Increase 'Slightly Slower' Living Cost Records New Gains

WASHINGTON (AP)—Higher costs for food, clothing and gasoline pushed consumer prices up sharply again last month, the government reported today. The increase was at a slightly slower rate than in April, however.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the rise in the cost of living in May at six-tenths of one per cent. This works out to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, down from the 8.4 per cent annual rate of increase that was projected in April.

In a separate report, the bureau said the purchasing power of workers declined last month because of price increases.

Food again accounted for a big rise in the cost of living, increasing nine-tenths of 1 per cent in May to a level 14.5 per cent above a year ago. On a seasonally adjusted basis, grocery prices rose 1.1 per cent in May, off from the 1.3 per cent jump the previous month and a record 3 per cent boost in March.

The over-all food index, which includes food purchased in grocery stores and restaurants, jumped 1.1 per cent in May seasonally adjusted.

This followed increases of 1.4 per cent in April and 2.4 per cent in March.

However, the bureau said meat prices dropped one-tenth of 1 per cent unadjusted, reflecting in part the effects of the ceiling on meat prices ordered by the administration in March.

The consumer price report followed a gloomy report from the Agriculture Department earlier in the week predicting food prices will average 12 per cent higher this year despite the 60-day price freeze and President Nixon's promise of new Phase 4 controls. The effects of the 60-day price freeze will not begin to show in the consumer price report until July's report in June prices.

The total consumer price index, including food, other goods, and services, increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 8.7 per cent in the final three months of Phase 3 controls. This was an acceleration from the four per cent annual rate in the final three months of Phase 2, which ended in January. In the full 14 months of Phase 2, the annual rate of price increases held to 3.6 per cent.

Sanford Diver Saves Pal's Life

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford SCUBA diver is being credited with the dramatic underwater rescue of a companion who ran out of air while trapped 60 feet beneath the surface of Blue Springs over the weekend.

Chuck Moore, 28, of 2032 Jefferson Ave., told The Herald he led Freddy Somma to a picture-taking expedition 115 feet down when he saw Somma struggling beneath a ledge, 55 feet above him.

Moore said he had noticed Somma's emergency reserve tank was on when he passed him on the way down, but thought nothing of it until Somma began tugging at his mouthpiece.

"He was already strangling by the time I reached him," Moore told The Herald, adding, "Somma later confessed he was not a certified diver as required by Blue Springs regulations."

While Pitts had already returned to the surface, unaware of the drama below, Moore gave his own mouthpiece to Somma until Somma cleared his throat and regained normal breathing.

Being the kind of a fellow who has trouble keeping track of the few bills I have in my wallet, you can imagine how difficult it's been trying to fully comprehend the effect of the dollar devaluations, balance-of-trade, etc.

Well, the following one-graph by AP puts it all in the proper perspective. "An American who put aside a dollar 18 months ago to pay for a trip abroad will find it is only worth about 75 cents in Europe today, thanks to three devaluations."

Shevin Grants 'Silence'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A candidate does not have to report expenditures from left-over campaign funds once the election is over, Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin said today.

"A candidate who has been finally elected...or defeated may dispose of the funds which remain in his campaign depository in any manner which he deems proper," Shevin said in an opinion for Secretary of State Richard D. Stone.

Stone had asked whether an elected official could use personal funds or the residue from former campaign funds to buy advertising, make donations or pay memberships when he is not a candidate and makes no reference to any future candidacy.

Shevin said he could. The reporting requirement is restored once the person again becomes a candidate, Shevin said.

In other opinions, Shevin said:

—Government in the same law requirements of open meetings, notices apply to appointed and advisory committees as well as elected boards. The opinion was sought by Chairman George F. Young of the Broward County Board of Rules and Appeals.

—An official should state the reason, in writing, for his absence from a vote when he has a personal interest involved.

—County commissioners cannot spend public funds to maintain or repair private roads.

—In the opinion for Rep. Wayne Mixson, D-Marianna, Shevin said, county funds may be spent only for public purposes and private roads are not open for public use.

City Manager Warren Knowles said he was contracted by the nationally known planning commission at the industrial zoning for 35 acres south of Cornwall Road and east of S. Sanford Avenue for a proposed modular multi-family building plant that will employ 300 persons.

The tract is now zoned industrial in the county and is proposed for annexation into a family building plant that will employ 300 persons.

A Shock At 5:30 A.M.

WITH THREE against one odds, the "good guys" won this fight after William G. Walker, (background) 983 Olive Drive, Lake Katherine Estates, went outside about 5:30 this morning and was greeted by a 10-foot alligator. Officers arrived and found the driver under a car belonging to Louise Prevatt, 969 Olive Drive. Sheriff's Deputy J. C. Galloway (left to right), Game Warden Bob Johnson and Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reserve officer Jim Williams, lassoed the 'gator and finally pulled him out from under the car. The 'gator was tied and placed in Johnson's trunk for transportation to Farintosh Wildlife Reserve near Osteen.

Jim Nabors Suing For Concert Pay

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Television and singing star Jim Nabors has filed suit in circuit court at Sanford, seeking $7,500 from a Fern Park promoter he claims failed to appear for a Jan. 27 concert appearance at the Jacksonville Coliseum.

There is a possibility Nabors, a California resident, may file to Sanford to testify in the lawsuit goes to trial, according to Orlando attorney Gerald S. Livingston, who represents Nabors.

Named as defendants in the civil action are Flower Enterprises Inc. and Bruce Flower. The suit says when Nabors agreed June 22, 1972, to pay Nabors $15,000 for the concert Flower was operating the promotion business at 646 Highway 17-92 at Fern Park.

Livingston said Flower, a University of Florida law school graduate, is now an assistant state attorney in Alachua County (Gainesville).

The law suit alleges Flower paid Nabors $7,500 after the concert, but Flower refused to pay the other $7,500 as agreed, before the Jacksonville performance took place.

Dick Williams Safe After Plane Mishap

Watch it, gals... a fellow who is still sliding down the escape chutes at the time.

Officials reported 35 persons were treated at a Bangor hospital for minor injuries. Two women from Tampa area were hospitalized with broken bones.

Press reports quoted Overseas National spokeswoman as saying the blowout apparently caused a hydraulic control line to rupture and catch fire. The side of the jetliner was blackened by the flames but apparently none of the passengers were injured by the fire.

The Williams and four other Seminole County residents, including school board member Stuart Galpepper's son, were not injured, Williams said in a telephone interview with The Herald.

The charter passengers were scheduled to continue on their European trip today.

Williams said the Overseas National Airways flight from Tampa blew a tire while taking off from a re-fooling stop at Bangor.

"The pilot ordered evacuation," Williams said. "I was in a front row seat beside my wife and we had no difficulty getting out by the evacuation chute. After we got out we saw fire around the tires and then the cabin was engulfed in flames."

Nixon, Brezhnev May 'Salt' Pact

Hearing At A Glance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here, in brief, are developments in the Watergate case:
DEAN—John W. Dean III has quoted President Nixon as saying he had been told by late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that electronic surveillance had been used against Nixon in the 1968 presidential campaign.

GARMENT—White House aide Leonard Garment said logs provided to the Senate Watergate committee of Dean's meetings and phone conversations with Nixon "did not come from the White House." He said the document apparently is a Senate staff memorandum.

ERVIN—Committee Chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin was reported to have decided to release nearly all the documents Dean took from the White House.

ACLU—The American Civil Liberties Union contended convictions of the seven Watergate defendants should be thrown out because they resulted from "frauds upon the court."

HUNT—Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt has testified former White House aide Charles W. Colson considered ordering Hunt to break into the home of the suspect in last year's shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace.

Aeromexico Jetliner Crashes, 27 Aboard

By JOHN PLATERO Associated Press Writer
PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP)—An Aeromexico jetliner with 27 persons aboard crashed near a village south of here Wednesday night on a flight from Houston, Tex.

A partial passenger list indicated there may have been several Americans on the flight. Fourteen of the passengers who started the flight in Houston remained aboard after the first stop in Monterrey, Mexico.

The fiery crash occurred about 11:30 p.m. EDT after the plane apparently exploded over Banderas Bay while on a final approach to the Puerto Vallarta airport.

Weather conditions were reported good at the time. After stopping here, the plane was to make stops in Acapulco and Mexico City.

Pedro Vega, the Puerto Vallarta police commander, said the plane crashed against a hill near the small village of Chimo, about 25 miles from here on the Pacific coast. Rescue teams used boats to reach the crash scene.

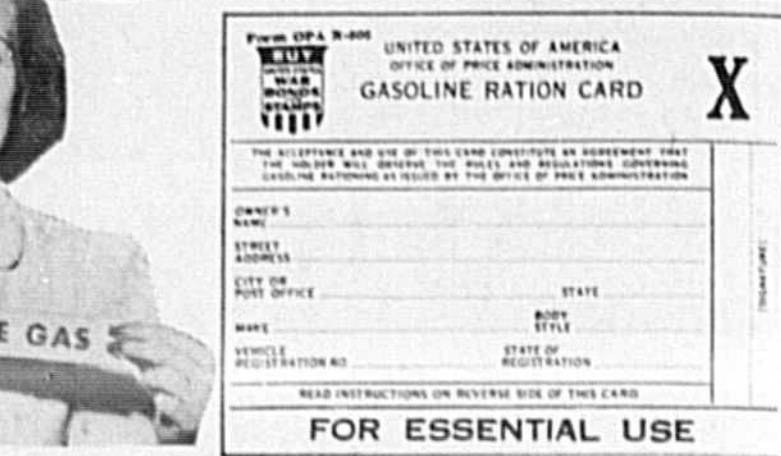

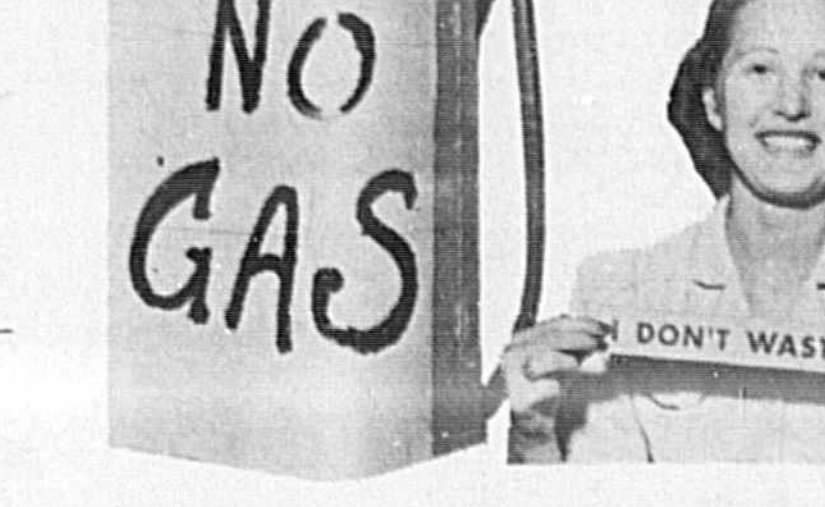

Sanford City Manager Warren Knowles said today it is "going to be rough" for the city to curtail gasoline use by city vehicles from 413 to 182 gallons a day for the remainder of June but measures are being taken to meet the fuel shortage.

Knowles said for the next 11 days several street department dump trucks, heavy fuel users, will be parked and disconnections are being "pooled" for two times a day.

Gas shortage? So what else is new?

Warnings of an energy crisis might suggest to motorists that a gas shortage would be a novelty, but the years when the country faced a critical gas shortage because of the war effort. By 1942 most of the available gasoline was strictly rationed. Motorists (right) received alphabet stickers according to need and (bottom) ration card. And millions of bumper stickers (near bottom) were also distributed. Will it happen again?

1976 AUTOMOBILE EMISSION CONTROL SYSTEM

"Expensive, inefficient, unreliable and unnecessary," claim the critics of the way Detroit proposes to meet the final and most drastic automobile emission control standards due to be required on 1975 and 1976 models, which will bring pollution up 90 per cent below those of 1970.

If Your Car Is Drinker, Memorize Saving Tips

By FRANK R. MARTIN Copy News Service
If your driver's license has become a hunting license for service stations willing to sell you enough gas to get home from the office, you had better adopt a set of fuel-saving rules. That's the advice of auto clubs, major oil companies and the automotive industry as well.

Don't idle needlessly. If you're waiting to pick up someone, turn off the engine. It'll cost you less fuel to start up again later and your engine won't overheat.

Watch for stoplights. If you can see them far enough ahead, try to figure when they'll turn red or green. Try to slow down only enough to arrive at the intersection as the light turns green. Keep the car rolling if you can. It takes extra fuel to regain your speed.

Lions Convention In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH — More than 30,000 people will gather here this month to participate in the 56th annual convention of the International Association of Lions Clubs, the world's largest humanitarian service club organization.

Delegates from the Sanford Lions Club will be Hugh Duncan, Ben Wade and George DeMatto.

A total of 146 nations and geographic areas will be represented as delegates convene from June 27-30 to elect their leaders and shape the policies of their Association.

The 1973 convention is the fourth to be held in Miami; the city also hosted Lions in 1927, 1956 and 1963. Since then, the membership of the organization, dedicated to serving the needy and underprivileged of the world, has climbed past one million men in 26,000 clubs around the world.

The convention will be opened on June 27, by Lions International Immediate Past President Robert J. Uplinger, Syracuse, N.Y., who will then turn over the gavel to the current International President, George Friedrichs, Anney, France. Miami Beach Mayor Charles Hall and Gov. Reubin Askew will welcome the assembled Lions, and the recently named Millionth Lions Club Member, Bernard E. Gill, Virginia Beach, Va., will address his fellow Lions.

The colorful International Parade will fill the streets of Miami Beach Wednesday evening as bands, drum and bugle corps, floats and marching delegations from all over the world participate in the event.

Highlighting this year's convention proceedings will be the presence of several distinguished personalities. The headlining speaker, Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, will address the convention on Thursday.

The Art Of Listening: Or How To Best Relate

By CAROLYN COIL
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES—Kerplash, kerplash. "You never told me the roof leaks." "I did too. But, as usual, you weren't listening." "Yes, I was."

If you have trouble getting your point across, maybe you don't know how to communicate.

"Too often we don't even hear what people are saying," says Pat Scott. "It's like someone is standing in a crowd screaming and no one hears."

Scott is the instructor of a creative listening class sponsored by the Adult School in nearby Inglewood. The class, intended for hot-line listeners, also attracts parents, business executives and others who want to learn how to communicate better.

The methods hot-line listeners use with troubled teenagers work equally well for parents, says Scott.

He says when someone has a problem, he talks for four or five minutes before he gets to the point of the problem.

"You have to know when to talk and when to remain silent," he said.

Patient Services Aid Sick, Injured

By STEVE MOORE
Copy News Service

LOS ANGELES—An 80-year-old woman arrives from Scotland to visit relatives in America—fulfilling a lifelong ambition. Her dream is shattered when she suffers a heart attack. From her hospital bed she hears the charter flight home will leave on Friday—with or without her. What's a hospital to do?

A 65-year-old man is convinced fate has singled him out after his wife files for divorce when he loses his commission in the Air Force. And, calamity continues to stalk him.

While crossing the street on a windy December night he is struck by a car and dragged beneath it for a block. He spends three months in the hospital, and with no friends or relatives to turn to.

Patent Services, created 14 months ago to deal with "complaints of any sort," is a department which "blends public relations, social work and troubleshooting," according to June Simmons, chief of Patent Services.

Mrs. Mary L. Holabird, one of three patient representatives, arranged for the woman from Scotland to make her return flight—stretched across three seats—with her doctor's permission.

"It took several phone calls to the airlines and negotiations with the World Affairs Council and the consular general to get the airline's cooperation," Mrs. Holabird said. "But there was no other way—she used up her life savings just to make the trip here."

In the second case, involving the traffic accident victim, Ms. Simmons helped the man obtain disability benefits by cutting through red tape. And when he was discharged and his insurance company refused to pay because he would need further treatment, Mrs. Simmons convinced the convalescent hospital to accept him and wait for payment. She even cashed his disability check for him, and after carefully measuring him for size, went shopping for some new clothes. During his recovery, he lost 20 pounds and "his clothes just hung on him," Ms. Simmons said.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A congressional deadline on the federal highway bill could cause a delay in completion of Interstates 95 and 10 in Florida, an aide to Transportation Secretary Walter Revel says.

Rick Benton, Transportation Department legislative liaison, said Wednesday "some segments we wanted to build can't go to contract" if the deadline is September or October.

The $150 million the Legislature allocated from the state surplus will allow the program to continue for the next several months but "it would be irresponsible to go knee-deep into accelerated interstate funds without congressional action," he said.

A conference committee of the U.S. House and Senate has been deadlocked over mass transit funds since last November, although most interstate issues reportedly have been resolved.

Gov. Reubin Askew has said use of part of the state surplus for interstates would allow all of I-95 to be placed under contract this year and all of I-10 under contract by July 1, 1974. Completion dates of 1978 and 1979, respectively, are scheduled.

Askew remained confident a highway act will pass in time to prevent any delays, his press secretary, Don Price, said.

The accelerated funds gave the much-needed latitude to keep the program going until Congress acts," Price said.

Benton said the surplus funds would be used for contracts to be awarded next month, even though technically there will be no interstate funds in federal coffers to assure repayment.

The Federal Highway Administration has agreed to sign a contract to guarantee the 90 per cent repayment which the Legislature required before allowing use of state money on federal roads, he said.

Revel was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Benton said he did not know which segments would be affected by any delay because contracts are being let as engineering work is completed on them.

"We all know the highway act is going to eventually pass because the states are screaming for it," but the question remains when, he said.

Absence of a highway bill is really hurting federal primary road construction plans, he said, because these roads are getting no surplus funds.

The department will receive bids next Thursday on 23 road and bridge projects expected to cost $11.4 million, the last bid letting before the new fiscal year.

Every subdivision in the area used to have that restriction, the three-time Chief Justice said. "It's proper to put it in even though it's void. Otherwise it's perpetuating fraud on the buyer."

Hoberts, 66, and his wife Mary sold the lot on Alligator Point, 50 miles south of Tallahassee, on Feb. 1 to two Tallahassee couples, according to a deed in the file in the Franklin County courthouse at Apalachicola.

The lot, which Hoberts said he sold for $6,500, contained the following covenant: "Ownership, occupancy and use shall be restricted to members of the caucasian race (except domestic employees employed by and residing with such caucasian family)." Hoberts, dean of the high court with 24 years service, said he has been selling five lots a year on Alligator Point for the last three years. The lot sold in February was the only one with the racially restrictive clause, he said.

"I've got three more to sell this year. You send me a Negro tomorrow and I'll sell him one," he said.

Kenneth L. Sweet and his wife Mary bought the property with a neighbor couple, Herbert and Brenda McRae, through a Wakulla County realtor.

"We just wanted a piece of land on the beach for weekends," said Sweet, an engineer for the state Transportation Department. He said he received the deed in the mail after buying the property and "didn't think much about" the restrictive clause.

"I just looked at that thing and said, 'No, no, no, who would enforce that,'" Sweet said.

McRae, director of marketing for Killara Properties in Tallahassee, said the restriction "makes no difference. We're not interested if it's limited to a particular race or not."

Hoberts said he used to own much of the land on Alligator Point as an officer of Peninsula Point Inc., a post he resigned when appointed to the Supreme Court in 1969.

"All we have left is remnants," Hoberts said, adding that he and his wife have been selling them under the name of Alligator Harbor.

A copy of the brochure describing Alligator Harbor lists 13 restrictions, including "no shacks or shanties allowed," but no reference to racial restrictions.

"In 1966 when the lots were subdivided, that (racial) restriction was put in there. After the U.S. Supreme Court said it was void, we got putting it in," Hoberts said.

Mayors Seek Change In Revenue Sharing

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Nixon administration has agreed to a version of special revenue sharing for community programs.

Despite the lobbying efforts of about 35 federal officials and speeches by U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn and Domestic Council Director Ken Cole, the U.S. Conference of Mayors voted to seek changes in the Nixon proposal.

The special revenue sharing would replace seven existing community development programs, including urban renewal and Model Cities, under which the federal government has set the goals and reviewed each project application.

Under special revenue sharing, the cities automatically would get money on the basis of population, poverty and overcrowding in housing. The government would not set goals and would not review projects.

This kind of freedom from federal controls and red tape has been a goal of the mayors for many years, but they want the federal government to retain a statement of goals and a very simplified federal review procedure.

Girl Scouts Taking A Trip

Seven Girl Scouts and two leaders left Tuesday for Chicago and then on to Girl Scout National Center West in Ten Sleep, Wyo.

The girls, Kathy Ostrander, Sabrina Williams, Daphne Louis, Kay Bruce, Barbara Mastroniola, Cindy Mead, and Maria Piedrahta and their leaders, Mrs. Agnes Ostrander and Mrs. Lillian Mastroniola, of Girl Scout Troop 239 from Citrus Council, will be spending two days in Chicago sightseeing before heading for Wyoming.

At National Center West they will be partaking in such activities as archaeological digs, backpacking, horseback riding, hiking, ecology explorations, and historical explorations with "old timers" and more.

They have worked for part of the money for this trip by doing such things as babysitting and painting mail boxes for people's homes.

National Center West is a 15,000-acre area purchased by National Girl Scouts for the use and enjoyment of Girl Scouts all over America.

'Gunboats' In Custody

MIAMI (AP)—Three fishing boats whose crewnmen engaged in a ship-to-ship gunbattle on the high seas have been escorted by Coast Guard ships to Miami for a federal investigation into the incident, officials said.

Three men were wounded, none critically, in the gunfire exchange which erupted Wednesday during an argument over lobster traps, the officials said.

They said the fight took place 20 miles northwest of Miami, with a ship about 50 miles east of Miami, the officials said. Since the spot is in international waters and since the three boats are from Miami, the incident comes under U.S. jurisdiction, officials said.

FBI agents said they would question the crewmen before deciding if charges would be filed.

Coast Guard officials said the incident started when men aboard the fishing boat Laguna-194 accused crews of two other ships, the Early Bird and Commodore, of robbing the Laguna-194's lobster traps.

Sold By Justice Roberts Deed Limits Use To Caucasians

By KEN GIFFERT
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida Supreme Court Justice B. K. Hoberts sold a beach lot on the Gulf of Mexico five months ago with a deed restriction limiting its use to "members of the caucasian race."

Hoberts told the Associated Press Wednesday the restriction was in the deed only because it was part of the agreement when he bought the property 12 years ago.

"Every subdivision in the area used to have that restriction," the three-time Chief Justice said. "It's proper to put it in even though it's void. Otherwise it's perpetuating fraud on the buyer."

Hoberts, 66, and his wife Mary sold the lot on Alligator Point, 50 miles south of Tallahassee, on Feb. 1 to two Tallahassee couples, according to a deed in the file in the Franklin County courthouse at Apalachicola.

Big Postal Unions May Sign Contract

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the nation's two largest postal unions say they will proceed with ratification of a new two-year contract boosting wages and benefits nearly 15 per cent even if two smaller unions refuse to go along.

"I think it's an excellent contract," said Francis Filbey, president of 312,000-member American Postal Workers Union (APWU). Filbey joined James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, in predicting overwhelming rank-and-file approval of the tentative agreement reached Wednesday. The Letter Carriers represent 195,000 workers.

"If the membership ratifies the contract, it will be signed by the APWU regardless of what anyone else does," Filbey said.

The U.S. Postal Service continued bargaining with two smaller unions representing nearly 90,000 workers—the National Rural Letter Carriers Association and the Mail Handlers Division of the Laborers International Union.

Postal workers now averaging about $10,000 annually would earn more than $11,000 a year under the agreement, which would become effective July 30, the expiration date of the current contract.

Although the pact exceeds the administration 5.5 per cent guideline on wages, it is in line with recent settlements in other industries and is not expected to be challenged by the Cost of Living Council.

Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said he would ask the Postal Rate Commission for a 3-cent increase in the first class letter rate as a cost for higher labor costs. If approved a letter that now costs eight cents to mail would cost ten cents.

Zoo Intrigues Fifth Graders

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

The new Sanford Zoo, to begin construction this summer, has captured the imaginations of Mrs. Pat Burkette's fifth graders at Spring Lake Elementary School. Near the close of the school year the students were given contour maps and a guide to the vegetative cover at the new Central Florida Zoological Park at Lake Monroe. As part of the environmental program the youngsters worked out their own land use plan, using maps and researching the types of animal habitats. The boys and girls designed concepts of how they believed the zoo should appear. Many of the designs closely resemble the final conceptual design of the new zoo.

"The zoo sounds very good," Kevin Broder said. "The 140 acres will give a lot of room to the animals." Other students who worked on the project also expressed opinions. "I like the location of the zoo. I wasn't aware of the flood plain until I studied the contour map," said Charlie Killam. Tamara Schweizer thought the new location a good place to keep animals. "The animals could be arranged better in their natural habitat," she said. Pam Dailey expressed her hope that the "people will donate more money toward the zoo," while Kenny Furtan said the animals will have a better life in a natural setting. Several students in Mrs. Burkette's room began a collection to benefit the zoo. Their teacher is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Seminole Zoological Society.

Few Intend Using Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Only 8 per cent of the nation's local government units intend to use their revenue-sharing funds to reduce property taxes, a sample survey sponsored by the Treasury Department revealed today.

The survey, called a representative sample by the department, also showed that 17 per cent of state governments intended to use the money to cut state income taxes.

Graham W. Watt, director of the Treasury's Office of Revenue Sharing, released results of the survey at the 4th annual conference of mayors here. All 50 states and 724 units of local government were surveyed. There are about 38,000 local government units altogether.

It showed that, while revenue sharing money was not widely used to cut taxes, many of the governments said that the money has helped avoid the raising of taxes.

The study was prepared by the Technology Management Inc. of Washington, D.C., and Cambridge, Mass., for the Treasury Department.

It showed that a majority of local governments surveyed planned to spend their money for capital needs such as buildings, roads, sewage lines and other equipment. This was the most frequent use of the funds, the study said, with 72 per cent of local governments and 57 per cent of state governments using part of their money for capital projects.

At the state level, 66 per cent of the states indicated that education spending was of top priority.

The areas of lowest priority were spending for libraries, 6 per cent, and social services, 8 per cent.

Economic Controls Termination Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, has called for a speedy end to national economic controls and return to a free market economy.

"I am convinced a control system cannot do the job," the UAW leader said Tuesday in criticizing President Nixon's new economic program. "The latest action can only lead to artificial shortages, worse shortages and black markets."

Woodcock's views were aired along with statements by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and E. Douglas Kemmerer, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in a CBS television network program serving as a rebuttal to Nixon's nationwide television address last week, concerning the price freeze portion of the President's program, saying it could "cause more severe dislocation in certain segments of the economy."

He urged continuation of "the basic long-range solutions that were taken by the administration several months ago."

Dear Consumer

Short Course in Bicycology

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director, Office of Consumer Affairs

First One Praised Reaction Vary To Cost Freeze

Farmers said it could lead to shortages. Expression of opinion through the market place was similar. The dollar dropped sharply against European currencies and the price of gold rose. The stock market, which is seeking any reason to rise, saw none and fell again.

Some economists who felt that anti-inflation action was needed months earlier, are predicting that the freeze now will do little more than dam up a torrent of price pressures that will eventually burst through.

And others not fearfully that the freeze comes at the very time when economic indicators suggested the boom was fading and that it could pitch the economy into recession.

Whatever, the almost universal response seemed to be that the administration was the last to see how bad things were. Therefore, there are widespread doubts about its ability to foresee the future.

Despite their disagreements, most economists will agree on this: the return to economic equilibrium is a slow, painful process that cannot be speeded by executive order.

Supply and demand must be harmonized so that they aren't playing a game of tag with each other. The money supply must be adjusted delicately to the needs and potential of the economy.

Here Are ABCs Of Pension Plans

By GERARD M. BRANNON

WHAT IS AN EMPLOYER PLAN?
Because they involve tax benefits. Normally when an employer pays wages, the wages are deducted by the employer and taxes paid by the employee. In a qualified pension plan, the employer gets the deduction but there is no employee tax until the money is paid out as retirement benefits. In addition, the money is paid out in the form of a pension.

DANA WELLS, five-year-old poster child for the 1973 Better Hearing and Speech campaign, meets at The White House with the nation's First Lady, Mrs. Pat Nixon, to launch massive public education program on defective hearing. America's number one handicapping impairment. An estimated 14.5 million persons in the U.S., including about 3.5 million school-age children, have substantial hearing defects at least half of which could be helped by a hearing aid, although only about 2.5 million persons wear them today. More than 90 per cent of all disabling hearing losses can be significantly improved by medicine, surgery or amplification. Information program is directed to individuals with hearing loss who, for reasons of procrastination, unawareness, despair, vanity, expense, inconvenience or simply not knowing what to do, have not sought proper attention to reduce or correct their disability. Says Bank Of America Red Trade 'Bright'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—After three days of meetings with bank and government officials in Moscow, A.W. "Tom" Clausen, Bank of America president, is greatly encouraged about the future of trade with the Soviet Union.

Moreover, he said, he is optimistic about the prospects for world peace and higher living standards, which he believes are logical consequences of nations cooperating to supply needs rather than threatening and restraining.

While few specifics were nailed down during the late May sessions with Gosbank, the state bank; Gosplan, the state committee for planning; and other institutions, Clausen was able to state unequivocally that Moscow news conference:

"The private financial institutions of the West will facilitate financing on reasonable terms for any project or arrangement which is of mutual benefit." "We are eager to take part."

In some respects, he noted, the economies of the Soviet Union and the United States are complementary. The United States needs energy and the Soviets have it. The Soviets need agricultural products, which the United States has.

Crafty Kitchenware Buys Will Help Save You Money

By MARTIN PORISS

To live cheap but good, wise chefs buy their kitchen utensils with care and cunning. Add the right cooking gismo to the right dish, pour on just one dash of proper maintenance, and you'll get the best cookware for your bread, or stew.

Whether you need pots, plates, or forks, don't run out to blow your paycheck on a truckload of matching cooksets. Instead, buy a few good pieces made of varied materials. Use your ingenuity instead of your cash. For example, in a pinch (not too hard, please, before cooking), eggs can be boiled in a coffee pot.

Cheap pots and pans are usually made of aluminum. I prefer cooking with cast iron, copper and glassware. Cast iron is popular once more. No wonder! It heats quickly and maintains that heat. Stews will be hot for an hour or more after they're brought to the table in a cast-iron vessel. You don't like the looks of cast iron? Get enameled cast iron; it comes in all colors. Avoid the new, cheapie cast-iron pieces, though; their light weight gives them away. Play safe by buying your ironware secondhand.

Gasoline Labels Will List Correct Utility

Florida motorists — by glancing at decals on gasoline pumps — will soon be able to select the specific fuel rated most efficient and economical for use in their own engine.

To go into effect July 1, 1973, the new gasoline rating system will identify anti-knock levels for more efficient fuel utilization and less cost per mile.

Old Days Are Gone Casseroles Replacing Roasts

By HELEN DIEPENBROCK

Copley News Service

Where have they gone — the old days of meat and potato dinners and leisurely Sunday dinners? At prices like $1.79 for beef roast, $1.39 for a sack of potatoes and 49 cents for a gallon of gasoline, it's a casserole existence for many Americans and family outings by bus, bike or foot.

The others grimaced, and admitted increased spending and dipping into savings is their only recourse. According to the survey, taken in a West Coast city, the concern over prices is not limited to those in the lower or middle-income brackets.

"I can afford just about anything," said an affluent businessman. "But, I'll be damned if I'm going to spend 50 cents for a head of lettuce. It must have something to do with the old Protestant ethic."

Food costs ranked as the No. 1 concern and ways of keeping grocery bills in line included comparison buying, watching specials, using coupons, reduced visits to markets, and substitutions for high-priced meats, vegetables and lettuce. A few came up with other angles of attack, like shopping at facilities which are directly supplied by farmers, growing vegetables at home and sending the man of the house to shop, rather than the women.

she has been able to keep her grocery bills about the same — despite increased costs — by making only one weekly trip to the market and cutting out frills.

"No more cookies, potato chips and other snacks these days," said Mrs. Rosette, who feeds her four-member family on about $30 to $35 a week. "Like everybody else we eat chicken, tuna and hamburger casseroles about three times a week."

"Also, I've cut out stocking up on canned goods and other nonperishables. Now I shop strictly for what we need," she said.

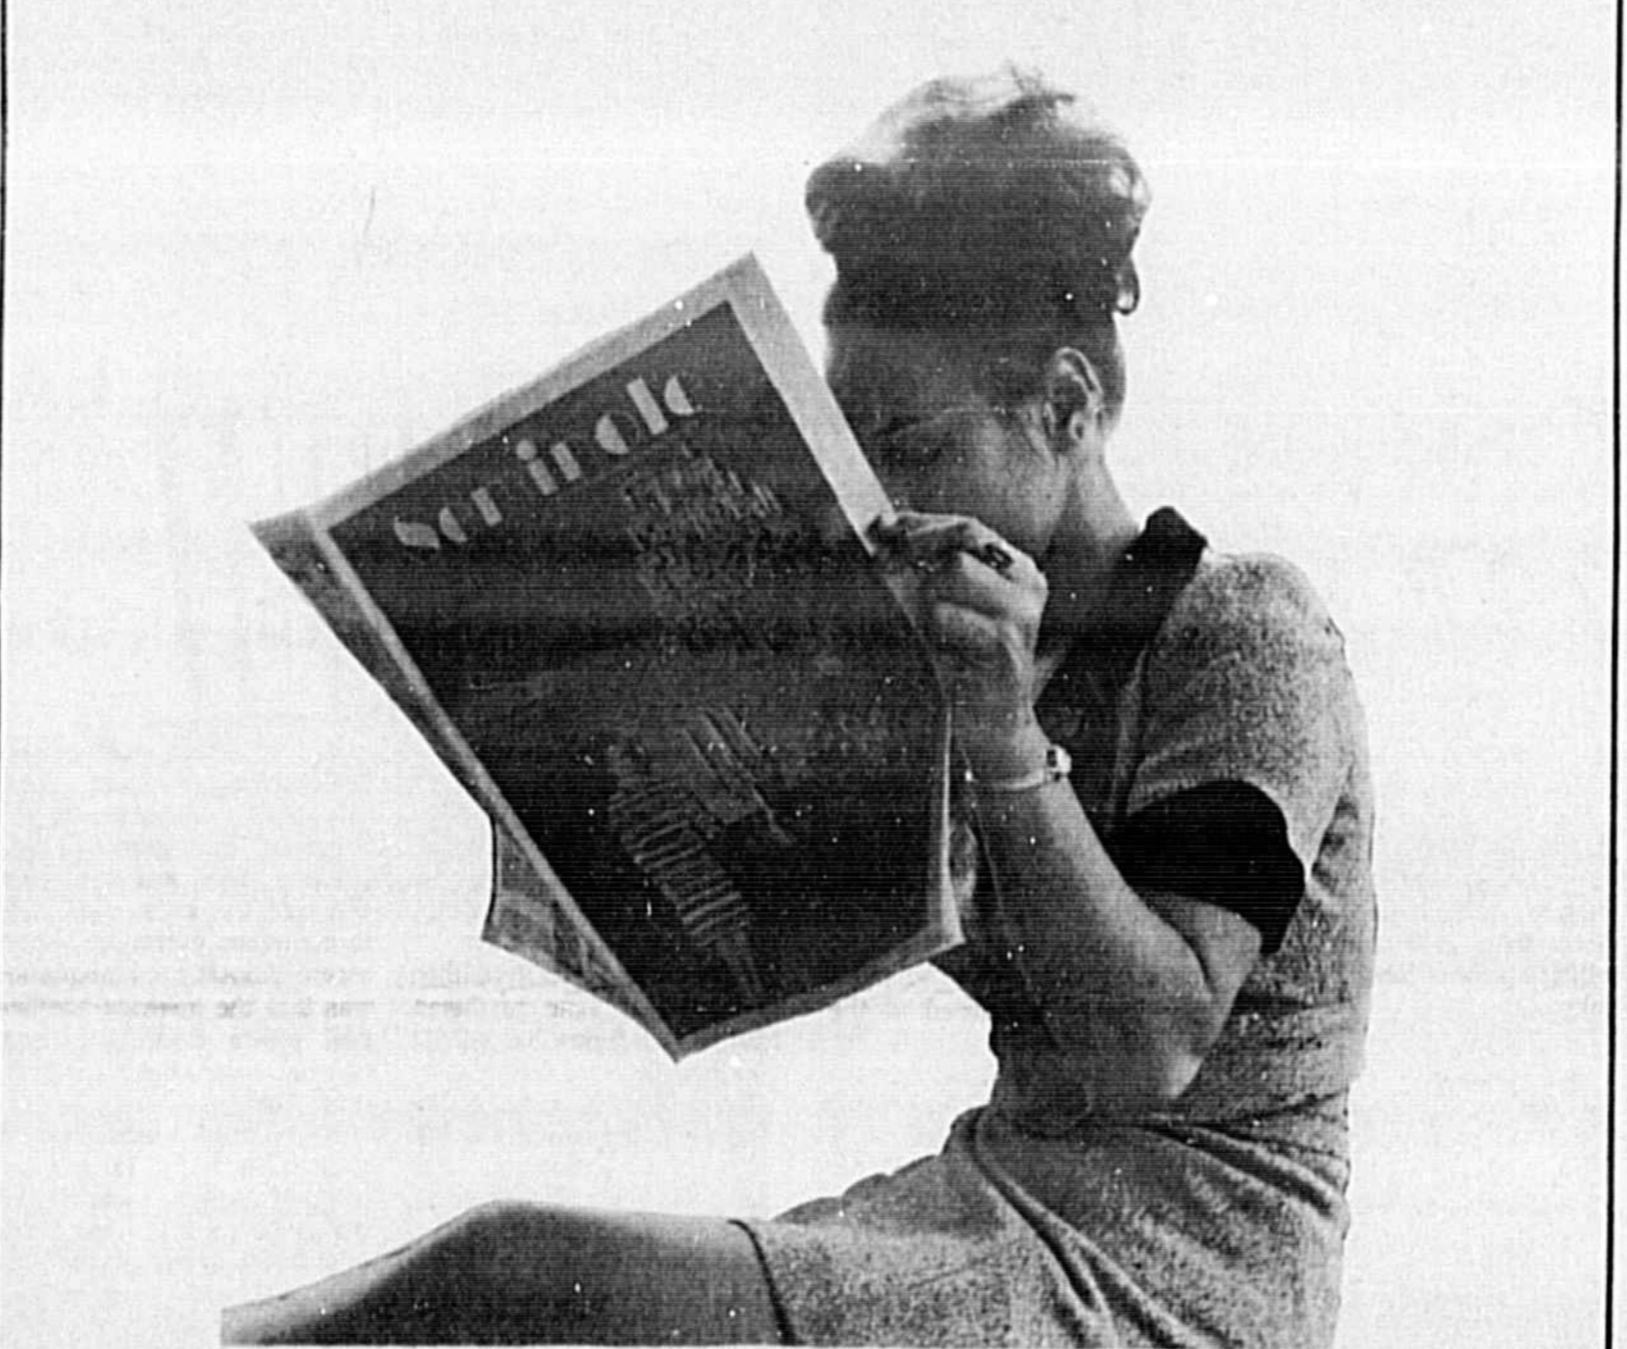

A resourceful pensioner, who was examining a head of romaine lettuce in a market, maintained Americans have fallen into an eating-habit trap. "Everyone expects a salad with a meal. We're not rabbits, you know," he said.

Instead of lettuce-based salads these days, he prepares vegetable salads using lower-priced uncooked spinach (at 23 cents a bunch), carrots, cabbage, bean, macaroni and Jell-O salads to garnish his meals.

Chinese Businessman Top 1973 Japan Money Earner

Kyodo Copley News Service

TOKYO — The top money earner in Japan last year turned out to be a Chinese businessman who became worth more than $5.5 million by selling a piece of land in central Tokyo.

According to the annual list of top Japanese money earners in 1972, made public on May 1, the Chinese is Thomas L. Han, 57, who runs a real estate firm in Shinjuku, Tokyo.

Han, a native of Canton who was naturalized in Japan in March, was the first Chinese ever to head an annual list of top 100 money-makers in Japan.

The World Almanac notes that the Lincoln Memorial, a large marble hall enclosing a heroic larger-than-life statue of Abraham Lincoln sitting as if in meditation on a large armchair, was designed by Henry Bacon, and Lincoln's statue was made by Daniel Chester French. It was dedicated May 30, 1922.

Unlike Konosuke Matsushita, board chairman of Matsushita Electric Industrial, Shojiro Ishihashi, board chairman of Bridgestone Tire, and others who perennially appear in a list of annual top ten earners, Han made the list simply because he happened to sell a parking lot he owned at the right time.

The parking lot had a space of 2,471 square meters and was located at Minami-Azabu in Minato Ward, a luxurious residential area not very far from Hoppongi, an expensive night spot familiar to foreigners. The real estate was sold for $2,400 per square meter. A year previously his reported income was only $113,000.

Reflecting the skyrocketing price of land, the Chinese businessman was the fourth land seller to top the list in four years, and last year as many as 94 of the 100 top income earners were land upstarts.

The land Han sold was not the highest per square meter. Kinoshige Ono, who ranked 12th in the 1972 list, sold 185 square meters of land located in front of the Japanese National Railways Shinjuku Station for $74,000 per 3.3 square meters, the highest price ever fetched from land.

Last year a land deal between Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK) and Mitsubishi Estate Co., in which NHK land in downtown Tokyo was sold to Mitsubishi at $40,740 per 3.3 square meters, created a sensation and drew criticism from various circles, but in this case the purchase price included that for the buildings.

Service Feels Slowdown Won't Amount To Much

Copley News Service

Spear & Staff notes that a survey shows the nation's 1,000 largest manufacturers increased their first quarter capital appropriations 15.5 per cent over those for last year's first quarter. Typically, such appropriations top out one to two years before peaks in the business cycle. The advisory service feels that the anticipated economic slowdown will not amount to much.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fener & Smith is unable to find any corporate news to account for the recent sharp drop in the price of Avis, Inc. Wizard computer functions are seen providing benefits and the gasoline shortage at present does not appear likely to seriously hurt the company's operations. One factor in the picture involves International Telephone & Telegraph Co. ownership of 3.1 million shares of Avis stock. It must divest by September, 1974. . . .

Recent increases in clothing price tags are just the beginning, Research Institute of America says.

A Warning To Wives What Motivates The 'Other Woman'?

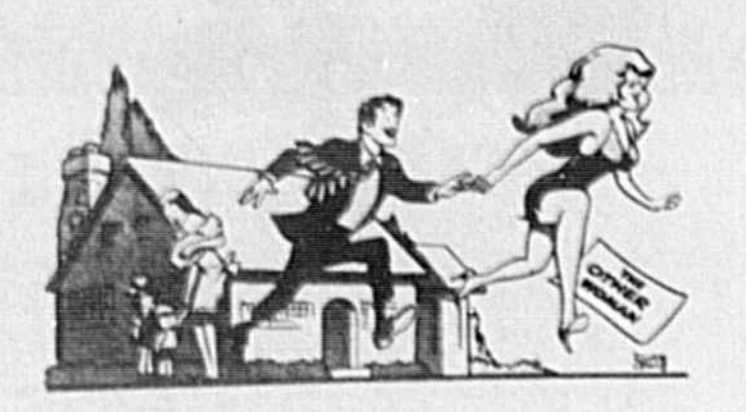

Editor's Note: Some surveys show that as many as 60 per cent of husbands become involved with other women. This article explores the identity of the "other woman," her reasons for attracting married men, why they seek her, and the possibilities for avoiding or coping with infidelity.

By BARBARA HERRERA Copley News Service

"I love their attention and love making them fall in love with me. I work at it. But I couldn't even think of loving them."

Joy, a tall, shapely redhead, was talking about the men with whom she has had affairs — married men all.

"I make it nice for them — cooking good meals, bringing them slippers, watching their favorite television programs. I like to look sexy. If my husband was in love with them, they wouldn't be here. If something wasn't missing at home, they wouldn't be out fooling around."

Joy was telling why she thinks married men are attracted to her.

"If wives would do more little things for their husbands, there would be more happy husbands. But wives can't do that all the time because there are too many annoying irritations in marriage like mowing the lawn and disciplining the kids."

Joy, 32 and twice divorced, goes out almost exclusively with married men. For several months she has been having an affair with Bill, a married businessman who picked her up in a cocktail lounge.

"I don't just zero in on married men, but it happens that it's been mostly married men."

Husbands Take Over Housework

By JO WERNE Herald Staff Writer

MIAMI (AP) — When Bart Rhoades accompanied his wife to a Presbyterian ministers' convention last year, she met with the ministers and he met with the wives.

When he heard the wives complain about getting along on a minister's salary, the boredom of housework and the problem of not seeing enough of their mates, Rhoades could honestly say, "I know what you mean."

"I'm a 'femme de menage'," says the good-natured Rhoades. In plain English, he's a 'househusband'.

The tall, silver-haired Rhoades isn't alone. There seems to be a trend of sorts for retired men to keep house while their wives continue working.

Earl Stoddard and Clyde Wilson are two other Miami men who take the housekeeping load off their working wives' shoulders.

Stoddard retired four years ago at 62 after 20 years in the customer service department of a Canton, Ohio, store. Now he tidies up the kitchen, does the heavy cleaning and major redecorating tasks while his wife Helen sells shoes in a Coral Gables shop.

Wilson, 52, retired earlier than he'd planned. The industrial education department at the University of Miami where the ex-Marine had been an instructor for 11 years was phased out.

A paraplegic as a result of polio, Wilson stays home while his wife Ruth works as a medical technician in a pediatrician's office.

Each man approaches housework in a different way.

Rhoades is the organized one, perhaps because one of his jobs for the New York Transit Authority during a 45-year-career was making train schedules. He follows a daily routine.

Stoddard, however, does a job "when I feel like it," while Wilson happily attacks a major chore, such as cleaning out the garage, while ignoring piddling household jobs.

The one who benefits most from Rhoades' housekeeping schedule is, of course, Dr. Rhoades. He has breakfast prepared for her every morning.

designer imported Chantilly lace and Satin Peau. It featured camelot sleeves, lace bodice and the wedding ring neckline was sprinkled with pearls.

The headress was a chapel length mantilla, bordered with scalloped matching lace and held by an open pillow of lace and pearls with a circular bluish. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and lady's breast centered with a white orchid.

Maid of honor, Miss Darla Weir, New Smyrna Beach, wore a formal-length gown with ivory ruffled lining, lace bodice, long slim sleeves and capulet with Victorian collar. The skirt of pink voile in an A-line silhouette featured a ruffled hem falling from a self-voile cummerbund.

Bridesmaid and matron were Miss Nancy Carroll, sister of the groom and Mrs. Karen Lyon, both of Cleveland. Miss Angela Gudal, Lady Lake, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants all wore gowns identical to that of the honor attendant, and they carried bouquets of pink sweetheart roses and lady's breath.

Bob Kramer, Chicago, Ill., was best man and ushers were Jeff Davis and Lavoy Jones, cousin of the groom, Scott Carroll, brother of the groom served as junior usher. All were from Cleveland.

Miss Marla Gudal, Lady Lake, was flower girl and John Carroll was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length gown with navy crepe skirt and fitted bodice of silver and navy tweed with long fitted sleeves and a V neckline. Her corsage was also a white orchid.

The reception site was Bryant Fellowship Hall of the church.

Dear Abby

New pool owners are flooded with friends by Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: My wife and I are installing a swimming pool, and already everyone we know is asking if we can come over and use it when it's finished.

How do we tell these people that we aren't looking for company after our pool is completed? Or worse yet, what do we say to the neighbors when they come knocking at our door in their swimsuits?

Dear H AND H: People with pools must have rules, but there's no point in alienating everyone before your pool is finished.

Dear Abby: Women are getting so nervous with the Dean's Lib thing, they are asking men to dance.

I had a harrowing experience the other night when my wife and I were at a public dance hall. She left me to go to the powder room, and you wouldn't believe the number of klutzes who moved in on me, asking me to dance with them.

Dear Abby: My husband and I are legally separated, and I am expecting next month. The doctor says it will be twins.

I want to send out birth announcements. Is this proper under the circumstances? If it is, should I write in my name only, where it says, "Parents" on the announcement?

Dear Expecting: Under the circumstances, forego the printed announcements. Write a personal note to your close friends to inform them of the double-bearer.

'30' Over The Hill

By SAM STEWART
Copley News Service

A friend recently mailed to us an accumulation of theories about the traditional use of the symbol "30" as the newspapers' synonym for "that's all, folks."

It occurred to me that the use of "30," practically universal in the days when telegraph copy came by Morse code, has been fading out. Checking copy in our own newspaper office, plus press handouts coming by mail or messenger, disclosed few "30" finales.

Most common today is a symbol like Tic-tac-toe, applied by pencil or in multiple. Other means are initials, figures presumed to signify an hour or a date, or something approximating "Q."

And our city editor, Jerry Reynolds, reminds me that the rapidly moving field of computers and scanners includes no provision whatever for the use of "30," and as always with these things, nothing comes out unless it is first put in.

So today, let us devote a little time to the story of "30," ere it become as obsolete as the dodo, the dollar Ingersoll and the nickel candy bar.

For most of the information made available by my friend we owe a further debt of gratitude to the late Elmo Scott Watson, medicine editor of the Publishers Auxiliary, who had a highly developed bump of curiosity. Even he doesn't offer a guaranteed theory: he just tosses them out on a take-your-choice basis.

Almost certainly, its use is linked to the telegraph copy, becoming standard there before pulling over into general newsroom usage. Certainly telegraph operators, from a century ago until the telegraphers' key faded out before the arrival of the teletype, used it.

There appears to be foundation for the claim that "30" was only one item in a code for exchanges between and among

Skylab's Trio Returns To Earth

Departure Delayed By Repair Attempt

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — Skylab's astronauts came home from man's longest space voyage today, splashing down in the Pacific Ocean after almost being held over in orbit to try to repair a faulty system in their space station.

Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz ended their 28-day journey when their Apollo ferry ship parachuted into the water.

The main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga, was in the prime recovery area about 830 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif., ready to hoist the astronauts aboard for a series of vital medical tests to determine how well they withstood their record exposure to space weightlessness.

Earlier, Mission Control considered holding Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz in orbit longer to try to troubleshoot a refrigeration problem.

But controllers decided there was nothing the astronauts could do and gave them the green light to start the

Growers Destroy Chicks And Eggs

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas poultry growers are destroying baby chicks and eggs because they say they cannot afford to raise broiler chickens under the current federal price freeze.

One South Texas producer says his growers will have destroyed 200,000 chickens by the end of the week.

"There's nothing left to do but drown them," said T. C. Moore, president of Home Foods of Nixon, Tex.

Moore said he lost $72,000 on poultry last week. Broilers cost 45 to 50 cents a pound to raise, and bring only 40 or 41 cents at market, he said.

Moore and other Texas poultrymen say that President Nixon's latest 60-day price freeze on retail food products has left them unable to meet rising feed grain prices. Feed grains, a raw agricultural commodity were not covered by the freeze.

A severe shortage could occur in 8 to 12 weeks, when the eggs and chicks now being destroyed would have been ready for market, the growers say.

The broiler producers do not see any relief. Biddle says he foresees "an extreme shortage of feed and protein grain in September and October."

Texas ranked sixth in U. S. broiler production last year, according to Bill Cawley, poultry specialist for the Texas A&M University Extension Service. Cawley says that about 200 million chickens were produced in Texas in 1972.

Cawley says that official state statistics on eggs set for hatching show a sharp decline since the price freeze. The latest figures, for the week of June 16, were down 14 per cent from last year and 10 per cent from the previous week.

Girl Raped; Clerk Hides

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

Alerted by terrified screams in the dark, Thursday, a Fern Park grocery store clerk called police, but then locked himself in the store while a 17-year-old girl was being raped nearby, according to Seminole sheriff's detective Robert Kunkler.

The clerk, just closing up at 11 p.m., saw the girl being pulled into the ditch where she was raped, according to Kunkler, who added "apparently he just locked himself inside the store until a deputy arrived."

Finally rescued from the ditch by Deputy Jim Hibbard, the young victim said she was walking from her home to the store when a man jumped her, ripped open her blouse, and raped her.

"The clerk called us but he apparently didn't even try to help the girl," Kunkler said today.

Attempts to contact the clerk at his home this morning failed, but his wife informed The Herald her husband didn't want to talk about the incident.

Kunkler said the girl was examined by medical authorities and that it was definitely rape.

'No Beef' Is Expected... But Taxes To Go Up, Up

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Assistant county tax assessor Bill Suber today predicted "even higher" future assessment hikes for planned unit development (PUD) and other land owners, but said he expected little opposition from developers, despite the huge increases in rates.

"Everyone pretty well knows what the law is now — it pretty well spells out what we have to do — reassess all former agricultural lands lately rezoned," Suber said.

Suber said he was somewhat upset by published accounts earlier this week indicating PUD owners are bearing the brunt of the reassessments, $21,000 an acre — future values will go even higher once the property is developed," Suber said.

"Current assessments (to be mailed out early next week) are based purely on comparable land sales values through a market comparison approach, while future assessments will be based on capital improvements and actual commercial income generated by the improvements in terms business," he added.

Land owners objecting to the hikes may appeal to the Board of Tax Adjustment at its meetings later this summer, and if they are still dissatisfied, to the circuit court of appeals.

Condominium Backers Run Into Opposition

Fireworks flashed Thursday night between backers of a proposed 240-unit condominium complex, and residents of an adjoining residential area and the Sanford city planner during a planning and zoning commission meeting.

The proposed condominium, which backers want to build on 20 acres of groves near the Mayfair Golf and Country Club, is opposed by City Planner Gerald Duke and several residents from Greenbriar and Loc Arbor.

Duke and some commission members think that the density will be too high for the area considered a prime water recharge area, and the residents argue that too much traffic and congestion will be generated.

"We're not against the project as such, but against the high density," he continued.

Martin told board members the developers realize percolation of ground runoff water is very important, but density is needed to support economic feasibility of the complex and the rezoning must be accomplished for the purchase of the property by unidentified investors.

Board members suggested the plans be changed from one-and-two-story buildings to three or more stories to keep the density but decrease ground cover and Martin said this wouldn't be compatible with the retiree concept of the complex and two and three bedroom units adjacent to the golf course to sell in the $45,000 per unit range.

Sanford dentist G. W. Edwards presented petitions of 42 county residents adjacent to the grove property opposing the project that "would be in their back yards and allegedly increase traffic congestion on Country Club Road," Edwards said he plans to build a horse adjacent to the grove.

JUST STROLLIN' ALONG

EYES TURNED, mouths flew open and unbelieving spectators gaped Thursday afternoon in Downtown Sanford when Mrs. Cecil Tucker decided to take her pet for a sunny stroll down First Street. Most pets wouldn't draw undue attention, but "Streaky Pete," a wild boar snared by Mrs. Tucker when he was a wee thing, gets more than his share of second glances. "Pete" is completely housebroken, and likes to take at least one short work a day with Mrs. Tucker. (Herald Photos by Bill Vincent)
