

'I feel a little nervous like an ax is being held over my head'

—Sanford Police Chief Wallace La Peters, as he talks with city commissioners

The Chief Gets 'OK' After Quiz

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Police Chief Wallace LaPeters was closely questioned by the city commissioners at a semi-private hearing Monday afternoon. When the smoke cleared, the chief received a vote of confidence from the commissioners and a pay raise.

The unanimous vote of confidence came at Monday night's regularly scheduled meeting, however complaints against the chief were aired at a workshop session in the commission's conference room three hours before the start of the regular 7 p.m. meeting.

Mayor Lee P. Moore called the workshop to discuss the "routine" pay hike each city employee receives after a six-month review.

The mayor stated the workshop consisted of each commissioner asking questions and LaPeters' performance.

"After increasing his pay or give him some severance pay, that's where we stand," the mayor said.

Commissioners Eddie Keith and A. A. McClanahan were most critical of LaPeters. However, City Manager Warren (Pete) Knowles, who supported the pay increase, concluded that the chief had been "communications problems" with the police department. There is a morale problem today.

Knowles was placed in charge of the department at about the same time LaPeters was hired. The city manager also concluded that since then there had been "communications problems" with the police chief, however, he said he believed the problems have been worked out.

"I think Wally has a rough job ahead of him, a rougher job than he thinks," Knowles said.

"I think Wally has made an awful lot of good changes. Some changes are still being looked at," the city manager said. "Only time will tell."

"I haven't had a good night's sleep in three weeks worrying about this situation and frankly I'm tired of it," Keith said. "I'm not happy and I don't think it's any secret I'm not happy."

For his part, LaPeters blamed many of the problems on the changes he's made within the department and being a new recruit to the city.

"I feel a little nervous, like an ax is being held over my head," he said.

ALL TIRED OUT

Now here's the problem, see it takes two hands to hold up the two giant inner-tubes and two hands to steer the bicycle that makes, well, that's more than two hands. We're not sure just how Richard Hurst of Sanford got himself in this predicament, but whoever said a 12-year-old needs a good reason?

Tallahassee Vote — 26-13 Sanford Police: 'No' Union Here

Sanford police for the second time have turned thumbs down on having the Orange County Police Officers Association (OCPA) represent them in collective bargaining with the city.

The vote today was 26 against union representation and 13 in favor. The tally was completed this morning at the Tallahassee office of the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) with City Manager Warren Knowles and OCPA representative in attendance.

"The vote was a clear statement," Mayor Lee P. Moore in Sanford when he left the city after the vote.

MAYOR MOORE

"I won't comment on the vote, but I will say I'm glad that the union is not the way," commented Sanford Police Chief Wallace LaPeters when he learned of the results.

"How we can get back to police business after all the electioneering. The officers had some complaints, but I came in the middle of it. Many of those problems have since been taken care of and I hope we can continue to progress as there will be none of this kind of thing," LaPeters added.

The OCPA had been attempting to represent the police officers in a non-union basis that says the police and union on one side and the city commissioners on the other for a time, say to have the officers switch sides to the city commissioners at a later date.

But Stephen Micicich, president of the OCPA, refused to withdraw a petition filed by his organization with the PERC to organize Sanford police.

A city commissioners led by Mayor Moore prepared to hear police officers' grievances in an open public meeting, Micicich in late August forced a PERC hearing and the resulting election.

Despite advice from their labor attorney, David Karasch of Miami, that granting police personnel out of living and more pay raises in the 1977-78 budget could cause the city to be charged with unfair labor practices, the commissioners granted the increase anyway. They said they did so because of the union's vote.

There were 6 who qualified to vote under the approved PERC list, McClanahan said. However, only 48 ballots were turned in.

"We had 36 valid votes, one other that was challenged and two more that were voided (spoiled) ballots," the clerk said. The challenge was dismissed because it would not affect the outcome, he said.

The OCPA has until May 1 to file any objection regarding the conduct of the election, the PERC clerk asserted.

If no objection is filed, or if one is, and it is determined to be insufficient, PERC then would dismiss the existing petition. As of Monday day no objection had been filed, according to McClanahan.

Once the OCPA petition is formally dismissed, anyone else who might want to represent Sanford police as a bargaining agent, would have to wait at least 11 months from today to file any objection to the PERC, according to McClanahan.

'We had 39 valid votes, one other that was challenged—' eligible to vote included policemen, policemen, detectives, sergeants, acting sergeant (animal control officer), detective sergeant and

Panel: Fund Crime Unit, Up Welfare

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee, opening debate today on a $9 billion-plus budget, recommended funding a commission to crack down on organized crime in the state.

The committee also recommended increasing welfare payments by $4.4 million and voted to add $8 million for the construction of a civic center and sports arena in Leon County in the amount that bids $18.8 million.

The committee rejected a move to spend $760,000 to mail summaries of the 60 recommendations of the Commission Revision Commission to registered voters before the November referendum.

The money for a special four-member commission on organized crime was contingent on a related bill actually creating the panel.

The commissioners, who would be paid $2,000 a year each, would have subpoena powers for investigations and recommended prosecutions.

The lawmakers recommended the increased welfare funds, which would raise Aid to Families of Dependent Children payments for four people from $100 to $105 a month.

Rep. Earl Dism, D-Jacksonville, said the increase is needed to meet rising in the cost of living for welfare recipients.

'Trapped' A Year In Russia, He's On Way Home

MOSCOW (UPI) — Charlie Puka stuffed his new American passport in his coat today and took a taxi to Moscow airport — 18 hours early to make sure he would not miss his long-awaited flight home to America.

"I'll catch the plane," said Puka, an 86-year-old retired Pennsylvania coal miner who had been trapped in the Soviet Union for almost a year. "I'm not going to miss that one."

Charlie started the passport on a trail of letters and documents and stuck a curled, brown photograph of his son on top. He then jammed the whole pile of paper into the inside pocket of his black coat.

"It'll be in Pittsburgh tomorrow," he said grinning.

Puka was issued the new passport on a visa to his native country last year and had been waiting ever since to get out. He was issued a Soviet exit visa Monday.

"I feel good. The first thing I'm going to do is sleep. I'm going to go see a movie picture and stuff like that and see my friends."

Puka was born in the Transcarpathian region when it was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. He left when he was 25, fought in World War I and became an American citizen in 1925.

Last year, he decided to return to visit his sister, who lives in the village of Volpato, near part of the Soviet Union.

But Puka ended up with a Soviet passport instead of a visa — the result of a misunderstanding, perhaps on both sides.

Then the bureaucracy took over, and Puka has been trying to get home since last fall.

"They're not used to being told Puka, speaking in broken English, 'I was in World War I. In the United States, I got everything I want. I got relatives, I got kids. I got everything I need. I don't need nobody to keep me.'"

Patience Can Be Help To A Dieter

DEAR DR. LAMB — It is true that excess weight gained during childhood causes the fat difficult to lose weight as an adult? If so what can I do? I'm 48 and have been on a 2000 calorie diet which has not helped much.

DEAR READER — It is true that victims of childhood obesity have more trouble as adults but there are exceptions. Whether this is a carry over of learned bad eating habits or more other factors is not clear. Lack of exercise and bad genes to be a very important factor in childhood and later in adult obesity.

I'm not convinced that it makes a lot of difference whether the excess fat is stored in 100 fat cells or 1000 fat cells. A fat cell is capable of storing more fat than a balloon, and what counts is the total amount of excess fat stored — in small balloons or some can hold 50 cubic centimeters as readily out of a lot of a few fat cells.

What causes this? The food you consume and the fat you use from your body for energy is all broken down to carbon dioxide and water. The carbon dioxide is eliminated at expiration your lungs but the water may stay in your system. You can pick up five extra pounds of water and hardly notice it. But you will notice it when you eat, drinking it out all at once. The next day you may feel a little heavier which includes potassium, sodium and water.

Even simple table sugar — which you should not be using on your diet — reacts with oxygen to form water. Yet wouldn't think there was any water in sugar and there isn't — until it is broken down by your cells to yield its energy. In doing so it discards water which you will notice it when you eat, drinking it out all at once. The next day you may feel a little heavier which includes potassium, sodium and water.

When people tell me they have been on a 1600 calorie diet and have not lost weight I think that is most cases they have not

WORLD IN BRIEF

Powers-Abel Swapper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — East German lawyer Wolfgang Vogel, who was instrumental in negotiating the 1989 swap of U-3 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel, is coming to the United States for discussions on how a three-nation prisoner exchange can be expanded to include the release of additional prisoners in other countries.

In the exchange, so far, East German spy Robert G. Thompson is to be released from an American jail for Alan Van Norman, a Minnesota College student imprisoned in East Germany. Brian Marcus, an Israeli citizen, already has been released in Manabangu in the 3-for-1 deal.

Vance On Talks: 'Progress'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance says more hard work ahead, but says his meetings with Soviet leaders produced "some progress" toward a new arms limitation treaty.

Vance returned Monday from the 20,000-mile trip that took him to Africa and the Soviet Union. He immediately went to the White House where he briefed President Carter for one hour.

Holy Boss Vets Ultimatum

ROME, Italy (UPI) — Premier Giulio Andreotti has rejected a new ultimatum from the kidnappers of ex-Premier Aldo Moro despite their grating warning that the moment of slaughter was at hand unless he releases 13 jailed terrorists.

As hopes for saving Moro's life dwindled following another shockingly worded "communique" from the Red Brigades Monday, a Roman Catholic relief organization which had offered to mediate with the terrorists announced that it would no longer continuously make the special telephone line it set up for the kidnappers to call.

Dayan: No Jet Package Deal

By United Press International
U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin today rejected a deal for the delivery of a U.S. warplane to Israel, would stop aircraft sales to Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Dayan, flying to Washington for talks with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the wording of a compromise formula for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement, said he was not taking any new proposals with him.

But he reaffirmed his government's strong opposition to President Bush's decision to sell fighter jets to Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Israel in an all-or-nothing $4.8 billion package deal that goes to Congress Wednesday for an expected tough fight.

Brezhnev: No Neutron Bomb

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev today denounced the neutron bomb as a "new and especially inhuman weapon of mass annihilation" and said Russia would not produce it if the United States also would agree to a curb.

Korea Crew Returning

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — The United States has informed South Korea Moscow may send return two crewmen of a Korean jetliner that was downed by Russian fighters last week, Seoul newspapers said today.

Cost-Cutting Prescription

Cost inflation continues to be one of the most serious problems in American medicine. During the last three years, costs for medical care have risen by an average of 9.3 percent annually, hospital costs by an average of more than 17 percent—considerably above the national average of about 6 for all prices.

The economics of medicine are imperfectly understood, but at least this much is clear: one big reason, among others, for medical cost inflation is that both the providers and the recipients of health care are only dimly aware of the cost of that care.

Making them more cost-conscious should be a high priority of government. We are encouraged, therefore, that Joseph Califano, the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has come up with a number of specific means of accomplishing just that.

Mr. Califano is re-drawing the rules by which the government pays Medicare so that payments for certain laboratory tests (blood and urine analyses, for example) will be based on the lowest prices available in a community instead of, as now, the average price.

Under the new rules, a doctor might charge the difference between his fee and the undoubtedly lower Medicare payment. But if the patient faces the prospect of paying this difference, he will think twice about the necessity of the lab test.

Mr. Califano is also setting up a Medicare and Medicaid program that will pay for a second medical opinion before a patient agrees to surgery. This is an attractive idea, as it makes good sense to avoid a costly operation through the far less expensive means of consulting with another doctor.

The CIO reports a high degree of success in avoiding unnecessary operations by requiring "second opinions" on surgery contemplated by union members.

Mr. Califano is trying to induce a greater cost-consciousness on the part of doctors by auditing the charges they are receiving. This move is calculated to prevent what is called "defensive medicine"—by which doctors defend themselves against possible litigation by performing unnecessary tests and services.

Hospital administrators also will be prodded to think about costs. Mr. Califano is setting standards that specify how long a patient should spend in a hospital; the length of time will be tied to the medical problem.

Of course, the standards will be flexible, to allow for complications. But the point here is to prevent a patient staying in a hospital without justification—a worthy goal because hospital rooms cost around $150 a day.

Finally, Mr. Califano is working with the Food and Drug Administration to develop a so-called "model generic drug law," by which the government would promote the sale of drugs under their chemical names.

These sell for considerably less than brand-name drugs. The Consumer government would handle the sale of generic prescription drugs, and it reports that consumer outlays for drugs consequently have dropped in some cases by 75 percent.

All of these measures have been kicking around for several years, and it is good to see the government finally making some use of them.

They don't constitute a panacea, of course, but they do promise to help in curbing medical cost inflation by increasing cost-consciousness on the part of patients, doctors and hospital administrators.

ANGLE-WALTERS A Call To Limit 'Junk'

WASHINGTON—It was disconcerting. The child was in the final stages of the race for his latest school triumph. The phone rang. "Mr. Angle?" said an unfamiliar voice, carefully pronouncing the "MR."

"Hold one moment for a long-distance call from Mr. and Mrs. W.," the voice commanded. A click, a faint whir and then it started— "MR. Angle doesn't want to find out, dominating the phone down with an explosive until for the phone-dial's ear."

On an average day, more than 4 million Americans receive in their mail the same flood of such telephonic intrusions. Nearly 3 million others later to the sales pitches and 400,000 of them buy the product being peddled, according to a survey by the industry's Institute of Marketing.

As long last, there may be relief on the way for those of us in the majority category—the phone-dialers.

In Congress, hearings are planned this summer on legislation sponsored by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., and Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Miss., to prohibit "junk" phone calls to those who do not wish to receive them.

The Federal Communications Commission, which regulates the phone lines, has proposed that all such phone calls be subject to a "do not call" list.

The California Public Utilities Commission has moved to restrict such calls, and legislation is pending in the state legislature to prohibit such calls or to limit them to those who do not wish to receive them.

There is no time to be lost. The business has been moving into the commercial telephone marketplace with a vengeance in recent years, eating into territories once held by such as door-to-door salesmen, and it is estimated that it will reach into the home in the next few years.

Such calls are far more aggravating than just mail, which can be collected at the recipient's convenience and checked unopened until the nearest waste basket. There is no defense against a ringing phone, so way to determine without answering it exactly who may be calling.

Not everyone objects to such calls. Some people are apparently so lemmings, or so bored, that even a tape-recorded voice calling him to purchase a vacuum cleaner or a television set is a welcome interruption to his day.

Discharged from the service two years ago, "Art" had found a job in the city and had been able to work in his former job which required lifting.

He is looking for a different kind of work. Another veteran, "Bob," was discharged two years ago and worked as a hand assembler in a factory. He has had his job and he is now looking for a different kind of work.

A third veteran, "Chuck," was a pilot. He was discharged two years ago and worked as a pilot. He has had his job and he is now looking for a different kind of work.

There are many other veterans who are looking for a new lease on life at the job fair today.

The job fair today is a "Vietnam Veterans Day." There are 5,000 veterans in the University area which includes Seminole County and of these there are 1,000 unemployed.

Approximately 700 unemployed veterans are looking for a job. They are looking for a job that will pay a living wage and that will give them a sense of accomplishment.

The Veterans Employment Council has been formed to help veterans find jobs. It is a non-profit organization that is dedicated to helping veterans find jobs.

A "Vietnam Veterans Day" is being held in the University area. It is a day to honor the veterans who have served their country.

According to O'Reilly, the federal job fair for veterans will open on Sept. 22. Drafted after high school and wounded in both legs in Vietnam, O'Reilly spent two years hospitalized in his leg.

He leaves with the problems faced by the Vietnam veterans, who returned home to a declining economy and a general indifference to their needs.

They are looking for a job that will pay a living wage and that will give them a sense of accomplishment. They are looking for a job that will give them a sense of purpose.

They are looking for a job that will give them a sense of purpose and a sense of accomplishment. They are looking for a job that will give them a sense of purpose.

They are looking for a job that will give them a sense of purpose and a sense of accomplishment. They are looking for a job that will give them a sense of purpose.

Following as it did so swiftly on the President's announcement of his anti-inflation program with dedication, the defeat of the farm bill may be something of a political straw.

Whether one is in the wind or to be grouped at, however, it still a matter of degree.

If there really was a consensus-effect relationship justifying a view of the House vote as a victory for the President, it is certainly one he can use.

The critical political and press comment is that many Carter leads need a victory on a headline-making domestic or international issue to convince an increasingly doubtful public that his administration means business in coping with inflation.

Questioning of the Carter performance and prospects for improvement has become so insistent, surfacing at his own press conference, of late that the President may seem somewhat in the position of a man being led to commit in public on when he intends to stop beating his wife.

By this measure and others the Carter presidency would appear to have serious cause for concern.

Take the opinion polls. There is a particular fascination in charting a president's progress through the vicissitudes of the public political arena.

Richard Nixon, 68 percent down to 32, for Lyndon Johnson, 59 down to 37, for John F. Kennedy, 51 down to 44.

Comparable ratings declines were for Richard Nixon, 68 percent down to 32, for Lyndon Johnson, 59 down to 37, for John F. Kennedy, 51 down to 44.

There can be perils in ranking too much into such comparisons, however. Each presidency is a very different political happening, governed by different conditions and moving in different rhythms. And usually decisively shaped by sharply differing presidential personalities.

Lyndon Johnson, for vivid example, took office at a time of national trauma and through a combination of that situation and his own unique capabilities overrode enactment of the greatest body of significant legislation since the early New Deal. Much of this legislation, however, had been the program of his predecessor—whose record popularity had not been sufficient to move it through Congress.

The Kennedy program had been so successful in the months before his death that it may be said to have been the program of his predecessor—whose record popularity had not been sufficient to move it through Congress.

Lyndon Johnson took considerably more satisfaction in his early high ratings in the polls, which his own experience proved can turn out to be empty. Much of this legislation, however, had been the program of his predecessor—whose record popularity had not been sufficient to move it through Congress.

NEW YORK (UPI) - By scoring a large gain Monday, stocks extended a surge begun April 13, maintaining the heaviest trading pace in the market's 18-year history and made believers out of many skeptics.

The Dow Jones Industrial average climbed 15.58 points Monday to 88.48, finishing at the highest level since it closed 1971 at 88.17. The Dow, which gained 17.97 points overall last week, has climbed 88.94 points from its Feb. 12, 1976 low of 78.13.

New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 26,810,000 shares, up from the 21,400,000 traded Friday. Last week's turnover of 23.5 million shares was an all-time record, surpassing the 1963 million on Jan. 28-29, 1969.

Volume in the past eight sessions has totaled about 200,000,000 shares, or an average of about 4.3 million shares a day.

Traders, seeing the market effectively raising pressure of traders wanting to cash in on last week's gains, jumped into action Monday afternoon, apparently not wanting to miss out on a major market move.

The dollar rose Monday because many money watchers believe the currency has reached the end of its 10-month slide. Foreign traders have been encouraged that some U.S. interest rates have edged higher to combat inflation.

LAMBDA WORM SHEDS

Lenise Alphin, Jeffery A. Howe Exchange Vows

MRS. JEFFREY ALLEN HOWE
Bernard Hart was the best man. A garden reception followed the ceremony.

Lenise Edna Alphin and Jeffery Allen Howe were married April 23 in a garden ceremony at the Sanford Art Center. Rev. Lawrence Burgess performed the 6 p.m. double ring wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Alphin, 630 Seaside Circle, Winter Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Howe, 39 Lake Trilpitt Drive, Casselberry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her veil a formal lace with silk gossamer and long sheer sleeves. Her hair was styled in a classic updo with a sweep and long side curls.

Reception was held at the Sanford Art Center. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's mother, Mrs. Alphin, and the groom's father, Mr. Howe.

Death Talk Driving Her Up The Wall

DEAR ABBY: A classmate of mine who lives down the block to slowly driving me up a wall. Her's her's all married. A few months ago we both started talking on an extension course in human behavior at a nearby university. When it came time to pick topics for term papers, this guy I have picked the subject of death. I've been reading and thinking about it a lot. "What would you rather do in a plane crash or in an auto accident?" Or, "Would you rather drive or burn to death?" He's a nice guy, but he has become so preoccupied with death that he's driving me crazy. Every time I see him, he starts in with these depressing questions about death. I've tried avoiding him, but unless I drop the course (which I don't want to do), it's going to be impossible.

What should I do? I feel like talking him to leave a lecture and leave him. BURLEY

DEAR BURNINGVILLE: As long as you offer someone to drop the course, your subject is always to hand you. Simply tell her that you can't attend it, and that will be the end of it.

DEAR ABBY: I have you hear from plenty of children who wish their parents wouldn't interfere in their lives so much, but what do you think of parents who report their children who have left the nest to call and write, but who never place their children or arrive a table to find out how the children are doing?

I am constantly in touch with my parents, so are my older brothers and sisters, yet we feel rather hurt that they don't, on occasion, contact us. It would be nice to think that maybe they were busy or that they were just out of town. I've always hearing how they're doing when I call, but seldom do they call me. I've always everything going with you? I'd sure appreciate your thoughts on this. SET ADREPT

DEAR BETTY: Are you getting so cut they were address who have been the most helpful parent of them all? I've always been so willing to always speak up. To THEM - not to me!

Do you wish you had more friends? For the record of parents, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: What's New In Young and The Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 282 Lady Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90233.

Brunch Fetes Bride

Mrs. Betty Landquist was guest of honor at a brunch at The Holiday Inn at Sanford.

Mrs. Landquist, the former Frances Schick, became the bride of Landquist on March 24.

The hostesses, Mrs. Susan Yarnall, Mrs. Lane Harrison, Mrs. Martin Vitek and Mrs. Evelyn Dancy presented daisy corsages to the bride, Mrs. Ann Eskin, her mother, and Mrs. Arla Jane Landquist, the bridegroom's mother. The husband gift was a silver tray and the bride.

The private dining room was decorated in yellow and white. An arrangement of Spring flowers centered the table.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

Theta Epsilon
A plastic party and a luncheon in honor of the society's President, Walter Rose, highlighted this week's activities for Theta Epsilon.

The party was held at the home of president Jan Krug. Madeline Schick, Betty Perdue and Eyle Dancy were present to introduce the products to them. This party has become an annual fund raiser for Theta Epsilon.

Theta Epsilon joined other local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi for a President's Day luncheon at Jerry's Restaurant. Betty Perdue presented awards to their girl of the year and for the best program.

The girl of the year for Theta Epsilon is vice president Eyle Dancy whose friendliness and willingness to help others have made her an outstanding member. Her program for an outside speaker was to Debbie Smith for a presentation on CPR and for an inside presentation went to Tracy Wright for a lesson in Christ-mas in how to make someone's worthwhile experience.

Zeta Xi
Attorney Claude Van Nook presented a program on "Social History" at the April meeting of Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. He reviewed some of the most interesting courtroom experiences.

The meeting was held at the Margaret Avenue home of Betty York with Virginia Powell as emcee.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Susan Jones. Guest speaker will be presented the program and introduction of officers will be held.

Workshops were planned for alternate Tuesdays. Jackie Dallas will teach members Hawaiian dancing which will conclude at the end of the year here at the home of Marty and Dick O'Graves on May 27.

In And Around Casselberry Just Can't Hold Mom Down

A water vacation in Florida was enjoyed by Ed and the lady's guest, Mrs. Frank Schick from Chicago, Ill. "My mother had Chicago in January and has just returned home," Ed said. "She is 60 years old and travels everywhere by herself."

The first stop on Mrs. Schick's schedule was St. Pete where she visited her daughter Marjorie Sherman. Then she traveled to West Palm Beach where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Meyer.

"Five years ago she flew to Europe alone to visit her sister," Ed said. "She loves to travel. We just can't hold her down."

Ed added that Mrs. Schick did manage to write in Casselberry long enough to relax and enjoy her grandchildren, Ann, Andy and Grace.

Another traveling visitor was Mrs. Army Col. Harold and Mrs. Meyer's oldest son, Fred, a T-shirt designer from Hawaii. "Fred decided to take three months off and heavenly travel."

"I had a fantastic time," Schick said about the after which included a follow-up Italian dinner prepared by her cousin Susan Schick.

John and Josephine were married in New York. The couple is now in Casselberry and have three grandchildren, one son, and two granddaughters.

The couple's third of their, Mrs. Loretta Callahan, attended the party and returned the Verall's to care their wedding was before Father Darcy and McCabrick.

"My daughters really worked hard. They arranged for a band and even rented wedding chairs," Josephine said.

Was the party a success? "It was a success," Josephine said. "But they had to tell us or we would have taken off on them!"

Graduating at that same ceremony was Liz Parks. In the ceremony was her husband Andy, her two daughters, Ann and Susan, and her parents Carl and Audrey Ventman from Arden.

Congratulations to Cheryl Phillips who has from the Volusia Community College of Sebring.

Daughter of Len and Ann Phillips, Cheryl was a 1976 Lynn graduate and is the second child of her father.

"Cheryl could quite hard for this. Sometimes she would get up at 6 a.m. to study," said Len. She added that Cheryl plans to work at the college and still be hard in working, happily in profession.

Mr. Ron Beck
Advertising Director
Evening Herald
Sanford, Florida 32771

Dear Ron:

I would like to take this opportunity to say how pleased we are with our sales results of advertising in the Evening Herald.

We experienced increased sales, from Herald Advertising, when your newspaper initiated T.M.C. (Total Market Coverage) in Sanford. We are even more pleased with our Herald advertising since you have added the Volusia area to T.M.C. We feel our sales return, for advertising dollars spent with the Herald, has been excellent.

We also wish to express how pleased we are concerning your representative, Jan Juchling. She is creative, informative and has done an excellent job in servicing our account.

Because of your efforts, we plan to increase our advertising with the Evening Herald proportionate to our increase in sales.

Sincerely,
Phil Deere
