Strike Settlement May Boost Tire Prices

CLEVELAND (AP) - More than half the 0,000 rubber workers who have been on strike for four months are expected back to work by next week, but the new contract bringing them back will be costly to consumers.

The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. reached entative agreement Thursday with the United Rubber Workers. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. reached had agreement Tuesday. Together, they employ 38,000 workers. "Consumers should expect tire price in-

IRS Files Action Against Former Top Aide To Gurney

ORLANDO (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service, continuing its crackdown on some of the principals in a political fundraising scandal involving former Sen. Edward J Gurney, has filed an action against the exsenator's top aide.

The Orlando Sentinel Star reported from Washington today that the IRS has filed a claim for $37,918 in back taxes and fraud penalties against James L. Groot for failing to report funds it says he received from two others involved in the alleged influence peddling scheme.

Swine Flu Shots Delayed

MIAMI (AP) - Widespread inoculations against swine flu have been delayed in Florida until the beginning of October, but everyone should be inoculated by Dec. 1, a month before the flu season usually begins, officials

The delay occurred because manufacturers had to wait until Congress approved legislation dealing with the program, officials said. But now that the legislation has passed, the injections are being prepared as quickly as possible, they said. Officials hope to begin the inoculations in Miami, Orlando, Jacksonville and Pensacola during the first week of October. Then, the program will be extended to the rest of the state, they said.

Education Report Criticized

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington says he disagrees with a staff report that says Florida faces a fiscal crisis in the next 10 years and will have to increase taxes or cut school

"We're not pushing any panic button," he said. "Things have a way of getting works out."

He called the planning report a valuable document but said "I think it's overdrawn, although I think there's some basis for it."

Emmy Turns Northward

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Emmy, its 110-mile-an-hour winds and heavy rains far out in the Atlantic Ocean, took another sharp turn early today and began moving north, forecasters said.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Emmy was centered near latitude 30.5 north and longitude 53.5 west or about 700 miles east-southeast of Bermuda. After moving toward the east for two days, Emmy began moving north today at 10 m.p.h.

legal services and that will be included in his recommendation. In fiscal 1975-76, the county budgeted $186,000 for legal services. That includes Freeman's fees, plus fees for labor attorneys Alley, Alley & Blue of Tampa.

The commissioner says a legal department can do the same job r $100,000, or $115,000 at the most if two attorneys are hired. Kimbrough's figures include setup costs, which will be applicable only for the first year the department is created. Last year Kimbrough's Republican colleague, Richard Williams, proposed creating a legal department. But the issue died during budget hearings because Democrats refused to support Williams and Kimbrough.

The issue heated up again this year and has become a campaign issue. The commission on Tuesday cut $46,000 budgeted for egal fees, but Kimbrough said that means nothing because if additional costs are incurred next year the money will be taken

CAB Has Provided Deregulation Fuel

With less "regulation" the purported goal of the remaining candidates in the increasingly heated presidential campaign, the Civil Aeronautics loard has provided - probably unwittingly - fuel for the deregulation drive. Called upon recently to decide whether or not to usually under adverse political conditions. Yet, just two years ago, the CAB turned down a subsidy request from Pan Am and TWA, ordering them instead to reduce their capacity.

Now, in its latest ruling, the CAB has opened the transatlantic competition to two more airlines -Delta and Northwest — compounding the financial ills of the "flag carriers" that brought them to the verge of bankruptcy.

Since neither Congress nor the CAB seems willing to let airlines offer the sort of convenient, economical and comfortable service the public will buy in the open market, President Ford should use his authority to reject the CAB ruling. Both the public and the airlines would benefit from such simple justice.

The current dispute between Greece and Turkey over territorial rights in the Aegean Sea has the earmarks of a sparring round rather than a full fledged championship fight. Whether or not they land any blows on each other is open to doubt, but the referees had better look out as the swinging

It's an old, old story between the two nations, one that dates back to classic Greek-Turkish hatreds during the breakup of the Ottoman Empire - or in this century to the Greek invasion of Asia Minor after World War I.

Greece and Turkey currently have their horns locked over air and continental shelf rights in the Aegean Sea, each other's rights in Cyprus, whether or not Greece can impose a 12-mile territorial limit which would block Turkish commerce, emilitarization of Greek islands off Turkey's coast and even over aid from the United States.

The principle victim of the tension has been the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Turkish-Greek confrontations have inhibited NATO's planning on its southeastern flank and even its ability to monitor Soviet troop movements and missile

It is unlikely that the present flap will develop into outright armed hostilities between the two NATO members. When Greece tossed the problem to the Security Council it all but admitted that it was not planning a military response to a furkish oil probe into the Aegean.

The sad fact is that as weak as it is, the U.N. may have been better able to react to an outright military situation than it is to the constant probing and testing of wills that could leave both contestants on the floor without either having landed a punch.

We are distressed, however, at the confusion that might result when some far-in-the-future prober seeks out the reference along with old copies of the Literary Digest and the Chicago Tribune. He will find it difficult to reconcile the presidential sequence when he discovers that Alf Landon was the 33rd president and Tom Dewey the 34th.

Around The Clock By NORM OSHRIN

Reading a letter to "Dear Abby" in the Evening Herald on Wednesday I couldn't believe my eyes. A poor lass, who signed herself "Single and 27" was bemoaning the fact that men don't wear redding rings - and she is having trouble telling the marrieds from the other kind. And it irritates her. "Don't men who go around without a wedding ring realize that they leave the impression they aren't man ded?" she inquired disconsolately. Well, call me a chauvinist, a male chauvinistic pig (MCP) - or even an ingrate or a burn - but I can't manage to dredge up an ounce of sympathy or empathy for her. If she were reasonably conversant with the ways of the world, she would realize that what she has gone through with that would-be man of hers because he was married and didn't wear a ring, is othing compared to what thousands of men confront daily.

Her disillusionment is nothing matched against the mental torment, anguish, frustration - and isillusionment - these men have endured. Perhaps men - particularly the married variety

RAY CROMLEY Adjustments In Thinking

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Of late, there has been a thrust of authoritative and persuasive columns arguing that the Republican party is dying, and the Democratic party along with it. These pieces are written by knowledgeable political analysts and reporters. All quote men of stature and most give statistics showing the drift from Republican and Democrat to independent. Maybe so. The arguments are impressive - and the statistics. But I beg to differ. One problem, and a goodly share of the onfusion, I believe, comes from the state and national conventions. A firm percentage of the elegates are not representative of their party. It was all too clear at the Democratic National convention in New York that many of the men and women there were more liberal than the verage Democrat, and less flexible.

Likewise, if I compare spot surveys here and here of local Republicans with checks among elegates to the Republican National Convention, it is clear that at Kansas City there were extremely strong forces showing less moderation than generally.

It is to be noted that when either party selects a candidate whom the voters feel to be far out whatever his merits otherwise - he usually loses a sizeable chunk of voters from his own party and thus loses the election.

The truth is that most Democrats and most Republicans are moderates, however forcefully they may feel and speak on the issues of the moment. They normally elect moderates as president. So long as this is true, the two-party ystem is in no danger.

The danger comes when, as in France and Italy, a host of factions regularly forces through the nomination of men reflecting limited points of view, representative of only small segments of the population.

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Reagan Backers Gave Up

KANSAS CITY - There are several reasons why Ronald Reagan went into the Republican convention without the votes he needed to win his party's presidential nomination There is, however, only one real reason why Reagan and his men failed to get these votes once they arrived here and it is quite simply: They surrendered the good fight that brought them victory in the primaries, they laid down their battle flag of "bold, clear colors without pastels" which had brought them within spitting distance of the GOP nomination. The Republican convention, which a

Washington Post delegate survey found to be even more conservative than four years ago, was a group whose head was with Ford but whose heart was with Reagan.

There are few who believe that, in a secret ballot, the President would have triumphed. The delegates were the kind of people excited by issues like 14-b, the right-to-work, not 16-c, the transparently gimmicky procedural bill-ofattainder dreamed up by Reagan campaign chief John Sears and designed to force Ford to name his running mate the morning before the presidential vote. The Republican delegates were a crowd that would have responded to real issues. The only chance Reagan had to get the 59 votes he needed for victory was to continue within the convention the campaign he had waged so successfully in the primaries.

This had to mean war, not peace. A bloody knock-down-drag-out donnybrook on issues was something to be precipitated, not avoided. But it was not to be. Instead of raw meat, Mr. Sears - with his candidate's okay - made the fatal strategic decision that the delegates should be fed Hamburger Helper. Evidently, the Reagan camp made the decision not to rock the boat on the GOP platform as long ago as last June. According to The New York Times, Michael Raoul-Duval, a special assistant to President Ford, says he met a number of times with Reagan issues adviser amount to nearly 6 per cent, will be accepted by Martin Anderson to settle on the outlines of a foreign policy plank acceptable to both Reagan W rowing, said GM Chairman Thomas Murphy.

Reagan press aide, Jime Lake, confirms this, stating: "We agreed to the concept of a noncontroversial platform that either Ford or Reagan could campaign on." supply of small cars in its lots, manufactured but began, a top Reagan aide told me that platform left unsold because of buyer resistance. There fights were something to be avoided at almost has to be a message there. Weren't these cars expected to be the big sellers? Ingits were something to be cause on any prepared to accept "neuter" language on any issue just so they "could live with it." The reason: John Sears had ordered that nothing should be done that would in any way take the attention away from the 16-c battle.

But fortunately, not all Reagan's supporters agreed. So Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina and some of his men came here and gave Reagan and his men a last minute backbone transplant It is only as a result of the efforts of Sen. Helms and Dr. John East, a GOP Platform Committee member who teaches political science in North Carolina, that the Republican platform says

Even then, the Reagan forces watered down the wording the Helms faction wanted to include in the "Morality and Foreign Policy" plank of the Republican platform, wording the Ford people could have in no way accepted thus precipitating just the kind of brawl the Reagan amp needed to win.

Dutch Monarchy Shaken By Lockheed Scandal Ties

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) -Government leaders and Queen Juliana stood together today to protect the Dutch monarchy from the disgrace of her husband's involvement in the Lockheed scandal.

Highly placed sources said the queen endorsed the government's decision to force Prince Bernhard, her 65-year-old consort, into retirement. Official spokesmen said none of the five parties in Premier Joop den Uyl's leftcenter coalition government wanted the queen to abdicate.

The premier announced to parliament and the shocked Dutch people Thursday that Bernhard was resigning from all his public and private offices because of the report of an investigation into allegations that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. paid him $1.1 million to influence the Dutch armed forces to buy its aircraft.

Beer-Drinking Horse Winner At Calder

MIAMI (AP) - Firey Noon didn't win a race last year, spending most of his time hiding in a dark corner of his stall at Calder Race Course. But beer was added to the 6year-old horse's diet this year and he's been racing with gusto ever since, winning six straight. "Beer is one of his favorite foods," trainer Ron Sarazin said before Firey Noon won the feature race Thursday, adding $5,100 to his earnings and upping the total to $27,100 for the year. The horse gets a bottle of beer before each meal, holding his head up so it can be poured into his mouth. Not being fussy, he'll also take it from a can. "It started one afternoon when some of the guys were sitting around outside his stall drinking beer," Sarazin said. "He kept sticking his head out of the door and hollering, so somebody decided he was thirsty. "They gave him a sip of beer and he wanted more. Now he raises hell if he doesn't get his share of the brew." Firey Noon soon registered his first 1976 victory, in a May claiming race. Sarazin said the horse's off-course

Living Is Cheaper Orlando Ideal Retirement Spot

If you are at or near retirement age you may want to consider living in Orlando, because living costs here for retired couples are among the lowest - at all levels - for major metropolitan areas, according to estimates released by Brunswick A. Bagdon, regional commissioner for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, in Atlanta. Last autumn, a retired couple in Orlando would have required $4,373 for living essentials at the ower level, $5,054 at the intermediate level and $5,855 at the higher budget level.

Compared to estimated living costs elsewhere, Orlando's costs at the lower budget level ranked 26th out of the 38 areas surveyed. At the intermediate level, Orlando ranked 33rd and at the higher level 36th. At the higher level only Atlanta and Baton louge had lower costs.

The cheapest cities for retired couples in the autumn of 1975 were Atlanta and Baton Rouge. The most expensive cities for retired couples' costs were Hartford, Conn., and New York at the lower level and Boston and New York at the intermediate and higher levels.

For all U.S. metropolitan areas, the average was $4,501 at the lower, $6,464 at the intermediate and $9,596 at the higher budget The report defines a retired couple as a husband, age 65 or over, and his wife; they are self-supporting, living independently in their own home, in reasonably good health and able to take care of themselves. The budgets illustrate three different levels of living and provide for different specified types and amounts of goods and services.

Sunday school attendance may have plummeted in the nation in general over the past decade and many Americans think it is "kid stuff", but here in Seminole County the Sunday School seems to be alive and well. Even the adults are showing a new enthusiasm for delving into the Bible and things spiritual and are no longer just "dropping off the kids" for the Sunday school hour.

Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry is bucking a trend seen in many mainline churches these days by showing an increase in Sunday School attendance averaging 260 in 1970 to over 400 now with an occasional high of over 600.

During the year 1975 the church was fifth in average Sunday School attendance among the 700 plus United Methodist churches of the Florida Conference and sixth in persons received on profession of Faith for the first five months of 1976. The church is in the top 25 churches in the conference in average worship attendance.

To accommodate the growth in Sunday School attendance the church went to double sessions with Sunday School hours coinciding with worship services at 9:35 and 11 a.m. Located in a rapid growth area of South Seminole County membership in the church has grown from 850 in 1970 to over 1740 for an average net yearly gain of 200. Lack of adequate classroom space and the desire to get more effective use without building an addition resulted in double sessions for all ages which the

has also doubled the number of teachers and staff needed for Sunday School. Attendance is up in all categories with the greatest increase being in the young married's bracket. There are eight adult classes, ranging from college and career to senior citizens. Rev. Pickett credits this new interest to a "spiritual upsurge that pastor, Rev. William Pickett, feels have proved successful. Although it has increased attendance it has made people hungry for the basics of the faith," basic preaching of the gospel and a personal relationship with Christ." The Sunday School curriculum, ranging from contemporary paperback study books to film series. is basically Bible centered, the pastor said. Only one class is still using the traditional dated international lesson series. Although the Sunday School occasionally holds low-key competition between the classes, to stimulate competition, gimmicks are avoided and the church does not have a bus ministry used in many churches with large Sunday Schools. The church has a mini-bus that transports senior citizens from nearby apartment complexes. An additional outreach to the elderly in the community is the monthly Golden Years Fellowship luncheon attended by 300 persons.

Tom D. Smith Jr., minister of education at First Baptist Church of Sanford, says there had been an appreciable gain in Sunday School attendance over the past two years and total enrollment is presently 1,245. Average attendance is 458 with an increase of 14 over last year.

Although Baptists have traditionally maintained separate classes for men and women, couples' classes are on the increase he added, and First Baptist offers both. Rev. Smith said the basic philosophy is for every 100 enrolled 40-45 will attend Sunday School, thus the emphasis is placed on signing up as many as possible on the roll whether or not they are presently attending. He considers the Sunday School the "right arm of the church."

A few attendance promotions are scheduled during the year, he said, but the responsibility for keeping up attendance lies mainly with the teachers and class members. The church has one Sunday School bus.

Prairie Lake Baptist Church of Fern Park has what is probably the largest bus ministry of any Seminole County Sunday School. Associate Pastor Jack Boynton, who is in charge of the bus ministry and "Children's Church" says the church has six buses and will soon open its fifth route. The church has a total Sunday school enrollment of 471 and an average attendance of 300 persons. Half of these are brought in by bus from the Altamonte Springs, the morning and evening Longwood, Casselberry, and Maitland and Fern Park areas. With the increase in gasoline prices, costs of operating the buses has doubled, but the church has not cutback as this is considered a priority item in its budget.

Question: I have planted seeds for the miracle I need. But !

don't understand how I can, or even why I should, expect a miracle. Answer: Have you ever planted flower seeds? You expect something to come up, don't you? When you plant seeds and water and tend the soil, these seeds come up as marigoids or peaches or wheat. In the same way, your seeds of giving come back to you to meet your needs.

Your seeds are watered by your faith and hope in God. The soil is cultivated as you repent of your sins and forgive others for theirs. Resentment and anger are weeds that choke out the good Springs. The retreat will be led seeds you plant. So keep your soil watered and tended by trusting God and forgiving those who hurt you.

Just as there's a due season for peaches to ripen and be harvested, so there's a due season for your miracle to come. The farmer knows he must wait until just the right time to pick peaches. Now I've always wanted to harvest my seed-faith right after I've put it in and I'm always trying to tell God when the right time is. But He's never listened to me yet. He just reminds me to wait on Him (Proberbs 20:22). And I'm glad for that, because I've learned God's due season will not be too early or too late for my need. It will be right on time.

Keep weiterer wee trusting, and keep dank mg your miracle. I tell you, miracles are either coming toward you or they're going past you. When you're looking for them, you can see them coming toward you every day. You receive them when you trust a loving and good God to supply your needs. . .when you know something GOOD is going to happen to you. . . when you expect a miracle. Receiving follows giving. A miracle follows elieving. The harvest follows seed-sowing and soil-tending. And that harvest will be rich and abundant and overflowing (Luke 6:38). If one ounce of seed will reap a harvest of 1,800 pounds of onions. . . and that's what one of my friends in the oniongrowing business says. . . think about how God the Creator multiplies your seeds of faith and love to meet the needs you have in your life today.

I found out that God has a way of doing things. Then I learned the three keys of Seed-Faith. . . trusting God as my only Source, planting seeds of love for God to supply all my needs, and expecting many miracles. If you want to learn more about Seed-Faith living, my latest book will help you. Just write to me, Oral Roberts, Tulsa, Oklahoma 74102, and ask for "A Daily Guide to be hosted by Snow Hill MB Miracles and Successful Living Through Seed-Faith. I'll be glad Church Saturday at 11 a.m. to send you a copy, free and postpaid.

Eulogy of Holly Malcoln Blacksheare

Delivered by

esus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not

Rev. J. Edward Conneily

"Why did it Happen? There are many things that happen in this life as we know it to which we find no answer. Out of all our experiences we've had, out of all the books we've read, and all the knowledge we've achieved, there are yet some things that baffles us even today. There seems to us no reason or purpose in what has happened, so we ask ourto us no reason or purpose in what has happened, so we ask our-selves "Why?" That three letter word comes to us now in this dark hour of a great loss, sick within with loneliness and anguish, our hearts cry out "Why?". . Why of all things Holly? . . Why so close to her commencement? . . . Why in the midst of her youth with such a promising life yet before her through a careless accident her life was taken and God called her home. ... "Why?" If we look at Jesus and see ourselves in his stead. He's loving. e's kind, and He's looking for the best. Holly was the best to be found at that hour, so he called her. ... But on the other side beyond this tragic event that defies man's explanation, there is a purpose which faith alone can see amid the shadows of this hour hich patience will in time reveal Oh we live in the presence of mystery. There are many things we can not understand. Only however if we can accept the fact that this sudden death is not from the hand of a blind fate or intentionally done, but was permitted by a God who is affiliated in Il our attlictions, we can gather the assurance as we pass through he dark night of our souls that we're not alone, but God is walking

In this hour as we come to the close, that question comes back before us. Why? ... Why did it happen? ... Why was this youthful life taken? ... Why this young person so full of promise cut off before given a chance to make a contribution to life and this society was granted? ... Why? ... Why? ... Why? Jesus being the Son of Man as well as the Son of God in the midst of his loneliness and desolation, amid the darkness and anguish of Calvary cried out from a physical perspective. My God My God, Why? Why hast thou forsaken me?.... These words even today at this hour comes home to the heart of humanity. . . As mourners it comes to your hearts. . Why hast thou forsaken me? But thanks be to God in the final words on the Cross, Light came out of darkness. . . Trust out of uncertainty, and peace out of anguish as he looked to his father as saw his arms stretched wide ind his hands open and reaching down, he said, Father into thy ands I commend my spirit. 76 The Campaign And The Candidates Seminole Helps Future Could Hinge On Vote Florida Growth

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

It's election time again.

In Seminole County, the spotlight this year is on the race for three county commission seats. County Commissioner Richard Williams' District 3 seat will be open. Sid Vihlen Jr., is running for U.S. Congress, leaving District 5 up for grate, and Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway is running hard to try and retain his District 1 seat. Perhaps Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski summed up this year's race best when he said the outcome could ultimately determine the future of Seminole County. Kwiatkowski spoke of a policy of growth versus no growth, with his Democratic Party in support of opening up the county to more Of course Republican office-seekers would be
