TWO KINDS OF COMPETITION
From Gen. Johnson's Address
You are about to try to reach an agreement on a code governing hours of store operations and wages and hours of your employees.
That is not all the purposes of this law. Just now, on account of the great unemployment in the country and the immediate object we have in view, the longer object and the more important object is being lost sight of. But we must not lose sight of the fact that the purpose of this code is to allow you to get rid of those practices of chicanery and tinkering influence that have wrecked several industries of this country and are a constant menace to every business in this country.
Competition might be on one of two angles. It might be competition in excellent buying, in prudent buying of good merchandise. That is the kind of competition that everybody wants and that nobody wants to interfere with. But it might be also, as you all know, and it frequently is, competition in insidious methods of exploitation, competition in using something less than truth for the purpose of accomplishing an end. Ruthless competition and price cutting do not assist prosperity and contribute to the stability of the country or community and is only of some temporary advantage.

Wheat Production

Among the most important news of last week was some which offers considerable hope to the wheat growers of this country, and fortunately or unfortunately depending upon your point of view, lays the foundation for higher prices for bread. Delegates from the leading nations of the world who have been meeting in London reached an agreement by which it is expected to reduce materially the total wheat production of the world.

"In heartening contrast to the lack of co-operation among the nations in the vital matter of their currencies," writes Edward H. Collins, financial editor of the New York Herald Tribune, "is the splendid example of world co-operation provided last week at London when representatives of more than two-score countries agreed to substitute a policy of mutual compromise for a policy of mutual recrimination as a means of settling the problem of the wheat surplus."

"The problem that confronted the wheat conference may be briefly summarized with a few figures. As of August 1, world wheat production totaled 650,000,000 bushels, the largest amount in history. They exceeded the total of August, 1932, by 180,000,000, and the previous high record by 120,000,000.

"Only in the last four or five years have old crop carry-overs been a serious threat to world grain prices. From 1925 to 1928 stocks at no time amounted on August 1, the beginning of the new crop year, to more than 300,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels. With 1929 they reached 800,000,000 bushels, and they have been going up ever since."

"In order to bring supply more into line with demand the twenty-three countries that met in London have adopted three main policies. First, exporting countries have agreed to curtail either acreage or exports during the season 1934-35 by 15 percent. Second, importing countries have agreed not to stimulate their own production any more. Third, importing countries have agreed that when the world price reaches 63.03 cents gold (about 91 cents at present exchange rates) they will commence to adjust their tariffs downward."

"If the importing countries have sacrificed, in part, their ambitions to become self-sufficient in respect to wheat, then the exporting countries have reconciled themselves to a definitely smaller export market in the immediate future by accepting the unprecedentedly small export allocation of 560,000,000 bushels. These, however, will be worthwhile sacrifices if they put an end to the present cut-throat competition among exporters and counter-waifare in the form of tariff restrictions on the side of the importers."

"The success of this wheat reduction plan depends, of course, upon how closely the various nations of the world carry out the provisions of their agreements, and how successful they are in preventing their farmers from succumbing some way of growing two grains of wheat where one grew before. Taking it all in all, it is a large order."

Defense Appropriations

Interesting data has come from the League of Nations Secretariat showing what countries are increasing their armaments and what countries are reducing their armaments. It is significant to note that the trade in arms as a whole has felt the effects of the depression and has shown a steady decline since 1930. World expenditure for defense since the post war height of $4,101,000,000 in 1930, fell off to $3,978,000,000 in the following year.

However, there are notable exceptions to the general rule and we find certain countries spending increasing amounts and adding to various branches of their military service. Japan's military expenditures rose from 407,100,000 yen in 1931-32 to 669,200,000 yen in 1932-33. France's military outlay increased steadily from 9,389,300,000 francs in 1928 to 12,021,800,000 in 1931. Estimates for 1933 show a slight decrease. The total military effectives of France have increased from 545,716 in 1931 to 595,040 at present and French naval tonnage has risen from 828,603 in 1931 to 868,925 in 1933.

Germany's program of "pocket" battleship construction has brought its tonnage up from 125,780 in 1931 to 166,810 in 1932.

Military expenditure in the United States reached its peak for recent years in 1931-32 with a total of $702,200,000. Estimates for 1932-33 and 1933-34 showed a possible reduction in outlay. The total tonnage of the United States dropped from 1,144,110 in November of 1931, to 1,073,350 in February, 1933, but at present a new construction program has been launched which will raise the total considerably.

Great Britain has shown a reduction of fleet tonnage between 1931 and February, 1933 from 1,250,947 to 1,188,780. Military expenditures in the United Kingdom fell from 99,900,000 pounds in 1928-'29 to 92,400,000 pounds in 1931-'32. Estimates for 1932-'33 reveal a further reduction.

The most significant fact about these figures is that whereas in many instances they indicate an actual increase in monetary outlay, the fact that the purchasing power of various currencies is so much greater, the real extent of the physical increase is not revealed. It is safe to say no country has diminished its total defense strength, although the dollars and cents appropriations might not seem to indicate it.

WITNESSES TELL ABOUT ACTION OF ALLEGED SLAYER

Woman Testifies Accused Man Fainted On Seeing Dead Wife

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 25.—David Lamson charged from a jovial young man into a hysterical person who fell into a faint upon his discovery of the body of his wife, Allene, witnesses testified yesterday at his trial on charges of murdering her.

The state charged that Lamson, 31-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University Trust, shot his wife to death.

A detailed story of discovery of the lifeless body of the young woman in her bath-tub at the Lamson home was told yesterday. Witnesses told of blood spatters and stains on Lamson's clothing, and throughout the Lamson home on the Stanford campus.

The young husband was hysterical and grief-stricken following his discovery of the body, state witnesses testified.

Members of the exclusive San Francisco Peninsula society colony attended the trial. Among them were the novelist, Katherine and Charles G. Norris.

Helen Vincent, neighbor of the Lamsons, testified that at 9:50 A. M. on May 30 she saw Lamson working in his back yard. He was stripped to the waist.

"He smiled and was friendly," she said. "There wasn't a thing unusual in his conduct."

Fifteen minutes later she saw the young husband in his home. He had found his wife's body.

"He was sagged down in a wicker chair," she testified. "He appeared overcome by grief. When I first entered I heard him calling 'Oh Allene, Allene my dear.'"

"He sounded as though he hoped she might still be alive and would answer him."

Lamson, sitting between his attorneys, wept. His fingers were clumsy as he wiped his tears away.

Mrs. Buford Brown, wife of a Stanford journalism instructor and intimate of the Lamsons, also testified to the young husband's grief.

She said she found blood in the bathroom and in the living room. Prosecutor Herbert Bridges questioned her:

Q—What did you hear David Lamson say in the bathroom? A—He was urging her to speak to him, calling her "Allene darling."

He was bending over her, his arms around her and her head pillowed on his breast.

"I told him to leave the body," she continued. "As he got to the door leading to the nursery he fell on his face. He fainted."

"When he revived he said, 'How could such a terrible thing happen to a lovely girl like Allene, who never hurt anybody?'"

Q—For the second time yesterday Lamson wept.

State's Attorney Allan Lindsay resumed questioning Mrs. Brown:

Q—Was there any blood on the defendant's shirt? A—Yes, where he was holding her head against his breast.

Q—Do you remember whether Lamson said 'I must pull myself together and help the police' or 'talk to the officers'? A—It was 'help the police.'

Mrs. L. M. Place, realtor, whose visit to the Lamson home led to discovery of the body, testified similarly.

She saw Lamson, stripped to the waist, working in his back yard. He acted in a normal manner. He entered the house to admit her at the front door. In the interval he put on a shirt and ed its regular routine that was slightly interrupted during the Mayor's recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stevens and family left on Tuesday for Philadelphia and other points in Pennsylvania, where they will spend the month of September.

Hop, Cary D. Landis, states attorney, residing in DeLand was in the city yesterday on official business.

A source of gratification to his many friends is the recent appointment of A. E. Key to the position of cashier of the New Semipole County Bank. The rapid rise of this young man is worthy of more than passing notice in this day and age when the young men are supposed to have a difficult progress in reaching the topmost rungs of the ladder of success.

Long Scores Wall Street, Press And Recovery Efforts

The veterans encouraged him with cheers. Long complained of the presence of photographers and a force of sergeants-at-arms descended. The photographers were rushed out, a tangle of tripods and cases. Then the Senator glared at newspapermen, seated at a table near him, saying no one should believe what they wrote.

Veterans stood on their chairs and surged down the aisles. For several minutes the confusion was so great that there was some doubt that the meeting could continue. Through the turmoil Long occasionally shouted and waved his hands.

When a semblance of order was restored the senator, keyed to a fighting pitch, sailed full tilt into "Moxran, Wall Street, the Rockefeller and the Baruchs."

Turning to a discussion of the recovery administration, Long asserted the government itself is a "traitor" to its own cause because it cut the pay of federal employes, reduced compensation and discontinued some pensions when the tendency of the time is to increase remuneration.

Long told the veterans he harbored no ill will because he is not allowed to manage Louisiana patronage.

"To hell with it," he shouted. "I'm going to wait until Roosevelt gets back on the right track, the track he was on when he talked about redistribution of wealth."

Another portion of the federal recovery program to feel his scorn was the civilian conservation corps. Saplings are being planted where nature never intended saplings should grow, he said, and the offered to eat all the saplings that do manage to thrive.

"Only I'd starve running from one to another," he said.

The Louisiana senator then told of his vote against cuts in compensation and pensions.

"I voted against throwing you out of hospitals," he said. "And found the body."

"We heard a peculiar sound—a sort of hysterical wail," Mrs. Place testified. "When Mr. Lamson came to the door and cried out, 'My God! My wife has been murdered.'"

"He kept saying 'My sweet heart, my darling, and terms of that kind,'" Mrs. Place testified.

Former Gov. J. Y. Sanders, W. McDonald, of Shreveport; Delph Frantz, a Shreveport editor; J. W. Galloway, of Shreveport; John D. Williams, a lawyer; Harry Proppell, a one-legged man of Columbia, and Bill Weiland, a New Orleans reporter, were present.

Idea To Bring Big Florida Grow To Fair Gets Support ACTION TAKEN BY LOCAL NRA GROUP TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Mall and wire response to the suggestion that efforts be made to bring 10,000 Floridians to the World's Fair when Florida Day is celebrated, Sept. 11, indicates that there are many in the state who think well of the idea and are willing to get behind the movement. Work on the program to be carried out that day already has been begun and arrangements are being made to have the leading features of the entertainment broadcast by one of the national chains. That part of the program must be submitted by Sept. 3.

Finland County Day was celebrated Monday and drew what is believed to be a record-breaking crowd of visitors. More than 100,000 were clocked through Florida Hall. Mrs. Walter F. Fuller of St. Petersburg acted as hostess and with the help of a score or more of residents of the county, distributed thousands of pieces of literature. A talk on Finland County Day by Walter F. Fuller, was one of the features of a broadcast, at noon.

Citrus Production In Leesburg Area Said Below Normal

LEESBURG, Aug. 30.—Citrus production in the Leesburg district will be somewhat below normal in volume, but fruit sizes will run larger than usual, according to representative growers and shippers. The quality of the fruit is expected to be above the average, it was stated.

Plenty of rain this summer has hastened the growth of oranges and there are many of the "216" size already in view. Early maturity is prophesied, as some early fruit which has already been tested with a view to determining probable shipping dates, has been found to nearly pass the test.

Since the fruit is larger, some growers believe that the number of boxes shipped will be approximately the same as last year, when Leesburg packing houses for the city and district, handled about half a million boxes of citrus fruit. Early fruit, Parson Browns and pineapples, predominate in the Leesburg section. Some shippers expect that shipments will start from four to six weeks early this year.

Grapefruit, it is believed, will be somewhat below normal in quantity, as well as in size, this year. An estimate of the crop to be expected from the district as a whole is made difficult by the "spotted" condition of the groves. Old seedling groves, usually very prolific some of these, are not bearing as large crops as usual this year. Banded groves appear to be in the best condition.

Old seedling groves, usually very prolific some of these, are not bearing as large crops as usual this year. Banded groves appear to be in the best condition.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ray and son, Troy, Jr., of West Palm Beach, are spending a portion of their vacation here with relatives.

Mr. J. B. Ray and her daughter, Mrs. Byron S. Stephens, returned home Monday night after having spent several weeks in Asheville, N. C.

Mrs. Mary Green and daughter, Lorraine, of Stuart, arrived here Saturday to spend a short time with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Spivey at their home in Paola.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buffington, of Boca Grande, have arrived to make their home here. Mr. Buffington is the new local manager for the Postal Telegraph Co.

Friends of Mrs. Belle Cook, Elm Avenue, will be interested to learn that she is recovering rapidly after a painful injury she suffered to her ankle on Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Miner and daughter, Pauline, of New Smyrna, spent Sunday here with friends. They were accompanied home by Miss Eva Cunningham who will be their guest for a week.

A. C. Hopkins, of Jacksonville, architect, representing the Wm. Lovett interests in the construction of their new building at First Street and Magnolia Avenue, was a visitor in Sanford today inspecting the work being done here.

"Vanishing Tea" Is Staged On Tuesday

A feature of a "vanishing tea" held yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. H. Smith, on Park Avenue, was the singing of what is scheduled to be the "theme song" for future "vanishing teas."

The song was written by Mrs. Frances Hickson, and it is to be sung to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

The words are as follows: "We're gathered here together, folks, to sing a little song. About this sum of money we are raising right along. We've got to make it snappy, and we've got to make it strong. So we'll go marching on. Glory, glory, etc."

"We've got to raise two hundred dollars in a month or two. Benevolence must be paid, and so it's up to you, and be loyal to your minister, and your church be true. And we'll go marching on. Glory, glory, etc."

"So bring your silver offering, and put it in the plate. Each little dime will help a larger sum to make. Remember it's for those who spend their lives for Jesus' sake, and we'll go marching on. Glory, glory."

The tea was in the nature of an informal musicale. Fatted plants and a profusion of summer flowers were used to form the background in the living room, and the dining room.

In honor of America and the NRA drive, members opened their program with the singing of "America," the national singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," and "Wax Down Upon the Swanee River."

U. S. Gunboat Leaves To Protect Citizens

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The U. S. gunboat USS Sigsbee, British 4th division, is expected to leave for Europe today to protect American citizens.

Dependable Class Of Church Has Meeting

Members of the Dependable Class of the First Methodist Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Barcliff in Edgewood on Monday afternoon with both business and social affairs decided upon.

It was decided to hold a picnic at Krasnadei Park on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 14.

During the social hour which preceded the serving of refreshments, little Elsie Marie Barcliff entertained the guests with readings.

The election of officers will be staged at the next meeting which is to be held at the home of Mrs. James A. Wright.

An ice course was served by Mrs. Barcliff, assisted by Mrs. Harold Appleby and Mrs. E. L. Londenberg to the following: Mrs. W. S. Thornton, Mrs. Herman Middleton, Mrs. D. D. Smith, Mrs. O. K. Goff, Mrs. Kyle Shoemaker, Mrs. Clifford Proctor, Mrs. V. L. Smith, Mrs. Alice Ward, Mrs. James Wright, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Ned Smith, Mrs. Carl Hand, Mrs. Burke Steele, Mrs. R. B. Wright, Mrs. Dick May, Mrs. Carol Dennis, Mrs. Harold Appleby, Mrs. E. L. Londenberg, Mrs. Clarence Barcliff, Mrs. Gertrude Mulligan, and the Misses Marjorie Hoskins, Betty Antosh, and Miss Hazel Haley, of Lakeland.

Mrs. Speer Hostess To Class Members

Honoring her guests, Mrs. Nettie Ingraham and Miss Mary Tingle, at her home on Laurel Avenue yesterday, Mrs. C. W. Speer entertained members of the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church.

The rooms of the Speer home were tastefully decorated with roses and ferns. Games and contests were enjoyed during the afternoon, while musical selections by Mrs. R. L. Glenn, Miss Mildred Nix, and W. R. Shelety, were also enjoyed.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Nettie Ingraham, and Miss Mary Tingle, honor guests, Mrs. Ada Bailey, Mrs. H. Cummings, Mrs. Joe Laing, Mrs. B. R. Beck, Mrs. J. R. Lyles, Mrs. E. L. Storey, Mrs. A. C. Williams, Mrs. R. L. Glenn, Mrs. C. W. Speer, Mrs. W. R. Shelety, Mrs. W. P. Brooks, Jr., Mrs. H. J. McMullen, Mrs. A. B. Lovejoy, Mrs. R. L. Garrison, Mrs. P. J. Mrs. Jones Has Party Staged At Daytona

Among the interesting week-end events participated in by Sanford persons was the beach party given by Mrs. John R. Jones on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Jones' guests made the trip to Daytona Beach in the Jones house car, and during the afternoon, bathing and beach games were enjoyed, followed by a supper served in picnic style.

Those enjoying this party were: Mrs. John R. Jones, Mrs. F. K. Smith, Mrs. C. J. Jones, Mrs. T. L. Noble, Mrs. Sylvia Davis, Mrs. C. E. McKee, Mrs. Price Angel, Mrs. Douglas Holland, and Mrs. G. W. Stinson, and the Misses Aris Mann, Elizabeth Stinson, Lorraine Jones, Elizabeth Speer, and Carolyn Noble.

Among those who spent Sunday at the beach with this party were: Mrs. and Mrs. W. I. Hughes, Miss Esther Hughes, G. W. Stinson, Sylvia Davis and children, Ouida and Joe, C. E. McKee, and C. E. McKee Jr.

Mrs. Harold Appleby, Stale Hostesses

Mrs. Harold Appleby and Mrs. Burke Steele were hostesses at a "vanishing tea" given yesterday afternoon at the Appleby home in Palm Terrace for the benefit of the benevolent fund of the First Methodist Church.

The guests brought their sewing, and during the afternoon they discussed the progress of the series of teas, and made plans for a similar affair at the home of another member.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting. Those attending were: Mrs. E. B. McKee, Mrs. C. W. Hamill, Mrs. E. E. Price, Mrs. E. B. Wright, Mrs. Virgil Smith, Mrs. R. D.

Social Calendar

THURSDAY. Members of the Eastern Star will stage their annual Robert Morris picnic at 3:30 o'clock at Palm Springs near Longwood. All members and visiting Stars are invited to attend.

FRIDAY. Members of St. Agnes Guild will hold a picnic at Coronado Beach. Those desiring transportation should meet at Holy Cross Church at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Local Persons Are Wedding Attendants

A marriage which attracted much attention throughout Virginia and the South occurred in Richmond, Va., on Tuesday, and two Sanford persons, Mrs. A. H. Stone, and Miss Carol Stone were among those in attendance. Miss Stone, who is a class mate of the bride, Mrs. Samuel Mulligan, of Philadelphia, was one of three bridesmaids who were chosen to represent a different school attended by the bride. The other bridesmaids were Polly Dick May, Mrs. Carol Dennis, Mrs. Harold Appleby, Mrs. E. L. Londenberg, Mrs. Clarence Barcliff, Mrs. Gertrude Mulligan, and the Misses Marjorie Hoskins, Betty Antosh, and Miss Hazel Haley, of Lakeland.

Gold Embargo Is Relaxed By U. S. President

Treasury officials interpreted his order as meaning that newly-mined gold could be sold in the world market at prevailing prices of around $30 an ounce as contrasted with the fixed price of $20.67 paid by the mint.

Sales of newly-mined gold abroad may be negotiated immediately, under license by the secretary of the treasury who already has set up the machinery to handle this huge undertaking.

"Such sales," decreed the President, "shall be made at a price which the secretary shall determine to be equal to the best price obtainable in the free gold markets of the world after taking into consideration any incidental expenses such as shipping costs and insurance."

The new anti-hoarding order forbids completely the acquisition of any gold by any person except a federal reserve bank and requires a license for either the acquisition, holding or earmarking of gold hereafter.

The 2000-word executive order supersedes completely the existing anti-hoarding regulations ordered on Apr. 5 by the President.

The following exceptions are made to the anti-hoarding decree:

- (1) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person.
- (2) Gold coin having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin.
- (3) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates acquired or held under a license heretofore granted by or under authority of the secretary of treasury.
- (4) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned by federal reserve banks.

Roosevelt acted after consultation with Secretary Woodin and Attorney General Cummings. They have arranged meanwhile for machinery to put the new gold order into effect. The statements of gold holdings are to be filed with the collectors of internal revenue.

REPORT ASKED BY PRESIDENT ON HENRY FORD

(Continued from page 1) their employers signed up and a very remarkable re-employment," he said. "The rate at Cleveland was stated to me by Mayor Miller as 1000 new jobs a day."

The administrator, in asserting that Henry Ford would have to subscribe to the automobile code if he received the Blue Eagle, said he disliked "to talk about Henry Ford like this," but added:

"I think maybe the American people will crack down on him by putting their Blue Eagle on other cars."

Johnson said if Ford should sign the code, with higher wage levels and fewer working hours in effect, "that would be received with warm thanks."

While he has "the widest discretion" to accept separate proposals for subdivisions of industry, the administrator asserted it would not be exercised for the Detroit manufacturer who has withheld his views on the automobile code. The charter does not become effective until early next month.

Johnson, meanwhile, was looking to the Reconstruction Corporation to give credit for buying the NRA program ahead. He has expressed belief that the commercial banking system of the United States was not functioning to the extent necessary and that governmental aid was needed to finance the part private industry has been asked to play in broadening purchasing power through higher wages and greater employment.

Another high official of the NRA expressed the private opinion yesterday that the recovery program as now outlined would "not do the job" and that other supplementary measures would be necessary. Asked by newspapermen if he meant inflation, he nodded assent.

Johnson has suggested the need of credit expansion to Reconstruction Corporation and federal reserve officials and yesterday awaited the return of Jesse Jones, chairman of the corporation, from Hyde Park, N. Y., with an outline of President Roosevelt's plans for loans to industry.

Wilcox Assures His Audience Of Better Future

Termed the "Muscle Shoals bill" as "one of the greatest ever legislated for the common people," Mr. Wilcox stated that the development of this plant is another of the things begun under our last Democratic president.

"You people here may be saying 'How does this thing affect me?'" Mr. Wilcox stated. "The development of this plant has two purposes. First, to make and sell fertilizer at a minimum profit, and second, to make and sell electricity at a minimum of profit. Just so long as your farmers are forced to pay enormous prices for fertilizer and transportation costs for this fertilizer, just so long will your profits be diminished. And, if the farmers of America are permitted to suffer more, the whole thought of national recovery will progress but little."

"You might say that the cost of electricity made at Muscle Shoals doesn't affect you," he said, "but don't lose sight of this fact: when the government makes and sells electricity at Muscle Shoals, it will establish a price for this commodity. No longer will the government be deceived as to the production cost of electricity. We will know about its cost, and we will have a true price, and we will have taken the first step in removing the heel of the electric trust from the necks of our people."

Mr. Wilcox then referred to the municipal and county bankruptcy bill which he has fostered since his arrival before the Congress. He termed it "The greatest thing that could be enacted for the people of Florida."

Expressing himself "familiar with the heroic fight you people are making here in your battle against this enormous debt which faces you," he offered "heartily congratulations to the people and the officials who have been making this fight."

"Yet," he said, "after all, you have a situation here that will never be relieved until Congress enacts my bill or one similar to it and permits a refunding based on an ability to pay."

Mr. Wilcox declared that his championship of such a bill was given a great compliment "because it was the only one which passed either branch of Congress that was not sent there by the President himself."

His final reference of the evening to legislation enacted this session came when he began speaking of the NRA program. "The greatest piece of legislation ever enacted by man," its two purposes are, he said, better working hours and wages for the people, and the creation of new jobs for some 15,000,000

Public Works Board Places Sums to Work. (Continued From Page One) Roosevelt at Hyde Park, said a formal action had been taken by the board upon the insertion of a clause in public works funds approvals for a forfeiture if a project were not started immediately.

The board is scrutinizing all projects closely, however, the secretary said, to be assured that they could get under way at once.

The principal aim in yesterday's allotments, he explained, was to increase the purchase of what he described as "producer goods" as contrasted with "consumer goods." He added that there had been a lag in the market for the principal building materials and other items classed as "producer goods."

The veterans' administration received $15,000 for miscellaneous construction and repair work on its buildings at Tuskegee, Ala., Augusta, Ga., Knoxville, Iowa, Danville, Ill., Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Northampton, Mass., St. Cloud, Minn., Bath, N. Y., Dayton Ohio, Johns City, Tenn., West Los Angeles, Calif., Marion, Ind., and Milwaukee.

The allotment to the navy included $4,500,000 for the Pearl Harbor base, Hawaii; $1,450,000 to Puget Sound, Wash.; $549,000 to the New York navy yard; $188,000 to Mare Island, Calif., navy yard; $383,000 at the naval air station, San Diego, Calif.; $73,000 for the submarine base, New London, Conn.; $100,000 at the Philadelphia navy yard; $50,000 at the naval war college, Newport, R. PENSACOLA, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The $1,010,000 allotment for the Pensacola air station, announced in Washington yesterday, is believed by local officials to be for construction of Corry field, big heavy land plane station west of the city.

Although Washington dispatches failed to give details, amount allotted was that asked by the station for the Corry field project. It includes hangars, barracks, fire house, recreational facilities, fuel storage and water systems.

At the present time nearly 100 planes are quartered as Corry field in the open. The need for hangars long has been stressed.
