Father may be famous—his name may glitters in the bright lights where Broadway or his face may provide laughs for millions of movie fans—but daughter isn't doing so badly either. Several daughters of famous fathers and notable mothers of the stage were known as reaching toward stardom of their own right—for example, Carol (above, left) and Dorothy (lower left), daughters of Fred Stone; Ethel Barrymore (left); (across, right), daughter of Ethel Barrymore; and Mary Rogers (lower right), daughter of the intrepid Will of lasso-throwing gun-swinging fame. THEIR DEATHS HELD SUICIDAL

"Suicide wave of unusual magnitude" was the verdict rendered by experts investigating the deaths. Jim (left) and Edward DeGolyer, sons of the Dallas oilman, were found dead in their Park Lane suite set by the girls they met. The two brothers were a "peculiarly straight couple" to the last and the need they inferred in two English girls who were killed in a plane crash. The photo was made in Naples a year ago. A party in Miami, Fla., accepted joint contributions to help the man who is getting along nicely after an appendectomy. Operation on Dr. Gehrig's gland to end another personal ailment was performed yesterday by Dr. J. C. Collins, who reported last night by letter to the authorities at Abendroth.

Former War Secretary
Says Party Will Be Endangered If It
Sells To League

DETROIT, Mar. 1.—Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War under President Hoover, last night warned the national state convention at Michigan that one of the party's greatest dangers was sell-out to the American Legion in the 1936 campaign.

He charged that the Democratic party lost control in the Chicago convention and during the Roosevelt Administration. The former war secretary said that the League now was seeking to discredit the Roosevelt Administration.

"If the Liberty League fails in its attempt to regain control of the Democratic party, it will attempt to name the first acceptable nominee for President," Hurley told the convention.

Hurley offered the following platform for the Republican party in the coming presidential campaign:

1. Recovery of strength and economy of administration of justice.

2. Correct, strengthen, and protect the American economic system.

3. Oppose federal bureaucracy.

4. Oppose destruction of commodities and waste of taxpayers' money as a basis of recovery.

5. Prevent monopoly.

6. Reduce interest rates and tax incomes from government departments.

7. Encourage all forms of relief.

8. Support unemployment and old age insurance (not a dole).

9. Support the President in his plan of relief, efforts to furnish credit at lower interest rates, and the immediate formation of an independent central bank.

10. Make the Republican party liberal, free from minority interests.

11. Encourage the selection of commissioners and chairman of the Tidewater bridge authority.

12. Terminate the "no-man's-land" between the two commissioners and chairman of the Tidewater bridge authority.

13. Open the gates to currency in inflation.

14. Oppose destruction of commodities and waste of taxpayers' money as a basis of recovery.

15. Oppose the "pink slip" publicly justified for income tax, securities, and other legislation.

Trio Use Cashier As

Away With $3000

HAINES CITY, Mar. 1.—(AP)—Law enforcement officers of the northern half of Florida believed tonight three men believed to be led by Hugh Gant, who robbed the State Bank of Haines City of about $3,000 shortly after the bank opened Friday and fled with a negro customer and shielded in making their escape.

They released the negro, Joe Smith on the outskirts of town, but carried H. B. Angle, the cashier, nearly naked before letting him go. They also carried off $1,000 of the earlier planting.

Credit inflation, he said, "was inevitable with revision of the banking system. Credit inflation, however, is based on confidence and fear."

Harter was better in criticism of the recent court decision in the gold and silver case, which held that gold and silver customers had no claim to their earnings.

They released the negro, Joe Smith on the outskirts of town, but carried H. B. Angle, the cashier, nearly naked before letting him go. They also carried off $1,000 of the earlier planting.

Two of the bandits unashedly carried pistols, entered the bank and left in their逃亡。

The City Club offers a happy return of the day to Robert Knight who celebrated his birthday anniversary today, and the other other members of the club.

They will have picked up their cards and tickets, and others who will celebrate birthday anniversaries tomorrow, and congratulated to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Powers, (two), Eddie Powers, on their fifth wedding anniversary, to be celebrated tomorrow.

DETROIT, Mar. 1.—(AP)—Francis Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer, told today that a strike vote has been called among members of 176 locals in motor car industry.

The vote, he said, would be in protest against the action of the national automobile labor board which has been holding collective bargaining elections.

Dillon declined to estimate the number of men who might be involved in the strike but said he was in the first place.

elections held in various places so far has seen the American Federation of Labor win only four percent of the workers.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GIVING GETS—There is that scatterer, and yet increasing; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.—Proverbs 11:24.

If some congressmen had their way the new Public Works Adminstration would be PORK.

More people would buy more lottery tickets if they could borrow more money to buy them with.

It begins to look as if the Farmery Wholesale Market is the big best business in Sanford.

Secretary Wallace says meat prices are going up 32 percent. Well, a fellow can always go fishing.

Who would have thought when Japan staged its little expedition in Manchukuo it would be setting an example for Italy to follow?

When another motorist drives you off the road and into a ditch, just remember that some day he'll meet a road hog too.

The best thing about taking the profits out of war is that if there are no profits in war there will likely be no war.

Most people lost their shirts in the Wall Street crash and now the tax collector is trying to take everything they have left.

It begins to look as if Congress would have to appoint an investigating committee to find out what was in some of those bills which passed last session.

We suppose it is the spirit of brotherly love which makes every successful man call those who have failed worthless bums, and yet makes every failure that all those who have made money are crooks.

Sanford and Seminole County have a splendid program outlined for a Public Works campaign. We wonder just how many of these projects would be carried out if the City and County had to bear the money to pay for them.

Destruction of the Macon fast goes to show that the United States wouldn't stand inflation even with helms.—Bradenton Herald.

And very likely when the crash comes someone would be charged with sabotage.

Secretary Ikes pays his respects to Lucy Long, Father Coughlin, and Dr. Townsend and sends congratulations when he says that we can't follow a magnetic voice over the radio. Well now, we can remember when people used to say that President Roosevelt had a magnetic voice over the radio. And indeed he has. But there is a difference between giving everyone who is hungry and unemployed enough to keep them alive and giving them $200 a month, or $15,000 each outright.

Secretary Ikes also says there is no danger to the freedom of the press that the press is freer in the United States than in any other country of the world. That is not saying much.

American officials warn Germany to stay out of Austria, and insist that there is not the slightest possibility of any union with the German nation. But the Austrian government very probably does not represent the will of the great majority of the Austrian people. About 90 percent of them are in the "anarchists" a far higher percentage of prosperity than anything they have known since the First World War.

The Bradenton Herald and its newspaper, and its newspaper, that they are under German influence. If an election were held to decide the question, it would likely result in a German victory as decisively as the recent Nazi plebiscite.

Florida Improves

R. G. Grassfield, general manager of the State Chamber of Commerce, has just sent out a bulletin in which a good many statistics are given indicating the upward trend of business in the State of Florida. The figures have been compiled by thoroughly reliable authorities and are taken from research departments of a number of State organizations. They leave little doubt that Florida has benefited materially in the past year or two. The more significant figures are as follows:

Fertilizer consumption in Florida in 1933 was 261,950 tons. In 1934 it was 311,143 tons, an increase of 18.8 percent.

Electric power production in 1934 increased 9.4 percent, over 1933—669,653 kilowatt hours as against 611,345.

Retail trade in Florida in 1934 was 26.3 percent greater than it was in 1933, and wholesale trade increased 15.7 percent, which is, obviously, the best indication of increased purchasing power.

One-fourth more was spent for life insurance in Florida in 1934 than in 1933, 24.6 percent to be exact. The figures: $54,041,000 as against $43,368,000.

In building construction contracts awarded in 1934 amounted to $42,459,100 as compared with $28,744,800 in 1933, a gain of 47.8 percent.

For passenger motor cars in 1934 Florida spent 49.1 percent more in 1934 than in 1933, purchasing 26,717 cars as against 17,924. Trucks, 92.2 percent more, 4,186 in 1933 and 8,046 in 1934. There were 55,607 more automobile tags issued in 1934 than in 1933, an increase of 18.8 percent, or from 295,833 to 351,440.

Gasoline consumption jumped up 14.5 percent, from 205,919,932 to 235,712,182 gallons. In gasoline tax the State collected $16,500,273 in 1934 as compared with $14,414,395, which is an increase of 14.5 percent. Due to a lower rate becoming effective motor vehicle tax brought the State in 1933—$4,883,368, in 1934 the amount was $4,224,541, thereby saving the taxpayers 13.1 percent.

Combined fruit, vegetable and general agricultural crops showed a gain of 34.5 percent, from a valuation of $68,945,448 in 1933 to $92,749,615 in 1934, an increase of $23,804,172.

The citrus crop brought a 30 percent increase, from $32,616,151 to $42,401,191; truck vegetables a 43.9 percent increase, from $21,265,283 to $30,598,346, and general agricultural crops a 41.6 percent increase, from $11,915,000 to $15,595,000. Citrus comprised 45.7 percent of the total Florida agricultural crop, truck vegetables 33, general agricultural crops 16.8, berries and melons 4.5.

Florida exported 15 percent more of her products in 1934 than in 1933, $34,359,056 as compared with $29,978,883. Her imports increased from $10,303,000 to $11,923,133, a gain of 15.8 percent.

Handling Complaints

How customers' complaints can be converted from liabilities to assets is an interesting business trend discussed in a good report, "Methods of Handling Customer Complaints," published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

It is shown in the report how the "customer is always right" policy has been applied to the complaint problem by one manufacturer who permits customers to settle their own complaints. It also is pointed out that the so-called "silent complaint" is often considered the most difficult of all complaint problems.

The writer of the report says, "has portrayed the importance of the complaint problem by pointing out that the complaining customer is at the crossroads where he is and what he does in the future depends entirely upon the treatment accorded his complaint." The preservation of good will thus is perhaps the dominating motive in seeking effective methods of handling adjustments.

The writer is bringing more widespread that complaints should be considered as assets rather than as liabilities, that if properly handled they offer opportunities of selling the customer on the company's service, suggest means for bettering of the product and service and point the way to the development of new products and uses.

With respect to the "silent complaint" the report says, "In the opinion of many executives the customer who has drifted away for some obscure reason without offering a complaint presents a more complicated problem than the type which is chronic in demanding adjustments, not only because the former class is more numerous but also because in these cases it is more difficult to trace the causes of the misunderstandings."

To handle this situation, it is explained, some companies make a periodic check-up to discover who have stopped buying, and take various means of trying to regain the business.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Master Brinson Hoolehan entered the room Monday afternoon for an interesting and enthusiastic meeting. The annual election of officers resulted in Mrs. W. M. McElroy being elected president; Mrs. E. L. Peck, vice president; Mrs. H. L. Jones, secretary, and Miss Virginia Smith, treasurer.

The Ichabod Clubbers were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walzak last night. The honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Braschaw of New Jersey who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilson. Dancing followed a five course luncheon made the guests feel that the evening was well spent. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mr. and Mrs. S. THE SANFORD HERALD, SANFORD, FLORIDA

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS
By WALTER LUHMANN

There is the freedom of the press which is guaranteed by the Constitution. There is the independence of the press which is the achievement of newspaper men themselves. Now, it is perfectly possible to have a press which is legally free, but it is not independent because it is the mouthpiece of parties, interests, causes.

The liberties of the press are guaranteed by law, but we have only to look about us in the world today to realize that freedom depends on something more than legal guarantees. The battle to establish the legal guarantees was won in America more than a century ago, but the battle to make those guarantees a permanent part of the heritage of our civilization is still in progress. It will be won if it is won at all, by newspapermen like those on this platform, whose highest ambition in their profession is to get the news and edit it correctly and primly.

If you study the character of the press in countries where the press is no longer free under the law, you will find, I believe, that, with some anomalies and notable exceptions, it was not an independent press.

Predominantly it was journalism of opinion and not of information. News was controlled by editorial opinion, some of it sincere and some of it not, but in any case, the newspapers, by and large, were the organs of governments, or pressure groups, of special interests, of the ins and outs, of conservatives or revolutionaries, of parties, of factions in parties, of ambitions in individuals.

These newspapers were weapons employed in the political conflicts within these nations. They had no standing outside the conflicts. They had not evolved a sufficiently large following among people who depended upon them for knowledge of events and could not accept the special opinions of their editors and owners.

So their fate was bound up with the issues of the conflict. When the interests they served were overthrown by the revolution, they were overthrown, and they lost their legal freedom because they had not achieved their independence.

In support of this argument, I should like to cite a famous text which happens to be appropriate to this occasion. It is from the farewell address and it is the passage in which Washington told his people how they must conduct themselves in order to preserve the independence which they had won. "Nothing is more essential," said he, "than that the members of every state, and particularly of every large state, should be educated in the principles of freedom, and should be taught to value them, and to know how to defend them."

The nation which continues to wage another war, whether it be a national or a continental, in some degree, is at war. With only a small portion of the population engaged in the actual fighting, the rest of the nation, which is not engaged in the actual fighting, has the responsibility of supporting the fighters.

It is the analogy, I think, which the writer of the report has in mind when he says that the politicians and chemists, who could handle metals; the professors of politics are like the physi- and chemists; two creatures who were studying the properties of metals, but the real knowledge of metals lay in the hands of skilled workmen who handed down their rules of thumb methods and manual dexterity to their children.

On this analogy, it may be said, I suppose, that the politicians and the active newspaper men today are like those skilled workmen who could handle metals; the professors of politics are like the physi- and chemists; two creatures who were studying the properties of metals, but there is no reason why men cannot recognize that they have different kinds of work to do, and I have more than a little sympathy with the big friends, whom I mentioned some time ago, who was at least as keenly separated from the world as the real scholars are those who were studying the properties of metals.

I also understand each other. Fortunately we seek the same end which is to enlighten mankind by enlightening ourselves. And seeking the same end we are at least able to work in the same spirit when we remember that the real scholars are those who never cease to be students and that the real newspaper men are those who never cease to be teachers.

This is the common ground on which we stand. It is the common conviction that in the presence of our own ignorance we each others most powerfully when we are most concerned with the search for the truth.

Blind Negro Pulls Plow To Carry Out Bible Admonition

Georgian Hopes Some Day To Get Off Relief System

ALBANY, Ga., Mar. 1.—(AP)— Hitched to a plow, a blind negro paused at the end of a long furrow, freshly turned, and commented:

"The Bible says we have to live by the sweat of our brow, and that is what I am doing."

Guiding the plow was his wife, Guidie Anderson McCoy, who said she and her husband were teaming up now, as they had done for many years, to earn a living from the soil.

McCoy smiled as he spoke and said he was working toward the day when he would no longer find it necessary to get his corn meal, salt pork, coffee and other food-stuffs from relief agencies.

Although blind for 30 years, he said it had been only during the last three years that he had "to be to the country."

He is a man of medium size, but his wife says "he is a mighty powerful man." He has a plow through hand laced with grape roots.

His wife guides him by her voice. She said they had been offered a mule, but rejected it because McCoy was willing to work, and "I couldn't plow no mule."

Last year McCoy made a little money on his cotton. He is to plant one and one-half acres for cotton this year. He also raised a good corn crop, a better crop, folks in the community say, than was grown by some other farmers near his house. The ground has been broken for planting of corn, potatoes and cane.

McCoy and his wife live on land furnished them by Henry Nelson, a farmer. He is also lending them the use of a house and has told them they may have as much land as they can work.

McCoy said he would pay for use of the land by "building it up."

Ransom McCoy is working. He says he wants to get "out of the relief."

Mrs. W. H. Stewart Named President Of County P.T.A.

Dorothy Lang, school nurse, and Mrs. F. E. Houllier, Mrs. George Meloy, and Mrs. Bryan Morris were appointed to serve with Mrs. Lauch in this matter.

Principals from five schools were present and each spoke on the need and importance of Parent-Teacher associations, one saying he would not want to teach school without a P.T.A. Another said he considered it the backbone of a school.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. A. G. Wagner presented Mrs. Dana with a gift from the council, a token of appreciation for her work as president. An invitation from the Lyman P.T.A. for the next meeting was accepted.

Talks To Parents

THE SUPREME EGOTIST

By BROOKIE PETERS CHURCH

Every parent of sixteen and seventeen-year-old girls is inclined to think that 26 or the 18 is the ideal special problem. Susan or Mary or Alice is an exception. No other girl answers back so often or has such violent fits of temper, or is quite so rebellious against restraint.

And yet, if these parents examined notes, they would find that they were all in against pretty much the same situation, some, of course, in more aggravated form than others; and, going back one generation or even two, they would learn to their surprise that their parents and grandparents had been in the same boat.

To seventeen and eighteen, mid-age seems stodgy and unattractive. Fathers and mothers are too old to remember the dreams of youth, too cautious to understand its longing for romance and adventure. To them of protecting a girl seems out of date.

Juliet was an example of this point of view. No one but she knew love, and death was preferable to life on any terms but her own.

The girl of seventeen and eighteen is the supreme egotist. Life begins and ends with her. Invariably that one can ever grow old, ever loss the abounding vitality and ambition of the present. In her effort to escape from the fetters of home and parental care, she strikes out blindly, and seems callous to all the dictates of love and reason.

During these years a girl is better off away from home. College, school, a job, a trip abroad, anything.

Saarlanders Gay On Eve Of Land's Return To Nazis

Valley Turned Back Today After Years Under League Rule

SAARBRUCKEN, Mar. 1.—(AP)—Hilarious Saarlanders staged a record New Year's celebration in the early morning hours to welcome Mar. 1—the day the Saar is officially turned back to Germany by the League of Nations.

From midnight on they hailed a "new and better time" with beer toasts, victory bells, frantic shouts of glee and patriotic songs. Powerful loudspeakers on street corners transmitted military tunes as the revelry continued far into the night.

In keeping with German tradition most Saarlanders greeted the day of return in cafes.

Promptly at midnight the patriotic arose with upraised steins and at a word from a speaker gave a noisy threefold "Victory Bell" followed by a Hitler salute.

France and the League of Nations gave up control of the rich Saar coal basin yesterday to close one of the most hotly contested chapters of the Versailles treaty.

Because Saarlanders voted overwhelmingly in last January's loosely-supervised plebiscite to return to the fatherland, sovereignty over the valley, Germany relinquished in 1918 was transferred back to the Reich in simple ceremonies beginning at 10 A. M.

A galaxy of Nazi notables—Adolf Hitler, Stauffenberg, Minister of Propaganda Paul Joseph Goebbels and possibly Der Fuehrer himself among them—will be on hand to see the Nazi and German flags raised over the government building in Saarbruecken and city halls and police stations throughout the region.

The day will be one of rejoicing throughout the Saar and all Germany. Schools will be closed in the Reich while everything in the Saar will be shut down.

Buerckel, formerly the Reich's spokesman for Saar affairs, will take over the government from the hands of Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, head of the league's committee of three which arranged details of the transfer.

Code Revision Is Awaiting Passage Of New Statute

Present Law Must Be Brought Into Conformity With Act

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—(AP)

A general review and possibly thorough revision of NRA codes might await only the enactment of the new National Industrial Recovery Act for inspection.

Much depends, of course, upon what the new statute, now in the hands of Congressional committees, ultimately contains.

However, it will replace the present law and the code, much of necessity, be brought into conformity with it.

In addition, labor and consumer organizations were looking forward to the expiration and removal of many of the codes established with the June 16 expiration date of the current act, as an opportunity for the presentation of demands for changes.

By that time, too, the supreme court will have spoken on the constitutionality of the Recovery Act as it now stands. There was the possibility that the verdict would call for alteration of price fixing and production control clauses.

Studying this situation NRA officials yesterday noted delayed developments from several sources.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) blocked Senate approval of two separate investigations of NRA and announced he would work for a single inquiry by a special committee.

Conservation Of Florida's
Subsurface Water StudiedState Planning Board Is Handed
Recommendations Of U. S. Agent

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)— Methods of conserving Florida's great underground water supply were outlined today before the state planning board in a report by Donald S. Wallace, district engineer of the United States geological survey, and Herman Gunter, state geologist.

They recommended creating a state water authority or similar commission vested with power to exercise complete control of the state's water resources. An appropriation of not less than $25,000 of state funds to pay expenses of carry on water conservation and studies was proposed.

The report was adopted by the planning board and will be submitted to Governor Dave Shultz for consideration in his message to the Legislature.

The federal government, through its various agencies, would co-operate, Wallace and Gunter said, in the water resource undertaking; it also would assist in financing the work.

Importance of water in Florida was stressed in the report, and Wallace and Gunter said it "has played a most important part in the formation and early geological life of Florida and continues to exert especially vital influence in its present day life."

To water, they said, the state owes its very formation, because its land area resulted from sedimentation deposited by relatively shallow ocean waters lapping the ancient Appalachian mountain system in the dim and distant past.

As a means of taking best advantage of the natural water resources, and conserving them for future generations, Wallace and Gunter proposed:

Creation of a state water authority or similar commission to which would be entrusted the centralized responsibility of (among other things): investigating and collecting basic data on the water resources.

Co-operating with state board of health in matters relating to drilling wells and in regulating sanitary conditions.

Authority to co-operate with federal government on projects involving state and federal interests.

Protecting the public interest in utilizing and operating the water resources.

Conserving and preserving the quality and purity of artesian water by capping wells not in use; valving wells to prevent continuous or wild flow of water; plugging abandoned wells to prevent pollution of adjacent water.

Control of all well drilling, possibly requiring permits before drilling to insure proper casing of wells to prevent escape of water into sub-surface formations.

IT'S OUR FLORIDA

Let's Do Something about it!

In spite of the fact Florida has the best climate, the richest soil, the most opportunities of any state in the Union, there are SOME things we must do for ourselves.

The greatest thing we can do is ADVERTISE—tell the world about our natural resources, our healthful climate and citrus products; our business and agricultural possibilities.

After all, it's our Florida, our business, our prosperity that is at stake. We've learned from the experience of our resort cities and the experience of states like California, Oregon, Colorado and Maine that proper advertising brings more people—with more business and more prosperity for everyone.

In their campaign for political purposes overcapitalized the discontent caused by the depression. The result was, he said, that federal money had to be used because the Frankenstein they had created confronted them and they did not have the courage to stop the deficits.

The former war secretary said relief was one of the serious problems left of the Hoover and Roosevelt Administrations. He said that Democrats were not satisfied with the Republican efforts to place primary responsibility with the communities and states.

He called upon Republicans to have "the intelligence, the courage, and the patriotism to be constructive."

Conservation Of Florida's
Subsurface Water StudiedState Planning Board Is Handed
Recommendations Of U. S. Agent

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(UPI)—

Methods of conserving Florida's great underground water supply were outlined today before the state planning board in a report by Donald S. Wallace, district engineer of the United States geological survey, and Herman Gunter, state geologist.

They recommended creating a state water authority or similar commission vested with power to exercise complete control of the state's water resources.

An appropriation of not less than $35,000 of state funds to pay expenses of carrying out water conservation and studies was proposed. The report was adopted by the planning board and will be submitted to Governor Dave Shultz for consideration in his message to the Legislature.

The federal government, through its various agencies, would co-operate, Wallace and Gunter said, in the water resources undertaking, it also would assist in financing the work.

Importance of water in Florida was stressed in the report, and Wallace and Gunter said it has played a most important part in the formation and early geological life of Florida and continues to exert and especially vital influence in its present day life.

To water, they said, the state owes its very formation, because its land area resulted from sedimentation deposited by relatively shallow ocean waters lapping the ancient Appalachian mountain system in the dim and distant past.

As a means of taking best advantage of the natural water resources and conserving them for future generations, Wallace and Gunter proposed:

Creation of a state water authority or similar commission which would be entrusted the centralized responsibility of (among other things);

Investigating and collecting basic data on the water resources.

Co-operating with state board of health in matters relating to drilling wells, etc., in regulating sanitary conditions.

Authority to co-operate with federal government on projects involving state and federal interests.

Protecting the public interest in utilizing and conserving state's waterways.

Conserving and preserving the quality and purity of artesian water by capping wells not in use; valving wells to prevent continuous or wild flow of water; plugging abandoned wells to prevent pollution of adjacent waters.

Control of all well drilling, possibly requiring permits before drilling to insure proper casing of wells to prevent escape of water into sub-surface formations.

Hugh Gant Sought For Robbery Of Haines City Bank

The two bandits stopped up all money in sight. Bluffed Angie with a handkerchief and ordered the negro to carry the money to their car. One bandit sat in the rear seat with Angie, who was forced to keep his hand between his knees. The other joined the driver in the front seat and the negro was told to stand on the running board.

Heading in the direction of Tamiami, the bandit car sped out of town but halted at the outskirts to allow the negro to alight unharmed. Angie said he was not molested during the 60 mile ride but had to keep his hand down all the way. He said he was unable to see the three men and heard very little of their meaning or conversation. He said he was surpised to learn where he was when they released him and he had to walk six miles into Clermont.

Officers said they received a "pretty good description" of the two bandits, who entered the bank from the outside and were forced to lie on the floor. The bandit car was described as a 1932 model black sedan with a Florida tag but no one could give the license number.

Angie said the bank's loss was covered by insurance.

RFC Acts To Aid Guard Units Sent Railroad About To Key West To Go Bankrupt Stop FERA Strike

Denver, Rio Grande Line Is On Verge Of Receivership

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—(AP)—

Agreeing to aid in disposition of one bankrupt railroad, the Reconstruction Corporation yesterday took under consideration a plan destined to keep another unit of the bankruptcy court.

A plan whereby a third rail road might be taken out of receivership was talked over by corporation officials.

The rail rehabilitation division, today:

to the United States than at any time since 1917.

The Roosevelt Administration,

he said, despite its good intentions, is confronted with a series of impressive failures in foreign policy.

Unless there is a change in policy, Buell told the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations, the "Good neighbor" relations of the United States in Latin America will be seriously undermined and the situation in the Orient will become even more delicate than that which he sees at present.

They were adjudged so during the opening of the second annual Seminole County School Fair at Seminole County Auditorium.

Miss French, student of Lyman
High School near Longwood, scored 100 points in competition with pupils from other high schools around the county, while Mr. Phillips, Seminole High student, scored 97 points.

Second places went to Miss Marguerite Koloff of Seminole
High, scoring 98 points, and Glenn Payne of Lyman High, scoring 87 points.

Third places went to Miss Virginia Heldens of Oviedo and Miss Anna Cornell of Seminole High, scoring 86 points each, and James
Hardin of Seminole High, scoring
85 points.

Announcement of the winners attracted a large crowd until a late hour.

Junior Class officers who are sponsoring the Fair declared that the crowd is larger than that of last year and that the exhibits are 100 percent better. Even the various booths are more varied than ever.

The Fair closes late tonight after opening at 6:30 o'clock. It is held for the purpose of displaying
