Tragedy Amuses Tia Juana As Officials Ridicule Plan To Execute Guilty Mexican

Peteet And Wife

Police Chief Who Attacked Two Peteet Girls Is Too Powerful To Get More Than Six Years In Penitentiary

Vice Dens Are Still Wide Open To Public

Strange Suicide Pact Of 4 Members Of Peteet Family Reveals Veritable Hellhole

Here is the first of a series of articles by Russell J. Bidwell, special writer for NEA Service and The Sanford Herald, giving a first-hand account of conditions at Tia Juana, the Mexican border town where two American girls were so mistreated last year and their parents committed suicide together. A second story will follow tomorrow.

By RUSSELL J. BIDWELL
TIA JUANA, Mex., Feb. 18.—Here in Satan's town the devil still bosses his playthings.

And over in San Diego across the border where the girls were mistreated, their parents committed suicide together. A second story will follow tomorrow.

Four fresh moans of death as three, blood-stained, and the ill-fated Peteet family, Audrey and Clyde, young and pretty sisters—unwilling members of the deadly, fatal party—rest their heads on their mother's breast. The girls said they were cramped, drenched and despised by Tia Juana's chief of police, Zendea and a gang of his.

They were in Tia Juana friends, there to escape the stigma of living, the whole family laid down to die in the words, "quiere morir con sus hijos."

But here in the city of sin there are no words of mourning.

The Old Steep
Seductive music pours out into the tepalcates atmosphere from the shops, saloons and cabarets.

Thousands of dollars exchange hands hourly in the gambling halls; the old story still continues in the alleys of nameless women and scabbed-eyed American and Mexican girls—lures to beat the tourist-teacher for the dollar and men they support.

The Peteet family was lured one day, and on the following began Tia Juana's gayest four-day carnival—a gesture to keep business going as usual in this most important season of the year.

The storm, it says, will move rapidly northward and will be followed by much colder weather although generally fair, in the Atlantic and Gulf States.

The weather will remain generally fair on Saturday, with the exception of Tennessee, where cloudiness is predicted.

The storm warnings are displayed from Jacksonville, Fla., to Eastport, Me., and small craft warnings from Bay St. Louis, Miss., to Jacksonville, Fla.

Illinois Union Sympathizers Not Present For Reported Demonstration Against Non-Union Men At Evansville

Reports Of Caravan Are Still Unverified

Twenty Are Hurt In Clash Early This Week Between Sympathizers And Miners

EVANSVILLE, Ill., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Police today were unable to verify reports that a caravan of union sympathizers was enroute from Illinois to participate in a demonstration against non-union miners.

Authorities said they had reports from all points along the Wabash River and that there had been no invasion from Illinois this far. Work was resumed this morning at the non-union mines which the union sympathizers have been seeking to close.

Police who were on duty today were unable to say where the caravan had come from early this morning to the effect that the caravan was enroute here. The caravan was given by Capt. Harry E. Freer said his information had come from a motorist's account.

Capt. Harry Freer, in charge of the Evansville police, said he had received authentic information that the caravan passed through Evansville, Ill., in a short time ago. It was 50 miles from Evansville.

The police have learned that the union sympathizers made arrangements to be housed across the Wabash River at Mt. Vernon. The ferryman had completed his regular schedule for the night.

The first report was that the caravan had been seen on the Wabash River. The police were notified by the Evansville police.

Early Agreement On Tax Cut Bill Is Now In Prospect

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(P)—Despite a serious breach over the inheritance tax which resulted in a temporary withdrawal of House delegates yesterday an early agreement between House and Senate on the tax reduction bill was in prospect today.

Demanding restoration of the inheritance levy which was approved by the House but stricken out by the Senate, the House conferees met yesterday afternoon and when an impasse developed, they walked out. Differences were sufficiently readjusted within an hour, however, to permit continuance of the conference although no decision was reached before night as to the final status of the tax.

It remained the main stumbling block today but the fact that the conference was resumed after the breakup was taken as an indication that some settlement was imminent.

Restoration to the bill of taxes totalling $125,000,000 which the Senate repealed, also is demanded by the House, but some compromise on this looked for.

Final action by the conferees, now in their fifth day of work on the bill, is confidently expected by leaders before the end of the week, in time to permit the bill to become law by the middle of next week.

Sanford's Farming Activities Praised From Radio Station

Sanford and Seminole county were given a good boost over the air last night when Al Smith, Illinois man who was formerly connected with the Federal Department of Agriculture, delivered an address from the Winter Park station on local celery culture, featuring Seminole county's irrigation system and its intensive agricultural development.

An excerpt from Mr. Smith's address follows: "The celery season here is fast swinging into its height. For three weeks or more, the farmers here have been cutting and shipping celery, and within a few days the movement will be at its peak."

"For those who have never seen Sanford celery, the sight will be a revelation. Sanford has 3,000 acres devoted to this one crop. The tonnage from this will be nearly 6,000 cars. This will be equal to half of the celery grown in the United States and over five-sixths of that grown in Florida. The income from Sanford celery this year, judging from the way the market is opening up, will be over $6,000,000, or an average of $2,000 an acre."

"I have traveled all over the United States and Canada and never have I found any farming quite so intensive. Comparing Sanford celery lands with lands in the Corn Belt the income an acre is from fifty to a hundred times as great. In other words a 20 acre Sanford farm devoted to celery is producing as big a crop in dollars and cents as a varied grain farm of from 1,000 to 2,000 acres in size."

3 Points of Permanence

THOUGHTFUL taxpayers look deeper into their obligations of the future than the present enthusiasm of a quick-selling bond issue.

They want a road that will last. "Will the road be long-lasting?" they ask.

With a Lime Rock base, yes. With proper drainage, yes. With good surfacing, yes. For these three points of permanence mean long life to a road and the greatest economy to the property owner who helps pay the bill. And the man who pays the bill should be deeply interested in getting the best for his money.

Secure material that can be laid down on the job at a low transportation cost—that labor cost can be saved in construction by means of materials easy to handle, that the materials represent durability and high resistance to the depreciation caused by traffic.

A substantial Lime Rock base cuts construction costs and is its own insurance for a long future!

When scientific laboratories say that Lime Rock will stand the gaff of modern traffic, when the Government approves Lime Rock for Federal roads, the answer is ready made when the question arises, "What base shall we use for our road?"

THE PRESENCE OF THE LORD—And God spake unto Israel, in the visions of the night, I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt: for I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will also surely bring thee up again: Gen. 46:2-4.

THE TRAFFIC COP OFF DUTY

The traffic cop, he hawled them out.

The rich, the great, the low—
At one and all he'd loudly shout
And tell them where to go.
He merely had to wave his hand
Both men and women to command.

All day beneath his awful eye
The populace was swayed,
Men stammered out their reasons
Why.
Some left-hand turn they'd made
And every living soul was meek
And scarcely dared to him to speak.

But when the shades of evening fell
And homework went the cap,
The little wife he loved so well,
"You're twenty minutes late," said she,
"I couldn't help it dear," said he,
"And then she told him what was what."
"As does your wife and mine,
But did he answer?" He did not,
"He ploped the peas upon his knife
And meekly listened to his wife."

Super-Highways

The editor of the Miami Herald recently wrote on the importance of good highways leading from all directions into big cities. "The idea of the super-highway," says the Herald, "is taking hold in many communities. The super-highway is a wide road leading out of a city well into the suburban section, giving easy access and exit for the streams of motors which are found everywhere. At least a half dozen of the larger cities of the North are planning to spend immense sums in creating such avenues, ranging from one to three hundred feet in width, and leading out of the cities into the most populous suburbs, and even far into the country sections."

The Herald goes on to say that Miami is now building one of these super-highways. It is to be a hundred foot boulevard leading from one of the main business streets, through important subdivisions and far out into the country to the north. "The value of this hundred-foot street can hardly be estimated now, but it is certain that it will be very great, so great that it will probably lead to others north, and in every other direction out of Miami."

Here is an idea for Seminole county commissioners to work with. Perhaps Sanford is not ready for a hundred foot boulevard, but it will not be many years before several will be needed leading to Orlando, DeLand, Eustis and Geneva. At the present time wide well-paved highways leading out into Seminole county would be of inestimable value to Sanford and this section.

Good roads mean the opening of new country. Super-highways in Seminole county would mean tremendously increased motor transportation. But more than anything else they would mean that tourists ultimately bound for St. Petersburg or Miami would go through Sanford and practically all northwesterners would see our city before going further. Nothing is so important to a tourist city as good roads.

Fall and Justice

Two years ago one, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, was indicted for conspiracy to defraud the public. The indictment was eventually quashed but in the meanwhile a new indictment was returned. The former cabinet official sought to quash that one also, and appealed the case but several days ago the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia held that it was valid.

An appeal to the United States Supreme Court will be Fall's next step in his efforts to have the decision reversed. If he is unsuccessful again, he will probably find other means to delay justice. The former head of the Interior Department with his friends, and they are many and powerful, will do everything to escape trial and by the time the case is disposed of, the name of Albert Fall will be almost forgotten.

When we think of how successful this man has been in thwarting justice we cannot help but recall that while testifying before a United States Senate committee, he refused to answer all questions on the grounds that his answers might incriminate him. We cannot help but recall too that neither he nor his influential friends have ever made a single explanation of his conduct that sounded reasonable. He profited by serving the powerful oil companies. He received money and in return sold his government.

Everything that is possible to abuse and hinder justice has been employed by this man Fall. Those whom he served while in office, looted the public domain, and now they are using their money and influence to prevent the man from New Mexico ever going to trial.

It is exceedingly doubtful that Albert B. Fall will ever get his just deserts. He knows that and rejoices that those who are in power are able to save him from trial and further disgrace. However, it is not likely that these friends are doing it because of a sense of loyalty to him, but quite probably because they fear that many other public scandals connected with the Harding regime, would be unearthed in a trial for Fall.

Unfair for the Goose

Our immigration officials, and incidentally our State Department, is continuing to furnish interesting matter for the newspapers in the way of exclusions from the United States. For some reason or other, long since forgotten, Shapurji Saklatvala and Countess Karolyi were denied admittance to this country by Secretary Kellogg, the "old woman of the State Department." Now Lady Cathcart of England, already on her trip as far as Ellis Island, is told she must go back.

It seems that "moral turpitude" forms the basis of the grounds. It seems that Lady Cathcart while still the wife of Earl Cathcart eloped with the Earl of Craven and provided the grounds for divorce. But it also seems that Earl Cathcart was a rather aged nobleman while his wife was quite young and attractive. The Earl of Craven was also young and proved a most alluring lover.

That they did wrong there can be no denying. Even in the exclusive circles of May Fair it is wrong for a wife to elope with another man before getting her divorce. Conventional rules that the divorce must come first. May Fair must admit that Lady Cathcart and the Earl of Craven were indiscreet in their haste.

But who was the more in the wrong? Who was the more guilty in the "commission of a crime involving moral turpitude?" The Earl of Craven, who left his own wife, to draw from the arms of her aged husband Lady Cathcart? Or Lady Cathcart, who pocketed her bag and left with the young Earl?

The Earl of Craven came into the United States very much like any other individual. He was not excluded because of "moral turpitude" or for any other reason. But the woman who was so more guilty than he, was turned back.

Indeed it is a peculiar State Department that can see justice in that.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE INEVITABLE CONSEQUENCES

Martin Littleton was born in East Tennessee. When he was a boy he moved to a community in Texas, largely settled by people from his own part of the country who had carried with them to their new home many of the customs and traditions of their native mountains. There he studied law and presently, having secured a license, he opened a modest law office and sat down to await the coming of clients.

Almost the first person who called upon him in a professional way was a young Tennesseean whom he had known as a child. The visitor stated that he wished to bring a lawsuit against a neighbor, to settle a dispute which had arisen over a line fence.

"Now, see here Uncle Zack," young Littleton said, "it's too bad that two old friends from the same part of the world should be lawing each other. Isn't there some way you men can settle this thing out of court?"

The old fellow shook his grizzled head.

"Martin, I'm afraid not," he said. "When this year row first got serious between us I made him a proposition. I suggested to him that we should decide it the same way we used to decide such arguments back home. I told him if he'd meet me at sun-up in my pecan grove, bring his squirrel rifle with him, we'd stand up back to back and each one would step off twenty steps and swing around and start shootin'." But Martin, the low-flung, craven, he wouldn't stand the gaff when the shooting time came. He didn't have the sand. When I'd stepped off twenty steps and whirled around you kin believe it or not, but the cowardly dog had come jumped behind a tree."

"What happened then?" asked Littleton.

"Well, natchelly, Martin, that showed us behind a tree."

As Brisbane Sees It

Alfalfa and 50 Gallons. Many Things Happening Best of Nothing. Some Other Things. By ARTHUR BRISBANE copyright 1926, by Star Co.

LOOKING from the window of this little ranch house, you see five men baling alfalfa, cut last October, and now as green inside the stack, as when it was cut. Twenty eight dollars a ton is the price it brings, here on the ranch, and the crop runs eight tons to the acre, seven crops a season. Tell eastern farmers about that.

The Holstein cow, looking at the baling machine gives five gallons of milk a day, enough for all on the ranch, with some left over for butter. David Macaulay, who is handling the alfalfa bales, says: They would not believe the back in Lakewood, N. J.

MANY things are happening, far from this spot on the Mojave desert, and some should be mentioned. A judicial decision, declaring the tax on gifts illegal, is welcome. That law was simply a good excuse for selfishness, unendingly existing. Every man worth while should not properly, as fast as he can, in the name of his wife and children, and beyond the reach of any foolishness that he may develop later.

CONGRESS devotes thirty-four million dollars to aircraft, not enough, but better than nothing. And the total appropriation for the navy, three hundred and sixteen millions.

The idiosyncy of that last figure is made clear by the fact that if war of the modern kind should come the airships would have to protect our hundreds of millions worth of ships floating on the water. Only submarines and flying machines would be of any value.

In any real business, managed by competent business men, such trash as our battleships would have been junked long ago.

The government, fighting the National Food Products Corporation, explains that the plan is "to fight a tendency toward trusts, rather than to attack trusts already existing."

The battle against big business, which is the real name of the "trust," was fought and lost long ago.

MODERN business, to succeed, must be big business. The government business is to supervise big business, control it, and curbs it, not discourage it. No business in the United States is as big as it ought to be.

ANTHONY Binba, editor of a communist newspaper, to be tried on a charge of sedition, a few years old, is accused of denying the existence of God. His lawyer will say that the constitution, which guarantees free speech, rules out the blasphemy charge.

Why not leave the case to the ruler of the universe, in whose omnipotence the vast majority believe he has never to waver. Mr. Binba, as the barren fig tree was withered. But it is possible that omnipotence is not much interested in the likes of Mr. Binba.

The way to make foolishness, blasphemous or other, important, is to take it seriously.

THOUSANDS cheered Mr. Trotzky, of Russia, while he denounced the United States as the world's slave driver. He said this grasping nation was trying to get a mortgage on the whole world.

The whole world seems to want to sell us a mortgage, for dollars, and we are buying billions of the world's bonds, which may come home to roost at very few cents on the dollar.

Trotzky's judgment on wealth is not sound. It cannot be. His salary from the Russian government is only twenty-two dollars a week, and yet that he must pay communists dues, income tax, etc. Russia's prime minister, Rykoff, and all other members of the cabinet get only twenty eight dollars a week.

What can they know about American finance? What chance have they of understanding America's "chain of command?" You have nothing to lose but your chains."

The American carpenter answers "excuse me I have also eighteen dollars a day. Some chains."

NOW COME THE BUMPS

JUSTICE FOR WOOD

By PAUL BEACH TIMES

The efforts of Sheriff Baker of Palm Beach County to have Osborne Wood, son of Major General Wood, brought back to the attention of the public by charges of obtaining money under false pretenses here do not in the least represent an attitude of legal persecution. The very fact that Wood is the son of one of the country's most distinguished citizens gives his offense a prominence that will make the default of effective operation of justice in the case equally prominent. If he is allowed, through any lack of asiduity on the part of American officials to escape the legal consequences of whatever offense he may have committed there is sure to be an undercurrent of suspicion that influence has been brought to bear.

A suspicion of this sort is the last thing which General Leonard Wood would desire or which he would be likely to justify through any act of his own.

Osborne Wood is sure to have the customary sympathy of sentimental people for law-breakers. Some personalities are romantic by their very nature. He undoubtedly has a personality of this sort.

Knowing his name or history, people who see him for the first time are likely to involuntarily ask "who is that?" He has about him the suggestion of magnetism and aets.

GREEKS BEARING GIFTS

By NEW REPUBLIC

If Mr. William B. Ward still remembers his Latin, some rusty pedant should have whispered in his ear, "Greece is a democracy."

Enough people were already ready apprehensive of the projected billion-dollar "bread trust" so that all that was necessary to arouse widespread suspicion was the announcement accompanying its incorporation that it is really organized not for profit but for charity.

Billion-dollar corporations, like the Greeks before Troy, may be endowed and even adorned as long as they behave like normally covetous carriers, but when they speak in with gifts, they are rightfully suspect. After payment of dividends on the preferred stock, says Mr. Ward, profits are to be used for insuring the right of children to health, education, etc., before anything is paid on the common.

In that case, he was asked, how did he expect to make common stock attractive to investors? "Oh well," he replied, it is being sold now anyway, a share of it is to be given away with every share of preferred. In other words the whole paid-in capital of the concern is represented by other issues than the common stock, which represents only expected additional profits.

That brings up the whole question of the right of the community to share in such increments. Mr. Ward is apparently conscious of this question and has made a confession—perhaps a shrewd one—that those who ask it. But why should it be so hard to get up in the morning if the mercury would. Golfers Want Distance On Drives But Say Hefty Wallops Are Not Needed

The dream of a great percentage of golfers is to learn to drive 300 and 325 yards. And after watching professionals get out such long drives, many wonder why they can not get the long distance in their driving.

And yet, when it is all said and done, long driving is not really necessary in order to play good golf and stay in the lower 80's.

The average golf course presents barely more than two long holes of the 600-yard length. Most of them have but one such long hole, 300 to 450 yards.

The majority of holes run between 200 yards and 250 yards. These figures indicate that an average drive of from 200 to 250 yards is sufficient and that too much time need not be spent trying to get longer drives.

On the average golf course hole a drive of around 175 yards, straight down the fairway, should get one around the links close to par.

In the 400-yard holes, two average drives of 175 or 200 yards and a mashie or chip to the green is all that is necessary.

In trying too long a drive, the dangers of hooking or slicing are too numerous to encounter. More strokes are wasted in trying to get the long drive than long driving really is worth.

When 175 professionals shoot strange courses they play the cards—taking distance of each hole from either the card or sand box and regulating their drives accordingly.

Professionals play on many a strange course during the course of a year. If they tried long 300-yard drives on every course their scores would be embarrassing.

Must Cut Drives

Their judge of distance, the ability to throttle down to a short drive of 175 or to 250 yards, as the length of the hole may be, is what enables them to often shatter course records, even though it be their first time around that particular course.

Old followers of the game are convinced that shorter and straighter driving, with attention being placed to lengths of each hole, are of greater importance in the fight to beat Old Man Par than is attention spent on trying to outdrive the professional who gets 300 and over on the longer holes.

Title Contender Who Has Fought Leonard, Dundee To Fight Here On Tuesday

Sanford fight fans are promised a bout on Tuesday that will be flavored with a metropolitan touch by Joe Welling, of Chicago, one of the top-notchers of the squared ring who has fought Benny Leonard, Johnny Dundee, Lew Tander, Jack Britton and other pugilists of national repute. Welling will fight 10 frames with Young Wallace of Tampa in the feature bout of Godale's card at the local armory Tuesday. Wallace's admirers claim that he is by no means a set up for the Chicago boy, and some lively milking is expected by the many fans who have already re-

Tabloid Code of Golf Proposed For Both Tourneys

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Codifications of the rules of golf have been discussed for years, but until now no one has been able to convince the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews that the law of the game might be modernized. A tabloid code that would be possible if the same rules were made effective for both match and medal competition has been suggested as a sample of what could be done to simplify the rules.

Golf has grown over a long period of years and rules to meet contingencies added from time to time. The tenets were formulated almost entirely in Scotland, and some of them are thought to be obsolete even there. The main features of the suggested code, outlined on the back of an ordinary score card, it follows:

1. Moving ball anywhere while in play, accidentally or otherwise.
2. Hitting competitor's ball in own hazard.
3. Lifting ball from water hazard or casual water in other hazard.
4. Disturbing grass, brush, etc., unnecessarily in search of ball.
5. Hitting self with own ball.
6. Stopping own ball with person, caddy or clubs.
7. Striking ball twice during stroke.
8. Lifting ball for identification except in presence of competitor.
9. Lifting ball on green while competitor's ball in motion.
10. Lost ball, except in water hazard.
11. Two Strokes Penalty For:
 1. Playing ball from elsewhere than where it lies.
 2. Pushing, scraping or spooning ball.
 3. Marking line of play.
 4. For removing irregularities of surface through grass.
 5. For removing loose impediments more than club length from ball through green.
 6. Taking practice stroke without club length of ball, except on to play after ball has been addressed.
 7. Moving, bending, breaking anything fixed or growing, except in swing.
 8. Grounding club heavily, drawing across line of play.
 9. Improving in anyway any sort of hazard.
 10. Pressing down anything on any manner on green.
 11. Touching line of putt with club, foot or hand, except to move loose impediments.
 12. Playing on green while competitor's ball in motion.
 13. Hitting flag or person at hole from within 20 yards.
 14. Lifting ball from green before holed out.
 15. Failure face hole and drop ball over shoulder when dropping.
 16. Playing moving ball.
 17. Failure play ball when at stoppage or detected by outside agency.
 18. Failure drop ball at spot where it landed in anything moving.
 19. Failure drop ball at spot where moved by outside agency, except wind.
 20. Failure replace competitor's ball accidentally moved in search.
 21. Failure replace competitor's ball.
 22. Removing more sand than

GOLF AND BASEBALL

SOON we will have with us the annual dispute as to whether ball players should mix golf with the diamond pastime.

It is going to be a bigger problem than ever this spring because of the many players who are wintering either in Florida or California.

Climate, plus the real estate lure and the chance of picking up some soft money playing baseball, was the magnet that attracted many players to Florida. All the big real estate firms have teams. I feel that I am very conservative in saying that at least 100 ball players from the majors are wintering in Florida. At least 80 of those players are strong for golf.

Once upon a time a ball player who donned knicker at the training camp would immediately lose caste. Now the plus fours and slacks are the favorite mode of dress with the athletes.

While many of the managers permit golf as a part of the spring training, several have taken a drastic stand in the matter and ruled it out the moment spring practice begins.

ANNUAL DISPUTE

MANAGER John McGraw of the Giants has definite views on the subject. He wants a ball club to talk baseball when it is doing its spring training, not golf.

During my many trips to the spring training camps, it has been my observation that the New York Giants work harder than any other ball club in McGraw's train and you can always bank on them being in condition when the season starts.

A good many clubs have only one practice session daily. McGraw still sticks to two and often with an exhibition game on for the afternoon puts his team through a workout in the morning.

There isn't much time to play golf at the training camp of the giants. In addition, the players, after two workouts, are usually too tired to take a whirl at green view holes.

DRASTIC RULES

IT is a rather interesting fact that practically every major league manager likes to play golf as a diversion; a good way to forget

Five Major Golf Tourneys This Week Bring To Florida Finest Players In Country

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Five major golf tournaments are in progress this week in Florida, another ended yesterday while a number of matches of lesser importance and private contests are being waged throughout the state.

From every section of the nation, in the wake of the unprecedented real estate and general expansion activities, have come these wielders of the mashie and niblick. Expert and dub alike have tracked to this winter golfing rendezvous for pleasure or profit, or possibly both.

Many of the best known players on both sides of the Atlantic, professionals and amateurs who hold the bulk of championships in the U. S. have migrated here for the season or longer. These champions, and ranking title contenders, at least, are constantly competing in the round of matches being staged along Florida's "golf stream," the indefinite region stretching to the northern section of the state.

The main tourneys are centered principally along the eastern coast, where the matches at Miami, Palm Beach, Arnold Beach and St. Augustine are being played.

Once upon a time the golf craze got so strong with the Philadelphia Athletics that Connie Mack officially notified the players that he would do all the golfing for the team during the summer months.

That was seven or eight years ago but I understand that Mack has lived up to the ultimatum. Only on an off day do his players have permission to hit the elusive golf ball.

Most ball players become quite proficient at the game. There are any number of players who are always in the eighties. All get great distance from the tee; most of them are weak at the short game.

Pitcher Dutch Leonard and First Baseman Johnny McInnis are two players who often break into the seventies.

As I understand it, Eddie Collins is about the only big league manager who doesn't put an absolute ban on golf during the summer. He leaves it up to his players to use proper judgment as to when they should and shouldn't play.

The chief objection to golf does not lie in injurious effects from swinging the club but simply that it takes much of the player's energy that is often needed on a hot day.

SUZANNE INTENT ON MAKING SCORE MORE DECISIVE

French Net Star Says She Was Off Form This Week But Will Win By Larger Margin In Nice Tourney

BEULIEU, France, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen is intent upon showing that the score of 6-3, 8-6, by which she defeated Helen Wills the other day was not a correct indication of her superiority. She hopes for a more decisive victory when she meets Helen again.

As Papa Lenglen puts it: "Suzanne is not satisfied with the score she made against your champion Tuesday. She feels that she can do better, and asserts that she played below form. Her most intense desire is to meet Miss Wills again and show that the score of 6-3, 8-6 was wrong."

In the anticipated match at Nice next month, the girls will play with the American equipment and balls to which Miss Wills is accustomed.

Papa Lenglen, who is general secretary of the Nice club, has so much faith in his daughter's ability that he has ordered a set of balls to be made up for her. "You may rest assured," declared the elder Lenglen, "that Miss Wills will get at Nice a square deal for the rest of her Riviera season. I will go out of my way to make it pleasant for her. I would not want any one to believe that I would take advantage of my position with the Nice club to favor my daughter."

Along the Riviera the tennis devotees are awaiting the Nice match with great expectancy. "A revenge match," the Americans in France call it, while the French characterize it as a mere exhibition with the score not going into extra sets and with Suzanne winning 6-3, 6-3.

Suzanne is said by her father still to be very nervous in consequence of the strain she was under in her match with Miss Wills.

Suzanne is going to get a good rest. She is centered in the current tournament on Sunday, when paired with Miss Statterwaite. She will play in the quarter finals of the women's doubles. She reached this position through the default of opponents in the first and second rounds. Miss Wills is playing in the singles.

The other animal screamed and perished in the flames. Hostlers made several attempts to free the horses but were driven back by the fire. The cause of the fire is unknown.

One animal, a brood mare valued at $10,000 escaped from the flames. The horse broke loose from her stall and dashed through the blaze to safety.

Seek Cut In Cotton Acreage To Avoid Decrease Of Prices

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—The problem of cotton acreage is engaging the serious attention of agricultural leaders of the south as it has not engaged them for many years. It was pointed out here today by officials of the Georgia Department of Agriculture. Steps have already been taken in many sections, it was stated, to bring about a reduced acreage for this year.

Officials of the state department of agriculture and other agricultural leaders of the state, state emphatically that another bumper crop of cotton next year would be a calamity to the cotton industry. They have stressed the fact that a sixteen million bale crop is worth less to the farmer than a ten million bale production, because the larger crop would put the price of the staple down that the farmer would be the loser.

Agricultural leaders here take the position that only a reduced acreage can save the cotton growers from loss this year, and a reduced acreage can only be brought about by cotton growers joining in the movement to reduce it.

"If a few scattered growers cut their acreage and the great bulk of growers go ahead and add to the already large cotton acreage, those who reduce acreage will not be helped and the growers who increase their acreage will pay the penalty in a greatly reduced price," said an official of the Georgia Department of Agriculture. It will be recalled that the re-

Omaha Searching For Sniper-Maniac

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 19.—Police have begun an intensive search for a sniper-maniac, whom they hold responsible for the shooting to death of Dr. A. B. Searle, a specialist, in his office Wednesday. They say that the sniper had spread terror in a neighborhood hearing—the downtown district where numerous shots have been fired at pedestrians, resulting in the death of one.

Dr. Searle, the police said, appeared to have been shot as he was preparing to leave his office. The body was found Thursday.

Police attention was first called to the promiscuous shooting by a pedestrian who reported he had been shot in the hip. Sunday night William McDevitt, a dairyman, was found shot through the head. On Tuesday several persons reported they had been fired upon.

Grounds For Divorce

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The most ignominious treatment that a woman can inflict upon a man, in the opinion of Vice-Chancellor Backus, is to ignore him at meals while serving the rest of the family. Alexander M. McLeod, of Patterson, Ala., was so disciplined for eight weeks because his wife subjected to his participation in politics. He has won a divorce.

At Memphis convention elected Clarence Owsley, of Texas, director general of a movement to try to bring about a drastic reduction in cotton acreage and an increased acreage in food and forage crops. Officials of the Georgia Department of Agriculture said today that the movement should be given full support.

Urge "Dressing Up" Of Georgia Farms

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—Highway farms in Georgia will be given a new dress—a brand new appearance—if editors of some of the progressive weeklies have their way.

For, he said, right here, these editors are using their editorial columns in telling the folks to get busy with paint, brush, hammer and saw and what not in an effort to "fix things up."

Attention is called to the fact that today Georgia is entertaining thousands of visitors who pass along the highways and from them glean the impression of agricultural Georgia which they will carry back home and which they will convey to others.

"The county that dresses its highway farms is the county that is going to be spoken of favorably by the visitors who drive along the county highways," is the way one editor puts it.

Better farm houses, better barns, better fences around the farms are urged. The editors take the position that the farm should look as good as its productivity warrants.

Sutlive Purchases Blackshear Paper

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—W. Kirkland Sutlive, of Savannah, Ga., has purchased The Blackshear Times from Jack Williams and has just taken over the management.

Although a young man, Mr. Sutlive has had wide newspaper experience, having served as city editor of the Americus (Ga.) Times-Recorder, and the Daytona (Fla.) Journal. He is the son of W. G. Sutlive, managing editor of the Savannah (Ga.) Press, and he also has two brothers in newspaper work.

Blackshear has for years had the distinction of being Georgia's greatest sweet potato market, the world's greatest sea island cotton market, and is also one of the State's leading markets for Georgia cane syrup and paper shell pecans.

Jack Williams, former owner of the Blackshear Times, said today that it was his purpose to sell his other newspaper interests in LaGrange and Hogansville, Ga., and concentrate his time and energies on the Waycross (Ga.) Journal-Herald which he owns.

Chain Letter Craze Occupies Attention Of Atlanta Citizens

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—The chain letter craze has hit Atlanta a solar plexus blow.

Honest in goodness housewives, society buds, school maams, department store clerks, stenographers, all are doing a land office business in answering these queer, awe-inspiring missives which arouse just enough latent suspicion, despite college degrees and rolled-top stockings to guarantee that they will not go unanswered.

Those who receive them fret and fume and laugh on the sly all at the same time—for who does not like to get a letter of any kind?—but soon mademoiselle's ink in her ink well is going down, down, down, just like chocolate milk when it is drunk through a straw by an urchin newsboy.

Chain letters put typhoid fever germs to a downright shame when it comes to multiplying.

Each one of the chain letters informs the receiver that in order to escape the penalties of ignoring it, she must write the same letter to nine of her friends. She sits right down and copies off the letter nine times, and selects nine of her chums.

In the meantime book stores and drug stores experience a rebalancing of the sales of correspondence stationery and don't know what it's all about. This story will inform them.

Notwithstanding that the main interest of many women in clothes few nowadays are completely wrapped up in them. Atlanta Gazette.

DRUID PARK

Every development we have fostered has been high-grade in every particular. We have never been called upon to offer apologies for the property we have distributed. Each development has been sold upon its own merits, therefore no apologies were necessary.

Druid Park, our present development, is on State Highway No. 3 (Sanford-Orlando Road), and on the shores of beautiful Lake Jennie. It is in keeping with the high-class developments with which we have been associated previously—Pinchurst, Pinecrest, and others.

Druid Park appeals to the most exacting investor, it embodies all the features that make it the pre-eminent investment opportunity of the Greater Sanford District.

HILLINGSBOROUGH, England, (AP)—Under the same roof in this village are five women, all related, whose combined ages total 435—an average of 87. They are all active. Two of them earn a living knitting and dressmaking, while the other three do housework.

The patriarch of the household is 97, but still gets out to do the shopping, while the matriarch of 87 spends most of her time doing the kitchen work and chores. The others are aged 88, 91, and 92.

NICE, (AP)—In a little villa buried under flowers and made mysterious by waterfalls, Emma Calve, once applauded by thousands in America and Europe, has taken her retreat.

Her ambition now is to develop among French girls another great singer, who will fill Calve's place on the world's operatic stage.

Two hours each day she works at her "Memoirs," which she is now writing in French, having first written them in English. But her main purpose is to bring glory to France by discovering and bringing out another great opera singer.

Speaking of her young pupil some time ago—Madame Calve never looks after more than six or seven young girls at the same time—she said:

"Look at my family. They are really my daughters. My voice has had little ones."

PARIS (AP)—"Because I am interested in women, and because I want to make money," Lina Cavalotti replied when asked why, with her large revenue enabling the former singer to live in luxury for the rest of her life, she had decided to open a Paris "beauty school."

"Had I wanted to make money I could easily have amassed a large fortune in the United States, where for some years I wrote articles dealing with the beauty of women and the best method of preserving it."

Shriners To Gather In Daytona Shores For New Club Home Ceremonies

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19—(AP)—Thousands of Shriners from all parts of the state, and many from other jurisdictions to South will make pilgrimages to Daytona Beach on Tuesday, February 23, to help the Halifax country celebrate the breaking of ground for a $50,000 Daytona Beach Shrine Club home on Fairland Point in Daytona Shores.

Governor John W. Martin will head the array of distinguished dignitaries. An elaborate program for the ceremony is being prepared by the local club, and plans are being laid for one of the most magnificent entertainments in the history of the Halifax country in honor of the guests.

Plans and specifications for the home are now being drawn by Esmond and Espadahl, local architects. Work on the building is to start within 60 days. The contract will be let as soon as the plans are completed.

The building is to be a beautiful unique Spanish design, and will be one of the outstanding show places in the Halifax country. It will be located on lot 5, block 1, of the Fleetwood section of Daytona Shores, approximately a one-half acre and a half from the $2,000,000, 15-story Fleetwood hotel. The site overlooks an exquisite view of the Tomoka river and the broad sweep of Manatee bay. Actual construction of the building is to cost $50,000.

The lot is one of the big estates, 100 feet on Tomoka Drive, a wide boulevard leading from the Fleetwood hotel along the scenic waterway, west to the proposed F. E. C. railway depot. The lot is 200 feet deep, and is one of the finest in the entire development. The developers are now clearing and grading it preparatory to the ground breaking ceremony, ten days hence.

Shrine pilgrims will arrive from Morocco, Tripoli, Dakar, the Egyptian temple, Tampa and Miami, Tampa, Miami, for the occasion. Governor Martin, who is one of the leading Shriners of the state, will turn the first spade of earth at the ground breaking ceremony, according to Esmond and Espadahl, president of the Daytona Beach Shrine Club. Many other dignitaries from all sections of the state will have places on the program.

A temporary committee including Jack L. Johnson, Guy C. Ochs and Fred Loftus have charge of the new building.

Decision to erect a permanent club building at Daytona Shores was reached by the Shriners at a meeting last Thursday night. The site was selected last Saturday.

No details as to the architectural features of the home are available now. Mr. Esmond stated the structure will be built so that it can be enlarged upon in the future.

"We believe we have selected the most beautiful site in the Halifax country for the Daytona Beach Shrine club," said a member of the committee.

"Nothing in Florida, I believe, can compare with the view from Fairland Point in Daytona Shores."

Following the ground breaking ceremony, a dinner and dance will be held in honor of the Shriners and their guests at Daytona Shores Lodge. Governor Martin and other notables will attend.

The entertainment program for the night will include features to be found in few spots outside of Broadway. The entire entertainment is offered nightly at the Miami Beach Fleetwood hotel, including the famous orchestra which broadcasts from station WMBH, will provide the feature events. The entertainers are stars of national wide renown from the concert, vaudeville and musical comedy stages. Continuous dance music will be available with Charles Fry's Million Dollar Pier Orchestra and entertainers of Atlantic City also performing.

BUGLER IS HONORED

He Came, He Saw, He Stayed— In Asheville!

Thomas Little was quite certain that the seashore was the place for him—but that was before he had seen Asheville.

"The first day I was here," he says, "I just looked at those mountains, watched the sunlight and shadows chase each other across their mighty flanks. Watched the colors change from infinite blue to the purple of evening. Next day I went for a ride and a closer look. That settled it. I stayed."

That was last summer. As soon as Little had satisfied his mind about Asheville itself, found out what a thriving city it was, and that it was a year-round resort with mild winter and cool summers, entrancing in springtime and glorious in autumn—he built a home.

If you meet him on the golf course, ask him about the seashore. He'll stop, look across at the blue hills, smile contentedly and say, "Not a chance. I haven't time. There's too much to do and see in Asheville." "Man," he'll say, "there's a thousand miles of perfect motor roads through the mountains. There's

Mr. Mitchell, there's Chimney Rock and Pisgah. There are mountain lakes to swim in. There are 500 miles of mountain streams for fishing. There's a National Park close by to camp in. There's everything a man can ask to do and a perfect climate to do it in. It will keep me busy and happy the rest of my days."

At least, come and visit Asheville yourself. Stop by on your way home. Asheville's hotels are famous and they offer a wide range of prices for excellent accommodations.

Aventures of the Twins

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"AND now," said Blue Whiskers to Nick, when he had finished wiping his eyes, "if you can tell me a story as funny as your sister's, I shall not only forgive everything, but I may be able to help you to find the blue cherry."

"Oh, then you do know where the blue cherry is?" cried Nick.

"Not exactly," said Blue Whiskers, "but there are things in the by-laws and constitution that may lead to its discovery. Please commence."

Jupe looked even more anxious than he had before and kept taking his note book out of his pocket and putting it back again.

"But he needn't have worried because Nick started right off to tell his story.

"Once upon a time there was a baby," he said, "that was very new."

"I know that you'd better do if we want him to grow fast," said the baby's mother, "we'll feed him on elephant milk."

"So they fed him on elephant milk and he gained and gained and gained. In one week he had gained twenty pounds, in two weeks he had gained forty pounds, in three weeks he had gained sixty pounds.

"You'd think that by that time he'd be big enough, but he wasn't for his mother kept right on feeding him elephant milk."

"I suppose they wanted to put him in a circus," said Blue Whiskers.

"That was just it," nodded Nick. "His mother wanted to put him in a circus when he was bigger."

"So she kept right on feeding him elephant milk and every week he kept on getting fatter. It wasn't long until he was PERFECTLY ENORMOUS!"

"I should say so," said Blue Whiskers. "Whose baby was it? Anyone I ever heard of?"

"I don't know," said Nick. "It was the elephant's baby."

At this not only Blue Whiskers, but Jupe and the shaggy bear and all the pigs in the palace roared so with laughter, that the crabs and lobsters and cod-fish in the moat put their claws and their fins in their ears in alarm.

"My, my!" they remarked in wonder. "Something had happened to put old Blue Whiskers into such a good humor. He is shouting at the top of his lungs."

Inside the palace Blue Whiskers was saying, "I haven't laughed so hard since the river ran uphill. So now I shall try to help you to find the blue cherry. I suppose the tree that bore the blue cherry was lost about a hundred years ago. Someone dug it up one dark night and ran off with it. In the morning there was nothing left but a hole in the ground."

"Did the tree have many blue cherries on it?" asked Nancy.

"Only one each year," said Blue Whiskers. "All the others were red."

But the blue cherry was magic and much sought after. Paddy-foot, bring me the by-laws and the constitution again."

So Paddy-foot, the bear, went out to the pantry and dug down in the sugar barrel and got the by-laws and the constitution and brought them in.

Is this Your BIRTHDAY

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19

If so, you are inclined to be forceful, energetic and interested in many subjects. Politics will greatly interest both men and women born on this date.

Good public speakers often are born on this date and women as well as men, are listed in the hall of fame.

August is your lucky month. Marriage will come when you are quite young, but it will be a happy one.

Do not let your political desires interfere with your business.

COSTLY, BUT—

Hon. Ed Walthall, ex-Seminole Hudson-Exsex Co., Sanford, Florida.

Dear Ed:—

A recent Sunday paper that I was reading contained a very illuminating discussion on the high cost of loving.

The young men of a certain city were complaining that rushing a girl those days was no fun and the proposition was not worth the cost.

In the old days, before the jazz era, a young man would make a date with a girl and call and they would sit in the parlor and watch the fire and hold hands and enjoy a nice, quiet evening. But now the young ladies expect more.

If there is a show in town, or a cabaret, or a movie, and there is always something of that sort, it costs a young man to go to the show, to sit at home in the parlor with her beau and she won't let him hold her hand because she thinks he's a cheap skate and doesn't think enough of her to loosen up to give her a good time.

The fellow with a date with a girl in any real town these days is going to have to use his pocket-book if he expects to get the glad sign when he sees her again. It means taxi fare, theater tickets, restaurant bills, flowers, candy, etc.

There is no doubt that the cost of loving is running pretty high. I have heard lots of the young fellows bawling about it in a mild way. But when I ask them if it is worth what it costs, all they can do is to grin and hurry off to a telephone and make another date.

The girls ought not to be blame-

Ice Fountain

A water spray has been installed at the top of a 30-foot spruce tree at Escanaba, Mich. It has been showering water since Dec. 1, and the tree is now an ice fountain, lighted at night by colored lights.

When you look at some of the books they run around with you can't wonder that they object to putting in an evening with them at home alone. No wonder they make a dash for the bright light. No wonder they figure that it makes theater tickets, candy, flowers and a few other things to make the scales balance for them.

All those fellows who complain about the high cost of loving have to do it to quit. They don't have to if they don't want to.

Many young fellows have found that the best and most economical way to rush a girl is to own an Essex automobile. It's easy to drive a girl to matrimony if you drive her in an Essex Coach.

Yours,
BILL.

ADVERTISING DID IT

Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day.

He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shorting because he attracted attention.

He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business keep telling about it.

A. F. G. Industrial Tract

Sanford's First Industrial Development

$25 per foot

Now that the entire Sanford District, and the whole of Seminole County, are enjoying the utmost prosperity the time has come for the advancement and furtherance of industry. It is the crying need in other cities throughout the state whether the suburban sections are non-productive Sanford, located as it is in the heart of the most extensively developed section of the state offers the manufacturers and shippers unrivaled transportation facilities. Its location as the center of the state's greatest agriculture center make it a city that will progress regardless of conditions in other sections of the state.

Now is the time to invest, invest now before the trend of the dollars of the great Northern financiers and bankers find their way into the city. It is inevitable and every indication points to its forthcoming long before it is anticipated. Today is the time to buy, not tomorrow.

Let our representatives explain this development in detail. Particulars that it embodies will be most surprising. You are sure to want to place your investment in AFG Industrial Tract for the quick profits that can be assured.

in the kitchens. For instance, there are four electric toasters, each run on the principle of an endless chain, and 600 slices can be toasted in a half-hour. Each cabinet is generally allowed two pieces, so that 2,200 pieces of toast are prepared on an average of six mornings out of seven.

Doughnut Making Machine

Then there is an ingenious electric doughnut machine, which automatically turns out 80 dozen doughnuts an hour. Potatoes are peeled by an electrical machine. Ice cream is made by an electrical machine. It is turned out in two quart bricks, one of which goes to each ten cadets. Steam-controlled percolators make coffee and cocoa.

All silverware is washed in a special electrical machine, and all dishes are washed in two electrically driven dishwashers. Dishes are put in by hand, but are washed, rinsed and sterilized by the very high temperature of the water, gloves being required by the dishwashers to handle the clean dishes.

The bakery part of the kitchen is a model itself. There is an immense baker's oven, which is used to turn out the 288 three-pound loaves of white bread, about 100 three-pound loaves of graham bread (served at one meal), and any one of the following for any one day: Two thousand two hundred doughnuts, or 200 pies, or 1,000 rolls, cinnamon buns, or equivalent amount of coffee cake. The bakery also contains, besides the doughnut machine mentioned, a dough mixer, a dough divider and moulting machine. Two bakers and two bakers' helpers are in constant attendance.

15 Ranges in Kitchen

Besides the percolators referred to, the kitchen contains 15 ranges, chiefly for roasts and French fried potatoes; seven steam-controlled double boilers for cooking potatoes, turnips, cabbage and cauliflower, and six large steam containers for cooking peas, beans and the like. It also contains six immense stock pots, three of which are of cast iron, for rendering out all beef tallow and for cooking corn on the cob, boiled ham and corned beef, and the other three of which are aluminum, are used for making soups and for boiling beans before they are put in stone pots to itself. To cap off the kitchen itself, there is an immense butcher's box under direct control of two expert butchers.

A survey shows that a meal of some sort is served at every meal, including breakfast; that two and a half meals are served at each luncheon; that a jam, jelly or soup, and a dessert in the evening; that toast, rolls, buns, pies and ice cream are parts of the daily menu at one or more meals; that white bread and butter are served at every meal, and that coffee, tea, cocoa and milk are available, either one or more, at every meal. In this connection it might be mentioned that fresh fruits, vegetables and berries are always served in season.

For any one meal, depending upon which are served, it requires 750 pounds of ribs of beef, 500 to 600 pounds of half-shoulder of veal, 650 pounds of pork loins and 650 pounds of beef for steaks. In the cases of fruits and vegetables it requires 18 gallons cans of tomatoes, peas, corn, beans and string beans, and 12 gallon tins of apricots, cherries, pears and fruit salad.

Heavy Blizzard Sweeps Southwest

CHICAGO, Feb. 19. (AP)—A cold wave that assumed blizzard proportions in the Rocky mountains today, swept over the middle-west with the prospect of a decided drop in temperature by tonight. Sleet and snow a foot deep and drifts were demoralizing transportation. A minimum of 22 above zero was forecast.

The mail flying schedule between Salt Lake City and Chicago was almost demoralized by the storm. The plane due to start last night stayed in its hangar and it was announced that none would start west until the plane from Omaha arrived.

Officials at the Omaha field said that east-bound mail probably cannot leave Salt Lake City and at most cannot proceed east of Rock Springs, Wyo.

Over western Nebraska as much as five inches of snow was reported whipped into drifts.

Iowa was visited by rain and sleet. Denver reported that a white cover, at places more than a foot deep, had fallen in Colorado, and the northern portions of New Mexico.

TREES

I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is open
Against the sweet earth's feeding breath.

A tree that knows of God all day,
And lifts his leafy arms to pray.

A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robin in her hair.

Upon whose bosom snow has lain,
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

NEW YORK DIGS OUT

New snow removing machinery of the New York street cleaning department came in handy when the big city had to dig itself out from under a 10-inch snowfall the other day.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Congressman Charles J. Esterly of Pennsylvania—he aims to be his state's next lieutenant governor, by the way—is full of sympathy for the American farmer, in his present troubles.

Why wouldn't he be? He's a farmer.

However, there are farmers and farmers. Most of the agricultural lamentation we hear just now comes from the west; some of it from the south. Esterly is of the east—not the far east, like New England, but pretty eastern.

HENCE you get from him quite a different line of talk from the variety emanating in the corn belt. Good for Esterly, for being original.

Eastern agriculture isn't suffering to any such extent as western. Esterly himself appears rather more than moderately prosperous.

What's the reason?

"THE reason," explains Esterly, "is that the west had a land boom and the east didn't."

"So now, here in the east, we're not so badly off."

"But the westerner who paid for his farm a good deal more than it was worth and then mortgaged it on that basis, naturally can't get enough for his crops to keep up with his payments, since deflation's set in."

WELL, what's the remedy? "The remedy for insolvency," said Esterly promptly, "is to start over again."

Which is comforting or not, depending on how you look at it.

YET Esterly agrees that American agriculture, as a whole, has real grievances. He considers it as much entitled to protection as the industries.

"We import lumber, for instance. True to form again—a Republican; therefore a protectionist. If anything ails you, cure it with a tariff."

BUT how will protection help the American farmer? He's an exporter, isn't he?

"Not necessarily," dissented Esterly. "We import lumber, for instance. At one time, when American meat producers ought to have been making money Argentine imports prevented it."

"In so far as protection will help our farmers, they should have it."

Esterly speaks for co-operation, both by the farmers and their customers—reducing the producer-consumer price spread, giving the farmer more for what he has to sell, the latter more for what he has to pay.

Protection and co-operation will solve the farm problem, Esterly thinks.

He means sectional co-operation, not national. That, he believes, would be top-heavy, unmanageable. Nor would he have the government's hand in it—unnecessary, un-American.

ALL of these views, while a farmer's and therefore pro-agricultural, are somewhat different from the bulk of the farm bloc's.

They stress a point or two in which the bloc members seldom dwell.

"At best," concluded Congressman Esterly, "agriculture's an extra hazardous occupation, physically and financially."

OPERATIC DEBUT OF MISS TALLEY DECIDED SUCCESS

Young Kansas City Girl Is Crowned One Of America's Leading Prima Donnas Following New York Triumph

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Marion Talley, once a choir singer in Kansas City, Mo., today at 19, stands acclaimed America's newest and youngest prima donna of the first rank.

Monday night she swept to brilliant triumph in her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House as 5,000 persons outside stormed the doors and a house of more than 4,000 gave her an ovation rivaling those accorded Enrico Caruso.

Twenty times the young soprano was called to the curtain when the opera was finished. The Africa "Caro Nome" the high spot in her performance as Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto" brought nine calls.

Though New York took the singer to its heart with enthusiasm, none was happier than Miss Talley's parents and 200 friends and relatives who came from Kansas City to see her—triumph. The young singer herself was least demonstrative of all.

"I'm awfully happy that I have pleased these wonderfully kind and friendly people," she said.

Police Keep Back Crowd. While those within the huge auditorium were hearing her first notes, mature and full, mounted police were riding, four abreast, along the sidewalks to clear them of the crowd.

With every available seat sold days ago, belated would-be patrons offered speculators as high as $100 a seat. Eight men were arrested as ticket scalpers.

Across a little corridor from the stage, Charles Talley a telegraph operator for the Missouri Pacific and once an organizer for the Associated Press ticked out on a wire installed by the Associated Press that the dreams of the family had come true.

Asked if his daughter had inherited her voice from him, Mr. Talley remarked: "I guess it's from Heaven."

Called American Nightingale. Mayne J. Beach, of Kansas City, failed to share Miss Talley's call. "I've had an awfully happy, though rather nervous evening," he said.

Metre Avitable, Marion's first Metropolitan director said, "I am satisfied." "The American Nightingale" was what Arturo Bodanza, the conductor, called her. He predicted that she would become as popular as Patti.

Schooner Sinking Off Miami Harbor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The schooner James E. Newsom of Boston, loaded with lumber, was pounding to pieces in the surf off Miami beach at noon today. Her crew deserted her Thursday.

Exactly a week ago the schooner grounded upon entering the port and became waterlogged. The schooner was blocked for one day, and harbor officials ordered the ship towed to sea. This was done over the protest of the Newsom's master, who contended that with assistance he could make port. Seamen say the ship cannot last 24 hours. Launched at Booth Bay harbor, Maine, in 1919, of 707 tons gross, 78 feet long and with 23 foot beam, the schooner is said to have been one of the fastest ships of her class.

Shade Trees To Be Purchased For City Parks

The City Beautification Committee today authorized the purchase of trees and plants for its program of supplying the necessary planting along the streets and in the parks and also decided to employ a horticultural expert to assist in the matter of designing the plan for park beautification and for the pruning of trees both in the parks and on the streets of the city. W. B. Williams, city manager, who is chairman of the committee, stated during the meeting that owing to the necessity of expert advice relative to the removal of trees in the parkways along the streets he deemed it necessary to employ the services of an expert. The committee agreed to the idea and immediate steps are expected to be taken in the matter. Mrs. Henry Wight, a member of the committee, called attention to the fact that in many sections of the city the trees are planted too close together to insure their mature growth and maximum usefulness. The committee agreed that some measures should be taken to thin out the trees now obstructing growth of shrubbery and other foliage. Diseases affecting palm trees were also discussed and steps were ordered taken for a thorough study of the results of the ravages of a few particular diseases said to be common among plants and trees in the city. Many cases of inexperienced planting were cited to show that expert advice was necessary to secure the proper and healthy growth of all plants set out in the city limits. Mr. Williams advised the committee that the construction of the new greenhouse at the recently established city nursery was to be started in the near future. He stated that most of the ground had been cleared and that seeds would be ordered for planting immediately.

Tennesseeans Impressed With This Section's Agricultural Development

Sanford and Seminole county's agricultural development made a very favorable impression upon members of the Tennessee party entertained here a few days ago, according to a letter received today by Secretary R. W. Fehrmann of the Chamber of Commerce, from the Knoxville commerce body and one of the promoters of the right-angled trip. An excerpt from Mr. Campbell's letter reads: "Members of our party were amazed at the development which they saw on the spot. At those things, the fact remains that it was just not what appeared to them. This became evident upon our arrival in Sanford. There we saw something more than just

Work On Western Half Of Bulkhead Will Start Soon, City Engineer Says

City Engineer T. T. Williams stated today that an agreement had been made with the Globe Dredging Company whereby the company is to start its bid for the fill to be made inside the bulkhead on the west side of the city, within the city limits, had agreed that the city dredge would be allowed to assist in the fill and that the operation by the city's dredge would result in saving thousands of dollars to the city. The bids received by the city for the construction of the bulkhead represent an outlay of a sum said to be staggering in proportion but very low considering the amount of work to be done. The fill already completed is established at 320,000 yards and is said to have cost approximately $80,000. The bids accepted for the fill on the west side call for a price of 25 cents per cubic yard. Approximately two miles, or about 10,000 feet of bulkhead remains to be completed on the west side of the city and the figures accepted for its construction are as follows: For 12 and one-half foot piling, $28 per lineal foot; 15 foot piling, $31 per lineal foot; 17 and one-half foot piling, $35 per lineal foot; 20 foot piling, $38. There remains on the east side of bulkhead district No. 2, approximately 1,500 feet yet to be filled by the dredge of the Globe Dredging Company under its present contract, it is said. Mr. Williams stated that the city's share of the bulkhead would run into very high figures owing to the lake frontage owned by the city and because of the many street crossings at the lake front. In a property along the city's waterfront, the city is expected to double this figure.
