at each other with pistols as follows:

BERLIN, Sept. 13 (Via The Hague)—The chief actor in the first aerial battle in the air was a German aviator corps, who piloted Lieutenant Von Helden in the latter's passage over Paris, told his story. It is a remarkable tale of adventure, capturing those of the fiercest writers. Attacked by a powerful British biplane and a 90-mile-and-hour Beloit Werner only escaped through a narrow passage—a combination of circumstances which led him to pilot inside of the German lines.

"The men who hold the reserved seats in the theatre of war who see the battle as not even the general can see them are the German air men," said Werner to me when I saw him at Liege just before I started for Berlin. "That I am alive today is due to providence, not to my own efforts."

"I had received orders to locate the English forces and to determine their exact battle lines and those of their French supporters. Accompanied by Lieutenant Von Helden, who was detailed as an observer, I headed directly north in the general direction of Paris, although on this trip we did not go across the city. Previously on Sunday we flew across Paris and dropped three bombs. One failed to explode. Another dropped on the roof of a house and set fire to it and the third fell in a boulevard and made a big hole. But we flew back to our lines that time without being molested and we were so high that rifle fire did not reach us."

"On this trip to locate the enemy we flew directly south from Paris following a broad and plainly marked road. En route we passed over the edge of a magnificent forest in which more than 40,000 inhabitants of the surrounding country had taken refuge. Forest in which more than an hour we passed directly over the English headquarters and I was able to locate the positions of the commander-in-chief and his staff. We accurately mapped this position and then swept across the French position paying special attention to the locations of their artillery, much of which was masked in places of woods and behind buildings and hedges."

Lieut. Von Helden made rough sketches of everything. I was intently watching the country when suddenly the lieutenant pointed upward. At that time we were nearly 2,000 feet in the air. I looked and there fully 1,000 feet below us we were coming in full speed directly towards us, was a big Bristol biplane.

"It was evident from the start that he was far speedier than we were. I tried to climb upward, realizing that when he got over me he would drop a bomb and we would be blown to pieces. But the effort was vain. The Bristol held me for speed. I could not get on a level with him. Soon the Bristol was directly over our heads."

"My God, man, I was not afraid, but this was a moment of suspense that took years out of my life. I was sure the bomb was coming."

"The Bristol had reduced her speed until she was keeping pace with us. She was slowly coming down. Sweeping lower and lower, the Bristol came. At last I knew how a bird feels when an eagle or a hawk is swooping down upon it. I thought every minute was to be our last. I was certain that what the British were trying to do was to get so close that their bomb would not miss. My nerves were truly unstrung and it was all that I could do to keep my monoplane on an even keel."

"Suddenly I saw a flash along side of me. For a moment I thought the expected bomb had struck. Then I realized that the lieutenant was shooting with his automatic pistol. The Englishman had his propeller in front of him so they could not shoot from that position. It was now certain they carried no bombs as they veered off some 500 feet to the side, at the same time keeping 50 feet above us."

"All this time we were headed northward again toward the German lines. The plunging of the compass made accurate shooting difficult, although one shot struck my plane. It was very evident that the Englishman was shooting to disable our motor and we were doing the same thing on his side. The noise of the discharge of the automatic was drowned in the whir of our propeller."

"There was a feeling of utter freedom as far as we were concerned. Our machine was far slower and much more unwieldy than the Bristol. I kept figuring on what the next move would be and the Englishman was planning to shoot me down and capture me."

Rumania Begins Soviet Border Fortifications

others, the women and children hugging their belongings, were expected to seek refuge in Rumania. Rumania was reluctant to admit them because, of all refugees, Jews were least likely to leave Rumanian soil, since other countries do not want to admit them. Small border traffic between Poland and Rumania was closed at present. Foreigners were not permitted to stay near the frontier and preparations were being made in case units of the Polish Army and other non-Jewish refugees might cross the frontier.

The troops naturally will be disarmed and interned in conformity with Rumania's obligations as a neutral. Should the Polish Government or members of it come to Rumania measures doubtless will be taken to prevent them from exercising political activities.

Meanwhile, on the other side of Europe the French infantry led by massed tanks was reported to have driven two to four miles deeper into German territory yesterday through intense enemy artillery fire in an assault on two towns planned separately along the Siegfried line fortifications.

French war communique No. 18 last night told of "important progress" along a front extending about 12 1/2 miles east of the Saar River on the northern crook of the western front.

It was stated authoritatively, in elaboration of the communique, that the French had driven in large force across the no-man's-land between the frontier and the Siegfried line.

The operations occurred along a curving front from the Saar River eastward to the Vosges Mountains, which run parallel to the Rhine River.

All the action occurred on German soil. It was stated, and the German defenders fought back desperately in an effort to prevent the French from establishing their line at the foot of the Siegfried fortifications.

Battalions of French infantry were thrown into the attack behind tanks and motorized units. The "important progress" of the French forces, spreading along the front from east to west, was said to have carried them closer to the German towns of Bilsenkastel and Pirmasens.

Bilsenkastel and Pirmasens, 12 and 26 miles east of Saarbruecken and important communication points, lie directly along the first fortifications of Germany's "west wall."

These outer "west wall" defenses consist of barbed wire entanglement—dragged down by tanks—and anti-tank dumps of concrete looking like big, broken cogwheels.

Last night it was reported, the French held a large saw-tooth salient well behind the German frontier close to Bilsenkastel, Pirmasens and also toward Saarbruecken, 16 miles east of Saarbruecken.

At the extreme northern end of the western front near Sierck the French forces were reported to have cut down columns of German troops in withering fire from the Siegfried line fortresses and to have shattered Goerring's first counter-offensive of the war.

The German counter-offensive extended through most of Sunday night and was halted early yesterday.

Unofficial reports from the front indicated that the German general staff, suffering heavy casualties in its first offensive action, had ordered the German forces to retreat to trench positions within German territory along the Siegfried line.

French observers said the entire German counter-offensive plan appeared to have been suspended temporarily.

The German counter-offensive moved through several villages but all of them were on the German side of the frontier and the French held all their gains, according to an analysis in tomorrow's Petit Parisien.

French losses were small, the Petit Parisien said, and "many German prisoners" were taken.

"The French are at the point of taking the first works of the Siegfried line which, once in their hands, will permit an intensive artillery drive on the main fortifications," the newspaper's analysis added.

The German counter-attack in the Sierck sector were said to have ended early yesterday.

Last night's war communique No. 18, said, "Despite enemy resistance our attack continued to progress."

French war communique No. 18 said that the French forces were reported to have cut down columns of German troops in withering fire from the Siegfried line fortresses and to have shattered Goerring's first counter-offensive of the war.

Il Duce May Step Into Conflict In Peacemaker Role

most daily conversations at the Nazi foreign office. Within a day or two, it was reported, he might go to the Polish front to talk directly with Hitler.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, No. 2 Nazi who on Saturday held out a tentative offer of peace to Britain and France, was in consultation with the Italians and then left for the front.

Italy's Role in Peacemaker Role

The Berlin dispatches, following Goerring's guarded offer of peace, show that the German armistice have bitten off more than one-third of Poland, seemed to indicate that Hitler may believe that the time has come for his brother-in-arms to step into the picture as the messenger of European peace—repeating his role of a year ago when Il Duce brought about the Munich four-power conference.

But if the offer of peace is Hitler's—even though it may be extended by Mussolini—it seems doomed to curt rejection.

The British government on Monday announced that Britain refused to conclude to peace with any government headed by Adolf Hitler. While Hitler rules Germany, "no country is safe, and Hitlerism must be crushed," the British said.

Italy's Role in Peacemaker Role

"Britain does not want another Versailles as Goering alleges, or any collapse of Germany, but a just and enduring peace with any honorable German government," the British said.

France echoed Britain's words and it was reported that a formal proposal would be made today that the two allies pledge themselves not to conclude any separate peace with Hitler. This proposal, it was contended in Paris, would draw an effective reply to Goerring's Saturday statement that Germany has no quarrel with France.

If Fascist Italy, with her great mobilized fighting strength, could be "neutralized" in this war it would be to the great advantage of Britain and France. The allied fleets would be relieved of the Italian menace in the Mediterranean and the French could withdraw probably 200,000 troops from their southeastern Alpine border and divert them to the western front.

Keep your conscience free of motor vehicle deaths — Kids are important!

Children scurrying to school and playfully romping home again present new hazards to motorists. A child killed by a "careful" driver in an "unavoidable" accident is just as dead and just as great a loss as one run down by a less fool. In either case, you are going to soothe a motorist's conscience much when it is realized that a little less speed and a little more caution would have avoided the accident.

IN THE SHADOW OF GREAT TIMES

(From Poetry)
We are like people at a wayside station, waiting between trains or between planes.
We attend the cinema, consult our watches.
We sit down and stretch our legs, share at the skylight.
We buy a paper and read it without comprehending.

Noticing the whistles blowing, the crows coming and going.
We listen for the order to call sonorously the panel of destinctions.

Decorously the clock ticks; we swallow the roar of the transport.
—HELEN GOLDBAUM

We have read a good deal lately about planes being brought down. We often wonder what happens to the pilot.

An Walter Winchell puts it,
"Let's not forget that the most we could win in Europe is the Democracy we already have."

An someone said the other day, "It's a hell of a world, but I sure sound and see how it all turns out."

An for as we can tell there is no reason whatever for believing anything you hear these days from Europe, even if it's true.

The new British Minister of Imperial Defense is Sir Edmund Ironside. He is the world's first armor plated defense minister.

These are hard days for the circuses, we are told. And for the newspapers, the banks, the railroad, the utilities, the farmers, the peanut stands, but shucks, why go on?

One of the best cartoons we have seen lately shows Benito Mussolini playing like he was Ferdinand the bull, and just smelling and smelling the lovely violets around the big shadowee under which he is resting.

Britain's reply to Germany's peace plea was an announcement of preparations for a three years war. The British are not making any more airplane flights to Munich except with bombs.

Canadian cities, now that Canada has declared war, are practicing blackouts. That reminds me that if the United States should have to get into this fuss, it is not beyond the realm of reason for air raids to be made on New York City.

We heard Anthony Eden's
speech against Hitler and Hitlerism over the radio. And without resorting to profanity, or using any of the words which so many of us have wanted to use in connection with the head of the present German government; Eden certainly gave that fellow a dressing down which must have been hard to take.
It just goes to show that if you know how to do it you can still get a fellow told without swearing at him.

To any of you who might want to raise us for our flat prediction of a few weeks ago that there would be no war in Europe, we'd like to point out that such an eminent man as Henry Ford said a few days before the conflict that they were all "just bluffing" and there would be no war. —Oetla Baner. The predictions of some of our so-called big shots were about as sound the time as they were in 1929
when they said the depression would be over by Spring.

Russia seems to be reabilitating her army, that she can at the present time gobble up part of Poland after the Poles have been whipped by Germany.
The German army is ready, that is, the very most of Poland, including the beleaguered city of Warsaw, used to belong to Russia and probably will again after the Germans are successful.
It may be. However, once Germany and Russia have a war, it will be a direct war, and we are the ones to get the brunt of it.

The Calm Before The Storm

Although the second World War has been in progress a little less than ten days, many people are already beginning to wonder why no decisive action has yet taken place. London newspapers are calling for action, radio commentators are asking what has gone wrong with the so-called "lightning war," and many an American has begun to think that because of the inactivity among the western powers, Poland yet will be fed to the wolves even as Czechoslovakia.

As a matter of fact events have been moved with lightning speed in Europe even though it may seem to us that nothing has been done. Before the war the public had been so built up to believe that within a few hours of the first declaration London and Paris, and perhaps Berlin, would be a shambles, it is extremely difficult to understand how the war could be in the middle of its second week without a single air raid of any consequence.

Perhaps if we lived in Poland, or were in closer communication with Warsaw, we could better appreciate the truth of the "lightning war." War did strike like lightning in Poland. Enemy tanks were at the outskirts of the city by the end of four days, and bombing planes were wrecking its buildings the first night of the war. More than a third of Poland had been conquered in two weeks and though the Poles are now making a gallant defense of their capital, the German boast that the war would be over in 30 days now seems not unlikely.

That is, the war against the Poles, and it must be remembered that from the German point of view that is the only war which has actually started yet. Their submarines have sunk a few ships, there have been a few exchanges of shots on the Western Front, a few British bombers have dropped not bombs but leaflets on German border towns, but again from the German point of view, this is not fighting; not as it is known in Poland.

When the war in the west starts, after the Poles have been liquidated, the London newspapers, and indeed, no one else, will have any cause for complaint against inactivity. There will be plenty of it. You could hardly expect Hitler to repeat the disastrous mistake of the World War and deliberately launch an attack on two fronts at the same time. He is not likely to attack London or Paris until after Warsaw is blown off the map.

Meanwhile we may wonder why the Allies do not attack Berlin from the air. The answer is that they are reluctant to start the bombing of women and children in this second World War. At present that is about the only way they can effectively come to the assistance of the Poles, and yet they have agreed not to start it. Upon them such an agreement has weight; it will not bother Hitler, once the Poles have been beaten.

About the only other way the Allies could assist the Poles is to break through the Siegfried Line immediately.
This could be done only at an enormous sacrifice of men and materials, a sacrifice which would cost the Allies probably three times as much as Germany. Their present operations indicate that eventually they hope to get through, but they hope to make it with their armies still intact.

And so, for the moment, while it may seem that all is quiet on the Western Front, this is merely the lull before the storm. Londoners, as well as everyone else, should enjoy the comparative calm while they can.

Florida's Next Governor

The war in Europe has not completely eliminated domestic politics or interfered with the right of newspapers to comment on presidential or gubernatorial prospects. At least, not yet. Exercising this natural right, the Melbourne Times discusses the kind of man Florida should select for its governor next year.

"If Florida gets the right kind of governor, it will get a man who will obtain a constitutional convention for the State and the adoption of a modern set of basic laws," says the Times.

"If Florida gets the right kind of governor, it will get a man who will lead a campaign for greater efficiency in government, and at a lower price than the people pay today for the alleged government they are getting.

"If Florida gets the right kind of governor, it will get a man who will fight for a reduction in the number of people drawing salaries from the State, a reform of tax-collecting agencies that now duplicate each other's duties at enormous and unnecessary cost, and a more equitable division of tax-monies and public service.

"If Florida gets the right kind of governor . . .
There could be a full newspaper page of answers as to what Florida would get if the right kind of man could be chosen to head the State government; and it is time that the men of the quality needed should be getting careful consideration from groups of thoughtful Florida citizens who see the importance of choosing one man and throwing to his support the best help of the best people.

"Thirteen months back—in August of last year—The Times began its insistence for unbiased selection of the best candidate available in the area extending from Daytona to Key West, an area of South Florida counties that have proved their ability to do things well.

"The Times fears, however, that there will again be the disastrous business of South Florida spreading its votes for governor among a dozen candidates. Ambitious men—some well qualified—are going into the race apparently with no idea of how ruinous it will again be for South Florida to split up the votes among South Florida men; so that the two top men entering the second primary will come from the northern part of the State.

"If Florida gets the right kind of man for governor,
it will be because of foresight NOW."

British, French Are Agreed On "Finish Fight"

German field forces already were concentrating on pushing through southern Poland to the Soviet frontier. A spokesman said an official statement might be issued soon explaining what steps Germany plans to combat the British sea blockade which applied to widespread German attacks on British shipping. The blockade has been one of Britain's main measures since the war started.
Chamberlain reported on the progress of the war in the House of Commons after flying to France yesterday for a talk with Premier Daladier and high officials of the French Army.
The Duke of Windsor, former king of England, was back in Britain with his American woman, an for whom he left the throne. He was expected to take an active government post after his three years of self-imposed exile. French artillery was reported to be ready today to be bombarding the outskirts of Saarbrücken, industrial city and advance point.

and Powell conferred. At last they agreed to let Leonard bat with the count at three balls and two strikes. Leonard fled out to Alexander. Hudson closed the next two men up and the game was over.

Hudson pitched good ball, permitting 10 hits but scattering them effectively. Donnelly and Walker, who relieved him in the sixth inning, permitted seven singles.

Sanford began its scoring in the first inning by getting one run. Again in the fifth they marked up three runs. They added another in the seventh and two more in the ninth.

Daytona Beach scored once in the first, twice in the fifth, and in the eighth chalked up their final run of the evening.

Leading the Sanford clubmen at the plate were Dale Alexander and Hillis Layne with three hits each. Lynn got two doubles and a single for his share. And Alexander collected a pair of singles and a triple. Babe Stiefani and Elliott got a pair of safeties; apiece to head the Daytona slugger.

Tonight the third game of the series will be played here with Cleo Jeter on the mound for the Lookouts. Wild Bill Colone will probably do the tossing for the Islanders.

Bob Kellogg Will Be Potent Factor In Greenie Attack

"Jitterbug" Piles Up More Yardage Than Any Tulane Runner

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—The most potent feet in Tulane football history belong to Robert "Jitterbug" Kellogg, the Arkansas gladiator, to all available records the Little Man with the Big Stuff in 1938 carved his name imperishably in the Tulane football Hall of Fame.

Pre-season practice indicates he'll be just as effective, maybe more so, this fall.

Last year, he averaged seven yards every time he carried the ball, the best average ever run up by a Greenie, according to the books, and the long memory of football fans here.

The 155 pound Jitterbug ran with the ball 52 times in 1938 and gained 364 yards, a trip averages exactly 7 yards a trip.

A summary of the records of the best Tulane ball carriers since 1931, regulars who compiled the best average in each year, though not necessarily the most yardage, recorded by Scout Kennedy, official statistician for Tulane's games, reveals:

Year	Player	Yds.	Av.
1931	Zimmerman	166	6.8
1932	Zimmerman	150	7.8
1933	Roberts	97	4.8
1934	Simons	149	7.1
1935	Andrews	62	2.6
1936	Brunner	28	1.6
1937	Barker	66	2.7
1938	Kellogg	364	7.0

Don Zimmerman's record is of course the most impressive. Carrying the nugget more than 150 times in both 1931 and 1932 and averaging better than five yards per carry, he is perhaps the most consistent runner ever recorded by a Southern back.

But nobody can laugh off the Jitterbug's accomplishments to date. It must be remembered that he played only 169 minutes in 1938—slightly more than two full ball games—and gained just about three yards a minute, which is fast running in a football game.

In only one game was he absent completely—Alabama. He played one minute in the Riot game, long enough to attempt a conversion.

His biggest feat was the fashioning of L. S. U.'s defeat when he replaced Warren "Bronco" Brunner, removed early with injury. He carried the ball 21 times and gained 181 yards or a 8.6 average to earn the name of "Bobby, the Tiger lamet."

In addition to running, the

CHALKING 'EM UP

CHARLIE CHALKER

The University of Miami looks as though it might have another pretty good gridiron organization this fall in spite of the loss of Capt. Eddie Dunn and several other stars. The schedule is not too easy, either. First, the Hurricanes take on Wake Forest which is never a setup for anybody, and then tackle the University of Tampa and Rollins on successive weekends. Then come Catholic University. That won't be an easy game. After that the going gets tougher all the time. Texas Tech, Drake, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina State, and the University of Georgia follow in that order and none of those teams are exactly setup.

"Action At Aquila"

The action of the Daytona Beach fans in attacking Umpire Dick Powell last night was understandable but neither commendable nor wise. In fact, it was nothing else than assault and battery. If a few of the persons who threw pop bottles and bricks could have been singled out, a charge of assault and battery with intent to injure—or even kill—could have been lodged, with an excellent chance that the assailants would be brought to trial and punished just as an offenders of the law. The fact that it was an angry mob instead of just one person makes no difference. Furthermore, the throwing of pop bottles and bricks as well as other missiles endangered persons other than Powell.

It is probably true that Umpire Dick Powell rendered several decisions throughout the game that were highly debatable. He favored neither team. His decisions were just as faulty on one side as the other. Sanford caught just as much as did Daytona Beach. But the difference is that Dale Alexander is a smarter fox than Tommy West. He knows better than to try to do something that can't be done—to try to get an umpire to reverse his decision on a play involving judgment.

Looking at the matter from Powell's angle: He was wrong many times and in our judgment could have been wrong on the disputed play when Red Lane attempted to catch a high fly and Powell called it foul. However, he called it as he saw it and even if he saw it wrong, he thought he was right and to change his decision would have been to admit he was wrong—and he didn't think he was wrong or he would not have given the decision in the first place as he did.

Tommy West should know by this time that no one has the right to question an umpire on judgment. Tommy loses his temper too quickly without thinking of results. For a while it seemed as though he might strike Powell, and that would have been bad enough for West as Powell could have handled himself pretty well with any single person in the park, having been a crack wrestler in his time. Dale Alexander cautioned Tommy to quiet down and told him it wasn't worth taking a chance on getting thrown out of baseball. Much of the blame for what might have happened had anyone been injured or killed could have been laid to West as his actions stirred the fans to a frenzy. There is no excuse for Powell for poor officiating—but neither is there any excuse for the actions of Tommy West, and the fans who tossed the pop bottles and bricks.

Undoubtedly the Daytona Beach club will have to pay for damage done to Powell's car as he was escorted out of the park by police with bottles and bricks breaking his windows and denting his new car. Clubs have been known to lose their franchises for similar incidents.

Jitterbug kicked the only two field goals registered by the Wave last year, returned 15 punts for 138 yards for an average of 9.2 and punted 10 times for 308 yards. His punting accomplishments seem poor at first glance but an examination of the record shows most of his punts were kicked out of bounds when Tulane was in enemy territory.

His punting was better than Tulane's team average. He threw 20 and completed 7 for 117 yards for a completed average of 5.8 percent. He converted 9 times out of 12 tries after touchdowns.

Which is a record sufficiently brilliant to stamp the Little Man with the Big Stuff as a halfback to be watched this fall.

Administration Foes May Seek Continuous Session Of Congress

Opponents Of President Desire To Keep Check On Foreign Policies Of Nation

Solons May Stop War Profiteers

Roosevelt May Ask Huge Sum To Expand Defenses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The American government would not be warring nations today that it "reserves all rights of United States and its nationals under international law" and will take appropriate measures when these rights are violated.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Senatorial foes of President Roosevelt's proposal to repeal the arms embargo served notice today they would try to hold Congress in Washington continuously after it convenes in special session on Thursday to keep check on the Administration's foreign policy.

There was also talk that he might ask an appropriation of $100,000,000 to expand and expedite the national defense program.

Administration may insist that the embargo be lifted, and it is generally expected that through it this Nation deprives Great Britain of the advantage to be gained from its huge fleet and control of the sea.

They contend, too, that it is inconsistent to embargo actual war implements—guns, ammunition, airplanes and the like—and yet freely permit the sale of the raw materials from which the instruments of death can be manufactured.

It is freely asserted that if the embargo is lifted, Britain's sea power will be to it that only England and her allies have access to American-made arms.

From this, the opponents of repeal draw their principal counter argument. To make American arms available to Great Britain by changing the law at this stage would, they assert, be an act unfriendly to Germany and therefore neutral. It would be an act of such potentialities, they add, that the eventual entry of the United States into the war would be inevitable.

Several billion dollars of foreign funds are on deposit or under contract, the expenditure of which would, of course, entail no borrowing or extension of credit, but would increase existing deposits and excess reserves.

The Government is in a position today that it did not occupy in the past to assure ample supplies of credit on favorable terms to meet any demand, both public and private, that is likely to arise in the future.

State Maturity Laws Keep Urripe Oranges, Grapefruit Off Market

LAKELAND, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Maturity laws in keeping with the market continue to be demonstrated again this week, as the new crop hangs on the trees in contrast to past years when considerable volume had gone North up to the same date.

The new maturity law prohibits picking citrus until it shows a natural break in color. This is supplemental to a more rigid chemical test. The color requirement apparently is the big factor at present, however, in preventing movement of fruit which might otherwise qualify.

A considerable volume of fruit, of questionable palatability even though it passed the former less stringent maturity tests, had moved to market up to Sept. 12 in past years. Records of the state inspection bureau showed that 173,182 boxes of Florida citrus, principally grapefruit, had been shipped up to this date last season in 1937, there had been 22,800 boxes moved up to that time, and the year before 104,800 boxes were shipped.

Dade county moved the first citrus northward on a commercial basis last year when 804 boxes left that section on August 24. Lee county followed with a shipment seven days later. In 1937, Manatee county was the first section to move fruit, with 122 boxes leaving Sept. 1. Dade county followed two days later with 402 boxes, and Lee shipped 400 boxes the next day. Polk county, Florida's largest citrus producer, started shipping on Sept. 6.

Dade county's first again in 1936, when 400 boxes of grapefruit moved out on August 25, followed by 800 boxes more the next day. Dade, Manatee and Lee counties all joined the shipping procession on August 31, with 800 boxes out of Dade, 604 out of Manatee and 1,313 out of Lee.

While the above figures and dates are historical, they do show clearly that fruit, usually left Florida by Sept. 1, under the former maturity requirements. Up to Sept. 12 this year, the inspection bureau had not received request for an inspector, indicating it would still be several days before the first commercial shipment would be made in any volume.

Rainy weather is said to have delayed the start of the new season, by preventing citrus from showing the "natural break in color" required by law. Grapefruit will move first, and it will be at least a month longer before oranges reach volume movement.

U. S. Has Ample Supply Of Funds For Credit Needs

Eccles Reports Largest Cash Reserves In Nation's History

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said yesterday "in my opinion the country is assured of a supply of funds which is far more ample than that which may be expected to arise as a result of the outbreak of war abroad."

Eccles, here on vacation, issued a press statement which contained "Excess reserves of the banking system are now approximately $2,000,000,000, there is every prospect that this unprecedented volume will continue to increase."

"Bank deposits and currency in circulation is billions of dollars in excess of all past totals. At no time have the great business and industrial organizations of the country had larger cash resources on which they could be drawing to finance their expansion in their operations."

"Several billion dollars of foreign funds are on deposit or under contract, the expenditure of which would, of course, entail no borrowing or extension of credit, but would increase existing deposits and excess reserves."

The Government is in a position today that it did not occupy in the past to assure ample supplies of credit on favorable terms to meet any demand, both public and private, that is likely to arise in the future.

British Troops Join French In German Thrust

Allied Forces Continue Advances In Saar Under Cover Of Artillery And Planes

By TAYLOR HENRY PARIS, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Several hundred thousand British troops have landed in France unhampered either by submarine or aerial attack, it was announced last night.

Announcement of the achievement was made in authorized quarters shortly after Premier Daladier had reformed his cabinet for "win the war" purposes, with himself as premier, minister of foreign affairs and minister of war and national defense.

It also followed an official communique stating that French troops fighting their way forward in the Westphalian area of Germany again had bettered their positions after having previously gained a mile.

The addition of two ministries—blockade and armament—and the consolidation of the national defense and foreign affairs ministries under Daladier, gave the cabinet 21 members compared with 19 in the previous government.

Daladier named Georges Perret, who has held public works and justice posts in previous cabinets, to the blockade ministry, while René Dautry, former director of the French national railways, was made armament minister. Georges Bonnet, former foreign minister, becomes minister of justice.

The Socialist party, the largest in the chamber of deputies, refused to participate in the government. Former Premier Blum, partly head, in a letter to Daladier, said the refusal was not directed at Daladier personally but that the Socialists could enter the cabinet only on condition they be permitted to participate in their political strength. They were offered two secondary ministries.

The official communique of war operations said explicitly that French naval forces had "reacted vigorously against enemy submarines."

Going more into detail, semi-official explanation today in publication in morning newspapers said "the most delicate of (Continued on Page Eight)

Larder For Aged Is Replenished By Loan Of $200,000

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A $200,000 loan pulled the State welfare department out of a tight spot yesterday.

Governor Coss and Comptroller Lee approved an advance from the department's dependent children's fund to be used for old age assistance and aid to the blind.

Clayton C. Coddington, welfare administrator, said the action will insure quick payment of old age pension and blind aid checks held up when funds became exhausted last week. Money was on hand then to take care of only one-third of those receiving old age benefits.

The welfare department has about $500,000 to its credit, but all is allocated for various purposes.

The yearly allocation of $400,000 is placed in the dependent children's fund in a lump sum and expenditures are made monthly, leaving a sizeable balance on hand.

Coss and Lee approved the loan with the stipulation that it be repaid within 90 days. Beverage taxes, which produce most welfare revenues, drop off in the summer and are insufficient to pay all department running expenses.

After Oct. 1 collections pick up enough to permit repayment of the loan without hampering the program.

Dr. Bell Speaks On Freedom From Socialized Medicine

Karl Nordgren was nominated for president of the Kiwanis Club yesterday at the regular meeting of the group at the Vesper Hotel.

Julius Dingfelder was nominated for first vice-president, O. P. Herndon was nominated for second vice-president, and Campbell was nominated for treasurer and Frank Lamson for financial secretary.

Dr. Kenneth Bell, surgeon, who has recently established practice in Sanford, addressed members of the club in connection with the maintenance of freedom from socialized medicine in the United States.

Dr. Bell explained that work of the "Golden Cross" organization is designed to promote the welfare of private hospitals by making them self-sufficient.

He explained that one of the great problems facing medicine in this country is whether the government will force socialized medicine on the medical profession. He indicated that proper support of private hospitals by medical groups will make unnecessary government control by extending help to all persons who are not able to obtain such services.

Nominations for directors of the organization were as follows: Walter Coleman, Dr. V. T. Doas, Sanford Doudney, E. C. Harper, John W. Hall, Robert Hayes, J. J. Kellaghan, Russell Mason, Basil Moore, Ed Randall, Fred Scott, A. D. Smalley, G. W. Workman, William Leavitt.

The nominations were made on secret ballot. Members of the club will vote on officers for the coming year on Sept. 27.

British Believe Germans May Seek American Bases

By MAX HARBELSON LONDON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The official British belief that Germany may attempt to establish submarine and air bases in South and Central America was expressed last night while the British government made it clear that its bombing operations in Germany depended on whether the Reich's high command carried out its threat to bomb unfortified Polish cities.

In a brief communique, the ministry of information said the government had reason to believe that Germany might try to build bases in the Central and South Americas and had instructed England's envoys to be on the watch.

The communique said the British representatives in the possibly affected countries had been told to "inquire the governments to which they are accredited to take all steps which may be necessary to prevent any branches of their neutrality."

At the same time, the British government told the stand that although it had agreed not to bomb civilians, it would claim a free hand if the German high command carried out its threat to bomb Polish towns to crush civilian resistance.

This warning was given by the foreign minister, Lord Halifax, in a speech to the House of Commons.

"The restrictions which His Majesty's government have imposed on their forces were based on the condition of similar restraint being observed by their opponents," he told the House of Lords.

Fire Sweeps Park On Coney Island

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A raging fire swept today along the boardwalk and through the amusement area of historic Coney Island.

Five alarms brought out 36 pieces of land fire fighting equipment and a fireboat. Firemen said the flames started near the boardwalk entrance to the park which covers a square block in the resort.

Half an hour after the start, the Western Union magazine building was engulfed in flames and apparently destroyed.

A boy was reported critically injured and several others were hurt in an explosion.

Nazis Draft Second Line Troops Up To 55

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The ministry of information in a bulletin yesterday said it had been reported that Germany already had drafted into her landwehr (second line troops for home defense) men from 41 to 55 years old.

It added that these veterans were completing at having been called up before younger men.

City Building Shows Uptrend For September

Construction, Repair Permits For Two Weeks Are $9,360

New construction and repair work in the City of Sanford took an upward trend during the first two weeks in September, according to a record of building permits issued by Building Inspector G. P. Paxton, which shows that this month totals $9,360.

The largest permit, for $4,200, was issued to the Florida Power and Light Company for the construction of a refrigerator and ice storage house at the corner of French Avenue and Seventh Street.

This ice storage house, to be of concrete construction, will replace the present storage house on Holly Avenue. H. E. Tolman, manager of the Florida Power and Light Company, stated the new site was selected because of its more central location. Work is already well underway on this project and foundation forms have already been poured.

A permit was granted to the St. Johns River Line for the construction of an addition to present wharf facilities at an estimated cost of $3,000.

This addition will be constructed on the west side of the present dock and will extend into Lake Monroe for the same distance. Work is also well underway on this project with most of the piling already driven.

The remainder of the total of building permits for this month were for repair work.

Permits issued this week include one for J. E. Terwilliger for roofing his home on Oak Avenue at an estimated cost of $250; repairs estimated at $100 to the awning of the Smith Brothers Furniture Store, repairs to a garage apartment on Elm Avenue owned by A. J. Walker, estimated to cost $200; an addition to the home of W. O. Harrell on West First Street at an estimated cost of $350 and repairs to the packing shed of W. E. Kirchoff, Jr., on Thirteenth Street at an estimated cost of $150.

Building permits for the month of July totaled $9,720 as compared with a $14,883 total for the same month in 1938.

Poles Jubilant Over Precipitation As Hitler Reports New Successes In Drive

SAINT JOHN, N. H., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A radio warning to all shipping in the Bay of Fundy was sent out today, after fishermen reported they had spotted a craft which they believed to be a submarine.

The fishermen told Marine Agent H. F. Morrissey they sighted the vessel low in water, ten miles southeast of Grand Manan Island, 70 miles southwest of Saint John Harbor.

Poland's prayers for rain were reported answered today as Germany's motorized columns rolled steadily deeper into Polish territory.

Poland has counted on "general mud" as an ally to bog down Germany's mechanized forces. A Warsaw dispatch to Budapest said the heavy autumn rains had begun falling and the populace of beleaguered Warsaw is rejoicing.

But the German high command reported Warsaw encircled, Lublin cut off from Lwow and a third force advancing on Brest-Litovsk east of Warsaw. Informed cables in Berlin also said the Polish port of Gdynia had fallen.

Both Paris and Berlin reported heavy German artillery fire on the Western front. French military dispatches said French forces were closing in on three sides at Saarbrücken, the industrial center of the rich Saar basin.

Radio broadcasts from Warsaw indicated the Polish capital still is withstanding the German attacks, but was a half ruined city.

Great Britain moved cautiously toward releasing the full power of her war machine on Germany as Prime Minister Chamberlain declared that if Poland would lend its strength the resolve of Britain and her allies to "crush the menace we are now fighting is fully revealed."

This was added to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax's declaration that any German bombing of undefended cities would "free Britain's hand."

In Moscow, Soviet Russia charged Polish warplanes with frequently an authoritative German frontiers.

A radio message in New York reported one of its stations intercepted a radio call from the British ship Vancouver City saying it had been torpedoed near the English channel. The crew was rescued by a Dutch tanker and an airplane.

A frequently authoritative German commentary charged President Roosevelt with an "unfair" attitude. The Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, concluded that the United States President, in effect, said last year in Canada that the British Dominion might attack a European power but that a power might not strike back at Canada.

Changes in France's cabinet did not materially affect the political aspect of the French government. Pope Pius XII told the new Belgian ambassador to the Holy See he would continue to seek an occasion for concluding a peace honorable to all.

Poland's battered army resumed its steady retreat to the east yesterday after momentarily holding Germany's smashing land and air attack along the San and Vistula rivers.

As newly so could be told from fragmentary information reaching this bombed and famished city, had been broken by Nazi Germany's forces in four places: 1. 30 miles northeast of Warsaw at Wyszakow.
