Angered Russian Envoys Walk Out Of Red Session

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (UP)—Representatives of Russia and its satellites, angered by Yugoslav criticism of Soviet satellite meetings, walked out of today's session of a communist congress here.

Soviet Ambassador I. Zolotarev, East German Minister Heinrich Stamer and other satellite representatives left the meeting hall during a recess in a speech by Vice President Aleksander Rankovic. They did not return.

Rankovic's criticisms of Soviet policy, including President Tito's defense of the Kremlin, occurred mainly in the latter portion of his speech. Zolotarev and the satellite envoys had seen advance copies of the speech and knew what was in store.

Rankovic reaffirmed the government's determination to keep Russia's nose out of Yugoslavia's affairs. He declared that this country never has accepted Soviet domination and will not do so in future.

Pilots Install New Slate Of Officers

Mrs. Walter L. Carter was installed as president of the Sanford Pilot Club in impressive service held at the Yacht Club last night. Mrs. Carter succeeds Mrs. D. K. McNab.

Employed as a visitor by the Florida Department of Public Welfare, Mrs. Carter has been a member of the local club for more than five years. She has served as a director and as second and first vice president.

Officers installed with Mrs. Carter included Mrs. M. Ball, first vice president; Mrs. John Lamberson, second vice president; Miss Dorothy Fouraker, recording secretary; Mrs. A. E. Shoemaker Sr., treasurer; Mrs. J. P. Hall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. O. Payne, Mrs. B. E. Chapman and Mrs. McNab, directors.

The installation service was conducted by Mrs. Verne C. Messinger who carried out the Pilot-Interclub theme, "Our Hope Tomorrow". In closing, the members read a poem entitled "Hope" in unison. The service concluded with Dick Alken singing "The Lord's Prayer". He was accompanied at the piano by Roger Harris.

Mrs. McNab opened the meeting and welcomed guests present, including Mrs. B. E. Albers, Mrs. Lillian Vickers and Miss Maude Ramsey, a former member. Mrs. E. F. Housholder, Mrs. John Shepard and Miss Bobby Morton were welcomed as new members.

The past president's pin was presented to Mrs. McNab by Mrs. George A. Stine, also a past president. The Code of Ethics was given by Mrs. H. A. Swanson. Mrs. McNab pinned the president's pin on Mrs. Carter.

A graduate of Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga., the newly installed president took post graduate work at the University of California, South Carolina and Florida. She is a member of the First Methodist Church and a past president of the Wesleyan Service Guild.

C. where she was employed as Executive Secretary of the "Crippled Children's Society of Richland County" and also as Executive Secretary of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. She has been associated with the Public Welfare Office in Sanford since 1944.

Prospect Of General Tax Revision Program Seen

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration appeared today to be paving the way for submission of a "general tax revision program" to Congress, possibly in late next month. This prospect appeared as Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board said the present recession is "already deeper" than those of 1948-49 and 1953-54 and the business decline is continuing, though at a decreased rate.

This coincided with a Commerce Department report that business continued to slide in March despite scattered bright spots.

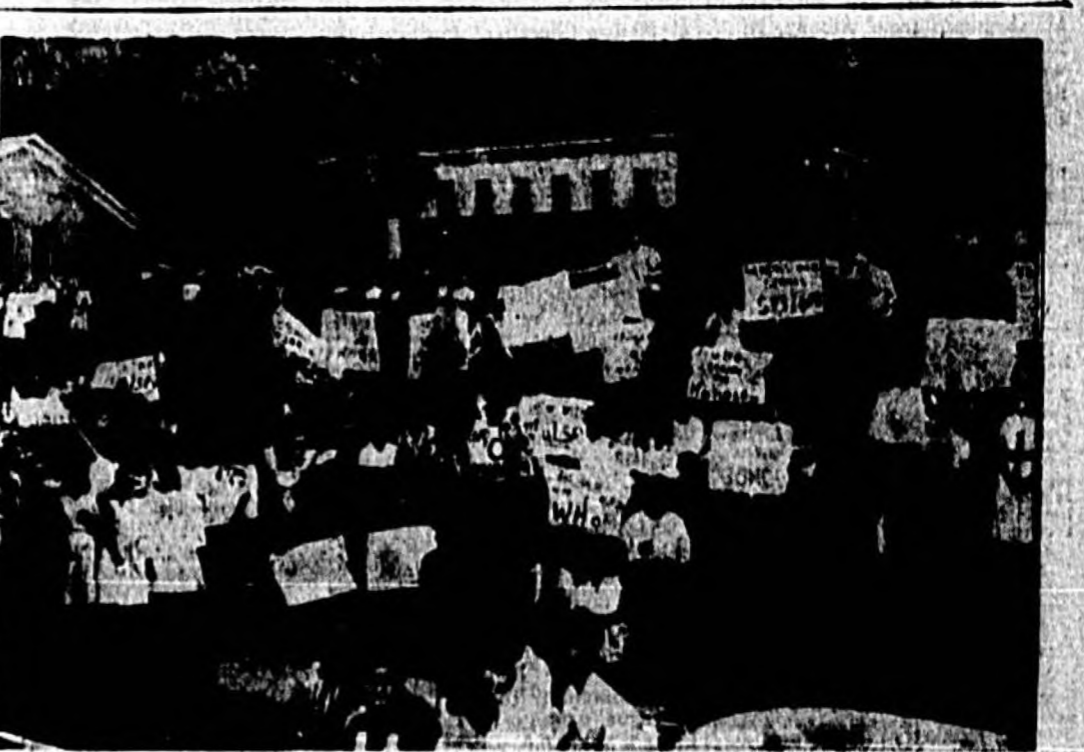

A "tax revision" program, in contrast to an across-the-board tax cut, has been under intensive study by the administration. Secretary of Commerce Daniel A. Rostenkowski has tipped the government's hand Tuesday in submitting to Congress an administration plan for helping the railroads.

The railroads wanted the administration to come out for abolition of the 10 per cent excise tax on passenger fares and the 3 per cent excise on freight shipments. Weeks said however: "The repeal of federal excise taxes on the transportation of persons and property, and the shortening for income tax purposes of depreciation schedules, while advantageous to transportation interests, should be considered only as a part of a general tax revision program, consistent with overall fiscal policy.

"Therefore, no recommendations are being made in this area at this time."

See 13 Billion Deficit Martin, testifying Tuesday before the Senate Finance Committee, said he opposed a "tax cut at this time." Estimating the federal deficit for this and the next fiscal year will total 13 billion dollars, he said: "I would accept the risk of the deficit we are now running, but I would not increase it by a tax cut until the situation is clearer than it is today." He doubted a tax cut would have a good "psychological effect." If the public realized it might double the deficit, Martin's estimate of a deficit of three billion dollars for the current fiscal year ending June 30 and 10 billion for the 12 months starting June 30 and was the highest by any top government official.

Storm Line Leaves Crop Damage In South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—Heavy crop damage, especially to the multimillion-dollar peach crop, was counted today in the wake of a storm line that spawned at least four small tornadoes in South Carolina Tuesday leaving one person dead.

The twisters built up along a narrow weather front that caused heavy thunderstorm activity, high winds and hail through several sections of the southeastern United States.

Tornadoes were reported near the South Carolina towns of Summerton, Eutawville, Kingstree and Florence.

Paula To Live; Heart Condition Corrected

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UP)—Doctors have lifted a certain death sentence from a little girl here by correcting one of the rarest heart conditions in medical history.

When surgeons operated March 22, they found no hole but an extra blood vessel running between the right coronary artery and vein.

This unwanted vessel kept the heart from getting all the blood it needed and made the organ work much harder. It had the same effect on Paula as if she had had the more common hole in the heart.

The surgeons tied off and severed the extra vessel. This made the girl completely normal, although she must have rest and quiet for a time.

Doctors first believed the girl's heart had a hole in the wall between the two upper chambers. In the past this was a fatal flaw. But recent development of an artificial heart-lung has made it possible to correct the condition. The apparatus pumps blood and keeps the body alive while the surgeons work.

Possibly New Formulas Would Help Align American Incomes

America is a land flabbed throughout the world for its wealth and its high living standards. But amid the riches and plenty are some strange contradictions and contrasts. We're not talking about slums, or the destitute.

The real oddity as we spin along in the last half of the 20th century is that there should be so many Americans of reasonably good economic circumstances who seem to be priced out of so many important markets.

A good many independent studies, including some of recent vintage, indicate that people of the middle income level do not have an easy time finding housing within their means. Too often for comfort they must go heavily on the cuff to get the kind of living accommodations they need.

For the past two or three years a lot of automobile dealers have complained that something similar seems to be happening in the motor car field. Many of their potential customers figure they just can't undertake the financial burdens involved.

Even persons of better than average means tend to blanch when told they face an extended hospital stay, whether or not they have some form of hospitalization inurance. The charges are heavy. The Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N. J., says now that some 150,000 above-average U. S. high school students don't go to college because they can't get the needed financial support.

Schooling, housing, medical care, transportation, these are basic fields. No American should have to regard any one of them as a luxury he can't afford.

Most who take note of these facts are simply commenting on a curious contradiction. They are not placing blame anywhere. Everyone is aware of the tremendous post-war rise in costs which has helped push prices in many fields to sometimes forbidding heights.

A seasoned Washington observer, fingering the push furniture in a richly-appointed new government office some years ago, said: "My friend, government is a very luxurious operation in this country."

Perhaps we ought to have some new formulas for bringing income and needs into closer alignment. Otherwise somebody one day may say that living in the United States is a very luxurious operation, beyond the means of millions.

Prayer Is Greatest Privilege

In an age marked by tension and worry over the state of the nation and the world, more and more people are turning to the practice of prayer.

It is true in Sanford, and it is true throughout the nation. The use of the local prayer telephone alone is one brilliant illustration, with more than 6,000 calls a month estimated there. People using the telephone to hear a devotional prayer for a bit of stabilization in their daily lives!

It is also true of our president. An editorial along this line appeared not too long ago in the Detroit Free Press. Entitled "Prayer and the President," it said in part:

Slipping unannounced into the President's office one morning in 1955, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton found the Chief Executive on his knees in prayer. Seaton apologized profusely, but like quietly waved his apology aside. He was, he explained, making a crucial decision that could make war or peace in the Far East. He was praying for guidance in choosing the right course.

Leading Educator Urges Small High School Elimination

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—One of the nation's leading educators has urged the elimination of small high schools.

Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, made a preliminary report to the annual convention of the National Schools Board Assn. NSBA on a two-year study he is making of American high schools outside city areas. In such schools, he explained, a minority of students have ambitions to go on to college.

Conant, who also was ambassador to West Germany recently, said he had found that there are thousands of high schools in this country too small to provide a satisfactory education either for the academically talented or for the vocationally inclined.

"The minimum size of satisfactory work I should put at 100 in the graduating class," Conant said.

The educator suggested that states having too small high schools reorganize their school districts to eliminate them.

Conant recommended school boards arrange for advisory committees representing labor and management to help guide schools in developing vocational courses for students who do not wish to go to college.

And to turn a satisfactory school into a good school, he said, requires installing some procedures for providing special instruction for the highly gifted pupil. These make up about two per cent of the class while academically talented students comprise about 15 per cent of the class.

He said he has found most non-suburban American high schools have an inadequate foreign language curriculum. Academically talented pupils, he said, should have at least three years study each in two different foreign languages.

They also should have up to four years each in tough mathematics, physics, history, English and related courses, he said.

Here's Bedtime Routine For The Poor Sleeper

By ROBERT H. HUNTER, M.D.

IT HAS BEEN SAID that Thomas Alva Edison seldom slept longer than four hours a night. And Napoleon, it is said, required only three hours of sleep.

But I doubt that many of you are Edison or Napoleon. These men were the exception. Most of you need about eight hours sleep every night. While some of you may get along very well with only seven, others will require nine or even ten.

Always Tired
If you are always tired when you arise each morning, you probably aren't getting enough shut-eye.

Chances are you are among the millions of Americans who have difficulty getting to sleep. Well, maybe I can help a bit. Let me offer a few suggestions on how to get to sleep easily and promptly.

Relaxation is the key to proper sleep. Begin by relaxing a full hour before you're ready to go to bed.

Wash, brush your teeth and complete all your ordinary bedtime routines well before turning in.

Turn off the TV
Think, turn off the television set and get some soft, relaxing music on the radio or phonograph. String and woodwind may lead to this condition.

Steps of the Light
Remain relaxed in your chair and gaze at some bright object in the room. You might try staring at the electric light for a while, repeating the following phrase over and over:

"I'm so tired; my eyes are heavy, they're getting heavier and heavier; oh, I'm so tired!"

You don't have to use those exact words, of course, but I'm sure you get the general idea. Keep talking yourself that you are tired, that your eyes are heavy and it might very well make you sleepy.

At last, it's worth a try. QUIETNESS AND SLEEP
T. D.: What causes allergies?
Answer: The most common cause is not known, but infection of the gallbladder, overwork and lack of exercise are factors which graph. String and woodwind may lead to this condition.

LAFF-A-DAY
"I hate to say this, Alvin—but you give me a pain in the neck."

You'll get these laughs

Let savings give you a "lift" to the vacation you really want. And place those savings where above-average earnings will make them grow faster—where they're insured against loss. Where's that? Right here, of course!

President Tito of Yugoslavia is involved in a big new dispute with Soviet Russia over his policy of independent communism.

By various in the new split that Russia and the nine other countries which have fallen under the banner of communism are boycotting the Communist Congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party which opened today in Ljubljana.

Advisors from Eastern Europe predict that a visit by Tito to Moscow and a visit by Soviet President Nikhonorov to Yugoslavia will be cancelled unless the situation changes radically.

The new dispute stems from a 100,000-word declaration of policy drafted by the Yugoslav Communist Party in mid-March in preparation for today's congress.

The declaration never has been made public. But apparently it was circulated to other Communist parties.

Several heads to socialism in the declaration the party, which means Tito, denounces his insistence on the right of Communist-led countries to pursue their own "roads to socialism"—that is, to run their own affairs without interference by the Kremlin.

But to make things worse, the declaration said that "power blocs" were bad and were responsible for present world tension. Russia is against power blocs. But the only power bloc it recognizes are those defense alliances which the United States and other free countries have formed.

Russia's own power bloc is essentially simply a group of well-meaning countries dedicated to peaceful co-existence.

The Kremlin, after study of the declaration, went into a state of shock. Its displeasure was made known to Tito and to Communist parties all over the world. The word went out that really good Communists would not attend today's congress, regarded as the most important since the end of World War II.

Conservation News

By BEN WOODS,

Soil Conservation, USDA

Black Bass have been distributed to the following cooperators for stocking their private ponds:

Robert P. Lamont, J. M. Foster, E. J. Homan, and Ira Southward. Blue-gill broom were provided these ponds last fall. According to Howard Hilsland, Biologist with the Soil Conservation Service, Florida has over 200 managed farm fish ponds. These ponds are owned by cooperators of Florida's 20 Soil Conservation Districts.

Successful fish ponds bring recreation and pleasure to the owners, their families, and friends. An unsuccessful one is a disappointment. The test of a successful pond is simple. If the fishing is good, then it is a good fish pond.

The recipe for a successful fish pond is like any good recipe. Select the ingredients carefully with an eye to quality. Then use them as directed and remember this—don't be impatient. Many a good recipe has been ruined by an impatient cook. Now the ingredients: One favorable pond. Sufficient water to maintain three to four feet deep throughout the year. 100 Black Bass per acre of water. 1,000 Blue-gill broom per acre, and 100 pounds of 8-8-4 per acre of water per month.

A favorable pond should not have too much shallow water. It should be free from brush and trees. The pond area should be a minimum of 1/4 acre. It must be isolated from other bodies of water by natural or constructed barriers or coverwood, and it should be free of pond weeds.

The water should be checked to make sure it is free of all rough fish. Most small ponds contain all the wrong kinds of fish such as catfish, sunfish, warmouth, perch, and gar-fish. This kind of pond should be killed out and properly restocked with only Black-bass and Blue-gill Broom. The fish will be provided, free of cost to you by the Supervisors of the Seminole Soil Conservation District. The fish are obtained from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Waikala, Florida. Your local Soil Conservation Service technician will check your pond and assist you in obtaining the fish.

When fertilizing the pond apply the fertilizer slowly in one continuous ring around the pond, in water from two to four feet deep. The pond should not be fished until one year after it has been stocked in order for the fish to spawn or reproduce one time. A good, properly stocked, fertilized, and managed fish pond should yield over 200 pounds of edible fish per acre of water per year.

AGGRIEVANCE LEVELLED
GAINESVILLE, Fla.—Dr. John Arthur Strickland, 55, a senior honor student at the University of Florida, was on probation today because he interrupted a lecture by poet Robert Frost to accuse the audience of being "dressed-up stuffed shirts."

These two points, which were part of the declaration also, referred first to Tito's insistence on full independence and secondly to his disapproval of Russia's intervention in the Hungarian revolt.

Try and Stop Me

A MOVIE PRODUCER not unknown for battles to the death with the English language was trying to interest a big box-office star in a new property he had acquired. "It's a tremendous story!" he enthused. "All about four wonderful people: a woman, a man, and a dog!"

The star still was trying to puzzle that one out when the producer delivered another hazy remark. "You really should sign again with me," he urged. "Nobody out here knows you half so well as I do. I'm familiar with all your shortcomings—and your longings, too!"

A young Lethario drove the pretty debutante from the big city out to a lonely spot along a lake and suddenly stopped the car. "We'll make a date of it," he said not too softly. Without a word, the city gal pulled a dash out of her reticule.

"Not diggity!" enthused the Lethario. "Scotch or rye?" "Gee," answer the deb.

Mr. Moon was born in Paulding County, Ga. He has been a resident of Oviedo since 1939 and graduated from the Oviedo High School. He served three years with the armed forces during World War II, and is a graduate of Stetson University. He is in the celery growing business in Oviedo with his father and brother.

School Lunch Personnel Attend Convention

Roy Green, a student at the Sanford Grammar School, and Mrs. Alice Willink, Sanford mother, were members of a panel recently which discussed "How parents and children see school lunch."

The panel was part of the eighth annual meeting of the Florida School Food Service Organization, held in Orlando in the Wyoming Hotel and the Memorial Junior High School Auditorium.

Flowers and table arrangements for the two day convention were made by Mrs. Lou Fessler of Sanford. Mrs. Fessler is the lunchroom supervisor at Pinecrest School.

Twenty-five attended from Seminole County. Mrs. Charlotte Whitmore, school lunch director of Seminole County, was elected treasurer of the state organization for the next two years. Seminole County co-hosted the convention with Volusia County superintendent, R. T. Milwee was a special guest.

Principals attending were Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, Mrs. Sharon George Dabbs, Hugh Carlton, John Angel and R. W. Weels.

General consensus of opinion during the panel discussion was that the students would like to have more of a hand in planning lunch hours and organization. Parents are also not aware of the scope of the school lunch program.

Conning The News

A year and a half ago this column started out as a Navy news commentary. When I started working at the Sanford Herald, I was asked to incorporate townpeople with my news. The writing of it has always been the most pleasant and exasperating part of my day. Reams of notes about all kinds of things used to fill my notebooks—many of them designed for disposal, but I used them anyway. Suddenly this column has become a means of passing on a little serious thought to my readers, if any are still with me.

The reason so much discussion about the school situation has crept into print is fairly clear to me. Society or Women's Pages (and I hate the confines of that one), are not concerned only with gay parties and church meetings. These pages are supposed to inform the public of any activities which might improve living conditions or comfort—fashion, food, furniture—although, I must confess we have had mighty little room for such luxuries as crepes Suzettes, of late.

And I am still with the school bond issue. It has become apparent that re-registration must be held, since the school board voted to hold the bond election next fall, special registration will be needed to pass it. By this time, I guess everyone knows what that means. Anyone who is interested in voting for or against the school bond issue must re-register at the office in the Chamber of Commerce building.

If only 500 people register, and 251 of them vote for the school bond issue, we are in. Without special registration, every voter who stays away from the polls during the special election will be voting against it. There are many in Seminole County, as stated before, who are registered only to file for homestead exemption. They have no intention whatsoever of voting on anything.

The school bond issue will not raise our taxes. We can have new schools if we get every parent, teacher and interested person to re-register and then go to the polls. If you don't want to vote, don't register.

As I understand it, only one bond election has ever been passed in Seminole County. This was the vote for the new hospital. The

"Mister" Caldwell, Loyal Episcopalian

"Mister" Caldwell is a seven year old Cocker Spaniel dog mixed with Chow. He is owned by D. C. Caldwell, sexton of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church here in Sanford.

The sexton is efficient and proud of his job. He does the cleaning in the early morning hours but "Mister" comes to the church just as the sun is rising in the east. The doors of Holy Cross are rarely closed or locked. It is a sacred place for people to go to rest, meditate and pray.

"Mister" has perfect manners. He enters the church with respect and dignity, however, he worships mainly in the Parish House. He never disturbs anyone. He treats the House with respect, and they respect him.

He comes to the Church at all hours of the day, acting as watchdog of his masters' position. He sleeps in the alley-way between the Parish House, and the church but frequently sits or sleeps in front of the Parish House on Magnolia Avenue. He is faithful and loyal to Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

"Mister" visits Mrs. Jay H. Beck, next door to the Parish House, but never unless she invites him over for a hot dog or some such delicacy. When he has eaten he quietly returns to the church—unless a stray cat crosses his path. "Mister" lives at 419 East Third Street.

Here is something new in mayonnaise... a special recipe mayonnaise made with the same care and attention you give your own "special recipe." You see, all mayonnaise is not the same. Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise brings you many important extras.

The Filbert family uses the finest whole eggs, for example. We pay a premium to get the best. Then we add extra egg yolks for richness and body. Next, special seasoning blended from only the hearts of imported spices. We add real lemon juice and aged apple vinegar... natural flavors that give a tart-sweet tang synthetic flavors can't match. A cooler blend of fresh-pressed salad oils are sealed in to make Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise light and delicate.

These costly extras are not found in ordinary mayonnaise. They're part of the homestyle recipe developed by the Filbert family. You'll like Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise or double your money back.

Today's Sports Parade

By Oscar Tralty
NEW YORK (AP)— It has become a tradition today that the New York Yankees, with an awesome supply of replaceable parts, are all that could be one of the biggest playgrounds in major league history. The Yankees were supposed to run hot and hide from the rest of the league last season. That they did by "only" eight games was something of a mystery in itself. But their getting six victories in seven starts and an almost unbelievable display of talent makes it evident that having a stock of replaceable parts is a real club in a stock market.

The Yankees, who were supposed to run hot and hide from the rest of the league last season, did not do so. They were supposed to run hot and hide from the rest of the league last season, but they did not. They were supposed to run hot and hide from the rest of the league last season, but they did not.

Light Car Club Sets First Event Sunday

TALLAHASSEE (Special)—When the first of the Light Car Club's first event Sunday, April 27, Assembly point will be at 10:00 a.m. at the intersection of 10th and French at 10:00 a.m.

The event will be in the form of an economy run from Sanford to Dunnellon. All car owners are welcome to enter.

Curb weight of the car in tons will be multiplied by the actual miles per gallon obtained.

Two trophies will be awarded: one for the greatest number of miles per gallon over all, regardless of the car's weight, and one for the winner of the ten-mile classification.

Entry fee will be one dollar per car. The finishing point will be the town of Dunnellon, five miles from the airport. Here the Sport Car Club of America will be holding regional sports car races April 28 and 29.

Anyone interested in cars may join the Sanford Light Car Club. Those driving large American cars will be given associate memberships, which entitled them to voting privileges.

Rotary Tigers Lose Game To Pirates

The Rotary League Tigers yesterday lost a 2 to 1 lead over the Pirates and dropped the game, 5 to 4.

Bob Johnson, who drew the pitching assignment for the victory, worked a steady game in the first inning when he pitched out the Pirates' first batter, leading to their defeat.

Barney worked well in the early stages, but tired at the game's end and his teammates didn't help the cause as they misplayed balls and made some erratic leaves in their vain attempt to halt the rampaging bats.

The reserves for the two clubs were Bruce for the Pirates and Whitehead for the Tigers' choice.

Fireball Roberts To Defend Title At Darlington

DARLINGTON, S. C.—Fireball Roberts, former Daytona Beach race driver who last year won the inaugural Rebel 200 at Darlington Raceway, today signed to defend his title May 12.

Roberts set a world record for a major event stock car race at Darlington when his 1957 factory Ford crossed the finish line with an average speed of 107.8 mph for the distance. Roberts also set 17 other convertible distance marks during his dash to the checkered flag. Fifteen of the marks still stand as the fastest ever made in either convertible or hardtop stock car racing.

The 28-year-old Floridian, long-time national figure in stock car racing, last year was voted NASCAR's most popular driver by race fans across the nation. His Rebel 200 victory was the biggest in a career that started when he was 18 years old. Roberts finished second in the first Southern 500 in 1960, then wrecked three times thereafter while leading the Labor Day classic.

Roberts will drive either a new Ford or Chevrolet in the May race. "I'd like to stick with the winning Ford," Roberts said, "but this Atlanta Chevrolet runs like a scared rabbit. I'll try them both before I decide."

Two weeks remain before entry deadline and the Darlington field stands at 21 cars and drivers. Thirty-six starts, determined by time trials May 6, 9, will establish starting positions. A full field is expected with the advance sale of seat reservations indicating another 30,000 attendance figure for Darlington Raceway.

Beat, Ski Club Meets Tomorrow Night At 8

The Sanford Beat and Ski Club will hold a meeting in the Fort Mellon Park recreation building tomorrow at 8 p. m.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

A cruise last Sunday attracted most of the members. Boats were put in at Mount Dora. The route took them through the Dora Canal and Haines Creek to the destination of Moss Bluff. The club enjoyed a cook-out there, and returned via Tavares, where they stopped to ski off the beach.

Whatever Happened To

ABE SIMON
By UNITED PRESS

Abe Simon, a 200-pound heavyweight of the Joe Louis era, started his fight career with an impressive string of knockouts beginning in 1908. In his 14th fight, he lost his belt to Lou Werns but scored four more knockouts and then was flattened himself by Buddy Bear. Thereafter, Abe slowly worked himself up the line with a string of victories, including a six round knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott in 1926. He turned into a pretty fair heavyweight but no match for Louis, who took him out once in 19, rounds and again in six.

Whatever happened to Abe Simon? Now in his early 60's, big Abe still lives in the New York area where he has been a television actor, occasionally referees fights and serves as a detective at a training track.

Rotating Schedule Won't Be Effective Until After 1963

ATLANTA (AP)—A new "rotating schedule" rule that would require Southeastern Conference teams to meet each other a minimum number of times within a specified period will not be put into effect until after the 1963 season, league directors have decided.

The plan would have required each member of the 12-team conference to meet each other team at least once during a period of several years. Directors said they are delaying the requirement because of trouble in working out "mechanical" details.

"The present arrangements for scheduling football games will continue through the 1962 football season," SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore announced after a director's meeting. "The question of a rotating schedule will be referred to the Southeastern Conference at the next annual meeting in January 1960."

It had been predicted that the proposal would be tabled because of the risk of gate receipts losses if traditional rivalries were dropped. Under current rules each conference member is required to meet six other members during each season.

The directors also voted to continue a ban on regional telecasts of conference games. This ruling does not apply to a scheduled nationwide telecast of the Auburn-Tennessee season opener this fall.

Diamond Put into Shape For Little League Season

By HENRY BAYBOND MORRIS
CARLEBERY—Ground crews, aided by sunny skies and warm weather, have set the Indiana baseball diamond in top condition for teams of the Little League and Junior League players.

Steel pipe has been embedded in concrete, ready for the setting to complete the backdrop and during the work process, pulling scrapes and rollers, were busy on the diamond with mowing machines at work in the outfield.

Work was under direction of Paul Bates and Gordon Lill of Carleberry Gardens Development Company. Joe Pavlichak is manager of the local teams.

New TV Hero Will Vanquish Enemies With Editorials

Jeff Richards stars as a crusading newspaperman in "Jefferson Drum," an NBC-TV news opera which makes its debut Friday, April 25.

Richard is a tall 6-foot 5-inch handsome young buck who is built along the lines of Jim "Maverick" Garner. He hopes his switch from second-rate movie actor to TV star will open the same golden gates that Garner unlocked with his TV program.

GG 'B' Bates
Under contract to MGM for six years, the black-haired actor was given poor roles in "B" pictures. Contract players Robert Taylor, Glenn Ford and Stewart Granger nabbed the parts that Jeff might have been given.

"Television is much better for young guys," Richards says. "The choice roles in pictures go to old, established stars, and the cheap films I appeared in didn't mean anything because nobody sees them."

Jeff may have a difficult time being seen on TV, too. His new show is pitted opposite that wily old scoundrel Sgt. Bilko, a top-rated program with a large and loyal following.

But Richards contends eggs still rule the TV roost, and that "Jefferson Drum" is the most adult of Western offerings.

"Drum is a small town editor who helps establish law and order in the Southwest," Jeff said. "He uses his paper, 'The Star' instead of a gun."

Sidney Shook
"There are times when he does have to shoot it out with the guys, but not very often."

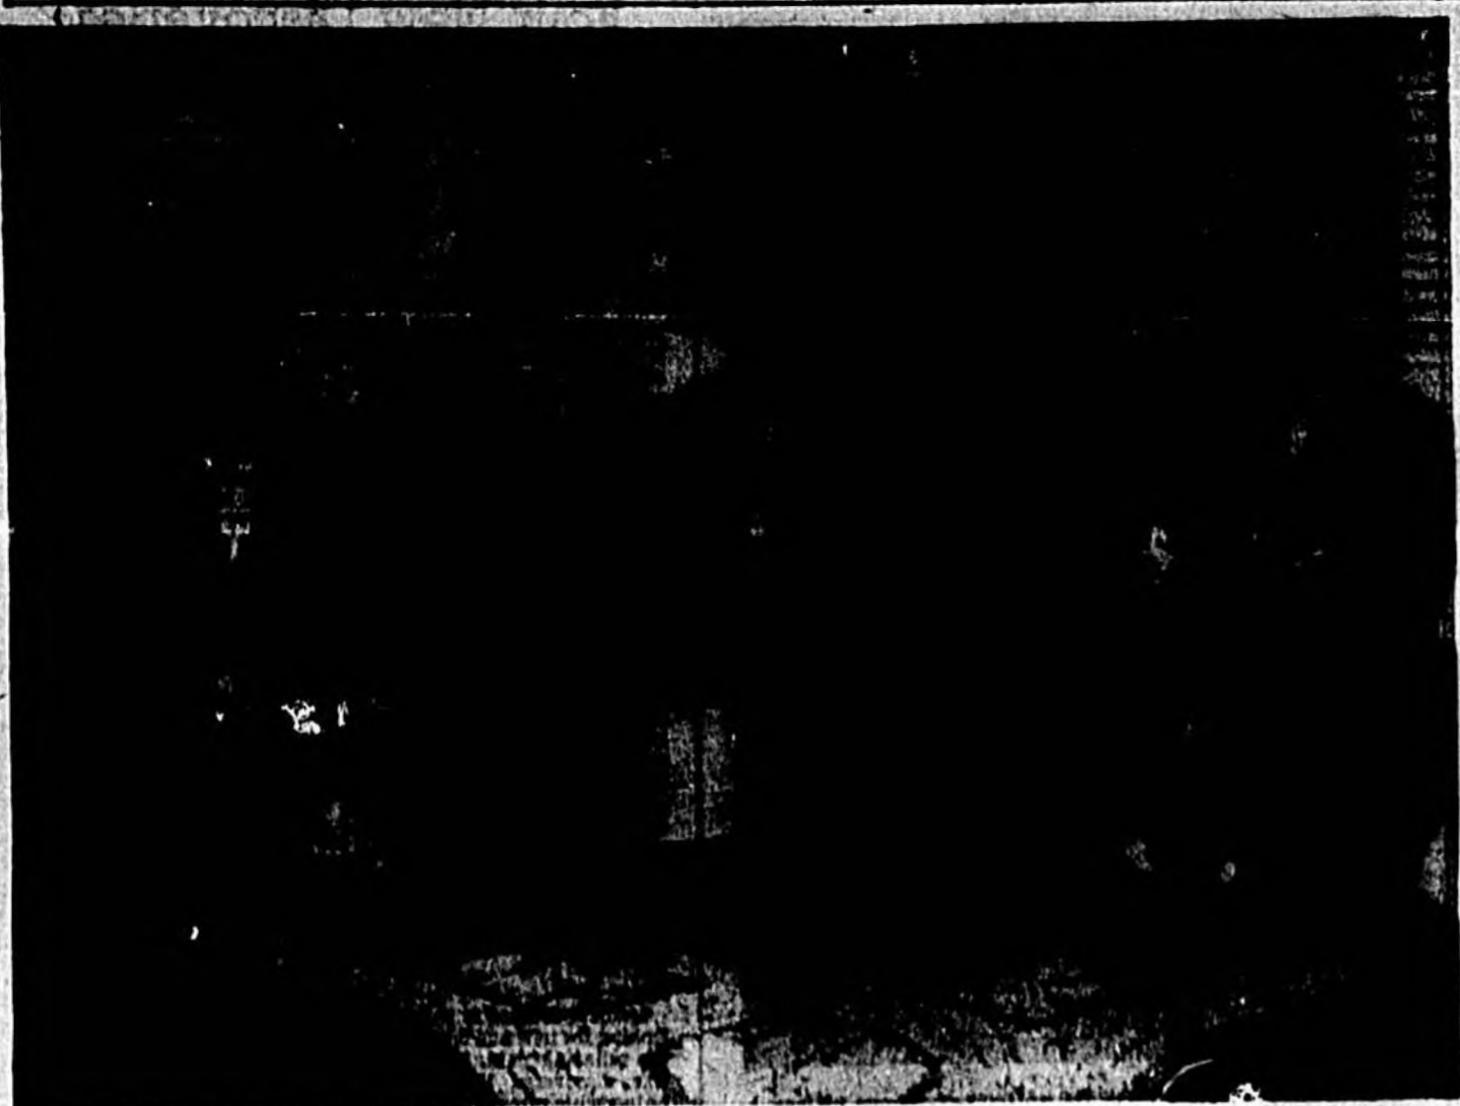

"I can't compare the pressure other Western shows because I don't own a TV set. I rarely have a chance to see what the other actors are doing."

A late starter in the 1957-58 season, "Jefferson Drum" ratings suffered badly in the rating race with Bilko.

"We'll only be on the air for eight weeks or so before taking off for the summer," Jeff said, adding hopefully, "and if we're well received we'll be back in the fall."

Cat Insurance Policies

By DOC QUINN
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Milton Weiss, who formed the world's first insurance devoted exclusively to life insurance policies for pedigreed poodles, now is branching out into pedigreed pussycats.

If you want to get your cat's life insured, up to $12,000, you have to send in his newspaper, have the cat inoculated for false distemper, and prove its pedigree and value. And Weiss doesn't mind telling you it's going to take a heap of proving to get him to set any cat's value at $12,000.

The Nose Knows
He accepts mail applications from anywhere in the continental United States and Canada. With the application form, he supplies a noseprint ribbon which he has developed himself—non-toxic, using a mineral dye that is deep blue-black, good for three or four prints. You press it against the tiny nose, then press the paper against the nose, and you get a print which he says is a positive identification.

Weiss says Jimmy Durante's old aphorism "The nose knows" applies with high certainty to dogs and cats. When the animal dies, the veterinarian puts its noseprint on the death certificate, under the Weiss plan.

"I've never taken a cat noseprint myself," he says, "but they come out very clear. Cats don't seem to shy away from the paper as dogs do. We get some smeared dog's noses."

Good Accelerators
Weiss doesn't believe cats are as accident-prone as dogs. For one thing, they can accelerate fast, in front of a car. And another, you don't see many pedigreed cats meandering around outside—that's a recreation enjoyed almost exclusively by alloy cats.

The premium rate for dogs and cats is eight per cent annually. He believes the average age for both is about 12 years, although there are records of some that have lived 24. He believes a dog can die of loneliness but doesn't think a cat would.

These pets should be happy to be insured. How else could they get to see their noses in print?

Tax Man

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—You've heard of C-man and T-man. They've been lionized in films and TV for years. Now comes the $-man, another federal hero.

Ghastly though it may seem, a new video offering will glorify the exploits of the nation's tax collectors. It's possible the hero will be equipped with a flock of 10,000 forms instead of a trusty pistol.

To convince us the tax men is, after all, a sweet character, MCA, which is producing "Special Agent 7," has chosen sweet-faced Lloyd Nolan.

Appear Human
This being income tax season, the soft-spoken Nolan barely innuged a grin when he said he was acquainted with several tax agents. He said the agents are citizens who get fancy with the tax laws.

As part owner of "Special Agent 7" Nolan thinks the chance of selling it will improve after the April 15 tax deadline. His thinking is that people, sponsors included, have short memories.

Nolan admits he was chosen for the role because he has an honest face, one that would preclude cheating on the income tax.

Indiana Woman Developed Leather Cleaning Method

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—There still is room for those who would build a better mousetrap.

Look, for instance, at Marjorie Lehmann, Mrs. Lehmann, a product of Muncie, Ind., developed a new technique for cleaning leather, man's oldest clothing unless you could count the fig leaf. The result: A shot in the arm for the leather goods industry, and her own company called Leathercraft Process of America.

Her success story began 19 years ago with a black suede purse she needed cleaned. "I found there wasn't a satisfactory way to clean it," she said.

At the time, Mrs. Lehmann was busy in advertising. But she worked after hours with tanners and chemists to perfect a process, which still is a company secret.

Small Start Made
"I bought dyes and materials on credit—$60 worth as I remember—and coaxed stores and manufacturers into letting me have soiled merchandise to practice on," she said.

Manufacturers apparently were impressed with the results. Today, many of them are her customers, either sending her all types of leathers for cleaning and dyeing, or buying quantities of small, rubber sponges for surface cleaning. These get tucked into pockets of new suede garments, free to the customer.

"We sell a million and a half sponges a year," said Mrs. Lehmann. "We clean, re-dye and repair about 50,000 garments each year. Ninety per cent of the business is mail order. We get leather from as far as Hong Kong for cleaning."

Mrs. Lehmann's husband, Kurt, who was working in the textile field before World War II, joined his wife in the business after the war. Now, he worries over the wholesale division she over the retail.

Field Open Up
Mrs. Lehmann said that with development of new cleaning methods, manufacturers fell free to go into high-style apparel, treating leather as a glamour as well as, serviceable material.

Four New Discoveries In Field Of Medicine

By EDWARD H. GIBSON, M.D.
There are four new drugs of importance I would like to discuss today in our regular monthly review of medical developments.
One of the most important appears to be a drug in capsule form called Isone, designed to reduce high blood cholesterol levels. The drug consists of a mixture of the essential oil of the so-called essential or unsaturated fatty acids.
How we know that an adequate supply of essential fatty acids in the diet is valuable in treating and preventing atherosclerosis. The condition occurs when cholesterol plaques on the arteries and it involves in many instances the heart. The new drug appears to lower the cholesterol level in the bloodstream. It has been shown to be very effective in lowering cholesterol levels in laboratory animals. It also appears to be effective in lowering cholesterol levels in human beings. It is a new type of cholesterol-lowering agent, distinct from the statins and other cholesterol-lowering drugs. It is a new type of cholesterol-lowering agent, distinct from the statins and other cholesterol-lowering drugs.
Another medical discovery, a synthetic antibiotic, may have a big role to play in the future. It is a new type of antifungal agent designed to treat and prevent athlete's foot and other fungal infections. It is being made in a body powder form.
Discovered and tested in 1958, researchers have been experimenting with the preparation, over time, by repeated small doses. Also an anti-protein, the preparation greatly reduces swelling of the feet.
H. E. I. What evidence might exist?
Answer: There are many cases of night blindness. The most common one, of course, is sleeping with too many covers. It is often due to the presence of a vitamin deficiency in the body.
Tuberculosis is a common cause, but the other symptoms for relieving pain. Recently, it was discovered that normoxaline, which has been known to

Zsa Zsa Delighted With Having Major League Ball In LA

By ZSA ZSA GABOR
Written for United Press
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Of course I'm delighted about major league baseball coming to Los Angeles—with all those men and their enormous diamond, what woman wouldn't be?
All of the women in Hollywood and Los Angeles are happy about it, because now they will be able to go to the stadium and actually see who is playing ball with who around here.
Naturally, I have never played an actual baseball game. Oh, I've had some fast pitches made to me, in fact I've made some pretty good catches, but I mean I've never really played baseball.
A dear friend of mine once took me out to watch the Dodgers and to explain the game to me.
Heavens, the uniforms are terrible. Those dreadful knee pants, and their long Johns hanging out of their sleeves. But I am going to offer to redesign them. I think our team would look lovely in matador pants, they will be so much more chic for this part of the country.
But they are very good players, our Dodgers. A fellow stood right there in the corner of the field with a stick on his shoulder and another fellow kept throwing balls at him, and he was such a fine Dodger that fellow didn't hit him once.
Then another player, who didn't even have time to take off his nice black suit told him to walk over to a little white pillow and stand there.
I must do something about such shabby pillows, too. No wonder the boys don't sit down on them.
My friend explained that our Dodger had taken a walk to first base, and that the object now was to win the game, of course, but it is my opinion that if you take a walk with a man and he gets to first base, you'll never get him home.
Strikes a Problem
My friend said one of the manager's biggest problems is that our players are always being called out on strikes. I don't see

Actor Doesn't Like Costume Picture

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You'll never catch Glenn Ford starring in a costume epic—unless TV picks up a item titled "The Loves of Carmen" that he made nine years ago.
"Boy that was awful," the crew-cut actor growled.
"I was the worst Don Jose in history. Haven't made a costume picture since. I can't imagine myself strutting around swashbuckling. I'd feel like a— a— a fool."
No actor should play a role he isn't equipped for. If you play a fighter you should learn how to fight. If you're set for a duel scene you ought to learn how to handle a sword.
"I doubt very much if I could learn to manipulate a snuff box."
Likes Action Movies
Ford has no worries about lace handkerchiefs and plumed hats. Recently he has specialized in Westerns and military movies, for which he is well-qualified. Ford spent 2½ years in the Marine Corps during World War II, and is a part-time cowboy off screen.
"I never go to the wardrobe department for Western roles," he said. "I'm in the cattle business in Colorado and the Dakotas. Whenever I have a chance I head for the plains, hop into old clothes and climb on a horse."
"In all my Westerns I wear my own beat-up outfits."
"For this picture MGM's 'Torpedo Run' I spent many days on a submarine off the California coast. When an actor handles real equipment he knows he's going to be at ease and confident before the camera."
Costume Heavy Schedule
Ford averages four pictures a year while other top-flight actors are content with making only one or two. He is in a unique position in his trade, having little competition in his age bracket.
Glenn is neither a member of the grizzled oldimers, epitomized by Cooper, Gable and Wayne, nor a "chickie" with youngsters as Brando, Newman and Hudson.
"Just fortunate timing," says Ford. "I read about one script a day—I have to. An actor can't wait for good roles in pictures."
"No one is able to guess which films will be hits. Only the public determines that, and there is no way to foretell the box office. No single picture is important enough to destroy a career."
"I've survived my share of the bad ones, and I'm not afraid to gamble."

Scientist Declares Over-Confidence Blocks Research

By GLENN FERRY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—A world-renowned scientist has spoken out in sharp warning against "over-confidence" which is causing scientists and scientific organizations to believe eager smoking has been proved to be a cause of lung cancer beyond question.

The so-called "proof" is not even at all, according to Sir Ronald Fisher, professor of genetics at Cambridge University and until recently visiting professor at Michigan State University, East Lansing. The "proof" is statistical and Sir Ronald's renown is in statistics. He is often called "the father of modern statistics."

The alarming thing about this "over-confidence," he continues, is that it blocks scientific research which could either verify or destroy the "proof," and other scientific studies that could really find out why lung cancer rates have increased so much during the past 30 years.

Bad Experimental Effect
"The worst effect of that over-confidence, so far, is that it seems to have held back the various teams of workers," he said.
"I think nothing but over-confidence that they had found the solution, that they had the game in the bag, could have prevented them from following up some of the other lines of inquiry which are much needed."

He pointed to one fact of the British Hill and Doll statistical study which has been carried out since against cigar smoking in based in their very first study. Those statisticians asked both cancer patients and patients with other diseases, "Do you inhale?" Surprisingly, there were fewer inhalers among the former than among the latter.

Subject Judgment
On the face of it, you'd think inhalers would be more prone to lung cancer than non-inhalers—if cigar smoking and lung cancer really are associated. "So," continued Sir Ronald, "our evidence is that there is a subject judgment and difficult. It would look as though, if one could make the inquiry by comparing people who smoke the same number of cigars, there would be a negative finding. It seems to me the world ought to know the answer to that question."

Another inquiry he thought it was urgent for science to make, was the part the hereditary make-up of the individual plays in his susceptibility or lack of it to lung cancer. The statistical studies suggested that these genetic differences exist, but the suggestions haven't been followed up.

He also was impressed by "the very striking fact that at the same level of cigar smoking, dwellers in towns have considerably more lung cancers than dwellers in the country." The Hill and Doll reports, as well as the American Hammond and Hurst reports, showed these differences, yet "I don't know any extensive piece of research which has been set on foot to get to the bottom of that important difference."

Sir Ronald set forth his views in Michigan State University's "Centennial Review of Arts and Science."

FIRMS PREPARE FOR TIE-UP
LONDON (UP)—London business firms today reserved blocks of rooms in downtown hotels and chartered buses and rented cars in preparation for the London bus strike threatened for May 5. A United Press survey showed large corporations were expected to run nearly 1,000 private coaches a day during the strike, carrying employees to and from work. Some firms were reported paying triple the normal rate to reserve the buses during the expected strike by 50,000 workers.

TV Review

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—After watching "togetherness" in action this season on many of TV's family-comedy shows, I have found myself becoming a champion of apathy.

However, the medium does contain at least one comforting exception. Within the muggy marshlands of TV's domestic collectives, there stands one half-hour tract of firm footing and touching togetherness: CBS-TV's "Leave It to Beaver."

The beaver in this case is not an amphibious rodent, but an eight-year-old boy (Jerry Mathers) whose real name is Theodore. He is called Beaver because his last name is Cleaver, which is as good a reason as any, I guess.

Beaver has a 12-year-old brother Wally (Tony Dow), and the usual parental baggage: a mother (Barbara Billingsley) and a father (Hugh Beaumont).

Air of Good Humor
Two things, I think, make "Leave It to Beaver" a sitcom. For one thing they together is rarely clowning. There seems to be a real rapport among its cast members, and an air of good humor washes through the show.

I suppose this is because its writer-producers, Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher, both tap their own real life families for material. Connelly, I understand, has six kids and Mosher, two. Most writers of TV family-comedy, in contrast, seem to be typing some weird complex of domesticities out in space.

The second big asset of the show is young Beaver himself. Jerry Mathers. Generally, I find child actors pretty hateful. They are a subspecies of humanity, better consigned for study in museums than inflicted upon consumers of entertainment.

Unemployment Drops In South During March

ATLANTA—Unemployment dropped in the South during March and continued to be less serious than in other sections of the country, the regional office of the U. S. Department of Commerce has reported.

The department said only 5.9 per cent of the 16-state area's labor force was unemployed during the month, compared with 7.1 to a per cent and more in other regions. The South's rate continued to be considerably above that in March a year ago: 4.6 per cent.

Even the urban areas, which have suffered most from the recession, have not been critically hit by unemployment, according to field manager Merrill C. Lofton. He said 82.1 per cent of the nonfarm labor force in the South had jobs during March, only about one per cent fewer than in March 1957.

King's co-stars, Alan Ladd, Ladd's 11-year-old son David, and Olivia De Havilland, meanwhile, hasten to King's defense.

King's Remarkable Herding in the picture draws applause from everyone who has seen the movie and it would take more than loss of his championship to hurt his movie career," Ladd said. "But I don't think any dog in the world can beat him."

King's a harder collar, isn't it "jerky" in the usual animal sense of the word? But the matter-of-fact, hardworking way he handles sheep is admirable—and endearing. King was nominated for an Oscar or Emmy, this year for his work in "Wild is the Wind."

Great plains Prepare For Tornadoes

By HALE MONTGOMERY
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOPEKA, Kans. (UP)—The Great Plains country is getting set for another spring of the hell-on-wheels. It is the most violent storm known to man, with winds at times exceeding 200 miles per hour.

May and June are the prime months for tornadoes, with April not far behind. Kansas is known as "tornado alley" because it ranks No. 1 among the states in number of twisters, although its death toll has been relatively low because of its widely dispersed population.

Sixty-four twisters were headed through Kansas last year, causing 2.5 million dollars in damages and seven deaths. The big killer last year came on May 29, ripping a path through extreme eastern Kansas and then bulldozing into suburban Kansas City, Mo., leaving 40 dead.

'King' Has Tough Off Camera Scene Coming Up May 4
By HALE M. JOHNSON
United Press Staff Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood's newest dog star, "King," and his trainer have a tough, off-camera scene coming up in 10 days when the animal takes his championship and reputation on the outcome of the far western shepherding competition.

In a way, Hollywood too goes on trail at the May 4 events at the California State Fair Grounds in Sacramento.

Several dog owners and trainers have told King's owner, Samual Goldwyn Jr., that they suspect the four-time champion may have "gone soft" during the filming of Samuel Goldwyn Jr.'s "Flood Rehearsal."

And they point out that King traded the hard, cold ground for a motel room of his own in Cedar City, Utah, during location filming.

Remains Unspoiled
"Now folks are trying to use this against him," Null said. "King has not gone soft or fat. He's a good intelligent dog and it'll take more than running around with movie stars to spoil him."

Nevertheless, Null, a florid-faced sheep-herder, admitted that dogs from all over the United States, Canada, England and Australia will be gunning for King.

"Just like the bullies in a bar—they want to take a swing at a movie star. Figure if they can lick him their glory will be doubled."

King's co-stars, Alan Ladd, Ladd's 11-year-old son David, and Olivia De Havilland, meanwhile, hasten to King's defense.

King's remarkable herding in the picture draws applause from everyone who has seen the movie and it would take more than loss of his championship to hurt his movie career," Ladd said. "But I don't think any dog in the world can beat him."

King's a harder collar, isn't it "jerky" in the usual animal sense of the word? But the matter-of-fact, hardworking way he handles sheep is admirable—and endearing. King was nominated for an Oscar or Emmy, this year for his work in "Wild is the Wind."

Reared on the range. King is not housebroken. The bill for rug damage was $75 in Cedar City. But he's a working dog and "not spoiled pet." Null said. "That's why I don't think Hollywood hurt him a bit. He's got his feet on the ground."

In the shepherding trials a dog must leave his master, go 200 yards away, circling around behind five sheep and bring them home. At an arm signal he must drive the sheep 175 yards off to the right, through a gate and across the course at right angles to another gate and back home and into a pen—all in less than 12 minutes. King's record time is six minutes.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell Kay
Stockholders are accustomed to receiving annual reports from the companies in which they have invested. For a great many years such reports followed a more or less uniform format. They were solemn, staid, difficult to read and uninteresting. A mass of statistics that would tax the brain of a certified accountant to figure out.

Nowadays it is hard to tell the annual report of a corporation from a modern up to the minute Chamber of Commerce booklet. When the auditors and accountants finish their work, the public relations department takes over and the final product is dressed in modern fashion with attractive colors, lively illustrations and all the latest news news.

Last week my friend Malcolm McDonald, Vice President of the Florida Power & Light Company, in charge of public relations, sent me a press report of the company's 1957 annual report that is being mailed this week to thousands of stockholders, bankers and investment houses throughout the nation.

Without doubt it is the most impressive and interesting such report that has ever come to my attention. It is a new Florida magazine. The word "FLORIDA" stands out on the four color cover showing a rocket launching platform at Cape Canaveral. Under the headline "Florida" is a sub-head that reads, "Industrial Horizons are Broad and Bright" and a story on page 4. The makeup is very similar to Time Magazine and it is just as colorful and appealing.

Were it not for a modest imprint at the bottom of the page that reads "1957 Annual Report,"

There is no foolproof method to predict when or where a tornado will strike and no guaranteed safety in the midst of one. They have a relatively narrow path concentrated with hurricane winds which have scored an area as wide as 500 miles at one time.

City dwellers are the most helpless in the tornado, open country actually being the best protection insofar as avoiding being hit by flying objects or trapped in buildings.

Tornado weather is usually slightly sultry and oppressive and winds are generally southerly. Clouds appear to bulge down instead of up. Although the rotary winds are in the neighborhood of 500 mph, the funnels themselves travel at speeds that have been measured at from five to 65 miles an hour forward.

Florida Power & Light Company" you would class it with our best news magazines.

While it tells the story of F.F. & L.'s amazing growth and development, it goes much further and tells an equally impressive story of the business and industrial progress of Florida itself.

Where the money comes from and where it goes is shown with a reproduction of actual coins, quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies, indicating revenue and outgo. One quarter, two dimes and a nickel are shown. If you want to pick them up and put them in your pocket, represent income from residential electricity yields. On the opposite side of the page a shiny new quarter informs you that one-fourth of the company's income goes to pay taxes and so on.

What impressed me most was the fact that the report devoted more effort to selling Florida itself. The article on page four, referred to on the front page, points out that a record industrial growth is being dynamic new links in Florida's economy. Profusely illustrated in full color, it shows various operations in our busy aviation, electronics, textile, aluminum fabricating, furniture and many other industries that today are bringing millions of dollars to the state and giving employment to countless thousands of skilled technicians.

This splendid piece of literature will tell Florida's story to thousands throughout the nation. It will bolster their faith in the state and come additional investments. While there is talk of a depression in other parts of the country this story shows that Florida, despite her hot and winter, is still the brightest star in the forty-eight. Here growth and progress continue, business is good and the future is bright.

Pensacola Man Questioned About Burglary Series

CRESTVIEW (UP) — Authorities questioned a 28-year-old Pensacola man here today in connection with a string of arms and ammunition burglaries in south Alabama and northwest Florida. Okaloosa County Sheriff Ray Wilson identified the suspect as Tommy Ward, arrested Wednesday in an automobile near here. Wilson said he found a .45 caliber sub-machine gun and a large amount of more sub-machine guns and five .30 caliber carbines in woods near here. He also said he had pawned an M-1 Garand military rifle to an Okaloosa resident, and took a large number of knives plus about $150 in cash from a store in Baker, Fla., officers said.

Ward told authorities he took the guns from a National Guard armory in Grove Hill, Ala. Police there said the armory was broken into Monday night, and weapons, clothing, boots, outboard motors, and other items were stolen.

About $28 in cash and a supply of shotgun shells were taken from a store in nearby Thomasville, Ala., the same night, the sheriff's office said.

Wilson said warrants would be made out today, and that the FBI would be called in since the case involved interstate transportation of stolen goods.

Particularly exciting was the obvious explosion when the second stage was entered, and the light grew smaller as the rocket sped into the distance. It was the first time that such a missile has been clearly observed, although many smaller ones have been seen during the Cape Canaveral launches.

Stevenson Speaks Tonight To FEA Convention Group

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — More than 10,000 Florida teachers and principals gathered here today for the opening session of the 72nd annual convention of the Florida Education Assn.

FEA president Brault Alton of Tampa and state school Supt. Thomas D. Bailey shared the spotlight this afternoon, while Adlai Stevenson, two-time Democratic candidate for president, will address the group tonight.

Friday, Gov. LeRoy Collins and Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, president of the National Education Assn., are scheduled to speak.

High on the agenda for discussion are proposals to increase science and mathematics courses and to offer special classes for gifted students.

Teacher and class room shortages are also expected to get top attention.

Thieves evidently worked leisurely early this morning in Osteen, when an estimated two thousand dollars worth of merchandise was stolen from Louis Noel's General Store, corner of state road 415 and Enterprise Road.

The thieves entered the well-lighted store by jimmying the front doors. All screws were removed from the cigarette display cases. Empty cases were left behind the self-service counter in the front of the store.

Stolen merchandise included all cigarettes and cigars, $600 dollars worth of men's clothing, $100 dollars worth of razor blades, cutlery, lighters, fishing tackle, women's and men's hose, pocket knives, underclothing, $100 dollars in silver and $30 in bills.

The fussy burglars took every jar of Maxwell House coffee, leaving other brands on the shelves. No beer or wine was touched.

The robbery was reported by the owner at 6 o'clock this morning. Volusia County Sheriff's Deputy Irving Vieno investigated the crime. The Sheriff reported this morning that finger prints had been taken. The store is completely surrounded by a concrete apron, eliminating any tire marks.

An early morning time was established by coffee still warm in an automatic coffee machine outside the store. While the thieves were unable to break into the machine, they disconnected it in their effort. The merchandise is not covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel remarked to a reporter this morning, "It looks like a professional job, by someone who know how to dispose of the merchandise." No statements were issued by the Sheriff's Department of Volusia County.

Sanford Residents See Cape Rocket Firing

Sanford residents watched in awe last night as a tremendous rocket soared into the air in the direction of Cape Canaveral. The bright light from the combination Thor-Vanguard was seen from the area.

A United Press report from Cape Canaveral today said that the Air Force blasted the towering rocket into the sky Wednesday night, but there were indications that the nose cone separated successfully from the second stage of the missile, it could probably be recovered, but whether it did was in the "area of doubt," sources said.

The Air Force only announced that the Thor-Vanguard combination was launched as "a new Air Force advanced re-entry test vehicle," and that attempts would be made to recover the nose cone.

Before word of the accident had reached headquarters, the general reported a "very successful jump."

Westmoreland announced that a full investigation would be conducted. But he said it was apparent that the jump safety officer, who gave the paratroopers a go-head to jump, could not be held responsible for the accident.

Officers said another jump scheduled here Saturday will be carried out unless weather conditions force a postponement.

Witnesses said the speed of the wind on the ground was recorded at about 12 miles an hour during the jump, well within the maximum safe speed of 15 miles an hour. The much stronger gusts apparently built up in a single section of the sprawling jump area, which was without communications.

"It was just one of those quirks," one officer said.

Uncontrollable Fire Roars Through Petroleum Tanks

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — A raging fire roared uncontrollably through a mile-long line of 11 petroleum storage tanks today, exploding or igniting nine 15,000-barrel fuel tanks and threatening 12 others.

Six of the 80-foot high tanks clustered on the tip of this city's Hampton Roads waterfront collapsed one by one between 11 p. m. Wednesday and 2 a. m. today. Three others went up at about 6:30 a. m. when a shift in the wind flashed the searing heat on them.

The Newport News fire department, in an official report, said no deaths or injuries had been reported and no one was missing.

Navy and commercial fire tugs, Coast Guard cutters and other fire boats poured water from Hampton Roads onto the inferno. Cat sent flames leaping 200 feet into the air and black smoke, visible for miles, belching into the air.

Hundreds of firemen from nearby military installations, Newport News and adjoining cities in this highly urban area combined to fight the flames that spread along a thin finger of land extending into the mouth of the James River, across Hampton Roads from Norfolk, Va.

Community Service Topic Of Kiwanis Official's Talk

W. Byron Hurling, of Leesburg, Lt. Governor of the 6th District of the Florida Division of Kiwanis International, was the speaker yesterday before the Sanford Kiwanis Club.

The visit was official. Hurling spoke on "Dedicated Community Service." "We must re-dedicate ourselves to community service," stated Lt. Governor, "including citizenship, development of youth, assisting the handicapped, senior citizens and U. S. Friendship."

Hurling enumerated other community services to be emphasized by the Kiwanis International: spiritual growth, conservation of resources, Circle K and Key Clubs and the promotion of world understanding and peace.

Further obligations outlined by Hurling were mobilized support for adequate education, fighting inflation, encouraging efficiency and economy in government, and backing the attack on traffic accidents.

The Leesburg official, brother of Congressman Sid Hurling, urged the Kiwanis Club to promote public understanding and qualified treatment of mental illness; sponsor community beautification and recognize worthy public service.

There are 13 clubs on the newly organized 6th Division. David Gatchel is president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club. The club is a powerful force in Seminole County. Theme of the year is Community Service.

Freak Wind Blamed For Paratroopers' Deaths

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (UP) — Freak gusts of wind were blamed today for the death of five paratroopers, fatally dragged by their billowing parachutes in a mass jump of 1,300 men.

More than 100 others were hospitalized after the jump Wednesday. The injured and dead all landed at the extreme northern edge of the big drop zone where gusts dragged helpless paratroopers over rocky terrain, dotted with trees.

The accident happened during the 101st Airborne Division's war game exercise "Eagle Wing".

Some of the dragged paratroopers were traveling at such speed that spectators were unable to overtake their chutes and cut them loose.

Maj. L. A. Brault, information officer for the division, said five of the men were dead on arrival at the base hospital.

Victims Listed

The Defense Department at Washington identified the victims as Pfc. Michael E. Robles, son of Michael Robles of New York City; Pfc. Alfonso L. Martinez, son of Mrs. Julia P. Martinez of Santa Fe, N. M.; Pvt. Elliott F. Morley, son of Mrs. Olga Roberta Morley of Miami, Fla.; S3C Carl G. Payne, husband of Mrs. Phyllis Ann Payne of Clarksville, Tenn.; and Pfc. Danny J. Ruffin, son of Danny J. Ruffin Sr. of Hamilton, O.

Brault said 137 men were hospitalized but that none of these appeared to be in critical condition. "There were a few broken bones," he said, "but most of them just had cuts and bruises and should be released within a few days."

Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, division commander, made the jump with his men, his 70th. And like the men wrestled with a ballooning parachute.

Successful Jump

Before word of the accident had reached headquarters, the general reported a "very successful jump."

Westmoreland announced that a full investigation would be conducted. But he said it was apparent that the jump safety officer, who gave the paratroopers a go-head to jump, could not be held responsible for the accident.
