Lake Mary OKs final plans for AIG

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission on Thursday approved the landscape plan for the AIG Warranty Services Building at Century Point.

In November, even though the site plan presented by AIG satisfied all of the city's landscaping requirements, the commission withheld approval of the landscaping portion. Commissioners said they wanted additional trees and buffering within the proposed parking lot.

Site plan for insurance company calls for nearly 1,000 parking spaces

The site plan calls for 977 parking spaces to be located near Interstate-4. Representatives agreed to amend the landscape plan by adding 14 Live Oaks and two East Palatka Holly trees along the west perimeter to the parking lot fronting I-4.

"This meets all city codes," said Mayor

David Meador. "The company has been working diligently with the staff."

The site plan was approved in November. However, approval of the landscape plan was withheld. This week, the commission approved the landscape plan by a vote of 4-1 over the dissenting vote of George Duryea.

"We are still talking about 1,000 parking spaces," Duryea said. "I know this meets the city's requirements, but I feel that this needs increased landscaping."

Lake Mary beat out Baltimore, Md. for an AIG Warranty Services Center that will provide an estimated 550 new jobs to Lake Mary by 2004, at an average wage of $36,000.

Construction on the 123,000 square-foot AIG office building at Century Point is expected to begin in mid-December, and to be complete in May of 2000.

Putting on the Ritz

Holiday Home Tour kicks off at the Ritz

From Staff Reports

Community leaders and local residents gathered at the Ritz Theater for a gala celebration to kick off the annual Sanford Historic Trust Holiday Home Tour last night.

Highlighted by performances from local singers, choirs and dance groups, the gala not only provided a chance to start the Home tour in grand fashion, it gave the community its first opportunity to view the major renovation the historic theater has undergone. Though some work still remains, and the official opening will come after the new year, Friday night's event provided a glimpse of what the Ritz can offer when it is fully operational.

The main purpose of the event, however, was to kick off the Home Tour. For visitors to Sanford, some of the more interesting sights are the restored homes that line many city streets.

People who admire old structures may often wonder, if these buildings look so magnificent outside, what is inside. This 11th annual Holiday Home Tour offers the opportunity to see the inside of 10 of the city's most beautiful historic homes and structures. Included in the 10 are seven restored homes and three public sites.

The Holiday Tour of Homes is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4 and 5, from 1 until 5:30 p.m. each day.

The afternoon walking tours will be from 1 until 5:30. In many cases, there will be holiday music, and perhaps a chance to sit on an old front porch and sip cider

Airport work ready to begin

By Bill Kerns

SANFORD — Construction on the seven gate domestic terminal expansion project at the Orlando Sanford Airport will begin after the new year.

Construction of the $25 million project is expected to be completed by December 2000.

As part of the domestic terminal expansion, a ramp will be designed to give the airport greater flexibility in servicing a variety of planes. The ticketing, baggage claim, concession and retail areas will also be expanded. By the end of the project's third phase, the airport will have seven gates.

The domestic terminal, which will also handle overflow international traffic, will be expanded to 120,000 square feet if all goes as airport officials are planning.

Plans for the terminal include second level boarding for up to seven flights at a time, and the capacity to handle up to three million passengers annually. The Sanford Airport Authority on Tuesday unanimously gave final approval to allow private management of the domestic airline terminal facilities.

Starting in January, the Orlando Sanford Airport's domestic terminal facilities will be managed by Orlando Sanford Domestic, Inc., which is a subsidiary of TBI (US) Inc. The Airport Authority agreed to the contract with TBI in principal in August.

Longwood considers special assessment to pave three streets

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The Longwood City Commission on Monday will consider approving a proposed special assessment district for three city streets.

If the assessments are approved, the paving of Fourteenth Avenue, Thirteenth Avenue and First Place East would begin in January of 2000. Work would be complete in March of 2000, according to city plans.

"This would bring up property values and lower the cost of maintenance problems," said Mayor Paul Lovstrand. "Streets cost less to maintain when they're paved. This is good for the city."

The total cost of paving the three streets is $366,441. This includes $202,828 for the paving of Fourteenth Avenue, $47,453 to pave Thirteenth Avenue, and $116,160 to pave First Place East.

Sixty percent of the cost will be borne by the city, while forty percent will be assessed against abutting property owners.

The assessments to pay for the paving of Fourteenth Avenue, Thirteenth Avenue, and First Place East would become due one year after they are approved by the commission. Residents would have 10 years to pay the assessments, at eight percent interest.

Residents of the streets in the past have petitioned Longwood for the paving projects, with some petitions dating back to 1984.

City clerk Geri Zambri said she has not received complaints from residents regarding the proposed assessments.

"We are more urban than other cities," said City Manager John Drago. "We need projects like these more than other cities might."

Property owners will have the opportunity to discuss the proposal Monday during a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. at Longwood City Hall. The commission will then vote on the proposed assessments during the 7 p.m. regular session.

Fourteenth Avenue would receive paving beginning at County Road 427 to its intersection with Lommler Street, a dis-

Presidency can wait; Hatch will be the Veep

Everybody's entitled to his or her opinion as to the winner of Thursday night's Republican Candidates Debate in New Hampshire. I believe Orrin Hatch clinched the Party's Vice Presidential nomination. Hatch has Veep written all over him. I'd give him a B-Minus at the debate.

If Gary Bauer were elected president, they might have to shorten the legs on the Oval Office desk. He would need to pole vault into the Lincoln Bed. He couldn't go on the rides on visits to Disney World. Bauer did well Thursday. I'd give him an A-Plus.

Steve Forbes hasn't said so but I suspect he'd move his Forbes Magazine staff into the west wing of the White House. America never had a president who was a publisher. Newspaper lord Horace Greeley lost the 1872 presidential election to Ulysses S. Grant. Forbes gets a B for the debate. "It's nice to have you here," he told George W. Bush. You get, 'em, Stevie.

Tell me if I have this straight — G.W. Bush governs the big ol' state of Texas, which is larger than all but 10 or 11 countries? That's very impressive. But what about foreign relations? Abortion? Sorry, a C-Minus, Guv. Catch you at the debate in Phoenix.

Alan Keyes probably said more than anyone — some of it very disturbing, all of it challenging. Keyes played the race card that he says others have been playing on him. He said the media is ignoring his candidacy because he is black. He gets a A for the debate. There's some actor in Ambassador Keyes. Remember Garrett Morris on SNL.

The winner of the debate, it says here, was "quick-tempered" Senator John McCain, war hero, POW in Viet Nam. "I've heard that talk (about being quick-tempered) and it makes me mad," McCain deadpanned to the laughter of all. Most politician analysts agreed that McCain was the sharpest — and the warmest — at the Thursday debate. An A-Plus demonstration.

Hatch said the format of the debate "was stilted" and urged the other candidates to join him on a two-week bus tour in New Hampshire and Iowa. "Let's get back to the people, lose the handlers and talk directly to the people," Hatch said. Precisely what a vice presidential candidate would say. No matter whom the Republicans pick as their presidential candidate, Hatch is going to be the running mate.

Bret Hume of Fox News and Karen Brown of WMUR-TV in Manchester, did a fine job as moderators of the debate. Hatch's comments were not directed at the moderators but the format which was approved by each of the candidates. Hume said he was surprised at the brevity of the remarks by the candidates — particularly those by Bush.

The GOP 6-Pack debate is not to be confused with those by Lincoln and Douglas. I'm sure there have been enactments of Lincoln-Douglas debating. Unfortunately, Fox News wasn't around for that. There's going to be a lot of talk about this last debate and swelling interest in next round in Phoenix.

The feeling here is that George Bush dropped a peg Thursday. It was John McCain's hour. Alan Keyes will make Barbara Walters' next 10 Most Fascinating people list. Remember, Hitch to Hatch for Veep.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Sunday in the Seminole Herald.

Our View

We the people

It's encouraging to see more residents speaking up at commission meetings

It may appear to some long time residents that groups or individuals are fighting city hall more than ever before. Issues such as a soup kitchen, development of Fort Mellon Park, street closures for arts & crafts shows, public decency law, and many other actions being undertaken by our city and county commissioners appear to be drawing more and more folks to commission meetings and work sessions.

It's not like it was five to ten years ago. At Sanford City Commission meetings for example, other than members of the city staff, department heads, were the only people in the audience. Such was also the case most often in Lake Mary and Longwood commission meetings.

Now, it is common to see meetings where there is standing room only. When a mayor or chairman calls for public reaction, either for or against a matter, we can almost be guaranteed that both sides will have spokespersons or at least John-Q-Citizen who wishes to have their point of view brought forward.

The difference, we believe, is that dialogue is now brought forward. No longer are important items brought up for a vote by simply telling the audience, "We discussed this at our work session, so we're ready to make a vote." In cases such as these, citizens aren't aware of what is being brought up, so how could they possibly provide any input.

One of the important parts of our Constitution concerns government of, by and for the people. These days, more than the past, is an excellent example of the people becoming involved in their governments at a step beyond merely voting for representatives who may, (or may not) be expected to express their personal points of view.

Part of the increased involvement by citizens is due to the spread of more information than in the past. With copy machines, people can more easily make a pamphlet for distribution, the press constantly updates the public on what is coming up at government meetings, and government is being more openly discussed by the average citizen.

Whatever is causing this improvement in public attendance and input at our commission meetings, we are pleased with the results.

Everyone owes a great deal of thanks to persons who attend these meetings, are concerned with what is or may be happening, and are willing to speak up. Whether or not we agree with what some may say, they deserve our appreciation.

Texas after affirmative action

Three states have figured out a way to increase college admissions for minorities without depending on traditional affirmative action programs.

Gov. Jeb Bush of Florida has proposed that the top 20 percent of high-school graduates be automatically admitted to public colleges and universities. In California, the students in the top 4 percent of each high school's graduating class now gain admission to the University of California.

In Texas, the top-ranking 10 percent of every graduating class is being admitted to any of the public campuses they prefer.

In an illuminating Nov. 24 New York Times article, Jodi Wilgoren includes a number of questions about the future of this approach, which other states are considering.

In Texas, the percentage of blacks and Hispanics in freshman classes on most of the selective campuses has increased. And this year, 4.1 percent of those enrolled at the demanding University of Texas at Austin were black students — the same as in 1996, when a race and ethnicity-based affirmative-action program was in place. Hispanic enrollment is close to the 1996 level.

As Wilgoren notes, rural white students, many of whom had found selective campuses beyond their reach, have benefited from the Texas program. I suspect that poor and working-class white youngsters in the cities have benefited as well.

A question not sufficiently emphasized in the article, however, is what happens to the 90 percent left in high schools with low-level courses and underachieving teachers? Will those students continue to believe they are incapable of gaining admission to top-ranking colleges — or any college?

Some of the 10 percenters in Austin are facing the unsettling fact that they were poorly prepared. Says one student: "All the stuff I should have done in high school, I'm doing now It's a humbling experience. I never felt slow or dumb before."

On the other hand, he and some of the other challenged students may well make the grade — especially those in new smaller classes at the huge, 49,000-student Austin campus. One example is a class in which 50 pre-medical students whose SAT scores average 200 points below the university average get intensive instruction and seminars in study skills.

Nat Hentoff

David Laude, who is in charge of this targeted group, says: "If I see even a hint of a student having a problem, if somebody does badly on a quiz, I call them into my office."

There should be more such smaller, individualized classes, but they're expensive. "We just can't afford it," a dean ruefully says.

But in only a few public schools I have reported on — from elementary grades on up — is it a standard practice to be on top of each student's progress, or lack of it. I knew an elementary-school principal in Brooklyn, N.Y., who had progress reports on every student in the school on his desk, but I have not met

Check your list

Santa isn't the only one who should make a list and check it twice

Most every family has a "things to do" list for the holidays: obtain and decorate the tree, put up lights, buy and wrap gifts, and a myriad of other to-do's. While this will certainly keep us busy, there are a few other needs, not for ourselves, but for others.

For the next few weeks, organizations and groups throughout the area will be conducting events specifically aimed at those less fortunate than we. The Salvation Army kettles are certainly obvious wherever we shop. Churches are asking for donations, WESH Channel 2 is conducting a food drive. Toys for Tots is extremely active, and no doubt wherever one goes, there are people seeking financial help and/or item donations.

Might we suggest that we add "helping others" to that things to do list. Children perhaps are the most needy. They will hear from their peers who boast, "I got this or that for Christmas." Imagine how depressing a small child will feel when he or she thinks to themselves, "I didn't get anything." All the holiday talk centers on giving, yet there are those who will be unable to get.

Then there are the homeless, or those with hardly any possessions except perhaps the shirt on their backs. Most of them remember the years gone by when the spirit of the holidays and their loved ones surrounded them. Now perhaps, they find themselves alone. "Does no one care any longer?"

And the senior citizens who, in their lifetimes, gave and gave to their offspring, but now find themselves left with hardly a friendly face, and nothing more to give.

Certainly we can't just pay attention to these needs one time a year, (or twice if we consider food for the needy at Thanksgiving). They need assistance every day. But this is the season of giving, and perhaps in keeping with the holiday spirit, it is easier to obtain this help now. If it were easy all year round, organizations may be better able to help.

Donate to worthy causes. Place some financial help in those kettles. Volunteer to help your church or club in holiday events. Give whenever possible.

Naturally, there may be some hands out at this time of year with personal gain in mind, but it's not too difficult to determine which has helped in the past and can be counted upon to help again this year.

For that things to do list, add "helping others." Help spread the holiday spirit.

Politics gets in the way of food

Hadn't seen much of, or heard much from, the folks at Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth over the past two years, since the United Nations' global warming summit in Kyoto, Japan.

But then they turned up in Seattle last week for the yearly conference of the 135-nation World Trade Organization (joining more than a hundred fellow leftist groups that journeyed to the Pacific Northwest with the apparent intent to riot).

As it turns out, Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth are no longer working the global warming issue (it just didn't take off the way they'd hoped). They're now crusading against genetically modified foods or, as they scarily refer to them, "Frankenfoods."

This is all so much unscientific nonsense. The fact is that farmers have been genetically modifying plants for centuries through such techniques as crossbreeding and hybridization.

As the folks at the Biotechnology Industry Organization point out, "Many of our most common plants — including corn, potatoes, tomatoes and strawberries — bear little resemblance to their ancestor plants that developed in nature, prior to improvement by humans."

So all biotechnology does today is speed up the process of genetic improvement of plants and animals. And resistance to use of this new technology in the farm patch (instead of the time-consuming, inefficient techniques of crossbreeding and hybridization) makes as little sense as resistance to use of modern-day tractors instead of the old hand plows.

Of course, the Luddites on the environmental left are unswayed by this argument. They insist that genetically modified foods have no place at the supper table.

GM foods "pose grave risks to both human and environmental health," insists Friends of the Earth. "Genetically engineered food is poison," declares Greenpeace.

And the activist groups have a "scientific" report to back up their claims. It was authored by Professor Arpad Puztai of the Rowett Institute in Scotland.

The prof said he fed genetically modified potatoes to five rats. After 100 days or so (the equivalent to 10 years in human terms), the rats suffered from slightly stunted growth and damaged immune systems, he reported.

Puztai's sensational findings made international news. It prompted calls by left-leaning British politicians for a moratorium on the sale of genetically modified foods — much as 47 mostly left-leaning members of the House of Representatives recently signed a letter to the Food and Drug Administration urging the agency to require that all genetically modified foods carry labels.

But here's a footnote to the Puztai story that didn't make nearly as much international news: His research was a fraud. That's what got him suspended in August 1998 by the Rowett Institute. Administrators discovered that he could not substantiate his claims with the data he obtained from his research.

"We have been misled by a very senior scientist at this institute," said Puztai's chastened superior.

But much as Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth were undeterred during their global warming crusade by evidence that cast doubt upon their hysterical warnings of

NAACP should worry less about TV, more about education

Looking out over the racial landscape at the end of the millennium, NAACP President Kweisi Mfume has concluded that the most pressing issue facing black America is the paucity of prime-time TV roles for black actors. Not the scourge of AIDS. Not the epidemic of black men in prison. Not the lagging performance of black students on standardized tests.

The issue to which Mfume and his NAACP colleagues have decided to devote their immediate attention is the failure of the big-four networks — NBC, ABC, CBS and Fox — to portray minority characters in prominent roles. Not enough black radio psychiatrists, Asian angels or brown vampire-slayers.

Mfume is right about the networks and the numbers of minority characters. The trend over the last few years has shown a distinct splintering of the television audience. The larger networks have offered fewer shows with prominent black characters, leaving upstart cable channels such as the WB to fill the hunger among black audiences for characters who resemble their mothers, fathers and children. By last spring, when the major networks previewed their offerings for this fall, prime-time was curiously pale.

Nevertheless, this is an odd crusade for the NAACP. Even if network television were to recapture the 1970s, its golden era of diversity ("Sanford and Son," "The Jeffersons," "Chico and the Man"), the problems of black and brown America would remain stubbornly unchanged. Indeed, some of those problems, including low educational achievement, are exacerbated by an addiction to television.

Mfume's protests would encourage network execs to add more prominent characters of color so that, in turn, African-Americans would watch more television. (He's warning of a black boycott if programming is not changed.) He's got that exactly backward. Mfume ought to be using this controversy to warn black and brown Americans of the folly of spending countless hours in front of the television set — even if they're watching Bill Cosby, Martin Lawrence and Oprah.

Television is the root of much modern evil. It discourages family conversation; it encourages a sedentary lifestyle; it dulls the mind. It promotes a mindless consumerism, so that children demand a constant stream of the newest, the latest, the fastest, the mostest. And it glamorizes casual sex, suggesting to adolescents (and adults) that indiscriminate sexual liaisons carry no consequences.

Black Americans are even more addicted to this insidious medium than whites. While whites watch about 50 hours of television a week (or seven hours a day), African-Americans watch more than 70 hours a week (or 10 hours a day.) And most of those TVs are not tuned in to PBS, either.

It is that unfortunate statistic that ought to galvanize the NAACP. Mfume has a bully pulpit; he ought to use it to help black Americans understand the waste — the unintended consequences, even — of too much TV.

One of those may be the lower educational attainment rates of black children. After all, TV takes away precious study time. Excessive TV viewing also stunts the imagination and usurps the joyous hours that can be spent with good books. Any good teacher will tell you that high-achieving students are usually those who enjoy reading for pleasure. Those are often the students who perform well on college entrance exams, too.

Let prime-time TV keep its bland cast of homogeneous 20-somethings. There are plenty of good books in which black youngsters can find themselves reflected, from coming-of-age classics such as Gordon Parks' "The Learning Tree" to children's books such as Evelyn Coleman's "Glass Bottle Tree." And when those bright young minds come of age, having been nurtured by good books, they can write their own stories.

While there will be 10 percenters who get their degrees and go on to graduate schools (which are not included in the 10 percent program), some will keep on feeling "dumb" if colleges in Texas, California and Florida do not provide the money and resources to make up for miseducation in the lower schools.

In Texas, the 10 percenters get in regardless of their scores on standardized tests. How they do in the next four years may provide answers to whether the increasingly criticized SAT scores actually do predict success in college.

But without more small classes specifically geared for students who need to make up for what they didn't get in high school, there will be no clear answer to the predictability of SAT scores in any of the three states.

Toward the end of Jodi Wilgoren's article, there is an augury of what can happen to make students of all backgrounds succeed. At the Austin campus, calculus professor Phillip Uri Treisman is in charge of a center conducting research on how to get college administrators involved in learning how to educate teachers and principals from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

This is already happening in California after traditional affirmative action was struck down by the voters. Why do colleges and universities around the country have to wait for the courts or the voters to reach out — and down?

The automatic admission of a particular percentage of high-school graduates ought not to disguise what has to be done to remedy the failure of the schools below to do what they're paid by us to do.

cataclysmic climate change, they haven't let a little thing like scientific fraud slow down their war against genetically modified foods.

Indeed, having achieved a de facto ban on GM foods in England, France and other European nations — by duping the masses into believing that GM foods are unsafe, by coercing grocery stores to remove GM foods from their shelves, by terrorist attacks on GM crops in the field, and by persuading governments to require labeling of GM foods — the environmental left is now bringing its crusade to this side of the Atlantic.

However, they face a more daunting challenge here in this country. Because Americans routinely consume genetically modified foods. And of those who have any thoughts on the matter one way or the other, most view GM foods favorably.

Of course, all of this can and will change if the government allows itself to be drawn into the war on GM foods. And that is precisely what the FDA appears to be doing by holding hearings around the country at which the public is invited to offer its two cents' worth as to whether the regulatory agency's policy on GM foods "should be modified."

This plays right into the hands of Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth, whose activists turned out in force at the FDA's first two hearings, in Chicago and Washington, D.C. Since the environmental left-les knew the FDA is not going to ban GM foods (what with biotech accounting for 50 percent of processed foods in the nation's supermarkets) they seek the next best thing — mandatory labeling of all GM foods.

While false-hearted advocates of labeling say that it would simply make consumers aware when they buy genetically modified foods, the real aim of label advocates, like Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth, is to make American consumers wary.

Indeed, that's why agriculture groups, food industry organizations and biotechnology companies almost unanimously oppose labeling GM foods. They argue, correctly, that labeling would mislead consumers into believing that biotech foods are either "different" from conventional foods or present a risk or potential risk.

The federal government ought not allow itself to be used by groups like Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth to further their nonscientific, politically motivated goals.

Especially when it would come at the expense of America's farmers, its food makers and its biotech industry with no tangible, commensurate benefit to the nation's consumers.

Strang Communications positions for growth

Strang Communications recently appointed four executives to newly created Vice President positions as a result of "the single biggest reorganization in company history," according to Stephen Strang, President and CEO.

"We believe the merger of our magazine, book and curriculum divisions will help us create synergy among our brands, and better position us for growth," Strang also cites the reorganization as a more efficient way to manage the company's combined resources.

The four Vice Presidents will manage their respective areas for all Strang Communications brands which touch the lives of nearly two million people every month. These include Charisma magazine, Creation House books, including Siloam Press and SpiritLed Woman imprints, Ministries Today magazine, Christian Retailing magazine, CharismaLife curriculum (including KIDS Church, Cross Training and CharismaLife Sunday school curriculum), Casa Creacion books, New Man magazine, Vida Cristiana magazine, SpiritLed Woman magazine, Inspirational Giftware magazine.

Stephen Strang, who started Charisma magazine in 1975, and founded Strang Communications in 1981, will remain as President and CEO. Joy Strang, who has been with the company since 1981, will remain as CFO, with all accounting and administration functions, including Information Services and Internet continuing under her leadership.

David W. Welday III, who has worked for Strang Communications since 1981, moves from his position as Publisher of Creation House to Vice President Product Development/Editorial. Another long-time employee starting in 1986, Wendy Cordeiro, moves to Vice President Production from Production Director. Bob Minotti, Vice President Advertising, has also worked at Strang since 1988, moving from Advertising Director. Jay Griffin, Vice President Marketing and Sales, joined the management team this October, coming from Cook Communications Ministries in Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he led Cook's Direct to Home division, and managed their customer database.

Stephen Strang arrived in Orlando in 1973 from the University of Florida, to work as a reporter at the Orlando Florida Sentinel Star. Since founding his own communications company in 1981, Strang has created more than 200 jobs and his company is now ranked by the Orlando Business Journal in its "Golden 100" as the 65th largest privately owned business in the six county area of Central Florida.

Strang Communications recently won the "Vision of Success 1999" award presented by the City of Lake Mary Chamber in recognition of Strang's contribution to the area's economic growth. On November 5, Strang Communications will be recognized by the Seminole County Economic Development Commission at its 1999 Industry Recognition Awards luncheon. In 1994, Strang Communications was named "Industry of the Year" by the Mid-Florida Economic Development Commission.

Museum finds its beginnings in the will of Gertrude Sanford

Most of you are familiar with the Sanford Museum which is located in Fort Mellon Park, but do you know its history?

While trying to identify the people in the accompanying photograph, I found several files in the Museum relating to its beginnings. I have perused several newspaper articles and other items and hopefully have come up with a fairly accurate picture of this project.

My dad, Martin Stinecpher, was on the building committee, but as I was away in college at the time, I really didn't comprehend what was happening. Through working at the Museum a couple of days a week and serving on the board of the Sanford Historical Society for several years, I have absorbed a smattering of information, but have certainly found out a lot more through this research; my findings will be in two parts.

The history of the Sanford Museum goes way back to 1902 when Gertrude (Mrs. Henry) Sanford's will stipulated that a fireproof building be built in Sanford to house her husband's library and portraits. Evidently no interest was shown in this project by the citizens of Sanford until Feb. 8, 1940, at the annual Founders Day Celebration.

At this time, the idea of a memorial library was first discussed. The original intent was to add it to the existing library which at the time was located on West Fourth Street; the building is now known as the Bettye Smith Cultural Arts Center.

The next week, General Sanford's daughter, Mrs.

Carola Sanford Dow, asked that a free standing library be built as a replica of General Sanford's library at his home in Derby, Connecticut.

Mrs. Dow spent the winter months of December through February 1940-41 in Winter Park and Sanford where she stayed at the Mayfair Hotel. She evidently was in contact with the Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution during this time as plans for a museum were again discussed informally at the 1941 Founders Day Tea sponsored by the DAR and held at the Sanford Woman's club which Mrs. Dow attended. A suggestion was made to bring the matter up at the next city commission meeting.

At the Feb. 10 city commission meeting, Mayor W. C. Hill suggested that this project be a community effort and invited members of all Sanford's civic clubs to a meeting on Feb. 13. The Sanford Memorial Library Association was formed at this meeting.

The purpose of this organization was to satisfy the city's desire to perpetuate the memory of its distinguished founder by a permanent building, to secure a fireproof replica of General Sanford's library in Derby, CT which would house his books and paintings.

This group met several times during the next few months; officers were elected and future plans made. Officers were H.J. Gut, president; Mrs. E.J. Moughton, vice president; Mrs. F.E. Roumillat, secretary; Edward Higgins, treasurer. Mrs. Dow was made temporary chairman and through presenting the Society a gift of $100, she became the holder of the first life membership.

During the next few years, Mrs. Dow sent books, paintings, furniture and other of her father's memorabilia to Sanford in anticipation of the new building. Sallie Harrison Chapter DAR stored these in various places. The Sanford library stored the books and the furniture, paintings and other items were stored at the Sanford Atlantic National Bank. At first, the bank stored the items at no charge, but when they later began to charge storage fees, the DAR chapter paid these. In 1950, to eliminate these fees, the articles at the bank were transferred to the Womans Club under the sponsorship of the DAR chapter. They were located on the balcony and could be viewed by the public at various times.

In 1919, the Connecticut Historical Society had received the correspondence of General Sanford and other of his papers. Finally the Connecticut Society released the papers in 1956 and arrangements were made to store them at Rollins College until the Sanford library was completed.

Plans slowed down during the war years; construction of the library was planned for after the war. It was stated in a 1944 article that the library would be built in the Fourth Street Park.

On July 10, 1952, a Seminole County Historical Society was organized with Mrs. F.E. Roumillat as chairman and Randall Chase as vice president. Other officers elected were Mrs. C.R. Dawson, secretary; Dr. J.B. Root, treasurer; and Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. C. Stuart Brown and John Meisch, directors.

Tentative plans for the General Henry S. Sanford Memorial Library and Museum were presented by local architect, Elton J. Moughton. These provided for a colonial type building of fireproof masonry construction. The colonial theme would be stressed in the columns and portico which would resemble those of the original homestead of General Sanford in Derby, CT.

Another organization entitled The Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum Association was later formed and its charter was approved by Circuit Judge M.B. Smith in 1953.

This association was a non-profit corporation organized to construct a suitable building as a memorial to General Sanford in which his possessions would be kept.

The officers were J.C. Hutchison, president; Rolland L. Dean, Vice president; F.G. Whitner, Jr, secretary-treasurer. Board members were Mrs. Juna Lowry Papworth, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Williams and Randall Chase.

At another meeting of this group held at the home of Mrs. Williams, two committees were appointed by president Hutchison.

Appointed to the building committee were H.B. Pope, chairman, Martin Stinecpher; Rev. J.B. Root and Fred H. Williams. The finance committee consisted of R.J. Bauman, chairman; Frank Evans; George A. Speer, Jr.; George Touhy and T.E. Tucker.

The building committee had already been at work before being formally appointed and they gave their report. The plans developed by E.J. Moughton were reviewed and the committee was authorized to proceed.

By unanimous approval of the group, membership in the association was extended to everyone interested in the erection of the library museum. Dues were set at $1 per year and A.B. Peterson was named membership chairman.

It was suggested that the one room portion of the building could be undertaken as soon as possible with funds that were available.

Mr. and Mrs. F.E. Roumillat and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Speer traveled to Connecticut at various times to view the General's original library and to visit with the Sanford family. While there they noted the dimensions of the library and took note of other facts.

A site in Fort Mellon Park was approved by the city commission and on July 25, 1955, they approved the start of the construction after presentation of plans by General Hutchison and Fred Williams. It would be a 20 x 26 foot library room; two wings would be built later. The city and county had each appropriated $6000 towards the project.

The Sallie Harrison DAR chapter had spearheaded fund raising efforts all through this process. They had held such events as Silver Teas to raise money for the Museum. They also aided the museum in many other ways during its early years.

and cargo terminal has been managed by OSI, Inc. since May, 1997, which is also a subsidiary of TBI. Details of the final contract are still being negotiated.

As part of the 30 year agreement, TBI will pay $10 million against the $25 million estimated cost of the planned domestic terminal expansion project. The first $8.5 million will be paid by TBI this year.

"We could not expand the domestic terminal like we want to without these funds from TBI," said airport director Victor White.

The first $7.5 million will be paid up front when the contract is finalized, and the remaining $2.5 million will be spread over the first five years of the agreement. TBI will also make gross revenue payments to the airport, as well as a management fee of $500,000 per year.

In addition, TBI will assume all operation and maintenance costs for the terminal facilities, and provide incentives for airline business attraction.

In return for funding toward the expansion project, the Airport Authority agreed to give TBI rights to parking lot fees and rental car revenues. Currently, the airport does not charge parking fees. Victor White, executive director of the airport, said that nationwide parking lots are often the leading source of income at airports.

Larry Gouldthorpe, president of OSI, said there are no plans in the immediate future to institute parking fees.

"Our intention is to hold off on raising fees as long as we can," Gouldthorpe said. "Free parking is an incentive that most airports can't offer, and we have a reputation as an airport for being affordable."

Gouldthorpe said the factors that could potentially lead to instituting parking fees in the future include the need to build additional parking areas if demand exceeds the current parking areas.

TBI will also receive terminal related revenues such as food and beverage concession fees. Commercial ground transportation revenues will be split with the airport.

The minimum payment from TBI for the first three years is $500,000. The minimum payment decreases to $400,000 the fourth year, and $350,000 the fifth year. For the remainder of the 30 year contract, the minimum annual payment is $250,000.

The airport handled 1.2 million passengers in 1998, primarily from British charter flights.

TBI (US), Inc. is an American subsidiary of TBI plc, a United Kingdom based airport privatization company. The company plans to acquire US based Airport Group International, an airport privatization company with management contracts in 29 airports worldwide.

as folks once did many years ago. Cost for just the walking tour is $10 per person, with reduced rates for children or groups. The home tours begin at the Woman's Club of Sanford, 309 S. Oak Avenue.

During the same hours, and for both Saturday and Sunday, there will be an open house at the Seminole County Public Schools Student Museum, 301 West 7th Street. Admission is free at this facility. Most any person who has attended local schools in the past 97 years, are apt to find their photos on display along the wall, or at least photos of friends from out of the past. While there are many interesting educational displays at the facility, the photos are often the prime focus of attention.

Also both days will see an open house at the Sanford Museum, 520 E. First Street. Admission is free. The main focus will be the local history exhibit, although there are a number of others which draw considerable attention.

Saturday evening, beginning at 7 p.m. at Magnolia Square in downtown historical Sanford, it's a free holiday gathering for all of the family. Features include the official dedication of the holiday lights throughout the city, as well as the tree in the square. Musical performances and caroling are also planned.

The Holiday Home Tour is the primary fund-raiser for the Sanford Historic Trust, whose purpose is improving, preserving and restoring structures of historic value in and around the city of Sanford. Fifty percent of the profits of this year's tour will be donated toward completion of the Ritz Theatre restoration.

For information on any of the events, or availability of tickets, phone 321-9992.

AIG

Andrew Webb, a representative for AIG, said the company would work with the city to address the commission's concerns about added landscaping.

A former citrus grove, the site has no wetlands. Eight existing trees are located on the site, and four of the trees are proposed to be removed.

The proposed landscaping met the requirements of the city code. Although not required by code, city planner Bill Spivey said additional planting of trees may be desired because of the density of the parking, and to close gaps in the view from Interstate-4.

The AIG Warranty Services Center will provide administration of contracts for clients such as Whirlpool, Volvo, BMW, Mitsubishi and Best Buy. AIG is a subsidiary of the insurance giant American International Group.

The state gave $1.3 million in incentives to lure AIG Warranty

Services to Lake Mary, in combination with the City and County each contributing $165,000.

The annual City tax revenue from AIG is estimated at $42,000, while the County would receive $177,000. The Seminole County School Board would receive an estimated $112,000 in annual taxes.

Drive through grass ends when motorist hits telephone pole, knocks out power

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Of all the drivers on the highways and byways in Seminole County, Robert Watson picked the road not taken on Thursday afternoon.

In one of the more bizarre incidents he said he's investigated, veteran Sanford Police Officer Dave Morgenstern said it was a godsend that 72-year-old Watson, nor anyone, else was injured.

Watson was driving a 4-door Mercury in the southbound lane of French Avenue (State Road 17-92), but suddenly threw the car into reverse. Investigators said this not only caused a collision with another car but caused Watson to floor the gas pedal and shoot forward off the road for 50 yards through a grassy plain and shrubs outside the Seminole Herald newspaper building.

Somehow, Watson avoided the cement-based marquee and the flag pole outside the newspaper. He crossed over Fulton Street, avoiding a block of mail boxes but ran into guide wires that supported a power pole.

Instantly, the pole came down, shutting down telephone and electrical services as far off as Sanford City Hall three blocks away.

Watson's car ended up atop a fire hydrant, off the curb at French Ave. and Fulton St. Sanford Police were on the scene in a matter of minutes as was a Sanford Fire Rescue truck. A number of people came out of nearby buildings. Traffic on 17-92 had to be diverted and Fulton was blocked off for a block and a half.

Watson was stunned but uninjured when he got out of his vehicle on his own. He spoke with the police and rescue people and stood near some of the bushes he had mowed down as he waited for his daughter to come to the incident site.

"Mr. Watson wasn't sure what had happened," Morgenstern said. "He swore someone ran him off the road. Witnesses helped us put together the pieces of what was at first a confusing mess. It takes time to sort through something like this."

It took a couple of hours for the authorities to conclude their work and an hour more for a Florida Power utility crew to restore power to the area. A new power pole had to be erected. Morgenstern estimated the damages from the incident to be $25,000 or more. He said it probably would cost $4,000 for the power pole and installation fees.

Morgenstern said that Watson was going to be charged with careless driving.

"Mr. Watson's daughter and granddaughter have told him he should not be driving," Morgenstern said. "He'll have to be re-examined should he want to drive again."

What had caused Mr. Watson to drive the way he had?

"Old," Officer Morgenstern said. "That's what's so sad. He is old."

State cautions residents of false charities

From Staff Reports

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Agriculture and Consumer Services Commissioner Bob Crawford warns citizens to be careful about giving. He suggests people do their homework before donating to a charity this holiday season.

A record number of charities are vying for the public's donations, making it all the more confusing for consumers. The level of fund-raising also increases this time of year, and along with it the potential for scams.

According to Crawford, most charitable organizations are required by law to be registered with his department and provide financial information. That information is compiled in an annual "Gift Giver's Guide", a popular consumer publication which shows how much money an organization has raised the previous year, how much was spent on program services, administrative costs and fund-raising activities.

The guide also lists organizations that are exempt from filing detailed financial information.

"If consumers make sure a charity is properly registered, they are a lot less likely to be the victim of a scam," Crawford said. "In addition, the guide provides consumers with information they can use to ask relevant questions about how their contribution is being spent before making a donation."

The guide lists approximately 6,200 organizations registered with the department as charities that solicit money from people in Florida, regardless of where the charity is located.

Consumers can get a free copy of the "Gift Givers' Guide" by calling the department's consumer hotline at 1-800-HELPFLA (1-800-435-7352).

Crawford also provides tips to consumers regarding whether or not to contribute:

- Don't judge an organization based on an impressive sounding name. Find out what it actually does.

- Be wary of emotional appeals and organizations that have only vague plans for spending the funds they collect.

- Never give cash. Write a check payable only to an organization - not an individual.

- Be wary of organizations that offer to send a "runner" to pick up your donation. Reputable charities are willing to wait for your contribution.

- Consumers have the right to ask for an organization's financial report and its federal tax identification number - the latter of which you'll need to claim your contribution as a tax deduction.

- If an organization is not registered, or if there are any questions, contact the Department of Community Affairs.

Sanford officer Dave Morgenstern talks with other emergency personnel to determine the chain of events in a Thursday afternoon crash. A car, shown in the background atop a fire hydrant, was driven by Robert Watson. No injuries were reported.

Tennis facilities, skate park may be in the works in Lake Mary

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary is looking to add tennis and skating facilities to the city's sports complex.

A new tennis center being designed for the Lake Mary Sports Complex on Rantoul Lane is expected to have five tournament-sized tennis courts, including one main stadium court with bleachers.

The courts will be constructed just north of the Maintenance Building in the Sports Complex. Designs also include added parking, restrooms and concessions.

Construction is expected to begin after January of 2000, and to be complete in the summer of 2000. The estimated cost of the project is $650,000, according to CPH Engineers of Sanford, the firm in charge of engineering for the project.

"I think that conceptually this is very pleasing," said Lake Mary Mayor David Meador.

Meanwhile, teenagers in Lake Mary may also get a new place to skate.

Lake Mary residents have long complained about skateboarding taking place on the property of private businesses and City Hall. In turn, skateboarders tell city officials they need a place to skate.

That may change. The city is seeking funding to construct a skate park at the Sports Complex.

The park would accommodate skateboarding, in-line skating, and free style bicycling. City Manager John Litton estimates the park would cost about $150,000 to construct.

However, those waiting to use the park will need to be patient. If Lake Mary's grant request to the Florida Recreation Development Assistance Program is approved, the city would have up to three years to develop the park. The city has not set a timeline for when construction could begin.

Lake Mary can apply for no more than $200,000 from the grant program for fiscal year 2000-2001, which begins Oct. 1 of 2000.

Lake Mary Chief of Police

Richard Beary said a similar skate park already in use in New Smyrna has caused little disturbance, and also provides an example of what Lake Mary's skate park can become.

"They have had really good luck," Beary said. "There have been very few problems, and it is drawing kids away from skating on private property."

For a project that costs between $50,001 to $150,000, the grant would cover 75 percent of the cost while the city would pay the remaining 25 percent.

If the project costs more than $150,000, the grant would cover 50 percent of the cost while the city would be responsible for 50 percent.

The Florida legislature this year pass a law encouraging governments to make land available for skateboarding, in-line skating, and free style bicycling.

The legislature also provided that no government or employee would be liable to a person who for damage or injury arising from the activity when it takes place in an area such as a skate park.

Marine Pfc. Damon D. Downing recently completed the Motor Vehicle Operator Course at Marine Corps Detachment in Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Downing acquired the specialty skills and technical ability necessary to operate light and medium tactical-wheeled vehicles during various field and convoy operations. Downing spent more than 1,800 hours of classroom instruction and practical application learning how to drive designated courses on and off road. He also conducted vehicle recoveries and inspections, simulated driving vehicles under blackout conditions and learned how to prepare operator maintenance and accident forms.

The 1992 graduate of Winter Park High School of Winter Park joined the Marine Corps in December 1997.

Navy Fireman Recruit James Strother, son of Rose M. Harrison of Sanford, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Strother completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Strother and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values — honor, courage and commitment — and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct. Strother joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore commands around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Strother and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

He is a 1999 graduate of Eustis High School of Eustis.

Air Force Airman Melissa J. Howard has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Howard is the daughter of Robert M. and Susan A. Howard of Sanford.

The airman is a 1999 graduate of Seminole High School, Sanford.

UCF quartet garner spots on FN All-Independent football team

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - University of Central Florida junior strong safety Damian Demps (Miami/Carol City High School), senior receiver Charles Lee (Homestead High School), junior center Chris Lorenti (South Daytona/Atlantic High School), and senior defensive tackle Justen Moore (Ocala/Vanguard High School) were named to the 1999 Football News All-Independent team.

This is the second such honor for Moore, who was named to the Football News All-Independent team last year. He and Lorenti were on that publication's 1999 preseason All-Independent team as well.

Demps led the team in tackles for the second consecutive year, finishing this season with 72.

He registered interceptions in back-to-back games against Purdue's Drew Brees and Florida's Doug Johnson. He had a team-high 12 tackles against Eastern Illinois, nine tackles against Georgia, eight tackles against Florida and eight tackles against Auburn.

Lee led the team in receptions with 87, and yards with 1,133. He also had five touchdown receptions.

He finished seventh in the country in receptions per game and ninth in receiving yardage per game. His 87 receptions fell one shy of the school record for a season while his 1,133 yards ranked fourth All-time.

He finished with a flurry, catching 31 passes for 411 yards in the final three games. His best game of the year came against Auburn when he caught 11 passes for a career-high 203 yards, including an 83-yard touchdown reception. He caught 11 passes for 170 yards, including a 50-yard touchdown against Florida.

Lorenti, a three-year starter and the leader of the offensive line, played 736 plays during the season with a composite grade of 85 percent and seven "roach" blocks.

Despite the fact that most of those plays were passes, he surrendered only 1.5 sacks. He recorded a season-high grade of 94 percent against Louisiana.

Lincoln lambastes Lions

Herald photos by Arch Bostha

Senior tailback Alvin Hudson (shown above taking handoff from quarterback Kenny Staring) had a good night rushing, gaining a team-high 75 yards on 12 carries, but Clarence Walker (No. 36, left) scored Oviedo's only offensive touchdown as homestanding Lincoln High School ended the Lions' six game winning streak and completed a three-game rout of Central Florida teams to advance to the Florida High School Activities Association (FHSA) Class 6A Football Championships Final Four with a 48-14 thrashing of the Lions (9-4) in the Regional Finals at Gene Cox Stadium in Tallahassee Friday night.

The Trojans (11-2) scored touchdowns on their first seven possessions of the game and led 48-0 at halftime before going to the back-ups. Lincoln has now beaten Edgewater, 47-0, Lake Brantley, 51-21, and Oviedo, 48-14, in its three playoff games.

Gilliam, Trojans dismantle Oviedo

By Tony DeSormier
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

TALLHASSEE - Oviedo High School's gridiron fantasy ended brutally Friday night.

Mike Gilliam rushed for 231 yards (215 in the first half) and six touchdowns (all in the first half) as the Tallahassee-Lincoln Trojans administered a merciful 48-14 thrashing of the Oviedo Lions in their Class 6A regional championship game at Gene Cox Stadium.

The Trojans scored on all seven of their possessions in the first half; only the decision by Lincoln head coach David Wilson to play his second and third string for the majority of the second half kept the evening from being a complete nightmare for the more than 400 Oviedo fans who made the trip.

"They had us outsize on the offensive and defensive lines and they have a lot of speed in the backfield," said Oviedo coach Greg Register of the Trojans. "Our guys gave everything they had. We were just out-matched."

"We have nothing to be ashamed of. Lincoln is a fine team with a good chance of winning the state championship."

A wildcard selection to the Florida High School Activities Association's Class 6A football playoffs, the Lions (9-4) advanced to Friday night's regional final game by notching a pair of wins over district champions, shutting out West Orange, 14-0, and rallying past Lake Mary, 49-22.

For Tallahassee-Lincoln, it was the Trojans' third consecutive route of a Central Florida school. Lincoln (11-2) earned its berth in the regional final by ripping Orlando-Edgewater, 47-0, and Lake Brantley, 51-21.

The Trojans wasted no time

Senior Baseball League ready to return to field after layoff

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK - After taking off most of November so several players could travel to Ft. Myers to play in the Roy Hobbs World Series, the Orlando Senior Baseball Association Fall League swings back into action tonight (Saturday) at Showalter Field in Winter Park.

The Cardinals, who are tied for the league lead with Codgers, will take on the Yankees at 7 p.m.; then turn right around and challenge the Marlins at 9 a.m. on Sunday.

With four games left in the regular season, the Cardinals and Codgers were tied for the league lead with 6-2 records, while the Yankees are 4-4. The Marlins (0-8) are still looking for that elusive first victory.

In the most recent action, from November 4th, Altamonte Springs' Dave Vendur and Mike Markham combined on a six-hitter and Vendur went five-for-five at the plate and drove in two runs as the Cardinals whipped the Marlins, 20-2.

The Cardinals got off to a fast start scoring three runs in the bottom of the first inning.

With one out, Bill Gracey reached on an error and stole second before scoring on a single by Chris Gagliano. Gagliano came around on a stolen base, a throwing error and a wild pitch as Robert Smith drew a walk.

After stealing second and going to third on a long fly, the former Seminole High School star scored on a single by Vendur.

The Cardinals added a run in the second inning on a single by Joe Steffens, a ground out and a double by Nick Brady.

The Marlins cut the margin to 4-2 in the top of the third inning, but the Cardinals answered with a three-run bottom of the third inning.

Gracey singled and scored on a triple by Gagliano and Robert Smith followed with a booming home run far beyond the fence in left field.

In the fourth inning, Brady walked and later scored on a single by Gracey, who in turn scored on a sacrifice fly by Gagliano. Robert Smith then reached on a dropped third strike and came around on a stolen base and two wild pitches.

Please see Baseball, Page 2B

Robert Smith only had one hit, but it was a 'biggy,' as the former New York Mets farmhand belted a long two-run home run and also scored three other runs, reaching on two walks and a dropped third strike, to help lead the Cardinals to a 20-2 thrashing of the Marlins.

Rogers wins again at New Smyrna Speedway

SAMSULA - New Smyrna Speedway will be the site this Saturday for the exciting racing Go-Carts.

It's remarkable to see these nimble little carts fly around the fastest half-mile track in Florida.

Pit gates open at 4 p.m. with grandstand gates opening at 6 p.m. and racing beginning at 7 p.m. every Saturday night.

Cost is just $10 at the front gate for adults, while children 11-and-under are admitted free to the track located 10 miles south of Daytona Beach at the corner of Highway 44 and SR-415, between I-4 (exit 56, east) and I-95 (exit 84, west).

Last week the Florida Sunbelt Series concluded a very successful eight race series in its inaugural year, with discussion of adding more races in the 2000 season. The final chapter in the series only served to reinforce its viability.

Dick Anderson bested the 31-car qualifying field with a time of 18.172. Lady Luck ran with Bobby McClellan as he inherited the pole after Anderson drew the inversion pill, then Mr. Luck unceremoniously abandoned McClellan as he and Jacob Warren tangled in turn two in front of the entire field.

Excellent driving by all of the combatants resulted in no casualties, and the race resumed, running the next 50 laps under green.

Jack Cook had the car to beat tonight, though Mike Fritts did well staying with Cook. Attrition began striking the top runners after lap 100, then with seven laps to go Cook and Anderson made contact off turn 4, sending Cook hard into the front stretch wall.

Cook was unhurt, but the same could not be said for his car. Anderson was relegated to the rear of the field.

Mike Fritts was finally able to enjoy the lead only to break on lap 120.

During this caution period Anderson's ride quit on him, ending his bid for glory. James Powell assumed the lead, but

What's Up In The NFL... Week No. 13

SANFORD - Once again, The Crystal Ball of Football has delivered a winner my friends.

Collectively we have become spoiled as the Great One has given us winner after winner this season, but we must remember it's not easy.

This has been one of the most chaotic seasons in recent memory and accurate predictions have been difficult to come by. The Crystal Ball has somehow risen above the confusion and continues to rank as the premier handicapper in the entire nation.

Many readers are amazed that The Herald has been able to maintain my services, but I answer their bewilderment with one word, loyalty. I have been offered more money to go elsewhere. I have been offered more creative freedom to go elsewhere.

However, no matter what they offer me the nation's leading handicapper, they can't give me what I have here in Seminole County. Here in Central Florida I have a loyal group of readers that have stuck with me through thick and thin. I will continue to render my services, at a rate far below market value, as long as you continue to support me in my endeavor.

What's Up In The NFL

BRADY LESSARD

This has been a long week including a meeting with The Herald's leading management, Dan Ping. The Herald's leading editor, lured me to friendly ground, the friendly confines of the Rib Ranch. As we sat down for lunch I sensed something was amiss.

After ordering our meals it became apparent that I was being "squelched." It seems that my column has been too accurate and needs an injection of "fiction," to make it more readable. I was stunned at first but quickly realized that I was now in the big league of sports writing. They were trying to see if I would crack. I did not.

I assured The Herald that if I was not allowed to prognosticate to my specifications, that I would leave them for the Sports Illustrated gig. The Herald was gracious enough to apologize for their actions and so I give you this column.

I'm a man always willing to bury the hatchet so let's get right to the schedule, take a quick look and find some winners.

MIAMI (-2) VS. INDIANAPOLIS

As much as I hate the Dolphins, I have to be honest....I'm very nervous about the Colts handling the pressure. A secret part of me hopes Miami wins to help my beloved Bills but this game will be very close. I'm ordering a pizza and enjoying. TOO CLOSE TO CALL.

GREEN BAY (-3) AT CHICAGO

The Packers will dominate this drug addicted Bears squad. Favre seemed to find his stroke against San Fran the other night and I look for it to continue. Packers 34, Bears 13.

NEW YORK JETS (-2)

AT NEW YORK GIANTS

The Jets are looking to meet Parcell's expectation of a playoff berth and I think they may be for real. Lucas seems to have this team playing, and it won't take much to beat the Giants. Jets 24, Midgets 12.

ST. LOUIS (-7) AT CAROLINA

The Panthers have been a spread-buster all year and I look for them to continue in this one. The Rammies have had a tough time on the road and the Panthers have yet to give up in a game. Call me crazy, but I see Carolina winning this one outright. Panthers 23, Rams 21.

CINCINNATI (-3) VS. SAN FRANCISCO

Sanford native Jeff Blake gets another win as he leads his underrated offense against a pathetic defense. The Niners should be ashamed of themselves as they field a college level team in the professional ranks. Bengals 34, Niners 18.

TENNESSEE (-3) AT BALTIMORE

The Titans look great and they may challenge the Jaguars. The Ravens have played excellent ball and will look to shutdown McNair and his scrambling ways. Good luck. Titans 23, Ravens 6.

DENVER (4) VS. KANSAS CITY

The Chiefs will continue to roll after coming in as my LOCK OF THE WEEK last Sunday. Getting rid of Schottenheimer has allowed them to concentrate on winning and it pays off in this war. Chiefs 13, Broncos 10.

NEW ENGLAND (-2) VS. DALLAS

The Patriots just don't have the talent to be competitive in this one but I wish they did. I hate the Cowgirls with a passion but they did beat the Dolphins on Thanksgiving. Go Dallas, it'll help my beloved Bills. Cowgirls 25, Patriots 21.

MINNESOTA (-4) AT TAMPA BAY

Finally. Finally. The Bucs have a quarterback that has the talent to do something. Shawn King, who played at my wife's alma mater Tulane, has the juice to lead this team to great things. You all know how long I've been waiting for the Bucs to make the change and it's finally happened. The Bucs won't just win this Monday Night Football Game, they'll win the Super Bowl.

I'm serious. Bucs 21, Vikings 17. Each week I issue what I consider to be the best pick against the spread in the schedule. This is the game that after research and contemplation I feel most comfortable releasing as my patented LOCK OF THE WEEK. Anyone that can read realizes that these selections have been easy money all year and should feel comfortable going with me today.

Put it into cruise control and go with the GREEN BAY PACKERS (-3) OVER CHICAGO. The Bears quarterback has decided to take steroids and the League caught him. This team will look lost after having to watch their leader betray them.

Enjoy your football and remember, everything else can wait.

The Cardinals then turned the game in to a rout in the fifth inning, scoring eight runs.

A walk to Gil Vogler and a single by Dean Smith preceded a run-scoring double by Brady. Terry Finley followed with an RBI single and both he and Brady came around on wild pitches.

After a pair of outs, Robert Smith and Markham walked before Smith scored on a single by Vendur. Cappy Capozzola was hit by a pitch and Markham scored on a wild pitch before Art Edwards singled in two runs.

The Cardinals' final two runs came when Brady scored on a single by Gagliano in the sixth inning and Vendur singled and later scored on a single by Vogler in the seventh inning.

Vendur (1-0) gave up five hits and struck out three over the first five innings, while Markham earned his second save allowing no runs on one hit, one walk and two strike outs over the final three innings.

Providing the offense for the Cardinals were Dave Vendur (5-for-5, two runs, two RBI), Chris Gagliano (3-for-4, triple, two runs, four RBI), Nick Brady (two doubles, three runs, two RBI), Bill Gracey (two singles, three runs, RBI), Dean Smith (two singles, run) and Robert Smith (home run, four runs, two RBI).

Also contributing were Terry Finley and Gil Vogler (one single, one run scored and one RBI each), Art Edwards (single, two RBI), Joe Steffens and Cappy Capozzola (one single and one run scored each) and Mike Markham (run).

Tech, followed by grades of 90 percent against Georgia Tech and Eastern Illinois, and 88 percent against Florida and Georgia.

Moore led the team in tackles for loss this year with 12 and is the school's record holder in that category with 36. He led the team in quarterback pressures with 29.

He was fifth on the team in total tackles with 52, including six against Purdue and six, including two behind the line of scrimmage, against Florida.

He also intercepted two passes in 1999, including one against Football News Independent Player of the Year Tim Rattay from Louisiana Tech.

just once the entire first half.

The Lions aided the Trojans' cause by turning the ball over three times, twice on interceptions, in the first half.

Oviedo did to the Lincoln backups in the second half what the Trojan starters had done to the Lions in the first, forcing four turnovers (three fumbles and a pass interception). Two of the turnovers led directly to the Lions' touchdowns.

The first came with 3:19 remaining in the third quarter, when Justin DeWitt recovered a Trojan fumble and returned the ball 14 yards for a touchdown. Bobby Raulerson passed to Jason Casteel for the extra point.

About three minutes later, Kenny Starling intercepted a pass for Oviedo and returned it to the Lincoln 21-yard line. Three plays later, Clarence Walker rushed in from four yards out for the touchdown.

Alvin Hudson led the Lions with 75 yards rushing on 12 carries. Brian Lorenzetti added 14 on three rushes. Starling completed 10 of 31 passes for 40 yards. Steve Aaby had three catches for 16 yards.

Besides Gilliam's effort, the Trojans also benefited from a 160-yard effort by Egger, 99 yards of it coming in the second half as Lincoln ran out the clock without running up the score.

David Rogers overtook him with three laps to go and held on for the win.

Rogers admitted he didn't have the fastest car tonight, but he stayed within striking distance of the lead pack throughout the night and made his move when the time counted.

In other races last Saturday: Limited Late Models - David Logan rang up his third straight feature win in Limited Late Models. Jeremy Fitch was there at the end to make it close, but contact with Logan in turn 1 snuffed his chances. Joe Strehle, Jr., Mark Vandevender, and Dustin Chambers were positions 3 through 5.

Modifieds - Robert Ham made it look easy in the Modified feature, leading all 15 laps and won going away. The best race was for third between Tank Tucker and Jerry Symons with Tucker coming out ahead by half a car.

Sportman - Ron Lufey started on the pole and led most of the laps in the Sportsman feature.

Robert Andrechek needed to work a bit from his sixth starting spot, but finally overhauled Lufey on lap 10 and never looked back. Doug Samion finished second. Bill Love third, Lufey fourth, and Don Bouslog was fifth.

Mini-Stocks - A strong field of Mini Stocks took the green in anticipation of the Thrifty Nickel 50 lap race that will be held on December 11.

Bob Doxie took the lead from pole-sitter Martin Pierce and threatened to turn the race into a foregone conclusion. When this many Minis get together, it always means a heavy workout for the flagman as cautions were the rule.

Doxie maintained his lead throughout until traffic became a factor. Steve Griffin made a bold, yet tactical, move coming out of turn 4 to catch Doxie napping in traffic.

Doxie attempted to rally but Griffin was not to be denied this night in capturing his first feature win.

Teammate Jimmy Ware was third, followed by Jared Allison and Pierce.

Super Stock - Super Stocks were in short supply as a result of a hard-fought 50 lap race on their behalf Friday night at Speed World. Rich Clouser's car had new sheetmetal but an old result as he had 'em all covered in leading green to checkers.

Strictly Stock - Good battle for the lead in the 10-lap strictly stock race. Tracy Jackson won a tough one over Kerry Payne. Nitram Kram came home third, followed by Jacob Luke in Martin Pierce's old Ford.

Classic Auto Racing Series - The Classic Auto Racing Series rode into Samsula and put on a strong show with 27 cars on hand for the 25-lapper.

These cars are full-size replicas of 30's coupes and sedans with 308 motors.

When the dust settled Bill Yates bested the field as he did the previous night at Speed World. Bill Brown, Sr. was runnerup, with Rodney Eary, Danny Shearer, and Bart Baxter in tow.

ORLANDO SPEEDWORLD BITHLO - It was Crash-A-Rama night at Orlando Speedworld Friday night and a full house of fans didn't leave disappointed as the track reassembled a trailer park after a tomato when all the events were completed.

There were two 50-lap racing contests on lap as well and both provided great competition.

Four drivers headed the classic Auto racing series National Championship race before local driver Ed Yates put his Lakeshore Tree Farm Machine into victory lane.

Maryland's Garn Godwin started from the pole and took off to an early lead as several minor caution flags dotted the early going. Robby Sands out of Knoxville, Tenn. was on the charge as he took the point while Godwin began to drop back with an ill-handling car.

The most serious accident happened on lap 15 when Dan Hammerbeck tangled with the lapped car of Steve Harrison and pounded the backstretch wall, eventually coming to rest in the pit entrance.

Sands continued to show the way although his car was starting to smoke. A lap 32 caution proved Sands' downfall as a transmission seal popped and he was black flagged.

Defending National Champion Russ Myers of High Point, N.C. inherited the lead but his car developed a bad push while Ed Yates' car was handling perfectly and he drove underneath Myers to take the lead on lap 33. Danny Shearer and Dave "Fudd" Nunes followed suit but had nothing for Yates who pulled away to an easy win.

Nunes passed Shearer on the last lap to get second as the top three spots went to Florida Drivers!

Myers was fourth with Ohioan hosh Freeman fifth. Freeman cut a big chunk out of Bill Brown Jr's national points lead as Brown needed to replace a transmission and didn't qualify. Brown ran third in the conal but had numerous problems in the feature eventually winding up 12th on the lap.

Rounding out the top 10 finishers were Florida Region Point leader Rodney Eary, Ricky Wood, Frank Conrad, Garn Godwin and Eddie Thornton.

The 50 Lapper "Super Stock" was a great race long battle between fast qualifier Jim Winterstein, Carl Peters and Duane Freed as they swapped the lead among themselves several times while Rich Clouser put on a show for the huge crowd coming from deep in the field to race with the leaders before dropping out with mechanical problems.

The race lived up to the Crash-a-Rama billing as many wrecks slowed the action with Freed being caught up in a late race altercation that eventually sent his Monte Carlo to the sidelines.

When the dust cleared Winterstein had his Olds in Victory Lane with Peters close behind. David Gould was third in front of Tim Ewing and Mike Hendrix as less than half of the 27 starters made it to the checker.

The school bus figure 8 win went to Mark Britton, but most of the action was behind him!

Chester Sutorus' in the "Erb #32 Bus" caught on fire after he slammed into the side of Billy Morton's bus, at the same time Wes Railing turned his bus on it's side!

As the race finished, Butch Pierce and Chuck "Junkyard Dog" Rush tangled and the "dog" almost did a full rollover.

Nobody was hurt, Chuck emerged from the buses window, climbed on top of the bus and waved...the Fans went wild!

Ben Craft took second. The Camper Trailer Race had a questionable finish as Chuck "Junkyard Dog" Rush got the win in this wild and wooly race.

Rush had lapped the field twice but got into some late trouble. He managed to get his car and what was left of his trailer going to just edge out "Mad Max" out of North Carolina!

There were 31 Demolition Derby cars taking the green and finishing the evening of fun with a bang!

With that many cars the Demo lasted a half hour...that was a half hour of crashing and smashing and when it was over Eddie Hall took the checker being the last car running with second going to Moe Krauer the Fan Favorite of the night!!!

Racing is held every Friday night in the Late Model, Modified, Sportsman, Mini-Stock and Bomber classes.

Mike Kirby and his employees in the Sanford Recreation Department make sure city residents always have something to do

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Contrary to what some may believe, the city's recreation department is not just for youngsters. It is designed to serve citizens of all ages, from the small fry to those who have three digits in their age.

For the adults, one of the most prominent activities is the annual Golden Age Games, a week of events for persons age 50 and above, including competitive sports as well as a showing of skills and talent.

The Sanford Recreation and Parks Department is headed by Mike Kirby, who has served in that capacity for 17 1/2 years. Supporting him is a staff of 44, spread out into four divisions: parks, recreation, grounds maintenance and civic center.

In an earlier statement to the city supporting a budget request, Kirby wrote, "The Department of Recreation and Parks is responsible to the citizens of Sanford for the enhancement of the quality of life in the city through designing, developing, maintaining and efficiently operating parks and recreation facilities. The department is also responsible for the provision of a variety of quality recreation programs for the citizens to enjoy during their leisure."

The overall department this fiscal year, has a total operating budget of $3.4 million.

The most recent recreation event is the Soap Box Derby Rally on Dec. 4 involving youth as well as adults. Other prominent events include the annual Soap Box Derby competition in preparation for the national races in Akron, Ohio, baseball, softball, football and other sports activities. Of sports, Kirby is extremely proud of the annual Recreation Director Mike Kirby in his office at Sanford City Hall. Walls are decorated with photos of local sports stars and special events.

ASA World Slow Pitch Softball Tournament in September of each year. The ASA is the largest sanctioning body in the world for softball.

Kirby explained that there are a number of responsibilities his department has which few citizens may realize.

"Pest control for example," he said. "Also the department would handle clean-up responses in emergency weather conditions, cemetery management, landscaping and shrub plantings."

The Sanford Museum also falls under the department's responsibility.

As he does every year, Kirby and his various department heads compile a listing of projects and programs for the immediate future. For fiscal 1999/2000 he lists the swimming pool, a painting program ceramics, soccer, adult flag football, and the ever-continuing stadium renovations.

From A to Z, (Aerobics to Zinn Beck stadium bookings) the Sanford Recreation and Parks Department is involved with the city's citizens and visitors. Kirby says his position and his departments are the best.

"It couldn't be better," he said.

U.S.S. Arizona survivor recalls sneak attack at Pearl Harbor

Sanford resident Clinton H. Westbrook, 80, is a U.S.S. Arizona survivor from the Japanese air attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Westbrook was a 22-year-old seaman second class at the time. The Japanese killed 1,117 on the battleship. Westbrook was one of 326 survivors. He said less than 100 are still alive. Westbrook took part in 23 War War II campaigns including Guadalcanal and Wake Island. He was awarded the Purple Heart. Days before the 58th — and last of the century — anniversary of the attack at Pearl, Russ White of the Herald visited Clinton Westbrook at his residence. Mr. Westbrook spoke about the attack itself and what has happened in the years after it.

Q. Where were you when the attack began?

A. The attack at Pearl Harbor began at 8:05 a.m. on a Sunday morning. I was the bow hook of a boat crew that was called out at 6 a.m. I wasn't pleased about that because I was supposed to begin liberty at 9 a.m. We were working aboard a 50-foot motor launch and were returning to the Arizona. We were 40 or 50 yards away when the raid began. At first we thought it was another Army Air Corps drill - a surprise raid that helped prepare us for the real thing if it ever came. Then, we saw a red circle on a plane banking over us. We didn't have time to be scared. The adrenaline kicked in immediately. The Arizona took two bombs and went down. We were thrown all over the place - four of us on the motor launch. We spent what seemed like forever rescuing people - until the Japanese shot so many holes through the boat that it sank.

Q. How did the Japanese attack?

A. They came at us in dive bombers, high level bombers and torpedo bombers. They had devised a definite type of attack to sink our heavy ships. Five planes came in first and were followed by a second echelon of five more planes. The Arizona was hit with a bomb from one in the first wave and another from a bomb in the second wave. That was within a couple minutes. Two big hits and the battleship went down - 1102 sailors were buried with the ship, 1177 from our ship died from the attack. There were 36 sets of brothers on our ship - 75 brothers total, 61 dying in the attack. My closest pals all died.

Q. How badly were you injured?

A. I was very fortunate. I was hit around the right eye and on the right shoulder. I kept going. I was assigned duty on a destroyer before the Navy realized what had happened to my eye. I never lost sight in it. To this day, the right eye is better than my left. I was there at the start of the War and there at the end, serving on a destroyer escort - the U.S.S. Taylor - that accompanied the U.S.S. Missouri into Tokyo Bay. I eventually served 22 years of active duty and retired as a Radar Chief in August 1967.

Q. You return to reunions by the survivors of the Arizona almost every year don't you?

A. Yes, whenever I can. I won't be making it this year. Every fifth year we go to Hawaii. We're hoping to be there in 2001, for the 60th reunion. In other years, we reunite in Tucson at the University of Arizona. They have a U.S.S. Arizona museum there. As the years go by, not many of the survivors can make it to the reunion. On our last Hawaii reunion, there were seven of us from the U.S.S. Arizona Reunion Association.

Q. Have you been to Japan since the war?

A. Two years ago, the Japanese Second World War Aviators invited us to Japan. They especially asked for any U.S.S. Arizona survivors to visit. I wasn't sure if I wanted to go but I did and it was a great friendship tour. We went to four cities and attended five receptions. We were given a royal red carpet treatment. Some World War II vets hate the Japanese to this day. Especially the Japanese Army, who slaughtered our troops. But other veterans have mellowed - if only slightly. I was able to talk to the only Japanese aviator still alive of 30 who had attacked my ship at Pearl Harbor. He told me he had survived a crash at Okinawa and had been hurt also during the Battle of Midway. He said only recently he felt as though when he died he could 'go up again.' That's how he said it, 'go up again,' pointing toward heaven. I'll not forget him.

Q. Are you asked to talk about the Arizona and about the attack nowadays?

A. Kay Bowhart, a teacher at Heathrow Elementary School, noticed my Purple Heart license and my U.S.S. Arizona Survivor sticker on my car one day. She chased me across a parking lot and asked if I would talk to her fourth-grade students. I was delighted to be asked. Most children aren't taught what happened on this Day of Infamy. The next year I talked to another class and the next to all the students at the school. The other teachers wanted in on the observances. This year, all the Seminole County schools took part in Veterans Days observances. I'm pleased we will not be forgotten. It is disheartening that so few people take the time to remember what happened not only at Pearl Harbor but the sacrifices that our service men and the families made in the 1940s.

Wedding invitation lottery is not winning any fans

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Happy to Lose the Lottery" is just another sign of the decline of manners in our society. Co-workers were notified by e-mail that their names had been "entered in a lottery," the winners of which would receive invitations to attend a "small but poignant wedding."

Dear Abby

The writer had not been a winner, but was advised to send a gift anyway.

You asked readers if they cared to comment. I certainly do. My reply:

DEAR ELMER AND GLADYS: Like your wedding, my bank account is also a "small but poignant affair," and due to the "physical nature" of cash-flow difficulties, I cannot send gifts to all my friends and relatives.

Per your suggestion, I have "held a lottery with your name included, but alas, you were not on the winners list." When my gift does not arrive, you will know you've invented a "most equitable" solution for any "disappointment problem." I "thank you in absentia."

MARTY IN SEATTLE

DEAR MARTY: You are a wit, and I'm sure your gusted response will bring a smile to many faces. That letter generated a flood of mail from longtime readers, many of whom had not been moved to pick up a pen and write to me before. Read on for a sample; I only wish I could print more of them:

DEAR ABBY: When I read the "invitation" from Elmer and Gladys, my jaw dropped. Do you think they actually expect a gift and a continuing friendship with those people? I don't think so!

Perhaps it's punishment enough that their invitation would appear in your column. However, I would send them a gift, all right — a book on etiquette. They need to learn a thing or two.

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA

DEAR ABBY: To ask for gifts from people who weren't even invited to the wedding is the most tasteless thing I've ever heard. It's a blatant demand for gifts. I hope one of the gifts they receive is an attitude adjustment!

KAREN IN BARTOW, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if this follows the Golden Rule, but it does answer the question, "What are friends for?" This is my response to Elmer and Gladys:

DEAR FRIENDS: Sorry to learn we didn't win the lottery to attend your wedding. In order to celebrate your good fortune, we decided to take the sum of nearly $500 we had saved for your wedding gift and do the following:

We spent the money at a luxurious hotel where we had a three-course dinner and offered a number of toasts in your honor with our favorite champagne in celebration of your future happiness. When you return home, we'd be glad to tell you of all the kind thoughts we had of you in absentia. If you'll take us out to dinner, we can discuss our good fortune. Best wishes to you both.

HERMAN IN CYPRESS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: How's this for a response, Abby? "Please don't worry about having to send us a thank-you card for our gift. Since our PRESENCE at your wedding was not required, our PRESENTS will not be forthcoming. Better luck next time!"

MRS. B. IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: The invitation from Elmer and Gladys was hilarious, and personally I wouldn't have responded at all. I have known stranger announcements.

My parents received a wedding announcement from a couple that included a note on a prescription pad from the doctor's office that said, "I certify that this girl was a virgin."

My thought on that was, "At one time, we ALL were virgins."

Ballingall, Hahnel exchange vows

Mr. and Mrs. Frank John Hahnel III

Kelly Suzanne Ballingall became the bride of Frank John Hahnel III on Aug. 14, 1999 at All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford. The Rev. Father Trout was the officiating clergyman for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of David and Audrey Ogden of Sanford and the bridegroom's parents are Frank and Francis Hahnel of Winter Park.

The bride chose for her vows an elegant gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette adorned with silk roses at the shoulder and back. Her matron of honor was her sister, Janet Westhead of Raleigh, N.C., and maid of honor was a longtime school friend, Villaphone Rattanavong. Bridesmaids were Emily Hahnel, sister of the bridegroom, and Angela Westhead. The bride's youngest niece, Jennifer Westhead of Raleigh, N.C., was the flower girl. Each attendant carried a mixed summer bouquet of coral gerbera daisies and cream and coral roses to complement their silk sage green floor-length dresses.

The bridegroom was attended by his friend, Vance Carper, and brother-in-law Michael Westhead.

The bride's longtime friend, Lisa Dunn of Sanford, gave a reading from Corinthians, "The Greatest of These is Love," and her University of Florida classmate, Jenny Bayatzadeh of Miami, read from Song of Songs, "Love is Strong as Death." The bride's sister-in-law, Linda Ogden-Hagen, professor of music at North Central College, Chicago, performed solos of "The Lord's Prayer," "Ave Maria," "In This Very House," and "On Eagle's Wings."

Audrey Wilkinson, the bride's grandmother, and her Uncle Ted Rowe and family traveled from Windsor Ontario, Canada to attend the wedding. Other guests included the bridegroom's uncle Dave Curtin and family of Long Island, N.Y., and friends from Tampa, Jacksonville and Gainesville.

A reception followed at Gina's on the Water in Altamonte Springs where guests were served champagne and hors d'oeuvres followed by a special luncheon menu. The Bernie Lee Trio provided jazz music for the guests' pleasure.

After a honeymoon to the Florida Keys, the newlyweds began making plans for their new life together in Atlanta, Ga.

Frieda celebrates 90th birthday

Plus, you'll be just wild about the ballet guild's 'Harry'

Frieda Tyre took on the airs of "Queen for a Day" when she celebrated her 90th birthday in royal splendor at an open house in fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church on Nov. 27. The charming honoree greeted nearly 100 guests from a rocking chair due to a recent fall when she fractured her back.

Doris Dietrich

But a bad back didn't slow the invincible Frieda down. She had a ball.

Several choir members sang to Frieda and delighted the guests with their version of "Hello,

Another pleasant surprise came when a family relative, Greg Harris, age 7, delighted the entourage with violin selections, straight from the heart without one sheet of music. The talented virtuoso has been playing the violin since he was 3 and one-half years old.

Born in Akron, Ohio Nov. 27, 1909, Frieda moved to Florida in 1926 and Welsh Tyre brought her to Sanford from Melrose in 1936 where she has given of herself to the Sanford community for 53 years. Most of her life was spent raising her two children and participating in school and church activities. She was president of the PTA, as well as volunteering in other school activities, and taught Sunday school at the First United Methodist Church, where she also sang in the choir for more than 50 years.

Around Sanford, Frieda was well known for her culinary expertise and always brought delicious covered dishes to See Doris, Page 4C

Smiths treasure togetherness for 60 happy years

"Togetherness" has been the main factor in keeping the love lights glowing for Milton E. and Vida Smith during their 60-year marriage.

Vida is quick to admit, "We're good friends to each other, and we enjoy each other's company and just being together. We have had a wonderful marriage and have been so happy."

The Smiths recall their 50th golden gala a decade ago when about 300 friends and relatives called at the Central Baptist Church in Sanford to wish them well. To celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary, the couple returned to their roots at Waycross, Ga. The site of the lovely reception on Sept. 11, from 3 to 5 p.m. was Adolph's Restaurant, a colonial-style facility "that was just gorgeous," according to Vida. Milton's birthday was the day before, so there was plenty to celebrate.

Hosted by their children and spouses, Sue and Terry Christensen of Sanford, and the Rev. Freddie Smith and Vera of Waycross, the event attracted nearly 300 guests. Vida said that since they have been away from Waycross for more than 40 years, they were apprehensive that the turnout would be slim. She said they stood in the receiving line for two hours hugging and kissing the guests, some whom they had not seen for 40 years. What a joyous reunion it was.

Assisting the hosts were the honored guests' seven grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and other family members coming from as far north as Virginia Beach and south from Naples. It was a nostalgic to renew friendships and reminisce about the good old days.

The festivities continued on into the next day, Sunday, when the Smiths were honored at the church where their son Freddie pastors. Once again, Vida and Milton were in the limelight surrounded by so many people they love.

The Smiths were married

Sept. 10, 1939 in Waycross where they lived until 1954, when Milton was transferred to Ocala with the Atlantic Coastline Railroad. They lived at Ocala for four and one-half years until he was promoted to trainmaster and transferred to Sanford in 1958. He retired in 1979 after working for the railroad for 37 years.

Milton was elected a Sanford Commissioner in 1980 and served two terms. He was also employed by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

Today, he is an avid golfer and enjoys traveling and being near his family.

Vida is past president of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc., past District VII director of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs and past president of the Ivora Garden Club. Both are active in Central Baptist Church.

The Smiths have a good time and are apt to take off to the mountains one week and the beach the next. They are in excellent health and thrive on their devout Christian beliefs.

And they are deeply in love.

church events that had others seeking the specialty recipe. But her favorite pastime has always been travel. Frieda has traveled on numerous tours to exotic and faraway places.

Hosts for the open house were Frieda's two children and their spouses, Shirley and John Maddox of Orlando, and Bill and Nancy Tyre of Atlanta. She has five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

For the occasion, Frieda chose a black and gold suit complemented with a white carnation corsage tinged in gold.

Guests were seated at tables, overlaid with mauve-colored cloths, and centered with runners of fern and bougainvillea. The main refreshment table held the punch bowl and a variety of catered party foods including an assortment of tea sandwiches, deviled eggs, mini puffs stuffed with chicken salad, chicken wings, meatballs, assorted cookies and bars, Mexican dip (made by daughter Shirley) and a vegetable tray (made by granddaughter Tari O'Toole).

A nearby round table, covered in lavender with matching napkins, held the beautifully embossed three-tiered birthday cake. Grecian-style columns separated the tiers with mauve, purple and yellow flowers accenting each layer. Assisting with the serving and pouring were: Linda Robb, Lucy Fitzgerald, Edith Myers and Nancy Terwilliger.

A special guest was Ruth Reed, 99, Frieda's sister from Melrose, who was accompanied by her son, Gilbert Reed, and Frieda's sister-in-law, Lorene Minder, wife of Frieda's late brother, John Minder. Also attending were: Lois Tyre, Frieda's sister-in-law and her daughter, Denise Barnett, Gainesville, and Pat and George Harris, grandparents of the violinist, also of Gainesville.

Join 'Harry's Happy Holiday Hits'

Patrons of Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole will be just wild about "Harry's Happy Holiday Hits," when the original extravaganza debuts Dec. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Winter Springs Performing Arts Theatre at Winter Springs High School.

Designed as a delightful family happening, the performance is more than a dazzling dance review, it's an inviting holiday party — and you're invited. There will be seven Santas, elves, snow scenes, wooden soldiers and excerpts from "The Nutcracker" to include the "Sugar Plum Fairy."

The Guild has been in rehearsal for the past four months for what director Valerie Weld calls the "most spirited and special holiday production in 32 years with a cast of 45 performers." "Harry's Holiday Hits" includes a Hanukkah celebration, as well as a "lovely Spanish surprise" Valerie said. Dancers from "A Chorus Line" dance their way into a Christmas theme and wait until you see tap dancers on crutches.

Holiday spirits will soar when Harry arrives on the scene with his rhymes and rhythms. Every child in the audience can count on a gift, as well as candy. Following the show, lots of goodies will be served at the party for all patrons attending the 1 hour and 20 minute performance.

BGS directors Miriam Rye Doktor and Valerie Rye Weld have surpassed last year's presentation with changes and additions. Valerie said, "The production features more beautiful choreography, lilting music, impressive dancing and glamorous costumes." Longtime patrons will agree that the BGS performances are more Broadway than ballet.

The non-profit dance company is supported by the community. Tickets are on sale at the door for $8 or may be purchased in advance by calling 407-323-1900.

Kay Ham walks among angels

We may not know what the hierarchy of real angels is, but for the Angel Collector's Club of America, it's a little like the government. There's a President, a Vice President, a Treasurer, etc... Recently, Lake Mary Elementary's own Kay Ham was elected Vice President of the Club.

Kay Ham is the FTE (Full Time Equivalency) Clerk at Lake Mary Elementary. She has worked at the school for 3 years. She's been with the county for over 9 years. Kay says she loves working at Lake Mary Elementary. The school is like a family to her now.

The Angel Collector's Club of America is an international organization with more than 900 members all over the world. It has been in existence for 23 years. Kay has been a member since 1989. Before joining the club, Kay had a what she says was a small collection of about two hundred. Now she has about two thousand. That two thousand includes 965 angel ornaments (none are the same). Each year, Kay has two Christmas trees, a regular one and an angel one.

Kay also has a miniature wooden Christmas tree with German wooden angels on it that stays up all year round. In addition to her regular collection, Kay has 40 albums full of angel stickers, napkins, gift tags, anything and everything paper that has an angel on it.

Kay Ham and one of her many angel items.

Kay keeps about 20 angels at work which she changes out occasionally. She got into angel collecting before the recent craze. It was more fun hunting for angels five years ago. Now the hunt is more of a challenge. It's hard to find something different or unique with all of the items out there now.

Kay has done well in her collecting. She has almost anything you can imagine with an angel on it. She has over 120 angel pins. She also has angel pens and pencils, angel earrings and other types of jewelry, clothing, shoes, books, lamps, rugs, curtains, placemats and more.

Joining the Angel Collector's Club expanded, not only Kay's angel collection, but her circle of friends. With the club, she has made friends she never would have met without the club. And she's been places she never would have been. In September, Kay went to the club's convention in Niagara Falls, New York. There were over 200 fellow collectors at the convention. Mary Matthews, one of the clubs founders, is always coming up with great activities that everyone can participate in. Currently, Kay is looking into getting a website going for the club. If you're interested in joining the Angel Collector's Club, you can just call Kay at 407-331-0477. As Vice President, she's in charge of membership.
