Missing boaters sought

Seminole County sheriff's deputies and officers from the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission are searching the waters of Lake Jesup and Lake Harney for a pair of boaters who failed to return home this morning.

According to the sheriff's office, 39-year-old Jay Leonhirth and 33-year-old Keith Oglesby, both of Orange County, set out on Lake Jesup in an airboat at about 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The two were to have spent the night "scouting gator locations" and had told their wives they would return by 5 this morning.

They did not return to the Black Hammock Fishing Camp near Oviedo at the appointed time so their wives reported them missing at about 7:45 a.m.

The two had a state permit to trap alligators beginning Sept. 1.

The Seminole County deputies and Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission officers are being assisted in their search by an Orange County sheriff's deputy who is the brother of one of the missing men.

Ignorance of the law will cost you

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Apparently many people are not aware of the Florida statute that requires vehicles to stop when a school bus comes to a halt and the driver extends the stop signs on its sides.

If they are aware, they are ignoring the law.

ng the law.
And Sanford Police officers are making it a point to remind them to stop. To drive the point home, they are accompanying the reminders with $117 tickets.

"We've had an awful lot of people violating this since school started in August." Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police said.

The bulk of the 30 to 40 violations in the last month have been on 25th Street and Princeton, he noted. Other locations on 25th Street have also seen a number of people ticketed for yiolating the law.

Whitmire said it appears that most people are simply unaware of the details of the law.

"They think that because it is a four lane road, they don't have to stop when the bus is on the other side," he said. "But there has to be a five foot median between the bus and your car, otherwise you have to stop."

Whitmire said that every year there seems to be a new location in the city where people choose to ignore the law or where there is mass ignorance of it.

"Last year It was out on First Street," he said. "This year, It's 25th Street."

Oviedo residents vote soon

OVIEDO - Tuesday is election

Although three city council seats were to be voted upon, one candidate, for Group I, Phillip Hampton, is unopposed, and will automatically be re-elected.

The mayor's race has two candidates. Miriam "Mimi" Bruce is running against John Hodgin. For Councilman Group II, Charles McLaughlin, Jr. faces George Viele.

A major bond referendum is also on Tuesday's ballot. Voters are being asked to approve or veto the issuance of an estimated $6.1 million bond. The money, if approved, will be used to install new wells and make improvements to the water treatment system.

City officials have observed that if this bond issue is approved, there would be no need for an increases in taxes and/or water rates.

According to an information statement issued by the city in connection with this referendum, "The estimate (86.1 million) is based on the city going up to five miles away for new wells and piping the water back to the treatment plant. The estimate also includes costs for purchasing property and installation of new equipment in the water plants."

Smugglers competent to stand trial

MIAMI - The much-delayed trial of two of South Florida's most infamous alleged drug smugglers will go on as scheduled In October after a federal judge ruled both were competent to stand trial.

Willie Falcon and Salvador Magluta "rationally as well as factually understand the proceedings against them." U.S. District Judge Federico Moreno said Wednesday.

Moreno said both men had adverse psychological reactions to their incarceration since 1991, much of it in solitary confinement, but that they appeared ready to go to trial Oct.

"I could see they were exchanging information with each other and with their lawyers," Moreno said. Falcon and Magluta alleged to have profited $2 billion on 75 tons of cocaine smuggled into the United States for Colombia's Medellin cartel. They have been jailed for nearly four years and were originally scheduled to go to trial in 1993.

Four potential witnesses have met with violent deaths in the meantime.

Both men's attorneys argued their clients are incompetent to stand trial because more than 1,000 days of solitary confinement have left them depressed and unable to focus enough to participate in their defense.

"We have watched them deteriorate," said Magluta's attorney Martin Weinberg. "They are not helping us. ... They have a constitutional right to be masters of their own defense."

DuPont gets delay in paying fine

COLUMBUS. GA .- A federal judge says withdrawing a deadline for DuPont to pay $115 million does not mean he expects the chemical giant to be successful in appealing sanctions in a case involving the fungicide Benlate.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott decided Wednesday to allow DuPont to exhaust its appeals before being forced to decide whether it will pay the multimillion-dollar penalty.

Elliott fined DuPont on Aug. 21 for withholding evidence in the 1993 lawsuit and gave the company until Sept. 5 to decide whether to reduce its penalties by $101 million by taking out full-page ads in the Wall Street Journal and the major newspapers in Georgia. Alabama and Michigan.

Elliott's ruling amounted to a stay of the sanctions. "But this is not to be interpreted as intimating that the court believes DuPont's appeal will be successful," the judge said. "It is entitled to a stay as a matter of right."

In the lawsuit, farmers from Georgia, Florida, Michigan and Hawaii sought $430 million in damages, contending Benlate contaminated with a herbicide killed their crops. They settled for $4.25 million while the jury deliberated.

The second case contended DuPont withheld evidence in the

By Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE - Kevin Moore is having name trouble.

The lifelong bachelor has been hounded for months by a woman who claims he is her ex-husband, owes her child support and owes her a share in his house.

But Anne Victoria Moore's ex-husband, Kevin Collin Moore, doesn't resemble the Kevin Moore who has no middle name.

The ex-husband is 34, 6-foot-5 and weighs abo it 230 pounds. The other Moore, 45, is 5-foot-11 and weighs 165. He has spent nearly $1,000 in legal fees trying to clear his name.

The police are on his side, state child-support workers are convinced the Hollywood woman is after the wrong man and a judge has ruled in his favor - but the Sunrise man is still fighting.

"It's really getting crazy. I'm being driven nuts through the courts by a woman who really knows how to use the legal system." he said.

The trouble began in December when he was notified of a subpoena opening his bank records to Ms. Moore. He hired an attorney to protect his

Ms. Moore was ordered to pay Moore's $996 legal bill, but she hasn't.

In January. Moore phoned Ms. Moore to say she was mistaken about him.

"I said, 'Well look, I'm not your ex-husband,' " he recalled. "She insisted that if I wasn't her ex-husband, I still owned her house and she was going to get half of it."

In June, state child-support enforcement workers informed Moore he was delinquent in payments for his two children. He presented his driver's license, birth certificate and Social Security card and was allowed to leave after a supervisor conceded he didn't match a picture of the ex-husband. Ms. Moore renewed her bank account access request this month with a motion insisting. "Kevin Moore of Sunrise IS Anne Moore's ex-husband despite his previous statement that he was not."

Moore went to Sunrise police, who confirmed he wasn't the ex-husband. They called Ms. Moore and offered to set up a face-to-face meeting, but phe refused.

Ms. Moore said her ex-husband listed Moore's Sunrise home as his property when the divorce became final last summer, and she is insisting on a share. Moore bought his house from his sister in 1986, and no other owners are listed on his deed.

Troubled boy rapes grandmother

By Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE - A judge ordered state officials to provide treatment in a secure facility for a mentally ill teenager accused of raping his grandmother.

Broward Circuit Judge Mark Speiser issued his order Wednesday. It came three weeks after he first told the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services to come up with a treatment plan for the 16-year-old boy. He has been under suicide watch at the Broward County Jail since his arrest June 11 on multiple counts of sexual battery and battery on an elderly person.

The Broward State Attorney's office says he is charged as an adult because of the violent nature of the attack on the woman, who has Alzheimer's disease. But his unusual status - a mentally ill juvenile charged as an adult with a violent crime makes it difficult to place in him hospitals or jails under state law, HRS officials said.

Agency officials are expected to produce a uniform treatment plan for such cases at an upcoming hearing.

On Wednesday, HRS officials said he should remain jailed. "The doctor (who examined the youth) feels the only treatment is to medicate him," said HRS attorney Doug Greenbaum. "There are therapists at the

Nelson wants to abolish insurer's affiliate

By ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A company set up to handle claims for the state-created "insurer of last resort" should be dissolved because of dubious business practices. Insurance Commissioner Bill Nelson said.

Records released Wednesday showed Shared Market Insurance Services Inc. in Sarasota spent $2.3 million on office furniture and equipment, including $426,000 on cherry desks, wingback chairs and other furnishings. $39,000 for moving expenses for one employee and nearly $11,000 on a Christmas party.

Nelson wants the residential Joint Underwriting Association, the insurer for more than 781,000 policyholders, to dismantle Shared Market Insurance, formed in December 1993 to handle claims for the JUA. He said he wants the action taken after hurricane season ends in November.

The insurance commissioner also plans to climinate a series of contracts that other firms have for handling JUA claims.

"We're aiming to eliminate these layers of middlemen who each take their slice of the pic," he said.

Lawmakers established the JUA after Hurricane Andrew for homeowners who couldn't find a conventional policy. Some insurers went bankrupt or stopped selling new policies in Florida after the 1992 storm caused $16 billion in insured losses.

A number of firms and their contracts with the JUA are under investigation by state and federal authorities for possible misappropriations of premium dollars Earlier this month, Nelson fired four Shared Market Insurance executives, citing mismanagement and excessive pay plans.

In the latest development Wednesday, Department of Insurance investigators uncovered dozens of examples of what Nelson called "unacceptable business practices."

Shared Market Services spent $327,000 to renovate a leased office suite at a downtown bank building in Sarasota, including an executive kitchen.

More than $96,000 was spent on moving expenses for seven employees, including $39,000 for former insurance department deputy commissioner John Kummer, who was hired as the company's president, and one of the ousted executives.

TAMPA - A federal Jury has found 14 members of the Outlaws Motorcycle Club lived up to its name, convicting them of various crimes that are expected to net lengthy prison terms for most of the bikers.

Four members of the club's Daytona Beach chapter were convicted of conspiracy and racketeering, the most serious charge in the government's case. The jury deadlocked on 10 defendants from chapters in St. Petersburg and Tampa.

Prosecutors portrayed the Outlaws as a nationwide criminal enterprise that depended on prostitution and drug trafficking. An FBI expert on motorcycle gangs said the Outlaws' domination of other bikers in Florida was part of a murderous war with the California-based Hell's logo of a skull with crossed pistons was to invite death or mutilation, the agent said.

Former girlfriends testified the bikers held them as virtual sex slaves, forcing them to work as topless dancers and give their earnings to the club.

Members of the Fifth Chapter, a biker club for recovering alcoholics and drug abusers, told how they were beaten bloody during an ambush in Orlando.

As of Wednesday, no decision had yet been made on whether the Tampa Bay area defendants will be retried on the racketeering charges, said Gary Montilla, a spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office.

U.S. District Judge Susan Bucklew will set sentencing dates after that determination is made. She gave prosecutors a week to decide.

A retrial may be moot because most of the defendants face possible life sentences for their other convictions, primarily related to a drug offloading staged by federal agents.

The sting was part of a 212-year investigation by federal and local law enforcement agencies known as Operation Shovelhead.

The Daytona Beach members convicted included Louis Musher, 26, the son of a Wall Street executive and a Time magazine editor.

Jonathan Musher, a senior vice president at Smith Barney, declined comment on his son's conviction for racketeering and conspiracy to racketeer through beatings and extortion.

Kevorkian murder charges dismissed

By BRIAN S. AKRE Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. — A judge has ruled that Jack Kevorkian should be prosecuted for assisted suicide, not murder, because there was no evidence he directly caused the deaths of two women in 1991.

Kevorkian didn't start the device that injected lethal drugs into Sherry Miller or open the canister from which Marjorie Wantz inhaled carbon monoxide. Circuit Judge David F.

Breck said Wednesday. "Had the women not activated the devices, their deaths would not have occurred," he said

But Breck said there was ample evidence that Kr orkian bought the supplies and set up the deadly devices. The judge dismissed murder charges and ordered Keverkian to stand trial for assisted suicide.

Assistant Prosecutor Gregory Townsend thought Breck's ruling was wrong. "The law is quite clear," he said. "If one actively participates in the death, then they're liable for murder."

Over the past five years, the 67-year-old Kevorkian, an advocate for physician-assisted suicide for the terminally ill, has witnessed at least 25 deaths.

The bodies of Wantz, 58, and Miller, 43, were found together in a remote cabin. Miller had multiple scierosis; Wantz severe pelvic pain.

In 1992, Breck dismissed murder charges in the case and ruled that there was no law in Michigan against assisted suicide. A state appellate court reinstated the murder charges and threw out a ban on assisted suicide the Legislature enacted to stop Kevorkian's crusade. In December, the state Supreme Court upheld the law against assisted suicide - which by then had expired. The state's highest court went a step further and said that assisted suicide could be prosecuted under the body of legal customs known as common law.

Kevorkian did not attend Wednesday's hearing. Afterwards, his attorney Geoffrey Fleger said he the state can't successfully prosecute assisted suicide charges because the ruling making it a crime under common law is too vague.

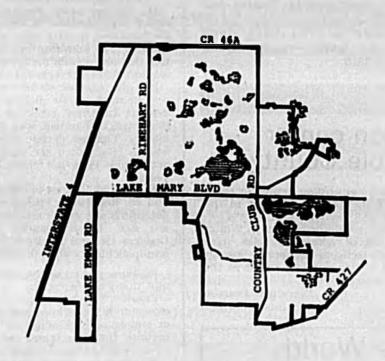

He also urged prosecutors to drop the case. "Nobody but the radical religious right wants more of Oakland County's money spent in pursuing fruitless prosecutions of Dr. Kevorkian."

Howard Simon, director of the American Civil Liberties Union's Michigan chapter, also said the common law standard cited by the state's high court is too

Farewell SHDWA

Parents are hardly ever adopted by their children. Yet when children become adults and enter into the business world, they often find a great deal of support and wisdom available from their parents. If it is accerted, a unified and cooperative effort can result. proving to be of value to everyone.

Such is the case with the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association (SHDWA). It was the prime mover in preparing documents and raising funds for the eventual acceptance of Sanford in the Main Street Program. Included in this work was a great deal of effort on the part of Neil Fritz, Interim Program Coordinator.

Seminole County donated $10,000 to help get the organization moving. The City of Sanford gave a great deal of assistance by pledging a matching grant of $20,000.

The Sanford Historic Trust donated $1,000. A Fun-In-The-Park event raised an additional $6,700, and individuals, other organizations and businesses donated several thousand Fritz finally was able to submit the application, and after Mayor Bettye Smith, City Manager Bill Simmons and other local dignituries went to the selection meeting in Ococe to expound the merits of Sanford, the city was accepted as an official Main Street City on August 24, 1993.

While many entities and individuals can look at Sanford Main Street (SMS) and say. "we helped bring it about," we believe a great deal of credit must be given to SHDWA. which became the motivational force behind the fund-raising and inforation gathering.

Now, the child is adopting the parent. SHDWA has voted, unanimously, to disband, and become part of SMS. (barring approval by SMS, which is expected).

We believe it is an excellent auggestion to have the former SHDWA members involved in a specific Historical Downtown Waterfront committee as part of SMS.

We believe we will continue to hear excellent reports of success from this unified organization. It can't help but be beneficial to all of Sanford, especially the downtown area.

As we therefore bid farewell to SHDWA as a separate organization, we must give a great deal of appreciation for a job, actually, many jobs, well done during its existence.

There was, at one time, a much larger SHDWA membership than toward its final days, and all of these people deserve our thanks.

We appreciate what you have done SHDWA. Now, we wish you continued success as a part of SMS.

is the purpose of a convention center to serve tourists or to serve the people who live in the county all the time?

Take Whitewater. President Clinton's Justice Department was the first to look into this matter. but it soon became clear that many of the people involved were far too close to high-ranking figures in the Clinton administration for Justice to avoid serious conflicts of interest.

Accordingly the matter was turned over to a special prosecutor, or (as they are more soothingly called these days) a "special counsel."
This is presently Mr. Ken Starr, and he is systematically investigating all aspects of the affair, in both Little Rock and Washington. He has already obtained several indictments involving fraud on the part of various Arkansas figures.

But now the Senate Banking Committee. under chairman Alfonse D'Amato, has opened hearings into Whitewater, concentrating for the moment on what happened to certain files (apparently pertaining to Whitewater) that were in Vince Foster's office when he committed suicide, but which subsequently made a ducted serious inquiries as to what went wrong in both of these cases. Why must Congress barge into them? The suspicion is inevitable that it's just a matter of a Republican Congress trying to make a Democratic administration look bad. And so, of course, it may be. The Democrats did the same thing in their day, granting immunity to Reagan administration witnesses so lavishly, in return for testimony in the fran/contra hearings, that special counsel Lawrence Walsh later complained bitterly they had crippled him. But the public must understand that the purposes of such investigations, by Congress and the executive branch, are quite different, and that both may well be justified even when they deal simultaneously with the same subject

It is the job of the executive branch to enforce the laws that are on the books, and for this purpose it is obviously necessary for it to investigate the facts of a given situation, to determine whether a crime has been committed.

It is the job of Congress, on the other hand, to decide whether existing laws need changes, and whether new laws are needed. In order to decide this. Congress too must ascertain "the facts.

Feelings on quitting are mixed

WASHINGTON - Though I heard plenty of comments last week after Shannon Faulkner quit The Citadel - the all-male South Carolina military college she's spent 21/2 years fighting to enter - only two resonated. The first was from one of my male colleagues.

"Jackie Robinson she ain't," he said. My feelings about Faulkner's quitting are mixed. One minute I'm exasperated with her for failing so quickly after so much buildup: the next I'm admiring her courage in admitting that she couldn't achieve what most folks wouldn't have attempted in a million years. But my response to the comment was clear - I found it unfair. Robinson, who in 1947 became the first black player to integrate major league baseball, was 28 when he made history. That's a decade older than Faulkner was in 1993 when she sued The Citadel for admittance as its first female student in its 152

Most of us do a lot of maturing between 18 and 28; Robinson's intelligence, integrity and determination were exceptional for a man of any age. Those qualities caused Brooklyn Dodgers General Manager Branch Rickey to handpick him for an unthinkable challenge.

Faulkner picked herself. Before and after she quit, many wondered why.

Frankly, I haven't a clue. Who, except those closest to her, can know whether idealism, egoor simple outrage convinced her she had to become the first female in an entrenched. all-male-and-proud-of-it institution?

Whatever the reason, and despite my doubts about her mission. I admired the grit that brought her to the moment when she triumphantly joined 589 other freshmen as The Citadel's first female cadet.

Less than a week later, she quit. This is not what we expect from pioneers. Quitting for reasons of mental and emotional exhaustion is understandable but fails to meet the standard set by past trailblazers - the ability to confront impossible odds, to achieve in the face of unbearable hostility. We expect such people to win. We don't expect that midway through their first day as pioneers, they'll get a stomachache and take to their beds. We don't expect to witness their self-imposed demotion from Kick-butt Heroes to Everyday Mortals. We don't expect them to say, "Hey, the mental strain is a bear and I'm outta here.

We expect too much. In addition to Faulkner, two dozen other first-year students also quit. It happens every year, Citadel officials say, because of the mental and shyuical demands made on freshmen.

set herself up a Pauliner's humiliation was Listress ingly public. So was her triumph. Which brings me to the seend comment, from a friend, a young woman slightly older than

"I'm sorry for her, but after all that, she shoud have at least been in shape.

Indeed, photos and some observers suggest that Faulkner arrived at The Citadel some 20 pounds overweight - a condition hardly conducive to learning maneuvers in the sweltering August heat.

ond comment made me rethink the first. And I wondered: What if Jackie Robinson hadn't been ready? What if he'd arrived at spring training out of shape and lacking the ability not just to succeed but to become 1947's Rookie of the Year and an eventual Hall of Fame legend? What would have happened if - after the 15th scrawled death threat or the 25th "Nigger go home!" - Robinson had, well, gone home? Someone else would have done the job. Some other black ballplayer would have become our impossible hero. That will likely happen at The Citadel - another young woman inspired by Faulkner and admitted because of her legal battle will enroll and graduate. Feminism will survive.

But half a century ago, African Americans feared they couldn't afford a failure. Robinson wasn't about to test if they were right. His widow, Rachel, has said rising to that challenge took an immeasurable toll on her husband.

Heroism is hard work. I can't blame Faulkner for not being up to it.

But perhaps she didn't truly fail. Perhaps she focused so hard on achieving the honor - or notoriety - of being the first woman admitted to The Citadel that she overlooked doing the work, laying the mental and physical foundation necessary to become the first woman to graduate.

Perhaps her real goal, unstated event herself, was just getting in. As grueling as that was, it

What was unfair for Robinson 50 years ago remains unfair for Faulkner today: Would-be pioneers who insist that they're equal should be ready to prove that they are. In fact.

At the very least, they should take to heart an admonition associated with another venerable all-male institution.

It's the Boy Scout motto - Be prepared.

until she falls over a bridge to her death, while dozens of witnesses sat idly in their cars.

Nor am I talking only about conduct that results in physical harm to someone. How about a despicable act within a tragically farcical one, and what else could I be referring to but the interminable O.J. Simpson trial and the dispute involving former Los Angeles police detective Mark Fuhrman?

What an utter jerk this guy is. The state of California spends God knows how many millions of dollars to prosecute the case and it gets blown out of the water by a retired cop who, it turns out, has been bragging to a screenwriter since 1985 about all the blacks and Hispanics he allegedly beat to a pulp during his career, and all the times he planted evidence to frame them. The defense is trying to convince the jury that Fuhrman planted the bloody glove that implicates Simpson in the brutal murders of his former wife, Nicole, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. Who among us could now say there is not a reasonable doubt?

And one more disgusting incident in the Simpson travesty. Lead defense attorney Johnnie Cochran, who is black, traveled to Philadelphia the other day to tell an audience of black journalists that the "white media" has been presenting biased reports of the Simpson case. Readers and viewers are "led to believe that the only people in this case are the families of Nicole Brown Simpson and (Ronald) Goldman," he said.

Now that's an interesting comment, given that hours and hours of this parody of justice have been televised live, without commentary, including Slick Johnnie's antics.

And how about the reaction to Shannon Faulkner's decision to drop out of the Citadel after 2-1/2 years of legal wrangling, one day of vigorous training and several days in the infirmary? Whatever your opinion of her attempt to attend the all-male military school - I happen to agree with the courts that if her family is paying taxes that support the place. then she has a right to go there - I trust many of you will agree that the cadet corps' sendoff of Faulkner was a repulsive affair.

They whooped. They cheered. They ran in circles. They chanted slogans. They sang. 'Na-na-na-na, Na-na-na-na, Hey, Hey, Goodbye." This woman had fought a tough battle for a long time. She gave it a valiant effort and collapsed in the face of treinendous physical and emotional strain. You would think the least these "southern gentlemen" could do was say "nice try." Instead, they snorted and rooted in the muck like pigs.

And how about the Mike Tyson fight? There is no way this convicted rapist should be rewarded with a guaranteed $25 million payoff for stepping in a ring with a stooge.

Student who killed her mother enrolls at Tufts

By Jon MARCUS Associated Press Writer

MEDFORD, Mass. - A teenager whose admission to Harvard was rescinded after the school learned she had killed her mother has settled in at Tufts University and is trying to keep a low profile.

Gina Grant moved into a single room in a Tufts dorm Wednesday, the first day of school for freshmen and transfer

While friends said she would not speak to reporters and was trying to just blend in, Grant's reception was anything but

Editors of a conservative student magazine plantered the school with leaflets condemning the administration for admitting Grant, 19, who pleaded no contest in 1990 to fatally bludgeoning her mother with a candlestick.

Bones unearthed are Russian czar's

WASHINGTON - American and Russian experts said today they've resolved the last shred of doubt: A DNA test "unambiguously confirms" that bones unearthed from a mass grave in Russia in 1991 are those of Nicholas II, last of the exars of all the Russlans.

If the evidence is accepted in Russia, Nicholas, murdered in a cellar with his family and servants by the revolutionary Bolsheviks one bloody night in 1918, can be given the ceremonial burtal that was held up while the investigation was conducted.

'The riddle of Czar Nicholas II's mysterious remains has been solved," a DNA team from the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology announced, reporting the results of a three-month investigation conducted with Russian DNA expert Pavel Ivanov.

But the investigation did not address a more commonly asked question, the subject of legend for more than 75 years: What about Princess Anastasia? Some have always claimed that a bulletdeflecting, diamond-encrusted corset allowed the ezar's youngest daughter to escape the Bolshevik gunfire and that she lived abroad in splendid anonymity.

More warfare planes sent to Balkans

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon is sending more electronic warfare planes to the Balkans to add punch to NATO's air assault on Serb positions in Bosnia, even as the Clinton administration presses Serb leaders to talk peace.

Twenty-five Air Force and Navy planes were singled out Wednesday for possible deployment, and an unknown number of them were heading out, a senior defense official said. It was not clear Wednesday whether all 25 would be sent.

U.S. planes already in the region comprise the bulk of a NATO air contingent that began successive waves of air attacks in eastern Bosnia, mainly around the capital of Sarajevo, on Wednesday morning (Bosnia time). There was no letup in sight.

The Clinton administration was portraying the Bosnian Serbs' cause as hopeless.

Drug combination may revolutionize

BOSTON - The combination of an ulcer medicine and a cancer drug may be as effective as the still-illegal French abortion pill for ending pregnancies at home, a study released today suggests.

If the drugs methotrexate and misoprostol work as well as early research indicates, they could profoundly after the abortion landscape in the United States.

Even though the two drugs have not been approved for abortion.

they can be quietly and legally prescribed by any doctor. That allows women to bypass clinics that have been the main battleground for abortion opponents and end pregnancies without surgery.

"This is an exciting phenomenon because it will provide yet another choice for women," said Dr. Richard U. Hausknecht, who conducted the latest study. "Since there is a paucity of health care providers providing abortions in some parts of the United States, this may have a significant impact."

FDA OKs "biopharming"

WASHINGTON - Growing vital medicines in animals' milk, a technology some researchers call the future of affordable drugs, just got a boost from the Food and Drug Administration.

The FDA last week quietly signaled it is ready to do business with these "biopharmers." Issuing the first guidelines for medicines milked from genetically engineered animals

The fledging field promises to be "one of the next major technological boosts for biotechnology and the pharmaceutical industries," said Dr. Philip Noguchi, the FDA's biotechnology chief.

The guidelines are "a turning point" that indicate companies should forge ahead with these drugs, said James Geraghty, president of Genzyme Transgenies Corp. He plans to test the first such drug on Americans next year.

Crime victims will benefit

WASHINGTON - Crime victims around the country will benefit from more than $500,000 that federal prosecutors have wrung from the seized assets of Moscow's free-spending spies, Aldrich and Rosarto Ames.

After the former CIA counterintelligence officer and his wife pleaded guilty last year to spying in the most damaging espionage case in U.S. history, federal prosecutors selzed their foreign bank accounts, a suburban home, red Jaguar sedan and household goods. The property was sold; the possessions, auctioned.

Today, U.S. Attorney Helen Fahey, whose office prosecuted the From Associated Press reports case in suburban Alexandria, Va., was to give a check for the proceeds from the confiscated property to the Justice Department's Crime Victims Fund.

The check will be "in the range of $520,000 to $540,000," said one Justice official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. Another Justice official put the amount at "well in excess of $500,000."

No rock 'n' roll

CLEVELAND - There is no rock 'n' roll in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

The memorabilia section of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, which opens to the public Saturday, is alive with the music it celebrates. But the hall of fame is silent and dark.

Which is just how the music shrine's backers envisioned it. 'That's probably the one place where we allow you to be a little reverential," said museum Director Dennis Barrie. "To be a little quiet with your thoughts, to contemplate what these people meant

Damage assessed from Bosnian skies

PALE, Bosnia-Herzegovina - NATO warplanes trolled the skies of Bosnia early today assessing damage and sizing up new bombing targets in a high-stakes standoff with rebel Serbs still sticking to their guns.

The search was also on for two French pilots whose plane was shot down near Pale.

Despite a day of airstrikes by allied forces in the largest military action in the history of NATO, there were indications of progress toward a Balkans peace deal.

"It is time to talk about peace, even after this dreadful bombing." Bosnian Serb military leader Gen. Ratko Miadic said late Wednesday, although he refused a U.N. demand to pull back the heavy weapons that have terrorized the Bosnian capital, Sarajevo. throughout the 40-month-old war.

LAKE MONROE - Jack Blanchard and Misty Morgan have performed for audiences in almost every state in America.

From locally at Fitzgeralds and the Contemporary Hotel at Disney World to Washington, D.C., New York, state fairs and auditoriums across the U.S., the couple seranade and entertain with flair.

The Lake Monroe residents recorded numerous albums and singles but are best known for their hit in the 70's "Tennessee Birdwalk" which earned the duo a Grammy nomination and Billboard Magazines Duct of the Year.

A recent release soured over the airwaves in July, "Because We Love," written by Jack and Misty. It is the second single from their Playback CD album,"Back in Harmony."

According to Blanchard, the first single from Sea of Heartbreak," was sired on over 160 U.S. radio stations and more in Europe. It also reached #2 in the Netherlands May of this

They are also no strangers to television. Working with Jackie Gleason and the Dick Clark Show, national television networks have relished their charm and pizazz.

The Florida Symphony Orchestra was honored to have Blanchard play with the group in the 70s. Saluting many stars at Disney hightlighted the couple's travels. Jack and Misty hobnobbed with country artists Roy Clark and Hank Williams. Blanchard laughed as he said,"Waylon Jennings copied me."

To add to their country roots, the Grand Ole Opry hosted Johnny Cash and Johnny Paycheck. Jack and Misty joined the ranks and have appeared twice on the famous stage.

The couple were chosen as judges at an event for the Florida Country Music Association. The festivities took place this month.

Blanchard said that although much of their music and background stems from the country music style, they are actually New York natives. "I write songs," he said. "I could become country or pop. I guess I'm really just a jazz musician playing country music."

In fact, in the beginning they originally played jazz in clubs in New York.

Now, with over eight million albums and four gold records to their credit, Jack and Misty entertain at private parties, benefits or as bookings allow wherever needed. At times they can be found recording in the country music capital of Nashville.

A date has already been set for the first part of October to perform locally at the Langford Hotel. Jack and Misty have not been the only ones to enjoy their music. Many musicians have also entertained audiences with their lyries.

A.S.C.A.P. (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) and B.M.I. Knights open tonight against Eastern Kentucky

Associated Press

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida will launch its final season in Division I-AA tonight with an eye to the future — not to the Golden Knights' last opportunity to win a national title on that level.

Winning enough games to make the playoffs berths has been a priority for coach Gene McDowell's program for a decade. However, a more demanding schedule featuring Florida State and two other Division I-A opponents awaits this year's team. "To some people, this week's game is the most Important thing in the world." McDowell said. "But we've got to look at what's at stake when we join Division I. We become eligible for TV appearances and bowl appearances and that means a lot of revenue. And revenue is what you need to move up in the big time."

UCF, coming off a 7-4 finish, opens the season at the Florida Citrus Bowl at 7 p.m. against Eastern Kentucky, which is ranked No. 5 in the I-AA poll. The Golden Knights play at Florida State on Sept. 23, Hawall on Oct. 21 and Northeast Louisiana on Oct. 28.

The program moves up to Division I-A next season and future schedules include road dates against Florida, Auburn, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Mississippi State, Purdue and Virginia.

McDowell begins his 11th season at UCF with a 70-44 record. Six starters return on defense, but only two on offense, where freshman Dante Culpepper takes over at quarterback.

Culpepper was Florida's "Mr. Football" in 1994 after throwing for 3,070 yards and 31 touchdowns while leading Ocala Vanguard to the Class 5A state championship game.

Because Culpepper is a true freshman, though, McDowell and offensive coordinator Mike Kruczek have decided to scale down the pass-oriented, pro-set offense that has been a major part of the Golden Knights' success in recent years.

McDowell is hoping the running game, featur-ing one-time Florida State tallback Marquette Smith and fullback Gerod Davis, will take some of the pressure off Culpepper. Smith rushed for 1,058 yards last season, while Davis gained 1,154 yards as a freshman in 1992.

On Wednesday, McDowell announced that Davis, from Edgewater High School, and Oviedo offensive lineman Chris Tabscott have been selected as the offensive captains for thw 1995 season, while Smith, the former Lake Howell All-American, will be the alternate.

The defensive captains will be Emil Ekiyor from Daytona Beach and Allen Powell of Orlando with Daytona Beach's Robert Braucht serving as the alternate.

Know your options for gallstones

65-year-old mother developed cholelithiasis and cholecystitis. Can her whole problem be cured entirely by taking medicine? If this disease? DEAR READER: In ordinary English, your mother has galistones that are irritating the lining of her gallbladder, causing abdominal pain.

Traditionally, the best treat- your doctor is correct: You do ment for this condition was surgery to remove the gallbladder and the stones. This was quite an involved operation and left a big scar.

Today, the same operation can be performed using a tube (laparoscope). The procedure can be completed as one-day surgery, with little or no con-valescence. The patient is left with a couple of small scars on the abdomen.

Additionally, modern therapy also includes lithotripsy (dissolution of the stones with sound waves) and Actigall (a prescription drug that dissolves certain types of gallstones).

Which technique would be sultable for your mother? I don't know, without having more information. But she should certainly discuss these options with her family doctor -- or, if needed, gastroenterologist. Which technique to use depends on her age, general health, size and type of gallstones, and other factors.

"Silent" gallstones, which cause no symptoms, can be disregarded until pain develops. However, from your description, I gather that your mother is probably experiencing repeated cycles of symptoms that should be addressed, using one of the methods I mentioned.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have localized scleroderma and experience a slight stiffness in my fingers, caused by collagen forming under the skin. I'm seeing a rheumatologist who does not feel medication can be

I am sure that you will continue to grow old gracefully -despite your disease.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

What is the hot topic in computers these days? Right -multimedia: integrating sound and pictures. Yet this lan't new. Edward R. Murrow "Interviewed" the Whirlwind Computer, which was made in 1951.

If you think it is strange chatting with a computer, how many bridge players have you seen talk to the cards? Many -and at least the cards don't answer back! How would you tell these cards to maneuver so as to win 10 tricks in four spades?

Two diamonds was New Minor Forcing, an artificial bid asking partner for more information. When North showed three-card spade support, South jumped to game in that suit.

West led the diamond queen. South won in dummy with the king, played a spade to his acc. returned to dummy with a club to the king and fineseed his spade jack. It won, but West discarded a diamond.

South, calling on a computer chip, better known as his brain, realized he needed to collect five trump tricks. But before continutng. South was careful to cash his diamond ace. Then he played a club to dummy's ace and led the club five. If East had ruffed, South would have discarded his diamond loser. So, East discarded a heart. South ruffed, played a heart to dummy's ace and repeated the process, leading dummy's last club.

South's 10 tricks were five spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs.

Note that if South doesn't cash his diamond ace, East discards
