City restricts skateboard ramps

SANFORD — Skateboard ramps are now restricted in the city's residential neighborhoods.

The city commission Monday voted unanimously to adopt an ordinance placing restrictions on recreational ramps in residential zoned areas. Ramps must be located in backyards, no less than 10 feet from the rear and side property lines. The ramps are also limited to three feet in height and may only be used between 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon through 8 p.m. on weekends.

Skateboarders now require city commission approval of all ramps. If the restrictions are violated, a skateboarder may lose approval for the ramp.

Newsletter comes to schools

SANFORD — Robert W. Genzman, U.S. Attorney of the Middle District of Florida, will present to the Seminole County School Board tonight information on the Frontline to Frontline newsletter. The board will meet at 2 p.m. in the board room at the district office, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

The Frontline to Frontline newsletter is a new project of the U.S. Department of Justice to fight the use of drugs in the schools. It is written by members of the Law Enforcement Coordinating Committee and includes information about a variety of drugs, including ways to identify them and the street names used by those who sell and use them.

The newsletter is being given to the school district to help parents, teachers and administrators detect drug use among students.

Genzman will request the newsletter be distributed at all the schools in Seminole County. He has promised to produce the newsletter at the expense of the Justice Department.

Judge Leffler to resign

Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler, 61, will retire from his $80,000-a-year post by the end of the year, his judicial assistant said today.

A judge since 1975, Leffler has served in both criminal and juvenile court, was Chief Judge for a year and Administrative Judge for Seminole County twice. For the past three years, Leffler has handled civil matters such as divorces and contract disputes, his assistant said.

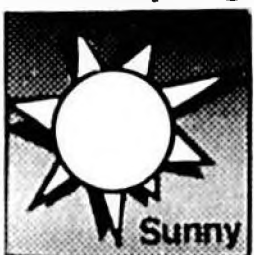

A judicial election is scheduled for November. Leffler can either serve until his replacement is elected, or he can resign earlier and have his replacement appointed by the governor. Leffler's assistant did not disclose the exact date Leffler will leave his post.

Mall property annexed

City approves taxing district to help ease potential traffic woes

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A $100 million regional mall planned on property at State Road 16 at E 11th was annexed to the city last night as sure to generate two things: tax revenue and traffic.

A majority of the city commission last night voted to help developers offset traffic problems projected to follow the mall's completion with tax revenue generated from the commercial venture.

The commission voted 4 to 1 to approve the concept of creating a special taxing district for the 214-acre mall site south of State Road 16 and east of E 11th to pay for improvements to State Road 16, Rinehart Road and Airport Boulevard. Commissioner A.A. McClanahan cast the only vote against city assistance to the mall project.

At least four public hearings on the mall plan will follow last night's decision. The public will have its first say on the mall plan April 9.

Before voting to create the tax increment finance district (TIF), commissioners agreed the property should first be a part of the city.

So, now what happens to the gopher tortoises?

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — More than 100 gopher tortoises may hop a ride out of Sanford in a camper to make room for development.

City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan said last night he wants the tortoises moved from the 214-acre site at Interstate 4 and State Road 16 as an alternative to allowing the mall.

Salvation Army leader visits here to help honor volunteers

By LACY DOMEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Proclaiming March 12th Salvation Army Day in Sanford, Mayor Betty Smith welcomed the "Friends of the Army" to the annual banquet last night when several local residents were honored for their contributions.

The banquet was attended by Commissioner James Osborne, the National Commander of the Salvation Army, who also spoke.

Local Army Captain Sam Flanagan presented two Bell Ringers awards. Bill Galloway of Sanford was honored for her participation as chairman of the Army's Christmas committee from 1980-1989. Galloway said she was so surprised to be honored.

David Lanier accepted the award for the Kiwanis, honored as the local civic group that raised the most money during the Christmas season for the Army. They were out there ringing that bell on the coldest day of the year, Flanagan said.

Lanier said the Kiwanis is challenged each year to get out there and help. The award is symbolic to us. It is a reminder of how privileged we feel to be able to help our community.

Crashed Amtrak train picked up passengers here

From staff, wire reports

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. — A CSX Corp. work train hit an Amtrak train traveling from Miami to New York carrying 171 passengers, including 17 people who boarded the train in Sanford, derailing five passenger cars and injuring at least 30 people, authorities said.

Glenn Crews, an employee at the Amtrak station on Persimmon Avenue in Sanford, said 17 passengers boarded the train at 2:08 p.m. yesterday. Spokespersons for Amtrak's Washington headquarters could not identify the addresses of the 10 injured passengers as of Tuesday morning.

However, a spokesperson at Nash General Hospital in Rocky Mount said no Seminole County residents were admitted there for treatment.

The Amtrak Silver Meteor was preparing to leave the Rocky Mount station just before 1:30 a.m. when it was rear-ended by a slow-moving CSX work train pulling 96 freight cars, said Amtrak spokeswoman Pat Duricka in Washington.

Thirty people were treated and released for minor injuries, mainly sprains and strains.

"When we got there, we knew it was bad as we thought," said Capt. Larry West of the Rocky Mount Police Department. "Any time you hear about a train collision, you expect the worst. To me it was like a fender bender."

"It was major because it was a train accident but it wasn't major because there were no serious injuries," West said. "Everything's been cleared up. The train is back on the track. I'll be moving today."

George Cochran with the National Transportation Safety Board in Atlanta said the investigators from Fort Worth, Texas, arrived in Rocky Mount to start their investigation.

All we know is that the work train did have permission to come on the line and it struck the Amtrak train in the rear," Duricka said.

The Amtrak Silver Meteor with 16 passenger cars was bound from Miami to New York. The accident derailed five cars.

"Everybody was real calm," West said. "We didn't have any problems. Most people stayed on the train and waited for the buses to arrive. We bused them all to Washington," West said.

West said police, fire and rescue personnel followed set emergency procedures and handled the situation with a minimum of complications.

The reaction was real good. One guy from Miami, he's a fireman, he made the point to praise the effort. He was real complimentary," West said. "Everybody worked well together. It was a good operation."

Officials with Amtrak and CSX said the companies also are investigating the cause of the accident.

The cause of the impact is under a very vigorous investigation.

County consultant: Lack of road dollars could slow local growth

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A lack of road improvement dollars could force slower growth in Seminole County if road planning decisions are not more comprehensive, a county consultant says.

There's virtually no dealing with one issue without dealing with the other aspects," consultant Roger Newsunder said Monday. "If you constrain one portion of growth but don't compensate in another, you're quality of life goes down."

Newsunder said the monetary shortfall may become so severe that even if developers offer to pay for road and other improvements, the county still may be too poor to pay for the improvement needed by current residents. The amount of the prospective deficit would be known, until later this summer, Newsunder said.

But Newsunder said if the state allows an increase in gasoline taxes, Seminole County's problem may be solved. He said the county's budget for road and other improvements is $15 million a year. But Newsunder said more money will be needed because there will be an increase in the future.

Newsunder made the presentation to commissioners, urging they give clear direction to county engineers and planners of their road policies.

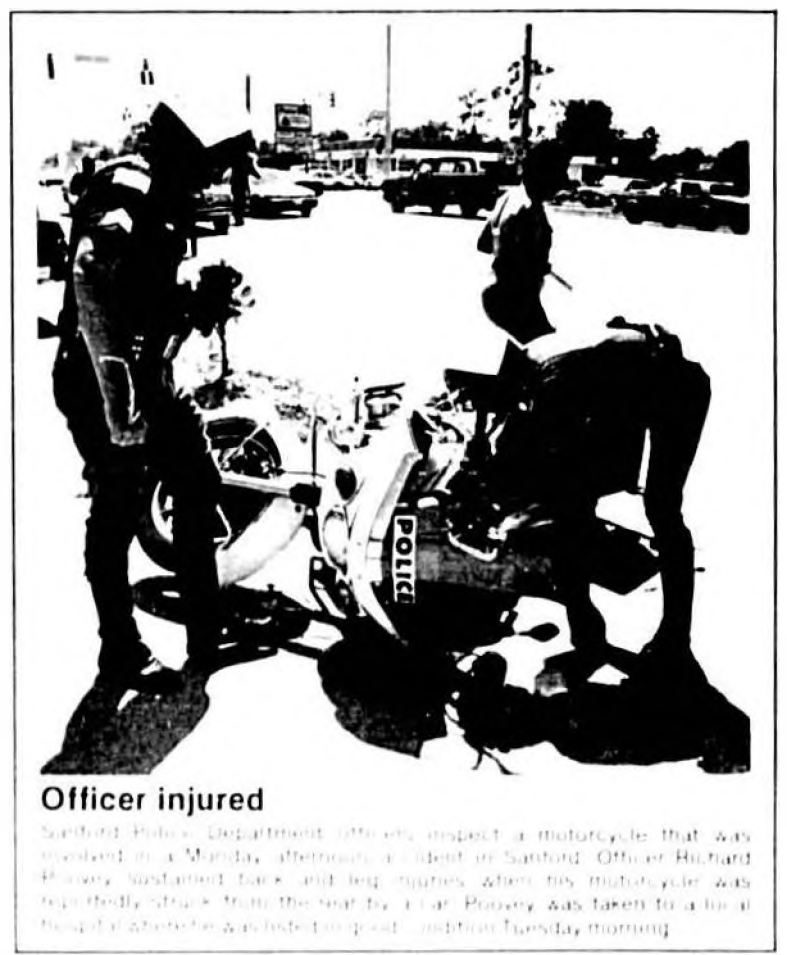

Newsunder cited recent county decisions to limit Red Bug Lake Road and Howell Branch Road in the south section of the county to four lanes, although county officials said a six-lane road will be needed to accommodate the traffic on those roads within 20 years.

The majority of commissioners sided with residents from the Red Bug Lake and Howell Branch Road areas who wanted to avoid busy six-lane highways through their neighborhoods.

Newsunder topped short at criticizing the three commissioners who approved the two actions. Sandra Glenn, Jay Warren and Jennifer Kelley, but he said those decisions will affect land development decisions, whether to award new state guidelines called "curb cuts" which require new developments to provide some parking for local residents, or whether to award them to developers.

It's going to be a real challenge to make sure that development is going to be needed, and that it's not just a road building program," he said.

Officer injured

Sanford Police Department officers inspect a motorcycle that was involved in a Monday afternoon accident in Sanford. Officer Richard Rooney sustained back and leg injuries when his motorcycle was reportedly struck from the rear by a car. Rooney was taken to a local hospital where he was held overnight and released Tuesday morning.

Plane crashes near residential area

TAMPA — A small plane crashed Monday in a wooded area north of Vandenburg Airport, injuring two people, a county airfield near the state fairgrounds.

The husband and wife from Seffner were flown by helicopter to Tampa General Hospital, where they were listed in critical but guarded condition.

Hillsborough County sheriff's spokeswoman Debbie Carter identified the pilot as Adam Premetz, 65. His wife, Helen, was also on board the twin-engine Cessna.

There were no other passengers in the four-seat plane, she said.

Authorities said the couple was heading north from a runway at 12:45 p.m. when the plane lost power and struck some trees near the airfield.

Investigators have not yet determined whether they were taking off or practicing touch-and-go maneuvers on the airstrip, Carter said.

The plane was registered with the Civil Air Patrol. Officials with Vandenburg said investigators with the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration were investigating the accident.

Angels want armory turned into prison

TAMPA — The Guardian Angels' local chapter began a petition drive in front of city hall Monday to convert a National Guard armory into a minimum security prison.

"The petition asks Gov. Bob Martinez to authorize (Hillsborough County) Sheriff Walter Heinrich to use the Fort Hesterly Armory as a temporary minimum security detention center," said George Moore, chapter leader.

He said he plans to travel to Tallahassee Saturday with a stack of signatures to present to Martinez.

Curtis Sliva, the founder and president of the Guardian Angels, said if there is strong support in Tampa for transforming the armory into a minimum security jail, the group will launch a nationwide petition drive to draw attention to the idea.

"We're going to analyze the drive, and see how it progresses," Sliva said, adding that a chapter in Broward County most likely will follow the Tampa chapter's lead.

But Heinrich's chief legal counsel, Paul Marino, called the proposal "unrealistic and unreasonable."

It would cost as much to build a temporary detention facility as it would to outfit the armory to meet federal and state jail guidelines, Marino said.

Attorney turns in former client

MIAMI — A man convicted of marijuana conspiracy will appeal the verdict because the witness who implicated him in the crime was his former attorney, his new lawyer said.

The government wrongly invaded the attorney-client relationship, said the new lawyer, Louis Vernell.

"The whole thing stunk," Vernell said.

Ronald Alan Shears was convicted Monday of conspiring to distribute hundreds of pounds of marijuana in an operation FBI agents said involved more than $3 million in drugs.

Shears was acquitted of another charge of possessing 65 pounds of marijuana that Vernell claimed had actually belonged to the former lawyer.

Vernell said he would appeal the conviction because the lawyer, Nicholas Mascioli, should never have been allowed to implicate Shears by cooperating with the FBI after he was indicted for drug trafficking.

Vernell also said an FBI agent's testimony that Shears confessed to more than 150 drug transactions should not have been allowed because there were no signed statements or tapes to corroborate the agent's account.

Last June, U.S. District Judge Thomas Scott refused to dismiss the case because he found no connection between Mascioli's acting as Shears' attorney and "the criminal activity at issue here."

Prosecutor Bruce Lowe had argued that Mascioli advised Shears only "on some civil matters."

Two Florida men charged with rape

Two Central State University students were being held in the Greene County Jail Tuesday on charges they raped a woman in a men's dormitory on campus.

Luther Johnson Jr., 21, a junior from Miami, Fla., and Marvin Pope, 21, a sophomore from Gainesville, Fla., were charged Monday in Xenia Municipal Court with one count each of rape.

Ed Chammess, a university spokesman, said the two men allegedly raped an 18-year-old woman in an upperclassmen's dorm at about 1 a.m. Saturday.

Assistant County Prosecutor Suzanne Schmidt said the woman, a non-student, was waiting in the hallway of the dorm, where she was visiting with a friend, when the men invited her into a room to sit and raped her.

Both Pope and Johnson are members of the Central State football team.

Their case will go before a grand jury Friday, Schmidt said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Greyhound boss vows to stand firm

Chairman rides bus here; says intimidation tactics won't work

United Press International

ORLANDO — Greyhound Chairman Fred Currey vowed Monday that the strikebound bus company would not be cowed by violence, one day after a sniper opened fire on a moving bus near Jacksonville, injuring seven passengers.

Currey spoke after arriving in central Florida aboard a Greyhound bus from Jacksonville.

"I made this trip because I think it is critical that Greyhound people, our customers and our employees, understand that we will not be intimidated by violence," Currey said. "I don't ask any of our people to do anything I wouldn't do myself."

Currey said it was his first bus trip since the strike began March 2.

A sniper opened fire on a Greyhound bus carrying 39 passengers Sunday night about 8 o'clock, according to a Steve Weintraub, a spokesman for the Jacksonville Sheriff's Office.

Another bus was fired upon Monday while traveling in Connecticut between New York and Boston. The bullet entered the bus's luggage compartment, but there were no injuries.

A passenger on the Jacksonville bus was struck in the throat, a second person suffered a bullet wound to the side, and both injuries were serious, Weintraub said. Five others were injured by flying debris.

One of the two more seriously injured passengers — Ted Blair of Melbourne — was listed in fair condition Monday afternoon at Baptist Medical Center. The other, Michael Rogers of Longwood, was listed in good condition at St. Luke's Hospital.

The sniper apparently fired from an overpass along Interstate 95 south of Jacksonville as the bus headed south toward Orlando on U.S. 1, Weintraub said.

Currey announced a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the sniper.

Asked if the shooting was strike-related, Weintraub said, "That's still being followed up. That's probably a correct assumption."

Currey was greeted in Orlando by about two dozen striking drivers. He flew to Jacksonville about 2 a.m. and later boarded the bus with 47 passengers.

Currey met with about a dozen strikers after his arrival. "He wants us back to work," said Rich Nichols, a striking driver from Orlando. "He wants us back, (so) why isn't he at the table?"

Greyhound drivers, baggage handlers, mechanics, ticket agents and reservation clerks struck after five days of intense talks in Scottsdale, Ariz., failed to yield a new contract.

The union representing 9,000 striking Greyhound employees met with federal mediators Monday in the first high-profile effort to end the 11-day walkout. However, no contract talks between the company and the union were scheduled.

Currey said he did not want to return to negotiations with drivers because negotiators had approved a settlement, only to have it rejected.

Currey said the wages and benefits the workers were demanding would increase driver costs by 30 percent to 38 percent — something the company could not afford.

"We have a lot of good people out on the picket line. I think they have been badly misled by the union," Currey said.

But strikers appeared un-

Lobbying group rallying troops in support of gas tax increase

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A key lobbying group for transportation improvements is urging its members to contact their legislators in support of a 4-cent-per-gallon increase in the state gasoline tax.

Floridians for Better Transportation, whose membership is composed of some of Florida's most prominent civic and political leaders, would rather see a 10-cent hike in the state gas tax. But it is urging members to back the 4-cent proposal as the best hope for getting some sort of highway funding proposal approved during the upcoming legislative session.

Last week, the Select Joint Committee on Transportation unanimously agreed to a 4-cent increase that would be imposed within the state's seven Department of Transportation districts.

Introduction of the increase would require approval of the legislators within each district. Once approved at that level, the increase would be submitted for a vote of the full Legislature.

Gov. Bob Martinez, who has steadfastly opposed any effort to raise the gas tax, has pushed for a similar plan that would allow voters in each of the seven districts to decide whether to increase the tax.

Aides to Martinez said last week he will veto the 4-cent increase proposed by the joint committee because it does not allow for approval by local option.

In a letter to members, Floridians for Better Transportation Don Crane said the joint committee's vote represents a foot in the door.

"Is this the best way to increase revenue for the DOT? No.

Shuttle grounded in Texas

United Press International

A steady stream of curious onlookers viewed the space shuttle Atlantis in sunny weather Monday while craft and crew waited for bad weather to clear up in Central Texas.

A spokeswoman for the pathfinder crew of 36 accompanying the shuttle said an attempt would be made to continue the journey Tuesday morning from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The shuttle, bolted to the back of a Boeing 747, was enroute to Kennedy after a secret five-day mission Feb. 28-March 4, said public affairs officer Lisa Malone.

Malone said the Atlantis flight was classified as a Department of Defense mission. She said crew members could not discuss any details of the flight.

"The Fort Bliss public information office notified the media that the shuttle would land at Biggs and there was a small contingent of personnel waiting for us when we landed," Malone said. "The flow of visitors, including military personnel at Biggs, has been steady."

Malone said she is one of 36 support crew members who fly in advance of the shuttle to determine weather conditions. She said the crews were in a C-141, a military cargo plane that preceded the shuttle by 15-20 minutes.

The shuttle was forced to stop in El Paso because of bad weather Sunday in the San Antonio area, she said. The shuttle was to have stopped at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio to refuel.

"The shuttle weighs about 140,000 pounds," Malone said. "That's a heavy load for the Boeing 747."

The space shuttle "is a real gas guzzler," she said.

Crew members will determine Tuesday morning which of four possible stopovers has the best weather or whether the shuttle will stay another day in El Paso.

None of the astronauts are flying with the shuttle, Malone said. They usually fly back to Houston immediately after the Atlantis lands.

Lawmaker wants clamp on loud auto speakers

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Some members of the Florida Legislature want to clamp down on the throbbing bump-da-bump of the boom box.

House Bill 1383 would make it illegal to play a car stereo loud enough to be heard 50 feet away. Violators would be ticketed and fined $32.

"I don't know how these people survive in their cars," said Rep. David Troxler, R-Jacksonville, the bill's sponsor. "They drive by you and it almost knocks you down."

Horns and other emergency equipment, as well as loudspeakers used by ice-cream trucks or political candidates' vehicles would be exempt from the ban.

Troxler said he has had complaints from constituents offended by the sounds blaring out of the giant speakers and stereos that many people spend up to $15,000 to install in their cars. He said city and county ordinances against disturbing the peace often apply only to stationary nuisances.

Apple promotion paying dividends at state schools

Staff, wire report

MIAMI — The Apples for Students promotion launched by Apple Computer and Publix Super Markets Inc. is bearing fruit at a schools around Florida, as well as in Seminole County.

Betty Price, the project manager for Apple Computer, said Apple and Publix have taken orders for 60 computers in eight Florida counties.

Griffin Elementary in Cooper City on Monday became the first public school in Broward County to tap into the program. Students collected $350,000 in green grocery receipts from Publix to earn two Apple IIe color systems.

The campaign, which lasts through May 26, got off to a rough start when Broward County school officials questioned whether the program was just an advertising ploy.

Administrators later decided the PTA could collect and redeem the Publix receipts brought in by students.

Although some schools have been able to win free computers, PTA President Latha Krishnanyer said smaller schools may have a tougher time collecting the $100,000 to $225,000 in receipts needed to earn a computer.

"The little schools are very into it," Krishnanyer told The Miami Herald. "They would love to have a computer. But the smaller schools don't have the student population and wouldn't get as many receipts."

Albertsons grocery stores have recently begun a similar program giving students a chance to trade store receipts for IBM or Apple computers.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man accused of drug sale attempt

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who allegedly tried to aid a City County Investigative Bureau agent in the purchase of crack cocaine at Club 436, Anchor Road, rural Altamonte Springs, was arrested after the deal fell through.

The agent refused the deal when the man asked for $20 in advance of delivering the promised crack, an arrest report said. Timothy Tratcher, 21, of Maitland, was charged with attempted sale of cocaine and possession of drug paraphernalia at about midnight Thursday on Amanda Street at Anchor Road.

Contraband found after fight

LAKE MARY — A Lake Mary policeman who responded to a reported fight at the Lake Mary Pub, on Crystal Lake Ave., reported arriving after the fight. A man who was reportedly yelling obscenities outside the pub was arrested on a disorderly intoxication charge.

Charges of possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were added after contraband was reportedly found when Richard Leslie Shader, 36, of 404 Rarcon St., Lake Mary, was searched.

Man accused of gun threats

SANFORD — City police charged Richard Bernard Pringle, 32, 2570-A Hartwell Ave., Sanford, with aggravated assault after he allegedly threatened an ex-girl friend and another victim at the woman's house.

Pringle was also charged with carrying a concealed firearm. Police said they recovered a loaded .25-caliber pistol from Pringle's car. He was arrested at the scene at 1910 W. 18th St., at 3:05 p.m. Monday. Latonya Barber, 31, reportedly said he threatened to kill her and a guest at her house.

Coins allegedly stolen in burglary

CASSELBERRY — Seminole County sheriff's deputies report making an arrest in a burglary to Indian Hills Bowling Lanes, Casselberry, after searching a suspect's car and reportedly finding a bag of quarters stolen in the burglary.

The quarters were allegedly stolen from video game machines, and deputies said the burglar was unsuccessful in an attempt to open a safe in the Monday burglary.

Calvin Lee Kaufman, 19, of Union Park, was charged with burglary in the case at 10:19 p.m. Monday on N. Jericho Street, Casselberry, after deputies questioned him as a suspicious person. They said he gave them permission to search his car where the stolen quarters were reportedly found.

Police allege man hit wife

SANFORD — Theodore Ray Mitchem, 39, 2534 Poinsetta Ave., Sanford, was arrested at home at 8 a.m. Monday on a charge of battery-spouse abuse. City police allege he hit his wife in the head and face with his hands.

14-year-old girl reports rapes

SANFORD — A 14-year-old Sanford girl has reported to Sanford police that she was raped several times by two Sanford men when she was living at their house under court order.

The girl said she was assaulted between Dec. 13, 1989, and Jan. 19. The girl is now an inmate at the Juvenile Detention Center in Sanford, and when she reported her allegations to police March 8, she reportedly said the assailants at the time of the attacks would threaten to return her to that facility if she told anyone about the assaults, police reported.

Two arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

• Frank James Zilka, 29, of Orlando, was arrested at 9:48 p.m. Monday on Seminole Boulevard, Sanford, after he allegedly drove erratically.

• Kimberly A. Keller, 34, of Bay Village, Ohio, was arrested at 12:59 p.m. Monday after police saw her car weaving and without her car's headlights on. She was stopped by Casselberry police on U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. Police allege she grabbed a policeman's police radio and kicked him and also scratched another officer. She is also charged with battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence.

Jail crowding puts drug fugitives on the streets

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — Florida has 101,077 outstanding felony fugitive warrants, 4.8 percent more than it had at this time last year, and most of them are for drug-related offenses, law enforcement officials said Monday.

"It's staggering," said Kathy Fantlgrass, warrants supervisor for the Broward County Sheriff's Office, which gets 850 new felony warrants a month.

The latest figures from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement show outstanding warrants for 101,077 felons, compared to 96,388 at this time last year.

"The numbers do not go up by leaps or bounds, but as more people come into the state they do go up," said Richie Grant, an FDLE statistician.

Because multiple offenders may have more than one warrant out for their arrest, law enforcement officers don't know exactly how many fugitives are on the loose in Florida. The total could be even higher because no one knows how many fugitives from other states have fled to Florida.

The bulk of those outstanding felony warrants are for drug-related charges, said Sgt. Mark Murray, head of the Broward County Sheriff's Office fugitive squad.

Jail crowding forces police to release most drug suspects within a few hours of their arrest. Once released, most simply disappear, Murray said.

To compound the problem, fugitive squads in most Florida counties are understaffed.

Dade County leads the state with 30,000 outstanding felony warrants. But the Metro-Dade County Police Department has only 22 detectives in its felony squad.

Broward County, second with 13,000 outstanding felony fugitive warrants, has four detectives in its sheriff's fugitive squad.

Because they are short-staffed, fugitive squads must rely on tips and a computerized FDLE listing of outstanding warrants. Detectives use that listing to make daily crosschecks against the roster of county jail inmates. Local police departments use the FDLE list to run warrant checks on suspects in everything from routine traffic stops to burglaries.

Gov. Bob Martinez and key legislators are aware of the problem, but have no solution.

"We have nothing specific, although it is an issue that annually attracts a lot of legislative attention," said Michelle McLawhorn, an aide to state Senate President Bob Crawford, D-Winter Haven.

Law enforcement officials said there may be a good reason for the lack of specific proposals.

Two clerks in county's future?

Commission to consider store ordinance at tonight's meeting

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners will consider passage of a countywide "two clerk" ordinance tomorrow night that will require all convenience stores in the county to have either two clerks on duty during late-night hours or to enclose the single clerk in a bullet-proof enclosure.

If approved during the 7 p.m. hearing at the County Services Building, the ordinance will affect all unincorporated areas of the county, Casselberry, Altamonte Springs, Winter Springs and Oviedo. If any of those cities pass a similar ordinance regarding late-night clerk protection, the county charter prevents the county ordinance from remaining in effect.

If the county ordinance is passed, it won't affect Sanford or Lake Mary, which already have two-clerk ordinances, or Longwood if city officials there approve their two-clerk ordinance March 19.

The initiative for the ordinance arose from store operators and clerks who say lone clerks are vulnerable to late night assaults and robberies. Most recently, Herbert Allen, 48, of Deltona, was stabbed to death in November as he worked at the Circle K at 1806 W. First St.

Clerks say a two-clerk requirement will offer them security because a robber will be unlikely to harm or kill one clerk if another clerk could come to assist. In November, a Sanford convenience store's robber was captured by Sanford police a short time after the crime with a description provided by a second clerk on duty even before Sanford passed its two-clerk rule in December.

Convenience store owners oppose the requirement, saying it is costly and it places both clerks and customers at risk. Opponents include the Retail Grocers Association of Florida, Circle K and Handy Way.

As a compromise, county commissioners have proposed to allow store owners to hire an extra clerk to work between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m. or install a bullet-proof glass enclosure around the cash register area.

But store owners don't like that compromise either, saying the enclosures are expensive. They cite examples of clerks injured or burned to death in two Florida counties when an assailant splashed gasoline over the enclosure and ignited the fuel.

Store owners say they'd rather have voluntary requirements such as keeping windows by cash register areas unobstructed to outside view, "drop" safes and limiting the amount of cash in the register.

The county ordinance would apply to late-night convenience stores and gasoline stations and stores in shopping centers if most stores in the shopping center aren't open. Vending machine and game arcades, grocery stores and theaters are exempt from the requirements.

Also required of the stores is an unobstructed view of the cash register area from outside, drop safes or large safes bolted to the floor, surveillance cameras and on-hand cash limits of $50. Parking lots must be fully lighted and employees must receive training in robbery avoidance.

ACLU attorney wants to speak to SCC trustees

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — An American Civil Liberties Union attorney has asked to speak to the Seminole Community College Board of Trustees at their meeting tonight. He has said he will protest the board's decision to show "The Last Temptation of Christ" in a small classroom.

The board meeting will meet in room A-100 in the administration building of the Sanford campus at 8 p.m. tonight.

Richard Wilson, an Orlando attorney who works with the American Civil Liberties Union and who represents several first amendment defense groups, plans to speak to the board regarding their decision last month the show The Last Temptation of Christ to a limited audience. Wilson said he will also protest the board's proposed plans to form a "censorship" committee which would require all films and plays at SCC be subjected to review before they could be shown.

"I think it is appalling they plan to decide what is appropriate and what is not for the whole community," Wilson said.

Wilson said "litigation would certainly follow" if the board votes to form the committee.

Craig Orsino, SCC's director of public information, said there are no plans to move the board of trustees meeting to a larger room to accommodate protesters. Orsino said the decision to move the meeting voted with SCC president Earl Weldon and could not be made until the start of this evening's meeting.

A letter addressed to Wilson, however, indicated that discussion about the possibility of moving to a larger facility had already taken place.

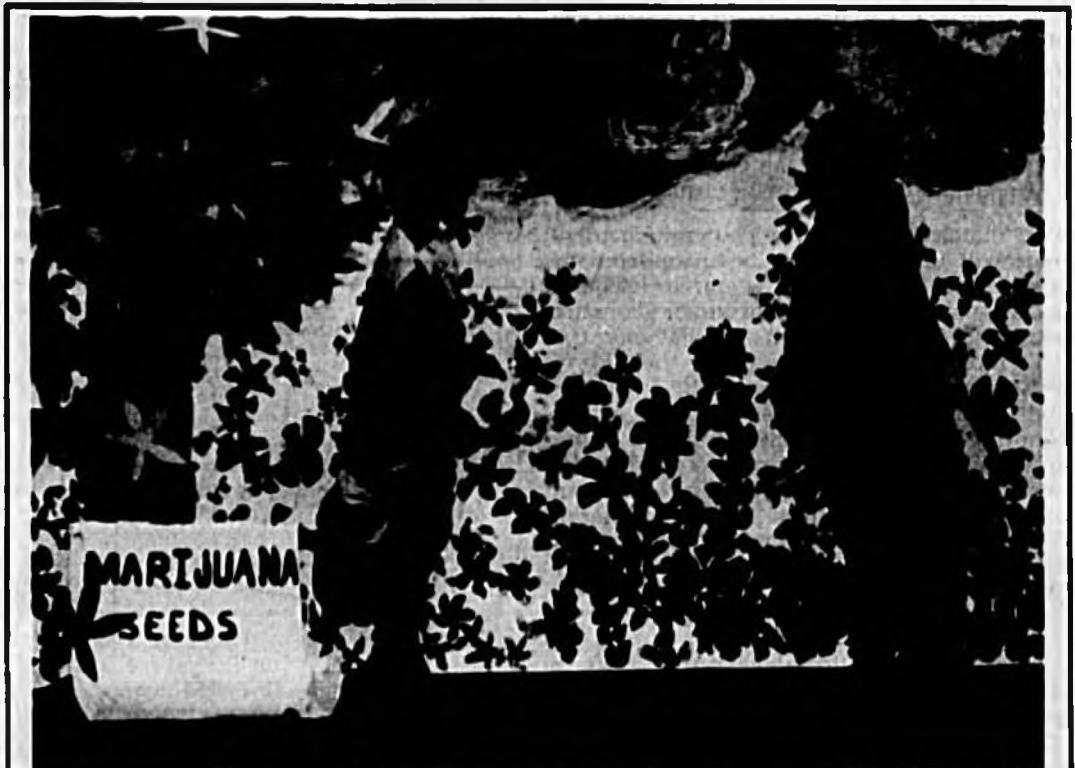

Wilson said he did not know how many students and members of the community would be on hand for the meeting, but he predicted they would "have no trouble filling the board room."

When "The Last Temptation of Christ" was shown in a small classroom Feb. 28, several hundred protesters filled the quadrangle between the school's library and fine arts building. The movie has drawn protest because it shows Jesus as a man who succumbed to temptations in his dreams.

Representatives of the Central Floridians Against Censorship, the Friends of the First Amendment, and Concerned Students Against Censorship produced a petition which stated that board of trustees had "abused the power of their office by directing that severe limitations be placed on the right of access of students and community members to a publicly advertised cultural/academic event at the Sanford campus."

Wilson said he would be joined by representatives of those groups as well as Orlando radio talk show host Clive Thomas who has been encouraging his listeners to show their displeasure to the SCC board. Thomas will present the petitions to the board.

President Weldon was not available yesterday for comment.

Seth to perform for AIDS SuperChallenge

By LACY DOMEN
Herald staff writer

HEATHROW — Monisha Seth is spending her spring break from New York City's Julliard School pursuing two of her passions: music and medicine.

Seth, a Winter Park High School graduate and violin virtuoso, will be featured in concert at Heathrow Country Club, Saturday, March 17, at 2:30 p.m., to benefit the Thomas E. Whigham AIDS SuperChallenge, a community project to support AIDS research at the University of Miami.

Whigham, a Sanford attorney, died last fall from complications of the AIDS virus after a blood transfusion.

"I've always been interested in medicine," Seth said. "If something happened and my career as a violinist did not work out, I would choose to work in cancer research," she said.

Gloria Orsek of the Florida Symphony Youth Orchestra, contacted Seth to participate in the benefit, Seth said.

The concert will feature selections Seth has chosen and been practicing during her spring break. "It's a lot of work, but I'm having fun. I'm happy to be a part of it," she said.

Seth made her solo debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra at age 10 and has since appeared as a soloist with the Landsdowne Symphony, Florida Symphony and Florida Orchestras.

She was the youngest student to attend the college division of the Julliard School. During her freshman year, she was the only freshman selected to perform with the Julliard Orchestra. She has also performed at Carnegie Hall. "I'm very happy at school," Seth said. "It's very motivational for me to be surrounded by people with similar interests. I'm constantly challenged," she said.

Winter Park High graduate Monisha Seth will perform in Heathrow Saturday to raise money for the Thomas E. Whigham AIDS SuperChallenge.

In addition to the concert, sponsored by Arvida Corp., there will be a champagne reception at the Heathrow Country Club. Tickets are $25.

For ticket information, call Clements and Whigham, 321-8280 during office hours, or 349-9580 during evening hours.

Correction

The meaning of a sentence in a letter to the editor that appeared Sunday under the headline "Citizens shouldn't pay for mail road" was changed by the inadvertent omission of the word "not."

The sentence in the letter from Rose Payne, of Sanford, should have read: "We are a progressive town and area but not a stagnant one."

Testing of Salk AIDS vaccine goes nationwide

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration has approved nationwide testing of a post-exposure AIDS vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk, who pioneered the polio vaccine.

Salk's vaccine will first be given to about 60 people who are infected with the AIDS-causing human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), but who have not developed any symptoms of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, FDA officials said Monday.

The new vaccine, manufactured by Immune Products Ltd. of San Diego, has already been tested in chimpanzees and about 100 AIDS-infected people in California, which has its own AIDS drug testing program.

It is hoped the vaccine, which consists of inactivated or "killed" AIDS virus, will spur an immune response that will halt or even reverse the spread of the deadly virus in people suffering from AIDS. It can take 10 years or longer from the time people are infected with HIV.

The Salk approach is the third experimental AIDS vaccine the FDA has approved for nationwide human testing.

Salk and Immune Products officials were not available for immediate comment Monday.

In June, Salk reported two HIV-infected chimps lost all signs of the AIDS virus after receiving his vaccine. Results of early tests in HIV-infected patients have not been made public.

Mitch Snyder's bad idea

Mitch Snyder, the nation's best-known advocate for the homeless, is urging homeless people to boycott the 1990 census. The counting methods used by the government, he says, will undercount the poor and play into the hands of politicians who want to minimize the extent of homelessness. But while Snyder and others have good reasons to question the government's counting methods, a boycott of the census would be irresponsible, bordering on the criminal.

No matter how hard the government tries, there will almost certainly be an undercount of the homeless, many of whom are alcoholics, drug addicts, mentally ill and/or generally distrustful of government. That's why the government is trying to enlist the aid of organizations who work with the homeless and to hire many homeless people to do the counting. In an attempt to get a more accurate picture of this hard-to-count population, the Census Bureau will even conduct an unprecedented precensus census on March 20-21, sending enumerators to count people living in shelters, cheap motels, under bridges, along riverbanks and in abandoned buildings.

Snyder's attempt to sabotage that effort — he claims his organization has already burned census forms, and other homeless organizers have threatened to take similar actions — serves only to increase the size of the undercount. To the extent Snyder encourages other segments of the population traditionally undercounted and equally unhappy with the Census Bureau methods — minorities and immigrants — to boycott, the undercount is further magnified.

Snyder's boycott campaign exposes him to charges of playing self-serving politics. Does he have a stake in concealing the real number of homeless so that he can inflate the estimates to suit his own political purposes in much the same way he accuses other politicians of wanting to understate the numbers?

The census is used to reapportion Congress and state legislatures. It also will be used by local, state and federal governments to determine how to allocate scarce resources. Any person who refuses to be counted denies himself and his community representation and a fair share of the nation's resources, including, as Mitch Snyder must know, resources for housing the homeless. It is against the law to try to sabotage the process; it is against all reason to want to try.

How to cash in the peace dividend

WASHINGTON — Enthusiasm abounds throughout the country for the "peace dividend" that presumably will be forthcoming as the Cold War winds down — but that expected dramatic reduction in military spending will hardly be an unqualified bonanza.

Indeed, a very high price must be paid for the dismantling of what has become the nation's most elaborate and expensive "pork barrel" program on which $2 trillion in public funds was lavished during the 1980s alone.

Where did that money go? Here is an especially perceptive answer to that question from Franklin C. Spinney, a civilian policy analyst who for many years has worked in the Office of the Secretary of Defense:

"The money ... did not buy larger forces. It did not buy newer forces. It did not buy higher operating tempos. These are facts. ... We don't know whether the defense budget bought better, if fewer, weapons. ...

"The defense budget did buy ... jobs, votes in elections and votes in Congress. Complicated weapons designs and success-oriented weapons testing were combined with astute political engineering to convert the defense budget into a giant, self-perpetuating, public works project."

During the 1980s, the defense-related civilian work force increased by more than 80 percent, creating an industry employing more workers than it did at the height of the Vietnam War. Those 3.25 million jobs cost the nation's taxpayers an average of $50,000 apiece.

"While the Arsenal of Democracy is producing smaller numbers of weapons, thanks to the complexity and expense of those weapons," notes Spinney, "it is also producing more and more sub-contracts flowing to more and more congressional districts."

Can the residents of those districts and their elected leaders now deal with a radically changed military, economic and political situation that promises a "peace dividend" — but only if they can phase out defense spending?

Such a change need not — indeed ought not — be limited to the elimination of jobs and other economic benefits. Ever-expanding domestic and international markets offer virtually unlimited opportunities for successful conversion to a peacetime economy.

The transition, however, is almost certain to produce temporary economic dislocation for the communities, companies and workers now so heavily involved in supporting and supplying a military establishment with an annual budget of $300 billion.

The first test comes in the form of Defense Secretary Richard Cheney's recent proposal to close or reduce 86 military installations, 72 of them in this country. Political and business leaders from nearby communities already have expressed their fears of the severe economic consequences they fear will follow.

One analysis, prepared by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., concludes that 19 of the 21 domestic bases Cheney has designated to be shut down are in congressional districts represented by Democrats. Moreover, says Schroeder, 99 percent of the civilian employees and 91 percent of the military personnel affected by the planned closures are assigned to bases in Democratic districts.

Converting the work of Pentagon contractors and sub-contractors to non-military tasks will be even more difficult but can and must be achieved. We have no other choice.

Those 3.25 million jobs cost the nation's taxpayers an average of $50,000 apiece.

Moving back the hands of time

BOSTON — When Len Ackland goes anywhere, even to pick up his daughter at school, somebody is likely to ask him, jocularly, nervously, what time it is. This is not your ordinary inquiry and Ackland is not your ordinary clock watcher. As editor of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, he is one of the current keepers of an international symbol: the doomsday clock.

This vintage timepiece has been around since 1947, when the Bulletin, created by the scientists who worked at the Manhattan project, first designed an icon to the dangers of nuclear war. In those days, the little hand was at midnight, the big hand was at seven minutes to catastrophe. And Americans hoped that time would stand still.

Since then, the doomsday clock has been a visible measure of security. The tick has made people inhale with anxiety or exhale with relief some 12 times, as if it has a life of its own. The big hand moved ominously forward when the hydrogen bomb was tested in 1949, back when the Partial Test Ban Treaty was signed in 1963, forward again in the "evil empire" days of 1984.

On Tuesday, to the delight of symbol watchers, Ackland and the Bulletin's board of physicists and scientists toasted the end of the Cold War by knocking the clock back four more minutes. It is now officially ten minutes to midnight. Set your watches.

This is unmitigated good news to those of us who have lived our whole lives within hearing distance of the clock. In the mid-'80s, the tick-tock became so loud that many of us coming home from a Helen Caldwell lecture, or turning off "The Day After," wanted to pull the covers over our heads.

There is nothing more that we dearly wanted than to exorcise the mushroom clouds from our subconscious. And we've done a pretty good job of it. As Henry Kendall of the Union of Concerned Scientists found in a survey last year, Americans can't actively worry about more than two-and-a-half issues at a time and the threat of nuclear war dropped down to about 40th on the list.

The end of the Cold War not only means lean days for the anti-Soviet hard-liners and pro-militarists. It means lean days for some peace groups and former freezers. Membership in groups is down, foundation money has dried up, and most surviving organizations have cut staff and salaries. The circulation of the Bulletin itself is much lower, and invitations to speak on the threat of nuclear war have gone down far and fast.

It is reasonable to ask whether Americans have to be terrified in order to go on thinking about the human capacity for self-destruction. After all, it's ten minutes to midnight. Do you know where your 50,000 nuclear warheads are?

The reality behind the symbol isn't all that reassuring. The scientists who voted to move the hand backward did so with much debate. Dartmouth's Leonard Rieser, for example, voted for the move because, "The chances of global Armageddon are much reduced. But the bottom line is that there are more warheads than in 1963 when the clock said 12 minutes to midnight."

There are other reasons for insecurity. The Soviet Union is indeed less threatening, but more shaky. It's not reassuring to contemplate civil wars erupting around Soviet sites. The risk of accident is as great as ever. Four more countries have the technology to produce bombs. And at home we are still expanding and "modernizing" our nuclear weapons programs.

"Americans get too stuck on first steps," warns William Sloane Coffin, the head of SANE/Freeze, a longtime grass-roots organization that has also fallen upon leaner times. We confuse the beginning with the happy ending. Coffin says we have the same choices as before Gorbachev: "Either all countries give up nuclear weapons or accept the fact that any country that wants them eventually will get them." If we begin reducing the nuclear arsenal at the rate of five warheads a day, the countdown would still take more than 10,000 days.

In short, at ten minutes to midnight, it's not time yet to stop worrying and be happy. The good news is that as public attention shifted from one disaster — nuclear holocaust — to another — environmental disaster — the peace groups have had to broaden their own perspective.

Today, the face of the doomsday clock is superimposed on a map of the whole earth. SANE/Freeze is now subtitled: Campaign for Global Security. Instead of talking about national defense, there is talk about common security.

It is true that over the past few years, Gorbachev removed the most immediate threat. We have been given time — four symbolic minutes more. But in some ways life still imitates the doomsday clock. We can only move backward by going forward.

It's ten minutes to midnight. Do you know where your 50,000 nuclear warheads are?

Is reunited China a possibility?

WASHINGTON — Behind the scenes in Beijing, an intense drama is unfolding that could change the course of world events.

Deng Xiaoping, China's senior leader without portfolio, has a dream. Before he dies, he wants to restore the two Chinas, revive the economy and establish China as a true world power. Sources with access to the aging leader say he has a plan to achieve all this.

He has already opened a back channel to Taiwan, which holds the keys to Chinese unity and prosperity. As one of the original communist leaders, Deng helped to drive the late Chiang Kai-shek off the mainland. Now Deng's contact in Taiwan is Chiang's surviving son, Chiang Wei-kuo, who is a powerful presence in Taiwan.

The vehicle that could bring the two Chinas together is their common constitution, which was drafted by the venerable Sun Yat-sen, whom Chinese on both sides of the bamboo curtain revere. Both sides claim to be the legitimate Chinese government under that constitution.

Sources close to Deng say he has exchanged secret, indirect messages with Chiang about the possible procedures to create one China within the framework of that constitution.

Of course, that would take patient negotiations in the painstaking Chinese style. Taiwan would eventually be reunited with the mainland as a province, with autonomy over its economy and politics.

The Chinese on Taiwan, with their own thriving economy as a model, would teach their methods to their cousins on the mainland. In return, leaders in Taiwan would be drawn into the central government in Beijing. Chiang Wei-kuo, for example, might accept the vice presidency.

Deng's beautiful dream was disrupted by last June's massacre of students. Our sources say Deng had no intention of letting the violence reach that point. He was offended by the student uprising. He felt they should have honored him for introducing democratic and economic reforms. Instead, they dishonored him with massive public protests.

Deng merely wanted to teach the students a lesson. And he also wanted to halt the uprising before it upset the stability of his government. But his designated heir, Zhao Ziyang, sided with the students.

That led to a backstage struggle. Deng made alliances with his hardline adversaries to oust Zhao and halt the student uprising before it swept across China.

Deng sent troops to intimidate the students into disbanding. But the students faced down those troops. Then Deng allowed the hardliners to bring in their loyalist troops. It was those troops who opened fire on the students.

During the recriminations that followed, the hardliners gained control of the central government. Our sources identify the chief instigator as Premier Li Peng, who is trying to turn the clock back to the days of harsh communist rule and central planning.

But the outcome isn't yet settled. The real power in China is held by six armies whose commanders, in a showdown, might side with Deng against Li Peng. The hardliners have succeeded, meanwhile, in antagonizing the populace. A student underground still operates in defiance of draconian penalties. Even the conservative peasants are destroying crops and producing less grain for the state.

In Taiwan, meanwhile, Chiang Wei-kuo has encountered similar opposition from President Lee Teng-hui, who is removing Chiang's loyalists from key posts and replacing them with his own.

Deng's beautiful dream was disrupted by last June's massacre of students.

Although second reading of the annexation had been tabled upon the developer's request until the commission's April 9 review of the mall development order, the city limits last night were stretched to the site's western I-4 boundary by a unanimous vote.

Commissioner Lon Howell said he proposed moving up the vote on annexing the property into Sanford to allay fears of residents who have said they believe the developers have muscled financial assistance from the city using a promise to annex for winning favors.

Under the concept the commission approved, the city would float $6.2 million in bonds to pay for new roads and road improvements necessary to accommodate the 1.2-million-square-foot mall. The developer will pay for the bonds with up to 50 percent of city and county property taxes collected on the mall property over 14 years. Utility, school and sales taxes are not affected by the TIF.

State statutes allow cities and counties to create TIFs for economic and community redevelopment.

Although an overwhelming majority of the commission last week had pledged their support of a deal with mall developer Melvin Simon & Associates of Indianapolis, McClanahan and some residents said they oppose using city money to pay for a private venture.

Lt. Col. John Busby presented the Life Membership to the Executive Board Committee of the Army to Dr. Vincent Roberts, for his dynamic leadership in the state and the community. Roberts said to Busby: "Keep it short when you're talking about me. I'm just part of the team."

Circuit Court Judge Joe Davis was honored as the first Member Emeritus, for his 31 years on the executive board. During that time he was instrumental in fundraising and spearheaded new building. "I didn't realize I have been doing this since 1958," he said. "God bless the Army and all of you."

In his invocation, Robert Daehn said the Army accepted the challenge over 100 years ago to be its brother's keeper. Begun in England, in 1880, with one man, seven women, and $500, the Salvation Army has grown to 10,000 centers in the United States. The Army is active in 90 countries and territories, and serviced 12,118 persons locally in 1989.

Busby described the Army as an organization of vision and hope before he introduced National Commander Osborne.

Osborne said the Army's goal is to provide assistance to humanity. "Our overwhelming passion is to meet human need when it is present, in a simple, practical and immediate way. Out of our religious emphasis, recognizing that people have souls as well as bodies, comes the motivation and power for service in the Army," he said.

Osborne targeted the American family as a nationwide problem that needs to be addressed. "We need to do something to strengthen the American family, which has been torn asunder," he said.

Osborne said the youth of America were being shortchanged. "The youth deserve something better than we're giving them," he said. "Somehow we need to recapture the faith of our fathers. There is a loss of moral and spiritual fiber in our people. I'm tired of seeing that you can kill, cuss, and have sex on TV, but you can't pray in the classroom," he said.

Shiela Roberts and Police Chief Steve Harriet presented Osborne and his wife, Ruth, with an original painting of palm trees and sand dunes to remind them of time spent in Central Florida. "We do not need it to remind us of the wonderful time we had in Sanford, but it will certainly grace our home," he said.

"Sanford is not the biggest city, but it has the biggest ideas. I'd like to thank everyone here for their continued support of the Salvation Army," Osborne said.

to six lanes or to four lanes at the same time," Nelawender said.

Nelawender said such decisions should be made with consideration to the money available — Can the county buy the land and widen another road to four or six lanes at the same time? — or whether developers should be told they can't build.

Under concurrency regulations, the county will have to deal with the ramifications of those decisions by 1992, the year concurrency will take effect in Seminole County.

Nelawender said the state would be unlikely to simply allow traffic to become congested on the roads. He said the state may allow roads to become heavily-congested for a short period of time, five years or so, as long as the county had a plan to improve the traffic conditions.

Nelawender said it doesn't matter if a developer pays 100 percent of the costs to widen roads, pay for water and sewer and other demands of that development. If the county still can't provide acceptable service where the development is proposed, the development may not be approved.

Because a wider area is served by a roadway that homes and businesses along the road itself, growth would have to be slowed throughout an entire region of the county, Nelawender said.

But Nelawender also offered a warning against quickly using a building moratorium to solve problems in growing parts of the county.

"You can have building permit moratoriums in certain areas, but most people underestimate the importance of construction to the economy," Nelawender said. "If you halt or significantly slow construction, you're going to have a recession."

developer to pay the state a fee for displacing the creatures.

"The poor gophers don't care if you pay the mitigation money or not," McClanahan said. "They're going to be dead."

A $60,000 mitigation fee has been proposed to pay for the lost tortoise habitat. The fee would go toward a trust fund for wildlife projects in the Central Florida region.

McClanahan said he had discussed the tortoise relocation project with area Boy Scout representatives. The group may donate labor and a camper to transport the tortoises, he said.

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein suggested the city's 2,200-acre agricultural tract in Geneva as a new home for the tortoises.

Area environmentalists oppose a plan approved last week by the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council that would allow developer Melvin Simon & Associates to pay mitigation fees instead of moving the turtles.

Sharon Carveth, representing the Sierra Club of Central Florida, said today she will ask the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to force relocation of the tortoises.

"If it were just 15 gopher tortoises, I would say it wasn't worth the energy," Carveth said. "But we've got 117 out there and it's not acceptable to just bulldoze them under."

"We have never had a developer say, 'We really don't care. We're just going to pay our impact fee, develop our property and not care about the tortoises.' Even Heathrow removed them and paid for it," Carveth said.

When relocation efforts fail, she said, mitigation fees are not high enough. She said she will ask the state to increase fees when wildlife is displaced.

One Sanford resident presented a petition of several neighbors' signatures asking the city to step in to protect the tortoises, which are listed as a "species of special concern" in Florida because development has largely depleted their numbers.

A study conducted on the mall site estimates the tortoise population at 117 turtles. Environmentalists say that number represents an unusually large population.

The gopher tortoise is a medium-sized turtle, unique in Florida because of its flat forelimbs used for digging. The turtles live in the burrows they dig, which are also used by more than 80 species of wildlife.

The turtles, whose brown shells reach a length of 12 inches, live up to 70 years.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

King aided Barbara Bush foundation

WASHINGTON — King Fahd of Saudi Arabia, who contributed $1 million to Nancy Reagan's war on drugs, also donated $1 million to Barbara Bush's campaign against illiteracy, officials acknowledged.

Fahd made his gift to the Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy Sept. 29, 1989, through the Community Foundation of Greater Washington, which helps administer the fund, financial records show.

Foundation and Saudi officials said Monday the king asked nothing in return for his gift, which was made at about the same time that the first lady helped open a Saudi Arabian exhibit in her and her husband's adopted hometown of Houston.

Iditarod is three-way race

SHAROTOLIK, Alaska — With two days and 229 miles to go to Nome, the 1,161-mile Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race became a three-way contest.

Lavon Barve of Wasilla, Alaska, three-time champion Susan Hatcher of Manley, Alaska, and 1989 winner Joe Kuyyan of Neena, Alaska, were so far ahead of the pack of 63 mushers that race officials and the mushers themselves said one of the three will win the $50,000 first prize.

3 killed in 52-vehicle collision

GREEN BAY, Wis. — A mixture of dense fog and factory smoke enshrouded a bridge and caused 52 vehicles to collide in a fiery chain reaction, killing at least three people and injuring 30 others, authorities said.

"It was like boom! boom! boom! every couple of seconds," said James Vandertie, 19, who escaped the rush-hour crash Monday on the Tower Drive Bridge, Green Bay's tallest structure.

Police said the chain reaction apparently began when drivers slowed because of reduced visibility on the high-rise bridge, which crosses the mouth of the Fox River at the city's bay.

The sheriff and the cow

SALEM, Va. — Sheriff Mike Kavanaugh is beefing up his search for the culprit who struck a plywood cow on his office roof, even though prosecutors have no idea exactly how they would charge any suspects he turns up.

The prank was apparently inspired by the Roanoke County sheriff's own legal difficulties two years ago when he was charged with allowing his herd of cows to roam a neighbor's property.

The charge was dropped on the condition Kavanaugh keep his cows penned, but the nighttime appearance of the errant animal on his roof three weeks ago showed someone has not forgotten the incident.

Kavanaugh hasn't turned to his own investigators so far, apparently because speculation about the identity of the prankster has focused on the sheriff's deputies, many of whom suffered some humiliating ribbing after the incident.

When the plywood cow was removed, Kavanaugh ordered Salem City evidence technicians to dust the 5-foot-tall brown and white bovine for prints, but they turned up empty handed. He also said he will turn to a prosecutor for criminal charges if a suspect is apprehended.

Bush moves toward Nicaragua aid

By NORMAN D. SANDLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Having promised to support a move toward democracy, President Bush was expected to announce today formal steps to restore economic ties with Nicaragua, administration officials say.

The officials said Bush would lift the 1985 trade embargo imposed by President Ronald Reagan during a campaign of U.S. economic and military pressure against the Marxist-led Sandinista regime.

With the Sandinistas due to surrender power on April 25 following their defeat in the Feb. 25 elections, officials said Bush would begin to deliver on his pledge to reward democracy with aid to rebuild the Nicaraguan economy.

In Managua, a spokesman for the victorious political coalition, the National Opposition Union, said late Monday Bush tele-

Ortega assures Quayle transition to be smooth

United Press International

ASUNCION, Paraguay — Vice President Dan Quayle, after receiving Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's assurance of a smooth transition of power next month in Managua, went to Paraguay and discussed strained trade relations with President Andres Rodriguez.

Quayle, in Chile for Sunday's inauguration of President Patricio Aylwin, arrived Monday in Paraguay on the fourth leg of his six-nation Latin American tour, becoming the first U.S. vice president to visit the country since Richard Nixon more than three decades ago. Quayle was scheduled to leave Tuesday for Buenos Aires, Argentina.

He met Monday night for 40 minutes with Rodriguez at the government palace.

phoned Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro at St. Luke's hospital in Houston where she is undergoing treatment for a knee injury. Chamorro spokesman Danilo

Lacayo said Bush told the new leader he would end the trade embargo on Tuesday and would ask Congress to approve $500 million in aid to the new government during its first months in office. The Washington Post reported Tuesday that Bush wants to shift $300 million from the defense budget to aid the Nicaraguan economy and to demobilize and repatriate the estimated 10,000 Contra rebels still under arms.

The plan, according to the Post, would include money for sending refugees home, agricultural assistance, fuel and medical aid and a public works program.

The proposal is to be added to a $500 million package proposed for the new government of Panama. That plan is stalled in Congress, which wants precise details from the administration on how the Panama money would be spent.

Although Bush has been under pressure to deliver a quick show of good faith to Chamorro, questions about the vast problems facing her — and her ability to cope with them — have complicated the aid picture.

Conservatives propose opposition to Gorbachev for super-presidency

By GERALD NADLER
United Press International

MOSCOW — A small bloc of conservative lawmakers today suggested Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov and Interior Minister Vadim Bakatin as alternative candidates to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev for a proposed super-presidency.

The suggestion came as Gorbachev, flexing the political muscle he wants the Congress of People's Deputies to fortify with new presidential powers, told lawmakers that Moscow will not hold talks with Lithuania or its Baltic neighbors.

"We hold talks with foreign states," Gorbachev said two days after Lithuania's parliament issued a declaration of independence and a day after it asked Gorbachev to recognize Lithuania as a country. Estonia's Congress also sent an emissary to Moscow to seek talks on Estonian independence.

Gorbachev's rebuke as the Congress of People's Deputies morning session began Tuesday drew hearty applause from the national assembly, about 85 percent of whose 2,250 members also belong to the Soviet Communist Party.

Gorbachev convened Congress three months ahead of schedule to ask it to give him broader authority he says is necessary to salvage his "perestroika" reform drive and stem mounting public dissatisfaction.

The agenda called for a vote Monday on creating the new presidency, but speakers from a list of 298 legislators requesting the floor delayed the vote until Tuesday.

North cross-examination continues

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The defense in John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial has tried to minimize the potentially damaging testimony of Oliver North, who as a prosecution witness was combative and reluctant to implicate his former boss in the scandal that rocked the last two years of the Reagan administration.

North, scheduled to undergo more cross-examination Tuesday in federal court, testified for the prosecution earlier Monday, saying he saw Poindexter tear up a politically embarrassing document signed by former President Ronald Reagan approving an explicit arms-for-hostages deal with Iran, the first component of what became known as the Iran-Contra affair.

North, who had been scolded by U.S. District Judge Harold Greene for not cooperating as a witness, said he was there when the former national security adviser had the document retrieved from a White House safe and then tore it up.

The retired Marine testified he saw Poindexter "tear it in two" in Poindexter's White House office Nov. 21, 1986.

Peres fired by Shamir; Labor quits

UPI report

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir Tuesday fired Labor Party chairman Shimon Peres from the Cabinet, triggering the collapse of the government coalition because of an impasse over a U.S. peace plan.

That plan proposed holding talks with a Palestinian delegation, the issue that deeply divided Shamir's right-wing Likud Party and the Labor Party.

The dismissal of Peres, who served as finance minister and vice premier, climaxed the chronic government crisis over the peace process. Immediately after Peres was fired during a Cabinet meeting Tuesday, all the Labor ministers resigned.

Shamir dismissed Peres because the Labor leader would not back down from threats to break up the coalition government.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Bowie playing for his future

His days with the New Jersey Nets apparently numbered, Sam Bowie began playing Monday night for his future.

Bowie, embroiled in a contract dispute with the Nets, scored 29 points and pulled down 13 rebounds Monday night, but the Nets dropped their fourth straight game. Reserve Ricky Pierce scored 39 points to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 109-104 victory.

Bowie, who has been hampered by a string of injuries during his pro career, is enjoying his finest season with the Nets, averaging 14 points and 10 rebounds a game. Bowie hopes to sign a long-term contract with the Nets, but New Jersey management is wary of signing him to one due to his medical background.

So Bowie is going out and showing he can play.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the LA Lakers topped Charlotte 107-102, San Antonio edged Minnesota 92-88, Seattle crushed Orlando 130-105 and Golden State nipped the LA Clippers 112-109.

J.V. BASEBALL

Seminoles still perfect

ORLANDO — Jeremy Chunal tossed a two-hitter and David Eckstein drove in two runs with a pair of singles as the Seminole junior varsity baseball team defeated Edgewater 13-1.

Chunal improved his personal record to 3-0 as Seminole upped its record to 7-0. The next game for the Fighting Seminoles will be under the lights Thursday when it travels to Lyman to take on the Greyhounds at 7 p.m.

In addition to Eckstein, also getting hits for Seminole were Phillip King, Matt Freeman, Demetry Freeman and Robbie Morgan. King's hit was a double.

McGirt and Müller had the hits for the Eagles.

FOOTBALL

Raiders headed back to Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. — Al Davis, who broke the hearts of thousands of Oakland Raiders fans when he moved the NFL franchise to Los Angeles in 1982, declared Monday he would return the team to its original home.

Davis, the Raiders general managing partner, spoke with Oakland officials from the NFL owners meeting in Orlando, Fla., ending seven months of negotiation and suspense by agreeing to a 10-year deal with Oakland worth more than $600 million.

The Raiders also received the blessing Monday of their current landlord — the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission. The Commission said it will now turn its intentions toward landing an expansion team or attracting another NFL franchise to Los Angeles in the two years remaining on the Raiders lease.

HOCKEY

Flames overtake Jets in OT

CALGARY, Alberta — Theoren Fleury scored his 27th goal of the season at 1:40 of overtime Monday, rallying the Calgary Flames from a three-goal deficit to a 5-4 victory over the Winnipeg Jets.

Fleury took a pass from Paul Reinhart and wristed a 15-foot shot past goaltender Bob Essensa to extend the Flames' unbeaten streak to six games (5-0-1). Winnipeg held second-period leads of 3-0 and 4-2 before Calgary scored twice in the third period.

The victory moved Calgary six points ahead of Edmonton and 10 points in front of the Jets in the Smythe Division.

Winnipeg led 4-2 after two periods, but Calgary tied the score with third-period goals by Gary Suter and Brian MacLellan.

The Jets jumped ahead 3-0 in the second period on goalie Rick Wamsley.

Elsewhere in the NHL on Monday night, Los Angeles topped the New York Rangers 6-2 and Minnesota checked Toronto 4-1.

Lake Mary coaches lead FACA East soccer all stars

From staff reports

Because they guided their teams to the state tournament during the 1988-89 season, Lake Mary High School soccer coaches Larry McCorkle and Bill Elaele will guide the East squads in this weekend's second annual Florida Athletic Coaches Association All-Star Soccer Classic at Boone High School.

Coaches selected to lead the eight different boys' and girls' squads are FACA member coaches who led their teams the farthest in the previous year's state tournament. This gives the coaches an entire year to scan their region as they begin to organize their team.

The bulk of each team is made up of FACA

All-State players selected in all high school classifications for that year from that respective region. If that number does not equal 18, the coach can add three "choices" of his or her own to the team.

With four exceptions, the girls' FACA East All Stars is made up entirely of Seminole County athletes. Leading the pack are Cindy Becker, Tara Harding, Kimi Kurz and Beth Schaefer from Lake Brantley, this year's Class 4A state champion Lake Brantley.

Five players from Elaele's team at Lake Mary are on the squad: Amy Alexander, Jambie Dombchik, Sandy Powell, Tammy Scott and Crisale Snow. Lyman is represented by Tammy Fulaang, Kerry Musante and Jen McAvoy while Lake Howell is sending Dana Boyesen and Heather Brann. Heather Brown is the lone Seminole High School selection.

Rounding out the squad are Jen Dexter from Dr. Phillips, Boone's Teresa Hodson, Roxie Martin of Colonial and Winter Park's Shane Williams.

Assisting Elaele in coaching the team will be Bishop Moore's Larry Beisinger, Laura Roundtree of Lyman and Lake Brantley's John Schaefer. Because Lake Brantley won the state title this year, Schaefer will have the honor of coaching next year's FACA East All Stars.

The boys' East squad is a little more balanced in terms of players coming from different

Hughes' return frees Calapa for mound duty

By TONY DeBORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

OVIEDO — In his first week back, Greg Hughes is already paying dividends for the Oviedo High School baseball team. His most recent contribution came Monday night in an 8-6 Seminole Athletic Conference win over Lyman.

Hughes, one of the best infielders in Seminole County, has been sidelined since a week before the season started with a strained muscle in his back. He only returned to the Oviedo lineup this past weekend.

And while Hughes does give the Lions a boost offensively and defensively, his presence gives Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell more flexibility. With Hughes out, Ferrell had to keep B.J. Calapa at shortstop. But with Hughes back, Calapa can now start taking his normal spot in the Lion pitching rotation.

On Monday night against the Lyman Greyhounds, Calapa made his first pitching start of the 1990 season and immediately showed how important Hughes can be. For three innings, Calapa was unhittable. In the fifth inning, he tired and gave up two runs but left with the Lions up 8-2.

"It was B.J.'s first time out this season," said Ferrell. "He got a little tired in the fifth inning and started to get his pitches up. And Lyman has a good hitting team. But for his first time out, he gave us five good innings."

"Hughes is a good-attitude guy. He's a hustler and keeps the other guys up. He's a leader type. It's important for us to have him back. We got him back at the right time."

Things got a little more exciting than Ferrell would have liked in the seventh inning. With his substitutes now in the lineup, Lyman took advantage of a couple of Lion

Lyman 000 000 3 — 1 7 7
 Oviedo 022 318 2 — 8 9 9
 Stuckey, Goodpastor (4) and Spanish, Calapa, Krutson and K. Tarpps, Bell (6) WP — Calapa (1B), LP — Stuckey (6), 2B — Soto, Wainscott (Lyman), 3B — Nemo, HR — Nemo, Records — Lyman 7-4, 2-3 SAC; Oviedo 8-2, 3-1 SAC.

misplays to score three two-out runs. With a runner on second, Lyman had the tying run on deck when the Lions finally got the last out.

"We just made too many errors," said Lyman coach Bob McCullough. "We have to learn to play better. We don't have great kids at all the spots. To win, we have to do all the right things at all times."

"I'm pleased they started swinging the bats in the seventh inning. But we've got to start doing that earlier to help take the pressure off. You can't win games when you're making errors without super hitting. And we're scraping to get runs. We have to cut down on our mistakes, mentally and physically."

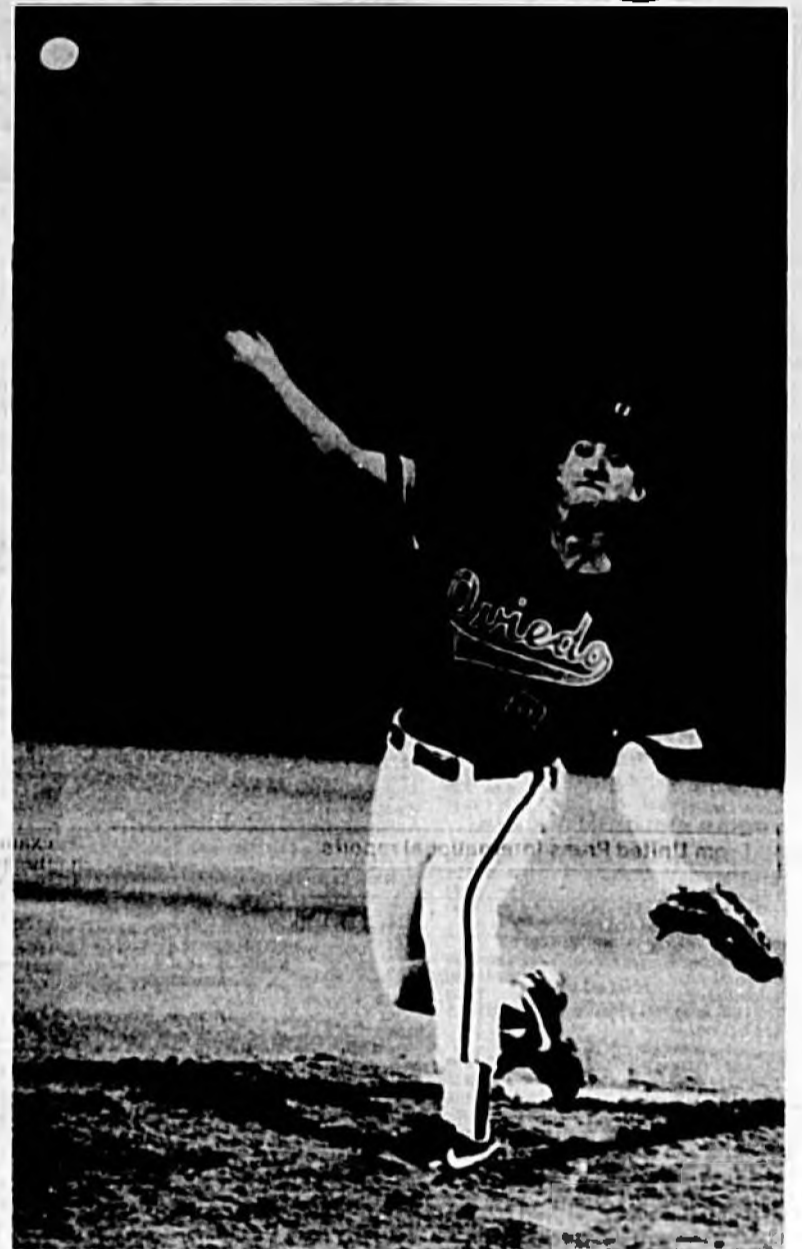

In all, Lyman made seven errors while pitchers Shawn Stuckey and Jason Goodpastor issued six walks. Combined with the nine hits Oviedo had, that meant the Greyhounds were in trouble in almost every inning.

Stuckey managed to work out of a first-inning jam when Oviedo loaded the bases with one out. But the Lions struck for a pair of unearned runs in the second inning to take the lead for good.

Oviedo added two more runs in the third and three in the fourth before Lyman got to Calapa for two runs in the top of the fifth to make the score 7-2. The Lions got one run back in their half of the fifth.

Mike Verne, Brian MacInness and Mark Bellhorn each had two hits for the Lions. Jason Hulsh scored a pair of runs while Bellhorn drove in two. Verne also had three of

With Greg Hughes back in the lineup, Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell was able to use B.J. Calapa (above) on the mound Monday night against Lyman. Calapa responded by throwing five strong innings in an 8-6 Lion win.

Concrete Concepts ends two-game skid

From staff reports

SANFORD — Concrete Concepts got back on the winning track, the Tim Raines Connection stayed undefeated and Allman & Waddles won its first game of the season in Sanford Recreation Department Monday Night Softball League action at Chase Park.

The scores were Concrete over Ace Hardware of Volusia 6-2, TRC downing Ken Rummel Chevrolet 11-3 and Allman & Waddles handling Stromberg-Carlson 9-6.

The standings now show TRC in first place with a 7-0 record followed by Concrete Concepts at 6-2, Ken Rummel and Ace Hardware 4-4, Cabinet Aire 3-4, Stromberg 2-6 and Allman 1-7.

Next week, Cabinet Aire plays Allman at 6:30 p.m.

Stromberg takes on Concrete at 7:30 p.m. and Ace challenges TRC at 8:30 p.m. Ken Rummel has the week off.

Concrete ended a two-game losing skid when it broke a 2-2 tie with four runs in the top of the seventh inning.

Contributing to the Concept attack were Jack Lewis (double, single), Mark Hoffman, Steve Gray and Dusty Harmon (two singles and one run scored each), Walt Mulligan and Curtis Tabor (two singles each), Rich Cobb and Mike Hilgar (one single and one run scored each) and William Bland (run scored).

Getting hits for Ace were Manny Silvia (four singles), Tom Burnham (two singles), Rick Nelson and Carl Lee (one single and one run scored each) and Jeff Aten, John Boggs, Rick Bryant, Gordon Clark and Kevin

Six games kick off church softball season

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Church Softball League started its spring season Saturday with six games at Chase Park.

In B League action, First Nazarene upended Grace Christian 13-1. First Baptist-Markham Woods Road defeated First Baptist of Geneva 7-5 and Holy Cross Lutheran handled Calvary Christian 12-3.

In A League play, Central Baptist crushed Grace United Methodist 15-0, Maranatha Pentecostal squeaked by St. Stephen Community Catholic 11-9 and First Baptist of Osteen clobbered Church of God 13-5.

First Nazarene scored nine runs in the first two innings and cruised to the easy win over Grace Christian.

Leading the way for Nazarene were Tom Clark (home run, triple, single), Doug Lotz (double, two singles), Ron Cardell and Dan Gort (two singles each), Tommy Raines and Phillip Sutherland (one double each) and Grady Leggett and Kreswick Lashley (one single each).

Getting the hits for Grace Christian were Charlie Farmer (double) and Rick Gilbertson, Tom Minnick and Courtington (one single each).

The second game found Geneva coming back from a 5-2 first-inning deficit to tie the game 5-5 entering the bottom of the sixth. But Markham Woods pulled out the

SCC teams play today

From staff reports

SANFORD — Seminole Community College's baseball and softball teams will both attempt to stop recent losing streaks with home games Tuesday afternoon.

The softball team, 14-17 overall and 4-8 in the Mid-Florida Conference, will be looking to turn around a recent hitting slump that contributed to the Raiders losing seven of their last eight starts.

It won't be easy as the Raiders will be trying to rebound against conference foe and defending national champion Lake City in a doubleheader at 3 p.m.

The baseball team, 1-17 overall and 1-7 in the M-FC, will face long time nemesis Valencia starting at 3 p.m. The Raiders' hitting and fielding have improved as of late and they always play well against the Matadors.

Ellis, SuperSonics send Magic to sixth straight defeat

United Press International

SEATTLE — Dale Ellis, in his second game after missing 27 following a car accident, scored 24 points and Steve Johnson had 8 early in the fourth quarter Monday night to lead the Seattle SuperSonics to a 130-105 victory over Orlando.

Seattle, 31-30, broke a two-game losing streak, while the Magic, 16-46, lost its sixth straight and 12th in 13 games.

Ellis hit 10 of 15 field goal tries, but it was Johnson who keyed the Sonics' 14-2 run in the opening 4 minutes of the final quarter that turned a 92-88 lead into a 106-90 advantage. Seattle eventually led by 26.

Orlando's Reggis Theus led all scorers with 26 points, including 14 in the third quarter, while Jerry Reynolds had 20. Theus hit 4 of 7 shots in the third period, while his teammates were 2-11.

Orlando's shooting allowed Seattle to overcome a 69-62 halftime deficit. The 69 first-half points was a record for the expansion Magic.

Orlando, trailing 38-35 after the first quarter in which the lead changed 15 times, dominated the second quarter. Reynolds, a former Sonie, and Theus scored 6 points apiece as the Magic put together a 12-4 run late in the period.

Don't break a promise as punishment

DEAR ABBY: Re the 11-year-old boy who had been promised a weekend outing with his grandma, but because he swore at his mom, he was not permitted to go on the outing; You said the punishment was unfair because the grandma was also being punished. True, but you overlooked a far more important point: Once something is promised, it should be delivered — regardless. If the child does something for which he deserved to be punished, then find an alternative punishment.

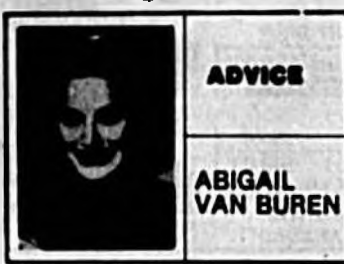

Many years ago, my daughter and her friend "Mary" (both in high school) broke a rule that called for some kind of punishment. Mary's parents punished her by refusing to let her go to the homecoming dance — after they had previously granted her permission.

Our daughter was also punished, but we kept our word about the homecoming dance and found an alternative punishment. We never regretted our decision.

A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE

DEAR MATTER: The principle is sound. We teach children that one's word is a sacred trust by honoring the promises that we make to them. Once something is given, it is never to be taken back.

Conversely, if a child bounces a basketball in the house and his mother says, "If you bounce that ball in the house one more time, I am going to take it away from you" — and the child continues to bounce the ball, the mother should make good her promise and take the ball away from the child.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've learned a great deal from reading your column. It also stirs up a lot of memories. Recently when you said, "You never forget the hurts you suffered in school," it struck a chord with me.

I went to a small high school. There were 32 kids in my class — 13 girls and 18 boys. All the girls took home economics. Ten girls were selected to serve the seniors at the banquet before the prom. It was considered an honor. I never could understand why they didn't ask all 13 girls to serve. Why only 10?

I was a good student, active in chorus and band, but I was rather shy. I weighed 90 pounds and was a 5-foot-2 string bean. I was heartbroken when I wasn't chosen to serve. The other two girls who weren't asked had boyfriends and weren't interested in serving, so it didn't bother them.

The home economics teacher had us three who were excluded sit at a table in the corner while the other 10 "practiced" — learning the correct way to serve.

I will never forget sitting there, staring down at my plate, trying to hold back the tears. After class, I ran to the bathroom and cried.

You're right, Abby. We never forget the hurts we suffered in school.

SMALL TOWN IN IOWA CONFIDENTIAL TO CAN'T GO ON IN WACO, TEXAS: You can go on and you must. "Anyone can carry his burden, however hard, until nightfall. Anyone can do his work, however hard, for one day. Anyone can lie sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, 'til the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means." (Robert Louis Stevenson)

DEAR ABBY: I am married with two teenage sons. My husband's business requires a great deal of travel — sometimes overseas.

When I tell people that "Jim" is in Japan, Germany or Hong Kong, they ask, "Why didn't you go with him?"

Abby, I can't just dump the boys with friends every time Jim goes to a foreign country. Teen-age boys are involved in so many activities, and I have my own commitments, including a part-time teaching job. Furthermore, although Jim's travel expenses are paid for by the company, mine would not be. (Would any of these people like to pay my air fare?)

Abby, I hope you find my letter worth printing. Having a traveling husband is lonely enough without having to respond to this thoughtless question. (By the way, folks, how about having us over for dinner sometime?)

I'm sure other wives of traveling husbands have been asked the same question.

HOME ALONE A LOT

DEAR HOME ALONE: The "why didn't you go with him" question is asked by well-meaning but thoughtless people. Perhaps after this hits print, many will think before they speak. (Me included.)

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 68440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Getting married

Engagement and wedding forms are available at the Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave. These forms give guidelines for writing data that will be used in engagement and wedding announcements.

Those who cannot pick up forms at the Herald during regular business hours may obtain forms by sending an addressed, stamped envelope to People Editor, Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, FL 32771.

The completed forms may be accompanied by a professional black-and-white photograph if a picture is desired with the announcement. The Herald reserves the right to reject photographs that will not reproduce properly. Photographs may be picked up after publication, or they will be returned if an addressed, stamped envelope is provided.

Engagement and wedding forms must be filled out and signed before any engagement or wedding announcement is published in the Herald. Completed engagement forms should be turned in at least 20 days prior to the wedding.

Engagement and wedding announcements are published in the Sunday edition of the People section.

Ex-food employee sues store chain

United Press International

CHARLESTON, S.C. — A former Food Lion store manager filed a federal class action lawsuit against the grocery chain Monday, alleging the firm engaged in a scheme to deny employees profit-sharing and health benefits.

The suit, which attorneys said could involve "potentially scores of millions of dollars in back benefits and thousands of former Food Lion employees," represented the first such action involving a profit-sharing plan to be brought under the 1974 Employee Retirement Income Security Act, known as ERISA.

"This is precisely the type of private action that Congress envisioned when ERISA was enacted in 1974," said plaintiffs' attorney Ian Lanoff, who from 1977 to 1981 was the administrator of the U.S. Department of Labor's Pension and Welfare Benefits Program, one of the principal agencies for enforcing the law.

"Congress specifically provided that employees have access to the courts for protection against employers who would use those plans for their own self-interest instead of in the sole interest of the participants," Lanoff added.

Food Lion issued a statement denying any wrongdoing and refuting the suggestion that top corporate officials have lined their pockets with recycled profit-sharing money.

"The United Food and Commercial Workers union lawsuit is just one more attempt by the union to harass and pressure Food Lion into recognizing the union without regard to employee sentiments in the matter," Food Lion said.

As of 1989, nearly 21,000 employees of Food Lion, which operates 675 stores in the Southeast and as far north as Maryland and Delaware, were participants in the profit-sharing plan, which functions as the company's pension program. Plan assets were valued at more than $200 million.

However, even though the current workforce and many thousand more former employees were at one time participants in the plan, the suit said only a very few have actually received benefits since the plan went into effect in 1980.

Only 81 employees were eligible for full benefits at the end of 1987, according to the most recent report available from the Labor Department. Another 2,956 qualified for partial benefits. The suit contends those eligible for full profit-sharing were "primarily highly compensated Food Lion officers."

W. Virginia teachers agree to discuss strike

United Press International

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — Gov. Gaston Caperton and teachers union leaders agreed to meet again Tuesday and try to resolve West Virginia's first school strike, which the state attorney general has declared illegal.

"We want to keep this discussion going because we think it's been worthwhile to this point," Caperton's press secretary, Gordon Morse, said after the governor engaged in seven hours of talks Monday that broke up at 11 p.m.

Kaycita Meadows, president of the West Virginia Education Association which represents about 16,000 of the state's 21,853 teachers, said her members would remain on strike Tuesday.

But neither Meadows nor Bob Brown, executive director of the rival West Virginia Federation of Teachers which has about 3,000 members, would comment on their meeting with the governor.

Teachers walked out of the classrooms March 7 and schools in 38 of West Virginia's 55 counties canceled at least some of their classes on Monday.

The WVEA called for the statewide walkout after charging Caperton with renegeing on an offer to provide $35 million for a 5 percent pay raise, provide an additional $6.5 million to the state's health insurance program and add $27 million in new taxes on coal operators to help pay for the package.

The state Education Department said the strike caused 29 counties to call off all classes Monday, affecting hundreds of schools and thousands of students and parents. Partial school closings were also reported in at least nine other counties, said spokeswoman Carolyn Spangler.

A state attorney general's opinion issued last week called the teachers strike illegal and said counties had the right to fire anyone on the picket lines.

Striking educators gathered at the Capitol for a rally Monday, locking hands and singing, "We Shall Not Be Moved."

School boards in at least two counties ordered that teachers report back to work or be fired. Picketing was reported in 46 counties, four more than Friday, as teachers largely ignored Caperton's weekend offer of no loss of pay in return for an end to the strike Monday.

Counties that kept some or all of their schools open called in administrators and substitutes to man the chalkboards.

In issuing his call for Monday's meeting, Caperton said the two sides needed to "put aside the harsh words and miscommunications of the past weekend and move on to the resolution of the present predicament."

Caperton also plans to make a major policy address on education Tuesday night. Meadows said she has no idea what he will say.

A Jefferson County circuit judge ordered striking teachers to return to the classroom on Thursday. School officials there said they expected teachers to obey the order. In Greenbrier County, School Superintendent Steve Baldwin told teachers to return to work Wednesday or be fired.

Stanley The Wonder Horse

Giddy-up to Flying Unicorn Ranch

Steve Charron and his daughter Lynn understand the romance of a slower time and way of life, when the fastest means of transportation was the horse. They have recently brought a little of this romance to the Sanford area by establishing the Flying Unicorn Ranch, at 3550 State Road 48, 1 1/2 miles east of I-4.

Flying Unicorn Ranch offers moonlight rides, hayrides and cookouts, catering service for cookouts, trail riding with lots of open space and a wide variety of mounts. One of the stars of the Ranch is Stanley the Wonder Horse. Stanley is available for half hour rides or can be invited to your child's next birthday party. Karen, Stanley's trainer, says he is very gentle with children and that he is also available for riding lessons for small children.

Steve anticipates a great spring and summer and is adding new events to the ranch schedule. Half day trail rides will be available during the week with campfire settings and a bar-b-que. Music will also be provided by a country music entertainer, for singing around the campfire. Steve thinks this is a great idea for company picnics, Girl Scout and Boy Scout outings or reunions.

So if you yearn for the good old days, give Steve or Lynn a call at 322-5501 for rates and schedules, or simply head west toward the setting sun to the Flying Unicorn Ranch.

Disney World plans city

United Press International

KISSIMEE — Walt Disney Co. executives plan a multimillion development on 4,000 acres of company land south of its theme parks. The development would be the first on Disney's Osceola County land, acquired in the 1980s. "It's rural land now. It's undeveloped land. When you drive by now, you don't think much of it," Tom Elrod, senior vice president for Disney attractions, said Monday. Development plans call for a shopping mall measuring 1.5 million square feet, which Disney said would make it the biggest in central Florida. Elrod said the mall should be open in four years. Disney executives said the development would include a residential element, but Elrod and Dick Nunis, president of Walt Disney World Co., provided few details of the company's plans. Osceola and Orange County officials told The Orlando Sentinel the development would include as many as 6,000 homes, starting at $90,000. The project reportedly will include about 6 million square feet of commercial office space and 1.2 million square feet of light-industrial office and manufacturing space. The project also would be subject to county authority, since Disney has agreed to "de-annex" the property from its Reedy Creek Improvement District. That would make the company subject, for the first time, to water, sewer and road impact fees. The Reedy Creek district was established in 1967 and gives Disney virtual autonomy over its property and frees it of local government control.

Florida captain praises Hazelwood, blames spill on mate, Coast Guard

By JEFF BERLINER
United Press International

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A super-tanker captain who now works the St. Johns River in Florida defended Joseph Hazelwood's actions aboard the Exxon Valdez Monday. Capt. Shiras Michael Walker testified that the Exxon Valdez' third mate and the Coast Guard were responsible for the grounding last March that caused the nation's worst oil spill. In a tense morning of sparring between Walker and prosecutor Mary Anne Henry, Walker told the jury that Hazelwood was not to blame for the wreck of the Exxon Valdez. Cross-examination painted two radically different pictures of Hazelwood: Henry portrayed him as vodka-impaired and reckless, especially for leaving the bridge to unqualified crewmen; defense witness Walker characterized Hazelwood as a typical skipper whose actions were routine and proper. Walker, who commanded tankers in Prince William Sound for eight years and now pilots ships in Florida's St. Johns River, blamed third mate Greg Cousins for the grounding. And he blamed the Coast Guard for not seeing the approaching disaster on radar and warning the Exxon Valdez. Cousins, of the Tampa, Fla., officer left in charge by Hazelwood, failed to make sure that his turn orders were carried out by helmsman Robert Kagan, said Walker, of Jacksonville, Fla. Hazelwood left the bridge and went to his cabin during a detour around icebergs, telling Cousins to return to tanker lanes at a certain point. About 15 minutes after Hazelwood left, early on March 24, the Exxon Valdez hit Bligh Reef and spilled nearly 11 million gallons of crude oil. Cousins testified that he ordered a right turn to get around ice and avoid the rocks. Several witnesses and course recorder data indicated that Kagan — a helmsman with a reputation for having trouble steering — turned late, turned too little and canceled the right swing of the ship by turning back the opposite direction out of fear of turning too hard. Cousins, if he was doing his job, should have seen on rudder indicator gauges that Kagan failed to turn as ordered, Walker said. A number of witnesses have blamed Kagan for the wreck because he turned too little, too late. Some witnesses have faulted Cousins for burying himself in charts and radar screens without making sure Kagan followed his turn orders. Prosecutors have blamed Hazelwood for not taking charge of his subordinate crewmen and staying on the bridge during the disaster. But Walker became the first witness in Hazelwood's trial to single out Cousins directly for the blame because he was the officer on watch at the time and then to attack the Coast Guard for not preventing the wreck. Walker said that if he were skipper he would have stayed on the bridge — a statement prosecutors tried to capitalize on by saying the accident never would have happened if Hazelwood were on the bridge. Walker conceded, "If Capt. Hazelwood had been on the bridge during those maneuvers, the accident wouldn't have happened," but he refused to fault Hazelwood for leaving the bridge, saying that was a skipper's prerogative. He said Cousins had instructions to call Hazelwood for the turn and every skipper "tries to pound into his junior officers' thick skulls to call me when you're in doubt." In fact, Cousins should have summoned Hazelwood back to the bridge when he saw the tanker was in trouble, Walker said. "All he had to say was, 'Captain, please come up to the bridge.' Then this whole thing would have been avoided." Walker blamed the Coast Guard because he said it was supposed to monitor tankers,

Butch and Carol Cocnbs

Butch's Chevron and Wrecker Service offers old-time service at new location

While the days of full service gasoline stations are quickly becoming a thing of the past, Sanford residents, at least, can still get complete service for their automobiles from long time Sanford residents and business persons, Butch and Carol Cocnbs, at Butch's Chevron and Wrecker Service. Located at 1122 Celery Avenue for the past twelve years, Butch has recently totally renovated a garage and office building at 2207 West First Street (3 miles east of I-4) and moved his business to better serve his customers. Besides Butch and Carol, Butch's Chevron employs two full time mechanics and two experienced wrecker drivers. The new garage offers state of the art equipment, for repair and hauling and car carrier service. Twenty four hour towing and emergency road service are available as well as complete automotive service, tune-ups, oil change, lube service, computer wheel balancing, exhaust system repair, brakes, front end alignments and engine rebuilding. Butch says they are now offering headlight aiming, almost a luxury in these days of self service car repair. Butch's motto is "Anytime, Any Place. Any thing." He even offers long distance hauling. Butch's Chevron is affiliated with AAA, TRAA and the Professional Wrecker Operators of Florida, Inc. Butch's Chevron and Wrecker Service accepts VISA and MasterCard. While the location is new, Butch's Chevron and Wrecker Service can still be reached at 322-7397.

Varicose veins need elastic leg support

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there anything one can do to prevent varicose veins? Is exercise good or harmful, and what kind of surgery, if any, would help?

DEAR READER: Varicose veins are normal veins that have stretched and become swollen with blood. Unlike arteries, which are lined by muscular tissue, veins are relatively weak; they do not constrict. Therefore, venous constriction is largely provided by the tissues surrounding the veins.

If this support is inadequate, or if the venous blood is under excessive pressure — for example, during pregnancy — the veins will balloon and enlarge, resulting in varicose veins. The tendency to this condition appears to be inherited.

Non-surgical treatment of varicose veins consists primarily of elastic leg support. When worn regularly, these stockings provide venous support that is lacking in the tissues around the veins.

Surgery — consisting of venous stripping, sclerosis (obliterating the veins with strong chemicals) or laser therapy — is reserved for severe cases in which the varicosities are especially unsightly or cause discomfort.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My two brothers, ages 48 and 55, have been diagnosed with myotonic dystrophy. Is this hereditary? What might this mean for our children and grandchildren? So far, of the six of us, only my older brother's son shows signs, yet he hasn't been officially diagnosed.

DEAR READER: Myotonic muscular dystrophy is an unusual inherited disorder characterized by weakness and myotonia (slow relaxation after muscle contraction). Hand muscles are commonly affected, and patients usually exhibit ptosis (drooping eyelids). Particularly advanced cases are associated with mental retardation, dementia, cataracts, premature balding, various glandular abnormalities and heart-muscle defects.

therefore, you may wish to have your children and grandchildren checked by a neurologist.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Often the secret to successful declarer play is to be in the right place at the right time. And one more thing — you may need to get there the right number of times. South ducked the opening lead when East played the king, but had to win the next heart. Chances were not good. Apparently declarer needed the king of spades onside and a 3-3 spade split as well. So he played king of clubs and a low club to the jack. A spade to the queen won, and declarer played a club back to the jack in dummy. A second spade finesse worked, as West contributed the spade 10. That left South with the A-9 of spades over the K-8 in the East hand. Unfortunately South was on

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 14, 1990

There are strong indications that in the year ahead you might do things on a larger scale than you have in the past. This could pertain to both your social life and your commercial affairs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a strong opener today and the early stages of your efforts should bear this out. However, when it comes to closing you might not display the same admirable talents. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A promising arrangement involving you and someone else might not come off exactly as anticipated. Be prepared to make corrective adjustments if necessary.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A decision based upon information you have not thoroughly verified could be erroneous today. Try to take ample time in weighing alternatives before rendering a judgment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions pertaining to your earning power are very favorable at this time, but they are not foolproof. Do not take big risks in hopes of reaping small gains.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You possess the knack for doing things in a bigger way than usual today. Your efforts are likely to be successful, but you could have complications on which you didn't figure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People who are pertinent to your special needs today can be led but not pushed or manipulated. Try to keep this in mind, because it will minimize resistance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Associates in general, and old friends in particular, can be counted on to be helpful towards you today. Someone with whom you've previously had trouble, however, won't fit into this category.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are presently in a favorable cycle — where your career and finances are concerned, so make the most of your opportunities. There is a warning, however, that requires you to be prudent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are philosophical about obstructions that impede your progress today you'll deal with them wisely. However, if you let your temper make decisions for you, it'll be another story.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The less demanding you are of companions today, the more willing they are likely to be to help you. Let the idea originate with them instead of coming as a command from you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't let it be said of you today that you are a good taker, but a reluctant giver. Reciprocity is important at this time, so be sure to pay back favors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You won't be out of line if you envision goals a bit grander than usual today. The problems could come if you think they automatically are going to be handed to you on a silver platter.
