Cone Removed After Week In Oxygen Tent

Doctor Reveals Governor Had Coronary Thrombosis July 29 Despite Denial Then

Says Condition Now Favorable

States Executive Will Recover If There Is No Interference

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 6. (AP)—Dr. Stanley Erwin disclosed today Governor Cane was removed yesterday from an oxygen tent under which he had been kept for one week following a heart attack.

"It is time for the people of Florida to know that Governor Cane had coronary thrombosis last Friday, July 29 at noon and has just been removed from an oxygen tent," Dr. Erwin said.

"His condition is good at the present time and without interference, he will recover. The governor is not dangerously ill now, but any unnecessary physical or mental disturbance will interfere with his ultimate recovery.

It is to be hoped that no political pressure will be brought upon him at this time. He should be able to return to Tallahassee in a few weeks. He is cheerful and wants to get back to the duties of office. He is eating well and feeling as well as could be expected.

"His temperature is normal, his pulse rate is 70, and blood pressure is 103 over 70. His cardiograph shows improvement."

Erwin said he left orders that Cane was not to be disturbed under any circumstances. As to whether one of the governor's (Continued on Page Two)

Fighting Goes On Over Hill In Border Area

Soviet Army Reported As Moving Up Troops For Mass Onslaught On Japs

By Associated Press

Fighting broke out anew today over the disputed Changkufeng hill on the Siberian Manchukuo frontier as Japan and Soviet Russia wrangled over the terms to keep the incident from spreading into war.

Japan held to her original overture—cessation of hostilities, mutual withdrawals from the disputed zone and arbitration of the border line through diplomatic channels.

Russia demanded a study of the whole border issue as prerequisite to the settlement of the present incident which has imperiled the peace of the far east for 26 days.

Japanese army reports from the Changkufeng scene said Soviet guns had been silenced in an artillery duel, Soviet infantry had retreated and the Russians had lost a bomber, four tanks and four heavy guns.

The Associated Press correspondent at Kogi, Korea, said the Soviets apparently were moving up for a strong attempt to retake the hill.

On the other Far Eastern front Japanese warships were within 110 miles of Hankow, in virtually the same position as a week ago.

In Spain, government forces struck at an important road junction at Nogueira which dominates the insurgent communication lines northwest of Teruel. The government also launched a strong offensive in the Pyrenees.

Continued hostilities along the Siberia-Manchukuo frontier, with their constant threat of a general Russian-Japanese war, appeared inevitable as a result of a deadlock in first efforts to settle the dispute by negotiation.

Russia lent her Red army forces in the Changkufeng area 150 miles south of Vladivostok, on wartime footing pending Japan's formal answer to the Soviet's list of terms under which a peaceful settlement of the conflict would be considered.

These terms, as announced officially following Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov's two and one-half hour conversation Thursday with Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu, were so adamant that diplomats believed there was scant chance of Japan's acceptance.

Litvinov, indirectly rejecting Japan's first verbal proposal for a peaceful settlement, made it clear to Shigemitsu that Russia still regards the Japanese as aggressors and that there could be no negotiation so long as "even a single Japanese soldier remains on Soviet territory."

Opening Dates For Seminole Schools Given

Sanford, Geneva, Osceola, Monroe, And Wilson Schools To Begin September 12

The opening date for Seminole County Schools has been set at September 12 and 13, in agreement of the board of trustees, Superintendent of Public Instruction E. W. Taylor, announced this morning.

The Sanford, Geneva, Osceola, Monroe, and Wilson schools open on Sept. 12 while the Tamm, Lake Mary, Geneva, and Ocala schools open Sept. 13.

All white and colored schools will observe the above dates.

Mrs. Lawton pointed out that teachers of the schools are not in the county at least two weeks before the opening date must present a certificate from a doctor indicating that there was no epidemic of communicable disease and no case of infantile paralysis in the community from which the teacher or student may have arrived.

At the next meeting of the school board, a letter was read from L. K. Cannon, assistant state highway engineer, promising that a crew of workers should be at work on the bridge across the Landkatchee creek within 10 days. At the previous meeting a resolution was passed calling for the attention of the state road department to the fact that the bridge was badly in need of repair in order to be safe for the transport of pupils over it in the school buses. The board urged the road department to take immediate action on the resolution.

J. C. Finell was authorized by the board to write continued in charge on all county-owned blanketed properties.

The resignation of Miss Helen E. Faye Miles of Ocala School was accepted but no recommendation for a successor was given. Other vacancies are now existing in the high, elementary and commercial departments in the Lyman School and in home economics at the Ocala School.

E. H. Killbe was authorized to act as transporter of pupils from Ocala to Geneva in Seminole High School.

The resignation of A. G. Wagner, for many years chairman of the board of trustees of the Chulata school, was accepted.

Miss Myrtle Chalder of Chulata was recommended by trustees of the Chulata school as successor of Chaluta to Ocala. Her application was forwarded to the state road department inasmuch as drivers must qualify with the state road department and obtain a school bus drivers permit.

Dearborn Police Kill Man Who Fled Florida's Prison

Bolita Racket In Tampa Ceases As Law Threatens

DETROIT, Aug. 6. (AP)—Police of suburban Dearborn killed one man and captured another whom they both were fugitives from a Florida prison camp they had escaped by slaying a guard.

The two Dearborn men with whom they were riding were held for investigation. Arthur Sherman, 26, of Los Angeles, Calif., was shot and killed at 2:10 A. M. by Patrolman Ralph Dahlen who said the man broke away while being questioned as a suspicious character.

Bruce Parrish, 22, of Marianna, Fla., told police that Sherman had killed W. L. Waters, a guard, July 22 near Floral City, Fla. Parrish and they seized an automobile occupied by two Florida state representatives and after dropping them and obtaining West Virginia license plates drove to Dearborn.

Here they met William Zahari, 24, who said he had been released in February, 1937 after serving time with them in Florida.

The fourth man in the car with them when stopped was the driver, George Bergia, 21, of Dearborn, who told police he had picked up the other three when Zahari, whom he knew, asked for a ride.

Sheriff Charles Dean of Inverness telegraphed he would come here for Parrish.

Kentucky Goes To Polls In Primary Choosing Senator

Prestige Of New Deal At Stake As Barkley Faces Chandler

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6. (AP)—A "bloody Breashtitt" county killing marked the height of bitterness between Democratic factions supporting New Deal Senator Barkley and Governor Chandler for the senatorial nomination in Saturday's primary.

Lewis Combs, county chairman for Governor Chandler and a former Breashtitt, was shot to death last night at Jackson when he and his brother, Leo Combs, started up the stairway leading to Barkley headquarters.

Leo and Sheriff Deaton die in a Lexington hospital with bullet wounds inflicted at the same time.

Murder warrants were out for W. A. Combs, no relation to Lewis and Leo, and the county chairman for Barkley, and for two other persons.

Senator Barkley concluded his campaign Friday with a barnstorming motorcade through the first congressional district. He visited 19 towns and climaxed his drive for votes with a big rally in his home town of Paduch, on the banks of the Ohio.

Governor Chandler made two speeches yesterday and two last night. There was a big Chandler rally at the University of Kentucky stadium at Lexington. The governor will conclude his campaigning with a radio speech early in the morning.

Headquarters of a Barkley and Chandler freely predicted victory for both men. Barkley's leaders said he would win by a majority of approximately 75,000. Chandler's men claim his victory will be by about 30,000 votes. Approximately 445,000 Democrats are eligible to participate in the primary.

The chief issue is the New Deal. Barkley, the Roosevelt majority leader in the Senate, has the personal backing of the President, who came to Kentucky and in three speeches pointed to Barkley as the man he wished nominated.

Chandler, while claiming personal friendship with the President, has opposed some of the New Deal policies. He frequently has attacked Barkley for "running off someone's coat tails."

Sanford Building Record Is Best In Several Years

Thousands of Dollars Spent In Re-Modeling And Renovating

Building activity in Sanford during the past six months has been greater than for any time in the past several years, according to records at the City Hall.

In addition to numerous home construction jobs, several large buildings have been remodelled and renovated and one has been built.

Construction of the building which is to be the home of the Table Supply Company, a grocery concern, on West First Street has advanced rapidly in the last two months and is now about ready for occupancy.

The building was constructed at a cost of approximately $14,000. The single story building contains a floor area of 3,200 square feet with a frontage of 40 feet on First Street. Walls were made of brick and tile. The steel-trussed roof is covered with a 15-year bonded roofing.

There are no partitions in the store. A unique feature is the use of sliding doors in three sections that, when rolled up, disappear in a chamber in the roof of the building.

The recent purchase of the Melander Arcade building by the Malher Furniture Company and subsequent remodeling at a cost of $1,000 gives First Street another first class business house.

Most of the tenants in the building have been moved into store rooms facing on Sanford Avenue. Partitions are being torn out of the other side to house the main display rooms of the Malher Company.

At a cost of $15,000 The Yowell Company has almost completed a program of remodeling and renovation which includes the installation of the first air-cooling system in the city.

Not only has the outside of the building been done over but the entire inside has been refinished and new showcases put in.

Several months ago the expansion and renovation of the McGary Company was completed at a cost of several thousand dollars. A new addition to the store gave it twice the store space it had previously contained. Many new counters, lights and other fixtures were installed.

County officials are now awaiting favorable action on a proposed hospital for the PWA headquarters in Washington.

"Charlie Chan" Of Movies Fails To Come Back

WEST HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 6. (AP)—Warner Oland, motion picture actor best known for his screen role of Charlie Chan, died today at Stockholm, Sweden, his brother announced here.

Carl Oland, the brother, reported a cablegram from Stockholm said the actor, who for days had been ill of pneumonia died at 2:30 A. M.

Death came as Oland's estranged wife was preparing to go to his bedside. His lawyers had announced at Santa Barbara, Calif., she would sail for Stockholm Monday.

TOKYO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Major Gen. The general left a note with his wife saying that he was old and useless and could serve best by permitting his pension to be diverted to war purposes.

Dressed in ceremonial robes he knelt before the shrine of his ancestors in his home and split his stomach with a sharp dagger in the traditional fashion of "Seppuku."

Seasonal Program For Farm Needy Is Hopkins' Plan

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 6. (AP)—Insurgation of a permanent program of between-season employment for needy farmers was announced here last night by Harry L. Hopkins, works program administrator, as the first step of President Roosevelt's "frontal attack" on the South's inequality of income.

Hopkins, in an address prepared for nation-wide broadcast, said he came to talk with state and regional administrators of 11 southern states in which diets for thousands consist of "grits, greens and gravy."

He said he discussed with the administrators "measures the WPA can take to further the President's purpose," after previously giving them authority to add a total of 200,000 persons in the WPA rolls pending the time when labor would be needed for picking cotton.

"We intend to close out this employment in picking time, and to open it up again when the harvest is over," Hopkins said.

He said there were thousands of southerners in the rural areas not earning an adequate income from agriculture.

"I believe, therefore, as a matter of permanent policy the head of every farm family whose income is inadequate should be given employment a few months each year to supplement his agricultural income," Hopkins said. He added that while he intended to see the job done to the hilt, he proposed to modify the procedure of certification for work "and to substitute in its place an employment system which will remove the offensive stigma of relief from these people."

The "supplementary work," Hopkins pointed out, is not a "trial service" but "it has convinced that any permanent satisfactory solution is going to be a long time in the making."

Fascist Defense On Race Policy Given

ROME, Aug. 6. (AP)—Requirements of empire defense form the primary reason for the new fascist race policy, an official inspired statement said yesterday criticizing "misunderstandings" abroad of fascist motives.

It was the first time anti-defense rather than anti-Semitism was stressed in interpretations of the new race policy, one phase of which, it was announced, will permit only one Jew for every 1,000 non-Jewish Italians to participate in "the full life of the state."

This limitation of Jews in "the full life of the state" was seen as a step toward a law prohibiting non-Jewish Italians from marrying Jews or colonial subjects (African natives).

In alluding down to the ratio of one Jew to 1,000, no persecution of Jews will be permitted, said the statement, which was issued by the Informations Diplomatica, an official agency.

Bolita Racket In Tampa Ceases As Law Threatens

TAMPA, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Tampa bolita racket has been closed suddenly and tightly.

It closed on the heels of a conference of law enforcement officers Thursday in Mayor Chandler's office and after the grand jury had requested officers to cooperate in stamping out gambling.

But nobody could tell how long it will stay closed.

The bid was down on single bolita, parlay, ABC bonds and all other forms of the numbers game, apparently by general agreement. There were no arrests and no indication of how long gambling numbers would be off the market.

"We're not selling," was the reply customers got at the bolita window.

The gamblers griping said the shutdown order was passed around Thursday night after a found bolita "throwing" in Tampa Springs.

Although the racket had been quiet for the last few weeks, most representatives declining to give out written tips, the closing was the first since early last Spring when a former grand jury indicted nine officials and seven persons on charges of operating gambling.

All the charges later were dropped except one against Joe Romano. He was fined $100 on a plea of nolo contendere which meant he didn't say whether he was or was not guilty.

BARTOW, Aug. 6. (AP)—Query as to what will be done in Bartow to clamp down on bolita sales has been answered by Mayor Commissioner Edward C. Quinn who said "We have already instructed the chief of police to clamp up the town."

Mayor Edwards did not enlarge upon that statement, other than to say "If the chief does not carry out orders we can replace him."

It is generally known that bolita has been running wide open here for some time, and that arrests to date for bolita sales have been practically "nil."

Vernon E. Coller Dies At Age Of 69

Vernon E. Coller, 69, died at 4:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home in Lake Mary after a long illness.

Mr. Coller had resided in Seminole County about 28 years. He was born July 5, 1869.

A former contractor, he had been with the Sanford Novelty Mill, for the last several years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Coller, a brother, Thern Coller of Richville, N. Y. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Just Politics

The danger of investing the government with too much authority over the economic life of the nation on the grounds that the merit system and not political preference will be the determining factor in selecting supervisory executives is clearly illustrated as a result of the G-Men's investigation of recent civil service examinations in connection with the State Industrial Commission.

The evidence indicates, according to the Federal Director of the Social Security Board, "that two applicants for jobs in the unemployment compensation division had access to certain examination questions." It is further pointed out that they obtained their information as a result of demands made on the printer directly through the Governor's office.

An so we have applicants for positions in connection with the administration of the sacred unemployment insurance funds—positions which should embody every element of trust required in the great insurance companies, and demanding the same exacting knowledge and training—who go through the motions of taking civil service examinations, but who know all the questions, and of course all the answers, before they go into the examination room.

To say that this is deliberate cheating is hardly enough. In school the cheater is looked upon with contempt by his fellows. And the teacher who would give a pupil a set of questions before the examination took place would last just about long enough to get kicked out the front door. But in taking these civil service examinations for important government positions, they are given a set of questions in plenty of time to look up the answers.

As we get it, if the government took over the railroads and proceeded to operate them, the superintendent of the line would not be a man who worked up from the ranks and knew railroading from beginning to end. He'd be a ward healer who could command the most votes, who would take an examination for the job, of course, to prove his capacity to handle it, but would be given a set of questions in advance.

And if the government took over the banks, the cashier would not likely be the man who had held the job all these years, and who could figure interest rates on thousands of dollars for any period of time from ten minutes to ten years, in his head, but would be the local campaign manager of the lucky congressional candidate who had delivered the county's votes to him. He'd probably have to take an examination, of course, but he'd given a set of answers.

And if anyone raised any objection to this procedure, he'd probably be told, "Why, that's just politics."

Auto Taxes

Perhaps one reason why there are more automobile accidents today than there were, say, ten years ago, is because there are more automobiles, more automobile drivers, and a whole lot more automobile driving. Statistics show that the average automobile driver uses his automobile about 30 percent more last year than he did in 1929.

That there would have been an even greater use of automobiles, had it not been for the steep increase in automobile taxes, is shown by the Florida Petroleum Industries Commission which says that there has been a 57 percent increase in automotive taxes during the past eight years. The average motorist uses 655 gallons of gas a year and travels slightly less than 10,000 miles.

In 1929 the average price of a gallon of gasoline was 18 cents, not counting taxes. Today, the average price, not counting taxes, is 14 1/2 cents a gallon. But because the taxes have increased more than the manufacturers have been able to reduce prices, the consumer pays around 20 or 22 cents a gallon for his gas today. The effect of the price reduction is to save the average motorist $22 a year on his gasoline bill, but this saving has been more than offset by the increase in taxes.

Perhaps all this is a good thing, if you want to look at it that way. It keeps people from driving their cars as much as they otherwise would, thus helps to hold auto accidents in check. Maybe that is what the tax-gatherers had in mind.

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHELSON Democratic National Committee

Republican campaign strategy at the Chicago convention in 1932 that the balloting would have gone on indefinitely and possibly have brought about another nomination on the John W. Davis order. These maybe so's and perhaps could be charged without limit. A change of a single vote—approximately one per cent of the Senate would have made Pat Harrison majority leader instead of Alben Barkley. Five per cent in the House would have passed the reorganization bill. I have not looked up the returns but I daresay that a small flock of Republican Congressmen who escaped the Roosevelt landslide by the skin of their teeth would have been swept away two years ago—if the Sullivan formula was applied in reverse. In brief, almost any political situation could be turned upside down by such a shift if you could spot the changes in those places where it would have the greatest effect. Not infrequently the vote in a few precincts varies the vote of a district; an upset in one county may change the complexion of a state, etc. Now let us take up the interpretation of the primary voting so far as it goes. First, there was Alabama, which had to elect a successor to the Hugo Black seat, and later Hill, who according to the anti-administration prophets was a hundred per cent New Dealer, was nominated 2 to 1. In estimating the value of these deductions, it should be recalled that the reactionary spokesmen, in and out of print, announced that the President was undertaking a purge to get rid of all those who had opposed any of his important measures in Congress. We had the clear-cut issue in Florida, where Senator Pepper, who was supposed to have the President's blessing, contested with Congressman Mark Westcott for the Senate seat. Westcott made his whole appeal on the basis of his anti-administration record. Pepper, of course, came through by more than two to one, despite the fact that ex-Governor Shreve also proclaimed himself a New Dealer, got 45,000 votes, which necessarily must have gone to the Senator if the Governor had kept his of the primary.

There were a couple of other primary elections in between. There was Iowa, in which the sitting Senator and the Representative who was seeking to succeed him, broke about even on the record for and against New Deal measures. However, because Harry Hopkins had said that if he were voting in Iowa he would cast his ballot for Congressman Wearin, Senator Gillette's victory was placarded in a thousand headlines as a terrific administration defeat. Then there was Illinois, where a Senate fight had nothing to do with New or Old Deal questions, but some significance attached to the circumstance that every sitting Representative (New Dealer) was renominated. The President on his Western tour spoke for Barkley in Kentucky. He went through Colorado with a nod and a smile for Senator Alva Adams, who was conspicuous in his opposition to the Supreme Court act and some other administration measures. He on through Nevada, where Senator Pat McCarran, one of the fiercest opponents of the New Deal was a candidate for re-election, and the President was as amiable to him as to Adams in Colorado. He also went through Utah and Texas, where Senator King and Senator Connors, who were renominated, were the only New Dealers to be renominated.

asking the people to vote for the men who have opposed his policies in Congress. "Purge" is a fine short word for headline purposes, but I wonder if those who invented it for a specific purpose expected the President to campaign for those who hindered his program. Certainly nobody else did.

being happened in North Carolina, where Senator Reynolds was the candidate of the New Deal forces, and Representative Hancock appealed to the other side. The New Deal majority there was about 94,000. Congress adjourned, and we came to Oklahoma, where Senator Elmer Thomas and Governor Marland, both asking for New Deal votes, ran against Representative Gomer Smith, who voted against the Farm Act and other administration measures. Thomas got 297,000 votes, Marland got 99,000, and Gomer Smith got 159,000. The Governorship vote in that State was equally significant. Leon Phillips and William S. Key and two other candidates contested for the New Deal votes. Ex-Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray ran on the anti-New Deal side and got fewer votes than either of the leading New Deal candidates. There were a couple of other primary elections in between. There was Iowa, in which the sitting Senator and the Representative who was seeking to succeed him, broke about even on the record for and against New Deal measures. However, because Harry Hopkins had said that if he were voting in Iowa he would cast his ballot for Congressman Wearin, Senator Gillette's victory was placarded in a thousand headlines as a terrific administration defeat. Then there was Illinois, where a Senate fight had nothing to do with New or Old Deal questions, but some significance attached to the circumstance that every sitting Representative (New Dealer) was renominated. The President on his Western tour spoke for Barkley in Kentucky. He went through Colorado with a nod and a smile for Senator Alva Adams, who was conspicuous in his opposition to the Supreme Court act and some other administration measures. He on through Nevada, where Senator Pat McCarran, one of the fiercest opponents of the New Deal was a candidate for re-election, and the President was as amiable to him as to Adams in Colorado. He also went through Utah and Texas, where Senator King and Senator Connors, who were renominated, were the only New Dealers to be renominated.

Cone Removed After Week In Oxygen Tent

Continued From Page One secretaries will be allowed to present a judicial assignment order for the governor's personal signature, Dr. Erwin said "if he is allowed to be bothered by any state business it will be over my objections." The right of Judge William V. Albury of Key West to preside in criminal court trials at Tampa has been questioned in the Hillsborough Circuit Court because the governor's signature on the assignment of the position was affixed by his brother, executive secretary, Branch Cone and not by the governor himself. Branch Cone said at Tallahassee he was coming to Jacksonville today with the assignment order but did not know whether Erwin would allow him to see the governor.

TAMPA, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Judge William V. Albury of Key West, presiding in Criminal Court here, was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge L. L. Parks to show cause in Circuit Court Monday morning why he should not be prohibited from serving as a judge in an order bearing the signature of Governor Cone but not written by the governor who is ill in a Jacksonville hospital.

Judge Parks ordered the hearing on a petition by Maurice S. Uman during a day of State-wide developments in the case which included: (1) A resolution unanimously adopted by the Tampa Hillsborough County Bar Association to test the legality of Judge Albury's order. (2) Preparation of a new order at Tallahassee to be rushed to the governor's hospital bed room for his signature to replace the questioned order.

(3) An opinion given to County Solicitor Joe E. Williams by the State Attorney General's office holding that Judge Albury should pass on his own qualification. The specific question of the legality of Judge Albury's assignment was raised first by Uman before the judge in Criminal Court Thursday, but behind this was another issue of whether the governor's secretary or the president of the Senate, asking the people to vote for the men who have opposed his policies in Congress. "Purge" is a fine short word for headline purposes, but I wonder if those who invented it for a specific purpose expected the President to campaign for those who hindered his program. Certainly nobody else did.

MEMOIRS OF MY EUROPEAN TRIP

By ESTHER LOUISE HUGHES

St. Mark's Cathedral is a combination of Mohammedan and Gothic architecture. The exterior is formed of many pillars and five domes. The large dome in the center and the four smaller ones represent the cross.

The cathedral is very interesting. The interior is very dark, and the light comes from narrow openings in the top of the domed ceiling. The floor is made of marble and is very smooth.

The Realdo Bridge is a fine arch of marble, spanning the Grand Canal. It was built in 1601 by Paolo Veronesi and cost 500,000 ducats.

On the square are two granite columns, which were brought from Syria 800 years ago. On top of one is the Winged Lion of St. Mark, and on top of the other is the statue of St. Theodore.

We visited a Professional Lace School and a glass factory. The leader had told us that lace would be cheaper in Brussels, Belgium, so we bought most of our lace there.

July 16, we left Venice, passing through Padua and Verona, towns of Shakespearean plays. Verona has many spires and domes. It is located on the Adige River at the foot of the Tyrolese Alps.

These plains are so rich that at times they grow as many as twelve crops a year. We passed by the lovely Italian lakes at Garda, Maggiore, and Lugano. These lakes, surrounded by mountains, are very enchanting and picturesque.

W. E. Blanchard will visit the Sanford Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F., next Monday night at the Hall on Fourth Street and Pine Avenue in an official capacity.

Chef Cook Leads Orlando To Victory Over Sanford

Former By Cole Is Feature Of Heavy Batting Attack

Pinder Relieved In Third After Giving Up Six Hits, Eight Runs; Replaced By Jeter

Holding the Sanford Lookouts to nine hits, Big Chief Cook, hurling for the Orlando Senators, last night defeated his former team under by a score of 10 to 3 at Tinker Field in Orlando.

A sixth inning homer by Sam Cole, Orlando left fielder, was the feature of a batting attack that netted the Senators 11 safeties in nine innings. A grand stand collection was worth $25.00 to Cole.

Joe Pinder was relieved in the third after giving up six hits and eight runs. Cleo Jeter, taking over the flinging for the remainder of the contest, gave up five hits and two runs.

The former Sanford pitching Chief Cook, was in good luck as he fanned seven Lookouts.

Until the ninth, Cook had held the locals to five singles but in the last frame touched him for four safeties before he could get them down.

Sanford scored in the first inning to open hostilities by getting two runs. John Adz made first on Eddie Guinness' bad throw to first and advanced to second on Bob Pittman's single. Eddie Davis sent Adz home on his single and Pittman came in when Pete Schiro missed the throw-in at the plate.

Tripping to third, Buck Elliott opened the attack for the Senators in their half of the first and on Guinness' single crossed the plate with Orlando's first run.

In the second, the Senators made four more safeties. Three bases on balls, issued by Pinder, an infield error, a passed ball by the catcher, and singles by Schiro and Cook paved the way for the tally.

The Ganselmen annexed three more markers in the third and one each in the fifth and sixth frames to end their scoring for the evening. Sanford made two in the seventh on singles by Heramus and Davis, a base on balls and Guinness' second error of the game.

Rallying again in the ninth, the Rodgers' men added two more counters which left them five short of victory. Singles by Billy Moore, Adz, Davis and Brady coupled with a fielder's choice brought the runs in.

LOOKS LIKE A 'PHOTO FINISH' on that fifth-inning slide home by Alex Kampouris. Giants second baseman in second game of a Giants-Cuba doubleheader in Chicago. While Cubs were arguing this play, Hubbell still second, then reached third.

Islanders Defeat Lookouts To Play Gainesville 2 To 0 In University City

Contest Will Be 1st Of Two-Game Series With Daytona Beach

In a game called because of rain at 10 o'clock, the Islanders of Gainesville defeated the Sanford Lookouts 2 to 0 in University City last night.

The Islanders, managed by Herb E. Taylor, the Florida State League pitcher, pitched a complete game, allowing only two hits and no runs.

The Lookouts, managed by Joe Pinder, were unable to get any runs in the field.

The contest will be the first of a two-game series with Daytona Beach.

Sanford Theater News for the Coming Week

MARGARET SULLAVAN AND JAMES STEWART are seen together for the first time in "The Showdown Angel," story of the three-sided romance of a Broadway showgirl, an American doughboy and a wealthy playboy. The new picture will show at the Ritz Thursday and Friday.

Harold Returns To Films After Three Years' Absence

Harold Lloyd returns to the screen, after an absence of over a year and a half, in a worthy sequel of laughter entitled "Professor Beware," the film that plays at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. He has chosen for a story a tale as typically Lloydian as his world-famous glasses "eyeglasses," and as is his custom, presents a charming new leading lady, Phyllis Welch.

In his latest film venture Lloyd plays the part of a down-and-out Egyptologist whose desire to help anyone in distress causes him to be bounced out of the halls of learning and sends him on a crazy dash across the continent with Miss Welch at his heels.

The picture opens in California where Lloyd is seen as the slightly screwy professor employed in the Egyptian wing of a leading museum. In his desire to help Miss Welch get a screen test, he aids an inebricated talent scout, William Frawley, who has lost his trousers, thereby losing his own pants and his job.

Meanwhile he has received an offer of a job from an archaeological expedition, providing he pay his own fare from the West coast to New York. Broke, he starts his dizzy jaunt across deserts and the wilds pursued by Miss Welch, who without giving away any secrets of the screen plot, turns out to be a wealthy heiress in the final reel. On his cross-country trip, via freight car and other dubious means of transportation, he runs into Lionel Stander and Raymond Walburn, tramps, who stick to him closer than leeches.

Arriving in New York, Lloyd stages one of the funniest comedy situations it has ever been the privilege of this interviewer to witness. Refused entrance to Miss Welch's yacht anchored in the harbor, he runs amok on the dock, insulting people right and left, until he has a small sized mob at his heels.

Tampa Claimed Among Oldest Of American Cities

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 6. (AP)—Tampa, among the younger of American cities, has a name and history among the oldest.

While the city's commercial development dates back less than three-quarters of a century, it has been a community since before the first white man sailed into Tampa Bay.

When De Narvaez brought his fleet into the bay in 1528, only 15 years after Ponce De Leon sighted Florida the first time, the present site of Tampa was the headquarters of an Indian chief by the name of Mucosco, a Spanish relative.

How long the site had been settled by the Aborigines there are records to testify, nor is there any information on how long it had borne the Indian name of Timpi or Timpa, from which the present name was derived.

Charles V. Haddock, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said records indicated that the English took hold in the harbor was then known as "Tamp," meaning "Adjacent."

The town also was known by many other names, he said, "and the name Tampa came from the Spanish word 'tambo,' which later was changed to Tampa in making the arriving report, was the name used by the Spaniards, and the name Tampa was first used by the Indians."

Fred Collins Death Remains A Mystery

LIVE OAK, Fla., (AP)—The slaying of Fred Collins, Live Oak taxi driver last summer remains unsolved as far as official records show.

Seven persons were indicted on first degree murder charges in connection with the case last May but later were all freed without trial, Circuit Judge Hal W. Adams dismissing the charges for lack of sufficient evidence.

Collins answered a call from the railroad station the night of June 30, 1937. His body was found early the next morning by the crew of a freight train which struck his taxicab a light blow.

The engineer saw the taxi parked on the track and managed to stop the train in time to prevent a rival crash. The locomotive merely bumped the automobile. Collins' body was in the rear of the car. His skull had been crushed with a blunt instrument. The taxicab doors were locked.

Sheriff P. B. Cannon questioned many persons during his investigation. Later W. H. Gagne, special state investigator, was assigned to the case by the Governor's office. The investigations followed but the charges were dismissed.

Saturday, August 13.—Bob Baker in "WESTERN TRAILS" and "BORN TO BE WILD."

Love Is Sacrificed For Sake Of Another

The dramatic story of a woman who sacrifices her love for one man so that she might send another away to the war with a beautiful memory without shattering his ideals, is the stirring theme of "The Showdown Angel," starring Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart coming to the Ritz Theatre.

Bailing out just in time (he thinks) is Richard Dix in this scene from "Sky Giant." Playing a crack pilot who attempts to teach a swaggering aviator student a lesson, Dix tosses his joystick overboard, but as seen above the tables are turned on him, Chester Morris and Joan Fontaine are the other two stars of this exciting RKO Radio picture.

Antics Of Dummy, Charlie McCarthy, Provide Comedy

Fine, great dramatic situations interspersed with hilarious comedy moments march grandly across the screen of Universal's John M. Stahl production, "A Letter of Introduction," which opens tomorrow at the Ritz Theatre.

Adolphe Menjou, Andrea Leeds and George Murphy provide the drama. The comedy is excellently taken care of by that remarkable pair, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy.

George Murphy reveals unsuspected qualities as Miss Leeds' suspicious fiancée. Rita Johnson as George's dancing partner, Ann Sheridan as Menjou's society-fiancee, and Eve Arden as a sophisticated showgirl are excellent cast.

McCarthy, however, emerges as tops in the comedy line, although he has an unexpected rival in Mortimer Snerd, a rural dummy who makes his screen debut in "Letter of Introduction." Mortimer nearly steals the show from Charlie in spots.

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF an off-stage shot of Joe Penner, the star of RKO Radio's "I'm From The City." The original, in color, executed by Frank Carr, young Texas cartoonist, has a carefully drawn face with hat and tie cut out of patterned paper and pasted on. "I'm From The City" presents Penner in the role of a shy circus rider, who can perform only after he has been hypnotized.

Joe Penner Is Induced To Ride Horse In Race Without First Being Hypnotized

A double romance involving a ring master and a siren, and a trick circus rider and a ranch-grown lass, is thrashed through cut Joe Penner's current screen vehicle, "I'm From The City."

The amusing story revolves around the efforts of Richard Lane as a smooth-talking ring master, to get rich quick by cutting into a deal with a ranch-

What the woman doesn't know is that Penner is scared to death of a horse, and can perform his daredevil feats in the circus ring only when he is hypnotized by Lane.

There'll be a hot time in the ol' town -THIS WEEK

Many people will suffer unnecessarily from heat this week. They will fuss and fret and fan themselves as they scurry from counter to counter and store to store, looking for something.

Save steps, these hot days. Sit down in the shade of a cool porch. Glance through the advertisements in the newspaper. Find what you want before you go to buy it.

That's what advertisements are for. You can trust the advertisers to tell you about bargains in the ads. You can save money and minutes and many a headache if you read the advertisements—and heed them.

New Tactics Of Fighting Arise From World War

Methods Based Upon Lessons Taught By Older Strategists

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE, WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)

Twenty-four years ago on July 26, 1914, proud Austria declared war on doughty little Serbia, touching off the war of wars.

One of the titanic conflicts, which aligned 21 nations against the four Great Powers, had brought a grand mobilization of 59,000,000 soldiers, three came new and mighty engines of destruction, new tactics and new masters in the art of warfare.

Yet Col. Oliver L. Spaulding, veteran military historian and chief of the historical section of the U. S. Army war college will tell you that the World War was planned and fought in large measure on the basis of lessons learned from the old military masters, several of whom had gone to the warrior's Valhalla long before the birth of Christ.
