NEWS DIGEST

COMING SUNDAY

The Lake Forest housing development currently under construction on a site northwest of State Road 46 and South Oregon Avenue has been the centerpiece of a controversy involving a couple of state agencies.

The source of the conflict is a multi-acre tract of wetlands property and a proposed tradeoff from the project's developers.

Water tax rate hike proposed

PALATKA — Officials with the St. Johns Water Management District are proposing a 25-percent increase in the district tax rate next.

The district, which includes Seminole County, is expanding its purchases of environmentally-sensitive lands, said district budget manager Tom Bates. The purchases will be partially financed with taxes and a proposed $80 million bond issue.

The increase will raise the current year's tax rate from about 28 cents per $1,000 of taxable property to about 35 cents per $1,000 of taxable property. The average homeowner with a $75,000 house and a $25,000 homestead exemption, will pay $17.60 in district taxes next year. This year, the same homeowner would have paid $14.05 in taxes.

Police confiscate drugs, cash

MIDWAY — City County Investigative Bureau agents report serving a search warrant on a Midway house at about 3:30 p.m. Thursday, and confiscating $19,000 and cocaine.

In addition to the Midway house, two Sanford houses and a Volusia County house, believed to have been occupied by participants in a gang that allegedly manufactured and sold crack cocaine, were searched. Several arrests were made.

Cocaine and large amounts of cash were confiscated from the house at 241 Jitway Ave., Midway. The house is located less than 1,000 feet from Midway Elementary School, arrests reports said. That increases the potential punishment on conviction, police said.

Occupants of the house, Rose Gadsden Roundtree, 41, of that address, and Sean Dewitt Wearen, 23, of 1212 Golden Gate Circle, Sanford, were charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school.

Also arrested at that house was Lisa Diane Mobley, 26, of 1860 S. Summerlin Ave., Sanford. Agents reported she was a passenger in Wearen's BMW, which was confiscated. Mobley was allegedly carrying an ice pick in her purse and was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Lake Mary tax hike

Fire protection reason for proposed increase

By SANDRA BOUCHANINE
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — After intense discussion last night, the city commission on 3-2 votes approved preliminarily an $8.1 million budget for 1990 that calls for an approximate 12-percent hike in property taxes.

The main reason given for the proposed increase in taxes is to pay for the switch away from a volunteer fire department to one with nine full-time firefighters beginning Jan. 1.

"The city attorney and I have explored the methods available to pay for this service and have concluded that the only practical alternative is through the general fund as opposed to any special type of levy which would require a referendum." City Manager John Litton wrote in a prepared statement.

Litton recommended property taxes of $4,377.2 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The current

Deer farm owners fighting back to save home from road builders

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Carl "Buddy" Lee and his wife Marjorie are fighting to save their deer farm from Seminole County road-builders.

"I've probably spent over 100 hours looking for another place," Lee said. "I haven't found another place that comes up to my place. We've been here for 33 years this month. It's kind of hard to replace that."

The county wants to build a two-lane road through the Lee's home and deer farm on Stanley Avenue west of Sanford. Lee has more than 50 deer he raises for breeders and other people on the quiet property not far from Interstate 4. County commissioners

Longwood cop exonerated in deadly chase

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Sanford police who conducted an internal police probe into a Longwood police sergeant's decision to conduct a high-speed chase that led to the deaths of three persons in Orange County Aug. 24, have found no fault with the sergeant's decision or actions.

Sgt. Wayne Roberts was following Longwood police chase policy when he began the pursuit at about 2:30 a.m. which led him on a chase that ended with the car he was pursuing crashing head-on into another car on State Road 50, west of Orlando, Sanford police concluded.

Sanford police "found that he (Roberts) had complied with the pursuit policy," a city official confirmed this morning.

It was Roberts' decision to pursue the car that fled when he tried to make a traffic stop of that vehicle, when the driver failed to dim the car's lights on State Road 434 in Longwood.

Longwood's chase policy, police said, is for the pursuing officer to check with his supervisor to determine when and for how long to pursue a fleeing car. They may pursue outside the city limits, Longwood Capt. Terry Baker said. Since Roberts was the shift supervisor it was his decision alone as to whether or not to continue the chase.

NAACP effort doesn't reach projected goal

SANFORD — The Seminole County president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People chapter said the organization's Labor Day weekend economic demonstration only met one-tenth of the group's expectations.

Turner Clayton, Seminole County NAACP president, said tallies kept by local banks show only $1,345 in Susan B. Anthony dollars and $2 bills were exchanged last week for the group's Black Dollar Days demonstration. The chapter had hoped local black residents would spend more than $10,000 in the rare bills and coins across the county from Sept. 1 through Sept. 4.

Barnett Bank reported $900 of the $5,000 in $2 bills and silver dollars on hand had been exchanged. Sun Bank reported $445 in the bills and coins were exchanged of $2,000 in stock.

SECME program expands students' opportunities

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In an attempt to get young minority students interested in math and science careers, a Sanford Middle School staff member has joined a program developed by the Southeastern Consortium for Minorities in Engineering (SECME). The program will help minority students at Sanford Middle School and Goldsboro Elementary School get a taste of educational opportunities they might otherwise be denied.

"There's a lot of emphasis on math and the sciences," Cynthia

Holt, an assistant principal at Sanford Middle School, said, "but we also stress building success through a good self-image and having them have a well-rounded personality."

Minority students are chosen for the program by their teachers and recommended either because they are advanced in their studies or because they show the potential to succeed. Holt said most of the students in the program might not get such opportunities elsewhere.

"The numbers of minority role models in math or the sciences or many other academic fields is low," Holt explained. There is a great

DOT: State needs $11.5 billion more for road projects

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The state Department of Transportation says Florida needs to spend about $11.5 billion more than is already planned in the next five years for road and public transit projects.

But, acting DOT Secretary Ben Watts said the figure far exceeds what his department reasonable could recommend.

"That's a bigger number than any of us can stand, in terms of logically asking the people of Florida to deal with it," Watts told the Miami Herald.

The report was in response to a request this summer by the House of Representatives that the DOT compile a wish list of projects that could be done within the next five years, ignoring financial restraints.

The list did not include projects that already are part of the state's $7 billion, five-year transportation plan.

House members Monday will begin considering the DOT report as they prepare for a November special legislative session.

Hit-and-run driver sought

Sanford policeman R. L. Cummings examines a motorcycle whose passenger, Rebecca Ann Pritchard, 28, of Longwood, is in critical condition today following a 10:30 p.m. Thursday accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. Police are seeking a late model, dark silver grey Pontiac Trans Am, which they said struck the cycle from behind as both traveled north. The Pontiac has extensive damage to the front, including a headlight and the left fender well, police said. The driver of the bike, George E. Prior, 43, was treated and released from a local hospital. Pritchard was airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Martinez: Two more to die

Deputies protest low pay

PENSACOLA — About 75 sheriff's deputies and their families held a protest outside the Escambia County Courthouse Thursday to complain about what they consider unfair salaries.

Veteran law officers said they only make about $20,000 a year, less than law enforcement officers elsewhere in the state. Some deputies claim they have not received a raise in eight years.

But officials at the Escambia County budget office said officers have received regular cost-of-living adjustments ranging from 2 to 3 percent, the amount of the last adjustment.

Starting salary for a deputy in Escambia County is $18,400, and after seven years it is $18,830. Deputies in nearby Santa Rosa County start out at even less — $15,963 — with a top range of $21,403 after seven years.

GOP legislator considering campaign

TALLAHASSEE — Sen. Mariene Woodson-Howard is not going to leave the Republican Party nomination for governor next year to Gov. Bob Martinez by default.

The Bradenton Republican told The Tampa Tribune Wednesday it is "highly likely" she will seek the GOP nomination despite efforts by party chairman Van Poole to dissuade her from running against Martinez in his expected bid for re-election.

"If there were not anti-Martinez feeling, I wouldn't be running," she said.

Woodson-Howard said she has disagreed with Martinez over such topics as his early support of the ill-fated tax on services and on his refusal to consider a gasoline tax increase to pay for road construction.

Officials eye Air Force land

CRESTVIEW — Okaloosa Correctional Institution's expansion project has state and local officials pondering the possibility of getting additional land from Eglin Air Force Base.

The Department of Corrections plans to ask the Air Force to donate 40 acres adjacent to the prison, DOC assistant secretary Bill Thurber said. Eglin rejected a similar DOC request about a year ago.

The $14 million project, including a new work camp, dormitories and medical building, is nearly completed. Two new housing units for 300 inmates should be finished early next year, OCI superintendent Carl Kirkland said. The expansion could eventually mean as many as 170 new jobs.

Eglin commander gets second star

ROLIN AIR FORCE BASE — Maj. Gen. Kenneth E. Staten, commander of the Munitions Systems Division since last year, has pinned on his second star, base officials said.

Staten, 50, was selected for promotion from brigadier general to major general last December. The 1961 Air Force Academy graduate began his career flying F-100 fighters in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, at nearby Hurlburt Field, Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Eggers Thursday will assume command of the 23rd Air Force. Eggers, former deputy director of plans for special operations in Washington, is taking over the post held by Maj. Gen. Robert B. Patterson, who is retiring after 33 years in the military.

Governor to appear in TV movie

TALLAHASSEE — If Florida's Gov. Bob Martinez keeps it up, he will soon have to join the Screen Actors Guild.

Fresh from the success of his very brief appearance in the latest James Bond film, "License to Kill," Martinez is adding yet another role to his acting resume, this time in a made-for-TV movie.

The governor's office announced Thursday that Martinez will appear this Sunday in "Thunderboat Row," a movie filmed earlier this year in South Florida. The two-hour movie will air at 9 p.m. EDT on the ABC television network.

The governor portrays himself, speaking three lines in a scene in which he and other officials discuss how to unite the efforts of competing law enforcement agencies as they pursue drug dealers. The scene was filmed April 5 in Miami.

In "License to Kill," the governor had no speaking lines and appeared on screen for a few seconds, dressed as a U.S. Customs official.

Gabrielle nibbles at Felix's feet

MIAMI — Hurricane Gabrielle closed in on Tropical Storm Felix in the north Atlantic Friday and began to gobble up the smaller storm as the pair headed for Nova Scotia.

The massive Gabrielle was well north of Bermuda, but continued to spew out ocean swells that brought abnormally high waves to the island and the east coast of the United States. The National Weather Service issued alerts for coastal areas from central Florida to New England.

At 6 a.m. EDT Friday, Gabrielle was centered near latitude 34.9 north, longitude 59.5 west.

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez signed death warrants Thursday for death row inmates Edward Dean Kennedy and John Richard Marek, boosting to eight the number currently awaiting execution in Florida.

The executions were scheduled for Oct. 11 at the Florida State Prison near Starke. Both are on their second warrant.

Last week, Martinez broke a summer-long hiatus by signing death warrants for six condemned men. One of them, Joseph Robert Spaziano, nicknamed "Crazy Joe," is scheduled to be electrocuted next Thursday for the murder of a young woman. Spaziano is from Seminole County.

Spaziano was refused a stay of execution Wednesday by a Sanford circuit judge. The Florida Supreme Court was scheduled to hear his appeal next Tuesday.

Kennedy, 46, was sentenced in the shooting deaths of state trooper Robert McDermott and Floyd Cone, Jr., in Duval County. Cone and McDermott were cousins and were helping look for Kennedy after a 1981 prison break.

Kennedy had taken refuge in Cone's trailer and shot both men after they surprised him hiding there. As 150 officers converged on the trailer, he fled to a nearby home where he held a woman and her baby hostage, refusing to surrender until television cameras arrived.

At the time of his escape, Kennedy was serving a life sentence for murder.

Marek, 27, was sentenced for his part in the 1983 rape and murder of Adella Marie Simmons. She and a companion were returning from a vacation when their car broke down near Jupiter.

Simmons accepted an offer from Marek and a companion for a ride for help. Instead, they took her to a lifeguard shack on a nearby beach, raped her, then strangled her with a bandana.

Raymond Dewayne Wigley, the co-defendant, drew a life sentence.

Spaziano, 43, a member of the Outlaws motorcycle gang, was convicted in the torture, murder and mutilation of Laura Lynn Herberts, 18. Her body and that of another young woman was found in a trash dump after an Outlaws recruit reported Spaziano's boasts about killing women.

The other inmates currently under death warrants are Angel Diaz, Bryan F. Jennings and J.B. Parker, scheduled for execution Oct. 27; and Gregory Scott Engle and Richey Bernard Roberts, scheduled for execution Oct. 31.

Crawford unveils new child protection plan

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Senate might ignore Gov. Bob Martinez's demand to take up reforms for the state's child protection system in next month's abortion special session, Senate President Bob Crawford said Thursday.

Instead, the Senate might ask House leaders to discuss problems highlighted by the July abuse death of a 2-year-old Polk County boy as early as next week or as late as November, Crawford announced in a news conference.

The abortion special session, which officials fear may draw as many as 100,000 highly emotional demonstrators to the Capitol, might render impossible a dispassionate examination of the child protection system, he said.

He referred to his own $13.5 million plan unveiled Thursday to boost pay, training and oversight for child welfare case workers in the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Car seat saves baby from shotgun pellets

United Press International

MIAMI — An infant's car seat saved the life of a 14-month old girl, stopping a fatal shot of shotgun pellets fired by a robber.

The child, Shauna Hensult, was strapped in the rear seat of her parent's car when three men tried to rob them at a stoplight north of Miami.

When the family tried to escape, one robber fired his shotgun at the rear of the car. The hard plastic baby seat kept the pellets from entering the baby's back.

"If it wasn't for that car seat, homicide would be handling this case," said Metro-Dade robbery detective Jeff Lewis. "It saved her."

The child's parents, Phillip and Francine Hensult of Boca Raton, were in their 1989

Mitsubishi Tuesday with the baby and another daughter, Nicole Delgado, 7. They were on their way to an appliance store to pick up a microwave oven they had won in a contest and got lost.

Police said their car was stopped between two others at a stoplight when a trio of robbers walked up. One man leveled a shotgun at Phillip Hensult, who was driving, while two others walked around to the passenger door and pointed pistols at Francine Hensult.

The robbers ordered the family out of the car.

"It was unreal. They were acting like animals," Phillip Hensult said.

The family didn't budge.

"It's a miracle the baby wasn't killed," Phillip Hensult said.

Head-in-sand logo proposal angers DER

UPI report

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Department of Environmental Regulations has its head in the sand when it comes to protecting the state, according to a critic who is one of the agency's former employees.

So Lee McKnight wants the agency's logo changed to feature an ostrich with its head buried in the sand.

While DER Secretary Dale Twachtmann was eating lunch Wednesday in a local shopping center, McKnight, 48, was peddling a petition nearby to get the logo changed.

He's serious enough about the project that he's advertised the ostrich logo in the Tallahassee Democrat.

"It's not a joke. I don't pay $250 for jokes," McKnight said.

But the Secretary dismissed McKnight as "a clown."

Religious leaders back abortion

United Press International

MIAMI — Clergymen from several different religious sects joined together against further restrictions on abortion Thursday, saying they have a profound respect for both human life and a woman's right to make a choice.

A letter endorsed by 82 ministers from nine different religions said freedom of choice is just as important as the freedom to worship the religion of choice.

"The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution expressly commands our government to make no law establishing any one religion or prohibiting free expression of religion, and we would safeguard this freedom for all persons," it said.

"In addition, we recognize that decisions regarding pregnancy are very personal, and we express our confidence in the ability of a woman to exercise her own religious and ethical judgment," it said. "For these reasons, we oppose any legislation which would further restrict access to safe and legal abortions."

The one page statement, coordinated by the southeast region of the American Jewish Congress, was signed by ministers from the Unitarian, United Church of Christ, Baptist, Episcopal, Jewish, Methodist, Presbyterian, Quaker and Catholic faiths.

It was released at a press conference in which the group talked about the upcoming special legislative session on abortion scheduled to begin Oct. 10.

Parents group wants to abolish HRS

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A citizens group called Thursday for the abolishment of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, saying the agency is too large to efficiently deal with child-abuse cases.

The group, which is sponsoring a Florida Families Caravan to Abolish HRS, said it plans to tour from Miami to Tallahassee the weekend of Sept. 23, holding news conferences at several cities along the way and ending with a conference at the Governor's Office Sept. 25.

Along the way, members hope to meet with House Speaker Tom Gustafson, D-Fort Lauderdale, and Senate President Bob Crawford, D-Winter Haven, to discuss their plans for restructuring HRS.

"As long as you're putting more money into HRS, you're not solving the problem," said Pat Cook, the North Florida spokeswoman for an organization called Valuing Our Children and Laws, one of the sponsors of the caravan.

Cook blamed the size of the agency and poorly trained case workers for the death of Bradley McGee, a 2-year-old Lakeland boy who was killed in July several days after a judge ordered he be returned to his family.

Cook said HRS needs to be restructured, creating a separate agency to handle child abuse cases.

Family claims fake police attack; prepares to flee Florida for Maine

United Press International

CASSELBERRY — Gary Wade, who told authorities he was the victim of assault and robbery in his own home by men posing as police officers to gain entry, says he has had enough of Florida and is moving to Maine.

"It's quieter, slower and there aren't as many nuts around," said the south Seminole County man. "I pray to God this won't happen to me or my family again."

Wade, his wife and 12-year-old son lived through a 10-minute nightmare that "seemed like 10 hours" when Wade answered a knock at his door to find three men dressed in dark clothing, wearing masks and toting pistols.

"They yelled, 'This is the police department,'" Wade recalled. "We're on a drug raid."

The intruders moved so fast Wade, 38, at first believed the men were officers.

"All I was thinking was I'm going to see the hell out of the city for this," Wade said.

The men tied up Wade and his wife and threatened to kill the family. The men searched the house and stole credit cards, about $1,600 in cash and more than $3,500 in jewelry and other items.

Wade was able to free himself and call authorities after the men finally left without harming anyone.

Sheriff's Investigator Willie Chandler said the department had no suspects, and he did not believe the Tuesday night episode was related to other attacks in which people posed as police officers asking for drugs.

Two men burst into a Longwood home in February, holding a 23-year-old woman at gunpoint and threatening to rape her before leaving with her jewelry.

Sanford man charged with burglary

SANFORD — Police have arrested Michael Allen Christian, 37, of 1118 1/2 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, on charges with burglary and criminal mischief.

City police allege he burglarized the apartment where his former girlfriend is staying at 1113-A S. Myrtle Ave. The apartment was damaged Tuesday and two televisions were broken, police said. A witness reportedly identified Christian as a suspect in the case and he was arrested at home at about 3 p.m. Thursday. Bond is $5,000.

Fingerprints link man to burglary

WINTER PARK — A fingerprint match from prints lifted at the scene of an Aug. 9 burglary to 1050 Reading Court, rural Winter Park, and the reported confession of a co-defendant have led to a burglary charge against a 20-year-old Casselberry man.

Michael Anthony Hopwood, of 1126 Helen St., Casselberry, was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies at home at about 7 p.m. Thursday. He is accused of stealing about $4,000 in jewelry from the burglarized house. The co-defendant, Michal G. Gilbert, 24, was arrested Sept. 1.

Man arrested on a DUI charge

SANFORD — The following person faces a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

Stephen Carl Crawford, 42, of 189 Manor Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 3:30 p.m. Thursday after his truck crossed the centerline of Manor Drive.

2 judges in hospital; retired jurists fill in

By BRAD GIBSON
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Retired judges have been assigned to fill in for two Seminole Circuit Court judges who are hospitalized, according to the 18th Circuit Court administrator's office in Titusville.

Judge Harold Johnson, 59, underwent surgery Thursday at Central Florida Regional Hospital for colon cancer. The hospital reports Johnson is doing well after the surgery and is expected to remain hospitalized for about two weeks.

Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. underwent an appendectomy Tuesday at Winter Park Memorial Hospital. He is recovering from the surgery and does not yet know when he will be able to return to the bench.

Other judges juggled their schedules and covered hearings assigned to the two judges this week.

Judge Volie Williams will be assigned to Judge Eaton's cases next week through the end of the month. Judge William W. Henderson Jr. has been assigned to fill in for Judge Davis next week, and Judge Frederick DeFuria has been assigned the following week.

"The court administrator's office said the three replacement judges are retired judges who fill in when needed throughout the state.

Wildlife officer nabs man on gator-hunting charge

By SUSAN LOREN
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In his first night out "babysitting" licensed alligator hunters, state Wildlife Officer Jesse Baker arrested a man suspected of hunting gators without a license.

The arrest Wednesday night of Thomas Millard Zuber, 33, of Allendale, was made in Lake Jesup, which Baker said is off limits to all gator hunters.

Zuber, Baker said, allegedly had a gator jig and was using a light to scan the water for alligators while waiting for a licensed hunter's agent with whom he was scheduled to hunt.

Zuber didn't take a gator and was cited for attempting to take an alligator without a license and hunting in an off-limits area.

Baker said the serial numbers on Zuber's boat and motor may have been altered or unassigned, so more charges may be pending against him. Baker said his investigation continues.

The charge against Zuber is a misdemeanor and is the first negative Seminole County incident reported in connection with this year's hunt, which began Sept. 1 and will run through the end of this month, Baker said.

Two teachers claim age discrimination in law suit

By VICKI BOGGS
 Herald staff writer

WINTER PARK — A pair of teachers have filed an age discrimination suit in District Court in Orlando against the Seminole County School District.

In two separate suits prepared by Miami attorney Irving Miller, Christine Droids and Joan Hooper allege that they were victims of age discrimination when they were dismissed from their jobs at Eastbrook Elementary School, 5525 Tangerine Ave., Winter Park, in April 1988.

"These women are not litigious," Miller said this morning. "They feel that their rights have been seriously violated."

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 outlaws discrimination against workers between the ages of 40 and 70. Both women are about 50 years old.

"What I see as the issue here is that the experienced teachers who were in the higher pay range," Miller said, "were replaced by teachers fresh from school who could be paid far less."

Miller added that while such practices are expedient, they are illegal.

In 1988, Mary Jane Armstrong, then principal of Eastbrook, decided not to renew the contracts of the two women in response to a district request to cut back on instructional personnel due to the reduced enrollment. The lower student numbers were caused by the elementary school rezoning which was to be implemented for the 1988-89 school year.

"The non-renewal of these contracts was due only to staff reductions," School Board attorney Ned Julian said.

The suits allege the two were replaced by younger teachers at Eastbrook. Personnel department officials could not confirm that allegation.

Armstrong recently reported to the board that both teachers had received derogatory reports in key areas on their annual evaluation. It was for that reason, Armstrong had said, that she chose to terminate Droids and Hooper.

According to the suits, Droids had 18 years of experience at the second and third grade level, including two years in Seminole County, and Hooper had 20 years experience, including 16 years as a second grade teacher and a year in Seminole County.

"If the board did not feel that they had a factually and legally sound case," Julian said, "they would have arrived at another resolution."

Julian said he has met with Supt. Robert Hughes, director of personnel John Reichert, district chief negotiator Ernest Cowley and board chairman Ann Neiswender and they feel this case is one which should be "aggressively defended."

Neither attorney wanted to hazard a guess as to when the case would make it to court.

"We are just beginning the discovery stages of this case," Miller said. "We hope the Seminole County School Board will see the errors of their ways and reinstate these teachers before we ever get to court."

Here's 1 small step for space capitalism

Capitalism is destined for the stars. We should have guessed that would happen when science-fiction movies started portraying the perils of cargo spaceships, their blue-collar crews dodging asteroid belts and battling hostile aliens.

True, it might take a few centuries for real-life astronauts to cruise the universe, servicing distant planets and space stations. But the same promise of new wealth and strange lands that led Columbus to discover the New World is bound to lure entrepreneurs to the moon and beyond.

For now, America's private sector has begun its venture into the commercial Space Age on a modest scale. On Aug. 27, McDonnell Douglas became the first private company to launch its own rocket.

While Voyager II was transmitting spectacular photos from Neptune and its strange moon, Triton, the McDonnell Douglas Delta rocket performed the relatively simple task of boosting a British television satellite into orbit around Earth.

Nevertheless, it represented a significant milestone. It put an American company in a position to compete for the lucrative satellite-launching business.

The United States lost its edge after the shuttle explosion in 1986. The accident not only set back our manned space program, it also shut down our commercial satellite-launching capacity. With America out of the picture, at least temporarily, the Soviets and Europeans came to dominate the satellite market.

The lesson was clear: Too much reliance on one effort can undermine other aspects of our space programs. The lower-tech rockets of West Europe's Arianespace worked often enough for the company to win the satellite-launching space race. But all the satellite launching was done by government or government-owned companies. That is, until the other day, when an American firm put our country back into contention.

Who knows just where the profit motive will take our space entrepreneurs?

Today, satellites. Tomorrow, maybe some company will offer to take tourism to new heights, by operating an orbiting space hotel. Or perhaps some venture capitalists will find ways to mine precious minerals on Mars.

The possibilities are as limitless as space itself — and perhaps as inevitable as the Dutch West India Co. following in the wake of the New World's discoverers.

Ta-ta, N.Y. California, here I come

About the time you read this, I will be en route by plane from New York City to San Francisco. Roughly half of my furniture and other belongings should be crossing the Mississippi as I write, in a monster 18-wheeler that will deliver them to my condo on Nob Hill, with its breath-catching view of Coit Tower and the Bay and San Francisco's spectacular financial district.

I won't be abandoning New York altogether, except perhaps spiritually. I will keep my rented apartment on Murray Hill, will spend significant amounts of time here, and assuredly intend to return on major Election Days to vote.

But I have wanted to live in San Francisco, at least part-time, for a third of a century, and as soon as my retirement from National Review made it possible, I resolved to indulge that wish.

I was born in Chicago, but my father's business affairs brought us East when I was only seven, and I have lived in the New York area, with negligible exceptions, ever since. The Bee-Wash Corridor was incontestably the place to be in those days, if you wanted (as I did) to participate in our national politics and make a living commenting on them. And, to be fair, New York City during most of the past 40 years was a far more appealing place to live than it has recently become.

Even so, the West's historic tug on the American heart was always strong in me, and I will never forget the day in the summer of 1966 when I first saw San Francisco. I had arrived the night before, to attend the Republican national convention that was being held there to renominate Eisenhower. That first morning a fellow New Yorker who had arrived a day or two earlier grabbed me and took me up Nob Hill to the corner of California and Powell and just waved, speechless, at the panorama before us.

My condo is exactly one block from where we stood that day.

San Francisco, like New York, has taken some hard knocks since 1966. But having five times circumnavigated the globe, and visited repeatedly just about every country on this side of the Iron and Bamboo Curtains, I have come to the firm conclusion that San Francisco is the city for me.

Note that I said "city." Born in Chicago and raised in New York, I require an urban — yes, and a cosmopolitan — environment. Country or small-town living would send me straight up the nearest wall.

On the other hand, I am totally immune to the touted charms of sandy beaches and a hot sun, so that lets out St. Tropez, Miami, Los Angeles, and a lot of other places. San Francisco's cool, bracing weather — with less than half of New York's rainfall and a mercifully even climate that is almost never really hot or really cold — suits me to a "T." Even the fog is beautiful, rolling in from the Pacific like a gas attack in World War I.

Let me stress, in case you're wondering, that there's no "retirement" involved here. Columns, radio commentaries, books, articles, and speeches will continue to gush out of me at the usual torrential rate. And the time I devoted to National Review will henceforth be spent on the activities of the Claremont Institute for the Study of Statesmanship and Political Philosophy, of which I recently became a Senior Fellow.

I have wanted to live in San Francisco.

Do generic drugs work well?

WASHINGTON — In the fast-growing generic drug scandal, an old debate has been thrust into the spotlight again: Are generic drugs as effective as the name brands they seek to replace?

Generic drugs are copies of brand name pharmaceuticals whose patents have expired. They are usually marketed as cheaper alternatives. There are currently some 8,000 generics on the market, accounting for about a third of the multibillion-dollar prescription drug industry.

Before a generic drug can be released, it must pass a series of FDA-mandated bioequivalence tests. The current scandal has emerged over the past year. It involves charges that FDA generic drug inspectors were bribed to certify some generic drugs, and that drug companies cheated during bioequivalence tests and on subsequent production testing.

So far, the FDA has removed four generic drugs from the market and has initiated steps to remove 28 more made by two drug companies believed to have cheated on tests and falsified production records. In addition, the FDA has announced it is retesting 30 top-selling generic products, and starting a massive re-inspection program of the 20 top generic-drug makers.

In the meantime, the FDA keeps issuing assurances that it has found no instances of "unsafe" generics being offered for sale.

To many doctors and pharmacologists, the question is not really one of safety. Rather they question whether all generics are clinically as effective as the brand-name products they seek to replace. It is a debate that has raged in the medical profession for over a decade, and it seems to have grown hotter in recent months.

At the heart of the problem is the standard employed by the FDA for acceptance of a generic product as a name-brand duplicate. The generic compound must be a chemical equivalent, and concentrations in the bloodstream must not vary by more than plus or minus 20 percent.

The latter standard is what is causing doctors the most problems. It means that a generic may be up to 20 percent stronger or weaker than the name-brand drug it replaces. More important, two generic replacements for the same brand-name drug can be as much as 40 percent different in strength from one another.

The generic industry counters any criticism of this standard by correctly stating that the 20 percent plus-or-minus strength difference is the same standard applied to any given production run in the name-brand pharmaceutical industry.

But the generic industry does not have to undergo the same blind clinical trials as name-brand drug companies do when they first introduce a drug. Nor do they have to go through any kind of long-term clinical studies comparing their generic drugs' effectiveness with that of the original.

Thus, most evidence for or against the effectiveness of generic drugs tends to be anecdotal — individual doctors experiencing problems with the use of generics for specific patients.

That is not to say that there have not been organized studies of generic-drug effectiveness. The FDA itself appointed a Bioequivalence Task Force that has met since 1986. After 50 meetings attended by over 800 experts, it concluded last year — in a report that seems to damn with faint praise — that there is no definitive scientific evidence proving that generic drugs are not as effective as name-brand drugs.

But a number of physician specialty organizations — especially those whose members treat patients using medications to control heart conditions, seizure disorder, allergies, asthma, metabolism and dermatological conditions — have warned that variance in treatment outcome among patients may be related to use of generics.

Perhaps the most extensive study of generics has just been completed by the American Academy of Family Physicians. It too reaches no definitive conclusions about the overall effectiveness of generics. But the study does make some strong statements about who should not use generics: those who take a drug for an extended period (60 days or more); the very young and the elderly, because they are highly susceptible to small dosage differences; and those taking other medicines at the same time, because there has been little testing of generic-drug interactions.

Dr. Jerry Mann, who ran the study, says that long-term generic use is a potential problem, because there are many generic products for the same drugs. "A given druggist may stock one brand one time and another at some other time."

Evidence for or against generic drugs tends to be anecdotal.

Hormone may harm cows, in turn, us

WASHINGTON — Chemical companies and the Food and Drug Administration say there is no danger in the latest food bugaboo — Bovine Somatotropin or BST, a man-made hormone that gets more milk for the money out of dairy cows. But confidential studies from the chemical companies' own scientists say something else.

Some of those studies indicate BST may harm cows and cause fluctuations in the quality of milk. But what has some grocery store chains talking about refusing BST milk is the lack of research on what affect the hormone has on people.

A number of American grocery chains have publicly questioned the safety of BST milk. Wisconsin Secretary of State Doug La Follette recently called for an embargo on it. Ben and Jerry's Ice Cream announced it will not use BST milk until it has a full FDA approval. The hormone has been in limited use in research for six years, and the milk from those research herds is sold without any special labeling.

FDA approval rests in part on the studies done by chemical companies that make BST. They give their studies to the FDA, which keeps them under wraps. A source inside the FDA told our reporter Tim Warner that the review process for approving BST has been less than stellar.

We obtained copies of the confidential studies done by the three BST manufacturers — Monsanto Agricultural Co., American Cyanamid and Elanco (a joint venture of Dow Chemical, Upjohn and Eli Lilly). Their public relations campaign to sell BST to farmers says the hormone poses no threat to humans or cows. But some of their studies show that a small number of cows injected with BST lost weight, suffered lower fertility rates or anemia or came down with mastitis (inflammation of the mammary glands). In some cases, Monsanto researchers didn't count the BST cows that got mastitis, because they didn't think it had anything to do with BST. Some studies found large fluctuations in the milk fat and protein of BST milk.

Dr. Samuel Epstein, of the University of Illinois School of Public Health, did his own study of BST and didn't like what he saw. Epstein, who has long been concerned about the FDA approval process, told us, "The chemical industry has a long, distinguished track record of manipulation, suppression, distortion and destruction of data submitted to the FDA, regardless of possible health ramifications."

Epstein faults the FDA and the chemical industry for inadequate research on the effects of BST in humans. Among the possibilities Epstein is concerned about are the potential for premature growth in infants, abnormal growth of infant sexual organs and a greater risk of breast cancer. Monsanto and American Cyanamid scientists published a point by point refutation of Epstein's concerns.

Dr. David Kronfeld, a veterinarian at Virginia Polytechnical Institute, told us the FDA should take Epstein's warnings seriously before it allows any more BST milk on the market. Kronfeld claims he was not allowed to work on Monsanto's BST study, because he was overly concerned about the effects on cows. A Monsanto spokesman told us Kronfeld has "a major axe to grind" because he was left out of the research.

The chemical companies all say, for the record, that genetically engineered BST is close enough to natural hormones to be safe. They cite studies done on human dwarfs in the '50s and on lab rats, but those studies used natural growth hormones, not man-made BST.

American grocery chains have publicly questioned the safety of BST milk.

decided to take the Lee's property to save $60,000 over other road options that would have saved the couple's home but cost more.

The Lee's have hired Orlando lawyer Christy Wilson to try to prevent the county from taking their home. Wilson has written Seminole County attorneys, suggesting Seminole County commissioner Jennifer Kelley acted on behalf of her mother-in-law Viola Kastner in recommending commissioners take the Lee's property to extend Rinehart Road north from County Road 46-A to State Road 46.

Wilson said after the Lee's property is taken, large portions of Kastner's two properties east of Interstate 4 will be next to the two-lane road, increasing the value of the now vacant land.

Kastner, in a May 19, 1988 signed letter, agreed to donate the land needed for the road to the county without cost. The words "subject to detail agreed to between (county engineer Jerry) McCollum, Kelley and Kastner" was added at the bottom of Kastner's letter. The notation is hand-written but unsigned on the copy in the county's file. Wilson said he has been unable to determine what the detail mentioned in the letter is.

County Attorney Bob McMillan said no agreement with Kastner has been approved by the county.

On May 23, Seminole County commissioners adopted a road path that required taking Marjorie and Buddy Lee's home for an estimated cost of $342,300 to buy the Lee's home, their nearly three acres of land and their deer farm.

Commissioners said taking the Lee's property would save them $60,000 from either building the road between the Lee's house and another home across Stanley Avenue or taking the other home and saving the Lee's home. County officials said taking the other home would be more costly because next to it was a commercial property on S.R. 46.

Wilson said in a July 5 letter to county attorneys he was "troubled" that Kelley made the motion to approve the road plan that passed through Kastner's land. "Although...Commissioner Kelley has only one vote on the commission, she was the moving party on the applicable resolution and because the property is within her district, was deferred to by the other commissioners," Wilson wrote.

McMillan, in a Feb. 9 memo to Kelley, said no conflict of interest would occur if Kelley voted on Rinehart Road since Kelley had told him she was not dependent on Kastner and would not benefit from the road's construction.

Wilson said that memo was based on information Kelley gave McMillan. "It (McMillan's opinion) was only (as) good as the facts given him," Wilson said. He added he did not mean to imply that Kelley was misrepresented her financial relationship with Kastner to McMillan.

Wilson said he is still investigating the case and will question Kelley and other county officials when the county moves to condemn the Lee land. McMillan said the condemnation would not occur before the end of the year.

Bandits kill Brink's guard

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO - Brink's offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of two bandits who killed an armored car guard and wounded two other people during a holdup that netted little or no cash.

Two Brink's guards had just dropped off $5,500 in Canadian money about 10 a.m. Thursday when they were confronted by the gunmen in the crowded concourse between Bank of America's world headquarters and its Montgomery Street branch, police said.

Witnesses said the bandits opened fire without warning, hitting the two guards and a bystander who tried to help the victims.

The victims were shot point-blank in the face and shot again after they crumpled to the pavement in a "cold and calculated" attack. Lt. Dan Halliday said. "I haven't seen one like this in a while."

A witness told investigators that as the gunmen fled, "they gave each other a high-five," said Inspector Whitney Gunther.

After grabbing a pouch and envelopes containing certified mail, travelers checks, securities and bonds but little or no cash, police said the bandits escaped on bicycles along the narrow streets and sidewalks of the city's busy Financial District.

Police found no sign of the gunmen, but the bicycles, with their serial numbers filed down, were found a few hours later abandoned in a parking lot several blocks away near the East Bay Bus Terminal.

Brink's Inc. offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the robbers, described as white males in their late 20s or early 30s and both wearing blue jackets, blue pants and white baseball caps.

millage rate is 3.8991, the same rate for the past three years. Prior to that it was higher. For the fiscal year 1985-86, it was 3.9993.

For the owner of a $75,000 home (including the homestead exemption), Litton said, the increase would mean a tax bill of $328.20 for 1990 as compared to $292.43 in 1989, a difference of $35.77.

The final budget is scheduled to be adopted Sept. 21.

Separate ordinances for the millage rate and for the budgets passed by a 3-2 vote with Commissioners Bill Greene and George Duryea voting against both.

The other commissioners and the mayor felt the increase is justified.

"We are providing more. We're planning for the future. We are providing a service by having a full-time fire department on board," Mayor Dick Foss said.

Litton has not recommended a figure for surplus funds from a 1989 budget because he said he wanted to wait until an audit is done sometime in November.

"I just don't know how much it is, and I'm not going to go out on a limb," Litton said this morning. He explained that if a surplus was discovered, the funds would either be used on capital improvements or be made available for 1991.

This was the reason why Greene said he wasn't "really crazy about the 12.2 percent increase in ad valorem taxes."

He voted against both the budget millage rate and the budget saying that he couldn't "justify" the revenues.

"On the revenue side, I have a problem...The expense side I concur with, however, the revenue side needs more work. I don't feel that we need a tax increase," he said.

Duryea had the opposite problem. He suggested that the budget contained "fat" and said he thought the tax increase could be cut by half.

Commissioner Paul Tremel disagreed.

"It seems like the cuts have been made, if we look at what the departments requested. I don't like tax increases any more than anyone else, but there's no other option," he said.

Commissioner David Meador supported the increase saying that it would be "the worst disservice to cut that back" risking the chance that the city would be broke by next year.

There were two extensive budget workshops at which time all the commissioners had the chance to offer suggestions about the budget.

Litton said this morning that he plans to bring the same budget before the commission for the final adoption.

"I feel the document stands on its own. No one has told me or given me direction as to where to cut," he said.

Recommended enhancements for the general fund include such things as:

• $217,244 for the fire combat to include nine firefighters by Jan. 1, 1990. The total includes personnel costs and equipment and training.

• $50,000 towards park land acquisition.

• An increased work hour from 37.5 to 40 hours for city hall non-exempt employees at $7,900 in order to avoid hiring more help.

• A $30,000 computer upgrade.

Alcohol is students' favorite drug

United Press International

MIAMI - Alcohol is the drug of choice for Miami school children and, despite the city's role as a narcotics shipping center, Miami students are not turning to other drugs to use, according to a poll released Thursday.

The survey said alcohol was by far the most commonly abused drug, with most students using it by the time they graduate.

Like their counterparts nationally, 79 percent reported they had used alcohol at some time in their lives. One-third had used alcohol in the last month and nearly half said it would be very easy for them to get alcohol if they wanted it, the survey said.

And among students who do use illegal drugs, it is usually in combination with alcohol.

"While a good portion of Dade students drink without using other drugs, practically none do illegal drugs without also drinking," the survey said.

The survey of 1,604 randomly selected students in grades 7 through 12 was conducted at 77 Dade County Public Schools and 10 schools run by the Catholic Archdiocese. It was conducted on behalf of the Miami Foundation for a Drug-Free Community, which released the results Thursday, and had a 2.5 percent margin of error.

The survey said drug use patterns and attitudes among Dade County junior high and high schools students are on par with those of students in the rest of Florida and the rest of the country.

That was surprising because Miami is considered a geographic crossroads for the drug trade, the authors said.

About 20 percent of the students said they had used marijuana at least once. Ten percent had used it in the last year and 5 percent had used it in the last month.

need for positive role models in the minority community, she said.

SECME developed the program in 1975 to promote participation of minorities in upper level courses and in academic competition. Conducted in conjunction with the University of Central Florida, minority math students will come to Seminole County schools to tutor children in the SECME program.

"These tutors will serve as role models both academically and in life, we hope," said Jacqueline Smith, UCF's SECME coordinator and the faculty advisor of the UCF chapter of the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE). Tutoring the students is a community service project for the NSBE members, Smith said.

In addition to the encouragement that SECME participants receive to follow paths that take them into upper level math and science courses, they are "tracked" to be sure they take the right classes all the way through high school.

"The bottom line is we have to be sure that a student enrolled in pre-Algebra goes on to Algebra I," Smith said. "We have to get more minority students into upper level math and science." Smith and Holt both emphasize the importance of visiting businesses and industries to see how math and science are used in our everyday lives. Seminole County students will also visit the Orlando Science Center to see that "science and math can be fun."

While the SECME program has been in effect at more than 250 school throughout the Southeast since 1975, it is being begun anew in Seminole County this year. "There was an initial effort to get a program started about 10 years ago," Smith noted, "but it failed at that time. This time it should work well."

needs," said Rep. Mary Figg, D-Lutz, chairwoman of the House budget subcommittee on transportation. "We understand that we're never going to have the money to have the whiz-bang system that everybody says we ought to have."

House members in the next few weeks will review the report, decide which projects should be included in a transportation plan, and ask the DOT to scale the $11.5 billion list to a reasonable size, Figg said.

The list includes more than $1.5 billion for Florida turnpike expansion, including a $1 billion betway around Orlando. Gov.

Bob Martinez has said he favors financing the project with bonds, and increasing tolls on the turnpike statewide to repay them. The House has rejected this proposal.

The list also includes more than $1 billion for public transit, $2.5 billion for land acquisition, $7 billion for construction, nearly $1 billion for preliminary engineering on all the projects and $1 billion for repairs to existing roads and bridges.

Although some House leaders have supported a gasoline tax increase to finance road construction, a 1-cent hike would raise only about $65 million a year.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Sailor blamed in Iowa explosion

WASHINGTON — Clayton Hartwig wanted to die a hero and be buried in Arlington National Cemetery. But the remains of the suspect in the USS Iowa explosion lie in Cleveland, the sailor's reputation tarnished.

The Navy said Thursday it may never know what really happened April 19 to cause the battleship's No. 2 gun turret to explode, but it believes Hartwig "most likely" set off the blast with a detonating device.

The Navy is lifting a moratorium on the firing of the 16-inch guns on America's four battleships, declaring the huge cannons safe. The Navy imposed the ban immediately after the Iowa tragedy.

Capt. Fred Moosally, the Iowa's commander, and a few other senior officers will go before a non-judicial Navy hearing, a process just short of court-martial.

But Navy officials said the hearing does not automatically mean Moosally will be penalized. Moosally said he accepted the conclusion of the Iowa report and responsibility for any shortcomings on the ship.

Superfund program criticized

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — The federal Superfund program is slow to clean up toxic waste sites and often fails to recover cleanup costs from polluters, partly because of the way Congress set up the fund, a Rand Corp. study said.

The fund's reliance on a so-called liability-cost recovery system to force polluters to pay for cleanup leads to long court battles and requires tedious gathering of evidence before the government can go after polluters, according to the study, published Thursday.

"The program's liability-based approach ... provides potentially conflicting incentives and inefficiencies. For example, both the Environmental Protection Agency and private parties proceed in an atmosphere in which they are legal adversaries; at the same time they are encouraged to cooperate to identify suitable remedies," the study by the non-profit think tank said.

Crime said rampant in OTC market

WASHINGTON — A convicted stock swindler urged Congress to "do something now" to end what he called rampant fraud and organized crime control of the "penny stock" market, in which investors lose about $2 billion a year.

"The over-the-counter market is controlled by organized crime; the over-the-counter market is controlled by people like myself," Lorenzo Formato, the convicted stock manipulator, told a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee hearing Thursday on problems in the sale of cheaper "penny stocks."

Congress considers drug program

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders, trying to settle the politically sensitive question of how to pay for the drug war, have called for the creation of a "super committee" to accelerate President Bush's nearly $8 billion battle plan.

"In my humble opinion, we have to sit down quickly and agree how to do this," Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., told drug policy director William Bennett on Thursday.

"I agree," Bennett replied. But there was no agreement on how to pay for the additional $2.2 billion in new money Bush seeks in order to raise anti-drug spending in the next budget to $7.9 billion.

The White House said the dollars can come from money already tagged for other accounts. Democrats such as Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts said social programs are already tight because of the budget deficit reduction law, and a "reallocation" should come from the defense bill or a tax increase.

"The plan is tragically flawed because it doesn't provide enough money to fight an effective war on drugs," Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., told Bennett. "Prisons can't be built with words. Drug treatment programs can't be set up with rhetoric, and policy officers can't be hired with promises," Schumer said.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas and House GOP leader Robert Michel of Illinois said there are scores of committees that can consider the plan, wasting time at "interminable, camera-catering hearings and briefings which threaten to politicize the process and end the war in self-defeat."

They said a special House-Senate joint committee could expedite the legislative review of the plan and come up with the money Bush wants.

"Given a choice between higher taxes and a reordering of priorities within the federal government, most Americans will choose a reordering of priorities to help fund the war on drugs," the Republican leaders said.

In separate appearances before the House and Senate Judiciary committees Thursday, Bennett found basic agreement on the plan to fight drugs with expanded law enforcement and drug treatment and education centers. But the consistent criticism came on money.

Senate votes to kill mailings

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted to sacrifice Congress's treasured free junk mailings and use the money, about $45 million, to fight the problem of "crack babies," in the first tangible response to President Bush's war on drugs.

The vote Thursday indicated that the demands of the anti-drug campaign are so strong, Congress may be ready to scavenge even favored perks to find new sources of revenue.

The Senate approved the shift of money to the anti-drug program 83-8 as an amendment to the $1.9 billion appropriation bill for Congress, the Botanical Gardens, the Congressional Library and related offices and agencies.

The Senate later passed the appropriations bill 81-9 and sent it to what is expected to be a bitter conference with the House.

Speaker Thomas Foley, however, indicated the House probably will not go along when negotiators work out a compromise between the Senate- and House-passed bills.

"The House has generally taken strong position in favor of staying in close touch with constituents," Foley said.

Bill would restore IRA tax break

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Two senators introduced legislation to restore favorable tax treatment to individual retirement accounts, removed in the 1986 tax reform law, but conceded the administration will "be aghast" at the multibillion-dollar revenue loss.

Before the 1986 tax reform act, working people could open an individual retirement account of up to $2,000 annually and take a tax deduction as well as have the tax on the contribution deferred until retirement. After 1986, with the exception of low-income and self-employed individuals, the tax deduction was eliminated, resulting, Senate aides said Thursday, in a 50 percent drop in IRA contributions.

The Savings and Capital Formation Act of 1989, sponsored by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., and Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., would restore favorable tax treatment of IRAs for all individuals by allowing a 15 percent tax credit for IRA contributions of up to $2,000 each year. The maximum tax credit would be $300.

Married couples filing joint income tax returns would be eligible for an additional $1,000 spousal IRA for a total of $3,000, with a maximum $450 tax credit.

Dodd stressed the need to swell the personal savings level in the United States, saying too much of the budget deficit is financed by foreign capital.

Why A Business This Big Runs A Yellow Page Ad This Small.

Actual Size

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every evening, we'll start running big ads in it. Until then the Yellow Pages is no more than a directory . . . that the average person seldom reads. Which is why we run our ads in the newspaper, and we suggest you do the same.

Your Yellow Pages salesperson can't tell you how many people see your ad every day in his directory. But we can tell you that over 9,000 households receive the Sanford Herald daily and 18,000 households receive the Herald Advertiser every week. That kind of coverage can lead to sales. Especially when you use the Herald to tell people about competitive pricing, a new location or service, or illustrate a clear advantage over the competition. You're not allowed to do any of these things in the Yellow Pages.

And another thing . . . you can't be flexible in the Yellow Pages. You're stuck with the same ad for a whole year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

So let us talk to you about opportunities in newspaper advertising. Our number is in the Yellow Pages, but remember, what just sold you on us was the newspaper.

WORLD BRIEFS

American evacuation criticized

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Christian strongman Gen. Michel Aoun said the State Department relied on false information and took needless action when it decided to evacuate Americans from the Beirut Embassy for safety reasons.
At a news conference held a day after the pullout of American Ambassador John McCarthy and 29 other embassy staff workers, Aoun charged Thursday that the State Department was biased and said the decision to evacuate the diplomats was "a calculated but crude personal attack against me."

U.S. officials said the evacuation Wednesday of Americans from the Beirut Embassy was prompted by threats, linked to Aoun, to take Americans hostage or shoot down a U.S. helicopter.

Poland's government formed

WARSAW, Poland — Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki has fashioned a government of compromise in a bid to satisfy all political parties involved in the formation of the first non-communist government in the Warsaw Pact.
Solidarity got 11 ministries and two deputy ministers, the Communist Party five and the Peasant Party four, while the smaller Democratic Party will control three ministerial portfolios.
Bronislaw Geremek, Solidarity caucus spokesman, hailed the assignment of the majority of ministerial jobs to Solidarity as an "unprecedented historic event watched by the world."

Cartel threatens students

United Press International
BOGOTA, Colombia — Colombia's drug lords began threatening pupils at Bogota schools and continued their bombing spree as authorities extradited a cocaine cartel finance chief to the United States to face narcotics charges.
The cocaine cartels have begun telephoning terrorist threats to Bogota schools, said Lt. Col. Jaime Galvez, chief of the Psychological Warfare Division at the army's 13th Brigade.
"The anonymous callers are threatening to kidnap and even kill children," said Galvez, whose unit spearheads the army's anti-cocaine campaign.

The government boldly met the growing intimidation, launching a television and radio campaign offering a $250,000 reward for information leading to the capture of the Medellin cartel's two bosses.
"Turn them in," the ads plead over film footage of Pablo Escobar and Gonzalo "The Mexican" Rodriguez Gacha.
President Virgilio Barco planned to replace elected mayors in some cities with military officers in an effort to restore order.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Briggs, Brewers run by Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Glenn Briggs collected three hits, including a home run, and capped a five-run first inning by stealing home Thursday night, helping the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-1 victory over the California Angels.

Briggs drilled his 15th homer of the year, a solo blast in the fifth inning, to give the Brewers a 6-0 advantage off Angels starter and loser Mike Witt, 8-13.

Briggs also had two singles and stole home for the third time this year, tying a team record set last season by Paul Molitor.

California, losers of nine of 11 games, fell six games behind first-place Oakland in the AL West.

Tom Filer, 6-3, pitched eight innings for the victory, giving up an unearned run and four hits. He walked one and struck out two.

Elsewhere, it was Baltimore taking two from Texas 8-3, 9-8; Toronto drilling Cleveland 12-4; and New York edging Seattle 6-4.

BASKETBALL

Cummings signs with Heat

MIAMI — The Miami Heat has signed veteran free agent forward Pat Cummings, who led the team in field goal percentage last year, team officials said Monday.

The 10-year veteran averaged 8.8 points and 5.9 rebounds in 53 games with the Heat during their inaugural season last year. His field goal percentage was a team high .500.

Cummings, 6-foot-9 and 245 pounds, suffered a stress fracture of the left tibia against Detroit March 5 and sat out the rest of the season.

"Last year Pat provided veteran leadership on a young team and played exceptionally well in big games," said Heat coach Ron Rothstein. "We again expect him to again bring these qualities to the Heat."

Cummings was signed by Miami last September as an unrestricted free agent from New York. He was drafted out of Cincinnati by the Milwaukee Bucks as a junior eligible in 1978.

BOXING

Holyfield bout set with Stewart

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Evander Holyfield, considered the top challenger to heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, will face unbeaten Alex "The Destroyer" Stewart Nov. 4 in a 12-round bout.

Holyfield, 22-0 with 18 knockouts, will be making his fifth heavyweight fight and moving up from the cruiserweight and light heavyweight divisions. In his last fight, the 1984 Olympic bronze medalist knocked out Brazil's Adilson Rodrigues in the second round.

Among the 26-year-old Holyfield's victims are former heavyweight champions Pinklon Thomas and Michael Dokes.

Stewart, 23, has equalled Mack Foster's mark of knocking out his first 24 professional opponents. The all-time heavyweight consecutive knockout record is 30 held by Jose Manuel Ibar Urtain of Spain.

The fight will be held at the Trump Plaza.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Jefferies, Mets blast Cardinals

NEW YORK — Gregg Jefferies hit two homers in a game for the first time and drove in five runs Thursday, powering New York to a 13-1 rout of the St. Louis Cardinals and keeping the Mets' hopes alive in the National League East.

St. Louis committed five errors in dropping a full game behind first-place Chicago. The fourth-place Mets drew within three games of the lead, pending the outcome of the Chicago-Philadelphia game later in the afternoon.

Jefferies had two doubles in addition to hitting his fifth and sixth homers of the season, a two-run shot in the third inning and a three-run blast in the Mets' four-run fifth.

His third-inning homer gave the Mets a 2-0 lead. One out later Howard Johnson delivered his 33rd homer to help make a winner of Frank Viola, 3-4, the first of three Mets pitchers.

In other National League action Thursday Chicago thumped Philadelphia 6-2; Los Angeles ripped Cincinnati 8-2; San Francisco tipped Atlanta 7-5; Pittsburgh downed Montreal 7-4; and Houston trimmed San Diego 2-1.

Rams win first round

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

CASSELBERRY — Lake Mary took a volleyball sweep over Lake Howell Thursday night as both the boys and girls posted victories before 251 vocal fans at Lake Howell High School.

Lake Mary's boys, now 2-0, won in straight games 15-7, 15-12 over the Silver Hawks. The Rams will return to action next Tuesday against DeLand at home. Lake Howell fell to 0-1 for the season.

"We played a real good first game," Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen said. "We substituted a lot in the second game and there was a time when we didn't have a senior on the floor. We then got into some trouble but our starters came back in and did a nice job."

The Rams came out in the first game and reeled off the first five points behind the service of Chris Doran. Lake Mary went on to build a 13-2 lead with Chris Davidson and Jeff Draughon both contributing to the offense with their kills and blocks.

Davidson finished with a game-high 12 kills with Draughon adding seven and Jon Brown four. Lake Mary's height intimidated Lake Howell and it showed throughout the match.

"We were just intimidated with Lake Mary's height," Lake Howell's Christ Scott said. "We waited until late in the second game to start playing like we can. We didn't jump on them from the beginning and we'll have to start doing that."

Lake Howell made a short run in the first game to trim the lead to 13-7 but the Rams calmed down and used a big hit from Davidson and a Keylor Chan dink to put the first game away.

The Silver Hawks began the second game with three quick points off the serve of Scott Pascual. Lake Mary then got its power game going with Draughon and Davidson both putting down some big hits to help their team take a 10-3 advantage.

Lake Howell then started to come back and eventually made a game out of it as Todd Carlson strung four points together to cut the lead to 14-9 before T.J. Zimmer served three more points to narrow the lead to 14-12.

The Rams then ended the game by getting a sideout

Despite some spirited play by Steve Munnell (No. 15) and his Lake Howell teammates, the Lake Mary Rams took a 15-7, 15-12 win Thursday night. The Ram win avenges last year's season-ending loss to the Silver Hawks that spoiled an otherwise perfect season.

Oviedo hammers DeLand

From staff reports

DeLAND — Dave Gould served 18 points as the Oviedo Lions hammered the DeLand Bulldogs 15-1, 15-8 in a Seminole Athletic Conference boys' volleyball contest Thursday night at DeLand High School.

Both the Oviedo girls' varsity and junior varsity squads won their matches over their DeLand opponents in straight sets on Thursday night. The scores were not available.

Oviedo is now 1-0 in conference play, 3-0 overall while DeLand opens the 1989 season 0-1.

"We played our first team in first game and in the second game, we played our second team," said Oviedo coach Terry Rzepkowski. "At one point, DeLand was actually leading 6-4 in the second game. After I called a time out, Gould served 11 straight points to win the game and the match."

Included in Gould's service run were three service aces.

Grid season opens with four games

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

It's somewhat early in the season to already be talking about big games, but there are a pair of them on tap for tonight in the high school ranks.

At 7:30 p.m., the Lake Howell Silver Hawks, ranked No. 9 in the Florida Sports Writers' Association preseason 5A poll, travels to Winter Park to tangle with the Wildcats in a game that has no district or conference ramifications, but should be an outstanding game.

Meanwhile, the Oviedo Lions and Lake Weir Hurricanes will be kicking off play in 5A-District 4 with an 8 p.m. game at Oviedo High School. This is the first year in 5A for both schools and also the first year in what is now a nine-team district. And since you have to win your district to advance to the state playoffs, every district game is a big one.

Other games on tap for tonight include Lake Brantley hosting Apopka and Lyman traveling to

Harriers headed to Titusville

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

The cross country season will get off to its official start this Saturday at Dunn Air Park in Titusville with the Astronaut Invitational.

Nearly every Seminole County team will be on hand for the event, which has attracted most of the state's top talent. Almost every preseason-ranked team will be on hand to participate in the races that will not be separated by school classifications.

"The meet will be loaded," Lake Mary girls coach Mike Gibson said. "I'm hoping we can finish somewhere in the top five without Allison Snell. If we do that, it will be a big plus for us."

Gibson's squad would have to run a real tough race, as they did a week ago in the jamboree, to finish in the top five since Astronaut, Lake Howell, Leto and Lake Brantley, all ranked teams, will be on hand for the race. Rockledge and Cocoa Beach will also be there and both are close to cracking the top 10 in their

Agassi eliminates Connors, will meet Lendl in semifinals

United Press International

NEW YORK — Andre Agassi picked a perfect time to win the first five-set match of his career, rallying from behind to bounce an ailing Jimmy Connors out of the U.S. Open.

Connors, although weakened by nausea and dizziness early in the match, led two sets to one before falling to a teenager half his age, 6-1, 4-6, 0-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Connors required medical help in the second set and seemed to be playing on sheer guts for several games. But he recovered well and seemed in control when he took the third set without the loss of a game.

"I played on automatic pilot," Connors said. "I played a damn good match."

The five-time Open champion appeared out of steam again in the final set when he managed merely four points in the first four games. But after going down 5-1 he broke service in the eighth game when Agassi netted a backhand.

Connors then held at love to close in within 5-4, but Agassi converted his second match point when Connors sent a backhand long.

"He was gagging," Connors said of his rival sputtering to victory, "but I started out too late in the fifth."

The 19-year-old Agassi thus won a five-set match for the first time after five defeats.

"The guy has a lot of guts," Agassi said. "He could be out there in a wheelchair and you still don't have the match. He raised his game a lot. He gave a tremendous effort. He deserves a lot of respect."

"I felt the longer the match would go that things would turn toward my side, but he just didn't run out of steam. He battled right to the last point."

walked off the court.

This is the second year in a row Agassi defeated Connors in the quarterfinals, although he accomplished the job in straight sets in 1986. At the time, Agassi angered Connors by revealing after their match that he had predicted to a friend he would win easily. Connors promised to get back at the brash youngster, and he came very close to doing so Thursday.

Top seed Ivan Lendl will meet Agassi in Saturday's semifinal. The Czechoslovakian eliminated No. 9 Tim Mayotte 6-4, 6-0, 6-1 Thursday night, extending to 14-0 his record against the American.

Lendl has won 36 of 41 career sets, with Mayotte, who was helpless against the three-time champion.

"He's just so powerful. He's too tough for me," said Mayotte. "I didn't think I played that poorly."

"Against me, nobody combines that kind of consistency and power. He goes stretches without missing a passing shot or a shot from the backcourt," said Mayotte.

Lendl has played in every U.S. Open final since 1982 and is at ease on the Center Court at the National Tennis Center.

"I'm very confident," he said. "But it doesn't get any easier, though it doesn't get any more difficult either."

Lendl, who prefers to play during the day, said, "I was nervous at the start, because I don't really see anything at night. I was asking the umpire if all the lights were on."

In the women's semifinals Friday, defending champion Steffi Graf plays third seed Gabriela Sabatini and No. 2 Martina Navratilova faces No. 5 Zina Garrison.

Navratilova and her new partner, Hana Mandlikova, gained the final of the women's doubles with a 6-1, 7-5 victory over Graf and Sabatini. In the final they will meet Pam Shriver, Navratilova's long-time partner, and Mary Joe Fernandez, who defeated Nicole Provis and Elna Reinach, 6-7 (4-7), 6-4, 6-3.

Boone, Seminole and Lake Mary are both off this evening and will open their season next Friday night.

Lake Howell at Winter Park

This has the potential to be one of the best games of the year. Lake Howell, under Head Coach Mike Bisceglia, has 15 starters and 40 lettermen back from last year's 7-3 team. Winter Park, under Larry Gergely, was 9-2 in 1986 and returns eight starters 15 letter winners.

Last year, the Wildcats defeated the Silver Hawks 29-9.

Winter Park's offense will be led by quarterback senior Clay Hair and senior fullback Keith Gill. The strength of the Wildcat defense will be its secondary where all four starters return: cornerbacks Sanders Jones and Steve Wright and safeties Richard McCoy and Ron Chitty.

Lake Howell will look to junior running back Marquette Smith, who rushed for 1,421 yards and eight touchdowns last year. Sharing the offensive load are seniors Dan Vercek (quarterback) and Cortez Graves (fullback).

The defense is very strong with noseguard Ken Times, linebacker Dave Collins (who made 119 tackles last season and forced seven fumbles) and defensive end Tom Dempsey.

Coach Mike Bisceglia is cautiously optimistic about the game, saying, "If we don't come out tight and nervous and execute like we have in practice and the jamboree, we might give them a ball game."

Lake Weir at Oviedo

This game, which is scheduled to start at 8 p.m., will be the first in 5A-District 4 for both clubs. Both were in Class 4A last year.

Lake Weir, under Coach Joe Register, is coming off its first winning season in 13 years. The Hurricanes finished last year at 7-4 and have 12 starters (five on offense and seven on defense) returning.

Coach Register has been spending the fall trying to find a quarterback as most of his returning offensive strength is at wide receiver: John Monroe, Rod Lightsey and Vernon Buck.

The Hurricane defense is also anchored by Monroe at cornerback. Others to watch are linebacker Tim Farley, defensive end Greg Schwart and defensive tackle Russ Guinn.

Oviedo is coming off a 9-3 season in which they made it to the 4A Section II title game. Coach Jack Blanton has 12 starters returning from that team, including senior fullback Frank Diaz, who rushed for 1,162 yards and 12 touchdowns last year. The new quarterback is Brian Macineas who played wide receiver last year.

Also being counted on offensively will be tailbacks Dana Allen and Chris Witherspoon, and sophomore wide receivers Darcy Garrett and Simon Harper. The offensive line is experienced and large (four players over 225 pounds).

The Oviedo defense is anchored by All-Conference defensive back Hector Diaz (Frank's brother). Other big name players on the defense are linebacker Barry Coleman, defensive back Tyrone Gammons and defensive end John Knutson.

Apopka at Lake Brantley

Scheduled to kickoff at 8 p.m., this game will be a good opening exercise for both teams. The Apopka Blue Darters, guided by Coach Chip Clerke, returns 11 starters from a 4-6 team in 1986 while the Lake Brantley Patriots have seven starters back from 1986's 5A-District 4 champion team that went 6-4.

Apopka is led by senior quarterback Brett King and wide receiver Paul Meinke on offense. The defense is solid and experienced, headed by linebackers Archie Phillips and Marcus Webb, nose guard Richard Lamotte and defensive back Richard Hanks.

Lake Brantley, which runs out of the wishbone and flexbone on offense, is led by three seniors on offense: quarterback Clint Johnson, running back Elroy Dantzier and wide receiver Mark Gabrovic.

The Patriots should once again have a solid defense, anchored by safety Jason Varitek, tackles David Swain and Kirt Thomason and end Bubba Houghland.

Lyman at Orlando-Boone

This is getting to be a habit. In what has become a Central Florida high school football tradition, the Lyman Greyhounds and Boone Braves will once again get together to open up their season. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Last year, Lyman defeated Boone 21-7.

After a 1-9 season in 1986, the Braves, led by Coach Bill Gaines, figure to be more successful this year with 13 starters and 22 letterman returning. Quarterback Ron Jordan, halfback Wenzel Gordon and fullback Maurice Moore all return to pace the offensive attack. Defensively, linemen Richard Waters, Justin Halter and Brian Henderson lead the charge.

Coach Bill Scott is faced with a rebuilding job at Lyman after losing graduating all but two starters from last year's 8-3 team. But those two returners would make anyone's team: junior running back Cedric Bouey and wide receiver/defensive back Octavious Holliday.

In the fall jamboree last week, senior Paul Bowen started at quarterback for the Greyhounds. Marvin Reed, who plays both running back and defensive back, helps Lyman on both sides of the ball.

Beta-blockers often cause fluid buildup

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can beta-blockers make a person gain weight? I'm a migraine-headache sufferer and take 80 milligrams of Inderal a day. Thanks to the medication, I've been free of headaches for two years but have gained 15 pounds. I also have fewer bowel movements than I did prior to the medication.

Show the red streaks to your doctor. If further tests are necessary, the practitioner will order them. In my opinion, you should

(C)1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR READER:

Beta-blocking medicine causes relaxation of blood vessels, which is the reason the drug is useful in combating high blood pressure and migraine headaches, two conditions marked by excessive spasm of arteries. This relaxation effect can often lead to fluid retention (edema) and weight gain. Therefore, patients taking beta-blockers can experience puffy legs and, in some cases, heart failure, when excess fluid accumulates in the lungs. Also, beta-blockers cause constipation.

A few pounds of fluid buildup is a small price to pay to avoid migraines. The edema is not harmful and can, if necessary, be treated with diuretics, medicines to rid the body of excess water. Your doctor may be able to adjust the dose of Inderal to minimize fluid retention. Ask about this. In addition, by reducing salt in your diet, you'll experience less edema. Working with your physician, you should be able to arrive at a dose (or type) of beta-blocker that will prevent migraines and cause only minor fluid retention.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Headaches." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

When one player opens with a pre-emptive bid at a high level, you would normally expect him to be short in all the other suits. But he still must hold 13 cards, and it doesn't hurt to play out the cards and notice the distribution. More often than not, you will be rewarded. After West had bid four hearts, North mustered up a brave double, and South was happy to bid four spades. West led K-A of hearts and then the 10 of diamonds. It was no trouble for declarer to win the king of diamonds and play first to dummy's spade king. Since West showed out, East had a sure trump trick with the Q-9-8-2, so it was imperative for declarer to find the club queen. Declarer played a spade-back to his jack and then cashed the ace of spades and two more diamonds. When West discarded on the third diamond, the problem of the club queen was solved. East had shown with four spades, two hearts and six diamonds. He could hold only one club. So declarer played back to his club king and finessed against West's queen to make four spades. Even our perennial goat, Willy Nilly, would probably find the right play to make this contract. But on one of his bad days, he would go after clubs before playing three rounds of diamonds, and that might allow West to win a trick with the club queen.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 9, 1989

In the year ahead you could be exposed to more opportunities than you have been in the past. Be alert and take advantage of all that is offered and be doubly sure you see through to completion any enterprise you initiate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you're not the showoff type, but today you might try to upstage your companions in order to call attention to yourself. The results aren't apt to be too effective. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make the most of opportunities that are presently available to you, because they may not be of a lasting nature. You're in a cycle where trends are subjected to sudden changes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though it may be quite difficult for you to own up to your mistakes today, it is best to do rather than rationalize. Excuses won't enhance your image.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If it is necessary for you to borrow something today that the lender prizes, make every effort to treat it respectfully. There are indications you are inclined toward carelessness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's not your nature to be vacillating or indecisive, but today you might have a problem making decisions and sticking to them. Get back in character.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People who come to your assistance today can't be expected to do everything for you. In certain arrangements it is imperative that you fend for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's admirable to be optimistic and enthusiastic, but one must also be practical as well. Guard against building your hopes upon unrealistic premises today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things could misfire today if you depend a little too heavily on chance and luck to carry you through in critical career matters. Unfortunately, they are not allies who can be relied upon now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not pretend you are knowledgeable about something today if, in reality, you really aren't. People who come to you for advice will believe you and your suggestions could create problems for everyone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are careless today and make a miscalculation in a commercial matter, there's a possibility it might be the type of error that could compound itself. Have someone else check your figures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today it might seem like the harder you try to please others, the less they appreciate you. Your frustrations could be minimized if you stay clear of people who take you for granted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A veiled opportunity may come your way today through a least expected source. In order to capitalize on it, you'll have to be exceptionally sharp to recognize its merits.

They're going to have a ball

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A few decades ago, Sanford was home to balls at the stately New Tribes Mission, but that the idea of such events has faded from the social scene, said Althea Parrish. "It's been a while since Sanford's had a gala affair like this," said Parrish about the upcoming Grand Romance Charity Ball.

The Riversip Grand Romance, which docks at the Lake Monroe marina in Sanford, will depart for the charity ball on Saturday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Boarding begins at 7 p.m., and the cruise on the St. Johns River will last at least until 11 p.m., Parrish said.

Dave Jenkins, former lead singer of Pablo Cruise, will head up the entertainment at the charity ball.

The event is one of several fund-raisers to benefit the Thomas E. Whigham/Dr. Joseph Berger Endowed AIDS Chair. The fund was named in part for Whigham, a local attorney and civic leader who died last year due to AIDS from a blood transfusion.

Organizers of the AIDS Superchallenge say their goal is to raise at least $1 million to establish an endowed chair at the University of Miami for research on the neurological effects of AIDS. Previous fund-raisers have raised $18,000 for the fund. Parrish, co-director of the ball along with Jay Stokes, said the ball already has raised another $19,000, with nearly 250 tickets sold and 12 of 14 corporate tables reserved at $1,500 each.

Junior high and high school bands, then began playing the guitar and singing in 1984. He regularly appeared at local clubs and dances in Central Florida.

Dinner will not be served during the ball, which is black tie optional. But heavy hors d'oeuvres will be served on all three decks, along with complimentary wine, complimentary champagne and handmade desserts, all of which will be donated, Parrish said.

In the late 1960s, Jenkins moved to California, where he played guitar and sang in various bands. In 1973 he and partner Cory Lerios formed Pablo Cruise, a partnership that would write and record many hit soft-rock songs over a 10-year period.

She said that among the dignitaries with ball reservations are Rep. Art Grindle; Curly Neal, former Harlem Globetrotter; Dr. Joseph Berger, neurologist specialist at the University of Miami; five mayors from Seminole County; and Seminole County and Sanford commissioners.

Pablo Cruise, who had the hit "Kiss You All Over," was well known for gold and platinum albums featuring the songs "Whatcha Gonna Do When She Says Goodbye," "Love Will Find a Way," "Don't Want to Live Without It," and "Cool Love."

The riversip will be decked out in silk flowers, balloons, centerpieces, ice carvings and a champagne fountain, all donated, Parrish said.

Jenkins has toured with the progressive country-rock band Southern Pacific since 1987. With former Doobie Brothers Headlining the entertainment will be former Pablo Cruise lead singer and Seminole High School graduate Dave Jenkins.

Parrish, a longtime neighbor of Jenkins, said she is excited about the homecoming.

"Dave always recognized Sanford when he came through. He never got too busy for us," Parrish said. "That's why it was so easy for me to call him and tell him about the charity ball."

Jenkins will perform dance music with local rock groups The Shy Guys as well as Mike Galloway and the Midnight Creepers. Galloway and Jenkins had performed together before Jenkins left Central Florida.

"This will be a unique, once-in-a-lifetime thing. Who knows when these guys will play together again," Parrish said.

Jenkins, a 1966 Seminole High School graduate, played in John Whigham and Lori Shull look over reservations for the Grand Romance Charity Ball, which will benefit AIDS research.

Keith Knudsen and John McFee, Creedence Clearwater Revival bassist Stu Cook, and Kurt Howell, former keyboard player for country vocalist Crystal Gayle, he helped record the "Zuma" album. The L.P. features eight songs, including "Midnight Highway," and the No. 1 hit "New Shade of Blue."

Sharon Raye and the Shelly Davis Group, the house band on the Grand Romance, also will be performing during the charity ball cruise.

Parrish said she and other organizers plan to make the charity ball an annual event. Once a cure is found for AIDS, the ball's proceeds can benefit some other cause, such as leukemia or cancer, she said.

Tickets, which are $75 apiece, may be purchased by calling 330-5641. The boat has a capacity of 500 people, and reservations are preferred.

Randy Bowling, Tim Donahoe and Wayne Ceynowa have been playing together as The Shy Guys for 23 years, since before their days at Seminole High School. Like the Midnight Creepers, they play a fare of 1960s and 1970s rock.

Private citizens deserve protection

DEAR ABBY: I am very much upset after having read about the 19-year-old man who became obsessed with a 21-year-old movie actress, so he tracked her down and fatally shot her!

What is even more frightening is the fact that he was able to obtain this girl's home address through her motor vehicle registration. I understand that because this information is a matter of public record, it is accessible to anyone who wants it.

Abby, I think we need some laws to protect public figures from people who are obsessed with celebrities. Remember what happened to Jodie Foster, John Lennon and Theresa Saldana? And now Rebecca Schaeffer can be added to that list.

HEARTSICK IN OREGON

DEAR HEARTSICK: I think the home addresses of private citizens—regardless of whether they're celebrities or not—should not be available to anyone without the knowledge and consent of the people who are being sought. It's not only a matter of privacy; it's a matter of security.

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice on how I (a mother-in-law) should handle the following problem: Our son and daughter-in-law were married in August 1988. To this date, my friends have been calling me to inquire as to whether their wedding gift was received.

This is very embarrassing. Have thank-you notes gone out of style? I have questioned our son on a couple of occasions where money was the gift, and he told me those gifts have been acknowledged.

EMBARRASSED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I understand your embarrassment, but friends who ask parents if their children have received their wedding gift are putting the blameless parents on the spot.

I suggest that you give those friends the couple's telephone number, and suggest that they call and ask if their gift was received.

Catholic leaders fight racism

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Roman Catholic leaders announced an ambitious plan to educate and involve more than 18,000 local church members in the fight against racism.

"We need to increase the level of awareness and create action-oriented programs and policies," said Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Francis of the Newark, N.J., diocese. "We also need to include within our parishes an agenda to escalate the struggle against racism in our society and in our churches."

Although the first phase of the program — a national teleconference set for Nov. 18 — has been in the works for nearly three years, the issue has taken on added urgency by two recent developments: the decision of a black priest, the Rev. George Stallings of Washington D.C., to set up his own African-American liturgical rite and the racially motivated shooting of a black in New York City by young whites, at least some of whom were Catholics.

Francis, noting that he and the 12 other black bishops in the church had already responded to Stallings, said the priest's decision to set up a dissenting congregation "is not an issue at all" for the new campaign against racism.

"What (Stallings) has proposed, has been happening for the past 10-15 years," Francis said.

"Yes, there is frustration among black Catholics," he added. "But black Catholics are not just asking for favors. We're looking at how we can make a contribution to the church."

He said the Stallings episode is "one little incident in the scheme of things."

Of the New York incident, in which five whites have been charged in Brooklyn with participating in the attack that left a 16-year-old black dead, Francis said "it is not an isolated example" but underscores how the church has been unable to eradicate racism from its midst.

Francis said that while race was an issue in the Brooklyn slaying, other factors — such as the perceived invasion of turf — should also be considered.

"I'm not so sure you can take raw racism as the whole thing," he said. It was "not the only motivating factor."

"I can understand the community's response," he said of the jeering crowds that greeted a biracial group of demonstrators protesting the killing. "They don't want to admit the community may have done something wrong."

Francis was a leader 10 years in developing the National Conference of Catholic Bishops' statement, "Brothers and Sisters in Us," which labeled racism a sin.

The teleconference, designed as the first step in engaging local Catholics in the fight against racism, will mark the 10th anniversary of that statement.

The Rev. Clarence Williams of the Archdiocese of Detroit and executive producer of the event, said he expects "more than 18,000" Catholics to participate.

"What we're trying to do is to deal with racism as a phenomenon," he said. "Racism is a social, psychopathic illness. It is a tremendous weight we all carry as Americans — an affliction, a handicap."

The four-hour telecast, which will originate in Detroit, will be beamed by satellite through the Catholic Telecommunications Network of America to sites around the country where local Catholics — representing black, white, Hispanic and Asian-American ethnic groups — will gather to discuss the issue.

Mission reaches church status

By SANDRA BOUGHANNE
Herald staff writer

DELTONA — The Fort Smith Blvd. Baptist Mission, 229 Fort Smith Blvd., has grown into adulthood.

This Sunday, the mission will officially become Fort Smith Blvd. Baptist Church. The event will be celebrated with special constitution services and activities throughout the day. Up until this time, the mission was sponsored and received funds from the Seminole Baptist Association, an organization comprised of 32 Southern Baptist churches in the Volusia-

Seminole county area.

The mission was founded in Sept., 1984 by 25 people who left First Baptist Church of Osteen to organize it, according to the Rev. Jimmy Moore, pastor of the church. Now it has approximately 136 members.

The first services were held in members' homes, at Deltona Junior High School and later at First Baptist Church of Enterprise. June 14, 1987 marked the day the first services were held in a new building on Fort Smith Boulevard, where the mission is currently located.

Moore said that the mission has "grown to the point where we no longer need financial assistance."

"I feel it's the greatest move that we've done. We have seen the church grow to the point we've been able to step out," he said.

Mission Member Myra Thomas called the event "a high point."

The process of growing from a mission to a church is usual in the Southern Baptist denomination, however, not all churches start out as missions, according to Moore.

The activities for the day will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. for all ages. At 11 a.m., Moore will deliver the worship service, featuring special music by the church trio. Dinner-on-the-ground will be served at 12:45 p.m.

Moderator for the constitution services, to begin at 2 p.m., will be Dr. Bob Mulky, moderator of the Seminole Baptist Association. Mulky is also pastor of the First Baptist Church of Deland.

The Rev. George Dunn Sr., director of missions for the Seminole Baptist Association, will deliver the sermon. Music will be presented by the Sounds of Glory from First Baptist Church of Sanford. The public is invited to attend.

Jewish convert turns to Mormonism

'Kosher Mormon' hits highway to tell others about his newly-embraced faith

United Press International

Norman Rothman, a former public relations man who is also a Jewish convert to Mormonism, still knows a good gimmick when he sees it.

So Rothman, with a little laugh, sometimes introduces himself as "the kosher Mormon," hoping that behind the label will lurk the question, "So how come a nice Jewish boy became a Mormon?"

And it just happens that he's written a book with that very title and is willing — eager, even — to tell you about it.

Still, that's not what's unique about the 62-year-old Rothman.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, as the Mormons are formally known, is a church of many converts. Indeed, in America, people change their religious affiliation almost as easily as their neckties or skirt lengths.

What makes Rothman unique — and suggests he still has a flair for his old trade — is the personal crusade on which he has embarked and the God-will-provide faith with which it is undertaken.

For as September begins, Rothman — and his wife, Annette — will be beginning his fourth year on the road, traveling the country in a GMC panel van, living on the generosity of Mormon and non-Mormons who take him into their homes and selling a few copies of the book.

To date, Rothman has put over 52,000 miles on the van and visited 190 cities on his mission of "trying to bring a better understanding between the races and nationalities ... and, more importantly, to bring people back to God again."

Rothman says he is not out to proselytize — "No one is going to join the Mormon church because they hear Norman Rothman," he says — but he makes no bones about believing, and insisting, "only one church on the face of the earth has the whole truth — and that's the Mormon church. Catholics, Methodists, Lutherans, they have part of the truth, but they won't have all the truth until they read and understand the Book of Mormon."

But it is the Book of Mormon that is one of the major obstacles for those Rothman would reach with his plea for understanding. Mormons believe the book, published in 1830, is church founder Joseph Smith's translation of golden plates he is said to have found and which are said to give a religious history of North America.

For many Christians, the central role the Book of Mormon plays in the denomination has not only been an obstacle to understanding but also makes the church a cult.

"That's my No. 1 reason for being on the road," Rothman said. "That intensity against us, that concept that we're considered a cult."

Good, clean jokes by preacher get a few chuckles

●The couple had been getting along fine until they got a worded.

Then they started drifting apart.

●He: "I keep seeing spots before my eyes."

●She: "Have you seen a doctor?"

●He: "No, just spots."

You may not think these jokes are knee-slappers, but you have to admit they're clean. That was mainly the idea when Rev. Tal Bonham got the idea of publishing clean joke books.

"While I was recuperating from a heart attack a few years ago," says Bonham, "my wife and I would take a daily walk through the mall near our house. We were appalled as we visited the bookstore in the mall to see gross, tasteless, sick and otherwise-offensive joke books on the best-seller racks."

A year later the jovial, fun-loving Southern Baptist preacher put out his first paperback joke book, "The Treasury of Clean Jokes" (Broadman Press, Nashville). On the first page is this old standby:

Phone caller: "Is this 789-4383?"

Absent-minded professor: "No, this is 789-4384."

Caller: "Oh, wrong number. Sorry to have bothered you."

Professor: "That's quite all right. I had to get up anyway to answer the phone."

There proved to be a market for clean jokes. Soon Bonham, an executive of the Ohio Baptist Convention, was putting out a sequel to his first volume, "Another Treasury of Clean Jokes."

Today there are nine volumes in all, including: "The Treasury of Clean Teenage Jokes ... Clean Business Jokes ... Clean Country Jokes ... Clean Church Jokes ... Clean Children's Jokes ... Clean Sports Jokes."

The latest is "The Treasury of Clean Senior Adult Jokes" (in large type).

Sample: "You know you are about to become a senior adult when you bend over to tie your shoe and you look around to see if there's something else you can do while you're already down there."

Bonham gives his philosophy of humor in "Humor: God's Gift," published in hardback. In fact, Bonham would like all his readers to die laughing.

"If you are ready to die, you are ready to laugh," he says. "If we are certain of our relationship to God, our self-esteem is considerably improved. It goes without saying that greater self-confidence will improve one's sense of humor."

It was as a boy in his native Oklahoma, sitting around in Claude Chandler's appliance store listening to Claude tell jokes, that Bonham discovered he had a talent for telling jokes himself.

"The apartment where I live is so small that we had to teach our dog Lucky to wag his tail up and down," young Tal told a delighted Claude.

Years later, now a clergyman, Bonham came back home to visit. He went to visit Claude, who was dying. "After we finished praying and reading the Bible," Bonham recalls, "Claude sat up and said, 'Heard the one about the three old men walking down the street?' Bonham said he hadn't."

"One of them said, 'Windy, isn't it?' Another said, 'No, I think it's Thursday.' The third man said, 'I am too. Let's go get a cold drink.'"

Tal and Claude had "W" good laugh at that. It was the last time they saw one another. Claude died the next week.

My favorite from the Bonham collection is one about John Kennedy. During the 1960 presidential campaign, worried about questions reporters might ask him about his Catholic beliefs, Kennedy asked Cardinal Spellman what he should say if asked his views about papal infallibility.

"I don't know what to tell you, senator," said Spellman. "All I know is he keeps calling me Spellman."

Or you may like this one better:

Wife: "But, darling, this isn't our baby."

Husband: "Be quiet. It's a better buggy."

Lawsuit dropped

United Press International

NEW YORK — A federal appeals court dismissed a lawsuit brought by abortion rights advocates against the Internal Revenue Service for granting tax-exempt status to the Roman Catholic Church, which it said took part in political, not religious, activity for campaigning against abortion.

In concluding nearly nine years of litigation, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals also dismissed a $100,000-a-day contempt citation against the church that a lower court had imposed on May 8, 1986.

Twenty individuals and nine groups in favor of a woman's rights to have an abortion sued the church in October 1980, accusing the church of using tax-deductible donations for anti-abortion campaigning. The IRS also was named as a defendant in the suit.

The suit argued that the church should not benefit from tax-exempt status traditionally granted religious and civic organizations because it actively campaigned against abortion rights, which it called political activity.

In 1982, U.S. District Judge Robert Carter dismissed the church as a defendant when the court ruled that the IRS was the agency responsible for the church's tax-exempt status. But the appeals court, in throwing out the suit, ruled that the IRS also should not be a defendant in the suit.
