Sheriff's office investigating

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's investigators are seeking an Altamonte Springs man they believe is selling fraudulent raffle tickets to businessmen.

Investigator Robin Yolton of the sheriff's Fraud and Forgery Section, said he has received reports that Peter Michael Weed is selling $1 tickets to Seminole County businessmen on behalf of the Leukemia Society of America.

Yolton said Weed tells buyers they are paying for chances to win a $135,000 home built by M/I Homes Inc., a 1994 Tracker donated by Holler Chevrolet, a Hawaiian vacation donated by West Town Travel and 196 other prizes. Weed tells buyers the drawing will held Dec. 31 on WFTV Channel 9.

Yolton said none of the businesses, including the Leukemia Society and WFTV, claim any affiliation with Weed or any knowledge of him. None have donated prizes, he said.

Anyone with information about Weed or the raffle tickets are asked to call Yolton at 330-6600, ext. 305.

Lighting approved in Midway

MIDWAY — Seminole County commissioners unanimously approved creation of a Midway street-lighting district last night. Lighting will be installed on every street in the community and financed during the first year by the county Community Development Block Grant program.

Beginning Oct. 1, 1994, residents will pay an annual fee based on the length of their property along streets. The tab will average $9.56 and $12.74 per year for most residents. Residents with private security lights will have an opportunity to convert to the district system.

Cop's sex trial ends

Former top officer found guilty of sex with boy

Guy Brewster was found guilty yesterday on 8 sex charges.

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — As ex-Sanford patrolman Guy S. Brewster was being handcuffed and fingerprinted after being found guilty on eight sex charges Tuesday, his attorneys were laying the groundwork for a new trial.

A six member jury deliberated less than four hours before convicting Brewster of having sex with a teenager who lived with him from 1987 until 1989. He was acquitted on the remaining 70 counts.

Under the current guidelines, Brewster, 37, could be sentenced to from four to nine years at his Jan. 27 sentencing. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and the defendant was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. The victim claimed he and Brewster had an ongoing sexual relationship while he was 16 and 17. The victim is also in jail on Volusia County check and theft charges and faces similar charges in Seminole County. The victim was housed in the local jail during the trial.

Brewster's victim will be 22 on Nov. 30. The victim, who was the key witness against Brewster, testified for over two days in the seven day trial. The attorneys and judge also met in an unusual four hour session Sunday to expedite completion of the trial before Thanksgiving.

Brewster showed no emotion as Seminole Circuit Court Judge Alan A. Dickey polled the five women and one man on the jury about their verdicts. About a dozen of Brewster's friends and family members sat quietly as the verdicts were read. Brewster's mother wept openly. Due to security concerns, the victim was not allowed in the courtroom when the jury returned the verdicts.

Within 10 days, defense attorneys Jeff Deen and Robert Fisher will file a motion for a new trial along with a request to release Brewster from jail pending his sentencing. Fisher said he has a list of 46 grounds supporting a motion for a new trial.

Legislators listen to local requests

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Rep. Lee Constantine and Sen. Gary Siegel will sponsor Seminole County's request to drop the 21-year-old optional county insurance option to local judges.

The legislation was the only bill lawmakers agreed to back Tuesday at the final local public hearing held by state representatives and senators.

County officials sought to repeal the 1972 special state law allowing the county to offer county insurance to local county and circuit judges. At the time, the state policy was not as comprehensive as the county's. County officials said the judicial double-dipping cost local taxpayers about $24,000 annually.

Constantine, R-Altamonte Springs, and Siegel, R-Fern Park, have agreed to sponsor the county's requested legislation.

All alone by the telephone

Sanford cops still waiting for calls to crime hot-line

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford police are disappointed with public reception of the telephone hot-line set up for citizens to help thwart crime.

In mid-October, the Sanford Police Department set up the hot-line to receive reports on criminal activities.

"It just isn't working," said Chief Ralph Russell. "Police departments in various parts of the state and nation have set these hot-lines up and people are really using them."

"Here in Sanford though," he continued, "the phone hardly ever rings."

Russell said, "Since this started, we have had a total of only three calls, and none of them gave us any tips regarding any criminal situations."

"I think the people of Sanford are really great folks," he said, "and frankly, I'm very disappointed that they won't use this."

Student art graces school district lobby

SANFORD — A walk through a gallery of line paintings, drawings and photographs is both relaxing and enlightening.

At the school district headquarters on S. Mellonville Avenue in Sanford, exhibits of the artwork of students from county schools will grace the lobby on a continually changing basis.

As a part of the American Education Week celebrations in the district earlier this month, the schools initiated the project that will bring a new collection of artwork to the district office each week.

The first week, Lake Howell High School exhibited a series of art works by their stellar art students.

From simple line drawings and portraits of young children to detailed watercolor drawings and bright graphites, the exhibit showcased the diversity of the

FLORIDA BRIEFS

16-year-old charged in shooting

SPRINGFIELD — A 16-year-old boy was charged with the fatal shooting of another teen at a convenience store several blocks from Rutherford High School where the victim was a student.

The suspect also accidentally shot himself as he drew his semiautomatic gun in what witnesses said was a gang-related confrontation, although police said they were uncertain of the exact cause.

Christopher George Martinez, a former Rutherford student, was charged with an open count of murder for slaying Thaddeus Marcell Jones, 19, shortly before noon CST, said Bay County Sheriff Guy Tunnell.

About 20 people, many of them students, saw the shooting. Witnesses said students scattered when the suspect pulled out a gun and began firing after he had argued with the victim.

No charges filed against elderly woman

TAMPA — When a 77-year-old woman heard a man banging furiously on her kitchen door in the middle of the night, she raised her gun and fired.

The man was dead. But he wasn't an intruder. He was a neighbor.

Monday, the Hillsborough State Attorney's Office ruled there would be no charges against Guilda Swendson, the woman who killed neighbor Clarence R. Dupont with a single shot through her kitchen door and into his chest.

Hillsborough Assistant State Attorney Karen Cox said Florida law recognizes that people can be justified in using deadly force "in rare instances." By law, Swendson had no duty to retreat because she was in her home, Cox said.

"She had every reason to believe there was an intruder trying to come in her door," Cox said.

Dupont, who lived in the house behind Swendson, had been in trouble earlier that night. His girlfriend had called police, saying he was smashing out the windows.

After he passed out drunk in an empty lot, he wound up on Swendson's doorstep, apparently thinking he was home.

Disney plans to grow again

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Walt Disney World said it plans to double in size by the end of the decade.

The resort complex in Central Florida will add nine resorts with 10,944 rooms. That almost equals the current 10,665 rooms and 785 campsites, said David Herbst, spokesman for Walt Disney World.

"This is amazing. This is more than I thought," Herbst said Tuesday while adding up the number of accommodations that will be constructed or converted.

Because of company policy, the Disney Corp., based in Burbank, Calif., said it doesn't release dollar figures on the construction projects.

Eight of the resorts have completion dates of 1998. The Mediterranean Resort, which will have a Greek Islands motif, doesn't yet have a completion date, Herbst said.

Florida Boys drug gang leader convicted

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The leader of the Florida Boys drug gang and 11 of his cohorts have been convicted of drug and money laundering charges.

A federal jury deliberated a little more than four days before returning verdicts Tuesday that took U.S. District Judge Leon Jordan nearly an hour to read. The trial began Oct. 4.

Douglas Lamont Jones was convicted of more than 100 counts, including engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise, also known as the federal drug kingpin statute, and 95 counts of money laundering.

The continuing criminal enterprise conviction carries "a minimum sentence of 20 years in prison to life. Thomas Jerome "Sonny" Elder also was convicted on that charge.

At least 10 members of the group face a minimum 10-year prison sentence on conspiracy convictions.

A 13th defendant, Denise Ann Troutman of Nashville, was found innocent of conspiring to bring millions of dollars worth of cocaine into Knoxville between 1986 and 1993.

The group got its name because Jones and several others hail from Boynton Beach, Fla.

Exclusive community bans some dogs

INDIAN CREEK — Exclusive Indian Creek, an island haven for the very rich, just became more exclusive — for dogs that is.

The City Council here Tuesday outlawed six specific breeds known for their tendency to bark, snarl and generally scare the daylight out of people.

Dogs no longer accepted by those in Indian Creek are American Staffordshire terriers, Staffordshire bull terriers, German shepherds, doberman pinschers, rottweilers and American pit bull terriers.

Canines which yap rather than bark and are more likely to go fluffy than Adolph can still mingle with the jet set.

The ordinance is an attempt to put a leash on the naughty rottweilers of Prince Turki bin Abdul Aziz, an occasional island dweller.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Lake Mary gets new police cars

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary police force will have five new vehicles in the near future. The purchases were approved recently by the City Commission.

During budget preparations earlier this year, only four vehicles were expected to be requested. The number had to be increased to five when one police vehicle was totaled in an accident approximately two months ago.

Chief Richard Beary explained, "This involved a DUI case when a motorist pulled in front of our officer's vehicle on Longwood-Lake Mary Road. The officer received only minor injuries, but it totaled our car."

Beary said the driver of the other vehicle was subsequently charged with driving under the influence of alcohol by the Florida Highway Patrol.

The police car has subsequently been declared surplus and removed from the fleet.

In order to temporarily compensate for the loss of the vehicle, several cars were shifted around, with Chief Beary's Taurus reassigned to Sgt. Linda Belfiore for work in the school D.A.R.E. program.

Four of the new vehicles will go to the department, with the fifth, with a slight increase in equipment, going to the Chief. They will all be new Fords, to be purchased from Don Reid Ford.

City Manager John Litton explained that the city had made arrangements to purchase 1994 vehicles, at 1993 prices, "because the state contract may go to another manufacturer and Ford has made this offer."

Don Reid Ford is honoring the 1993 contract price until Nov. 30. The unit price for the four to be purchased for traffic enforcement is $12,809 each. The fifth car, to be unmarked and used by Beary, is $12,618.

The Commission approved the total purchase price of $63,854. A pending Traffic Safety Grant will reimburse the city for the purchase of the four road vehicles in the amount of $51,236.

Angry judge blasts Chiles

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A Tallahassee judge who has lost his patience with the juvenile justice system after a teen threatened him in his own courtroom wants lawmakers to pass reforms immediately, not next spring.

"I consider it misfeasance, malfeasance and nonfeasance for ignoring what is as obvious as the nose on anyone's face that we need to deal with this problem and we need to deal with it now," Circuit Judge Charles McClure wrote Gov. Lawton Chiles in a letter released Tuesday.

A 16-year-old boy in McClure's Tallahassee courtroom Thursday threw court files, just missing the judge and clerk, and then told the judge he would shoot him after getting out of detention.

"When I can be threatened by a young thug who feels and knows that nothing will happen to him and he can go back and brag to his fellow thugs that he really told that judge off and he really scared the judge, it shows an utter disregard both for the safety of this state and the youth of our country," McClure wrote.

"I've had cases I've had to send someone to death row before, but at least in those cases I've got some authority," he added in an interview Tuesday.

Florida's juvenile crime attracted international attention recently in the wake of several high-profile crimes involving teen-age defendants. Four boys, ranging in age from 13 to 17, face murder charges in the September murder of British tourist Gary Colley at a North Florida interstate rest stop.

"Juveniles are rightly convinced that they are totally immune from responsibility and they can threaten, rape, pillage, burglarize, terrorize and destroy anyone's property that they choose," McClure wrote Chiles.

McClure expressed his anger with the governor and legislators for not extending the special session held earlier this month to do more on juvenile crime.

'Sharing Is Caring'

A host of prominent people including Salvation Army officers and board members turned out Monday afternoon for the kickoff of the 1993 Salvation Army Kettle Drive at the Lake Mary Target Store on Lake Mary Boulevard. Orlando Magic star Anthony Bouie, next to the sign

(white T-shirt), was on hand to make the first contribution. Kettles, manned by volunteers, will be operating at various locations in the area until Christmas, with this year's slogan, "Sharing Is Caring."

Travel jams airports, roads before Thanksgiving

By RICHARD COLE
The Associated Press

American Airlines is flying again, ensuring a pre-Thanksgiving crush at Florida airports during what is expected to be the busiest travel season in at least eight years.

Major highways are also expected to be jammed, as half the population of Florida travels out-of-state to visit, while the other half hosts out-of-staters arriving to visit.

"We are projecting the highest volume of Thanksgiving travel since we started surveying people's travel plans in 1985," said Tom Schroder, spokesman for the American Automobile Association of Florida.

A record number of Americans will be using the Thanksgiving holiday for vacations — the number of people expecting to stay in hotels jumped to 32 percent this year, from 17 percent last year, he said.

Miami International Airport was brisk but manageable Tuesday, said aviation spokesman Marc Henderson, although parking had all but vanished.

The airport broadcasted messages on radio Tuesday pleading with travelers to use bus and van services, or have a friend drop them off.

The Wednesday before Thanksgiving is usually Miami's busiest day of the year, but the leftover effects of the American strike could cut into that, Henderson said.

Safety at destination top concern of travelers

By RON WORD
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE — The recent spate of crimes against tourists has propelled destination safety, as the top concern of vacationers, a new survey shows.

The just-completed survey for the 1994 National Travel MONITOR shows that 80 percent of the pleasure travelers interviewed listed safety of the destination and safety of the hotel and motel as the most important travel issues.

The safety issue was included for the first time in the annual survey because of the wave of crime against tourists in Florida and elsewhere.

According to the survey, 75 percent of those questioned listed visiting friends and family as desirable attributes in vacation planning, compared with 85 percent last year. Forty-nine percent said they thought it was desirable to go to some place they had been before, compared to 39 percent last year. And, 59 percent said they liked to go to places where they could find food to which they are accustomed, compared with 54 percent last year.

Vicki Knappenberger, a spokeswoman for the Florida Department of Commerce, said she wasn't surprised by the findings.

FCC indecency rules struck down

By JAMES ROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress and the Federal Communications Commission are finding out how hard it is to regulate "indecency" on the airwaves. Once again, a court says they're treading on the First Amendment.

A federal appeals court ruled Tuesday that regulators went too far when they banned so-called indecent material on radio and TV between 8 a.m. and midnight as part of the government's effort to protect young eyes and ears from objectionable material.

It's the third time since 1988 that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has struck down attempts by the FCC, at the behest of Congress, to ban indecent programming on the airwaves.

The court told the FCC that, in an effort to protect children, the agency had drawn rules so narrowly they infringed the First Amendment rights of adults. The FCC has fought similar battles to regulate the "dial-a-porn" telephone sex industry.

Opponents of the broadcast indecency ban contend it could affect broadcast programming that contained sexual innuendo, such as "Saturday Night Live" or late night talk shows.

Pending the final outcome of the court case, the content of radio and TV programs is not expected to change because the FCC could decide to fall back on older rules restricting indecent programming to after 8 p.m., when children in the audience presumably would be under some parental control.

The ruling does not affect cable TV programs.

The FCC had no immediate comment on Tuesday's ruling.

The appeals court ruled last year that a 24-hour ban was unconstitutional — but it the latest ruling it gave the FCC a falling grade, too, for the 18-hour ban, saying it was an unconstitutional broad encroachment on free speech.

"We can locate no evidence in the record that the government has taken the First Amendment interests of adults into account in advancing its compelling interest in the protection of children," the court said.

"Occasional exposure to offensive material in scheduled programming is of roughly the same order that confronts the reader browsing in a bookstore," wrote Judge Patricia Wald.

The FCC defines broadcast indecency as language or material that "depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs." Obscene material has no constitutional protection and is banned from the airwaves at all times.

The unanimous three-member appeals panel accepted the FCC's rationale that the regulation was necessary to help parents prevent their children from viewing or hearing indecent programming. But it said there was no logic to allowing indecent programming between midnight and 6 a.m.

"There is room for them to adopt some kind of regulation, but the court has made clear that they haven't done it yet," Timothy Dyk, an attorney representing a coalition of broadcasters that challenged the latest regulation, said in an interview.

A new FCC policy banning indecent material when large numbers of unsupervised children are in the audience might survive a court challenge, said Robert Peck, legislative counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union.

The ruling should invalidate $1.2 million in fines against the employer of controversial radio disc jockey Howard Stern, whose coalition includes Stern's company, Infinity Broadcasting Corp., Dyk told The Washington Post.

In a separate ruling, the same judges struck down FCC regulations that allowed cable operators to prohibit what they deem indecent programming from public access and educational channels.

The cable regulations marked the first time that "Congress has attempted to create restrictions in a forum which has been free-wheeling," said Andrew Schwartzman, a Washington communications attorney.

The panel also struck down a related regulation barring material that is obscene, sexually explicit or promotes unlawful conduct on cable channels set aside for public, educational or government use.

Under the FCC rules, cable operators could have banned AIDS education programs that include demonstrations about how to use a condom, Schwartzman said.

Wald was joined in the rulings by Chief Judge Abner Mikva and Judge Harry Edwards. All three were appointed by President Carter.

Hotline not being used

In mid October, the Sanford Police Department installed a hotline phone for citizens to use. Chief Ralph Russell says it has hardly ever been used.

There could be two reasons for this lack of response. The police may have failed to get the number (330-STOP) out to the public, or Russell believes, the people just don't care about calling.

The system was installed at the urging of a number of citizens who asked for a method of helping police in the fight against crime. With it, they can call to report a suspicious incident, an actual crime, or alert police to a possible problem.

Few people want to be considered a stool-pigeon, so this was taken into consideration. The phone is a digital system where a message is recorded. The callers do not have to identify themselves unless they want to.

Police play back the calls on a regular basis. To obtain the information offered by citizens, a person must call the number.

What went wrong? Russell is disappointed. We believe he has a right to be.

People, even those who may give lip service to having a communications line with police, are not using the system. We find it hard to believe they don't want to help fight crime.

If the reason for the lack of use is that the phone number has not been adequately publicized, police need to get the word out.

The number could be included on pamphlets given away at the police station. It may be put on some type of refrigerator magnet and distributed on request.

Regardless of who is at fault for the lack of using this phone, it is a good idea, and worth continuing.

People asked for this system. The police department provided it. Now it's time to put it to its intended use.

Our law enforcement officers can't do it all. Write down the number, 330-STOP, and call it to report crimes. It will go a long way in helping reduce crime in Sanford.

A Band Aid approach to juvenile crime

Here we go again! Another Band Aid approach to a ruptured aorta! We're hemorrhaging at the jugular and our "band-aids" up in Tallahassee slip on another band-aid.

Hey there! All you two-legged jackasses that pushed this latest effort in idleness into my List! Listen good!

What makes you think that a young jerk who takes a firearm to school will be the least bit concerned about losing his driver's license for a job whoopie our "sawtooth" or having to serve (oh me, oh my) "100 hours" community service? Who's hell worries about a driver's license when they "steal" a car at the drop of a pan feather, to go out and "burglarize" a business or a home and "rape or kill" the occupant "just for fun"? Not them, old friend, old buddy. No way!

For all of you bleeding heart liberals who had a hand in this latest display of legislative lunacy, I have a good suggestion for you. There is more than one step in this suggestion so pay attention. A quiz will follow.

One: With both of your hands, get a good grip at the base of your neck.

Two: With a twisting, pulling motion, gently but firmly withdraw your cranium from its deep intercession in your return.

Three: Take a deep breath of fresh air. It's probably your first in many months if not years. Do it again. Great isn't it?

Four: Wake up and smell the coffee and not the stinking animal and vegetable matter.

Who pays for democratic idealism?

Ever since the end of the Cold War, this country has been in the midst of a great debate over the circumstances under which American forces may properly be asked to die.

The standard answer to that somber question has historically been, "When, and only when, some vital American interest is at stake." That was certainly the case during the entire 40-year span of the Cold War. The Korean and Vietnamese wars were properly understood as simply skirmishes in the great battle for national survival being fought out between the superpowers.

When the Cold War ended, and the United States emerged as the only remaining superpower, it was inevitable that the question would soon arise, "Which of the many crises that are always afflicting the world warrant military intervention by the United States?"

By pure coincidence, one of the earliest passed the crucial test of involving a vital American interest. It Saddam Hussein had been allowed to seize Kuwait, and had followed that up with the brutal occupation of Saudi Arabia and the oil emirates, the whole global economy (which is dependent on Middle Eastern oil) would have been at his mercy. President Bush, in his eternal credit, recognized this, and quickly mobilized a military coalition that ended such hopes.

Subsequently however, CNN's ubiquitous cameras have treated the world to a horrifying series of pictures of bullet-riddled Bosnians and starving Somalis, and powerful pressures have been exerted to employ American forces to end these tragedies — at the cost, if necessary, of American lives. A lot of effort has been invested in ingenious explanations of why some "vital American interest" justifies such a cost.

Now, however, New York Times columnist William Safire, in a characteristic display of intellectual honesty, has reformulated the case for global intervention. I happen to disagree with him passionately, but at least he has stated his case honestly.

Safire argues that Americans must be prepared "to expend blood and treasure" to establish "an order that protects self-rule beyond our borders." And you can stop wailing your tears over sending American boys to die in such high-minded adventures. "They're not boys," they are men and women who volunteer to be hired and trained to kill other people when necessary to defend ... our democratic ideals."

Whatever else you may think of the Safire Doctrine, it has at least the virtue of clarity. This country, he insists, must be prepared to expend blood and treasure to establish "an order that protects self-rule," apparently anywhere on the globe that such order is threatened. And if that costs American lives ... well, they volunteered, didn't they? And they consented, moreover, to be trained to "kill other people" who get in the way of "our democratic ideals." Turnabout's a fair play, at least in war.

Today we are roasting the top turkeys of the year — politicians whose fibs and follies are worth feasting on this Thanksgiving.

Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss. He should never play poker with Budget Director Leon Panetta. Earlier this year, Lott provoked Panetta by claiming during a congressional hearing that he had "in my pocket" a check for $1 billion in painless budget cuts that just about everybody would agree with, including you, "Panetta called Lott's bluff." Let me have that paper and put it back in your pocket, so I can do wholesale raids on entitlement programs.

We obtained a copy of Lott's list. Those "painless cuts" turned out to be wholesale raids on entitlement programs of the poor.

"Maybe I should have used another word to describe that list," Lott told us. "I am just your average citizen, the 'Rip Van Winkle' of the 1990s, who woke up as a planned expressway through the impact mine and four other neighborhoods," said Gilbert.

The initial walking question asked and still being asked is who represents me and is looking out for my protection."

Constance noted Orange County residents were unhappy with the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority. She said the officials seem to be more responsive to the needs of the expressway, not the residents the tollroad will affect.

Gilbert asked for wording in the enabling legislation for future state-created boards declaring the elected officials were to serve the people. Earlier this year, Gilbert asked the lawmakers to dissolve SCEA.

South Sanford residents have fought a shift in the proposed final six-mile link closer to their homes.

Although Rep. Bob Starks, R-Winter Park, asked if an investigator would be ordered, Rep. Tom Feeney, R-Orlando, said ordinary high water levels are difficult to determine and there are no laws on how to establish the water level that defines the border between private property and state "sovereign" lands.

Feeney said the level is usually established in court at a cost of tens of thousands of dollars for both sides of the issue.

Lawmakers agreed they were unwilling to enter into such a costly effort or to pit state agencies against each other.

In another request, Chris Cross, president of Central Florida Association of Family Day Care asked lawmakers to block legislation requiring all in-home day care operators to become licensed. Instead, offer incentives to encourage them to do so.

Currently, there are 179 registered family day care homes serving Orange County, but only 29 licensed day care homes, Cross said.

Family day care homes are those where an adult may keep up to five pre-schoolers and five of their after-school siblings. The state requires a minimum of a registration, which includes three hours of training. Licensed operators must meet the registration requirement, but in addition before schools will allow two annual state inspections.

Licensed operators are eligible for meal reimbursements from the state.

Cross asked lawmakers to keep meal reimbursements such as allowing licensed operators to take in additional children, protect their homes from cancellation and make them eligible for state funding.

Lawmakers expressed interest in the request, but none agreed to sponsor legislation.

Sen. Charles F. Floyd, D-DeLand, said he would introduce legislation to allow people an opportunity to call police and report criminal activities. It was also hoped to be used in obtaining tips about crimes which may help police in an investigation.

The callers do not have to leave their names and are able to remain completely anonymous.

Police Commander Dennis Whitmore made the announcement of the phone system several weeks ago. He explained that it is a special digital system which will take a message without requiring an officer to answer directly.

So far, only a few calls have been received, far less than numbers reported in other areas where a similar system is in operation. Russell did not comment on whether or not any of the calls had been useful in crime fighting, but he did reiterate his disappointment that the system isn't being used by the public.

The phone hot-line number is 330-STOP (330-8767).

A time the clock stood still

BOSTON — We all know where we were. Every one of us over 35 can tell you where we were doing when we got the news. There are moments in life when the clock simply stops. There are events permanently imprinted on a generation, latticed on a nation.

On Nov. 22, 1963, I was working, at my first job, in the wire room at Newsweek magazine. One of the teletype machines began to ping the way it did for a new bulletin, "walked to the back of the machine and read the words as they came over the wire one at a time."

Thirty years later, it's impossible to communicate my own generation's sense of shock to the younger generation. They are more shocked than we were. Those days raised the annals, fluid to the 1950s had been sheltered from the knowledge of how vulnerable a country, a leader — a person — is to chance, mass, bullets.

Our own parents, who had grown up with the Depression and World War II, had tried to create a safer world for us — a vast, protected sitcom suburb in a country whose only threats were external. The American rebels of the '60s were without a cause and existentialism was as foreign as communism.

It is no accident that we still commemorate JFK's death and not his birthday. After all, it wasn't his complex and charming, youthful and flawed man, but his assassination, that exploded the safety of our American shelter.

Poner's thorough and hard-edge investigation, it's also because of our own changing nature. We are forced to accept chaos as easily as conspiracy now. We understand that madness is as much a threat as any rational plot.

The two words, "senseless" and "violence," have adhered into one inseparable phrase. The generation now in their teens and twenties are chilled by the randomness of danger-drive-by shootings, children caught in the cross-fire, craziness on the streets. Even scientists now propound a chaos theory.

Jack Ruby, of all people, said, "It's hard to realize that a complete nothing, a zero like that could kill a man like President Kennedy." But today, perhaps we can read again about Oswald the loser, the abandoned and abusive scamp, in the wrong place at the wrong moment, and recognize the profile of a killer.

On Nov. 22, 1963, while Americans were going about their daily lives unaware, Lee Harvey Oswald took deadly aim from the sixth floor of the Texas Book Depository and changed our world in ways that still leave us wondering what might have been.

Unbelievable. We said to each other, "I can't believe it. Only now, in a world of senseless violence, it's so much easier to believe.

Nurse's aide says she knew of 1978 baby swap

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — A former nurse's aide who previously said she knew nothing of a baby swap at a Florida hospital nearly 15 years ago changed her story and now says that the switch was intentional.

After Ardena died in 1988, the Twigg family launched a search that led them to Kimberly and Robert Mays, the man who raised her.

Webb told CBS that she believes the switch was made because Mays' wife was sick with cancer and had tried for a long time to get pregnant. Mays' first wife died in 1981.

His second marriage ended in divorce, and Kimberly is his only child.

The revelation of the switch sparked a tug-of-war between Mays and the Twiggs. This summer Circuit Judge Stephen Dakan ruled that Mays, who care of the babies to come forward and say whether the switch was accidental or intentional.

Ma, Webb's own child was sick with leukemia at the time and she remained silent to maintain health insurance.

However, Art Ginsburg, an attorney for Kimberly Mays, said "You've got to understand that Patay Webb's testimony has been taken on three different occasions before now where she has denied any of this."

George Russ, another Mays' attorney and well-known child rights activist, said Mrs. Webb's story doesn't make sense.

"If he was going to do something like that, certainly he would not pick an obscure nurse's aide and switch the babies," Russ said.

Expressway Authority, saying its appointed board was unresponsive to citizens.

Bill Daniels of the Black Hammock Association told lawmakers SCEA, the Department of Transportation, Florida's Turnpike, and (former) Department of Environmental Regulation had violated state laws by not properly measuring the "ordinary high water" level on Lake Jesup.

Daniels said wildlife corridors under the Lake Jesup expressway bridge are flooded much of the time.

Although Rep. Bob Starks, R-Winter Park, asked if an investigator would be ordered, Rep. Tom Feeney, R-Orlando, said ordinary high water levels are difficult to determine and there are no laws on how to establish the water level that defines the border between private property and state "sovereign" lands.

Trial

Brewster may be a key element in the appeal. Defense attorneys argued Sunday the mention of the test, even though the results were not revealed, would be grounds to overturn a conviction.

If the new trial is denied, after the sentencing, the case can then be appealed. Defense attorneys for a mistrial were denied several times during the trial.

Assistant state attorney Meryl Alloway, who prosecuted the two-year old case, was pleased with the testimony. Alloway, who works in State Attorney Norman Wolfinger's Brevard County office, conducted the case without a co-counsel.

"I'm very pleased that the jury found the victim's testimony to be credible and that he was able to recall the details of what he said happened, happened," she said. "The counts he (Brewster) was found guilty on were the same as the counts that we're asking for."

George Russ, another Mays' attorney and well-known child rights activist, said Mrs. Webb's story doesn't make sense.

"If he was going to do something like that, certainly he would not pick an obscure nurse's aide and switch the babies," Russ said.

Bill Daniels of the Black Hammock Association told lawmakers SCEA, the Department of Transportation, Florida's Turnpike, and (former) Department of Environmental Regulation had violated state laws by not properly measuring the "ordinary high water" level on Lake Jesup.

Daniels said wildlife corridors under the Lake Jesup expressway bridge are flooded much of the time.

IN BRIEF

Congress wraps up business almost

WASHINGTON — Congress wrapped up business for the year — almost — with Democrats claiming they had changed Washington after 12 years of divided government and taken big steps with deficit reduction and people-oriented laws like family leave.

"What a difference a year has made," said House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo. "After sleepwalking through four years of the Bush presidency, gridlock is broken."

Republicans countered that Democrats didn't have much to brag about.

"Most of it is either insignificant or harmful to the American people," Rep. Richard Arney, R-Texas, the No. 3 House GOP leader, said Tuesday as congressional leaders took stock of 1993.

Handgun purchase law stalls

WASHINGTON — With Democratic gun-control advocates turning up the political heat on conservative Republicans, negotiations are stalled over legislation establishing a five-day waiting period for handgun purchases.

In an unusual move, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell summoned senators — many of whom have already left for the holidays — to return Tuesday for a last-ditch attempt to pass the Brady gun-control bill.

Senate negotiators may try again today to reach agreement, thus avoiding the need for next week's session. But the talks grew so acrimonious Tuesday night that it was unclear whether they would resume. Each side accused the other of intransigence.

"We've gone the last mile," said Nancy Coffey, spokeswoman for Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, the Senate's chief sponsor of the bill. "If they want to change their mind overnight, we're still open to it."

American Airlines still struggling

American Airlines struggled to get passengers where they wanted to go today as mechanics at United staged a slowdown that threatened to cause still more turmoil during the busiest travel period of the year.

"My plane was nearly full and arrived on time," Stacy Nebasny of Dallas said with relief Tuesday after her American flight landed in Chicago.

United reported no appreciable flight delays from the action Tuesday by ground crews, which came in apparent response to United's rejection of a recent employee buyout offer.

But American expected to be without almost one-fifth of its flights today — the day before Thanksgiving and traditionally the busiest travel day of the year — while it rebuilt its schedule after a strike by flight attendants.

Poisons buried all over country

WASHINGTON — Containers of nerve agents, mustard gas and other chemical weapons may be buried in at least 215 sites around the country, the Pentagon said in a final report on unaccounted-for chemical toxins.

The report, sent to Congress on Tuesday, said the Army is not aware of any immediate threats to human health or safety and that some of the sites may prove to have little or no chemical contamination.

But it said it will probably take up to the year 2033, at an estimated cost of $17.7 billion, to destroy all the non-stockpile chemical agents and materiel such as storage facilities and spray tanks.

The 215 sites with confirmed or potential chemical weapons are at 48 active military installations and 34 formerly used defense sites in 33 states, the U.S. Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia.

Over the river and through the wood

MEDFORD, Mass. — "Over the river and through the wood, to Grandfather's house we go."

So begins the original wording of a 19th-century poem that has been sung by generations of American children at Thanksgiving and evokes Currier and Ives' memories of the pleasures of family and the smell of turkey and pumpkin pie.

More than a century later, in the birthplace and childhood home of the poem's author, Lydia Maria Child, you can still go over the river, if not quite through the woods, and reach Grandfather's house.

But the horse that knew the way to carry the sleigh would surely get lost today amid the shopping plazas, traffic rotaries and one-way streets that occasionally befuddle even lifelong residents like Joseph V. Valeriani.

"As a kid growing up in Medford, we all had to learn that poem and the teachers delighted in telling us she lived in Medford," Valeriani, president of the Medford Historical Society, said as he retraced the trip by car.

The idyllic-sounding Medford of Child's youth is now working-class city of 58,000. It is six miles north of Boston off Interstate 93.

From Child's Salem Street home, now occupied by a Chinese restaurant, it's roughly a half-mile to Grandfather's House on South Street.

You still go over the Mystic River on the Cradock Bridge at the spot where Child crossed, but the wooden drawbridge of that era has long since been replaced by a drab, concrete structure.

DAYTONA BEACH — With leading scorer Terrisha Larson sidelined with an injury, the rest of the Seminole High School girls' basketball team picked up the slack and rolled to 65-41 win over Daytona Beach Seabreeze Tuesday.

Dana Merrick led the Tribe (4-2) with 17 points. Minder Hampton added 15 points, nine rebounds and five assists. Shea Brown had 11 points and eight rebounds.

It was a real big win, said Seminole coach John McNamara. Before the game, we talked about how everyone had to dig a little deeper. And they did.

Seven different players contributed points for the Seminoles to offset the absence of Larson, who suffered a knee injury Monday.

DELAND — Dianne Barber's triple-double highlighted Lake Mary's 73-23 thrashing of the DeLand Bulldogs Tuesday in a JV District 4 girls' basketball contest.

Newberry boosts Rams by Deltona

By TONY DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Jimmy Newberry did a 1000 on everything Tuesday night, including a lot of scoring. He led Lake Mary to a 79-39 victory over the Deltona Wolves in a triple-header contest.

Newberry, one of five winners on the Rams' roster, finished with a game-high 29 points to go with 16 rebounds, six assists, four steals, and a blocked shot as Lake Mary improved to 1-0.

While pleased with the win, Lake Mary coach Willie Pridgen saw room for improvement.

We're making some mental mistakes, said Rich in Lake. We have a lot of inexperienced players playing a lot of minutes, and they're making the oddball plays at the most inopportune times. Right now, we're concentrating on eliminating the simple mistakes.

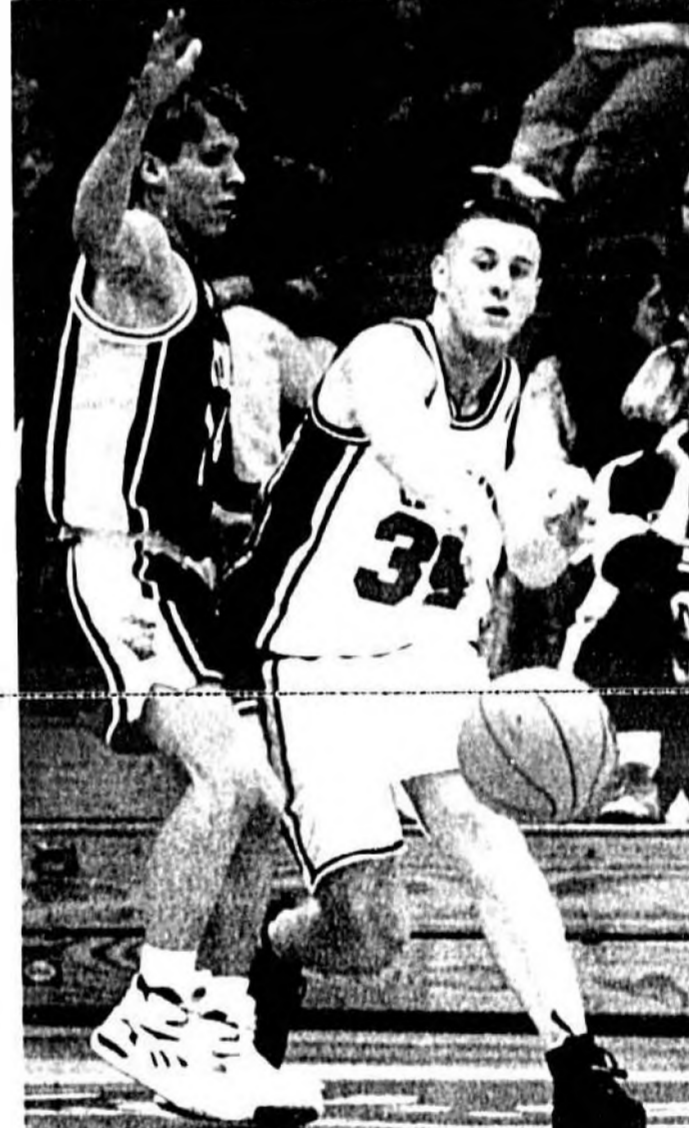

Deltona's Rich Long added 14 points for the Rams before a 10-point lead in the second half resulted in the game's final score of 79-39.

Lake Deltona's 1-2 record in its first game in the 20-point victory over the Wolves with 11 points and 10 rebounds.

In junior varsity action, Lake Mary clipped Deltona 41-24.

The Rams will play again this evening, hosting Mainland in a triple-header involving the 40-minute junior varsity and varsity games.

Hammond's barrage leads Raiders

From Staff Reports

NEW PORT RICHEY — Normally, when you say a forward had a good night shooting the ball, you'd mean that he made all or most of his lay-ups, had a dunk or two, and maybe threw in a couple of baseline jumpers for good measure.

Seminole Community College's Evon Hammond redefined that Tuesday night, throwing in five three-point field goals to lead the Raiders to a 98-89 win over the Pasco-Hernando Community College Conquistadors.

Hammond finished with 25 points, Terrance Mitchell in his second game with the Raiders since gaining his eligibility, led SCC with 28 points. Mike Burch added 15 points while Michael Sheppard collected 10 points and 11 assists.

Greyhounds rip Deltona

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — Deltona's 50-point effort in the first half and four-point deficit in the second half couldn't hold the Wolves back from a 79-39 victory over the Greyhounds in a District 4 junior varsity contest Tuesday night.

Danny Harris added two goals and two assists for the 10-point Greyhounds. Robert Hillman also netted two goals. Sara Rame contributed a goal and three assists while Kelly Smith had a goal and an assist. She's a Deltona senior.

Thanksgiving is a time to share one's blessings

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow is Thanksgiving, so let's take a moment and reflect upon all of those blessings for which we can be thankful.

How's your health? Only a few minor complaints? Well, thank God they're not major. If you are reading this — you're still here. You can probably think of at least one person who isn't around this year. (I know I can.)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing or read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one) — praise the Lord! A lot of people could not. (Say a prayer for those who were injured or who have perished, in fire, flood, earthquake or war.)

How's your pocketbook? Thin? You're not alone. But many people in the world are a lot poorer and are making do with far less than we Americans. Are you lonely? Well, the way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, don't stand on ceremony, pick up the phone and call someone. Go out of your way to do something nice for someone. It's a cure for the holiday blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern — concern for fair treatment under the law. In America we can cast a secret ballot or criticize our government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on our door in the middle of the night.

Freedom rings! You can worship in the church of your choice (or not worship at all — if that's your choice).

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving Prayer. Perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow. Let one of the children read it:

"Oh, Heavenly Father, we thank thee for food, and remember the hungry."

"We thank thee for health, and remember the sick."

"We thank thee for friends, and remember the friendless."

"We thank thee for freedom, and remember the enslaved."

"May these remembrances stir us to service."

"That thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

May the spirit of Thanksgiving be shared by one and all! Have a wonderful holiday, and may God bless you and yours.

P.S. Why not invite a friend who lives alone to share a Thanksgiving meal — or, better yet, call and say, "I'm coming to get you, and I'll see that you get home." Try it, and let me know how your day was.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: "The measure of a man's real character is what he would do if he knew he would never be found out." — Thomas Babington Macaulay (1800-1859).

COOK OF THE WEEK

RENEE KEITH

By RENEE KEITH
Herald Correspondent

With the sharing and showing of commitment for the community she lives in comes this week's Cook of the Week, Martha Yancey.

Yancey has always maintained a firm belief in doing whatever one can do to improve the environment in which they live. To accomplish many of her goals in that very direction, Martha has found herself becoming a member with many of the "can get it done" clubs in the city of Sanford. The list of projects completed to date in a word is "spectacular."

For 12 years (1974-1986) Yancey was the goodwill ambassador for the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. She was also the past chairman for the Sanford Scenic Improvement Board and has been a member of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. since 1978. Yancey is also a member of First Baptist Church in Sanford.

Martha fondly reflects back on one of the most rewarding projects in which she has been involved. This pride and joy is Park-on-Park in Sanford. She co-chaired this labor of love with Judy Wimble, also from Sanford. "This was the biggest community project in the history of Sanford," said Yancey. There was a total of nine people on the steering committee that coordinated the every move of this project. We had 1760 volunteers that worked in different groups according to their talents and how best those talents could be applied according to where we were with the park," she said. "There was $76,000 raised for this park and that does not include any donations of material, food, plants and so on. It's just so wonderful to see the community come together and the end result is a park that is there for everyone to enjoy."

Over the years Martha has been the recipient of many awards. In 1981 the Kiwanians named her Woman of the Year. She received the prestigious Topper Award from the Sanford Chamber of Commerce in 1982. In 1990, Yancey was given the Pete Knowles Award from the city of Sanford. She's also received a certificate from Governor Bob Graham for her many hours of volunteer work in her community.

Despite her continuous work for others, Yancey also enjoys sewing and decorating her lovely home. Her touch of elegance is apparent in every room of her home. Her husband, Ned, shares in some of the decorating ideas when it comes to things that need to be re-upholstered or furniture items that he will build. "But, I really like to do the gardening or go fishing," said Ned. Martha and Ned have been married 54 years. They have three children and five grandchildren.

With Thanksgiving right around the corner, Yancey said, "Try my recipe for smoked turkey, it's turkey like you've never had before."

When it comes to desserts, her recipe for Pumpkin Pecan Pie or Martha's Cream Cheese Pound Cake are two that she uses during the holiday season. "Everyone loves a good dessert," she concluded.

Using a covered charcoal grill, build a medium size fire to one side of the grill. Allow coals to get a gray ash-like covering. Leave coals in a pile, do not spread. Place turkey on the side away from the fire. Close cover, leave all vents open.

Remove from grill and immediately salt and pepper fairly heavily all over bird. Carve after

It has cooled for 15 minutes. Refrigerate any remaining turkey. Enjoy!

For your pleasure, the second time around

After a holiday, the refrigerator is usually bulging with plenty of appetizing leftovers. There is no reason the second showing can't be just as tasty as the dish that starred at your holiday meal. Use the following suggestions to turn leftovers into new dishes your family will enjoy. And, who knows, they may be just as appreciated as the original dish.

Pastry transforms holiday leftovers into a one-dish meal. Make it easy by using refrigerated pre-rolled pastry.

TURKEY POT PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie
1½ cups cubed, cooked turkey

1½ cups turkey gravy*
2 medium potatoes, peeled and cut into ½-inch cubes
2 medium carrots, peeled and thinly sliced

Any leftover peas, or ½ cup frozen peas
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 Tbsp. milk

Roll out half of pastry to fit 9-inch microsafe pie plate; trim edge even with plate. Combine turkey, gravy, potatoes, carrots, peas, salt and pepper; spoon into pastry-lined plate. Roll remaining pastry 1-inch larger than plate. Place over filling with 1 inch extending beyond edge; trim as necessary. Moisten edge of bottom crust with water. Seal top crust to bottom by turning under pastry that extends. Flute edge. Cut a few slits in top crust to allow steam to escape. Brush with milk. (Pre-heat oven to 450°F.). Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered 9-10 minutes or until filling is bubbly. Bake 15-20 minutes or until golden brown and filling is tender. Cut into wedges to serve. *A jar of prepared turkey gravy can be used if none is left.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered, 3-3½ minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once. Stir in cheese until melted. Pour over broccoli.

Combine breadcrumbs, Parmesan cheese and paprika. Sprinkle over casserole. Microwave on 100 percent power uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until heated through. About 6 servings.

*Chicken broth can be substituted for sherry.

A favorite way to use leftover ham is in this hearty casserole.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND HAM

4 cups sliced potatoes
1 small onion, chopped
½ cup water
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
2 Tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1 tsp. parsley flakes
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. pepper
1 cup cubed leftovers (cooked ham)

Paprika
Combine potatoes, onions and water in 1½-quart microsafe casserole. Cover with lid.

Microwave (100 percent) 8-9 minutes or until potatoes are just about tender. Set aside.

Microwave (100 percent) butter in 4-cup glass measure ½-1 minute or until melted. Blend in flour. Stir in milk gradually. Blend in parsley, salt, mustard and pepper.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered, 2-3 minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once or twice. Add to potatoes along with ham. Mix lightly, sprinkle with paprika. Microwave on 100 percent, uncovered, 5-6 minutes or until hot and bubbly.
