Moorer Is 'Key' In Kissinger Spying

Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has emerged as a central figure in reports of military spying against Henry A. Kissinger in

But Pentagon associates of the nation's top uniformed officer say he has not lost the confidence of President Nixon, and, in fact, received notice well in advance from the White House that he was being nominated for a second two-year term as JCS chairman in 1972.

The Pentagon officials were commenting in response to a report by the Chicago Tribune that Nixon wanted to fire Moorer after the White House investigative unit known as the plumbers told the President of the spying against Kissinger, then a foreign policy adviser and head of the National Security Council (NSC).

The Tribune said it had not learned why Nixon did not fire Moorer.

today's editions that David Young, a member of the plumbers unit, submitted a lengthy report in early 1972 that concluded that Moorer had received secret NSC documents taken from Kissinger's office.

The Times story, which quoted well-placed sources, said Young's report of his investigation into security leaks showed that classified mate-

On Sunday, the Chicago SunTimes said the plumbers group accused an unidentified U.S. military man of rifling Kissinger's briefcase during one of his visits to China. It said Saturday that Kissinger ordered a tap placed on the telephone of then-Defense Secretary Melvin R Laird in 1971 in an attempt to find the source of leaks from secret diplomatic dealings.

AP Special Correspondent The way things are shaping up, a world conference on energy problems may be an urgent necessity before the year is out.

Such a conference might be limited to the non-Communist world, but it wouldn't be at all surprising if the Soviet Union would be interested in sitting in. It, too, has considerable stakes in what happens to the world's reserves of

But there's much more to the picture than oil. There is a broad spectrum of problems dealing with the interplay of the energy situation with the over-all supply of vital raw materials around the world. The two are going to be closely linked.

The United States needs 13 essential metals for its industry. In the case of half of these, it must import. In another dozen years, it may be, on balance, import-dependent for 12 of the 13. If those materials should be unavailable, the resulting distocations could make may's U.S. oil crisis look like kid stuff, and the rest of the advanced industrial world is in a similar situation.

Where are those metals? Much of them are in what is called the Third World. Thus, if interlocking problems of energy and raw materials are going to be examined, how can the nations owning much of the raw materials be left out of the picture?

President Nixon's recent initiative sought a Feb. 11 meeting of the United States, Canada, Japan, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and West Germany to consider cooperative approaches to the enormous problems posed by the energy crisis

Thereafter, the United States hopes that the big oil-gobbing nations can meet with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, to whom Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has directed a warning: It is not in their interests "to bring about a worldwide depression."

Initial reaction to the consumer-nation meeting has been generally positive, though it

WASHINGTON - The final lifting of the Arab oil embargo, according to secret reports from the Saudi Arabian fields, won't bring the promised gush of oil. The reports have been shown to us by sources inside Aramco.

the multinational, multibillion consortium which developed the Saudi fields. There are four Aramco partners - Exxon, Mobile Standard of California and Texaco - each an oil giant in its own

In these reports, which have been withheld from both the Saudi and U.S. governments, Aramco engineers have warned that "severe technical difficulties" have hampered production. Their best estimate is that production will be "stabilized" at no more than 7.5 million barrels a day. This is less than half the 20 million barrels that the Saudis promised if their political terms

But the real scandal, if the engineering reports are correct, is that the production foul-up was caused by Aramco's greed. For three decades, Aramco has been pumping oil from under the sands of the sheikdom and paying the Saudis mere alms.

Not only are the fabulous, one-sided oil concessions of the past now at an end, but the company rears that its whole Saudi operation will be taken over by the government. The secret Aramco memos are full of references to "possible nationalization" and "unstable political conditions."

A year ago, the memos predicted nationalization would come 'well before 1980." More recent memos warn that the takeover may be only two or three years away.

Aramco, therefore, began draining every drop of oil that could be and from its Saudi wells. The daily production was increased from 6.5 million barrels in 1972 to nine million barrels in 1973. The company had set a 9.3-million-barrel production goal by

EXISTING FIELDS

The corporate objective, according to the secret memos, was to increase production from existing fields without spending any more money than necessary on developing new wells.

The rush to get the oil out caused technical problems. As early as last June, engineers warned that production was too fast. Their secret reports tell of "huge pressure drops" and "erratic The hurried production, according to the reports, created "tremendous volumes" of natural gas, which simply had to be burned off. At a steadier production rate, the caports state, the gas could be compressed and reinjected into the formation. This would cost a little development money, but it would increase the pressurization and permit more oil to be pumped

However, the documents make clear that Aramco is not inexpropriate but only in removing as much as possible before nationalization takes place.

There is no shortage of oil under the Saudi sands. The barren, baked desert virtually floats on a sea of petroleum. The engineering reports, indeed, are highly critical of Aramco's drilling" and "reservoir analysis." But plainly, the company is unwilling to invest substantial sums in developing Saudi Arabia's vast oil reserves unless the government makes the risk worthwhile. One memo estimates that it would cost Aramco $1 billion to increase production. The money is needed for drilling new wells 🚯 📗 and building more pipelines and storage tanks. Even if this vast investment is made, according to the memo, no substantial increase in production could be expected before 1977. The Arainco documents show that the company, meanwhile, is concentrating on draining the fields it has already developed. Only 14 of the 20 known fields are now being worked, according to the engineering reports, and substantial production is coming from only 12. Geological surveys indicate that many more fields merely await exploration and development.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

When the Saudis offered to increase production to 20 million barrels daily, they evidently didn't know about the technical difficulties that have developed. Their suspicions, apparently, were aroused. But the secret reports indicate they were kept in the dark about the seriousness of the troubles. This is vigorously denied by an official spokesman for the oil consortium. He assured us that the company is developing Saudi Arabia's oil reserves as fast as feasible and that the technical problems haven't been serious. He specifically denied that the company's carelessness will limit future production to about 7.5 million barrels daily, without heavy investments. We quoted some of the memos to him including one which declared the "reservoir pressures" fluctuated so greatly that the engineers estimated the daily production would be held at "no more than 7.5 million barrels." This memo, said the spokesman, was "all wet, completely erroneous." The welfare of the West may depend, to a large extent, on who's telling the truth - the secret memos or the official

For Saudia Arabia is the western world's oil jugular.

Lawmakers Eye Tax On Growth

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - New residents of Florida should bear the cost of the state's growth, a proposed growth policy statement for the legislature said today.

The draft proposal was sent to House Governmental Operations committee members by Chairman Kenneth MacKay, D-Ocala, for study before a committee meeting

The compreheansive statement covered nearly every aspect of life, stating that "anything less than an attempt to deal with the subject as a whole, rather than piecemeal, is uplikely to be effective."

Florida should not establish a moratorium or a limit on growth but should attempt to regulate it so that the quality of life is not degraded by the changes, the statement said. One proposal called for the legislature to establish a statewide minimum formula for government to impose on new residents in an area impact fees no lower than the per-capita costs as determined by the uniform statewide "Traditionally, Florida has made little

The legislature then should "require local conscious effort to employ its taxing and spending powers as instruments for influencing growth," the statement said. It also proposed tax breaks for farm lands to encourage farmers to keep their lands out of development and avoid a decline in food production in the state.

House Speaker Terrell Sessums, D-Tampa, has made develolopment of a growth policy his No. 1 objective for the 1974 legisalture. All House committees spent the first three months of interrim meetings in the fall examining aspects of growth in their areas.

Dear Abby How To Shop For Wealthy Friends

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I solved the problem of what to give the people on our Christmas list who have everything, plus a collection of white elephants from previous Christmases. We sent them checks in the amount of whatever we would have spent for a gift and on each check we wrote, "Please sign this over to your favorite charity. Holiday cheer to you!"

There are so many worthwhile charities, why spoil the holidays fretting and shopping for unneeded gifts for people who are doing the same for us? We submit this idea in the hope that it will appeal to grownups who want to double their giving. Abby, since you are probably among those who have everything, please accept the enclosed check for your favorite charity as our gift to you. God bless you and yours. EUGENE F. MEGYESY, TULSA

DEAR FANNYLESS: a "false fanny" is simply a padded girdle, and I'm sure it doesn't care who wears it.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the mother of the 16year-old girl who had gone to a doctor requesting birth control pills. The mother was shocked and upset.

Obviously the girl expected her visit to be confidential, but the moment she left the doctor's office he was on the phone. reporting to the girl's mother. Abby, even minors have some rights. Some states have laws permitting minors to receive birth control pills without parental consent, while others do not. If this doctor was unwilling or unable to comply with the girl's request, he should have told her so and sent her on her way. To tattle to her mother was a gross violation of professional ethics.

If a patient sees a doctor about a drinking problem, an ethical doctor does not notify the patient's employer. Neither does an ethical doctor contact the wife of an unfaithful husband (other than through public health officials) to report his case of VD. I hope that girl will report the physician's betrayal to her medical society. I would expect the same were I to violate medical ethics.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - The Rosenkowitz sextuplets are responding satisfactorily to phototherapy treatment for jaundice, doctors at Mowbray Maternity Hospital report. The doctors had predicted that the three boys and three girls born last Friday to Susan Rosenkowitz would develop jaundice but said it should be cleared up by Wednesday. "All six babies show satisfactor; progress," said a bulletin Sunday night.

Vietnamese Recapture Border

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - Thirty South Vietnamese today recaptured a border camp in the central highlands taken four months ago by the North Vietnamese, the Saigon command reported. Helicopters landed the government patrol in the Le

Minh camp, and they met only light resistance, according to the government's chief military spokesman, Lt. Col Le

Other sources said the patrol landed just after noon after 40 strikes by South Vietnamese gunships and Hien said a regiment-size force - possibly 2,000 men was moving toward the camp. Other sources said they were 312 miles away.

Space Record Established

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The Skylab 3 astronauts take the record for the longest space voyage tonight by passing the standard set last year by Skylab 2. Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson were launched Nov. 16 for a planned 84-day mission. They will exceed the Skylab 2 mark of 59 days, 11 hours, nine minutes at 9:10 p.m. EDT as their space station passes over the Pacific Ocean.

When Skylab 3 establishes the new space flight endurance record, the astronauts will have orbited the earth 858 times and traveled more than 2412 million miles.

Evidence Suppression Sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) - Elmer Wayne Henley's lawyers want to exclude as trial evidence the 17-year-old's confessions to police about a 21/2 year rampage of homosexual rape and torture killings of 27 teen-agers. Henley, whose trial opens today, is charged in six murder indictments. State District Judge William M. Hatten has reserved the opening days for pretrial motions. The hardest fought motions are expected to be those by defense lawyer Will Gray, 48, to exclude from evidence oral and written confessions Henley made to police. Without the statements, the state's case could be seriously weakened, prosecution lawyers say.

Matchmaker Make A Match

The boxing card for January 16th has finally been released and in all honesty, it is hard to get excited about. The most important thing on the card is the absence of Clint Walker. As mentioned in this column last week the heavyweight is willingness to train and his statement that he will fight anyone. In speaking to Malcom Tait, the matchmaker, I vas assured unit an erica's wound be muce to get Clint on the next card. As I have stated before, Malcom Tait is an honest man, and I believe him. BUT, if Walker does not get a chance SOON, I will personally see that he does. I feel very strong about this matter, and so would anyone else who witnessed the effort that Walker has put forth, while being passed over. I am not a crusader, but what's right is right, and in the case of Clint Walker it has been all wrong

White And Lloyd Again

"Snake" White is being brought back to headline the 16th card withBobbyLloyd, a man that he stopped only two months ago in the sixth round. The reason being given for this re-match is that Lloyd's manager felt they got a raw deal the last time out. Maybebut not that raw, if you look at it from the proper perspective. Lloyd was leading on two of the three officials cards at the time, but was fading fast, and it was obviously just a matter of time before he would have been counted out. The Bahamian had been dropped twice in round six from punches that did not appear to devastating, and when the ref, General Hanlow, www questioned as to why he ended the fight, his truthful answer was "Lloyd didn't want to fight anymore."

I agree with the General's view, Bobby was all-in and would not have lasted another round. I did feel that he had geven a good account of himself up to that point and deserved the right to be counted out. According to the promoters, Lloyd has gone and beaten Vincente Rondon, former world's champ since his bout with White. I have not gotten the report of this bout, but it's possible that I missed it. Rondon is just a shell of his former self and everybody and his brother has been beating up on him as of late, if Lloyd did, it's a good win, but not good enough to place him in the main event.

My choice in the bout has to be White, and on another K.O., this time in four rounds. Men like White improve and learn with each fight, so it figures that he will better his last score over

Bowie Adams will launch his comeback bid against Roy Alexander in one of the preliminaries. I have never seem Adams and reports are that he is nothing special, but Alexander quit the ast time I saw him, giving the reason that his gold teeth were oosened and he was afraid he was going to swallow them. I have to go along with Adams because he doesn't have any gold teeth, out insiders tell me that Alexander has more than enough ability to defeat the invader from the south west. The right with the most interest to me will be Minnesota's Glen Morgan and Charles "Baby" Fullard. Morgan comes into the match with a perfect slate, he has stopped all six of the men who have stepped into the ring with him so far. Most of the fighters have failed to last out the first round with the middleweight bomber, so it figures he should have an easy time with the often beaten Fullard.

Don't You Believe It

Not one man that has sat across the ring from Morgan could even carry Fullard's gym bag. The Jacksonville fighter is a tough cookie and one that won't wilt so easily under Morgan's fire. Fullard has been in with some of the best around and always gives a good account of himself. His last Orlando effort was a close decision loss to Vic Perez, early in '73.

It is limb-going-out-on-time, as I pick Fullard in an upset over Morgan, but if Morgan does win I will be amazed if his KO streak Sanford's Vic Perez is also scheduled to go, this time he is in a re-match with Irv Gifford. For those that missed their first fight, in Eustis, congratulations, it was a stinker. Perez gave it his all and won in a walk, but Gifford seemed pleased over the fact that he lasted the distance. This was accomplished by switching from left to right, both in footwork and the way he held his hands up, I can't say the way he punched, because he hardly did.

I guess Vic might stop him this time, and I can't see anyway for Gifford to win, unless he takes a gun into the ring with him and even then it's difficult to believe he would stand still long enough to pull the trigger.

For Victor it will be another payday, but I have to make this one observation: he sure doesn't seem to be going anywhere under his new manager

The fifth fight set on the card is a contest between Mike McKinney and someone named "Junior" Royster, Since no one is sure of how Royster spells his name, let alone what his record is, I will have to go along with McKinney on a KO. The Irishman was outstanding his last bout, and may have turned the corner on a career that seems to be on the upswin

As predicted in this column, Tony Licata has signed to fight the current U.S. middleweight champion and former five times worlds welterweight and middleweight title holder. Emile Griffith, Feb. 5 in the Boston Gardens.

Curto And Obed

Down in Miami Beach, light heavy, Vinnie Curto will continue his ambitious schedule when he takes on Baby Boy Rolle on the twenty second of this month. Rolle is currently ranked number six in the British Commonwealth Ratings for John Conteh's crown, a title that he was unable to capture in his last effort. It was that 15 round bout that saw Conteh suffer the hand injury that forced his removal from a Mike Quarry confrontation

Tomorrow night at the beach, junior middleweight sensation Elisha Obed does battle with Texas Tommy Van Hatten. This bout lost quite a bit of it's attractiveness when Van Hatten got bombed out over in Austria by Johann Orsolics. Before that mis-match take an easy decision from shutout when he took a 11-10 when Jim Howarth dropped his Van Hatten was a red hot property and one thought of as who Kraus 7-1. # A Tale Of Dressing Rooms: Joy And Gloom

HOUSTON (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings minced few words about how they were overpowered 24-7 by the Miami Dolphins on Super Bowl Sunday.

Coach Bud Grant, asked when he throught his team was in trouble, said bluntly: "On the first drive of the game." Linebacker Wally Hilgenberg said of the Mianii Offense and devastating running back Larry Csonka: "They just took the ball, ran it down our throats and we couldn't stop

Defensive tackle Alan Page said, "We could have used a

The Dolphins rammed two touchdown drives through the Vikings for a 14-0 lead and had the game under control with a 17-0 halftime bulge.

Although Fran Tarkenton set a Super Bowl record with 18 completions and scored Minnesota's only touchdown. the Dolphins sustained their first half cushion. The Vikings, without a trace of emotion, explained simply they had been outplayed.

"They played about as well as they could," said Tarkenton. "I thought we played well, but the ball bounced their way the entire game. Everything good that could have happened to them, happened." A lot of bad things happened to the Vikings. They were penalized seven times for 64 yards. A clipping violation against Stu Voigt, who made three spectacular catches.

kick which the Vikings recovered after Tarkenton's

But Tarkenton said he wanted to offer no excuses for Minnesota's second Super Bowl loss in two appearances. "Somebody has to lose," Tarkenton said. "You play the best you can. We gave them a shot, but it wasn't good enough. No sour grapes. We expected to win and we
