Harriett's Plan For Police Approved

Acting Police Chief Steve Harriett's reorganization plan for the Sanford police department was unanimously approved Monday by the city commission.

The commission also approved a reorganization of city hall staff.

Harriett submitted a plan consolidating all police operations into two divisions. Monday the commission received copies of the plan. Harriett asked for its formal approval.

The two divisions are enforcement operations and support services. The enforcement branch includes traffic, patrol and investigations. Support services includes administration, community relations and training.

Each division will be headed by a captain who will answer directly to the chief. Capt. Charles Fagan will head enforcement and Capt. Herb Shea will supervise support services. The plan eliminates the position of assistant police chief, a job formerly held by Shea. Fagan, now serving at the federal Drug Enforcement Administration office in Orlando, is taking his new post June 17.

Harriett says the change will make the police department more efficient and establish clear lines of authority and responsibility. Under the old plan, all sections answered to the assistant chief or the chief, Harriett said. This left the assistant chief "floating" from section to section, he said.

Harriett said the plan was the "best way" to organize the department, regardless of who is named chief later this month.

Also during its meeting Monday night the commission examined the list of 10 finalists for the police chief post, as recommended by the Civil Service Board. The commission is scheduled to meet at 5:30 p.m. June 24 to discuss the applicants. Mayor Bettye Smith

Public Hearing Set On Adult Book Store

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Without comment today, Seminole County commissioners authorized scheduling of a public hearing on the appeal of an adult book store against the county Board of Adjustment's denial of a special exception to allow the store.

A fundamentalist Christian group began its crusade against the Connection Adult Book Store with a picket line Monday and its leader, the Rev. John Butler Book of Altamonte Springs, pledges the protest will continue as the owners of the shop, New Wave Entertainments Inc., ask the county commission to legalize the operation.

The county voted 4-0 to schedule the hearing, one among 11 authorized. Commissioner Sandra Glenn was absent. She is attending a planning conference in Pittsburg.

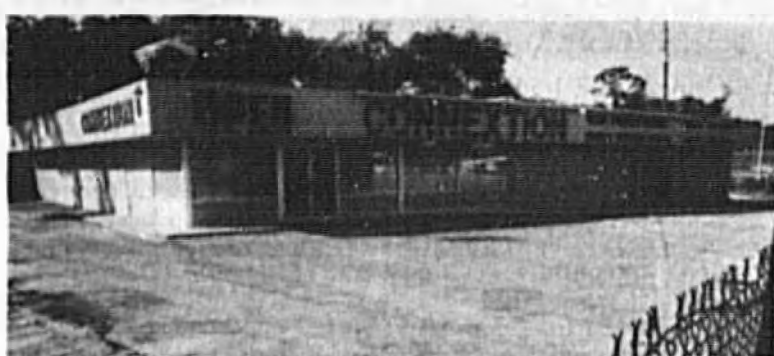

The shop, off U.S. 17-92 north of the Maitland Interchange, is open for business even though the Board of Adjustment denied the special exception, said Herb Harden, director of the land management office.

The owners, represented by attorney Neal McShane, are appealing to the county commission the county Board of Adjustment's May decision denying the firm a special exception to operate an adult entertainment establishment at the Fern Park site.

McShane could not be reached for comment today.

Staff in the county's land management office later today are supposed to set the exact date of the public hearing, expected to be sometime in August or September.

Harden said he and members of the Sheriff's Department's vice squad examined the material at the book store last week and found magazines there to be "less explicit than Hustlers or Penthouse which can be purchased at any convenience store."

New Wave Entertainments is claiming that less than 10 percent of its merchandise and books concerns adult entertainment, Harden said.

And County Attorney Nikki Clayton said her office is trying to determine whether a "substantial and significant" amount can be considered objectionable.

"Right now we do not have a clearly defined violation and

Ramp Repair Cost Doubles

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Repairs to the boat ramps at the Sanford marina are going to cost double what was originally estimated, City Manager Frank Faison reported to the city commission Monday. He said the cost would be about $55,000 instead of $26,000 as first thought.

Faison said Monroe Harbour Marina, which operates the ramps, submitted an "incomplete" damage report to the city. Divers inspected the ramps and discovered that the damage was worse than Monroe Harbour reported. Instead of just the five-foot dropoffs at the end of the ramps, Faison said the concrete ramps were damaged underneath the water.

The city maintains the damage was caused by propulsion from the engines of the Star of Sanford dinner cruise ship. The eight ramps were closed by Monroe Harbour two months ago, but two of them were reopened two weeks ago by the city commission.

The commission voted 4-0 to spend the money, which will cover only the repairs on the ramps. Commissioner Dave Farr was absent. Other damages, such as cracking in the marina's concrete bulkheads, would not be repaired for the $55,000, Faison said.

The ramps should be extended further into the water and embedded deeper into the bottom, Faison said. But even with repairs, he said it was "questionable" whether the ramps could be damaged again by large ships.

City Attorney William Colbert said the Star of Sanford has received a court-ordered eviction notice and that the city will continue to fight to make the company pay for the repairs. But another ship, the American Romance, is docking in the marina. All ships would have to clear out of the marina while the repairs were being made, which could take about six weeks, Faison said. The ramps that were opened would also have to be closed again, he said, but not for that long.

The city already has one permit from the state Department of Environmental Regulation to begin the work but still needs another one from the state Department of Natural Resources, Faison said. The city has filed for it and is being helped by DER, which is trying to speed up the process so the city can get on with the work, Faison said.

In other action Monday:

• The commission unanimously approved Faison's request to hire a private tree company to remove 130 dead trees from around the city. Faison said city workers are too busy working on a project at the marina to remove the trees. And after finishing there, they are scheduled to remove tree stumps from Chase Park on Celery Avenue. The city will take bids on the project.

The city is behind in cutting the trees down, many of which have scheduled for removal since 1983, Faison said.

Commissioner John Mercer said, "I think it's imperative that we do this because some of the trees are becoming dangerous."

• The commission also unanimously approved Dr. Hortense Evans as the Planning and Zoning Commission's newest member. Ms. Evans, who works for the Seminole County School Board, will replace Commissioner J.Q. "Slim" Galloway who steps down this month after 10 years of service on the board.

Gun Law Bypasses County Rules

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

If Seminole County has denied you the right to carry a gun, you may soon be able to take your case to the state.

Seminole County residents and others throughout the state who want a permit to carry a gun will apply to Secretary of State George Firestone's office in Tallahassee, rather than to the county commissions where they live, unless Gov. Bob Graham follows through on his threat to veto the bill passed during the 1985 session of the Legislature. Graham has until Friday to veto the bill.

Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont and a member of the Seminole County Legislative delegation, says those requesting a permit will have to show they are competent to deal with handguns and can pass a fingerprint check.

"They cannot get a gun permit if they have been insane or convicted of a felony." Few requests for gun permits have been approved by the Seminole County Commission over the years.

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm says there have been four or five requests and only one, for a private detective, has been approved. And that approval was on a three to two vote over the objections of Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and him.

The commission has taken the position that most persons who apply for a permit to carry a gun do not need one.

"My feelings is there shouldn't be any concealed weapons permits issued, whether by state or local government," Sturm said. "It's become a non-issue in Seminole County. People who might want the gun permits pretty well know the commission's position," he said.

Sturm said Sheriff John Polk conducted investigations on each applicant requesting a permit, looking into the applicant's experience and background and whether the applicant was in a life-threatening situation.

"We required applicants to display a compelling need to carry a gun. And in my opinion no one ever did," Sturm said, adding no one ever took the county to court over the issue.

He said with the state issuing the permits, he imagines many more will be requesting them from Seminole County.

But, Langley says there are two sides to the story on the gun permit issue.

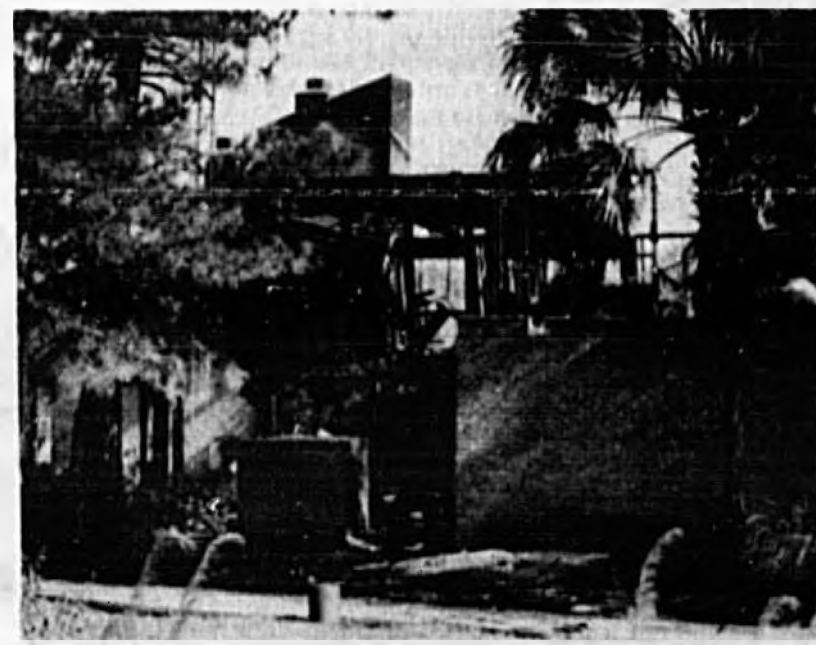

"I don't think every whacko should have the right to carry a gun, but there are people such as those carrying payrolls and those who work in high crime areas who may need to," Langley said.

A major purpose of the bill, which he sponsored, is to have a uniform law throughout the state, he said.

As the prior law was, a person could be permitted to carry a gun in one county and drive into another and find himself considered a felon because he also did not have a license there, Langley said.

The proposed new law would prohibit a person from carrying a gun in any public place such as a courthouse, a store or a Fire destroyed this clubhouse at the Jamestown Condominiums on Jamestown Boulevard east of state Road 434 Monday.

Lightning, Electrical Overload Spark Fires

Blazes Destroy Buildings

Fire gutted an Altamonte Springs condominium clubhouse and a Sanford apartment in two separate incidents Monday.

A two-story clubhouse at the Jamestown Condominiums, on Jamestown Boulevard, Altamonte Springs, was totally destroyed after fire spread from a nearby tree which was struck by lightning, according to Steve Peavey, fire investigator for the Altamonte Springs Fire Department.

No one was injured in the fire, Peavey said, because the clubhouse was empty and the manager, whose office was on the second floor, had gone home. Residents of the condominiums were not evacuated because they were not threatened, he said. Damage totaled about $250,000.

It took firefighters from Altamonte Springs and Seminole County 45 minutes to bring the fire under control, Peavey said.

"It burned quickly," he said.

In the Sanford fire, a 4-year-old girl was injured and one apartment was gutted after fire raced through the second story of a Park Avenue apartment building at about 1:30 a.m.

The fire was sparked by an overloaded extension cord in apartment #4, at the Jarvis Apartments, 1000 Park Ave., according to Assistant Fire Chief Ron Neel.

"The apartment was completely demolished," Neel said.

The occupant, Alfred Harkness, escaped uninjured, according to Ralph Jarvis, the apartment manager.

Occupants of the other three apartments in the building were evacuated. They stayed with family and friends, according to Seminole County Red Cross director Lea Lowery.

Sharon Young, Harkness' 4-year-old niece, was treated at the scene for smoke inhalation and released.

The fire was contained at apartment #4, but heat, smoke and water damaged the other apartments, Neel said. Damage is estimated at about $30,000.

Jury Says Sanford Man Should Die For Killing Wife

From Staff and Wire Reports

A Fort Lauderdale jury recommended death in the electric chair Monday for a Sanford man convicted of murdering his pregnant wife by pushing her overboard at sea in order to collect life insurance benefits.

The jury that convicted Michael Scott Keen, 37, on Friday deliberated an hour Monday before recommending that he die for the first-degree murder of his wife, Lucia AnRa Lopez Keen, 22, of Ft. Lauderdale.

Broward County Circuit Court Judge Patti Englander Henning scheduled sentencing for August. The judge may reject the jury's recommendation, but the only sentencing options are death in the electric chair or life in prison with a minimum term of 25 years before parole.

Mrs. Keen was five months pregnant with the couple's first child when she disappeared during a pleasure cruise at sea Nov. 15, 1981. Her body was never found.

Keen's former friend and roommate, Kenneth Shapiro, testified during the week-long trial that he was on the Keens' cabin cruiser and saw Keen, of 112 Clear Lake Circle, push his wife overboard about 20 miles off of Port Everglades, leaving her to drown.

Shapiro said Keen, 37, threatened to kill him unless he corroborated Keen's story that his wife must have fallen overboard while the men listened to a blaring radio.

The Keens had been married 3½ months. Two months before the wedding, Mrs. Keen took out life insurance policies naming her husband as beneficiary for $200,000 in accidental death benefits.

Shapiro testified that before Keen met his wife, he had discussed a plan to "find an unsuspecting girl and kill her for profit" so he could retire by age 40.

Keen was arrested in Casselberry Aug. 23 by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Miami Mounties To The Rescue

It's a small world when crime is involved, as Marc Bennett of Altamonte Springs is learning.

Bennett was convicted in Sanford in 1983 of swindling $63,000 out of a county commissioner and a doctor for the purchase of two Mercedes-Benz from Europe. He was sentenced to restitution and jail time but disappeared after making one $1,000 restitution payment.

He was located recently in Vancouver, British Columbia, say the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of Miami. Yes, they have an office in Miami. Assistant state attorney Kurt Erlenbach of Sanford said he will file extradition papers, but admitted that takes awhile.

"It might be easier and quicker to do what Volusia County did," Erlenbach said, referring to the time Volusia deputies went to Canada brought a businessman back for trial — sans red tape.

Suspected Sex-Torture Killer May Commit Suicide

WILSEYVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — A dishonorably discharged Marine, sought in a nationwide manhunt in the sex-torture slayings of up to 25 people at a cabin littered with sadistic videotapes, may kill himself to avoid capture, an investigator says.

"We absolutely must find him," San Francisco Police Chief Cornelius Murphy said of Charles Ng, 24, who vanished June 2 after fleeing arrest during a shoplifting incident.

"Without Ng we won't be able to completely solve the case," Murphy told a news conference in San Francisco Monday. "I don't know how committed he is to suicide but he has made statements indicating he would not be taken alive."

Leonard Lake, 30, the only other suspect in the macabre killings on a remote 2-acre site in the Sierra Nevada foothills, swallowed a lethal cyanide capsule hours after police arrested him in the shoplifting incident.

The remains of a man, woman and child were found in shallow graves Friday.

As many as 25 kidnap victims may have been slain, Murphy said.

Cyclamate May Make Comeback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration says it might decide next year if the once-popular artificial sweetener cyclamate is safe enough to be permitted back in the soft drinks and foods of American consumers.

A committee of the National Academy of Sciences reported Monday that a year's review of 20 years of tests found that evidence indicates cyclamate by itself does not cause cancer. But the panel said two controversial studies suggest cyclamate may promote tumor development.

The FDA halted sales of the non-caloric sweetener because a rat study suggested a mixture of cyclamate and saccharin caused bladder cancer. An FDA committee reported in April 1984 that its own review of the studies found "very little credible data to implicate" cyclamate as causing cancer.

But the panel expressed concern about two controversial studies that indicated cyclamate can enhance the effects of cancer-causing chemicals. The committee said at least one study should be repeated to eliminate any doubt.

Helicopters Drop Water On Monster Forest Fire

MADISON (UPI) — Helicopters and tankers poured hundreds of gallons of water on hot spots in a fire that has devoured thousands of acres of north Florida timberland since Wednesday.

Bulldozers scooped up dirt around the 26,800-acre blaze Monday, building barriers to prevent it from spreading. Seb Farina, a state Forestry Division spokesman, said the 50 rural homes threatened by the fire over the weekend were in no danger.

He said there have been no serious injuries and none of the homes, which are within three miles of the fire's eastern edge, have been damaged.

Farina said flames burst through points along fire lines on the southern edge of the blaze Monday but that four helicopters doused them with 250-gallon buckets of water.

Despite scattered showers around the state, Farina said there has been "no rain ... nothing worth a mention on the fire."

The blaze, 12 miles south of Madison, was ignited by a lightning strike Wednesday and has burned through parts of Taylor, Madison and Lafayette counties.

Sub, Fishing Boat Collide

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The Royal Navy and the U.S. Coast Guard are investigating a collision between a 40-ton fishing boat and a British nuclear submarine to determine how the accident happened, officials say.

The HMS Resolution, one of four British Polaris missile submarines, was heading out to sea Sunday night when a collision occurred with the Proud Mary, a charter fishing boat on its way back to port in Ft. Pierce after a six-day trip.

The Resolution suffered only minimal damage, but the right front section of the Proud Mary was ripped open above the waterline and three crewmen were treated for minor injuries.

The crew of the Resolution, after assisting the Proud Mary, pressed on and successfully test-fired a Polaris missile early Monday.

The accident happened while the Resolution was about 10 miles east of Cape Canaveral cruising on the surface at 13 knots.

Crew members of the Proud Mary told area television stations the submarine was at fault in the accident. A crewman on the submarine reportedly said the fishing boat was sitting dead in the water with no lights when the incident happened.

Woman Hit By Car On Beach

An Altamonte Springs woman received multiple cuts and bruises after she was struck by a car while walking along Ormond Beach.

Treated and released from the Peninsula Medical Center, Ormond Beach, was Cynthia Robinson, 26, of 165 Alma Drive.

According to an Ormond Beach police report, Ms. Robinson was walking along the beach with friends about 10:15 p.m. Saturday when she was struck by a vehicle driven by Gregory Kevin Nall, 19, of Ocala.

No one else was injured and Ms. Robinson was transported to the medical center by ambulance.

Nall was charged with willful and wanton reckless driving and was released from jail on $500 bond, according to Ormond Beach police. —Deane Jordan

Von Bulow Says No Hard Feelings

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Claus von Bulow, acquitted of charges he tried to kill his heiress wife, said he has no hard feelings toward his accusers, but his royal stepchildren said bitterly "he knows and we know that he tried to murder our mother."

The Danish jet-set financier bowed his head over his hands, then blinked back a flood of tears Monday, after a Superior Court jury of eight women and four men declared him innocent of two attempted murder charges.

One woman in the courtroom fainted when the verdict was announced on the fourth day of deliberations. Other spectators — many of whom sat through the entire nine-week retrial that included tales of drugs, sex and a high-society fortune — gasped and applauded.

Von Bulow, 58, whose 1982 conviction on the same charges was overturned on appeal, said he just wanted to put the ordeal behind him "by leading a quiet life and ceasing to be in the public eye."

Von Bulow said those who brought charges against him had been "misguided."

He said he was "very grateful to everyone" and had "no feeling of vindictiveness or even any kind of hard feelings" toward the two royal stepchildren who helped launch the initial investigation of Martha "Sunny" von Bulow's two comas in 1979 and 1980.

Asked what his plans were, the chainsmoking von Bulow, a former aide to billionaire J. Paul Getty, replied, "Give up smoking."

But Prince Alexander von Auersperg and Princess Annie-Laurie Kneissl — Mrs. von Bulow's children from an earlier marriage to an Austrian prince — were bitter after watching the verdict on television. They received the news at the family's Newport mansion, where the state charged von Bulow injected insulin into his heiress wife during the 1979 and 1980 Christmas holidays.

"He knows and we know that he tried to murder our mother," von Auersperg, 25, said later at a Providence news conference.

"We were devastated because we feel our stepfather tried to murder our mother," said Kneissl, 27.

The judge excluded from the retrial much evidence the prosecution was allowed to introduce in the first trial, including testimony from a New York banker that von Bulow stood to gain $14 million of his wife's estimated $75 million fortune if she died.

"We firmly believe that had they been able to hear all the evidence ... their decision would have been different," Kneissl said.

Asked whether she would ever see von Bulow again, the princess said, "I doubt it."

War On Fireworks

Seminole County Fire Marshal Joe McCluan shows off a variety of illegal fireworks, including firecrackers, skyrocket, Roman candles, and Daygo bombs, all of which are banned in Seminole County. Officials will step up enforcement of the ban through the Fourth of July holiday period. Seized fireworks will be removed at the owner's expense. Last year a 10-year-old girl suffered third-degree burns when an illegal Roman candle fired by a spectator landed in her lap during an authorized July 4th public fireworks display in Altamonte Springs. Automobile flares, paper caps for toy pistols and sparklers with less than 100 grams of combustible material are legal, public safety officials say.

School Bus, Train Collide

22 Killed, Most Of Them Children, 17 Others Injured

HAIFA, Israel (UPI) — A train collided with a bus carrying school children on an excursion today, killing 22 people and injuring 17 others, officials said.

Israel Red Cross officials said most of the victims were children. The bus driver, a woman, also died, the officials said.

"I heard the train. It was blasting with its sirens from a very long distance," said Johnny Chazan, who witnessed the accident. "He (the conductor) must have noticed the bus was stopped on the tracks or very close to the tracks. Then I came down from my house and saw all the bodies."

The bus, the lead vehicle in a group of three, was dragged 30 feet after it was struck in the rear by the train, which was traveling at 60 mph, railroad officials said.

The train was travelling from Tel Aviv to Haifa, officials said.

The bus apparently was almost across the railroad tracks, which were marked only by a bent sign, when the collision occurred at 8 a.m., authorities said.

The collision killed 22 people and injured 17 others, Red Cross officials said.

"At the first glance there were 10 or 12 kids killed on the spot and the rest were all injured, about 45 kids," Chazan said. "Soldiers on the train immediately came running down with their bandages (in their emergency pouches) to treat the few that were showing signs of life."

Sandwiches and freshly baked rolls lay next to the children as ambulances began arriving on the scene, 15 miles south of Haifa, to take away the dead wrapped in white sheets already stained with blood.

Helicopters also ferried the wounded to hospitals in Haifa, Ramban, Rotschild and Carmel.

Zvi Zafriti, head of Israel Railways, said at the speed the train was moving it takes one-sixth of a mile to stop.

The train was traveling north on tracks that, for part of the way, go parallel to the road the bus was using to take the children on an excursion.

The road crosses the tracks at a point that cannot be seen until the driver is almost upon it, residents of the area said. The crossing is also used to get to a beach, and there is a skull-and-crossbones sign at the site to warn pedestrians of danger.

Zafriti said there are 200 to 300 such crossings that need barriers and lights, but the government lacks money to put up the equipment.

He said train engineers do not have to give a warning whistle as they approach a crossing. "But they are doing it of course," he said.

"In this case here, from people I spoke to here, he whistled more than usual."

Yam Scam

Feds Find Cocaine In Fake Potatoes

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal drug agents marveled at the "incredible" workmanship of the fiberglass yams hiding cocaine and said the fibert bust heralds a new wave of smart smugglers trying to beat the heat in south Florida.

A lone Customs inspector stumbled upon the phony yams as he was checking a shipment of real yams unloaded from a Colombian freighter. Police waited for the yams to be delivered to a warehouse and then moved in to make the bust.

As of late Monday, with one-quarter of the 3,000 boxes labeled "Colombian yams" checked, 300 pounds of cocaine had been found inside phony yams. Authorities said the total take may be "well over" 1,200 pounds of cocaine — worth about $16 million wholesale.

The cocaine was stuffed in plastic bags, wrapped with paper, coated with fiberglass made to a hardened finish, with the outer layer colored and textured to "the identical appearance of a legitimate yam," the DEA said.

"The workmanship of each individual yam was incredible," said William Yout, special agent for the Drug Enforcement Administration. "They were almost identical to the real yams. You could not tell them apart without a probe. It was artistic."

In the past, cocaine has been found inside tropical fish aquariums, in cans of fruit cocktail, in Mercedes Benz turbines and in watermelons, but the yams represented a level of sophistication never before seen by drug agents.

"It was a unique, innovative method," Yout said.

"They are becoming much more sophisticated," Harry W. Carnes, district commander of Customs, said of drug smugglers.

Federal agents wearing swim suits and cut-off T-shirts worked in sweltering heat in the warehouse Monday inspecting about 40,000 yams for cocaine. The warehouse was wall-to-wall yams, and each one had to be checked because of the fake yams looked and felt so much like real yams.

The yams arrived at the Port of Miami June 3 aboard the Colombian freighter Ciudad de Papayan, and during a routine inspection a Customs officer discovered the cocaine.

The yams were consigned to J.C. Imports of Miami. Agents staked out the warehouse where the yams were delivered and discovered that J.C. Imports was owned or managed by Jaime Contreras, 56, a Colombian who lives in Miami.

"Contreras is under arrest and other arrests are expected to follow," Yout said.

Water Use Cut In 6 Counties

BROOKSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Residents in a six-county area around Tampa Bay are restricted to just six hours of lawn watering a week under new mandatory restrictions set by the governing board of the Southwest Florida Water Management District.

The board tightened the faucets on water use Monday as drought conditions continue unabated and water levels continue to drop.

The new restrictions were effective immediately in Pasco, Pinellas, Hillsborough, Manatee, Sarasota and Charlotte counties.

Residents living at even numbered addresses will be allowed to water their lawns only on Monday and Friday from 4 a.m. to 7 a.m.

Residents with odd numbered addresses can water lawns on Tuesday and Friday, also between 4 a.m. and 7 a.m.

No lawn watering will be permitted on Wednesday, Saturday or Sunday.

Penalties for violation are set by the individual counties and communities affected, and Tampa has the strictest penalty. No warning citations are given and a first-time offender faces a fine of up to $500.

Girl, 16, Abducted And Raped; Two Charged

Two Sanford men were being in the Seminole County jail held without bond today, both charged with kidnapping and one charged with sexual battery in the abduction/rape of a 16-year-old girl.

The girl reported to Sanford police that the men forced her into a car as she stood on 13th Street at Olive Avenue in Sanford at about 12:30 a.m. Saturday.

One man got out of the vehicle after assisting in the abduction and was not present when the other man drove to an area behind 1015 Holly Ave., Sanford, where he raped the girl, a Sanford police report said.

Police detective Sgt. William Hasson said the man held the woman by the head and throat while he assaulted her. Following the attack he let her out of the car and she began walking away, saying she would call police. He forced her back in the car and drove her to 18th Street and Southwest Road where he released her, but told her he would kill her if she reported the rape, Hasson said.

The girl reported the attack and was examined at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. The victim said the man displayed no weapon during the abduction and assault, but her eye was injured when the rapist pushed his finger in it, Hasson said.

Hasson said this case is a duplicate of a February attack on another woman. He said he will ask the state attorney to review the evidence he turned over to prosecutors in that case, which, Hasson said, links the same two men to that attack.

Danny Lee Bellamy, 27, of 1800 Mulberry Ave., was charged with kidnapping and sexual battery Saturday. Carry Levi Burch, 28, who lives in his car in Sanford, was charged with kidnapping. —Susan Loden

Slither Or Crawl, These Are Florida's Creatures To Avoid

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Florida is a great place for outdoor fun — camping, swimming, fishing, hunting, hiking, picnicking and gardening. With summer vacations those heading for the woods, lakes or streams need to be aware of some of the dangerous snakes and insects that may be lurking there ready to spoil their fun.

But you don't have to be roughing it to encounter one of these villains, they are also found around yards, houses, and sheds. So everyone needs to be informed.

Dr. H. Garrett Dotson, general surgeon at Central Florida Regional Hospital, wants area residents to know how to avoid getting bit, how to identify species which can not only inflict a painful bite or sting, but in some cases can be deadly, and if bitten what to do.

He has teamed up with Andy Snider, head reptile keeper at the Central Florida Zoo, to take the word to school children in Seminole and Volusia county.

Dotson, who does not claim to be a snake expert, became interested in snakes when he was in surgical training in Louisiana and treated a large number of snakebite victims.

He estimates there are 6,000 to 7,000 poisonous snakebites each year in this country, but since doctors are not required to report them there is no way of knowing for sure. Florida is one of the three leading states for snakebites.

The types of venomous snakes indigenous to this part of the state include the diamondback rattlesnake, the dusky pygmy rattlesnake, the coral snake and the water (cottonmouth) moccasin. In northern Florida the copperhead and two other varieties of rattlesnakes are also common.

The most common snakebite seen here, Dotson said, is that of the pygmy rattler. It is plentiful, has a nasty disposition, is small and is often not seen before it strikes. It hides in shrubbery and gardens and many people are bitten while clearing out weeds in the garden, he said.

Its bite is less severe and doesn't usually require hospitalization, except in the case of small children, Dotson said. Second most common is the bite of the water moccasin, which is a particularly aggressive. It is found around all kinds of freshwater bodies.

Third in the number of snakebites is that of the coral snake, which though not as common is considered highly dangerous. Its venom strikes the nervous system and causes paralysis. It is small and brightly colored with red, yellow, and black bands. It does not have hollow fangs like the other poisonous snakes, but injects its venom by chewing and mixing it with saliva.

By its coloring the coral snake is often mistaken for the scarlet king, a harmless snake with red and black bands. "Kids are often bitten when they try to capture it," Dotson said. Coral snakes like to hide in dark damp places such as under leaves in the garden.

The largest and most frightening in appearance is the Eastern diamondback, which is usually found in less populated wooded areas and sometimes makes its den in gopher holes.

If you see a snake with markings like this, stay away. It's a diamondback rattler and very poisonous.

Most victims of coral snake, cottonmouth, or rattlesnake bites are admitted to the hospital and treated with anti-venom, Dotson said. The heart, lung, kidneys and blood are affected as well as the local damage around the wound.

Adults can handle the venom better than children, who have less body volume to deal with it. The majority of deaths are in the 15-20 year age group where the patient received inadequate treatment or refused treatment for religious reasons.

In most cases where proper medical treatment is sought and received it is unlikely death will occur, Dotson said. Tissue loss can occur as a result of the bite and in some cases it is necessary to amputate part of the extremity.

"Many times people are bitten because they are bothering the snake or trying to capture it. If they would leave them alone it would drastically reduce the number of bites," Dotson said. "It is true particularly of young and adolescent boys."

Hunters and fishermen are particularly vulnerable to snakebites so they should be careful where they are walking and hunters should wear thick snakeproof boots when in rattlesnake country.

The old standby first aid treatment for snakebite — making slashes on the fang marks and applying suction to remove the venom and putting on a tourniquet — is considered obsolete, Dotson said. Most doctors recommend coming to a hospital emergency room as soon as possible. If it appears it will be more than two hours before the victim can get to the hospital, then it is necessary to resort to the old-fashioned treatment, he said.

It is helpful to be able to identify the snake either by description or bringing in the snake — preferably dead. Dr. Dotson emphasized. He said he has known cases where the snake was brought in alive and got loose causing havoc in the emergency room.

The victim should remain calm and avoid moving the part of the body where he or she was bitten. Ice should not be applied to the wound, he said.

If a person is going into an isolated area, a snakebite kit containing a suction device, a razor, and a tourniquet should be taken along.

Kits which contain anti-venom are highly dangerous, Dotson pointed out. That is because serious allergies can result in reaction or death. They should only be given when necessary in a hospital under controlled conditions, where treatment is readily available.

Poisonous insects can also cause problems, particularly to those with allergies. The most common are the hymenoptera or membrated winged type such as bees, wasps, yellow-jackets, and hornets. They inject a venom when they sting. The honey bee leaves its barbed stinger in place and it should be removed by scraping it out with a fingernail or sharp flat object. By grabbing it and pulling it out more venom is released.

Fire ant bites are painful and inject venom with a stinger. They bite while stinging. Bites should be treated by cleaning with soap, water and a local anesthetic. Some people are allergic to insect stings and develop reactions from hives to shortness of breath, shock and even death, Dotson said.

If these symptoms occur or if redness spreads greater than 2 inches in diameter around the sting, the victim should see a physician immediately.

Large flies such as horse flies and deer flies are aggressive and cause painful stings, which can easily develop secondary infection because the insects often are around unsanitary conditions.

Insects such as yellow-jackets and hornets can attack in swarms and sometimes result in death, such as was the case of a small boy in Winter Park last year.

These insects are attracted to bright clothing, sweet drinks and picnic areas. Because more people go barefoot in the summer they are apt to get stung in the foot.

The two types of poisonous spider found here are the brown recluse and the black widow. They are between one-half and three-fourth inch in length. The brown recluse has a dark violin-shaped mark on its back near its head and its bite often results in a painful ulceration and loss of tissue. The black widow has an hour glass shaped mark on its abdomen. It injects a venom that has been known to cause death due mainly to allergic reaction. Anti-venom is used to treat severe cases.

The brown recluse is found in closets where clothes are stored, in woodsheds and dark secluded areas. People are sometimes bitten when they put on clothes from their closets or at night in their beds.

The black widow is also found in dark secluded areas.

Scorpions often found in homes here are miniature versions of the scorpions found in the southwest and their bites are painful, but aren't deadly.

Court Ruling Clears Way For Florida-Georgia Bank Merger

MIAMI (UPI) — The biggest bank merger in the South could be completed within a month thanks to a Supreme Court decision allowing states to keep out banking giants from outside their region, the chairman of Sun Banks of Florida said.

Sun Chairman Joel Wells said Monday the merger of his bank and Trust Co. of Georgia probably would occur in early July.

The Supreme Court upheld interstate bank zones Monday, lifting a cloud over the $15 billion merger by keeping out giants such as Citicorp that are headquartered outside the region.

The banks still must obtain formal permission from the Federal Reserve Board.

Wells, the bank czar who shepherded Florida's interstate banking bill through the Legislature a year ago then announced days later his bank would merge with Trust Co., called the ruling a "historic occurrence in banking."

William Sutton, president of the Florida Bankers Association, said the court decision will encourage more interstate transactions.

One other merger announced in the South is between Landmark First National Bank in Fort Lauderdale and Citizens and Southern in Georgia. C&S announced in February it will pay $500 million for Landmark.

Tom Ogletree, chief financial officer of Landmark, said Monday that his bank expects to complete the deal this fall but has not yet obtained approval from state and federal regulators.

The Sun-Trust merger will not have any noticeable effect on customers, said Wells. The two banks will become subsidiaries of a new holding company with headquarters in Atlanta. The names of the two banks will not change.

Rev. Hegeman To Address Congregation On Father's Day

The Rev. Margaret Hegeman, formerly of Sanford, now resident of Wartburg, Tenn., will be guest speaker for the Father's Day service 11 a.m. Sunday at the Congregational Church, 2401 Park, Sanford.

Topic of her speech will be "Three fathers and the Father."

Ms. Hegeman graduated from Seminole High School in 1974 and received her bachelor's degree in religion from Florida State University in 1978. In 1982 she was awarded her master's degree of divinity from Columbia Theological Seminary of Decatur, Ga. Subsequently she was ordained at the Presbyterian Church of Wartburg.

Ms. Hegeman is the daughter of Marlon and Albert Hegemon of Sanford. The public is welcome to attend.

Sanford Teen Jailed In Sexual Assaults On Girls, 7 And 10

A 19-year-old Sanford man was being held without bond today charged with two counts of sexual battery in connection with alleged assaults on two Sanford girls.

Both girls were interviewed by Seminole County sheriff's investigator Greg Futch with state Health and Rehabilitation Services counselors present on May 11 and 24.

One of the girls, age 7, told Futch the suspect attempted to have intercourse with her at her home when they were alone together on an unspecified day between Jan. 29 and Feb. 15. The girl said the act wasn't completed, but she felt pain during the attempt, a sheriff's report said.

The 10-year-old girl told Futch the man had intercourse with her on three occasions in September, October and December of 1983 at his home. She said on one occasion he hit her with a belt to force her to submit, the report said.

Robert Lewis Lee, of 2700 Midway St., was arrested at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department at 2:10 p.m. Monday.

CORRECTION

In Sunday's Evening Herald report of the June 4 abduction at gunpoint of a 20-year-old woman from a Sanford church, the St. James Church, 819 Cypress Ave., was incorrectly listed as the site of the incident.

The incident, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report, occurred at St. James Church, Church Street, Sanford. A witness said the woman was abducted from a St. James House of Prayer on Church Street in Midway. The Herald regrets the error.

FINGERNAIL THIEF

A 19-year-old employee of Lake Mary High School was arrested Friday and charged with shoplifting.

According to a police report, the woman walked into an Eckerd's drug store on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood, put a package of "Easi-Nails" into her purse and tried to leave the store without paying.

However, a buzzer set off by a magnetized code on the label of the merchandise alerted the store manager who asked the woman to come back inside the store while he called police.

Arrested was Carleen Horne, 19, of 1141 Jackson St., Oviedo. She was released on $100 bond.

FAN MAN

An Oviedo man was arrested Friday and charged with retail theft after he allegedly tried to walk out of a Zayres store with three packages of underwear, a brown hat, and a 26-inch room fan.

According to a police report, store security guards saw the man walk into the store, located at 200 Fern Park Blvd., Fern Park, pick out three packages of underwear valued at $2.97 each, a brown hat priced at $1.99 and a $27 fan which he tried to conceal on his person.

A security guard stopped the man as he attempted to leave.

Arrested was Robert Williams Jr., 33, of state Road 419, Oviedo. He was released Friday on $100 bond.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

A partially clad 15-year-old Casselberry girl found in the woods near Fox Hollow at Eagle Circle, Casselberry, told a sheriff's deputy that a man had pulled her boyfriend off of her while they were having intercourse and tried to have sex with her. The girl said the suspect was unable to complete the assault and he fled.

The deputy reported the girl appeared to be intoxicated and her blouse was partially unbuttoned and her pants were pulled down. He found her in the woods after seeing two suspicious youths, who were later identified as the girl's boyfriend and a companion, in the area. The deputy heard the girl crying and found her leaning against a wall, a sheriff's report said.

Her 14-year-old Casselberry boyfriend and the other 15-year-old boy returned to the scene of the alleged attack when the girl was being questioned, the report said.

THREATENED FAMILY

A 37-year-old Sanford man who allegedly threatened members of his family, including his children, with a handgun and butcher knife has been charged with aggravated assault and disorderly intoxication.

The man was arrested about 5 p.m. Friday following a disturbance at his home where he allegedly made the threats, a Sanford police report said.

Charged was Johnnie Lee Rollins, of 23 Castle Brewer Court. He was released without posting bond and is scheduled to appear in court June 24.

TOO YOUNG

An 18-year-old Longwood man and a female juvenile have been charged with possession of alcohol by persons under 19 years of age and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Their van was stopped by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy looking for a hit-and-run driver on state Road 427 in Lake Mary at about 2:50 p.m. Saturday, a sheriff's report said.

Nine cans of beer were found on the floor of the vehicle and a marijuana smoking device was also found, the report said.

The girl was turned over to juvenile authorities. Gregory Thomas Lochner, of 124 Presaw Ave., was booked into the Seminole County jail and released without posting bond. He is scheduled to appear in court June 19.

SPOUSE ABUSE

Sanford police charged a 27-year-old Sanford man with spouse abuse battery after they arrived at his home and found him holding his wife by her arm.

Doris Lawrence, of 1102 Florida Ave., Sanford, had a cut jaw and a bloody lip, a police report said.

Mathew Lawrence, 27, of the above address, was arrested at 12:48 a.m. Saturday. He was released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court June 19.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Kent L. Mason, 24, of 425 Magnolia St., Longwood, was arrested at 9:07 a.m. Saturday on state Road 434, Oviedo, after he almost lost control of his speeding vehicle. He was also charged with reckless driving.

—Roger B. Everett, 37, of 721 Benedict Way, Casselberry, at 2:25 a.m. Sunday after his car was clocked traveling 80 mph in a 50 mph zone on state Road 436, Casselberry.

—Thomas King Jr., 54, of Cocoa, at 3:30 a.m. Saturday on state Road 48 at Mellonville Avenue, Sanford, after his car crossed the centerline three times.

—Daniel Roman, 49, of Orlando, at 8:50 p.m. Friday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.

—Victor Brian Coward, 23, of Osteen, at 7:22 p.m. Friday after his pickup truck was involved in an accident on Silver Lake Drive, Sanford.

—Thomas Raymond Simpson, 41, of Winter Garden, at 12:10 a.m. Saturday after other motorists alerted a sheriff's deputy to a possible drunk driver on Interstate 4, Longwood.

—James Larry Clark, 41, of Orlando, at 11:30 a.m. Saturday after his car was involved in an accident on Interstate 4.

—William Walter Truxbal, 28, of 1000 Harbour Drive, Longwood, at 12:41 a.m. Sunday on Interstate 4 after his car failed to maintain a single lane and ran into the rear of a westbound van.

—Walter Lee Tyler, 25, of 18 Apollo Drive, Apopka, at 6:29 a.m. Saturday after he was found passed out in his car with the engine running in a restaurant parking lot at state Road 434 and Interstate 4. He was also charged for driving without a license.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Rafael Davila, 41, of 111 Pynchley Court, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that his store, La Bodega, at 9J Forest City Circle, Forest City, was burglarized Saturday or Sunday. Ham, beer, cigarettes, cheese and other items with a combined value of about $700 were stolen.

A home computer and related gear with a total value of about $600 was stolen from the home of Nora Brisson, 38, of 2400 Oxford Road #4A, Fern Park, between Friday and Sunday. Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect.

Richard William Kirby, 27, of 295 Wymore Road #103, Altamonte Springs, told sheriff's deputies he struggled with a burglar who entered his home through a window at about 5 p.m. Sunday. The burglar told Kirby, "Don't play no Kojak," a sheriff's report said, and the man fled with a box containing $2,400 worth of jewelry taken from a bedroom. A Longwood police dog was called in to track the suspect, but wasn't successful.

Veronica Maister, 35, of 3513 Seminole St., Apopka, reported to deputies that $1,940 worth of items including jewelry, tapes, a video recorder and a television were stolen from her home on Saturday or Sunday.

Overreaction On Ashtrays

It is an outrage that the Navy paid $900 apiece for two ashtrays from Grumman Aerospace Corp., in 1981.

And it is also an outrage that three Navy officers lost their jobs because of anger and frustration at the highest level in the Defense Department over the ashtray matter.

First, the ashtrays.
They were for E-2C electronic surveillance planes manufactured by Grumman, of Long Island, N.Y., and stationed at Miramar Naval Air Station in San Diego. Seven ashtrays were ordered by supply officers between 1981 and last April, when a spare parts purchasing agreement with Grumman was canceled. The average price per ashtray was $659.

Grumman blames the Navy for buying custom-made parts in tiny batches. Rep. Jim Bates, D-Calif., says the ashtrays could have been fabricated by the navy itself at far less cost.

Bates says the matter was brought to his attention by two women employed at Miramar who have since been harassed by Navy higher-ups for leaking the story.

Those two women should not only be protected from harassment, they should be honored for their courageous defense of sanity in the military budget. The Navy personnel who authorized the purchase of these ashtrays at this price were doing no service to their country or to the Navy. They were undermining public support for national defense.

But the problem did not originate with the men who signed the purchase orders. The Navy's own contract supervisors had warned that the purchasing agreement with Grumman could lead to overpricing, because it allowed the air station to buy small orders by phone without any bidding process. The problem lies in the system of cost-plus procurement which did not originate at Miramar but is wide-spread throughout the Defense Department.

And it is unfair and bad policy to make three top Miramar officers, with fine service records, serve as scapegoats for the Navy's embarrassment.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger announced the disciplinary action himself at a news conference in Washington. Action was taken just as a Navy investigation of the matter got started. It was reported that Navy Secretary John Lehman suggested the action. Both men overreacted. We are disappointed in them. They should reconsider and reverse the action, if they can bring themselves to do it.

Weinberger is smarting from the news stories about waste in the Pentagon and from the budget votes in Congress to freeze defense spending and end the military buildup. But his anger and frustration do not justify hasty actions against three career officers. Such actions do lasting damage to the morale of the Navy's officer corps. The system must never hold individuals responsible for its own failures.

It is true that Navy tradition holds a skipper responsible for everything that happens on his watch. But holding individual commanding officers responsible for something as deep-seated, widespread and long-lasting as waste in military procurement is going too far.

These three officers must not be sacrificed on the altar of Pentagon politics.

What's Changed Jordan's King Hussein?

Over the years — more than 30 of them now — Jordan's King Hussein has acquired a reputation as one of the more astute operators in the Mideast's convoluted politics.

It is an evaluation with which his immediate neighbors, who believe they have reason to know him best, are not in complete accord.

In Jerusalem, in fact, Hussein is something of a joke.
It is little things, such as the nightly news on Jordanian television, which is received clearly in much of Israel as Israeli television is in Jordan. The opener, come massacres in Beirut or typhoons in Bangladesh, is invariably: "Today his majesty, King Hussein..." followed by some inconsequential highlight from the royal day.

To Israelis, with a free-swinging press that draws blood as readily as conclusions, the Jordanian version of what is news can be a laugh-in.

There are also big things that are not so amusing.

Hussein is the Arab with whom Israeli governments have most wanted to talk, the one with whom they have the most to talk about. Anwar Sadat's descent on Jerusalem in 1977 was a nice surprise, but the Sinai was always a side issue. It is Jordan that is the key to what really matters, the West Bank.

There has been plenty of unofficial contact, but Hussein has repeatedly dodged Israeli overtures to go public. Those who run Israel's affairs, especially from Likud's ranks, have by now largely written him off as a serious negotiating partner.

Viewed from Jerusalem, Hussein is less a leader than a follower of shifting Arab mood, a professional survivor who puts self-interest first. He is seen not as a solution to the Palestinian problem — a role Washington keeps trying to cast him in — but as a part of it.

So who do we have now turning up all over the place talking peace — just maybe, possibly, don't hold your breath, but... — in the Mideast?

Hussein of Jordan.
Most recently he has been touching the appropriate bases in Washington. Earlier he was patching up relations with Egypt, with which he had been the first of the Arab brotherhood to sever relations as punishment for the Sinai settlement. Before that he was huddling with Yasir Arafat, for whom he now says he also speaks, and hosting meetings of the Palestine

Liberation Organization, remnants of the same PLO he had driven from Jordan in two mini-wars in the early '70s.

Washington is reacting warily — and Hussein negatively so far — to hustling Hussein. Part of the problem is some of his package plan, which would lead to negotiations with the PLO and invite the Soviets into the Mideast settlement process.

Part of it may be a good memory. This is the same Hussein, after all, who showed initial interest in the 1982 Reagan plan for a Jordan-West Bank confederation and then abruptly backed off, the same Hussein who sat out Camp David despite all Jimmy Carter's charm and arm-twisting.

That track record is precisely what makes Hussein's burst of activity so interesting. Why now? What is it that this self-interested survivor perceives in the present Arab mood and in the PLO's post-Lebanon disarray that encourages him to take the lead after hanging back for so long?

It's worth encouraging him to keep moving and talking if only to find out.

There's got to be more to it than a topper for the 10 o'clock news from Amman.

Country Awash In Porn

Appointment by the U.S. Attorney General of a commission to study pornography is good news indeed. The country is awash in porn. It represents the most serious threat to moral values. Indeed there's a powerful case to be made for Congress passing a law that forbids interstate commerce in pornographic materials.

Even the suggestion of this causes the pornographers and their friends to scream in indignation. They say that such a law would violate the First Amendment to the Constitution, which says that Congress may not abridge freedom of speech or the press. Freedom of speech is not absolute, however. It's a settled principal of the law that no one may shout "fire" in a crowded theater.

Before the federal commission gets around to proposing a legal remedy, however, it will have to review and report to the government and the public on the nature of the porn problem. Harper's magazine said last November that the production and distribution of pornography is now a $7 billion a year industry.

One needs to go no farther than the nearest convenience store to find numerous examples of printed pornography of the worst sort.

Contrary to what some "civil liberties" apologists for pornography say, the production and distribution of pornography isn't a victimless crime. Mayor William H. Hudnut III of Indianapolis has cited public hearings "in which testimony was given by former models who were coerced to perform in pornographic productions." The Rev. Bruce Rittner, who has gained a national reputation for rescuing sexually abused children in New York City, has repeatedly stressed that children are exploited by pornographers and forced into virtual slavery.

The crime bosses who control the porn traffic have been able to spread their filth across the nation because of rulings by the Warren Court in the 1950s. The time may be propitious for new Supreme Court rulings to strike down this traffic.

The three branches of U.S. government should bear in mind Mayor Hudnut's statement that the framers of the Constitution "did not intend the First Amendment to be a shield for dehumanizing pornography."

IRS Declares War On Tax Cheaters

By Jack Anderson
and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The main goal of President Reagan's tax-reform plan is to bring the rates down low enough to lure individuals and corporations out of their legal tax shelters — and away from the illegal "underground economy" of unreported transactions.

The president was depressingly accurate when he described the widespread feeling among Americans that the existing loophole-riddled system is unfair and favors the rich and the crafty. The Internal Revenue Service reached this conclusion before the president.

In an unpublished "strategic plan" prepared last year, the IRS devotes an entire chapter to the serious problems of "voluntary compliance" in recent years. Our associate Donald Goldberg obtained a copy of the document, and it shows clearly what's worrying the IRS — whose people usually give ulcers, not get them.

JEFFREY HART

Long Road For Dems

Moderate Democrats have formed a group called the Democratic Leadership Council in an attempt to move the party back into the American political mainstream, and party chairman Paul Kirk has been trying to work in the same direction. All of this is certainly to be applauded, since at some point the Democratic Party will form a national administration — presumably, at least — and it would be good for the country if the party were in a position to provide effective leadership.

But these moderate Democrats have a long way to go. In an effort to discover just why voters are leaving the Democratic Party, Michigan Democrats retained the services of pollster Stanley Greenberg and his Analysis Group organization. Mr. Greenberg presented his findings last month to a conference of Democratic state chairmen in Chicago. He presented strong evidence that racial antagonism and resentments had become pivotal and were driving traditional white Democratic groups out of the party.

Greenberg's approach was to assemble eight groups of 10 defecting Democrats and proceed to interview them in depth about their reasons for leaving the traditional Democratic allegiance behind. Early in the interviewing process, he said, they gave a variety of the usual answers: high rates on inflation under Democratic administrations, economic mismanagement, high taxation. These reasons, according to Greenberg, may well have played a part; but in each of the eight groups the discussion sooner or later turned to racial matters. "It would start," Greenberg told the Democratic officials, "with one person raising the subject, almost apologetically. Then it just opened up. People would start telling stories of how opportunities in their lives had been blocked by special privileges given blacks — promotions they didn't get, small business loans they didn't qualify for. And, once they started, you could hardly stop them."

Mr. Greenberg summed up his presentation: "Democratic defectors have deeply felt racial sentiments that are formative for their views of government and the Democratic Party."

About 60 percent of the Democrats in the House of Representatives are purist liberals. Rep. Jim Jones, who hopes to succeed Tip O'Neill as speaker, has accordingly been scurrying leftward to reassure these liberals.

Paul Kirk and other Democratic leaders know where their problems are, but identifying the problems is one thing, solving them another. You can't just wish the New Deal coalition back into being after 20 years of flagitious ignoring of the majority.

Print Reads Faster

By Gino Del Guercio
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — Efforts to computerize more and more kinds of information may be short-circuited by people's inability to read from computer screens as quickly as they can read a printed page.

Researchers at the University of Rhode Island have found that volunteers scored 7 percent lower on reading comprehension tests that were presented on computer screens as opposed to printed tests.

The study, published in the Journal of Reading, found those who took the test understood both versions about as well, but could not finish the computerized version, which resulted in lower scores.

Frank H. Heppner, a professor of zoology, said he undertook the study because he was concerned that computerizing written information may dramatically reduce the amounts of information people can read.

"What we're trying to say is that before the nation or the science community or whoever throws out the printed page, they ought to take a look at this question: 'What good is access to a good data base if it takes much longer to read once you've got it?'" said Heppner.

"This is particularly important for people like physicians who have a tremendous reading load," said Heppner, the study's primary author.

Eighty-five faculty, staff and student volunteers from the university took a standardized reading test called the Nelson-Denny reading test. Half the participants were given the printed version and half were asked to take the test on a computer.

The average person scored 7 percent lower on the computerized version. People who were unfamiliar with computers scored an average of 23 percent lower.

All groups that took the test scored lower on the computerized version. However, lower scores for certain groups could not be statistically proven. Those categories were light readers, heavy television viewers, people who did not use video games and people more than 22 years old.

Although a 7 percent difference may not seem like much, Heppner said it is significant for those who read large amounts of information.

informed about the existence of tax abuses (tax shelters and the like), the extent of tax cheating and the difficulty for government to detect and deal with tax abuses," the report explains. "Consequently, taxpayers in general are becoming more inclined to avoid and evade taxes through such means as are available to them."

This has brought a change in the attitude of most Americans toward the government, and particularly the tax system:

"Taxpayers are exhibiting a declining respect for and reliance on 'the law' and government in general. A 'decay in the social contract' is detectable; there is a growing feeling, particularly among middle-income taxpayers, that they are not getting back, from society and government, their money's worth for taxes paid. ... They exhibit a declining willingness to pay the share of governmental expenditures (including expenditures they may strongly disagree with) which government says is theirs to pay."

Indeed, tax reform may prove to be too little and too late to reverse this attitude. A self-employed person may have entered the underground economy — taking fees in cash, or swapping service for service with no money changing hands — because of outrage over high taxes.

But now that they've learned how to cheat, they may decide to keep right on doing so no matter how low the tax rates go. And the recent stories about IRS computer snafus encourage cheaters to believe that they're not likely to get caught.

In 1981, according to the IRS document, the "tax gap" caused by unreported or underreported income was an estimated $55 billion. By 1980, the IRS calculates, the Treasury will lose $98 billion on this untaxed income. The lost revenue must be made up, of course, by other taxpayers.

In hopes of making "substantial inroads against the compliance decline," the IRS proposed these initiatives:

— "The IRS will attempt to enhance the public's awareness of the seriousness of tax cheating and the importance of compliance with the tax system." A task force would be created and perhaps a public-relations firm retained, to drive home to the public the consequences of tax evasion.

— "The IRS will seek additional ways to create and maintain a sense of presence and improve our ability to detect sophisticated non-compliance." A "taxpayer profile" would be drawn up from a variety of sources to identify likely cheaters.

— One initiative "will attempt to establish whether penalties are effective in increasing our ability to reach non-compliant small business taxpayers whose returns are not usually selected for examination."

— Another would try to unmask those who file no returns at all. "This can be accomplished by selecting a random sample from commercial lists of individuals who have high incomes but who are not shown (on IRS files)."

First Federal Wraps Up Perfect 18-0 Year

First Federal used a 16-hit offensive barrage to bury Sunniland, 22-6, Monday and conclude the season with a perfect 18-0 record in Sanford Little National League action at Bay Avenue Field.

Baseball

gins got the rally started with a two-run double and Joe Sykes also added a two-run double.

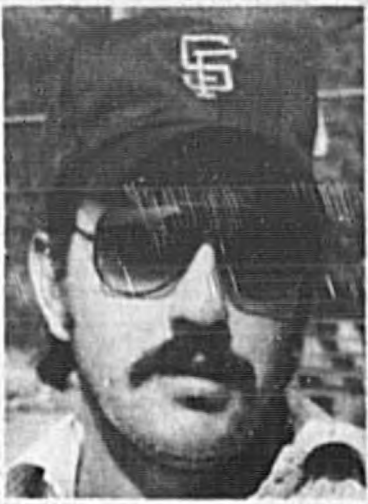

First Federal will go up against Sun Bank in the City Championship Series scheduled to start this Monday. Sun Bank will also try to end the season unbeaten as it goes up against Atlantic Bank in today's regular season finale at Bay Avenue.

First Federal added six more runs in the second with consecutive triples by Shawnie Riggins and Wiggins leading the way and then latched on nine more runs in the third with Mike Dillon's two-run double the big hit.

Robert Redding's double gave Sunniland a short-lived 1-0 lead in the top of the first. First Federal wrapped up the unbeaten season early as it erupted for seven runs in the bottom of the first. Joe Wig-

Wiggins led the 16-hit First Federal attack with a 4 for 4 performance. Dillon and Sykes hammered out three hits each while Riggins contributed two.

Walker Rushes Past Dickerson

Herschel Can't Outrun Detractors Despite 2,129-Yard Total

Football

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — No matter how many records he sets, Herschel Walker realizes he will always have detractors.

"I can't be worried about critics. They'll always be there," said Walker Monday night after breaking Eric Dickerson's professional football single-season rushing record.

"A lot of people were upset because I left school and because I didn't go to the NFL, so they may put an asterisk next to it. But as long as I have God and my wife, everything is fine."

The 1982 Heisman Trophy winner, who left the University of Georgia after his junior year to sign a $3.6 million contract with the New Jersey Generals, gained 162 yards on 28 carries in a 31-24 victory over the Jacksonville Bulls to increase his season total to 2,129 yards.

In the 16-game 1984 NFL season, Dickerson gained 2,105 yards. Two weeks remain in the USFL's 18-game schedule.

It was Walker's 10th consecutive 100-plus yards game and 13th of the year, both pro records.

Dickerson had 12 100-plus games last season, and two weeks ago Walker broke Earl Campbell's record of seven straight. Only Dickerson and O.J. Simpson had previously run for over 2,000 yards in a season.

Walker's two touchdown carries Monday increased his season totals to 20 rushing and 21 overall, both USFL records. Tampa Bay's Gary Anderson set both last year, and Walker shared the latter.

The season total yardage record fell on a 55-yard touchdown run 8:22 into the third quarter on Walker's 25th carry of the game. He took a handoff from quarterback Ron Reeves, broke to his right and cut back to the middle at the line of scrimmage. He broke a tackle, spun off a defender and outspurred the defense to the goal line.

"It was very sweet," he said of giving the Generals a 31-10 lead with the play.

"People said it was a great run, but for me it was just another part of the ballgame. It was a good run, but not my best. If I would have been watching what was going on, it might have been a lot easier."

Having set the record in the 16th game of the season, Walker avoided the issue of needing the

Ball Motor Line Clinches 2nd Half

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Ball Motor Line had more than its share of obstacles on the road to the Sanford Junior League playoffs. After jumping off to an excellent start in the first half, Ball Motor hit a slump late in the half and wound up one game out of first place.

That meant Ball Motor Line would have to win the second half to get into the Junior League City Championship Series. Ball was clearly the top team in the second half but, going into Monday night's game, it still hadn't clinched the title although it was three games ahead of the second place team.

After a long wait, Ball Motor Line clinched the second half title and a berth in the playoffs with a 17-9 rout of second-place Knights of Columbus in the season finale at Chase Park.

Coach Jim Lucas' team, 8-0 in the second half and 14-4 overall, goes up against the winner of the first half in the Junior League series. Kiwanis and Moose, who tied for the first half title, will have a one-game playoff next Wednesday at 6 at Chase Park.

Because of one suspended game and another where Ball Motor was awaiting a ruling whether it would have to forfeit one game, Knights of Columbus was still alive going into Monday night's game. The Knights would have had to win Monday and hope Ball lost the forfeit decision and the completion of the suspended game.

The Knights took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first Monday when Bobby Cofield scored on Ray Williams' groundout and Anton Reid singled and scored on an error.

After being set down in order in the first inning, Ball Motor Line exploded for seven runs on four hits in the top of the second. Kevin Nathan's two-run double and Burnett Washington's RBI single were the key hits.

Lakers Celebrate '85; Await The 'Hex' In '86

BOSTON (UPI) — For the Los Angeles Lakers, this will be remembered as the year they finally broke the spell of the Boston Celtics. But next year another Celtic awaits them, with a hex of his own.

Eight times the Lakers failed to defeat Boston in a title round, until this season's 4-2 victory. But the new champions assume a cursed crown, one which none of the 16 previous NBA kings wore for more than a year.

NBA mythology has it that after center Bill Russell played and coached his 1968-69 Celtics to consecutive titles. He then retired, but, as the fable goes, left a parting spell: that no team should win consecutive championships.

A variety of reasons have caused teams' short reigns; injuries may be Boston's reason. Larry Bird's elbow and Cedric Maxwell's knee were certainly decisive factors for the series ending with Sunday's 111-100 Lakers victory in Game 6.

A year ago, the Celtics were the team who finished a long night of celebrating with a bleary-eyed trip to the White House. This year it was the Lakers who made the trip from Boston Garden to the Rose Garden to receive the congratulations of President Reagan.

"Today you belong to the whole country. You're America's champions," the Chief Executive told them.

"Your entire championship series — down to yesterday's great win — was an inspiration. And all of you showed America what pride, determination and guts can accomplish when they're combined with some of the best talent on the floor."

After the series was lost, only one Celtic claimed that the best team didn't win: the lone voice belonged to team president Red Auerbach.

"I don't think the better team won. We had a bad game, that's all. We didn't shoot," he claimed.

But Boston missed lay-ups, short jumpers, long jumpers and 3-pointers.

"Robert (Parish) missed about three or four layups. It looked like he was playing with gloves on," said Celtics coach K.C. Jones. "It was that kind of day."

The Celtics shooting evaporated with the minutes until their inaccuracy reached 30 percent in the fourth quarter. Shooting only 38.5 percent for the game, the Celtics could not stop the Lakers or Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who at 38 became the oldest MVP of a championship series.

The Lakers center scored 29 points in Game 6, in what he termed "the greatest moment of my life. I feel like I don't have any age at all."

In Game 1 he looked his age. While Boston was racing to a 34-point victory, the 7-foot-2 Jabbar scored only 12 points and secured just 3 rebounds. After six weeks of playing Western Conference teams, the Lakers had to adapt to Boston's physical play.

"We had to get a tough attitude," said Jabbar. "Boston is a talented team — they're tough and smart — and we had to match it. Once we did, we

Baseball

Knights of Columbus battled back to tie it at 7-7 with five runs in the bottom of the second. Dwight Brinson's RBI double and Cofield's run-scoring single led the way.

Nathan came back to rap a two-run triple in the third for a 9-7 Ball Motor Line lead and he smacked a two-run double in the fourth that broke the game wide open. Nathan was 3 for 5 with six RBIs for the game.

After a shaky first two innings, Ball Motor Line pitcher Ronald Cox pitched three-hit ball the rest of the way. Cox struck out eight in the game and walked just one.

Ball Motor Line moved within one win of clinching the title Friday night when it blanked Moose, 12-0. Cox also went the distance in that game, allowing just one hit, striking out eight and walking only two in four innings of work (slaughter rule).

ELKS OUTLASTS ROTARY, 10-6
In Monday night's first game at Chase Park, Elks ended the season on a winning note with a 10-6 victory over Rotary. Elks finished the year at 10-10 while Rotary finished at 1-18.

Willie McCloud, a Sanford Little League legend, made his last regular season appearance in the Sanford leagues and went out in style with three hits, including a pair of doubles and three RBIs. McCloud will play on the Junior League All-Star team which will start practicing as soon as the city series is over.

Von Eric Small, a first-year Junior League player, also rapped out three hits for the Elks. Small was also the winning pitcher as he allowed seven hits, struck out nine and walked five.

Earl Williams had three of the seven hits for Rotary while George Gordon contributed two hits.

Reagan Salutes LA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, the oldest American president, shared a laugh at the White House with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the oldest player in the NBA, who powered the Los Angeles Lakers to the 1985 NBA championship.

Welcoming his hometown team to the presidential mansion Monday — one day after the Lakers ousted the Boston Celtics for the title, the president said: "Kareem says yesterday's victory was just like the Brooklyn Dodgers' breakthrough against the Yankees in the 1955 World Series.

"Well, Kareem, I remember that series, so I think you may be — as they sometimes say of me — showing your experience. But yesterday all you showed is why you've been voted the Most Valuable Player of the series.

"As so many said, you are 38 but you played like you were 25."

Reagan, 74, was flanked by the entire Lakers team in the Rose Garden.

Rogers, Cook, Hawthorne Star In Smyrna Late Show

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — After the loyal fans formed long lines to buy admission tickets while standing in hard driving rain, the track was dried off, and the wet patrons were in for the best show so far this season, even if it started one hour and 20 minutes late.

Once again, David Rogers scored a win in the late model main, but he really had to work for it, even though the well publicized challenge by Daniel Keene and Gary Balough never materialized because Keene crashed the previous week and Balough was in bed with pneumonia.

After winning the fast heat, Jack Cook, who has been competing on the ALL PRO circuit, took over first place from early feature race leader Lee Faulk. Rogers then moved up to challenge Cook, with the flying pair making contact and spinning in a dense cloud of tire smoke on lap 7.

As they both had to restart last, Faulk, driving Greg Fromm's car, was back in the lead and remained on the point for the next seven laps, with Rogers wrestling the lead away from him on lap 14. Faulk held on for second, with LeRoy Porter, Joe Middleton and Harold "Fat Rat" Johnson rounding out the top five.

Doing an excellent job driving the Dynamic Paving machine out of Lake Helen, Mark Sillis held off the strong challenge of previous week's winner Ben Booth to win the 20-lap thundercar feature. Ricky Wood was third, followed by John Cochran and Jeff Biehr of Deltona.

Once again, it was Mustang versus Cougar, as street stockers Casey Hawthorne and Bill Kinley put on another crowd-pleasing duel. Hawthorne barely came out on top one more time, with Junior Simmons, Doug Howard and Kinley's son Marc finishing third to fifth.

Four-cylinder season-long point chase leader Bobby Sears saw his string of eight feature wins in a row broken by a faulty oil pump. So young Jerry Symons took the win, beating Billy Hooven, Curtis Miller, Bill Martin, and Jeff Beau of Deland.

Don Roberts won the roadrunner feature, with points leader John Hack finishing second ahead of Mike Kubanek, Steve Mundet and Chris Blehr, the only lady competing in the speedway's fastest growing division.

The Battling Bell Brothers, with Brian driving and Neil giving directions, won The Great

Auto Racing

Auto Racing

American Sack Race over another pair of brothers, as bikers Tom and Jack Main of Deltona finished strong second.

The demolition derby winner was Paul Layton of Orlando. As for "Stormin'" Norm Selvidge, the speedway's winningest demolition expert, he was doing great (ill someone backed over his trunk and pinned him down. Finishing second was Al Walker.

This coming Saturday night, the four cylinders will go at it four-wide in the turns for their first 25-lap Championship of the season.

It wasn't champagne but the water had to taste just as good to Burnett Washington. Washington and his Ball Motor Line teammates finally clinched the second-half title in the Sanford Junior League and earned a spot in the City Series. Ball Motor Line has been a cellar dweller the past few years before putting it together this year.

Shirley Checks Toronto

United Press International Bob Shirley had disappeared so completely, you'd have sworn he'd become vice president.

The Yankee left-hander, who earlier this season went nearly a month without appearing in a game, emerged from obscurity — and perhaps from manager Billy Martin's doghouse — Monday night by responding superbly to an important assignment.

Making his first start since last September, Shirley helped the Yankees close ground on division-leading Toronto by combining on a nine-hitter with two relievers to spark New York to a 4-2 victory.

"When I came back, they told me he was pitching all together different than before," said Martin. "I've seen that in his last three outings. Before he used to try and overpower people, and he'd get the ball up. Now he's throwing offspeed pitches and breaking balls. He threw good, exceptionally good."

Shirley, 1-1, allowed six hits over 6 1/3 innings to record his first victory since Sept. 27, 1984, when he started against and beat the Detroit Tigers.

The left-hander walked one and struck out two before being relieved by Brian Fisher, who pitched 1 1/3 innings. Dave Righetti went the final 1 1/3 innings for his 11th save.

"I'm not a power pitcher," said Shirley, who got his chance to start after Joe Cawley sprained his back last week. "I just try to get them on grounders. I've changed my philosophy since Billy was over here two years ago. After nine years, I realized that I'm not a power pitcher. Tonight's a perfect example of how I've been working the last couple of years. Location is an asset. Hopefully I'll be able to keep my control down the line."

The Yankees took a 1-0 lead in the first inning off Doyle Alexander, 7-3. Rickey Henderson led off with a single and stole second. With one out, Dave Winfield singled Henderson to third and Henderson scored the first of two RBI singles by Don Baylor.

In other games, Boston overtook Milwaukee 4-2. Minnesota topped Cleveland 6-4. California routed Texas 8-1. Detroit outlasted Baltimore 8-7 in 11 innings. Chicago hammered Seattle 9-4, and Oakland nipped Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings.

In the National League, it was Chicago 5, Montreal 4; Philadelphia 6, New York 4; St. Louis 6, Pittsburgh 1; Los Angeles 7, Cincinnati 4; Atlanta 7, San Francisco 0; and San Diego 9, Houston 1.

Red Sox 4, Brewers 2
At Boston, Jim Rice greeted reliever Rollie Fingers with a three-run home run in the ninth inning, helping the Red Sox extend their winning streak to eight games. Ted Higuera, 4-4, had retired 18 of 19 until running into trouble in the ninth.

Twins 6, Indians 4
At Cleveland, Tom Brunansky's three-run homer capped a five-run second inning that led the Twins. Cleveland has lost 12 of its last 16 games. Frank Viola, 7-5, allowed seven hits, struck out three and gave up four runs over 7 1/3 innings for the victory. Ron Davis pitched his sixth save.

Angels 8, Rangers 1
At California, rookie right-hander Kirk McCaskill picked up his first major-league victory and Mike Brown drove in three runs, leading the Angels. McCaskill, 1-4, went the distance, allowing one run on seven hits and striking out seven. Mike Mason, 4-6, took the loss.

Tigers 8, Orioles 7
At Detroit, Barbaro Garbey tied the score with a home run and Lance Parrish singled home Lou Whitaker in the bottom of the 11th, leading the Tigers.

After Baltimore took a 7-6 lead in the top of the 11th on Lee Lacy's second home run of the game, Garbey re-tied it with a shot off Sammy Stewart, 2-2.

White Sox 9, Mariners 4
At Seattle, Tom Paciorek, Greg Walker and Rudy Law stroked bases-loaded singles to lead the White Sox. Floyd Bannister, 5-4, benefitted from an early 4-0 lead to post the victory. Bob James worked the final two innings to pick up his 13th save. Matt Young, 4-8, took the loss.

A's 2, Royals 1
At Oakland, Mike Heath raced home from third on an error by second baseman Frank White in the 10th, lifting the A's. Jay Howell, 5-3, posted the victory in relief. Dan Quisenberry, 3-4, took the loss.

Smith Saves Cubs; Lead Grows

United Press International
At 6-foot-6 and 225 pounds, Lee Smith is probably the biggest short man in the major leagues. After notching his 76th save over slightly more than two years Monday night, his reputation as one of the best is almost as large.

The hard-throwing right-hander worked the final two innings, allowing a harmless home run to earn his 14th save of the season, and his teammates jumped on one of his chief relief rivals to rally the Chicago Cubs past the Montreal Expos 5-4. The win upped the Cubs' lead over the Mets to 2 1/2 games.

"Smithy did a good job for us tonight," Chicago skipper Jim Frey said of his imposing reliever, who last year posted an ERA of 0.75 against Montreal. "He's made a big difference on this team this year. Any club will win as long as it has a good short man like Smith."

Padres 9, Astros 1
At Houston, LaMarr Hoyt scattered 11 hits and Tony Gwynn and Terry Kennedy each drove in two runs in a five-run second inning to help ignite San Diego. Hoyt, 7-4, walked one and struck out two in notching his fifth complete game of the season. Bob Knepper, 6-2, was the loser.

N.L. Baseball

Dodgers 7, Reds 4
At Cincinnati, Greg Brock's two-run homer, the third of the game for Los Angeles, climaxed a five-run fifth inning and keyed the come-from-behind triumph. Rick Honeycutt, 4-5, got the victory and Ken Howell registered his sixth save. John Stuper, 5-5, took the loss.

Phillies 6, Mets 4
At Philadelphia, Glenn Wilson laced a triple and a double and drove in three runs to back John Denny and pace the Phillies. Denny, 3-5, allowed one run on seven hits through eight innings. Don Carman hurled the ninth. A wild Sid Fernandez aid to 1-3.

Braves 7, Giants 0
At Atlanta, Larry Owen doubled in two runs to highlight a five-run first inning and Zane Smith tossed, a seven-hitter for his first major league shutout. Smith, 3-4, struck out six and walked three. Jim Gott, 3-3, absorbed the defeat.

Zane Smith ...complete game

Cardinals 6, Pirates 1
At Pittsburgh, Jack Clark smashed his 12th home run of the season and pitcher Danny Cox added a two-run single to lead the Cardinals. Cox, 7-2, yielded only four hits. Rick Rhoden, 4-6, was the victim of Pittsburgh's seventh straight defeat.

Prince, 68, Succumbs To Cancer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Colorful Pittsburgh Pirates broadcaster Bob Prince, who this season returned to the team's radio booth 10 years after he was fired, has died following a short battle with cancer. He was 68.

Prince, who coined such colorful baseball expressions as "bug on the rug," "you can kiss it goodbye" and "we had them all the way" had been hospitalized since he contracted pneumonia in mid-May. Prince slipped into a coma at Presbyterian-University Hospital early Monday, where he died at 5:35 p.m. EDT.

Nicknamed "The Gunner" for his ability to rapidly describe plays as they occurred, Prince had undergone surgery for removal of cancerous tumors under his tongue earlier this spring.

Prince's broadcasting career spanned five decades, but he was fired — amid public protests and controversy — by KDKA following the 1975 season. The radio station, flagship of the Pirates' broadcast network, rehired him this spring to assist regular broadcasters Lanny Frattare and Jim Rooker.

Prince, who lived in suburban Upper St. Clair, got to broadcast only three games — May 3, 4 and 5 — before he contracted pneumonia.

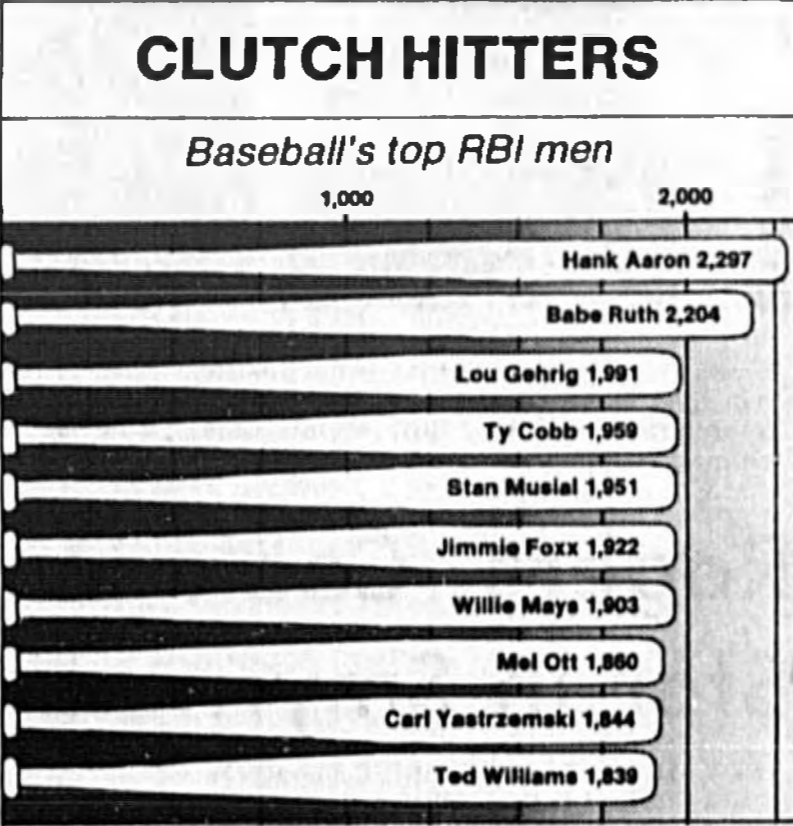

Prince's wife, Betty, his daughter, Nancy, and friend Chris Cross, a KDKA talk-show host, were at his bedside when he died.

Prince also is survived by a son, Robert Jr.

Born July 1, 1916, in Los Angeles, Prince was the son of a career Army man and attended 14 or 15 different schools. He studied at the University of Pittsburgh, Stanford University and University of Oklahoma, from which he earned a bachelor of arts degree.

He spent one year at Harvard Law School before winning a radio audition and turning to broadcasting as a career in 1941.

Prince, who was noted for his loud sport jackets, joined the Pirates' broadcast team as second man to Rosey Rowswell in 1948. He took over as No. 1 announcer when Rowswell died in 1952.

Don't underestimate Ty Cobb just because his base-hit record is threatened. Cobb, who played before the long-ball era, remains the only pure singles hitter to rank among homer kings when it comes to driving in runs.

Miami, Texas Try Again — Panel Clears Wiggins

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — The championship College World Series game between Miami and Texas Monday night was postponed because of rain, NCAA officials said.

The game was rescheduled for 7:10 p.m. (EDT) Tuesday at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Jerry Miles, NCAA director of events, said the change from the usual 8-10 p.m. game time was made at the request of ESPN, which had a programming conflict.

SMITH SAYS NO

NEW YORK (UPI) — San Diego president Ballard Smith said Monday that second baseman Alan Wiggins could not return to the Padres this summer despite Wiggins' being cleared to play by the majors' review panel on drugs.

"Our position has not changed," said Smith. "He isn't going to play for San Diego in 1985."

Wiggins, who signed a 4-year, $2 million contract over the winter, failed to show up for the

Baseball

Padres' April 25 games against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Two days later, he checked into a drug rehabilitation center.

The Joint Review Council has ruled that Wiggins is "ready to play from a medical standpoint."

San Diego owner Mrs. Joan Kroce said that Wiggins would not play again for the Padres in 1985.

Under the agreement between players and owners, a player completing treatment of no more than 60 days and then being pronounced fit is eligible to resume play.

In 1982, Wiggins was suspended for 30 days by then-commissioner Bowie Kuhn after being arrested on cocaine charges in a San Diego parking lot on July 21. He underwent a drug rehabilitation program the following winter.

Confused Fortunes

Zoeller Shrugs Off Poor Play — Maltbie To Watch Open On TV

Golf

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Such are the confused fortunes of the sporting life: Fuzzy Zoeller finishes 30th in the Westchester Classic on Sunday, shrugs off his lackluster performance, and moves on to begin defense of his U.S. Open Championship.

Roger Maltbie, winner of the $500,000 tournament in Harrison following a three-way, four-hole sudden death playoff, gets no closer to the Open than his television set as he returns to California to work on his new house.

And George Burns also has a whole week in which to idle around and wonder not only how he failed to qualify for the Open, but how he blew a tournament in which he had led or shared the lead for virtually 72 holes.

Is it all fair? Well, yes and no. Even Maltbie has a mixed opinion.

"I don't know if winning the U.S. Open means you have to have back surgery," he joked. "But I feel my health is a lot better going in this year than it was last year."

As for being the man on the spot this week as the defending champion, Zoeller said it's a role he'll enjoy.

"I kind of like the feeling of having a hole in my stomach," he said. "I'm a very competitive person. I like playing golf. That's the bottom line. It's work when you're hitting it sideways, but still it's fun."

IN BRIEF

Far East, Latin America Meet In Little League Series Opener

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — The champion of the Far East will meet the Latin American winner on Aug. 20 in the opening game of the 39th annual Little League Baseball World Series. It was announced Monday.

The other opening-day game will be between the champions of U.S. West and U.S. East, said Little League Baseball president, Creighton Hale, who announced the pairings for the eight-team, single-elimination tournament.

The first round will be completed Aug. 21, when U.S. Central plays U.S. South and Europe meets Canada.

The semifinals will be played Aug. 22 and the championship game is scheduled for 4 p.m. on Aug. 24, he said.

The bracketing is arranged so the finalists will be a team from the United States and a foreign entry. Seoul, South Korea, won the championship in 1984, beating Altamonte Springs, the South representative.

Cardinals Clinch Playoff Spot

The Goldenrod Cardinals clinched a playoff spot as they won their last three games of the regular season, all by close margins.

The Cards clinched second place in the Goldenrod Little League standings with a 6-4 victory over the Braves then concluded the season with one-run decisions over the Astros, 8-7, and the Cubs, 7-6.

In the win over the Braves, Mike Malinas returned from a bout with the chicken pox by going 2 for 3 at the plate and pitching a four-hitter. Half the runs scored by the Cardinals came on the bat of Scott Butler who was 1 for 3 with three RBIs including a two-run homer.

Against the Astros, two-out singles by Beirline and Fitzgerald and a double by Jason Turner all in the bottom of the fifth lifted the Cards to victory. Will Price smacked a two-run homer that gave the Astros the early lead.

Against the Cubs, a six-run second inning propelled the Cardinals to the early lead. The big hit in the inning was Butler's three-run homer. The Cubs battled back to tie it but Malinas led off the fifth with a solo home run that provided the winning run.

Oelkers Shuts Down Greenville

ORLANDO — Bryan Oelkers flashed the form which made his college All-America Monday night, shutting down Greenville as the Orlando Twins claimed a 5-3 victory in Southern League baseball at Tinker Field before 384 fans.

Oelkers upped his record to 2-1 by going the first seven innings. He allowed five hits and two runs. He struck out three and walked two. Jason Heimueiler mopped up in the final two innings for the save.

Orlando, 26-30, is lodged in last place in the East Division. It plays Greenville again tonight at 7:30. Any fan with five Campbell's Soup labels will be admitted free.

Jeff Trout's three-run double in the third inning was the big blow for the O-Twins. Greg Morhardt had an RBI double in the third and Sam Sorce drilled a solo homer, his third, in the fourth.

Osceola Stretches Lead To 4

WINTER HAVEN — Osceola's Astros stretched their lead to four games Monday night with a 4-1 victory over the Winter Haven Red Sox in Florida State League baseball at Chain O' Lakes Park.

Greg Dube and Mark Baker combined on a four-hitter as the Astros knocked off their closest Central Division rival. Dube, 5-3, went seven innings and allowed just three hits. He struck out five. Baker earned his 10th save by hurling the final two frames.

Ken Caminlin's two-run homer in the eighth inning provided Baker with two insurance runs. Winter Haven's run in the first inning was unearned.

Bob Parker didn't play for Osceola.

Buccaneers Sign 2 More Players

TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers Monday signed two players taken in the April draft, bringing to five the number of their draft picks signed.

Inking contracts were defensive back Mike Prior of Illinois State, a seventh round pick, and running back James "Punkin" Williams of Memphis State, an 11th round selection.

Terms of the contracts were not announced.

Prior is 6-foot and 200 pounds, while Williams is 5-10 and 205 pounds.

The Bucs still have five of the 10 draft picks unsigned, including first-round selection Ron Holmes, a defensive end from Washington.

Boeth's Slam Wins Pinto Title

Timmy Boeth socked a grand slam home run in the second inning to lead Lake Mary III to a 12-2 victory over Winter Springs III in Seminole Pony Baseball Pinto Division action.

The victory gave Lake Mary III the Pinto Division title.

Boeth also added a triple to the 19-hit offensive attack and was the winning pitcher. Terrence Jenkins also rapped a triple for Lake Mary while Ryan LaBar and Nathan Shaw added RBI singles.

Rain Curtails Big League, Legion

Rain forced postponement of the Oviedo Seminole-Apopka West Seminole Big League game Monday night at Lake Brantley High School. Lake Mary's American Legion game with Boone was also rained out.

The Seminoles, 3-10, return to action to action Thursday at the Oviedo Little League Complex against Eustia at 7:30 p.m. AWS, 12-1, travels to Winter Garden.

full USFL schedule to surpass Dickerson's total. Critics, however, will always cite the inferior quality of the league in which Walker achieved his accomplishment.

"It's an honor to play for this team," Walker said. "The offensive line has opened up a lot of holes, and if I didn't break the record, it would have been all my fault because they've played wonderfully."

Since the seventh game of the season, Walker has carried on the majority of the Generals' plays, yet defenses have not been able to stop him, despite keying on the 6-foot-1, 223-pound tailback.

"We don't care what people bring against us," he said. "We're just going to get down and dirty, and run the ball."

Walker achieved the 2,000-yard milestone with a 4-yard run on his eighth carry. Last week, he bettered his own USFL single season mark of 1,812 yards in a 17-7 victory over the Memphis Showboats.

Jabbar Makes Celtics 2nd Rate

BOSTON (UPI) — Even here in the home of the bean, the cod and The Bird, where the Boston Celtics traditionally rate second to no one, they finally do now.

The Los Angeles Lakers are the new NBA champions, the new kingpins of all professional basketball.

Primarily responsible for that is Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, their balding, indefatigable 38-year-old center who was the unanimous MVP choice for the playoffs following Sunday's 111-100 clincher in which the Lakers dethroned the Celtics at Boston Garden.

It was Abdul-Jabbar who came up with the best capsule characterization of the Lakers' triumph over the Celtics. He called it "historic" and that it certainly was.

The description was entirely appropriate because the Lakers and Celtics had met eight times before in the finals — the first time when the Lakers were in Minneapolis — and every time they played previously the Celtics had won.

Not this time.

The Celtics were looking for their 16th league title and were favored to win it. Instead, the Lakers wound up with their ninth championship. But only their first at the expense of the Celtics and how sweet it was.

"This has removed the most odious sentence in the language," bubbled Jerry Buss, the Lakers' ecstatic owner. "It can never again be said the Lakers can't beat the Celtics."

It sure can't.

Too many people saw it for themselves. Millions all over the country on TV and the customary capacity in-house crowd of 14,890. What they saw was some textbook basketball by the Lakers.

Ronald Reagan turns out to be a big basketball fan, too. He had all of the Lakers to a reception at the White House Monday.

Before the final series, Los Angeles generally was portrayed as the laid back Lakers and the Celtics as the blue collar hard workers. But there wasn't anything laid back about the Lakers Sunday.

They never quit coming at Boston. The Celtics, on the other hand, were flat. Although they led briefly in the first and second quarters — never by more than 2 points — and although they were tied 55-55 at the half, the Celtics for the most part looked as if they had the blahs. They played as if they didn't realize or didn't care they had their backs to the wall.

"We were pathetic," said the Celtics' 6-foot-11 Greg Kite. "We looked dead. We missed at least 15 little chip shots, two- and three-footers. I mean, we all knew we could've played better."

Teammate Dennis Johnson concurred. "We just didn't have it when we were out there," he said. "We were playing just to stay in the game. They were playing to win."

Kevin McHale, who fouled out with 5:21 to go, led all the scorers with 32 points and Larry Bird had 28 for the Celtics, firing up the crowd momentarily with back-to-back jumpers 7:21 from the end to cut the Lakers' lead to 92-86. But it was clear almost from the beginning that there might be no necessity for a seventh game.

The Lakers kept doing the little things that win games. Little things like stealing the ball, never letting the Celtics get set and making whatever adjustments necessary on defense, which was supposed to be the Celtics' game.

Celtics coach K.C. Jones readily admitted the Lakers deserved to win. He said Kurt Rambis did the "dirty work" for them with his 10 rebounds and James Worthy the "heavy work" with his 28 points.

"When they got really ugly, it got time to go to number 33," Jones continued, meaning Abdul-Jabbar, who was little short of spectacular in picking up the second MVP playoff trophy of his career with 29 points, 7 rebounds, 4 assists and a steal in the finale.

Amusingly, Abdul-Jabbar wanted to talk baseball as much as he did basketball when it was all over. He likened the Lakers' victory to the Dodgers' first World Series conquest of the Yankees in 1955 after the Yanks had beaten them five times before that.

"I guess I feel like Johnny Podres did in 1955," he said, recalling how Podres, now a pitching coach with the Twins, defeated the Yankees in the seventh and final game of the '55 series.

"This is my third time against the Celtics (in the finals) and we've never beaten them. They couldn't run with us today. We kept the pressure on. We just didn't stop running."

Abdul-Jabbar plans to play one more season and then retire.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of him," offered Los Angeles coach Pat Riley. "He has been written off so many times. He's the most unique athlete I've ever seen. He's not gonna be around too much longer, so you had better enjoy him while you can."

Abdul-Jabbar remembered how he watched the Dodgers beat the Yankees 30 years ago on TV in his home in New York City. He said he was a Dodger rooter all the way.

"Even though Willie Mays played for the Giants and I could walk to the Polo Grounds from my house, ours was a Dodger household," he said.

He was only 8 years old when Podres did his job on the Yankees but the Lakers' 7-2 center said he could recall all the details of Sandy Amoros' great catch on Yogi Berra along the left field line late in the final game.

"Yogi was up and [Gil] McDougald was on second," he said.

Actually, Billy Martin was on second and McDougald on first when Amoros came up with his game-saver, but Abdul-Jabbar recalled perfectly how he reacted when Podres nailed down the final out.

"I stuck my head out the window and yelled," he laughed.

IN BRIEF

'We Are The World' Relief On Way To Starving In Africa

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — A plane bearing relief supplies bought with part of the $45 million from sales of the hit record "We are the World" was en route today to Ethiopia and Sudan, the two African nations worst hit by famine.

The first airlift funded by royalties generated by the sale of 7.4 million single records and 4.4 million albums contained food, medicine and clothing, including 15,000 "We are the World" T-shirts.

The Flying Tiger Boeing 747 cargo jet was due to stop first in Sudan today to unload half of its 240,000-pound cargo. It was then to leave for Ethiopia with the other half.

The United Nations estimates that more than 19 million people in the two countries face starvation.

Marty Rogol, executive director of USA for Africa, said he and other officials would remain in Sudan and Ethiopia "to see for ourselves that these supplies are delivered to the proper authorities."

U.S. officials have said the Ethiopian government has failed to make transportation available for distribution of relief supplies.

Jordan Flight Hijacked To Sicily

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI) — Hijackers firing submachine guns took over a Jordanian airliner in Beirut today and forced the crew to fly to Sicily after permission to land in Tunisia was denied.

The Royal Jordanian Airlines Boeing 727, which had 74 crew members and passengers, including two Americans, touched down at Palermo's Punta Raisi Airport in Sicily at 3:13 p.m. (9:13 a.m. EST), Italian authorities said. It was hijacked in Beirut at 9:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EST.)

Officials said they permitted the landing because the pilot radioed he was short of fuel.

A caller claiming to represent the Iman Ali forces of the Sadr suicide brigade telephoned the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station in Beirut to take responsibility for the hijacking, but the claim could not be confirmed.

The brigade is named after Musa Sadr, the spiritual leader of Lebanon's Shiite Moslem community who disappeared on a trip to Libya in August 1978.

June Birthdays Miss 6-Year Driver's License

Beginning July 1, "safe" drivers will be getting a break in Florida when they renew their driver licenses. Those renewing their licenses in June, however, will be left out of the deal.

Drivers with no traffic violations for three years, will be issued a six-year driver's license rather than the usual four-year license. Glenn Blocker, deputy director of the driver license division for Florida, said there are no provisions to allow drivers whose birthdays are in June to get the six-year licenses.

If a person's birthday was in late June, Blocker said, and they were "safe drivers" he suggested they wait a day or two before they renew their license.

If a safe driver doesn't mind paying the full $15 charge, they can renew their license in July and get it for six years, he said.

Give Blood, Get Free Lunch

Every blood donor who rolls up a sleeve at Flea World's community blood drive Saturday and Sunday will receive a free lunch compliments of Flea World.

Flea World, located on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford, is sponsoring the weekend drive for the Central Florida Blood Bank. The blood bank mobile unit will be in the west parking lot of the complex from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

Any person 17 years or older may be eligible to donate blood. There is no upper age restriction. Each potential donor completes a medical questionnaire and is given a mini-physical to confirm eligibility.

Every unit of blood that is donated can benefit up to five patients, since most whole blood is separated into components.

For more information, call the Central Florida Blood Bank at 849-6100.

Chance of mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Low in low to mid 70s. High in low to mid 90s. Light south or southwest wind. Rain chance 30 percent tonight and 50 percent Wednesday.

NATIONAL REPORT: Scores of Oklahoma residents today abandoned their homes to floods spawned by heavy rain, while thousands in Kentucky remained without power for a second day because of windy storms that authorities called the worst in memory. An arc of thunderstorms reached today from the southern Plains to southern Illinois. Tornado watches covered sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and flash flood watches were posted in Missouri, Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma. Seven inches of rain soaked Oklahoma in two days, pushing the Bird Creek out of its banks. Thirty families in Pawhuska fled from floods that nearly covered some homes. Another 100 residents were evacuated in Skiatook. About 18,000 acres of land along the Bird Creek were expected to be flooded today, officials said. Police said a foot of water covered roads in Pawhuska area, closing part of Oklahoma.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Wind south to southwest 10 knots or less today except easterly 10 knots near shore south part this afternoon. Wind southwest 10 to 15 knots tonight and Wednesday. Sea 2 to 4 feet. Scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

EXTENDED FORECAST: Chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly Thursday and Friday. Lows around 70 north to near 80 extreme south. Rather hot afternoons with highs near 90 in coastal areas to mid 90s elsewhere.

Battling Baptists

Leaders Back Peace Plan But Controversy Not Over

DALLAS (UPI) — State leaders of the nation's 14.3 million Southern Baptists think they have a plan to resolve a feud bordering on schism in the nation's largest Protestant denomination — but not before the struggle takes a decisive turn.

Presidents of the Southern Baptist Convention's 37 state conventions Monday unanimously endorsed a 10-point "peace plan" establishing a 15-member committee "to determine the sources of the controversies" in the denomination and to recommend ways in which the disputes can be resolved.

The presidents said the peace plan is backed by key leaders of the convention's fundamentalist and moderate factions. But it will not be presented for a vote to the 36,000 messengers, as voting delegates are called, until Wednesday, a day after the crucial vote for president.

The three-day convention was to begin today with an address by SBC President Charles Stanley of Atlanta.

The presidential balloting, which begins later today, is considered the pivotal issue in the struggle between fundamentalists and moderates for long-term control of the denomination's administrative machinery, especially the boards that oversee the church's six theological seminaries.

Registration late Monday approached 36,000, and some observers said the numbers suggested a Stanley victory. The previous record for messengers was 22,872, set in Atlanta in 1978.

Fundamentalists, who claim the denomination is drifting toward liberalism, have controlled the presidency for the past five years and this year will seek to re-elect Stanley for a second one-year term.

Moderates, who prefer to be called denominational loyalists, argue that right wing politics is the issue. They will nominate a reluctant W. Winfred Moore of Amarillo, Texas, to oppose Stanley.

"We're not dealing at this convention with who's going to be our next presiding officer," William L. Self of Atlanta said at a moderate-sponsored forum Monday. "I firmly believe that we're dealing with some kind of coalition between certain political groups and certain religious groups, because the political groups want access to the resources of our convention."

Self mentioned a coalition involving broadcast executive Ted Turner, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Moral Majority leader Jerry Falwell, formed in an effort by Turner to take control of the CBS television network.

But fundamentalists insist the issue is theological. The Rev. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the denomination's largest church, First Baptist of Dallas, defended the attack on liberalism as "dedication to the infallible word of God."

Mengele's Son Says Body Probably His Father's

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI) — The son of wanted Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele announced today his father died six years ago in Brazil and said he had no doubt that remains exhumed in Sao Paulo are his father's.

Rolf Mengele, a Freiburg lawyer, said in a statement released in Munich that he learned of the death in 1979 of the former doctor at the Nazi concentration camp in Auschwitz, Poland.

He said he has no doubt the remains exhumed in Sao Paulo, Brazil, last Wednesday are those of his father.

The son said he confirmed the death Tuesday in a statement to the Frankfurt prosecutor's office, which has been hunting Mengele, the notorious "Angel of Death" who is wanted for complicity in the murder of 400,000 people, mostly Jews.

In a brief four-paragraph statement, the son said he went to Brazil in 1979 to confirm his father's death.

He said the Mengele family is ready to give any help it can to identify the body. He said he was sure that the forensic experts in Brazil now examining the body, which was buried under an assumed name, would confirm it was his father's.

The son ended his statement by saying, "My deepest sympathy goes to all the victims and their relations."

He did not elaborate but he apparently meant the concentration camp inmates Mengele selected for death at Auschwitz and those who were the victims of his barbaric medical experiments.

"I have no doubt that the corpse exhumed on June 5, 1985, at the Embu cemetery in Brazil is the last remains of my father, Josef Mengele," the son said in his statement, which he submitted to the Frankfurt prosecutor's office and released to the press.

"I am sure that the forensic investigation soon will confirm this," he said. "The family is ready to give additional facts that will be of use."

In New York, famous Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal said he was not awayed by Mengele's statement.

"It's not a matter of believing," he said. "It's a matter of close a case or not close a case. A man who was silent six years after the death of the father cannot be enough."

church, Langley said, noting 20 different public places where one may not carry a gun are listed in the bill.

In other legislation approved during the session, Langley said of particular interest to Seminole County may be the new money funneled into public education.

"With the new money,

Seminole County's public schools will rank 16th in the state in the dollars allocated by the state for the school system," he said. "We did well there," he said, noting as well that $337,000 was allocated to plan a new adult education building at Seminole Community College.

The master teacher program, under which certain teachers were to be considered masters and given annual bonuses, was eliminated, he said.

That legislation adopted in 1984, which called for the special bonus to those considered master teachers, was highly criticized by the Seminole Education Association, the teacher's union in the county, as discriminating against all teachers.

The association said the master teacher money should have been allocated to give all teachers a bonus.

For the mobile home community dwellers, legislation was approved to straighten out ambiguous language in the mobile home tax law, he said.

The special tax, Langley said, was based on the length of towing devices on mobile homes. The new law says the towing device is four feet long, he said.

New taxes authorized by the legislature include a 5 percent tax on interstate telephone calls and a tax on pipe tobacco and snuff. Langley said the tax will amount to about 20 cents per can of snuff.

Harden said. The code enforcement board is the arm of county government which hears complaints against persons charged with violating county ordinances.

Harden said he and the vice deputies were invited to inspect the store last week by the owners. "The owners indicated they are trying to open under the law Right now they have a sign on their door saying they are open and they are having a sale on lingerie."

He said when he drove by the shop on his way to other county business Thursday, there was only one car in the shop's parking area, indicating it isn't getting much business.

Meanwhile, Book, pastor of the Northside Christian Church in Altamonte Springs, said a new organization, called CRAMP (Citizens Rightfully Against Moral Pollution) has been formed to "put a cramp against pornography."

Book said he and 18 other members picketed the establishment Monday and he along with a coalition of ministers have determined that the shop is not within the legal distance, established by county law, from a church and a church school.

"It would seem the land management department is waffling on its decision to enforce the law as far as this store is concerned and saying whether the store can be open is contingent on the amount of pornography sold and the amount available to teenagers," Book said.

He disagreed with Harden on whether pornographic materials are on display. Book said a cameraman accompanied him into the store and took photographs of a variety of magazines including Penthouse and Hustler and others with cover photos of nude men and women in "provocative poses and appealing to the prurient and animalistic instincts."

Threatening an "uprising of the sleeping giant of the religious community" to save U.S. Highway 17-92 from becoming another Orange Blossom Trail, Book warned that Christians are not going to stand for stores such as the Connection operating. He said the state owns the right of way into the establishment and it may be pressured to close that right of way. "If the Connection is successful in getting county approval to continue operating, the domino effect will prevail and sleazy gyp joints will be located on 17-92 from Maitland to Casselberry."

In the meantime, Book said a camera will be trained on the shop in constant surveillance of the traffic entering and leaving.

instructed commissioners to study the applicants resumes between now and then.

Under the revamping of the city hall staff, requested by City Manager Frank Faison, nine city divisions will be consolidated into two new departments — engineering and planning and administrative services.

Engineering and planning will include engineering, planning, contracts and building and zoning Personnel, data processing, licensing, purchasing and internal auditing will fall into administrative services.

The staffs will remain the same, except for the addition of three new positions — a city planner for the engineering department and a director and budget analyst for the administrative services department. The additional staff will cost about $36,000 this year and about $146,000 next year, Faison says the plan will increase efficiency and add more expertise to the city staff.

Mother's Wild Goose Tale Became A Bedtime Favorite

DEAR ABBY: Whenever you mention that poem, "I Had a Mother Who Read to Me," I have to laugh because my mother never read to me. I used to beg her to read to me, but she couldn't be bothered with that tedious business. Instead, she'd tell me bedtime stories that were more or less true.

The one I liked best was the one about how she and her cousin Alice tried to make whiskey.

They filled a large crock with water, wheat, oats, grains, raisins and raw potato peelings, and any other garbage they could find. After a couple of weeks, the mixture in the crock smelled so bad, my grandmother insisted they get rid of it, so Mom and Alice carried the crock down by the river and dumped it on the bank. Naturally Grandma's geese followed them and gobbled it all up. Pretty soon, Grandma looked out the window and saw all her geese lying about in the yard. She thought they were dead, so she got the girls to pluck all the down from the geese and told them that as soon as their grandfather got home from the lumber mill, he'd have to bury those dead geese. (The geese were not dead; they were drunk!)

The next morning the geese were running around the yard stark naked, so Grandma crocheted little jackets for them to wear, and that was the last time my mother and her cousin Alice ever tried to make whiskey.

JOE EASTMAN.

Dear Abby

COLORADO SPRINGS

DEAR JOE: Thanks for a dandy day brightener.

DEAR ABBY: Very often you ask people to forgive and forget, so I thought the enclosed poem (found in a magazine) might appeal to you and your readers. It made me smile, and I hope it makes you smile, too.

RICK IN TACOMA

DEAR RICK: Smile? I laughed out loud. And here it is:

FORGIVENESS

The friend who ran off with your wife,

Forgive him for his lust;

The chum who sold you phony stocks,

Forgive his breach of trust;

The pal who schemed behind your back,

Forgive his evil work;

And when you're done — forgive yourself

For being such a jerk.

CONFIDENTIAL TO INTELLECTUAL IN WOODBURY, N.J.:

The true intellectual learns because he wants to know — not because he wants others to know that he knows.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you printed a true-false quiz titled "How Much Do You Know About Homosexuality?" You said all the statements in the quiz were false.

I believe one statement is true: "If a person is gay, no amount of therapy or motivation can change him."

My own study of bisexual or homosexual husbands (to be published soon) is the only study of married gays with a six-year follow-up. Not one of the married men in our sample, despite years of "normal" married sex, has overcome the desire to be with men.

If you have information with which I am not familiar, I would like to see it. If not, please eliminate that question, as it encourages homosexuals to seek useless therapy from counselors who have not carefully reviewed the research, and perhaps because of their own homophobia, or just from ignorance, try to "help" the homosexual. The effect is (besides loss of time and money) to delay accepting (hopefully affirming) a gay identity.

DAVID MATTESON, PH.D.

DEAR DR. MATTESON: You are correct. The statement in the quiz should have read: "If a person is gay, with the proper therapy and motivation, he can be changed." That statement is false. I apologize for the confusion. I know better.

A Man Of Many Hats Receives Another

Frank Jasa, left, a man of many hats, received another hat from Ed Yarborough, president of the Seminole County Cattlemen's Association. The presentation of the John B. Stetson hat was on behalf of the association at the annual family meeting and steak dinner to honor Jasa for the 16 years he served as secretary of the association. Jasa will be honored at a "Retirement Recognition Dinner" on Thursday, June 27, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Seminole County Agricultural Center auditorium. Reservations are $10 per person for the buffet. Those wishing to submit letters or remembrances for the scrapbook being compiled may send them to the Agricultural Center, 4320 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford 32771. For dinner reservations, call 323-2500, extension 182.

New Trivia Game Of Sanford To Boost Seminole High Band

A new game in town is designed to boost the treasury of Seminole High School Band Boosters.

The Trivia Game of Sanford is a color board game displaying 32 advertisers, a jackpot question, and over 1,000 general trivia and local interest trivia cards presented for the Sanford area.

According to Marjorie Wilke, Band Boosters president, the object of the game is to advance to the jackpot question circle and answer one of the final questions correctly before the competition. Cost of the game board is $10.

Those who are among the first 500 persons to place orders will have their family name permaently placed on every game, making it a unique gift or keepsake and well as a limited first edition.

Mrs. Wilke says that due to the size and design of the game board, advertising spaces are limited to only 32 available spaces. Like any game board, this is a one-time copywritten item personally for the Sanford area. Businesses wishing to be permanently represented on this once done Trivia Game of Sanford must be on a first-come, first-served basis.

To reserve a "Personal Game" or advertising space, contact Marjorie Wilke at Seminole High School, 322-4352.

McGuffey's Restaurant, Store Spices Food With Nostalgia

A meal at McGuffey's in Deltona is like a visit to Grandma's—complete with muffins bulging with blueberries, old-fashioned stick candy, antiques, and family portraits.

Jim and Judy Haun, managers and owners of McGuffey's Restaurant and Country Store, located in the Deltona Plaza on Deltona Boulevard, invite you to experience the delightful tastes, tantalizing smells, and nostalgic decor designed to take you back to Grandma's day.

The restaurant was named after the McGuffey Reader, the principal text and character builder of classrooms in the late 1800s and early 1900s. McGuffey's Reader brings back memories of a slower-paced day when rock candy cost a penny a handful, holiday gatherings with appetizing smells wafting from the kitchen and a table laden with delicious food only Grandma could prepare and so does the restaurant.

This simple, honest, no-nonsense approach applied to the kitchen is what this family restaurant is all about.

McGuffey's Restaurant Salad Works and country store

Highlight of a trip to McGuffey's is a visit to the "salad works," an all-you-can-eat salad bar that features more than 30 salads and fresh fruits and vegetables. Experiment with these unusual toppings: sunflower seeds, raisins, peanuts and dry cereal.

Noo bisulfates or vegetable whiteners are used on salad bar vegetables, in fact, very few non-food chemicals are used in the food at McGuffey's since most of the fare is made from scratch, notes Jim. And another surprise—McGuffey's serves real mashed potatoes.

Home made specialties include pies and soup. Freshly-baked blueberry muffins, served with all dinners, are also available to buy to take home.

The menu offers complete $6.95 dinners or a la carte meals, many priced at $3.95 and $4.95. A popular favorite is all the fish you can eat (fried or broiled) with potato and vegetable. Beer and wine are also served.

Jim directed Hudson's Restaurants in Detroit for five years before joining Holiday House as vice president prior to opening McGuffey's in 1981.

The delightful country store recreates the atmosphere of the late 1800s with merchandise such as potpourri, penny candles, folk art, baskets, hand-dipped candles, and antiques.

McGuffey's is open from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday. Visa and Mastercard are honored.

A large, private dining room is available for meetings and social gatherings. They also offer a take-out service, party trays and catering. Call 574-4600.

Orange Hearing Aid Center Offer Free Hearing Tests

Bill Christenson is a state licensed specialist with Orange Hearing Aid Centers at 120 S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry and at Medco Discount Drugs, 2701 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford. Electronic hearing tests are given free at the Sanford center on Monday only and at Casselberry, Monday through Friday.

Christenson was born with a moderate hearing loss in the right ear due to nerve damage. Though it was discovered as early as the first grade, he did not get help with hearing aids until the age of 38.

Bill Christenson, hearing aid specialist, goes over test results with client

"I sought help all those years, but was told an aid wouldn't work," he explained.

"The reason I chose the Hearing Health profession is to prevent this same situation from happening to others. Being a user myself gives me a first hand knowledge of what the client is experiencing. We are on common ground. "The end result is that they do not buy a lot of hype that won't work, but are told realistically what to expect. In line with this I sell our 30-day trial as a benefit. In the end it is the client who is the judge."

A no obligation hearing test and demonstration can be obtained by calling 834-8776 or 323-5702.

Seminole Veterinary Hospital Is Located In New Facilities

Seminole Veterinary Hospital, previously located on 27th Street, has moved to new facilities at 2525 W. 25th St., Sanford, and is offering complete veterinary services for small animals including preventive and diagnostic medicine, dentistry and surgery.

Dr. Ted Bellhorn, veterinarian, has a specialty in veterinary internal medicine and is board certified. He is one of only three such specialists in private practice in the state. He has been in practice since 1973, the past five years of which has been in Sanford.

Dr. Bellhorn has instrumentation, such as a flexible endoscope and an electrocardiograph, and facilities for doing special referral work from other veterinarians.

Veterinary technician Linda Prahlow assists Dr. Ted Bellhorn in giving cat an electrocardiogram at Seminole Veterinary Hospital.

Raised in Oviedo, he graduated from the University of Florida and Auburn University's Veterinary School. He did his post graduate work in Boston and at Ohio State.

Dr. Sandra Merchant will be joining him on staff in August. A 1984 graduate of the University of Florida School of Veterinary Medicine, she did post-graduate work for 15 months at a large animal hospital in New York City, the Animal Medical Center. Dr. Fidelma "Sam" Kennedy, who has been working part time at the hospital, will be leaving later this month to go to Boston where she will do post-graduate work in veterinary pathology.

A specialist on canine and feline ophthalmology is also available.

The modern facilities include a preparation room, separate operating room, X-ray room, lab, pharmacy, and large a kennel area for hospitalization of animals.

Dr. Bellhorn advises pet owners to take special precautions with their animals during these hot months. They need to be kept cool with their drinking water readily accessible. If they are left in the yard, make sure they have shade. If you take them in the car don't leave them locked up in a hot car. It can be fatal. Summer also means more mosquitos and mosquitos transmit heart worms to dogs. Be sure and have your pet checked. A heart worm preventative is available to give your dog all year long to protect against his succumbing to these parasites.

The flea problem is always with us, said Dr. Bellhorn, and must be fought in a three-pronged attack on the dog, in the yard and in the house, and then start all over again.

Phone the Seminole Veterinary Hospital at 322-8465 for an appointment.

HEARING TESTS SET FOR SANFORD/CASSELBERRY AREA

Electronic hearing tests will be given free at the Orange Hearing Aid Ctrs. 2701 S. Orlando Dr., Sanford (Monday only) and 120 S. Hwy. 17-92 Casselberry, Monday - Friday this week. W. Christensen and B. Fisher, certified by the National Hearing Aid Society will be at these offices to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them can find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The free hearing test will be given Monday thru Friday - this week at the Casselberry office and Monday at the Sanford location. Call the number below and arrange for an appointment, or drop in at your convenience.

Post-Mealtime Slump Is Completely Normal

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT - Why do I always feel exhausted after I eat lunch?

DEAR READER - You may be suffering from a ubiquitous malady called "post-prandial hypoglycemia."

After a busy morning of work, a hearty lunch may produce sleepiness for the following reasons: The food you eat causes insulin to be released in your bloodstream. There is a bit of lag in the process, so the insulin may not start to peak for 30 to 60 minutes after your meal. In addition, the insulin may not "shut off" precisely when you need it to. As a result, one to two hours after a meal, your blood sugar may tend to drop below normal and you may feel exhausted.

I want to emphasize that this form of hypoglycemia is entirely normal, not at all like the exaggerated type that is characteristic of the fat disease called "hypoglycemia."

Try eating a lighter lunch containing fewer carbohydrates, or eat a piece of fruit when you begin to feel sleepy.

The problem of post-prandial hypoglycemia may be bigger than both of us: It has been formalized in many cultures as the siesta.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What can be done for postnasal drip? I wake up at night with a terrible itchy throat and it's hard to fall asleep again.

DEAR READER - Postnasal drip can be controlled by using an antihistamine at bedtime. There are many long-acting brands on the market that are available without a prescription.

Your nasal problem may be due to an allergy, so you may wish to see a doctor to define what it is you are allergic to. If you can avoid this substance, your postnasal drip may disappear without the use of medicine.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I am 62 and recently was told that I have "borderline" diabetes. Can I treat this by simply changing my diet or should I start to take insulin?

DEAR READER - You have probably developed an intolerance to simple sugar. This is a common effect of aging, particularly in overweight, underactive persons who may or may not have an inherited tendency to diabetes.

You may be able to avoid taking insulin or pills by reducing your weight to an optimal level and eliminating sugar from your diet.

If you are not able to manufacture enough insulin to keep your blood sugar normal, the elimination of dietary sugar may enable the insulin you do have to be more effective. Like borderline hypertension, borderline diabetes can usually be adequately controlled by dietary modification.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Here's our typical declarer again, finding ways to go set in what appears to be a fairly routine contract. Declarer was shrewd enough to figure out the winning safety play in today's deal, but West sidetracked him with a fancy maneuver.

If declarer can net four club tricks, he will have enough tricks for his contract. He can do nothing about four clubs to the queen in the East hand, but if they are held by West, the danger can be nullified.

The plan is simple: cash the ace of clubs and play another. When West follows, play small from dummy. It's true that declarer loses a trick when West has only three to the queen, but he assures his contract, even when West has all four. (Note that sneezing the jack on the second play of clubs would leave declarer with only eight tricks, since he does not have an entry to dummy to enjoy the long club.)

South had all that figured out and was ready to duck the second club, when suddenly the queen appeared from West. That was too much for gullible South. He reflexively called for dummy's king, and had to pay the piper (in the person of our devious West) when East shewed out.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 12, 1985
Friends will play important roles in your affairs this coming year. Oddly enough, it will be those you least expect who will do the most for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You're likely to feel uneasy today if you are in the company of people who think in narrow terms. Avoid these types and select pals who have broader perspectives. Major changes are ahead for Gemini in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You have the capabilities today to achieve objectives that associates might find overwhelming. Believe in your strengths, not their weaknesses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
If you truly have faith in yourself today, it'll be reflected in the way you conduct yourself. Your actions will also serve as an inspiration to those of fainter heart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You have the wherewithal today to change things more to your liking. Even obstacles that seem insurmountable can be overcome if you're determined to do so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Greater advantages can be gained through partnership arrangements today than through independent efforts. Don't be afraid to share your opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Measures can be taken today to develop a channel that could provide you with a second source of income or earnings. The tip will come through a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Your sociable and gregarious qualities will seek expression today. If you can't be near folks you love, then love the folks you're near.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Family-oriented activities should be given priority today. It's OK to have outsiders around, but try to keep the action on the home court.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
This is one of those days when you're apt to feel restless unless you have a lot to do. Don't be hesitant to take on several projects simultaneously.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Today don't feel you're being selfish if your thoughts are focused on personal gain. Some days it's necessary to put No. 1 first.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your charismatic presence and bubbling personality will pump pep into the proceedings today, regardless of what type of activity you do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Everything comes to be who waits. Keep this in mind today and you'll see situations that appear to be negative turn around to your advantage.
