

TURKEY TO BUILD MODERN CITY AS NATION'S CAPITAL

Constantinople Forsaken Because It Is Exposed To The Guns Of Foreign Countries; Other Lands Follow Suit

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Kemal Pasha, the George Washington of modern Turkey, is building himself a new capital.

It will be a modern garden city adjoining the present Angora and when it is finished it is to be a worthy symbol of the new Turkey which Kemal Pasha has created.

The construction of a new capital became necessary because Constantinople is too exposed to foreign guns, and because the ambassadors of foreign powers refused to move from Constantinople to Angora as long as that town consisted of only one dusty Asiatic Main Street.

It is fashionable building new capitals is becoming quite fashionable. The King of Afghanistan is building a new capital near the old Kabul, and Queen Marie of Rumania hopes to build a new wondrous capital than Bucharest if she is able to raise a loan in America.

The plans for the new Angora, just approved, have been made by Hugo Otto Werner, noted garden architect of Berlin. German architects and city planners have also made the plans for the new Afghan capital.

Many Parks

Under Werner's plan, the new Turkish capital will have more trees and parks than any other city in the world. The old Angora is to be freed of its malaria swamp and then relegated to a curiosity place for visiting tourists.

There will be a central city park of 180 acres with a rose garden containing 50,000 roses, and artificial lake of 400 square meters, and a planetarium.

There will also be a concert park holding 10,000 people, and children's park with a wading pool.

Both old and new city are to be surrounded by a green ring of forests, parks and hedges.

DUTY INCREASED

WASHINGTON Feb. 15.—(INS) President Coolidge today issued a proclamation increasing the duty on imported rag rugs of the type known as "hit and miss" to 35 per cent ad valorem, based on the selling price in the United States. They have hitherto been 35 per cent based on the foreign price.

Senate Probes War Chest For Vestige Of Bond Slush Fund

WASHINGTON Feb. 15.—(INS) The Senate's search for traces of the Continental Trading Company's mysterious $3,080,000 liberty bond "slush fund" was turned today to the Democratic National Committee's "war chest" for the 1920 campaign.

The Senate Public Lands Committee's "war chest" for the 1920 former treasurer of the Democratic Committee, and other officials, was learned, to determine whether Harry F. Spelcer gave the Democrats any of his share of the Continental bonds. The committee already has learned that a $75,000 gift by Sinclair to the Republican National Committee in 1923, included Continental bonds. Sinclair himself told of making contributions to the Democratic "war chest" while testifying at the old Teapot Dome inquiry in 1923. He told then of giving the Democrats a contribution but could not recall the amount.

The Senate Committee will meet again Thursday afternoon to hear officials of Potter and Company, New York brokers, who disposed of the bonds, given the Republicans by Sinclair. These bonds were sold through the company by Senator T. Colman DuPont (R) of Delaware and used to pay off a debt owing the Empire Trust Company, of New York. At that time, DuPont was chairman of the board of the bank.

Landing Fields Needed

In most of our large cities today one of the greatest annoyances is the inconvenience of finding a place to park one's car. Streets have been marked off, parking lots provided, garage space arranged for, and even in some places department stores furnish elevator service for cars so they can park on the roofs, and even then one is forced to drive around for an hour before he can find a place to leave his car.

This is a situation which has been created through the greatly increased use of automobiles during the past ten or fifteen years. In the early days of motoring, one could park anywhere. We have been wondering what the outcome will be when airplanes are as commonly used as automobiles are now.

Undoubtedly there will again be plenty of spaces for cars, and none for airplanes. To provide for this eventuality, government officials are making every effort to secure the co-operation of municipalities in building landing fields.

The airplane is fast being perfected to the point where it is no longer a dangerous machine to operate. As soon as the public is generally acquainted with this fact, airplanes will quickly become the popular mode of transportation. All that will be needed then will be a place to park.

An interesting news despatch from Moultrie, Georgia, says: "The Moultrie Kiwanis Club has pledged its unqualified support to the local Chamber of Commerce in the movement to establish a municipal airport here. Specifications for such landing fields have been received from the government."

Three or four sites are available and the committee at work on the matter believes that no great trouble will be experienced in raising the money needed. It is hoped to have the airport ready for use within the next few months."

While from Washington, D. C. comes the word that "Six of the fifteen privately operated air mail lines in the country now are making a profit, W. J. Glover, second assistant postmaster general, has told a house appropriations subcommittee."

Testifying on the postoffice appropriation bill at hearings made public today, he disclosed that there now are 11,700 miles of air lines over which air mail fliers are traveling 24,756 miles each day.

Mr. Glover said there had been a healthy growth in the air mail service and that if congress should change the air mail rate from ten cents a half ounce, to five cents a half ounce, as proposed in a pending bill, operations expected an increase in poundage variously estimated at from 100 to 200 per cent."

The South Leads Again

The St. Petersburg Independent quotes Harvey Firestone, internationally known tire manufacturer and promoter of rubber developments, as declaring that more automobiles are being sold now in Florida and other southern states than in any other section of the country. Says Mr. Firestone:

"There is some talk of business depression; perhaps there is a slowing down in some centers, but today the South leads the country in purchase of automobiles and accessories."

This statement leads the Independent to declare that "there could be no surer criterion of the South's actual financial condition, present and prospective, and its progressive spirit." It continues, "The motorization of the South means that the South not only is generally prosperous now, but that it has fine prospects of being more prosperous."

In most parts of the South, particularly in Florida, systems of modern highways have been constructed, which was followed by a heavy pick-up in automobile buying. In Florida the automobile trade not only has kept pace with the building, but a little ahead of it. Buying has been heavy during the past year and dealers are confident it will be heavier this year.

"The sound tone of the automobile market in the South indicates similar substantial conditions in other lines. As a matter of fact, the South is thriving. It is in better condition than most parts of the country—and the South's only beginning to grow and prosper—in no part of it are there conditions which justify even temporary pessimism."

"Unfortunately a large part of the people of the South do not realize this fact. Often it takes a stranger to see and state true conditions—just as Mr. Firestone quickly observed that the South is going ahead to a degree not equaled by other states."

NEWSPAPER CASUALTIES

1927 was the death year for newspapers in the state of Florida. In some instances it was consolidation, in others a combination of morning and evening editions and for several still a question of quitting.

In the decade just passed there has, every year, been a marked increase in the number of daily publications in the United States. In 1917 there were 1,300 daily newspapers in the United States. In 1927 there were 2,200.

The newspaper business in Florida is not as flourishing as it has been known to be, and yet, a spite this very obvious condition of affairs, cities of Florida with a 10,000 population boast a daily newspaper which would be impossible of production in cities of similar size located in states further to the north.

Florida is unique in this respect. Of the nine daily newspapers which have gone out of existence the past year, the outstanding example is at Lakeland, a city twice as large as Deland and drawing support of payrolls from railway shops and a large trading territory.

Here the afternoon paper took over the morning paper and published two editions from one plant in the interests of economy. Even this did not work out and after sustaining a great loss the publishers gave Lakeland one paper—an afternoon edition.

IMITATING KINGS

OCALA BANNER

We are told that when President Coolidge passed through Florida on his way to Cuba, and on his return that all the switches of the East Coast Railway were not only locked but were spiked; that all trains were held up and the fires in the engines doused; that a pilot car was driven directly in front of the President's car, for all the world the imitation of royalty.

We are glad however that President Coolidge was not a party to this folly, for when he appeared on the platform he neither waved a scepter nor wore a crown.

President Coolidge suddenly had read the story and we hope treasured it, that is told of Thomas Jefferson when he was inaugurated President.

The story is that he rode alone on horseback to the capital, hitched his horse to the fence and quietly proceeded to the rostrum where, the oath of office was administered and he quietly assumed the duties of his high office.

It is remembered also that Washington, Adams, Madison, Jackson, Polk, Buchanan and others assumed the high office of this office without a pretention of a kind and by using a man from the White House as the carrier to the scene of the solemnity of the ceremony, which they had established.

The writer however has just received a letter from Washington City in which it is stated that in referring to the President the title is given him as "His Royal Highness," quite proper!

All this appears away from the singularity which our country is famous for, and it is a pity that the country is not more generally known to the world.

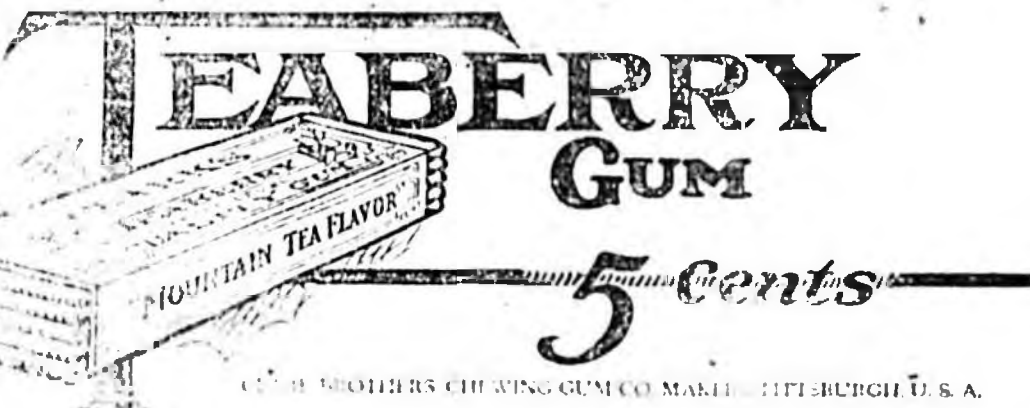

What is more, the story is told that the President's car was driven directly in front of the President's car, for all the world the imitation of royalty.

Dinner Party Is Given At Forrest Lake For Miss Hand-Mr. Fitts

Of the many delightful pre-uptial social courtesies with which Miss Marion Hand and William Fitts have been honored, one of exceptional pleasure and beauty was the dinner dance given Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. William Aylett Fitts Sr., at the Hotel Forrest Lake.

The dinner table which had been arranged in the alcove dining room was adorned with a large silver basket filled with baby breath and lupins combined with asparagus ferns. Two smaller baskets filled with white cut flowers and ferns alternated with tall white tapers burning in green crystal holders and tied with butterfly bows of green tulle. The color scheme of green and white was further accentuated with the bridal designed place cards and nut cups. Delicate traceries of asparagus ferns were extended from the central decorations to the corners of the table.

At seven o'clock a delicious seven course dinner was served, and during the serving of the courses, dancing was enjoyed. The bride at the serving of the last course, presented her attendants with beautiful bracelets while Mr. Fitts gave his attendants, gold studs and buttons to match.

Miss Hand was lovely in a late Spring model of black taffeta made bouffant with elaborate cut work embroidery and self-toned fillet lace insets. A touch of contrasting color was lent by a large bouquet of red on the shoulder.

Covers were laid for Miss Marion Hand, Miss Frances Dutton, Miss Mildred Hand, Miss Patten Lyles, Miss Katherine Buhman, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, Mrs. Hal Wight, William Fitts, Paul Stines, J. D. Sheldon, George Cowan, Rhodolph Sheldon and Mr. and Mrs. William Aylett Fitts.

Frederick Kingston's Entertained At Dinner

One of the largest and loveliest dinner parties of the pre-Lenten season was that of Tuesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Ely and Col. Louis Fields of New Haven, Conn., entertained at the Hotel Forrest Lake, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kingston of New Haven who are wintering at Bellair, and who have their yacht here in the yacht basin.

The color note of red and white was suggestive of Valentines Day, and were effectively carried out in every detail. In the center of the long table was a tall silver basket filled with red sweet peas and gypsophylla and sprigs of asparagus ferns, while smaller baskets filled with these same blossoms were alternated with tall red Cathedral tapers in green crystal holders and tied with bows of red tulle.

The nut cups were in the form of Valentines, and at each place were corsages of violets and sweet peas for the ladies while the men were given boutonnieres of red carnations. The unique place cards were in the form of miniature yachts with the name "Alta II" written on fluttering pennants. At eight o'clock a seven course dinner was served, in which the preferred colors were carried out. The fees were moulded in heart shapes, and bore tiny American flags with 102 Regimental written on them.

Following dinner, dancing was enjoyed after which the guests attended the entertainment at the hotel. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pulliam, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Drummond, Judge and Mrs. James G. Sharon, Mr. and Mrs.

Little Miss Louise Perkins, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Braxton L. Perkins, entertained a number of her small friends Saturday afternoon at a birthday party at her home on Magnolia Avenue. The afternoon was merrily spent with a number of clever games, one of the features was hunting candy hearts, and the prize for this game was won by Karl Wheeler. Another delightful feature was sticking the golden arrows nearest the center of a large heart while blindfolded. The prize, a novel doll dressed in red, went to Katherine Thigpen. After the games, Mrs. Perkins entertained the children with a number of delightful stories, after which refreshments of ice cream, cake and candies were served. Favors of red paper caps and other novelties were given the young guests who numbered about 20.
