And the proportion of brains, hearts and souls that this industry absorbs, in comparison with the three other leading countries in the world, is an inspiring revelation of América's thirst for knowledge. In Germany, the country that manks next to the United States, in the scope of its educational equipment, 20 per cent of the population are in school; in Great Britain, 19 per cent; in France, 17 per cent.

In the United States there are 23,-500,000 persons curofied in various educational institutions. What an army of hope that is-the army that will create and guard America's future!-New York Mall.

Material for Shoes.

For shoes what will come after leather? Cloth of suitable kinds may be used and rubber or similar material may enter into the product, but manufacturers seem to look most hopefully upon paper as the basic substance. Paper leather of attractive appearance, adapted for many purposes as well as the natural leather, is, in fact, said to be satisfactorily made already. In a German process, paper of long fiber is converted into pulp, suitably colored, made flexible with glycerine and non-drying oils and waterproofed with shellac solution given the grain of morecco or other leather by pressing in a matrix and finished with lacquer. The matrix is formed by taking an impression of the natural leather in shellac.
