BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

PICTURE OF PEACE.—The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid.

PRAYER.—O Thou Prince of Peace, may Thy dominion soon extend o'er all the earth, and may we be able to contribute largely to hastening this day.

No, business hasn't been bad; it's been the people who make business that have been bad.

Leap Year doesn't seem to be cutting much ice in Sanford; we have about as many bachelors now as when we started out.

The Hon. Jim Carson wants it distinctly understood that he isn't a Catts-paw for any candidate.

Albert Fall, on his death bed, is making a desperate effort to "come clean" with the government, but he is still trying to shield his friend Sinclair, who is not so sick.

What they are asking around Cincinnati: when is an insane man not insane? When can convince the jury that he is crazy and the lunacy commission that he is mentally sound.

We wonder if Bob Pearman is going to reduce our state taxes, if he is elected to the legislature, in the same manner in which he reduced our Chamber of Commerce indebtedness.

Thirty thousand Yale alumni have just finished raising a twenty million endowment fund.

What struck us as the most unusual charge that Carlton made was that contracts had been let to highest bidders who had been turned down in other cases where they were the low bidders.

Folks have you noticed the representative people who are backing Doyle Carlton in every section of the state?—Sanford Times, Aw-shucks! We've noticed representative type people supporting all of the candidates except Catts.

Senator Heflin, in wiring condolences to the widow of Senator Willis, suggests that there may have been foul play, that she should have a competent chemist examine the contents of his stomach.

"Bob Holly dropped into the office yesterday morning and said that the cyclone in Sorrento Saturday was just little Bob going over to take charge of the East Lake Region, Sanford Herald.

The News force gratefully acknowledges a rare treat in the form of a crate of fresh Sanford celery, presented to us yesterday afternoon by our old friend R. J. (Bob) Holly, of Sanford.

Doyle Carlton was pushed into the race for Governor by his Tampa political enemies to keep him quiet on local politics? At least that's what Tampa Life intimates, and we have heard it before.

If the Jacksonville Journal is able to convince the voters of Florida that the charges made by Hon. Doyle Carlton against Hon. Foss Hatway chairman of the State Road Department, is composed of mere pernicious mud then actual, gospel truth, it will be doing a real service and should be, and no doubt will be richly rewarded.

Underwood On Free Government

Oscar Underwood of Alabama is not always right, but right or wrong, he is always interesting. In the Senate he has fought for his native state for a good many years and has made his name familiar to everyone.

Writing recently in the Forum magazine, Senator Underwood, frequently vexed during the course of his long political career by the necessity for compromise, says he has been "constantly aware of the conflict between the Congress and the fundamental principles of free government."

And in his Forum article he does just that—explicitly, vigorously,—more in sorrow than in anger but without the least mincing of words.

"The men who organized our Republic believed in individualism," he writes. "They cleared the way through a trackless forest and laid the foundation for the building of the greatest industrial empire the world has ever known; but they inaugurated their national life with the declaration that the less the government of the United States meddled in their affairs, the better off they would be."

Today, he says, we have got so far away from that ideal that we are approaching a positive paternalism. The government regulates the prices of some businesses—like the railroads. It sets up a Trade Commission to control business.

And, he says, "the encroachments of the Federal government on the rights of the state governments has made this unhappy condition in our country possible by attempting to set up moral, economic, and educational standards that are nation-wide in their influence and consequences."

Why Is A Newspaper?

We have heard people say, even people who read, "Why is a newspaper?" One dear old lady says she learns the news of the world over her radio, she prepares her shopping list from circulars left on her door step, and when she loses anything she posts a notice on the bulletin board in the post-office.

We would be wholly at a loss to try to answer her question ourselves, but we find in Time, a splendid weekly magazine, an answer by Dr. T. Madison Lincoln Bolton, professor of psychology at Temple University, Philadelphia, who says,

"Suspense—the alternation between hope and depression—is, after all, something that our natures demand. And here is where the newspaper comes into our routine lives as a saving grace, snatching us from this degraded, lingering death by boredom."

"Shooting the clowns, riding on the scenic railway and going to the dais-dresser in the amusement park," he continues, "supply the necessary proof to children. The modern newspaper performs this function for the adult of higher mental level."

"This is, we believe, conclusive proof that there is some place in the universe for them."

"I DON'T SUPPOSE you keep anything so civilized as dog biscuit in this one horse, run-down, lay-down, do you?" the tourist snarled. "Oh, yes, stranger," the village merchant responded. "Quite a few folks like you come through from the city, and we wish to have everything called for. Have 'em in a bag or can 'em here?"

CARLTON'S ADDRESS

The address of Doyle Carlton in the high school auditorium Monday night to a five hundred people, just a Doyle Carlton Saturday night in the park. He addressed the audience at each of these public engagements. Carl made up largely of the supporters of each candidate, hence few if any, new converts were made to their cause.

When they speak through the newspaper they reach that great neutral crowd which they must add to their friends if they hope to win. The people of the great state of Florida have no more important business for the next 60 days than that of studying candidates to determine for themselves the worth and relative merits of the several candidates. No other meeting could be of paramount importance to one that involves good and honest government. For governor there are not four candidates who have any show of election. It has been generally been conceded up to this time that Hatway was in the lead. Catts was generally conceded second place by both Hatway and Carlton. But Carson is knocking the props completely out from under Catts and his candidacy will suffer by the Carson sledgehammer blows.

How his candidacy will affect Hatway and Carlton is yet problematic. The majority of the people have not expressed their preference, the rank of voters committed to no candidate is by far the largest crowd. When that vote will go, will be determined during the next two months.

THE PEOPLE DEMAND ACTION

The people of this section were led to believe that the contract for the rock and surfacing of State Road number two from Groveland to the Polk County Line would be let in March. This is the 2nd of April and it is not yet and now the people of this section demand to know why.

BASEBALL BUSINESS

Organized baseball is not a sport. It is an amusement, as much so as the theatre. The players of the diamond are actors performing for fabulously large salaries to entertain the throngs who pay stiff admission prices to the parks.

There are fortunes invested in organized baseball, and fortunes are being made out of the business. And a business, it truly is. To say that it is one of the leading American industries is not exaggerating.

But baseball is the one business that is able to be highly successful without paying out any of its gross receipts for advertising. The merchant princes invest from three to four per cent of their incomes in advertising, and they say frankly that it pays them in rich dividends.

Then how does the baseball business survive without publicity? The newspapers donate their space, columns upon columns, pages upon pages, to the upkeep of the highly profitable baseball industry.

DEVELOPING THE ST. JOHNS

This particular section of Florida is especially interested in the development of the St. Johns river, one of the state's largest inland waterways. It channel deepened, a canal constructed, from Sanford to afford another outlet to the Atlantic.

It is hardly worth while to lock the stable door after the horse is gone. For this reason, the most expedient time to call for a show of hands prior to a national election is then possible to favor candidates for United States senator and representative in Congress from the fourth district to define their attitude, to say exactly what they will do if elected and what they will not do.

Senator Park Trammell and Representative Joe Sears, incumbents, will likely speak here before the campaign closes. Both should be given every opportunity for a declaration of intent. They can say that they favor or oppose this or that. They can also, should they care to be candid, tell what they have done in the past to secure appropriations for this work, if any.

The voting public should be on their feet to offer only good hand-shakes, resounding orators and are not taken to let this contract.

The people of this section demand that the contract for the finishing of this highway be let and at once. They want action NOW, and they are not asking for anything but what they are entitled to.

This is not a matter of politics nor is it an attack on Mr. Hatway. This is a matter of business, regardless of who constitutes the personnel of the board. It is why Lake county has a right to expect.

Chief Logan Acts

Yesterday's Tribune printed the names and street numbers of the places where bolts was "thrown."

These facts were published because Chief of Police Logan had publicly asked for specific information upon which he could act.

As this comment is written a contemporary breaks its conspicuous silence upon bolts news to announce that the chief has hastened to act upon the astounding information furnished exclusively in our columns yesterday.

Warrants have been issued and served by the chief himself. The "big three" of bolts have given bond for their personal appearance to court today.

It required no remarkable reportorial detective work to find the bolts headquarters. We asked the young man who visited Post-how he found it. Said he: "Oh, I had a general idea where it was from gossip I've heard at police headquarters. You can ask anyone on the streets in the neighborhood and he'll tell you. It's known as well as the Postoffice."

Three men from a newspaper office in an hour secured the information the chief sought. One hundred and seventy-five police officers, and a dozen or more deputy sheriffs couldn't secure it. Comment is superfluous.

Now the Chief has summoned our reporters to appear at his trials as witnesses. We're curious about these trials. Will the city's police and prosecuting officials "pass the buck" to the Tribune reporters, who understand, as the Chief's public request, to furnish him information his officers could have secured for the asking? Or, with the vigor he showed yesterday, will he push these prosecutions through to successful conclusions?

When he appointed the Chief, Mayor McKay told him and his officers how he expected them to enforce the law. He told them to keep Tampa clean and that's their job. We took a hand in it only because the Chief's men couldn't find the well known cafes half the town knew about.

If the Chief, having hailed the offenders into court, leaves the prosecution to a newspaper, he won't be kidding anybody but himself. But we have the idea, some way or other, that the Chief's going to prove he means business.

Mrs. Puleston Gives Lovely Bridge Party

An interesting social affair Saturday was the bridge party given by Mrs. Samule Puleston, when she entertained the members of the Saturday afternoon bridge club and an extra table of players at her home in Rose Court.
 The rooms where the card tables had been spread for play resembled a lovely Spring garden, with baskets and bowls of all kinds of cut flowers and ferns, including roses, lilies and snap dragons, in which the color motif of pink and lavender was carried out.
 The games of progressive bridge were most enjoyable. Scores for these were kept on dainty floral designed tallies in pink and lavender and when the games had been concluded, the prize, a box of Hourigan's dusting powder, was awarded Mrs. Frank I. Miller. The cut prize, city's powder, went to Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., Mrs. Lulu Cline of Jacksonville, Mrs. George Camden Conner of Oklawaha City, Okla., and Mrs. Alice Woodcock of Ireland were each presented dainty georgette handkerchiefs.
 After the prizes had been awarded and the tables cleared Mrs. Puleston served a tempting salad course with hot coffee.
 Those enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Puleston were Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. Lulu Cline, Mrs. Walter S. Coleman, Mrs. George Camden Conner, Mrs. Alice Woodcock, Mrs. James G. Shanon, Mrs. Thelma L. Thresham, Mrs. Sam and party of Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., Mrs. James A. P. Ryan and Mrs. Donald P. DeGomment.

The refreshment table was laid with a daintily embroidered cover and centered with the birthday cake, iced in pink and white, and surrounded by feathery sprays of asparagus ferns.

Evangelist Decries Birth Control Talk By Co-ed Students

DES MOINES, Iowa, Mar. 31.—(INS)—Aimee Semple McPherson, golden-haired evangelist from Los Angeles, thinks the co-eds of the University of Iowa are going a bit too far when they undertake to discuss from a public forum the question of birth control.
 The young ladies of the state university already have taken up the questions of getting, smoking, drinking and companionate marriage, birth control is the subject slated for the next open discussion.
 "I am a firm believer in the wholesomeness of the present generation, and I think the girls of today are better off with their greater knowledge of life's problems than were their mothers," Mrs. McPherson declared, "but I think they will be going too far if they take up the question of birth control."
 Mrs. McPherson, however, thinks the girls are doing a good thing when they take up the less intricate problems of marriage and companionship provided they do so for the sake of obtaining really helpful information.
 "Too many mothers fail to instruct their daughters properly and turn them out into the world without proper knowledge," she continued. "The girl who ventures forth into the cities thus unprotected and unprepared must learn through the often bitter way of experience or
