

Flood Control Funds Included In Budget

Congressman Richard Kelly (R-Hidalgo) has announced that funding for the Central and Southern Florida flood control project, in the amount of $4 billion, and the Four River Basin project, in the amount of $5 million, were included in the fiscal 1977 budget submitted to the Congress by President Ford.

The funding will be for the Army Corps of Engineers to complete construction of these projects.

The Four River Basin project covers about 6,000 square miles in 15 counties in Central and Southwest Florida, including most of the fifth congressional district.

The plan of improvement consists primarily of stream improvements and a system of canals, reservoirs, and auxiliary water control structures designed to prevent a recurrence of disastrous flooding experienced in the past and permit storage of excess water for later beneficial use.

"I'm pleased that this importance has been recognized by the administration in the preparation of the budget in a year when fiscal restraint is the byword."

It embraces Lake Okechobee, its regulatory outlets, a large portion of the Everglades, the upper St. Johns and Kissimmee River basins and the lower east coast of Florida.

This project is vital to the protection of the highly urbanized east coast region from flooding and hurricane damage.

Kelly's testimony before the House Appropriations Committee last May was instrumental in obtaining funds for these projects.

"It is vitally important that such flood protection and water management projects be continued for these areas, which are subject to the difficulties imposed by periodic, heavy rains and resultant floods," Kelly said.

The plan of improvement consists primarily of stream improvements and a system of canals, reservoirs, and auxiliary water control structures designed to prevent a recurrence of disastrous flooding experienced in the past and permit storage of excess water for later beneficial use.

Freeman, Kwiatkowski, Hattaway Named Herring Files New Sunshine Law Charges

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

State Attorney Abbott Herring's office this morning filed charges of Sunshine Law violations against two county commissioners and the county chairman, Michael Hattaway, and two city council members, William Freeman and Harry Kwiatkowski, in connection with Herring's chief assistant in Seminole County, William Thomas Freeman.

The same matters that were covered by the grand jury indictments.

"These are, in effect, new cases with summonses to be served," Herring said. "The grand jury in December charged County Chairman Michael Hattaway and City Council members Harry Kwiatkowski and William Freeman with violation of Florida's Sunshine Law, a law which states all public meetings held by public officials must be open to the general public. Freeman was out of town Wednesday of grand jury charges against the trio charged Herring said. "If it (the grand jury indictment) was too vague, we'll spell it out a little better," Herring said.

"I'm holding Stanley Herring responsible for those cases," he added.

Kwiatkowski, Hattaway and Freeman were charged by the grand jury with violating the Sunshine Law by meeting secretly between May 1 and Oct. 30, 1975, to discuss the county's aborted plan to purchase a 457,000 sq ft site near Markham Woods Road and for discussion concerning the county commission's selection of Freeman as county attorney.

Man Charged In Shooting

A shooting at the Sandbar Lounge on the Sherraton Sanford Inn at Interstate-4 and SR-46 Thursday night had a man in jail condition today.

Another man has been treated, charged with aggravated assault and using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Binford: Grand Jury Acted 'Responsibly'

Port Authority Chairman Tom Binford today issued an "indictment statement" outlining his philosophy concerning the grand jury indictments which named top-ranking county officials.

Binford, whose election law charge was dismissed, said in his statement that State Attorney Abbott Herring is doing his job and, in Binford's opinion, was not politically motivated.

Law enforcement reports indicate that around 10:30 p.m. a man entered the lounge, approached a table and witnesses said his wife was sitting, and allegedly drew a .38 Smith & Wesson handgun. The man was identified as Louis Sanchez, 37, who also was sitting at the table.

After the shooting, witnesses said the alleged assailant left the scene in a black pickup truck, which was later identified as a 1974 Chevrolet. Sanchez was taken by Herring Ambulance to Seminole Memorial Hospital, which today reported his condition as "fair."

Shortly after the shooting, reports said the description of the Longwood Reserve Police Officer, James Edward Chapman, observed a vehicle fitting the description of the purported assailant's vehicle on the Longwood-Lake Mary Road. The report said the pickup truck turned east onto Humphrey Road, and Chapman activated a flashing red light to stop the vehicle.

The pickup truck stopped, reports said, but the driver jumped from the vehicle and ran toward a wooded area. The man, later identified as Donald Dewdney, 37, of Keller, 33, The Green Meadows Apartments, Fern Park, reportedly approached Chapman and told him he had a gun in his back pocket.

Binford's statement is as follows:

"On Dec. 17, 1975 four indictments initiated by the Seminole Grand Jury were made public by the courts. The indictments, one of which was mine, created quite a controversy. Firstly, the indictments were made public Dec. 3, 1975 but were not made public until the State Attorney's office immediately following the release of these indictments. I would like to put in perspective my personal feelings regarding my indictment. My wife was surprised to be indicted; I sincerely and honestly believed I had not violated any law and was successful in getting his name deleted before the in-

Youth Testifies That Spaziano Showed Him 'Two Bodies'

By BOB LYDD Herald Staff Writer

An 18-year-old youth today told a criminal court jury that Joseph "Cray Joe" Spaziano told him during a marijuana "smoking session" that he was going to "show me some of his girls" that he had raped, sexually assaulted, mutilated and tortured.

Anthony DiLasio, 18, son of Donald Marine and Patricia DiLasio, testified that Spaziano drove him in a pickup truck about Aug. 14, 1973 to a dump area near SR-41 in south Seminole County. Spaziano told him the dump scene was the scene of a murder. Anthony DiLasio said he hadn't accompanied them to the dump had collar-length brown hair and was named "Mark or Mike." DiLasio said he was asked to get back to the Spaziano's two-tone blue pickup truck and was told to take some acid, which he identified as a hallucinogenic drug.

He testified that Spaziano and the unidentified man stood talking "over the bodies for 20 to 30 minutes" before the trio left the dump scene in the truck. As Spaziano drove away, DiLasio said that

Moore's Request Denied

By SCOTT ABRAHAM Herald Correspondent

ALAMONTÉ SPRINGS — The Senate Legislative Delegation Thursday night turned down Sanford Mayor Lee Moore's request for state legislation that would incorporate county land now surrounded on three or four sides by the city.

The delegation did indicate they would be interested in waiving the requirement that calls for a double referendum, to save expense. If the city decides to hold a single, city-wide referendum, it may be possible for voters to determine if they want the county land taken into the city.

Ford's Medical Report To Be Made Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House aides say President Ford's new medical report will be made public after his examination Saturday, although Ford's physician says such disclosure could overlap the bounds of privacy and set a bad precedent for future presidents.

Ford has urged other candidates for the presidential nominations to also reveal their health records.

But Laksh said he feels "uncomfortable about the president's releasing medical details of a patient's record in view of the traditional confidential patient-doctor relationship."

"Exams are really a private thing — there's a certain dignity about one's physical exam," Laksh said in an interview Thursday. He said the public may be entitled to have information about the ability of a president to perform his duties "but to lay out all the details that go with it is beyond the propriety of one's privacy."

Two Missing After Explosion

ZILWAUKEE, Mich. (AP) — Two men were missing today and believed buried in rubble after an explosion that ripped through a 225-foot grain storage elevator, killing three workers and injuring 10.

One of the survivors of Thursday's blast was trapped for 13 hours in the wreckage of the structure before rescuers could free him.

Witnesses feared the two missing men were dead in the debris.

Ford Proposals Are Appealing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of state and local governments are finding considerable appeal in President Ford's proposals to turn over operation of 59 federal programs to the states, even though the price-tag may be high.

The programs include the $9.3-billion Medicaid program and 16 other health services. Others are in education, social services and child nutrition. Ford also would limit the amount of federal grants under each program and provide for limited annual increases.

"Our initial reaction has to be favorable," Ralph Tabor, director of federal affairs for the National Association of Counties, told reporters Thursday.

Ship Conversion Due

CLEVELAND (AP) — The American Ship Building Company (ASB) is about to take on a very big task — converting the bulk freighter Walter A. Siering into the fourth longest ore carrier on the Great Lakes by inserting a 96-foot midsection on the vessel.

ASB officials said the company has received a contract worth approximately $3 million from Cleveland Cliffs-Steelmaking Co. to enlarge the ship to 225 feet, with the work scheduled to be completed at ASB's Lorain, Ohio, yard in midsummer.

Officials Advised On State Laws

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD (AP) — The only time public officials get into trouble with Florida's "Sunshine Law" is when they try to find ways to get around the law, City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. told city councilmen Thursday night during a work session on various state laws which elected officials and others must follow.

Julian discussed and answered questions during the two-hour session on the Sunshine Law, as well as conflict of interest, public records, nepotism and the police bill of rights laws, arguing that all members be given and read the laws and abide by them to the letter.

He also proposed simplified rules of order under which council meetings could operate. After discussion however, he said he would revise the rules and present them again for consideration.

Julian at a recent meeting said the rules would be a simplified version of Roberts Rules of Order that could be easily understood and adapted for governmental meetings.

Eliminated from the suggestions was a proposed rule that would have empowered the chairman to refuse to recognize any motion which he considered frivolous or obstructive to the meeting. It was noted by Julian that a frivolous motion would probably die for lack of a second anyway.

Councilman Parker Anderson made it clear the rules were not directed toward any individual, but had to be viewed objectively.

Of the Sunshine Law, Julian said that if two or more councilmen meet to discuss business about which votes will be taken later, the meetings must be open to the public and notice must be given. He recommended that meetings other than those announced at public meetings be noticed on the city hall bulletin board and the press be notified.

The attorney said, however, that Mayor James R. Lommarm may talk with individual members of the board and not violate the law, adding, however, that the mayor could be held personally liable for expenditures he might be authorized after polling councilmen, unless formal action ratifying the poll is taken at an official meeting.

In answer to a question from Council member June Lammann, Julian said council members may get together socially or for coffee after meetings, but city business may not be discussed. He pointed to a recent gathering at the home of Council Chairman J.R. Grant, noting that city business was not discussed.

Julian read the public records law, noting that tape recordings of meetings and public record and that notes taken by the clerk as well as public records must be preserved.

Of the nepotism law, he said that a public officer may not give his relatives in any city department over which he has jurisdiction or control.

Of the conflict of interest law, Julian said a public officer may not do business with the governmental entity of which he is a member, but that a businessman, who is a member, may bid on a project and his bid may be considered along with others.

Of the police bill of rights law, the attorney said if a police officer is demoted or his salary reduced as a form of punishment resulting from disciplinary action, the protections guaranteed under this law must be given.

Julian said he had not been able, as yet, to study the city ordinance which created the position of public safety director to determine if that law gave the city's director the right to hire and fire.

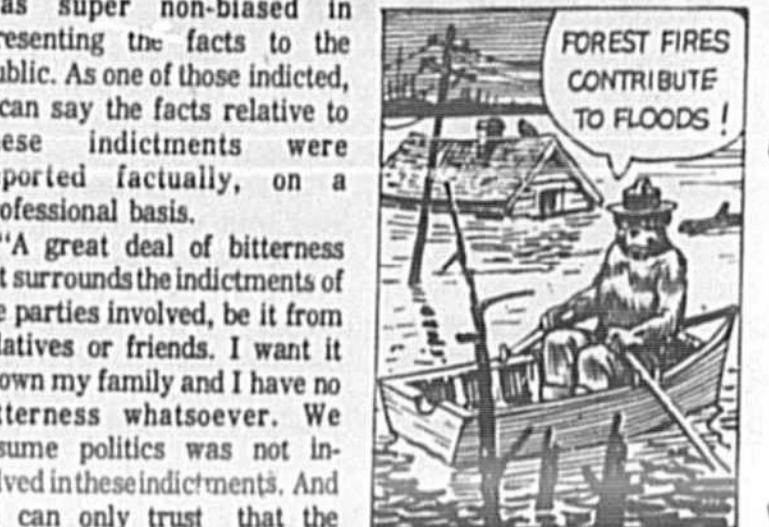

He said the police bill of rights applies when an officer is being investigated for wrongdoing.

Binford: Grand Jury 'Responsible'

State Attorney Office along with the Grand Jury was in fact exercising that Office's authority to prosecute the Binford murder and the Binford family and I took the same path in my family. But we benefited from this experience, also. Friends and political foes rallied to support me during this chaotic period. They'll never realize how much this meant to my family. The news media, especially the press, was super non-biased in presenting the facts to the public. As one of those indicted, I can say the facts relative to these indictments were reported factually, on a professional basis.

"A great deal of bitterness yet surrounds the indictments of the parties involved, be it from relatives or friends. I want it known my family and I have no bitterness whatsoever. We assume politics was not involved in these indictments. And we can only trust that the

IN BRIEF

DeLand Murder Weapon Identified By Police

BARTOW (AP) — Police investigating Florida's slay mask terror attacks say they have identified the weapon used in the shooting death of a Volusia County man last month as one bought by a confidential informant.

A statement filed in the circuit court clerk's office Thursday indicated that it was the work of a professional informant that led to the arrests of four persons linked to a wave of rape, robbery and, torture and three murders in seven central Florida counties.

Staff Judge of the Florida Department of Criminal Law enforcement said today that three weapons were bought, and through FBI ballistics tests officials were able to identify a .38 used in the Dec. 5 slaying of Henry Kersey of DeLand.

"The cartridge case recovered in the DeLand case was identified by the FBI as having come from that gun," he said.

Dickinson Trial Continues

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Government witnesses say to resume testifying today about former Comptroller Fred O. "Bud" Dickinson's 1973-74 use of contributions on which he allegedly failed to pay $30,000 in income taxes.

Frank Johnson, manager of a Tallahassee dress shop, and Lester Moon, a Tallahassee jeweler, were scheduled as the first government witnesses today.

U.S. District Judge William Breward had in Mobile, Ala., called off Thursday's session because Dickinson suffered a severe nosebleed in court. Dickinson's doctor prescribed 24 hours of bed rest but court officials Thursday said the nosebleed would be able to return to court today.

50 Indictments Expected

ORLANDO (AP) — Fifty to 55 indictments are expected to be returned today by a statewide grand jury in investigating links between gambling and organized crime, an informed source says.

Disclosure of the indictments was expected to come after the grand jury confronted suspended Hallandale Police Chief James Longo for a third time.

The source said the grand jury was also expected to seek contempt citations against three alleged South Florida gamblers who refused to testify before the panel Wednesday.

Murder Appeal Splits Court

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Florida Supreme Court has split five ways in deciding that an Orlando jury convicted of murder after age 17 should have a life sentence instead of dying in the electric chair.

The decision Thursday restored the life sentence unanimously recommended by a 12-member Orange County Circuit Court jury for Larry Thompson in the fatal stabbing of a hamburger-stand manager.

Judge Cecil H. Brown had rejected the jury recommendation and ordered the death sentence.

Daytona Fault Line Found

DAYTONA BEACH (AP) — A fault line below the St. John's River may be responsible for two recent earth tremors here, says the curator of the Museum of Arts and Sciences here.

Steve Hartman said Thursday that the fault line runs north and south about 100 feet below the St. John's River west of Daytona Beach.

A tremor, the second in seven weeks, woke residents in a wide area Thursday but it was not picked up by the nearest recording devices, those at Georgia Tech.

You And Your Income Taxes

Mistakes Could Prove Costly

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fifth in a series of five articles entitled "You and Your Income Taxes." They were written by tax experts previously in the "You and Your Income Taxes" series.

By G. DAVID WALLACE ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A simple last-minute check of tax returns before seeking the return can pay off in a big way. It can prevent the interest and penalties assessed by the Internal Revenue Service for underpayment.

One of the commonest errors encountered by the IRS every year is a failure to sign the return. The IRS, an unsigned form is not a tax return. If you're due money, the IRS will send the return back and wait until receiving a signed form before processing the refund.

The agency is more flexible, however, when it receives an unsigned return from a taxpayer who owes money, as long as a check accompanies the return. The signature on the check is considered as binding as a signature on the return.

Another common error, according to the IRS, involves single people who mistakenly classify themselves as an unmarried head of household. The mistake is usually made by a single person who owns a home and assumes that's what the IRS means by household. Not so.

An unmarried head of household is a single or previously married person who is the source of support for one or more dependents. To help clarify the situation, the IRS has changed the returns to ask unmarried heads of households to list their dependents on the personal exemption and the standard deduction, the process is redundant and results in an underpayment of taxes.

Second, some taxpayers were checking filing status blocks on the forms for both single persons and unmarried heads of households. But that caused confusion because the categories are separate for tax purposes and pay different tax rates.

An error which will stop processing could be either a check for the wrong tax rate or an error in the amount of tax. The IRS means by household. Not so.

Officials Say 2,000 Cubans Are Working In Third World

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 2,000 Cubans are working in about a dozen poor countries far from Cuba's borders as part of a plan to expand Cuban influence in the Third World, U.S. officials revealed Thursday.

The Cubans are scattered across three continents, building schools and hospitals and offering technical assistance and political advice.

In contrast to well-publicized Cuban military involvement in Angola, these Cubans work almost unobtrusively by the rest of the world in such countries as Guinea, the Congo, Somalia, Tanzania, Guinea-Bissau, Sierra Leone, Equatorial Guinea, Algeria, South Yemen and Vietnam.

Officials here have estimate on how many of those Cubans are military personnel, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger recently suggested the figure is high. Discussing Cuban armed forces at a news conference, he said, "They seem to be everywhere but Cuba."

Agreement Prospects Dim

HALIFAX (AP) — The head of Canada's delegation to the Law of the Sea Conference says he doubts an agreement on global ocean management will be reached at a spring conference in New York.

J. Allan Bousley, who also is Canada's ambassador to Austria, said Thursday he probably would take at least one more round of talks following those in New York to reach an agreement.

Minister Has New Job

OTTAWA (AP) — Jean Marchand, who was forced by ill health to quit as federal transport minister in September, is now environment minister.

"He's in better shape than I am, which isn't saying a hill of a lot," Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said Thursday after the swearing-in ceremony.

Marchand, 57, said he vacated in Florida—playing tennis, jogging and riding a bicycle—to recover from the hypertension he suffered last fall.

Youth's Testimony Implicates Spaziano

Spaziano lived in a trailer near the dump in 1971 and that in the summer of 1972 Spaziano told him that he'd found "some bones" where he'd "stashed his dope."

Coppick said Spaziano said he didn't know if the bones were those of a dog or a human.

Another witness, who identified himself as Mike Ellis and testified that he was calling the dump area with fellow "club members" Spaziano and a man called "Bazzard" in the summer of 1972.

Ellis said he stayed at the back of the truck they were traveling in and that Spaziano and "Bazzard" went into a dump area and stayed for "15 to 20 minutes" before they returned to the truck.

Judge McGregor viewed videotaped testimony of heart patient J.R. Grant, noting that city business was not discussed.

The jury wasn't allowed to view her testimony that two men—one she identified from a photo as Spaziano—and a young girl came to the Colony Theatre in Winter Park where

The state attorney said he asked the governor for a special investigator to remove any opportunity for those indicted to cry politics.

Responding to Thursday's Prait Committee's request for a special investigator from the governor's office to look into alleged misuse of power by Herring, the state attorney said, "I'd love that. I tried to get the governor to come in, to have him see what is going on. I'd simply love it."

Herring also said the governor told him he turned down Herring's request for a special prosecutor because the matter was moving too quickly to trial and because the governor's office is swamped

Soviet Fleet Has The Edge

The retired British naval officer Capt. John Moore has been sending bad news to the United States of America ever since he became editor of the reference book Jane's Fighting Ships in 1972. His annual surveys of comparative naval strength have shown the Soviet Union to be narrowing the gap between its navy and the U.S. Navy.

Now, in a new book on "The Soviet Navy Today," he reports that in terms of the firepower represented by the new Soviet fleet the gap is not only closed but is opening in the other direction. In the numbers and capabilities of ships and submarines and their missile systems, he says, the Soviet navy is now "the most potent in firepower of any fleet that ever existed."

We can hope that his words penetrate the U.S. Congress, although that body has been told often enough — by secretaries of Navy and Defense and strategic analysts — that creating a navy of that dimension is exactly what the Russians were up to. Those warnings, however, have not been reflected in naval budgets, the declining size of the U.S. Fleet and the lag in adapting it to the potential for missile warfare at sea.

Capt. Moore's assessment appears to confirm the fear that the United States has been surrendering its naval superiority to the Soviet Union by default, although he offers some consolation. America's carrier-based aircraft and the skill and seamanship of its sailors remain far superior to what is found in the Russian navy.

This helps move the scale back toward some kind of balance, but even that comfort is qualified. The first Soviet aircraft carrier — though no match for our big attack carriers — made its appearance in 1973. And the poorly paid, poorly trained Russian sailors — most of them draftees — are manning ships and weapons designed to overcome that personnel deficiency. As Capt. Moore reports, Soviet warships are simple and rugged with easy repair capabilities, and there are enough of them for frequent rotation for on-shore maintenance.

So where do we come out? With or without attack carriers, with or without top-notch crews, the Soviet navy is prepared to show up with ships and firepower that could neutralize the presence of the U.S. Navy anywhere it chooses. We had a taste of what that means when the U.S. 6th Fleet was confronted by a Soviet fleet with a 3-2 superiority in a tense stand-off in the Mediterranean at the climax of the 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

Members of Congress who traditionally ransack the defense budget in search of expendable crying wolf when it points to the menace of the growing Soviet navy. What does it take to convince them there is a real wolf prowling outside our door?

En Garde

The French are hinting at retaliation if the United States doesn't let its Concord SST land on these shores. They apparently have no fear the English-speaking world will retaliate if they carry out a plan to purge the French language of creeping anglicism. Such terms as "les hot dogs" and "le after shave" may be banned by the National Assembly for public use.

If that's how they want to play, we could deny to France the honor we now pay it so frequently in the English vocabulary. After all, it's a tough learning how to spell hors d'oeuvres, much less preventie it right. A shrimp on a toothpick is a shrimp on a toothpick. Another French word we would nominate for dumping is divorce, which seems to cause more confusion the more it is used. If we start eating and conducting foreign policy in English, there might be less indignation on this side of the Atlantic.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — The first member of Richard Nixon's tight inner circle to reach print, Charles "Chuck" Colson, has described what it was like inside the oval office during the Watergate years.

He has completed a compelling book called "Born Again," which is loaded with inside stories about Nixon, Spiro Agnew, Henry Kissinger, and other headline figures from the incredible Nixon era. We have obtained a bootleg copy of the book, which hasn't yet hit the bookshelves.

Colson portrays Nixon as a shy, haunted man who got down on his knees at night to pray, yet a vicious, vindictive man who was eager to stamp on his enemies. Colson also traces his own astonishing transformation from a ruthless political hatchet man to a zealous Christian.

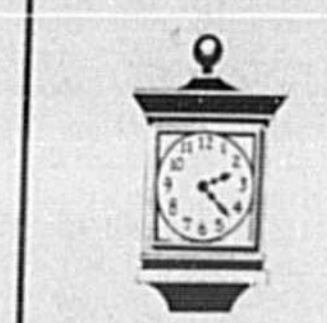

Here are a few of the book's most startling revelations:

— As the specter of impeachment began to haunt Nixon, he became paranoid and suspected a conspiracy against him. He feared the special prosecutors were wiretapping the White House. He even came to believe his own aides and secretaries might be conspiring to bug him.

What is this nation coming to? Recently received a smattering of quotes from the Congressional Record which describes a proposed bill entitled "The Child and Family Services Act of 1975."

It, in part, reads thusly: "In the judgment of those who are in charge of such a program, the State, by way of the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, parents are not doing a good job, the advocate (a specialist appointed by the government) would enter the home and direct the education, even within the home. And if the parent would object, the authority of the home would be transferred to those advocated."

JOHN CUNIFF The Great Experience

NEW YORK (AP) — In the vast volume of reports and first-of-the-year forecasts from business, government and academe, it is feeling that we have paid our dues and now we are entitled to a better year in 1976.

We endured high unemployment, prices and interest rates. We faced and survived shortages of various sorts. We cut back our living standards. We are told we have won for ourselves a few rewards for having faced grim reality, for having met the enemy and taken his worst. Deprivation has left its rewards, we are told. Things will be able to get better.

Therefore, inflation will recede, as will unemployment. Interest rates might come down. Personal income will be up and therefore we will be able to afford more cars, houses and capital goods than in 1975.

This might very well be so, and after reading the same outlook in so many reports and forecasts, it is hard to disagree. Few people even want to do so, and they can hardly be blamed. It was a tough year.

The cautious optimists will ask, however, if we have learned anything from our experience, and whether or not we are going to use any such knowledge to avoid future economic pitfalls.

Early indications are that we did indeed learn, but that we might still be able to absorb a lot more.

We learned that spending by governmental

ADM. THOMAS MOORER

How strong a defense do we need in peace time? Today, technology has compressed the time between a warning and attack. If a country does not have its forces in a high state of readiness at the outset, we certainly will not have the time in the future that we had during World War II. There is no such thing as an instant Navy that will be put to sea after (an attack). When one looks at defense in terms of insurance, you can only say that you do not buy your insurance policy after you are dead.

REP. LES ASPIN

How strong a defense do we need in peace time? (The problem is that) in peace time, the various services come forward with all of the big ticket items. The readiness goes down, and the amount of money spent on operations and maintenance goes down because we are buying big-ticket items on the assumption that when the war starts, we will be buying everything anyway. (There is) much more danger from such spending than from the chance Congress is going to make any big cuts. We ought to be able to defend the country with $100 billion in peace time, if you spend it well.

Should rising defense budgets be cut?

I'm not sure that the defense budgets are going up in terms of real dollars. If one would convert dollars into some base line, you'll see that this is not the case. You can look at other aspects of the federal budget — and for that matter, at your own budget — and see what's happened. The cold, hard, frightening facts are that today we have fewer aircraft, fewer ships, fewer divisions than we have had at any time since before the Korean War. . . .

Should the U.S. maintain forces in South Korea and the Indian Ocean?

The only way you really win is if you don't fight. Our basic military policy is focused on achieving deterrence. As far as the Indian Ocean is concerned, no matter what action is taken to make us independent in energy, the sea lanes that we will be importing oil from the Middle East for many, many years to come. And the fact of transportation from the Middle East to Europe — to the United States and Japan, for that matter — obviously go through the Indian Ocean. Without (our base in) Diego Garcia, the United States does not have a single air field or a single naval facility that can be used in the entire Indian Ocean without making diplomatic arrangements in advance. That is unacceptable. (Regarding Korea) We either have to maintain a presence to give the Japanese some assurance . . . or retire back to the West Coast of the United States, and I don't think (the latter) is in our interests.

Should the GI Bill be terminated as the Ford administration proposed?

My personal opinion is that it should be continued. The young men in the Vietnam War served just as honorably as did those in any other war. And they were ordered to go there. They carried out their duties and they are entitled to the GI Bill.

Detention Center Starts 'Non-Secure' Program

WOMEN

Two community youth leaders at the Seminole Juvenile Detention Center are enthusiastic and optimistic about the new "non-secure" detention program introduced at the Center in early January.

"If we can keep up with them (delinquent juveniles), and if their parents cooperate, the program should work well," commented Richard Galloway, Rosemary Banks, the second community youth leader, believes the program allows her to better understand the environment from which the juveniles come, and thus his programs. "We get to go into the homes and schools, to meet parents and teachers," she explained.

The non-secure or "Community Detention Program" was introduced at the local Center on the recommendation of Supervisor Tom Fay.

Of course, if the rules are violated, Galloway remarked, the child is returned to secure detention. On the other hand, he added, if excellent cooperation is obtained, it could have a favorable bearing when the case is heard in court.

On those occasions when a child cannot be released to his own home, the best alternative is to place him with relatives or in a volunteer home.

Galloway, who attended local schools and is a Seminole Community College (SCC) graduate, said successful implementation of the non-secure program in Seminole County will probably lead to its introduction elsewhere in the state.

Miss Banks, who graduated from Oviedo High School and SCC, said she was encouraged by the progress made so far with juveniles on the non-secure program.

Galloway explained that before a child is accepted on the non-secure program, he is carefully screened to ascertain whether he is a likely candidate.

DEAR ABBY: This has been a long time, so I finally decided to write to you. I am a 13-year-old girl. Sometimes after dinner, our family talks over the events of the day. My mother will say to me, "Go out of the room for a minute. Your father and I want to talk about something."

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional woman. I married five years ago and the marriage was going badly, so I adopted a child to hold the marriage together. That was a big mistake as my mother will tell you. We were divorced, and now I have met another man. He says he would marry me in a minute but he doesn't want a 4-year-old daughter. He is 50. I am 40.

Thief Asks Abby To Repay Money

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable, married, God-fearing person. Something has been weighing heavily on my conscience for nearly 20 years, and I hear that you can help me to make things right with the Lord.

When I was between 12 and 13 years old, my mother was the church Ladies Aid treasurer. I used to take a dollar or two out of her "church purse" every now and then. I don't think she ever knew that money was missing. I figure that over the years I must have taken $25 or $30.

I want to give that money back to the church, but I don't want them to know where it came from. If I sent you a check for that amount, you would send the church your own check for the same amount.

DEAR ABBY: Yes, I will. I have been the go-between for many who have stolen from their employers, friends, and even from their families. Make the check payable to me, and I will send my personal check to whomever you designate.

Fun In The Snow At Youth Retreat

Editor's Note: Rachel Clarke, a member of the Senior High group at First Presbyterian Church of Sanford... Editor's Note: Rachel Clarke, a member of the Senior High group at First Presbyterian Church of Sanford which she recently experienced an exciting retreat in the mountains, shares a first hand report of their activities.

Under the leadership of associate pastor Ken Mullis, the Senior Highs of First Presbyterian Church in Sanford completed their second annual winter retreat at Valle Crucis, N.C.

One of the most important factors of this retreat was that the Senior Highs planned it themselves. The retreat committee was Doug Burleson as chairman, Kevin Crocker, Devron Fite, Jolea Jalliet, Sherril McCarron, Debbie Ramsey, and Nicky Whitehead.

The following morning, everyone filed into a small mountain-side chapel for the Sunday service prepared and to be participated by the Senior Highs. Rachel Clarke wrote the service and delivered the sermon.

Rev. William A. Cutts, since 1949 a pioneer missionary to isolated primitive tribes people of a stone-age culture in Irian Jaya (formerly New Guinea), will speak Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 1, at the 11 a.m. service.

Me. and Mrs. Cutts were among the earliest volunteers for pioneer work among the newly-discovered tribes of New Guinea with the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Since 1950, they have lived with the Mori tribesmen in the Dugudina Valley, building a new station and another air strip. During their recent term, they maintained a Bible school in the Mori language, completed translation and mimeographing of the New Testament as well as books on Christian doctrine, evangelism, and a Mori song book.

Oral Roberts

Q. I've had a lot of criticism lately. How can I deal with it? A. I doubt if you will ever reach the place where criticism doesn't hurt. But I believe it's possible to create an attitude that will in time take the sting away. I know, because I've had more criticism than I care to remember.

But I found a way to deal with it. One day my mother said, "Son, don't ever strike back at your critics." That's the first thing I felt, you know, to strike back — but she said, "There's no way to handle criticism. First, ask yourself if it's true. If it is, have the courage to change it."

Not, is it fair? But there is a basis for it? If your self-appointed critic has discovered an error, a fault or a weakness you are wise not to ignore it. In fact, I've discovered we can learn a lot from our critics. Sometimes they're the only ones with enough courage to tell us we're on the wrong track. It's possible they're our best friend without knowing it. Some of my best help has come from honest critics. And when we ask ourselves if the criticism is true, we're objectively facing life head on. Any other course is to try to escape reality.

The next thing my mother said was, "If you're right, and what you're doing is right, you don't have to stand up for it against unjust criticism. God will vindicate you the changeless principle of the triumph of truth over error. Truth is built into the very nature of things."

Also, you can neutralize the effect of your critic if you'll practice forgiveness toward him. Refuse to be negative. Refuse to be discouraged. Refuse to give in to resentment, because it will only breed more resentment. Instead, ask the question: "What would I lose if I simply forgive this person?" The answer is probably nothing! So direct good feelings toward your critic. Wish him well. And as you do, you'll protect yourself from any bitterness taking hold inside you.

Criticism doesn't have to drag you down. You can use it as the best way in the world to grow. Then finally, plan to give to the great and total source of my total supply. I am planning whatever hurt I feel from this criticism, just or unjust, as a seed. I am expecting a miracle harvest of a quality of life I have not enjoyed until now! And then really, in all truth, expect just that kind of harvest and — something good will happen to you.

Dealing With Criticism

Q. I've had a lot of criticism lately. How can I deal with it?

A. I doubt if you will ever reach the place where criticism doesn't hurt.

But I found a way to deal with it. One day my mother said, "Son, don't ever strike back at your critics."

Not, is it fair? But there is a basis for it? If your self-appointed critic has discovered an error, a fault or a weakness you are wise not to ignore it.

The next thing my mother said was, "If you're right, and what you're doing is right, you don't have to stand up for it against unjust criticism.

Also, you can neutralize the effect of your critic if you'll practice forgiveness toward him. Refuse to be negative. Refuse to be discouraged.

Swallowing Gas A Common Problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
I am a 36-year-old woman who has a problem. I eat moderate-sized meals that are well-balanced. Shortly after eating, I'm terribly bloated and burp excessively. I end up taking Alka Seltzer but it doesn't help. Sometimes I'll even wake up from a sound sleep burping and hiccupping for a long while. Any pressure from clothing around my stomach increases my misery. Do you have any helpful suggestions?

DEAR READER—You are not alone. About one in 10 of the general population have problems with gas and most people have a complete misconception about what causes it to about it. The most common cause of gas is the excess gas you feel shortly after eating is usually not from the food you ate. The most common cause of gas is the air you swallow while eating. We all do it but in smaller amounts and in most people the gas passes noiselessly, undetected by all. How do we know it is air? The gas in the digestive tract has been aspirated and analyzed and in most people it is oxygen and nitrogen or air, and those two gases are not formed from any of the food you eat.

The air in the stomach and intestines may not cause any discomfort if it is not crowded by the meal you eat. That sudden full stomach feeling is caused by the gas you already had in the stomach before eating.

Now some people do have gas from fermentation of foods. A good example is the gas formed from fermentation of unabsorbed lactose, milk sugar, in the person who has this problem.

Certain foods, such as beans, are notorious as gas formers. By proper preparation you can avoid the tendency of beans to form gas.

People tend to swallow air when they drink things. Incidentally, drinking carbonated drinks releases considerable gas into the digestive system.

Others swallow unconsciously and it can be increased with nervousness. The problem is that many doctors simply tell their patients to stop swallowing air. If you are unaware that you are doing this it is pretty hard to stop.

A handy solution is to hold a rubber eraser or pencil between your teeth. It is not just a gag but it does help to handle this sort of interference. The one we like to use is to double to show no interest, actually train yourself to stop swallowing.

Nervous tension is often a factor in swallowing excess air. Developing the ability to relax more helps solve that problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband who is 59 had a heart attack 10 years ago. He recovered after six months and returned to work. Since then he has had a slow stroke. Twice he has had to be hospitalized because of this. The one time his pulse was 39, the other time it was 69. There was no further damage to his heart but it takes a while to recover. What could be done to prevent further attacks?

DEAR READER—A slow pulse in a young individual in good physical condition is merely a sign of good fitness. In these individuals the rate can increase at once if the heart needs to increase the amount of blood it pumps.

A heart attack and some other forms of heart disease may damage the electrical bridge between the top and bottom of the heart. This condition is called AV block. When this happens the heart may beat slowly, but unlike the athlete's heart, it cannot speed up enough to increase circulation if that is needed. That is why the patient gets trouble. Often there is not enough blood being pumped to the brain and fainting or even convulsions can occur.

Jury To Decide Fate On Monday 'Crazy Joe' Spaziano Guilty Of Murder

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Joseph "Crazy Joe" Spaziano, convicted by a circuit court jury of first-degree murder late Friday in the Aug. 1973 slaying of 18-year-old Orlando waitress the second part of his trial Monday in which the jury will recommend mercy or the death penalty.

The 28-year-old slim, dark-haired former Seminole resident and Outlaw Motorcycle Gang member, calmly turned down the jury room door at 11:22 p.m. a message came back that the jury "has asked for five more minutes."

The 12-member jury—six men and six women—had deliberations on the murder case but when Judge McGreggor sent the sealed-off jury room door at 11:22 p.m. a message came back that the jury "has asked for five more minutes."

At 10:28 p.m. the foreman had told the judge "at this point, I don't believe the jury can reach a verdict." McGreggor gave the jurors a short instruction on their duty to try to reach a verdict and sent them back for more deliberations.

Before the jurors filed into the heavily guarded courtroom to return the guilty verdict McGreggor warned spectators, including many that sat through the 14-hour Friday proceedings, that "the court will tolerate no outbursts."

When the verdict was read there were loud gasps from spectators—but no disturbance.

Three plainclothes sheriff deputies sat behind the defendant and his attorney, Edward Kirkland. Deputies stood in the doorway of the second floor courtroom and more officers guarded the hallways outside.

Following the verdict Spaziano was quickly escorted down the sealed-off corridor to a passageway linking the courthouse to the adjacent jail, as he had been each day during the week-long trial.

Monday at 1:30 p.m. the jurors are scheduled to return for the sealed-off jury room door at 11:22 p.m. a message came back that the jury "has asked for five more minutes."

Already serving a life-plus-five-years sentence for Orange County convictions, Spaziano could be sentenced to die in the electric chair or to life imprisonment on the first-degree murder conviction in the death of Laura Lynn Harberts, whose decomposing body was found on an Altamonte Springs garbage dump Aug. 22, 1973—17 days after she disappeared from her Orlando apartment.

Spaziano is sentenced to life imprisonment he would have no chance of parole for 25 years.

Spaziano is also docked for trial here Monday for the December 1973 rape of a 30-year-old south Seminole woman, but sources close to the case said Saturday that in view of the murder conviction the state is expected to drop prosecution of the rape charge.

DuVal Seeks Post

MIAMI—Dade County Circuit Judge Harvie DuVal, 61, began his campaign for justice of the Florida Supreme Court this week, with a swing through Seminole County, calling on old friends and supporters.

With former State Sen. Mack N. Cleveland Jr., at his side, DuVal said he is spending Fridays and weekends meeting with as many people as possible and organizing his campaign to culminate with the September elections.

On the bench of the Dade County circuit court since being appointed by then-Gov. Farris Bryant in June, 1963, Judge DuVal described himself as "more conservative than liberal," adding that he can bring experience to the high court from his many years on the trial bench.

Noting the State Supreme Court determines the cases of last resort and is the administrative court for the entire judiciary of Florida, he said there is not a great deal of administrative experience there, while he personally has served as administrative judge of the Dade County trial division for the past three years.

Judge DuVal pointed to the 12,000 cases he has reviewed in his judicial career.

A native of Florida, the DuVal family goes back to the first governor of the state—William P. DuVal, judge-uncle DuVal's great-grand-uncle. Dade County was named after the first governor.

Judge DuVal's great-grandfather was a lawyer and wrote one of the first law books in the state.

"If I become a justice of the Florida Supreme Court, that will terminate my ambitions as far as the judiciary is concerned," he said.

The judge became a lawyer in June, 1948. He is married, the father of two daughters and makes his home in Miami Shores.

But He Bears Striking Resemblance No, He's Not Really Abraham Lincoln

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A man with a black beard, wearing a black bow tie and dressed in an old-fashioned black suit can be seen of late walking the hallways of schools in Seminole County, carrying a scroll and reciting the Gettysburg address.

Although he bears a striking resemblance to the "great emancipator," the man is not Abe Lincoln, but rather Homer Sewell III, a native of the county and member of a family whose residence in Seminole dates back three generations.

When he begins his talks before school classes, he is usually introduced as a "visitor from the White House." Sewell tells the students that Lincoln was not even expected to speak at the Gettysburg cemetery and Sewell delivers the great address, dramatizing it as he recites in the way the Civil War president may have done.

After that is completed, Sewell tells the students of his real life experiences at the White House from March 25, 1965 to May 12, 1967, during the administration of President Lyndon Johnson.

When the president would plan a trip away from the White House, Sewell tells the students, he (Sewell) and others in the special communications staff would precede him to set up communications to make sure Johnson could have contact with anyone in the world.

President Johnson had a telephone near him at all times, Sewell said. "I remember sitting back in his chair in the oval office and checking out his telephone that had 60 buttons on it to ring directly to the different members of the staff and cabinet with whom he wished to speak."

"I sat on the President's bed once and ate a Scotch ham, terminant candy from a dish on a table, while I was checking out the 'phone there. President Johnson even had a telephone in the bathroom."

Sewell shows the students the various certificates he was awarded during his service at the White House, including one showing that he had ridden on the presidential helicopter. He also visited the famous LBJ ranch in Texas, got to speak personally with the late selected for training for the White House Communication Agency for assignment to the White House. After his three years in service, he was given the honor that he would not be continued in "soft duty" if he re-enlisted, but would be likely to be sent overseas. He decided not to re-enlist.

"I hope to write a book about my experience at the White House," he said. "It eventually," he says. "But right now, he is concentrating on 'probably our greatest president' during this Bicentennial year and sharing his thoughts on Lincoln with school students of Seminole and Orange Counties.

"There is a lot more I have to learn about Lincoln," he said. "and it's fun to do this with the young people."

Seminole County Population To Hit 314,000 In 25 Years

By ED PRICKEIT
Herald Staff Writer

Over the next 25 years Seminole County's population will double—reaching 314,000 persons by the year of 2000, according to County Planner William Kercher.

For almost two years, Kercher and his staff have been busily studying the most effective ways to coordinate that growth.

The end result of Kercher's planning will be Seminole County's comprehensive land plan, a plan which the legislature says must be in effect by October of 1977.

But before the comprehensive plan can be put into effect it must meet the approval of elected officials—in this case the Seminole County Commission.

However, cities as well as the county must meet the October deadline. In cities, planners, like Kercher, are just as busy preparing land use plans for municipalities.

Kercher says that at this point the growth could go in any direction. It is his responsibility to insure it is orderly and in the best interests of all the citizens.

So, Kercher and his staff have set up four public hearings. Kercher urges the public, and especially, city officials to attend the work sessions.

Out of the sessions, Kercher hopes to solicit opinion from citizens in hopes of plugging that into the overall comprehensive plan.

In addition, he says experts will be on hand to explain such diverse topics as economics, growth statistics, transportation, water and sewer and drainage.

The first hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the county commission chambers at the courthouse in Sanford.

Two firms under contract to the county are scheduled to make presentation for the public's benefit.

One firm, Econometrics, will provide information on the economics of growth and what it means to this area.

The second firm, Glattling Brophy & Shaben, is a company composed of planners and economists.

Kercher said information presented will be invaluable to persons interested in Seminole County.

Kercher's staff works with city planners. Though each city is responsible for its own comprehensive plan, Kercher said planners are coordinating information of a technical nature to try to insure orderly growth for all areas—not just areas outside the city limits.

Kercher said indications are growth predictions will hold.

Man Is Sentenced In Death Of Child

A 25-year-old Longwood man, who pleaded no contest to a manslaughter charge in the more than the vehicle struck the rear of a New Jersey family's car and sent it rolling into the median.

Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGreggor gave the sentence to Monroe P. Lee Jr., 25, of 565 Seminole Ave., Longwood.

Lee entered the no contest plea on Dec. 8 when his trial was scheduled in circuit court. He had been held in jail pending sentencing.

In another Friday sentencing, Judge McGreggor ordered James Randolph Tabor, 21, of Sanford Route One, to serve one year in state prison and five years probation on a conviction for grand larceny of an auto.

Tabor was found guilty by a jury Dec. 8 in the case involving a DeBary man's auto that was taken from a shopping center parking lot at Sanford.

Earlier, in a separate auto theft case, Tabor pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Judge McGreggor sentenced him to three years probation concurrent with the five years probation meted in the grand larceny case.

In cases that had been docketed for trial last week before Judge McGreggor—Charles Hillery Jr., 29; Sannie Lee Lowery, 29; and Wilford Cham, 22, all of Sanford, pleaded guilty to attempted burglary. They were allowed to remain free on bond pending a pre-sentence investigation (PSI) and sentencing set for March 15.
