Robbery suspect sought

Seminole County deputies are looking for three black males who robbed the Sanford Food Mart, 3300 Sanford Avenue about 10 a.m. Friday.

Two suspects walked into the store and pointed a blue steel revolver at the clerk, according to Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough. They took an undisclosed amount of money from two cash registers and the clerk's wallet. No shots were fired. The second suspect told the first suspect to shoot the clerk, according to the police case information report. When he did not, the second suspect hit the victim with a display stand. The clerk was not hurt.

The suspects escaped in a white Oldsmobile Cutlass driven by a third black male.

The two suspects who held up the store are described as both in their early 20's. The first suspect is 5 feet 10 inches tall, 180 pounds and was wearing a black sweater and black hat. The second suspect is 5 feet 7 inches tall with a heavy build and dark clothing. He was wearing a blue and white bandana.

There is no description of the third suspect who drove the car.

Charges added

A 21-year-old already in jail accused of raping an 11-year-old girl in the Oakland Hills subdivision was charged with burglary Friday in a separate incident.

Carlos Suazo-Leiva was charged with burglary after a 13-year-old girl identified him as the man who attempted to break into her bedroom by cutting a window screen in October. When the girl screamed, the suspect fled. The house is two blocks from where the rape of the 11-year-old occurred Monday.

Suazo-Leiva is being held without bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. He made his first court appearance on the charges of burglary to an occupied dwelling and criminal mischief Saturday.

Correction

Due to a reporting error, an article in Friday's Sanford Herald incorrectly stated the Florida Women, Infants and Children program is partially operated with state money. The program is fully funded by federal appropriations to the state.

Seminar: Help for women heading households

By BANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — There was a revival feeling in the air. A spirit of new beginning, hope and optimism was present at a conference called Women on the Move at Crooms School of Choice Saturday.

Keynote speaker Amelia Geuka, executive director of GoldenRule Housing and Community Development Corporation welcomed a group of about 75 African-American women to the day-long conference designed to assist women in moving from where they are to where they want and/or need to be. The meeting focused on problems faced by the female single, heads of households and solutions to the problems.

Topics from getting more education to starting a business or getting a job in changing their community for the better were all slated for discussion in the workshop sessions.

Sanford poised for crackdown on future adult entertainment

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two ordinances pertaining to adult entertainment in Sanford are back for discussion. Commissioners will take what they hope will be the final steps to approve all of the measures Monday night.

The ordinances have already been discussed extensively during work sessions, and approved unanimously on first reading in late December. At that time, no one came forward to speak in opposition to the proposals.

Mayor Bettye Smith had indicated she wanted the ordinances approved as rapidly as possible, to avoid any problems.

Sanford Police Chief Ralph Russell has also indicated that the city needs to enact guidelines governing adult entertainment as soon as possible.

No city official asked would comment on what may have prompted the sudden need for such restrictions on adult entertainment in Sanford.

The ordinances were prepared by Attorney William E. Reischmann, Jr., a member of the law firm that represents the city. City Attorney William Colbert had told the commission Reischmann was considered an expert in this area.

Reischmann has informed the commission he will be accompanied Monday by Joe Cochierella, Assistant State Attorney with the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation.

"At that time," Reischmann said, "we will be submitting to the commission, to be part of public record, the documents, affidavits and reports referred to in the Findings of Fact within the adult entertainment ordinance."

The original ordinance, based on those adopted by several other municipalities, has been divided into two separate ordinances by the city staff. One, Ordinance 3185, deals basically with changes to present codes dealing with types of entertainment, monitoring, rules for operations, prohibitions, law enforcement, and other matters.

The second, Ordinance 3195, deals with land development regulations, determining where such adult establishments may or may not be located, and various zoning matters.

The city manager is recommending adoption of both ordinances. During first readings for both items, the commission votes have been unanimously in favor of them. To date, no one has stepped forward to voice any objections to what is being proposed in either ordinance, other than to make modifications to fit into codes and requirements already established.

The two ordinances are scheduled early in the regular meeting Monday night, beginning at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Supermarket tabloid television program filmed in Sanford

By BANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — They stand like sentinels at the supermarket cash registers blaring headlines and photographs that are hard to ignore. Supermarket tabloids proclaiming stories like "Farmer Shoots 23-Pound Grasshopper," or "Satan's Skull Found in New Mexico."

Well, supermarket tabloid television is coming soon to your home and some of it is being filmed right here in Sanford!

On Thursday, a crew from Brandon Tardikoff's Hollywood-based production company, Moving Target Productions, began filming around downtown Sanford as background for a television pilot being developed for CBS.

Tardikoff was the head of NBC in the 1980s and lead the network out of the ratings cellar. He went on to direct Paramount Studios but later quit to spend more time with his family after his child was seriously hurt in an automobile accident.

Two pilot episodes for the show are being filmed. The show is based on the black-and-white tabloid, Weekly World News, found at supermarket check outs along with the chewing gum and candy bars. The production crew, which is working out of Universal Studios, will be filming all month around Florida, according to a production company spokeswoman who identified herself only as Jen.

"All the stories are not real," she commented. "But World Weekly News is very popular." The Lantana, Florida-based publication headlines this week scream, "Employees Stuff Dead Boss...and prop him at his desk," "Chef Attacked by Lobster's Ghost," and touts the power of Garlic and Vinegar to cure what ails you.

The film crew was working Friday on Park and Oak Avenues and will

Morning, folks! Do you remember back in the 1920s the two daughters of politician and banker Forrest Lake? They were Maude and Sarita. It seems the more we write about the Lake family the more information about them is generated. We wrote some months ago we thought both were schoolteachers. But Mrs. Olive Ann Newman Adams called to say Sarita was not a teacher. We know Maude taught school. When we were in the fifth grade at Sanford Grammar in the late 1920s, my teacher was Miss Ethel Riser. Maude taught a fifth grade class right across the east wing hallway.

Food Lion to close 88 stores

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Food Lion, the target of a highly critical television report about food quality, said Friday it will close 88 stores this year, including 18 in Florida.

The closings will affect 3,500 Food Lion employees, including 1,100 full-time workers. Most will be offered jobs elsewhere in the company, said Tom Smith, president and chief executive officer.

"Right now we are trying very hard to make sure that most of them are transferred to other positions in the company," Food Lion spokesman Mike Moringo said.

The announcement coincided with the release of the fourth-quarter and annual results from the Salisbury, N.C.-based supermarket chain. The company is taking a $170 million charge against its 1993 profits for the closings.

Moringo said Food Lion's business in the Southwest was hurt by a "Prime Time Live" aired when the chain was opening several new stores. Texas will lose 36 stores and Oklahoma 11.

ABC reported the chain was selling out-of-date meat and other unhealthy products. The company denied the allegations, but the show was blamed for a sharp drop in the value of company stock and a decline in profits.

The closing will leave Food Lion with about 1,000 stores and more than 60,000 employees in 14 states.

3 convicted; civil rights suit prompted

TAMPA — A county judge has convicted three black women of trespassing in a Dillard's store in a case that prompted a separate federal civil rights lawsuit.

University of South Florida students Katrina Humphreys and Josie Colon, and their friend, Sabrina Drain, were found guilty Friday by County Judge James Dominguez. He withheld adjudication, meaning there is no sentence and their conviction won't appear on their records.

The women testified they were in the store Nov. 13, 1992, looking for jeans when they noticed a uniformed, off-duty state trooper following them.

In the civil rights lawsuit, they claim the surveillance was part of a Dillard's policy of discouraging black shoppers in hopes of creating an upper-class image. The Little Rock, Ark., chain has said it values all of its customers. Dominguez said those issues were irrelevant in the criminal case. Trooper Efrain Torres said the women were loud and cursed a lot. Four store workers testified the women ignored repeated warnings to leave the store.

"They made a bad choice how to handle a situation they perceived ... was based on who they were and where they came from," Dominguez said.

The guilty verdict on the trespassing charge won't hurt the civil case, said attorney Bruce Kleinberg. Kleinberg claims to have other plaintiffs in other cities who have had similar experiences.

Cops find homemade studio, sex tapes

JACKSONVILLE BEACH — Police found elaborate video equipment, 200 tapes and thousands of photographs in the apartment of a man charged with a sex crime involving a young girl.

Investigators seized $20,000 worth of video and soundproofing equipment along with the tapes and photos Friday at the home of Ben Peter Kantimm, 40, who was charged with a felony count of actual performance by a child.

Two of the first four tapes viewed by detectives depicted Kantimm sexually assaulting girls who appeared to be 8 to 11 years old, said Rick Beseler, chief investigator in the state attorney's office.

"Apparently, his scam is to try to get people to believe he's filming a TV commercial or some type of video production," Beseler said.

Kantimm had track lighting across the ceiling, televisions and videocassette players stacked in makeshift cabinets and video cameras pointed at his water bed. Cardboard and egg cartons lined the walls of the two-room apartment.

"It was elaborate stuff," said police Detective Steve Corbitt. "I've never seen anything like it."

Investigators also found books on the occult and satanism with passages about child sacrifices underlined. Officers compared photos found in the apartment to elementary school yearbook pictures to try to identify the preteen girls.

Beseler worried that the youngsters may have been vacationers. But if the victims are found, he said charges could be upgraded.

Boxes in the apartment contained thousands of still photographs, many taken on the beach and along the boardwalk in Jacksonville Beach of women in bikinis. "There's hundreds of women that were photographed by this guy who didn't know they were being filmed," Beseler said.

Utility fund set up for needy

Sanford customers help each other in emergency

By NICK PFEIFAUER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Good Neighbor Utility Fund has now been established for the City of Sanford. It is designed to help persons who are unable to pay their utility bills.

According to the program coordinator, Bill Marcus, "The fund has been established to provide emergency assistance to residential customers in paying their utility bills."

At the present, he expects the fund will attempt to assist at least one utility customer facing an emergency each month.

Marcus said the program cannot get underway immediately. "We can't accept any applications until an adequate level of financial support has been achieved," he said.

Financing of this project is to be done through donations from the general public. No government funding will be involved in the operation.

Contributions can be made by mail or in the fund's drop box which has been set up at the customer service counter on the second floor of the Sanford City Hall.

"When enough donations are received that we reach what we consider a fund viability," Marcus said, "then applications meeting eligibility requirements will be accepted."

He did not immediately explain who may be eligible and under what circumstances.

He also did not indicate if anyone would be allowed to have emergency assistance in paying a utility bill more than once. "We'll be announcing specific requirements as soon as the fund is fully established and we have enough money with which to work," he said.

In addition to the donation drop box, other methods for making contributions to the Good Neighbor Utility Fund may be made. For information, contact the City of Sanford Customer Service, at 330-5630.

Sheriff bones up on trends in crimefighting

By NICK PFEIFAUER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger was among 15 top executives to graduate from the Florida Criminal Justice Executive Institute.

Graduation ceremonies were held Friday afternoon at the Wakulla Springs Conference Center near Tallahassee.

The graduates were all from criminal justice agencies throughout Florida.

Since the program began in January, 1990, 128 people representing law enforcement's top leadership, have received the customized training.

According to Florida Department of Law Enforcement Commissioner James T. Moore, "The curriculum offers a look at the future by identifying the trends and events that will challenge the law enforcement and corrections professionals as we approach the next century."

He continued, "This includes understanding expected change, managing human and technical resources, and generally offering the leadership and vision necessary as inevitable change challenges every walk of life, including law enforcement and corrections."

Eslinger was the only one of the 15 graduates from Central Florida.

Others included police chiefs, public defenders, corrections supervisors and a state attorney.

The Florida Criminal Justice Institute was established within the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and affiliated with the State University System by the 1990 Florida Legislature, which recognized the need for an innovative, multifaceted approach to the education and training of criminal justice professionals.

Panel backs half-cent sales tax boost for criminal justice system

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A panel of criminal justice experts says the state can pay for all of the prisons, police and courts it needs with only a half-cent sales tax increase — half the hike others are proposing.

The panel says that is enough to sink an extra $1 billion a year into the criminal justice system. The smaller tax would leave lawmakers the option of a second half-cent increase to offset anticipated state deficits that could reach $1.98 billion in 1998.

The Task Force for Review of the Criminal Justice and Corrections Systems, a panel of judges, attorneys and government officials, will recommend the Legislature approve the tax increase and put it before voters on the November ballot.

Another initiative, backed by Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher, would dedicate a 1-cent sales tax increase to fighting crime and building prisons. That initiative also could win a spot on the November ballot if supporters can collect 430,000 petition signatures. Meanwhile, Senate Criminal Justice Committee Chairman Ron Silver, D-North Miami Beach, says he intends to introduce a bill to allow lawmakers to enact a 1-cent increase instead of letting voters decide. Silver said he doesn't think the half-penny tax will be enough.

"I don't think it's a good policy to go back to the people for increase after increase," Silver said. "The worst thing we can do is just a halfway job and the people are dissatisfied and saying, 'We spent all this money and what did we get for it?'"

Gov. Lawton Chiles' proposed budget doesn't seek new taxes and includes $293 million for the first year of a five-year prison buildup financed by bond sales.

Ron Sachs, a spokesman for Chiles, said the governor hasn't endorsed any proposed tax increase but hasn't ruled out any proposals either.

"If the Legislature shows a willingness to do what they have refused to do until now, the governor would be very willing to work with them," Sachs said.

The half-cent tax increase would produce about $1 billion a year and would come in addition to $1.5 billion the state already spends on law enforcement, the court system and prisons.

POLICE BRIEFS

DUI arrests

Lisa Marie Mobley, 28, 2431-B Chase Ave., Sanford, was charged with driving under the influence and with driving with a suspended license outside her home on Thursday morning by Sanford Police.

She was also charged in connection with a warrant for violating her probation on charges of driving under the influence.

She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,500 bond.

Rodney Wayne Figley, 36, 169-B River Bend Dr., Longwood, was charged with driving under the influence on State Road 436 at Lynchfield in Altamonte Springs by Altamonte Springs Police.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $500 bond.

Safe robbed

James Vincent Strahle, 29, 102 Paddock Ct., Sanford, was charged with burglary and grand theft by Sanford Police on Thursday afternoon.

Police said he entered the Shoney's restaurant after it was closed on Dec. 17 and removed the restaurant's floor safe. He and some friends allegedly drove to another location with the safe and removed $3,462 from it.

Police said the friends were asked by Strahle to "get their stories correct" when they were called in to the police department and questioned as suspects. They told police they did not want to assist Strahle.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,000 bond.

Crack pipe brings arrest

Mary Jane Florvius, 47, 501 E. 4th St. Sanford, was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia by Sanford Police on Thursday morning.

Police said she was found loitering near a business that was closed at about 2:30 a.m.

Upon searching her, police found a small pipe, a copper colored brillo pad and a small plastic bottle with a hole in the bottom, all commonly used for smoking crack cocaine.

She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $500 bond.

Open container alleged

Anthony Wayne Roker, 29, 17 William Clark Ct., Sanford, was charged with having an open alcoholic container by Sanford Police on Thursday night.

Police said he was in the parking lot of a business in the 1600 block of W. 13th Street with an open container. They said the bottle contained a mixture of grapefruit juice and alcohol.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Trio charged for drug

Jennifer Diane Evans, 19, 240 Crown Oak Way, Longwood; Kimberlee Shannon Thom, 21, address unknown; and Edward Gene Ledford, 19, 812 Shell Lane, Longwood, were each charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana by Lake Mary Police on Thursday night.

Police said the three were sitting at a picnic table in Crystal Lake Park after 11 p.m. (the park closes at 6 p.m.) They said that when they approached a bag containing a green leafy substance was thrown by one of the parties.

Officers identified the substance as marijuana. The three were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $500 bond each.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies report that a grandmother clock and $200 in cash were taken from Sweetwater Episcopal Church in Longwood on Thursday when someone broke into someone's bedroom on Thursday and removed a $640 social security check from his dresser. It is not known if the check has been cashed.

A resident of the 2800 block of Midway Drive reported that someone entered his bedroom on Thursday and removed several necklaces, a bracelet, a watch and a brooch from her jewelry box.

She told deputies the incident occurred in December, but she hesitated to call them because she thought she might have misplaced the items.

A Seminole County school crossing guard stationed at Sabal Point Drive and Sabal Point Way reported on Thursday that a woman driving a red Toyota tried to run her over. There are no suspects at this time.

A man reported to Seminole County Sheriff's deputies that he was approached by two men in the parking lot of the Lake Monroe Post Office who asked him for a cigarette. When he told them he had none, they asked for money to buy some cigarettes. When he refused again, they produced a sawed off shotgun and relieved him of $30 in cash.

A woman in the 100 block of Ichabod Trail in Longwood reported to Seminole County Sheriff's deputies that she had received 20 hang up type calls and that she knew of no one who would harass her in such a way.

Radio spot featuring convicted singer axed

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

Gary Bauer, president of the Family Research Council, said Kiedis was "the last person we ought to be using to teach our kids or anyone else about love and sex."

Bauer, a former Reagan administration official, said, "The ads are generally lewd. The Clinton administration ought to pull all the ads, not just this one."

WASHINGTON — The lead singer of the Red Hot Chili Peppers proved too hot for the Clinton administration's new ad campaign promoting condoms to prevent AIDS.

Embarrassed federal officials yanked a risque radio spot by rocker Anthony Kiedis after belatedly finding out he was once convicted of sexual battery and indecent exposure.

Kiedis pleaded guilty to two misdemeanors after a well-publicized backstage incident after a 1989 concert at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. A female student working at the event accused the rock star of placing his penis in her face and making lewd comments.

"We do not feel he is an appropriate spokesperson," said Dr. David Satcher, director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which launched the bold new AIDS prevention advertising campaign on Tuesday.

Satcher's boss, Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala, said she was "outraged" to learn of Kiedis' background, but added, "We must not allow a single ad to overshadow the vital lifesaving message in the campaign."

Conservatives and clerics have blasted some of the government's other new television and radio spots, saying they promote promiscuity.

Kiedis' manager, Lindy Goetz, said the singer did the radio spot free as a public service to help in the fight against AIDS.

Kiedis was fined $1,000 on each of the misdemeanor charges in the Virginia incident. The student sued the band for $2.35 million but settled for an undisclosed amount.

Video game creators air rating system

By EVAN RAMSTAD
AP Business Writer

LAS VEGAS — Video game creators, under pressure from Congress, approached an industry meeting Saturday with new ideas and questions for devising a ratings system that will help parents decide what games aren't for children.

The Software Publishers Association, the group sponsoring the meeting, prepared 30 pages of issues for computer game designers to consider, including how ratings would be administered and enforced.

The 3DO Co., which licenses a system design to several manufacturers and dozens of game creators, announced a four-level rating system it will use starting in March and said it will press others to adopt ratings.

"We have always believed it was important to have some form of guidance information that would be the same way you have disclosure information on food packaging that would help consumers," said Rick Tompane, a 3DO vice president.

Sega Corp. of America, the No. 1 seller of video games, began putting ratings on its games last summer.

The broader effort comes after a Senate hearing last month in which lawmakers, led by Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., and Herb Kohl, D-Wis., threatened to legislate a rating system if the industry didn't come up with a satisfactory one voluntarily.

Games such as "Mortal Kombat" and "Night Trap," picturing violent acts or sexual themes, have angered members of the Senate and others.

A bill introduced by Lieberman and Kohl would give the industry a year to come up with its own system.

The Software Publishers Association, which represents 1,100 software companies, believes it could take several months for a consensus to be reached, a spokesman said.

"Expecting it within a few weeks is not realistic," spokesman Dave McClure said.

The meeting was designed partly to demonstrate that the industry is intent on complying with senators' request.

Besides settling on the ratings themselves, companies must decide who will review and rate the games, how long they will be allowed to take, how will they be paid and how will game designers equitably split that cost.

Some have suggested the makers of games for systems like Sega and Nintendo and personal computers model their ratings group on the one for movies. But at about 1,200, there were twice as many games produced last year as movies.

In addition, computer and video games now go through several dozen scenes, or levels, of play, meaning they could take much longer to review than a movie.

For that reason, 3DO's system is designed to let the designer make the first suggestion for the rating that should be given a game.

Those that can be played by everyone will get an "E" rating. Those needing parental guidance for children 12 and under will get a "12" and those deserving caution for 17 and under will get a "17." Games for adults only will get an "AO" designation.

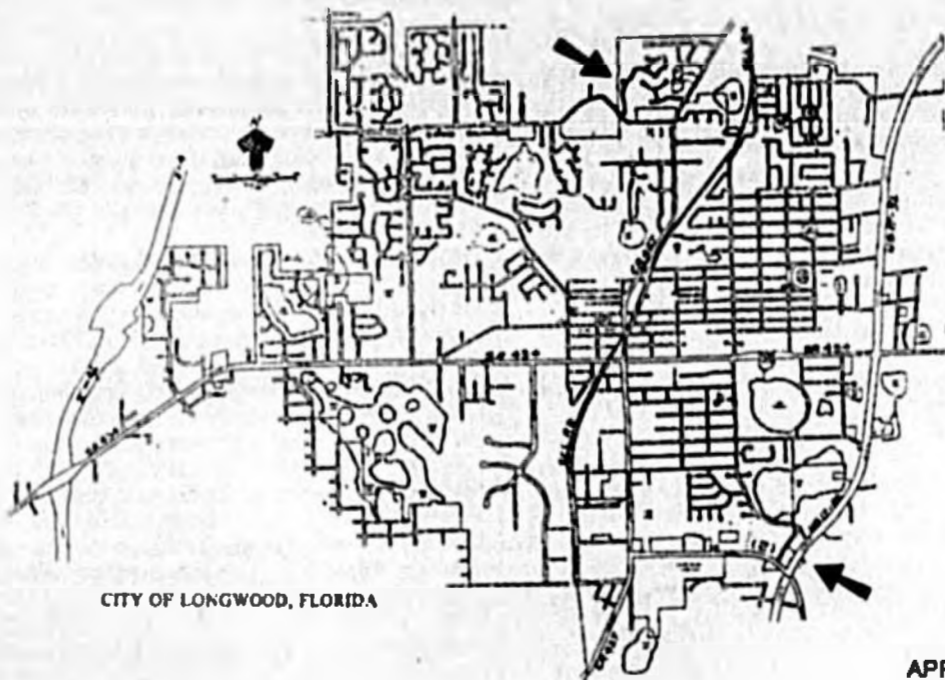

If industry players ultimately decide on another system, 3DO would consider going along but Tompane indicated the company's participation couldn't be assured.

"We'll evaluate whatever decisions are made and see if there are valid reasons brought up to either change it or not," he said.

MIT president concerned on consent in Fernald School radiation tests

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The president of MIT expressed regret that researchers from the school apparently experimented with radioactive materials on retarded youths without the subjects' consent.

"I was sorry to hear that at least some of the young people who participated in this research and their parents apparently were unaware that the study involved radioactive tracers," Charles M. Vest said of tests in the 1940s and 1950s at a state school for the retarded.

"People should not unknowingly become the subjects of research studies of this type," he said in a statement late Friday.

Vest said the studies were designed to promote health through better understanding of nutrition. The radiation exposure appeared to have been well within current acceptable limits, he said.

Technology researchers from 1946 to 1956. Radioactive forms of the minerals were used so scientists could trace how they were digested and absorbed.

The levels of radiation to which test subjects were exposed were 30 to 99 percent below current limits allowed in research, Vest said in another statement Saturday.

MIT's vice president and dean for research, physics Professor J. David Litster, reviewed four articles in professional journals and one doctoral thesis based on the studies for information about radiation exposure, Vest said.

Litster found that Fernald residents who ate seven hot cereal breakfasts containing iron marked with a radioactive tracer were exposed to an average of 230 millirems of radiation over 40 weeks.

Today's limit for radiation exposure in research or on the job is 500 millirems per year, in addition to 300 millirems of background radiation a year and any medical radiation treatments, Vest said.

Three studies that used radioactive calcium to trace calcium absorption exposed students and adults.

Valiant fight against crime in schools

Life in Seminole County schools is not back to the crime-free level we would like it to be. Crime and violence continues, although things appear to be improving.

The hiring of George Proechel, who left the Seminole County Sheriff's Office to become the first director of security for the school district, is one step in the right direction.

Establishing the telephone hotline, which allows students to report problems to the proper authorities, is another good move. Proechel says it is being well used, and is proving to be helpful.

Proechel commented on another move however, which may be of even more value. He says students are once again experiencing a feeling of pride in their school, and appear willing to do what they can to help make it a better place.

Where is this increase in pride coming from? Is it being instilled by teachers? Are parents showing renewed efforts toward instilling family, cultural and social values?

Whether it is one of these efforts, or a combination of all of these, something positive has happened. This should not only be applauded, but supported in every way possible.

Proechel says local students are "...really coming around and helping us put an end to the weapons and the drugs on school property."

The hiring of Proechel as director of security may have surprised some people. Are schools having so many problems we need a security officer?

The move however, may have made people become aware of the rapidly-increasing crime and drug problems at our schools. It certainly has been an awakening.

We all know: drugs weaken and can even destroy young minds. Resolving fights and trying to quell criminal activities is a waste of everyone's time, which should be better spent.

For Proechel, school officials and administrators, teachers, students, and especially parents, we urge continuing support. The reduction in crime and drug problems is underway now. We want it to continue until it is virtually eliminated.

Let's keep the momentum going. Victory over crime in our schools has been ours if we continue our commitments.

Sins of a violent few

A few comments seem appropriate in response to your recent gun control article.

Your article stated that there are 211,000,000 firearms in the United States. Of this number it reported that 15,377 were used in homicides during 1992. Simple arithmetic would then show that 210,984,623 firearms were not used to kill anyone. From this it seems that law-abiding gun owners significantly outnumber the violent few. Americans in this poll want greater restrictions on gun ownership. They obviously do not realize those guns need to be controlled. A problem incorrectly defined will be incorrectly solved; here is the problem and its solution as I see it.

Firearms in the hands of a few violent Americans are being used to rob, wound, and kill people. This is the problem. The solution is simple to state, but hard to apply. End the revolving door criminal justice system. Put violent gun users in prison and keep them there. Do not impose punishment in the form of restrictions on the law-abiding majority for the sins of a violent few.

Resolving psychologists' complaint

Children are the future — of a family, a community and a nation. Those of us in the helping professions: social workers, counselors and school psychologists generally are advocates for children. Therefore, when school psychologists in Seminole County felt that they were being prevented from giving their best services to children with special needs, they filed a lawsuit. This lawsuit was not entered into lightly and came as a last resort after their pleas fell on deaf ears.

June 11, 1993, The Bureau of Education for Exceptional Students received a formal complaint filed by attorney Norman Levine, alleging that the school board of Seminole County violated federal and state laws relating to the education of students with disabilities.

Twenty interrelated issues were alleged and an investigation was conducted by the Department of Education. As a result of the investigation, Secretary of Education Betty Castor signed an order Dec. 17, 1993 for the Seminole County school board to take corrective actions.

The first allegation submitted was "students have not been evaluated in all areas of their suspected disability." The corrective actions the school board are to take in relation to the above allegations are: (1) to revise its manual for admissions and placement to expand the referral to include more than one area or change the format to identify the area of suspected disability; (2) the revised document is to be submitted to the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Students within 45 calendar days of the order; (3) staff from exceptional student education and student support services shall be trained in the revised procedures and documentation must be submitted by June 30, 1994; (4) the educational records of students named by complainant as being adversely affected by this allegation are to be received by a representative of the school board.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Recommendations were made relative to the student study team. Whenever a child is being determined eligible or ineligible for special services, his/her case is reviewed by the student study team. Although psychological evaluations are often critical in making these determinations the school district made the attendance of school psychologists optional. Consequently, the Department of Education indicated that school psychologists are required to attend these meetings. The school board must revise its manual of procedures to reflect this change.

In essence the Department of Education found some of the allegations to be substantive, particularly in view of the federal requirement that "no single procedure is used as the sole criterion for determining an appropriate educational program for a child."

The Office of Civil Rights has also been conducting an investigation relative to treatment accorded school psychologists. The report from the Office of Civil Rights is pending. However, when all of the investigations are concluded it is necessary that the administrative staff members will be more receptive to school psychologists or any other school district employees who have genuine concerns, that impact upon the services provided to the children in this county.

The children are our citizens of tomorrow. The education they receive today will contribute to the quality of life and to their tomorrows.

Make joy a habit to use or lose

BOSTON — The year is still young, the days still numbered in single digits, when my friend extends her annual greeting, Happy New Year, she says, with the enthusiasm of a tolltaker telling commuters to have a nice day.

The truth is that my old friend is not thinking of a happy new year. She takes on January with something less than the good cheer she left behind in December. She encounters each new year with an icy stare, a certain set expression around the jawline. This morning she looks, well, resolute. And full of resolutions.

On her New Year's list, there are admonitions about work and working out. There are rules about belt-tightening her body and her budget. There are visions of a year destined to be lean and more than a bit mean. The good news, she says with just a hint of self-deprecating irony, is that she has yet to break a single promise.

My friend is a resolutions recidivist and we both know it. I recognize certain perennial entries to her list. The same five pounds have made their cameo reappearance. So has the promise to pay off her credit cards, to work harder, to really, finally, learn Spanish, and to NOT watch television, not eat fat, not let the laundry, the bills, the errands pile up.

If her life were a business, then these resolutions would be a pep talk from the boss about the need to be more productive, to do more with less, to squeeze more into the same number of hours. To accomplish this thing called 1994.

But where on this list is your happy new year, I ask? How come pleasure never makes it onto such a dutiful list of do's and don'ts? Doesn't joy also get soft and flabby if you neglect to exercise it?

My friend looks up and scoffs at my questions. Nobody, she retorts, needs to resolve to eat chocolate. We don't need to remind ourselves to do what we enjoy.

I nod my head at her grumpy certainty, but I'm not so sure of that.

The pleasures that I am thinking of this January day are not chocolate, cheese, and couch potatoes. Trend watchers may talk about Americans backsliding off the health treadmill, falling off the low-fat wagon. They may call the renewed indulgence in potato chips and steak and ice cream a sign of "pleasure revenge." But I suspect that these retreats are puny rewards for servings of self-denial.

I am thinking of another list. What would happen if we wrote down our six, eight, or 10 best moments over the past year. What if we ranked the hours that energized whole weeks; the exchanges that made us think or feel most deeply. A list of what made that year worth living. The non-aerobic highs.

Would there be any relationship between the list marked resolutions and the one marked pleasures? Between our stated goals and our remembered joys? Are we trying to get to where we really want to be? Or do we neglect the pursuit of happiness in our purposefulness?

The business manuals and working woman magazines warn people like my friend and me that we can't accomplish anything unless we follow their advice: prioritize. So we keep a strict order of absolute priorities. Work and family. Family and work. Family as work. Committed to our lists, we plough through days, checking them off like chores.

When we think about improving our lives, we tend to measure our worth on one scale or another. We think of stripping what is unhealthy or unnecessary, firming up muscle, getting down to the bone. Instead of flexing out the best.

We have priorities and everything else gets pushed to the bottom of the list. Only, once there, it remains untouched like some endlessly postponed dessert.

Too many friendships — the true casualty of our time — languish there. Too many marriages grow numb waiting for intimate stretches of time together. Too few of us resolve to sing or to walk in the snow, to make love or to make someone laugh. Too many of us forget what we want. The pursuit of happiness that once carried the moral weight of an American revolution now seems frivolous and has to wait.

But joy is also a habit. Use it or lose it. And happiness is not a banal smiley face to stick on an envelope. It's an option that we must exercise or watch atrophy.

So, while the year is still young, one more time with feeling: Have some happy New Year. Better put it on the list.

But where on this list is your happy new year, I ask?

Involved citizens improve schools

Improving public schools is like being shackled while running an obstacle course. The problem is not where you want to go, but how you circumvent the impediments, pitfalls, and hurdles.

The new year is a time for reflection and goal-setting. When I was elected chairman of the Seminole County School Board, I resolved to dedicate myself to education improvement. Here's the dilemma:

How Things Should Be

(Goals)

Teachers, money, and resources enough to provide a quality education to all students, whatever their individual academic or vocational requirements.

Schools where traditional morality and the Ten Commandments are taught and modeled by teachers and students.

Learning environments that allow teachers to be warm, loving, supportive, nurturing, and trusted.

Schools and homes that are safe and students who are well-behaved, self-disciplined, drug-free, respectful, and law-abiding.

Home/community support and parental involvement that reflect shared educational goals and responsibilities.

Manageable class sizes and joyful, well-paid teachers who are free to focus on subject matter and to meet needs they determine as priorities.

High test scores and students who graduate with skills required for productive lives as good citizens.

How Things Really Are

(Obstacles)

Overburdened taxpayers and a state funding formula placing Seminole County near the bottom (translation: "Too little money, too many students, so just do more with less").

Laws that demand political correctness and that limit teaching; or doing anything that might "offend."

Teachers afraid to touch or speak to students (except impersonally) lest motives be misunderstood or lawsuits result.

A culture of weapons, violence, and drugs necessitating expulsions, alternative programs, counseling, and officers assigned to patrol schools.

Dysfunctional families, neighborhood gangs, poverty, abused children, and apathy from people who would benefit most from their school involvement.

Overcrowded classes where teachers must cope with imposed mandates — everything from teaching those who don't speak English to those with learning or emotional disabilities.

Too many students who drop out — academically or emotionally — and who are content "just getting by."

With these (and many more) obstacles facing the school system, I sometimes want to throw up my hands, throw in the towel, or just throw up. But no situation exists that cannot be made at least somewhat better when concerned people focus on solutions, not problems.

The school board has made some progress on the obstacle course: drafting a legislative plan requesting Tallahassee's funding support; taking firm stands against violence, weapons, and drugs; establishing alternative education for expelled students; approving improvement plans submitted by school committees; and working with the Business Advisory Board, county officials, PTA's and school volunteers to meet needs.

Unfortunately, there are more problems than problem-solvers. With so many challenges to confront in the new year, won't you resolve with me to seek ways to unloose the shackles, jump the hurdles, and reach the finish line? Schools reflect the community, and it's only when the community gets actively involved that effective change occurs.

Editor's note: Barbara Kuhn is chairwoman of the Seminole County School Board.

Are you ready for exams?

The pressure is on. You feel the tightness in your chest, your palms are sweaty, you can't catch your breath, and it feels like the world is closing in on you.

No, I'm not talking about a first date, I'm talking about mid-term exams!

Can you believe it? Half of the school year is already over. Pretty soon we'll be hunting for great places on the beach for the summer.

But first there's those pesky tests to take care of.

After two long 9-week periods we, as students, get to think back and try to remember everything we learned 126 days ago (and that's not including days off or breaks).

Not a small task by any means.

Most teachers try to make things easier by combining 9-week exams with the semester final, that way there's less paperwork for them and less stress for the kids.

But that's most teachers. There are some who relish the thought of late-night cram sessions and pupils pulling out their hair from frustration.

Now that's just some teachers,

Jalmo Dillman

and I won't be mentioning who.

And there are different types of students, too.

Those who choose to study, study, study, right 'till the moment of the test, and some who glance at a review during their lunch hour (or half hour, I should say) and take their finals in stride, and of course the goof off's who never even think of looking back and go into their classes with a grin knowing all they'll do is christmas-tree the scan-tron. Fortunately for future's sake there doesn't seem to be many of the later description.

At Seminole a new policy has been adopted to encourage students to stay interested in their classes.

If he/she has two or less excused absences from a certain class and no unexcused absences then that person is exempt from their semester exam.

That's right, come to class and you win a fabulous prize at mid-term!

And yes, there are catches. First, if the child does qualify for the exemption he/she must also have no unexcused and less than two excused absences from their Contact (homeroom) class. If they fail to meet those requirements then they have to take their tests.

Understand? Don't worry, many teachers and students didn't either.

O.K. now we get to the other snag, if there is a dispute about absences between teacher and student, it's up to the teacher to decide if that student qualifies.

The student can only go to the attendance office at the end of the school day to try to straighten everything out, and even then things might not work out.

What students must remember is that if they are exempt from their finals, not taking them doesn't help their semester grade at all. So if you're planning on forgetting stress because you don't want to do something you don't have to, maybe you should think of doing it anyway, to make sure your grades are on the up and up.

To all of you who aren't worrying about sharpening No. 2 pencils because you've had good attendance, the school would prefer it if you stayed at home until you have to come to school to take a test, if you have to at all. Besides what would you do at school with nothing to do?

Think about that one. Now to all who, for some reason or another, just have to take those finals go easy on yourselves and study a little every night before the exams, trust me, you'll absorb more that way than in a state of cramming panic. And cheer up, after it's all over we get a four-day week-end while teachers still have to go to school to all of those horrid, torturous, brain-picking, examinations of our semester's knowledge.

Cooper is true to SHS

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A commitment to the school and the community.

That's what sets Jane Cooper apart from her fellow teachers at Seminole High School.

Cooper has been teaching 11th grade English at Seminole for 21 years. This year she is also teaching and Advanced Placement English classes.

"I don't know what I do that is different than anyone else," she said. "Except that, maybe, I can identify with the kids."

She said that she was the child of military parents who settled in Sanford when she was in the 11th grade. She attended Seminole High School.

"I came here at the same age they are now," she said. "I remember what it is like to be in that situation here."

Cooper said she enjoys the challenges of teaching.

"It's a lot of hard work," she said. "But more than that, it's fun."

Cooper said she loves her students and enjoys the pleasure they bring her in the classroom. "I love my work," she said.

"The kids are great. They're what keeps me going."

Cooper said she has especially enjoyed the challenge of teaching the Advanced Placement students.

"They are really interested in the work and in learning," she said. "We get to read different books and discuss things on a much deeper level."

She said, however, that all her students work hard and are usually willing and able to learn.

"I think the students here have a lot of pride in Seminole High School," she said. "And so do I."

Cooper has tried to get her students interested in volunteering in the community. She has encouraged community service as a part of the educational process even before it became possible to use the volunteer hours as a half credit elective course.

She also serves as the senior class sponsor.

Cooper teases that she barely has time to sleep. In addition to all her duties at school, she said she is also "very involved" in the school activities of her sons.

Back to school

Following a few weeks off from school for the Winter Break, the students at Crooms School of Choice returned to school this week. The students across the district are now back in school and getting ready for the third nine weeks and for mid-term exams. The first week back in school is always a difficult one, but students will probably be ready to really buckle down and work this week.

Losing extra holiday pounds

By SHERYL MOSER, R.D.

Now that the holidays are finally over, the company is gone and the decorations put away, it's time to realize that some of the signs of the season are still with us.

Unfortunately they have snuck up on us one delicious mouthful at a time. The pumpkin pie from Thanksgiving, those delectable morsels from the office party, the once a year cup of egg nog, grandma's famous fruitcake, the holiday treats that tempted us all December long. Those seemingly harmless calories have found their way to our hips and waist and the bathroom scales are telling on us.

January is as good a time as any to start a new diet. But how can this year's New Year's resolution be more successful than last year's broken promise to lose weight?

Diet modification and exercise are always key components to long-term, healthy weight loss and weight maintenance. Registered dietitians advise a "dieting" strategy that is both realistic and safe.

To help make weight loss more successful, here are a few basic principles to keep in mind.

●Set reasonable, obtainable goals.

As a general rule of thumb, one can expect to lose weight in approximately the same amount of time that it took to put it on. Therefore if holiday celebrations began somewhere around the week of Thanksgiving, then you can assume 6-8 weeks of diet modifications will return you to pre-holiday weight. A conservative target date of about

January is as good a time as any to start a new diet. But how can this year's New Year's resolution be more successful than last year's broken promise to lose weight?

-Sheryl Moser, R.D.

March 1994. Obviously a target date may be much later if additional pounds from several past holidays are also to be lost.

Start a diet plan with several small, obtainable goals so success will be more immediate and serve as incentive to stick with the overall objectives.

For example, a goal to lose 11 pounds by March may not be as effective (or as motivating) as a goal to lose 1 pound the first week, 3.5 pounds by the end of the first month, and each month thereafter. Each small hurdle will improve chances for achieving desired weight. One goal with one deadline leaves too many opportunities to procrastinate or to quit all together.

●Plan to eat three to four well-balanced meals every day.

Good nutrition should never be sacrificed when attempting weight reduction. A diet that restricts entire food groups (like dairy, meat) or emphasizes a specific food (grapefruit, brown rice, fish) should be avoided. No one food item provides everything needed by the body, and restricting large categories of food only increases the possibility of missing important nutrients.

Planning well-balanced meals three to four times a day will help regulate appetite and blood sugar levels, and minimize food cravings. Meals should include foods from all six food groups of the food pyramid. Foods high in fat or sugar (chips, desserts, milkshakes) should be limited and substituted by lower calorie, more nutritious choices.

In-between meal snacking or nibbling before meals should be restricted. Snack-type foods are typically higher in calories and provide little to the overall nutritional content of one's daily intake, except for excess calories.

●Think moderation.

Portion control is critical when attempting any weight reduction or weight maintenance program. The size of the portions are directly related to calories contained, and calories consumed (the larger the serving size, the higher the calories). Moderation is usually the best policy in regards to food choices and decisions about "seconds." This rule is particularly applicable when eating foods typically considered "forbidden."

For instance, after the decision has been made that a "forbidden" food is to be eaten, stop after one or two bites, so the caloric intake is minimized and weight reduction strategies are not jeopardized.

These are just a few examples of basic weight management strategies. To help plan and achieve weight loss goals, contact a physician for a referral to a registered dietitian. Individualized assessment and counseling services are available.

Weight loss is a billion dollar a year industry. Needless to say, there are a lot of "dieters" out there, and a lot of people thinking about dieting. Be aware that weight management is hard work. It takes a personal commitment and determination with each day and with each mouthful of food, but the rewards and benefits are more than just the physically obvious: there are personal gains and medically sound reasons for making this New Year's resolution a success.

C.A.R.E. goes mobile

Project C.A.R.E., a coalition effort of agencies under the supervision of the Area Agency on Aging of Central Florida, Inc., will be rotating its Mobile Medical Clinic through Brevard, Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties beginning in February. Elderly throughout Seminole county are encouraged to take advantage of the clinic beginning the week of Feb. 20. On Tuesday morning from 9:30-12:30 seniors gather at the Goldsboro Senior Services Site at the West Sanford Boys and Girls Club, 919 Persimmon Ave., Sanford. The special unit is tentatively set to serve the elderly during that time period.

Exercisers may shed cholesterol

By IRA DREYFUSS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Exercisers are better able to shed cholesterol, and a new study provides provocative hints about how it may happen.

Researchers say athletes' cholesterol seems to be more easily attracted away from a substance that makes it stick to artery walls, and toward a substance that carries it to the liver, from which it is excreted.

However, they caution against reading too much into the study, because the area is too new and the number of people involved too small.

The report in the American College of Sports Medicine Journal, Medicine and Science in Sports and Exercise, looked at particles that carry cholesterol. One is low-density lipoprotein (LDL), which deposits cholesterol in the form of fatty plaque inside arteries. The other is high-density lipoprotein (HDL), which moves cholesterol away.

Scientists already knew that exercisers tend to have more HDL than do their inactive counterparts. This study indicates the benefit may extend beyond this — that exercisers' HDL may be, in a sense, more active.
The researchers at Children's Hospital Medical Center and the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine looked at 10 men with an average age of 32. Five of the men were sedentary, but the others were highly trained athletes, running at least 60 miles a week.

All were given a moderate workout on an exercise bike. Blood samples were taken before and after the workout. The samples were then used in lab experiments.

"We isolated the HDL part, then we put that in a solution with an LDL that had been loaded with radioactively labeled cholesterol," said researcher Barbara N. Campaigne. "Then we saw how much of that radioactively labeled cholesterol moved over to HDL."

There was little change in the cholesterol of nonexercisers, said Campaigne, now ACSM's director of research development.

But the runners' HDL moderately increased its ability to sweep up cholesterol after exercise, Campaigne said. This was striking because exercise didn't increase HDL levels in either group, she said.

This suggests regular exercise must have made the difference in HDL activity, the study said.
"It shows for the first time how exercise influences the high density lipoprotein cholesterol," Campaigne said.

The study also found that pre-exercise blood from the nonrunners was better at shifting the radioactive cholesterol from LDL to HDL particles.

But the researchers suspect this may not be as much of a benefit as it seems. They think the nonrunners looked good by contrast because runners' HDL was already busy clearing nonradioactive cholesterol from the runners' tissues.

However, Campaigne cautioned that the report is preliminary — a hint, not a conclusion. For one thing, it involved only five people in each group, and larger numbers would be needed to establish that the effect the researchers found was not a statistical fluke.

For another, the highly trained runners who were tested may have simply been genetically blessed with bodies which, among other things, were naturally able to clear their cholesterol better. Campaigne said.

"It's possible it happens in ordinary athletes, too," Campaigne said. "I don't know if the response would be as marked."

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Kite goes on IR

ORLANDO — Orlando Magic center/forward Greg Kite was placed on the injured list with a muscle tear in his right calf.

The 6-foot-11 player, who has averaged 1.2 points and 2.4 rebounds in 29 games this season, was injured Tuesday against New York and is expected to be out for at least two weeks.

Bonds, Thomas honored

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Barry Bonds of the Giants and the White Sox' Frank Thomas received the Major League Baseball Players Association Players' Choice Awards.

Each player on a roster or disabled list as of last Aug. 30 was asked to vote by secret ballot for the best player in his league.

AROUND THE STATE

Brooks to stay at FSU

TALLAHASSEE — All American linebacker Derrick Brooks said Saturday he would remain at Florida State for his senior season.

Brooks, 20, was a first-team Associated Press All America and a finalist for the Butkus and Lombardi awards, symbolic of the nation's top linebacker and defensive player.

Wake Forest trips FSU

TALLAHASSEE — Randolph Childress scored 26 of his 36 points in the second half to lead Wake Forest over Florida State 90-66.

Tim Duncan, a 17-year-old 6-10 freshman from the Virgin Islands, added 15 points while Trellonnie Owens notched 17 for Wake Forest (10-3, 1-0 Atlantic Coast Conference).

Seven-foot Andre Reid led Florida State (7-3, 0-2) with 17 points and junior Bob Sura added 13 and had a game-high 11 rebounds.

Lynn women set record

BOCA RATON — Junior center Shander Gary scored 48 points Friday to lead Lynn University to a 122-53 romp over Flagler College.

The margin of victory set an NAIA Division II record for most points, eclipsing the 120 points scored by Western Oregon in 1992.

Southern still unbeaten

LAKELAND — Chet Galloway scored 26 points to lead Florida Southern to an 88-54 victory over Gardner-Webb on Friday.

John Saunders chipped in with 17 points for Florida Southern (13-0) and Tim Gatz added 10.

AROUND THE NATION

Chiefs advance in OT

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Nick Lowery kicked a 32-yard field goal 11:03 into overtime as the Kansas City Chiefs beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 27-24 in an AFC Wild Card playoff game.

Joe Montana had thrown a 7-yard touchdown pass to Tim Barnett on fourth down to tie the score with 1:43 left in regulation after Keith Cash blocked a punt and Fred Jones returned it 31 yards to the Pittsburgh 9.

The win sends the Chiefs into the second round against the Houston Oilers next Sunday.

Green Bay wins on road

PONTIAC, Mich. — Brett Favre hooked up with Sterling Sharpe for three touchdown passes, the last with 55 seconds remaining, as the Green Bay Packers defeated Detroit 28-24 in their NFC wild card game.

The Packers (10-7) advance to the NFC divisional playoffs against the Dallas Cowboys.

Georgia State shocks UCF

ATLANTA — Mark Stribling hit 10 of 15 shots and scored 28 points, leading Georgia State to a 72-63 victory over Central Florida.

Victor Saxton led UCF (6-4, 1-2 Trans Atlantic Athletic Conference) with 24 points.

Gators set record in romp

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Craig Brown scored 20 points and Florida set a Southeastern Conference record for free-throw shooting Saturday in an 86-71 victory over Tennessee.

Florida (11-2, 2-0) set a league record by hitting 27 of 27 free throws, breaking the mark of 23-of-23 set by Vanderbilt in 1988. Eight different Gators were perfect from the line.

SAC champions again

Blowout gives Lyman 3rd consecutive crown

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Another night, another shutout, another championship.

Lyman High School's girls soccer team clinched its third consecutive Seminole Athletic Conference championship Friday night, crushing the visiting Seminole Fighting Seminoles 10-0 in a game stopped less than 15 minutes into the second half by the 10-goal mercy rule.

It was the 13th straight win for the Greyhounds (16-1 overall, 8-0 in the conference) and the 14th shut-out of the season for Lyman goalie Cheryl Roberts.

Seminole dropped to 3-12, 0-8 in the conference.

"It is always exciting to win the conference," Lyman coach Gary Barnett said. "It's not easy to win and there are too many good teams to take any game for granted. Every win is important."

Lyman's win over Seminole was the Greyhounds' 32nd consecutive conference game without a loss, dating back to Jan. 3, 1991, when Lake Mary shut out Lyman 2-0.

Since then, the Greyhounds are 31-0-1 in conference play. Overall, the Greyhounds are 75-3-3 since that loss to Lake Mary.

On Friday night, seven players contributed goals to the Greyhounds' winning effort.

Seminoles rebound

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Shirley Pinto and Sabreana Sapp scored goals Saturday morning to lead the Seminole to a 2-0 girls' soccer victory over Kissimmee-Gateway.

The victory came less than 24 hours after Seminole was thumped by Lyman, 10-0, Friday night.

After a scoreless first half, Pinto scored on an assist from Heather Youmans. Sapp made it 2-0 when she converted a corner kick from Aubrey Brocius into a goal.

Seminole (4-12) outshot Gateway 25-2 and had a 17-0 advantage in corner kicks.

Melinda Hollifield and Laura Williams each played a half in goal for Seminole.

Next weekend, the Tribe will play in the Gainesville-Buchholz tournament.

Danya Harris (No. 2) keyed Lyman's 10-0 romp over Seminole by scoring three goals and assisting on a fourth. The victory clinched a third straight Seminole Athletic Conference championship for the Greyhounds.

Ray Perkins (No. 10) was one of eight players to contribute points Friday night as Seminole's Arrow Force II registered a 13-point Seminole Athletic Conference win over the visiting Lyman Greyhounds. Seminole also won the freshman and junior varsity games to sweep the boys' basketball tripleheader.

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Someone once said, "Practice doesn't make perfect, perfect practice makes perfect."

Seminole High School boys' basketball coach Bob Traina has schooling his young team with that theory and it seems to be paying off as Arrow Force II took over sole possession of first place in the Seminole Athletic Conference with an impressive 59-46 victory over Lyman Friday at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"We've been trying to get it into the kids' heads that you win or lose in practice," said Traina. "As is usual this time of year, they've been a little distracted because of the holidays and being out of

Turnaround continues for Rams

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Once the girls' basketball season is over and there's time for reflection, the Lake Mary Rams may look back and identify their loss to Lake Brantley last Tuesday as the turning point of their season.

Or not. On Tuesday night, the Rams squandered a 12-10 first-quarter lead in a 63-39 loss to the Lake Brantley Patriots, a loss highlighted (lowlighted?) by a 23-0 Lake Brantley second quarter.

That loss prompted Coach Anna Vanlandingham and the Rams to take a long, hard look at themselves.

"We had gone over to Titusville-Astronaut the week after Christmas and won that tournament (beating Lake Brantley and Seminole)," said Vanlandingham. "Then, in our next game, we lose to Lake Brantley."

"Lake Brantley played a good game Tuesday night, but for us, the problem was our mental approach. We had won that tournament, but we were still wondering 'Can we do it?' Lake Brantley is a big rival for us and our confidence level that we really believed we could win a ballgame wasn't there."

So, at Wednesday's practice, the Rams spent more time talking than dribbling.

"We talked about that (lack of confidence) in practice Wednesday."

Buckley becomes Playtime's first AA female thrower

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — While she didn't make the Playtime Dart League's Hot Shot list this past week, Bamboo Cafe's Bobbie Buckley added to her reputation as one of the circuit's top throwers, male or female.

Buckley, who competes for the Bamboo Cafe's Bamboo Bombers in the Ladies' League and Done With Style in the Mixed A League, became the first Ladies' League participant to achieve an AA rating.

Currently, Buckley leads the Ladies' League with an average of 53.31% wins, and five bulls.

She also has 14 assists, one bull (the only one registered in the league this season), and a turkey.

HOT SHOTS

This week's top tossers were Bamboo Cafe's Alice Horton and John Dunn from the Lake Mary Pub.

Horton, a member of the Bamboo Bombers in the Ladies' League, collected four wins and two hat tricks to top the women's Hot Shot list.

Dunn, who throws for Just For Fun in the Men's B League, topped the men's list with five wins and a bull.

Also making the women's Hot Shot list were Marta Hughes from Uncle Nick's and M.T. Muggs' Sharon Posadal, who both registered four wins.

On the men's Hot Shot list were John Thompson of Whiskey River (five wins); Lake Mary Pub's Anthony Flores (four wins, two bulls, and a seven-throw dart out); Ray Cisneros from Bamboo Cafe (four wins, a turkey, and a seven-throw dart out); and Sir Walter's Al LeBlanc and M.T. Muggs' Scott Shaffer (each with four wins and a bull).

Women dominate league play at Bowl America-Sanford

Special to the Herald
SANFORD — It was women's week at Bowl America-Sanford, as in almost every league, the women rolled higher series scores than the men.
Dory Jackson also had the highest individual game reported, men or women, as she rolled a 255 in the Thursday Night Mixed League on Dec. 30.
Elenore Vishnesky (584) in the Wednesday Senior Citizens League, Jackson (605) in the Thursday Night Mixed League, and Nancy Johnson (562) in the Tuesday Night Mixed League all had the highest series in their respective league.
 The only male to roll the highest series for his league, other than in an all-men's league, was Bob Meyers, whose 546 series was the tops in the Senior Washday Dropouts League. Meyers also turned in the best individual game among the men for the week, posting a 248 during his series.

 The most competitive league of the week was the Mardell's Ladies League, which saw the top four bowlers all roll series above 500 and finish within 10 pins of each other.
 Playing on Jan. 3, Linda Stafford paced the league with a 574 series, but Dottie Roberson (565), Carolyn Betts (564) and Nancy Barnes (564) were close behind in an unbelievable fight for second.
 The highest scoring league turned out to be in the B.A. Men's Classic League, where the top four bowlers were all in the 600s.
Pete Lemonte's 684 was the best in the league and was also the highest series rolled during the week. Jimmy Moyer (644), Michael Ferrella (617) and Bob Lake Jr. (614) also reached the 600 plateau.
 The only woman to reach the magic 600 level was Jackson with the 605 in the Mardell's Ladies League.

Playtime

LADIES' LEAGUE
 Led by Buckley, the Bamboo Bombers from the Bamboo Cafe have built the largest advantage of any of the league leaders, a 16-game edge (83 wins to 67) over second-place Nick's Nightmares out of Uncle Nick's.
 Just six games out of second place are Nick's Nieces (61 wins), also from Uncle Nick's.
 Trailing the leaders are Bamboo Cafe's Bamboo Babes (55 wins), No Answer out of the Lake Mary Pub (47 wins), Bamboo Cafe's Bamboozettes (41 wins), Good Answer from the Lake Mary Pub (39 wins), and Score At Touchdown-backed Team No. 7 (23 wins).
MIXED A LEAGUE
 Just seven games separate the top three teams in the eight-team loop.
 Leading the pack are Time Out's The Untouchables (73 wins), Close behind are Sharkey's The Sharks (68 wins) and Done

With Style (66 wins) from the Bamboo Cafe.
 Completing the circuit are Bamboo Cafe's Team No. 2 (57 wins), Team No. 8 from Time Out (56 wins), Lake Mary Pub's Just One Hole Off (43 wins), Ron's Illegits from Uncle Nick's (41 wins), and Lake Mary Pub-sponsored The New Family Feud (33 wins).
MIXED B LEAGUE
Lake Mary Pub's The Good, the Bad, the Ugly, and the Old has an eight-game edge (70-62) over the second-place Bushwackers from Sir Walter's. Four games back in third place are the Small Darters (58 wins) out of the Bamboo Cafe.
 Tied for fourth place with 54 wins each are Score at Touchdown's Team No. 8 and Mom's Muggers from M.T. Muggs.
 Rounding out the standings are the 4 B's (42 wins) and Team No. 1 (33 wins), both sponsored by the Lake Mary Pub.
MEN'S A LEAGUE
 In the tightest race of the five leagues,

Lake Mary Pub-backed Team No. 3 (72 wins) holds a four-game edge over T.C.B. (68 wins) out of Q-Biz.
 Following the leaders are Right There from the Lake Mary Pub (48 wins), and the Bamboo Scorpions (44 wins) and Team No. 1 (41 wins), both sponsored by the Bamboo Cafe.
MEN'S B LEAGUE
 While the first-place team is in a relatively comfortable position, there's a lot of scrambling going on just behind them.
 The Q-Biz Bulls have collected 76 wins through eight weeks of play, putting them 11 games above a five-way scramble.
 Currently, Sir Walter's The Knights and the Too 60's from Q-Biz are tied for second place with 65 wins apiece. Close behind are Bamboo Cafe's Four By Fours (64 wins) and Lake Mary Pub's Just For Fun (62 wins).
 Tied for sixth place with 54 wins each are the River Rats from Whiskey River and Bamboo Cafe's Shoots.

Soccer

Shea Donih started the scoring for the Lyman with a little less than two minutes gone in the game, sending a crossing shot just past a diving Seminole keeper.
Danya Harris led the Greyhounds with a hat trick on three unassisted goals. Sara Kane added two goals off assists by Harris and Lisa Solars, Michelle St. Louis, Theresa Bontempo and Loretta Keith each added a goal.
Lyman launched 21 shots at goal while holding the Seminoles shotless.
 "You have to be pleased when a team comes out and plays consistently good soccer and does everything that is needed to win," Barnett said. "We didn't just knock the ball down the field, we maintained possession and we were able to work on the things we do well as a team."
 "Regardless of what the score might have been, we were happy with the way we played."
Lyman, which was scheduled to play Winter Park Saturday night, will have an opportunity to avenge its only loss of the season next Saturday, when the Greyhounds host Orange Park in a 4 p.m. contest.

Rams in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match played Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.
Shayne Thomas gave the Rams a 1-0 lead with a goal in the first half.
 The junior varsity game also ended in a 1-1 tie.
Lake Mary (8-7-2 overall, 4-2-2 in the SAC), which was to play at Deltona Saturday night, will travel to Miami for two games next Friday (with Hialeah Lakes) and Saturday (against Miami-American).
Lake Howell, which was scheduled to play at Apopka Saturday morning, will host Orange Park from Jacksonville next Friday night.
PATRIOTS 5, LIONS 0
ALTIMONTE SPRINGS — Kim Shrum and Katie Tullis each scored two goals Friday night to lead the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 5-0 victory over the visiting Oviedo Lions in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match.
Freshman Sharon Lievertz also scored for the Patriots, who outshot Oviedo 24-2.
Lake Brantley (12-6 overall, 5-3 in the SAC) struck four goals in the first half.
 In junior varsity action, Lake Brantley blanked Oviedo 4-0.
 The Patriots were scheduled to play Bishop Moore at home Saturday afternoon. After taking the week off for nine-week exodus, Lake Brantley will wrap up its regular season with games at Daytona Beach-Scabreeze (Jan. 15), Seminole (Jan. 19), and Lake Howell (Jan. 21).
Oviedo (8-10-3) plays at West Orange this Tuesday, Jan. 11.

Seminole

 school. But now that we're back on a regular schedule, I think we'll get better and better."
 While the perimeter players did most of the damage as Seminole opened a 15-13 lead after one quarter, Arrow Force II 6-foot, 7-inch center Andre Hall showed early in the second quarter that the game was going to be decided by the inside player.
 After Hall missed two free throws, Seminole claimed the rebound following the second. When the ensuing shot missed, Hall charged down the lane, grabbed the ball as it came off the rim and slammed it back through.
 Sophomore forward Reggie Holloway also got a slam later in the quarter as Arrow Force II outscored Lyman 14-9 and out-rebounded the visitors 9-1 in the second period.
 The Seminole post position trio of Hall, Holloway and Ronnie McCarrell would finish the game 11-of-12 from the floor, score 25 points and grab 20 rebounds.
 "I've said all along the way we have a group of four post men as good as anyone," said Traina. "Derrick Brinson has not been playing as much, but he has shown that he can come in and play very effectively."
 "If we can go inside and score, that will open some things for Eric (Roberts) and Brad (Traina) outside, and that will give us the offensive balance that we are looking for."
Arrow Force II seemed on the verge of turning the game into a rout as they outscored the Greyhounds 7-2 to open the third quarter.
 But Lyman coach Norm Ready went to a delay and held the ball for almost two minutes. The strategy worked as William Simons sank a three-pointer to key a 7-0 run to cut the lead to five, 36-31, with 2:03 left in the third period.

Roberts hit a pair of baskets to stop the run before Simons hit another try to make the score 40-34 entering the final period.
Seminole had trouble with the Greyhound press early in the fourth period, turning the ball over five times, but Lyman was having trouble converting and once Arrow Force II started to handle the press, they started to pull away.
 Leading the way was Roberts, who scored 17 points, grabbed four rebounds, handed out four assists and came up with three steals. Also contributing were Holloway (nine points, four rebounds), McCarrell (eight points, nine rebounds), Hall (eight points, seven rebounds, four blocked shots) and Neville Fuller (seven points, eight rebounds, two steals, two assists).
 Doing the damage for Lyman were Shawn Ready (16 points), Simons (14 points) and Dewayne Bell (nine points, 12 rebounds, six steals, two assists).
Arrow Force II improved to 11-5 overall and 3-0 in the conference, while the Greyhounds fell to 8-4 overall and 2-1 in the SAC.
Seminole's junior varsity and freshman team made the night a clean sweep as the JV's won 61-57 while the freshman, led by Shawn Hill's 30-point effort, rolled to an 82-60 triumph.
Seminole was to have hosted Spruce Creek in another tripleheader Saturday night, while Lyman will be idle until it hosts Deltona next Saturday.

Lake Mary

 day," said Vanlandingham. "From a coach's standpoint, one of things we needed to do was convince our four returners that we believe in them and that they can do the job."
 It seems to have worked as the Rams — led by returners Laura Ragucci, Diane Duber, Dawn Ferguson, and Jennifer Greisinger — turned around and handed Lake Howell its first loss of the season, 66-50, Thursday night.
 On Friday, despite being physically and emotionally drained, the Rams took care of business and disposed of winless DeLand, 44-26. Ragucci led Lake Mary with 10 points while Ferguson added eight and Duber contributed seven.
Lake Mary also won Friday night's junior varsity game, 68-22.
 "Having those talks appears to have helped them with the mental aspect," said Vanlandingham. "All along, our biggest problem was that the players didn't believe in themselves. I knew they had the athletic ability, that they have what it takes to win. They just weren't believing in themselves."

 "I take responsibility for that. Even though I believed in them, obviously I hadn't done what was necessary to get them to that point. But on Thursday night, I could feel that they had that confidence in themselves."
 The challenge now facing the Rams is maintaining and building upon that new-found self confidence. That'll be challenged this week, when Lake Mary hosts Mainland next Thursday night.
 "When we played Mainland (last week), we played well and could have beaten them, but our confidence level wasn't there," said Vanlandingham. "We didn't believe that we could beat them."
 "Since Christmas, we're 4-1. Things are starting to come together. This next week, we'll be able to see if we're making progress. The girls will put it (their self confidence) to the test and prove to themselves that they believe they're a good team."

Planning trips around severe weather will yield better results

This time of year I let the weather dictate my fishing plans. In the old days, I would go fishing regardless of the weather. Cold, wind, it didn't matter. I've had ice on my rod guides, water lapping over the sides of the boat and blistery winds chapping my face.

FISHING
 JIM SHUPE

Over the years, the weather has beaten me into submission. So has the realization that I have rarely done well on those miserable days that I paid the price and fought the elements.
 I now plan my trips around the weather. The weather is always much more cooperative a few days before a cold front or a few days afterwards.
 Besides that, the fish also bite better at this time. Few species feed well in the midst of a frosty front. Bass and other species become semi-dormant and seek the sanctuary of thick cover or deep water, where they become most difficult to catch.
 Both saltwater and freshwater species are much more active in the stable weather that precedes or follows a cold front.
 Am I getting soft? Perhaps... but perhaps the lumps and bumps have made me a much wiser person. I like to think that I fish a little "smarter" than in times past.
 I would rather save my time, energy, and hard-earned money to fish on a good day rather than waste these valuable resources on a cold, windy, lousy day. I may not catch quite as many fish, but I sure am a lot more comfortable and much happier.
 Hopefully, you can benefit from my years of abuse by cold fronts to plan your fishing trips more prudently. There is a thin line between being a hard-fishing angler and a hard-headed angler. I, for one, have crossed this line for the last time.
SHUPE'S SCOOP
 The more severe the cold front, the more drastically fish will react. It will take several days after the passage of a real strong cold front for conditions to return to "normal."

FISHING FORECAST
 The strong cold front this weekend is really going to put a damper on fishing prospects. If you have to go freshwater fishing, I would stick to smaller waters such as the Wekiva River, which are protected somewhat from strong winds.
 Taking a boat onto a large body of water will not only be uncomfortable, the bass fishing also will be very slow.
 On the saltwater scene, Sebastian Inlet offers some good flounder fishing this time of year. Finger mullet bounced slowly across the rock-strewn bottom will produce "doornat" flounder in excess of 10 pounds. Bluefish will also be thick.
Captain Jack at Port Canaveral said that offshore fishing will be shut down this weekend due to high seas.
 Inside the Port, sheepshead and flounder age providing steady action. In the Banana and Indian rivers, expect trout and redfish to be hard to locate. Several days of cold weather will put fish in deep holes, but a day or two of cold temperatures will only scatter the fish.
Ponce Inlet may well be very rough this weekend with high northeasterly winds. Sheepshead and bluefish will be thick, and action with these species will be fast and furious. Fiddler crabs and live shrimp work well for sheepshead, while bluefish will strike almost any type of artificial. Mosquito Lagoon will be unfishable due to high winds.

IN BRIEF

EVENTS

Chamber schedule

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has announced its gatherings for the month of January. The following have been scheduled:

- Jan. 7 — Ambassador breakfast meeting, 8:30 a.m. at the chamber office.
- Jan. 11 — Ribbon Cutting — Bridgewater Apartment, 11:30 a.m.
- Jan. 13 — Membership Thank You Party, Regatta Shores Apartments 5-7 p.m.
- Jan. 21 — Ambassador Luncheon — Colorado Prime, 11:30 a.m.
- Jan. 31 — Annual Banquet — The Barn, 7 p.m.

For additional information on the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, phone 322-2212.

SBDC January programs

The Small Business Development Center, SBDC, in the College of Business Administration at the University of Central Florida, is offering a number of workshops designed for small business owners to enhance their operational proficiency. Advance registration is required for all of the programs.

The following are scheduled in the Orange/Seminole county area:

- Jan. 7 — Basics of Government Contracting, 9 a.m. until 12 noon. Free.
- Jan. 12 — How to profit from NAFTA, 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Fee TBA.
- Jan. 14 — Business Plan writing, 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. $35.
- Jan. 19 — Win/Win, the Art of Negotiating, 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Free.

For information on all of these courses, as well as others offered in the Cocoa area, phone the SBDC at (407) 823-5554.

Agribusiness exhibitors sought

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford is urging agribusiness firms from throughout Florida to exhibit their wares at the 24th annual Florida International Agribusiness Trade Show.

The event is scheduled May 11-13 at the Polk County Agricultural Center on U.S. Highway 17-98 in Bartow.

"This is an excellent opportunity for businesses to display their agricultural products and services to a select group of international buyers," Crawford said. "More than 100 exhibitors reported sales of $9.2 million as a result of last year's show, which demonstrates the powerful economic punch this event packs."

Over 450 business and government trade officials from throughout Latin America and the Caribbean are expected at the event this year.

For information on exhibiting at the trade show, call (904) 488-4368 or write to the Division of Marketing and Development, International section, 412 Mayo Bldg., Tallahassee, FL 32399-0800.

MEETINGS

Professional Secretaries

Professional Secretaries International, Winter Park Chapter, will meet Tuesday, Jan. 11 at the Langford Resort Hotel, 300 E. New England Ave., Winter Park. Guest speaker will be Robin Miedz, chief dietitian at Winter Park Memorial Hospital.

All Central Florida area secretaries are invited to attend. Cost is $11.50 for the dinner portion of the meeting.

For further information or reservations call Marie Anderson, at 649-9111, ext. 1826.

Businesswomen gather

The American Business Women's Association, Seminole Sunrise Chapter, will hold a dinner meeting Jan. 11, at Holiday Inn, Wymore Road. Cost is $16 with reservations required.

For information or reservations, phone Pat Capesana at the Sunrise Chapter's headquarters in Altamonte Springs, 830-0911.

Drug free workplace meeting

The Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will host its first Drug Free Workplace Implementation seminar Wednesday, from 8:30 until noon. The Chamber's newly-formed DFWP program "STAND" (Seminole Tackles Alcohol Narcotics & Drugs) is designed to assist small to medium-sized businesses in becoming drug free. The cost is $40 for chamber members. The fee includes the STAND policies and procedures manual. The seminar will be conducted by Attorneys Tom Moran and Bob Raach.

For information, registration, or to become a member of the chamber, phone Angie Clark, at 834-4404.

Southern Bell progresses

The walls didn't come tumbling down

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — On Jan. 1, 1984, Southern Bell became involved in a court-ordered break-up. It touched off a watershed of change in the telecommunications industry.

Things have already started to change as of the beginning of this new year.

This past Wednesday, Southern Bell announced reaching an agreement with consumer groups which will cap basic residential and business rates through Jan. 1, 1998.

It will eliminate the $1 per month charge for touch-tone service, and reduce overall rates by $300 million a year by the end of 1996.

Customers are expected to save $1 billion over the next four years.

Changes will not stop there. Southern Bell Corporate and External Affairs Manager, Larry

Larry Strickler
Strickler says things are, today, much better than they were when the break-up occurred ten years ago.

He explained, "You can do a lot more with a telephone line than you could in 1984. You can send faxes, transmit data, even send video signals, all at the same time."

He continued, "You can shop among a wide range of network-based services. You can buy an endless variety of telephones at the corner drugstore or at a sophisticated electronics shop. That's a lot different from just a few years ago when you leased your basic black rotary phone from Ma Bell."

The idea behind the 1984 divestiture of AT&T by the federal courts was to promote competition and give consumers a wider choice of communications goods and services.

Now, the convergence of voice, data and video technologies is creating a multimedia marketplace that is changing the nature of Southern Bell's business as well as the lives of its customers.

The breakup spawned seven regional "Baby Bells," the largest of which is BellSouth, Southern Bell's parent company. Today, they all face competition from new start-up companies.

"Competition in any market is good for the consumer as long as everybody can compete freely," Strickler said.

"Partnerships among related industries, among key user groups and among the private sector, government and academia present another change in the telecommunications arena," he continued. "These unique coalitions — unheard of in 1984, are necessary to continue to build the information superhighway, or infrastructure," he said.

Paulucci plans promising

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Plans for Luigino's Inc., suppliers of some 35 Michelin's entrees throughout the U.S., Canada and the United Kingdom, are far ranging for 1994.

The plans were announced by Jenó F. Paulucci, chairman, president and CEO of Luigino's Inc.

During this new year, the three-year old company hopes to add Mexico, continental Europe, Japan and India to its Michelin's Internationals. Yu Sing and Carlos & Maria's distribution roster.

Paulucci said that meetings are planned with top supermarket executives who presently handle some of the Luigino's products that are exported from the company's Jackson, Ohio facility.

A Northern Ireland production facility would give Luigino's distribution avenues throughout Europe.

Another pending deal would give Luigino's distribution throughout Japan and the western Pacific area.

Later this month, Paulucci will take steps to consolidate a joint venture in Mexico that would allow for Mexican and Latin American distribution of Michelin's frozen pasta and sauce entrees and the Yu Sing line of Oriental frozen foods.

"There is a big market there with about half of Mexico's population buying frozen foods like they're going out of style," Paulucci said.

Paulucci, who has maintained a residence in Sanford for many years, is the widely known entrepreneur who launched the Chun King Corporation starting with a $2,500 loan.

After selling Chun King, he launched Jenó's Pizza and several other companies.

He was also the founding chairman of R.J. Reynolds Foods, now Nabisco-Reynolds.

Winn Dixie to deliver prescriptions for free

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Winn-Dixie held a news conference Thursday at the Orlando headquarters, to announce details of a new free Pharmacy Express home delivery service.

Marketing Director Larry Beck says this is the first supermarket chain to offer such a service in Central Florida.

Winn-Dixie will work in conjunction with Bethesda, Maryland-based Pharmacy Express, a division of Shoppers Express, Inc., through which Winn-Dixie has offered grocery home delivery for the past two years.

Under the new plan, customers and physicians will be able to telephone or fax orders to a toll-free 800 number for delivery to their homes. Customers are able to order prescriptions and other health care items in the store with the aid of a catalog.

Orders will then be faxed to a local Winn-Dixie store for processing and delivery.

Further details and specific information is expected to be announced in the near future.

A successful event

Some of the major sponsors in the Mayor's Soup-er Supper held the day before Thanksgiving, joined together to announce the results. The event obtained donations of approximately $5,100, which will be distributed to various charities. Shown during a check presentation,

Levy marks 100th birthday Woman's club plans annual 'Taste of Sanford'

Fran Bloch, manager of Hospice thrift shop.

Hospice needs thrift shop items and volunteers

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

Fran Bloch recalled shuffling and somewhat discounting people when they would comment to her that they had found their calling. She felt there really wasn't such a thing and she knew she had never experienced this calling that others spoke of. That is until she lost her mother to lung cancer last year in June.

The word hospice comes from a medieval concept. It was considered a weigh station for the sick and weary. It then evolved in England and became the home for the dying to live their last days. The organization, Hospice, began only 20 years ago in the states.

Cindy Andrews, an employee for Hospice of Central Florida said, "I became involved with Hospice because my father died when I was four years old and I grew up with an awareness of what it does to a family to have a cancer death." Many people associate Hospice with cancer services but it deals with much more than that. To be eligible for Hospice you must have been referred by a doctor and have a life expectancy of only six months. The care is extended to all disease processes, including heart disease, AIDS, cancer, and a host of other diseases.

Hospice of Central Florida covers the tri-county area of Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties and is also one of the largest and the oldest hospice

DORIS DIETRICH

Sam Levy loves celebrations - particularly on his birthday.

And Sam has been around long enough to have a lot of birthday parties. Every year, he ushers in the New Year with his own special brand of birthday celebration. But this year was a little different. He is now into his second century.

Sam turned 100 on New Year's with a luncheon celebration at the Renaissance Center where he lives. The management provided the luncheon and special birthday cake. During the luncheon, American Legion Post #53 honored Sam with a huge birthday card. He is believed to be the oldest veteran of World War I who is a member of the post.

That evening, his son, Gene, from Long Island, N.Y., hosted a family dinner for 30 at Lake Monroe Inn, Sam's favorite dining place, according to his niece Selma Newman of Altamonte Springs.

Selma said Sam was quite a popular personality at the Inn. Pianist Don Pate always asks him to come forward and play his harmonica, which Sam loves. It makes him feel so special.

On the Wednesday before the celebration, Mary Levy, Sam's daughter-in-law, widow of Sam's other son, entertained at another dinner at Lake Monroe Inn. Once again, Sam was asked to play his harmonica.

Not bad for the spry centenarian who has always given so much of himself.

SANFORD — Behold I stand at the door and knock," states the greeting above a plate glass etching of Jesus Christ.

Joyce Shaw of Sanford explains, "That's Jesus making that invitation to sinners," as she points to the glass etching on the door of her mission. The combination mission and church, William and Laura Clarke Mission, is located on 900 West 13th St. in Goldsboro.

The life-size glass etching came about as a donation to her mission by Tom Sheipe of Glass Illusions, a locally owned business.

Shaw explained that she had gotten the picture the etching was copied from, but she had trouble trying to find a suitable way to utilize it. One of her friends was sure that she could do a life-size drawing and had actually begun the planning on it. The plans came to a halt when her friend found a job and explained to Shaw that she would not be able to have the picture ready for the Thanksgiving opening of the mission.

Her friend got in touch with Sheipe and explained to him what was happening. Shaw continued, "He graciously came by one Sunday and was talking to me and showing the picture that he had drawn. I, in turn, said I have a picture right here that I would like for you to draw." Sheipe looked at the picture and agreed to do it.

The etching came out successfully and now the members of the mission have an appropriate entrance to their sanctuary. The members are looking forward to Easter when Sheipe has promised them he would be back and put an angel on the plate glass window.

The mission opened on Thanksgiving Day and well over 50 persons enjoyed a meal prepared by Shaw and her helpers. Three turkeys and most of the other foods were

Medieval times 'Knight in shining armor' loves re-enactment role

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

Knights in shining armor and maidens in distress are the very thing that romanced Kyle Williams toward his hobby. Williams is a member of the Society of Creative Anachronism. "I was intrigued with medieval times and the customs and mannerisms," he said.

Medieval re-enactment was another statement Williams used to describe his love. His wife of three-and-a-half years, Sherri, and his two sons, Dallas and Taylor, and squires in the organization, were identified as all his loves. Born in Orlando and a resident of Sanford for three-and-a-half years, he was familiar with the fighters in action at the Sunland park. "I would drive by at Sunland and see them on Sundays," he said. "I knew I wanted to be a part of it." He is employed at Dittmer Architectural Aluminum and the occasional Friday off has helped him to further enjoy his "obsession," as his wife calls it.

Williams is an officer of Trimaria, Herald of Perrigrine Springs. The kingdom of Trimaria refers to the state of Florida, meaning three seas. Being a peninsula, Florida wears this name in the society. He began as a Shield man, then became A Man in Arms, then his present position. Williams can be seen on many Sundays dressed in armor that resembles fighters from the medieval era. Strict requirements are placed on each person participating in warfare whether they use bows and arrows, swords or spears. The armor is made from different types of materials. "Some armor is made from scrap aluminum, kydex or leather," he said. "It must suit the individual needs, safety requirements as well as their wants."

The persona, as the society calls it, who Williams identifies with was a 13-century Irishman. "My name in the society is Cahir na Coill mhor," he said. "It's Gaelic. He was orphaned when the Gallow Glasses invaded Ireland. Cahir is in a quest for gold and glory."

Activities scheduled for King celebration

The City of Sanford, Mayor Bettye D. Smith, and a group of citizens called the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Steering Committee, have worked diligently in planning and hosting events commemorating the contributions the slain civil rights leader made to the world. This year the City of Sanford Martin Luther King Jr. Committee has planned the following activities to celebrate his birthday:

The Martin Luther King Education Committee for 1994 has put great emphasis on continuing monetary contributions for graduating seniors of Seminole County high schools. The Oratorical Contest for this year's celebration will be held Tuesday, Jan. 11, 7 p.m. at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, Sanford Avenue and First Street. The winners of the scholarships for the oratorical speeches will be announced at the youth celebration.

The celebration activities are Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Peace Breakfast, Saturday, Jan. 15, 9 a.m., Sanford Civic Center, Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard. The speaker will be Minister Barbara Galney, pastor of the Glorious United Pentecostal Church, Osteen. The Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Casella Jr.

Edna Sexton bride of Frank Casella Jr.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Edna M. Sexton and Frank M. Casella Jr. were married Nov. 13, 1993, 2 p.m., at the Altamonte Chapel, United Church of Christ, Altamonte Springs. Pastor Marcella Freeze performed the traditional ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Jack and Connie Sexton of Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Frank Casella Sr. of Sanford and Janet Casella of Orange City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white satin gown with overlay of chiffon. The front of the gown was highlighted midway with a satin ruffle. The six-foot train was embellished with a satin ruffle midway to hemline. The fitted satin bodice was decorated with tiny seed pearls and featured a sweetheart neckline. At the neckline was worn a single strand of pearls. The fitted sleeves of embroidered lace were gently puffed at the shoulder. Her headband of white silk flowers held her illusion veil. There were strands of flowers and beads cascading from the headband. She carried a bouquet of 24 peach roses, interspersed with pearl beading and greenery. Shelby Riccinto served as matron of honor. She wore a hi-low dress of aqua-colored satin. The fitted bodice featured a v-neckline and was worn off the shoulder. She wore sprays of baby breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of peach roses, aqua carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

Bridesmaids were Barbara Dunn and Mary Brown. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's but were peach colored. They wore wrist corsages of peach roses and aqua carnations.

Frank Casella Sr. served his son as best man.

Ushers were James Sexton and Brent Muse.

Groomsman were Clay Dunn and Richard Cameron.

Maria Lively, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl.

Jackie Sexton, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Assistants at the reception were Joan Cameron, John and Carrie Archambault, Julie Catzin, Mike and Becky Donaldson.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Sanford Moose Lodge, Sanford.

After a wedding trip to Silver Lake Resort, Kissimmee, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford.

The bride is employed as administrative assistant at Sonotone, Longwood. The groom is employed by the Seminole County School Board, Sanford.

services in Florida. The organization has served almost 10,000 patients since 1976. The recently founded New Hope counseling center works on a sliding scale for families that are in need of counseling services but are financially unable to bear the expense. Hospice House runs at a $200,00 deficit every year.

The Martin Andersen facility is a six-bed residential facility in the Pine Hills area that works exclusively with patients that have no other caregiver in the home. No one is ever turned away which is partly the reason for the high deficit.

Hospice thrift shops were created to help this large deficit also. The Sanford area has one of these shops located by Winn-Dixie at 15th Street and U.S. Highway 17-92. Volunteers, and any items besides clothing whether large or small, are desperately needed. Donations are tax deductible and can be picked up by volunteers by making a simple phone call to the shop or the Hospice office.

Andrews also said, "The community benefits in two ways. First, they can use the Hospice services and second, the thrift shop sells nice things at a cheap price. We have over 700 volunteers in all and 70 of them are at the Sanford Thrift Shop. We do still need kitchenware, linens, appliances, handmade gifts and crafts." Andrews elaborated that the thrift shops got started because people were so grateful to Hospice for their care, that at times whole estates were left to them. Warehouses began to fill up and an idea was created for sale of these items to benefit future recipients. She also could not speak enough of Fran Bloch, the manager of the Sanford thrift shop, how she got started, and what "an outstanding person she is."

With tears in her eyes, Bloch recounted the last days with her mother and the bond between them. Hospice was constantly standing by with assistance and help. Bloch herself began as a volunteer. "I remember calling to volunteer my services and they told me to come for an interview. I chuckled because I hadn't worked in many years. At the interview I told them I was starting as a volunteer and would give them all I can. Then I told them...but I know one day I will have a job as a paid employee with you." And that she did.

After two months of volunteer work at other thrift shops, she was then offered a paid position and has worked in that capacity for an additional four months. "I was introduced to Hospice by a friend when my mother was going through her cancer," she said. "The things she said about how great they were I thought were too good to be true. I was waiting for the ball to drop after I began using the services in counseling for me and previously for my mother. I didn't think there could be such nice and genuine people out there, who cared that much to help. It's true! They are all wonderful and always willing to help day or night."

Bloch commented that she has become such a campaigner for Hospice that she even called the Oprah Winfrey show to get them to give some air time to let others know of the tremendous efforts and services offered by people who truly care. "It is such a phenomenal organization to work for," she said. "Ninety-five percent of the volunteers are here because, like me, they used the services and they want to give something back. I believe in Hospice from the bottom of my heart and I would never repay them for what they've done for me. They helped me get through it all and were there for me, morning, noon and night." Bloch wants to start a ribbon campaign for Hospice. "There are people that wear a colored ribbon for AIDS awareness and one for breast cancer, why not a different color to remind people of Hospice?" she concluded.

For a person who, at one time, felt she may have missed her "calling," Bloch stands convicted. She strives to contribute unselfishly to an organization that "keeps on giving."

fueled by what Williams sees as the "camaraderie" and the somewhat fantastical atmosphere keeps him returning. "It's not a cult or religion. It's just a group of people getting together and having fun and pretending," he said. Williams also spoke of the wonderful time he has at camping expeditions with the organization. "Keep an open mind," he said.

Some things won't be totally medieval because you may see a Coleman cooler or lantern but we try to make things as authentic as possible. "It's not unusual to see 200 to 400 people at a public campground locally set up like a medieval community."

The society strives to offer the full spectrum to members. Fighting, cooking, calligraphy, and leather working, to name a few. The society also has a blacksmith who assists with the armor by bartering or paid services. Williams enthusiastically stated that he would be happy to give out any information if anyone was interested in joining the group. "Once a month a newsletter called 'Talewinds' comes out with a calendar of events," he said. "Four times a year, Tournament Illuminated does a quarterly newsletter with a book review and touch of everything in it." Weekly, a basic fighter practice takes place at Sunland and monthly, a kingdom lighter practice. Since Florida is the kingdom of Trimar, groups from all over the state sport armor, shields, helmets and pointed poles on the field. The spectator can enjoy at no cost a re-enactment of a medieval fight. Phrases like Lord, Lady, King and Queen may be heard at the function. Fencing takes place as well, Williams said. "In August of each year is the largest fight in Pennsylvania. There are sometimes 10,000 people gathered."

Williams concluded by giving an example of weapon control in the medieval era as compared to gun control in the present.

"Crossbows were outlawed by the Vatican in medieval times.

They were considered the Devil's tongue and only defenders of the church were allowed to have them." A heavy metal adornment may be the thing that brings Williams back home feeling the king of his own castle.

Yet with his gentle nature he'd never think of ruling his castle with an iron hand.

Crooms 25th reunion

Crooms High School Class of 1968 celebrated their 25th Silver Anniversary Reunion with the theme "Back Together Again." The class-scheduled activities began Christmas evening. They gathered for the hour of reacquaintance at the Elks Lodge.

The fellowship hour and worship service was held together with the Class of 1963 at New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, Sunday morning worship service. The class then gathered for dinner at Quincy's where old classmates greeted friends, family and each other.

The Back Together Again banquet was held for the Class of 1968 at the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe in the banquet room. Classmates gathered Tuesday, Dec. 28, at 7:30 p.m. with classmate Robert Chambers as toastmaster for the occasion.

Classmate Rev. Evan Bacon offered the prayer of invocation as the Lord's Prayer was chanted. The welcome and occasion was given by Amanda Nathan Alexander of the Class of 1968 with a solo by Eloise W. George and a duet by Ronald and Ingrid Nathan.

The speaker for the reunion was the Rev. Robert Doctor, pastor of St. John Metropolitan Baptist Church, Ronald Merthle, former president of the Crooms High School Class of 1968, introduced Rev. Doctor who was the commencement speaker in 1968. He asked of the group "how and what have you added to your life since you are back together again; how have you contributed to your success in life?" A memorial for deceased members was presided over by Pastor Merthle. A solo was presented by classmate Velma Carter. Remarks were given by donated to the mission for the Thanksgiving dinner. "It has been tough trying to get things going," she explained. "Everything that we have been donated or I have paid for it out of my regular paycheck. Hopefully, in the future we will be more self-sufficient as new people will certainly come in and help us out."

Chairman Bernard D. Mitchell. The Class of 1968 will meet Jan. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Elks Lodge.

She has chosen to locate her mission on the exact grounds where she was born more than 50 years ago. Her grandparents,

William and Laura Clarke, now deceased, had owned the property since before the turn of the century. Clarke was a contractor and built many of the homes that now make up the area surrounding the mission.

Shaw spent many years in New York before returning to Sanford to continue her mission to help the poor and hungry. The mission will be a lasting memory to her parents and grandparents who have contributed so much to the town they grew up in.

Family with funny name hears Ho-Ho-Ho all year

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more story about funny names? If so, you are welcome to use mine. It's Ho. Around Christmas, our family has always been greeted with "Ho-Ho-Ho!"

In 1960, when I married my husband, there were only six Ho's in the Los Angeles telephone book. Apparently no one had heard of a last name with only two letters, so when I'd give my name over the telephone, I was asked, "Is it Ho?" I'd repeat, "No, it's Ho. Just two letters. Hand O."

We have received letters addressed to "the Hoels" and "The Halls." My husband's first name was Garrett, so some mail came addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Garrett."

When I got pregnant with our first child, here are some of the names the people in my office suggested: "If it's a girl, name her 'I'da,'" then her name would be 'I'da Ho.'" "If it's a boy, name him Ivan, Westward, Tally, or even Gung..."

Also, some people added an "e" to our name. We explained we are not the garden tool.

Now, with the influx of Asians, there are many Ho's, and I'm sure some of them have had the above experiences.

AMY C. HO
P.S. My maiden name is Chow.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

When I was a girl, someone inserted an "r" in my first name, and I was called "Army Chow!"

DEAR ABBY: We are a military family stationed in Germany. On the day before Thanksgiving, your column read: "Why not invite a friend who lives alone to share a Thanksgiving meal?"

We acted on your suggestion and invited the elderly widow across the street to join us for a traditional Thanksgiving meal. She accepted gladly and suggested that a few others in the neighborhood were also alone, so we included them.

The pleasure of our traditionally American feast was enhanced by the addition of these neighbors, even though they spoke practically no English. Thank you, Abby, for enriching our holiday.

THANKFUL AMERICAN FAMILIAR

DEAR FAMILY: Thank you for picking up on the suggestion. Inviting others to share your holiday meal is what Thanksgiving is all about.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went to visit our daughter in Mississippi for Thanksgiving. She prepared a traditional Thanksgiving dinner that she served on paper plates! She had plenty of porcelain plates in the cupboard.

Am I old-fashioned, or is this tacky?

HOLIDAY VISITOR

DEAR HOLIDAY VISITOR: Before passing judgment on a hostess for using paper plates, one would have to know how many guests she had for Thanksgiving dinner. Does she have small children to take care of? Did she have anyone to help her clean her house and prepare the holiday dinner?

In my view, the epitome of tackiness is criticizing the hostess who fed you.

Born in New York City, Sam and his family moved to Long Island when he was a very young child. There were eight siblings, but today only one sister, Rose Levy, 96, of Sanford, is still living. In years past, Rose operated the Hollywood Shop in Sanford for 20 years.

Sam arrived in Geneva in 1919 where he operated a slaughter house. Previously, he was chauffeur and mechanic for a wealthy New Yorker. He returned to New York to marry Florence Richmond and brought her back to the area.

With a flair for cooking, Sam was featured as the Herald's "Cook of the Week" when he was 96. His interest in food and dining led him to open a grocery store and butcher shop in Sanford and later, a butcher shop in Oviedo.

In addition to the American Legion, Sam was active in the Masons until a few years ago. His niece, Selma, said, "He was an avid fisherman."

He has six grandchildren, 1 great grandchild and one great, great grandchild. There are four nephews and he has another niece in Sanford, Rose Edith Jacobson.

Well-liked and respected, Sam has left an indelible mark on the community, Selma said. "All his life, he's been a real sweet, lovable person. I don't think there was anyone who didn't like him."

Club reviews Indian art

A slide program exploring native American art was presented to the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. at the January meeting. Guest speaker was Isaac Stocton Keith Reeves V, a collector and architect from Winter Park who was introduced by Viola Frank, chairman of the Education Department.

Reeves told the clubwomen how the purchase of a piece of painted Indian pottery led him to begin his research of Indian art. He traced the art to the artist through his name on the piece and made a trip to South Dakota.

Research disclosed that the artist was among Indians sent to the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, Hampton, Va. to learn English, work on farms and learn trades trades such as farming, blacksmithing etc. Ledger art was also encouraged among these individuals.

Reeves traced the artist back to Wannapin, a fiery Indian who was described as "stupid" on his Hampton records in November, 1881. Wannapin was a Brule Sioux who was born in 1861 and died in 1906. The valuable pottery, painted with a couple depicting a romantic setting, is now in safe keeping in Tallahassee.

In the meantime, Reeves keeps on collecting and staying engrossed with his informative finds.

The business meeting was conducted by President Jean Metts. The Board of Managers voted the president as the club's candidate for the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's Dr. Luis Perez Humanitarian Award.

The nominating committee for club officers is as follows: Pat Brooks, chairman; Rose Payne, Polly Fezold, Jane Saxon and Viola Frank.

The club has new wrought iron railings outside, compliments of Elizabeth Helfrich.

Hostesses Polly Fezold and Roberta Zittower, assisted by Hazel Cash, decorated the clubhouse in a festive New Year's motif, complete with noise makers, hats, confetti, streamers and balloons. Very colorful.

Taste of Sanford set Jan. 15

The Woman's Club of Sanford will sponsor a "Taste of Sanford" scheduled Jan. 15, from 5 to 8 p.m., at the clubhouse, 309 S. Oak Ave. Tickets are $5 each and are available at the door or from any woman's club member.

Area cateries will provide their house specialties for tasting. Clubwomen will also supply their favorite foods.

Jennifer Kelley is chairman, assisted by a number of club boosters.

Trip out west a Cinderella saga

Dr. and Mrs. Frank (Jean) Clontz had the time of their lives on a recent ski journey out west, but their Cinderella trip ended when they climbed from the clouds back to earth last Sunday night.

On the day after Christmas, they joined David and Edna Robinson (she's the former director of nursing at Central Florida Regional Hospital) on their private jet for a trip to Tenerife, Col. Upon arriving there, whose jet was parked next to theirs? None other than Donald Trump's.

Later, Jean and Frank went shopping in the grocery store at the lovely small town of 1300 when they bumped into Donald and his bride, Marla, who were there honeymooning.

Among the other celebrities having homes there are Tom Cruise, Sylvester Stallone and Oprah Winfrey. Incidentally, Frank was mistaken for Donald Trump's bodyguard.

The Clontzes also visited good friends, Patti and Bobby Brantley, former lieutenant governor of Florida of Altamonte Springs, who live near Oprah Winfrey.

But the frosting on the cake was that the Robinsons and Clontzes attended two football games in one day, the Fiesta Bowl in Arizona when Miami played Arizona, and they jetted off to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans for the Gators game. Getting tickets and arriving before kickoff at the SuperDome is a story within itself.

After all the hoopla and hobnobbing with the celebs, Jean and Frank will never be the same.

Minnie turns 80

If you should see Minnie Kane today, wish her a happy 80th birthday.

For the past 20 years, Minnie has made her home in Sanford when she and her late husband, John, moved here from Chicago.

A member of Nativty Church in Lake Mary, several years back Minnie and John were active in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Golden Age Games, RSVP and Knights of Columbus.

Last summer Minnie visited her native Chicago and while there, 30 family members threw a surprise pre-birthday party for her in a large park. "It was really surprised," she said. "It was a big party."

Happy New Year

Lottie and Lamar Echols entertained at their usual buffet on New Year's Eve in their new home - at least, new to Lamar. When they were married several years ago, they called Lamar's residence home, and now they have moved to Lottie's home in the country where "we have more space, can plant a garden and park our camper and boat," Lottie said.

So about 20 gathered to ring out the old and ring in the new and feasted from a bountiful buffet of Lottie's own specialties. She said she made a friendship cake and, at midnight, all toasted the New Year by slicing into the delicious delicacy.

"We had a really good time," Lottie said.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today if you do a favor for someone, don't make this person feel he/she is obligated to you in some manner. Be compassionate and do for others with no strings attached. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend of yours who is presently unpopular with your peer group needs some reassurance today. Let him/her know you can be counted upon.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have greater intestinal fortitude today than you may realize. It is only when you feel challenged or threatened that your backbone stiffens and you'll be prepared to make a stand.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone to whom you have close attachments could profit today from one of your past experiences. Usually it's not wise to offer unsolicited advice, but this case might be an exception.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be reluctant to alter an arrangement today if it is having a negative effect upon your reputation or finances. It's up to you to protect your interests.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your probabilities for success are heightened today, because you are not likely to dodge difficult decisions, even if they are personally painful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Subordinates with whom you'll be working today will be keeping a weather eye on you and attuning their performance to yours. If you're industrious, they will be as well.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 10, 1994

A new residence might be numbered among major changes you may experience in your lifestyle in the year ahead. Even if you can't afford it now, start planning for it anyway.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you might be tuned into fortuitous currents that could be extremely lucky for you with both new and old endeavors in which you're currently involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something favorable may be stirring for you at this time that might be temporarily screened from your awareness. Shortly when you learn of it, it'll make you very happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is a lucrative market for some very special talent or knowledge you possess. It will be up to you, however, to make your wares known to others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely mindful of develop-

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something you cannot do on your own can be achieved today through a special alliance. This arrangement could prove of benefit to both parties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Just because an assignment isn't to your liking is not a good enough reason to try to sidestep it today. If you meet your duties head-on, you'll find they aren't as tough as you envision.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be satisfied with small gains today instead of trying to make an impressive killing. Small amounts have a way of adding SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions in general appear to be favorable today, but your best possibilities might be in commercial and financial involvements. If you do something right in these venues, it could be impressive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) View developments realistically today, but don't take matters so seriously you lose your sense of humor. A portion of each is required for success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An endeavor in which you're presently involved is not being managed by one who is as capable as you are. It's time for you to assume management of this situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Over the coming months you could be in one of the strongest financial trends you've ever experienced. It will have more highs than lows. Today is one of the highs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A positive attitude could work wonders for you today, especially in situations where the stakes are substantial. Don't let people, size or circumstances intimidate you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) New life might be breathed into an enterprise today which you've been prepared to toss on the scrap heap. You'll be glad you didn't respond to your impulsiveness.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

The New Year decorations were being taken down in the bridge club. The Senior Life Master was sitting in his chair beside the roaring fire. He had watched this same scene for more years than he wanted to calculate.

A young man handed him a hot toddy. "At least pre-season baseball is only two months away."

"That's true," replied the SLM. "but it's hard to think of baseball when there's two feet of snow on the ground outside."

"However, mention of baseball reminds me of a deal."

The SLM handed the man a piece of paper.

This deal was played during the 1978 pennant playoff game between the Yankees and the Red Sox (continued the SLM). Algernon Stickey-Whicket was partnering his fiancée, Madeleine Harter-Court. West led the spade king. After winning with the ace, Algie saw that if he found West with the heart king, he was home. Alternatively, he could play East for the diamond queen.

Suddenly Bucky Dent hit his three-run homer, giving the Yankees victory. Algie cheered. Madeleine glared.

Deciding that diamonds gave the better chance, as West might have a singleton queen, Algie played a diamond to dummy's ace and took the diamond finesse. West won the queen and cashed four spades: one down.

"Oh, Algie, you are pathetic," wailed Madeleine. "You have two chances to make your contract. Cash both top diamonds. If the queen drops, fine. If not, take the heart finesse. Why don't you concentrate on the bridge, rather than on that stupid baseball? Our engagement is at an end."
