Hello, can you hear me?

LAKE MARY — There wasn't a beat going into or coming out of Lake Mary High School this morning because there was trouble on the telephone lines at the home of the Rams.

Outgoing callers were able to say only a word or two before the line went dead, if they were able to make a connection at all. Incoming callers heard dozens of rings before the normal voice message kicked in, only to be cut off before the caller had the chance to punch in the extension needed.

Southern Bell said school officials had reported the telephone problem about 7:15 this morning and but the problem still had not been found by 9:30 a.m.

Car chase

SANFORD — Four Seminole County deputy sheriffs assisted in the pursuit of a stolen vehicle on Interstate-4 this morning.

The Jeep Cherokee with two male teenagers, was reported stolen near Ocoee. Orange County deputies pursued them eastward on I-4, with Seminole County deputies joining the chase near S.R. 436 in Altamonte Springs, at 1:56 this morning. The chase continued through Seminole County until 2:10 a.m.

The suspects were eventually stopped by Volusia County deputies near Port Orange.

Band fundraiser

The Seminole High School Band will hold its annual spaghetti dinner fundraiser at the school cafeteria on Sept. 16 from 5-7 p.m.

Donation is $3.50 when purchased in advance from any band member, or $4 at the door. Children 5 and under accompanied by paying adults are free. Limited tickets available at the door.

For more information call Jeff Jordan, bandmaster at 322-4352.

SHDWA cruise

SANFORD — The Seventh Annual fundraising cruise sponsored by the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association will be held this Sunday. Money obtained from the function will be used toward financing many projects aimed at improving the historic downtown area. Among uses for profits in recent years is improvements to the downtown holiday decoration and lighting.

The cruise is on board the Rivership Romance, at the Sanford lakefront. Boarding is 5 p.m., with the cruise from 5:30 until 8 p.m. Complementary hors d'oeuvres will be served. SHDWA President Rod Laver said food will include meat balls, and chicken wings.

Tickets are $18 per person, and may be purchased dockside just prior to the cruise. For additional information, phone 323-8050.

Ending school violence

Policy gives teachers more authority to throw dangerous kids out of class

By VICKI BOGREN
Herald Staff Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet Tuesday approved a zero-tolerance policy to give teachers more authority to throw violent students out of class.

That is a goal that Seminole County district school officials have been pursuing for several years.

"Safety is an important priority," Supt. Paul Hagerly said. "We want our students to learn in a safe environment."

Hagerly was not, however, familiar with the state's new policy, noting that the official word had not yet trickled down to the district level.

Some Cabinet members said the teachers should get even more powers.

"This will send a clear, clear message that we are not going to tolerate violence in the schools of Florida," said Education Commissioner Doug Jamerson. He said school safety is a major goal of the state's Blueprint 2000 school reform plan.

The rule unanimously approved Tuesday says a teacher may remove a violent student to alternative classrooms or programs, notify the student's parent or guardian and "when necessary, use reasonable force to protect themselves, students and other adults from violent acts."

While she isn't familiar with all the details of the new policy, Nancy Wheeler, president of the Seminole Education Association, said teachers are "pretty excited

SANFORD — Residents who may not want to purchase a historic home may soon get a chance to rent an apartment renovated in an Old Sanford commercial building.

A multiple family dwelling approval is being requested in downtown Sanford. The proposed area is for the second floor of Touchton's Drug Store at the corner of E. First Street at Magnolia Square.

Helen Stairs of Stairs Property Management plans to revitalize and restore the building, in keeping with the Sanford Main Street goal of improving the downtown commercial area.

In submitting her application, Stairs wrote, "It is the plan for the restoration of the building, as

Lions annual event has benefited vision programs 22 years

By NICK PPRIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — On Saturday, October 1, the Sanford Lions Club will hold the 22nd annual Spaghetti Dinner and Bingo party at the Sanford Civic Center.

Proceeds of the event will benefit the Lion's Sight Programs. Among the special projects for the programs done by the Sanford Lions is providing eye/vision care to children in Seminole County.

Any child who is vision tested to need eye glasses or treatment, and the family is financially unable to provide the help, can obtain assistance from the Sanford Lions.

Other programs done by the local organization include the Conkhu Center for the Blind, Southeastern Guide Dogs, Florida Lions Camp for Children, Florida Eye Bank, Dr. Brallist of Central Florida, and Florida Lions Foundation.

The Sanford Lions also hold an annual fishing tournament for the blind in February or March of each year, a special event for Lions to spend a day with local blind children who enjoy fishing.

Among the most successful Lions fundraising functions are bingo games at Fica World, and the annual spaghetti dinner.

The October 1st event will be held from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. The cost is $5, which includes an all-you-can-eat spaghetti dinner complete with salad, Italian bread and juice or coffee. Desserts will be available for an additional 50 cents.

For information about the projects helping the blind, the Sanford Lions Club, or this special event, phone President, Andrea Krazeise at 330-6116.

The Sanford Lions Club meets every Tuesday at noon, at the Colonial Room Restaurant on E. First Street in downtown Sanford.

Suspect sent back to jail to await trial

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A man charged with attempted first degree murder with a weapon was sent back to jail Monday under a law which allows for the pre-trial detention under certain circumstances.

Tony Anthony Jones, 27, 1405 W. 16th Street was jailed after Judge Alan Dickey gave him the option of going ahead with the hearing while represented by the public defender, or going to jail until the hearing could be held after hiring private counsel. Jones returned to jail and the hearing on the motion was scheduled. The state claims the suspect is a danger to the community and should be detained pending trial.

Jones was charged with attempting to murder his wife, Cherelle Jones, on August 19, shooting her outside her residence at 1811 Persimmon Ave. The woman was shot in the back and in her face with a .25 caliber handgun. She has recovered from her wounds. Jones is also charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. The murder charge is a life felony.

County residents talk garbage, not taxes

By J. MARK HANFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The scheduled topic of the evening was taxes, but for dozens of people attending last night's budget hearing before Seminole County commissioners, the main thing on their minds was garbage.

More than 100 people used last night's first reading of the $315.5 million proposed budget for next year to protest the county's mandatory garbage collection program, set to begin Jan. 1. About half of them left with commission chairman Dick Van Der Weide announced they could leave their names if they were seeking an exemption or did not receive a service options card this summer.

Commissioners, led by Larry Furlong, did trim a few cents off next year's proposed $5.38 countywide tax rate. Largely by reducing reserve accounts, commissioners tentatively reduced the proposed tax rate to $5.37 and the unincorporated taxes from $2.82 to $2.76. The countywide change reduced the county's taxes for a $100,000 home by $1.16. Unincorporated residents will see a $5.56 reduction.

Commissioners will take final action on the budget Sept. 27.

But few residents attending last night were interested in the taxes. They showed up to protest the addition of up to $144 for the service. Some residents, including those living on land greater than 2 1/2 acres in size, are exempt from collection fees but not disposal fees.

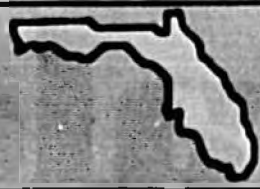

"You people are the dictators," shouted Alex Smith of Winter Park in an eastern European accent. "Don't take my rights, my freedom. I have not garbage. I recycle everything. Charge the people with garbage. You charge me one penny. I'll sue you for a false charge."

Bill Gilmartin of Sanford said the service wasn't necessary. "You were not mandated to have mandatory garbage collection," said Gilmartin.

Bill Daniels of Black Hammock told commissioners they need to improve dirt roads which will be damaged by the garbage trucks. Daniels admitted he moved to Black Hammock more than 20 years ago because of the rural nature of the area south of Lake Jeap.

Hugh Maloy, a tree farmer, continued the private sector protest against the county tree farm at the Yankee Lake wastewater treatment site. Maloy and others say the tree farm is costly and an affront to private enterprise.

CNN details story in defense

MIAMI — CNN knowingly defied a gag order barring the broadcast of taped prison telephone calls between deposed Panamanian dictator Manuel Noriega and his attorney, the prosecution charged.

In defending itself against criminal contempt charges, the Atlanta-based network took the unusual step Tuesday of explaining in detail how it prepared a story on the taped calls.

The trial began Tuesday in the court room of U.S. District Judge William Horvater, who had issued the gag order four years ago.

CNN, which contends the order was constitutionally invalid, resumes its case today, and Noriega is a potential witness.

The prosecution called no witnesses and took less than 90 minutes Tuesday to present its case summarizing previous court proceedings.

"CNN knew of the court's orders and acted in willful defiance of this court's orders," independent prosecutor Robert Dunlap told Horvater.

Horvater, who was also the judge in Noriega's criminal case, issued the gag order in November 1990. He voided his order after reviewing transcripts of the tapes and ruling Noriega's rights would not be harmed by the contents.

The passage of time since the broadcasts and Noriega's conviction makes the contempt case pointless, said Jane Kirkley, executive director of the Washington-based Reporter's Committee for the Freedom of the Press.

"The trial is over. There is no risk of harm for a fair trial," she said. "What it tells me is that the real issue is the defiance of his gag order."

In its broadcasts, CNN raised the issue of whether Noriega's prosecutors were eavesdropping on defense strategy to avoid an embarrassing defeat for President Bush, who ordered the invasion of Panama in December 1989. Prosecutors denied knowledge of the tape's contents.

Noriega is serving a 40-year drug sentence in the Metropolitan Correctional Center in south Dade County, the same prison where his calls were taped before his trial.

Motorists first to get safety systems

ORLANDO — Visitors to Miami concerned about crime and safety can now rent cars equipped with devices that can summon police at the push of a button. The cars also provide directions on a dashboard video screen.

Avis Inc., the rental car company, has concluded testing and is beginning to offer Oldsmobiles with one or both of the in-vehicle safety systems, officials said Tuesday.

So far, only five Delta 80s are equipped with the Guidestar Navigation-Information System or the Emergency Police Alert.

But, "We have hundreds on order that we will put into South Florida, and other areas of the country, over the coming months," said Avis spokeswoman Doretta Muder.

"Ninety percent of our customers who participated in pilot programs say that in-car systems improve their sense of safety," Avis Chairman and CEO Joseph V. Vittoria told a Miami press conference.

The Emergency Police Alert will provide drivers with the equivalent of a 911 call.

Guidestar is a small video screen mounted near the car's instrument panel to provide detailed turn-by-turn directions to thousands of destination points in the South Florida area.

They were developed and tested in San Jose, Calif., and Miami in cooperation with police officials. This is the first time they will go into actual consumer use throughout a rental fleet.

Avis officials said there was "mounting consumer demand" for safety and directional systems in automobiles.

Jet's engine last serviced at Tampa

TAMPA — USAir mechanics here, who last serviced the engine of the jet that crashed near Pittsburgh, replaced a valve in a mechanism investigators are looking at as a possible cause of the accident.

Mechanics at Tampa International Airport changed a leaky valve — about the size of an auto battery — in the right engine thrust reverser in July, said Michael Cohen, the airline's vice president for line maintenance in Pittsburgh.

Investigators have been trying to determine if that engine accidentally reversed before the Boeing 737-300 went down last Thursday six miles from Pittsburgh International Airport, killing 132 people.

Records show a crew flying the 7-year-old plane reported difficulty 2 1/2 months ago in putting the right engine into reverse. There were no complaints after part of the reverser was replaced at TIA. National Transportation Safety Board member Carl Vogt said Monday.

Cohen, the airline's maintenance chief, said the repairs were checked out before the plane left Tampa. USAir officials and NTSB investigators reviewed records of the work Monday.

USAir opened the $27 million Tampa hangar in April 1993 and consolidated all "C Check" maintenance for its 737-300 fleet there.

Disney wants workers to pay for benefits

By The Associated Press

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Walt Disney World is offering a variety of health plans for its workers, but wants them to begin paying for health coverage they now receive for free.

The proposals came in negotiating sessions with the 40-union Service Trades Council, which bargains for nearly half of the Florida company's 38,000 employees. The council balks at a change.

Disney spends more on benefits versus wages than the national average for the service industry, and its current coverage of all full-time employees and their dependents is unusual for businesses today.

This is a global trend in health care benefits. — Mike Duffy

Among the options Disney proposes are the PruCare health maintenance organization or HMO, the PruCare Plus health-care plan and Med/90 coverage in which employees would pay part of the premiums, $300 to $1,300 annually.

"There's no question that it's to the company's advantage to steer toward managed care," said Bill Ward, Disney vice president for employee relations.

Ward would not comment on the costs of the proposed plans but said Disney was offering reasonable rates.

Mike Duffy, a Service Trades Council spokesman, said Monday the proposed changes came as no surprise.

"This is a global trend in health care benefits," he said. "It's not anything we haven't negotiated before."

The unions unveiled their own health-care plan.

"We proposed that our health insurance stay the same," Duffy said. "Disney has failed to prove that they need relief. This company made a billion dollars last year. Why are we talking about give-backs?" The contract expires Oct. 29.

Local teen raises $$$ for MDA, meets stars at local TV telethon

By SUSAN WOODRUFF
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Labor Day held special significance this year for a 17-year-old eleventh grader from Lyman High School, Donna Payne. While there are many activities to partake of on this day of freedom from work, many Central Floridians followed the progress of the Jerry Lewis Telethon for muscular dystrophy. For Payne, the event is a special one, giving hope of a cure for a disease she has suffered from for many years.

Payne was diagnosed at birth with Charcot-Marie-Tooth, a disease that is inherited and affects the peripheral nerves. According to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, the disorder most commonly affects the muscles of the feet, lower legs and hands which results in weakness and atrophy as well as mild loss of sensation. The disease, which is found in approximately four out of 10,000 people, is the most common genetic peripheral nerve disorder. It is estimated that there are more than 125,000 people with Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease in the United States. It is a neuromuscular disorder named for the three physicians who first identified it, Jean-Martin Charcot, P. Marie and H.H. Tooth. An encouraging note for Payne is that MDA-funded scientists have already made progress toward uncovering several of the genes that, when defective, may cause the disease. The discovery of the genes promises to lead to a complete understanding of the disease, pointing the way to an effective treatment.

Payne, a Sanford resident, raised $213 for the organization last year, but this year she hailed it her best yet. "I collected $250 this year," she said. "I was on stage, but I wasn't nervous." She has been on stage for MDA before as she spoke as an old pro in the limelight. Local newsmen were on hand for the event held at the Dolphin Hotel in Orlando. Payne, who suddenly spoke about her encounter with them. "I got to meet and

Plans stall on FHP radio plan

By BILL GIBSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The governor and Cabinet say they won't go ahead with a $367 million statewide expansion of a digital law-enforcement radio system without finding out why it doesn't work in some places.

The $367 million includes $23.7 million spent on the pilot project. Glenn Wayne, director of the state Division of Communications and head of a five-agency task force coordinating the system, told the group Tuesday.

"That's a world of money," Gov. Lawton Chiles said before the group unanimously voted to hold a workshop before approving the expansion. "There's always going to be a new bill of a new whistle. That $367 million may again be the tip of the iceberg."

"I've ridden with troopers in South Florida and there's no question they like the technology," Secretary of State Jim Smith said. But he added, "Somebody's got to take this thing over and use some common sense."

Pat Santangelo, president of the Florida Highway Patrol troopers union, blamed poor engineering by the state for areas of poor reception and dead spots in the pilot system developed since 1989 in the Florida Keys, Everglades and Miami area.

"We recommend keeping the state out of design and engineering," as the system is expanded, Santangelo said.

The state has already signed a 10-year contract with Motorola to buy equipment for the system, amounting to about $10 million so far and more than $100 million over the life of the project.

Stumbling blocks were expected in developing the South Florida pilot project, said Wayne. "It was the area that had the worst problems you had the urban canyons of Miami, you had the wilderness of the Everglades, you had the Keys."

The system is designed to replace obsolete law enforcement communications using 1950s technology, relieving crowded radio frequencies and allowing different agencies to communicate with one another.

Coast Guard, Navy make no official plans to scale back Cuban rescues

By KAREN TESTA
Associated Press Writer

KEY WEST — On the first day the Cuban government locked the door to the Florida Straits, the number of rafters intercepted at sea plummeted.

But officials said it likely was adverse weather, not Cuban President Fidel Castro, that kept fleeing Cubans from being rescued. Seas reached 10 to 12 feet in the Gulf Stream, with winds between 20 and 25 knots and scattered thunderstorms.

"I know there are people on the Straits right now. I know people are dying," Carlos Costa, assistant director of operations for the Miami-based Brothers to the Rescue, said Tuesday.

U.S. authorities Tuesday picked up a dramatically reduced number of rafters — 134. The numbers plummeted for the second day, with the Monday refugee total reaching 283, according to the Coast Guard. A total of 1,004 rafters were picked up Sunday.

Under a deal reached Friday, the Clinton administration agreed to allow at least 20,000 Cubans a year to immigrate legally. In return, Cuba promised to halt the flight of rafters and gave them until Tuesday to remove their crafts from the beaches.

So far this year, the Coast Guard has rescued more than 36,000 refugees — about 32,000 since Aug. 5, when the exodus was touched off by rioting in Havana. This year's numbers represent the largest exodus of Cubans since the 1980 Mariel boatlift, which brought 125,000 Cubans to this country. In all of 1993, 3,656 were intercepted.

Despite the recent drop, the Navy said it had not made any decisions to remove any of ships. "Right now the weather in the Straits is not real good and we've

Traffic stops

Donnie Ray McLendon, 33, of St. Petersburg, was stopped by Lake Mary police Saturday. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, possession of cannabis over 20 grams, driving with a revoked license, driving with a suspended license, and violation of driver license restrictions.

Andre Jermain Stokes, 21, 300 Dixon Street, Sanford, was stopped on S.R. 46 by sheriff's deputies Saturday. He was charged with driving with a habitual traffic violator. Deputies report his license had been suspended 12 times.

Cerrald Wayne Sawyer, 51, of Altamonte Springs, was stopped by Sanford police at Airport Blvd. and U.S. Highway 17-92 Saturday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Jacobs Bernard Harris, 32, 440 Mellonville Avenue, was stopped by deputies at Sigee Avenue in Midway. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Brad McCarl Simpson, 27, 233 Lark Low Drive, Sanford, was stopped by Altamonte Springs police on Maitland Avenue early Monday. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Miguel Angel Ruiz, 33, of Winter Springs, was stopped by Sanford police on Highway 17-92 at 27th Street Saturday. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Dispute arrests

Orvine Emmanuel Herbert, 44, 100 Sweet Gum Court, Sanford, was arrested at his residence by Sanford police Sunday following a reported dispute with a female. He was charged with aggravated assault (domestic violence).

Jose A. Reyes, 35, 1518 Orsola Street, Longwood, was arrested by Longwood police at his residence Sunday following a reported confrontation with his wife. He was charged with aggravated assault (domestic violence).

John Eugene Colbert, 65, 186 Wehava Park Drive, was arrested by deputies early Monday following a reported dispute with other persons. He was charged with aggravated battery, and aggravated assault.

Warrants served

Lori Ann Gerry, 32, 792 Creechwater Terrace, Lake Mary, was located at her residence Sunday by sheriff's deputies. She was wanted on a warrant for enticement.

Kelly Gaines, 26, 800 S. Holly Avenue, was arrested at the John E. Palk Correctional Facility Saturday. Gaines was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of grand theft.

Warren Thomas Hurst Jr., 48, 311 Park Avenue, was arrested by Sanford police at his residence following a disturbance Saturday. He was charged with battery, and served a warrant for violation of probation.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

A residential burglary was reported Friday in the 600 block of Whittingham Place near Lake Mary. Deputies said an estimated $915 in items was reportedly stolen.

An estimated $180 in lawn care equipment was said to have been stolen Saturday from a yard in the 2900 block of Airport Blvd.

Fishing equipment valued at $468 was reportedly stolen Sunday from a yard in the 2000 block of Richardson Lane, near Lake Mary.

Rustlers

Sheriff's deputies investigated a reported attempted theft of cattle Monday, from a farm on S.R. 46 near Richmond Avenue. The owner told deputies he found five fence poles, a fence gate and three fence posts had been removed from an area behind his home. Several cattle which had managed to get loose from the area were located and returned to their owner.

Lost and found autos

A 1983 Chevrolet was reported stolen Monday from the 2600 block of 27th Street in Sanford. It was recovered a short time later on 20th Street near McCarthy Avenue.

A 1985 Oldsmobile reported stolen, was located Monday by Sanford police at the dead end of Hartwell Avenue. Police said the steering column had been broken.

The attempted theft of a City of Sanford owned vehicle was reported at 9 a.m. Monday, in the City Hall parking lot. Police said someone had broken the left rear window and steering column of the 1983 Dodge.

Computer theft arrest

Daryl Edward Waters, 31, of 831 Butters Loop, Longwood, was arrested by deputies Monday at the sheriff's office. Waters is accused of having broken into a business, Sept. 2 on Timocuan Way in Longwood, and removing over $20,000 in computer hardware. Deputies subsequently found some of the items had been sold in Hillsborough County. Waters has been charged with grand theft.

Copper caper

Marion Alonso Smith, 30, 3000 Dixon Ave., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Monday. Police said he had apparently stolen copper piping from two adjacent residences in the 1700 block of W. 18th Street. He was located at a metal dealer where police said he was trying to sell some of the pipes. He was charged with two counts each of burglary, grand theft and dealing in stolen property.

Petit theft

Altamonte Springs police arrested Callaway Lashaye, 25, of 208 Terry Lane, Sanford, at a retail store on S.R. 436 in Altamonte Springs on Monday. Police said Lashaye and two others, age 17 and 19 had reportedly attempted to remove items from a store without paying. Lashaye was charged with petit theft.

Traffic stop

Nimmond Lockheart, 38, of Winter Springs, was stopped at the Interstate-4 exit ramp by Lake Mary police Monday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license, and having an expired license for over four months.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

A Longwood man told police he returned from vacation to his home on Countryside Drive in Sweetwater Oaks Monday, and found seven teenagers, age 14 to 17, in his home. He said when he confronted them, they left the property.

A steel gate and 14 concrete slabs valued at $440, were reportedly stolen from a construction trailer area Monday in the 100 block of Bieder Avenue near Sanford.

A picnic table valued at $180 was reportedly stolen Sunday from a fenced area in the 3500 block of Marquette Avenue.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

Two cartons of cigarettes, valued at $34.27 were reportedly stolen early Tuesday from a convenience store in the 2700 block of W. 25th Street.

A storage shed burglary was reported Monday in the 1300 block of Mellonville Avenue. Property estimated at $610 was reported stolen including a weed eater, two bikes, a high chair and a playpen.

A microwave, two VCRs and other items valued at over $2,000 were reportedly stolen Monday from a residence in the 200 block of Laurel Avenue.

A scale valued at $550 was said to have been stolen Monday from a business in the 100 block of Commerce Way.

A clerk at a convenience store in the 1200 block of S. Park Avenue told police two men stole three packs of chips and four packs of cigarettes valued at $11.37 on Monday.

Smoking teens

Scientists urge nicotine cap, $2 pack cigarette tax

By LARRY HENNINGSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A limit on nicotine, a $2-per-pack cigarette tax and a ban on advertising characters such as Joe Camel: Top scientists say teen-age smoking isn't going to end until the government takes these tough steps.

That was the message Tuesday from the prestigious Institute of Medicine, which concluded that school anti-smoking programs and laws prohibiting tobacco sales to youths simply aren't doing the job.

"The bottom line is 1 million youths become smokers in the United States every year," said Dr. Paul Torrens, a University of California at Los Angeles professor who co-wrote the report. "That's a million too many."

More than 400,000 Americans die each year from diseases the government attributes to smoking, and 70 percent of smokers start before age 18. Anti-smokers and scientists say unwary teens get hooked on nicotine after experimenting with just a few cigarettes.

So the Institute of Medicine spent 18 months figuring out how to keep those youths from getting hooked — and decided an aggressive plan to reduce teen access to and awareness of tobacco is the only solution.

The institute said the program must be led by a Public Health Service agency, probably the Food and Drug Administration, that would strictly regulate tobacco and cap the nicotine allowed in cigarettes.

The FDA already is considering doing just that, partly to protect teens. "It's critical we do all we can to prevent kids from getting hooked," Commissioner David Kessler said Tuesday.

But the FDA plan has sparked tremendous controversy, with the industry complaining the government is really out to ban tobacco. FDA insists that's not true, and the Institute of Medicine agreed a ban won't work.

"We are not prohibitionists, we are not banning cigarettes," Torrens responded. "We are simply saying children should be protected from addictive substances."

The report is a rebash of "anti-smoking rhetoric that no one believes is politically viable," said Thomas Lauris of the Tobacco Institute.

Congress killed President Clinton's proposal to raise the 24-cent cigarette tax by 75 cents and would never tolerate a $2 tax because it would cost 300,000 industry jobs, he said.

The medical panel also recommended that:

—Merchants obtain a state license to sell tobacco, which would be suspended if the store sells tobacco to minors.

—All public places, from restaurants to shopping malls, ban smoking.

—Congress repeal the federal law prohibiting states from regulating tobacco advertising so states can ban billboards and any advertising deemed attractive to teens.

—Cigarette vending machines be banned.

—Federal funds help states conduct "sting" operations to catch stores that sell tobacco to minors.

Tuesday's report sparked some interest on Capitol Hill.

"The need has never been clearer for a significant federal tobacco tax to deter kids from smoking," said Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., who joined Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., in urging enactment of the recommendations.

Scientists for the Institute of Medicine acknowledged their plan would have ripple effects.

"Nothing comes free," said Richard Bonnie, a law professor at the University of Virginia. But "it's a public health strategy that needs to be implemented."

Meat, poultry testing part of safety bill

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON — The meat and poultry industry would be required to test their products for bacterial contamination under an administration-backed bill designed to ensure that the safety of the nation's meat supply.

The proposal, if enacted, would add science to an 88-year-old system of inspection that has relied on the eyes, noses and hands of thousands of inspectors to determine whether raw meat is free of disease-causing microorganisms.

The bill, being introduced today, also calls for fines and other measures to punish safety violations and gives the department authority to recall contaminated products, according to congressional aides and various groups aware of its contents.

Moreover, it requires that the industry be able to trace contaminated animals from slaughterhouse to the farm. And it broadens animal quarantine laws to include conditions that, though harmless to animals, may cause disease in humans.

Agriculture Secretary Mike Egan and the Senate sponsor of the bill, Sen. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., scheduled a news conference today to announce the measure.

The bill adds to, rather than replaces, the current system of inspection in which each of the more than 7 billion animals slaughtered each year is inspected.

That system has been criticized by the congressional General Accounting Office and others for devoting millions of inspector hours and dollars to a process that can detect only some signs of bacterial contamination.

But by adding the tool of microbial testing, the new law would bring meat safety more in line with recommendations made in 1985 by the National Academy of Sciences.

The department is also developing regulations to mandate a risk-based system of improving safety based on identification of potential hazard spots, putting in safety controls, and requiring records to support those controls.

The legislative proposal was prompted by a series of fatal and disabling outbreaks of food poisoning linked to contaminated raw meat, starting in January 1993 in the Pacific Northwest. That deadly outbreak was linked to E. coli O157:H7.

"It is an enormous breakthrough," said Carol

Think about why you're voting

Jim Smith has pulled out of the Republican gubernatorial race. He would have faced Jeb Bush in the runoff election. The winner would then have faced Governor Lawton Chiles in November.

Depending on a person's preference, this could be a good or a bad move. Supporters of Bush are now reassured that he will be in the general election without question.

Supporters of Chiles now believe it will possibly provide more votes for their candidate, from among Republicans who voted against Bush, rather than for Smith.

Those who supported Smith now have a choice. Will they remain loyal to the party and vote for Bush, or, because they voted for Smith rather than Bush, will they now vote for Chiles rather than Bush?

The question which has faced voters for decades remains unchanged. Do you vote for the candidate you believe is best for the job, or do you vote against one you dislike, regardless of what the other may stand for?

Voters however, may question what means more, party affiliations or candidate strength. Bush received 46 percent of the vote in the first primary. In the multi-candidate race, this is a good figure. However, it must also be noted that he did NOT receive 54 percent of the Republican vote. That puts us back to the question, did 54 percent of the voters cast their ballots FOR one of the others, or AGAINST Bush?

For the gubernatorial race, now between Bush and Chiles, it will be more important than ever for each prospective voter to pay attention to everything which is said in the last remaining campaign weeks. Judge the person, the promises, the opinions, and look at previous accomplishments of each.

Also keep in mind, what a gubernatorial candidate promises is not necessarily what the legislature will approve. Pie-in-the-sky can be promised, but only if the other officials in our government will agree to supply the dough.

Regulation: America's hidden tax

It was Benjamin Franklin who famously remarked that "in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes." Were wise old Ben alive today, he almost certainly would add regulation to this short list.

Indeed, never before in American history has government regulation been as onerous as it is today. At least that's the conclusion of a just-released report from the Institute for Policy Innovation, a think tank based in Lewisville, Texas.

Much as economists rely on various indicators to determine growth (or contraction) in the nation's economy, IPI took a close look at various barometers of regulatory expansion.

It notes, for instance, that the number of federal regulations hit an all-time high of 126,815 in 1993, the first year of the Clinton presidency, and that their ranks will swell by another 3,000 bureaucrats next year.

Meanwhile, the number of pages printed in the Federal Register, the volume in which all new regulations are published, rose to 69,686 last year, the highest page count since 1980, and the third-highest in history. Government spending on regulatory programs was $11.8 billion last year, which also is a record high.

Most Americans don't worry nearly as much about regulation as they do about taxes (or death). But they should. The staggering cost of regulation -- $581 billion in 1993, according to IPI, or roughly one-tenth of the gross domestic product -- is a tremendous drag on the U.S. economy.

Indeed, in many respects, regulation amounts to a "hidden tax." It dampens job creation, it lowers wages, it raises consumer prices.

Several recent analyses bear this out. In 1992, the respected economists Art Laffer and Victor Canto published a paper in which they cross-checked the Federal Register and Standard and Poor's 500.

What they found is that whenever regulations increased, investment activity declined.

Similarly, in 1993, a Heritage Foundation paper found an inverse relationship between the total number of government regulators and private sector job growth. During the 1980s, it noted, the number of regulators declined, while the economy churned out a record number of new jobs.

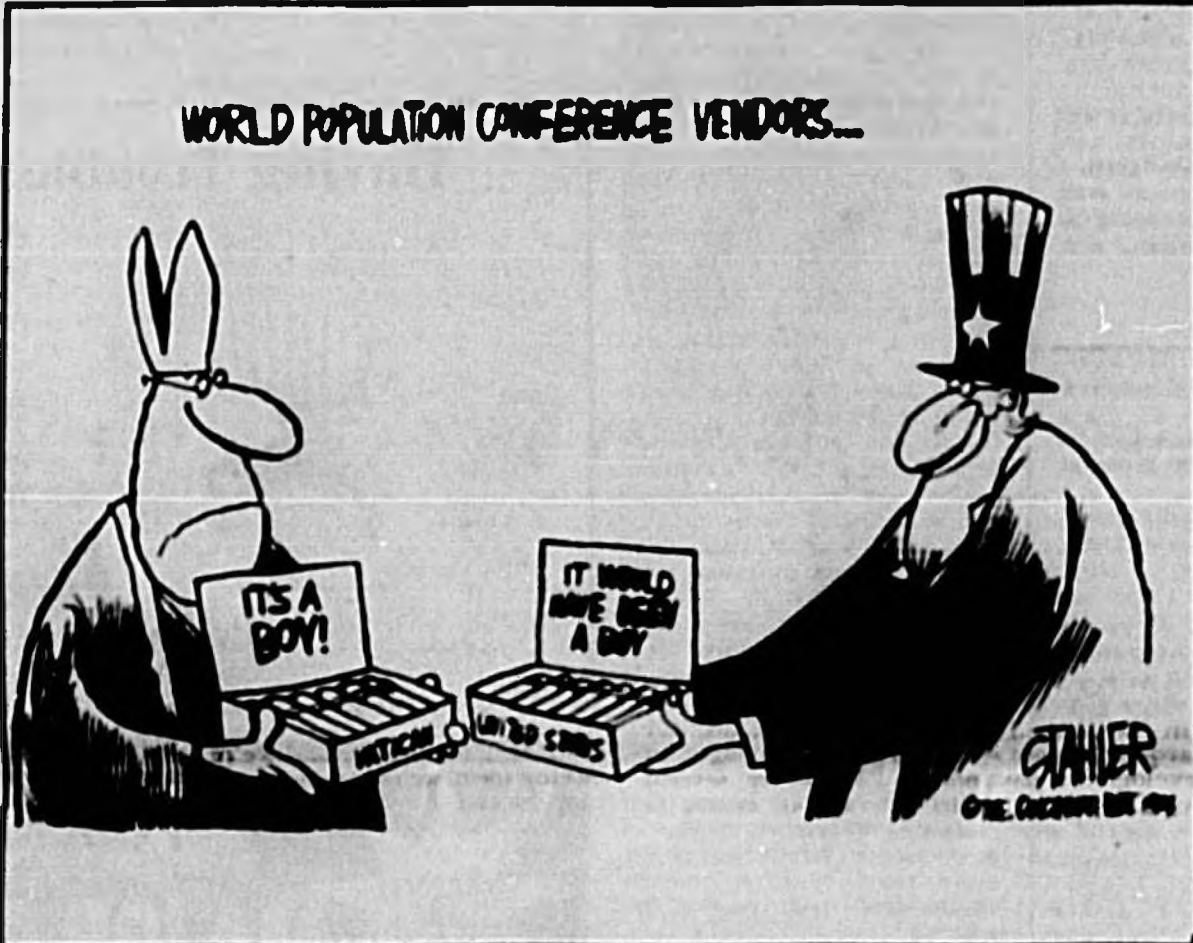

By contrast, as the number of regulators increased during the 1990s, under both the Bush and Clinton administrations, job creation declined precipitously.

This explains why the present period of economic expansion has been far from robust. Since the recession bottomed out two years ago, real gross domestic product has increased only 8.7 percent -- half the rate of other recoveries at the same stage.

Also, while President Clinton boasts about the jobs that have been created during his watch, the rate of post-recessionary employment growth is far below the historic norm. Maybe that's why the American people are not willing to give the president the credit for present economic conditions that he thinks he deserves.

Were wise old Ben alive today, he almost certainly would add regulation to this short list.

SARAH OVERSTREET

Health risks should carry fee

When President Clinton covered his health-care task force I wrote in a column that I was optimistic: Such a leaped group would surely come up with some constructive solutions.

It's the columnist's great curse -- words, right there in unerasable black and white, and in most newspapers appearing clearly and unmistakably beneath your likeness.

Ah, well. Perhaps sticking one's neck out gives one's eyeballs a better viewing position, because now it is necessary to protect one's backside. Whatever, if the leaped group of which I spoke did come up with any constructive solutions, few of those recommendations made their way into proposed legislation.

Why? First of all, the group never realized that the main fears of most voters are quite specific. Because of the reduction in workplace benefits over the last few years, most voters have the entirely realistic fear of the loss or reduction of insurance coverage. They fear their retirement income will not be adequate to cover their medical needs and that Medicare won't either.

Yet they also fear that forcing employers to underwrite it may affect job availability. They are also worried, and quite realistically, that being in HMOs will force them to be cared for by physicians they don't like. They've heard the horror stories such as HMO staffs refusing to even inform consumers of the benefits for which they are eligible, and they fear additional bureaucracy layers.

The majority of this voter group wants to make sure lower-income citizens have adequate insurance coverage and health care, but they are concerned about whether they'll lose in tax dollars what we all gain in medical benefits. And usually, they're not concerned enough to call or write their legislators.

The minority of voters who are most worried about the business mandate have been extremely vocal to their legislators, but their concerns received as much attention as those of the majority, which is to say, not enough.

In short, none of the plans did what the silent majority and vocal minority wanted, which was to ensure that we all receive care from the physicians and hospitals we choose, without overburdening business or our tax bills. "Subsidies," a key component of some proposals, sounds a little better than what it is in reality, which is "money diverted from one taxpayer to another."

From the start I have believed that a major part of the answer to our health-care dilemma lies in forcing the private insurance industry to stop refusing to insure sick people, booting them when they become ill or charging exorbitant rates.

And how should we allow the insurance companies to recoup losses? By attaching a fee to those practices which most damage the practitioners' health, and using that money to make up insurance companies' shortfall.

In other words, any time we take unnecessary risks that may result in health damages, we should pay a "health-insurance fee."

If we buy a pack of cigarettes or bottle of bourbon, we pay a set fee that goes into a national insurance fund.

If we drive automobiles that put us at high risk for injury according to insurance industry statistics, we should pay a health-insurance fee every year when we renew our registration.

LETTERS

Response to commander

In response to Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire's letter about all the wonderful programs this administration has implemented: Whom Nello! What a bunch of lies. Nice touch with the elephant story, but a more appropriate one would've been the story of Pinocchio. Everyone in the department and the city knows that you're the creation of Chief Geppetto, oops, I mean Russell. You spent almost half the letter talking about yourself instead of the real issues of why the department's officers are so disgruntled, which is typical of Russell and your kind. Your letter really opened Russell, Dillard, and the rest of you up to attack. As Forrest Gump would've said, "Stupid is as stupid does." Maybe your letter was meant as a ploy to take some of the heat off of Russell. Too bad you were mistaken.

Russell and Dillard are trying to restructure the department, but one where there is only males. Russell and Dillard both have a chaotic style when it comes to management. They, including yourself, could care less about the welfare of the officers and citizens. Contrary to your statement, Russell is a dictator, and should be deposed.

As for the staff meetings with the commanders where decisions are made, their opinions are meaningless. Russell has already decided what he's going to do before calling the commanders together which is a formality. I got this information from a number of commanders, including yourself.

You insult the intelligence of the citizens when you try to equal Russell's regime with that of democracy. You're trying to compare Chief Stalin to Thomas Jefferson which just doesn't cut it. One of the issues with the department is the grievance procedure. It's like Stalin charging you with a crime and then being the impartial judge at the grievance hearing. The only democratic thing he'll ask you, is if you want one bullet or two.

I find it funny that you attack one of this country's bastions of freedom, the press. If it were not for the press the people would've never known about Watergate, Irangate, and a host of other illegal activities that our elected and appointed officials have committed. So don't blame good journalism for your bad press. You guys did this all by your lonesome selves.

As for the 21 points you credited Russell with developing, I know for a fact that over half of them were implemented by Russell's predecessor and fellow officers. Point #10 was a real hoot, the one about supplies. Russell's taken away a number of items that the officers used to carry for protection, as a punishment for joining the FOP. One example is the stun guns, which gives them little choice between using deadly force or no force at all. Russell wouldn't even give the K-9 unit needed supplies for the dogs that the citizens paid out thousands of dollars for. Russell said that those things were negotiable, referring to the bargaining that's going on now between the FOP and the city. Next thing Russell will say is that guns and ammo are negotiable items. Oh, by the way the FOP paid for the supplies for the K-9 unit.

I'm sure Pinocchio's letter was an attempt to get the letter writers all fired up, too bad it didn't work with this writer. This was the funniest piece of fiction that I've read in a long time.

In closing, Whitmire, I'd like to give you a better story than the one about the elephant, especially when it comes to really seeing the truth of things.

When Leo Durocher was manager of the Dodgers he was booted for pulling a pitcher out in the eighth inning of a close game. A reporter later asked him how he felt about the crowd's (you guys) reaction. He replied, "Baseball is like church. Many attend. Few understand."

See ya in the funnies, Whitmire.

Net ban

Supreme Court of Florida
Case No. 81,394
June 17, 1993

I am concerned however that the net fishery amendment is more appropriate for inclusion in Florida statute books than in the state constitution. ... Justice J. McDonald, Supreme Court of Florida Justice.

I am a third generation native of Hillsborough County who has been involved in salt and fresh water fishing my entire life. I am the former United States Marshal for the Middle District of Florida and recently ended eight years as a member of the Florida Marine Fisheries Commission. I continue to serve as a member of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission from Maine to Florida. I am a sports fisherman with no personal agenda other than to maintain the health and abundance of the marine resources while implementing conservation and management measures fairly and equitably to all the people of Florida; so that no individual, corporation or entity acquire an excessive share of such privileges (Florida Statute 370.025).

The commission has adopted over 125 pages of rules since its inception in 1983 with the vast majority being levied against the commercial fisherman who simply supplies the consumer that doesn't fish, doesn't want to fish, can't fish, or can't afford to fish. The fisherman is merely the conduit to bring fresh fish to the public market for the voters and the non voters to purchase. The work is hard and the income is marginal.

Florida coastal fishermen, both recreational and commercial, should continue to be regulated by the Marine Fisheries Commission based on the best available biological and scientific data, not by a popularity contest based on who has the most players and the best advertising campaign. To eliminate those who provide the consuming public through the coastal restaurants, fresh markets, etc. would be to eliminate an historic class of Americans who take great pride in providing the public with fresh seafood.

The Marine Fisheries Commission has severely restricted nets in Florida waters even when data show 85+ percent of a particular species is being taken by the sport fisherman (DEP Aug. 1994 Red Fish Stock Assessment).

The Constitution is no place to regulate fishermen. Leave it to the Marine Fisheries Commission to regulate and if needed, "ban nets" in Florida waters based on biology, science, sociological and economic factors. The Supreme Court of Florida in its advisory opinion to the Attorney General regarding this proposal to be placed on the ballot as a constitutional amendment on Nov. 8 stated:

"I am concerned however that the net fishery amendment is more appropriate for inclusion in Florida statute books than in the state constitution. ... Recognizing the sovereignty of the people, I still feel compelled to express my view that the permanency and supremacy of state constitutional jurisdiction is jeopardized by the recent proliferation of constitutional amendments." J. McDonald; Justices Barkett, Overton and Kogan concur. "Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General-Limited Marine Net Fishing" June 17, 1993.

Vote against proposed Constitutional Amendment #3 to ban fishing nets in Florida waters on Nov. 8.

The Marine Fisheries Commission should continue to regulate salt water fishermen based on the best information available, including biological, sociological, economic, and other information deemed relevant by the commission. (Florida Statute 370.025)

Retail sales rise 0.8 percent

By JAMES H. HOBBS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Retail sales rose 0.8 percent in August after remaining unchanged the previous month, the government said today.

The advance, in line with analysts' expectations, was spurred by a recovery in automobile sales and higher sales of other durable goods. The August showing may have been helped as well by back-to-school shopping, analysts said.

The Commerce Department said all sales totaled a seasonally adjusted $186.6 billion, up from a revised $185.1 billion in July.

The July figure originally was estimated to be $184.8 billion.

Retail sales posted a 0.9 percent increase in June after holding steady in May and falling 1 percent in April.

The August gain was anticipated as car sales rebounded from a decline blamed on low supplies of popular models.

Still, consumer spending has weakened in recent months as interest rates have climbed. After rising at a 4.7 percent annual rate in the first quarter, spending advanced at just a 1.2 percent rate in the next three months. Retail sales represent about half of consumer expenditures.

Sales of durable goods, items expected to last more than three years, climbed 1.3 percent in August following a 0.6 percent decline.

Dealers said automobile sales rose 1.2 percent after a 1.6 percent drop in July. Excluding autos, sales were up 0.7 percent.

Other durable goods sectors also posted gains. Sales of building materials, hardware and garden supplies were up 2.2 percent after slipping 0.3 percent in July. Sales of furniture and other home furnishings rose 1.7 percent, after remaining unchanged the previous month.

Nondurable goods such as groceries and gasoline were up

0.4 percent following July's 0.5 percent rise.

Department stores rang up their second straight 0.4 percent increase in sales. Apparel sales advanced 2 percent after falling 0.5 percent.

Sales at grocery stores edged up 0.2 percent, on top of a 0.3 percent gain in July. But restaurants and bars were down 0.9 percent following a 1.5 percent increase. Drug store sales were up 0.3 percent after rising 1.2 percent.

Despite rising prices, gasoline sales advanced this summer. They rose 1 percent in August on top of a 0.9 percent increase the previous month.

about the concept" and look forward to seeing the full policy.

Another section of the policy says if a student commits an offense outside school that would be a felony for an adult, law enforcement officials must inform school officials within 24 hours, rather than the current 48 hours.

"The principal and superintendent would have that information overnight, so an appropriate placement can be made and that kid will not be in a Florida classroom," Jamerson said.

Chiles said safe-schools legislation he pushed for in the last legislative session provided $12 million to $13 million for additional school security officers and equipment, and a similar amount for alternative classrooms and programs so an expelled student doesn't end up on the street.

"That might be where he wants to go to start with," Chiles said.

Secretary of State Jim Smith said he favored the rule but wanted teachers to have more power to discipline disruptive students. "Parents want that," he said.

A recent survey showed 37 percent of students, 91 percent of parents and 97 percent of teachers polled thought metal detector searches were necessary in public schools, said Insurance Commissioner and Treasurer Tom Gallagher.

"It shows you the kind of fear that's going on and the concern that's going on, so the sooner we get this emergency rule up and running the better off we all are," Gallagher said.

"That will send a message to children — the new Three R's: Reform, Responsibility, Respect," said Jamerson. "These are the things we are going to have to impress upon children. If we adopt this policy I think that gets us down the road."

Colleges study ways to prevent violence by minority men

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sixteen black colleges and universities were awarded $4.25 million today to study ways of preventing violence among African-American men.

Donna Shalala, the secretary of health and human services, announced the grants to historically and predominantly black colleges. The schools will use the money to study such problems as drug- and alcohol-related violence, gang violence and spousal and child abuse.

Each participating institution also will establish a family life center on campus to implement community-based programs, such as counseling students and Head Start families and developing community violence prevention newsletters.

"Outside of the family and the church, historically and predominantly black colleges and universities are perhaps the most respected and cherished institutions in African-American communities," Shalala said.

"We believe that working with local communities, giving young people something to say yes to and demonstrating through action that somebody cares is violence prevention at its best," she said.

The colleges involved are:

- Central State University, Wilberforce, Ohio.
- Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Miss.
- University of the District of Columbia.

- Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn.
- Morgan State University, Baltimore.
- Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio.
- Chicago State University, Illinois.
- Texas Southern University, Houston.
- LeMoyne-Owen College, Memphis, Tenn.
- Philander Smith College, North Little Rock, Ark.
- Talladega College, Talladega, Ala.
- Clark University, Atlanta.
- Lincoln University, Lincoln University, Pa.
- Morehouse College, Atlanta.
- North Carolina A&T College, Greensboro, N.C.
- Xavier University, New Orleans.

seen in the past the number of refugees rise and fall," said Lt. Col. John Peters, of the Atlantic Command, in Norfolk, Va.

"Hopefully, this is in response to Cuba's agreement not to allow the rafts to leave."

It would be premature to say when the 35 Coast Guard ships or the 10 naval ships — seven U.S., one Canadian and two Argentine — would be withdrawn by the Atlantic Command, which coordinates the mission, Peters said.

Business was as usual at the Coast Guard on Tuesday, though speculation that Cubans were going to quit leaving their communist homeland in rickety rafts circulated privately.

"Sure, it gets the rumor mill going," Lt. Cmdr. Scott LaRochelle said. "But the decisions if and when we pull out will be made by higher powers than us."

Jones, who is represented by the public defender, posted a $50,000 bond and left jail on the murder charge. He was arrested a second time on a license infraction and posted a bond in that case too.

Assistant state attorney Tom Hastings then filed a motion for pre-trial detention. In most instances, bond is allowed for defendants in criminal cases with few exceptions, the prosecutor noted.

However, under the law, if there is a person who the court determines is dangerous to the community by virtue of the severity of the present offense and who has previously been convicted of an enumerated dangerous offense within the last 10 years, the judge can order that person be detained until trial, for a period not to exceed 90 days.

During the hearing, Judge Dickey questioned whether Jones was indigent and entitled to representation by the public defender when he was able to post a $50,000 bond. Even through a bondsman, defendants must put up 10 percent of the value of the bond to secure the money, either in cash, property or anything of value.

Jones told the judge he is attempting to retain private counsel and requested a continuance of the detention hearing. Although Jones was remanded to custody after the hearing, another hearing on the matter is scheduled Friday, if the defendant hires a lawyer.

Hastings said Jones has more than one previous conviction, including one for aggravated battery.

as well as the revitalization of the downtown area, to go back to the 'good old days' when the shop keepers lived above the shops and the activities of downtown were centered around these users."

Stairs has indicated she plans to have three apartments to be executive suite caliber.

The physical description of the building is at 121 E. First Street, as well as around the corner, designated as 108 Magnolia Avenue. The building is owned by Glenn McCall.

The building at 121 E. First Street is considered as one of the oldest brick buildings in Sanford, and the one to survive the disastrous fire of 1887 that destroyed a great portion of the downtown Sanford area.

It was built by Henry DeForest, who reportedly came to Sanford from Connecticut at the age of 18, on the advice of his distant cousin, Henry S. Sanford, for whom the city is named.

The building was originally known as the DeForest Block. In 1917, it became the Seminole County Bank.

Also in 1917, the Magnolia Avenue side of the building was added by the bank. According to historic reports, it was intended to provide rooms for two stores downstairs and offices upstairs. It was first occupied by W.J. Hill, and operated as Hill Hardware.

Several alterations have been made to the original structure including the addition of a light coat of stucco, but most of the original architectural designs are still present.

W.C. Touchton purchased the building in 1933, and since that time the portion of the building facing First Street has been known as Touchton's Drug Store. Glenn McCall, who subsequently purchased the structure, continues to operate the drug store under the Touchton name.

Several proposals for the development are being presented before the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission during this Thursday night's meeting.

The items to be considered are separate approval requests for each street address, both First Street and Magnolia Avenue, of the same building. They include conditional use approval for use of the property for a multi-family dwelling, and requests for dimensional variances to waive off-street parking requirements.

According to the applications, Stairs plans to utilize the upstairs building space for three residential units.

In the planning commission report, Jay Marder, Sanford's director of Planning and Development has noted, "There are several second story residential uses already located in the general area known as Downtown Sanford including the old fire station on Palmetto Avenue and Fantastic Cleaners at Second and Oak."

"In general," Marder wrote, "the city has strongly supported the revitalization and renovation of the immediate area."

None of the other second story residential units in the downtown area include off-street parking facilities.

Marder is recommending all of the requests be approved by the P&Z Commission.

Additional items scheduled for the P&Z meeting include a request for dimensional variance for property at 2397 S. French, to reduce the required number of parking spaces on the property. At the same property, Cash America has also requested a site plan approval.

Also included is a parking space reduction request for property at the northwest corner of Third Street and Myrtle Avenue.

The Planning and Zoning Commission meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. this Thursday night, in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

"That's just crewmen on the ships speculating that the Cubans are going to quit leaving," said Petty Officer Joe Dyr in Miami. "We'll have to make sure there's some kind of trend."

Peters acknowledged there had been several recent reports of Cubans hastily fleeing the island before Tuesday's crackdown. He would not say if he thought those people were dead or missing in the Straits.

"If they're out there and we're seeing them, we're picking them up," he said.

Brothers to the Rescue, a volunteer search group that drops water and food to refugees and notifies the Coast Guard of their location, said it would step up its flights in the next two weeks.

Costa said the U.S.-Cuba agreement will not stop Cubans from trying to leave the communist island; rather it will encourage violence against those fleeing.

"Castro has always prevented people from leaving," Costa said. "What it comes down to now is, he has Clinton's approval to shoot them. So now when he sinks a boat, he's going to say 'Well, you told me to stop them.'"

Her words of thanks were then expressed, as well as her plea to others to help in the efforts of the telethon. "I'd like to thank everyone who donated. The kids benefit from it and I want to give back for all the help I've received. People should raise money for the organization so they can find a cure."

She also related one of her future ambitions in the field of MDA. "I'd like to meet Jerry Lewis one day. That would be neat!"

Jerry Lewis is the national chairman for MDA. The association fights 40 neuromuscular diseases through an unparalleled worldwide research effort, a nationwide program of medical services and far-reaching professional and public health education. Some 230 MDA hospital-affiliated clinics and chapters furnish medical services and programs for children and adults with neuromuscular diseases.

Book

Unfortunately, they're doing it as prisoners.

The district, for the last several years, has been using prison labor to print the booklets that are distributed to the students as a reminder of the rules.

According to district officials, the prison print shop at the Calhoun Correctional Facility in Blountstown submitted the lowest bid for the project.

The $14,000 for the 60,000 booklets is "considerably lower" than the other print shops, including the district's own in-house facility.

This year's cost is double that of last year, officials said, because they decided to use color coding to highlight the various areas of interest.

"We needed to use the color to highlight these things," Eloise Williams-George, executive secretary to administrative assistant to the superintendent Dr. Hortense Evans, said.

Williams-George said the booklets were to have been ready at the start of the traditional school year calendar last month, but the work was delayed when the prisoners failed to follow directions properly and the job had to be redone. The books are to be distributed at the schools over the next week.

There were only a few minor changes to the school rules and policies this year so students are aware of the code of conduct. The district likes to have the items in writing so there are no questions as to what is expected.

DEATHS

Momentum builds for Haiti invasion

WASHINGTON — Against a tide of congressional opposition, President Clinton is building momentum for an invasion of Haiti on two fronts — amassing warships in the Caribbean and appealing to public opinion at home.

Clinton scheduled a Thursday evening television address to try to convince the American people that the restoration of democracy in Haiti, by force if necessary, is a vital U.S. interest.

The administration says an invasion can be averted only if Army chief Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and his cohorts give up power and allow the return of the democratically elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, who was overthrown in a military coup three years ago.

The aircraft carrier USS America left the naval base at Norfolk, Va., Tuesday, and another carrier, the USS Eisenhower, sets sail today, presumably for waters off Haiti. The carriers are to provide a launch platform for special force troops and Marines who would lead the takeover of Haiti's capital of Port-au-Prince.

Primary brings redemption

The year's biggest primary election day brought redemption for Marion Barry, the former crack-smoking mayor of Washington, and rejection for Bruce Sundlun, the troubled-plagued governor of Rhode Island.

If there was a theme to Tuesday's midterm primaries, it might have been nostalgia — not just for the tried and true, but for the tried and convicted.

Barry, who served six months in prison after being videotaped smoking crack in a 1990 sting operation, won the Democratic nomination for mayor in the nation's capital, ousting incumbent Mayor Sharon Pratt Kelly.

"Amazing grace, how sweet it sounds," Barry bellowed to jubilant supporters.

The Democratic nomination is usually tantamount to election in Washington, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 9-to-1.

In all, there were primaries in nine states, involving eight governor's races, eight Senate races and 73 House seats.

Four incumbent governors triumphed easily in their party primaries: Democrat Mario Cuomo of New York and Republican Fife Symington of Arizona. Arne Carlson of Minnesota and Steve Merrill of New Hampshire.

Crash probe continues

CORAZOPLIS, Pa. — The thrust reverser theory has been all but thrown out, and it appears an engine on USAir Flight 427 didn't break loose, either.

New evidence in the crash has put investigators searching for a cause back at square one — and they aren't ruling out anything.

"You go up blind alleys, but you have to go up them to see that they are blind alleys," Tom Haueter, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said Tuesday. "We are still looking at every possible avenue."

The Boeing 737-300 dropped from 6,000 feet Thursday and nose-dived into a wooded ravine at 300 mph, killing all 132 people on board. Investigators believe the plane's right wing may have risen, forcing the plane to roll to the left and go out of control.

Drugs, alcohol found in pilot's body

WASHINGTON — Small amounts of cocaine and alcohol were found in the body of a disoriented truck driver who crashed his small plane on the White House grounds, the Secret Service said, reporting preliminary autopsy results.

And in a troubling miscue, Frank Corder's plane appeared on radar at the nearby National Airport but operators did not notice until after the crash. "It was ... missed," Secret Service spokesman Dave Adams said Tuesday.

The developments should help investigators determine how a novice pilot in a tiny Cessna 150 managed to come so close to hurting the first family, but the news did little to explain why Corder took to the air in the first place. Was it suicide, a bungled prank or — less likely — an assassination attempt?

Adams said an autopsy showed that Corder's blood alcohol content was 0.045 percent, slightly above the 0.04 percent legal limit for pilots. The legal limit for driving a car in most states is 0.10 percent.

Former United Way officials indicted

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The former president of United Way of America and two former executives have been indicted on charges they spent the charity's money on vacations, apartments and personal air travel.

William Aramony, 67, president of United Way from 1970 to 1992, was named in a 71-count federal grand jury indictment announced Tuesday by the U.S. attorney's office.

Also indicted were Stephen J. Paulachak, 49, a United Way executive from 1971 to 1988 and president of a spinoff company that was indicted; and Thomas J. Merio, 63, chief financial officer of the charity from 1980 to 1992.

The alleged diversion of funds caused a shakeup at the national charity organization when it was first reported by the news media two years ago. Contributions to local United Way organizations fell off sharply but have since stabilized.

School's roof ripped off in storm

AVONDALE, Ariz. — A severe thunderstorm ripped off part of a school roof Tuesday while children were lined up outside waiting for buses. A teacher and five pupils were hurt.

Pierce winds and hail as big as golf balls pelted Littleton Elementary School shortly after classes let out. A funnel cloud was reported in the town near Phoenix, but it wasn't known if the twister caused the school damage.

"A front came through, and we were watching it, and all of a sudden all heck broke loose," said Marge Sydlowski, a fire department spokeswoman in nearby Tolleson.

The teacher hit in the head by falling debris was hospitalized in good condition. Avondale Fire Chief John Walter said the children's injuries appeared to be minor.

The computer lab area of the school where the roof was torn off was empty when the storm hit, Walter said. Wednesday classes were canceled.

The storm also interrupted voting in Arizona's primary elections for a time before the school's polling place was moved to an undamaged part of the campus.

Porno in their pockets

NEWBURGH, N.Y. — Somebody slipped a little sex in between the pictures of bunnies and puppies that children at an elementary school brought home for a fund-raising campaign.

Several parents discovered pornographic pictures Monday when their children brought the fund-raising brochures home from Meadow Hill School. Packets were given to 1,000 kindergarten and grade school students.

Most of the packets included catalogs for chocolates, Christmas paper, and calendars with pictures of bunnies and puppies on them. But at least ten packets also included pages torn from a magazine that showed naked adults having sex, numbers for phone sex lines and ads for life-size inflatable dolls.

"We assume it was a disgruntled employee" at one of the companies involved in the fund-raiser, Vice Principal Deborah Bannan said. "At this point in time, they're not sure what happened."

From Associated Press reports

Breast cancer gene isolated

NEW YORK — Three teams of U.S. researchers have won the worldwide race to isolate the gene that causes the inherited form of breast cancer, NBC News reported.

The gene, called BRCA1, is believed to cause 5 percent of breast cancer cases. Researchers who isolated the gene believe that within two years, a blood test will be developed to identify women who carry BRCA1, NBC reported Tuesday.

That would give these women an opportunity to identify breast cancer earlier, and avoid behavior such as smoking or the use of birth control pills which can increase the risk of breast cancer.

Scientists have known for years that the BRCA1 gene exists, and more than a dozen research facilities around the world have been working to pinpoint it. The first to do so were researchers at the National Institute for Environmental Health Sciences in North Carolina, and Myriad Genetics Corp. and the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, NBC said.

The staff at the journal Science was reviewing two papers summarizing the discovery, NBC said. Publication would signal approval of their findings, NBC said it was told that will happen within weeks.

About 182,000 women are diagnosed with breast cancer in the United States each year, and 48,000 die, according to the American Cancer Society. Experts have said women with the altered gene have about a 60 percent chance of developing breast cancer before age 50 and an 85 percent chance by age 65.

Dorothy Dart, a spokeswoman for the Human Genetics Department at the University of Utah, told The Associated Press that epidemiology professor Mark H. Skolnick was involved in the research along with Myriad Genetics Corp. She said the university was not involved.

Telephone messages left with Skolnick, Myriad Genetics, and the National Institute for Environmental Health Sciences were not returned.

Discovery astronauts release solar probe

By INKE BRADG Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — A 914 million satellite released from the space shuttle Discovery focused at the sun's searing corona today to help unlock mysteries about solar winds.

Astronaut Susan Helms used Discovery's robot arm to release the 2,800-pound satellite, named Spartan, on Tuesday for two days of free flight. It will focus on the streams of charged particles that rush through the solar system and are sometimes visible on earth as beautiful auroras, also called "northern (or southern) lights."

Video images beamed from the shuttle showed the hostile satellite drifting into a parallel orbit 160 miles above the Indian Ocean.

Although the release itself was flawless, the shuttle radar system failed and commander Richard Richards couldn't track Spartan as it floated away. The radar finally locked onto the satellite an hour later, but distance measurements were off by 2,000 feet.

Richards had counted on using the radar to retrieve Spartan on Thursday. Mission operations director Randy Stone said the astronauts will use backup navigation systems to close in on the satellite if the radar isn't fixed by then.

"It will be an aggravation, but it really does not put Spartan in any jeopardy whatsoever," Stone said.

Discovery's six astronauts were awakened this morning by Mission Control's own version of the theme to the old TV show "Green Acres." The first verse: "On orbit is the place to be, free-wheeling on Discovery, Earth rolling by so far below, just give her the gas and look at this baby go."

Today's activities aboard Discovery include checking out the space suits and a new jet pack that astronauts Carl Meade and Mark Lee are to use during a scheduled six-hour spacewalk on Friday.

Meade and Lee are to take turns with the jet pack, becoming the first astronauts since 1984 to walk in space without safety tethers. The $7 million pack is designed as a self-rescue device — should future spacewalkers become accidentally untethered while building a space station.

Two telescopes aboard Spartan will focus on the sun's corona, the outer atmosphere where solar wind originates. A satellite named Ulysses, launched four years ago, has been making similar observations while orbiting the sun.

One telescope will observe ultraviolet light emitted from the sun's south pole to determine the temperature and speed of solar wind at its point of origin; the other will measure visible light to determine solar wind density.

Scientists want to know why many stars appear to emit the charged particle streams and how these streams work.

There's also an Earthly application — solar wind sometimes disrupts radio communications and can cause power outages. Researchers hope to learn ways of avoiding those problems.

Spartan also has Earth and about 90 million miles from the sun.

Ulysses, which today is 213.5 million miles from the sun and 246.5 million miles from Earth, will study the solar wind from its vantage point. Measurements also will be made by a Japanese X-ray satellite and ground observatories.

Hispanics' high dropout rate linked to language problems

By SARA PELMAN AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — More than one-quarter of Hispanic students leave high school early, and their problems with English likely contribute to a dropout rate nearly three times the national average, the Education Department says.

In its annual look at students who fail to complete high school, the department said Tuesday that 3.4 million people aged 18 to 24 — 11 percent of that population group — were high school dropouts.

Last year alone, 361,000 students ages 15 to 24 dropped out of school.

The department found that dropout rates were highest among students who were poor, black, Hispanic or lived in the South or West.

Among Hispanics, the dropout rate was 27.5 percent last year.

More than 83 percent of Hispanic students who speak Spanish at home and don't speak English at all dropped out of school. For those who don't speak English well, the dropout rate was 61.8 percent, the department said, using 1992 statistics.

In an encouraging note, the department said the high school completion rate among black students rose from 74 percent in 1972 to nearly 84 percent in 1993. Among whites, the graduation rate rose from 85 percent to 90 percent over the same period. For all students, the rate was 86 percent.

The overall dropout rate was unchanged from 1992, but down from the 1970s, when it ranged from 14 percent to 14.5 percent.

The most common reason students cite for dropping out hasn't changed over the past few years.

"Many dropouts say they left school because they were failing or just didn't like it," Education Secretary Richard Riley said. "Some will come back and finish, but too many find themselves unemployed or stuck in a job with no future."

The Education Department followed students who were eighth graders in 1988 through their last year of high school in 1992.

"Dropouts cited school-related reasons over other reasons for leaving school, but female dropouts were more likely than male dropouts to report family-related reasons," the report said.

Nearly 43 percent of those who dropped out between 10th and 12th grades said they did so because they didn't like school. 38.7 percent said they left because they were failing.

Twenty-one percent of the girls said they left school because they had become a parent, as did 8 percent of the boys. Pregnancy was cited by 26.8 percent of the female dropouts — 31 percent of Hispanics, 34 percent of blacks and 26 percent of whites.

"Black dropouts were far less likely than their peers to have reported 'got married' as a reason for dropping out — 2 percent compared with 13 percent of Hispanic and 15 percent of white dropouts," according to the report.

Students who repeated one or more grades were twice as likely to drop out than those who had never been held back — 19.8 percent compared with 9.4 percent, figures for 1992 showed. Just looking at those who repeated more than one grade, the dropout rate jumped to 40.9 percent, four times that of students never held back.

In other 1993 findings, the Education Department said:

— The dropout rate for students aged 18 to 24 was highest among those with the lowest family income. Nearly 24 percent of low-income students dropped out, compared with 9.9 percent of middle-income students and 2.7 percent of high-income students.

Town TV feud focus is sex — and it sells

By DAVID NEED Associated Press Writer

COLLINSVILLE, Va. — There was a time when Barbara Mitchell's waitress job at Michael's Steak and More ensured her the best seat for gossip and scandal in this small mill town.

Now, all she has to do is turn on her television. Henry County's pillow talk came to life over the past two months as an adulterous affair played out on the air, ending with the firing last week of a local news anchorman.

The drama transfixed viewers in this conservative manufacturing county of 56,000 people in the southwest Virginia mountains.

"My mom loves it," Mrs. Mitchell said. "She just loves gossip. It has the smut on everybody."

"It" is maverick cable station Cable 6, which started the feud by airing reports that Bill Wyatt, an anchor at rival Channel 57 in Martinsville, was having an affair with Ramona Hines, a saleswoman at his station. Hines' estranged husband said in a Cable 6 interview that Wyatt had stolen his wife.

Wyatt — who also is separated — fired Mrs. Hines, and she took her story to Cable 6. The station broadcast a series of interviews with her discussing the affair.

In July, Wyatt confessed — on a Cable 6 talk show. As Mrs. Hines appeared with Cable 6 owner Charles Roark on his call-in program, Wyatt joined them in a live shot from his Channel 57 studio.

Viewers pulled no punches. The first caller denounced Mrs. Hines as "just another whore." A kinder soul counseled her to "keep your head up, girl" and chastised Wyatt for keeping his job while Mrs. Hines lost hers.

More fireworks were in store. Last week, Mrs. Hines called Wyatt during his call-in show — a staid program that features horticultural advice — and a lover's spat ensued. She placed the call from the Cable 6 studio, which videotaped her conversation.

During the call, Channel 57 pulled the plug on Wyatt's show, and Wyatt stormed off the set. Minutes later, he showed up at Cable 6 and confronted Mrs. Hines. She says he threw his wedding ring at her.

In the end, Cable 6 treated its viewers to video of an apparently reconciled Wyatt and Mrs. Hines leaving the station's parking lot together in Wyatt's van.

On Friday, Wyatt was fired. "I didn't choose to fall in love," Wyatt, who has three children with his estranged wife, explained later. "That part just happened."

An embarrassment for Channel 57 was a windfall for Cable 6.

"Can you see how this would sell in a small town?" Roark beamed. "We're the future of cable."

"Eighty percent of our viewers are factory workers," he said. "We talk about the other 20 percent, the rich, and they watch to see what we're saying about them."

Even Wyatt grudgingly conceded that point. In his on-air confession, he accused Cable 6 of pandering to topics that "may provide a viewing audience, often ashamed to watch, but they do."

Critics say Cable 6 has made scandal and titillation a regular fare. A feature on a local lingerie shop was spiced up with footage from a steamy video. A report on a crime-infested neighborhood featured a man exposing himself.

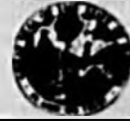

Larry Aydtlett, the Chamber of Commerce director, says it's bad publicity for a town where stock car racing and the Southern Baptist Church dominate the weekends.

"Martinsville used to be a quaint, old aristocratic town with no sins unfolded," said Elka Cheshire, who has her own Cable 6 talk show focusing on spiritual and inspirational topics. "Charles is unfolding them."

Roark, 29, offers no apologies. And advertisers are happy. "Our response has been phenomenal," said Vicki Helton of National Glass & Mirror Corp., a Collinsville company that advertises with Cable 6. "The gossip and the hoopla are what seems to keep people watching."

WORLD BRIEFS

Differences put aside

OSLO, Norway — Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and PLO leader Yasser Arafat put aside their differences on Jerusalem's status so that $2.3 billion in development aid to the Palestinian territories can resume.

After a day of talks in Oslo, where both men came to mark the one-year anniversary of the Mideast peace accord, Arafat and Peres agreed to abide by a declaration of principles under which Jerusalem's status won't be discussed until 1998.

"If we have some problems, we know we have a place called Oslo," Peres, tired but clearly relieved, said early today. Norwegian officials brokered secret negotiations that led to last year's peace accord.

Peres and Arafat met privately and with Norwegian and U.N. officials Tuesday to discuss, among other things, $2.3 billion in development aid that was pledged by 43 countries at a donors' conference last year.

Voters check wallets

MONTREAL — Now that they've elected a government that wants independence from Canada, voters in Quebec are checking their wallets to see whether they really could afford to go it alone.

Every time they open their newspapers or turn on their TVs, the people of the predominantly French-speaking province are bombarded with wildly contradictory claims about the economic consequences of independence.

The Parti Quebecois, which won Monday's provincial election, promises a referendum on independence next year. The PQ says not only are there no costs associated with separation, but that taxpayers would save at least $2.2 billion a year, mostly by eliminating overlapping federal and provincial bureaucracies.

Opponents argue Quebec long has been a beneficiary of the Canadian federation and would be among the world's most indebted nations.

Canada also would suffer by being chopped in half with the four smallest and poorest Atlantic provinces physically cut off from the rest of the country. Opponents say foreign investors would take one look at the upheaval and run.

Market analysts, including large U.S. brokerage and investment firms, are taking a wait-and-see approach, although they clearly prefer a united Canada.

Sumitomo bank executive shot to death

TOKYO — A Sumitomo Bank executive was found shot to death outside his apartment early today in the central Japanese city of Nagoya, police said.

A neighbor found Kazufumi Hatanaka, 54, shot once in the head, a police official said. The incident was being treated as a murder, but there were no immediate suspects, the official said.

Hatanaka was executive director of Sumitomo Bank's branch in Nagoya.

Police wouldn't speculate whether the killing was connected to a series of gun and firebomb attacks since last year on homes and offices of Sumitomo officials. No one had been hurt in those attacks.

The National Police Agency ordered its officers to review security for Sumitomo executives.

There have been at least 20 attacks involving executives of major Japanese companies in the past two years, according to the police agency. Many cases apparently involved racketeers demanding money in exchange for a pledge not to disrupt annual shareholders' meetings.

Lethal street violence is rare in Japan. National television news broadcast live reports from outside Hatanaka's apartment building.

Botulism outbreak: 2 die from bad fish

IRKUTSK, Russia — An outbreak of botulism in the region surrounding Lake Baikal killed two people and left three others hospitalized, the ITAR-Tass news agency reported today.

The bacterial poisoning, usually brought on by eating improperly prepared or preserved food, was traced to fish caught in the lake in central Siberia, the news agency said.

Baikal, the world's deepest lake and home to 2,000 plant and animal species found nowhere else in the world, is threatened by sewage and industrial wastes from cities in the region.

The lake, located 2,600 miles east of Moscow, contains one-fifth of the world's fresh water.

Belgian ferry walkway collapses

RAMSGATE, England — A walkway collapsed as passengers were boarding a Belgian ferry today, killing six people and injuring seven, authorities said.

The walkway fell 40 feet, throwing victims onto the pier as they were boarding the Prins Filip, bound for the Belgian port of Ostend, police said. The collapse was under investigation.

Firefighters used hydraulic gear to free those trapped by the wreckage.

The names and nationalities of the dead and injured were not immediately released.

Ramsgate, about 80 miles east of London, is a main English Channel port for ferries to continental Europe.

Xiaoping's speeches to be issued on CD

HONG KONG — Deng Xiaoping's greatest hits are about to come out on CD.

Four hours of speeches by the leader of China's economic revolution will be issued under the title, "Great People's Voices — Deng Xiaoping's Original Speeches," the China-financed Ta Kung Pao newspaper reported today.

Deng made the speeches between 1978 and 1985, the pinnacle of his career, when he was transforming China from Maoist communism to market-style economics, the newspaper said.

At 90, Deng is officially retired and rarely appears in public. But he remains China's most influential figure, known as the "Great Architect" of the reforms.

Ta Kung Pao said 20,000 of the four-disc CD sets will be released Sept. 25 in Beijing and elsewhere. Another 5,000 sets with an explanatory booklet in English will be released abroad, it said. It did not state the price.

Deng shunned the kind of personality cult that enveloped Mao Tse-tung, but lately Chinese officials have sought to glorify Deng to make sure his reforms survive him.

Last year, a Chinese company released a two-disc set of Mao's speeches, titled "Sound of the Giant Mao Tse-tung," marking the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Will population plan be accepted?

By EDITH M. LINDEN
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt — The next step in slowing the world population boom is up to each of the 180 nations at the U.N. population conference: Will they put its plan into effect — or will they forget it?

Conference delegates adopted the 20-year plan to curb population growth Tuesday, focusing on economic development and on giving women more power over their lives.

It is not a treaty and it is not legally binding. But it does reflect a consensus of world opinion — and many international groups already are planning campaigns to keep the population issue alive.

"We will not allow the governments back home to sleep. We are going to wake them up this time," said Bisi Ogunye, a Nigerian tribal chief who heads her country's Women's Association and helped establish the Women's Caucus at the conference.

Most of the population conference was taken up with debate on sexual matters, much to the annoyance of delegates who wanted to discuss development.

The Vatican and Roman Catholic nations, along with Muslim states, succeeded in weakening the language on abortion. But in the end, the Vatican failed to keep abortion from being defined as a major public health problem.

The Program of Action must go to the U.N. General Assembly for approval. But the real test will be in individual countries.

The plan calls for spending $17 billion annually by the year 2000, with increases to more than $21.5 billion by the year 2015. Western donor nations are expected to pay one-third and developing nations two-thirds.

Current spending is less than $6 billion a year. Though Western nations are increasing spending on population programs, development experts say it will be tough to reach the target. African countries say they can't afford to pay their share.

The plan has two chapters that deal specifically with implementation.

One calls on governments and private organizations to train women, especially for management roles in population programs. The other urges the international community to become "a true partner" in providing help and money for local population and development activities.

The Women's Caucus, comprised of more than 1,500 people from all over the world, has formed a post-Cairo task force to monitor funding, resource allocation and implementation of the Program of Action.

"We have a constituency that is committed very deeply to this program, and I believe that governments will have to respond to it," said U.S. delegate Bella Abzug, a former New York congresswoman who is co-chair of the Women's Environment and Development Organization which sponsors the Women's Caucus.

The Washington-based Natural Resources Defense Council, a major environmental organization, urged countries to adopt strong follow-up procedures to guide and monitor the Cairo document.

It said the program has no adequate provisions to monitor action by individual governments and called for the U.N. Commission on Sustainable Development, created at the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro, to be given responsibility to monitor population progress.

Thousands returning to remember battle 50 years ago

By WILL COOPER
Associated Press Writer

ARNHEM, Netherlands — When teacher Wilhelmina Schouten saw Allied paratroopers floating from the sky 50 years ago, she thought they were bringing release from the terror and hunger of Nazi German occupation.

"I thought we were free at last," said Schouten, now 86.

She was wrong, and so were the paratroopers taking part in history's biggest airborne assault on Sept. 17 and 18, 1944.

About 6,000 veterans of the battle of Arnhem and 100,000 other visitors are returning next weekend, including members of the Dutch royal family and Prince Charles, colonel-in-chief of Britain's Parachute Regiment.

"I was on my way back from picking up food from a farm, when I saw the parachutes. It was fantastic. Unbelievable," said Schouten, recalling the fierce hunger wrought by Nazi plundering of Dutch food to feed Germany.

"I didn't realize then that we'd have to wait more than half a year more for liberation," she said.

In a military miscalculation that historians have mulled over and Hollywood has immortalized on film, paratroopers landed near Arnhem, a city of 90,000 people, and tried to capture the Arnhem bridge across the Rhine.

Military strategists hoped Operation Market Garden would end by Christmas, but it ground to a halt at Arnhem — the bridge too far.

Instead, as described in Cor-nellius Ryan's book "A Bridge Too Far," the Allied troops found themselves outnumbered and outgunned by German soldiers.

More Allied troops — about 7,500 British, 4,000 Americans and 85 Poles — died in the nine days of Operation Market Garden than in the D-Day landings.

Under the command of British Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery, more than 30,000 soldiers with 4,500 aircraft carrying tanks and artillery pieces tried to capture five bridges and push into Germany.

The attack aimed to force a corridor into Germany by taking the bridges leading northeast through the occupied Netherlands.

The first four bridges were taken by American paratroopers landing near the southern cities of Eindhoven and Nijmegen and by British troops advancing on the ground from liberated Belgium.

But they couldn't cover the 37 miles from Eindhoven in time to help about 13,000 British troops cut off at Arnhem.

There, the 1st British Airborne Division faced overwhelming odds, including a German panzer tank division the Allies didn't know about.

The Germans were defending a crossing recognized as the doorstep to Germany's industrial heartland in the Ruhr valley.

The British were stranded.

In fierce close-quarters combat, the center of Arnhem was nearly leveled as a small band of British paratroopers tried in vain to hold the northern end of the bridge.

Schouten spent that time hiding in the cellar of her school. She remembers hearing the town clock tumble from the blazing spire of Arnhem's largest church.

When 40 British soldiers arrived at the school carrying their wounded, Schouten and her colleagues sheltered and nursed them.

When the battle was over, 1,500 British paratroopers lay dead, and the Germans took back the town.

Six Dutchmen hiding in the school were later executed by the Germans for sheltering the British troops, said Schouten.

About 800 Dutch people were killed during Operation Market Garden.

"There are so many reasons for the failure at Arnhem," said Adriaan Groeneweg, a trustee at the Airborne Museum in Oosterbeek, 3 1/2 miles southwest of Arnhem.

"The Germans got very fanatical in their defense as the Allies got closer to Germany's borders," said Groeneweg.

For some of the veterans, just being back isn't enough.

A hardy band of British and American former paratroopers have decided to arrive the way they did back then — by parachute.

British vets will re-enact their original landing at Hinkel Heath near Arnhem, while American paratroopers will drop near Eindhoven and Nijmegen.

Half a century after she took shelter from the bloody battle, Schouten will hang out her Dutch flag — an act banned under Nazi occupation — and take time off from gardening to watch the celebration.

American Business Women

Founding of group celebrated

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Correspondent

American Business Women's Day Celebration will feature Carol Knorr, vice president of Marketing and Development for GMAC (General Motors Acceptance Corporation) Executive Office, Detroit, Mich.

The celebration this year is being sponsored by the Central Florida Area Council of ABWA. Sept. 22 is the association's founding date. It was recognized in 1963 and 1986 by congressional resolution and in a proclamation issued by Pres. Ronald Reagan.

American Business Women's Day gives all Americans an opportunity to recognize the important contributions of more than 53 million American working women to this nation. The mission of ABWA is to bring together business women of diverse backgrounds and to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

This year's theme is "GROW." The theme is used for chapter programs, biannual membership campaigns and other functions throughout the year. The association recognizes 10 members as Top Ten Business Women of ABWA from which one is chosen as the American Business Woman of the Year.

Twice each year, one has the opportunity to experience ABWA on a grand scale at regional spring conferences and at a national convention. This year's national convention will be held Oct. 5-9 in Denver, Colo. ABWA has awarded scholarships and financially supported more than 10,000 women. The trust has awarded more than $7.5 million in scholarship grants and interest-free loans since 1953.

The local Central Florida Area Council invites the public to attend its celebration on Saturday, Sept. 17, 11:30 a.m. There will be a champagne luncheon at Church Street Station's Presidential Ballroom, Orlando. A $16 donation is requested. RSVP Pat Tiffany by Thursday, Sept. 15, 5 p.m. at (407)851-7860.

Lion fresh blank Hawks

OVIEDO — Leroy Jackson rushed for 82 yards and a touchdown on right carries Tuesday night to help the Oviedo Lions blank the Lake Howell Silver Hawks 19-0 in a freshman football game played at Oviedo's John Courier Field.

Reggie Smith, who rushed for 33 yards on six carries, opened the scoring with a 2-yard run. Dan Dyke kicked the extra point. After Dustin Scheiber scored on an 8-yard run, Jackson rushed 55 yards for his touchdown.

The Oviedo defense was outstanding, three times stopping the Hawks inside the Lions' 15 yard line. Derrick Hayworth and David Burkley each intercepted a pass while Hannibal Duncan broke up a pass and had six solo tackles.

Oviedo (1-0) will host Seminole next Tuesday while Lake Howell travels to Lyman. Both games are scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Chamber calls for nominations

SANFORD — Who's going in this year? The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is now taking nominations for induction into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame.

Nominees must have made a contribution as a player, coach, administrator, or fan.

To be considered, nominees must be at least 21 years old on the date of nomination. Also, the individual must have lived in Seminole County for at least three years or must have worked in Seminole County for at least five years.

Nominations, including a resume of the candidate's contributions, should be made to the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame selection committee, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 East First Street, Sanford, 32771.

The deadline is Thursday, Sept. 15.

Lyman to honor Henley

LONGWOOD — Lyman High School will honor Carlton Henley, who retired June 1 after 31 years as principal, Friday, Sept. 16, prior to the football game, by naming the athletic field, swimming pool, tennis courts and gymnasium, "The Carlton D. Henley Athletic Complex."

Call Tom Lawrence, Athletic Director, for further information at 831-5600.

AROUND THE STATE

'Blue' night for Tampa

LAKELAND — Danny Feltner, Damon Clark and Tony Twaig had two goals each each, Louis Hammered the Tampa Bay Lightning 7-1. Jason Ruff scored Tampa Bay's only goal.

FSU players reinstated

TALLAHASSEE — A judge approved an agreement that allows the NCAA to restore the eligibility of five FSU football players, including All-America linebacker Derrick Brooks.

AROUND THE NATION

NBA rule changes

CHICAGO — The NBA's competition committee recommended shortening the 3-point shot by making the line a uniform 22 feet.

The line is currently 22 feet in the corners and extends to 23 feet, 9 inches at the top of the key.

It was also recommended that a shooter fouled on a 3-point shot be awarded three free throws instead of two. The changes must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the NBA's Board of Governors at a meeting next month.

Fighting the good fight

Pats fall short against Hornets

By TONY BOBROWITZ
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Caught between parables, the Lake Brantley High School girls' volleyball team refuses to be the fox complaining about the sour grapes it can't reach anyway, preferring to be the little engine that could.

On Tuesday night, the Patriots continued the upward struggle of that little engine, coming out on the short end of a 15-13, 15-11 loss to the Bishop Moore Hornets, who began the week tied for 10th in the Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 4A state poll.

According to Lake Brantley coach Stan Cutler, the Patriots didn't do much lose as they did score an insufficient number of points.

"These are the kind of games we've been playing all year," said Cutler. "They (Bishop Moore) are a good team and we just got squeaked out. We've played 10 games in four matches and we've been outscored by a total of 12 points."

Lauren Andrade and Stacey Thorne helped serve the Patriots out to a 6-1 lead in the first game. The Hornets came right back on the serve of Ange Rankin and Sylvia Baker to take a 7-6 advantage.

The teams alternated points until a five-point service run by Sarah Kosakowski gave Lake Brantley a 13-9 edge. But Bishop Moore scored the final six points of the game, Gretchen Fritz serving the last five.

It was much the same in the second game, Andrade putting together a four-point service run that helped the Patriots take an early 5-0 lead, only to have Lynn Cairns serve five consecutive points that rallied the Hornets to a 6-5 edge.

Bishop Moore's lead reached 9-6 before Lake Brantley came back, eventually taking an 11-9 lead on a kill and a block from Kinaley Craven. Once again, the Hornets mounted the final charge as 6-foot, 2-inch Jen O'Malley served the match's final six points.

The loss drops the Patriots to 0-4 while the Hornets improve to 6-1.

"(Playing well and losing) is already a rut for us," said Cutler. "But it's important that the girls are continuing to play well. We know we're going to win eventually, we just hope eventually gets here soon."

"There hasn't been one team that's dominated us. We play just as well as they (Bishop Moore) do. We're as good as they are, maybe not from 10-10 on, but certainly up to 10-10. I think that will come as long as we keep playing well like we did tonight."

The Patriots return to action Friday with a match at Edgewater.

PORT ORANGE — The Greyhounds served 19 consecutive points to the Rams Tuesday evening in a 15-11, 15-9 sweep over Atlanta in a varsity boys volleyball match.

Coach Tom Miller, who coached the first game after the Rams had scored a point of the match, was part of a 19 consecutive points by the Greyhounds.

"Everyone got a chance to play," said coach Miller. "It's tough to say I looked because they (Atlanta) got a break program."

In its first year of existence, the student body consists entirely of students, sophomores, and juniors.

How 5-1, Lyman will host another team next week. Deltona's Fran Ridge Football. See Thursday night at 6 p.m.

Brian Katuskas collected a pair of victories for the Lyman Greyhounds during Tuesday's dual meet with the Lake Mary Rams, swimming his way to wins in both the 200 and 100 freestyle events. The meet, the first of the season for both the Greyhounds and Rams, was halted by a thunderstorm after eight events.

Rams, 'Hounds concede meet to storm

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — Not even a meet-shortening thunderstorm could dampen the collective spirit of Tuesday afternoon's dual swim meet between the Lake Mary Rams and Lyman Greyhounds.

While the Rams swept the event, scoring a 77-45 win in the girls' competition and a 70-51 victory in the boys' meet (despite winning just two of the eight events contested), both coaches were pleased with their team's respective efforts.

"I'm real pleased," said Lake Mary coach Fred Tyler. "Any time you win a meet, you have to feel good about that."

"Lyman always has a good team. I have a real young guys team and a girls team that I feel, in the next couple of years, could contend for state championship. We have some growth to experience, but we have good swimmers, some good kids coming up. They gave a real good showing today."

Jennifer Alger and Amanda Peck were double winners for Lake Mary. Alger finishing first in both the 200 freestyle (2 minutes, 1.9 seconds) and 100 butterfly (1:03.5) while Peck swept the 50 and 100 freestyles (27.1 and 58.1, respectively).

Megan Paget-Wilkes won the 200 individual medley (2:23.9) for Lake Mary, which also won the 200 medley relay in 2:02.5.

Lyman's two wins in the girls' half of the meet came from Jamie Garber (diving, 193 points) and Rebecca Pontius (500 freestyle, 5:34.8).

The meet was called after the 500 freestyle when lightning was detected in the area.

"It was a real good meet," said Lyman coach Don Clark. "I think Lake Mary is most improved girls' team in the conference. They have a lot of good girls and so do we."

"It looks like they dominated the meet, but there were some close races among the girls and some close ones in the boys. It was a real good first meet for us."

The Lyman boys duplicated the effort of the Lake Mary girls, winning six of the eight events.

Hardrick rescues OCS Rams

From Staff Reports

CASSELBERRY — Jakob Hardrick's goal with under two minutes to play boosted the Orangewood Christian School Rams to a 4-3 come-from-behind win over The Master's Academy in a boys' soccer match played at Red Bug Lake Park.

The Master's Academy had leads of 1-0, 2-1, and 3-2 over the Rams, who are the defending all soccer state champions and ranked 11th in the Florida Soccer Coaches Association's 4A soccer state poll.

Chris Hill tied the score for Orangewood Christian when he scored on an assist from Chris Miller at the 68-minute mark.

Hardrick, who had a goal earlier in the game, received a pass from David Brunner at the top of the 18-yard box, turned and beat two defenders before firing a shot to the left of the keeper.

Miller also scored for the Rams, who outshot Master's 15-5 and had a 3-2 advantage in corner kicks.

Orangewood Christian (5-0) will play again this Saturday at 1 p.m. when the Rams will host St. Petersburg's Keswick Christian.

Recks' sweep includes win over The A.C. Boys

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The A.C. Boys saw their eight-game win streak come to an end and Sanford A.A.U. and the Recks assured themselves of .500 seasons as the Sanford Recreation Senior Summer Basketball League neared its conclusion at the Sanford Middle School Gymnasium Tuesday night.

The league will finish its second season with a pair of games at the Gymnasium Thursday night.

The close games that had highlighted play in the league recently was replaced by a trio of blowouts Tuesday, with the closest difference being nine points.

The big winner on the night were the Recks, who won two games to move into a tie for second place. Eric Roberts and Milton Roebek combined to score 24 of their team's 37 second half points as the Recks trimmed the Runnin' Rebels, 67-58.

In the opening game of the evening, the Recks then came back in the late game and got an excellent,

Casselberry's Steven wins war of worn tire

By PAUL MAROZZIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Like NASCAR, Orlando Speedworld had a battle of tires in the Bomber division last Friday night, Sept. 9. It wasn't a battle of the big name tires that is being waged in NASCAR, but a battle of worn tires.

Casselberry's Bobby Stevens started the Bomber headliner from the third position. Before the end of the first lap, Stevens was leading the 15-car field out of turn four.

Despite repeated challenges from Glen Castro, Stevens led every circuit to notch his 27th FASCAR win of the season.

"The motor was good and the handling was perfect, but we were running on old tires," said Stevens, who has been racing for 19 months. "Glen (Castro) was trying to catch me, but he just couldn't do it because he was also running on worn out tires. You might say we had our own tire war."

One behind Stevens and Castro were Mike Peppier, Bill Gibbons, and Dave Riley.

At the end of the season, Stevens will move up to the Late Model division and will relinquish the seat in his Bomber to 14-year-old Charlotte Crotte.

Michael Williams also was green flag to checkers to win the Limited Late Model feature. Williams, who picked up his 13th checkered flag of the season, was chased to victory lane by Glen Carter, Gary Schickler, Mike Todd, and Gus McRoberts.

Current FASCAR Late Model points leader Ricky Wood out duelled the rest of the competition to score a victory in the Late Model division, his fifth of the season. Craig Reynolds was second, followed by Tuffy Heister, Bruce Everett, and David King.

Other feature event winners were Donnie Narmore (Sportman), Howard O'Steen (Modified), Bobby Sears (Mini Stock), Fred Piers (Run Abouts), and Jim Erb (Mini Bombers).

Owners to decide fate of '94, contemplate use of replacement players

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Even before making a final decision on this year's World Series, some baseball owners already were looking ahead to the spring and the possibility of replacement players.

"It will be a difficult thing to do, but at last resort I think you'd have to consider it," Boston Red Sox chief executive officer John Harrington said Tuesday. "You wouldn't call it major league baseball, but you'd call it professional baseball."

Owners said they had all but given up hope for finishing this season. Acting commissioner Bud Selig was expected today to call off the World Series after owners convene in a telephone conference call.

"I think tomorrow could very well be the day, though I don't want to say for sure," Selig said Tuesday night on ABC's "Nightline."

In Washington, Sen. James Exon killed legislation that would have repealed the owners' antitrust exemption if they unilaterally imposed labor conditions, such as a salary cap. If the bill had become law, Exon said he would have recommended an end to the strike.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, an Ohio Democrat who introduced the legislation, saw his previous baseball bill defeated in June by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"I think it is an ill-considered move for us as the United States Senate to try to step into the breach at this particular point in time," Exon, a Nebraska Democrat, said on the Senate floor Tuesday evening. "I think it would set a bad precedent. I think it is not essential."

Metzenbaum insisted his bill was the only way to salvage the season.

"If we act quickly to pass this bill, the baseball players are willing to complete this season, the playoffs and the World Series," he said. "This legislation has only one purpose, to protect the season for all the fans. It isn't for or against the salary cap, it isn't for or against revenue sharing. ... It gives players another tool they can use to avoid striking. ... Wouldn't it be better to have the matter in the courts than where it is in at the moment, with no games being played?"

While the two schools enjoy a spirited rivalry, the coaches said that Tuesday's meet was just a starting point and not a bragging rights showdown.

"Today, we just wanted to get out there, swim, and let's see what happens," said Clark, whose team will return to action next Wednesday with a dual meet against Lake Howell.

According to Tyler, there will be plenty of other opportunities for the Rams to be challenged.

"We have a big meet Thursday at Spruce Creek," said Tyler. "That will be a real good indicator for the girls."

scored an easy 15-4, 15-2 win over the Atlantic Sharks Tuesday night. Lyman High School girls volleyball coach Christy Tibbitts wasn't terribly thrilled with the Greyhounds' play.

"Our serving was off tonight," said Tibbitts, noting that the Greyhounds missed 13 serves in the match. "We can't afford to do that against other teams."

"Still, everyone got to play. It was an all-around solid effort. It was good that everyone got to play and got about the same amount of playing time."

The Greyhounds also swept the junior varsity match, 15-3, 15-1.

Lyman (2-0) plays at Oak Ridge tonight at 6 (junior varsity) and 7 (varsity) p.m.

Volleyball

Kissimmee-Gateway in a 5A-District 6 girls volleyball match Tuesday night.

"We did not play well," said Seminole coach Beth Corso. "We're not consistent in our play. We have to get into a more aggressive style of game. And we have to get the block going. We have no blocking whatsoever. We're there, but we're not getting to the ball."

Vilaphone Ratanavong led Seminole with six good digs and five good spikes, including a kill. Laura Williams collected 11 good digs. Jill Jasewic contributed a kill, four other good spikes, and five digs. Aubrey Nelson had two kills and two other good spikes. Christina Campbell had eight assists.

Seminole's junior varsity squad won its first match of the season, beating Gateway 15-11, 15-8.

The Seminole's (0-3) play again tonight at Cypress Creek, which is ranked third in this week's Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 5A state poll.

Brad Geary was the winner in the 200 individual medley (2:09.3) for the Greyhounds, who also won the 200 medley relay (1:51.7).

As in the girls' meet, the only victories for the Lake Mary boys came in the diving competition — won by Matt Summit with a score of 217 — and the 500 freestyle — won by Adam Gaffey

While the two schools enjoy a spirited rivalry, the coaches said that Tuesday's meet was just a starting point and not a bragging rights showdown.

Cook of the Week Her 15-Bean Soup really hits the spot

SANFORD — Cook of the Week Beatrice (Bea) Young, has so much going on in her extremely active life and, a great deal of it centers around her kitchen and cooking. A typical day, if you happen to stop by just to say "hello" at Young's house, would eventually end up with her placing maybe a mug of her wonderful 15-Bean Soup in front of you or possibly a slice of one of her delicious desserts with a nice cool drink.

Although Young is originally from the state of Idaho, she has lived in Sanford for the past 72 years. "My parents farmed up there in Idaho. We grew wheat and raised cattle. My brothers and myself grew up seeing our parents sharing with their friends over a table of food. It was just the natural way of visiting back then. And so, I've just lived my life in somewhat of the same fashion. And it's always worked for me too," Young said.

Young is the mother of two. Her son, Donald, is as Young describes him, "a computer expert." He lives with his family in Altamonte Springs and he's the father of two of Young's grandchildren. Her daughter, Sharon Bishop, lives in Ohio and is an executive secretary. She is also the mother to three of Young's grandchildren. And as Young added, "I have one great-grandchild here in Florida."

Young retired in 1976 from the old Sanford Memorial Hospital after 22 plus years of service. During her tenure with the hospital she also began selling Avon products and she is still going strong as an Avon lady today. "I've made the Avon's president's list," said Young. "And all of these gifts and awards are from the many goals that I've accomplished over the years with the company. I love meeting and being around people so selling Avon has worked out real well for me."

Beatrice (Bea) Young enjoys sharing a table of home-cooked foods with friends and family.

15-BEAN SOUP
2-3 small packages of 15-bean soup, or equivalent of 6 cups
2 links smoked sausage
4 cups diced ham or turkey ham
3 Tbsp. salt
4 quarts water
1 or 2 large onions, chopped
1 (28 oz.) can tomatoes (optional)
Red pepper to taste (optional)
1 tsp. chili powder (optional)
Place beans in large kettle.

Cover with water and add 3 Tbsp. salt. Soak overnight. In the morning drain and add 4 quarts water. Bring to boil and then simmer. Add smoked sausage and diced ham or turkey ham. Cook slowly 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Add chopped onions, tomatoes, red pepper and optional ingredients if desired. Continue to simmer 30 minutes longer.
*Turkey ham is delicious and has less fat for those desiring less fat in their diet.

MACARONI SALAD
1 box (16 oz.) macaroni
4 eggs
1/2 bunch celery, chopped
3 or 4 Tbsp. salad pickles
1 pkg. of shredded cheese
Mayonnaise or salad dressing to blend
Cook macaroni as directed on box. Put 4 eggs into cook with macaroni so they will be done when macaroni is tender. Drain macaroni and gently rinse until cool. Add chopped celery. Add salad pickles, shredded cheese. Dice 3 eggs into salad (save one for top garnish.) Gently fold in mayonnaise or salad dressing until all ingredients are well mixed. Garnish with the last egg.

NOTE: If grated cheese is not desired it can be omitted but it adds a delicious flavor to the salad.
BEA'S DUMP CAKE
1 No. 2 can cherry pie filling
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, drained (save juice)
1 package yellow cake mix
2 sticks butter or margarine melted and spread over dry cake mix
Flaked coconut
Chopped pecans
Spread evenly in 13x9-inch pan all above ingredients. Sprinkle pineapple juice over dry cake mix. Mix around edge of pan to guarantee a uniform cake with less dry clumps. Bake at 325°F. for 1 hour.

Try these delicious vegetable main dishes for a healthy start

Fruits and vegetables are excellent sources of dietary fiber as well as much needed vitamins and minerals. It is recommended that we eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables each day. When checking to be sure you are including five-a-day, remember 1/2 cup of most fruits and vegetables constitutes a serving. With salad greens, allow 1 cup serving. A 6 oz. glass of fruit or vegetable juice and a medium peach or apple count as a serving. It's not too difficult if you use the fruits/vegetables as snacks. Incorporate them into main dishes or soups; add a fruit to breakfast cereal and/or vegetables to your favorite salad. Vegetables are also ideal for microwaving. Try these mainly

Recognize all sympathy expressions

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, your response to "Still Grieving," who inquired about a knowledge of expressions of sympathy following a funeral, was unclear. Did you really mean that proper etiquette demands that everyone who sent a sympathy card must be thanked? We have written thank-you notes to everyone who sent flowers, memorials, money and brought food, but are we expected to acknowledge cards expressing sympathy, too? Please answer in your column. Thank you.

M.A.J. IN WEST SALEM, WIS.
DEAR M.A.J.: Yes, I quote from "A Complete Guide to the New Manners for the '90s" by Letitia Baldrige: "After the sadness of the funeral period is over, when the main surviving members of the family feel strong enough to tackle the job, one of them should write a personal note of thanks to: — The relative or friend who served as director of all the proceedings. — The clergyman who handled the services. — The honorary pallbearers and ushers.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)
— The people who gave eulogies. (It is not necessary to write family members, but it is a nice touch to do so.)
— Everyone who sent a telegram, condolence card, Mass card, condolence letter or flowers.
— Everyone who gave a charitable contribution in memory of the deceased.
(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished

Use caution with herbal therapies

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss age-old alternative herbal help for women. Herbs such as Dong Quai have estrogen-like effects for menopause, raspberry leaf tea for "normalizing" the womb and making easier childbirth; rue, pomegranate, and Queen Ann's lace seed are used for preventing pregnancy.

you, the specialist should be able to prescribe medicine, such as anti-inflammatory drugs, or special exercises that will ease the cracking.

DEAR READER: Herbal remedies are not generally effective in treating or curing medical ailments. Moreover, their manufacture is not stringently controlled. This is important because many herbs are poisonous.

Therefore, the absence of quality control means that the consumer really has no guarantee of how much (or how little) is available in a certain remedy.

For these reasons, most responsible physicians disdain the use of herbal therapy. There are better alternatives available through the medical profession.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My shoulders "crack" involuntarily when I raise my arms. About a year ago I was in a car accident in which I had severe whiplash injuries. Should I be concerned?

DEAR READER: "Whiplash" refers to acute strain of the bones and ligaments in the neck, leading to a sore neck and shoulders, headache and pain on turning the head. Ordinarily, these symptoms are not permanent and will disappear after several months.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There are a finite number of card-play techniques in bridge. Everything must be covered eventually — if it hasn't been already. That, I suppose, is as obvious as the label on a product called Sleep-Relax: "May cause drowsiness."

You should find a line that overcomes a 4-0 trump break and a 5-0 heart split. This can be done if, at trick one, you discard the heart two from the dummy and win with the diamond ace. You play a trump to the dummy, ruff a low club in hand, play a second trump to dummy, ruff dummy's other low club with the spade ace, and draw trumps, discarding the heart king on the last round. The heart ace disappears on dummy's club ace, and the final five tricks are won with dummy's heart winners.

If you can solve this type of single-dummy problem and become a subscriber to Bridge Magazine, you might win a bridge computer. For a one-year, airspeed subscription, send $52.95 to The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Oost
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 15, 1994

Several interesting new people might interlace your social life and your commercial life in the year ahead. Their presence will help create a positive environment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're presently involved in an important endeavor, don't wait for others to initiate proceedings. If there is something important to be done today, you're the guy to do it. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things might not work out the way you expect them to today, but don't let this disturb you. Developments will be triggered by outside forces that can accomplish more than you can by yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might not like your assignments today, but taking care of your responsibilities will provide you with gratification and unexpected rewards.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sharing an opportunity with another might be the only way for you to be truly successful today. The secret is simple: give what you hope to gain.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not discount the suggestions of associates today, but by the same token, do not treat your own ideas with indifference. Each can make a contribution.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though you are likely to do rather well operating independently today, you could do still better in a collective effort. If you must make a choice, choose the latter.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is a person you recently met who you'd like to know better. You might have an opportunity to do so today. Don't let it slip past you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Regardless of what occurs today to cause disarray in your agenda, persons with whom you're involved can be dealt with effectively. Use your imagination and resourcefulness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might create more ill will with silence today than you will if you express your position verbally, especially when exchanging thoughts with friends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An outside involvement might invade your parameter of independence today. But before getting angry, study the situation. Something very worthwhile could result.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're too set in your thinking today, you might resist a creative suggestion that could prove more effective than your way of doing something.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Where money is concerned today, don't ignore your inner voice. You might receive some hints or perceptions that can't be proven correct, but will still guide you successfully.
