

HOOVER WANTS TO REORGANIZE FOR ECONOMY

Desires Authority To Make Thorough Reorganization For Cutting Expenses

WASHINGTON, Apr. 16. (A.P.)—The House Economy Committee was told today by J. C. Roop, budget director, that President Hoover desired authority to make a thorough reorganization of the federal government. The group met behind closed doors. In explaining the administration's far-reaching reorganization bill.

Roop said Hoover desired Congress to establish a policy that would permit him to carry out through executive orders, consolidations to affect public works, public health, personnel, administration, merchant marine, conservation, educational activities, and Mexican boundary and water commissions.

The consolidations would be subject to a 90-day veto by Congress, but should Congress take no action in 60 days they would stand.

Roop read a statement explaining the administration's bill. He said the President referred his "five day work and staggered furlough plan" of employment over the McDuffie direct pay cut proposal drafted by the committee. Roop estimated the savings would be 75 to 80 million annual.

The government's drive for cutting costs to aid the Treasury yesterday brought forth a completed administration reorganization program estimated to save from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000.

Delivered to the economy committee shortly after it had voted four to three to propose the consolidation of the war and navy departments, Chairman McDuffie announced it would be given consideration today with a view to incorporating it with the group proposals for House action Tuesday.

Meanwhile, President Hoover was reported in administration quarters as advocating the five day work week for some part of industry as well as for the government as the administrative reorganization program.

Under a five day work week, he believes, an additional 25,000 to 30,000 part time federal employees can be hired and salaries of $75,000,000 and $200,000,000 saved through the act of the normal leave without pay proposal.

Duval School Head Is Indicted By Jury

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 16. (A.P.)—R. B. Rutherford, Duval county superintendent of public instruction, was charged with malpractice in office in two indictments returned today by the county grand jury. He was charged with signing vouchers for large sums in the payment of printing and routine graduation work "corruptly and with intent to defraud Duval county and persons unknown to the grand jury." The amount charged is $128,000.50. The second indictment charges he paid out $171,000.70 in excess of the amount fixed by the school board budget. He reportedly was elected president of the Florida Educational Association.

BURNS LAUDED IN TRIBUTES FROM WORLD FIGURES

Hundreds of Messages Pour Into Sarasota Home of Dead Chief

SARASOTA, Apr. 16. (A.P.)—William J. Burns, who died in the solution of many outstanding crimes and dramas in a past year, was being lauded by the thousands of men who knew him well. The funeral home of the late chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is being besieged by a deluge of telegrams and letters of condolence. The late chief of the FBI was 53 years old.

TRIAL JURY OF WIDOW CARRAN IS IN DEADLOCK

Can't Agree On Innocence Or Guilt Of Co-mely Defendant In Death Of Spouse

ATLANTA, Apr. 16. (A.P.)—A jury here was deadlocked early last night over the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Romie Carran in the killing of her husband, C. M. Carran, Jacksonville accountant.

The fate of the emely young widow was put in the jury's hands at 12:20 P. M. after arguments in which she was pictured alternately as a designing, ruthless woman who killed for lust and greed, and as the innocent victim of "circumstantial suspicion."

The jury's return an hour later was resumed, with no trustworthy reports of how the vote stood. Shortly after 4 P. M. Judge John H. Humphreys inquired of the jury whether a verdict was on more than a prospect. The answer was "no" and the judge said he would go home, holding himself subject to call for the return of a verdict.

OH, YEAH!

By PETER SCHAAL

And still it blows! Those chill winds I mean that have been holding up big league baseball since last Tuesday afternoon. Cold weather in Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and New York brought postponements of games to have been played yesterday, and so, only four tilts were witnessed by the eager fans of the North, two in each league. Some day the powers that be will start their seasons later, and keep their players under Florida's sun a little longer.

Unusually good pitching was produced in the four played games. At Detroit, Whitley Wyatt stopped the Indians on their ears, allowing four scratch singles and striking out seven. Hudlin in the meantime was being nipped for seven flows, including a homer by Gehrig, a double by Johnson, and single by Ruell and Wyatt which brought runs across. Johnny Burnet, the Lakeland boy, played a portion of the game for the Indians at short. He is due for another good year the critics say, and is another example of what sort of players can be produced in Florida.

At Chicago, Sammy Gray out-pitched Vic Frazier in a low-hit hurling duel which resulted in the first shutout game of the year, with the Browns being on the long end of the 3 to 0 score. The Sox got only five hits off Sam, while the Browns made good time getting seven off Frazier, including Kress' homer, Levey's triple, and Jenkins' double. Levey, by the way, played shortstop for Sanford some years ago, coming to this city with Kidd, the hurler, when both were members of the United States Marine Corps. Remember them?

Constant plugging away brought the Pirates their first victory of a year when they pushed over a run in the eighth and ninth to gain a 5 to 4 win and give Paul Derringer his first defeat of the year. The plugging Pirates got 15 solid hits, while the Cardinals could push over but seven off Harris and French.

Those amazing Reds, fortified with one of the hardest hitting outfielders in baseball, got a dozen hits, at least one in every inning, and scored a 5 to 3 victory over the Cubs. It was the second win for the Redbirds, and, like the first win, it was scored on two blows. The Reds scored all of their runs in the first inning, and although they hit safely from then on, they couldn't get another run, and ended the game with 11 men left on base. They didn't need runs, for Red Lucas was making the grade with ease, allowing eight hits, nine dangerous. Smith and May dived pitching for the Cubs, the former losing the game. Lance Richbourg, popular University of Florida outfielder and track star, got in his first game of the season when he batted for Smith in the seventh inning. He failed to make an impression, but Lance has too many hits in his hat to worry about that one missed opportunity.

Sam Butz, the Times Union's sports writer, has a lot of interesting comments to make about the value of semi-pro leagues such as the Central Florida League which makes its bow to the public for the second season next Sunday. We reprint it in full, because we are it speaks of players being developed in leagues such as ours. It meets with our entire approval. Young ball players who have any intention at all of getting some where in the game could do nothing better than join one of the Central loop teams, even if they didn't get a dime for their services. Big league clubs honored by league with their presence last year, and right now, one player, Shaw Buck, of Palatka, is making his grade in a real league, and several others, Bob Pittman, Morris Detomick, Buddy Lake, et al. are now of, are being eyed by the heads of big league clubs. Here's what Butz says of the situation:

"Loss of minor league baseball hasn't had a bad effect on Florida's interest in the national pastime. In fact, the reverse seems true. Without the South-eastern League, which a few of us fondly thought ruled the roost in this section in a baseball way for five seasons, the territory has been opened up and a number of fast semi-pro loops have been organized. The home boys are getting a real chance to play, and although they hit safely from then on, they couldn't get another run, and ended the game with 11 men left on base. They didn't need runs, for Red Lucas was making the grade with ease, allowing eight hits, nine dangerous. Smith and May dived pitching for the Cubs, the former losing the game. Lance Richbourg, popular University of Florida outfielder and track star, got in his first game of the season when he batted for Smith in the seventh inning. He failed to make an impression, but Lance has too many hits in his hat to worry about that one missed opportunity.

"Aside from presenting a good enough brand of entertainment to attract the fans, every baseball player's first aim is to land some on to the majors. Of course, the vast majority of players in a fast league will never be heard of outside his own ballfield. But plenty of good youngsters are hanging around waiting for a chance. They seldom get this when the professionals were occupying the stage.

"The man who played in the Central Florida circuit last season is already up the country. That is Shaw Buck, Palatka's phenomenal youngster. Shaw would probably be with Montreal today even if the Central Florida never had been organized, but that loop can point with pride to its product.

"The Central Florida will strive again this summer to put more players in the big leagues or ranking minor. So will the North-east Florida, the West Coast League, the Irida League, and other organizations scattered throughout the commonwealth.

"A few years ago, with the South-eastern ruling the roost and dominating space in the larger newspapers, these small leagues would have been given but passing mention. Now, they are all we have and they are getting the treatment they really deserve. For in the long run, the lushest of the bush leagues are the ones which really develop the ball players of the future and, for that matter, provide just as interesting a band of competition as any of the others."

And that reminds me. Shaw Buck, who played at DeLand last year, got plenty of publicity throughout the International League for his performance in the opening game in Cuba, Montreal, playing against Reading. "He broke in with a bang," say AP dispatches, "with a scorching single to center which scored Hend in the second inning, for the first score of the game." Good luck, Shaw!

Boy Golfers Will Seek To Compete In State Tourney

Some 15 or 16 Sanford boy golfers, students at Seminole High School, are expected to play a hole of golf before 1:00 o'clock tomorrow morning in qualifying rounds to determine which three shall represent the school at the annual State High School Golf Tournament, to be played in Gainesville late this month.

Rules and regulations adopted by the Association will be handed each boy for perusal just before he tees off, and teams of three players will trek down the course seeking the low score which will bring an opportunity to make the Gainesville trip. One of the three winners will seek individual honors during the tourney, while two of the winners will enter the tourney as a team.

Among the boys who are expected to be on the links tomorrow morning are: Barto Hutchinson, Raymond Lundquist, Richard Deane, Billy Faville, Ralph LeMoine, Bill Aihlen, Buster Aihlen, James H. Dyson, James Cochran, and Wilson Smith. All students of the school are eligible to participate in the qualifying rounds according to Leonard McLucas, who is handling details in this city.

Another Good Thing About Black-Draught

When you take Theodor's Black Draught, normal bowel activity is restored without sickening effects. This is only one of many successful qualities of this medicine.

Mr. George W. Gentry of Waco, Texas, whose experience in the use of Black Draught has extended over forty-five years, says:

"When I take a laxative or purgative, I want something that will take just a dose or two and give me the relief I need and feel as good as ever. Black Draught is like that. You don't have to take it every night."

"I just bought a box yesterday and after forty-five years I find it does me as much good as when I started taking it."

Hope Fades At Geneva

Differences of disarmament views are definitely lining up two sides which are drawing their lines at Geneva under the sponsorship of the United States and France.

Both suggestions have found supporters from the various countries participating in the conference, and both assuredly have some merit to recommend them.

The idea of an international army to preserve peace is very Utopian. It would be a swell plan if it would work. It doesn't take much reflection to see that many hazards lie in its path.

Furthermore there is the handicap of patriotism. In an international army there probably would arise occasions where soldiers would have to fight against their own people.

A company of Americans captured by an Italian, a regiment of Germans under a French colonel, a brigade of Englishmen officered by a Belgian general would form an army in which plots and intrigues would make it ineffective.

America's plan, too, has its serious limitations. In the first place it is unfair to certain countries, at least, certain countries will think so.

It seems incredible that with all the detective brains in this country at work, some headway cannot be made in solving the Lindbergh case.

"In the death of William J. Burns this country loses one of its most illustrious detectives, Burns was a man who put personality into his work, and because of his efficiency he uncovered crimes which perhaps otherwise would have gone unsolved.

"Burns' great skill at impersonation was one of the secrets of his success. On one occasion when a warrant had been sworn out for him because of the part he had played in obtaining evidence in a case, and an officer of the law sat in front of his suite in a hotel so that Burns could not leave the place without being served with the warrant, he put on a false makeup, crooked his arm and dragged his leg like a paralytic and passed the officer.

"On other occasions he used his skill to obtain evidence in upholding the law. Burns was the Sherlock Holmes of America, criminals dreaded to have him on their trail more than anything else, for he seldom failed to get his man."

MOTORCARS STILL EXPANDS

This year again motorists of the United States are financing a program of road construction and maintenance, directly and indirectly, to hundreds of thousands.

So, even in a quiet year, motorcaring remains a sufficiently vast realm of human activity that it can finance a $1,333,000,000 road-building and maintenance program.

It is clear that motorcaring goes on expanding in certain fundamentals in spite of economic adversity. It cannot be viewed otherwise, for in respect to roads alone it keeps a billion-dollar auxiliary industry going.

SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Florida, April 16, 1932.

To the Editor of The Sanford Herald, Mr. R. L. Dean:

Many times in the past you have insulted our intelligence but your latest piece of absurdity takes the cake.

On April 14th in the editorial "Stalin Hires His Own Salary," you lament because Stalin and a few millions more in Russia get a wage increase.

Now for the facts. Stalin's salary amounted to 300 rubles per month, about $150.00 (Hoover makes $6,250.00 per month without grafting). Just think of it; $35.00 per week for Stalin who has

He provides for a five-day work week for non-diem employees, who would receive two-thirds of the pay for the five and a half day week. Employees making $1500 or more would be furnished one month each year without pay. However, those receiving under $800 could seek adjustments to make their total compensation comparable with services outside of the government.

After glancing over the administration's retrenchment bill, calling for drastic cuts in compensation and allowances to veterans estimated to save $80,000,000, McDuffie said it duplicated to a great extent proposals on the committee's program.

Al Smith Named Delegate To His Party's Meeting

(Continued from Page One) "Little fellow." The challenge was a referendum on Smith's veiled reference to Roosevelt, his one-time political ally, in a Washington address Wednesday night.

Murray, who already has the 23 delegates from his own state instructed to vote for him, wrote to the New York governor that he had "observed a remark . . . you made relative to my campaign," and then asked Roosevelt to answer three questions.

They concerned Roosevelt's attitude toward bi-metalism, toward removing "barriers and speculators" from regional reserve boards, and toward "repeal of the 10 percent tax which destroyed the Scotch banking system."

In a recent radio speech Roosevelt championed the cause of the "little fellow," and said vast agencies of national relief have been of little aid to small home and farm owners.

When Roosevelt was asked for comment on the attack Thursday he smiled and disclosed a friend had telephoned him saying: "Wasn't that a terrible attack 'Al' made on 'Alfalfa Bill' Murray?"

Murray's reference to "a remark" by Roosevelt was interpreted as referring to those words.
