FEDERAL RED INK

The projected red ink in President Reagan's budget proposal continues the trend of more than a decade. The last budget surplus — $3.24 billion — was registered in fiscal 1969. In the chart, bars above the years indicate comparative actual federal expenditures during budget years. Larger-scale bars below years compare actual deficits 1973-81 and those estimated for 1982-83.

Deficit Spending: Most Of Us Do It, So Does Uncle Sam

President Ronald Reagan, during his election campaign and since he assumed office, has bombarded the public with dire predictions of what will befall the nation if deficit spending is not stopped and the way opened to begin paying off the national debt.

He has tried to drive home the point that the nation must operate on a balanced budget.

But what does that mean to the working family that often is saving little or nothing and using all its income to survive day to day? After all, most Americans are in debt, too, making payments on their home, the car and a myriad of other necessities.

Some say, "Who cares about the national debt. The government owes only its own citizens anyway."

higher price," Mercer said, adding this shows up in higher interest rates.

"It's called supply and demand," said Gib Edmonds, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Sanford.

"There is only so much money available. If the federal government takes 55 percent of the available money to deficit spend," Edmonds said, "there's only 45 percent left for all other needs."

Edmonds also expressed concern for the economy the rest of this year. "It's been published how much the government will borrow this year and we know that it will be extremely heavy."

With the interest rates high, people are not buying. When goods are not being purchased, businesses and corporations can't sell and the result is high unemployment, financial experts note.

Many of the ills facing the American economy today will be solved when the government operates on a balanced budget, Mercer and Edmonds said.

It has been 13 years since the federal government had a balanced budget. The last time was in 1969.

Seminole Community College economics instructor, Dr. Tom Tipton, said, "Obviously, we need to reduce the deficit. The government cannot keep borrowing money and spending."

He applauded President Reagan's proposal to increase certain taxes to pay off some of the deficit. "It will help in the long run and get us back to full employment. But it is going to take some time," he said.

In a nationwide speech earlier this week, Reagan announced he is supporting a $99 billion tax increase. A major part of the new revenue is to come from previously unreported tips to waitresses and waiters and a withholding tax on savings interest. The new taxes include an 8-cent a pack tax on cigarettes and higher taxes on telephone service and long-distance calls.

Reagan has said the resulting revenues will be used to cut the government's deficit.

Dennis Courson, president of Flagship Bank, Sanford, says the tax package is something that has to be done.

"But that by itself won't do the job," Courson said. "The Congress has to come back with some legitimate cuts in

Prime Pumping Experts Discuss What Shrinking Rate Means

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Reaction by local financial institutions and economic experts to the recent sinking of the prime interest rate is mixed.

Some feel it is the beginning of economic recovery while others foresee the rate going right back up again after the November election.

It all began last Friday when the Federal Reserve Board, which controls the nation's money flow and establishes the discount rate that banks and other financial institutions must pay when they borrow, lowered its lending rate from 11 percent to 10½ percent.

The seven-member independent agency is appointed by the president.

With that signal, large banks on Monday were announcing a reduction in the prime interest rate to 14½ percent. Two or three other banks by Tuesday lowered their prime to 14 percent.

The prime is the interest rate charged by banks to their most favored corporate and business customers.

But what does the drop in the prime interest rate mean?

Gib Edmonds said the high interest rates are causing many problems besetting several industries in areas around the country.

"A drop in the prime will stimulate the economy," said Edmonds, the president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County.

But Edmonds added it must be recognized when the economy starts rolling the chances are the interest rate will rise again.

A change in secondary interest rates — those paid by the average citizen for short term purchases — should be felt quickly, Edmonds said. Those rates have already been dropping. By short term purchases, Edmonds said he means financing of an automobile or appliance over a two-to-three year period.

Long term interest rates on a 30-year home mortgage, as an example, will continue to lag behind, he said.

Currently, the interest rate charged at Edmonds' S&L for home mortgages is 15½ percent. The current rate under a Federal Housing Administration (FHA) mortgage or a Veterans Administration (VA) mortgage is about 15.

High interest rates have been a drag on the economy and obviously a burden on business, said Dennis Courson, president of Flagship Bank of Sanford.

"Businesses are all carrying tremendous amounts of debt and the interest rate is eroding all their profits," Courson said.

Courson said his bank's prime rate has been cut to 14½ percent.

Courson said Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker by allowing the reduction in the prime rate has acknowledged that the American businessman is in trouble. "Volcker has backed off his stand on controlling the money supply," he said.

"The problem won't be solved," Courson said, "until the Congress takes some action on the federal deficit. Congress has got to cut spending in the areas of social benefits. Until the Congress is willing to do this, in my opinion, we can't have a healthy economy."

"I am still supporting a philosophy of trimming government spending and reducing the tax burden on the American people," he said.

The drop in the prime in Courson's view will not affect the consumer immediately. "If it affects the consumer at all it will be a modest amount."

If the prime rate stays down or drops more, all interest rates will trend down, Courson said, adding there is usually a six month lag before consumers see a benefit.

Dot Brenner, vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Mid-Florida, said "everything continues to slide, interest rates for consumers can come down. But, she added, that won't happen this year nor during the first quarter of 1983.

Who knows if Reagan's package is going to do this (bring consumer interest rates down)?

She agreed that "hopefully" interest rates are coming down, mortgage rates are coming down, and the interest rates paid on savings on the market are at a two-year low.

"High interest rates are definitely a contributing factor to unemployment and small and large business financial problems," Ms. Brenner said.

John Mercer sees the reduction in the prime "as a good sign for the current economy."

Mercer, vice president and bank center manager for Southeast Bank of Sanford, said, "It will encourage people to borrow money again. Consumers generally are

2 Firms To Locate At Port

A financial package for locating a new manufacturing firm at the Port of Sanford should be ready within two weeks, according to Dennis Dolgner, Port Authority administrator.

Dolgner said two area banks are developing proposals for the construction of a $307,000, 20,000-square-foot building for San-Del Manufacturing of Florida.

Dolgner said Flagship Bank has already submitted a proposal for 50 percent of the financing with an interest level 75 percent of the prime interest rate, currently at 14 percent. The agreement would be subject to annual review.

Two other banks are working on funding plans special board meeting to decide on the financing may be called in about two weeks, he said.

Dolgner said the proposal was sent to nine area banks but only three showed any interest.

Abt Muse, who will head San-Del, said last month that the new company will employ about 100 people in its location near the port's entrance. Operations are expected to begin early next year, he said.

If financing is approved, the Port Authority plans to construct the building and lease it to the sportswear manufacturer.

Winter Park Builder Involved

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

The trial of Winter Park builder Robert Govern and six others, including an Altamonte Springs man, charged with operating a multi-million dollar drug ring, came to a screeching halt when a government witness implied the defendants may have killed a man.

U.S. District Judge John H. Moore II Wednesday granted the defense lawyers' requests for a mistrial during the second day of trial in Ocala after convicted drug-smuggler Diego Morales of Miami, testifying for the state, told the court a man, who was possibly involved in the drug-smuggling operation, had been murdered.

"They killed him," Morales blurted. "He can't testify."

Morales did not explain exactly who the "they" were that killed Lionel Fernandez, but defense lawyers protested, saying such a statement was damaging to their clients and may have prejudiced jurors.

Moore declared a mistrial and scheduled a hearing to consider various motions in the case for 9 a.m. Monday in Jacksonville. He said a new trial may be scheduled as early as next week.

Defense lawyers say they plan to file motions within the next few days to have the case thrown out on grounds that the government acted improperly in allowing Morales' statement and said a new trial would put their clients in jeopardy of being tried twice for the same crime.

Govern, 34, was arrested in April, along with Leon Mausser of Altamonte Springs, president of Govern-owned GM Builders Inc. of Winter Park; Steven Liberatore, a Columbus, Ohio entertainment promoter; Keith Gustafson of Key West; Thomas Wilkerson of Lady Lake, Fla.; Chan Ziele, a stereo salesman from Edgewater; and Gabriel Quintero of Ocala. The men were charged with drug possession, conspiracy, racketeering and income tax violations.

Govern is accused of heading an illegal marijuana-smuggling operation which imported more than 700,000 pounds of marijuana from South America into Central Florida and then hid the drug in four southern states for sale between 1977 and 1981, a scheme which netted more than $150 million. Since Govern's arrest, the Internal Revenue Service has seized four farms allegedly used as storehouses for the illegal drug, three homes owned by Govern and the Dove-tail Villas apartment complex, in Orlando, valued in excess of $5 million. Drug agents said the properties seized were purchased with drug-sale profits.

Prior to making statements concerning Fernandez death, Morales testified that he had been paid by Govern "maybe a million dollars" in one drug deal in Louisiana in 1978. He also said Govern paid him several million dollars on other occasions and smaller amounts of $300,000 to $400,000 at other times in marijuana deals.

Morales is currently serving a five year prison term and was fined $15,000 for his participation last year in the Operation Grouper marijuana smuggling, the largest drug investigation in U.S. history.

Accused Of Shooting Longwood Man

Murder Suspect Nabbed In Colorado

While Boulder, Colo. lawmen have arrested an Orlando man for drunken driving in their state, they will return him soon to Florida where authorities have been seeking him in connection with the fatal shooting of a Longwood man five months ago.

Richard Middleton, 36, is suspected of killing Stephen H. Kaup, 36, a Longwood roofer, during an argument March 28 in a Winter Park apartment complex parking lot, police said. Winter Park detectives said they issued a warrant for Middleton's arrest in connection with the first-degree murder of Kaup in May, but until this week they had no idea where he was.

According to Colorado authorities, they discovered the outstanding warrant on Middleton after stopping him earlier this week for drunken driving.

Detectives said Kaup was shot twice in the chest and once in the leg after he and another man argued in the Garden Apartment parking lot at 1250 P.S. Pennsylvania Ave. After being shot, Kaup drove his car two blocks before crashing into a utility pole, police said. A Winter Park paramedic who arrived on the scene to treat Kaup said he believed Kaup tried twice to utter the name of his assailant, but the paramedic was unable to recall the name. Kaup was taken to Florida Hospital-Orlando where he was pronounced dead.

NATION IN BRIEF

Late Selling In Record Day

Wipes Out Dow Jones Gains

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wall Street went on its biggest trading spree in history, but a closing round of profit-taking left analysts debating whether a long-term rally had started or if big investors were buying from fear of missing out on the action.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which soared a record 38.81 points Tuesday, dropped 1.81 points to 829.43 Wednesday as profit-takers wiped out an 18-point mid-session lead in the final two hours.

New York Stock Exchange volume soared to an all-time high 132,690,000 shares as the nation's banks lowered their prime lending rate to a 21-month low of 14 percent.

In the three sessions prior to Wednesday, the Dow had gained 54.32 points and the number of issues advancing had dominated those declining. Winners still outpaced losers in Wednesday's session, and averages of more speculative stocks rose.

Tax Bill In Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI)—On the eve of the House slowdown on his $98.3 billion tax package—and despite intensive personal lobbying—President Reagan appeared to be short of the 218 votes needed to pass the bill.

White House aides avoided outright optimism on the bill that doubles cigarette taxes, reduces writeoffs for medical expenses, increases taxes on airplane tickets and telephone service and requires an automatic withholding of 10 percent of interest and dividends.

But House GOP Leader Bob Michel confidently predicted the Reagan-backed tax hike would pass.

The bulk of the projected revenue increase during the next three years would come from stiffer taxpayer compliance and elimination of some loopholes for businesses and wealthy individuals.

Spending Cuts Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Praising their own "courage" and handing President Reagan a big win, Congress approved the first major implementation of the 1983 budget spending cut that slices dairy price supports, federal pensions and food stamps.

Congressional leaders and the administration hope passage of the budget bill will build momentum in advance of the House debate today on the $98.3 billion tax increase bill.

The major reductions are $6.6 billion in agriculture programs, including dairy subsidies and food stamps, and $3.4 billion in federal pension benefits for 1983-85.

One of the most controversial provisions would save $3.4 billion by cutting in half the annual cost-of-living adjustment for retired federal workers under 62, delaying for a month the payment of the cost-of-living benefits to all federal retirees, and eliminating the benefit altogether for military retirees who work for the federal government as civilians.

Storms Monday and Tuesday were blamed for as many as seven deaths — five in Tennessee, plus two Maryland boaters missing after a storm on the Severn River. In western Nebraska, 54-mph winds flipped trailers at Valentine and knocked out power during a storm that dumped about 3 inches of rain at Chadron. Sixty-mph winds whipped large hail at Red Feather Lakes, Colo., where more than an inch of rain fell.

Stolen Merchandise Found, Man Charged

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 19-year-old Altamonte Springs man is free from the Seminole County jail today after posting $8,000 following his arrest Wednesday on charges of dealing in stolen property.

Michael John Kolb, of 2483 Stanford Drive, in the Weathersfield subdivision, was arrested after sheriff's deputies, armed with a search warrant, entered his home at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday and found stolen property there, deputies said.

According to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski, deputies confiscated a commercial-size Pac-Man video game, a four-wheel concrete cutter used in cutting into curbing, ceiling fans, a large tool chest filled with tools, portable televisions, radios, stereos and figurines. Spolski said the property, valued at about $5,000, was loaded onto a rented truck and taken to a county storage area until detectives can determine who owns the property.

Deputies said they believe most of the stolen property was taken from area businesses, adding that the video game had been reported stolen in April from an Altamonte Springs coin laundry in the Brantley Square.

FOUR PLANES DAMAGED AT RANCH

Four airplanes, at the Seminole Flying Ranch near Oviedo were burglarized and vandalized between 6:30 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

According to ranch owner Knute Kjenstie, two of his airplanes and planes owned by Darrel Leidigh, 53, of Altamonte Springs, and Gerald Linsey, 60, of Maitland, were burglarized.

Deputies said the thieves broke the pilot's window in each of the four planes and removed various instruments from the electronic panel. A book of charts, a fire extinguisher and survival kit were also taken from Linsey's aircraft, deputies said.

spending. That's the single most important thing I can see right now."

Mercer said, "It's important that the federal budget be balanced. One way is to cut expenses. The other is to increase taxes. Reagan has tried to do both.

"I would encourage the Congress to do both as well. Congress is beginning to get the message from Middle America," he said. "The psychology of the whole thing is good. The economics of the president's program is sound and should be supported.

"The increase in the taxes is good for the economy," Mercer said.

Referring to the income tax cut approved last year and the new taxes supported by Reagan, SCC's Tipton said that the benefits of the income tax cut, went mainly to upper-income groups.

"The idea is if the upper-income groups take the tax decrease and save it, it will mean more savings. The middle class American consumer will spend it," he said.

"With the new tax increase there was no real tax reduction in the low-income and middle-income groups," Tipton said.

"With the income tax reduction, the government gave a little not borrowing. They are afraid of what's happening in the economy and putting their money in savings."

He noted that savings accounts in Sanford are at an all-time high.

Mercer said traditionally interest rates for consumers are 3 to 4 percent over the prime. "It will be three-to-four months before we see any significant reduction in consumer rates. It will take 30 to 90 days for these rates to catch up.

A reduction in the prime will have considerable effect on the building industry, Mercer said. He noted the interest charged for construction loans to contractors are generally tied to the prime and are one or two points above the prime.

Dr. Tom Tipton's evaluation of the drop in the prime is somewhat more pessimistic.

"The drop in the prime is not going to mean a whole lot to the consumer," said the Seminole Community College economics instructor.

"The prime rate is what big banks charge their best customers. It means big corporations like General Motors can now borrow," he said.

"The prime will have to drop a whole lot more for the average American to buy a new car at a favorable interest rate," Dr. Tipton said.

He said the drop in the prime also does not mean an upswing in the economy. "International competition is tremendous and the corporations have large inventories on hand which they must sell.

"If the rate would drop like it should to 10 percent, that would mean something. But, this is unlikely to happen. I think the interest rate is going right back up after the elections," Dr. Tipton said.

Lake Mary Cemetery Topic Of Council Meet Tonight

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary Cemetery Association officials will be back before the Lake Mary City Council at a 7:30 meeting tonight again asking the governing body to save "the city's roots" by taking over responsibility for the two-acre cemetery.

The cemetery, founded 88 years ago by a group of private citizens and maintained by the association ever since, is located east of the railroad tracks at Palmetto Avenue and Lake Mary Road.

The association's Kevin Keogh told the council two weeks ago that it "has a responsibility to maintain this heritage."

The council tabled action on the request pending a report from City Attorney Robert Petree on the city's liability if it assumes the responsibility.

The council also urged the association to discuss with Oaklawn Memorial Park officials their offer to take over the cemetery and its maintenance.

The association offered to turn over to the city $16,000 it has in savings for maintenance of the facility. Twelve lots at the north corner of the cemetery are available for sale.

In other business at tonight's meeting, the council will consider a proposed agreement with International Systems Inc. The Atlanta corporation proposal is to search for federal and private grants for the city for a fee of $21,000 annually.

The council also is scheduled to adopt a resolution directed to the state's Public Service Commission opposing Florida Power Corporation's request for an increase in electric rates.

Also scheduled is the final adoption of three ordinances, including the annexation of the ComBank-Lake Mary located on Lake Mary Boulevard at Lake Emma Road; repealing the city's burning regulations in favor of letting the state retain that responsibility; and setting restrictions on developers destroying trees unnecessarily.

Income Up In Country, But Growth Is Not

United Press International
Americans have more money to spend these days, but most of it is from Social Security hikes or tax cuts not new growth in the economy.

The money left to Americans for spending after paying income taxes shot up 2.1 percent, the sharpest rise in two years, and personal spending climbed 1.1 percent in the July figures reported by the Commerce Department Wednesday.

Some economic hopes were raised on Wall Street where a record 132.6 million shares changed hands, topping the previous record of 92.9 million shares set Jan. 7, 1981.

But the Dow Jones industrial average fell 1.81 points to 829.43 following Tuesday's 38.81-point rise, its largest single-day jump in history. Analysts said the realization the economy probably will remain sluggish for several months stopped the panic buying.

The Commerce report said overall personal income rose at an annual, seasonally adjusted rate of $25.1 billion in July, to $2,592.3 billion.

Social Security's 7.4 percent cost-of-living increases that took effect July 1 accounted for nearly half of the jump. The 1 percent increase in personal income was the biggest in 11 months.

The second phase of President Reagan's plan to cut taxes, approved by Congress last year, took effect July 1, chipping 10 percent from federal income taxes and pumping $25 billion into the pockets of Americans.

But Commerce Department economists said the figure was $8 billion less than predicted by the White House. That's because withholding rates weren't cut to match taxes, meaning many people won't collect their full tax cuts until they receive their income-tax refunds in the spring of 1983.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said the tax cut helped Americans save more, citing figures showing the savings rate in July rose to 8.1 percent.

"This takes the pressure off financing the federal deficit, and will help fund the increase in business investment that we expect," the Chamber said in a statement.

The massive trading on Wall Street was precipitated, among other factors, by falling interest rates.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said he believed the Federal Reserve Board would continue to try to keep interest rates down.

"I think it's desirable to keep the recovery going," Regan told reporters at a Washington news conference.

Demos Now Outnumber Republicans

Less than 10 years ago, Republican voter registration was outnumbered two-to-one by Democrats. But that picture has changed considerably.

Today there are 37,803 registered Democrats and 30,680 registered Republicans.

A major difference in the voting strength of the two parties are the black voters. Some 4,941 blacks have declared themselves Democrats while only 111 have designated themselves members of the GOP.

Another 45 of the 3,280 registered independents are blacks.

The balance of the 74,457 voters qualified to cast ballots in the Sept. 7 and Oct. 5 primary elections are registered in splinter parties.

Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce today reminded those who failed to register before the Aug. 7 deadline to vote in the primaries may still qualify to vote in the Nov. 2 general elections by registering now.

The registration books for the general election close Oct. 2, Mrs. Bruce said. Those wishing to register may do so at Mrs. Bruce's courthouse office or at the branch office in the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs.

They may also register at the city halls in Lake Mary, Longwood, Winter Springs, Casselberry, Altamonte Springs or Oviedo. — DONNA ESTES

Father And Daughter Reunited After 38 Years

FORT MYERS (UPI) — After meeting each other for the very first time, Glen Phagan and his Australian daughter are telling each other of the past 38 years of their lives spent living in countries half-a-world away.

"I'm expecting a lot of catching up," the 61-year-old Phagan said of the reunion with his daughter, Shirley Larson, 38, of Melbourne, Australia.

The two met face-to-face for the first time Wednesday at Fort Myers Airport. Phagan, who became separated from his pregnant, Australian wife during World War II, owns a furniture store in Fort Myers.

"I've learned a lot from Shirley already. But the price of a phone call to Melbourne is such that you can't call for long. I think that Shirley has missed a lot in her life, but I'm going to try to make up."

Crime-Fighting Bills Sought

NAPLES (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham hopes Florida's sheriffs will campaign for voter approval of two crime-fighting amendments.

Graham addressed the Florida Sheriffs' Association Wednesday night, urging it to lobby the voters as it did the Legislature earlier this summer, when helping win legislative approval of proposals restricting bail and making the gathering of criminal evidence easier.

The amendments, going on the Nov. 2 ballot, will "protect the people of this state from criminals who would abuse the right to bond and buy their way out of jail and from criminals who would walk away from prosecution on a mere technicality," the governor said.

Gal Mechanic Keeps 'Em Sailing

For Lynn Hays of Sanford, the marine mechanics program at Seminole Community College (SCC) was a dream come true.

"After some years in retail work, I was looking for job security," Ms. Hays, the first woman graduate of the program, said. So, she entered the SCC program hoping to find a new career.

"I wanted to work on motors and figured outboards were the best to work on," she said.

She found the program tough at first — she said she wasn't exactly sure what she was doing — but that feeling soon disappeared and under the tutelage of instructor Les Barkley, she excelled.

"I don't know how I could have made it through the course without Mr. Barkley. He was very patient," she said. "When I started, I didn't even know the names of most of the tools."

Ms. Hays, the mother of three daughters, received a special award as the most improved student in the one-year program, and was given a tool and die set for scoring a perfect 100 on the final examination.

Ms. Hays now works as a mechanic at Meadors Marine in Sanford.

State Has Custody Of Girls

ORLANDO (UPI) — The state has been given temporary custody of two young sisters who were abducted while living with their mother and her boyfriend in a car near Walt Disney World.

Orange County Juvenile Judge Lawrence Krikwood Wednesday placed Raquel Rose

Faur, 11, and her 7-year-old sister, Myra Lynn, in the care of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services until an investigation can be conducted to determine if they should be returned to their mother, Alice Faur, 39.

The HRS will make a recommendation at a hearing, scheduled for Sept. 1.

Israeli Cabinet Approves PLO Evacuation Proposal

United Press International

Israel today approved U.S. envoy Philip Habib's plan for the removal of Palestinian forces from west Beirut but said a soldier kidnapped from his post overnight must be returned along with a pilot shot down the day Israel invaded Lebanon.

The unidentified soldier fell into the hands of a group of Palestinian guerrillas at a lookout point near the Bourj Al-Barajne refugee camp Wednesday evening, the military command said.

The Lebanese Cabinet, which approved the U.S. engineered plan Wednesday, was preparing a formal request today for the multinational force that will oversee the evacuation of Yasser Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization.

Officials from both sides predicted the evacuation would begin this weekend and last about two weeks.

China Shakeup Expected

PEKING (UPI) — Senior Communist Party leaders will be retired in a sweeping change of the country's top officials that will include the abolition of the post of Communist party chairman, top Chinese officials say.

The personnel shakeup eventually could involve "thousands and thousands" of leadership positions, party Chairman Hu Yaobang said, in a speech released Wednesday by the official Xinhua news agency.

The Chinese media has acknowledged junior party members are disgruntled by slow promotions due to the reluctance of older officials to retire.

Why Pentagon Must Trim Plans

There is no mystery about balancing the budget — and it doesn't take a constitutional amendment to do it. All that needs to be done is to cut spending and raise taxes until income balances outgo.

The record rise in the budget deficit is caused, primarily, by two simple actions proposed, advocated and successfully enacted by the Reagan administration — the largest tax cut in U.S. history combined with the largest increase in peacetime defense spending in U.S. history. Both actions unbalance the budget.

An attempt has been made to cut domestic spending enough to compensate. It has failed — miserably. There has been hope that the tax cut would stimulate the economy. Instead, the economy has continued to wallow and stagnate under the adverse influence of high interest rates. Unemployment has reached a 40-year high, productive capacity sits idle, and the prospect of record government deficits keeps interest rates high.

It is time to get back to basics, time to raise taxes, time to cut spending across the board, time to lower our sights when we seek to increase funding for defense.

President Reagan is pushing a "revenue enhancement" package but is meeting stiff resistance, especially from some of the Republican congressmen who were most enthusiastic for "supply-side" Reaganomics last year. The president is discovering, if he didn't already know, that it is much harder to raise taxes than it is to cut them. And it is especially hard to raise taxes in the House of Representatives in an election year.

If the tax increase bill put together in the Senate and supported by the president fails in the House, it will be necessary to make further cuts in domestic spending, and the planned increases in defense spending will become impossible.

We have always supported spending for an adequate defense, but not on borrowed money in peacetime. Deficit spending for defense should not be necessary, except in emergencies. Taxes should be raised to pay for the guns we need. Part of our present economic trouble can be traced back to President Lyndon Johnson's insistence on waging an expensive war in Vietnam without getting public approval for the taxes necessary to pay for it. Mortgage the future to pay for defense is fiscal irresponsibility.

We are not going to point to places in the Pentagon's spending program where funds should be cut, but we will suggest places where cuts should not be made. The highest priority must be given to readiness and to personnel. For these purposes, there are no high-powered lobbyists, like the big spenders representing the defense contractors. But the fighting in the Falklands and in Lebanon has brought home again to us how important it is to have well-trained troops with high qualifications and morale to operate the high-technology weapons that the defense contractors sell. We cannot economize on funds for military pay and benefits, for manpower and training.

Nonetheless, it appears, cutbacks in the Pentagon spending plans will have to be made, even though President Reagan has declared that he will not be bound by the cutbacks he agreed to earlier this year.

Another president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, would have taken a different course. "Military strength and domestic advancement must be based on a sound economy," he said. You can't have a strong defense based upon a weak economy.

With more Americans unemployed than at any time since the Great Depression, the economy is weak. Priority must now be given to strengthening it.

BERRY'S WORLD

"It seems Poland isn't the ONLY place where dissent and anger continues."

By JANE CASSELBERRY

If you call the Casselberry Police Department and hear a rat-a-tat-tat sound, don't be alarmed, prisoners with machine guns haven't seized the station. It's only workers with a jack hammer trying to tear out the solid concrete that supported the elevated podium from which the city officials rule the city.

The word is that in the theater-style council chamber in the new city hall the citizens in the audience will actually be looking down on the council. Asked if this come-down would have any effect psychologically on the mayor and councilmen, City Clerk Mary Hawthorne replied without hesitation, "Not in the least."

As for the new city hall which will be occupied in the second week in September, Mrs. Hawthorne can hardly wait for the move. "The building is beautiful — a delight!" she exclaimed. "It's so roomy and airy."

As city clerk for the past 19 years, Mrs. Hawthorne has seen her facilities and her responsibilities grow along with the city. The new city hall will be the fourth in which she has had her office. First, the small combination city hall and fire station on Lake Triplet Drive built by volunteers, next the store building on Highway 17-92 and then the present city hall, which includes police and fire facilities.

When the other departments move out to their new quarters the police and firemen will take over the old city hall. Meanwhile, everyone is putting up with the racket from renovations taking place in the city council chamber. Police offices will be built in the end where the podium was located and a center room will be a community meeting room (and temporary council chamber).

An open house will be held after "we're in and get settled," said Mrs. Hawthorne.

The Altamonte-South Seminole Jayceettes have announced plans for their first annual Seminole County Junior Miss Pageant to be held October 2 at 8 p.m. in Lake Mary High School. They are calling it "a once-in-a-lifetime adventure for Seminole County's outstanding high school senior girls."

The pageant will offer substantial scholarship awards and is part of a nationwide program to honor and reward the country's leading high school girls for achievement in scholastics, creative talents, self-development and community betterment.

The winner in Seminole County will represent us in the Florida Junior Miss program at Pensacola Jan. 28-29 competing for scholarships and a chance to participate in the America's Junior Miss National Finals in Mobile, Ala.

With Friends Like These...

So Ronald Reagan thought he already had problems with European pipelines, Soviet grain sales, unbalanced budgets, tax cuts and-or increases, a siege in Beirut, stonewalling in Jerusalem, a sagging economy and an approaching election?

He may not have seen anything yet if some of his putative best friends are to be taken at their word, a lot of which can be read in the July issue of Conservative Digest. To be precise, they ARE the July issue, which is completely given over to the question: "Has Reagan Deserted the Conservatives?"

For those millions of you who may not have caught this watershed event, it is a compilation of complaints from the New Right on the president's stewardship of the conservative cause that could scarcely have more negative effect if they had been commissioned by the Democratic National Committee.

"The sad truth," the introduction informs, "is that disenchantment with the Reagan presidency is now real and widespread. It is felt by conservatives of every stripe, from every element of the broad conservative coalition that put Reagan in the White House."

For supporting evidence we have the following:

"The administration of Ronald Reagan, Mr. Conservative, is afflicted with that crippling disease common to the moderate Republican: a yearning that borders on acute hunger for respectability, for approbation, for acceptance by the Washington elite that will cause one to suffer stoically any insult or indignation, to calmly wipe the spittle off one's cheek before turning it."

"Reagan has had less impact on foreign policy than any modern president (Ford excepted)."

"Our traditional Republicans . . . have pushed the Reagan administration into a political quagmire, where it is likely soon to be totally submerged."

"One by one, the principal elements of the Reagan promise have given way to a policy that does not appear to differ in any material respect from past policy . . . Carterism without Carter."

"We're going from bad to worse (on defense) under Reagan so far. He made a big campaign issue out of the 'window of vulnerability.' It's opened wider under Reagan."

"There's more, much more, from Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.; Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y.; columnist George Will; editor Norman Podhoretz; columnist-editor Joseph Sobran; columnist-author William Safire; economist Arthur Laffer, and other voices of the disappointed right."

And they make their points, not all necessarily intended. Such as the perennial problem with political coalitions — for contrary to the apparent conviction of Conservative Digest, the contributors to the Reagan landslide were not all of precisely the same mind on all issues. But a coalition such as Franklin Roosevelt forged to serve the Democrats so long and well requires giving as well as taking. The hard right element of the Reagan coalition isn't having any of that.

The manifesto also makes a point about attitude. It tends to the pervasively grim among the firm right. With very few exceptions, the contributors, notably unlike the target of their wrath, could never be accused of being afflicted with anything resembling a sense of humor.

Navy Launches Art Charge Coverup

WASHINGTON — Captain Queeg is alive and well and clicking his ball bearings in the Pentagon.

Recently I reported that Navy artists had been commissioned to paint landscapes, still lifes and portraits of bullfighters, belly dancers and brass hats' relatives to decorate the walls of VIP offices and rec rooms.

The Navy's response was immediate and massive. The embarrassed admirals moved not to correct the improprieties and illegalities, but to find my sources. They launched an investigation reminiscent of Queeg's hilarious effort to discover who had swiped the strawberries from the USS Caine's pantry.

A four-page questionnaire was distributed to graphics section personnel who might have been the source of my column. The covering instructions explained that the Navy is "conducting a preliminary inquiry relative to the content of Jack Anderson's column," and claimed that "the purpose of this inquiry is to gather the facts concerning the article in

ROBERT WALTERS

At The Water's Edge

SAVANNAH, Ga. (NEA) — Kiawah Island, north of here, offers the virtues of "an exceptional secluded retreat." Skidaway Island, to the south, promotes the glories of "private island living . . . in a protected environmental setting."

From Florida north to the Carolinas, real-estate developers are transforming previously uninhabited offshore islands into "second home" communities for thousands of families seeking relief from the fears and frustration of city living.

The accelerated development of the country's fragile coastline is not limited to the Southeast. Sprawling resort hotels, high-rise condominiums, retirement homes and vacation retreats are rising at an equally rapid pace along the Pacific and Gulf coasts as well as in the Northeast.

But the country is paying a high price for recreation and relaxation at the water's edge. An average of more than 6,000 acres of coastal property has been developed every year throughout the past three decades, endangering one of the nation's most valuable natural resources.

The first victims are often the broad sandy beaches. In Miami Beach, probably the country's most overdeveloped barrier beach, the Army Corps of Engineers is putting the finishing touches on an $80 million "beach renourishment" project — dredging 14 million cubic yards of sand from the ocean bottom and pumping it back onto 9 miles of shoreline.

Although most of that artificially deposited sand is virtually certain to be swept away by the next hurricane to strike the area, the Corps of Engineers is already planning its next temporary conquest.

It will require $31 million to pump 3.1 million cubic yards of sand from the ocean floor onto 6.2 miles of rapidly shrinking beaches and to construct 1.8 miles of 18-foot-high steel sheet bulkheads in overdeveloped Ocean City, Md.

The developers of Kiawah Island (about 100 miles north of here) and Skidaway Island (less than 20 miles to the south) as well as similar offshore communities throughout the region insist that they can avoid such problems through careful environmental planning.

The developers of Hilton Head Island, about 25 miles north of Savannah, had similar visions of living in harmony with nature when construction of a bridge to the mainland in 1956 made that island a prime candidate for development.

Today, Hilton Head is becoming a caricature of the exclusive resort community its promoters once promised. The relatively small island (12 miles long and 5 miles wide) already holds 16 golf courses, 200 tennis courts, almost 100 restaurants and enough hotels, motels, inns, villas, condominiums and homes to house 50,000 people at one time.

Erosion, never previously a problem, wiped out much of the beach adjacent to the island's Hyatt Hotel. The beach has been "renourished" by pumping in the sand excavated for construction of another hotel, the Palmetto Dunes Resort.

While Hilton Head's constantly growing population generates increasing amounts of wastewater, the island's sewage treatment plant is rapidly approaching its capacity.

Intensive coastal development poses numerous other problems because it threatens the integrity of delicate estuarine lands that provide a natural water filtration system, a buffer against inland flooding and an irreplaceable breeding and spawning ground for fish, crabs, clams, oysters and other sources of seafood.

Much of the unjustifiable development of coastal areas has been financed by the federal government. For instance, the bridges that provide the access crucial to development often are funded through federal highway programs that provide as much as 80 percent of all construction costs.

Similarly, the federal flood-insurance program actually encourages people to build on flood-prone land because they are guaranteed government reimbursement if their property is destroyed in a storm.

Now pending in Congress is legislation designed to terminate federal subsidies to unstable and storm-prone barrier islands and beaches. If it and other remedial measures are not enacted, the country's coastline is in danger of becoming a victim of its own popularity.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

A Teacher's Role

The end of summer is approaching. Soon students will be returning to school. What they gain from school will depend in great measure on the quality and seriousness of their teachers.

I am reminded of this in reading the Taft Alumni Bulletin published by the Taft School in Connecticut. The lead article in a recent issue of the Bulletin contains an exceptionally fine address by John Small, who has been a teacher at Taft since 1951.

Small describes the school environment. "The students come and go. Always the same age range of 14 to 18. How strange it is to be in an environment which is static, but ever renews itself."

Small came to Taft, as did so many teachers of his generation, after service in World War II. "War," he says, "is a merciless teacher, cruel, strict, demanding. But some of the lessons it teaches are lasting: the endurance of the human spirit, the warmth of friendship, and perseverance in the act of ugly necessities are among these lessons."

In applying his experience to his teaching at Taft, Small found there were victories to be obtained. He cites "a runner who did his best, but finished last. The same courage is shown in class when a student prevails over limiting factors, when he or she perseveres over the 'in spite of's,' the frustrations and exasperations of learning."

Taft is one of the leading private schools in the nation, but the victories Small cites can be obtained in schools with far fewer resources.

A good teacher, a teacher who is interested in his students as individuals, can produce splendid results. The problem is that many teachers fail to seek out the special qualities of the students in the classroom and the possibilities for human development.

It sometimes happens that teachers dismiss the slow learner or the youngster with dyslexia or other learning disabilities. Valuable talents are lost that way. Small reminds all teachers that "There is human growth from fumbling beginnings to exactitudes of competency."

One is reminded of the miracles that the armed services frequently accomplish in their training programs. They take unkempt, slovenly, often insolvent youths and teach them to be neat, attentive to detail, courteous, alert, and crisp in the replies to questions. So much can be done with the improvement of human beings when there is a will to do it, and an interest in the individuals involved.

The task of schools is to discover the human dignity and essential worth of youngsters who, at first glance, seem to hold no potential. Good teachers, exceptional teachers, always have carried out this discovery. It is the greatest satisfaction in teaching. If a school administration sets forth this objective, many teachers, who are far from being great teachers, will want to participate in this process of discovery.

Lyman Names Copeland To Girls' Basketball Position

Dick Copeland has been named to coach the Lyman High School girls basketball team, said Greyhound athletic director Ed Buckner Wednesday.

Copeland, 51, previously coached football and basketball at Lyman. He has 11 years of basketball (boys and girls) experience in Tennessee and at Lyman.

Ironically, Copeland is replacing Bobby Locke who (quit) earlier this summer to go into private business and work for the Florida Chamber of Commerce. Copeland served as an assistant to Locke while both were at Shelbyville (Tenn.) High School.

"We were the only two coaches in the school," laughed Copeland. "So he was my assistant and I was his."

Copeland also helped Locke last year with the Lady Greyhounds.

"Bobby and I have the same basic philosophy, so there shouldn't be any problem," said Copeland. "There is some talent here and I'm excited to get started."

Lyman returns five starters from last year headed by all-conference performers Valerie Jackson, Kim Lemon and Vikki McMurrer.

2 Days And 19 Innings Later...

ORLANDO — The O-Twins must be taking its games one at a time. It took two nights and 19 innings for the Twins to complete its last game and the outcome was important because the O-Twins victory, 6-5 over Savannah Tuesday and Wednesday night at Tinker Field, pulled them to within one half game of division leading Jacksonville.

Orlando had a chance to move into a tie with Jacksonville but the rain washed away Wednesday night's scheduled second game. The O-Twins and Savannah will try a doubleheader again tonight with the first game starting at 6:30.

Morris Found With Cocaine

MIAMI (UPI) — Former Miami Dolphin's running back Eugene "Mercury" Morris has been jailed on charges of cocaine distribution and sales and resisting arrest with violence.

The former Super Bowl star was arrested with four other men Wednesday in a raid on his home, where officers also confiscated 2 pounds of cocaine, some potted marijuana plants, a shoe box full of $50 and $100 bills and two cars. The resistance charge was leveled after Morris, 35, tried to hold his front door shut when agents from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and South Miami police arrived. They finally had to break it in.

Gilmore Declared Ineligible

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida State's basketball team has lost last year's starting center for at least part of the 1982-83 season.

FSU officials said Wednesday Oren Gilmore has lost his eligibility because of poor grades and his failure to pass enough summer school courses.

Gilmore will be ineligible for at least the first part of the 1982-83 season and possibly longer, said sports information director Wayne Hogan.

Turner, Players Plan League

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sports and broadcasting entrepreneur Ted Turner and the NFL players union say they will form a renegade football league and televise its games nationwide if the union calls a strike.

"We in no way are encouraging the NFL players not to reach agreement with team owners," said Robert Wussler, the executive vice president of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. "We do feel, however, this contingency plan will provide top-notch programming for our viewers."

Turner aides said WTBS-TV, Turner's "superstation" in Atlanta that broadcasts to cable television companies nationwide, will televise football games played by the six-team league made up of NFL players, if the players strike.

The teams, with 45-man rosters formed by the National Football League Players Association, will play in as many as 18 cities, Ed Garvey, head of the players union, said at a news conference Wednesday.

Wussler said the superstation now reaches 22 million homes by cable, and if broadcast rights to the renegade league are sold, could provide all television football fans with the games.

NFL spokesman Jim Heffernan challenged the idea, saying, "The players by their contracts are prohibited from playing with anybody else," said NFL spokesman Jim Heffernan.

But Garvey said the NFLPA would "welcome a legal challenge."

The season, as planned, would open in the second half of September and end with a championship game at Hawaii's Aloha Bowl stadium Dec. 19.

"All players would make the same" salaries, between $4,000 and $5,000 per game, Garvey said. "We've been trying to emphasize this is a team sport. There will be parity."

Garvey said the renegade league was intended to give football fans something to cheer about if a strike is called, and was not meant to compete with the NFL.

"We're not trying to compete with the NFL," he said. "We believe the players have a right to play (and) make a living."

Hurricanes Don't Blow Smoke, Boast No. 1 Potential

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Hurricane coach Howard Schnellenberger figures he has two complete offensive lines who can play with anybody, a legitimate Heisman candidate at quarterback and a senior running back who's "sauced and blowed — he's ready."

But defensively, the former Baltimore Colt boss and Miami Dolphin assistant isn't so sure what to expect this fall.

"Defensive coordinator Lom Olivadotti keeps coming up to me and saying the defense should be better this year, and I tell him he's got to be out of his mind," Schnellenberger told the Hurricanes' annual media luncheon Tuesday.

"We've got six starters gone (graduated) right out of the middle of our defense," said the fourth-year Hurricane coach who opened full-scale drills

Monday.

"We do have ability and we have more speed, but games are won by controlling the line of scrimmage and that's suspect right now," he said.

Offensively, the only position Schnellenberger expressed any doubts about was one of the wide receiver spots.

"I don't question Rocky Belk's ability to scare defenses to death but on the other side, we need a solid, third down clutch receiver," he said, saying he hoped Keith Cleveland, undersized David Deakin or Lawrence Thompson could provide the answer.

Otherwise, Schnellenberger has nothing but high hopes for his offense, claiming 10 offensive linemen who will allow him to platoon by quarter as he did two years ago.

He called quarterback Jim Kelly a legitimate Heisman trophy candidate and said his backup, senior Mark Richt, could be starting for any other drop-back passing team in the country.

At running back, he said the Hurricanes will be improved. Fullback "Speedy" Neal's trouble has been respecting his elders too much. Now as a junior he's an elder statesman. He weighed in at 245 and looks trimmer, leaner and tougher than ever.

And when he came to senior running back Mark Rush, it time to talk about a too-hot cup of coffee.

"As (Alabama coach) Bear Bryant would put it, he's sauced and blowed — he's ready."

But Schnellenberger turned serious when the subject became defense.

"One question is whether Tony Chickillo can be as dominating at tackle as Bob Nelson was. Tony Fitzpatrick can only play nose guard, so that's why we moved Chickillo out one position," the coach said.

That brought Schnellenberger to the other tackle where No. 1 NFL draft choice Lester Williams anchored the line for the last three years.

"Fred Robinson has won the job. He's grown to 6-foot-six, 235 pounds since last year and he's gotten very strong," the coach continued. "Yet he's still a string bean. He's fast but the question is whether he can control the line of scrimmage — whether he can stand them up and make them run somewhere else."

Schnellenberger is happy with his linebackers and with returning cornerbacks Ronnie Lippett and Rodney Bellinger, but safety is another problem.

"When you lose players like David Jefferson and Fred Marion you know you have trouble," he said.

The starting safeties are likely to come out of the quartet of senior Jamie Boone, junior Eddie Williams and sophomores Ken Oliver and Kenny Calhoun.

But for all of the questions on defense, Schnellenberger says he still has eyes on the national championship.

"I said when I came here three years ago, that our avowed goal is to win a national championship, and that's what we're going to try to do," Schnellenberger said.

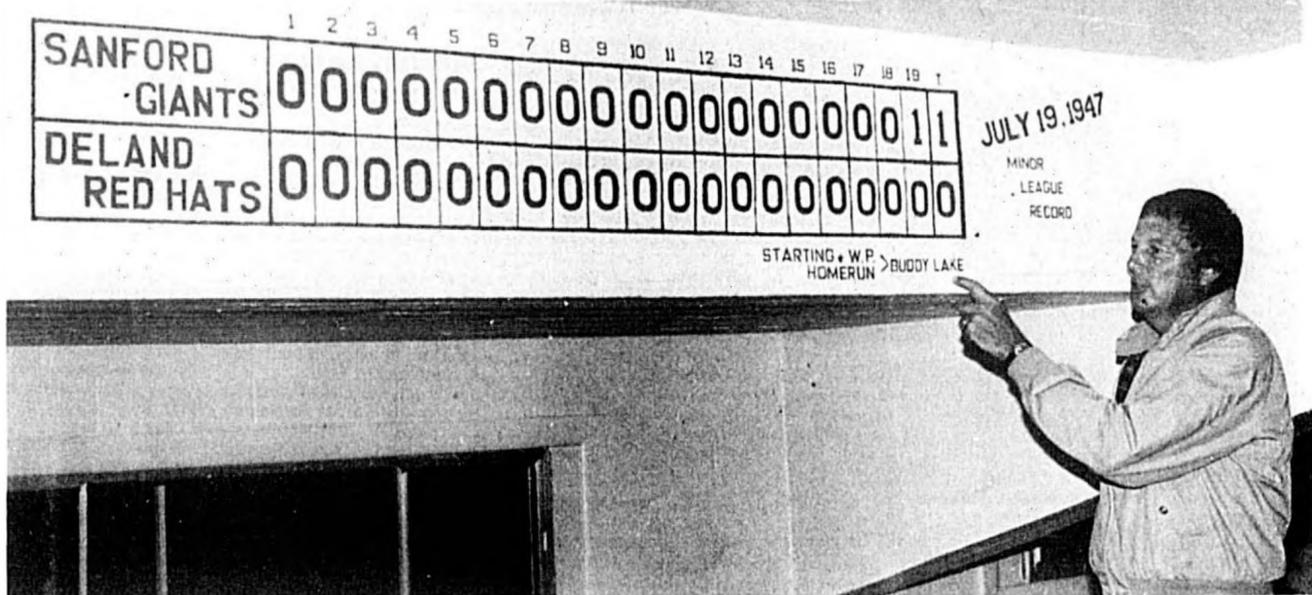

"We're going to try to be better than in the 1981 season. In reality, when you look back, we were flirting with the No. 1 thing then," he said.

The Hurricanes went 9-2 last year, but were ineligible for a bowl or for national ranking by UPI because of sanctions leveled by the NCAA. The probation continues in effect this year, but no sanctions such as a bowl or a television ban hang over Miami's head.

And what if everything falls apart, beginning with the opener at Florida Sept. 4.

"I have one of the basic prerequisites of a football coach — I've been fired once," joked Schnellenberger, who lost his head coaching job with the Baltimore Colts in 1974. "When you've worked where I've worked, everything else is a piece of cake."

Can one performance qualify for the Hall of Fame? If it's the above performance it may. Florida Baseball Schools Operator Wes Rinker points to Sanford's Buddy Lake in this July 19, 1947 baseball game. Lake pitched 19 scoreless innings and hit a home run as the Sanford Giants beat the DeLand Red Hats, 1-0, in the old Florida State League.

Hall Of Fame Seeks Nominations

Can one game qualify one for the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame?

If that one game (see above photo) was pitched by Sanford's Buddy Lake, it may qualify. On July 19, 1947, Lake pitched a 19-inning shutout as the Sanford Giants nipped the DeLand Red Hats, 1-0, in Florida State League baseball action.

Not only did Lake pitch 19 spotless frames, but the talented Sanford resident crashed a home run in the top of the 19th inning to provide the game's only run.

Now, that's quite a performance.

A performance like that deserves a special place. And, that special place will be taking nominations for special people until Sept. 15. The newly-formed Seminole County Sports

Hall of Fame has opened its doors to nominations. Beginning last Sunday, the Hall of Fame is encouraging all county residents to submit names of people they feel are deserving of Hall of Fame status.

"The general public is invited to submit nominations to the Selection Committee," said W.P. "Bud" Laver, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Sports Committee.

BOWIE KUHN ... tabled

Kuhn Tabled Until November Meeting

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn has temporarily struck out in his attempt to be rehired as baseball's commissioner.

But he'll get another at-bat Nov. 1, when he expects to hit a home run.

"I'm always confident. I suffer from that disability, I guess," Kuhn said Wednesday, after major-league owners failed to reach a decision on his future and tabled the matter until Nov. 1.

"I was somewhat disappointed that things couldn't be worked out successfully, and I emphasize the word successfully. But baseball is a complicated game full of complicated people, so it's never easy to solve these things. I think we can solve it."

The owners had hoped to reach a decision on whether to extend Kuhn's contract, which expires Aug. 13, 1983.

However, the failure of the pro-Kuhn people to win over the anti-Kuhn faction forced the commissioner's supporters to call for a postponement of the meetings.

"If they had voted, he (Kuhn) would have been dead," emphasized Chicago White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf.

Blue Dolphins Invade Bartow, Splash To 'Greatest Win Ever'

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

The Blue Dolphins invaded Bartow this past weekend and had state officials overwhelmed at their aquatic achievements.

The Blue Dolphins (not the fish) is a junior swimming team out of Winter Park, which includes Seminole County swimmers also, and the state officials awarded the Dolphins with a first place finish in the Florida Swimming Junior Olympic Long Course Championships at the Bartow Civic Center pool.

Coach Harry Meisel's spirited squad rolled up 4,919 points, eclipsing the Dolphins' previous record of 4,000 and nearly doubling the score on runner-up Greater Lee County YMCA who wound up with 2,500 points. The Greater Orlando Aquatic Club recorded a third place finish with 2,072.5 points.

"The key to winning championships is development of balance in all age groups," Meisel said. "Our swimmers are able to place in all events."

While the Dolphins home is in Winter Park, many of the members make their home in Seminole County.

Probably the best individual performance in the meet was by Sanford's Bubba Mickle. Mickle took first place overall in the boys 10 and under age division. Of the nine individual events he competed in, Mickle won six of them.

Mickle won the 400 freestyle with a time of five minutes five and 52 tenths of a second. He also recorded victories in the 200 freestyle, 2:26.81, the 100 freestyle, 1:09.33, the 50 freestyle, 31.44, the 50 backstroke, 37.15 and the 200 intermediate, 2:46.04. Mickle also placed third in the 50 breaststroke, 44.15, fifth in the 100 fly, 1:24.86 and sixth in the 50 fly, 36.85.

Chris Snively, from the Longwood area, also did well in the boys 10 and under age group. He placed ninth in the 100 free, the 50 backstroke and the 100 breaststroke. Snively finished 10th in the 400 freestyle, the 200 intermediate and the 50 freestyle and 11th in the 100 backstroke.

The boys 10 and under relay team finished first in the 200 freestyle relay and second in the 200 medley relay. The relay team consists of Snively, Mickle, Britt Nichols and Juan Pascheco.

In the girls 10 and under group, Sissy Burgess of Sanford put in a gutsy performance with times of 6:17.32 in the 400 freestyle, 3:24.37 in the 200 intermediate and 43.59 in the 50 fly.

Kathi Holloway, out of the Longwood area, made quite a splash in Bartow with top 10 finishes in the 200 intermediate (seventh with a time of 2:43.10), the 100 freestyle (seventh, 1:04.75) and the 100 breaststroke (fourth, 1:27.15). Holloway, in the 11 and 12 age group, qualified to compete in the Southern Zone All-Stars meet in Louisville, Kentucky.

Also in the girls 11 and 12 group is Rachael Weightman of Sanford. Weightman placed seventh in the 400 freestyle, fifth in the 100 freestyle, fifth in the 200 freestyle and 12th in the 50 freestyle.

The girls 11-12 relay team won all four relays and set a Florida Junior Swimming Association record with a 2:17.21 in the 200 medley relay. The team, Holloway, Weightman, Lisa Keene and Denise Beaulieu, also won the 200 freestyle, 2:01.42, the 400 freestyle, 4:23.62 and the 400 medley relay with a time of 5:00.29.

Brian Weightman, Rachael's brother, put in a fine showing in boys 13 and 14 competition. He placed second in the 100 and 200 breaststroke, fourth in the 100 freestyle and 200 intermediate and 12th in the 200 freestyle.

Chazz Rose also put in a noteworthy effort in the 13-14 boys age division. Rose placed third in the 200 backstroke, fourth in the 100 backstroke and 200 fly, sixth in the 800 freestyle, seventh in the 1,500 freestyle and eighth in the 800 intermediate.

The relay team for the boys 13-14 age group set two records and triumphed in three of the relay races. The team of Weightman, Rose, Craig Harris and Joe Auer erased the old record in the 400 freestyle relay by four seconds with a time of 3:51.98. In the 800 freestyle, the team of Tom Donley, Rose, Harris and Auer clocked in at 8:28.23 to set a new mark while the 200 medley relay team (Weightman, Rose, Harris and Auer) claimed victory with a time of 2:01.95.

In the 15-16 age division, Sanford's Chuckie Burgess placed ninth in the 800 freestyle, the 100 backstroke and the 400 intermediate.

The third member of the "Weightman Connection," David, placed second in the 100 freestyle (57.25) and third in the 50 freestyle (26.00). Weightman competed in the 17-18 age division.

There were 903 swimmers in the competition representing 40 teams. Meisel called the Dolphins' display, "Our greatest win ever."

Expos Demolish Atlanta; Dodgers Take 2, Lead By 4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jim Fanning says his Montreal Expos are hitting better than at any time this season and that could tighten things up even more in the National League East.

"I see our club putting it together," said Fanning after his crew demolished Atlanta for the third straight game 12-2 Wednesday night, the 19th loss in 21 games for the suddenly woful Braves.

"I have seen good pitching performances," added the Expos skipper. "The bullpen has been fine. Since the all-star game, we've played sound, fundamental baseball. And when this club plays offense, it can play some awesome offense."

The Montreal bats were certainly "awesome" against the Braves, pounding out 16 hits, including five doubles (three by Al Oliver) and three home runs (two by Andre Dawson). Oliver, the league's leading hitter, boosted his average to .334 with four hits while Tim Lincecum and Dawson had three each, with Dawson picking up five RBIs.

"We are showing we are a championship-caliber ballclub," said Raines, who also stole two bases to boost his league-leading total to 56. "With 16 hits and 12 runs, we showed what we are capable of doing. We just have to show it day in and day out and if we do that, we can put a lot of pressure on the other clubs."

The win kept the Expos five games behind St. Louis in the NL East while the Braves dropped four games behind Los Angeles in the NL West and are suddenly just one game out of falling to fourth place after leading the division most of the season.

Oliver said the Expos are looking to sweep the four-game series.

National League

"It's very important to sweep everybody when you are playing catchup baseball," he said. "I personally feel our team right now is at the top of its game."

Dawson staked Bill Gullickson, 10-9, to a 3-0 lead with a 415-foot home run in the first inning before Atlanta's Rick Camp, 8-7, was able to retire a batter. He hit a solo homer, his 17th, in the ninth when Tim Wallach also belted his 17th, a two-run shot.

Gullickson scattered six hits, walked two and struck out six in posting his fourth complete game of the season.

The Expos are 21-13 since the all-star break when there were strong rumors that Fanning would be dismissed.

"At the all-star break we had won five out of 20 and there were those rumors," said Fanning. "But since then, the team has played as a unit very well."

"I think from here on out, it's going to be pitching. You look at the scoreboard and St. Louis and Philadelphia are getting good pitching. I think pitching will decide the National League East."

Dodgers — 27, Cubs 1-1

Although Fernando Valenzuela was a victim of circumstance Wednesday it turned to be a dream realized.

"I have been dreaming all my life to play a position other than pitcher," Fernando Valenzuela said through an interpreter Wednesday, after playing two innings in the outfield in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 2-1, 21-inning victory over the Chicago Cubs in the completion of a game suspended from Tuesday.

"The thrill came when the fans began cheering when I moved out to right field and when I went back in the 21st, I felt like a little kid again," continued Valenzuela, who was not needed in the regularly scheduled game as Pedro Guerrero drove in five runs with a pair of two-run homers and a double to lead the Dodgers to a 7-4 victory.

Jerry Reuss, who won the suspended game by pitching the final four innings, also won the regular game.

Giants 16, Pirates 9

At Pittsburgh, Jack Clark went 4-for-5 and drove in six runs and Jeff Leonard drove in five in a 16-hit attack that powered San Francisco.

Phillies 5, Astros 3

At Houston, Gary Matthews' double with one out in the top of the 15th delivered Manny Trillo with the tie-breaking run for the Phillies. Pete Rose set a major-league record for most plate appearances, passing Hank Aaron's former mark of 13,940.

Reds 7, Mets 6

At Cincinnati, Cesar Cedeno singled down the left field line to score pinch-runner Mario Soto from second base in the 14th, to lift the Reds.

Cardinals 2, Padres 1

At St. Louis, Bob Forsch pitched a six-hitter over eight innings and ignited a two-run third inning with a double to give the Cardinals their fifth straight victory.

Problem: Owners

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — You know how the teacher always called the roll in class every morning?

That's what Lee MacPhail was doing. It was during Wednesday's joint meeting of major-league officials and the soft-speaking, silver-haired president of the American League was canvassing all the owners to see if they wished to deal with the issue of extending or ending Bowie Kuhn's commissioner's office, even if it meant they might never get home, or if they wanted to postpone a decision on it, which they later did, until Nov. 1.

When it came time for Roy Eisenhardt, one of the Oakland A's young owners, to give his answer, he said he was all for settling the matter right away. He also had something else to say. Looking around him at his fellow club owners, practically all of whom were older than he, Eisenhardt said:

"Here we are, captains of industry, operating some of the most successful companies in the whole world, and we can't even agree as a group of clubs on what to do about the commissioner."

Eisenhardt didn't say it was disgraceful. But he made his point.

The owners' inability to come to any kind of determination about Kuhn, now becomes glaringly obvious to the baseball-going public.

Eddie Giles of the Texas Rangers shook his head, lamenting the fact the owners never really got started.

"We came a long way to do nothing," he said.

Bowie Kuhn tried to be optimistic about the postponement. After all, he had a closer call in 1975 and he still has at least 20 of the 26 owners in his corner.

"That's a source of great comfort," he said, adding he was "flattered" by that support and had no intention of resigning. He said he would not accept any compromise, in which he would be subordinate to the businessman who might be brought in.

When Wednesday's impasse was unable to be resolved, many of the owners began to do some immediate soul-searching. I think that's the first step in the right direction. I also think Bud Selig of the Milwaukee Brewers put baseball's present position in perspective best.

"One of the problems is a lack of real understanding of what our problems are," he said.

"We can write a book on what caused all the problems and disorientation, but in the final analysis we caused it. Bowie Kuhn didn't cause it. The fault lies with us."

Remy Knows Role, Sprays Angels, 4-1

United Press International

Jerry Remy is a man who knows his role. "I'm driving in runs. If that's how I made my money, I'd be a poor man," said Remy, the spray-hitting second baseman, Wednesday night, after his two-run single in the sixth inning sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the California Angels at Anaheim, Calif.

Remy also knew his hit wasn't really the key to the win — left-hander John Tudor, with six strong innings, and reliever Bob Stanley did the near-impossible by holding the powerful Angels to five hits.

California had hit 47 home runs in its previous 24 games and had at least one homer in 23 of them. Tuesday night, the Angels belted five homers in a 10-2 romp.

"You have to give all the credit to Tudor tonight," Remy said. "Remy broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth on a line-drive single to left with the bases loaded and two out off loser Mike Witt. California scored its only run in the first inning, when Brian Downing opened with a walk and scored from first on Carew's double.

The Red Sox tied it in the third, when Remy drew a two-out walk, went to third on a Dwight Evans single and scored on Jim Rice's base hit.

Boston added an insurance run in the ninth, when Rice doubled and scored on Carl Yastrzemski's single — Yaz' 3,283rd career hit that tied him for eighth on the all-time list with Willie Mays.

Kidd's Kick Nips Rowdies, 2-1

Fort Lauderdale (UPI) —

Fort Lauderdale's Brian Kidd scored the winning goal late in Wednesday night's game in a 2-1 Strikers' victory over the Tampa Bay Rowdies, clinching the team's first division title since 1977.

The Strikers, with one game to go in the regular season, are now champions of the North American Soccer League's Southern Division. Tampa Bay, the Strikers' arch rival team, remains in third place in the division.

Kidd took across from Branko Segota and beat Tampa Bay goalkeeper Jurgen Stars with five minutes and four seconds left to break a 1-1 deadlock.

Soccer

After a scoreless first half, the Strikers looked to have things going their way when Rowdie defender Refic Kozic was shown a red card at 56:44, and Fort Lauderdale would play the rest of the game with a one man advantage.

But for a while, it seemed the advantage wasn't enough. Tampa Bay's Peter Nogly took a pass at 74:21 and slammed it into the upper left-hand corner of the net to put the Rowdies on the board first.

Freeloading Neighbors A Pain To Doctor's Wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a pediatrician. Please, Abby, let me use your column to tell all the people who think they can bring their sick children to our house any time of the day or night that from now on they will be getting a bill just as though they had brought their child to my husband's office.

Yesterday, we were having a peaceful family breakfast when our next-door neighbor came knocking at our door with his sick son. They have their own doctor, but could my husband just "take a peek" at the boy to see if he was sick?

First of all, I resented having our breakfast interrupted. I wasn't even dressed yet! Second of all, why don't they call their own doctor at his office? It was not an emergency, but if it were, the child should be taken to the emergency room of a hospital — not to our house. My husband should not have to be responsible for a child's health unless it's in a medical setting.

My husband is a sweet, dedicated, competent professional who works like a horse holidays and weekends. Please give him a break.

Abby, in this day and age when most people are so down on doctors, I hope you'll think this is worth printing. Thanks.

DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is and I will. (P.S. Readers, if the shoe pinches, see a podiatrist — at his office, please.)

Dear Abby

What could be the reason for this strange behavior?

HARRY IN ROCHESTER

DEAR HARRY: The lady obviously wants to be absolutely certain nobody sees her taking money from a gentleman. (When she pays you back, does she go through the same maneuver? It could be even more incriminating to be seen giving money to a gentleman.)

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Mechanical Defect in Swollen Ankle

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 28-year-old female, 5 feet 6 and weigh 150. I've been having trouble with my left ankle swelling all the time. Also my ankle aches while it is swollen and even at night when I've gone to bed.

Several years ago I went to an orthopedic doctor who X-rayed my ankle but could find nothing wrong. He advised me to wear a pair of orthopedic shoes that had an arch support but these shoes didn't help.

Could you possibly tell me why my ankle swells this way? Should I see another doctor and, if so, what type? I am not on my feet a lot. I work in an office and sit most of the day.

DEAR READER — Yes, you should see a doctor and I would recommend you start with your family physician. If you don't have one you should.

The fact that only one ankle swells suggests a local mechanical factor. That could be some obstruction of your lymphatic system to that foot. Many people do not know we have a lymphatic system. It is much like the veins, only it transports lymph, a clear to milky fluid that contains no blood cells. It connects the various lymph glands in your body and empties into the circulation near your heart.

Sitting is a factor in swelling in some people. The pressure on the back of the thighs impedes normal circulation and can make matters worse.

Position is important in swelling. If your foot was held up to the level of your heart it might not swell. I think position, particularly in treating acute injuries, is about the most important immediate factor in dealing with swelling.

The tissue pressure is also important. Pressure bandages and pressure stockings increase tissue pressure helping to prevent fluid accumulation in tissues. I am sending you The Health Letter number 114, Swelling: Causes and Management, to give you a more complete explanation. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Consider two identical twin women who have dry skin from the time they're in their 20s. One woman will use moisturizers every day for the next 25 years, the other woman will not. They both will live the same life other than that. Will the first woman have fewer wrinkles in her 50s than her sister?

DEAR READER — No. Moisturizers have a temporary effect. They trap moisture that is already inside the skin, preventing drying. The trapped moisture plumps out the skin, smoothing out wrinkles, but as soon as the moisturizer is gone the skin starts to lose retained fluid and wrinkling occurs.

Many women think that moisturizers will keep the skin young. They do not. The skin ages just the same. Two important factors that increase loss of skin elasticity which leads to wrinkling are sunshine and cigarettes. Moisturizers are ineffective against the radiation effects of sunshine. You need real sun blockers for this and even they are not totally effective.

Now, if one woman used good sun blockers and avoided excess sun and the other did not then you would see a big difference. Or if one smoked and one did not you would see a difference too, particularly as crow's feet around the eyes.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, August 20, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Aug. 20, 1982
Conditions in general look quite promising for you in the times ahead. However, you must guard against doing things which could put roadblocks in your own path.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your ideas are good and could be profitmakers today, but they may not bring in the large amounts you envision. Be satisfied with small returns. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birth date and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't think that just because something works well for you, it holds true that it works the same for others. Allow for differences in personalities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The options will be available to you today, but there is a possibility you may choose to put your faith in the wrong things. Make positive choices.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be on guard today if you come in contact with a nosy friend who always pries into your private business. If you're careless, you may inadvertently say more than you should.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your possibilities for success will be greatly lessened today if your objectives are fuzzy. Have a clear-cut picture of what you want.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When making decisions today, don't be so concerned with the immediate that you fail to see how it may affect your future. Both are important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone with whom you may be associating today could have extravagant whims, but slow on the draw when the time comes to pay the check.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be taken in today by a pretended ally who might act against your interests when the chips are down. This person has fooled you before.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have the smarts to accomplish big things today. Unfortunately, it may all be talk. Unless you put your ideas to work for you, they can't happen.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) What you need today is some mental relaxation, so you'll have to be careful that you do things only with those who do not take life too seriously.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Those with whom you associate today could influence your thinking. Negative individuals would like you to believe facts are fancy. Avoid them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to allow pipe-dreams to occupy your thoughts today. These little flights of fancy lack the practicality to be of much worth.

but you will only succeed if clubs break 2-2 with the ace in the East hand. That is just a 20 percent chance.

"Popular Bridge" recommends that you lead a diamond to the 10. If it loses to the jack, another heart is led and you try a finesse with the diamond queen. They point out that this line of play works against any 3-3 break with either king or jack or both in the West hand. Also, the chance of finding West with doubleton king-jack and is about 29 percent. It's not a good chance, but better than a mere 20 percent.

They also point out that if the 10 holds, you do not come back to your hands with the second heart stopper to take a queen finesse. East might just have ducked that first diamond with his actual holding.

Actually, the correct play is to play on diamonds, but to finesse the queen, not the 10. If the jack falls singleton you must abandon diamonds since they won't get four diamonds tricks and go after clubs. This extra chance of a singleton jack with the clubs favorably placed is only about three-tenths of one percent, but it is an extra chance.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is another "Popular Bridge" problem. You find yourself in a poor three no-trump contract, but no one is perfect in bridge. You can lead a spade to dummy and go after clubs.

HOSPITAL GALA

Two of Orlando's most prominent citizens, Winnie and Arnold Palmer, are adding their support to one of Orlando's most successful benefits. This year the Palmers are serving as honorary chairpersons for "Golden Gala II" to be held October 7 at Tupperware Center. "Golden Gala II" benefits Florida Hospital — Altamonte and this year features the talents of Roberta Peters along with Orlando's Florida Symphony in their first concert of the 1982-83 season. Florida Hospital has for several years furnished medical care and assistance to Arnold Palmer's "Bay Hill Classic" golf tournament.

Soviet Rock Finds Its Own Soul

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet rock groups that beat to the rhythm and extol the virtues of Russian youths have given a good name to the Soviet rock music scene, long dominated by its forerunners from the West.
 From the Beatles and Rolling Stones to Pink Floyd and punk, rock music has always filtered into the Soviet Union through foreign broadcasts, records and tapes brought in by tourists. Soviet authorities never hid their distaste.
 The leading newspaper Pravda in May described the whole phenomenon with curious puzzlement, as if rock was something the music and its fans crawled out from under.
 "The young people sing and play their works, whose words often can't be made out over the din," it said. "But the flashing lights, smoke screens and convulsive twitching to the beat of the music 'turn on' some of the listeners, who start to stamp their feet and whistle."
 "The performers view all this as a sign of success."
 A handful of home-grown rock bands are now meeting such standards. They compose their own lyrics and songs and then take the new Russian rock to the people without being condemned or banned.
 "Time Machine" is the granddaddy of Soviet rock groups. "Kruise" is said to be hotter still. "Sunday" is excellent, fans say, but has been plagued by bad equipment. "Arsenal," a jazz rock band, is doing the most original stuff. "Karnaval" is polished but less creative.
 "We say something that our audience can understand," said Kruise lead guitarist Valery Gaina, 26, in an interview.
 "Life is like a top, new faces all the time," says one Kruise song. "Sometimes it's so hard to find good people to be your friends."
 The song's plaintive tone is a refreshing contrast to the usual saccharine odes to Socialist happiness billed as rock music by official concert organizers.
 "Listen to me, man," says another hard-driving number. "You're a man, not an animal. You were given a brain to think with, so don't be a robot."
 "Kruise" (pronounced crewease), which consists of five men in their mid-20s, is not out to sow dissent.
 But compared to songs by the "Volga State Choir" singing "I was entrusted with space" about the cosmonauts or "Let's go to Lake Baikal," it is clear that rock groups do not conform to the positivist Soviet artistic mold.

They do not look like clean-cut state performers, either. "Kruise" lead singer Sasha Monin wears yellow pantaloons with a black vest and trails a yellow, green, red and purple scarf. On his feet are green and yellow Adidas. His hair is as long as Mick Jagger's used to be.
 Keyboard man Sergei Sarychev is in red pants, white shoes, a sequined black jacket and shades. The band's five members are imaginatively clad by Zaitsev, Moscow's hottest designer, who also caters to the foreign community.
 But the group is as official as the Volga State Choir.
 For years Soviet rock musicians were forced underground. Soviet authorities always distrusted rock, perhaps blaming it for the 1960s youth rebellions that shook the West and wanting none of that here, perhaps merely because it was Western.
 A writer in the newspaper Izvestia commented in January that it is "important to make every young person understand that the unthinking hit is terribly tasteless and that talented performers are often used to divert young people in the West from serious social problems."
 Only now are Soviet rock groups being allowed into the open. Soviet authorities are facing the new reality that rock is here to stay and to block it risks alienating an entire generation.
 "Kruise," a year old in August, thinks resistance has lessened tremendously over the last five years. They explain their success by saying they are good musicians.
 Before they became Kruise, the five were together in a more conventional group called "Young Voices." In 1977, some of them worked together at the Amur Philharmonic in the Soviet Far East. They performed traditional songs but had plenty of free time to write their own music.
 Even as "Kruise," playing in Moscow and touring the country, the group officially is employed by the Tambov Philharmonic. Tambov is a city some 250 miles from Moscow.
 Ironically, one result of the growing tolerance for Soviet rock groups is that the most talented are moving away from the Western model the authorities so distrust to discovering their own expression.
 "I guess maybe we still kind of repeat what the West has done," said guitarist Gaina. "But there is the start of a kind of independent thought and character. You can see musicians coming into their own."

$20,000 Sought To Buy New Building

Anderson Work Center Begins Fund Drive

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Kathleen Anderson Comprehensive Work Center, Inc., on Sanford Avenue has begun a drive to raise funds to buy a new and permanent home for its workshop for the handicapped.

Dick Ferrone, a member of the work center's Board of Directors, said today it is hoped the campaign will raise about $20,000. With money on hand and a successful fund-raising drive, the work center could buy the former Levy Building, west of U.S. 17-92.

The building with a yellow brick front has about 8,000 square feet. It is located between the Harcar Aluminum building and the Butte Knit plant off U.S. 17-92.

The 7,000-square-foot building is to be modified after purchase to provide restrooms for the handicapped and appropriate doorways, entrances and exits for those in wheelchairs, said Bill Poe, executive director of the Seminole Work Opportunity Program (SWOP).

SWOP is the name of the program to aid the physically and mentally handicapped sponsored by the Kathleen Anderson Comprehensive Work Center at 408, 410, 412 and 414 Sanford

Ave. Currently the workshops facilities have 6,400 square feet in the rental properties there.

Poe said the space is not laid out in the best way to get optimum use. The new facility will be.

The center's board at a meeting Monday night decided an intensified membership drive would be necessary to help provide the needed money.

The memberships available include: general, $10; associate,

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 and life, $500. Contributors will receive membership certificates according to their donation. Sponsor and life members will have their names engraved on a plaque to be permanently mounted in the lobby of the new facility, Poe said.

Other fund raising activities will be held, including a yard sale on U.S. 17-92 across from Joe Creamons on Aug. 21. The drive will end Nov. 15.

The Kathleen Anderson Comprehensive Work Center began in concept in the early part of 1978. At meetings in the spring of 1978 it was decided to create the work center.

Its major goal still is to provide transitional sheltered employment activities for non-school-aged, developmentally disabled people who have completed formal education.

In June 1980, the Kathleen Anderson Comprehensive Work Center Inc., opened the doors of Seminole Work Opportunity Program, a work activities center.

Through a grant in aid and subsequent contractual bidding with the state's department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, SWOP provides services for many clients who have been identified by the state as developmentally disabled due to mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or autism.

From only six persons in the workshop that first year, the number of clients have risen to 42. At the new facility, services provided to clients include individual program assessment, planning and training in basic academics, communication motor functioning, human growth and development recreation and job-related skills. The program also provides medical and dental services through agencies of the state's department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

A variety of vocational training packages are available to clients to attend SWOP. Vocational skills required to complete jobs are taught as they are identified, Poe said.

Clients, paid for the work they perform, are working under contracts with Disney, the Westinghouse Corp. and several other major firms, Ferrone said.

Among the jobs done by the clients are:
— Zip coding, bagging, bundling and otherwise meeting specifications and requirements of the U.S. Postal Service.

— Using a heating sealing operation to repackage products in polyethylene bags and film.

— Inserting, collating, folding, counting, packaging, sealing and other administrative skills.

— Assembling and disassembling diversified mechanical and electrical components.

Casselberry Eyes New DUI Blood Tester

The Casselberry City Council has authorized Police Chief Fred McGowan to advertise for bids for a new blood alcohol testing instrument, which he estimates will cost $4,000 to $5,000.

McGowan who is preparing bid specifications this week, said money is available through a special state law enforcement fund for municipalities. He said it will be a month or two before the purchase proposal comes back to the council for final authorization.

"It's a new technology," he said of the testing apparatus. "It will be a great improvement over two units we have now. It is very reliable with virtually no time out for repairs needed."

The new testing instrument utilizes infrared absorption to measure blood alcohol levels, whereas the units now in use require an open ampule of sulphuric acid to operate, McGowan explained. The city police department uses the testing equipment to measure the blood alcohol level of drivers stopped for driving while intoxicated.

The sulphuric acid often causes corrosion inside the testing instrument resulting in costly repairs and having the machine down for an extended time, McGowan said.

Longwood City Crews Clean Mud Lake Area

Longwood city crews were busy this week cleaning up underbrush, trash, and lawn clippings around Mud Lake in an effort to placate angry Devonshire Estates residents plagued by rats and snakes.

At a meeting Monday night David Chacey, city administrator, recommended to the commissioners that the lake not be dredged as requested by the residents as a solution to the problem. Since early spring, some 30 residents of the neighborhood around Mud Lake have been waging a losing battle against rats, snakes and alligators, that have made Mud Lake their home and breeding ground.

Chacey said the Department of Environmental Regulation in a recent letter had stated a dredge and fill operation, while it might reduce the number of rodents, would degrade the quality of lake water conditions. The letter also said dredging might cause a "severe water level drop."

"In my opinion, it is completely out of the question," Chacey said. "Dredging would be horrendously expensive and we couldn't get the equipment in and out."

"We're trying to keep from poisoning the rats because dogs or cats might try to eat the dead rats and be poisoned, too." Mud Lake is a city-owned water retention area, which was until recent rains almost completely dried out due to lack of normal rainfall over the past three years. Heavy spring and summer rains flushed the pests from their homes and into the yards of lakefront residents. Chacey said the city's lakes are getting back to normal level.

Chacey said he hopes if a wide enough swath can be cleared and mowed around the lake by the city, the rats and snakes will stay "in the lake where the tall stuff is." He said the city crews will mow around the lake about once a month. "When it gets dried up we can get the mechanical mower in," he said.

Chacey said the public works crews working around the lake had not seen any of the hordes of rats of snakes, which residents had been complaining about. "But they (the pests) don't come out in the middle of the day," he added.
