It's hot, real hot! Heat illness, crime go up with temperature

By David Frasier
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - It's a hot time in the old town. Record temperatures have skyrocketed into the 90's and even 100's. Floridians are trying to stay cool in the midst of smothering heat. During these incendiary hours, precaution and steps are being taken to ensure the well being of people, animals, plants, etc.

The American Red Cross of Central Florida has issued a list of treatments for the 3 levels of heat illness. The illnesses include heat cramps, which consists of painful muscle spasms in the legs or abdomen, heat exhaustion, which consists of cool, moist, pale or flushed skin, headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness, and exhaustion, and heat stroke, which consists of red, hot, dry skin, changes in consciousness, rapid, weak pulse and rapid, shallow breathing. Treatments for these conditions include getting the victim out of the heat, loosening tight clothing, removing perspiration-soaked clothing, applying cool, wet cloths to the skin, giving the victim water to drink if they are conscious (one 4 ounce glass every 15 minutes), and giving victim water and lay them on their side in the case of vomiting and call an ambulance if conditions worsen.

Anxiety and aggression are two more conditions to be aware of in the heat.

These can cause possible altercations and lead to criminal activity. "On specific days, there could be more crime," said Lt. Jack Cash, police information officer for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office. "We see a lot more street crime, a lot of stupid crimes."

Cash said that people tend to drink more during the heat. And people tend to be more aggressive. Cash also reported that 2 multiple sclerosis sufferers Wednesday were transported to the hospital because of heat complications.

Animals are also affected by the high temps. Laura Winkle, of the Lake Mary Veterinarian Clinic, reports of a dog per-

Adult club attorney tells sheriff that recent arrests are unlawful

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Attorney Hugh Treca has notified Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger that 15 recent arrests made at Sassy Merlot's nude dancing club were "unlawful," and potentially subject the Sheriff's Office to liability because they violate the Civil Rights Act.

As carefully as the county drew up its adult entertainment ordinance and tried to fix any glitches, Treca said there are problems contained in Ordinance Number 98-3 which defines where dancers are supposed to dance.

City/County Investigative Bureau agents made the arrests because they said the dancers were not dancing atop 18-inch platforms and because they

Residents' groups raise boat traffic concerns

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Cool fun is turning into a hot issue on waterways across the county.

Residents who live along the shores of Big Lake Mary are expressing safety concerns with regard to the increased boat traffic on the lake, while a citizens' liaison panel is seeking relief for a similar problem along the Econlockhatchee River, near Oviedo.

John Paakowski forwarded a petition being circulated around the lake to the chairman of the Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Board, Laura Mylrea-Morris, recommending city action to regulate watercraft activity on city lakes.

Paakowski and the other signatories of the petition cited weekend and holiday activities on the lake as "extremely crowded and becoming dangerous." The lake residents estimate 19 personal water crafts and 28 boats moored on docks around the lake located in the southeastern part of the city.

"Our concerns are primarily in the area of the dangerous activities which appear totally unsafe," the petition reads, "and may eventually result in serious injuries or a fatal accident."

The homeowners' complaints also include degradation of

It's not so easy to give mayor, commissioners a pay raise

By Rick Phibbs
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Comparing cities of like size, Sanford's mayor and city commissioners are relatively low paid. Increasing their salaries however, may be a complex undertaking.

Although considered "part-time," Sanford elected officials expend a great deal of time in their responsibilities. In addition to their own meetings and work sessions, they often attend other governmental meetings, grand openings, ribbon cuttings, dedications, special events and community meetings. Many also report spending a great deal of time on telephones talking to constituents, researching various items scheduled for discussion and/or consideration, and touring areas in their own districts.

The position of mayor in Sanford pays $3,800. Commissioners receive $3,000 per year.

As a comparison, Altamonte Springs pays $4,800 and $3,600 respectively; Port Orange pays $8,500 and $5,000 per year; Ormond Beach pays $6,882 and $6,864.

The average of 10 cities with populations similar to that of Sanford is over $9,000 per year for mayors and over $7,000 per year for commissioners and council members.

On the statewide level, near the top of the list is the city of Bradenton, with a population of 47,400, approximately 12,000 people more than Sanford, with 35,311 residents. Bradenton pays its mayor $32,098 per year and commissioners receive $26,269 per year.

While there is no disagreement that the salaries should be increased in Sanford, the method of doing so is complex.

The city charter says that no commissioner's

Remember those wonderfully elaborate May Day programs we used to have in the schools? Sanford Grammar had an outdoor festival which featured a Maypole Dance, folk dancing and games between the classes. Sanford Junior High had a special assembly program during the day and a dance that night. At Seminole High there was the May Day Ball, usually held at the Mayfair Inn. And each of these festivities featured a King and Queen of the May and their court, elected by their classmates, who processed in and took their seats of honor. Today's

Red Cross issues tips for hurricane preparedness

Special to the Herald

Hurricanes are most threatening to residents along our nation's coastline. But such fierce storms have been known to build up enough momentum to carry their destructive winds inland for hundreds of miles. Heavy rains, flooding and tornadoes add to the damage hurricanes can inflict upon families, homes and communities.

Hurricane season began June 1 and runs through Nov. 30. Preparing ahead of time can save lives and reduce injuries. The American Red Cross of Central Florida has released the following hurricane preparedness tips:

• Know your area's weather risks. While coastal areas are subject to storm surge, high winds, flooding and tornadoes can devastate coastal and inland areas as well.

• Prepare a disaster supplies kit. Include basic supplies: a first aid kit; canned food and can opener; bottled water; rubber boots and rubber gloves; a battery-powered radio; a flashlight; extra batteries; maps; blankets; pillows; and a change of clothing for each family member. Contain supplies to last family members for a minimum of three days. In addition, be sure to consider and include important paperwork and supplies for special needs, such as prescription medicines, eye glasses, pet supplies and games or activities for children.

• Know your evacuation routes. Identify several safe places where you could go if told to evacuate. Be sure to plan several routes to your destinations in case roads are closed due to storm or flood damage. Choose a place for all family members to meet if you are separated. Designate someone outside the area in which you live to act as a point of contact for your family members.

• Make a list of items to bring inside in the event of a storm and write down instructions on how to turn off gas and water if advised to do so by local authorities.

• Purchase items needed to board up and protect your home well ahead of time. Pre-cut plywood to fit windows so that you can quickly cover were closer than 3 feet from customers (who happened to be undercover agents). Within minutes, the club was raided by 24 agents in ninja masks.

Seminole County added a provision to its adult ordinance this year which allowed entertainment establishments to permit dancers to dance on smaller (18-inch) platforms/stages but there is nothing in the ordinance which requires that a dancer only dance on this 18-inch platform/stage. Trees informed the sheriff's legal advisor, John Ross.

"The fact is that the language of the ordinance is permissive with respect to whether an establishment even provides a smaller platform/stage for the dancers," Trees said. "And although the 18-inch high, 100-square foot stage must be located 3 feet from the nearest table or chair, there is absolutely no requirement that the dancer herself be located 3 feet away from a customer."

"It is clear the sheriff's deputies have misinterpreted or misread Seminole County's Ordinances in this regard," Trees said.

Trees said that Sassy Merlot's dancers were aware they cannot engage in contact with customers and say they were not doing so the night of the raid. Lt. Sammy Osborn of the Sheriff's Office said the agents did find contact.

Trees told Ross that the 10 dancers and other club employees were arrested by deputies who "misinterpreted" the ordinance. "You are hereby put on notice," Trees said, "that further arrests will result in potential individual liability for the sheriff and others."

Seminole County Commission Chairman Randy Morris said today he expected Sheriff Eslinger would continue to make sure the adult clubs do not break the law. "We've enacted a good law, we've worked diligently to regulate this industry. There have been a lot of hours and effort poured into this."

"The Sheriff's Office and the CCIB will continue to vigorously enforce the adult entertainment ordinance of the county," Chief Deputy Steve Harriett said today. "There are no misconceptions about what the requirements are. The dancers will dance on 18-inch high platforms, there will be no touching or contact with customers as was the case at Sassy Merlot's."

Deputy County Attorney Lonnie Groot said he finds little to Trees' charges that the deputies acted unlawfully. "Mr. Trees seems to think his clients are not subject to any of the regulations adopted by the county."

Nevertheless, there appears to be a nasty battle brewing this summer between the adult entertainment industry and Seminole County. Trees and other attorneys who represent adult clubs are prepared to contest not only what the county staff and commissioners are doing to regulate the community but to challenge groups such as the Seminole County Citizens for Decency. This is the group that gathered 10,500 petitions to ban total nudity at clubs.

"This has nothing to do with the law," Trees said. "It's a blatant attempt to legislate morality, to force everyone to be and act the way a certain group wants them to act."

Attorney David Wasserman was more blunt: "These people don't know when to leave well enough alone."

Lecture on Japanese fabrics is free

The Weavers of Orlando will meet at 10 a.m. on Saturday, at the Orange County Historical Museum, 811 E. Rollins Ave., Orlando. Lavonne Robertson of Enterprise will present a demonstration lecture on Japanese Shibori fabrics. Shibori is a design technique in which white fabric is stretched, bunched, folded or clamped and then dyed in natural indigo dye. Areas which do not absorb the dye create intricate white designs on the blue dyed fabric.

Mrs. Robertson is an internationally acclaimed fiber artist who has exhibited and taught in Japan, Australia and America. After retiring from a career teaching art education at the University of Denver, she spent several years in Japan studying textiles and dye techniques such as Ikat and Shibori. She has used her extensive collection of fabrics, garments and slides to teach these arts and to create her own award-winning weavings.

The Weavers of Orlando, founded in 1943, promotes interest in, and knowledge of, the fiber arts of spinning, weaving, dyeing and basketry as well as related crafts such as felt and paper making, beading, and surface design. Members from six Central Florida counties meet monthly, organize study groups and hold frequent workshops taught by nationally known artists. Meetings are free and open to the public.

"We met for over an hour with each of them," said Mayor Larry Dale. "then we went into a rap session to discuss the responses we received to our questions."

Members of the commission had previously met one-on-one with each of the candidates, but it was determined at a recent city work session that by holding a meeting at which the entire commission was on hand might provide a wider perspective of the candidates.

their experience, potential and personalities.

The three candidates include Ron Rabun of Lake Mary, Tony VanDerworp of Sanford and James Zumwalt of Daphne, Alabama.

According to procedures announced during previous meetings, the city commission will be listing the candidates on a one-two-three basis. From that point, contract negotiations will get under way with the most-preferred candidate. Should they be approved, the city would then approve the selection and enter into a contract for services.

Should the city be unable to reach an agreement with the first choice candidate, negotiations would then begin with the second, and if needed, with the third.

EDITORIAL

Who do you call?

Kids know from watching TV. Who do you call? Ghostbusters. But what if you have serious problems; do you know who to call?

The telephone books issued in our area generally have page after page of names and numbers to call regarding governmental departments, social service agencies and many others. The problem arises when you are unaware of which department or agency would handle the problem you may have.

An area resident phoned the Seminole Herald recently. He had a problem with a dead cow on the roadway in front of his house. Buzzards were already flocking. While his home is within the city, the roadway is at the city limits with the other side in the county.

He called the city. Not their problem. He called the county. Not their problem. He called animal control. Not their problem as the animal was already dead and he was told they only handle live animals.

What we are suggesting is a general phone number people could call to obtain the proper people to be contacted for help. Perhaps it could be a three-digit number similar to 9-1-1 which everyone knows is the help line in case of crimes or other serious needs.

We could even go back to the first paragraph in these comments. What if you thought, (and many believe it could happen) that your house was haunted. You've heard spooky noises and seen items flying through the air for no apparent reason. Who would you call? The Ghostbusters are fictitious. But there are people who would help resolve this situation, if we only knew who they were and how they could be reached.

If you are a senior citizen and heard about discount passes offered for certain parks, would you call the city parks department, county parks department, state parks department, who? Yes, you might find it in the phone book, but would you know under what listing it may appear? Then too, many seniors have poor eyesight and may not be able to read some of the fine print which often accompanies multiple listings.

Berry's World

Fred is a new member of the speech-writing team. He's in charge of typing in EVERYTHING YOU SAY with "the future of our children."

Calling for telephone assistance often results in a person talking to a programmed computer rather than a live individual who may be able to analyze a situation. Also, for many, it's exasperating; they don't like talking to a machine.

A general telephone number answered by a living human being, designed specifically to supply information to almost all of our citizens. The person manning the phone could have access to computerized phone numbers to assist in locating a particular organization, and hopefully, trained enough to know the answers regarding who you should call.

Yes, it would be a project requiring financial support through taxes or additional phone charges, but we believe most people who have had a problem locating the proper people to handle a problem, would cherish the concept. Give it some thought.

salary increase shall become effective until the date of commencement of the terms of commissioners elected at the next regular election."

As a result, even if the commission would approve a salary increase at this time, no one on the commission would be able to receive a raise. Only if they are re-elected, would they be able to have an increase.

Then, because of the city's staggering terms in office, the city would have 2 or 3 commissioners receiving the increase in salary, while the others would retain the old salaries through the remainder of their terms.

City Attorney Catherine Reischmann said the purpose of the city charter is to prevent an incumbent's salary from being decreased during his/her term in office, not just increased. She has studied the charter extensively and has suggested that the city make no attempt to make a charter change which would provide raises for all at the same time.

The question regarding salary increases for the mayor and members of the commission has been brought up for discussion and/or informational purposes during several previous city commission work sessions.

At the present time, there is no immediate drive under way toward increasing the salaries, but the proposal has been advanced for investigation.

garding high speed watercraft on the Econlockhatchee River."

Martin approached Morris after the Little Big Econ State Forest Citizens Liaison Panel had discussed the issue at its organizational meeting.

The panel would like the county commission to consider implementing and enforcing a "slow zone" along the waterway, from the power lines east of Snow Hill Road, east through the Little Big Econ State Forest. The upper river is not a suitable place for speeding (watercraft). Martin stated in his letter, "Canoe and kayak users as well as (personal watercraft users) are at risk."

A 5-mile-per-hour speed limit to be being recommended by the liaison panel.

Both groups are struggling with the question of enforcement.

taking Monday from heat exhaustion. Winkle advises owners to use common sense when taking care of their animals. "It only takes very few minutes for the temperatures to reach high levels," said Winkle. She says that the pet should have plenty of water and, if they are tied up, to give them shade.

Also older animals should be kept indoors, and pets with long hair should be clipped. Exercise, such as walks, should be conducted during the evening and should not be pushed. If a pet looks to be suffering from the heat, Winkle advises to take their temperature immediately, and then add ice packs or hose them down.

Over at the Central Florida Zoological Park, animal keepers keep the animals cool through different and unique methods. Andrew Farmer, director of marketing and public relations for the zoo, said that some of these animals are used to this kind of weather. However, Farmer said that the zoo does take steps to make sure that the residents are as comfortable as possible. "We have sprinklers and misters for the animals to go through," said Farmer. All of the animals have access to shade. Primates go through a unique "enrichment" exercise where they take fruit encased in ice and tries to break the food out of the frosty mass. The zoo also makes sure that the animals have plenty of water, and they are monitored constantly.

Al Ferrer, urban horticulturist for Seminole County, said that plants should be watered in the morning between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m. Placing plants in a shaded area does not necessarily mean that the plants will avoid wilting. "It is the water content of the soil that is important," said Ferrer.

Enjoy the NBA finals, we may be seeing the end of greatness

SANFORD - How often do you get to experience greatness?

Think about it. My grandfather had Babe Ruth and Bobby Jones. My dad had the Yankees dynasty and Muhammad Ali.

Today, we have the Chicago Bulls. That's about it in terms of greatness. But, for some reason, cynics are constantly trying to put down the Bulls. They're sick of Michael Jordan and Dennis Rodman and Scottie Pippen. They want to see a new champion, someone to knock His Airness off the throne.

Won't happen. The Bulls have a quality that no one else has. A tradition and an attitude of excellence.

So instead of rooting against Chicago, let's appreciate the knowledge that we'll probably never see anything like the Bulls in our lifetime. With Jordan around for a full season, the Bulls are about to win their sixth straight NBA title. The last time anyone was close to that was the Boston Celtics dynasty of the 60s, but that was in a much smaller league without as much travel.

Who else do we have in the Gen X 80s and 90s? The San Francisco 49ers had a nice run, but they didn't win every year. In fact, think of how many of their players will someday be in the NFL Hall of Fame. Jerry Rice, Joe Montana, Roger Craig, Ronnie Lott.

That's relatively few players for a sport that has 24 different starters on the field, while the Bulls have 60 percent of their starters going to the NBA Hall of Fame and probably their coach.

Tiger Woods may someday be considered for greatness, but as of now, he has one major to his credit.

Speed skater Bonnie Blair has four gold medals in four different Olympics but we only hear about her once every four years.

Wayne Gretzky has been great, but he languished in Edmonton for 10 years and has bounced around to three different teams since then.

The Bulls are unique. They've won with Jordan and made the Eastern Conference finals without him in 1994. They've done it with petulant Pippen, distracting Dennis and an owner who wants to break them up before their time.

They've won playing in front of more hype than the Spice Girls. Every road game is an event. In Atlanta last month, over 62,000 people showed up and 10,000 of them couldn't even see the court. The Bulls put up with that 82 nights a year, not to mention the countless hotel mobs and hangers on that greet them in every city.

Somehow, the Bulls push through and there isn't another team in all of professional or amateur sports that can do that.

Think of the memories. Remember Jordan with a look of disbelief after hitting his sixth try of the second quarter against Portland? Rodman harassing the Heat in the playoffs last year. The whole soap opera of the past six years.

It won't be forgotten and can't be duplicated.

If the Bulls break up after next week, we'll have a new champion next year, but it won't be the same.

So let's appreciate the Bulls for as long as we can. We'll never see anything like them again.

Last Second Shot: Bulls in six.

Expos outscore White Sox

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - The Boys and Girls Club-Expos withstood the storm and held off the Sunniland Corporation-White Sox, 12-8, Wednesday evening at Roy Holler Junior Field to clinch a spot in next week's Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball Bambino League City Championship Series.

The victory by the Expos came on the heels of an 8-7 triumph over the White Sox on Monday and gave the Expos a spot opposite the Railroaders-Cubs in the Best-of-Three Series that will start next Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at Roy Holler Junior Field in Ft. Mellon.

The White Sox, the American Division runner-up, went to the extra base hit to score five runs in the top of the first inning.

Eddie Bloom led off the game with a double and scored on a triple by Baracie Mitchell. D.T.

The Expos, the National Division champions, did the White Sox one better in the bottom of the first inning, ripping six consecutive hits. But only two were for doubles and the score was tied at 5-5 after one inning.

Marcus Kendrick led off with a double. Eric Bryant, Cy Wynn and Lyndon Merthie followed.

Cubs derail Indians

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - The Railroaders-Cubs extended their winning streak to 13 games with a 13-4 victory over the Enterprise Trucking-Indians at Roy Holler Junior Field Wednesday night.

But it was a lot closer than the score would indicate.

The Indians, the National Division runner-up, only trailed the American Division champions 6-4 in the top of the fifth inning, but the Cubs put a six-spot on the board in the bottom of the fifth inning to put the victory away.

The Cubs, who are now 17-1 on the season and have not lost since suffering a 6-5 defeat at the hands of the First Union-Athletics on April 9th, also defeated the Indians 9-5 on Monday to clinch the semifinal bracket.

They will now meet the Boys & Girls Club-Expos in the Best-of-Three Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball Bambino League City Championship Series starting Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Roy Holler Junior Field in Ft. Mellon Park.

The Indians took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning as Turner Davis singled with one out and came around to score.

The Cubs came back with two runs in the bottom of the first inning as Erik Breum walked and scored on a double by Karl Henkel, who in turn scored later in the inning.

The champions then extended the lead to 5-0 in the bottom of the second inning without the benefit of a hit.

Damian Reeves, Dorian Reeves, Erik Breum, Henkel and Freddie Howard all drew consecutive one out walks.

Baseball drafts several; All-State teams released

By Dean Smith
HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - It was another big day for local baseball players as several more were selected in the Major League Baseball First Year Draft and the Florida Sports Writers Association announced its Class 5A and Class 6A All-State teams.

The player receiving the most good news was Oviedo High School catcher/outfielder Jeremy Frost, who was named the Class 6A First Team catcher and was drafted in the 37th round by the Houston Astros.

Frost, who overcame a slow start this season to hit several home runs and help lead the Lions into the regional playoffs, has also signed a letter-of-intent to attend the University of Central Florida.

Seminole High School's Tim Raines, Oviedo's Ben Knapp and Lake Brantley High School's Felipe Lopez have also been doubly honored as the trio were named First Team All-State players after being drafted on Tuesday.

Lopez, a shortstop who was taken in the First Round as the eighth player overall by the Toronto Blue Jays, was named a Class 6A First Team infielder.

Knapp, who was taken in the second round by the Baltimore Orioles, was named a Class 6A First Team pitcher.

And Raines, who was also taken by the Orioles in the sixth round, was named a Class 5A First Team outfielder.

Sanford Fighting Seminoles' pitcher Lance Gable, was also named to the Class 5A All-State First Team as a pitcher. Please see Baseball, Page 28 with consecutive singles ahead of a two-run double by Anthony Mojica and a run-scoring single by J.D. Smith.

The White Sox immediately regained the lead in the top of the second inning as, with one out, Bloom blasted a home run. Mitchell followed with a single and he later scored to put the White Sox up 7-5.

The Expos then took the lead for good in the bottom of the second inning as Kendrick singled with one out, Bryant doubled, Wynn hit a run-scoring single, Merthie singled, Smith singled in a run and George Easley Jr. capped the five-run inning with an RBI grounder to make the score 10-7.

The White Sox' final run came in the fourth inning on a walk to White and an RBI single by Thomas.

The Expos answered with single runs in the bottom of the fourth inning and fifth innings. Smith singled and scored in the fourth and Wynn singled and scored in the fifth.

Doing the damage for the Expos were Eric Bryant (two doubles, one single, two runs scored), Cy Wynn (three singles, three runs scored, one RBI) and J.D. Smith (three singles, two runs scored, two RBI).

Also contributing were Marcus Kendrick (one double, one single, two runs scored), Lyndon Merthie (two singles, two runs scored), Anthony Mojica (one double, one run scored, two RBI), Josh Brown (one single) and George Easley Jr. (one RBI).

Powering the White Sox attack were Eddie Bloom (one home run, one double, two runs scored, one RBI), Bacarie Mitchell (one triple, one single, two runs scored, one RBI) and Larry Thomas (one double, one single, one run scored, two RBI).

Other hitters were D.T. Hicks (one double, one run scored, one RBI), Cleophas White (one single, two runs scored, one RBI) and Jermaine Mitchell (one single).

Cubs

with the Reaves brothers and Erik Bream scoring the runs.

The Indians got a pair of runs back in the top of the third inning. Mike Cain led off with a walk, but was forced by Garron Davis. Turner Davis and Donte Johnson followed with consecutive singles with Garron and Turner Davis scoring runs.

The Cubs scored a big unearned run in the bottom of the fourth inning. Dorian Reaves led off with a blast to center field, but he was gunned down at the plate trying to stretch a triple into an inside-the-park home run.

After a ground out for the second out of the inning, Henkel got all the way to third on a three-base throwing error and scored on a passed ball, making the score 6-3 Cubs.

The Indians cut the deficit to 6-4 in the top of the fifth inning as Garron Davis walked with one out. After advancing to third on a pair of wild pitches, Garron Davis came home on an RBI grounder to first by Turner Davis.

But the Cubs would slam the door on the Indians from there as Cubs pitching struck out four of the last five batters they faced, with a one-out walk by Dan App in the sixth inning, being the only Indians batter to reach base.

Offensively, the Cubs showed why they are the champions in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Alan Foster and Roger Bream opened the inning by drawing a base on balls. After a strike out, Alton Hicks and Damian Reaves also walked, with Foster scoring a run.

Dorian Reaves, the number nine batter in the Cubs lineup, then got the biggest hit of the game, clearing the bases with his second triple of the game.

Erik Bream then singled home Dorian Reaves and got to second on a throwing error on the play. Henkel then singled

Accidents: Driver should render assistance

Part II of 3 Parts

PEOPLE'S LAW
MANNY ACEVEDO

Last week we discussed the penalties fleeing from the scene of an accident can carry as well as the requirements imposed by law on a driver involved in an accident involving only damage to a vehicle or other property which is unattended. Like in an accident involving only damage to a vehicle or other property which is unattended, drivers in all other types of accidents are required to furnish their name, address, and the registration number of the vehicle they are driving. However, there are additional requirements imposed by law.

Florida law requires that a driver of a vehicle involved in an accident render to any person injured in the accident reasonable assistance, including the carrying or the making of arrangements for carrying the injured person to a physician, surgeon, or hospital for medical treatment if it is apparent that treatment is necessary or if requested by the injured party.

A person should be very careful when rendering assistance to an injured party. A person not trained in first aid should not attempt to provide treatment for an injury. Not only can a person not trained in first aid potentially make an injury worse but that person runs the risk of becoming liable for the help given. This is because Florida's Good Samaritan Act does not offer extra protection to someone offering assistance at the scene of an accident. In other states, Good Samaritan statutes, which apply to persons which gratuitously render aid at the scene of an emergency, exempt persons from liability for ordinary negligence in rendering such aid. However, in Florida, those persons who render aid at the scene of an emergency are liable for ordinary or simple negligence.

In addition to rendering assistance and providing the name, address, and registration number of the vehicle, the driver of any vehicle involved in an accident must show, upon request and if available his or her license to any other driver, passenger, or injured person involved in the accident. The driver, passenger, or injured party requesting this information should write this information down and copy the license number. Additionally, a driver must provide this information as well as show his or her license to any police officer at the scene of the accident or who is investigating the accident.

But when must and when should the driver of a vehicle involved in an accident notify the police? As we discussed last week, all accidents involving unattended vehicles or property which result in damage must be notified. Additionally, all accidents resulting in injury to or death of any person must be notified. However, only accidents involving only damage to a vehicle or other property in an apparent amount of $500.00 or more must be notified. Conversely, accidents involving only damage to a vehicle or property in an apparent amount under $500.00 need not be reported. Under the latter circumstances, a driver should consider notifying the police only if he or she is not at fault.

As noted above, the law requires that a driver involved in an accident render assistance if necessary, provide certain information to others involved in an accident, and notify the police under certain circumstances. Adhering to these requirements helps save lives and keeps potentially harmful situations from worsening. Next week we will discuss the precautions that a driver, passenger, or other party involved in an accident should take to protect his or her rights.

Mom's example still lights up kids' lives

DEAR ABBY: I had to write after reading the letter from "Mom in Denver," who asked how to be a great mother. She wanted to avoid the mistakes her own mother had made with her and her siblings.

I have no children, but my life was enriched and greatly blessed by my own wonderful mother. She loved unconditionally, whether we were good or mischievous. She taught us humility and respect for our fellow beings by her altruistic example. She encouraged us to learn about the magnificent world in which we live, and gave us the freedom to learn about our place in it. She gave us the courage to explore our gifts and talents. When we failed, she never once said, "I told you it wouldn't work," or, "What a waste of time and money."

Instead, she praised our efforts and, in so doing provided us with self-confidence and determination so we could persevere and achieve.

Our mother made mistakes, but when she did, she apologized with her heart and soul. When we made mistakes, she accepted our apologies. Conversations with Mother were never "adult talks and children listen." She taught us to express our emotions and thoughts on issues we faced. In short, we learned that we were valued for what we thought and how we felt, because she listened patiently and sincerely.

There was never a question of who was in charge; all it took was a stern look to know when we were on the outskirts of good standing. She knew what decisions a child could and should make and which were the responsibility of an adult, as well as age-appropriateness in relinquishing those decisions. By example we learned to nourish ourselves properly, value our health, and strive to lead full, balanced lives. We learned about God and were schooled in religion, but were also given the opportunity to question, ponder and disagree.

We shared in laughter and in tears. We told jokes and hilarious stories to each other. We had fun and learned to always have time for a friend. We shared stories and photographs from Mom's childhood and teens, so that we could know who she was before she became our mom. When one of us lost a friend struck by tragedy, she'd cry with us and share our grief.

This letter may be too long for your column, but if you print it, I hope it helps mothers like the one in Denver. Our beloved mom passed away from ovarian cancer at the age of 48 almost 11 years ago. From her, each of her children learned to navigate in a world from which she is physically absent. We celebrate each other's lives because we see her within each of us. Now, after having completed my Ph.D. in neurobiology, I'm finishing my M.D. and pursuing a future in neurosurgery. I have wanted to be a dector for as long as I can remember, but I wonder sometimes if such would be the case had I not had such an extraordinarily great mom.

MELISSA Y. MACIAS,
ORIGINALLY FROM
EL PASO, TEXAS

DEAR MELISSA: Not only have you provided great insight in what it takes to be a terrific parent, you have written a loving and eloquent tribute to your own mother. Please accept my deepest sympathy for having lost her at such a young age.

I know she would be proud of raising a daughter who is pursuing her dream, and who is already an intellectually accomplished. I hope that someday you can pass on what your mother taught you to children of your own.
