Sheriff's Deputies, Officers Are Given Pay Raises

Seminole County sheriff's deputies will see their salaries climb by 7 1/4 percent, while sworn officers will receive a 5 percent raise in their first 1982 paycheck.

The County Commission voted unanimously Tuesday to grant Sheriff John Polk $95,956 in raises to deputies and officers. Communications workers received a total of $11,656 in salary hikes with the same board action.

Sheriff's deputies, lieutenants and captains will be earning identical salaries to their counterparts in the Public Safety Department when the new salary scales take effect. Public-safety workers were granted $79,000 in pay hikes by the commission Dec. 6.

Starting-level sheriff's deputies currently working with the department will see their annual income climb from $11,918 to $12,988.

Along the same lines, starting level sheriff's lieutenants now working at the department will make $17,538 annually, up from $15,828. Sheriff's captains' salaries will increase from $17,856 to $21,869 after Jan. 1.

Each of those salary levels is identical to those granted public safety employees with one exception. Sheriff's sergeants will see their paychecks climb from $14,840 to $16,387.

Public-safety lieutenants currently earn $1,300 less than what sheriff's sergeants will earn next year. Although the jobs are considered more or less equivalent, sheriff's sergeants have greater job responsibilities than public-safety lieutenants and deserve more money, said County Administrator Roger Neiswender.

Money for the raises will come from the county budget's general contingency fund. The fund was beefed up with an extra $18,718 after the budget's approval due to an oversight during the formation process this summer, said Eleanor Anderson, director of the county Office of Management and Budget.

Commissioner William Kirchhoff said he opposed the raises prior to the vote Tuesday. He decided to vote for the pay hikes because Polk had made certain concessions to the board, Kirchhoff said.

One of those concessions was discounting his initial request for more county money for the raises. Polk originally wanted approximately $120,000 for pay upgrades, but lessened his request by $25,000 when he realized he had more than enough money to purchase gasoline this fiscal year.

Kirchhoff said he continued to oppose the principle behind Polk's request for more salary money. The commissioner said he fears the raises granted public-safety and sheriff's employees will precipitate other salary-increase requests from county departments, costing the taxpayer more money in the future.

RECALLING A HOLY NIGHT

Incumbents McDonald, Fox Win In Lake Mary

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Thirty-one percent of Lake Mary's registered voters cast their ballots to re-elect Councilmen Gene McDonald and Raymond Fox on Tuesday.

The runoff election victory for Fox over challenger W.L. "Bill" Durrenberger was a matter of a 26-vote margin. Fox had 224 to Durrenberger's 198.

McDonald's win was more substantial, with a 64-vote margin. McDonald landed 245 votes while his opponent, Robert B. Stoddard, pulled in 181.

City Manager Phillip A. Kulbes said a total of 423 votes were cast. "The turnout was better than we expected," he said, "because of the holidays and this election being only two weeks after the first one."

Fox credited his victory to the people who worked for him.

"The people working for me worked hard," Fox said. "They contacted a lot of people by phone, and I'm appreciative."

Both Fox and McDonald will be entering their second two-year terms as governmental decision makers for the small city.

Street improvements, drainage and securing an independent water supply are Fox's primary objectives for his second term. Lake Mary currently has its own water system, but buys it from neighboring Sanford.

"We need our own water supply," Fox said. "We could dig our own wells or there may be wells already available."

Priorities for Fox include controlled growth and keeping tax rates from increasing. His goal of improved streets and water supply will take more time because he does not want to see taxes jump to pay for the projects, Fox said.

"I'm hesitant about (improving) streets and the water supply; it's going to take time," Fox said. "But I think people want this done."

"Like any young and growing city, we have a lot of challenges," he said. McDonald said he wanted to thank all the candidates in the election.

"A lot of good folks got out and voted who believe in keeping Lake Mary a nice place," he said. "I was elated that that many people came out to vote when you consider all the gift-buying and cookie making."

"My commitments have done their job now I have to do mine," he added. McDonald's second-term priorities are much the same as those of Fox.

"I want to see controlled growth in Lake Mary without violating people's property rights," he said. "We need fiscal responsibility to be sure we get the maximum service for the dollars we spend."

Fox and his wife, Pat, live at 275 Lakeview Ave. They have two sons, Ray III, Gainesville, and Earl, Lake Mary. Fox's daughter, Caroline, lives in Tallahassee.

A native of Seminole County, Fox, 53, grew up in Sanford and graduated from Seminole High School. He is a graduate of Auburn University with a bachelor of science degree.

McDonald is 48 years old and he and his wife, Joan, live at 106 Highland Court. His daughter, Sandi, 21, lives at home, while son Jim, 25, and his wife live in Edmond, Okla. McDonald's other son, Don, lives in Lake Mary.

Nearly All Rezoning Requests Are Granted

A 1.59-acre tract on Lake of the Woods Boulevard near U.S. Highway 17-92, close to Altamonte Springs, is now zoned for multi-family housing rather than commercial uses.

In less than 45 minutes the Seminole County Commission zipped through four requests for specific amendments to the land-use plan Tuesday, granting all of them unanimously except one, which commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather opposed.

The owner of the tract, MBA Properties, wanted a specific amendment to the land use plan from commercial to medium density residential. Both the amendment and his request for rezoning from retail commercial to multi-family residential were granted unanimously by the commission.

County planners said the request was consistent with trends in the area and recommended both the specific amendment and the rezoning.

Elmer F. Heckinger's request to rezone an 89-foot-by-125-foot lot owned by James N. Shannon from single-family residential to residential professional for an architect's office also was unanimously approved.

The specific amendment request from low-density residential to medium-density residential also was approved. Shannon's property is located just off the northwest corner of the intersection of State Road 434 and E. Lake Brantley Drive.

A request from Karl O. Stairs to have his 2 1/2 lots on Laura Street, 500 feet east of Highway 17-92 outside of Casselberry, amended on the land-use plan from low-density residential to low-intensity commercial was approved. His rezoning request from single-family dwelling to residential professional also was unanimously approved by the commission.

The property is bordered by a mobile-home park to the rear and commercial property in front, said Commissioner Barbara Christensen. Although the Planning Department recommended denial of the project, saying there are no reasons the property cannot be used as currently zoned, it was approved.

A final request from the Condev Group Inc. for a specific amendment to the land-use plan from low-density residential to low-intensity commercial and rezoning from agriculture to office district was approved 4-1, with Feather opposing.

Feather said the property, on Douglas Avenue just off Interstate 4 near Altamonte Springs, should remain residential in character.

The 3 1/2-acre tract, when developed, is expected to create enough traffic to require a traffic light at the intersection of North Street and Douglas. The commission agreed that all surrounding property owners should be charged equally for the signal.

Airport Grants Hangar Lease

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Cimarron Air Services Inc., of Orlando, has been chosen by the Sanford Airport Authority over two other firms to which to lease Hangar 147 at the airport.

The authority will lease the 14,400-square-foot facility to Cimarron for five years at $1 a square foot, J.S. "Red" Cleveland, director of aviation, said. The firm's proposal was accepted at a special meeting Tuesday following a work session to consider the three offers.

Cleveland said Cimarron will take over the facility formerly occupied by Mid-Florida Aircraft, about the first of the year.

According to Cleveland, Cimarron will set up an aircraft maintenance facility in the hangar and will operate a corporate charter service and aircraft sales and leasing. It will employ 8 to 10 persons, he said.

Charles Budzian is president of Cimarron, and Chip Higley will be director of operations.

Other firms competing for the lease were Air Sanlando Inc., located at Sanford Airport, and Racing Engineering Preparation Inc., Altamonte Springs.

Cleveland said the Airport Authority is scheduled to close on a loan to Scotty's for its new $250,000 manufacturing plant on Dec. 30. The facility is now under construction on a 10-acre site on the western perimeter of the airport.

Codisco Inc., a holding company with corporate headquarters at the airport, has asked the Authority for a 7,800-square-foot addition to one of its Metal Manufacturing Co. buildings for use as a warehouse, Cleveland said.

CRASH LANDING

About $1,500 in damage was caused to a Sanford Handy Way store at 1919 E. Celery Ave. Monday morning when a Volkswagen driven by Deborah Gail Bryant, 28, 847 Chippendale St., Deltona, crashed into the structure. About $100 damage was done to Ms. Bryant's vehicle. No injuries were reported in the incident.

Cardinal Gives Zoo Welcome $2,106 Gift

The Central Florida Zoo received a welcome Christmas present Tuesday in the form of a $2,106 check from Cardinal Industries and the employees at its Sanford plant.

The employees began their fund-raising drive in July, when they came up with the idea of participating in the zoo's adopt-an-animal program.

The $1,053 they raised was matched by company officials, and they are now the proud adoptive parents of a male cougar, Fletcher, and a male Asian spotted leopard, Tikan.

According to Al Rozon, executive director of the zoo, it takes approximately $480 a year to feed and care for each big cat.

He said the unusually large corporate contribution is one of the biggest single donations received by the zoo this year and comes at a time when the zoo is hard put to meet rising operating costs.

The Central Florida Zoo, on U.S. Highway 17-92 north of Sanford, is one of the two zoos in the United States built wholly by donations and operated as a wholly self-sustained community-action public service, Rozon said. It has a $515,000-a-year operating budget.

In addition to caring for the two adopted cats, the contribution will enable the zoo to pay for some other items on its "wish list," Rozon said. Among the current needs are a refrigerator for the concession stand, open-end box wrenches for the maintenance department, boots for employees, and a tape recorder for the education department for use in tours for blind students.

Zoo officials are hopeful Cardinal's gift will inspire other area corporations to follow suit.

NATION IN BRIEF

The Word Is Out: Reagan Says 'No' To Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan still balks at the mere idea of a general tax increase, and his advisers are going out of their way to spread that word.

Although Reagan faces a deficit of unknown size as he moves toward final decisions on his 1983 budget, he will not consider raising taxes to pump more money into the government wallet.

Good Economic News

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is receiving a taste of the kind of economic success "supply-side" theorists dream of — inflation is moderating at the same time business investment is increasing.

Two economic indicators, one reflecting moderate consumer price inflation and the other showing increases in orders for machinery and "big ticket" items last month, were rare good news for a president who has seen recession cast a shadow over 1982 while unemployment climbed.

Donovan Demands Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan, "sick and tired of being bled" by bribery charges, wants a special prosecutor to be named to "determine the truth once and for all."

Returning to Washington from his native New Jersey, Donovan angrily answered allegations that he was present at a 1977 luncheon when an official of the Schiavone Construction Co., of which he was an executive, gave $2,000 in cash to a labor leader who has been linked in court to the Mafia.

Radical Killers Sought

BLAIRSTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Three members of a radical gang — one on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list and another connected to the Weather Underground — were being sought today in the slaying of a highly decorated New Jersey state trooper.

All three suspects in the fatal shooting of trooper Philip Lamorico are members of a "left-wing revolutionary group" called the Sam Melville-Jonathan Jackson Unit, State Police Superintendent Clinton Pagano said Tuesday.

A Sludge Christmas

AGES, Ky. (UPI) — The roar of heavy machinery instead of the sound of Christmas carols dominates this southeastern Kentucky coal community, where workmen are clearing away massive mounds of mine sludge that drove about 100 people from their homes.

Approximately 50 people — one-third of the town's population — are expected to still be homeless by Christmas, but the residents of Ages are heartened by the outside help that has been pouring into their community.

11 Deputies To Get Promotions Jan. 1

Nine Seminole County sheriff's corporals and two sergeants couldn't have asked for a nicer Christmas present than the one Sheriff John Polk announced earlier this week. The 11 law enforcement officers are slated for promotion the first of the year.

Sgt. David Beavers, of the special investigations unit, is being promoted to lieutenant and will serve in the road patrol division with Sgt. Jim Brantly, who is also being promoted to lieutenant.

Among the nine corporals slated for promotion to sergeant are Al Sanchez, Richard Odell, Greg Bare, Glen Trombly, John Thorpe, Mike McClung, Matt Stewart, Chad Barton and Robert Simmons. — TENI YARBOROUGH

Sanford Man Shot After Argument

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 36-year-old Sanford man is listed in serious condition at Seminole Memorial Hospital today after he was shot during an argument with a neighbor Tuesday evening.

Samuel Merrell, 510 E. 7th St., was admitted to the hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound in his abdomen at 11:09 p.m. Tuesday, hospital officials said.

William H. Days, 68, who lives next door to Merrell, is in the county jail under $3,000 bond charged with aggravated battery in the shooting incident. Days was arrested at 12:07 a.m. today, police said.

The shooting occurred in Days' apartment after he told Merrell, an uninvited guest, to leave, police said. When Merrell refused, he was shot, police added.

BAR BRAWL

An Altamonte Springs man was treated for injuries he received in a fight at 2:37 a.m. today in the ABC Lounge parking lot at Florida Hospital-Altamonte and then turned over to Seminole County sheriff's deputies, who placed him in the county jail on charges of aggravated assault. Bond has been set at $5,000, jail officials said.

Although there are conflicting reports as to what led to the incident, Kyu Tao Ro, 22, of 708 Pescador Ave., has been charged and is slated for arraignment in court today.

When police arrived on the scene, Ro was found bleeding from the head, and a gun reportedly used in the incident was retrieved from a wooded area near the parking lot, where victim William M. Babb, 19, of 1360 Bear Lake Rd., Apopka, had thrown it.

Ro told deputies he was in the parking lot at the lounge when Michael D. Hay, 19, who lives with Babb, started harassing him. Ro said he went back to his girlfriend's car, which was parked in the parking lot, and got a gun. Ro said he walked back to where Hay was standing and pointed the gun at him. He said the two exchanged words and then both Hay and Babb jumped Ro and beat him up, deputies said.

However, Hay told deputies he was walking out of the lounge when he saw a man standing beside Babb's vehicle. When Hay asked the man what he was doing, he asked Hay what he was doing. Hay said the man then pulled a gun out of his left boot and pointed it at Hay saying, "Just stay cool and nothing is going to happen," deputies said.

Babb told deputies he came out of the lounge at that point and saw a man pointing a gun at Hay. Babb said he tried to talk him into putting the gun away and encouraged everyone to go their own way.

Hay said he then walked around the vehicle, which was between him and the man with the gun. The man began waving the gun back and forth between Hay and Babb. Hay struck the man in the face with his right hand and grabbed the gun with his left hand. Babb assisted Hay, beating the man's hand against the vehicle until he let go of the gun. During the altercation, the gun discharged hitting the left rear side of a vehicle parked in the parking lot.

Babb got the gun away from the man and the man fell to the ground. Babb then began striking the man in the head with the gun until the man could not move or fight any more, deputies said. Babb then threw the gun into the wooded area, where it was later found by deputies.

Ro was taken to the Casselberry Police Department, where he was booked and transported to the county jail.

TOOLS AND MEAT STOLEN

Someone broke into the home of a Longwood man sometime between 7:30 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, stealing tools kept in a utility room and an undetermined amount of frozen meats from a freezer. Richard Castellani, 38, of 401 Sanford Ave., told sheriff's deputies someone broke into his home through a garage door.

ROBBER SENTENCED

A 23-year-old Sanford man was sentenced in Orlando Monday to no more than four years in federal prison following his guilty plea to charges that he robbed a Sanford savings institution in September.

Lynn Andrew Tranchine was sentenced by U.S. District Judge John Reed under the provisions of the Youth Corrections Act which could allow him to serve the full sentence or be released sooner if prison officials determine he has been rehabilitated.

Tranchine was arrested Sept. 22 by FBI agents after he robbed the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Mid-Florida in Sanford of $10,500. The offense could have brought him a penalty of as much as 20 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

APOPKA MAN JAILED

An Apopka man was being held today in the Seminole County jail on $5,000 bond after he was arrested at 4:34 a.m. Tuesday and charged with attempted burglary, possession of burglary tools, prowling, and trespassing.

Michael Fred Anderson, 28, of 1087 Geneva Way, was arrested early Tuesday morning when sheriff's deputies found him sitting at a Texaco service station, located at Bear Lake Road and State Road 438. When deputies asked him what he was doing, Anderson said he was out to buy some cigarettes.

Deputies said they found a screwdriver and wrench sticking out of Anderson's pants pocket. They also discovered the screen on the Texaco station window had been pried open at the bottom. According to the station manager, the building was secured at the close of business Monday.

Deputies placed Anderson under arrest and while doing a routine check of his identification found he is currently on probation in Orange County. According to his probation officer, Anderson was not supposed to be in Seminole County.

Accept Dinosaur 'On Faith'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dinosaur hunter Herman Regusters and his wife were unable to produce the promised photograph of a brontosaurus-like creature they claim to have found in darkest, deepest Africa.

The only proof the couple offered Tuesday to substantiate their amazing claims was their own eyewitness account and an unconvincing 20-second tape recording they said were the roars of the beast.

Regusters and his wife, Kia, said they saw the creature on five separate occasions, but only one picture was taken.

The photograph, taken in the Congo Nov. 28 as the couple sat in a small boat on Lake Tele, was still being processed at a private lab and was not yet available, said Regusters, who returned from the two-month expedition only last weekend.

The couple, who indicated they might be willing to sell motion picture or television rights to their story, insisted the creature was real and said the public will have to accept their claims "on faith."

"All I can say is you'll have to go to Lake Tele yourself," Regusters told skeptical reporters.

Mrs. Regusters, who described the creature as dark red with a long, thick neck, said she took the snapshot with a common camera as the animal descended back into the water.

"I saw a large serpent-like head and neck rising out of the water," Mrs. Regusters said. "The head moved side to side."

Welfare Cheats 'Fess Up' Via Telephone Amnesty

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Thirty-two welfare cheaters — among them a woman who decided she couldn't "teach my children right if I'm doing wrong" — took advantage of the last day of a weeklong phone-in amnesty to confess their sins and promise restitution.

When the amnesty ended Tuesday afternoon, authorities said, 161 people had called state attorney's investigators to confess.

Investigator Rick Beseler said it would be a week to 10 days before authorities know exactly how many of the callers qualify for the program. Among those who would not qualify, he said, were people who had been notified they were under investigation for welfare fraud.

Beseler predicted the state stood to recover between $125,000 and $150,000 "at no cost to the state, except for the man hours spent answering the phones."

More than 1,000 people have been convicted in Jacksonville during the past two years for fraud in food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Housing and Urban Development rent subsidies and free hospital care for the indigent, Beseler said.

One woman, who called to confess to $200 in fraud, told CBS-TV, "It would be considered as welfare fraud because I was getting AFDC and I was working two jobs and I didn't report it."

"I believe if you do something wrong, eventually it's going to catch up with you, and I'm in the church. How can I teach my children right if I'm doing wrong?"

Assistant State Attorney Maurice Atwater said "before the first of April — for those who didn't come forward — we'll arrest 200 more people in Jacksonville."

Begin Survives No-Confidence Vote

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Menachem Begin's coalition today defeated no-confidence motions brought in parliament over the prime minister's sharp attack on Reagan administration policy toward Israel.

The vote was 87 to 47 in favor of the government. The right-wing, three-member Tehiya faction and the late Moshe Dayan's Telam Party voted with the government in defeating the motions brought by the small Shinui and opposition Labor Party, the largest opposition bloc.

The no-confidence motions were the second against Begin's government this month.

Three hours into the debate, Begin arrived at the Knesset in his wheelchair — an hour before the vote.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir responded to the motions on behalf of the government, defending Begin's tongue-lashing of U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis Sunday.

"The prime minister always speaks within the framework of his position, in the name of the government," Shamir said. "This is his right."

"There are those who called his words 'sharp.' That is right. But it was the United States' steps which dictated and demanded a sharp and aggressive reaction," Shamir said.

Begin's dressing-down to Lewis followed the U.S. decision to suspend the U.S.-Israeli memorandum on strategic cooperation, signed less than a month ago, to protest Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights.

Former Foreign Minister Abba Eban, speaking for Labor, said the Golan law did not add one milligram of power and instead placed a ton of burden on Israel's shoulders.

The Military Facing Reality

Institutions tend to react to criticism in much the same way that the average person does; namely, by rationalizing failures, minimizing shortcomings, and generally taking refuge in comforting self-deception. So it has been with the Navy and Marine Corps on the subject of drug abuse in the ranks.

What was obvious to any enlisted man — that drug abuse had reached epidemic levels among young servicemen — seemed too often lost on Navy flag officers and Marine Corps generals.

For example, Navy officers in particular complained vigorously about news reporting on drug abuse. At times, the Navy seemed far more interested in disputing the facts reported than in declaring war on the drug abuse detailed in the reports.

Understandably, all this sniping at the bearer of bad news did nothing to correct a problem threatening military efficiency, discipline, and morale, not to mention the health and welfare of too many young sailors and marines.

This is not to say that the Navy and Marine Corps were ignoring the drug problem entirely, or that they had no programs in operation for dealing with this destructive phenomenon. On the contrary, drug counseling, rehabilitation, and investigative efforts aimed at identifying drug dealers and users existed throughout the Navy and Marine Corps.

What was plainly lacking, however, was the essential sense of urgency and wholesale commitment without which there can be little hope of reducing drug use to manageable levels among service personnel.

It now appears that this critical deficiency has finally been corrected. Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Thomas B. Hayward and Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Robert Barrow have personally put their services on notice that tough, new anti-drug policies are the order of the day.

In a videotaped message circulated to officers and chief petty officers, Adm. Hayward called drug abuse a "cancer residing among us." He added that the Navy was to make a "180-degree turn from its present stance of indifference, passiveness, and non-responsibility" toward the problem. There can be no mistaking the intent of this kind of language from the CNO.

Gen. Barrow spoke in equally unambiguous terms to those under his command. And he echoed Adm. Hayward's directive calling for discharge under less-than-honorable conditions for any officer or senior enlisted personnel found using drugs. And why not? Those charged with leading by example must do just that.

Part of the Navy-Marine crackdown will be an overdue effort to curb the traffic in drugs via mail sent to service personnel. The Navy and Marine Corps are currently consulting with Congress, the U.S. attorney general, and postal authorities in search of ways to attack this major route of drug delivery.

Existing Navy and Marine Corps drug programs are to be strengthened across the board, and greater emphasis will be placed on discharging those with a history of drug use. Offenders whose drug habits endanger themselves and others won't be missed.

The best available statistics indicate that half or more of lower ranking Navy personnel use marijuana or hashish at least occasionally and that the use of amphetamines and cocaine is also widespread. Comparable percentages for the Marine Corps are lower but still clearly excessive. The information available to Adm. Hayward and Gen. Barrow leaves no doubt that significant percentages of those in uniform actually report for duty under the influence of drugs.

This state of affairs is intolerable and unacceptable.

Adm. Hayward and Gen. Barrow are to be commended for their candor in acknowledging the full extent of the problem, and for their evident determination to excise what the chief of naval operations quite rightly called a cancer.

BERRY'S WORLD

"You realize, of course, that seeing the two of you together like this could damage my little psyche!"

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

Probably the most celebrated birth in history took place in a crude setting of a cave in Bethlehem where animals were stabled. A humble beginning for an infant whose birth was so momentous it is still cause for universal celebration 2,000 years later.

But whether a king is born in a palace or a stable, the birth process itself is basically the same for us all. It is just the superficial surroundings and methods used by those in attendance that seem to change from generation to generation depending on the culture and era.

When I was giving birth to my children, very little was done to prepare me psychologically or physically for the pain and trauma of delivery. In fact very little consideration was given to me as the mother-to-be. Things were clinical and cold and the nurses and doctors seemed to resent a mother as an unwelcome intruder to the whole scenario — some one to put to sleep so that they could get on with their business.

I was even expected to have the baby to fit into the doctor's and my husband's schedule ...

hurrying nature along with a bottle of castor oil. It would have been unthought of for the expectant father to be allowed in the delivery room.

Once the baby finally arrived, it was often many hours before I got to see or hold it. During the 10 day hospital stay the baby was only brought in for an occasional feeding.

Now the pendulum is swinging back to the time when my mother gave birth to me at home in Winter Park with the help of a doctor who made house calls. He not only delivered babies, but also gave shots for poison ivy, and treated the common cold and in-grown toe-nails.

There are many more options now available to young couples. Fathers as well as mothers receive advance training for the delivery and parenthood. Instead of being relegated to the waiting room, the father can be an important part of the delivery. Other children in the family once banned from the hospital are now allowed to visit Mom and the new baby.

Florida Hospital, has indicated it will file an application with the Health Systems Agency in January to add obstetric and pediatric services to its Altamonte satellite facility.

The application will go through the review process in February and March, according to Melinda House, vice president of public relations and development.

She said that mothers are allowed to have their babies in their hospital rooms if they wish under the "rooming-in" concept. A birthing room furnished in a comfortable home-like atmosphere is available. It has an adjoining kitchen and the mother-to-be can listen to music or watch television while in labor.

"Fathers have unlimited visitation and children can see the baby shortly after delivery, Ms. House said.

She said the decision to apply for OB and Pediatric addition was made after an in-house task force determined the growing number of young families and family practice doctors in the proximity of Florida Hospital-Altamonte.

Going, Maybe, Not Gone

There's this to be said for the current preoccupation of Washington's crisis managers with Poland and Libya.

At the very least, it might be expected to take some of the heat off Central America, a multiple crisis that can do with a respite from the diplomacy by intense publicity favored by some in this administration.

That is particularly true in respect to Nicaragua.

The going has been rough and it's getting rougher for that post-revolutionary country. Initial expectations — political, social and economic — raised by the ouster two years ago of the Somoza dictatorship have not been realized. Elections, a prime concern of opposition groups, have been put off until 1985. The Marxist-oriented Sandinista leadership has found it difficult to practice the "pluralism" it promised, and even tougher to tolerate the dissidence that is on the rise as a consequence.

There have been arrests, most significantly of leaders of the private business sector but also of some Communists. "La Prensa," the only independent voice among the country's three important newspapers, is periodically shut down for violating the regime's regulations or sensitivities.

There is the Cuban connection and all those Cuban technical and military advisers. And there is El Salvador, where American and Nicaraguan interests are in head-on collision.

As Washington and others read this, it is a tilt toward authoritarianism and worse. In the words of Secretary of State Alexander Haig, Nicaragua is in the process of being transformed into a "platform of terror and war" in Central America.

Well, that's one way of looking at it. But there are others.

The Sandinista leadership is confronting exceptional difficulties in unusually difficult circumstances. Predominantly former university students who took to the jungles to fight Somoza, they inherited a country exploited for the benefit of the very few as few others have ever been.

Nicaragua was burdened with a $1.6 billion debt, one of the largest per capita in the world, much of which represented loans that never entered the country but went directly into the foreign accounts of Somoza and cronies. The new government agreed to honor all but a very small portion of that debt, with payments restructured in agreement with the foreign banks holding it.

The economic disaster that has hit all of Central America with the collapse of world prices for its agricultural exports isn't helping. Of the $500 million exports are expected to earn the country this year, $200 million will go to service the debt and as much or more for just one import — oil.

There has been some help from abroad. Mexico and Venezuela are giving all Central American countries preferential prices on oil. Libya sprang for a $100 million loan last year but declined to follow through with more this year. Some U.S. aid was supplied following the revolution, but it was minimal and has been cut off by the Reagan administration.

Under trying circumstances in which the primary concern is national survival, the Sandinista leadership argues that the time and attention that would be devoted to elections are luxuries.

Fishy Grant Business Raises Eyebrows

WASHINGTON—Officials with access to the federal cash register have a suspicious habit of going on a last-minute spending spree when they expect the cash flow to be cut off.

The directors of the Community Services Administration, for example, expected to be put out of business by the incoming Republicans last January. So the agency's spending arm, the Office of Economic Development, suddenly began dispensing government largesse with a fine bureaucratic hand—an open hand, that is.

The endangered agency awarded $11.4 million in grants and other expenditures during the entire 1980 fiscal year. In contrast, a startling $18.4 million was handed out during the last two days before the Reagan administration came to power. That was 44 percent of all the grants the agency distributed the year before.

One series of transactions was particularly suspicious. On Jan. 19, one day before the new administration took over, a $400,000 grant was awarded to the Harlem Commonwealth

JEFFREY HART

Little Simpler, Please

Don't get me wrong, I like Christmas. Fifth Avenue in Manhattan is an extraordinary sight at this time of year, glittering with colored lights, alive with briak, well-dressed people and gorgeous shop windows.

At Dartmouth College, outside my office window as I write this column, there stands in the middle of the campus a very tall Christmas tree covered with lights, and the main street of the town is lined with smaller trees.

As I say, don't get me wrong, I'm no ascetic — but I think we would enjoy all of this a lot more if we simplified things a bit.

The main street of this town, lined as I say with Christmas trees, is very attractive, but it's also a mob scene. Christmas shopping. The sheer quantities of people, presents, wrapping paper, ribbons, Christmas cards all the rest of it is actually a bit depressing.

The same is true of New York, despite the brilliant attractiveness of midtown Manhattan. The great department stores are a mob scene too, and the smaller shops are bulging at the seams.

It's not the "materialism" that I find depressing, far from it, but a certain hysteria about it all, an atmosphere of frenzy.

I'm not against "commercialism," and I don't expect or want people to spend all their time in church.

Christmas is a great celebration, and it is worldly celebration in an important aspect: after all, it celebrates the advent of God into human life. And, because the Magi brought those gifts to the manger, we bring presents to the children and to each other.

My own sense of Christmas was heavily influenced by Charles Dickens, the great poet of that holiday, and he scarcely considered it an ascetic event.

A Dickens Christmas has to do with families and relatives, groaning tables, lots of drink, song, crowded rooms. The spirit of Dickens invites everyone to the Christmas dinner, Tiny Tim, Bob Cratchit, Oliver Twist. And all of this is perfectly consistent with what Christmas stands for.

Dickens did not like skinny old penny pinchers in black suits, and Santa Claus is not some rake-tin puritan.

But couldn't we cool off the quantitative aspect just a bit? Do we need to give so many presents?

Instead of besieging Macy's and Bloomingdale's or your local equivalents and maybe driving your Mastercharge through the ceiling, why not give a few presents you made yourself, something knitted, maybe, or painted or carved? On me that makes a special impression. Or, if you buy some presents, why not be a lot more selective, suiting the presents with some real thought to their recipients? Fewer, but more memorable presents would in my view make for a better Christmas.

The Christmas card thing has gotten way out of hand too. Several of my friends who are public figures and celebrities no longer send cards at all. Faced with the choice between sending a thousand cards or sending none, they send none. This at least gives the post office a bit of a break. And you can spend a sizable slice of your day during the Christmas season waiting on lines at the post office.

Where Christmas cards are concerned, again, something not bought in the store would be appreciated by most people. You don't have to be Michelangelo or Picasso.

Come to think of it, these thoughts may be subversive of the American economy; but if we do simplify Christmas a bit, people will find other ways to spend their money. And, it seems to me, Christmas would become a still nicer holiday.

Time Is Running Out For ERA

OKLAHOMA CITY (NEA) — Because Oklahoma state law officially designates the husband as head of the family, he can select any reasonable residence and choose whatever style of living he prefers. The wife must conform to his wishes.

In North Carolina, real estate held jointly by husband and wife is controlled only by the husband. In other states, household goods purchased by both spouses during marriage are legally deemed to be the husband's private property.

Scores of similar inequities — embedded in laws or dictated by custom at the local, state and federal level all across the country — provide more than ample justification for adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

Few groups in our society must confront more severe discrimination than homemakers, whose contribution to their families currently has virtually no legal status — but who would gain an unprecedented degree of protection under the ERA.

The Social Security system, for example, does not consider marriage as a partnership but rather as a relationship between a wage earner and a "dependent." Full-time homemakers are ineligible to receive any independent Social Security coverage whatever.

Working women face different but equally oppressive forms of discrimination. "The reality for nearly every female worker today is that she is trapped in a low-paying, dead-end job at the bottom of the career ladder," notes the National Organization for Women. Although some employment gains have been made in recent years, most working women are clustered in 20 occupations at the low end of the wage scale and almost half of all employed females are confined to four jobs — clerical workers, saleswomen, waitresses and hairdressers.

Although more than half of the 43 million women in the labor force work to support themselves or their families, a chronic lack of opportunities for advancement, mobility and achievement inevitably leads to the denial of economic independence.

Only 18 percent of all employed women have professional or technical jobs and only 8 percent of all working women hold managerial positions. Compared with every dollar paid to employed men, working women receive only 59 cents.

The ERA would remedy many of those inequities, and every reputable nationwide public opinion survey shows that it is consistently supported by men and women by a ratio of almost 2-1. Yet only 35 of the requisite 38 state legislatures have ratified the amendment.

Hawaii became the first state to ratify, on the same day in March 1972 when the ERA was officially approved by Congress. But no state has voted for a ratification since Indiana approved the ERA in January 1977 — almost five years ago.

With the extended deadline for ratification due to expire next June 30, only about six months from now, ERA advocates are concentrating their efforts on six target states — Oklahoma, Florida, Illinois, North Carolina, Virginia and Missouri.

Council.

Two weeks earlier, the associate director, Gerrold Mukal, had authorized the Harlem Commonwealth Council to invest $500,000 in an outfit called the East Coast Development Corp. This was supposed to be used to run a joint venture with another group called the East Los Angeles Community Union.

Mukal's connection to the Los Angeles organization has raised eyebrows at the Justice Department. Government auditors have referred the case to the Justice Department for possible criminal investigation.

The case is a little complicated—as such matters often get—but the upshot is that the East Los Angeles Community Union wound up with $5.7 million in grants from the government agency in the nine days before President Reagan was inaugurated.

Then in April, less than three months after Mukal left his government post, a subsidiary of the Los Angeles group loaned $50,000 to Professional Services Group Inc.—of which Mukal is president and a 50 percent stockholder.

That's not all. The subsidiary of the outfit that had gotten the last-minute grants from Mukal's federal agency purchased $30,500 worth of equipment in March and leased it to Mukal's company and another consulting firm, Minority Enterprise Services Associates (MESA).

An official of the Los Angeles group insisted that both arrangements were subsequently canceled and that his organization had nothing to do with Mukal. He did note that his group has invested $100,000 in MESA but insisted that Mukal "has nothing to do with the company."

Interestingly, however, the minority firm's Utah office says Mukal is still on its board of directors, and Mukal's consulting firm in Reston, Va., still identifies itself on the phone as "PSCI-MESA," as in Professional Services Group Inc.—Minority Enterprise Services Associates Inc.—the two firms with which Mukal has been associated since leaving the taxpayers' payroll.

There's yet another peculiar, eleventh-hour transaction that occurred last January. It involved Mukal and his boss, the head of the Community Services Administration, Richard Rios.

On Jan. 19, the day before the Reagan administration took over, Mukal signed a $340,000 grant to the San Jose Development Corp. As it happens, that was just three days after the San Jose group filed its articles of incorporation.

In February, Rios offered the services of his newly founded consulting firm to the San Jose group and received a one-month contract for $3,500. He has since become a high-level bureaucrat in the California state government.

Rios told my office the deal was "all above-board" and had been approved by CIA legal advisers because the work did not involve contact with the federal government.

Footnote: My associate Tony Capaccio twice offered Mukal the opportunity to tell his side of the story. Both times he said "I have no comment," and hung up.

Choirboy, 14, Killed By Intended Burglary Victim

MIAMI (UPI) — A 14-year-old Miami choirboy was shot and killed Tuesday when he aimed a shotgun at a man whose house he was apparently burglarizing. Police said the youngster, identified as Charles Bright, was shot by the homeowner, Prophet Washington, 63. The boy was described by friends as a good student and leader of a Masonic youth chapter.

Graham Threatens Veto

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. Bob Graham has indicated that if the Legislature passes bills to weaken the no-fault automobile insurance law and resurrect the old state road board he will veto the measures. However, Graham, in an end-of-the-year interview Tuesday, refused to say flatly that he would veto an anti-no-fault or road board plan if it were passed by the Legislature. But he indicated that a veto would be his intention.

PSC Studies 'Backbilling'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Public Service Commission has decided to hold a hearing next month on a proposed rule that bars a utility from suddenly deciding it's been charging a customer the wrong rate. The proposed measure would prohibit utilities from "backbilling" customers for charges incurred but not billed more than six months earlier. The commissioners scheduled a hearing for Jan. 11 after rejecting a petition by Florida Power and Light Co. that the proposed rule be dropped.

Hoax Calls Complicate Search For U.S. General

VERONA, Italy (UPI) — Police were diverted from their massive search for kidnapped American Gen. James L. Dozier by calls claiming the terrorists had executed him, but authorities believed the reports were all hoaxes. The most alarming call, made Tuesday by a man speaking Arabic to the office of the Italian news agency ANSA and other news agencies in Beirut, Lebanon, claimed the Red Brigades kidnapers had condemned Dozier to death and executed him.

Strikers Holding Out

United Press International
More than 3,000 coal miners and factory workers kept up stubborn resistance today against Poland's military rulers, who tried to coax detained union leader Lech Walesa and the Roman Catholic Church to help calm Polish unrest. However, reports reaching the West from Poland said church leaders believed the military leaders were achieving at least short-term success in containing worker unrest.

Kowboys Thrash Lake Mary, 109-49

Tonight, the Rams meet Clermont, a 74-53 loser to Haines City. Game time is 7 p.m.

Freshman Darryl Merthie and sophomore Fred Miller led the Rams with 19 and 18 points respectively. Osceola is 6-2, while the Rams are 1-3.

Pats Can Erhardt

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Ron Erhardt was tremendously popular with his players and well-liked by most members of the New England Patriots organization including the owner, but it was his reputation as a "players coach," coupled with record losses in games and money that was his downfall.

Owner William Sullivan, heeding Erhardt's request Monday to make a prompt decision, axed his three-year coach Tuesday and began a search for a replacement.

"What was so endearing about Ron as a person proved to be his undoing as a coach — he was just too nice a guy," said Sullivan, who had wanted to make the announcement after the holidays. "What we really need and what we will be looking for is more of a disciplinarian."

Erhardt, whose eight assistants also were fired, wasn't shocked by the decision.

"I coached here three years and felt that in the first two of them (9-7 and 10-6), our staff did a fine job," Erhardt said. "But overall, in view of the many things we were faced with, I'm proud of the job this staff did."

Sullivan said he would like the replacement to be tough and defensive-minded and to have had some experience with the NFL and its ways. Two names mentioned include Marion Campbell, who had a brief and unsuccessful fling as head coach of the Atlanta Falcons, and Don James of the University of Washington.

Couple Wed At Life Care Center

A "first" was recorded on Dec. 17 at Life Care Center, a six-year-old facility in Altamonte Springs.

Otho Mintz, 66, Orlando, a resident, took another center resident, Grace Fischer, 75, Longwood, for his bride.

The couple exchanged their vows in the presence of about 100 family members and friends.

Clergymen performing the ceremony were the Rev. Andrew Krumbaar, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, Longwood, and the Rev. Robert Leiffort, pastor of St. Christopher Church, Forest City.

According to Debbie Burzlaff, the center social director, Grace and Otho met at the center where she has been a resident for one and one-half years, and Otto, since February of this year.

The ceremony took place in one dining room with the reception held in the other dining room amid festive Holiday decorations.

The social director added that the couple will have private accommodations at the facility. "Life can go on in a nursing home," she said. "It doesn't have to be a stagnant environment."

Miss Brock Bride Of L.H. Johnson

MRS. LEONARD HJALMA JOHNSON

Miss Nancy Louise Brock and Leonard Hjalma Johnson were married Dec. 13, at 4 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church of Dade City. The Rev. Alva H. Brock, uncle of the bride, and pastor of the First United Methodist Church, St. Cloud, performed the ceremony assisted by the Rev. David Shaver. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete H. Brock, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hjalma E. Johnson, all of Dade City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of imported candlelight French tulle and whisper taffeta, which had been worn by her mother. The princess bodice, draped at the bust line, was fashioned of chantilly lace, and tiny tucks of candlelight illusion formed the portrait neckline and the short sleeves. A lace overcoat, draped into cascades at the front and back and caught up with velvet bows and streamers, enhanced the bouffant skirt, which ended in a chapel train. Her full length veil of candlelight imported silk illusion trimmed with seed pearls and lace medallions was attached to a lace bandeau. Long white gloves were worn and she carried a colonial bouquet of cream roses, Phalaenopsis orchids and Christmas greenery in a cascade arrangement, centered with calla lilies.

Miss Haley Brock, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Miss Susan Barnes, Rock Hill, S.C.; Miss Linda James, Charlotte, N.C.; Miss Fern Myratt, Dalton, GA; Miss Gina Phillips, Atlanta, GA; and Miss Jeanie Welzenok, Dade City. Miss Nancy Terwilliger, Sanford, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore identical long gowns of teal green satin. The narrow skirt had a natural waistline and was accented with a flat bow and streamers. A short gently curved jacket had cuffed short sleeves and featured a small stand up collar. Arm bouquets of calla lilies and Christmas greenery, enhanced with gold ribbons and small white doves were carried by the attendants.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Groomsman and ushers were Hutchison Brock, brother of the bride, Jon Auvil, Ed Carver, Doug Johnson, Bill Kendrick, David and Steve Lassing, Ocala, cousins of the bride, Ray Polk, Jerry Schrader and Steve Tombrink.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Whispering Oaks Country Club. The couple honeymooned in Lake Tahoe and San Francisco. They are making their home at Tudor Village, St. Leo.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Nancy Brock of Sanford, and the late Mr. Alva Brock of Charlotte, N.C.

Attending the wedding from the Sanford area were: Mr. and Mrs. James E. Terwilliger Jr., David Terwilliger, Mr. and Mrs. James Brock Terwilliger, Miss Nancy Terwilliger, Jimmy Terwilliger, Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Hutchison, Mrs. Robert Cornell and Miss Margaret Cornell.

Also attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lassing and Mr. and Mrs. Simon Dingfelder, formerly of Sanford.

HOROSCOPE
By BERNICE BEDEOSOL
For Thursday, December 24, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
December 24, 1981
Your progress this coming year may be a trifle slower than that of your contemporaries, but don't let this discourage you. You're likely to cross the finish line before them. Have faith and be persistent.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Your finest qualities today are your sincerity and dependability. You can be relied upon when you make a promise or commitment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You make a marvelous host or hostess today, but don't work so hard that you fall to enjoy your own party. Your guests want to see you enjoy yourself, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Take time from your busy schedule today to call or drop in on someone very fond of you, but who is unable to get around as easily as you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Be a giver today without having thoughts about what you hope to get in return, even if you have to put someone on your gift list who might not reciprocate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
This is a good day to communicate with old friends with whom you may have been out of touch. Don't wait for the phone to ring. Call them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Give vent to your compassionate instincts today. Do what your heart directs. By helping the less fortunate, you'll truly partake of the holiday spirit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
The types of social gatherings you are likely to find most enjoyable today will be those at which your oldest and most-loyal friends will be present.

Hypoglycemia Not What It Seems

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 26-year-old female and have been diagnosed as having low blood sugar. A restricted diet has helped this condition. I would like to know if fructose can be useful in my diet. I have heard that it can be used by some diabetics instead of sugar and that it has a different effect on the body than sugar. Is this true? If so, how much can be used without harmful effects?

DEAR READER — If you read my column often you know that hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) is diagnosed far more frequently than the condition exists. Too many people getting this diagnosis have not been demonstrated to have a significantly low blood glucose level. The diagnosis should not be made unless it can be demonstrated that real low blood glucose levels occur at the same time that the symptoms are induced. Many healthy athletic people have surprisingly low blood glucose levels and don't have a single symptom.

The problem is that the symptoms attributed to hypoglycemia can also occur from many other conditions. The release of adrenaline, from anxiety or other causes, can induce these same symptoms. Happily, some of the same measures that help the person who does have hypoglycemia also help the person who has similar symptoms but who does not have hypoglycemia.

You'll understand this better by reading The Health Letter number 18-B, Hypoglycemia: The Low Blood Sugar Problem, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Fructose is absorbed differently and it may help in a person who has reactive hypoglycemia, the type that occurs in response of having eaten sweets and starches. It is useful in some mild diabetics. But in diabetics who must take insulin it is of little value and begins to affect the blood glucose level the way glucose or table sugar does.

It provides the same number of calories as ordinary sugar, so you should not use very much of it. Fructose is converted to glucose in the liver and muscles.

Diet is not the only important factor. Avoiding coffee, tea, colas, cigarettes and alcohol is also important in the true reactive hypoglycemia patient or many of those with similar symptoms simply induced by the release of excess adrenaline.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Exactly what nutritional value does lettuce have? I am arguing with my mother about it.

DEAR READER — Calorie-wise it has very little. There is some difference in various types of lettuce but in general 100 grams (3.5 ounces) of lettuce contains about 15 calories. That is a lot of lettuce, and that is why it is popular for salads for weight control. About one out of five calories in lettuce are from protein, but it is of little importance because there are so few calories anyway.

Its main nutritive value is from its content of vitamin A and folic acid. It is a good source of vitamin A. Since we all need some folic acid, lettuce and other green leafy vegetables used in salads are an important part of our diet. Also, folic acid in foods that require cooking is easily destroyed, hence the green leafy salad becomes even more important. The bottom line is — Eat your lettuce, son!

WIN AT BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby would be playing in one pair and the late Howard Schenken in the other. Here is a simple hand played by Howard described by Derek Rimington as the expert's expert. The year was 1931, an early match in that year's Vanderbilt Cup. Schenken arrived in six hearts and opened with an artificial forcing two clubs.

He ruffed the ace of spades and remarked, "I might as well make a safety play." Then he played his ace of hearts.

East showed out so Howard led his jack of hearts and let it ride. Then he led a third heart to dummy's king and claimed with the announcement that West could take his good trump any time he wanted to. Note that if West had shown out of hearts, Howard would have let the heart jack ride to East's queen and still had complete control.

Simple, but at the other table declarer led a heart to dummy's king. When East showed since there was no way to keep West from forcing declarer to ruff another spade with a trump honor to give West two trump tricks. The only standard was that
