Israelis, Arabs On

Arab and Israeli troops on full alert confronted each other across the Suez Canal today, but despite the end of a sevenmonth cease-fire no fighting was reported.

The twice-extended truck expired at midnight (5 p.m. EST Sunday) after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat refused to continue the stand-down because Israel would not pledge to withdraw from Arab territory captured in the 1967 war. However, it appeared the cease-fire would continue indefinitely on what amounted to a minute-by-minute basis, with each side pledged not to start the shooting.

The only reported action was a clash between Palestine guerrillas in Syria and Israeli troops. An Israeli military spokesman said "a number" of g-range rockets fired by the guerrillas from Syria slammed into a kibbutz on the Israelioccupied Golan Heights at 10 p.m. Sunday two hours before the cease-fire expired - but caused no casualties. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire. Neither the Palestinian guerrillas nor the Syrians officially accepted the cease-fire, al though the Syrians did not initiate any fighting during the seven-month truce.

Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew, presiding in the second degree murder trial of Charlene Powers in the death of her daughter, applauded the local news media for its presentation of information in the case up until this point. After the jurors were removed from the courtroom, the remainder of the venire was questioned by the judge as to reported inflammatory coverage by local media. None of the venire reported any such feeling, although some stated they had read of several incidents of child beatings in the area in the last few months. However, they said, none were inflammatory and they would judge any case upon the evidence presented. Judge Muldrew asked if any of the venire felt that the media said too much or went too far in scope, making a fair trial impossible. All answered negatively. Judge Muldrew commented that the newspapers and radio had done "a splendid job of reporting facts" and not sensationalism, and that he complimented the papers for reporting the news "right off the top." He continued that he was "proud to think" that the press and radio had such a sense of responsibility. Clark Jennings, defense attorney, succeeded in having accepted for exhibit several news articles which he said made a fair trial difficult. He also said that as a result of such news coverage, Mrs. Powers received threatening 'phone calls and letters, Judge Muldrew said that he often received similar threats and that the news was reported in such a way as not to inflame people, which is the basis for granting a change of vende. He said the papers had a right to report news, and that should this policy be changed, "we'll be in sad shape."

Among much new information, there emerges from this responsible article a picture of McNamara. the computer king, visiting Vietnam and being completely fooled by prepared Vietnamese spectacles. Both this original "Whiz Kid" and his boss,

I.R.J. were victims of the Vietnamese characteristic of telling the "big shots" only what they, the Viets, thought the Americans wanted to hear, Whether or not this is still the case probably will not be determined until years after the event and some hard-headed and sharp-nosed researcher ferrets out the facts. Right now however, there is every reason for the American public to be wary about too rosy reports coming out of Laos, Cambodia or Vietnam, It is equally important that there be no defeatism allowed to warp sound judgment.

For an instance, consider the matter of the destruction of Sepone, a village on one of the many Ho Chi Minh trails. To do this the American Air Force ordered almost every type of its air combat planes into action with the result that when the South Vietnamese made the ground assault, the town was found to be rubble.

The Secretary of Defense, Melvin Laird, had discounted the importance of Sepone and emphasized the Laotian invasion as a means to disrupt supplies and prevent a strong North Vietnamese offensive when the May dry season arrives. Yet the "Sepone Victory" was widely tooted.

If this has the sound of "this is where we came came in" to many seasoned observers, it is not surprising. For this war which President Nixon has described as a "nightmare" has a habit of repeating

Its nightmare nature is not only in the unbelievable waste of men and money which the mirage of a sound, democratic form of government in Saigon has encouraged, but in something which has at least two eve-opening witnesses.

One is the growing awareness of the American people to the Pentagon inspired and directed public

Indochina War News Needs Sifting relations campaign to sell the armed forces to the voters. Such motivations do not encourage faith in or the believability of some armed forces events and publicity which are divorced from the propaganda. The other is much more basic and much more alarming for the future of the American presence in It is a concept which is best upt by a thought said to be expressed by Ho Chi Minh; "We can lose longer than you can win." Hard to understand? Of course it is, But it expresses an Asian approach to such grave challenges as that of national survival which is just not believable to anyone schooled in the western world.

But it must be reckoned with if the debilitating results of the Indochina war are to be stopped, War's end will not open the way to solutions of all the problems which plague the United States, But, so long as we are wasting men and money in that misadventure, even small starts are hamstrung!

In the Lake Monroe area the specks are still doing real well when fishing with live bait in the power plant area. They are also biting fair when trolling with Don's Pot Gut, an action dart with a buck shot lead trolling slow and close behind the boat. The bass fishing is real good still in the Wekiva River and the big catches are being reported on shiners and Fluger Limpers and some purple worms. Kurt Lingle of Loch Arbor has really had some good bass fishing this past week with two big catches of bass weighing over 10 pounds. Kurt's bass were caught on live shiners in "lake no name" west of Sanford. The biggest bass Kurt caught weighed 11 pounds and it was caught Sunday.

A mysterious static in automobile radios can sometimes be traced to static electricity in a boat trailer's wheels and axles, in cases where these parts are separated from the trailer frame by rubber spring bushings. An intermittent popping can be heard and static builds up and discharges, say the Mercury boating experts. Ground the axle to the frame with a short, flexible wire and the radio trouble will stop.

The familiar cylinder compression tester used by automobile repairmen is now being used by outboard mechanics. Advent of electric-starting in outboards means that these marine units can be spun with enough uniformity and velocity to produce uniform and accurate compression tester readings, If you suspect carbon, or back piston rings, is the cause of poor performance in your older outboard motor, a compression check by your Mercury outboard dealer may indicate the exact

With a generous bag limit of 50 per day, a fisherman will need four or five dozen bait minnows at an average cost of 40 cents per dozen, a bait bucket or box to keep the bait a live, several ane poles, a fishing license and the desire to go fishing. A boat is not necessary; but does improve the chances of being on the spot where the fish are biting. Resident fishing licenses'cost $3.00. Non-resident fishermen may obtain an annual license for $8.00 or a 14-day license for $3.25 or a five-day license for $2.25. * * *

Frye said, "The emergency removal of the bag limit is to allow fishermen the opportunity to harvest the fishery resource which would otherwise be wasted due to impending fish kills created by low water conditions." * * * *

Carefully regulated hunting seasons and bag limits result in hunters harvesting the surplus of wildlife populations and leaving the basic breeding stock to re-populate the forest and fields.

"If the Legislature would give us more than the $800 minimum foundation money and the local populace would vote us additional funds, we could go a long way toward solving the problem," Teague said, Sen. Kenneth Plante said he would suggest the Legislature set up a trust fund for counties with high growth rates based on a formula taking the past three years growth rates, Teague reported that Seminole County is now equal to Orange County in paying teacher salaries and would like to move forward. Sen. William Gunter disclosed there would be a move in the next legislative session by trial lawyers to remove the sovereign immunity of public bodies to allow law suits to be filed against them.

The immunity statute was set aside for the 1969 year as a trial by the lawmakers, but restored in 1970. Gunter said the bill already has passed the House of Representatives and is now in a Senate committee. Gatchel advised the group of still other money needs in explaining the county is spending nearly twice as much for pupil transportation than is received from the state. "We are not being funded for housing kindergarten and vocational programs," Gatchell added. The meeting was sponsored by the Seminole Education As-
