Strong But Not Impenetrable

By PRESTON GROVER WASHINGTON, Sept. 25

It is something wrong with the Siegfried line? Military men here say that German counter attacks against the slowly-penetrating French indicate the Germans are afraid their west wall is not too stout. The Germans have launched heavy counter attacks in the Moselle region, although the French are not nearer than seven or eight miles to the main fortifications. This is not sound tactics unless the wall itself is shaky.

Sound tactics would be to wait until the French have penetrated within perhaps two miles. By then the lighter and more effective German artillery could get at them, and beat the French to a coup. A counter attack then could be launched from behind the security of the Siegfried line with expectation that it would crush the battered French advance.

Instead, the Germans are counter attacking to keep the French far away from the fortifications. Why? Swiss reports tell of large labor corps working behind the Siegfried line. After all, the Germans had barely a year to put their line in order.

Tamed observers have suspected that a year was not long enough to build impenetrable fortifications. Now they feel that the premature German counter attacks support their views.

Good sources here are convinced the Germans have supply ships hidden in out of the way spots in the Caribbean. The ships, presumably, rebel submarines.

Sampling reports point to the presence of German submarines in the Caribbean and in the North Atlantic. It is known that the Germans brought a number of old ships in the Americas shortly before the war broke out. The ships have not been heard from since. They would make admirable fuel supply bases. Doubtless they will be hunted out and destroyed by the British and French in time. If the United States found any of them, or any submarines, hiding in our waters, our navy would be obligated to capture or sink them. As a neutral we must see that no belligerent ships use our ports or territorial waters as bases of supplies.

Italy Had Orders To Remain Out Of War, Is What Strategists Believe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Military strategists here say Italy stayed out of the war because Germany asked her to follow World War patterns.

In those days England put all Germany's neighbors on strict rationing. For a time it was rich business for Holland, Norway, Denmark and Sweden to buy large quantities of land, wheat, coffee, steel and other war essentials and ship them on into Germany at war prices. Then came the British rationing. England allowed these neighbor countries to import only the amount they needed for their selves. All else was diverted to England.

It was strictly illegal in the light of international law. And it would be strictly illegal to cut Italy off from the same business. But certainly England would not change her plans in that respect. Italy could still be of some aid, but not very much. She has almost no raw material resources of her own.

Further, it is generally expected here that Italy, as in the last war, will stay out until it is pretty definitely decided which side has the best chances. France and England undoubtedly will put the heat on Italy to make her decide, without too much delay, which way she is going to jump. There is no place for an important neutral in the middle of a new European war.

Writer Wonders If FDR Will Try To Censor Press

Radio Can Easily Be Placed Under Control Of Government

By BRUCE CATTON WASHINGTON, Sept. 25

When President Roosevelt—who has proclaimed a state of national emergency—remarked that he had intention of trying to censor the American press or radio "at the present time," he set this reporter wondering.

Suppose the President had such an intention—under existing laws, just what could he accomplish along the line of censorship?

There are two answers, as follows: as far as the press is concerned, he could do practically nothing. As far as radio is concerned, he could do practically everything.

First, the radio. Under the Federal Communications act of 1934, the President may at his discretion use almost any means of regulating or controlling broadcasting. He may even take over stations or networks to be run by the government. He may order equipment removed from any station.

The legislation under which broadcasters are now licensed specifies that the President is empowered to take such emergency action in time of war, in time of threat or peril to the country—or "to preserve the neutrality of the United States."

The likelihood that any such powers would be invoked is very slight, however, according to the Federal Communications Commission. "Broadcasters are doing a remarkable job of censoring their own stuff," says a spokesman for the commission. "We have been told that a comparative liberal censorship exists in European countries, including Germany. Commentators are not required to submit word-for-word copies of their talks in advance. They are simply asked to hand their notes to the official censors before going on the air."

FCC officials point out that radio is tackling its new role of neutrality of the United States. It is pretty definitely decided which side has the best chances. France and England undoubtedly will put the heat on Italy to make her decide, without too much delay, which way she is going to jump. There is no place for an important neutral in the middle of a new European war.

Beyond making suggestions which might or might not be acted on there isn't much of anything the administration could do to control the press as long as the country is neutral. During the last war—after the United States got in, that is—the Postoffice Department did try to control through a censorship board to control the press at long as the country is neutral.

During the last war—after the United States got in, that is—the Postoffice Department did try to control through a censorship board to control the press at long as the country is neutral.

That wasn't done during the World War, however, and it isn't believed here that there is much chance that would be done if the United States should go to war again.

Social Security Cards Must Be Held By Workers

Workers planning to get jobs in the citrus packing plants should make sure they have their Social Security account number cards ready now, according to Paul K. Weaver, Manager of the Social Security Board's Orlando office.

"Representative packing houses have informed us that, inasmuch as the law requires them to report the Social Security account number of each worker on their payrolls, they will require that everyone who works for them this season have and present a Social Security number for their inspection and recording," Mr. Weaver said. Applications for Social Security numbers may be secured from the nearest postoffice and mailed to Social Security Board, Orlando, Florida.

If the worker has lost his card, he should secure one of these applications and mail it now as it takes several days to secure a duplicate card. To delay doing this may mean that the worker will be delayed in securing his job, until he has gotten his account number card.

Farm Program Aim Is To Increase Soil Conservation

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 29.—Provisions of the 1940 AAA Farm Program have been approved and will be made known to Florida farmers in plenty of time for them to plan cropping operations before planting time, announced H. G. Clayton, state AAA administrative officer.

Clayton explained that thorough consideration was given by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, and other officials to the present European situation and its possible effect on American agriculture when the 1940 program was drafted. The aim of this program is to maintain and improve the fertility of our farm land. Farmers' interests are carefully safeguarded in this program, which also serves the public interest.

Provisions of the program dealing with agricultural conservation measures closely follow those in effect this year and are based on farmer recommendations, said Clayton. Acreage goal for major crops together with rates of payment will be established in view of developing conditions. The 1940 Range Program will be announced later.

Clayton explained that changes in the 1940 program recognize special conditions in certain areas and emphasize soil conservation on all farms the country over. An important provision which will encourage further soil conservation measures on small farms is that as much as $100 may be earned on every farm participating in the program. Another important conservation provision will encourage the planting of forest trees on farms by allowing farmers to earn up to $30 for tree planting, in addition to the regular soil-building allowance for the farm.

Soil-building practices have been provided to meet more adequately the needs for soil conservation, said Clayton, and special emphasis will be given to conservation of wildlife. In areas where food for the farm family is generally inadequate, a home-garden provision will be available. The new provisions also extend the commercial vegetable program to more counties than in 1939.

Florida's new State highway patrol, created by the 1939 legislature, will not begin operations until Dec. 1. A 60-day delay in putting the patrol in operation is caused through lack of funds and time required for selection of personnel, equipment and training.

Many Americans, at the time of the opening of the Panama canal, were opposed to fortifying this "Canal of All Nations." It was to be a symbol of international progress and good will. Now, under congressional mandate, the canal is being made "impregnable from attack by sea, land, or air."

Home Demonstration Notes

By MRS. GLADYS KENDALL

The homemaker often has something to say about the location of the entrance to the driveway, and to the fields and pastures if they border on the highway, says Miss Mary H. Keown, state home demonstration agent. In these days of high-speed traffic she is properly concerned for the safety of her family when they go out of the yard. Children may be endangered on their way to school or to the neighbors. The farmer himself and his helpers run risks if the entrance to the highway is hidden from passing motorists by trees, high shrubs or other obstructions. A slow-moving vehicle or farm implement coming out of such an entrance may be struck, or it may block the road. Perhaps the worst location for an entrance is near the top of a hill where it is impossible for persons using it to see all traffic at a safe distance and impossible for the motorist coming over the hill to see those entering or leaving the farm.

There is also danger if the driveway is not straight, or that turning or backing is necessary in getting onto or off the highway. The approach to the gateway should have an lower radius of not less than 30 feet. If a tractor and trailer have to use the entrance, a 60-foot radius is needed. Easy curves make entrance easy.

Other points: A well-drained entrance prevents erosion and permits all-weather use. Engineers recommend that when a field or pasture is entered directly from the highway, the gate—and as much fence as necessary—be set back from the highway about 20 feet further than the fence line. An entrance level on a gentle slope is safer than one on a steep hillside.

These and other points are to be considered by the homemaker when the location of the roadway is being discussed, Miss Keown believes.

The chinchilla, a rodent weighing less than 20 to 24 ounces full grown, is the rarest of fur-bearing animals. Eleven animals, captured in three years of searching in the Andes mountains, formed the nucleus for the 2,000 chinchillas now living on farms.

Polish State Is Set Up On French Soil

Former President Of Senate Takes Over Government Reins; Ciano To See Hitler

Danish Freighters Seized By Germans

Turkey To Close Dardanelles To Belligerent Nations

The Polish government was established on French soil today with the resignation of Ignace Moscicki, executive interned in Rumania, and the inauguration of Wladyslaw Raskiewicz, former president of the Polish Senate, in Paris.

Moscicki and other Polish leaders who fled there from their own land; Rumanian and German reports at the time said the action had been taken under Nazi pressure to prevent the establishment of the Polish government in France.

The German government, meanwhile, invited Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano to Berlin where he is expected to arrive tomorrow.

German sources in Berlin and his foreign minister, a first-hand German-Rumanian agreement in Moscow.

Danish lightships in the Baltic, reported to be destroyed by German destroyers, and the British destroyers seize three Danish freighters and make off for a German port. Two of the vessels, the Stena and Diana, were loaded for England with bacon and butter. The third, the Lynx, was loaded with wood, and was towed from Sweden to the Netherlands.

Ciano's invitation to Berlin was only a part of an intense diplomatic activity precipitated by Soviet Russia's emergence as Germany's partner in redrawing the map of Eastern Europe.

Turkey, caught between ties with Russia, and the British-French allies was reported, first, to have notified Britain and France her mutual assistance obligations to them would be suspended if they went to war with Russia. Second, to have agreed with Russian leaders that she would close the Dardanelles to warships of all belligerent nations, thus neutralizing the Black Sea.

Other developments reflected uneasiness in Southeastern Europe. Rumanian foreign minister prepared to go to Moscow Monday with a staff of experts; a German mission arrived in Budapest; Bulgaria was reported to have received a German ultimatum; British officers conferred with King George II of Greece.

The German ultimatum, called on the cabinet to meet with a view to meeting an unbalanced budget and "new military expansion."

Poland partitioned and Austria in a state of confusion, the British government is reported to be preparing to take steps to prevent a German mission to Paris.

The Italian cabinet met with a view to meeting an unbalanced budget and "new military expansion."

There will be several openings in the city for the coming week. The city is expected to be a busy one for some time to come.

Contraband List Garner Expected Similar To That Of World War

U. S. Plans No Protest On Rules Governing Shipments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—After a study of the contraband lists issued by Great Britain and Germany, two conclusions have been reached in official quarters here: (1) The lists look different, but are essentially the same. (2) They correspond very closely to the American contraband list of 1917, and consequently no protest against them will be made by the United States government.

An American ship which carries contraband to a belligerent port can be stopped, searched and her cargo seized. There are many precedents under international law which establish that the ship can be seized, too.

If the ship carrying contraband to a belligerent is stopped by a submarine which cannot escort her into port or place a prize crew aboard her, she may be sunk after careful provisions are taken for the safety of her crew and passengers. That leaves little leeway for diplomatic action on the part of the government.

The German list has thirteen categories of contraband articles compared to the British five, but the latter include everything contained in the German divisions.

In general, virtually any article could be included under the various categories. The first embraces arms, the second means of transportation, the third means of communication, the fourth money, and the fifth food and clothing. All ingredients or materials or machinery used in their manufacture are included.

There is one important difference apparent between the British and the German lists of which the United States is aware. Under international law ships may carry contraband to Germany, but they may not carry contraband to a belligerent port.

It would seem, therefore, that an American ship could carry a cargo of wheat to Germany if it was not definitely known that the wheat was to be used for the German army or air force. But German experts and experts are controlled by the state. Her opponents, therefore, probably would allege that every shipment of wheat to Germany was destined to the German army or air force or government agencies.

Under international law, therefore, it is not possible to carry contraband to a belligerent port. The United States is a party to the 1908 Convention on the High Seas, which provides that a neutral ship may not be used to transport contraband to a belligerent port.

The State Department has not received a French contraband list, but it is expected to receive one in the near future. The British list is expected to be received in the near future.

Road 288 May Be Completed Soon By State

Finish Of Highway No. 44 To East Coast Is Still Indefinite; 288 Being Surveyed

With assurances on the part of the State Road Department that the proposed improvements on State Road No. 288 will be carried to completion with the least possible delay, the opposite is true concerning the improvements of State Road No. 44, connecting 1 1/2 miles to the East Coast, in Seminole County, according to information received today by County Attorney E. F. Housholder from officials of the department.

A crew of engineers from the road department have been engaged in making a survey of the proposed route for No. 288 and are designating the ownership of the property to which title has not yet been obtained by the Board of County Commissioners. In all there are 14 such parcels and a special session for the Circuit Court has been called for Thursday when a jury will hear the condemnation proceedings and set the amount to be paid for the property by the County.

An appropriation is included in the State Road Department's budget for the current fiscal year for the construction of a road bed and it is hoped by local interests that an appropriation for hard surfacing the highway can be set up in next year's road budget.

Efforts to secure the improvement of State Road No. 44 in Seminole County, have been stymied, however, with an announcement from the department that no final surveys of the route of the road through the county have been made and that there are no prospects that such surveys can be made any time in the near future. This announcement from the department, it is said, leaves the County Commissioners powerless to obtain the necessary rights-of-way and complete other incidental matters until the required surveys can be made.

It had been hoped by the Chamber of Commerce, an interested party to prevail upon the State Road Department to include in their budget for the coming year, sufficient funds for the proposed improvements to this thoroughfare.

The letter concerning the status of the projects for the improvement of the road through Seminole County was cited in a letter from G. J. Deacons, division engineer, to County Attorney E. F. Housholder. The letter is as follows:

"With reference to your inquiry, I wish to say that I have discussed the situation with regard to this road with the Highway Engineer and with Mr. Masie, division engineer of the Land.

"As to project No. 1239 (improvement of the road west of Sanford), we have a right-of-way submitted by the Division Office several years ago and have in our files deeds in quit claim for the road which is to be acquired for the east approach to the Wakiva River bridge. The Highway Engineer advises me that he knows of no plan to re-open this road in such a way as to divert it from its present location on First Street. He has requested, however, that the Division Engineer make a relocation of some of the curves near the west end of this project.

"On Project No. 956 (improvement of the road west of Sanford), we find that a partial right-of-way map has been prepared and we hold in our files 18 deeds covering a portion of this right-of-way. I am advised that a part of this location is also due for revision.

"In response to the inquiry you made, I am instructed to advise you that the department does not have the authority to complete the surveys that will be necessary before the County can be advised definitely as to these locations or as to the width of right-of-way that will be required. The time of the Division Location Engineer will be entirely taken up for some months to come on projects that are in the Department's program for early construction.

Under these circumstances I can not see much chance of giving you any definite information in the near future.

In a lengthy letter to Mr. Deacons, the County Attorney stated that he will be pleased to have you make an examination of your records in regard to the location of State Road No. 44 and advise me as soon as possible just what steps can be taken to get this question solved.

Deepening Of River Channel Is Recommended

Andrews, Hendricks Report Survey Ordered For Canaveral

The maintenance of a channel 100 feet in width and 10 feet deep in the St. Johns River from Palatka to Sanford has been favorably reported by the War Department, according to a telegram received today by Mayor Edward Higgins from Senator Claude Pepper.

The telegram is in part as follows: "The report recommended that the existing project for the St. Johns River be modified to provide a channel 100 feet wide and 10 feet deep at mean low tide water from Palatka to the Municipal terminal at Sanford with a channel of like dimensions from terminal to Enterprise with provision for raising and lowering locks, providing local interests furnish free of cost to the United States the lands required for the construction of said channels, cut-off, and locks and for their future maintenance."

"I am advised by the War Department that a five foot channel (from Sanford to Lake Harney) requested by local interests was not recommended for the reason that benefits to be expected would not be sufficient to justify the cost."

Meanwhile, Senator Charles C. Andrews and Congressman Joe Hendricks advised The Herald that another project in which his county is interested has moved closer to actuality.

The engineer said that official notice of the order will be released some time tomorrow. It also advised that the survey should be commenced in the near future to determine the location and cost of the project.

"It has been a pleasure to cooperate with you and others who have been interested and active in the development of this project," Senator Andrews said. "This is the most important progress ever achieved towards construction of a harbor at Canaveral," Congressman Hendricks said, adding that "I will continue to push this project to completion because of its great benefits to my friends in Central Florida."

Reds Should Be Disbanded, Says Sen. Martin Dies

Suggestion Approved By Spectators At Committee Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Chairman Dies of the House committee on an American revolution received a standing ovation from spectators at a committee hearing yesterday when he suggested that the United States should demand and follow the Communist Party.

His statement was made to William Z. Foster, chairman of the United States Communist group and yesterday that committee witness who had contended that Soviet Russia's occupation of eastern Poland was "100 percent justified because of world peace."

Asked a question whether he would be firm in the United States if it entered the European war on the side of Great Britain and France, Foster replied that he would.

The chief of his committee said that the issue of disbanding the Communist Party in the country and debating it should be a question of the future of the world. Spectators applauded.

Just before the session Dies asked Foster to state the committee a list of all party officials in this country as a preliminary to obtaining a complete list of all members of the Communist Party in the United States.

Foster said he would submit the request to party officials and suggested that Dies add Mr. (Henry) Ford, father of the Chicago Packard and the Associated Farmers of California to that list.

U-Boat Commander Denies Sub Capture

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Capt. Herbert Schultz, commander of a German U-boat who claimed to have sunk the British freighter Fibby and to have advised Winston Churchill of his action, denied last night in a transatlantic radio interview that he had been captured. (Churchill, the British first lord of the admiralty, said in Commons last Tuesday that the destroyer of the Fibby was "now in our hands.")

Schultz, speaking from Berlin over the CBS network, said he got no reply to his message about the Fibby "except the (Churchill) speech in Parliament."

Committee Is Told To Watch War Profiteers

President Sees Constant Surveillance As Necessity For Prevention Of Greed

Embargo Repeal Still Debated

Opponents Strike At 90-Day Credit Provision Of Proposal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked the temporary National Economic Committee today to keep "a constant eye on increases in prices of basic materials" to prevent profiteering.

In a letter to the committee chairman, O'Mahoney, (D-Wy.) the President said he believed "constant surveillance is clearly in keeping with the purposes and objectives for which the N. E. C. was established, and I believe that, in carrying forward such a program, your committee can well become an important part in our first line of national defense against ugly and inhuman greed."

Roosevelt referred to a statement made by O'Mahoney in the opening of the series of committee hearings last Monday. O'Mahoney said then that the committee's work would be emphasized by the prospect of profiteering resulting from the European war.

Speaking of the administration mortality bill involving "credit and carry," not "cash and carry," opponents of the measure yesterday made its financial section an issue second only to that of repealing the arms embargo.

The measure, flung by Roosevelt during the day, would prohibit selling credit to buy arms or other supplies here on 90-day non-renewable credit, subject to the approval of the President.

Moody charging at the proposition of the legislation, the opposition considered it a challenge when Chairman Pittman, Democrat, majority of the Senate committee, said yesterday that the extent of the 90-day credit bill would amend the Johnson Act. That law is a statute dear to the hearts of financiers who have traditionally considered an American credit line the affairs of Europe.

Moody said that the new bill would be a challenge to the Johnson Act, which was passed in 1917. He said that the bill would be a challenge to the Johnson Act, which was passed in 1917.

City Heads Discuss Request Of F. P. & L.

A further discussion of the request of the Florida Power and Light Company to lower the assessed valuation of the company's property in Sanford was held at a special meeting of the City Commission in the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

The City's valuation of the property is $230,000 and the power company seeks a reduction of the amount to $155,000, which it says is the actual value of the property. No action was taken by the Commission at this meeting.

The power company was represented by its local manager, H. H. Coleman.

The Commission also agreed to lease to Harry Mahony of this city, certain property in Park Mallon Park for the construction of a miniature golf course.
