Teachers' Personal Tales Use Up Class Time

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer
(Second in a series)

Local high school teachers recently rebutted or confirmed statements made by students that they shared personal information, such as having cloudy urine, and took up class time with a variety of these discussions, one of which reportedly includes having students check a pregnant teacher's belly on a regular basis. Principals were surprised and dismayed and said they would definitely take action to prevent such conduct in the future.

One of the cases brought up by students in a routine interview about students' relationships with their teachers involved a pregnant Seminole High School English teacher.

Students said their teacher would talk in the classroom about her relationship with her husband and one day came in and said, "My urine is so cloudy I think I must be pregnant."

Asked about the claim, the teacher, Mary Martin, 29, acknowledged she did talk about her "cloudy urine" in a discussion of whether that indication of pregnancy was an old wives' tale or not.

"Yes," she said in answer to a direct question about the cloudy urine statement. "We were talking about whether it was an old wives' tale, and I told them it's not. It's true. And then we went into discussion of kidney infections and so on. I've got a good rapport and we're like family."

She said she was, in fact, pregnant and expecting in July.

"The kids think it's funny because they will check my stomach and want details — mostly the guys. They say, 'What's it feel like?' and I'll explain. It enhances the learning experience this way."

Some of her students were supportive of the less formal classroom style and said they don't mind the personal dialogue. On the more and more popular style of looser classroom conduct which she practices, Mrs. Martin, who teaches ninth and tenth grade "average classes," gave further views on classroom style.

"I can remember the formal style of teaching in my day — feeling tense and afraid to speak. I believe in a very informal class; this way they're not as tense. They don't have to raise their hand if they have a question. The administration frowns on it," she said, but added she is inclined to use her technique anyway. "We have a lot of

Smith Named To National Committee

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith will follow a recent return from the state's League of Cities conference in Tallahassee with a trip to Washington as the national League of Cities' newest Human Development Steering Committee delegate.

Mrs. Smith was named to the human development committee last week by national League of Cities Executive Director Alan Beals. She was recommended for the spot by Florida League of Cities president Glenda Hood.

Mrs. Smith has been a member of both the state and national leagues since her election as Sanford's mayor in 1985. The appointment this week to a national league committee is her first and makes Mrs. Smith "part of its leadership," she said.

Selection for a national committee appointment is based on "expertise and interest" in that body's subject area, Beals said. "Committee members assist the chairperson in developing national league policy recommendations and reactions to Congressional and administration initiatives."

Mayor Smith chairs the Florida League of Cities Ethics and Personnel Committee and also serves as a legislative committee member.

Selection for a national committee, "is exciting," she said. "I'm looking forward to being a positive contributor."

Mayor Smith was at the state league's annual legislative conference late last month, to participate in the adoption of policies that will be lobbied for in Tallahassee this year.

Appointment to the national league's human development committee calls for Mrs. Smith to be in Washington, Feb. 28 through March 1, attending the league's Congressional-City conference. Mayor Smith said Sanford will not be billed for the trip.

She sees the national appointment as having discernable benefits for the city in terms of name recognition it receives through her serving as a "policy making" delegate and the overall insights she receives from being among municipal representatives from all over the country.

"I've never attended a conference I didn't gain something from. In terms of things I can apply here," Mrs. Smith said. "I also feel the national committee appointment is a prestige thing for Sanford."

Mrs. Smith was among 500 municipal representatives and had a hand in policy making decisions on a state level during her attendance Jan. 29 and 30 at the Florida League of Cities legislative conference in

Officials Knew More About Arms Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newly acquired White House computer records suggest chief of staff Donald Regan, former national security adviser John Poindexter and resigned CIA Director William Casey were more deeply involved in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal than previously established, it was reported today.

The new information is contained in "an avalanche" of background memos and messages covering the operations of the National Security Council that was made available last Thursday to the Tower Commission, set up by President Reagan to examine the operations of the NSC and its role in the scandal.

Newsweek magazine, quoting well placed sources, said, "The data provided new evidence that the administration traded arms for hostages and sent off-the-book aid to the Nicaraguan rebels at a time when it was illegal to do so."

The information suggests that Poindexter, Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North and Robert McFarlane, another former national security director who apparently tried to take his own life last week, "tried to doctor" a chronology of events to make it appear Reagan did not authorize the first shipment of arms to Iran in August 1985.

McFarlane "didn't lie to protect the president," a friend of McFarlane's was quoted as saying, "but he did try to put the best face on things."

The chronology was "technically correct," the friend said, because while Reagan had approved sending the arms, he had not approved every detail of the first shipment.

The records also showed that North, who was fired from the NSC for his key role in the scandal, was not the "lone wolf" who kept secrets from his superiors.

"North reported everything," said one source, Newsweek reported.

The new documents suggest that Regan "almost certainly" knew more about North's private fund-raising for the Contras but it is still not clear if Regan knew about the diverting of arms sales profits to the Contras. Regan has repeatedly denied he knew about the Contra funds until Attorney General Edwin Meese discovered it in an interview with North last November.

The magazine, quoting sources, said the evidence suggests Poindexter had prior knowledge about the rebel funding and that "Casey knew a hell of a lot about everything," including the illegal funds diversion.

Taken together, Newsweek said, the information from the electronic archive suggests Poindexter, Regan and Casey "were more deeply involved than previously established."

The information suggests that the president could not have stayed on top of the Iran-Contra affair even if he had wanted to.

"Based on the volume of information developed so far," Newsweek quoted one source, "it was and is impossible for him to know everything that has been done, rightly or wrongly, in his name."

Meanwhile, the head of a pro-freedom program conceived four years ago as Project Democracy insists he wants the same answers sought by the president's special review board following reports it was covertly used in the Iran-Contra scheme.

"There's no connection," he said. See ARMS, page 8A

Tornado Watch Follows Rain In Seminole

Seminole Countians awoke this morning to cloudy skies and warm, humid weather accompanied by a tornado watch in effect for all of Central Florida until 10 a.m., according to the National Weather Service in Orlando.

No tornadoes materialized. Rainfall in Sanford overnight measured .58 inch, according to the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center.

School Honors Science Stars

Science and math accolades were given 21 students who participated in Hamilton Elementary School's curriculum fair.

The fair began Feb. 9 and ended Friday. Science Olympic winners were: Jeremy Middleton and Malika Robinson, kindergarten, for building the tallest milk carton tower; Rachael Wheaton, 1st grade, for making the biggest bubble; Chris Ponzillo, 2nd grade, for dropping an egg from the top of a building without breaking it; Natalie Raines, 3rd grade, for putting the most marbles in a clay boat; Zach Innis, 4th grade, for sailing a paper airplane the longest distance; and, Scott Whigham and Bernard Sparrow, 5th grade, for building the best straw bridge.

Math Olympic winners were: Benji Chilson, Steven Harriet, Ronald Jackson, Lisa Cullum, Dien Tran, Genesis Farrow, Brett Whitlow, and Donnie Terry.

Students received first, second, third and honorable mentions ribbons for their projects.

Other science winners were Bryan App, kindergarten; George Lindstrom, 1st grade; Amy White and Chris Ponzillo, 2nd grade; Todd Bellford, 3rd grade; Stacey Saunders, 4th grade; and, Brett Whitlow, 5th grade.

May Be Used Against Cancer, AIDS

Man-Made Protein Strengthens Immune System

CHICAGO (UPI) — A major development in the fight against cancer and AIDS may be a genetically engineered protein that cannot cure either disease but can strengthen the immune system, a scientist said.

"We're very excited," said Nicholas Plotnikoff, a neuropharmacologist with Oral Roberts University School of Medicine in Tulsa, Okla. "This drug appears to work and has no toxic side effects at all as far as we can determine, which is virtually unheard of."

While the drug — methionine enkephalin — cannot cure either cancer or AIDS, it can enhance the body's ability to fight the diseases and prevent infections that often accompany them, Plotnikoff said Sunday.

Plotnikoff discussed results of clinical trials of the hormone at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Other researchers at the protein drug symposium touted genetic engineering as providing doctors with new tools to treat tumors, heart attacks and wounds.

"The development of techniques to transfer DNA into bacteria has made it relatively easy to produce enzymes, regulating factors and other proteins in large quantities," said Wolfgang Sadee, professor of pharmaceutical chemistry at the University of California at San Francisco.

"These proteins open up an entirely new approach to therapy," he said, "and also provide novel insights into the physiological mechanisms of the major diseases of mankind."

Plotnikoff and his colleagues have investigated a group of proteins — called prohormones because they act as precursors to the body's major biological regulators — which interact with white blood cells to either depress or increase immune response.

Methionine enkephalin, one such prohormone, has been tested on about a dozen patients with cancer and a dozen others with AIDS-related complex, a less severe form of acquired immune deficiency

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Woman Found Bleeding; Husband Faces Charges

An Altamonte Springs man was arrested on a charge of battery after a deputy found the man's wife cut and bleeding.

An emergency call was routed to the sheriff's office but when the dispatcher answered the caller hung up, according to a sheriff's report. When the dispatcher called back a man answered and said there was no problem. Screaming, however, could be heard in the background, according to the report. The incident occurred around 7:51 a.m. Friday.

When the deputy arrived a little girl answered the door. The deputy asked her to get her father or mother. A man then came to the door and said there was no problem. The deputy asked him to call his wife to the door but she did not show after several calls, according to the report.

The deputy then asked permission to look for the woman and found her at the kitchen table, blood covering the left side of her face and forehead. There were large blood stains on the floor and on a shirt, according to the report. She said she was not sure what she was struck with.

Arrested and charged with aggravated battery was Jose Miquel Martorell, 44, of 103 Pine Tree Lane. Bond was set at $5,000.

Two Face Cocaine Charges

Two men were arrested on cocaine charges after an officer on surveillance watched two suspects arrive at a late-night club then sit in their vehicle.

The officer said he watched the two men in a pickup drive into the yard of the Hotline Bottle Club, 801 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs. The incident occurred around 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

The driver got out of the truck, went to an alcove, then returned to the truck. The officer drove near then continued on foot. He reported that he approached the passenger side of the vehicle and saw the passenger holding some clear plastic with a white and rocky powder on it. He ordered the men out of the vehicle and noticed that the driver seemed to put something down next to the door. Later, a razor blade was found in the same area.

Arrested and charged with possession of cocaine was the driver, Bobby Russell Bolick, 23, of Orlando, and the passenger, Larry James Kline, 28, of Rosemont. Bond was set at $2,000 each.

Man Arrested At Popeye's

A Sanford man who reportedly refused to leave a restaurant when asked was arrested on a charge of trespassing after warning.

According to an arrest report, the manager of Popeye's, 2660 Orlando Drive, had asked two men to leave but they refused. They reportedly had caused a disturbance.

An officer talked with the men and told them if they did not leave they would be arrested. One of the men reportedly backed into a corner and made fists saying the police would have to beat him up.

Joe Lewis Frazier, 20, of 1705 W. 14th St., was arrested on a charge of trespass after warning and taken to the Seminole County jail. Bond was set at $500.

Man On Roof Arrested

A Lake Mary man was arrested after he was found on the roof of a Sanford home following a disturbance.

According to a Sanford police report, a man had fled after causing a disturbance at a Sanford home. The incident occurred around 9:21 p.m. Friday.

Two women at the home said they thought the man was still inside the home. Officers searched the home including the attic then found the man crouched on the roof.

Arrested on a charge of disorderly intoxication was Harold Todd Cooke, 21, of 133 Crystal Lake Ave. Bond was set at $100.

Possible Arson Probed

A fire believed to be arson in a home near Longwood is under investigation, according to a sheriff's report.

The fire caused minor damage to the floor of a laundry room at 3000 Foxhill Circle. The burn is under investigation.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Jonnie Williams, 55, 1014 W. 8th St., Sanford, told police that unknown persons between 7 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday forcibly entered a house window and took a VCR valued at $100 and a telephone valued at $35.

A VCR and assorted jewelry valued at approximately $3,500 were taken from the residence of Helena Pate, 55, 75 Hanson Parkway, Sanford between 8:30 p.m. and 3:30 a.m. Tuesday, a police report said.

Leroy J. McClendon, 31, 1007 W. 7th St., Sanford, told police that between 6:15 p.m. Monday and 12:45 Tuesday two tires and wheels valued at $700 were taken from his 1986 Nissan while it was parked on the East side of his residence.

A briefcase containing paperwork and $200 in cash was taken from the front seat of an unlocked vehicle while it was parked in the driveway of owner, Dionne Gorman, 1203 W. 15th St., Sanford, a police report said.

Twelve teddy bears, a radio and a telephone were among about $500 in items stolen from the car of Clifford Aleuer, 39, of Tampa, while parked at 644 Magnolia St., Maitland, Wednesday or Thursday, deputies reported.

A $4,500 copy machine was stolen along with a $260 typewriter and other items from J.P. O'Brien, Corp., 1045 Miller Road, Altamonte Springs, Wednesday or Thursday, according to a report Iren O'Brien, of Maitland, filed with sheriff's deputies.

Schools Work Toward New Calendar

By Gene Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes said he could not remember a School Board meeting where there was so much talk about calendars as there was Wednesday when board members considered several options for the 1987-88 student attendance calendar.

The board looked first at the 1986-87 calendar provided in reference to the subject of spring vacation which was addressed at the meeting by the Rev. John Book, evangelist.

Book said that the traditional holiday known as "Good Friday" should be acknowledged and that teachers should be given a holiday as they have in the past. He said he wanted to make a request to change the calendar.

The 1986-87 school spring vacation, scheduled for March 23-27 comes at the end of the third grading period and was last year recommended and approved by the board over another option which would have placed spring vacation during the week of April 13-17, with Good Friday being the 17, according to Owen R. McCarron, assistant superintendent for administrative services. The concern over the long period of time without a break between winter vacation and spring vacation was cited as the reason for the change in vacation, according to McCarron.

Board members next reviewed three options of the 1987-88 school calendar based on information school-based administrators received from the board in the past and from various segments of the community. Hughes recommended option 2 which schedules spring vacation from March 28 through April 1 and includes Good Friday. Book said he appreciated the board's efforts and thanked Hughes for the proposed change in the Good Friday scheduling, but Hughes wondered out loud that it may have been more by chance that Good Friday fell during spring vacation week in 1988.

Marshall Ogletree, Executive Director of the Seminole Education Association (SEA) then presented SEA's proposed 1987-88 student attendance calendar for consideration by the board.

Ogletree said the main concern of SEA's faculty representatives is to provide a break point during the third grading period and that the break was an extremely important issue to the elementary school representatives. The proposed spring break between third and fourth grading periods is the same as that proposed on the administrators' calendar.

Mrs. Nancy Warren, school board member, asked if parents were one of the considerations taken into account by administrators or the SEA in preparing the calendars and the answer was "no."

Mrs. Warren said she thought it might be a good idea for students to attend school for at least Monday and Tuesday since Christmas would be celebrated on Friday in 1988. She said she thought the last couple days before the holiday break were used by teachers as program or "festivities" days. If students attended two days (Dec. 21 and 22) of the following week, Mrs. Warren said, teachers could then have, the week before, a full week of regular classroom study. Also, she said, "most parents work" and do not have the week of the twenty-first off.

The board then approved a motion to meet at a later time, not yet determined, to set up their own proposed student attendance calendar.

In other business the board:
● Approved a scheduling of a special one-item agenda meeting for February 18 to consider the awarding of a bid for Woodlands Elementary School additions.

● Approved a work session for February 23 at 1 p.m. to discuss whether to hire a bond facilitator for phase II of the bond building program.

● Approved state approvals for Jackson Heights Middle School kitchen additions and renovations-phase III documents.

● Approved the Oviedo High School additions for gymnasium bleacher replacement bid award and substantial completion of track.

● Approved Lake Mary Elementary School additions site work documents and permission to bid.

Justice: Court Not Insulated

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Constitution, in the view of Chief Justice William Rehnquist, was framed specifically to ensure the document would not become a "dead letter in the hands of judges."

In a speech to the American Bar Association Sunday about the bicentennial of the Constitution, Rehnquist noted that many presidents, including Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Roosevelt, "unhesitatingly used their appointive authority to shape the views of the Supreme Court."

"Thus," he said, "the framers established an independent judiciary to make certain that the Constitution would not become a dead letter in the hands of judges who were subservient to either the executive or legislative branches.

"But they also provided for a method of appointment to the federal judiciary which could in the long run temper judicial interpretations which were believed to be erroneous by a majority of the people."

Storms Sweep Through South

By United Press International

A storm system that unleashed tornadoes in the Gulf Coast, killing one person and ripping buildings apart, spread into the Appalachians and mid-Atlantic states today with a load of snow and sleet. Bitter cold gripped the Northeast.

Frigid Canadian air brought record lows to four cities from Michigan to Vermont Sunday and made it the coldest day of the year in New York, where an illegal couple was killed when an illegal kerosene heater exploded.

The National Weather Service said early today it was 4 degrees below zero in Albany, N.Y., 1 above in Portland, Maine, 3 degrees in Buffalo, N.Y., 4 in Boston, and 10 in New York.

The NWS said the storm that brought tornadoes to Louisiana and Mississippi Sunday spread snow, sleet and freezing rain across the southern Ohio Valley, Appalachians and mid-Atlantic coast early today.

Heavy snow was reported in the mountains of North Carolina and winter storm warnings for up to a foot of snow were in effect for much of the state. Gale warnings covered the North Carolina coast.

Winter storm watches were issued for today in parts of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, and for tonight in southern Maryland and western Virginia.

Severe thunderstorms spread from the lower Mississippi Valley to the eastern Gulf Coast Sunday night. Snow fell dusted the northern and central Plains.

Nine tornadoes touched down Sunday in Louisiana and Mississippi, the NWS said. Lorena Marie Vincent, 56, was pinned beneath her trailer and killed as one of the twisters ripped through Carlyss, La., downing power lines, destroying a barn and flipping mobile homes.

A second tornado ripped through DeVillie, in central Louisiana, heavily damaging dozens of homes and throwing a pickup truck more than 100 yards.

"(There were) no injuries, just quite extensive house damage to 35 residences (and) trees blocking the surrounding roads," Rapides Parish sheriff's Capt. Richard Moore said. "We were lucky."

A mobile home was destroyed and the woman and two children inside were slightly injured in a tornado that hit the village of Tangipahoa, La.

In Mississippi, two house trailers and a brick home were destroyed by a tornado at Nicholson.

A possible tornado that smashed through the Old Bayou Inn near downtown Houston "took the roof off and the front porch and just chucked them in the bayou," said Christy Collins, manager of the restaurant.

Another possible tornado blew roofs off homes, damaged cars and downed fences at Clodine, Texas.

The storm dropped 1 inch of rain in 15 minutes in Mobile, Ala.

Record lows Sunday included 21 degrees below zero in Alpena, Mich.; 19 below in Burlington, Vt.; 18 below in Ithaca, N.Y., and 10 below in Binghamton, N.Y.

Wind chill temperatures ranged from 25 to 50 degrees below zero in upstate New York and New England.

In Boston, where temperatures dropped to 1 below, a 24-hour city hotline was jammed with more than 400 calls from residents shivering without heat.

I think if you stand up and tell the students about yourself; if you're having problems, etcetera, you can feel it develops trust and they (the students) know that you're behind them," she said. She said she has been married, divorced and remarried and is expecting her second child.

For a teacher to share intimate details about herself, she said, allows the students to feel more relaxed and tuned-in to their teacher.

"I share with my students. The first couple of days we don't do anything. I tell them about my background, my college experience, etcetera. I told them that at one point I said I didn't need a degree and dropped out of Seminole Community College. Four years later, I was married and had a child, then got divorced and found out you need more than $3.35 an hour to survive. I told them how I went back to UCF and am now going for my master's."

She said she's close to her students and wants them to be close with her. "I help them with their relationships, and if there are problems at home, I can remember what it's like being in high school. Some kids worry about teachers' pets, or that the teacher is 'out to get' them. I try to put out that I'm behind them one hundred percent and I'm going to fight for them; I'll stick up for them before anybody else. To me, all my students are pets."

She said the biggest gratification for her comes when a student can come up to her and "talk about something besides school."

Another teacher at SHS, according to his students, had an open-style classroom which many of the students liked, but some said they did not care for. Those who said they didn't like it, cited an instance in which the teacher came into class and discussed personal things such as hanging around the beach and "urinating in the ocean." They said he complained about such things as the lack of toilet paper in the restrooms, and talked about his car and other personal aspects of his life. One student said that teacher late in the period postponed a test because of all the impromptu discussion.

When that teacher was questioned, he acknowledged he does have a relaxed atmosphere in class and thinks the students benefit by it. "As far as a relaxed atmosphere, it's more a product of just my personality," said the teacher, Mike Ferrell. "I learned early, as a teacher for 13 years, it's better to just be yourself for me in the classroom. That's just my personality and that carries over into the classroom."

"I try to remember that I was once a student," he continued. "I give them responsibilities, and in most cases the less rules and the less discipline that I have in the classroom it works better for me, because I think a lot of students rebel if you make too many rules." He teaches American Government to seniors.

He said he does have a lesson plan. "But I'm not so rigid that if something comes up we can't talk about things going on like with Reagan and the arms crisis, or situations that a lot of them have on their jobs. A lot of times we do get off the subject, but I don't think it's bad to do that. Sometimes it might take up the whole period."

About the relaxed atmosphere he said, "For me, it does enhance the teaching and learning experience."

He had no particular recollection about the comments on urinating in the ocean or complaining about the lack of bathroom tissue. "But I do draw in some personal experiences from time to time because it's things that do happen and could come up in their lives sometime." Asked about postponing a test due to long discussions, he said, "I can't remember anything like that."

Another teacher was interviewed about the relaxed atmosphere some of her students said they enjoy but others said they don't. Students said this teacher indicated she had applied for her teaching job on a whim, runs a loose class and talks about her father who owns a car dealership.

Judy Oxford, teacher at SHS who has been teaching nine years, said she does operate a relaxed class but only because she has "top students" who can handle that kind of freedom. "The thing is," she said, "I deal with all the advanced kids anyway; I have no discipline problems. I give assignments and they can do it if they want to, or they can dig their own grave. I have an elite group of kids, and we give back and forth and share things," she said.

She said she becomes friends with some students whom she has taught a couple of years. "We have become pretty good friends in that time. I look forward to seeing them every day."

As to the less formal aspect of her teaching, she added that works quite well in her classes. "If they have questions, they just get up and ask me, or ask aloud. It's not a rigid classroom where they sit there quietly. For this level of students, it's okay. But not for any other level. They ask where I went to school and college; we talk, and we begin to be pretty good friends. They behave better when they know no one's going to come down on them."

Asked specifically about having applied for the job "on a whim" or that the "job was a joke" she said she did make a rather unexpected entrance into the teaching field.

"I was going into medical school," she explained. But circumstances changed, she said, adding that her mother was a teacher and the family thought it would be a good career for her, too.

As far as talking about her father who owns a car dealership, she said, "A lot of people know me and my father since we've lived in the area so long."

The principals at SHS and Lake Mary High School — where students' comments indicated loose classroom styles, friendships with teachers to the point of doing things together on weekends and discussing problems teachers have with the administration and disruptive students, and lengthy periods of discussion in class about personal matters — were interviewed about those practices. Both expressed surprise and dismay.

"It makes you sick, doesn't it?" said LMHS Principal Don Reynolds when told about some of the personal comments teachers have made in the classroom. Told about the teacher with the cloudy urine, he said, "That is in such poor taste; I would reprimand that teacher."

"I am totally against discussion of personal problems, be they the teachers' or the students' — we have guidance counselors for that," Reynolds said.

When told one of his teachers who was going through a divorce invited a student to spend the weekend with her and play racquetball, he said, "That would be out of line." And when told of one of his students whose befriended teacher told her about "other students who would tick her off," Reynolds said that, too, was "out of line ... very unprofessional."

"Sometimes we do have a problem with the young teachers; they think they have to be friends (with the students). Kids are real funny. If they like you, they will pass and make as to please you. There's a fine line between what's appropriate and what's not. Criticism of other students and personal remarks are definitely out of line," Reynolds added.

When told about the situations being reported by students, although he expressed some tolerance for casual classrooms and student-teacher friendships, he said much of the conduct was unwarranted and he would hold a series of teacher work sessions to "clear up what is appropriate and what is not."

He said he believes in some pupil-teacher camaraderie "but not peer-based."

"I don't want teachers talking about personal problems with kids or wasting valuable class time. But we don't expect them to stay on task sixty minutes a day, one hundred and eighty days a year. Sometimes talking about non-class things is okay, but generally just at the end of a period. Once in a while they need to spice it up or sit back and talk about things going on in society, to understand right and wrong."

He said the LMHS administration does monitor its 140 teachers' performance with walk-in visits every day. Then, depending on the teacher's tenure, he or she will be evaluated from two to six times a year. "We notice if the students are on task; if there is a problem we do an evaluation and give hints on teaching." He said sometimes the teachers get "very emotional" in their reactions to criticism or suggestions, but he said generally problems can be handled and the response is cooperative.

At SHS, Principal Wayne Epps wanted more information on who the teachers were that the students had mentioned, and he said he would handle the situations on "an individual basis." He said he saw no need to call the teachers all together for a work session to remind them of appropriate and inappropriate behavior, if indeed, the problems were only with a few.

Of the cases in question, he said the behavior on the part of teachers was "very unprofessional" and "I would take action."

But concerning the general trend toward a looser style classroom, he said he was in agreement "up to a point."

"My philosophy is that to teach students effectively, the most ideal circumstance is to have a variety of all different styles of teaching throughout the school day — it makes it more interesting."

His 110 teachers are evaluated "several times a year," with the newer ones being checked more frequently. Epps said if he hires a new teacher the students let him know within a week what they think of him or her.

As to what a professional therapist who specializes in teenagers and the family thinks of casual classrooms and deeply personal dialogue, Bob Dixon, who is associate director of Psychological Technologies in Longwood, said it may be the teachers who need some therapy.

"Are the teachers becoming more focused in meeting their own needs, in order to make them think they are worthwhile people?" he pondered.

To him it seemed, "In order to get the acceptance of their students, they (the teachers) are getting a little looser, but they are not meeting the students' needs because most children do respond better when limits are set and are very clear. Authority is usually more respected because you know who's in charge and what is expected."

He said freedom does allow some creativity, "but it depends on the degree to which the students are self-motivated — only the very top students. But if the student is not feeling good about being in class, it won't work," Dixon said.

Mrs. Martin, one of the teachers interviewed who used the relaxed atmosphere, said her students are "average," not superior. But one teacher, Ms. Oxford, said hers are advanced students.

Dixon went on to add his theory of what teachers should be imparting to their students.

"The thing is," he said, "teachers should help students identify some purpose for the learning, such as with math which is hard to make relevant. Get the students involved in discussion, because there is a difference between learning and performing in a classroom. The students who participate learn more; those who don't might take a test with pencil and paper, but they are just performing."

Principal Sets Talks

Wayne Epps, Seminole High School principal, said today he will hold conferences to assess teaching techniques in light of the first in a series of articles the Sanford Herald is publishing on the subject. The first story ran Sunday, the second story is in today's issues.

The series deals with classroom atmosphere and points to several cases in which teacher preference is for a more informal method in which some share intimate details of their personal life with students. Epps' comments in today's story indicate he would have to evaluate any such conduct on an individual basis to determine if it's a problem. This morning, Epps contacted the Herald to say he was scheduling the conferences after having read the first story in the series.

Stalled Highway Funds Said Threatens Jobs, Spur Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional failure to allocate federal highway funds is jeopardizing thousands of jobs nationwide and forcing states to consider gasoline tax increases to make up for lost revenues, critics say.

The Highway Users Federation, a non-profit coalition that follows road finance affairs, predicts 39 states will debate raising gasoline and diesel fuel taxes this spring to keep highway constructions going.

The Road Information Program, TRIP, reports the current freeze of the highway program is sending shockwaves through the economy with millions of dollars in projects already halted. The transportation research organization says each $1 billion reduction in federal highway funds means a loss of 41,600 jobs.

Lebanese Hostage Freed Unharmed; Waite Still Sought

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Unidentified gunmen released an abducted adviser to President Amin Gemayel, and an American Arab leader defied a U.S. ban on travel to Lebanon in a bid to free missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite and other captives.

Security sources said presidential adviser Jean Obeld was let go by the unidentified gunmen Sunday after three days in captivity in Moslem West Beirut and handed over to Interior Minister Abdallah Al Racy.

Twenty-eight foreigners, including eight Americans, are missing and feared kidnapped in civil war-torn Lebanon. Thirteen of the hostages were taken since Waite arrived in Beirut Jan. 12 for his latest mission.

Druze Moslem militia chief Walid Jumblatt indicated Sunday that the pro-Iranian Hezbollah movement was holding Waite, the envoy of the archbishop of Canterbury. Waite has been missing since Jan. 20.

"We are in contact with Hezbollah and hope they will respond and release Terry Waite, if he is held with them, because this issue is illogical and not acceptable," Jumblatt said.

Beirut Refugee Camp Gets Food

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Amal militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas fought with machine guns and grenades today around a beleaguered Beirut refugee camp where thousands of people face starvation, security sources said.

However, Amal leaders approved the partial lifting of their siege of the Palestinian refugee camp at Rashidlyeh, about 46 miles south of Beirut near the port of Tyre, a Palestinian source said.

Iranian mediators persuaded Amal to allow Palestinians to leave the devastated camp for several hours a day to buy food and seek medical care, the source said.

The mediators also supervised the dispatch of more relief aid for Rashidlyeh's estimated 18,000 inhabitants Sunday despite Amal's military blockade, the source said.

Begun's Family Awaits Word

MOSCOW (UPI) — The wife of imprisoned Hebrew teacher Yosif Begun awaited proof today that her husband had been freed as reported by a prominent Soviet official.

Georgi Arbatov, head of the U.S.A. and Canada Institute and a member of the Central Committee, said during an interview Sunday on the CBS News program "Face the Nation" that Begun "is now free."

"I know what Mr. Arbatov said," Begun's wife Inna said by telephone from her Moscow apartment. "But I have no information on my husband. We are waiting for anything. I think it must be true."

A week of demonstrations calling for the release of Begun and free emigration for Jews ended Saturday. On Friday, a demonstration ended in a violent attack by plainclothesmen who kicked and beat demonstrators and Western reporters.

Prime Time Villain In The Boardroom

If you're starting to confuse page one with prime time, you're not alone. People who study television as a reflection, however skewed and overdramatized of real-life phenomenon, have lately discovered what many couch potatoes probably already knew: The businessman has become television's prime villain.

J.R. Ewing was only the first in a long line of white-collar heavies who have replaced pistol-packing gangsters as Public Enemy No. 1. A professor at the University of Pennsylvania calculated that one-third of all businessmen portrayed in TV dramas are crooks, often even murderers.

Why? Since TV follows trends rather than setting them, it's pretty obvious that what's happening in the real world must have something to do with it: the growth in the newest form of corporate piracy, "green-mail," price-gouging by defense contractors, the selling of inside information on Wall Street and the general impression that today's me-generation business-and-law-school graduates are possessed of nothing more than unbridled greed. One could go on.

Surprisingly, business executives have raised scarcely a peep of protest about the trend.

"These shows are melodramas and have nothing to do with the real world," one New York banker said. And Barney Rosenzweig, producer of "Cagney & Lacey," which has zeroed in on toxic pollutants among others, acknowledges that while most real-life businessmen are honest, so many other groups, ethnic ones in particular, are now off-limits; entrepreneurs therefore are an easy and comparatively non-controversial target.

"We don't do reality" on TV, he added.

Maybe not, but a Public Broadcasting System report titled "Hollywood's Favorite Heavy," shows a discussion with Brooklyn high school students in which those taking part say they admire J.R. Ewing and his ilk and that, as quoted by The New York Times, "they would do whatever was necessary to protect their business — even dumping toxic wastes or selling drugs."

That bleak observation can lead to one of two conclusions: that either some Americans are confusing reality with fantasy, or, even worse, that they aren't. In either case, blaming television for distorting reality, however tempting, largely misses the point. Those videotape fantasies, unfortunately, seem to be born in a world that's all too real and by no means confined to the corporate boardroom.

File 13 The W-4

As the British would say, it's a "caution." The new W-4 form, which the IRS has laid upon us, is pure bureaucratism and computer-compounded.

Subtitled the Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, the W-4 is supposed to be a do-it-yourself tax return, sans accountant. Don't believe it.

Treasury Secretary James A. Baker must have read the form this past week; at least he held a press conference and said that the form will be revised and that anyone making an honest effort to be accurate will be forgiven if wrong.

Thus the miracle: It isn't often that a bureaucrat admits a possible mis-step. The W-4 should be made part of the Paperwork Reduction Act.

Now Is Time For Supply-Side Detente

Now is the time for Ronald Reagan to reassess, and perhaps redirect, American foreign policy. It can help America, and help Reagan. Call it "supply-side detente."

Something is going on in the Soviet Union. It's called "glasnost," a Russian word meaning "openness," but perhaps encompassing more than that.

To review the bidding: Some of the harsh strictures in the Soviet Union have been relaxed somewhat. How much has happened is the subject of much debate.

Anatoly Shcharansky was allowed to emigrate. Andrei Sakharov was released from exile. That's just two people. This month, however, a larger number of dissidents were released.

There also seems to be change on the emigration front. In all of 1986, there were only 914 Jewish emigres. In just the first month of this year, the Soviets claim that permission to leave was given to 500.

There are articles appearing in Soviet newspapers these days that are critical of Soviet government practices. Artists and musicians who had defected are now being asked to return to an allegedly freer Russia.

There are many caveats, however. Yes, more emigres may be coming out, but the emigration law was changed in a way that may end up more restrictive. Yes, there are criticisms of government — but directed against Gorbachev's adversaries in the system. No one has publicly criticized the boss. Yes, a few political prisoners have been released, but 5,000 to 10,000 remain, still subject to punishment in freezing isolation cells, without blankets, on a bread and water diet.

Yes, there is glasnost, but its purpose is not to enhance civil rights, but to unclog an inefficient and corrupt economy. Most important, there has yet to be any change in the substance of Soviet foreign policy. The genocide in Afghanistan continues.

How should we respond to all this? The way porcupines make love: carefully.

Glasnost, like "detente" before it, poses painful choices to a democracy like ours. By the time President Ford expunged the word "detente" from American diplomatic parlance, "Detente is a one-way street" had become an everyday metaphor. We increased trade with the Soviets and signed documents about human rights. We slowed down military spending. The Soviets took the trade, ignored human rights, built up their military and advanced in the Third World.

This time we need a supply-side, hard-headed detente. When the Soviets supply mini-steps, we can consider supplying mini-responses and explain our actions. If the Soviets supply serious changes in foreign policy or human rights, we can consider supplying responses in kind.

Glasnost offers an opportunity for Reagan. He's slumping. He ought to call together a new foreign policy working group. It should include his own Cabinet-level foreign policy officials and also key congressional players.

Reagan ought to tell them: "Look, we may have a new situation. I want you in on the takeoffs because I, or my successor, will need you to be in on the landings. Let's try to figure out a set of first principles together."

Such a high profile initiative might get us talking about the future of the world, rather than the past in Iran. That's a plus for Reagan.

Energy Bill Argument Inefficient

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Almost everyone who has considered whether the federal government should require energy-efficiency standards for major household appliances has endorsed the concept.

Industry trade associations representing firms that manufacture everything from air conditioners to television sets want national appliance efficiency standards, as do utility companies, consumer groups and conservation organizations.

But there is one influential dissenter — President Reagan. Invoking the dubious argument that uniform standards would intrude upon the "free market," he has repeatedly frustrated past efforts to establish them and now is threatening to thwart future attempts to initiate them.

In 1978, Congress approved and President Carter signed into law the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, which required the Department of Energy to formulate standards that would reduce the amount of electricity used by more than a dozen household appliances.

Four of those appliances — furnaces, water heaters, space heaters and central air conditioners — are responsible for almost 15 percent of the country's total energy consumption.

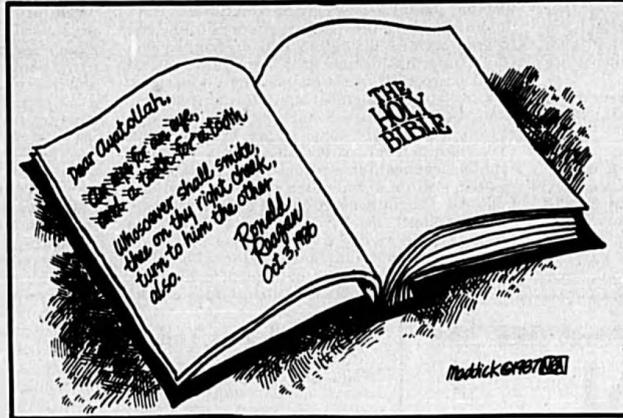

The remaining appliances — including clothes washers and dryers, humidifiers and dehumidifiers, ranges and ovens, refrigerators and freezers, room air conditioners, televisions and dishwashers — account for an additional 5 percent to 7 percent.

DOE had not yet completed drafting the rules required to implement the 1978 law when Reagan became president — and ordered that the entire proceeding be abandoned.

In 1985, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here ruled that Reagan's DOE appointees acted improperly when they refused to enforce the law on the grounds that the standards would not save a significant amount of energy and therefore were not economically justified.

After the General Accounting Office investigated DOE's failure to implement the law, it concluded that the Reagan administration relied upon "highly questionable" procedures in which data was blatantly manipulated to reach preconceived conclusions.

Congress approved a new version of the appliance efficiency standards law shortly before it adjourned last year — but Reagan withheld his signature and thus "pocket vetoed" the legislation.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Dust Off Old Answers

Q. Mr. Democratic Leader, the index of leading economic indicators surged 2.1 percent in December — the biggest gain in nearly four years. The inflation rate is down from 13 percent to 2 percent annually. Interest rates have been cut by two-thirds, from 21.5 percent to 7.5 percent. The unemployment rate stands at 6.6 percent, the lowest level since March 1980 (and lower than Canada's or that of any major West European nation). The Dow Jones average crested above 2200 recently — a new record, needless to say. Even the famous annual budget deficits are declining, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the gross national product. What do you have to say about all this?

A. The real question is, what did Reagan know and when did he know it? And, if he didn't know it, why didn't he? He vowed never to deal with terrorists in trying to free our hostages in Lebanon, then secretly dealt with the government of Iran, which I say amounts to the same thing. How can anyone ever believe America's word again?

Q. Yes, well ... but let me stick with the economy for a moment if I may. Even the number of Americans below the poverty level has been dropping recently — to 14 percent, or 33.1 million in 1986, from 14.4 percent in 1984. What's more, that doesn't even take into account the value of all the non-cash benefits that the poor are given. If you treated them as income, all the food stamps, housing subsidies and medical assistance there would mean anywhere from 2.7 to 11.5 million fewer Americans "in poverty." And the Congressional Budget Office recently reported that the value of government benefit programs is soaring.

A. What about those funds Ollie

North apparently diverted to the Nicaraguan contras? That was done at a time when Congress was prohibiting the expenditure of U.S. funds on military aid for the contras. If that was in fact our money, and if it was in fact spent that way, somebody violated the law. How high up did the knowledge go? Should Reagan be impeached?

Q. Well, if you want to discuss foreign affairs, OK. The guerrillas carrying out armed attacks in South Africa are routinely armed with Kalashnikov rifles and other Soviet-made weapons. At the airport of Lubango, in communist-dominated Angola, an American reporter wrote that "The roar of Soviet-built MIG-21 and MIG-23 jet fighters, piloted by Angolans newly returned from Moscow, fills the air."

Late last year Chilean security authorities discovered a Soviet-supplied arsenal in a Pacific fishing cove consisting of 348 rifles, 210,000 rounds of ammunition and 30 tons of grenades and other explosives. West German military intelligence reported in November that commando units from the Soviet Union and other East-bloc countries, disguised as truck drivers, sailors and tourists, regularly penetrate Western Europe, photographing bridges, fuel depots and other potential targets. On Oct. 18 dozens of wooden ammunition crates from an unknown source, containing fuses for explosives, washed ashore at West Palm Beach, Fla. Do these events suggest anything to you?

A. Reagan must fire his chief of staff, Don Regan, as well as Secretary of State Shultz and Defense Secretary Weinberger. He should also consider a trial separation from Nancy. Then he should announce that he made an awful mistake, that he is terribly sorry, and that he won't ever do it again.

VINCENT CARROLL

Is It A Crisis, Or Not?

Public-health officials abuse their calling when they begin to act like politicians. Unfortunately, fear of appearing insensitive to homosexual rights seems to have undermined their resolve to battle AIDS.

How else to explain the gap between official words and deeds? First our health experts insist that AIDS has percolated from such "high-risk" groups as homosexual men and intravenous drug users into the general population and that a medical catastrophe looms. One high official actually gave AIDS the edge in deadliness over the Black Death.

In the very next breath, however, many of these officials resist calls for notifying former partners of those infected with the AIDS virus — a moral duty if ever there was one and a common practice in the case of less serious venereal diseases.

Still more officials dismiss proposals for truly decisive measures, such as screening marriage-license applicants or hospital patients for exposure to AIDS. Their revealing rationale: Wider testing could invade individual privacy, or the results might be improperly released. Besides, they say, the tests probably wouldn't uncover enough infected people to make them worthwhile.

Got that? We're all at risk but somehow not really at risk, or anyway not quite yet at risk — although we could be or indeed will be soon. And no matter how dangerous it is out there, we can never really find out, because the right to privacy apparently supersedes everything else, including the right to life.

Perhaps the most pathetic expression of this logic occurred on a recent "MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour." Having asserted that "premarital screening (and) the screening of all hospital admissions don't address the heterosexual transmission (of AIDS) in an appropriate fashion," Ronald Bayer of the Hastings Center at Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., was pressed to define just what was acceptable.

The answer: Nothing more or less than the system now in place. Bayer said testing should be administered "as an adjunct to counseling" for people sufficiently alarmed about their sexual histories to come in on their own.

Soldier Dies When Faulty Weapon Breaks

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Some Army tanks, weapons and helicopters are held together with dangerously substandard steel bolts, and at least one soldier has died as a result.

The bolts look like high-quality products, right down to the industry-code markings on their heads. But they break or crumble under stresses that the genuine article would withstand.

In 1985, two phony bolts on an American-made M109 self-propelled howitzer cost one soldier his life during exercises in Great Britain. The bolts, which were holding down a heavy hydraulic manifold that raises and lowers the 155mm gun, snapped and the soldier was pinned under the heavy manifold. He died of his injuries.

We've been trying for weeks to pry details of the tragedy out of the Army. The brass hats have released little information, but we have learned that the victim was probably a British soldier.

Through other sources, our associate Stewart Harris was able to obtain copies of the test results made on the ruptured bolts. The tests revealed a condition called hydrogen embrittlement, which leaves steel too fragile to withstand shocks like those produced by heavy artillery.

Hydrogen embrittlement is most common among steel bolts imported from Asia, but it is also found among domestically manufactured bolts. The condition is caused by failure to bake the bolts properly after they're plated.

In 1984, brittle bolts were found in gun mounts of the M1 Abrams tank; they snapped during tests at Aberdeen, Md. The tank manufacturer, General Dynamics, solved the problem by buying bolts from a highly regarded fastener firm, SPS Technologies of Jenkintown, Pa.

The same problem with steel bolts also grounded the Army's entire fleet of Apache helicopters last March after a bolt broke just as a chopper was lifting off. No one was injured, but the Apaches were grounded until April while all bolts were tested.

Lloyd Gilbert, an Army quality-control expert for 45 years before his retirement last year, told us the bolt problem exists because the Army rarely runs tests that could weed out substandard steel fasteners. Instead, he said, the brass hats rely mainly on contractors and distributors to "certify" that proper material has been used.

Gilbert first learned of the counterfeit bolt problem 2½ years ago, when a colleague brought him a bucket of bolts that workers had been unable to tighten without breaking. Gilbert called the American manufacturer whose distinctive mark was stamped on the bolts, only to be told that the company hadn't made that particular kind of bolt for 17 years.

The bolts turned out to be counterfeit bolts made in either Japan, Korea or Taiwan; they had not been heat-treated.

The Defense Industrial Supply Command found no hydrogen embrittlement in 781 steel bolts it tested, but there's a possibility that the Army's tests weren't sensitive enough. Raymond and Ilene Plummer, design and testing engineers in Toledo, Ohio, have devised a new method of testing that turned up 43 percent more substandard bolts than were found by the industry-approved procedure routinely used by the military.

Another steel bolt problem currently being investigated by the supply command is the counterfeit bolt problem 2½ years ago, when a colleague brought him a bucket of bolts that workers had been unable to tighten without breaking. Gilbert called the American manufacturer whose distinctive mark was stamped on the bolts, only to be told that the company hadn't made that particular kind of bolt for 17 years.

Raiders Upend Daytona

Houston's 32 Help SCC Grab Homecourt Site

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer
DAYTONA BEACH — Seminole Community College's Malcolm Houston scored 32 points to lead the Raiders to a 98-91 victory over Daytona Beach Community College Saturday night to earn the homecourt advantage for the Mid-Florida Conference post-season qualifying tournament in front of 1,001 fans at Daytona Beach CC.

Seminole finished its regular season with a 27-4 record and in second place the MFC with at 10-3. Daytona also finished its season at 27-4 and 10-3, but due to two losses to SCC lost the host site. Jacksonville's Florida Community College won the MFC with a 13-1 mark.

The qualifying tournament for the MFC's other berth at the state tournament begins tonight at the home floor of the third, fourth and fifth place teams. Daytona will host St. Johns Community College, Central Florida will host Santa Fe Community College, and there will be a coin toss for the host of the Lake City Community College and Valencia Community College game.

Seminole receives a first-round bye and will play the winner of the CFCC-SFCC game Wednesday at 9 p.m. The winners of the other two games will play at the SCC Health Center at 7 p.m. on Wednesday. The finals will be Thursday night at 7:30.

"I feel really good about this win," Raider coach Bill Payne said. "This is a hard to play in and very difficult to come away with a win."

Houston, who had been in a scoring slump, put on a brilliant performance to lead Seminole. "I knew I was in a slump and was tight going into every game," Houston said. "My wife, who is my biggest critic, just told me to relax and not get upset if I miss a shot. Just to keep playing and let the game come to me."

Houston heeded the advice after missing two three-point attempts in the early going to finish with 20 first-half points, including five three-pointers, to lead the Raiders to a 53-39 lead at the intermission.

Seminole went on to build the lead up to as many as 19 twice in the second half before the Scots, behind the play of Sanford's Darryl Merthie, came back to cut the lead to five with 4:30 to play.

Leading 86-65 with 8:40 remaining the Raiders were content on coming down and looking for the good shot. Daytona managed to turn the game into its favor by running the fast break to perfection.

Merthie, who finished with 30 points, started things off with a hitting one of two from the line. Levertis Williams then put down a jumper and Tony Bates dropped in a power move to cut the Raider lead to 84-73 with 7:39 to play.

Three minutes later, SCC's Claude Jackson then connected on a power move with 4:38 left to up the lead to 92-82. Merthie then came up with a steal and came up with a big three-point play as Houston fouled him during the shot. Williams came down and hit another basket, slicing the lead to 92-87 with 4:27 to play.

Darris Gallagher sank a pair from the line for the Raiders to up the lead to seven, 94-87, with 4:13 to play. Seminole then took care of the ball and ran the clock, using two big rebounds to take more time than the usual 45 seconds.

Darrell Harris then hit two free throws at the other end, cutting the lead back to five, 94-89, with 1:41 to play. Gallagher then hit the first of two from the line, and when the second missed, Houston swiped the rebound from Harris and the Raiders worked the ball to Barry Dunning who connected inside for a 97-89 lead with 46 seconds to play.

Bates came down and scored off a rebound with 17 seconds to play to bring the Scots within 97-91. Daytona, though, was forced to foul and could not convert on the offensive end on Bill Elliott, inside, moves past Davey Allison in Sunday's 500. Elliott won for second time in three years.

Elliott Thrives As Bodine's Fuel Gamble Comes Up Dry

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — The Daytona 500 remained free of accidents Sunday — on the track and atop the leader board.

For the second time in three years, Bill Elliott drove a Ford Thunderbird to victory in stock car racing's most prestigious event. Elliott led eight times for a total of 105 laps in the 200-lap race, taking his final advantage with three laps remaining as the Chevrolet Monte Carlo of defending champion Geoff Bodine ran out of gas.

"This victory has got to be a whole lot sweeter than the one in 1985," Elliott said after only the third accident-free Daytona 500 in 29 races. "In '85, I didn't know what to expect. We tried so hard this year to come out here and win, and it just thrilled me to death to cross that finish line first."

Elliott's Ford averaged 176.263 mph to edge Benny Parsons (Chevrolet) by six-tenths of a second. Richard Petty finished third in a Pontiac, followed by Buddy Baker (Oldsmobile) and Dale Earnhardt (Chevrolet), who last year had to pit for fuel while leading with three laps remaining. There were 28 lead changes involving 10 drivers and just four caution flags as an estimated crowd of 130,000 concentrated on machinery, not mishaps.

"It wasn't good enough," said the 49-year-old Petty, a record 7-time winner of the Daytona 500 but winless in Winston Cup competition since 1984. "The car felt terrible all day; it wasn't stable. I didn't see anybody stable today, at least over a long period of time."

Bodine, who led Elliott by 23 seconds with five laps remaining, tried to race his yellow car around the final 45 laps without a fuel stop.

"It was a calculated risk, but I think every team has tried it in racing," said Bodine, who went 42 laps without refueling earlier in the race. "We're an aggressive team, we take chances, and we'll live with this moment."

Bodine, who had won Daytona Speedway races Friday and Saturday, made his fourth stop for fuel at lap 155 and, when Elliott pulled in with 13 laps remaining, Bodine decided to force his Chevy to the outer limits. He needed to go the final 112.5 miles without replenishing the gas tank and, with only three laps remaining, the strategy appeared promising.

"I knew exactly what Geoff was gonna do," Elliott said. "It's typical for their car. Every time I see them, they try to go the distance. We knew we had to stop again, we came in and we did it. My crew did a great job on my last stop and that's what won us the race. When (crew chief and brother) Ernie told me Bodine's car was slowing down with three laps left, that kind of perked me right up."

Elliott set a Daytona 500 pole record last Monday with a clocking of 210.364 mph and he became the sixth pole-sitter to win the race. His dynamic crew needed just 6.3 seconds to add fuel with 13 laps left.

"I'm very pleased with the way my car ran," Baker said, "but we made a bad stop there at the end. We should have stopped with Bill Elliott, but we didn't, and then he gained that advantage on us."

Parsons, 45, has won just one Winston Cup race in the last five years. After finishing fifth here in 1986 in an Oldsmobile, Parsons was one of only 11 drivers to finish the full 200 laps Sunday.

"We picked up a horrendous push on the last tire change," Parsons said, "and the sun coming out at the end seemed to make my car start pushing. Am I happy with second? Yeah, I guess I am. I think everybody ran as hard as they could all day."

Petty, who can speak with authority after an international-record 41 victories in 500-mile races, was impressed with Sunday's competition.

"I saw a bunch of good driving out there today... some of the best I've seen in a long time," he said. "There's nothing at all like winning, but at least we got our stuff together and we're ready to go to the next race."

SAC Title Stays Up For Grabs

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole Athletic Conference season comes to a close tonight with the championship that was taken away from Lake Mary still up for grabs.

In tonight's games, Seminole High (14-8 overall, 7-2 in the SAC) is at Lake Brantley (14-8, 6-3); Lake Howell (20-3, 7-2) is at Oviedo (7-15, 2-7) and Lake Mary (3-24, 3-6) hosts Lyman (2-17, 2-7).

The SAC title could wind up in the hands of either Seminole or Lake Howell or there could be a two-way tie between the Seminoles and Lady Silver Hawks or a three-way logjam between Seminole, Howell and Brantley.

•Seminole can win the SAC if it defeats Lake Brantley and Oviedo upsets Lake Howell.

•Lake Howell will be SAC champion if it beats Oviedo and Lake Brantley downs Seminole.

•Seminole and Lake Howell will tie for the championship if they both are victorious tonight.

•If Lake Howell loses to Oviedo and Seminole is beaten by Brantley, there will be a three-way tie.

The SAC race became this confusing when Lake Mary was forced to forfeit 22 victories when guard Gabby Olden was declared ineligible by the Florida High School Activities Association. Lake Mary was unbeaten in the SAC until the decision.

ONE MOORE TRY

In a last-ditch effort, Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said Friday he is attempting to acquire a transcript from Olden's high school in Sweden which he hopes will satisfy the FHSAA eligibility requirements.

"I think the ruling was unfair because I don't think Gabby is a graduate student," Moore said. "I know we can't be anything about the games we had to forfeit but I hope to get her eligible for the district tournament."

Fred Rozelle, executive director of the FHSAA, said he would consider Moore's attempt. "If he does come up with a transcript, I would have to speak to her (Olden's) principal before I made any ruling," he said.

LONGWOOD — Saturday's initial stage of the Class 4A wrestle downs at Lyman High School offered few surprises for county teams.

Lake Mary, as expected, captured its fourth consecutive District 4A-4 championship with 193 1/2 points. Daytona Beach Mainland took second with 141 1/2 and Seminole grabbed third with 130. Lake Brantley (102 1/2), Lake Howell (88), DeLand (75 1/2), Lyman (44) and Port Orange Spruce Creek (22) were next in line.

"We qualified 11 guys for the regional," Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "We lost one kid (130-pounder Brad Winder) that I thought would make it but we gained one (heavyweight Dustin Simms) that I didn't figure on."

Six Rambles — Scott Flores (109), Wayne Clayton (116), Enrique Carbia (123), Rob Richards (136), Bill Richards (149) and Troy Jackson (Unlimited) — captured district crowns.

Peters said all six are legitimate regional championship threats. "We're taking a pretty good six-gun to Jacksonville," he said. "I'm not saying all six will win regional titles, but I do believe all six have good chances."

Wrestling

The top four finishers Saturday qualified for the regional at Jacksonville Forrest. It brings together districts 1, 2, 3 and 4 for the two-day tournament. Again, the top four advance to the state tournament at Lyman in two weeks.

Three of Lake Mary's studs — Jackson, Bill Richards and Flores — remained unbeaten.

•Senior Jackson, 21-0, won by default after Mainland's Shannon Wiggins was disqualified for stalling. "This is the fourth time I've wrestled him and I decided to run around him," Wiggins said. "I know what happens when you lock up with him." Jackson was leading, 7-1, when it was called in the third period.

•Senior Bill Richards, 25-0, pinned Lake Howell's Nate Hoskins at 3:28. "I got one of arms going this way and one going the other," Richards said. "I guess you could call it a pretzel."

•Junior Flores, 20-0, decisoned Mainland's John Coward, 10-2. Flores picked up four points with a reverse and back points in the last four seconds of the second period. "I just cross-faced him," the Joliet, Ill. move-in said. "I think that stunned him."

Along with the unbeaten, junior Wayne Clayton (116) mauled Seminole's state runner-up Sherrilton Mays, 10-0, junior Enrique Carbia (123) pinned Seminole's Larry Nathan at 5:03, junior Rob Richards (136) decisoned Lyman's Brad Beckman, 8-0. Rob Richards improved to 21-1-1. Bobby Denton (102) finished second while Shane Stanley (142), Tad Roman (189), Todd Wright (224) and Dustin Simms (HWT) all qualified in the consolation round.

Coach Glenn Maiolini's Seminoles crowned three champs, all in succession. Brothers Tracy (159) and unbeaten Troy (171) Turner were overwhelming favorites while No. 1 seed, but first-year grappler, Keith Denton (189) also lived up to expectations.

Peters Upset With Maiolini

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary wrestling coach Doug Peters, upset with the behavior of Seminole coach Glenn Maiolini during last week's dual match at Lake Mary, said Saturday he would send letters of protest to the Seminole Athletic Conference and the Florida High School Activities Association.

"There was no excuse for what he did," Peters said Saturday. "It was just out-and-out cheating. The worst part is he got the kid (Julius Bennett) to lie, too."

The controversy arose prior to the heavyweight match between Seminole and Lake Mary last Wednesday night. To wrestle at heavyweight, a grappler must weigh a minimum of 210 pounds. Peters said Bennett weighed in at 203 and Maiolini attempted to wrestle him although he did not make the weight minimum.

Wrestling

Maiolini and Bennett both said Bennett did weigh 211 pounds.

"I put down 211 because I thought that was his weight," Maiolini said Saturday night at the district tournament. "He had weighed around 210 all year and if he was less, he drank water to reach the right weight."

Official Rick Gilmore, who conducted the pre-match weigh-in, said he was not sure of the exact weight "but I know the wrestler (Bennett) was lighter than 210."

Gilmore then forfeited the match to Lake Mary heavyweight Dustin Simms. The Rams won the meet, 44-27.

Bennett, a freshman, became ill prior to the district weigh-in and did not qualify for the heavyweight class.

Lake Mary Wins District, McCorkle Wants More

By Chris Fister

Herald Sports Writer
While winning its first district title is definitely the highlight of Lake Mary's season, coach Larry McCorkle is hoping the Rams will come back down to earth and try to take at least one more step beyond.

The Rams played inspired soccer Saturday night in a 2-0 victory over Lyman's Greyhounds for the 4A-9 District Championship before 351 fans at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary, 20-3-4 for the season, advances to the 4A-5 Region playoff against Winter Park Tuesday night at 7 at Lake Mary. Lyman played the season at 13-6-4.

"We've taken a major step with the district win," McCorkle said. "The confidence level is definitely higher.

The guys feel they can play with teams of the caliber of Winter Park and know if they don't play well they can lose. So even though we've gotten some added confidence, I don't think we'll be overconfident."

Lake Mary and Winter Park, 19-2-4, have met just once this season and played to a 1-1 tie. Winter Park is the defending District 10 and Region 5 champions. The Wildcats advanced with a 2-1 victory over Orlando Colonial on Saturday.

"Talent-wise, we match up with them very evenly," McCorkle said. "The thing that concerns me most is Winter Park is defending regional champion and has the experience of having been there before."

Lake Mary had been to the district title game before but never come out on top until Saturday night. The Rams got a goal from Ernie Broenne late in the first half and another from Rick Broenne early in the second while the defense played another outstanding game.

The Rams created a number of good scoring opportunities in the first half but were turned away most of the time by Lyman defenders Shaller Bowers and Anthony Godhino. The Rams finally cashed in with 3:46 remaining on an indirect free kick. After two touches drew the Lyman wall in the other direction, Ernie Broenne grounded a ball through traffic and past concealed goalkeeper Kelly Walden.

Lyman had a late threat but ran out of time and, on the last sequence of the half, Lake Mary keeper Pete McNally was injured after taking a knee in the back from a Lyman player. McNally was able to finish the game in the net and McCorkle doesn't expect him to miss Tuesday's game.

Lake Mary upped the lead to 2-0 with 10 minutes gone in the second half when Rick Broenne dribbled by a defender and blasted a shot from 35 yards past a diving Walden.

Lyman then picked up the offensive pressure but could not crack the tenacious Lake Mary defense. The Greyhounds' hopes of repeating as district champions were pretty much put to rest when Bowers received a red card and was ejected from the game with 3:44 remaining. Lyman had to play the rest of the game at a man disadvantage.

Bowers received the plastic when, after a heated argument with McNally, he kicked the Lake Mary keeper in the leg.

"I thought we had a good effort, especially on defense where Lyman only had one really good opportunity," McCorkle said. "Offensively, we were a little too cautious. That's something we have to get over. We can't just settle in when we get the lead. We have to keep attacking and we need to have a couple other people scoring besides Ernie Broenne."

Irish Upset No. 16 Duke

United Press International

By playing well on three successive Sundays, Notre Dame may have ensured that on Sunday, March 8, it will receive an NCAA Tournament bid.

Notre Dame topped No. 16 Duke 70-66 in overtime Sunday, marking the second time in as many weeks the Fighting Irish beat a ranked team. Feb. 1, Notre Dame beat then-No. 1 North Carolina and followed that performance with a narrow loss at No. 17 Kansas Feb. 8.

"If it was tomorrow, we could play," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said of the NCAA Tournament. "We've proved we can play against the best."

Host Notre Dame converted 26 of 30 free throws, and the Blue Devils attempted only 15 foul shots, making 9.

"They hit free throws, got the fouls and put down some excellent shots," Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "It was disappointing, but they deserve recognition for their good job."

In the overtime, two freshmen — guard Joe Fredrick and center Scott Padgett — combined for 6 points to lead the Irish, who improved to 14-7. After Duke, 20-8, opened the scoring in overtime with a Billy King basket, Fredrick responded with a 17-foot jumper.

Malcolm Houston, right, gets a step on Daytona's Tony Bates en route to two of his game-high 32 points. SCC won, 98-91.

8 Records Tumble At Howell's Open

By Chris Fister

Herald Sports Writer
If Saturday's Lake Howell Open is any indication, 1987 figures to be a banner year for girls track in the Central Florida area.

Eight of 16 meet records were broken in Saturday's meet including one each by Seminole High's Dorchelle Webster and Shownda Martin and a total of five by the impressive Orlando Oak Ridge team.

Oak Ridge, second in the state to Seminole High last season, won Saturday's meet going away with 96 points compared to 63 for the Lady Seminoles and 39 for host Lake Howell and 29 for Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots. The Seminole County girls teams return to action Saturday at the Lake Brantley Open.

"This was really a quality meet," Lake Howell coach and meet director Tom Hammontree said. "We had 17 teams this year and most teams had 3 or 4 girls in each event where a lot of teams in the past had 1 or 2. It appears track is on an upswing for girls and it should be a very interesting year."

Martin, a junior, broke the meet record in the 440 dash with a blistering early-season time of 58.1. The old meet record was 60.1 by West Orange's Darlene Reed. Trinity Prep's Stacy Johnson was a distant second at 61.5 followed by Lake Howell's Nicole Compton at 62.9.

Martin also soared to first place in the 880 run with a time of 2:22.6, three seconds off her own record pace of last year. Lake Brantley's Lynn Gomezperalta was second at 2:27.5.

Webster, also a junior, shattered the meet record in the 330 low hurdles with a time of 45.3. The old record was 47.2 by Lake Howell's Rochelle Spearman in 1985. Webster also placed third in a relatively new event for her, the 110 high hurdles.

The Lady 'Noles also got a first from sophomore Tasha Wynn in the 300 dash (44.4) and won the mile relay as the team of Webster, Sherry Burgess, Martin and Sharina Johnson combined for a time of 4:15 compared to 4:16.3 for Lake Brantley and 4:20.3 for Lake Howell.

"The veterans (Martin, Webster, Wynn) did real well for us," Seminole coach Emory Blake said. "And the good part about it was after it was all over the girls felt they could have done better. I feel we're headed on the right track."

Lake Howell was led by its distance runners as it took four places in the two mile, two in the mile and came in second in the two mile relay.

In the two mile, Jenny Bolt was third (12:29.3), Martha Fonseca fourth (12:32.5), Mary Fonseca fifth (12:35.3) and Michelle Lee sixth (13:03.2). In the mile, Lisa Smith clocked second at 5:35.1 and Jenny Bolt was fourth at 5:40.3.

Gators, Alabama Expect To Go Down To The Wire

ATLANTA (UPI) —

Southeastern Conference basketball fans better hang on to their hats. It appears the race for this year's regular-season title and top-seed in next month's conference tournament is going right down to the wire.

Alabama's No. 14 Crimson Tide and Florida's No. 19 Gators have turned the race into a two-team derby that probably won't be settled until the two front-runners go head-to-head in their final regular-season game — Feb. 28 at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The Crimson Tide and Gators maintained their pace Saturday — Alabama (12-2 in the SEC and 19-4 overall) beating Louisiana State, 60-52, and Florida (12-3, 20-6) out-muscling Kentucky, 74-56.

In other SEC action Saturday, conference scoring leader (24.2 ppg) Tony White tallied a career-high 51 points while leading Tennessee to a 103-84 victory over Auburn; Georgia beat Vanderbilt, 75-59; and Ole Miss beat Mississippi State, 79-65.

Alabama has the schedule edge Wednesday, hosting Ole Miss while Florida visits Tennessee, but the Crimson Tide will be at Auburn Saturday when Florida plays a non-conference game with Miami.

Derrick McKey scored 21 points and Michael Ansluy led to lead Alabama over LSU. Darryl Joe and Nikita Wilson tallied 16 points apiece for the Tigers (8-9, 16-12), who must win their final three SEC games to avoid their first losing conference mark since 1977.

Andrew Moten scored 20 points to lead a balanced Florida attack against Kentucky and give the Gators their first 20-win season since 1967 when they won 21.

The score was tied at 35-all with 15 minutes to play, but Kentucky (8-6, 15-7), the defending SEC champion, couldn't keep pace after that despite a 22-point performance by Ed Davender.

Tennessee coach Don DeVoe says it will be a long time before White's 51-point school record is threatened.

Basketball

"Once in an orange moon you see an offensive show like Tony White put on tonight," said DeVoe. "Tony had one of his great individual games. We did a good job setting him up to get the ball."

"It was the finest effort I've seen in the conference since I've been here," said Auburn Coach Sonny Smith. "It was just too much Tony White."

White, who had 29 points in the first half, hit 15 of 20 shots from the field, including 3 of 3 three pointers, and sank 18 of 19 free throws. Previous best for the 6-foot-2 senior guard was the 49 points he got earlier this season against Florida State. The previous team record was 50 points scored by Ron Widby against LSU in 1967.

Vanderbilt jumped into a 22-9 lead over Georgia, but Vandy Coach C.M. Newton said he knew when he saw his team fall apart in the last five minutes of the first half that it was all over for his Commodores.

"When they started exerting half-court pressure we failed to execute," said Newton.

"Willie Anderson (who scored a career-high 28 points) went on a binge and scored a lot of points and we took the momentum," said Georgia Coach Hugh Durham. "We got some big steals and then went in with a 3-point lead (31-28) at halftime."

"During that time Anderson just had a great spurt," said Newton. "We seemed to let that affect us — the combination of them suddenly hitting everything they shot and the pressure defense and our lack of execution. Once they gained control, they established the tempo and did the things they had to do to keep the game at the pace they wanted."

Roderick Barnes had 23 points and nine assists to lead Ole Miss which avenged a one-point loss earlier in the season to Mississippi State.

IN BRIEF

Fatigue Dominates Edmonton, Oilers Fall To Capitals, 5-3

United Press International
Edmonton Oilers players dominated the NHL's roster last week at Rendez-Vous 87. Sunday night, fatigue dominated the Oilers.

Playing against a roster full of rested Washington Capitals, the Oilers fell 5-3 at the Northlands Coliseum — with none of Edmonton's All-Stars scoring a point.

"I think it turned out to be a good break in the scheduling for us, coming in here just after the All-Star break," said Washington forward Bob Gould, who scored two goals. "I think maybe we caught them a little off-guard with them having four or five in the All-Star series."

Actually, the Oilers sent six players to face the Soviet national team — five skaters and goaltender Grant Fuhr, who was rested Sunday night in favor of Andy Moog. The Capitals sent only defenseman Rod Langway.

"I think we have some tired hockey players," Edmonton Co-Coach John Muckler said. "We tried to get it going in the third, but had nothing left. It was a very emotional series against the Soviets. Plus, we haven't practiced together as a team for a whole week and that has to have its effect."

Elsewhere, Chicago beat Quebec 6-4, Minnesota downed St. Louis 3-2 and the New York Rangers topped Pittsburgh 4-1.

Sizzling Burns Surges Past Floyd

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — George Burns, a player accustomed to losing to railies by Raymond Floyd, surged past Floyd and four golfers Sunday to win the $500,000 Andy Williams Open.

Burns eagled two of the final nine holes to rally past the leaders and win with a tournament-record 22-under-par 266. Burns, who had begun the day in a four-way tie for second place, shot a 7-under 65 over the 7,021-yard Torrey Pines South Course, and finished four strokes ahead of J.C. Sneed and Bobby Wadkins.

Sneed and Floyd had entered the final round tied for the lead, but Sneed bogeyed three holes en route to a 71 and Floyd ended with a 74 for a 273 and a tie for fourth.

"Raymond Floyd has caught me from behind about three times in my career and today I did it to him," said Burns, who had been paired with Floyd during the first two days of the tournament.

Lady Raiders Bop Dade South

Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders picked up their second victory in Miami Saturday with a 72-66 decision over Miami Dade South Community College.

Seminole wrapped up its regular season at 18-7 and will now look ahead to the state tournament which begins Thursday, Feb. 26 at Jacksonville's Florida Community College. Dade South fell to 15-10 with the loss.

The Lady Raiders raced out to a 45-32 first half lead with Pam Jackson scoring 12 of her team-high 20 points before Dade South used a box-and-one on her in the second half.

"We just played well enough to win," SCC assistant Debbie Scherr said. "They outscored us in the second half but Heather (Peters) came on and did a good job for us."

Peters scored eight points in the second half coming off the bench for Seminole. Lisa Starks added 13 points while Paula White added eight and 11 rebounds. — Mark Blythe

Seabreeze Rallies Past Brantley

Daytona Beach Seabreeze used a 26-7 fourth quarter edge for a come-from-behind victory over Lake Brantley, 61-53, in nonconference basketball Saturday night at Daytona Beach.

The Sandcrabs improved to 15-7. The Patriots fell to 7-12 and will look to get on track when they travel to Seminole Tuesday night.

"We just ran out of gas," Brantley coach Steve Jucker said. "We just hope to get so momentum before we go into the district tournament."

Shawn Beckton scored a game-high 23 points to lead Seabreeze, as Brent Willis added 17 and Lawton Smith chipped in 11.

Brent Bell led the Patriots with 16, Doug Lawson added 15, and Darrel Leva pitched in 10.

Edberg Topples Injured Connors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, just back from a three-month vacation, withdrew from the final of the $315,000 U.S. Indoor men's tennis tournament Sunday with a knee injury and now faces five more weeks of inactivity.

The injury gave No. 2 seed Stefan Edberg his second Indoor title in the past three years. Edberg was leading 6-3, 2-1 when the match was halted.

Following the match, Connors was placed in a splint and on crutches by Associated Tennis Professionals trainer Todd Snyder.

Snyder said there is "no need for immediate surgery."

Garrison Too Quick For Hanika

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Zina Garrison, the quickest player in women's tennis, won the $150,000 Virginia Slims of California by defeating a player whose mobility was hampered by an ankle injury.

Garrison used her court speed and a deadly lob shot Sunday to defeat West Germany's Sylvia Hanika, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, in a controversial final.

In the deciding game of the third set, Garrison served with a 30-15 lead. Hanika lofted a return winner that the linesman ruled in. But chair umpire Norm Chryst overruled the linesman and gave the point to Garrison. Hanika returned the next serve into the net for the match.

8-Run Eighth Overhauls Raiders

Santa Fe Community College scored eight runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to come from behind and hand Seminole Community College its eighth consecutive loss, 13-7, Saturday at Santa Fe.

The Saints improved to 3-5 and 1-2 in the Mid-Florida Conference. The Raiders fell to 1-10 and 0-3.

Seminole pounded out 15 hits and jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning. SFCC tied it up in the bottom of the second and added another in the third.

Chad Sims had three hits including a home run to lead the Raiders. Ed Zahn and Kevin Hill each added three hits apiece. — Mark Blythe

Burton, Oswald Fuel Lyman Win

John Burton singled, doubled and homered while Ken Oswald hurled a two-hitter as the Lyman Greyhounds walloped Daytona Beach Mainland, 9-0, Saturday in nonconference baseball at Lyman High School.

Lyman, 1-1, returns to action tonight at 7:30 against Leesburg in its preseason tournament. Seminole takes on Titusville Astronaut at 5 p.m.

Israeli Leader Arrives In U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir arrived in the United States today for the first visit to Washington by an Israeli leader since the Iran arms deal surfaced in November.

Before he left Tel Aviv, Shamir said Israel has "nothing to hide" about its role in the scandal.

The prime minister landed at Kennedy International Airport at 7 a.m. on a special Israeli Air Force flight and was escorted off the field under heavy security.

Shamir was scheduled to meet with New York Mayor Edward Koch today at his midtown Manhattan hotel.

Shamir also was to meet with New York Republican leaders today. He was to be welcomed at the White House and see Secretary of State George Shultz Tuesday and meet privately with President Reagan Wednesday. His nine-day trip also will take him to Los Angeles to address the World Affairs Council.

Shamir told reporters before his departure Sunday night that he was not apprehensive about the visit to Washington and the prospect of close American scrutiny over Israel's role.

"We have nothing to hide, and I think we acted in accordance with our relations with the United States and in accordance with our conscience," the Israeli leader said. "We have announced our readiness to cooperate with the various bodies in the United States in the investigation."

Israel repeatedly has portrayed its role in the dealings as that of a middleman responding to a U.S. request to open the way for contacts with moderate elements in the Iranian government.

Shamir's coalition government rejected U.S. claims that it initiated the American weapons sales to Iran and proposed the scheme to funnel profits from the sales to the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels.

"I think that Israel has nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to be defensive about," Shamir told Israel radio Sunday. "Israel acted as it should have."

Shamir said last week he hoped to stress issues other than the arms sales during his nine-day visit.

On the agenda for his talks with U.S. officials and American Jewish groups were Soviet Jewish emigration, Israeli opposition to U.S. arms sales to Arab states, Middle East peace prospects and Israel's ties with South Africa.

Washington's preoccupation with the Iran arms affair threatened to overshadow the agenda.

Questions seemed likely to arise about a memorandum written by an aide to Vice President George Bush about a meeting last summer between Bush and Amiram Nir, a counter-terrorism adviser in the prime minister's office.

The Washington Post last week reported that Nir told Bush during the vice president's visit to Israel in July that the Israelis were "dealing with the most radical elements" in Iran because "we've learned they can deliver and the moderates can't."

The memo contradicts President Reagan's assertion that his administration was dealing with "moderates" in Iran and reinforces impressions Israel played a much more active role in carrying out the U.S. policy, which critics have said amounted to swapping arms for American hostages held by pro-Iranian extremists in Lebanon.

Accident-Prone Helicopters Grounded

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Marine Corps' fleet of accident-plagued CH-53E Super Stallion helicopters has been grounded until defective parts that can cause a gearbox to disintegrate are replaced, officials said.

Pending an inspection of a main gearbox assembly part on the choppers' No. 2 engines, there will be no flights of the CH-53Es from the Marine Corps Air Station in Tustin, Calif., as well as other bases across the country, Marine Lt. Col. Jerry Shelton said Saturday.

There have been five fatal accidents involving CH-53Es since 1984, resulting in the deaths of 20 Marines, but the newly identified problem is not being blamed for any of those crashes, Shelton said.

The twin-rotor, three-engine Super Stallions, which cost about $24 million each, are the workhorses of the Marine Corps, and are capable of carrying 32,000 pounds of equipment, or 55 combat-ready troops.

But since it was first put into operation in 1981, the military's largest and most expensive helicopter has compiled the worst safety record of any helicopter flown by the Navy or Marines.

A Pentagon spokesman said the Super Stallions were grounded after a manufacturing defect was found Thursday in one assembly that goes into the transmission, and it was discovered Friday that the problem was widespread.

A bulletin went out Saturday that the choppers are not to be flown until the part is replaced with an assembly inspected at the manufacturing plant, the spokesman said.

The CH-53 series, including the E, and the earlier A and D models, is manufactured by Sikorsky Helicopter Co. of Bridgeport, Conn. The CH-53Ds and CH-53As were not grounded.

A spokesman for the company declined to comment on the action.

Authorities became concerned about possible transmission problems after a Super Stallion was forced to make an emergency landing in an Orange County strawberry field in October, Shelton said.

"An emergency light came on and the pilot set down immediately," Shelton said. "He got it down in time, but just barely."

No one was injured, but an investigation determined that the ship had developed transmission trouble just before it was forced down.

"Examination of the parts that malfunctioned in that landing led to further investigation and resulted in this grounding," Shelton said. "The problem then was in the main gearbox in the No. 2 engine. Part of the gearbox started disintegrating and pieces came out of it."

Super Stallion pilots at the Tustin Marine base told the Orange County Register the defect involves a flaw in the cast metal "bull gear," a mechanism that is part of the linkage between the engine and the shaft that turns the main rotors.

Sources at the base told the Register the bull gear in the helicopter that made the emergency landing in Irvine was essentially brand new.

Used exclusively by the Navy and Marine Corps, there are more than 90 of the giant helicopters deployed worldwide, including 43 at the Tustin base.

A Pentagon spokesman said swapping the suspect gearbox should take less than 10 hours. In the most recent Super Stallion crash, five Marines were killed Jan. 8 when their helicopter crashed near the Salton Sea in inland California. The cause of that crash has not been determined.

Appraisers On Agenda For Lake Mary

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary City Commissioners will meet 7:30 p.m. today for a special meeting to discuss the selection of appraisers for the property that is being considered for the city's proposed city hall.

City Manager Bob Norris, said today that he did not receive the number of "quotations" he had hoped for and would recommend that the commissioners reject them until further advertising for more appraisers can be done.

He said that two appraisers had responded to notices sent to appraisal institute certified appraisers in the tri-county area and the commission had hoped for at least three.

In a work session after the meeting, commissioners will consider:

- An ordinance to vacate a portion of Sun Drive.
- The Forest per ponds.
- The mechanical pump discharge for Lake Mary Woods into Lake Bingham.

• Approval of construction plans for Webster Street paving and drainage from Main Road to Lake Road.

• The arbor ordinance.

• Request for final subdivision approval of Lake Mary Woods, Phase II.

• Request for final subdivision approval of Lake Mary Woods, Phase III.

• Resolution providing for special assessments for drainage improvements associated with paving Evansdale Road.

Birthday Party In George, Washington

GEORGE, Wash. (UPI) — A cake big enough to feed 800 people was baked to serve as the centerpiece of tonight's celebration honoring the first president in a 30-year-old central Washington community named after him.

About 2,000 people from surrounding towns, ranches and farms were expected to pack the George community hall for bingo playing, dart throwing and cake-eating.

"It's as big as a door — an outside door," said Edith Brown, 81, one of the cake bakers. The cake has a frosted high-flying eagle and a portrait of the first president. She said the giant dessert "will cut for about 800 people," adding, "We bake more cakes to feed the rest."

Brown and her late husband, Charles, a pharmacist, founded the community, about 100 miles southeast of Seattle, in 1957 at the suggestion of officials from the federal Bureau of Reclamation.

"They had just formed an irrigation district and wanted to make a town anyway," said Edith Brown. "They were asking for bids, so we and some friends started talking and decided to make a bid ourselves. We got it."

syndrome that often but not always develops into the deadly disease.

"We've been treating the ARC patients for a year and none of them have developed any opportunistic infections and none have gone on to develop AIDS, both of which (are) rather surprising," Plotnikoff said.

The results on cancer patients were less encouraging, he said, in that no significant reductions were seen in the advanced cases. But the drug did bolster the patients' immune systems and did prevent other infections that often afflict patients, such as pneumonia.

"I see this as a possible adjunct treatment for cancer patients coming off chemotherapy," Plotnikoff said. "It could be very helpful in preventing complications."

Plotnikoff said plans are under way to expand the testing of methione encephalin on ARC-patients.

Ideally, he said, the drug would be tested in conjunction with an antiviral agent such as the experimental AZT, which reduces spread of the disease but does not restore immune function. Research protocols require the drugs to be tested separately until the effect of each is known.

tween Project Democracy and the Iran-Contra operations, Carl Gershman, the organization's president, told United Press International in a telephone interview Sunday. "We are a non-profit, private institution and we have nothing to do with what was discussed in The New York Times."

Project Democracy, now publicly known as the National Endowment for Democracy, was established to give federal money and other assistance to democratic institutions worldwide.

But the Times said Sunday that a covert side existed and gradually evolved into a nearly independent foreign policy branch, complete with its own leased ships and airplanes, communications systems, bank accounts and secret envoys.

"If something covert was set up, it was a perversion of the concept," said Gershman. "The endowment was established in November 1983 and we got under way in early 1984. There was no reference to 'Project Democracy,'" as described in the Times report.

"I'm certainly as curious as anyone else," said Gershman. "I don't know that it exists. I've never come across anything by that name."

"Every penny has been completely accounted for," he added. "We're very proud of what we're doing. We need an explanation as well as you do."

Tallahassee. Adopted by the league's full membership were packages prepared by Mrs. Smith and her fellow legislative and ethics committee members.

These policies are among the "many" that will be lobbied for this year, Mrs. Smith said.

Among the leagues' priorities are less state constraint to enable "more home rule" for cities, including increased "flexibility" with the means municipalities can use to raise funds, Mrs. Smith said.

The Florida league also wants the lawyer-client relationship exempted from the state Government in the Sunshine and Public Records laws, Mrs. Smith said. The laws' require public access to municipal discussions and documents, which prevents the client-counsel "confidentiality" privilege when elected officials and attorneys must publically prepare legal strategies, Mrs. Smith said.

Vanna's Sig Up For Grabs At 'Dream Auction'

TV celebrity Vanna White autographed a wheel of Fortune game Thursday for State Rep. Art Grindle when she and her television sidekick Pat Sajak were in Sanford on a promotional whistle stop. The game is one of the many items Grindle will auction off at Seminole Community College's Dream Auction Thursday night at the Altimonte Hilton. A few tickets, at $75 per person, are still available. For information, call 323-1450, ext. 505.

Capt. Maureen L. Harrison Bride Of Capt. D.W. Coker

Capt. Maureen Louise Harrison of Sanford and Ft. Lewis, Washington State, and Capt. David William Coker of Newport News, Va. and Seoul, Korea were married at 1:00 p.m. on Dec. 27 at the Fort Myers Post Chapel in Arlington, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harrison of 3507 Park Ave., Sanford, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Coker of Newport News, Va.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her nuptials a handmade gown of satin taffeta trimmed in astrac chrysal lace with Elizabethan sleeves and a fitted bodice. Her headpiece was a Juliet cap with a flowing veil. She carried a bouquet of Rubrum lilies and burgundy carnations.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Lt. Tamara Harrison-Sargent of Hunter Air Field, Savannah, Ga. She wore a burgundy satin gown with empire neck and scalloped hem. Bridesmaids were: Barbara Darr, sister of the bridegroom; Capt. Kayla Paget of Ft. Lee, Va.; and Capts. Catharine Shrader and Sue Walden of Ft. Lewis, Wash. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom wore a dinner dress blue army uniform. Best man was Maj. Edward Woynta, Ft. Bragg, N.C. Groomsmen were: Dayle Darr of Newport News, Va., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Kevin Harrison of St. Louis, Mo., brother of the bride; Maj. Mickey Hogan of Seoul, Korea and Major Peter Anderson, Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Ring bearer was Eric Halluska, godson and nephew of the bride. Eric, 4, was attired in a miniature full dress army uniform identical to the bridegroom's. It was handmade for him in Korea.

During the ceremony, Dr. Robert Coker, father of the bridegroom sang the "Lord's Prayer." Colleen Preston and Margie Halluska, sisters of the bride, did readings from scripture. The mothers of the bride and bridegroom participated in the ceremonial lighting of the unity candle.

Upon leaving the chapel the bride and bridegroom were escorted into a horse-drawn carriage to be taken to the Ft. Myers Officers Club where the reception was held.

Out-of-town guests, who came from throughout the United States, Germany and Korea were feared at a lavish dinner Friday evening before the wedding, hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Coker and held at the home of Gen. and Mrs. Ray Preston of Arlington, Va.

Former Sanford resident, Mrs. Mary Hudome and daughter Rea, were among the guests.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii and Seoul, Korea, the bride returned to Ft. Lewis, Va., to await the return in March of her husband from Korea.

Lawyers Who Defend Rights Are Wronged By Deadbeats

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letters from the doctors who complain because they have thousands of dollars "on the books." Well, I've been married to an attorney for 10 years and I do all the billing, and if we could collect all the bad debts we have on our books we could buy our dream house — for cash!

People come to my husband when they're in trouble, pay a retainer and promise to make monthly payments, and one-fourth of them stop paying as soon as their case is completed. When I call to remind them that they are three months behind, they say they can't pay because they just had a baby (my husband and I have three children to support), or they can't pay in December or January because they bought a new TV or VCR for Christmas.

Dear Abby

One man even told me he wasn't going to pay his bill because he had tears in his eyes when he signed the contract and couldn't read it properly!

Lawyers are called "money grubbers" because they ask for payment in advance. My husband puts in hundreds of hours per year free of charge to help poor people understand their rights, and he has handled many cases at greatly reduced rates for those in need.

When people go into a store to buy merchandise they don't mind paying for it, but for some reason when they buy a service, they don't feel an obligation to pay for it.

When a person goes to work for an employer, he expects to be paid. My husband's clients are his employers, and if they don't pay him, we can't live. Please print this, Abby. Lawyers are as important as doctors.

ATTORNEY'S WIFE,
SANTA ANA, CALIF.

DEAR WIFE: I hear you, and I hope others who buy a service will listen and understand. I am reminded of an ancient Chinese saying: "A wise dentist collects his fee while the patient's tooth is still aching."

Friends Of The St Johns Needs Administrative Help

"Are you looking for interesting volunteer work in support of an important community effort?" Richard Fowler, retired admiral, asks.

Fowler says The Friends of the St. Johns, Inc. needs administrative help. The organization, formed in 1975 for the purpose of preserving, restoring, and protecting the St. Johns River for future generations, is operated entirely by volunteers. Many important officers will be replaced in April because the incumbents are no longer able to serve.

Daryl McLain, president of the Friends of the St. Johns, says a secretary and a membership chairman are "urgently needed to keep the organization operating." Any interested person with organizational or administrative abilities would be qualified to serve. Other important work is also available such as writing and publishing the newsletter, publicity, and liaison with local and state government agencies and other environmental organizations.

The Friends of the St. Johns promotes the restoration and preservation of the ecology of the entire St. Johns River Basin, its lakes and tributaries, its fishery, water fowl and other wild life, and reduction of pollution and littering of its waters and adjacent lands, and it strives to see that a minority of citizens do not obstruct the rights of the majority through misuse of wetlands, pollution, or diversion of water from the river.

Anyone interested in working in the organization is asked to contact Daryl McLain, 323-8142, or Richard Fowler, 323-9564.

New Export Credit Rules Expected

DALLAS (UPI) — The European Community's approval of a new set of rules governing mixed export credits has brought the United States closer to resolving an international trading practice it long has considered unfair.

The community's finance ministers approved the rules in Brussels recently against the objections of West Germany and the Netherlands.

The rules were formulated last month by the 24-member Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development. The OECD includes the 12-member Common Market and also the United States, Japan, Canada and nine other nations.

The practice of mixed credit as a way to promote exports has become widespread because of the growing competition among developed countries to win lucrative project contracts in the developing countries.

In a mixed credit program, an exporting country mixes its development assistance funds with its export agency financing or commercial export credits.

The development assistance funds in the mixed credit program generally are given as soft loans at highly concessional terms or as grants. They generally are small but sufficient to convince a recipient that it is getting an attractive deal.

Because of the way they are structured, mixed credits tend to give an unfair advantage to an exporting country whose domestic market interest rates are lower than the global rates.

The United States has opposed the practice because its higher interest rates have prevented U.S. corporations from competing with their foreign competitors and also because of its tradition of keeping development assistance programs separate from export promotional activities.

Doctor Says Nasal Polyps Can Reoccur

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am over 50 and having trouble with nasal polyps. My doctor says I can control them with medication or have them cut off although they may regrow. Are there any new developments?

DEAR READER — Nasal polyps are common in people with inhalational allergies, like hay fever. Perhaps removal of the polyps, followed by treatment for your allergies (with shots or medicine), may solve your problem and keep the polyps away. See an allergist for his or her opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I suffered from acute depression for years. The last psychiatrist told my children I would end my days in a mental institution. Then, because of a throat infection, I visited an ear, nose and throat specialist. She got suspicious, had lab work done and discovered I had hypothyroidism. She took me off "psychiatric" medicines and put me on Synthroid, which she monitors carefully. My recovery was immediate and amazing.

I am now in full possession of my faculties, my nerves are steady as a rock, I have become outgoing and my libido has risen considerably. Why don't doctors routinely check the thyroid function when a patient is depressed?

DEAR READER — An underactive thyroid gland can indeed cause depressive symptoms. The cautious and thorough physician should obtain thyroid blood tests on all patients who suffer from chronic depression. This is simply good medical practice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently I have been taking the following amino acids for weight control: 500 milligrams of L-Ornithine, 500 milligrams of L-Phenylalanine and 1,000 milligrams of L-Arginine. Do these really help burn fat?

DEAR READER — They don't burn fat. Amino acids are used to make protein. They have no place in treatment of obesity.

You may be the victim of diet quackery and a current fad that encourages the use of high-priced amino-acid supplements. This quackery claims that amino acid megadoses will promote weight loss, lengthen life and retard aging. In fact, the body treats these supplements as just another food and excretes most of the megadoses. To lose weight effectively (and permanently), you need to eat a balanced diet and, at the same time, reduce your caloric intake. In short, eat less. I'm sending you a free health report on weight reduction.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Since his retirement as chairman of the board of the international pharmaceutical company Syntex, George Rosenkranz has had more time for bridge. Unselfishly, instead of just competing more often, George has written a book about trump leads. "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Trump Leads and Were Not Afraid to Ask." Today's deal, taken from the first chapter, "When Not to Lead Trumps," features an interesting hand from the 1961 World Championship in Buenos Aires. Peter Leventritt, sitting West, was one of the unfortunate Americans playing against the great French pair Bacherich and Ghestem. North played South for having more strength than he did; hence the unusual jump to three hearts. Because West wanted to cut down on dummy's ability to ruff clubs, he led the heart three. Note the unhappy result. Declarer played low from dummy and took East's queen with his ace. Next came a low diamond to dummy's Jack. East won the king and returned the spade 10, covered by the Jack, queen and ace. Now a diamond was ruffed, a heart played to the Jack, and another diamond ruffed, bringing down the ace from West. Declarer drew the last trump and led a spade toward dummy's 9-7-5. Rather than be end played, West allowed dummy to win this trick. But that didn't help. Declarer cashed dummy's queen of diamonds and played the club ace. In desperation, West threw the club king away, but declarer had the queen and made 10 tricks. If West had kept his club king, he would have had to give up the last trick to dummy's spade nine, and the game would still have been made.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 17, 1987

Your material prospects will be brighter in the year ahead than they were last year, but you'll still have to work for what you want. Solidify such opportunity as it arises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some disparaging comments may be made in your presence today about an old friend of whom you are especially fond. Cut the detractor short. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conduct your business affairs as pleasantly as possible today, but not in a frivolous fashion. Save the jokes and one-liners until after the matter is concluded.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll take critical issues in stride today, but petty developments could have you scurrying for some aspirin, especially if co-workers are involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Commercial transactions conducted along traditional lines should work out well today. Risky ventures might not be equally rewarding.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It might be easier for you to please outsiders today than it will be to please those you love the most. Keep trying anyway.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you apply yourself properly today, you might be able to expand what appears to be a small advantage careerwise into something rather grand and worthwhile.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to avoid involvements today with co-workers who are unreasonably disenchanted with present working conditions. Be productive, not picky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extra prudent today as to how you handle your resources as well as the resources of others. You may not be up to par in financial manipulations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may receive some good news today that will require analyzing to be fully appreciated. Don't let negative thoughts lessen its merits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take ample time to prepare properly if you have a serious matter to handle today. If you make moves without thinking them through, the results could be undesirable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be modest regarding your recent achievements, and let friends talk about them instead of yourself. Humility wears better than haughtiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Success is in the offing for you today, but it might require a second or even a third effort to bring it into being. Keep plugging.
