Organizations Held Subversive

John H. Hargrave, Jr., President of the Georgia County Chamber of Commerce, announced today that the Georgia County Chamber of Commerce has been designated as subversive by the Attorney General of the United States.

According to proceedings conducted by the Attorney General, all of the organizations designated were allowed the right of appeal and a hearing. The Attorney General's list is used only in the government's loyalty program.

Since many of these organizations seek contributions from business and the public, it should be noted, Hargrave stated, that the United States Treasury Department has ruled that contributions to organizations on the Attorney General's list are not deductible for income tax purposes.

Hargrave announced that the Chamber would be glad to assist local firms, organizations and citizens in checking the status of any doubtful fund-raising organizations against the Attorney General's list, upon request.

Adams' Hotel Bills Paid By Boston Industrialist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators disclosed today that Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine had paid hotel bills for Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York as well as two in New England.

A House subcommittee heard today investigators Francis X. McLaughlin report that Adams' million-dollar friend paid his bills at the Waldorf twice in 1954, once for $47.50 and the second time, covering accommodations also for Mrs. Adams, for $219.02.

Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) issued an open invitation to Adams to testify on charges he accepted favors from Goldfine, who at various times was in hot water with the government's regulatory agencies.

Adams has conceded that Goldfine paid $2,000 in hotel bills for himself and his family at the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel in Boston. He also was Goldfine's guest at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, Mass.

Adams has denied he used his influence to get favored treatment for Goldfine.

While in trouble, McLaughlin offered as evidence photostatic copies of Waldorf-Astoria account cards covering the Adams visits in 1954. He was asked if the dates had "any significance."

He replied that they occurred at the same time that Goldfine's company was trying to establish out a dispute with the Federal Trade Commission over its labeling of nylon products.

McLaughlin said the hotel records subpoenaed last Friday show that Adams was a guest at the Waldorf Jan. 23-24, 1954, and that his $47.50 bill was charged to Goldfine.

The records also show, he said, that Adams, accompanied by his wife, was a guest at the hotel Feb. 12-13 of the same year. The $219.02 charge in this case also was billed to Goldfine, he said.

The records showed that Goldfine also was a guest at the Waldorf during both visits. Goldfine, whose total stay exceeded Adams', paid a $514.75 bill for the January visit. For the February visit he paid $2,082.50. McLaughlin said the Adams bills were included in these totals.

Merchants Discuss Inventory Tax Repeal

More than 40 local merchants and businessmen met Friday night at Jim Spencer's Restaurant to discuss the "repeal of the inventory tax" and to hear Dallas Hostetter, executive director of the Florida State Retailers Association, explain plans for a statewide program to eliminate the tax.

The Commercial and Business Activities Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce called the meeting for the first activity of the group since the local Merchants Association was disbanded and merged with the committee.

Hostetter told the group of merchants and businessmen that the newly created Florida Council of Business and Industry is affiliated with "some 50 state organizations" interested in a "single objective."

"No longer will a single organization attempt to abolish the personal property or inventory tax," he said.

The purpose of this organization is to conduct a county by county research on the "feasibility of repealing the personal property tax or only the tax on stock in trade or inventory," he said.

Hostetter pointed out that in Florida's 67 counties the assessment on personal property ranges from 100 per cent to some cases no assessment at all.

"We have a grass roots organization in 67 counties of the state representing 40,000 members through which we can contact our legislative delegations," he said.

Research has produced evidence, said Hostetter, that much industry has not settled in Florida because of the personal property tax.

As an example of the inequities in the tax under discussion, Hostetter pointed out that "cash in the bank is taxed one-tenth of a mill; but if the cash is turned into merchandise the tax is 410 times greater."

Local merchants and city and county officials agreed that budgets of the local governments could not be met without the personal property tax funds.

However, proposals went to a possibility of three per cent sales tax "across the board" with one-half of one per cent returned to the city and county governments.

One merchant questioned whether or not the one-half of one per cent would be sufficient to meet the present income from personal property tax sources.

It was established that from surveys conducted for the presentation to the last legislature that "this would be sufficient to meet local needs."

County Commission Chairman John Krider said "Personal property tax is a phoney anyway—what's the sense of having a law on which you can't collect."

"This is one of the greatest things that's happened since homestead exemption," said John Ivay.

"We are the ones that are collecting the golden eggs," said Harry Robson, "and yet we're being handicapped at the end of the year with the tax. It behooves you lawmakers to help remove the tax."

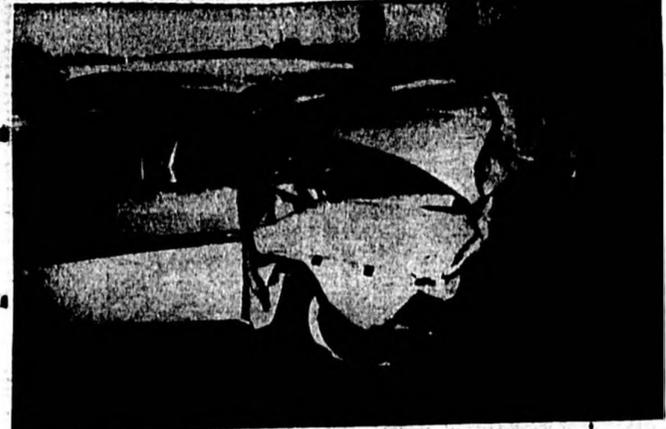

Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr. told the group "There's no controversy over the injustice of the tax—the problem is what will be the replacement."

He then admitted "Since I've been in the legislature this is the most concentrated effort to repeal it."

"The tax on inventory is out. (Continued on Page Seven)

SIDSWIPING LAKE MONROE BRIDGE and continuing on at a high rate of speed, according to a witness, this car careened off the road and then back onto the highway to collide with another car. John Robert Webster, the driver, a Winter Park Insurance man was injured. (Staff Photo)

Five Hurt In Two-Car Collision On 17-92

There were five people injured and property damage estimated at more than $5,000 in a two-car collision north of Sanford on 17-92 shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday.

Hospitalized were Hilary Schroeder, 33, executive director of Florida Blue Cross - Blue Shield, Mrs. Marion Schroeder, 48, Miss Hilary Ann Schroeder, 13, all of Jacksonville; and Miss Virginia Turner, 12, of Maitland. Also John Robert Webster, 34, of Winter Park.

The Schroeders, according to reports late yesterday afternoon, were returning from Crystal River, near Dunedin and had stopped by in Maitland to pick up their niece. They were on their way to Jacksonville.

An eye witness to the two-car crash, Frank Wilson of Jacksonville, stated that the 1954 Chevrolet, traveling south and driven by Webster, a Winter Park insurance man, had sideswiped the Lake Monroe bridge.

Webster's car was damaged, according to Florida Highway Patrol Trooper T. Mark Mack, who investigated the smashup in which both cars were total losses.

The car left a piece of chrome on the bridge scene and had traced to the concrete curb of the bridge apparently out of control.

According to the eyewitness, the Webster car continued, without stopping, at an apparent high rate of speed. The automobile looked as if it would go into the woods on the curve about one mile south of the bridge and went out of control colliding with the 1958 Ford sedan driven by Schroeder.

The Schroeder car was turned around in the opposite direction from the impact and the Webster car was thrown off the highway onto the east shoulder of the road near the lake.

Time of the accident was 6:20 p. m., said Trooper Mack who was assisting in the investigation by Deputy Sheriff's Marion Driggers and L. J. Kris.

2 Sanford Youths To Attend Science Camp At FSU

TALLAHASSEE—Florida State University opens its science laboratory today to 101 high school youths who will study for two weeks in the 6th annual Science Camp.

Under the supervision of faculty members, the youths, carefully chosen for their unusual ability in science, will look around for a field of special interest.

Youths selected for the camp from Seminole High School include Clifford McKibbin Jr. and Henry Schumacher.

Camp director Dr. Stephen Winters, assistant professor of geology, said the 33 girls and 68 boys will evaluate the camp at the end of the period and faculty members will in turn help those interested in intensive science study to plan high school and college courses.

Two field trips, on next Saturday, June 21, and on Wednesday, June 23, are on the schedule. The campers will visit geological sites west of Tallahassee and the marine laboratory of the Oceanographic Institute.

Following a dinner on June 26 just before the campers go home, they will hear an address by Dr. John Laurence Kulp, associate professor of geology at Columbia University and director of the Geochemistry Laboratory, Lamont Geological Observatory.

An authority on age determination of geologic material and on fallout of atomic debris, Dr. Kulp will speak on "Atomic Clocks and Geological History."

FFS Reports Two More Wildfires Over Weekend

LONGWOOD—The Florida Forest Service reported two more wildfires over the weekend.

Friday afternoon, a fire started at the trash dump just north of State Road 434 near SanLando Springs.

High winds blew burning trash into the surrounding woodland. D. E. Cotton and Andy Perri, employed by SanLando Springs, spotted the fire and attempted to douse it. Strong wind caused the fire to burn hot and spread rapidly.

While additional employees of SanLando Springs were called, the Florida Forest Service was notified. F. J. Johnson of Longwood, joined with Clifford Cotton, R. L. McLean and Buddy Bryant, all SanLando Springs employees, in battling the blaze. Ranger Arnold Wetzel was dispatched from Longwood and when he arrived the fire was still burning out of control.

Damage was slight and only two acres of woodland burned.

The other weekend fire occurred Sunday, 3/4 of a mile east of highway 17-92 near the Longwood-Wagner road. Witnesses there said the fire had smoldered all day until the Forest Service was called late in the evening.

Ranger Wetzel said "Although the fire burned in a populated area, it did no damage as it was burning slowly into the oncoming wind. Had the wind shifted at any time the fire would have become a serious problem and might have easily damaged some of the homes. The fire should have been reported to the Forest Service early in the morning and then there would have been no danger."

Wetzel went on to say "Although today's rain will, for a time, put a stop to the rash of wildfires, permanent protection will be ours when everyone is alert to prevent fires by being more careful and reporting all fires immediately."

Cdr. Pahl Addresses Flag Day Audience

"Looks like we're going to have the unusual privilege of seeing a change in our flag," Cdr. H. A. Pahl, Commanding Officer of Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron Fifty-One at the Sanford Naval Air Station, said a Flag Day audience at the Municipal Bandshell Saturday afternoon.

"The U. S. Code says if another state is added to our Union, another star will have to be added to the flag," he said.

Commander Pahl, speaking to the group of about 100, recalled a suggestion made by one lady in which "all of the 48 or 49 stars he used to spell out the word freedom."

"We should talk about ourselves and the flag in relation to our future," the Navy Commander stated.

"I'm not asking this group who will conquer outer space or who will conquer the Pacific Ocean—what about the flag? What are we doing to bring credit or discredit to our flag," he said.

Commander Pahl concluded "It really does matter what kind of lives you live—that you really believe in brotherly love, fidelity and charity."

"I urge all of you to live your lives so that we can guarantee the wonderful heritage and freedom we have now."

Commander Pahl was the principal speaker in Flag Day ceremonies conducted by the Sanford Elks Lodge in which officers of the lodge participated. Those taking part in the ceremony were Exalted Ruler Bill Hardin, Est. Leading Knight Dick Maper, Est. Local Knight Bob Anthony, Est. Mrs. Lula Bailey accompanied group singing at the piano. Preceding the ceremony at the bandshell, a Flag Day Parade moved through downtown Sanford with members of the Kadets of America and Boy Scouts of America participating.

In spite of the intense heat, which caused two youngsters to fall over, more than a hundred people gathered to hear the address and ceremony.

Repeal Of Personal Property Tax Laws Should Meet Approval

Operation "Repeal the Personal Property Tax" is underway in Seminole County in a big way!

A statewide organization has been created with a membership that could be described as "the cream of the crop" with representatives from industry, agriculture, retailing and consumer.

First steps, as explained by Dallas Hostetter, Executive Director of the Florida State Retailers Association, will be to conduct a study in every county of the state to determine the feasibility of the move to abolish the tax.

Personal property tax has been called by every name that could be garnered into statements denoting the unjustness of the levy. Lawmakers have been forthright in their statements regarding it—businessmen have been equally vociferous in their views.

For instance, most business people point to the fact that a tax of one-tenth of a mill is applied to "cash on hand" in banks and depositories. But on inventories, after money has been turned into merchandise, the tax increases 410 times.

Not only is the tax so outrageously high but it is repetitious since inventories include merchandise on which tax has already been paid—it is, as the businessman says—tax on top of tax, over and over again in some instances.

The machinery and tools with which industry tools and manufactures merchandise is also taxed—year after year—in this personal property tax category.

Homeowners who pay personal property tax are also paying a levy that is unjustly assessed since there are so many inequities existing, which may exist, or that are possible to exist.

It is natural to assume, and those who know the basis on which municipalities and counties receive funds for government operation, that should the personal property tax be repealed there must be some replacement of funds so drastically would the cities and counties be affected.

Therein lies the problem.

Nevertheless, the new organization is determined to dig and dig and dig until an answer is reached—it intends, through efforts of the combined forces of many organizations, to come up with a feasible approach to the problem.

On June 21, representatives from the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Commercial Activities Committee will meet with other groups from all over the state to begin the studies and offer suggestions.

This is one move that should meet public approval—a move that merits the cooperation of every person in Seminole County as well as those throughout the state.

There Are Three Steps To Take

Three main factors are operative in the auto accident picture. The first and most important of these is the ability and fallibility of drivers — their skill, temperament, judgement, physical condition, and so forth.

A second factor is the laws that regulate driving, and the extent to which they are enforced. A third is the equipment involved, including vehicles and the road systems over which they pass.

Each of these avenues is an avenue for improvement. If society is to make a really substantial reduction in the shocking highway toll, then each of these three avenues for improvement must be utilized to the greatest feasible extent. In each case, much more could be done than has been done in the past.

Training people to be better drivers—not only more skillful, but much more aware of their responsibility to exercise judgment and restraint in old-fashioned courtesy—is essential, but it takes a lot of time. Improving laws and stepping up enforcement also require much time.

Even so, it might as well be said here again that there's no time like now for a new and more vigorous attack on these twin aspects of the highway problem. The same goes for their equipment. Detroit knows more about safety engineering than it is building into cars. Research on devices to avert accidents has almost reached fruition in some cases. The missing element is a strong, unmistakable demand that the fullest possible use be made of what is known about how to prevent or at least reduce accidents by mechanical means.

What About Room For Dissent

A columnist's recent plea for non-conformity must have struck a responsive note in many Americans who prize our national heritage. For these United States were founded by—and nurtured on the thinking of—non-conformists.

But as a nation grows rich and powerful there is a natural tendency to rely on the old methods, and the old formulas. Pressures arising from multiple sources tend to make people regard the status quo as most desirable. Also, a culture which has developed the use of the machine to a high degree, as in the United States, cannot afford to permit individualistic tendencies to run rampant. Picture the chaos on any street during the rush hour with non-conformists on the loose.

Nevertheless, the columnist's argument has merit. Out of concern for the future well-being of our society, it behooves us to see to it that our dissenters, even our eccentric, are not crushed under the weight of conformity.

FHA Officials Are Studying Proposal

By EDWARD COWAN

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) is studying a proposal to give future home buyers with FHA-insured mortgages a choice of how to pay the insurance premium.

Home buyers now include in their monthly payments a one-half of one per cent charge figured annually on the unpaid balance of a mortgage. Under the proposed change the buyer would be given the option of paying the entire premium when the home loan is made — probably at between 5 and 8 per cent of the principal amount.

The plan was suggested to FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason at a closed-door meeting with an advisory committee of bankers, life insurance representatives and other lenders.

To Be Studied

Members of the committee doubted that a lump sum payment would mean any savings for home buyers. Mason said he would study the matter.

Meantime FHA officials threw cold water on another proposal that FHA reduce its insurance premium to a single, one-half of one per cent charge on the principal amount of the mortgage. That plan was advanced by builder William Levitt — of the Levitt-operating expenses.)

Mason accepted a committee recommendation that FHA review the actuarial assumptions on which the premium is based to see if they are not unduly pessimistic.

FHA officials pointed out that the agency pays insured mortgagors a dividend covering the difference between their premium payments and actual FHA expenses. In 1967 the agency paid dividends of eight million dollars.

Levitt contended that the FHA's 600-million dollar reserve was more than ample protection.

Only Congress Could Reduce

In any case, the FHA official said, a reduction in the premium would require congressional action, not very likely this late in the year. The law authorizes the present FHA premium payment arrangement at not less than one-half point rate and not more than one per cent.

Levitt also said that with home building important to many sectors of the economy, part of the insurance premium should be paid by the treasury out of general tax revenues. Mason's advisory committee disagreed, holding that FHA should be completely self-supporting, as it now is. (The premium payments also cover FHA

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES H. McCANN

UPI Foreign News Analyst

Last week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, France's new premier, struck back last week against a challenge to his authority by right-wing extremists.

The extremists are members of the so-called Committee of Public Safety in Algeria, where they engineered the army revolt that put De Gaulle in power.

They sent De Gaulle a demand that he ban all activities by French political parties and set up in Paris a French Committee of Public Safety—obviously aimed at dictating policy to him.

De Gaulle retorted that the committee's demands were "annoying and intemperate." He ordered Gen. Raoul Salan, whom he had named supreme military and civil authority in Algeria, not to meddle in politics.

De Gaulle made his first move in the foreign affairs field by inviting Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to confer with him. Dulles accepted promptly. He will fly to Paris on July 4.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan conferred for three days in Washington.

They discussed a wide range of international problems including the prospect for a "summit" conference with Soviet Russia, disarmament, the Middle East and means of stimulating world trade. They discussed also the possible course of De Gaulle's foreign policy.

Eisenhower proposed to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that technical talks by experts representing the allied nations and countries of the Soviet bloc meet in Geneva, Switzerland, about July 1 to discuss a possible agreement to suspend nuclear weapons tests.

Khrushchev's acceptance was regarded as certain.

The test suspension talks and the forced landing of an American

Army helicopter in East Germany confronted Dulles with diplomatic problems involving the Chinese Communist government and the East German Communist government, which are not recognized by the United States.

Dulles said at a press conference in Washington that it might be necessary to set up inspection posts in China as part of any agreement to suspend the nuclear weapons tests.

This would mean bringing the Chinese Reds into negotiations without committing the United States to recognize the Peking regime.

As regards the helicopter, Dulles refused to arrange the release of the nine officers and men who occupied it and who are held in East Germany.

Dulles said if necessary the United States will deal directly with the East German Reds to free the Army men.

He emphasized that any negotiations would not imply recognition of the East German regime.

When you have people kidnapped," he explained, "you deal with the kidnappers."

29 Oil Companies Begin Fight

By HARRY WILSON SMARKE

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) Twenty-nine oil companies indicted in Alexandria, Va., last month on charges of conspiring in 1956-57 to raise and fix crude oil and gasoline prices began their fight for vindication this week.

Preliminary legal maneuvering indicated the fight, like the long-pending anti-trust cartel suit in New York, could last for years.

Attorneys for the accused quickly won from Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan postponement of formal arraignment until September. They also advised the court they would demand bills of particulars on all charges; would challenge the legality of the grand jury which voted the indictment; would demand surrender of all company documents impounded by the court after the grand jury finished with them.

The indictment aroused industry-wide ire. Its resentment was epitomized by general counsel Russell B. Brown of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America. He said it was "inconceivable" the industry's price structure should be expected to remain static over the past five years while production costs had tripled.

Oil Prices Rise

The industry raised crude oil field prices an average of 25 cents a barrel in January, 1967, after Humble Oil & Refining Co., a Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary — both among the indicted — broke the fix. Gasoline prices also were raised. It was the first crude oil jump in four years and was defended as "an economic necessity."

The indictment said this added up to collusion, in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, "the effect of which was to increase, fix, and stabilize prices, and suppress competition."

"The charges are flimsy and vague," said Brown. "The price increase in crude was necessary, long overdue, and inevitable. Between June, 1955, and January, 1957, while crude prices remained unchanged, steel tubular goods prices increased six times; wages rose on five occasions. New wage scales are now being negotiated. Another steel price increase is expected in July. The industry continues to absorb these rising costs."

Similar statements were issued by some of the defendants but none was as strong as Brown's. "It is unfortunate," he said, "that an industry which has rendered such great services; at so little cost; could be subjected to harassment and misleading and damaging publicity as a result of charges, which, at best, are anemic and unjustifiable."

The grand jury convened 18 months ago for an investigation independent of some made by congressional anti-monopoly committees. Assistant Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, head of the anti-trust division, said the Justice Department had "long been concerned" with industry pricing policies.

Judge Bryan gave the grand jury wide latitude to search for anti-trust violations and the right to subpoena witnesses and records anywhere in the United States. This week he set July 16 as the date for arguments on the impounded documents and Aug. 1 as the cut-off date for filing defense motions. A possible arraignment date will be fixed on Sept. 10.

Motherhood Possible Despite Heart Disease

By NORMAN H. SUNDBLON, M.D.

MANY women mistakenly believe that because they have, or have had, heart disease they cannot bear children. Unfortunately, this widespread idea has deprived many a woman of the happiness of motherhood.

The truth is that heart disease need not necessarily be a bar to pregnancy. In certain few cases, however, it is very dangerous to a woman suffering from severe heart trouble. It could be, and has been, fatal in some instances.

Your Case May Differ

I don't want any woman to go through life under the impression that you can never become a mother just because your heart isn't quite as it should be. Your case might be entirely different from the next one. Only your doctor can decide whether pregnancy might harm your heart.

There is no question that pregnancy causes some work for the heart. During the first three months, the extra work load is not too great. As time goes on, each week the heart must work harder and harder since blood must be pumped to supply the unborn child as well as the mother.

Extra Duty

There is no letup in this extra duty the heart must perform until about the eighth month. Day and night, every minute, every hour, the heart has to pump harder.

For some women with heart conditions this would be too much of a strain. For others it would not.

Generally, a doctor will base his decision on whether a heart patient can successfully have a baby upon the following conditions:

1. Amount of enlargement of the heart. The more serious conditions usually produce greater enlargement.
2. Amount of exercise the woman can perform without causing heart difficulty. If a normal exercise pattern can be maintained, the better the chance for a successful birth.
3. Presence of symptoms indicating heart damage. From these symptoms a doctor might be able to determine the advisability of having a baby.

Any irregularities of the heartbeat, combined with the other factors, the heart patient will help in the diagnosis of the seriousness of the heart condition.

Be wise and be safe. If you have a heart condition, check with your doctor about the advisability of motherhood.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q. M.: Is there any chance of an enlarged liver returning to its normal size?

A.: It all depends upon the cause of the enlargement. If it is due to heart disease, once the heart disease is corrected, the liver enlargement usually clears up. The same applies to liver infections in the most instances. However, if the enlargement is due to cancer or cirrhosis of the liver that has remained untreated too long, the enlargement usually persists.

New Turkey Caller

Turkey hunters, during the season, will have another device to attract the wary birds to within range.

An eye-brow Warren of Lake Wales has created what he calls a "new turkey caller." Every hunter will want one in his bag. In the first place, Warren announced, the new turkey caller is inexpensive and easy to carry.

"I invented the gadget in January of this year," stated Warren "and it makes the same sound every time you blow it."

Anyone can work it, if instructions are followed, he said "and some of the veteran hunters of the area have passed their approval on the gimmick."

Warren, displaying his plastic and rubber turkey caller, said that "turkeys are anywhere around here—they'll answer!"

The inventor stated that a person is being applied for and the "Warren Turkey Caller" is being put on the market for the coming season.

"All of the local sporting goods stores will handle them," the inventor said "and I am also going to put them in stores throughout the state."

The gadget is packed in cellophane bags and are distributed on cards.

"I hope turkey hunters will take advantage of the caller that I've created," Warren said "I've shown and demonstrated my caller to, has wanted one," Warren said.

Fishermen Irate Upon Finding Empty Pond

HARTFORD, Conn. — (UP) — Red-faced officials of the State Fish and Game Department admitted somebody goofed when angry fishermen pointed out in a department-provided pamphlet that Day Pond in Colchester was stocked with trout and open for fishing.

The anglers had risen before dawn on opening day and made the trip to the pond, only to find it dry as a bone.

The pond had been drained by the State Park and Forest Commission to do some work there and the public wasn't notified.

Batting Average Leaders Challenged

By PETER SCHWALZ
League (St. Petersburg)

ORLANDO — It took nearly 60 days but they finally arrived—challengers that is, to the domination by St. Petersburg's Tom Hamilton, Art Pennington, and George Banks of Florida State League batting averages through Thursday night.

At that hour, Hamilton was on top with a .361 but Jim Niemann of Palatka, one of the loop's coming rookies was right on his heels with a .371, and Bill Robinson, the former Auburn star now with Cocoa, had seemed to a .363.

In addition, the veteran German Pissaro after heat and at bat week's to date was hitting .367 as well as leading the loop with 18 home runs and standing second in RBI's with 30 to Ben's 28.

Meantime, the veteran Art Pennington, plagued with aches and ailments, had slumped to a .330 and young Mike Tresh, St. Pete's 28-year bonus baby, was down to a .322.

A challenger also has arisen against Bill Martin, Palatka shortstop who appeared headed for an easy stolen base championship. Martin had 17 through Thursday but Cocoa's Bob Wilson was up there with 14.

The week day St. Pete's sensational home-stand winning streak—31 wins in 32 home games—ended Thursday night when Tampa took a 6 to 4 decision. Tampa is the only club to have won over St. Pete at home this year, the Tarpons stopping the saints at home after they had won 19 straight there.

St. Pete had won 13 straight, too, until the Tarpons took them Thursday night. This streak moved them to a six game lead over second place Daytona which no one would say that this was enough to win the first half pennant with. The half ends at midnight next Thursday but before that hour the Saints and Islanders meet three times, including an important game tonight in Daytona at 8:30.

Player Of The Day

By United Press International
Curt Raydon, a gangling right-handed pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, is just one more proof that old Branch Rickey had a sharp eye for young talent.

Rickey acquired Raydon in 1953 when he sent infielder Danny O'Connell to the Milwaukee Braves for seven players and an estimated $15,000. Raydon then was just one of those guys old Branch "added" to the deal after it really was consummated—almost as an after-thought.

The old man is long since retired but Raydon is just developing into a front-liner. Thursday he hurled a two-hitter against the San Francisco Giants to give the Pirates a 2-1 victory.

A native of Bloomington, Ill., Raydon spent five years in the minors before he made the major leagues, but it appears that he's making the most of his chance.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A scheduled July 7 bout between Joey Giambra and Joey Giardello has been moved up to Monday night June 30. The fight at the San Francisco Cow Palace was rescheduled because it was feared the long July 4 weekend would affect attendance. The event will not be broadcast or televised.

Australia Has Fish Mystery

EDMON, Australia — (UP) — Trawler skipper Jack Gardner, a veteran of 30 years along the Australian coast, recently caught a species of fish new to him—and to recognized experts in Sydney.

Several theories have been put forward as to its true identity. A sample has gone into cold storage at Sydney Museum, awaiting inspection by museum curator William Whitley, at present touring the United States.

"The water must be teeming with them," Gardner said elatedly describing his surprise catch. "These fish are good to eat. There's a profitable market in them, and all the Eden fishing fleet will be on the look-out from now on."

"We were three miles off the Australian continental shelf—about 34 miles from shore—fishing in about 2,000 feet of water. In three hauls—with two-inch trawling line connected to 100-pound breaking strain nylon—we caught 12 with a total weight of more than 60 pounds. They were about 12 inches long. We lost at least another 20."

American fishing, enthusiast Chuck Walker, who settled in Australia shortly after World War II, said he's seen the fish off the Florida coast.

"They look like blue-fin travel, which grow all sizes and taste like snapper," he said. "But I certainly haven't heard of them down here before."

Tom C. Roughley, a Fisheries Department officer and author of several noted works on fishing in the South Pacific, failed to identify the fish. And that was enough for the Sydney Museum officials. They'll wait for expert Whitley before making up their minds.

Additional Pay for Vet Dependents

Only veterans receiving disability compensation from Veterans Administration for service-connected ailments rated 50 per cent or more disabling may be entitled to additional allowances for dependents.

Benjamin S. Beach, Officer in Charge of the Central Florida VA office, said dependents include the wives, minor children and dependent parents of eligible veterans.

He explained the law does not authorize payments for dependents of veterans whose service-connected disabilities are found to be less than 50 per cent in degree.

Veterans receiving pensions for nonservice-connected disabilities also are not eligible, Beach said.

He said the additional allowances are paid according to the number and type of dependents and at different rates for wartime or peacetime disabilities. The allowances also are adjusted upward with the degree of disability in excess of the qualifying minimum of 50 percent, he added.

Full information is available at any VA office, Beach said.

Some Risks That Lurk In the Television Set

By NORMAN M. BUNDEN, M. D.

There is more to watching television than meets the eye. Although most of us have had vast experience in television, the majority of us still make many potentially harmful mistakes as we watch the TV screen.

In the following series of six articles which begins today, Dr. Norman M. Bunden lays down a few basic rules which will enhance our enjoyment of TV and protect our eyes and our general health.

VIDEO, television, TV or 21-inch monitor — whatever you call it — that Cyclops in your living room or den plays an increasingly important part in your life.

A recent national survey reported that the average American spends slightly more than five hours per day watching television. Experts say that probably devotes more time to sitting and watching the TV screen than you give to any other activity except sleeping.

What Does It Mean?

Does this mean that we are doomed to become a nation of bi-oculars, nearsighted individuals? Does it mean that the electronic baby sitter is ruining our youngsters?

The answer to both questions is "No" — with a qualified "if."

When properly used, television won't harm your eyes or vision and it won't adversely affect your children.

No Simple Procedure

But how many of you have taken the time to learn just how you and your youngsters should watch TV? If in not the simple procedure you might imagine. And I dare say that most of you may be making many mistakes, many potentially damaging mistakes.

So let me give you a few rules which I have drawn up after careful study.

While watching television may tire your brain and sting your eyes, it will not damage them providing:

1. You sit the proper distance from the TV set.
2. The TV room is lighted adequately (and the lights are shaded properly).
3. The TV set is adjusted correctly.
4. Your glasses, if you wear them, are focused properly for viewing TV.
5. You take periodic "breaks" to rest your eyes.
6. You don't become a TV addict.

How to Sit

First, let's discuss the matter of sitting. You can't just plopp onto the floor near the TV screen and expect to escape vision difficulties.

There are many complicated formulas for determining the distance you should sit from the TV screen. One method is to hold your open hand out at arm's length in front of your eyes. Step backward until the screen is covered by your hand. Then sit and watch.

Generally, it is best to sit at least six feet from the screen and sit on a chair directly in front of the set. Viewing the screen from the floor, or from another angle, is apt to give you headaches.

Not Too Close

Sitting too close to the screen places too much of a strain on your eyes as they strive to keep the images in focus.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mr. V. N.: Can putting vitamins in the ice box destroy their potency?

Answer: No; freezing usually preserves rather than harms them. Excessive heat can be detrimental to vitamins.

Orange City Resident Dies

Mrs. Augusta Kayser passed away at her home in Orange City at 8:45 p. m. Saturday night following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Kayser had lived in Orange City for the past four years. She was a member of the All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford.

Survivors include one niece, Mrs. Eva Desnos of Orange City.

Funeral Mass will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday morning at the All Souls Catholic Church with Rev. Father Richard Lyons officiating. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. tonight at Briston Funeral Home.

Burial will be in All Souls Cemetery.

A group of eight Sanford Merchants and businessmen volunteered to attend a statewide meeting in Winter Park on June 21 at 10 a. m. to get the research program underway.

Those who will go from Sanford include: Francis Roumillat, Clyde Robertson, Richard Deas, Jimmy Crapps, F. D. Scott, Lyman Phillips, Hubert Pearce, and John Krider.

Domestic Print Production Reaches All-Time High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Domestic newspaper production reached an all-time high in 1957, the Commerce Department has reported to Congress.

The report was submitted to the House Commerce Subcommittee.

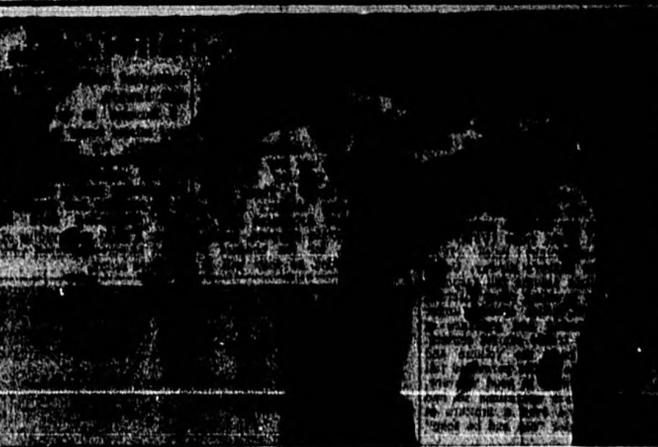

Domestic production last year totaled 1,800,000 tons, breaking the previous record of nearly 1,700,000 tons in 1956.

Domestic production last year met about 93 per cent of the U. S. need for newsprint. Imports last year were down 350,000 tons from 1956 to a total of 5,200,000 M tons.

Newsprint consumption in this country last year amounted to about 6,800,000 tons, down 0.4 per cent from 1956.

TREASURY REPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury issued a final report on its recent $9,500,000,000 financing. It said holders of three maturing issues exchanged all but 254 million dollars worth of their securities for the new Treasury issues offered. Subscriptions for a new 2 3/8 per cent bond totaled $7,384,311,500. The balance of the rollover, $1,815,281,000, went into a 1 1/4 per cent certificate.

Stetson Admission, Placement Program Gets Underway

Ninety-nine gifted high school students, their parents, and a staff of 30 instructors met yesterday afternoon for an orientation on Stetson University's Program of Early Admission and Advanced Placement.

Today, the 30 young women, including Penelope Blackford of Altamonte Springs and Ann DeBacco of Oviedo and 40 young men began an eight-week program of concentrated study, designed as a thorough and detailed screening program for early admission and advanced placement. English, mathematics, and reading will be taught. Developmental reading will be stressed, seeking speed and comprehension, but not speed at the sacrifice of comprehension.

There will be frequent conference periods with each member of the staff having three or four advisees. The staff also will meet at least twice weekly in a seminar for self-evaluation as well as evaluation of the program. Credit will be given to those enrolled in the program as well as to some of the staff of instructors. And the entire project will be used by Harland C. Merriam, of the Stetson faculty, who is assistant director of the program, as the basis for his doctoral project at Harvard University.

Seventy-nine of the members of the class are juniors and two are sophomores. Those who pass the course with distinction will be eligible for admission to college this fall at Stetson or elsewhere or may return to their high schools for additional study. Eighteen are seniors who hoped for advanced placement when they enroll this fall at the college of their choice. They are:

While most of the members of the class are from Florida, approximately a dozen are from half-a-dozen states from New England south along the Atlantic coast. Most of the instructors in the course are young teachers drawn from the public school system of Florida. Others are from the Stetson faculty. One is a graduate student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The students will be divided into four groups with two teachers of English, two teachers of mathematics, and two teachers of reading assigned in teams for each. Each day's schedule calls for six one-hour periods, two each for mathematics and English and one each for reading and conferences. Each day also includes a planned recreation program and a period of supervised study. Saturdays are reserved for academic work and visits by parents. Church attendance and parents' visits are on the Sunday program.

When the program ends, the results will be tabulated in an effort to answer four major questions. They are:

Are superior high school juniors ready for college?

Are superior high school seniors ready for advanced college work?

How can schools deepen and intensify the learning of superior students?

How can colleges and high schools work together to insure the best progress for students esp-

THE CARD OF THANKS
 Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but the courteous telephone calls, the letters, and the kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.
 Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.
 There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.
THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE
 It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They send a real notice thereby. Precious recollections of a suitable verse brings back to them long, pleasant recollections. An Eliza Cook, the English poetess so beautifully expressed it:
 "How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
 What memory plays an old tune on the heart."
 Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.
 If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heart-strings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.
THE FIFTEEN
 Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

De Gaulle Plans To Expedite French Atomic Program

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles De Gaulle will press an "offensive" to make France the world's fourth producer of atomic weapons...

The foreign ministry declined comment on reports that De Gaulle, who said Friday that the French would place in the Western world "without confining ourselves to it," is preparing to recognize Red China.

Sources close to the government said De Gaulle is anxious to enhance France's prestige by winning it a place in the exclusive circle of atomic powers...

The demand for nuclear information is expected to be a key feature of De Gaulle's talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles here next month.

Issues discussed by the cabinet in addition to the atomic question were believed to include: Plans for meetings between De Gaulle and other chiefs of government.

The situation in once-French Lebanon. The prospect of restoring diplomatic relations with Tunisia.

East-West summit talks. The perennial problem of the Algerian war.

Lovesick Airman Faces Possible Court-Martial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Donald Keeton, the lovesick Dallas airman who faked a "suicide flight," awaited transfer today to Keesler Air Force Base at Gulfport, Miss., where he faces a possible court-martial.

Keeton, an airman third class presently under armed guard at Carswell AFB Hospital here, is expected to be charged with being absent without leave, for leaving a suicide note pinned to his bunk and taking off for Dallas in a rented plane to see his girl Thursday.

The note, which threatened suicide because of the sad state of Keeton's love life, resulted in a three-day aerial search by civilian and military authorities for the youth.

While the search for the airman was at its height, the object of love, 17-year-old Doris Lynn Bowling, tearfully told newsmen, "I love him, but not enough to marry him."

Disclosure that the threatened suicide was a hoax and Keeton's arrest by Dallas police apparently doused the last flickering flame of a dying love.

"I don't care about him anymore," the 17-year-old said Monday night.

BIRD IS READY

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—Lockheed's new "Bird," a faster version of the X-7 missile, was ready for the Air Force today a month ahead of schedule.

The 37-foot, air-breathing missile will be tested from a B-50 bomb bay at the Air Force's Missile Development Center at Alamogordo, N.M.

Lockheed said the missile is equipped with a parachute and a nose spike, enabling it to be recovered and flown again. Each recovery would save $30,000.

shared the view of Mrs. Walker when he said "The proposal is very inadequate and undesirable."

The two county department heads preferred the building of an addition to the present court house, at a cost of $22,000.

In order to house three addressographs used jointly by the Tax Assessor and the Tax Collector.

Renovation of the court house to provide additional space in the basement would cost $15,000 or less, including complete air conditioning, and a stairwell to connect the two cooperating offices.

U.S. Would Send Troops To Lebanon If Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States might send troops into Lebanon if developments there should call for it.

He told a news conference the United States was prepared to contribute to a United Nations force there but also might act on its own if certain contingencies, which he declined to explain, should arise.

At the same time, Dulles charged the Soviet Union with apparently trying to break off preparations for a carefully organized summit conference and force the West directly into a top-level meeting on the Kremlin's terms.

Dulles asserted that Soviet

Premier Nikita Khrushchev apparently has adopted the brutal terrorist methods of the late Josef Stalin which he once denounced. That was Dulles' reaction to the news that the Communists have executed former Premier Imre Nagy and others who led the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

The secretary said the situation in Lebanon is a matter of considerable anxiety to the United States, which has special interest in affairs in that area because of the so-called Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine.

He said that the trouble in Lebanon, which appeared to be at least partly civil in character, was well within the competence of the United Nations because it is empowered to step into such disputes when they threaten the peace of the area.

The United States is watching the situation closely, Dulles said, and he knows that the American 6th Fleet has Marine landing parties which could go ashore in Lebanon if they were asked.

Requested funds will also include the preparation of a land use map which has been termed "very important."

Ball said in his written request "You will note that the Zoning Department has presented a budget which is based on estimated receipts."

The District Home Demonstration Agent Helen D. Holstein submitted a written request that the County Home Demonstration Department budget be increased approximately $200.

"The District Agent is pleased with the progress in Seminole County and the outstanding work of the County Home Demonstration Agent," the letter stated.

County Agent Cecil Tucker II summarized both the County Agent's budget and the budget request of the Home Demonstration Agent.

"The overall increase in the combined budgets would come to approximately $1,350," he said.

Commissioner Homer Little told the board that an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent would be requested by the County Welfare Department.

Commission Chairman John Krider pointed out that "We don't have enough figures to do much until additional information is received."

The preliminary budget must be completed by July 15.

With two building inspectors employed by the Seminole County Zoning Commission, the current building trend indicates that another building inspector will have to be employed in order to keep abreast of the work of the office, he said.

In a report to the board of commissioners, Brown pointed out that from Jan. 1 to May 31 this year the Zoning Commission office has issued 801 building permits. Since Mar. 15, there have been 218 electrical permits issued and 323 plumbing permits.

In addition to the 98 building permits issued up to June 15, the office has also issued 18 electrical permits and 83 plumbing permits.

Already this year, during the previous months since January 1, home construction has exceeded more than $1,000,000 a month.

Brown stated, at a special meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners that construction figures are expected to climb. Already, there are several large developments "opening up during the next few months," he said.

"I want to see us do something for both the Tax Assessor and the Tax Collector, but I'd like to spend less than $22,000," Commissioner Dodd said.

The discussions were temporarily halted and when resumed later Commissioner Swofford stated "I don't think we ought to spend a lot of money on the court house."

Clerk of Court O. P. Herndon said "We can't have everything we want." "I'd like to have the two offices all together but we're not talking about convenience now, we're talking about spending money and adding millage."

Commissioners agreed to allow Architect Burton to explore the possibilities of utilizing a portion of the court house lobby in extending the office of the Tax Assessor.

Discussion Starts On County Budget

Where's the money coming from? That question was the most important one at a meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners Monday afternoon to start discussions on the 1958-59 county budget.

Clark of the Board of O. P. Herndon, several weeks ago, requested that department and group petitions making up the county budget be submitted prior to June 1.

Only seven budget requests were read to county commissioners yesterday with four representatives of departments personally appearing before the board in behalf of their requests.

Sheriff J. I. Hobby's budget request is for $85,000, $5,000 less than the 1957-58 budget. However, the sheriff pointed out that the amount requested includes the employment of an additional deputy and the addition of another patrol car.

So far, Sheriff Hobby is the only county officer requesting less than his previous year's budget.

"Service cannot be measured on a dollar basis," said Dr. Terry Byrd, Seminole County Health Officer. Submitting a condensed report for 1957-58 pointing out the accomplishments of his department, Dr. Byrd asked for a budget increase of $2,000.

In addition to the budget request, Dr. Byrd also asked that a Health Center estimated to cost $100,000 be constructed during the coming year. "The present plant is inadequate," he said, "and I urge your immediate consideration."

Fifty per cent of the construction costs of such a center, Dr. Byrd pointed out is paid by the U. S. Government. He said the county's share would be less than $50,000 since the property on which the building is constructed is considered as part of the local share. It is proposed that the Health Center be located on property owned by the county in the vicinity of the present court house.

The Board of Forestry requested $833.70.

The Seminole County Zoning Commission received a letter from its chairman, Raymond M. Hall, and represented at the meeting by Zoning Director Robert A. Brown.

Jet Fighter, B-57 Collide Over Desert Killing Two Airmen

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—A jet fighter and a B-57 collided Monday over the desert, sending the bomber crashing to earth.

Both airmen aboard the bomber were killed.

The fighter, its right wing badly damaged, managed to return to Edwards Air Force Base. The pilot was not hurt.

Spokesmen for the Air Force said the two planes were on training flights. The jet fighter from George AFB and the bomber from Carswell AFB, when they collided at 32,000 feet over the desert. The jet bomber spun to earth 10 miles south of Tehachapi, Calif.

The Air Force identified the dead as Lt. Col. Boyd L. Graubaug, 40, the pilot from Van West, Ohio, survived by his wife, Isabel, and three children; and Edward C. Gahl, 34, the copilot from Oklahoma City, Okla., survived by his wife, Glynna, and two children.

The air force said the two F-100s were on a standard cross-country training flight, flying at 32,000 feet, when they encountered the B-57 bomber which was on a familiarization flight.

A public information spokesman estimated Capt. Cecil D. Crabb, a member of the 479th Fighter-Day wing at George, was traveling 450 miles an hour when his fighter collided with the bomber. Crabb nursed his damaged craft back to his base with flying mate, Lt. James J. Wilson, shepherding him in the other fighter.

The Air Force said the three aircraft were operating in a restricted military flight test area and were not on commercial airways.

Four bombardiers from Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven (VAH-11) received "Bulls Eye" awards from Capt. J. R. Reedy, USN, Commander, Heavy Attack Wing ONE. The presentation was made during the VAH-11 Administrative Inspection held last week.

County Issues Over $1/2 Million In Home Construction Permits

The continued growth of Seminole County is evidenced by the more than a half million dollars in home construction permits issued by the County Zoning Commission during the first 15 days of June.

Zoning Director Robert A. Brown said yesterday that nearly 1,000 permits were issued from his office during the half-month period, June 1-15.

Estimated valuation of the 98 permits issued by the Seminole County Zoning Commission is $636,000, Brown pointed out.

The estimate is based on approximately 70 per cent of final valuation, the Zoning Director said.

Already this year, during the previous months since January 1, home construction has exceeded more than $1,000,000 a month.

Brown stated, at a special meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners that construction figures are expected to climb. Already, there are several large developments "opening up during the next few months," he said.

Land Owners Are Told To Remove Road Obstructions

Owners of property west of Geneva to State Road 426 are being given 10 days to remove obstructions so that the old Cochran Trail can be used as a public road.

Jim Lee and Ben Ward of Uviedo appeared before the Board of County Commissioners this morning stating that the road has been used by the public since 1890.

According to the complainants, a gate, which has been kept locked and barred wire have been erected.

"We have already notified the owners that the barriers should be removed but we have received no answer," said Commissioner B. C. Dodd.

Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr. was authorized to notify the land owners that the barriers are to be removed.

Floodwaters Force 2,300 Families To Leave Homes

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—Debris-laden floodwaters from the Wabash River spilled over levees into two states, forcing some 2,300 families to flee their homes.

The Red Cross said it was "one of the most widespread disasters ever to strike Indiana."

The major breakthrough occurred just south of west Terre Haute Monday, washing away 800 feet of levee wall and pouring over thousands of acres of rich farmland. Some 1,500 persons were forced to flee their homes.

Other breaks occurred at Grayville on the Knox-Sullivan County line, farther south at Oakport where hundreds of volunteers fought a night-long battle to reinforce the bulwarks, and at Hulsanville, Ill., where waters poured through with such velocity sandbag crews gave up any attempt to stop its flow.

At Marion, disaster relief headquarters of the Red Cross said reports from 10 counties indicated about 2,300 families have been forced to abandon their homes since the flood situation was created little more than a week ago. Nine homes were total wrecks, and another 1,854 have been damaged by water, the Red Cross said.

The square blocks of west Terre Haute remained under water today. The river splashed through 40 per cent of the town Monday and left some homes with only their roofs showing.

Illinois families on the west side and Indiana on the east side of the dividing Wabash left their homes to seek out the danger.

An earlier report showed that as of last Friday, nearly 65,000 acres of cropland had been inundated.

11-Year-Old Bride Has 7-Pound Girl

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI)—An 11-year-old bride, who last year stirred up a controversy, and her three-day-old baby were reported in good condition today at University of Missouri hospital.

Mrs. Charles William Turner, who was 10 years old when she married nearly a year ago, looks more like a well-developed 18-year-old than a young mother of 11.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Turner is the youngest mother in the hospital's history.

Her 30-year-old bus-driver husband was arrested July 17 on a warrant charging he falsely swore his bride-to-be was 15 when they applied for a license.

Audrain County prosecutor Lon Lewis later dropped the charge when he learned the newly wed woman was pregnant.

Then Boone County prosecuting attorney Scott Wright began proceedings to have Mrs. Turner declared a ward of the court as a neglected child, but she also dropped charges.

The 7-pound 13-ounce baby, Pamela Ann, has blonde hair and grey eyes.

Floodwaters Force 2,300 Families To Leave Homes

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—Debris-laden floodwaters from the Wabash River spilled over levees into two states, forcing some 2,300 families to flee their homes.

The Red Cross said it was "one of the most widespread disasters ever to strike Indiana."

The major breakthrough occurred just south of west Terre Haute Monday, washing away 800 feet of levee wall and pouring over thousands of acres of rich farmland. Some 1,500 persons were forced to flee their homes.

Other breaks occurred at Grayville on the Knox-Sullivan County line, farther south at Oakport where hundreds of volunteers fought a night-long battle to reinforce the bulwarks, and at Hulsanville, Ill., where waters poured through with such velocity sandbag crews gave up any attempt to stop its flow.

At Marion, disaster relief headquarters of the Red Cross said reports from 10 counties indicated about 2,300 families have been forced to abandon their homes since the flood situation was created little more than a week ago. Nine homes were total wrecks, and another 1,854 have been damaged by water, the Red Cross said.

The square blocks of west Terre Haute remained under water today. The river splashed through 40 per cent of the town Monday and left some homes with only their roofs showing.

Illinois families on the west side and Indiana on the east side of the dividing Wabash left their homes to seek out the danger.

An earlier report showed that as of last Friday, nearly 65,000 acres of cropland had been inundated.
