SHIP BY WATER.

On account of the high freight rates Florida fruit and truck growers should ship their stuff at the right moment. Right now Irish potatoes are bringing $10 per barrel in the Eastern market, because they are a rarity and are grabbed up by the wealthy customers.

A little later on potatoes do not bring as much and other truck will not pay to ship, especially when South Georgia, South Carolina, Texas and South Mississippi truck shippers begin to roll their stuff north. Florida truck raisers should be on the job when it is too early to ship from points north.

Another good time to ship vegetables is around the holidays when beans, peppers, peas and other truck bring fabulous prices. The Northern customers like such stuff for their Christmas dinner and will pay almost any price for it.

At present the average celery shipper in Sanford is making good money in spite of the high freight rates, and would make more if the railroad officials could see farther than the end of their noses. The tomato growers in the Everglades and Miami are receiving good average prices for their fruit but a little later the bottom will drop out as warm weather will make tomato plants grow fast at the trucking centers north of here.

Florida has got the climate, the soil and in addition to the railroads the fruit and vegetable shippers should arrange to ship by water. Establish a route between Sanford and Jacksonville and watch the railroads come down in their prices.

There is no better game in the world than that called "Bluff," and as long as Florida shippers do their complaining through the newspapers they will get nowhere. The railroad companies have received their money for the freight and merely laugh.

Therefore, Mr. Shipper, get busy with the game of "bluff" and call the railroad company's hand and give them some of their own medicine.—Florida Post.

IT'S TRUE OF FLORIDA.

Three crops a year are grown on some land in Florida without fertilizer. Some of the richest soils in the world is in this state. Agriculturally, Florida is a mere infant.

Florida has more coast line than any state in the Union. And much of this vast extent is protected by islands which act as buffers to the waves of ocean and gulf. And everywhere Nature has made charming indentations of bays and bayous and rivers, affording innumerable fishing and hunting grounds and haunts, and producing bathing beaches beyond compute or compare. In addition to all this, Nature has profusely strewn the entire coast line with fascinating beauty.

Polk county has 340 miles of smooth, asphalt roads which connect every town in the county with every other town. This county has an area of only 1,907 square miles, with a population of 43,000. This is a fair sample of the thrift and enterprise which are being shown in every section of this great state.

A Florida raised cockerel took first prize at a big show. And it was the only bird entered by Florida fanciers. We have a coming curiosity to know just what might happen if Florida would enter a hundred such birds at some exhibit! Florida is a dandy poultry state.

Florida has perhaps a larger variety of trees and shrubbery and plant life than any section of the country. This is the botanist's paradise. The only unpleasant thing encountered by the person attempting to classify the varied species is that he finds himself lost in a veritable maze of infinity. Nowhere is a variety so pronounced as in Florida foliage.

Pensacola leads all Southern cities in total deposits in the United States postal savings system, while Miami had, during May, 1921, the largest gain of any Southern city and had the third largest gain among 135 depositories in the United States. There must be at least a little money in these cities.

Florida grows! From 1917 to 1921, or four short years, the assessed valuation of Miami Beach grew from $647,500 to $6,000,000. That's growing some! Florida's potentialities are stupendous!

Florida is a big state. Few people appreciate its vastness. For instance, from Jacksonville to Key West is 822 miles, and from Jacksonville to Pensacola is nearly 400 miles. In other words, it is almost 1,000 miles from one end of the state to the other. It is further than the distance from New York to Chicago, or from Washington to St. Louis, or from Chicago to New Orleans, or from Jacksonville to Chicago, and almost as far as from Chicago to Denver. Florida is one vast empire, diversified, as would naturally be expected in such a wide extent of territory, industrially, agriculturally and commercially—a mighty, potential opportunity for millions of energetic souls.

UNCLE HANK

Th' hope of gettin' even with th' landlord tomorrow keeps many a man from committing suicide today.

To view Florida from a railroad coach is like seeing an opera through a keyhole. Florida developments are everywhere, but many of them are sufficiently far removed from railroad tracks to be invisible to the traveller. No one has seen Florida until he steps off the train and wanders a bit to the right and the left.

Florida Water is healthful. Clear springs abound throughout the state, many of them rich in medicinal qualities, and excellent well water can generally be had in plenty at a depth of from 20 to 40 feet. But the majority supply of water is obtained from artesian wells. This is universal throughout the state. Subterranean streams of sparkling, mineral-charged waters seem to be present in abundance. Originating, it is presumed, within the depths of the mountains to the north, these interior rivers bring perpetual supplies of pure, health-giving waters for all Florida. Wells driven almost anywhere in the state tap these streams, and natural pressure brings the water to the surface for the use of man, live stock and irrigation.

Florida possesses an even climate. Once in a while it gets cold, just as it should do. Then we appreciate the sunshine. And once in a while it gets hot, just like it should do. Then we appreciate the cool breezes. But most of the time Florida climate is well behaved. One will hear the unusual words regarding climate, more here than anywhere else or any other place: "It's just about right." Some climate.—The Florida Magazine.

South Florida Roads Association Formed Yesterday

At St. Augustine Includes East and West Coasts.

Despite the fact that the fact that the State Road Department has made arrangements to spend practically its entire income for this year on projects in west Florida, the St. Augustine convention held in that city March 29th and 30th, passed a resolution expressing confidence in the department. An attempt by the Sanford delegation to have the convention take action on this matter was voted down for the reason that it might be construed as being a sectional controversy. However, at the adjournment of the convention representatives from the East Coast and South Florida convened and formed a temporary association to be known as the East Coast and South Florida Good Roads Association, appointed S. M. Tatum of Miami as temporary chairman, and R. W. Pearman as temporary secretary. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Daytona April 8th at which time a permanent organization will be formed and strenuous and concerted efforts taken to have the State Road Department allocate an equitable portion of this year's state road funds for the construction and maintenance of roads in this section of the state. An invitation will be extended to the members of the State Road Department to be present at this meeting and all civic organizations of eastern and central Florida will be asked to have large delegations present at the Daytona meeting.

At the weekly luncheon of the Board of Governors held today in the Valdes Hotel, endorsement was given to this association and plans made to have a large attendance from Sanford. Mr. Brumley, chairman of the Seminole County Commissioners, was present at the meeting and advised the Board of Governors that he would bring this matter to the attention of the commissioners at their next meeting and endeavor to have all the commissioners from Seminole county attend.

CELERY JUMPS FROM $1.65 TO $2.50 PER CRATE AT BRADENTOWN

BRADENTOWN, April 1.—There was considerable activity in the celery market last week, and f.o.b. prices jumped from $1.65 which prevailed up to $2.50. Demand was very heavy. Preferred stock is being absorbed as fast as harvesting can be done. A number of the large northern markets reported sales ranging from $4.00 to $4.25. There is not a great deal of celery left in this section and what remains is mostly under control of the association, who are obtaining some fancy prices. Late celery, which is generally called green top stock is doing nicely since recent showers, and there is considerable speculation as to what prices it will bring.

Tomato crop throughout the entire section is doing remarkably well, and most large marketing agents are getting their packing houses in readiness for movement about April 15. During the past month tomato prices have been only about half what was obtained last season, but there was some strength in the markets during the last few days. Reports from the east coast show that the weather has been quite dry, and their tomato crop is fast cleaning up.

Taking the vegetable situation as a whole growers seem to be pleased with prevailing conditions, and it looks as though this season will close up considerably more favorable than last season.

H. S. NOTES

"Home, Sweet Home" by Madame Adelaine Patti, was played on our Victrola Tuesday in chapel and well liked. She certainly knows how to go away up in the scale and stay there.

Wednesday in chapel: John Lawrence with 5 members of his Stock Company, one a little girl 8 or 9 years old, gave us some real music. They played everything from "I Want My Mammy" to "Lucky Home" and then the cute little girl came out and danced, to piano music, also sang "He's a Wonderful Child," and "Maw! He's a Kissing Me". Many of us tho't this was the best part of the program for she surely can sing and dance. John Lawrence is a very good friend of Prof. McKay, and it was a rare treat for us to have a selection like this in chapel. Thanks for getting them to come, Prof.!

Miss Mell Whitner made an important announcement in chapel Thursday concerning the sale of the season Chautauqua tickets, the Chautauqua to be in town in a few days. Teams will be formed to canvass the whole town, and she states that if $1,500 tickets are sold, all profits will go toward the establishment of a Domestic Science Course next year. Buy a ticket for the Chautauqua and you will be helping your school also.

The Seniors are getting pretty well advanced in Civil Government, in their study of National, State and Municipal Government. This knowledge will help them all through their life, especially their knowledge of the National Constitution.

The program put on by the Junior Class Thursday evening in the H. S. Auditorium was acted well and everybody greatly enjoyed it—except those who weren't present.

If you can't sleep good, just ask Gale McAlexander to put you to sleep—he can surely do it. "Speck" Pope knows all about it, too!

Fire drill Thursday.
The Freshmen girls sold sandwiches and other "eats" Thursday at recess, and while we haven't heard how they came out on the deal, we believe they must have made something, because nearly everybody patronized them.

PUBLIC FORUM

Oviedo, Fla., March 30, 1922.
Editor of Sanford Herald,
Sanford, Fla.

Dear Sir:
Much adverse comment in Oviedo and Lake Charm was caused by the sudden destruction without warning of the beautiful avenue of quarter-century old oak trees on the opposite side of the public road from the orange grove at Lake Charm owned or controlled by Mr. C. S. Lee.

These trees, though bought and paid for and set at county expense were planted at the instance of the late Mr. J. H. Lee and formed the chief and a very worthy monument of his long and useful and helpful life and served to keep his memory green in the hearts of his hosts of friends.

Being on the opposite side of the highway from the grove they had but the slightest effect upon the orange trees, in fact some of the destroyed trees were opposite a portion of the tract so low and frosty that no orange trees had ever survived there any length of time.

The injury and depreciation of Lake Charm property by the loss of these trees may be fairly estimated at about $5,000 and it is hoped that the county may be able to collect at least a portion of this amount as damages for the wanton destruction of public high-ways the wanton destruction of public property.

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Three Musketeers" Coming Soon
 Predictions are being made that the screening of Alexander Dumas' immortal story, "The Three Musketeers," by Douglas Fairbanks will stand forth in motion picture history as an epochal event and that it will popularize for all time the costume photoplay.
 Productions of this sort, even when based on the fictional writings of such masters as Dumas, have always been considered to be in "the danger zone" because it has never been established beyond question that the American public would receive the costume play with the same enthusiasm that has been accorded features more modern in locale and setting.
 It has always been Fairbanks' contention, however, that any story sufficiently powerful and gripping in drama is bound to succeed.
 "A popular picture nowadays," said the star, "must be logical; it must have comedy and pathos, but above all it must be human. Any story that is human will succeed regardless of whether the players wear wigs and short pants or are garbed in pajamas. Drama was the same in the Seventeenth Century as it is today. This may be the gasoline age of civilization, but it hasn't altered human emotions appreciably. People still laugh and cry and give vent to anger. And they are still inordinately curious. In fact, we progress because we are curious. People of today wonder if in the olden days kings and queens and dukes and lords were swayed by the same passions and emotions that now rule humanity. To satisfy in a measure this curiosity we have made a celluloid reproduction of "The Three Musketeers," and we have crammed into it everything that is dramatic, instructive, human, amusing and entertaining. We have tried to twang every emotion in the human system, just as D'Artagnan did in his memoirs and as Dumas did in his great novel."
 The best talent procurable has been called upon to help transcribe this great story to the aluminum sheet. Edward Knoblock, one of the greatest of contemporary playwrights, is responsible for adaptation, research and costumes, while to Fred Niblo goes the honor of directing the piece. Niblo, a born adventurer, has won distinction as a master in guiding the destinies of this type of play; he is said to have no peer. Arthur Edeson, rated as a genuine lens artist, is credited with the photography and is said to have achieved some effects which hitherto have been considered impossible.

 In the face of the business re-adjustment that the country has been facing, Fairbanks has spent more money on this production than on any picture he ever before undertook, all because he has confidence in the vehicle and in the amusement-seeking public. "The Three Musketeers" is said to be the greatest picture of its kind ever made. It is ten reels in length and cost a million dollars. United Artists Corporation is releasing the film, which will be shown at the Star Theatre soon, the date to be announced later in the Daily Herald.
