Oleanders are in bloom

One of the most colorful shrubs blooming now is the oleander (Nerium oleander). It is an evergreen plant with narrow, leathery leaves 6 to 8 inches long. The colorful flowers of red, pink or white are produced in terminal clusters throughout the summer.

Serendipity Senior Show

LAKE MARY — A Serendipity Senior Show, featuring arts, crafts, hobbies, collectibles and historical memorabilia will be on display Tuesday from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Old City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Rd., Lake Mary. Refreshments in the form of an old English Tea Time will be served between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. Public is invited to view the displays, which will be judged. The show is co-sponsored by the Lake Mary Historical Commission and the Lake Mary Seniors.

Commissioners establish election

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners are expected Tuesday to formally establish a July 9 election to ask voters to approve a one-cent, 10-year sales tax to help finance a $450 million road-building program. Commissioners will also consider an ordinance requiring film productions in the county to be issued county permits. The meeting begins at 1:30 p.m. at the County Services Building, 1101 E. First St. Commission work sessions are held beginning at 9:30 a.m. in room N-300.

Lotto winner in Pinellas County

TALLAHASSEE — A single ticket, purchased in Pinellas County, matched all six winning Lotto numbers drawn Saturday night to win an estimated $15 million jackpot. Lottery officials said. Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann said Sunday that Saturday night's winning ticket was sold in Palm Harbor. In addition, 229 tickets matched five of the numbers drawn to pay $4,828.50 each. There were 13,851 winners matching four of the correct numbers. Each of those tickets were worth $116.50. A total of 283,015 tickets matched three winning numbers in the Lotto drawing to win $6.00 apiece. Saturday's winning numbers were 16-19-21-32-43-45. Next week's Lotto jackpot is estimated at $7 million, if paid to a single winner in 20 annual installments.

Preservation spurs land buy

Proposed shopping center could lead to protecting marshes

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A proposal to build a shopping center on U.S. Highway 17-92 could lead to the preservation of 200 acres of marshes and rare ferns nine miles away on the shores of Lake Jesup.

And the plan could spur the St. Johns River Water Management District to purchase another 1,100 acres, including a portion of Black Hammock, home to plant species found no where else in the world.

The developers of Cypress Center, a proposed 37-acre shopping center north of the intersection of Weldon Boulevard and U.S. 17-92, have proposed to purchase 200 acres of Lake Jesup lands and donate it to the St. Johns River Water Management District, said Lorne Malo, a district environmental specialist reviewing the request.

In return for permission to build in the wetland, Malo said the developers have requested to pave over a portion of a 13-acre wetland on their shopping center site and use the remainder for a drainage ditch. The district must issue a permit for the wetlands destruction because it drains under U.S. 17-92 to Lake Jesup, Malo said.

Malo said the wetland is of poor quality because it has been timbered and has been affected by surrounding development, so the district is willing to consider the proposal.

Malo said developers Raymond Khouahnou and Mahmood Nasrin propose to buy all of Hawkins Island near the east shore of Lake Jesup and portions of the shore marshes extending south by a half mile to Salt Creek. It lies south of Sanford's wastewater irrigation site. Land records show the owners as Evert Williams and Robert Cobb, trustees.

The proposal has spurred the district to consider buying an additional 1,134 acres south of the area proposed for donation that would extend the district's land into Black Hammock. The hammock is the only known location where the cuplet fern species grows.

"This site has been in our plans for a number of years," said Jack Eckdahl, director of district land acquisition. "It has water quality benefits for the lake with the marshes and has endangered plants special to the area."

Eckdahl said the donation proposal has spurred the district to advance dormant

2 qualify as commission candidates

By NICK PFEIFAUF

LONGWOOD — The official qualifying time for political candidates seeking the post of City Commissioner, District 3 in Longwood, ended at 5 p.m. Friday with only two candidates submitting their forms and paying the qualifying fees. Write in candidates may still make their intentions known during the remainder of this week.

The election is to fill the commission post formerly occupied by Gary Hefter, who had been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Hefter reportedly submitted his resignation as part of an agreement in the settlement of his case. At that time, he was also serving in the position of Deputy Mayor.

City Clerk Geri Zambri has officially received qualification papers from J. Russell Grant and Carolyn Keith. Grant, 75, lives at 553 E. Palmetto Ave., Longwood, is a long-time resident of the area. He has previously served on the Longwood City Commission for a 10-year period beginning in 1974. According to City Manager Don Terry, "Before our election laws were changed, Grant served as chairman of the city council, a classification which later became known as mayor. Later, he served as mayor, when that post was filled through an election by other members of the commission."

The other candidate, Carolyn Keith, 43, who is known as "Clanet", lives at 507 Skidder Court, in the Hidden Oaks subdivision.

A mystery

What on earth happened to Granny's prized photos?

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Grace Smith, 1417 Oak Ave., has over 30 sheets of what were once professional portraits of her granddaughter taken over one year's time. The former portraits are now merely multicolored pieces of paper.

On Feb. 19, Smith said her son George mailed the photographs to Sanford from his home in Oklahoma City. The photos were a one year's gathering of professionally taken photographs of a grandchild she has never seen. "I kept waiting and waiting for them to get here," Smith said, "but I didn't find them until Sunday, April 28." Her mail box is located in front of the house, near the street. "But I found this package of photographs lying in the back yard," she said.

Only one of the sheets contained a small portion of a little girl's face. The rest are unrecognizable mixtures of various colors and patterns. Persons knowledgeable in photography have several opinions regarding the pictures that became a splash of color. It may have been an incomplete washing after the photographs were processed, but Smith said they were taken and processed at various times. Another suggestion was that some type of chemicals were spilled or poured on the photos while they were in the shipping envelope.

Smith does not know how long the photos might have been in her back yard before she found them. There had been several days of rainfall prior to April 28 however, and that could have been the cause. "The package is so damaged," she said, "even whatever postage stamps might have been used, have disappeared completely."

Sanford Postal authorities have no way of knowing about individual items. Postmaster Fred Rader said, "Unless it is a registered letter, we wouldn't have any way to find out when it arrived for delivery." As for the item being found in Smith's back yard, Rader said, "If the package was bigger than what the mailbox would hold, we would have left a note and returned the package to the post office. We would not have left it lying around."

The reasons behind the mysterious finding of the photographs in the back yard, who might have removed them from the postal box or why the photos were ruined and what caused the colors to run, may never be known. Hopefully, however, Grace Smith's son George will soon send more pictures so she can finally see what her granddaughter looks like.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Schools don't get a lot of money

TALLAHASSEE - Lawmakers this week agreed to surrender some of their authority over schools to parents, teachers and administrators. The power shift, however, came with the smallest funding increase in years.

Education will be very difficult, but that part will be very difficult because of the lack of funds, Education Commissioner Betty Castor said last week just after the Legislature adjourned its 1991 session one day early.

General thanks a hometown crowd

TAMPA - Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf thanked a hometown crowd for a star-spangled gala he called "the mother of all homecomings" and honored his hometown on those who stayed behind.

"We may be the thunder and lightning of Desert Storm, but you're the heaven from whence we came and you're the silver lining of our welcome home," the Gulf War hero told a Tampa Stadium crowd of 28,000 Sunday.

"With your support we could not lose," he said. "What we're here for is to recognize those who stayed behind."

Dressed in his familiar desert fatigues, the 56-year-old allied commander paid tribute to those who stayed behind in the form of a salute and cutting a ribbon.

"It was you who suffered the separation and hardships," Schwarzkopf told a crowd that broke into spontaneous chants of "USA, USA."

Schwarzkopf and his family rode in a motorcade on a three-mile drive to the stadium for the "Red, White and Blue Troop Celebration" which featured 200 school children singing the Pledge of Allegiance, fireworks and a fly-over by fighter jets from MacDill Air Force Base.

As a finale, Schwarzkopf stood on stage shoulder-to-shoulder with Mickey Mouse as country singer Lee Greenwood belted out the general's favorite song - "God Bless the USA."

Shuttle astronauts finish work on Star Wars research mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston - Discovery's astronauts rushed to finish several experiments and checked the shuttle's systems for today's landing in the desert after a Star Wars research mission dogged by mechanical problems.

Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. About an hour before landing, the astronauts were to fire braking rockets to drop Discovery out of orbit and begin the fiery dive to Earth.

Trial set for suspect in trail slayings

Her throat was slashed six times and she was nearly decapitated. Crews bloody clothes and knife were found in the trunk of Mrs. Arnold's car.

County Judge Keith Gulley denied a motion to move the case to another county. On Friday, the judge also denied motions to exclude evidence that Crews' defense attorney contended was obtained through illegal arrest and search.

Prosecutors allege that Crews shot Hood three times in the head, back and abdomen with a .22-caliber pistol. He is also accused of tying Ms. LaRue's hands behind her back, raping her and stabbing her repeatedly in the throat and neck until she was nearly decapitated.

Lawyers in the case complained that pretrial publicity would taint the jury. But Perry County Judge Keith Gulley denied a motion to move the case to another county.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa. - Jurors will be selected in this rural hamlet this week to determine whether a 38-year-old loner brutally murdered two young lovers on the Appalachian Trail.

But, while the attorneys have not discussed the case, a picture of Crews' troubled life became apparent in March in interviews with relatives, coaches, officials and classmates.

In Fla World's annual chili cook-off, Ken Burke, left, and Bruce Gaylor, both of Tampa, won the top honors in decoration and showmanship for their Dead Serious motif. Their cooking stove was concealed in a black coffin.

How to get it in the car is the problem," Bourque joked about the trophy. "Don't worry, I'll find a spot for it."

Second prize of $50 and a trophy was awarded to "Cajun Connection" of Deltona, head cook Eddie Treloar while the third place prize of $25 and a trophy went to the "Deann Good Chili" team, head cook Carlene Davidson, Sarasota. A fourth place trophy was awarded to "Uckle Dudley" chili team, cook Don Stafford, Tavares, and "Bob's Electrifying Chili" placed fifth, cook Bob Dieckmann, Ft. Pierce.

Propane camping stoves seemed to be the stove of choice for most of the contestants. George Delaney cooking for the Backdraft Chili team of Winter Park made do with a single burner. One pot, two spoons, a knife and cutting board. His buffalo chili contained a pepper called Scottish Bonnet which he said is one of the hottest available.

The top health decoration and showmanship prize went to the "Dead Serious" chili team of Ken Burke and Bruce Gaylor, Tampa. Their cooking stove was concealed in a black coffin which also featured stereo cassette players belting out Country Western tunes through coffin-shaped speakers. Draped in red chili pepper lights, the coffin boasted a cutting board and cooler to hold several long-necked beer bottles just right for sipping while cooking chili on a hot Florida afternoon.

As a finale, Schwarzkopf stood on stage shoulder-to-shoulder with Mickey Mouse as country singer Lee Greenwood belted out the general's favorite song - "God Bless the USA."

American and Confederate flags flanked the coffin and a mock tombstone read: "Here lies Willie. He ate our chili. He won't again. Will he?"

There was a lot of fun to be had in the chili cook-off. The chili teams began preparing their ingredients shortly after 10 a.m. and the peeling, slicing, dicing and can opening were allowed for one hour. Cooking fires were ignited at 11:30 a.m. and three hours allotted to cook the chili.

Twenty-five teams from throughout the state participated in the fund-raising event to benefit the Leukemia Society of America Central Florida Chapter. Chili cookers from Tampa, Fort Pierce, Fort Myers, Miami and many cities in between showed up to cook their best brew for the 12-judge panel hoping to win top prize.

Many of the participants decorated their booths with ribbons and trophies from past chili contests while others proudly displayed photographs of their triumphs. Posters, hooded rags, spice racks and even a pair of deer antlers adorned some of the booths while several contestants opted to display a wide variety of peppers and chili ingredients on their tables.

DeBary Hall to get facelift

Support group forms to help with project

DEBARY - Efforts are now officially underway to renovate and restore the historical 130-year-old DeBary Hall, near the northern shore of Lake Monroe at 210 Sunrise Blvd. The old home, also referred to as the DeBary Mansion, is the oldest structure in Volusia County that is still standing.

Members of the DeBary Chamber of Commerce, area civic leaders, artists, historians and dignitaries gathered at the Hall May 1 for one last look at the very impressive interior before efforts began to restore the historic structure.

During the gathering, people were asked to join the efforts and sign up for membership in the DeBary Hall Support Group. During the first half hour of the gathering, 27 persons had already joined.

One of the new members, Kay Bartholomew of Sanford, chairperson of the St. Lucia Festival, said: "It's a lovely place. I could just be there and just the presence of the DeBary family." She added that she is delighted that the group plans to renovate the old house and put it back into use once again.

Ray Sage, a DeBary resident but prominent in Sanford area plans to have the building once again opened.

Area residents gathered at the 130-year-old DeBary Hall recently to form a support group which will renovate and restore the historical structure.

The building was first used to transport visitors, then transformed into a cargo ship which made regular trips up and down the river.

The building was used from 1950 to 1975 as the headquarters for the Florida Federation of Arts, then after a few years of non-use, it became the Volusia County Council on Aging Citizens' Center from 1977 to 1989. It has been closed to the general public since that time.

Persons interested in joining the DeBary Hall Support Organization may contact Edie Hall Smith, President, at 608-2030.

Grim reminder

The cholera epidemic that began in Peru appears to be spreading out of control throughout Latin America.

Cholera is spread via sewage-contaminated water, fish and vegetables. To catch the disease, one must swallow the bacterium; it is not transmitted by mosquito bites or sneezes. It can cause high fever, nausea, vomiting and severe diarrhea. If not treated immediately, it can lead to irreversible dehydration and death within 24 hours.

The disease is a grim reminder of the widely varying standards of living in this hemisphere as well as a warning to North Americans as well as others that produce and fish imported from South America should be properly cleaned and stored.

Cholera is rarely a problem in areas with purified drinking water and flush toilets. But the hundreds of millions who inhabit Latin America's urban slums and impoverished rural communities are extremely vulnerable to the disease.

Peru is a case in point. More than half its people live without clean water and sewage services. Residents of Lima, the capital, receive 70 percent of their piped drinking water from the River Rimac, which also carries most of their untreated wastes into the Pacific Ocean.

Since late January, 158,000 Peruvians have contracted cholera and more than 1,100 have died. During the last several days, cases have been reported in neighboring Ecuador, Colombia, Brazil and Chile.

The last cholera epidemic to strike South America was in 1895. World health officials warn that, if not checked soon, the current plague could claim as many as 80,000 lives before it runs its course. Some fear the disease could become endemic in the poorer, isolated areas of the hemisphere, as it has in parts of Asia and Africa.

To help fight the epidemic, the United States has responded with emergency technical aid and medical supplies. Similar short-term assistance is expected from the World Health Organization.

UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, began promoting basic hygiene three years ago in Peru's sprawling slums. These days, government officials in several countries of the region are urging people to wash their hands and boil their drinking water. But the poorer countries will remain susceptible to cholera until they can provide adequate water and sewage services. In destitute Peru alone, that would cost $320 million annually over the next 10 years.

As long as there is a chronic lack of economic development and thus money for such improvements, the lives of millions will remain at risk to this preventable disease.

Rape coverage misses the point

Frankly, this is a subject I'd just as soon not get into. No matter how you call it, someone will demand your hide on a Rita cracker.

But the publication by several news organizations of the name of the woman who says she was raped by William Kennedy Smith is just too important not to talk about. It is a departure from the practice most members of the media have traditionally adopted — which is to not publish a victim's name. But is it fair to publish the accused's name and not the accuser's? We don't play favorites in other types of crime. Why only in cases of rape?

When we take a look at the history of the treatment of rape victims in our culture and in our courts, the reasoning behind keeping a rape victim's identity private is pretty clear.

First, in many instances where women have been raped, the men in their lives — their husbands, fathers or boyfriends — have looked at them as "damaged goods," as though an exclusivity that they valued is now gone. This is not a way these men chose to feel, but it is still a terribly unfair and tragic consequence to the victims.

Second, defense attorneys in rape trials have tried to paint rape victims as tramps who, if they weren't actually asking for what happened to them, were so immoral that one more sexual incident wouldn't matter. Many victims have been too afraid to prosecute, choosing instead to try their best to put the incident behind them rather than put themselves and their families through the ordeal of a rape trial.

Although practices and laws that shield rape victims from publicity show admirable sensitivity to victims, they ignore the fact that women can, and do, sometimes fabricate rape accusations. And while the woman accusing someone of rape is protected in the media, the accused is on parade from the moment of the accusation to the final disposition of the case. His background and family are fair game for the media, long before he is proven guilty or innocent.

Is it fair to publish the accused's name and not the accuser's?

So what should we do now about publishing alleged rape victims' names? Recognizing that we need to rethink our policies, common sense tells us not to do what The New York Times did in the case, which was to profile the woman with a history of her so-called indiscretions over the past few years. More than a week after the article appeared, The Times printed an apology, but by then the damage was done.

Bob Reichblum, news director of WPLG-TV in Miami, summed up The Times story well when he told The Washington Post. "It says, 'She asked for it.' My goodness, she has peach walls. SHE goes to bed. SHE gets speeding tickets. ... The implication at every turn was this is someone who was a free-floating, loose woman and maybe she was putting herself in jeopardy."

In the many accounts I've read of the alleged rape, I haven't read anything about the color of William Kennedy Smith's walls or gossip about his bar-hopping. Neither do I want to know. None of that information would give me any kind of idea of whether he committed the rape.

What ails docs, patients?

BOSTON — In 1986, Massachusetts was caught in a malpractice insurance crisis that threatened to halt many common medical services. At the same time, the state was designing what became widely praised as the nation's most innovative guaranteed health insurance plan.

Now, five years later, both situations have changed radically.

In 1988, the Massachusetts Malpractice Joint Underwriting Association, which insures close to 80 percent of the Bay State's doctors, announced rate increases of anywhere from 156 percent to 250 percent, depending on the specialty. In obstetrics, for example, a physician who was paying $5,500 a year for insurance in 1980 would have had to pay $48,000 under the new system.

The reaction was instant. Physicians announced they were retiring or moving practices elsewhere. Medical societies predicted that no surgery would be possible because no anesthesiologist could afford the insurance. It was predicted that women would have to go out of state to have babies because, likewise, no obstetrician could afford the cost of insurance.

Despite the dire predictions, the initial crisis was weathered, and starting in 1987, insurance rates stabilized. Then the rates started going down. This year, on average, malpractice premiums in Massachusetts will decline by 25 percent. The drop in some high-risk specialties is even greater — in anesthesiology, from $25,000 a year in 1987 to about $9,000 this year.

The rates have started to come down because malpractice claims in the state have dropped significantly — almost 30 percent annually. In addition, average payouts on successful claims — which skyrocketed during the '80s from an average of $400,000 per claim in 1980 to $1.5 million in 1986 — have begun to fall.

Why? A number of factors are at work. The first is that, on average, medical care has generally improved in Massachusetts over the past five years. Some of this has resulted from technology.

For instance, new equipment now used in every operating room has all but eliminated brain-damage claims from lack of oxygen. Previously, insurers saw a dozen such cases each year — all with large payouts almost guaranteed. In addition, doctors are simply practicing "defensive," and better, medicine to keep from being sued.

Also, changes in state law have made the bringing of malpractice claims more difficult. These changes have included a tighter statute of limitations on the time in which a suit can be brought and the limiting of percentages that attorneys can charge in contingent fees.

Insurance companies are also now more vigorously defending claims, refusing pre-trial settlements of the kind they were regularly making in the early '80s. Plaintiff attorneys also say that it has become almost impossible to get local doctors to testify against each other. The result is that defendant doctors are now winning more than 80 percent of all medical malpractice cases going to trial. Thus, with less incentive, lawyers are less inclined to bring marginal claims.

At the same time it was dealing with the malpractice crisis, the administration of then Gov. Michael Dukakis was also trying to deal with a health insurance crisis. As many as 20 percent of the state's citizens were without health insurance.

The state found that many of these uninsured were actually employed, although usually by small businesses that couldn't afford health care insurance. The answer was a plan that became the talk of the nation and a centerpiece of Dukakis' 1988 presidential run.

Among other things, the Massachusetts plan provided state-paid temporary insurance for those who became disabled and unable to work, and for those on unemployment while looking for a new job. It also established a network of health-care centers for the poor.

But, at its heart, was the requirement that all employers with more than six employees offer their employees health insurance — either underwritten by private insurers or through a fund operated and partially subsidized by the state. The state, in turn, would provide limited insurance to all uninsured workers out of the same fund.

The plan was to be phased in, and by the end of this year all employers with six or more employees were to have either insured their workers privately or have paid $1,680 per employee to the state to do it. In fact, the plan was already working: Only about 6 percent of Massachusetts' residents remain uninsured. This is far less than the national average of 15 percent.

Now, however, the plan is unraveling. Small-business interests in the state have been up in arms since it was first proposed. They have the ear of the new Republican Gov. William Weld, who says that neither the state nor small businesses can afford to pay.

Physicians announced they were retiring or moving practices elsewhere.

Weather Service revamp stymied

WASHINGTON — Top officials at the Commerce Department may have threatened and intimidated their own employees to stop them from tattling to Congress about mismanagement of a $1 billion federal project.

The project is a remake of the National Weather Service to upgrade its ability to predict storms, tornadoes and other potentially dangerous weather conditions. The project is beset by delays and cost overruns.

A congressional subcommittee chaired by Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., began investigating the project, but now finds itself investigating whether the Commerce Department, the parent agency of the National Weather Service, threatened employees who cooperated with Scheuer's investigators.

Scheuer and Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., sent a letter to Commerce Secretary Robert Moebacher spelling out the allegations about intimidation. "Some of the alleged threats were of a severely menacing nature, were obviously intended to intimidate and chill further cooperation with the subcommittee and were made by department officials with the apparent authority and capability of following through with retaliatory actions," the two congressmen wrote.

Sources told our associate Scott Slick that some who cooperated with the subcommittee were even worried that their jobs were on the line. The letter to Moebacher doesn't mention the names of Commerce staffers who may have threatened the whistleblowers.

The subcommittee was already irked by the Commerce Department's reluctance to answer questions about the overall modernization program. Among those thought to be holding back information from Congress was Commerce Inspector General Frank DeGeorge. His office described the problem as a misunderstanding over what documents could be publicly released.

The most troublesome piece of the modernization plan is also its most expensive piece — the Weather Service's radar system. The old system is antiquated and the agency is so unhappy with the progress on a new system that it is threatening to cancel the $700 million contract with Unisys Corp. to build it. Unisys has asked for up to $250 million more because of unexpected costs, and the company claims that the government isn't paying fast enough.

The Unisys-made radar has gotten mixed reviews in testing. A prototype for the system — NEXRAD, for Next-Generation Radar — performed inadequately when the Air Force tested it last year. But it fared better in a more recent test.

The National Weather Service employees' union has been warning for months that the delays on the Unisys contract could leave the agency in a dangerous bind. The old equipment is so antiquated that it hampers the Weather Service's ability to forecast dangerous weather, they say.

For example, last summer the Weather Service radar was too weak to predict the magnitude of a storm that brought surprise flooding to Shadyside, Ohio.

The Weather Service introduced its modernization plan two years ago. It called for replacing old equipment, closing some Weather Service offices and eliminating 800 jobs. The idea was to replace people with more sophisticated equipment. Many of the jobs have been eliminated by attrition, but the new equipment hasn't come along to replace them. And new weather satellites have remained grounded because of design flaws.

The project is beset by delays and cost overruns.

Candidates

son of Longwood. She has been serving as a director with the March of Dimes. Although she has not sought political office in Longwood in the past, she has been active in a number of civic endeavors.

"Although the official qualification time period has ended," said Zambri, "we is still an opportunity for other candidates to enter this election as a write-in candidate." Such a candidate would be allowed to enter this race for City Commissioner by stating his or her intentions to Zambri, as the City Clerk, with a deadline of no later than the close of business, this Friday, May 10.

Write-in candidates would not be required to fill out qualification papers, or pay any qualification fee. Their names, however, would not be placed on the ballot. Voting for a write-in would be done by punching a particular blank hole on the computerized voting machine.

Although the process up for election will be for the commission to represent district 3, voting will be city wide. It has been set for Tuesday, June 26.

Tonight's City Commission meeting, however, will bring up a number of items pertaining to city commission elections and positions. Rex Anderson will be sworn in to replace Hefner as deputy mayor. The commission will also appoint a commission board for the city election, discuss a proposed ordinance dealing with the removal of political campaign signs, and hear the first reading of an ordinance to provide procedures for filing a vacancy in a candidacy for the city election caused by death, withdrawal or removal from the ballot.

The City Commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. this evening in the commission chambers of the Longwood City Hall.

AIDS virus isolation dispute continues

CHICAGO — The dispute over who first isolated the AIDS virus continues with French scientists reporting they uncovered an 8-year-old laboratory mistake that bolsters their claims, a newspaper says.

Now it's up to U.S. researcher Robert Gallo to show the AIDS virus he isolated later at the National Institutes of Health came from an American patient and not from a sample of the French virus sent to him from the Pasteur Institute in Paris, the Chicago Tribune said Sunday.

Gallo and the French scientists have long feuded over who first isolated the virus.

Gallo's telephone at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., went unanswered Sunday. His home number is unlisted.

The French scientists' findings will be published in the journal Science, the newspaper said. It said it obtained a copy of the manuscript.

Most scientists have long believed that the virus the French isolated in early 1983, called LAV-1, or LAV-83, is the same as the one Gallo isolated months later, named HTLV-III.

Gallo stunned the scientific world in February when he reported his analysis of the remains of a couple sent to him from Paris showed no DNA fragments, but distinctly different both from those the French scientists published about the virus in 1983 and from his own HTLV-III.

If Gallo's analysis is correct, it that would mean the French sample was not the source of Gallo's HTLV-III discovery.

The French re-checked their research a few weeks ago and discovered that they had mislabeled their samples, the Tribune said.

The French sent Gallo samples of a virus labeled LAV-83 in 1983, months before Gallo discovered HTLV-III. It was the code name for the virus before the virus came from.

By retracing their steps, the French scientists discovered that a virus isolated from a second French AIDS patient in 1983 had contaminated a culture in their laboratory where the designer's virus was being grown.

The second virus was named

LAV-Lai, for a young French law student.

Because of the mixup, samples of the isolated virus the French supplied to Gallo around the world have been misidentified as LAV-83, rather than LAV-Lai.

Gallo used HTLV-III to make a blood test for AIDS that was patented by the U.S. government. The patent earns millions for the Treasury and $100,000 a year each in royalties for Gallo and former colleague Mikulas Popovic.

The Pasteur Institute sued the U.S. government in 1985, claiming the two viruses were the same and that the French deserved the patent.

Without resolving the question of whether the two viruses were the same, the two sides settled out of court in 1987 when the American and French governments agreed to share the royalties equally.

Manito buys home

MALIBU, Calif. — The exclusive Malibu Colony has two more celebrity residents: Tom Hanks and his actress wife, Rita Wilson.

The couple bought a 63-year-old seaside home from "French Connection" director John Frankenheimer.

The Los Angeles Times said Sunday the couple paid close to the $6.50 million asking price for the 1,300-square-foot home in the gated enclave.

Hanks was nominated for an Oscar for the 1993 movie "Big." His other movies include "Splash," "Bonfire of the Vanities" and "Dragonheart."

Frankenheimer's films include "The Manchurian Candidate" and "Birdman of Alcatraz."

Activist speaks out
BOSTON — Ron Parks, who galvanized the civil rights movement by refusing to give up her seat on a segregated Alabama bus in 1955, says equality is still distant.

"I often think of how much energy and effort is wasted finding somebody to hate or find fault with," Parks said Sunday. "I think this world is a big enough place that we should give the other person the same love and care that we expect ourselves."

Parks told about 400 people at Northeastern University that civil rights activists should "carry on the struggle as long as we can until we don't have to."

The Ford Hall Forum, which sponsored the speech, gave Parks its annual First Amendment Award for her commitment to free expression.

Parks, often referred to as "the mother of the civil rights movement," is 78 and lives in Detroit.

In 1955, Parks was riding a bus in Montgomery, Ala., when the driver ordered the black woman to give her seat to a white passenger.

Bourque's Bear's Breath Chili

Bear's Breath Chili
2 cups beef bouillon
3 pounds arm roast, cubed the size of your pinky
15-onion can tomato sauce
1 tsp. tobacco
3 heaping Tbsp. chili powder
1 heaping Tbsp. crushed cumin
6 garlic cloves, chopped
2 medium onions, chopped
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cayenne pepper
1 tsp. oregano
Olive oil and Wesson oil
4 Japanese chilies
4 chipiquitas or popin chilies
1 small can green chilies, chopped

2 large red chilies, dried with seeds shaken out
1 tsp. brown sugar
Using 1 teaspoon olive oil and

1 teaspoon Wesson oil, salt, pepper and garlic salt to season pan, sear beef in large skillet until gray. Mix chili powder in and transfer into Dutch oven.

Soak onion in 1 teaspoon olive oil and 1 teaspoon Wesson oil and add garlic (only until transparent). Transfer to Dutch oven.

Add everything else, except Japanese chilies and chipiquitas or popin chilies, which should be contained in a large tea ball or a fine mesh bag, immersed in pot and then removed before serving.

Simmer covered two or three hours, stirring occasionally. Remove cover if too soupy for your taste.

If you must add beans cook separately and add 5 minutes before serving.

plans to purchase the site. Tuesday, district governors will consider making appropriations for the land. Eckdahl said the money for the acquisition may come from the state Preservation 2000 or Save Our River programs.

Eckdahl said the district may seek a joint purchase with Seminole County. The district site is a portion of about 2,000 acres on the east shore of the lake that a county conservation committee is considering to buy for the county's $20 million conservation land program approved by voters last year.

Bush's stroke risk forces fast treatment of rhythm disorder

By PAUL RABINOFF
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK — President Bush's doctors hoped to normalize his heart rhythm as quickly as possible to avoid the risk of a stroke, which starts to rise a day or two after the rhythm disorder begins, a cardiologist says.

The president's heart continued to beat irregularly Sunday, and spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said doctors at Bethesda Naval Hospital might administer an electrical shock to the chest today if Bush did not respond to medication overnight.

Fitzwater called the procedure routine and said it carried minimal risk. It would require the president to be sedated, during which time Vice President Dan Quayle would hold presidential power.

The treatment, called electrical cardioversion, is customary if the abnormal rhythm has not been stopped within about 24 hours, said cardiologist Jonathan Halperin, director of clinical services in the cardiology division at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York.

Bush's heart lapsed into the abnormal rhythm known as atrial fibrillation Saturday afternoon. He was treated with digoxin, a drug used to slow the heart, and procainamide, intended to restore a normal heartbeat. But the disorder persisted for a second day.

The shock procedure requires that the patient be made unconscious for several minutes with an intravenous anesthetic, Halperin said Sunday.

Patients do not immediately resume full alertness when the anesthetic is stopped. "Sometimes patients are drowsy," Halperin said.

Asked how long that continues, he said, "If I had to give you an order of magnitude, you're talking about one or two hours. But this depends so much on the type and dose of medication used and the patient's ability to metabolize it" — to use it and dispose of it.

Restoring a normal rhythm is important in controlling the risk of stroke, Halperin said.

"That's really not a concern for the first 24 or 48 hours," he said. But "one of the aspects of this case is the longer the heart remains in atrial fibrillation, the greater the likelihood of clots forming and the greater risk a stroke could occur."

Atrial fibrillation strikes 1.5 million to 2 million Americans each year, making it one of the most common rhythm disorders, according to the American Heart Association.

It occurs when the upper chambers of the heart, the atria, abandon their regular contractions and begin wriggling erratically.

Blood can pool in the atria, forming clots. If those clots break loose and enter the bloodstream, they can lead to a stroke by lodging in arteries in the brain and blocking part of the brain's circulation.

IN BRIEF

Local teams win state titles

ORLEANS — The Seminole Elite took a 20-9 halftime advantage and made it stand up as they downed the BSA Lady Sting 54-38 to win the A.A.U. 15-and-Under Girls state basketball championship at Orleons High School Sunday.

Also winning state honors were the BSA Stingers who claimed the 12-and-Under title with a 57-56 win over Lakeland.

Both teams will advance to the National Championships in Cincinnati July 21-23. This will be the second trip to the nationals for the Stingers who won the 11-and-Under's last year.

The Elite, under coach Brian Ragucci, advanced to the finals of the six team tournament by beating Lakeland 58-26 Friday and Clay County 60-15 Saturday. The Lady Sting earned a bye in Friday's first round then beat Tampa 23-15 Saturday to reach the final.

Jennifer White led the way for the Elite with 13 points. Also scoring in double figures for the winners were Angie Olson and Laura Ragucci with 10 points each. Kelly Evans and Jennifer Connolly chipped in with nine and six points, respectively.

Fanizzi was the only Lady Stinger in double figures with 10 points. Bush and Snodgrass added nine points each.

Locals shine in meet

STUART — Menefee's Martial Arts Academy of Sanford had a good weekend in the Southeast Karate Championships as all three students who attended finished in the top three in their class.

Kenny Kaiser, who won a state championship in a lower class last year, won the Men's Intermediate Heavyweight Class. The win raised his state ranking to No. 3.

Booker McNeil, who was competing in his first meet, placed third in the Beginners Class despite being the lowest rated competitor when the event started.

Also finishing third was Matthew Goldman who moved up from the beginners to the Intermediate Division for this event.

This weekend Menefee's are going to Orlando for the Central Florida Challenge. The meet will be held at the YMCA on Oak Ridge Road starting at 10 a.m. Saturday. The event brings competitors from all over Florida.

Last year all of the Menefee students who attended the Challenge placed and instructor Langston Menefee hopes the four or five fighters he sends will duplicate the feat.

Reneberg takes Tampa

TAMPA — Top-seeded Richey Reneberg of Houston won his first career professional title Sunday with a 4-0, 6-4, 6-2 victory over No. 4 Petr Korda of Czechoslovakia in the $250,000 USTA Men's Clay Courts of Tampa.

Reneberg, who collected $32,400, said Korda was in control early on, but momentum shifted when Reneberg saved a break point at 4-all in the second set, then broke Korda to win the set.

"This feels great," said Reneberg, playing in his second career final. "Winning the second set really helped me. Before that, I didn't feel I was even in the match. I was a step slow and he was dictating everything."

Korda, who was also seeking his first career tour title, said his missed opportunities decided the match.

"I didn't make the chances and that helped him along," said Korda, who converted only two of 11 break-points. "Next time, I have to be stronger and hit the ball harder. I had a great chance to win the tournament. But what can I do about it now?"

COLLEGE BASEBALL

Miami breaks FSU jinx

CORAL GABLES — Jorge Fabregas hit a two-run homer in the first and a bases-loaded double in the fifth as Miami beat Florida State 6-6 Sunday, breaking a seven-game losing streak against the Seminoles.

Miami (40-14) jumped to a 3-1 lead in the first after Fabregas' two-run homer scored Frank Mora and Johnathan Smith hit a solo home run to left field. It was the first time this season the Hurricanes led the Seminoles (43-11).

Fabregas, who has hit safely in every game against FSU during his career (17-17), combined with Smith again in the fifth. Fabregas' double scored Mike Tomas and Greg Coleman and Smith singled to center to score Mora and Fabregas.

The Hurricanes added one more in the seventh and held off a late Florida State rally. Winner Jamie Wilkowsky (5-0) was one of seven Hurricane pitchers to see action. Florida State's Tim Davis (5-1) took the loss.

SSC picks All-Star teams

From Staff Reports

FIVE POINTS — The Seminole Softball Club has selected its All-Star teams, which will represent the league and Seminole County in tournaments around the state over the next 10 weeks.

Six teams were selected four different age groups: Starting (10 and Under), Hawks (11 and 12), Eagles (13 and 14) and Falcons (15 and 16). Two teams were selected in the Hawk and Eagle classifications.

The All-Star season begins next Saturday, May 11, when teams from the Seminole Softball Club will travel to the East Coast to play in a Rocco tournament.

Over the Memorial Day weekend, May 25 to 27, the Seminole Softball Club will sponsor a National Softball Association girls' slowpitch World Series qualifying tournament.

Approximately 50 teams will compete in five age categories. Games will be played at Seminole Softball Club's home field at Soldier's Creek Park as well as Red Bug Lake Park and Seminole Community College.

This year's Seminole Softball Club All-Stars are:

Doing one thing at a time

Like most Seminole County high school athletes who participate in track and field, Oviedo's Mike Goins (left) and Wendy Peters (right) compete in more than one event. For example, Goins and Peters both do the high jump and high hurdles. But this week, they can concentrate on just the high jump, having qualified for this Saturday's Class 4A state track meet in that event.

Cubs, A's, Orioles close on Cardinals

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Hungry Howies Cubs, Woodman of the World A's and the Kiwanis Club Orioles all won Saturday at Chase Park to tighten up the standings in the Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League.

The Cubs romped past the Rotary Royals 12-3, the Orioles held off the Pretty Punch Blue Jays 11-9 and the A's came from behind to defeat the Moose Pirates 11-6 in a game that was suspended from April 18.

After three full weeks of play in the league, the Knights of Columbus Cardinals are atop the standings with a 4-1 record followed by the Pirates, Cubs and Royals (all 3-2), the A's and Orioles (both 2-3) and the Blue Jays (1-5).

The Cubs scored five runs in the top the first inning and the Royals were unable to come back against the pitching of Don Hunt and Joe Tittle.

Contributing to a seven hit Cubs attack were Mike Horn (two singles, two runs), Adrian Mitchell (two singles, run scored), Terry Welik (double), Hunt and Eric Johnson (one single and one run each), Deandre Jones (three runs), Tittle (two runs) and Dee Dee Hampton and Kevin Jones (one run each).

Doing the hitting for the Royals were Jason Moore (double), Chris Giovanelli (single, run), Alberto Williams (single) and Eric Ingram and Jason Compton (one run each).

A four run bottom of the fourth broke a 7-7 tie as the Orioles edged the Blue Jays. The Blue Jays had scored four runs in the top of the fourth to tie the score but a single, three walks and two errors gave the Orioles the lead back and Josh Watson, after allowing two runs, retired the last three men he faced to end the game.

Doing the damage for the Orioles were Isiah Barnes (two singles, two runs).

Optimists, Longwood Marine still perfect

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Optimist Club of Sanford in the Juniors and Longwood Marine in the Seniors are the only undefeated teams left after two weeks of play in the Sanford Recreation Department Girls Softball League.

In games played Saturday at the Ft. Mellon Softball Field, the Optimist's crushed the Rotary Breakfast Club 13-1 and the American Legion bashed Altamonte Billiards 17-2 in the Junior League. In the Senior League, Longwood Marine outscored the Kiwanis Club 10-6 and R.M. Howard & Associates whipped the Lake Mary Optimist Club 1-2.

The Optimist Club of Sanford used an eight-run second inning to dispose of the Rotary Breakfast Club. The win raised the Optimist's to 2-0 while Rotary fell to Anybody interested in a little moonlight softball?

Sanford needs another softball league.

Yes, we know that there are five men's leagues (two on Wednesday), a women's league and a two-division church league. That's a total of 48 softball teams that call Sanford home at one time or another during the week.

We still need another one. Before the Sanford Recreation Department gets all up in arms over problems of minor considerations like lack of field time, let me hasten to say that this league, if it gets off the ground, would not conflict with any existing leagues.

Introducing the Sanford Howling at the Moon Softball League.

Or how about the Sanford "We Only Come Out At Night" Softball League?

The Sanford Werewolves United Slowpitch Softball League? (Games called on account of full moon.)

You've heard of after-hours clubs. Sanford could set a trend with an after-hours softball league. By after hours, we're talking after midnight.

It's an idea whose time, if you'll excuse the pun, has come.

SPORTS

There are many of us — sportswriters, police officers and firemen, restaurant and night club workers, anyone on the second shift — who can't play in leagues with games beginning at 6:30, 7:30 or 8:30 p.m. All we can do is sit back and listen in envious silence as daylight friends complain about the aches and pains suffered while playing recreational softball.

And just like people who work odd hours like 9 to 5 (that's 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.), those of us coming off work when the moon is still high in the sky would like to have some activity to help us wind down after a hard day's night.

This is especially true considering the stressful jobs that most people have who work the late shift, sportswriters being the exception. Police officers, firemen, hospital workers . . . an after-hours softball league would be just the ticket.

Also, considering the fact that summer is almost here, what is the most comfortable time of the day? When would you rather be running around bases and chasing flyballs?

There are a couple of minor problems. Even though none of the city's fields are currently being used in the wee hours of the morning, it's a safe bet that those people who live around Pinehurst Park would not be overwhelmed with the idea of six teams worth of softball players running around their neighborhood at that hour. Fort Mellon also is close to residences. That really only leaves Chase Park and there are a few homes near it as well.

Assuming that could be worked out, the next problem would be coming up with umpires and someone from the Recreation Department willing to serve as field supervisor for the league.

Also, let's not kid ourselves: even the best-run leagues don't always start on time. If you schedule games for 12:30, 1:30 and 2:30 a.m., all it would take is for one of the first two games to run into extra innings and you're looking at a 3 a.m., 3:30 a.m. starting time for the third game.

But all these things could be worked out if you want to play bad enough. I have a sneaking suspicion that there are at least six teams' worth of players working until midnight every day who would commit to play in an after-hours league. And it would take commitment on behalf of the players. A string of forfeits would spell the death of the league.

If you're interested, drop me a line here at the Sanford Herald (P.O. Box 1667, Sanford, 32772-1667) or give a call (322-2611 or 831-9993 from Orlando). But don't call during the day. Wait until the moon is on the rise.

First Nazarene takes over first place

By BILL KENNEDY
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD— When on top, don't take a day off. Sanford Christian, with no games scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Pinckney Park in the Sanford Church Softball League, lost control of first place in the "B" Division to First Nazarene of Sanford.

All "B" Division teams except Sanford Christian played doubleheaders on Saturday. The "A" Division did not play any games.

First Nazarene of Sanford swept its twin-bill over Holy Cross Lutheran B, one win coming on a forfeit and the other by a score of 14-2. Marshall Woods First Baptist split their doubleheader with Church of God, winning 13-4 and losing 8-5. First Baptist Geneva swept Grace Christian 13-6 and 13-3.

First Nazarene of Sanford (8-2) leads Sanford Christian (7-2), Marshall Woods First Baptist (7-3), Church of God (6-4), First Baptist Geneva (4-5), Holy Cross Lutheran-B (3-6), and Grace Christian (0-9).

In the "A" Division, Church of God of Prophecy (6-1) leads St. Stephen Catholic and First United Methodist (5-2 each), Central Baptist (3-4), Holy Cross Lutheran-A (2-5), and Neighborhood Alliance (0-7).

Next Saturday's "B" Division games will be played at Lee Moore Park in Hidden Lake. Church of God plays First Baptist Geneva at 9 a.m., Sanford Christian clashes with First Nazarene of Sanford at 10 a.m., Grace Christian meets Holy Cross Lutheran B at 11 a.m., Grace Christian faces Marshall Woods First Baptist at 12 p.m., Church of God plays Holy Cross Lutheran at 1 p.m., and First Baptist Geneva opposes Sanford Christian at 2 p.m.

The "A" Division games next Saturday will be played at Pinckney Park. Neighborhood Alliance faces First United Methodist at 9 a.m., Central Baptist meets St. Stephen Catholic at 10 a.m., Holy Cross Lutheran A challenges Church of God of Prophecy at 11 a.m., Central Baptist opposes First United Methodist at noon, Neighborhood Alliance plays Holy Cross Lutheran A at 1 p.m., and St. Stephen Catholic takes on Church of God of Prophecy at 2 p.m.

Leading First Nazarene of Sanford over Holy Cross Lutheran B in the 14-2 game were Ken Mendenhall (three singles, three runs, RBI), Tom Clark (single, double, run, three RBI), Todd Morgan (single, triple, run), and John Wither (double, two runs, RBI).

Also chipping in were Ron Cardell and Doug Lois (single, two runs each), Dan Gort (two singles), Carem Gager (two runs), Tommy Raines (double, RBI), Alfred Jimenez (single), and Phillip Sutherland (run).

Contributing for Holy Cross Lutheran were Bill Horvath (single, run, RBI), Paul Hoyer (double, RBI), Ken Friesley and Dennis Kloth (one single each) and Larry Lane (run).

Powering Marshall Woods First Baptist in its win over Church of God were Richard Walker (three singles, double, run, two RBI), Jason Houlgan (three singles, two runs, RBI), Carlos Colon (three singles, run, RBI), Mike Gadd and

Dixon helps Cardinals knock off Cubs

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Bart Dixon pitched three innings of one-hit relief as the First Federal of Seminole Cardinals beat the Railroaders Cubs 8-6 in a Sanford Recreation Department Little Major League National Division game at Roy Holler Field Thursday night.

In the other game, the Sunnland Pirates won their first game of the season knocking off the defending City Champion Rinker Materials Dodgers 12-10.

Today at 5:45 p.m. the Dodgers will take on the Ace Hardware Orioles.

Dixon came into the game with Cardinals leading 7-5 and struck out eight of the eleven men he faced, including the last four, as the Cardinals improved to 3-0 on the season.

The Cubs, now 0-2, wondered what hit them as the Cardinals scored six runs in the top of the first inning. Dixon started things with a leadoff home run. Brett Wittte doubled and scored on a Mike Arrington single before Jason Ghrum hit a two-run homer. After an out, both Alvin Smith, who singled, and Frankie Alphin, who reached on an error, scored before the inning ended.

The Cubs scored three in the bottom of the first and two in the third to cut the lead 6-5, but the Cardinals scored an unearned run in the fourth to go up 7-5.

The Cubs cut the lead to one with a run in the fifth on a double by Aaron Knight and a grounder by David Keese but Dixon drove in another run in the sixth to secure the win.

Providing the offense for the Cardinals were Ghrum (home run, double, single, run), Dixon (home run, single, two runs), White (double, run), Arrington and Smith (one single and one run each) and Adam Dryden and Alphin (one run each).

Pacing the Cubs attack were Keese (two doubles, run), Byron Deese (double, single, two runs), Knight (double, two runs), Fabian McKinney (single, run) and Johnathon Eaddy (single).

A six run fourth inning spelled the difference as the Pirates (1-2) came back from a 6-1 deficit to keep the Dodgers winless at 0-3.

Doing the damage for the Pirates were Lonnie Fuller (three singles, two runs), Johnathan Justice (two singles, two runs), Rudolph Law (two singles), Bruce Carter (single, three runs), Ernest Anderson (single, two runs), Michael Willis (single) and Andy Heaberlin (run).

Contributing to a 12-hit Dodgers attack were T... Bender (double, two singles, three runs), J.J. Bryant (triple, single), Barry Porter (double, single, two runs), Alfred Harris (double, run), Donnie Getts (single, two runs), Gerald Bishop and Mike Villalobos (one single and one run each) and Chad Sheffield (single).

Tim Hunter and Ray June got the only hits for the Blue Jays, both singles. Scoring runs were Charles Hunter (three), June and Eddie Key (two each) and Al Cepallo and Eugene Butler (one each).

The game between the A's and Pirates was suspended after three innings with the Pirates leading 6-4. But after the game was resumed the Pirates were unable to handle the offerings of Craig Merckerson and the A's scored six runs in the fourth to take the win. Providing the offense for the A's were Merckerson (double, single, three runs), Carey Williams (two singles, two runs), Dustin Demarco (single, run), Pete Stagrill and William Wynn (two runs each) and Marty Neal, Cliff Branch, Donnie Harrison, Corey Donaldson and Jay Smith (one run each).

One of the most colorful shrubs blooming now is the oleander (Nerium oleander). It is an evergreen plant with narrow, leathery leaves 6 to 8 inches long. The colorful flowers of red, pink or white are produced in terminal clusters throughout the summer.

Oleander will attain a height of 20 feet if left unpruned. They can be pruned to a tree form or left unpruned to develop a large, sprawling shrub. This plant makes an effective screen to hide undesirable views. They are also suitable for hedges, windbreaks or as a specimen plant.

Oleanders are adapted to most soils. They will grow and flower in poor soils but prefer fertile, well-drained soils. Oleanders are one of the most drought tolerant plants, meaning that they can withstand periods of drought once established. This is why oleanders are often seen planted in roadway medians and parking lots as they can still add color under less than ideal growing conditions. They also are very salt tolerant plants which makes them desirable for areas with salty irrigation water.

Oleander should be planted in an area that receives full sun. They can be fertilized two or three times per year with a 6-6-6 or similar fertilizer at rate of 1-2 pounds per 100 square feet. Broadcast the fertilizer under the drip line of the shrub and a little bit beyond. Always water fertilizer in well to prevent a possible fertilizer burn.

Oleander require little pruning when used as a specimen plant or natural hedge. If the plants become leggy, they will not produce as many flowers. Pruning will help produce a compact plant and more flowers. Each year, prune but a third of the stems to the ground level. To train your oleander into a tree form, eliminate all stems but one. Continue to prune this stem as it develops into a trunk.

Oleander does have a few pest problems. The oleander caterpillar is orange with black hairs and it can defoliate a plant in a short period of time. The best control for the caterpillar is to use "BT" or Dipel. Another pest that attacks oleander is oleander scale, which is a small yellowish, circular insect on the underside of the leaves. Scale can be controlled with oil or cygon.

All parts of the oleander are poisonous and can cause death if eaten. Smoke from the burning plants is highly toxic also. As with any poisonous plant, it is important to learn to identify them and to treat them as toxic, especially around children.

There are several varieties of oleander with different growth habits and flowers of different sizes and colors. There is a dwarf variety available with pink flowers. Consider adding an oleander for a colorful highlight in your landscape.

Spend leisure time learning in classes

Leisure Programs at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin during the week of May 13, 1991:

- Seniors/55 Alive Mature Driving Course — Mon. & Tues., May 13 & 14, 1pm-5 pm. Co-sponsored by the AARP, this course concentrates on the driver educational concerns of importance for the older driver such as the physical and physiological changes relating to the aging process and how best to cope with these changes in relation to driving. By Florida State Law, anyone who completes this class is entitled to an appropriate reduction in their automobile insurance for three years. Call Leisure Programs office, 323-1450, Ext. 664, to be put on a reservation list. Cost: $8 per person.
- Ikebana — Wed., 5/15 — 6/19, 8pm-9pm. A highly creative art, this Japanese style of arranging flowers perfected through centuries of tradition, will be taught in this simplified course that can be taken by anyone interested in learning many new types of floral design. Students will design and create a new arrangement each week. Cost: $88 per person, includes materials.
- Private Pilot Ground School — Wed., 5/15 — 7/17, 7pm-10pm. Covering the principles of flight, function of controls, flight instruments, aircraft and engine operation, weather information, radio navigation and FAA regulations, this course will enable the student to apply for, and take, the Private Pilot written or Basic Ground Instructor Examination at the end of the course. This course also meets requirements for satisfactory compliance of the Biennial Flight Review required for Private Pilots. Cost: $75 per person.
- Silk and Dry Floral Design — Thurs., 5/16 — 6/20, 6pm-9pm. Geared for students who want to learn to use Silk and Dried materials in their floral designs, this course will teach use of different types of handwrapped silk flowers and foliage very popular in today's interiors. Students will be given a list of supplies needed at the first class meeting. Cost: $50 per person.

Limp handshake not test of character

DEAR ABBY: My father taught my brother at a very early age that on being introduced to someone, he should always look that person straight in the eye and deliver a firm handshake. "It's a sign of good character and sincerity." Dad used to say.

Is that right, Abby? I hope not, because our son-in-law has one of those "dead fish" handshakes, and he rarely looks a person straight in the eye.

RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR RICHMOND: A firm handshake and the practice of looking a person straight in the eye make a good first impression, but they're not a reliable index of one's character or sincerity. There are people who can deliver a firm handshake and look you straight in the eye while they lie through their teeth.

Character and sincerity are revealed only by performance.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you before, but I really need your advice now. I can't give you my address because I feel like a fugitive. Here goes:

My husband and I have never paid taxes. We are in our early 30s and have been working since we were 20. When we were very young, we were ignorant about how to pay taxes and file and such. Then we just got careless and never filed. Now we are afraid to admit that we never filed because we fear the consequences. We are born-again Christians and don't feel right hiding from the law. We want to make things right, Abby. Please help us. Where do we begin?

ANONYMOUS IN THE USA

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Get in touch with the Internal Revenue Service. It is listed in your telephone directory. You can expect to be penalized for your failure to file, but if you were to come forward voluntarily, you would receive more generous treatment than if the IRS "caught" you. The longer you wait, the more severe the penalty, so call the IRS and P.D.O.

are stored under unmade beds, mold cultures flourish on dirty dishes, and hairspray is stuck to the ceiling of their bedrooms and bathrooms!

We are losing the battle, and surrender time is near. Threats, bribery or hollering hasn't worked. We've even tried to cut deals with them — payment on the older alien's car insurance in return for household assistance — but no deal.

My husband and I want to reclaim our territory before the final takeover. We're desperate. Any suggestions?

DOWN AND ALMOST OUT

DEAR D AND ALMOST O: Wane your parental wands and turn your alien munchkins back into obedient children, immediately!

Commandeer the car keys and ground them both until their rooms pass muster. Then dole out their freedom commensurate with their good behavior.

You are the rulers of your planet unless you abdicate your authority by allowing yourselves to be manipulated. Ignore all cries of, "All the other kids can, etc. etc."

Hang, tough. Kids need rules. They may "hate" you for demanding tidiness, cleanliness and order, but in the end, they'll love you for making "menschen" out of munchkins.

of pizza deliverers also need your help?

"Free delivery" of pizza — and other food delivered to your door — simply means that the company doesn't charge more for their product when it's delivered than if you were served in the restaurant, or carried it home yourself.

The person who delivers your pizza must use his (or her) own car and is paid minimum wage plus a small compensation for gas.

Some people offer no tip at all, and others think a dollar is a generous tip. Actually, any amount is better than nothing, but a tip of between 10 percent and 15 percent is appropriate. Think of it this way: A waiter or waitress carries your food from the kitchen to your table, and the pizza carrier has to drive several miles to get to you.

BOB IN GLENDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR BOB: Thank you for waking up a few million people.
