TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

But all this turned to ashes, it was just vanity. It would have been better to spend substance or that which would serve human needs, rather than on novelty. I made me gardens and orchards, and I planted trees in them of all kinds of fruits.—Eccles. 2:6.

Most progress is a matter of ups and downs. That hills can be terraced and so bear rich fruit. It takes toil but it is profitable. The land wither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys.—Deut. 11:11.

We get where Ed Rivers, brother of Jim Rivers, who started WIRR, has purchased a radio station in Miami.

Governor Warren is apparently on solid ground when he refuses to submit to a Senate subpoena to appear before the Crime Committee, but he could go voluntarily.

The House Armed Services Committee has approved a four million dollar expenditure for the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station, tantamount to final approval. This is far work to be done during the coming year though some of the projects approved in the measure may take more than a year to build.

Another automobile accident has occurred on Highway 17 near Benign Junction. As has happened many times in the past, a train ran into an automobile at the crossing, though the driver of the car skidded her tires for 35 feet in an attempt to stop before she reached the tracks. This is a bad crossing. It is not easy to see traffic approaching from either direction. It should be equipped with safety lights.

Timonians of the United Nations and the Chinese Communists will meet Sunday in an attempt to iron out differences holding up the cessation of hostilities in Korea but both sides are approaching the talks in an atmosphere of victory, one not conducive to satisfactory conclusions. Chinese spokesmen are certainly showing no signs of having lost the war as of the present moment. We don't believe the United States is going to get out of Korea with a defeat to the discredit of the Administration. And as at present it looks as if some very long talks are in order.

Because the Administration, when it had an opportunity to do so, failed to stockpile tungsten, a vitally needed mineral in the hardening of steel for armor piercing shells, a large proportion of which is found in Red China, a Senate committee charges that "the free world now stands on the verge of tungsten starvation" and Senator Johnson of that committee declares, "This is one of the worst examples of the evil effects of bureaucratic complacency upon the defense program that our subcommittee has uncovered." The Truman crowd just couldn't believe that the Communists were as bad as they were.

"Remember Pearl Harbor" got to be almost a national slogan during the last war, but there are few people indeed who remember it now. Civil Defense Administrator Calkins warns again, as he has warned a hundred times already, that we cannot afford to wait until the bombs fall before getting ready to protect ourselves from them. "And yet the too frequently heard attitude today," he says, "is that in the event of total mobilization or some extraordinary disaster—an atomic Pearl Harbor—they will sit themselves to wait." When it will be too late. We're remembering it that while the Japs show their deadly planes toward Honolulu, Jap envoys talked peace in Washington.

How To Tell An Alcoholic

If you're worried about someone you know who drinks excessively—if you think perhaps he or she is an alcoholic—you can learn to recognize the symptoms of a true alcoholic.

Everyone who drinks excessively is not necessarily an alcoholic. The real alcoholic has certain easily recognized symptoms, according to an article in August issue of Pageant magazine. This article, written by a woman who has herself recovered from the disease, gives a detailed description of an alcoholic's symptoms, a test designed to help the family and friends of alcoholics recognize the disease in order to deal with it intelligently.

The early stage of the disease—incipient alcoholism, averages about ten years in duration. During this period, says the Pageant article, the alcoholic regularly makes promises (which he is unable to keep) that he will limit his drinking. He begins to conceal the number of drinks he has had; he lies about whether he was drunk. As he gradually increases the number of occasions which call for a drink, he points out that he needs drinks for nerves, worries, to recover from "a shattering day at the office" or "a frantic day at home with the children."

Incipient alcoholics, Pageant continues, are remarkably free from the appearance of drunkenness. However, the alcoholic himself begins to notice memory "black-outs" about what happened while he was drinking.

In the middle stage of alcoholism, which last from two to five years, the alcoholic tries to build up the myth that he can stop drinking if he wishes. Watch for these symptoms, advises Pageant: His eating becomes irregular; he is always dog tired or nervous; he drinks alone; he increases his drinking times. He becomes arrogant and aggressive about drinking as his dependence on alcohol gives way to compulsion. Hangovers rear their ugly heads, and they include physical collapse, mental remorse, emotional self-disgust and terrifying self-doubt. Nausea becomes a frequent morning-after experience. Blackouts increase and they come earlier.

From these symptoms the alcoholic moves into the advanced stage in which he or she drinks to live and lives to drink. He rarely wants to eat; when he does, he gorges like a wolf. Drunken behavior now takes place at the office, during an interview for a new job, an important dinner or meeting, a wedding or at church. However, points out Pageant, there are some alcoholics who, though sodden with drink, can appear at these functions and give the impression that they're sober.

Now morning drinks are a necessity. The alcoholic will stop at nothing to get the money necessary for drink, although he is not fundamentally dishonest. He loses a sense of time and watches the horrible effect of his drinking on his family with apparent indifference.

Hangovers occur on every awakening from sleep and there is a pressing physical need to keep a certain amount of alcohol in the system at all times. Because this eliminates hunger, he rarely eats. Violent nausea, dizziness, shuddering shakes, loud sound and flashing lights plague him frequently.

In this advanced stage, the alcoholic accepts his drinking as natural and inevitable but with an increased sense of shame and degradation which contrasts sharply with occasional swings to grandiosity. He's aware of a strong feeling of isolation and non-belonging. He cannot be convinced that he will ever be able to feel well or enjoy life without drinking for his few times without liquor have never included either of these reactions.

Keeping Informed

A survey made by the New York Times indicates that the Army has failed to do a sufficient job of setting up a program to keep soldiers informed of the news and aware of the reasons for their being in uniform. The Times believes that the ignorance of many soldiers of the issues at stake in the present conflict is causing low morale and dissatisfaction of soldiers with army life.

Certainly the information service of the Army is not all that could be desired. The Times says that it is frequently conducted by individuals not well qualified, with little co-operation from troop commanders.

But lack of interest in world affairs and lack of understanding of the great issues which could cause a war are not confined to unhappy soldiers. Far too many civilians are without proper information on vital issues of the day. Perhaps better use of radio and newspapers in a concerted effort to make people aware of what we are fighting for might work for both civilians and soldiers.

If we are going to sell democracy to the rest of the world we must see that all of us understand what democracy means and what it seeks to do. But no means of communication can turn the trick unless people want to know what is happening and care more for facts than for scraps to make an effort to recognize facts and to discriminate between straight news, straight editorial interpretation of news and the slanted stuff which feeds emotional bias and undermines sound judgement.

Despite Unparalleled Expansion Electric Power Is Insufficient

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—The electric power companies are having a tough time keeping up with your demands. Now it's defense production that could give them a workout in meeting peak demands next winter.

Ever so often they guess how much electricity you'll want to light your house and store and run your factory. Then they order some new generators and other equipment. They've put $4 billion into expansion since World War II and plan to spend another $7 billion in the next three years. But each time they find you're wanting more than they guessed.

They revised the estimate when the Korean war broke out, increasing it by 40 per cent. Now the government tells them the guess should have been higher.

December is usually the time of the peak load—short days, long store hours and high factory production. The Defense Power Administration predicts the load this December will be 69 million kilowatts (it was 61.5 million last December); that by December, 1952, the load will be 79 million, and by December, 1953, it will be 82 million. A year ago they estimated the 1953 load would be only 70 million.

Electric utility men like to have a 15 per cent margin between the total capacity of their installations and the peak load when it comes. That gives leeway for surprises, for breakdowns, for differences in the distribution of the demand—some places want more electric power on one day, and some on another.

WHERE NEXT?

Nationwide Korean Election May Be Demanded By Reds

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW, July 6—(AP)—Foreign observers here are convinced the North Koreans will ask general elections on both sides of the 38th Parallel to be followed by the creation of a central government as their price for peace in Korea.

The observers are not referring to the armistice and cease-fire negotiations, but to the political and territorial discussions that will follow if agreement is reached on ending the actual shooting. Removal of foreign troops, elections and a central Korean government are believed sure to be among the North Korean demands.

The foreign observers think there is a good possibility the North Koreans will seek a new armistice, damage from the United States and Britain for property destroyed in the war, and aid from the United Nations in rebuilding ruined cities, transports and even private homes.

The North Koreans may ask that foreign planes be barred from flying over the country, that all foreign warships leave Korean waters and the ports be opened up to all traffic.

If the foreign troops leave, it is believed here that the North Koreans will seek to restore the situation as it existed just before the war. That means the 38th Parallel would remain the dividing line between North and South Korea until a central government can be established.

Naturally the Soviet Union and Communist China will support North Korean demands.

Boyle To Run

Mr. Boyle replied that he intends to offer his services. He pointed out that the next round of the Senate, Charles E. Johnson of St. Louis, a very close friend, and that he would, therefore, be in a position to get important committee assignments.

These assignments, coupled with his past experience in state legislative work should result in accomplishments valuable to the people of Florida and of this district, he declared.

Questioned as to the possibility of the re-appointment of W. G. Kilbee as a county commissioner, Mr. Boyle replied, "If the State attorney in Volusia county decides not to try the case against Mr. Kilbee, I will be glad to recommend the re-appointment."

The Defense Power Administration points to areas where the possible power shortage may be felt the most this winter. It thinks that it will curtail supply in the Pacific Northwest until 1952. Large defense industries in that area will call for more power.

In the southeast, also, new defense loads will be high. The DPA believes, however, that by tying in with other systems, the southeast can be helped by northern power facilities. The Trust Company lists the gains in consumption the industry has been called upon to supply. At the end of 1940 nearly 45 million customers against 35 million in 1940; 1946 sales up 45 per cent over 1945; and 1950 per cent over 1949. Noncustomers use 187 per cent more electricity than in 1940; small light and power customers use 125 per cent more, and large light and power users 133 per cent more.

Much prized for their colorful, exotic blossoms and the tropical atmosphere that they create, these vines are very useful landscape plants.

Hyloteleus undatus is much cultivated and is known as night-blooming cereus. Species of Epiphyllum, the orchid cactus, produce some of the most spectacular blossoms known to the plant world.

The Cereus hildmannianus is another member of the night-blooming cereus family and is very lovely when in bloom. There are lots of nice specimens of this plant growing in Sanford. One is growing in the front garden of J. A. Ponder, 100 Elliott Avenue.

And another in the garden of Mrs. S. C. Dickerson, South Sanford Avenue.

denally, had some interesting comments on this new national problem.

"It's a frightening thing," he said. "But it's not entirely new. I've seen it in the past. I've seen it in the 'jinks' at any 'countdown' night to see 'junks' to or 11 years old plodding down the street in a daze."

"I could name you five of my friends who died in their 20's or before, because of dope. I remember one who had been sent away for a cure. His family was overjoyed when he came home. They had a big dinner for him, but in the middle of it he left the room and took a few siffs. After he returned to the table, he fell into a coma and never came out of it. He was only 19."

Cagney is making the transition from gangsterism with a new paper role in "Come Fill The Cup." I was wary of it, judging from the title and from Hollywood's usual portrayal of newspapermen (Witness the recent epic starring Kirk Douglas as an all-time hero).

But Cagney assured me that this reporter is different. He has sworn off it, in fact, he is a member of Alcoholics Anonymous. See—there is hope for our profession yet.

After the film is over, the actor will return to his farm at Martha's Vineyard. He is still intent on his scheme of living in the east and working in Hollywood. "It's great to live where you actually have seasons," he remarked, squinting at the California sunshine.

Capsule Review: In a hilarious moment of "Here Comes the Groom," a character exclaims, "This is better than television." The remark is apt if Hollywood had more pictures like this. It would have less writers about the upstart industry. This film is one of Bing Crosby's best, combining enough elements of entertainment to please the most jaded movie goer. The plot is a romantic mix of, with the groaner, Jane Wyman, Alexis Smith and Tranchot Tunc. Biogical? Yes, but still lots of fun. A needed assist to Crosby's film career.

Truman Note Termed Late By Mossadegh

Iranians Reject International Court Decision On Crisis; Oil May Be Cut Off

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said today Britain is "contemplating" asking the United Nations Security Council to order Iran to keep her hands off the British-run oil industry. Morrison told the House of Commons this course might be followed if Iran positively rejected the recommendation of the International Court of Justice to allow the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to continue oil-producing operations pending a negotiated settlement of the British-Iranian dispute. Iran announced today she was rejecting the ruling of the court—and apparently any other rulings the international court might make. However, Morrison told the House the Iranian attitude on the ruling "is still obscure." Britain has formally accepted the ruling.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—President Truman offered today to send Averell Harriman to Iran to help try for a settlement of that country's oil dispute with the British government. Mr. Truman said the oil threat to the world is a "disaster." He declared that "the time available is running out." Harriman is foreign affairs adviser to the President. Mr. Truman made his offer in a message to Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh. The Iranian chief wrote him two weeks ago asking American support for Iran's nationalization of its oil resources.

By ROBERT H. HEWETT
TEHRAN, Iran, July 9.—(AP)—President Truman sent a personal message today to Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, reportedly again urging moderation in the Middle East country's oil dispute with Britain.

"A little late," was the comment by the nationalization-minded premier to U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady when Grady handed over his President's message.

Grady declined to disclose the contents of the note; but other sources described it as another appeal for coolness in the dispute which threatens to close down the world's largest refinery at Abadan.

The American diplomat said Mossadegh would make public the President's message later today. Although its contents were not immediately disclosed, official quarters exhibited little hope that it would produce a last minute solution to the deadlock between Britain and Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

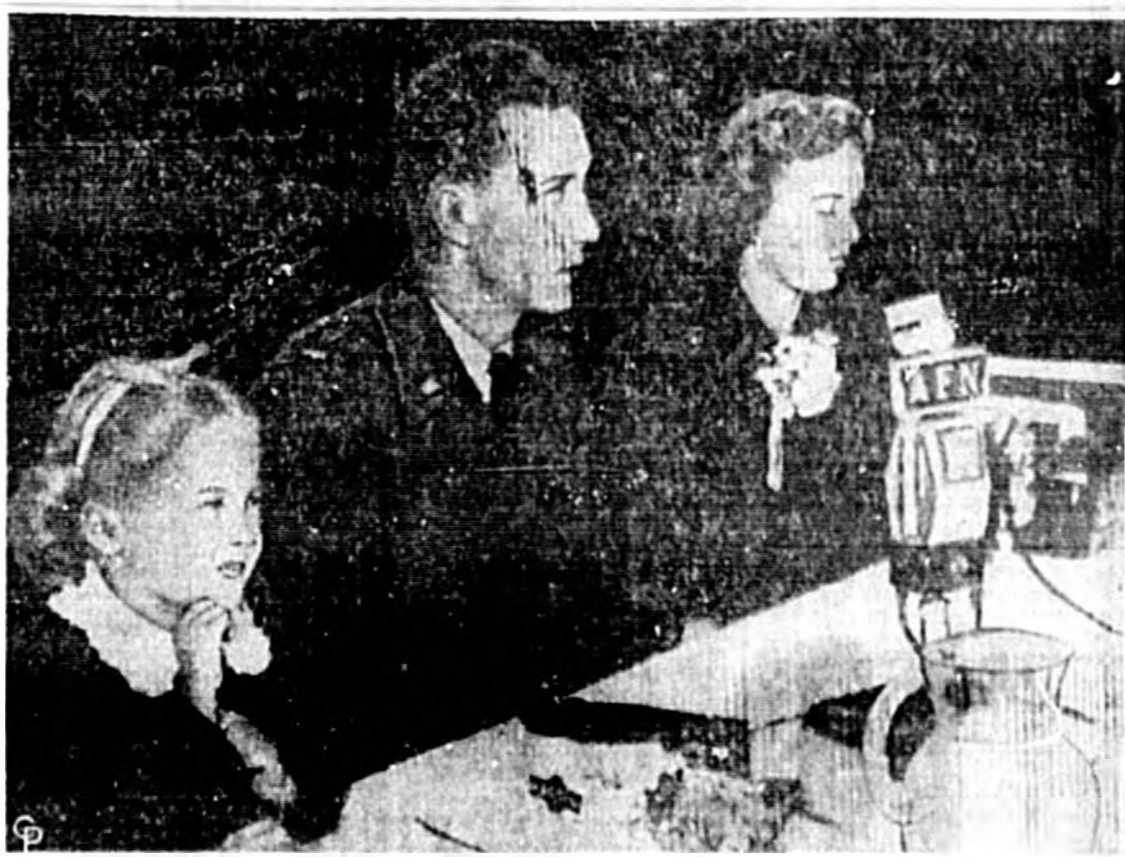

Faust Drug Store Is Reopened After Recent Renovation

Completely repainted and redecorated, the Faust Drug Store, recently purchased from J. O. Laney by Carl C. Faust of Windber, Pa., was reopened Saturday after being closed a week. Improvements include new soda fountain fixtures. There is a red formica top to the soda bar and a yellow front. Seats at the fountain have been increased from 10 to 14. New fluorescent light fixtures provide brighter lighting. The kitchen has been remodeled, repainted, and an exhaust fan now provides better ventilation. About 75 percent of the stock of the drug store is new, said Mr. Faust. He expressed thanks for the many baskets of flowers presented by local firms for the opening.

A unique feature of wall decoration soon to be installed will be the display of large photographic enlargements of Sanford scenes, he stated this morning. These were provided by R. L. Cox. Personnel includes George Toth, assistant manager; Mrs. Hutson Red, fountain manager. Other employees are Margaret P. Howell, cashier; Ruby Stratton, Mary Lou McDonnell, Alberta Brewer, Mildred Douglas and Evelyn Jones.

SIGHT UNSEEN
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., July 9.—(AP)—Aaron Kaye was sure he had a bargain at the marathon Hedy Lamarr auction. Kaye of New York City, bid $10 and $4.50 for two manila envelopes yesterday, contents unseen and unannounced. He won and hurriedly ripped open the envelopes. Each contained a pink garter belt.

American Flier Returned From Czech Custody

RELEASED JET PILOT Lt. Luther Roland of Hummelstown, Pa., is reunited with his wife, Rosemarie, and daughter, Christine, in Wiesbaden, Germany, following 23 days in Czechoslovakian custody. After his plane landed at Prague on June 18th, Roland said his captors kept him in a chair for the first thirty-four hours but were "quite friendly" when prying for military information he did not give. Senate Told New Tax Increase Is Aid To Inflation

Businessman Asks National Sales Levy To Balance Budget

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—A former undersecretary of the Treasury told senators today the House-passed $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill will promote inflation rather than retard it.

Roswell McGill, now a New York attorney, said this is true because of stiff boosts in corporation taxes and the levies on middle and upper bracket incomes.

Welaka Blaze Is Extinguished By Fire Department

Firemen were called to the Welaka Apartments Sunday night shortly after 10:30 o'clock and found the hall full of smoke and many excited tenants who did not know just where the fire was. It was traced to the apartment of a tenant who had gone to sleep while smoking a cigarette, resulting in the burning of a hole about 20 inches wide in the mattress, said Fire Chief M. N. Cleveland.

This morning, two new members of the department, R. C. Crissey and G. V. Hertz received initial training under a section of Lieut. Cronin in the handling of the extension ladder on the big truck, which one man can operate. Capable of extension to a height of 45 feet the ladder can reach to the upper windows of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank Building.

New and older firemen as well have study periods each week day, Tuesday excepted when cleaning is done. More than a year of training is required before new men may go on fire runs on their own responsibility. Locations throughout the city must be thoroughly known, said Chief Cleveland.

President Asks End To State Of War With Germany

Technical Action To Have No Effect On Allied Occupation

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to end the state of war between the United States and Germany. He said that unfortunately Russia had made a final peace settlement impossible at this time.

Mr. Truman's action was part of a coordinated move by the Western Allies. The French cabinet approved a decree to the same end although it was not clear whether it was effective immediately or must await the formation of a new cabinet in the next few days.

Britain was expected to follow suit quickly. Three members of the British Commons—acting in advance—ended their state of war with the Germans. They were Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. New Zealand also announced the end of its state of war with Austria.

The move was of major importance in the east-west battle for the world and support in the German people. It also has some practical advantages for the Germans although it will not end the occupation by the Western Powers. With the state of war at an end, Germany will be able to travel to its business in the United States and nations of a friendly government rather than as enemy aliens.

Also Germany will be able to bring suits to U. S. courts. Specifically, Mr. Truman asked that Congress adopt a resolution declaring the state of war with Germany shall be terminated as of such date as the President publishes. This country has been in a state of war with Germany since 1941.

Catholic Priest Released By Reds Says China Verges On Starvation

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG, July 9.—(AP)—A Maryknoll Catholic priest and today most of Red China's population will be starving soon if the war in Korea continues.

Father Robert Kennedy of Norwalk, Conn., and Brooklyn, who came out of Red China recently after 14 weeks in Communist jails, said: "There appears to be a very severe food scarcity in many parts of China. Several Communist officials who were in jail on various charges, mostly bribery or embezzlement, said famine conditions existed in nine provinces.

"It is difficult to judge the condition of a big nation by what one sees in one section. But the situation, especially the food situation, looked desperate. I heard the opinion expressed that if the Korean war lasted a little longer most of China would be starving. Even prisoners were asked to contribute money to local drives for food."

Fathers Kennedy and John Gasco of Syracuse, N. Y., with sisters Mary Bradley of Brooklyn, Mary Boyle of Hong Kong, and Marie Balto of Pottsville were arrested in their Loting mission in Kwangtung province on charges of murdering Chinese orphans. Father Kennedy said this was a common charge against mission-

Johnston Warns Of Cheap Dollar Without Controls

Value May Decline To Less Than 40 Cents; Price Chief Claims

BY FRANCIS J. KELLY
WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Johnston told the nation today to look for "a much cheaper dollar" with perhaps 30 to 40 cents in 1950 terms if economic controls are scrapped. Declaring that the dollar is now worth about 55 to 60 cents in 1950 value, Johnston said: "My guess is that it might be worth between 30 and 40 cents in 1950 purchasing power, in two years, if you don't do something about inflation."

Johnston, in a copyrighted interview with the New York Times News and World Report, predicted a government deficit this year of $5,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000.

And under the present defense program, he estimated the cash deficit in the budget would be "up to 20 or 25 billion" for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1952.

But the deficit is predicted for fiscal 1951, Johnston added, "that will be a great deal greater. Probably we can live with it if provided Congress gives us adequate controls, strings, and safety valves."

Publication of the interview coincided with the beginning of tentative voting in the House of Representatives to a bill which would extend the present wage-price control program.

President Truman has called for increased government control of the nation's economy to speed the defense effort and check inflation.

His top mobilization officer, Charles E. Wilson, is scheduled to make a major policy speech by radio and television tonight.

Some lawmakers are looking to the case for talks in Korea for possible assumption for their states. They contend that such a program could be based on the Administration's move to stop the nation from going ahead with its plans to prepare for possible Communist aggression.

Declaring that defense spending is "a dangerous mistake" to deal off on the defense program because of events in Korea, Johnston said: "We don't think you can find that additional money into the economy without its having a tremendous inflationary effect."

An contributing factor toward increasing inflationary pressure is the high cost of the Korean war.
