By Donna Estes
Bill Rogers of Sunland Estates, who is vice president of the NAS Sanford Aero Club has been a licensed pilot for 17 years, is currently in the process of entirely rebuilding, remodeling and overhauling his own 1940 Piper Cub J3. The work is being done in sparetime in a workshop set up in the carport of his home on Walls Drive.

Rogers acquired the aircraft last November for $350 and plans to have it completely updated to a 1946 model and in flying condition by this October.

The fuselage was stripped down to the frame, sand blasted and all joints checked and rewelded as part of his requirements in obtaining an air-frame mechanical license. He received the license after attending the Air-Frame Power Plant Division of the Orange County Vocational School recently.

He has since covered the fuselage with Irish linen and 25 coats of aircraft "dope." A total of 45 gallons of paint and thinner was used to get a mirror-glass finish. Spare parts for the plane have been collected at most of the airport junkyards throughout the area and many parts have been ordered from as far away as California.

When the electrical and hydraulic systems, fabric, woodwork, sheetmetal, welding and painting are completed the plane, operating with a 65 hp engine, will cruise at 75 miles per hour.

The J3 Piper Cub was in mass production from 1936 through 1947 and was the most widely used training craft in the world. Since 1947, Piper Cubs have been in limited production. Rogers says that a Cub today would cost approximately $2,000. Rogers' other hobbies are building radio-controlled model aircraft and operating his own HAM radio. Last year he received a written commendation from Cdr. W. H. Everett of the U. S. Navy for services given by placing telephone patches and relaying HAMGRAMS during Operation Deep Freeze at McMurdo Sound in Antarctica.

He is employed as a civilian electronics engineer at Sanford Naval Air Station.

12,535 Cuban Deaths Laid To Castro

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban refugees estimated today that political violence in one form or another has taken a toll of 12,535 Cuban lives since Fidel Castro seized power on Jan. 1, 1959.

The association of Cuban Economists in Exile (AECE) said there is no sign of a let-up in the bloodshed.

"Everyday, seven Cubans are murdered or die of some other form of violence," an AECE statement said. Every week, 278 go to jail. Every month, 5,950 citizens leave the country."

The AECE survey listed 4,406 persons executed by firing squad, 3,460 killed in rural violence, 1,952 dead as the result of acts of resistance in Cuban cities, 1,121 dead in prison, 875 killed at sea while trying to escape and 721 "murders publicly described as suicide or natural death."

A VARIETY of articles were made by Mrs. Oliver Hahn during the 1963-64 season of the Paradise Point Hobby Club. Included in her display at the last meeting of the group were smoked pillows, yarn dogs, pipe cleaner bird cages and a monkey made from men's discarded socks. (Herald Photo)

Tshombe To Try For Government

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Moise Tshombe, who once tried to form an independent nation with his province of Katanga, was asked today to take the lead in forming a new Congo government.

Radio Leopoldville announced that President Joseph Kasavubu had asked Tshombe to contact the different Congolese factions about the formation of a "dynamic and honest" government.

But observers noted that this did not necessarily mean Tshombe himself would become the next premier to succeed Cyrille Adoula, who resigned Tuesday.

A Carload Of Values In The Family Garage

KANSAS CITY — (NEA) —Suburbanites here see gold in the baubles chucked in their basements.

Now they are putting prices on that too-small tuxedo or those fancy mint julep glasses and displaying them in the garage along with a jumbled assortment of practical household items.

"Garage sales" conducted at home by merchants-for-a-day are so popular and profitable that department stores are setting up imitations of these Midwest residential bargain basements. A national chain store, in a full-page ad in the local metropolitan daily, announced a "gigantic three-day garage sale . . . because we're cleaning house."

Diapers, a sailfish and an antique copper cupola are among hundreds of items listed by enterprising housewives bent on making a cleaning in more ways than one. Recouping part of their original expenditures means money for new purchases, often luxuries. A "better" basement or garage is another rewarding by-product.

"I want to buy some of the extras my husband considers foolish," a young mother confided.

Not all the sales are operated by housewives. It probably wasn't a woman who advertised that a sale at an address in a luxury housing development would offer "mink stole, lady's golf clubs and diamond wedding band."

Frequently, entire neighborhoods join in a single sale. "Have your coffee break with us and find bargains galore," one such group announced. In the Kansas City suburb of Shawnee, the Lloyd King home was the scene of such a sale.

"It wasn't all hard work," Mrs. King explained. "The women dressed up in old formal from the racks and had a ball parading around the neighborhood."

There's other fun, too. Gag tags "offer" the temporarily displaced family automobile for $5 or favorite but bothersome garage items belonging to the man of the house for a fraction of their actual value.

attract walk-in trade but most of the garage sales come to shoppers' attention through the classified sections of suburban publications, many of which list entire columns of weekend or single-day sales.

Directions may appear on cardboard boxes, trees, kitchen stools or little red wagon. Also advertised as porch, yard, basement and patio sales, the home grown operations sprout such distinctive jargons as "fixeruppers' delights" and "miscellaneous goodies," along with stock exclaves such as "closeout—over 200 items at giveaway prices."

Garage sales are not new to Mrs. Moss Davis of Kansas City, who remembers disposing of unwanted inheritances in this manner as far back as a decade ago. But she says there's much more competition these days. She prefers to display the sale items outside.

"I just put everything in the front yard and pray for good weather," she said. Many organizations are abandoning the rummage sale image for the updated garage sale to attract wider patronage. A group of Cub Scouts realized $141 on the first day of a three-day garage sale, disposing of an electric shaver, a power mower and baby carriage, along with dozens of other items.

"I sold a bird cage and some dishes," proudly exclaimed Joe Nielsen, 9. In suburban Leawood, Mrs. Arnold Everaull got a scare when a police cruiser pulled up during her closeout sale.

"I was afraid the repeat sale would constitute a commercial enterprise but the patrolman only was looking for antiques," she explained.

ORGANIZATIONS such as the Cub Scouts have found a new source if funds in garage sales of articles obtained in so-called house cleanings.

Korean Taxes Still With Us

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 10 per cent excise taxes enacted during the Korean War will be continued for still another year, bringing the Treasury $1.9 billion in annual revenue.

After the Senate Tuesday night completed final congressional action on the legislation, President Johnson promptly signed the bill into law, extending the taxes for the 11th time. They had been scheduled to expire last midnight.

The legislation reenacts the levies on alcohol, tobacco, passenger autos and parts, telephone service and air travel.

Red, white, & blue retirement plan

Sure, you'll have social security. Maybe an insurance plan, company pension and money in the bank to boot.

But buying U.S. Savings Bonds is also an excellent way to prepare for that day when you start taking it easy full time.

If you buy one a month at $37.50 for 7½ years before you retire, you'll have $50.00 a month coming in for 7½ years after. (That's just an example. You can adjust the dollars and the years to suit yourself.)

Something else to think about: Bonds can help make sure you'll have a future to retire to in the first place. The money does a lot to strengthen Uncle Sam's hand in the free world.

Why not make it a habit to buy Bonds regularly where you bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work? See if you don't feel pretty good about it—now and later.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity (7½ years)
- You pay no state or local tax and can defer the federal tax until the Bonds are cashed
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You can get your money when you need it

Dogs And People

Dogs can be such useful things for people. They keep some from being lonely, others safe from burglars, and many provide laughs on a gloomy day. I am aware of the long list which could be made if we listed all of the virtues of dogs but the most unusual help I know of comes in the form of an illustration which helps us understand a much needed spiritual truth.

As many of you know, baseball was invented in Cooperstown, N. Y. Cooperstown is still a small place yet there is a good stadium in the middle of the village. Each year baseball stars play a game in Cooperstown for which people travel far and near. The day is given over to a great celebration so many people and projects become involved.

One enterprising individual decided that he would do something different to make the day one of greater significance. As secretly as possible he trained two baseball teams mostly composed of cocker spaniel dogs. This training period went on zealously for three years.

Only two people participated in the game. The trainer was the pitcher and another man did the batting. A tennis ball was used as a substitute for a baseball. When the batter hit it one of the dogs would run the bases while others covered the field. When necessary one of the dogs would catch the ball with the greatest of ease.

One day as a practice session was going on near the house the trainer's wife emerged and called the dogs for "chow." The dog covering first base was on the spot! He had the ball in his mouth when the call came and he faced the dilemma of whether to run to his base or to his food. The temptation was too great! He dropped the ball and ran for the "chow" with feet flying and his tail wagging. The other dogs were utterly confused. The pattern was broken so why should they continue their discipline? Rather quickly, they, too, left their positions. The game was demoralized!

Now they had a taste of yielding to the temptation of disloyalty. The first base dog could not regain his old usefulness. His eye was always roaming for another handout. One day the trainer decided to try his team at the ball park where only a small group would observe. The first base dog would not concentrate on the game but trotted to the bleachers where he thought he might get something to eat. This threw the complete team into disharmony again so the trainer finally gave up what could have been a most outstanding performance.

Maybe there has never been a time when we face more temptations to stray away from God's will than today. The week has 168 hours in it but still there are so many means of recreation and work available on Sunday that many people think that they cannot spare two or three hours for worship. The temptation is so great that only a fraction of people who call themselves Christians gather to praise their God even though it is His will!

Certainly we could enumerate in this article so many other temptations that cause great confusion and inefficiency in the work of God's Kingdom but there is not space. The important thing is that this idea starts us to thinking. If it does and we love the Lord we shall see our guilt and return unto Him. He will forgive and we shall rejoice!

National Presbyterian Leader In Sanford On Church Visit

Dr. E. H. Hamilton, recently nominated as moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., is visiting in Sanford and will speak next week on three separate occasions for local Presbyterian churches.

DR. AND MRS. E. H. HAMILTON

Wednesday, at 6:30 p.m., he will be the honored speaker and guest at a covered dish dinner for members of the First Presbyterian Church; Thursday, at 6:30 p.m., he will address members of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant at a family night supper and next Sunday, July 12, he will deliver the sermon at both the 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services at First Presbyterian for which visitors are invited.

A Presbyterian U. S. missionary for more than 40 years, first on the mainland of China, then in Japan and finally in Taiwan, his congregations have been many and varied.

While stationed at Taipei, he led services for prisoners, leprosy patients, aboriginal tribespeople in mountain churches, Chinese students and high government officials.

Forced to leave China after the Communist takeover, he and his wife, the former Estelle McAlpine, were invited to serve in Taiwan where numbers of mainland Chinese were fleeing as refugees. In more than a decade spent there, they helped build a thriving student center and a large city church in Taiwan's capital.

When the new church building was dedicated in November, 1963, the Hamiltons returned to the United States for eight months' furlough and later retirement.

Dr. Hamilton first sailed for China as a missionary in August, 1923, after completing degree at Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. He also has studied at the Biblical Seminary in New York City and has served churches in Greensboro, N. C.; Carrollton, Ga.; Knoxville, Tenn. and Huntington, W. Va. From 1917 until 1919, he served in the AEP with Base Hospital 48.

In his spare time he writes poetry and the second edition of his book of poems, "Afraid? Of What?" was printed in October, 1963. Profits from both printings have been used in his missionary ministry.

A native of Atlanta and a member of Kanawha Presbyterian, Dr. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton have six children and 14 grandchildren. Their home is in Decatur, Ga.

Boating Safety Week Marked

Nine million boat owners in the United States cause a lot of trouble for the Coast Guard Search and Rescue Service, Kiwanians discovered Wednesday as they observed National Boating Safety Week.

Sam Levy, inspection officer of Division Four of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and vice commander of the Sanford Orlando Flotilla, revealed that 30,000 rescues are effected by the Search and Rescue Services of the Coast Guard each year, with 2,900 more effected by the Auxiliary.

Knowledge of boat handling, proper equipment, ample supplies and proper identification are all important for boat owners to acquire before they venture out of port.

Someone on shore should have an estimated time to return, a description of the boat, its number, the number of people aboard with instructions to notify the Coast Guard or the Auxiliary in case it does not return as expected, Levy said.

A film which depicted the around-the-clock alertness of the Coast Guard, the various

Business Gets Advisories On Civil Rights

By Jesse Bogus
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK — To the businessman facing the realities of the applications of the civil rights act, there are increasing numbers of advisories available.

They warn that passage of the act is not in any way likely to lead to relaxation of pressures by minority groups for greater employment representation.

Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood, N. J., publishers, led off a recent "executive report on businessmen that there will be quick pressure for compliance and greater action in areas not covered by the civil rights law.

"More pressure will be brought to bear on equal employment, although that portion of the law doesn't be effective for another year," this report said. "And though many firms are excluded from the law, none will escape the possibility of direct action from civil rights groups."

Activities in the housing and school areas, the report continued, plus other developments will "put an increasing strain on community relations."

It advised businessmen to prepare the way for better race relations in a community by organizing a committee of community leaders to work out solutions, in conjunction with negro leaders, to racial problems.

It said it was desirable that the local committee not be associated directly with local government, so that political pressures can be avoided. It said established business groups, such as the chamber of commerce, "offer an excellent vehicle for organizing the committee."

In advocating this approach, the report said that a committee probably would be called upon to deal with housing and school desegregation. These are not directly matters of unemployment, but the report said these matters were "urgent" to business because without acceptable housing and schools it would be difficult to attract negroes to professional and technical jobs.

It advised businessmen not to wait for the employment section of the act to become applicable to them, but to plan now to integrate a staff as opportunities become available. Such a course of action permits greater selectivity than if done under pressure, and may head off boycotts, the report said.

Holiday At School
Monday will be observed as a holiday in observance of Independence Day at the Longwood Elementary School. Activities of the summer recreation program in progress at the school have been canceled for this one day only.

kinds of craft, planes, helicopters radio, teletype, radar and tracking equipment used by the Search and Rescue units was shown to the club.

The film vividly depicted how all these forces come into operation when a boat is reported overdue or in distress.

Levy urged boat owners to have their boats inspected for safety and proper operating equipment, so they may be issued a safe boating decal that is recognized by the Coast Guard and law enforcement officers.

Levy is president of the York - Eger Manufacturing Company. He was introduced to the club by program chairman Ernest Southward.

Prize-Winning Essay On Americanism

Editor's Note: Jerry William Cullum, Seminole High School student, recently wrote a prize-winning essay on "The Meaning of Americanism." Due to the timeliness of his subject, it is reprinted here, the day before the Fourth of July.

"Few words have been more misdefined than Americanism. Properly, Americanism should be characterized only by a belief in those things which are believed in by the nation at large. Yet this word has gathered to itself a vast accretion of emotional associations, and any definition must be made in the light of these sentiments.

"Americanism may be generally defined as a belief in the ideals expressed in the Constitution. This need not include any of the superfluous creeds which daily vie for position among the populace; what it must include is an unshakable faith in the people as the rulers of their own destiny.

"It must include a firm demand for a balanced personal freedom, in which the citizen is protected from all forms of despotism, public or private. It must also follow that Americanism places all responsibility for the defense of this freedom on the citizens alone.

"In its uncorrupted form, Americanism is difficult to practice. No other system demands so much activity on the part of the private citizen. The citizen must not only defend the system, he must take part in its operation. This calls for the citizen's most careful forethought, lest the cynical remark prove true that democracies only stand until the people realize they can vote themselves largess from the public treasury.

"In this age of demagoguery and political pragmatism, the citizens of these United States must remember that Americanism does not offer absolute freedom, although no other system can provide a better measure of freedom; nor does it offer absolute security, although no other system can offer a genuinely larger measure of security.

"What it does offer is stabilized liberty—liberty defended against its detractors. This liberty proceeds from what George Orwell called the most fundamental freedom—the freedom to say that two plus two makes four. For as long as man may state elemental truths, the whole range of freedom is secure. And as long as true Americanism exists to preserve this right, we shall be free."

Thinking Out Loud

By Julian Stromton

We've come to the conclusion that the best way for us to wish for you a nice Fourth of July is to hope that we're all back here on Monday again thinking out loud about sports.

We've heard remarks from many Sanford and Seminole people expressing deep regret at the tragic news of Fireball Robert's death. The husky, 4-foot-2, 196-pounder, was probably the most popular personality in stock car racing.

We recall a few years ago when we were reading in Fresno, Calif., that Roberts appeared at the Clovis Speedway and captured the admiration of many Central Californians even though he ran roughshod over the finest west coast drivers in winning the event there on a dirt track.

And we always were under the impression that Roberts got his nickname from his racing. We were surprised to learn Thursday that the man who came from his high school days when he was a hurler for the Apopka High School baseball team. He was also a native of Apopka.

Speaking of Apopka, we got another surprise recently when we learned that the owner of a drug store in Caselberry Plaza was none other than Laurie Sheppard of Apopka. Some old time baseball fans in this area who can get their minds as far back as the old Central Florida League may remember that Laurie was an infielder with the Sanford entry in the old semi-pro circuit.

Among the so-called baseball experts there doesn't seem to be anyone who'll dare pick the American League to win the Stadium. They're all going with the National League.

Of course, they can't be blamed for picking the senior circuit to win another one. There're a few good reasons, such as Willie Mays, Roberto Clemente and Billy Williams in the outfield, Orlando Cepeda, Dick Groat, Ken Boyer and Ron Hunt in the infield, not to mention any of the pitchers and catchers.

Did you know that Mays was selected to the all star team for the 11th time? Did you also know that of the 241 ball players eligible to vote, Mays got the votes of 240 of them? We'd say that Mays can be considered a ball player's ball player. Wouldn't you?

We were delighted to learn that the pulled hamstring muscle which will keep Florida A & M sprinter Bob Hayes out of action for an indefinite period will not keep him from a berth on the U. S. Olympic team. Hayes, "the world's fastest human," who has run the 100 in 9.1 seconds, suffered the muscle pull in the National AAU recently. As a result he can't compete in the track and field trials in New York. Under current rules injuries would be ineligible to qualify for the U. S. team.

However, Chairman George Eastman of the Olympic committee said he had authority to advance any standstill athlete to the final tryouts in Los Angeles Sept. 12-15.

Local golfers ought to be encouraged by the announcement concerning the new twilight green fees.

Gets New Post

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mark Duncan, former defensive coach with the San Francisco Forty Niners, was appointed today to supervise officials of the National Football League by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Volter Eddie Cotton says he will try to knock out young Wayne Thornton tonight in their light heavyweight contenders' fight "because it may be my last chance to earn a shot at the title."

Shrine Nips Elks 3-2 To Take Junior Loop Crown

Mike Long Paces Winners; Leach Gets Mound Win

The Shrine boys today possess the Junior Boys League championship trophy as a result of their 3 to 2 victory Thursday night over the Elks in a Sanford Memorial Stadium contest.

The Elks tallied in the first frame when, with two men away, Billy Miller walked, swiped second and scored on Chris Akers' single.

But the Shrine bounced right back to knot the count at 1-all in the second when Mike Long singled, he also stole second, took third on a fielder's choice, and scampered home on Timmy Sain's single.

In the fourth the Shrine moved ahead when Long singled home Ron Dudley. The Elks tied it up again in the sixth but left the sacks loaded.

The Shrine pushed over the winning one-run margin in their half of the sixth when Dudley walked and later scored when Mike Long grounded out.

Steve Leach got credit for the win and Gary Maples took the loss despite a fine hurling effort. Long led the Shrine with a pair of hits, scored once and had two RBI's. Billy Gracey, Dudley and Sain each had a single.

Mark Carlo and Ed Hitchcock had a pair of hits apiece for the Elks and Akers had one. Carlo had the only extra base hit of the contest—a triple.

This marked the second consecutive year the Shrine has taken the Junior League championship. Last year the Shrine won both the first and second half flags, going through the season undefeated.

Restauranters Keep 1st Spot In Sandspur

Although they lost three points to Harold's Spar Service, Rose and Wilk's Restaurant still managed to cling to the league lead in the Sandspur League at Jet Lanes. For Rose and Wilk's it was Sue Jackson showing the way with 200/309 and Dot Johnson was the "hot shot" for Harold's Spar Service with a 529 series.

Pierro Manufacturing is in second place in league standings after a four-point win from Mary Brown's Beauty Shop as Jean Krick blasted a 534 series to win honors for the night. In third place is Jet Lanes, winner of all four against P. Zeull and Sons. Pat Robbins rolled a 401 series for Jet Lanes. The 2-7 split was picked up by Pat Foster.

Sunland 9 Will Meet Northgate

Play in the Seminole Senior League was washed out at Caselberry Recreation Park Thursday night when late afternoon rains flooded Cooper Field.

This afternoon at 8 Caselberry will tangle with Bear Lake in a Senior loop contest.

At 7:30 this evening Sunland, champions of the Seminole Little League, will meet Northgate or Orlando — the team which defeated Matland 3 to 0 Thursday for the title in that contest.

Willie Powers Grand Slam To Give Angels Win Over Orioles

By Curt Beck
UPI Sports Writer

Willie Smith keeps reminding the baseball world of Babe Ruth by splitting his playing time between the outfield and the pitcher's mound and battling in the cleanup spot.

But if his self-analysis is any indication of his scouting knowhow he'd better start selling insurance or open a bowling alley to prepare for the day when his career is over.

"I never classified myself as a long ball hitter," Smith says, "but I always felt I could hit."

No one has felt the fury of his bat more convincingly than Baltimore reliever Stu Miller did Thursday night when he powdered his first major league grand slam in the ninth inning to give the Los Angeles Angels a 10-4 win over the league-leading Orioles.

The homer was Smith's fourth of the season, all coming since June 14 when manager Bill Rigney converted his 25-year-old southpaw reliever into a .317 outfielder.

In addition to his game-winning homer Smith had two doubles and a single and drove in a total of six runs to give him 23 for the season.

In other American League contests, the Yankees edged Kansas City 4-3 in 15 innings; Detroit topped Cleveland 9-1; Minnesota clobbered Boston 15-9; and Washington and Chicago were idle.

In the National League; St. Louis shaded Milwaukee 4-3, San Francisco stopped Pittsburgh 6-5, Cincinnati blanked Chicago 7-0, Houston downed the Mets 7-1; and Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 3-2.

Senkarik Grabs Home Run Title In Little Loops

Skip Senkarik was the only Little League hurler in the City Recreation Department's Little American and National circuits among those with five decisions or more to span the 1964 season undefeated.

Senkarik, tossing for the Hunt Lincoln-Mercury Comets, posted 10 victories during the regular season without suffering a set back.

His closest rival was Scott Harris of the Navy nine, champions of the American League, who posted a regular season record of seven wins and one loss.

Steve Rawls of George's, Joe Pauline of the Florida State Bank and Tommy Gracey of Perfection Dairies each had seven victories. However, Rawls had two losses credited to him while Pauline and Gracey each had three.

David Lee of the Locomotive Engineers picked up six wins and three defeats, Andy Rufus of the Navy had five victories against a lone setback, and Doug Malzowski of the Engineers posted a record of five wins and two losses.

Drivers Poised For '64 Running Of Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — NASCAR's top drivers lined up for two 50-mile sprints today to determine starting positions for Saturday's annual Firecracker 400 stock car race.

The front row positions were secured Thursday by Darel Dieringer and Jim Paschal, who were the only two drivers to qualify before heavy rains cancelled the rest of the day's time trials.

Dieringer, of Charlotte, N. C., earned the pole position by pushing his 1964 Mercury to an official clocking of 172.618 miles an hour for one lap around the international speedway's huge oval.

Paschal, a High Point, N. C., Plymouth driver, posted the second fastest lap, 171.837 mph, to earn the outside front row starting position for Saturday's race.

Pre-race favorite Richard Petty of Randleman, N. C., was clocked unofficially Thursday at better than 178 mph before the engine in his new Plymouth blew out.

Petty's pit crew said, however, that a new motor would be installed in time for Saturday's race.

Sanford travels to Orlando tonight to be hosted by Post 19 in probably the most important contest to be played so far this season in the Legion's Sixth District.

In his effort to grab the win, which will put the two clubs into a tie for first place in the district's standings, Thomas will send Jim Courier to the mound.

The contest will be played at 7:30 p. m. at the Oak Ridge High School field. So far this season Post 19 and Sanford have met once with the Orlando club taking the margin.

Orlando has 10 wins and three losses in district play, Sanford has a record of nine and four.

The City champions put together 16 walks, five hits, a like number of Navy errors and two hit batsmen in running up the score.

Dana Hogan, Steve Push and Steve Hitchcock did the hitting for Hunt, aided by Senkarik's two homers. One was a grand slammer, the other cleared the power lines high above the left field wall.

The body of the veteran 33-year-old stock car driver was brought here by plane from Charlotte, N. C., Thursday, several hours after he died in a Charlotte hospital.

Roberts succumbed 39 days after he suffered burns over 70 per cent of his body in a three-car smashup during the World 600 stock car race in Charlotte.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete, but it was expected he would be buried Sunday, a day after the Firecracker 400 race here—an event he won last year.

Senkarik Slams Pair Of Homers To Sink Sailors

Hunt's Lincoln - Mercury Comets, behind the strong arm pitching of Skipper Senkarik, clobbered the Navy 22 to 0 Thursday night to capture the city's Little League title.

The victory gave Hunt, Little National League champions, the city crown for the second straight year.

Skipper Senkarik who hurled a perfect, no-hit, no-run contest in the Tuesday night arm pitcher, struck out 14 last night and issued one pass in posting another shutout victory — his seventh white-wash job of the year.

He extended his scoreless inning string to 13 and had given up only one run over the past 37 innings.

Andy Rufus, who had a no-hit bid spoiled by a lead-off single by Senkarik in Wednesday night's tilt, got revenge last night by spilling Senkarik's try for another no-hitter. Rufus got both of Navy's two hits a single in the first and a double in the fourth. Rufus, in fact, got four of the seven Navy hits posted in the series.

The Comets wrapped it up early—posting four runs in the first and 14 in the second. It was strictly no-contact after the first inning. Hunt pushed over two more runs in the third and two in the fifth to wind it up.

The City champions put together 16 walks, five hits, a like number of Navy errors and two hit batsmen in running up the score.

Dana Hogan, Steve Push and Steve Hitchcock did the hitting for Hunt, aided by Senkarik's two homers. One was a grand slammer, the other cleared the power lines high above the left field wall.

Hunt finished the season with an overall record of 20 wins, six losses, tops in both loops. Navy pulled down the curtain on a 20 and seven record.

Also playing for Hunt last night were Bubba Park, Phil Grizer, Richard Basher, Charles Thompson, Roy Hunt, Jennings Hurst, Larry Johnson, John Foster, Calvin Griner, Tommy Hatchett and Harold Johnson. The coach is C. D. Hitchcock.

Longwood Recreation Invaded By Hobos

By Donna Estes
Approximately 50 assorted young hobos and freeloaders descended on Longwood Elementary School Wednesday morning to participate in the Hobo Contest and dine on "delicious" hobo stew.

The event was scheduled as an activity of the current summer recreation program being conducted at the school.

Mrs. Nell Drueding and Coach Rodney Umberger had a difficult time selecting the youngsters in each age group who were dressed in the most "fashionable" hobo style.

One of the "classiest" hobos was Jane Pugh who wore a pink and red hat with "lover the face" flower, a "diamond" necklace, an elegant flowered dress, a black shoe and a brown shoe and lovely silk stockings roiled around her ankles.

Despite the dour poverty evidenced by Mike Popejoy's costume he was able to afford sun glasses and carried an extra suit of clothing in a bundle slung across a stick.

Named winners and their age groups were Jane Pugh and Mike Popejoy, 10 years and older; Taryn Black and Ricky Adams, eight-nine years old and Gwen Osborne and Mark Riley, five, six, seven years old.

All the winners were awarded ribbons and Ricky Adams and Gwen Osborne were presented gifts of straw hats awarded through a choice of straws drawn by the judges.

While the contest was being conducted, Coach Walt Daurus was supervising preparation of the stew which was cooked in a large iron pot on the school grounds. Ingredients of the stew, donated by choice of the children, were chili, blackeye peas, potatoes, carrots, onions, rice, macaroni, hot dogs, sweet peas, tomato paste, spaghetti, hamburger, corn, pork and beans, a variety of canned soups and soup mixes, green beans and noodles.

Supply was sufficient for each hobo to have three servings.

Civil Rights Law Gets Its First Tests

ATLANTA (UPI) — Negroes tested the new civil rights law without incident in a number of southern restaurants last night, but their leaders urged them to proceed with caution in some areas.

In one of these areas, Mississippi, Gov. Paul Johnson warned "there are tremendous dangers in the enforcement of this legislation." He advised Negroes to make their tests slowly "or we're going to have some chaotic days."

But southern restaurateurs, for the most part, reluctantly agreed to comply with the new law. "We have no alternative," said the Georgia restaurant association.

Negroes were served in seven restaurants in Albany, Ga., long a segregation stronghold, and several eating places in Savannah, Ga., admitted negroes last night.

Shortly after President Johnson signed the bill, Negroes Robert Ingram and Prince McIntosh entered Morrison's cafeteria in Jacksonville and a white woman in the serving line asked, "May I help you?"

"We decided just to go along and obey the law of the land," said manager Bert Graham. "There were no incidents."

One restaurant owner, however, decided to close down. "I quit," said Buddy Glover, who has operated a restaurant for 27 years in Richmond, Va. "It's going to be a financial disaster."

Purple Sage Of Old West On Way Out

SHOSHONE, Idaho (UPI) — The Purple Sage, famed in song and story, is on its way out in the west.

That pleasant-scented sagebrush, a characteristic sight on the arid plains of the great American west, may be as rare a sight as buffalo a few years hence.

The federal agencies that manage much of the open spaces in the west have gone to war against the native underbrush. They have been joined in the effort by private landowners and are making use of modern chemicals and equipment in the fight.

Sagebrush got on the extermination list because it hogs the nutrition and moisture that otherwise would grow grass.

Range management experts have found that once sagebrush is killed it is replaced by grass. Three acres of sagebrush will support one grazing animal. An acre of rangeland that has been cleared of sagebrush will support two animals.

The invention of a 2-4-D chemical gave range management personnel an ultimate weapon for the sagebrush war.

Freedom Its Responsibilities

Patriotism is something that one has to live day in and day out. How can one manifest patriotism?

Our first and most important task is to increase ethical standards in our homes, our communities, in the country as a whole. Restoration of the moral fibre in the nation has first priority.

Second, it is our duty to elect competent, ethical people to represent the local school boards, in city councils, in state and national governments. Only those who appreciate our way of life, have a sense of moral responsibility, have a sense of moral responsibility, are able and competent should deserve our vote.

Third, we must develop our intellects, acquire more knowledge, understanding about the realities of our times. We are in a life-and-death struggle with an enemy determined to destroy all we hold dear. We must learn to know that enemy, so we can meet his challenges on all fronts — ideological, spiritual, moral, cultural, economic, military, political. Surely, without thorough, professional knowledge on politics, we cannot defeat the professionals who threaten us.

It has been our destiny, not our choice, to live in this age of great peril. We should accept that challenge, meet it, make the best out of it.

Naked Fact: Men Clothes Shy

"Statistically, millions of men are walking around naked."

By Jerry Sheehan
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—Irwin Grossman, 47, has been in the clothing business long enough to know his statistics. And according to him, a healthy percentage of the male population must be walking around naked.

He bases his observation on sales of men's suits since 1959. They have failed to keep pace with the expanding population by a couple of million.

A major reason for this condition he attributes to the natural timidity of men to stand up to a clothing salesman and demand what they want. A second reason, un-happily, is that many men appear to have doubts about what they should wear in the first place.

This confusion often prods a man to turn away from an attempt to dress with a flair. According to Grossman, he may deliberately adopt a sloppy manner so that he will not have to admit that dress is important. That is why, said Grossman (whose firm markets under the Grosbire-Austin Leeds label), you have bank presidents sometimes dressing worse than the bank messengers.

Oddly, while many men shy away from sound buying practices, suit prices have dropped considerably in the past few decades, in relation to buying power.

"A man used to be obliged to spend a week's pay for a suit," said Grossman. "Now you can buy one for a fraction of that cost."

What can a man do to dress well?

"First of all," said the clothing maker, "he should follow his wife's example and read up on the subject. Check the ads and menswear columns to see what's current."

"Then, don't be afraid to try on several suits at different price levels. See how they drape. It's largely a matter of feel. Don't hurry when in the store and don't be afraid to walk out the door if you don't get what you like."

Knit With Cotton String

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY—Knitting keeps me occupied during long hours of prescribed rest. After making sweaters, jackets, a dress and so on, I realized the high cost of yarn, especially wool. Summer is here and the rest periods have to continue so I have been doing some experimental knitting with cooler materials. I am so delighted with ordinary cotton string knitting that I want to share my knowledge of it with other knitters. I have just finished a short-sleeved blouse knitted out of four balls of string bought at my grocer's for 25 cents a ball. A 35-cent package of dye made it a beautiful cardinal red. Needles in sizes nine and six produced beautiful knitting without having to change the stitch count of a pattern created for nylon or wool yarn. A swatch or two of string knitting will surprise the knitter and show whether or not the stitch count is right. Garments so knitted are less bulky, cooler to knit and to wear during the summertime.—MYRL

GIRLS—Myrl's letter caused me to remember a dress

I knitted out of soft, white, stringlike cotton many years ago. It was most comfortable, looked smart and washed like a handkerchief. I would be sure the string was soft and pliable and do test the stitch gauge to be sure it will be the right size.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I save belts from dresses that are to be discarded and when I make new dresses, I saw the new material on to the old belts. I have saved the cost of new backing and the belts look just fine.—MRS. C. C.

DEAR POLLY—I have a piece of paper taped to the back of my medicine cabinet door and a pencil on one of the shelves. When a prescription is filled at the drug store, I write down the amount paid for it. At the end of the year, the list is totaled and then through the receipts.—MARIANNE

GIRLS—I am sure many of us are surprised at the amount spent for medicine during a year's time. Do keep the sales slips or receipts bills, too, in case they are ever needed for proof, particularly if your family has to buy lots of medicine.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Our indoor black iron stair balusters and railing needed renewing very badly so I painted it all with blackboard slating. It looks fresh and new, does not chip and dries very rapidly. The drying time itself was a blessing.—MARY

GIRLS—Blackboard slating is a "must" in my supply cabinet. It is useful for so many things.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I have a good knitting hint. When binding off, use a crochet hook. Slip the first stitch off the knitting needle on to the crochet hook, then insert the hook (as you would a right-hand knitting needle) into the next stitch of the knitting, draw a loop through it and then through the stitch on the crochet hook. I find this quick to do and it is easy to bind off the stitches with an even tension.—MRS. J. F. H.

Save Money On Spray Paint

Despite some funny (to the neighbors) behavior, someone in your family will be caught up in a do-it-yourself project during the summer. It can be a satisfying experience. Why not make it economical, too?

Painting, for example, is a popular decorative sport. Because of its convenience, spray paint is increasingly favored for sprucing up old furniture (particularly metal wicker lawn and porch furniture) lamp bases, wastebaskets and such around the house.

Unless you are a pro at selecting paint, the tendency is to just grab the nearest spray can off the shelf that lists the color you want. But did you know that controlled laboratory tests show there are differences of more than 500 per cent in coverage between the poorest and best spray paints?

You can save up to $8 in extra coverage per quart by selecting a quality spray enamel. Test your selection for performance at the point-of-purchase. Here are some things to watch for when comparing spray paints:

- It should come out in a good, thick spray not in thin spurts.

- It should cover well. Have the clerk spray a brown primer on a board. Follow immediately with a white overcoat. This should cover the brown in a single pass.
- Does the paint "sag"? If it runs down the vertical surface being sprayed, you'll find the solids content of the paint is too low.
- Does the paint "level"? You should get a flat coat of paint.
- How well does it cover? This is probably the most important test for your money. Use two or three different brands. Hold the container upright about 8-to-10 inches away from the board. Spray with a sweeping motion while counting "one-thousand-and-one," "one-thousand-and-two." Spray each brand this way.
- Your better buy is the spray paint that covers the area sprayed adequately in the two seconds you counted. But don't stop with the testing. Read all can labels thoroughly before you buy. What preparations are necessary? Is it the right type spray paint for the surface you want to cover? The little time you spend considering these points is worth the money saved.

Honeymooners Use Decoy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fast, honeymooners keep your new luggage at home and assume that casual look if you seek anonymity.

That tip, from Victor Giles, of the Governor Clinton Hotel here, is based on 35 years in the hotel business.

He hosts hundreds of honeymooners each year.

"They're the most delightful guests in the house," he said. "They seek nothing but privacy and in more cases than not, they wish to keep the secret that they're honeymooning."

Additional signs that the couple is on a honeymoon:

- He pays constant attention to his female companion.
- Both appear startled when a bellhop enters the room after knocking for permission to enter.
- He often tries to hide his wedding band when signing in.
- They tell the doorman they won't be needing the car for a few days.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Were you serious when you asked your readers if they considered it "cheating" to use a dictionary and other reference books while working a crossword puzzle? Of course it's cheating! The whole idea of the crossword puzzle is to test you on how many words and their definitions you KNOW. Not how many of the answers you can find somewhere.

and I have to look it up, I do not feel as though I am cheating. I figure that the author of the crossword puzzle is cheating. How about asking the geniuses who make up these puzzles for their opinions?

R. B. S.

Why, how simple! I am sure you knew it all the time but it slipped your mind.

HUGH

DEAR ABBY: I fail to understand how one can "cheat" in a game where only he is playing. In working a crossword puzzle, the object is to complete it. If a puzzle is so simple that it can be completed without any research, I would consider it a waste of time. I use a large unabridged dictionary, a Bible, A World Atlas and a set of encyclopedias when I undertake to work a crossword puzzle, and I feel that I gain much by doing so. To do "research" increases one's knowledge, and is certainly not "cheating."

A. S. B.

FLATS FAIR

DEAR ABBY: Although I have never used (or owned) an X-Word dictionary in my many years of combat with the puzzles, I would not consider it "cheating" to use one if necessary. After all, the word you look up today, you may remember tomorrow. I think most, if not all, puzzlers aspire to work out the solution without book reference. But if I am asked whether Panama City is in Texas or in Florida, and I must look at a map, is that cheating?

DEAR ABBY: I would like to meet the person who can complete a crossword puzzle without using any tools, such as a dictionary or reference books. Crossword puzzles are comprised primarily of words that are never used in ordinary conversation, and never appear anywhere except in crossword puzzles.

Would YOU know what the six-letter word for the jacked god of the necropolis was? As a clue, he is usually represented as the son of OSIRIS, who shared with THOTH the office of conductor of the dead to the judgment hall in AMEN-TI. The answer is ANUBIS.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklist, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

BILL AGAIN

DEAR ABBY: This is in answer to your question, "Is it considered cheating to use a dictionary while working a crossword puzzle?" No, it is most assuredly NOT. How many educated people know the two-letter word for an Ugandan six-toed bitter vetch? When the puzzle requires such a word, gences which builds up into bigger faults.

If you're having trouble disciplining your children, take a good look at yourself. You may find that your own behavior is the cause of the trouble.

We The Women: By Ruth Millitt

"How can I make my children obey me?" so many mothers write.

Well, here's what one of my readers who taught school for many years has to say about this:

Being interested in children, she has watched with special interest the way different mothers handle their darlings, and has come to this conclusion:

"Before a mother can hope to make a child mind—she has to be able to make herself mind. By that I mean she must realize that it is the small weaknesses and indulgences which builds up into bigger faults.

"So, even though it might be easier at a particular moment to ignore the fact that Johnny is doing something he has been forbidden to do, the wise mother disciplines herself by refusing to take the easy way out. She stops whatever she is doing to see that Johnny doesn't continue to disobey.

"She doesn't have to be harsh—just firm in her voice and manner.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

In addition to being a writer and expert player, Edgar Kaplan is a partner in New York's Card School. I have a strong hunch that many of his hands for "Winning Bridge Complete" were tried out on some of his students.

East wins the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returns the ten. An average South player would cover with the jack of queen and make the hand if West made the mistake of winning the trick with the king. If West held off South would have no play for his contract and probably would wind up going down two tricks.

An expert South would make trick two instead of one of his honors. After that play, it would make no difference what the defense did.

If the hand were played in one of those super expert games that we read about (but never actually see) East might play the ten of diamonds at trick one instead of the ace. This would require his visualizing the exact diamond situation, which in theory super experts can do.

However, this play would do no good against another super expert. South would figure out exactly what East was up to and just let that ten hold the first diamond trick.

The Doctor Says: Child's Irritability Normal

By Wayne G. Brandstad, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—What would cause my 3½-year-old daughter to be irritable? She whines all day and I'm a wreck. Our doctor says there's nothing wrong with her, but she's getting worse.

A—It is normal for a child to be irritable when she has a fever, is overtired or has a nagging discomfort of any sort. On the other hand, a chronic whiner usually has no organic disease, but may have a feeling of insecurity. This may be the result of neglect or of overindulgence which is often a cover up for a lack of true affection. Such a child, although not physically sick now, will suffer poor health all her life unless there is a change in her emotional background.

J—Our daughter has a superabundance of freckles. What can we do to get rid of them and keep them from coming back?

A—Although several properations have been tried for the removal of freckles, none is satisfactory. They either cause a severe reaction similar to eczema or the results are only temporary. Many people find freckles vary attractive and certainly no one should regard them as a disease. The best course would be for your daughter to learn to live with them. But if she is self-conscious about them, she should avoid exposure to the sun because that darkens them. If that doesn't satisfy her, she should try a masking cream.

Q—My 13-year-old son developed a bald spot the size of a dime on the back of his head about six months ago. Our doctor said it was nothing to worry about. He now has four such spots on his scalp. What would you advise?

A—This patchy baldness is, as your doctor says, no cause for alarm. The condition usually clears up spontaneously. After several months, the hair gradually comes in again. Since the cause is unknown, there is no specific treatment, but various general measures are believed by some to be helpful. These include giving vitamin B complex, ultraviolet light or gradually increasing exposure to the sun, massage, and the application of a stimulating ointment containing anthraxin or prednisolone.

Q—Our 11-year-old son son weighs 105 pounds and is 57 inches tall. Is this considered overweight? If so, how many calories should be allowed each day?

A—Your son is of average height for his age and is definitely above average in weight. The number of calories he requires depends on how active he is, but in order to keep his weight within the normal range, you should cut down his intake of such concentrated foods as margarine or butter, bread, candy, cake and jam and substitute fruit and gelatin desserts.

Three Men Make Girl Talk

By Helen Hennessy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Women's Editor

After the shingled hair and short, straight flapper dresses of the '20s, we had the feminine elegance of the '30s. Then came the padded shoulders of the '40s, the sack of the late '50s, the boots and jerkins of the '60s — and now we're back again to soft, pretty clothes, reminiscent of the elegant '30s.

Designers take these flights into fashion emancipation but truly feminine clothes always return, with the approval of everyone.

Women dress to please men and men prefer for us to look like women. If you have doubts, take a look at the demise of the sack. Men simply laughed it off the racks.

Three dynamic young men gave me their thoughts on how women should look. Mike Korwin and his brothers, Milton and Barney dictate the fashion policy of a leading sports and casual dress house (Clare, Inc.) and so their feelings on the subject will be reflected in the fashions of many of us will wear.

"When you say feminine, you think of words like soft or gentle," said Mike. "This means an elimination of severe lines. Harshness in any form kills femininity.

"A girl can be wearing the prettiest dress in the world but when her voice is strident or her make-up screams at you, whatever degree of femininity she's trying to achieve is lost."

Mike and his brothers believe that everything has to be considered — grooming, hairdo, shoes, even perfume.

The brothers believe there's no special instant-success formula where clothes are concerned. A woman must learn to understand her own figure. According to Milton, there's no perfect figure. A woman must recognize her own individuality and take it from there rather than try to follow the herd.

The Korwins gave me a preview of what they are planning in the way of fall designs.

There will be unexpected fabric combinations — satin with giant ways corduroy, malaisse crepe with whipcord and brocade with tweed.

The "Discotheque" will appear on the scene, a new kind of bare, dressy cocktail fashion in crunchy tweeds or wools.

There are such bright color team-ups as fiery red against black and white, brilliant yellow with banker's gray, hot pink with black or navy. Every design has been planned to make us elegant, feminine and glad we're girls.

CHIC HAT

Q—"I plan a trip to Europe this summer and have revolved my wardrobe choices around my two pair of walking shoes — white and navy. I have selected daytime clothes in red, white or navy so that I can wear the shoes with everything. My husband says that I might as well travel on a flapole, but I feel I can mix and match these colors to stretch my wardrobe. Don't you agree?" — MRS. JOHN L.

DEAR MRS. JOHN L.—Red, white and blue is certainly an attractive combination and a favorite this summer. But it's bold and distinctive, too. You may well tire of wearing it in one form or another each day. Why not take along some pastel dresses to break the monotony? Walking shoes, it's true, are the basis for any sightseeing wardrobe, but they needn't limit the color choice of the rest of your clothes.

Woodshed For Poor Grades?

By Susan Light
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LIGHT: Teachers complain about not getting support from parents. But when they do get it, they complain even more.

I told my first grader I'd spank him if he brought home a failing grade on his daily papers. I know he's inclined to dawdle and daydream, and I thought this threat would make him settle down and work.

Well, he brought home good papers for several days. Then yesterday he didn't bring any papers home and claimed he had forgotten them.

His teacher called last night and requested that I not punish him for poor grades. She said he had become so upset about an F he had received, he couldn't work the rest of the day. He told her he'd get spanked and begged her to change his grade to a D. It was she who suggested that he leave his papers at school. Imagine!

What do I do now?—OLD-FASHIONED MOM

ANSWER: The teacher gave you your cue. Please accept it for your son's sake and your own peace of mind.

The pressures inflicted on high school and college students today appear to be working their way to the primary grades. Parents start thinking about college entrance with the first paper junior brings home from school. They go into an emotional tangle if he makes anything less than "B", regardless of what his ability or degree of maturity may be. The whole thing is blown up out of proportion.

Children should be permitted to be children with no undue worries about adult standards. It's natural for 6-year-olds to dawdle and daydream at times. Even when your son is doing his best, he's bound to have occasional lapses.

Punishing him for poor grades will do far more harm than good. In fact, it may make him dislike school so much, he'll become a potential dropout before he leaves first grade.

Praise for good work is usually more effective and satisfying than blame for bad. Hanging up your son's good papers on a kitchen bulletin board, for example, will give him a real boost.

I hope you accentuate the positive before it's too late!

Please send your problem to Susan Light, 1200 West Third, Cleveland, Ohio. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Use The Proper Tools To Pry

By Mr. Fix
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
For those who respect and care for their tools, there are few sadder sights than a screw driver that has been snapped in half. The tool obviously has used the user in place of a pry bar.

Since the tool was designed to withstand a twisting action, it broke.

Though pry bars or wrecking bars make few lists of basic tools, they should be in everyone's collection. These are leverage tools, designed to multiply a man's strength.

Basic Tool

Pry bars are basically inexpensive tools, far cheaper than the tools you will ruin for the lack of one. They vary in name, not only because of different design and use but because of different manufacturers as well.

One of the most common types is the bar with a flat angled blade at one end, a hooked claw at the other. Called a pinch bar or a goose-neck ripping bar, it may vary in length from 18 to 36 inches.

With the very sharp angle of the claw you can pull a nail that an ordinary claw hammer couldn't handle. You can move the bar through an arc far greater than 90 degrees, thus continuing to pull a long nail with a single stroke.

If the nail is hard to get at, use the thin, flat edge to gouge some space under the nail, then use the claw. For wrecking, make an opening between planks with the blade, then use the claw to finish the wrecking.

If you are working on a finished surface and don't want to dent it, place scrap wood under the claw so that you rock the bar on the scrap surface.

The crowbar comes in a wide variety of lengths and price is based on weight. The biggest bars weigh about 25 lbs. You won't need one of these unless there are huge rocks to move off your land.

There are several bars that are called ripping chisels. These resemble the ripping bar, but have an end that is machined and a notched blade for pulling nails.

Another tool made of high carbon steel is the short nail claw. The claw is machined so that it is almost a chisel and you can pound on the back side of the bend to get a grip under a nail.

When you use a bar, remember to keep the fulcrum—the support on which it rests — as close to the object that you want to move as you can.

Woman Bucks Old Tradition

CHICAGO (UPI)—The belief that the Japanese woman is obedient, demure, timid, passive, pious, servile becomes a myth in the case of Mrs. Hisako Shiotani.

She's petite and proper. But she is a business woman also. A mother of two teen-age children, Mrs. Shiotani does not look more than 35 years old. She says she's 45.

She has spent the last 25 years doing what has become a part of her, managing a gigantic hotel in the scenic Japantown resort town of Atami.

Her second hotel in Atami—80 miles from Tokyo — was opened to the public the first of May. This one is the largest resort hotel in Japan. It has 13 stories and accommodates 1100 persons.

The dark-haired Japanese woman, in the United States to promote tourism for her hotels, is full of energy, conscience and ideas on how she can become even more successful.

Mrs. Shiotani said it is unusual for a Japanese woman to have a career, especially in hotel management.

Her success story goes back another generation. Her mother used to own and run four "ryotels," the Japanese version of American boarding houses. About 18 years ago, Mrs. Shiotani decided to build a hotel. She sold the small inns and aimed for higher horizons.

Her son, 19, is studying economics in Tokyo. She hopes he will follow her footsteps.

"He will attend Cornell University after he graduates," she said.

Minnesota, with 300 million population, led the U.S. in production of creamery butter during 1962.

Filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor on locations in the world-famous resort, the picture co-stars Cesare Danova, William Demarest and Nicky Blair. It was directed by George Sidney.

'Vegas' Showing At Ritz

Elvis Presley and Ann-Margret are co-starring in this week's movie program at the Ritz Theatre when they appear in "Viva Las Vegas." Filmed on location at the famed resort, the movie opens Thursday and continues daily through next Wednesday. The picture brings Ann-Margret back where she started her career.

As an unknown singer named Ann-Margret Olson, the glamorous redhead made her first impact on the entertainment world as a songstress who appeared with a small combo at the Dunes in Las Vegas. She subsequently headlined with George Burns at the Sahara, dropping her surname in the billing. Jack Benny caught the act and signed Ann-Margret for her national television debut in "Pocketful of Miracles," another role in "State Fair" and her first starring role in "Dye By Birdie." In "Viva Las Vegas," Ann-Margret sings and dances in eye-filling production numbers with Presley. Filmed in Panavision and color, the picture was directed by George Sidney.

Cinema: 'Bedtime Story'

David Niven has lost none of his boyish enthusiasm. With each new role he gets as excited as if it were his first venture before the cameras.

His present co-starring stint with Marion Brando and Shirley Jones in Universal's "Bedtime Story," is no exception. The color film is now at the Cinema in Seminole Plaza.

"It's such a wonderful assignment," he assesses. "I find myself straining at the leash each morning in sheer anticipation of getting to the studio to go to work."

Niven's role in the romantic comedy is that of a glib confidence artist who prowls the French Riviera in search of wealthy widows looking for love. He aims to please, but solely for monetary reasons, preferring to keep his bachelorhood inviolate.

The film is Niven's first time teaming with Brando, whom he considers one of the world's foremost actors, and the two work so well together in their comedy scenes that Universal is already looking for another vehicle suited for their combined talents.

The picture is Niven's first Hollywood role in three years. In the interim he has made seven films in as many different countries. Niven, whose permanent home is on the continent, emphasizes that he makes no special effort to concentrate on a way - from - Hollywood picture, but that he goes wherever he happens to find a good script.

Everyone will be celebrating the Fourth of July Independence Day Saturday, with the observation extended over a two, three or four day period, depending on where you work, and how many days you are allowed off.

However, and wherever you do it, drive carefully, be on the alert and don't "win the battle but lose the war."

Perhaps you just plan to stick around the house, cook out in the backyard and sit by the pool.

But if you want to get out and have some fun, there are lots of good places to go for dining, dancing and enjoying your favorite beverages.

Saturday night, which happens to be the Fourth, is always a steak night at the Tradewinds Cafeteria. They'll prepare it to your taste and serve it in the cool pleasant atmosphere. Lots of other fine foods, and all at moderate prices that the whole family can afford.

The Capri is booked up solid for tonight with a big private Navy party. But they will be open for regular business at 4 p. m. Saturday, just in time for a few cool ones before dinner.

If you feel like trying something different this weekend, why not give square dancing a try? The McGregor Ranch sponsors a big square dance every Saturday night at 8 p. m. for the Volusia Square Dance Club. You're invited too. It's about two miles south of DeLand on McGregor Rd.

Celebrating the Fourth has started early for some folks, the girls at the Caribe told us when we called yesterday.

Unfortunately there will not be a band this weekend, but the juke box will be free. And your favorite drinks and beverages are always available, along with delicious food served from Rose and Wilk's Restaurant next door.

Spencer's will be serving

Also for your enjoyment he offers dancing after 9:30 Friday and Saturday evening to the music of the Holidays of Orlando. The Mar Lou is air-conditioned, of course.

Laura Stephens and her staff invite you to enjoy the 4th in the friendly, air-conditioned comfort of George's Tavern. All your favorite beverages and mixes are available in the package store and the bar so come in for a relaxing 4th.

Rex Liquor Mart of Values offers a wide variety of wines, cordials, beers, liquors... at prices you like... plus Plaid Stamps. Free delivery is another service at Rex Liquors.

For Italian food at its best you must visit Jean's Spaghetti House in Orange City. Jean and Rocco Moraglio have long been famous for their wonderful foods, served promptly and courteously in their air-conditioned dining rooms with candlelight, wine or beer... what could be better for a Holiday week-end?

PRINCE SHAMSHER, Singh of Nabha, elder brother of one of Sanford's most distinguished citizens, Princess Vijaya, (Mrs. William Boutwell) was a weekend visitor in our fair city.

The handsome black-bearded prince is a big man, well over six feet tall with a muscular build. He created quite a stir in Roumillat's drugstore

PRINCESS VIJAYA

Sunday morning, where the Princess took him to make a few purchases.

Visiting in the United States for the first time, the Prince was enchanted with Sanford and with all he has seen so far of this country. He left Sunday to tour more of the U. S., including stops at Disneyland, the World's Fair and New York City, then on to London, Paris, Rome, West Berlin and Cairo. He arrived last week in Washington, D.C. This is his first major visit out of India and he is enjoying every minute of it, trying to absorb all the strange sights, sounds, and impressions in about three weeks.

Prince Shamsheer speaks flawless English, with a bit of a British accent. He is 30 years old, a bachelor, and holds a master's degree in economics from the University of Lucknow.

He is an ardent and accomplished sportsman, holding many gold medals, silver cups and trophies for a variety of sports including boat racing, shooting, tennis, riding, cricket, hockey and rowing.

While in Sanford, he watched part of a baseball game between Detroit and the Yankees on television, finding it interesting and a little puzzling.

Your reporter was honored to have lunch, Sunday, with the Prince and the Princess, and the rest of the Boutwells. Hostess for the Southern style luncheon, (with fried chicken and cornbread) was Ruth Boutwell.

The Prince asked us as many questions as we asked him so the whole visit turned into a question and answer period, with both of us learning many things, and making many comparisons with Indian and American customs, food, dress, sports, politics, weather. (For instance, at the June 12 wedding of a younger brother the thermometer hit 120 degrees! And this is not unusual for this time of year in that part of India.)

However, the Prince said that in the distance you can see snow on the tops of the mountains, while the temperatures soar out of the top of the mercury down on the plains.

The turban the Prince wore is a mark of his station and in itself it is a tradition. It is made of muslin, and must be wound and unwound in prescribed fashion each time it is put on or taken off. A bit of red from a cap underneath peeps out over the forehead, just for the contrast. The turbans are many and varied to suit the occasion or dress, mostly in pastel colors.

We asked the Princess where she and the Prince learned their superb command of the English language, to which she replied, "Oh, from our earliest childhood, our tutors taught us English—we have it all our lives."

During his three week visit, the Prince will travel widely to familiarize himself with the people and the way of life in the U. S.

The object of his visit is to promote and strengthen interrelations through understanding and friendship between India and the U. S.

"This friendship could insure the peaceful progress of democracy in the largest democratic country in Asia," said Prince Shamsheer.

Hint to the Story League: If you want to have a poetry session get Ken Wacker of Winter Park to come up and talk to your group. He spouts poetry (particularly Edgar Guest) like he wrote it himself.

Ken is a former Sanfordite, now in the insurance business in Winter Park. Handsome, too, and loves to have a chance to get up on the speaker's platform.

TWO THINGS you mustn't forget to do Saturday, which is the Fourth of July, and the birthday of the nation:

Put out your flag and ring the freedom bells. If you don't have a bell, blow a whistle or honk your horn. For three minutes — starting at 1 p.m.

That way you will be joining with the city, county and all other people of the whole nation in three minutes of patriotic observation and some good old-fashioned flag-waving.

CHOICEST BOO-BOO we've heard lately was at the recent Civitan installation.

Master of ceremonies, Ham Polk, had called magnificently through the entire program of formalities at the banquet.

Winding up for a glorious climax of Civitan ceremonies Ham in his most dignified manner said,

"And now, if you will turn

to the back page of your program, we will all stand and read the Jaycee creed!"

Needless to say, all dignity and formality was lost in the explosion of laughter that followed, and poor old Ham just stood there and got smaller and smaller!

LUCILLE KING, ninth grader who attended Sanford schools from the first grade until last fall, has completed the ninth grade at Beeville (Texas) High School with the highest scholastic average in the school, 98.5. Lois Heckenback called to tell us.

This bright young lady is the daughter of a Navy couple, Mr. and Mrs. Rex King, who formerly lived in Sanford at 2411 Key Ave.

Along with her top scores Lucille won three outstanding awards — for algebra, home economics and biology.

We thought the friends, neighbors and former teachers of Lucille might be interested in hearing that she continues her fine scholastic record.

Miss Judy Herron, Delbert Fisher Exchange Vows With Home Ceremony

Miss Judith Rae Herron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Herron, of Sanford, and Delbert Curtis Fisher, son of Mrs. Creta Borsody of Sacramento, Calif., were united in holy matrimony on June 28, at 8 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, 2410 Palm-tet to Ave.

Rev. John Hires, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church, performed the impressive candlelight and double ring ceremony before the altar built in front of the fireplace with magnolia leaves used as the background. A triangle arrangement of white mums, glads and roses adorned the mantle with two standing wrought iron seven branched candelabra at the sides. White arrangements and candles were placed at vantage points throughout the living room.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a pastel blue crepe ensemble with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Her head piece was a short veil attached to a blue flower.

Miss Barbara Colbert attended the bride as maid of honor and she was gowned in a pale yellow summer crepe dress with matching accessories and wearing a yellow corsage.

Lane Norman served the groom as best man.

Following the wedding, Mrs. Charles Meeks capably arranged a lovely reception in the dining room, using a pink and white color scheme. A sheer lace cloth covered the table, which was centered with a wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom. Sparkling pink punch was served from a crystal punch bowl with silver compotes containing toasted nuts and dainty bon bons. Pink candles glowed from antique silver candelabra.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Nadine Colbert, Mrs. John Todd, Mrs. Glen Goebel, Mrs. C. A. Inghram, Mrs. J. M. Leonard, Miss Marilyn Morganstern and Miss Jamie Bostick.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher departed for a wedding trip to the east coast, en route to their new residence in Baltimore, Md.

Snacks were served during the afternoon and ice cream and birthday cake topped off the supper. The cake was decorated with an artificial orchid.

Guests included Juan Repasz, Annette Repasz, Bonny Terrell, Beth Viner, Pat Harville, Kathleen Pike, Melenda Casselberry and Jimmy Terrell.

TV Time Previews

7:30-8:30 p.m. Wide World of Sports. ABC begins its exclusive coverage of the 1964 U. S. Summer Olympic trials with this hour devoted to the track and field trials from Downing Stadium, Randall's Island, N. Y. Jim McKay, Bill Flemming and Dick Bank are in charge of the interviews and commentary. Participants will include several winners and champions from previous years.

7:30-8:30 p.m. CBS. The Great Adventure. "The Colonel from Connecticut." (Rerun) Interesting story of this country's first oil well, drilled in a small Pennsylvania town in 1838. A moneyed syndicate, learning oil has a use far more profitable than just as a medicine, sends a field explorer to the town to devise a way to increase the oil flow. He digs down, but this plan almost drowns the diggers, and he tries a drilling idea that proves an innovation. Richard Kiley stars as the field executive, with Maggie McNamara as his wife. In a colorful role as a helpful townsmen is Wallace Ford.

7:30-8:30 p.m. NBC. International Showtime. "The Wonderful, Wonderful Copenhagen Circus." (Rerun) Another visit to Copenhagen's internationally renowned Circus Schumann, highlighted by the performance of equestrienne Pauline Schumann. An assemblage of acrobats, acrobats and clown rounds out the show and, if you're always wanted to learn how to walk on your fingertips, you may pick up a few pointers from the great Rolando.

8:30-9:30 p.m. CBS. Route 66. "Two on the House." (Rerun) Some fair action and mystery here as our two heroes (Martin Miller and George Maharis) try to figure out who would want to kill an innocent little boy (Brad Herrman). Working as deadheads on an excursion boat, Tod and Gus save the lad when he falls, or is pushed, overboard. Then the child disappears and our heroes get on the trail to a surprise climax. Very good as the lad's father is Ralph Meeker and you'll like Henry Jones as the boat captain. The show was filmed in Cleveland.

8:30-9:30 p.m. NBC. Bob Hope Presents. "Meal Ticket." (Color) (Rerun) Hardly an original idea for a sports year, but it is well done. A father, disillusioned with one son's failure as a prize fighter, trains his younger ill-equipped son as a replacement. When the story and dialogue tend to slow down, the acting carries the ball. Cliff Robertson is impressive as the has-been fighter, Chris Robinson is good as the kid brother. Broderick Crawford gives a strong performance as the driven father and Justice Rule slinks around effectively as the camp tramp. An interesting hour, all the more so because it's a Budd Schulberg (he wrote "What Makes Sammy Run?") original story for TV.

8:30-9:30 p.m. NBC. Law. "Who Killed Purdy Mather?" (Rerun) If that title suggests this episode may turn into a witch hunt, that's pretty close. It's a far-fetched story, but kind of fun. The suspects aren't as pulchritudinous as usual, but there are some interesting contributions by Richard Kiley stars as the field executive, with Maggie McNamara as his wife. In a colorful role as a helpful townsmen is Wallace Ford.

TAKE IT EASY, FRIEND ... YOU MAY BE NEXT! DRIVE SAFELY AND WITH COURTESY

'Can't happen to you Don't you believe it! The next highway statistic may be you. It is estimated that this year over 49,000 persons will be killed or maimed from motor accidents in the United States. You and I and other citizens will pay billions of dollars in toll for this sacrifice. Do your part in preventing this slaughter. Remember these basic rules for highway safety:

- Obey traffic and road signs. They are for your protection!
- Keep your car in good mechanical shape. Maintenance pays!
- Never drive when below-par, over-tired, not alert.
- On vacation-trips, rest — stretch out every 2 hours.
- Anticipate, be on guard for other drivers' wrong moves.
- Keep both hands on the wheel, eyes faithfully on the road.
- Keep within the posted speed-limit. Remember, speed kills!
- Observe the "Golden Rule." Treat the other guy like yourself!
- Be especially watchful for youngsters darting into traffic.
- Never think you are "special." Taking chances is kid-stuff!
- The license to drive is a privilege, not a right. Honor it.
- Set a good example to your children and other young people.
- Install and use approved safety equipment at all times.
- Start your trip in plenty of time to avoid the big rush!
- Signal to other drivers, give them ample time to act.
- Remember, hand-signals give you a double margin of safety!
- Carry emergency warning flares and lighting equipment.
- Heed the tips of organizations such as National Safety Council, American Automobile Association and Insurance Companies.
- Plan to enjoy driving for a long, long time. Drive safely.

Enjoy The Fourth, But ---

Tomorrow is the Fourth of July — a time when patriotic Americans celebrate another anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Since that time, however, carelessness on the part of celebrants have cost thousands of times more lives than the war which followed the issuance of that document.

Here in Sanford and Seminole County the sale and use of fireworks has been outlawed, according to Police Chief Roy G. Williams and Sheriff J. L. Hooby. But swimming and other water sports are perfectly legal — as they should be.

There's not an ounce of harm in swimming and participating in other water activities such as boating, skiing, surfing and the like — as long as they are done with care.

This is no attempt on the part of The Herald's editorial writers to fill up space with an Independence Day piece about water safety.

Two years ago at this time the entire county was shocked when seven persons drowned — five of them as the result of an overloaded boat during a church picnic.

Chief Williams and Sheriff Hooby want everyone to have a good time celebrating the Fourth. Not only do they want the people, however, to be careful at the lakes and beaches and other picnic areas, but they also call for careful driving to and from the holiday activities.

The only difference between a water sport casualty and a traffic casualty is found on the statistical chart. One fatality is as dead as another.

Enjoy the Fourth as if you planned to be around on the fifth.

Thought For Today

And you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free.—John 8:32.

God offers to every mind its choice between truth and repose. Take which you please—you can never have both.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Switch Due In Detergents

Housewives will not be aware of any change, but within a matter of months they will begin switching from ABS to LAS.

In other words, they will begin using a different kind of detergent in their sinks and washing machines, one with the same cleaning power as before but which won't cause the foaming in some surface waters that has brought so much criticism against supersensitive detergent manufacturers.

For housewives who happen to have a degree in chemistry, it means that the familiar alkyl benzene sulfonates (ABS) with branched-chain hydrocarbons will be supplanted by the sodium salt of alkyl aryl sulfonate in which the alkyl group in the molecule is strung out in linear fashion (LAS).

It seems that it is the "kinks" in the hydrocarbon molecules that make ordinary detergents so resistant to biological breaking down. Straightening out the kinks produces a "soft," degradable detergent that is much more palatable to bacteria, without whose help man would soon be choked in his own wastes.

After more than a decade of research, the voluntary, industry-wide, multimillion-dollar conversion program is expected to be completed by the end of 1965.

Though detergent foaming is only one small, and essentially harmless, factor in the nation's water pollution problem, it is by far the most visible. The more serious matters of pollution remain to be solved—such as industrial wastes and simply keeping up with the ordinary by-products of our burgeoning cities.

Now that the foam is going to disappear, it is to be hoped that the rest of the pollution problem will not become a matter of out of sight, out of mind.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

CASE T-411: Milo G., aged 33, has just been elected president of his Service Men's Club.

"Dr. Crane," he confessed, "I am a very shy person. And I never had any courses in public speaking."

"Maybe a good Dale Carnegie course would have been my salvation, but I never took one."

"Yet I must start presiding at our very next meeting. But I get the shakes everytime I look at that microphone at the speaker's table."

"Can you give me a few psychological pointers to tide me over the first few meetings?"

Many orators also have had "mike fright" the first time they ever spoke over the radio. So don't let this disturb you unduly. Just shrug your shoulders and whisper to yourself:

"Far better orators than I am, have also suffered from stage fright."

For that is quite true. In fact, the greatest orator I have heard in my lifetime was William Jennings Bryan.

And he once said that if he ceased his speaking during the summer, he felt a return of stage fright when he started out lecturing in the autumn.

Yet he was the pro of all oratorical pros!

Another fault of beginners is to stoop over and put their mouth within an inch of the mike. Don't!

Never hide your mouth and the lower part of your face behind the microphone!

For the audience depends to a moderate degree on lip-reading, even though they are not deaf, so let them see your entire face.

The operator of the loud speaker system can easily turn up the power, even if you stand a foot or two away from the mike.

So push the mike down at least 6 inches below your chin, to let the audience see your face. Then forget it and keep your eyes on the audience.

In case a microphone is not available, teach yourself to talk LOUDLY.

And I mean LOUDLY, for the average novice thinks he is shouting when he talks in church or any other auditorium, yet he may hardly be audible even six rows back!

For a big hall absorbs and dampens your voice. Besides, if you have never done any public speaking before, you are accustomed only to a living room audience.

So if you double the power you normally employ at home you may think you are shouting; yet your choice dwindles away before it gets 20 feet out front!

If possible, test the auditorium in advance. Speak in it while it is empty and station your wife or a friend at the back. Then find out the volume needed for her to hear without cupping her hand behind her ear.

Even then beware, for a filled hall will dampen your voice far more than the empty auditorium, so always speak loudly enough for those in the rear pews to hear.

Use a word outline. Glance at it to be sure you cover all business items required. And if you make even a 5-minute talk yourself, employ the narrative formula.

So send for my booklet "Eurefing Public Speaking Formula," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

STORY THAT HAS NO ENDING

Bruce Bissat -- Ray Cromley

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many liberal-minded lawyers usually receptive to groundbreaking decisions of the Supreme Court are troubled at its newest sweeping reapportionment ruling.

The capital's legal fraternity is buzzing with puzzled comments over the court's June 16 decision that both houses of the various state legislatures must be apportioned strictly according to population figures.

It was predictable that conservative constitutional experts would disapprove the edict, since many hold with retired Justice Felix Frankfurter that state legislative reapportionment is a thicket the high court should have avoided.

Surprising, however, are the strong indications of concern among those who generally applaud almost any court advance into new fields.

One lawyer in this category says:

"There is a monumental quality of self-assurance about this decision which I find disturbing. It bears little relation to the Constitution or to the history of the United States."

This attorney says the Supreme Court evidently has been "beguiled by the kindergarten formula of 'one man, one vote.'" He sees this approach as "simple-minded" when set against the complexities of a varied, dynamic America in the 1960s.

In his view, good sense requires taking account not only of population but of geographic factors, historic boundaries and economic differences in the 50 states.

A prominent Ivy League professor of constitutional law, again a man generally in support of liberal court trends, joins the many in Washington who think the court went too far in its newest ruling. Says this expert:

"I have never seen why both houses of a legislature must be apportioned according to population alone. I am not satisfied that the 14th Amendment in its equal protection clause requires such absolute equalitarianism."

He believes the requirement of equality may be served well enough if just one house founds its apportionment on population.

In the professor's opinion, there is something to be said for a system which "fractionates" political power among various categories, rather than concentrates it in the hands of those who can muster the most numbers. Remember, this is a court liberal speaking.

What many lawyers find troubling is what they regard as a developing tendency of the Supreme Court to hand down decisions that approach "desired ends" but offer insufficient reasons to be persuasive, either with judges and lawyers or with ordinary citizens.

Effective persuasion is widely seen as a vital ingredient in the high court's important function of settling major controversies which might threaten a crisis in the nation's life.

Obviously, numerous constitutional liberals do not share the worry so many now are expressing over the 1964 reapportionment ruling.

Some of these liberals feel that the air over the decision is the inevitable accompaniment of a ground-breaking

Sister's Flight 'Painful,' Says Castro

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Wednesday night the defection of his sister, Juana, to Mexico was "very bitter and profoundly painful" to him.

It was Castro's first comment on the sister's flight from the island which she described as "an immense prison."

At a reception in the Canadian Embassy, Castro said Miss Castro's charges against the Cuban government were "edited in the United States Embassy in Mexico."

"They contain all the infamy which imperialism has conceived against the Cuban revolution," Castro said in a written statement.

Kennedy Wants Government Job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, despite his intention of resigning his present post after the November elections, plans to take another government position.

Kennedy, who returned here Wednesday night after a one week visit to West Germany and Poland, told a news conference in New York that he still had not accepted a specific job.

"I just don't know what I'm going to do," he said.

process, that the court is bound to outrage many — sometimes even some of its ardent friends — when it develops new concepts.

Says one of the "undisturbed": "No matter which way the court rules in so important a case, it is subject to criticism. Of course, this rule is jarring to many people. But time will take care of that."

NLRB Rule Bars Discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Labor Relations Board shattered precedent today by ruling that a union practicing racial discrimination is guilty of unfair labor practices under federal law.

The board, applying one of its strongest sanctions, revoked the certification of a pending union and ordered it to sign an anti-discrimination pledge governing future behavior.

This landmark ruling came in a case involving Hughes Tool Company's plant at Houston, Tex., and Local 1 and 2 of the Independent Metal Workers Union. The union is not affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

If upheld by the courts in the expected appeal, the decision could open the door to filing with the NLRB of many more complaints of racial discrimination by unions. One official said the agency might become a "little FEPC."

Dick West's The Lighter Side

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you have any urchin in the doll-playing or bike-riding age bracket, beware: There is a conspiracy afoot to undermine both your solvency and your sanity.

I stumbled upon the plot one evening this week when I dropped in on an exhibit of 1964 Christmas toys that Mattel, Inc. was previewing for dealers in this area.

The things I saw and heard that night made my blood run cold. They're ganging up on us, fellow parents, and there's no place to hide.

Let us assume, to snatch a figure out of thin air, that you have a young daughter who is costing you $100,000 a year for clothing. If your daughter is anything like mine, the money is allocated as follows: $40,000 for her and $60,000 for her Barbie dolls.

But ere another Yuletide rolls around that ratio, I fear, no longer will prevail. Next year's clothing budget likely will be something on the order of $40,000 for your daughter and $85,000 for Barbie.

Yes, friends, the Mattel people are bringing out an entire new wardrobe for Barbie and her friends. Shoes, dresses, hats, furs, wigs, accessories. The works.

Also a new line of Barbie furniture with a new and larger "dream home" to put it in. Plus six travel outfits. Plus six "little theater" costumes. And that isn't all.

Barbie now has a little sister named Skipper, who has a complete wardrobe of her own. Disaster impends unless you can persuade your daughter to open a nudist colony.

The plot against parents of young boys is even more diabolical. Many toy stores this Christmas will feature a new line of bicycles and tricycles called "V-R-o-o-m!"

These vehicles are equipped with a device that approximates the rear of a real motor. It endows even preschool children with some of the obnoxious qualities of hot-rodgers.

For those too young for tricycles, there are toys trucks with "V-Room!" Brings the sound of the Indianapolis Speedway right into the home.

And, worst of all, the devices will be available separately for installation on old bikes and trikes.

I wish I could say there was some way to keep your kids from finding out about these things. Apparently there isn't. The conspirators are employing the "saturation" technique to reach them.

Every Saturday morning for 13 weeks before Christmas, Barbie and "V-Room!"

commercially will be shown simultaneously on all three television networks. If that doesn't brainwash them, nothing will.

Phil Newsom Says

Mexico's Economy Grows

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst Most frequently remarked about Mexican presidential candidate Gustavo Diaz Ordaz is that he is running as if he might possibly lose.

The facts are that as of the moment last November when the Institutional Revolutionary party tapped him to succeed President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, his election was assured.

The P.R.I. has not lost an election in more than 30 years and has no opposition worthy of the name.

With an estimated 80 to 90 per cent of the votes already in his pocket, Diaz Ordaz for weeks has spent 14 hours a day on the campaign trail, beneath neon signs emblazoning his name, past roadside boulders on which his candidacy is scrawled, laying wreaths, making speeches, driving through showers of confetti to the din of exploding firecrackers and the flash of skyrockets.

Under the rule of the P.R.I., Mexico's has been called a guided democracy and the party itself a benevolent autocracy.

Whatever term may be applied to the party, complacency is not one of them.

Before 11 million Mexicans cast ballots this coming Sunday, it is expected that the 52-year-old Diaz Ordaz will have exposed himself to half of them.

For it also is a tenet of the P.R.I. that only by mingling with the people can their candidates know their problems.

Mexicans are fond of regarding themselves as still in a revolutionary state, although the revolution to which they refer occurred in 1911. And the P.R.I. itself now is more intent upon building institutions than revolutions.

The P.R.I. draws its strength from some 3.5 million peasants who have benefited from land reform, from white collar workers and labor, the whole covering a wide spectrum of political opinion.

Its policies generally are middle-road.

Mexico's economy has been described as the fastest moving in the Western Hemisphere.

From the summer of 1962 to September, 1963, its gross national product increased by 4.8 per cent, its agricultural production by more than 5 per cent and its manufacturing by more than 6 per cent. Its gold reserves had increased to $510 million, an all-time high.

U.S. business has a billion dollars invested there.

Under the Lopez Mateos regime, 30 million acres of land have been distributed to previously landless campesinos.

Industrially, the country is on the verge of full-scale automobile and truck production and expects within 10 years to reach an annual production of more than half a million vehicles annually. The new industry is expected to generate 16,000 new jobs and to infuse another $400 million into the economy.

Mexico has problems. It is running out of land to give the more than two million peasants still landless. Increased education brings more awareness of the disparity between rich and poor. But it is a country on the move and Diaz Ordaz is insurance of continued good relations with the United States.

WONDERFUL PRIVILEGE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is the storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan in to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We are proud of our freedom... whether it be freedom of speech, freedom of assembly (the eyes have it), freedom of the press, or freedom of religion. Of all these, we sing: "Let freedom ring!"

Freedom of religion is not the property of the clergy, but of all the people. Every schoolboy knows that the Constitution says so. It guarantees freedom of worship... freedom to honor God according to one's own conscience. It is a precious gift.

How you worship is your business! That you must worship, ah, that's God's business! Choose the church to honor God with your fellowman... thanking God for this wonderful privilege. For, so often in other lands, such worship is forbidden and outlawed. Sunday is His day! Make it your day!

See you made it safely through the Fourth. Congratulations.

The Herald set up a special picture for Friday's edition showing a youngster with a flag, fireworks and all the trappings. You may have seen it. The odd part about it was the effort made by Photographer Bill Vincent. He toured six downtown stores trying to find a small flag the boy could carry. None of the stores, he says, had any. Bill finally recruited one he had used years ago.

The cooperation of Seminole and Orange County sheriff's departments was graphically demonstrated Thursday night with the arrest of two men hauling hijacked liquor. Both departments, headed by Sheriff J. L. Hobby and Dave Starr cooperated to the fullest in staking out the site. It paid off with the arrest of two. Sheriff Hobby says a third man fled.

If you were bored on the Fourth it was probably your own doing. Many, many activities were on tap and they were designed to satisfy the needs of virtually all age groups. Each was well-attended.

The Sanford-Titusville canal project got a glowing report in this past issue of the Kiplinger Florida Letter. The letter, printed in Washington and distributed to exclusive clientele, told of the benefits the waterway will have for all interests in Central Florida and how it'll tie in with the Cross State Canal, now under construction.

This city's new parking lot filled up fast Friday and stayed that way throughout the day. Looks like it's taking hold quickly.

Your grass growing, too? These rains of late have made it sprout, eh? Well, cut down on the water bill but mowers are getting a good workout.

A horticulture buff called us Friday to inform us that bananas "grow on plants, not on trees." Mighty tall plants—some of them get up about 10 feet.

This ruins the song about the yellow bird "up high in banana tree." It doesn't rhyme any more.

The dictionary says that "there is no exact line of demarcation between a tree and a shrub. Some plants are capable of assuming either habit, such as a 'rose tree' or a 'banana tree'."

If our banana shrubs get the habit of being "trees" how are you going to break them of it?

Fellow we know has come up with an even more progressive design for a bathing suit. It's backless, frontless, topless and bottomless. "What is it... well, it's really a belt!" he admitted.

The State Road Department estimates a reduction of 5,000 vehicles a day on Hwy. 17-92 when Interstate 4 is opened. This is about one-fourth of the present count of more than 21,000 cars a day on SR 46 and Hwy. 17-92.

Don't forget to get your eyes checked with the new eye testing machine the Lions have purchased, at the big Fun Fair on the Fourth of July.

More Than 20,000 Jam Longwood Celebration

"MISS FLAME" OF 1964

Casselberry Beauty Named 'Miss Flame'

By Donna Estes
 Attendance at the Longwood Volunteer Fire Department's annual Fourth of July Fiesta exceeded last year's total of 20,000 persons according to Chief Claude Layo. Despite the poor attendance Thursday and Friday evening due to inclement weather the field was filled to capacity and both sides of the highway were lined with cars as far as the eye could see for Saturday night's gigantic fireworks display.

Actively on the Fourth began with a parade more than a mile in length with an estimated 75 entries. The Marine Color Guard, followed by the South Seminole Summer Recreation Band, led the parade. Nine area fire departments participated with entries in the Miss Flame contest riding their sponsoring department's truck.

Presented awards and ribbons were: best decorated float—Scott's garage, first; South Seminole VFW Post 8207, second and Casselberry Boy Scouts, third; best appearing volunteer fire department—Casselberry, first, Lake Mary second and Sanford Naval Air Station third; best decorated automobile—Longwood Area Chamber of Commerce first, Carl's Grocery Store, second and Adams Garage, third.

Janice Russell, Miss Flame of 1963, was named best individual girl participant and Michael Minnock, best boy participant. Other awards were given to Theresa Estes, Mrs. Margaret Cosby of North Orlando and The Ladies Auxiliary to the Longwood Volunteer Fire Department.

Judges were John Reams, Charlie Morrison and F. J. Zartmann.

Approximately 75 boys took part in the greased pig contest with Johnny Roberts catching the pig which he promptly sold for $5.

Valerie Scott of Longwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott, won the bicycle. A total of 73 donation prizes were awarded throughout the day.

The 17 inch portable television set grand prize for the event, was won by William Crump of Lake Mary.

Attendance at the Longwood Volunteer Fire Department's annual Fourth of July Fiesta exceeded last year's total of 20,000 persons according to Chief Claude Layo. Despite the poor attendance Thursday and Friday evening due to inclement weather the field was filled to capacity and both sides of the highway were lined with cars as far as the eye could see for Saturday night's gigantic fireworks display.

Actively on the Fourth began with a parade more than a mile in length with an estimated 75 entries. The Marine Color Guard, followed by the South Seminole Summer Recreation Band, led the parade. Nine area fire departments participated with entries in the Miss Flame contest riding their sponsoring department's truck.

Presented awards and ribbons were: best decorated float—Scott's garage, first; South Seminole VFW Post 8207, second and Casselberry Boy Scouts, third; best appearing volunteer fire department—Casselberry, first, Lake Mary second and Sanford Naval Air Station third; best decorated automobile—Longwood Area Chamber of Commerce first, Carl's Grocery Store, second and Adams Garage, third.

Janice Russell, Miss Flame of 1963, was named best individual girl participant and Michael Minnock, best boy participant. Other awards were given to Theresa Estes, Mrs. Margaret Cosby of North Orlando and The Ladies Auxiliary to the Longwood Volunteer Fire Department.

Judges were John Reams, Charlie Morrison and F. J. Zartmann.

Approximately 75 boys took part in the greased pig contest with Johnny Roberts catching the pig which he promptly sold for $5.

Valerie Scott of Longwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott, won the bicycle. A total of 73 donation prizes were awarded throughout the day.

The 17 inch portable television set grand prize for the event, was won by William Crump of Lake Mary.

Academy To Rebuild Burned Structure

Forest Lake Academy officials today began plans for rebuilding of the building which was gutted by fire Friday night. Damage is estimated at $175,000.

The blaze, believed to have been caused by lightning, started at 8:15 p.m. and raged for hours before being checked by firemen from throughout the area.

The building was unoccupied at the time. Only a few students remain at the academy during the summer to work at the school industries. These students were attending a meeting in Orlando.

The administration building involved in the blaze houses classrooms, laboratories, office, library, book store, assembly hall and music studios.

Firemen used water from the academy's 10,000 gallon reserve tank and then began pumping water from Mirror Lake across the highway. Many firefighters remained at the scene until 2 a.m. and standby crews were on duty throughout the rest of the night.

According to William Fuchs, principal, the building and contents were covered by insurance. Reconstruction will begin as quickly as possible, Fuchs added, stating that school will be ready in the fall.

WEATHER: Partly cloudy through Tuesday with scattered afternoon, evening showers; high today 90-95; low tonight in mid-70s.

Sanford Mayor Happy Over Attitude Here

By Julian Stenstrom
 The pleas of both federal and local authorities for a tolerant approach to the civil rights bill signed last week by President Johnson apparently has been heeded by citizens of Sanford and Seminole County.

Mayor A. L. Wilson of Sanford conferred with other local officials this morning and issued this statement:

"We are extremely pleased that the people of Sanford are taking the provisions of the new civil rights bill in stride and are remaining God-loving and law abiding, peaceful citizens.

"We have felt all along that our people were of this nature and we're happy that so far they have proved not only their ability but their willingness to adhere to what is now the law of the land."

He complimented both the white and the Negro communities for their tolerance.

The Sanford Police Department said this morning that there have been no incidents of any kind to mar the tranquility of the city. At the same time the Seminole County Sheriff's Department reported that there have been no racial difficulties of any kind called to their attention.

Chief Deputy James Singletary said that everything thus far has been quiet and, he added, "We trust it will remain that way."

Meanwhile, there have been unofficial reports that various establishments which serve food and beverages have been quietly integrated and without incident. Other establishments which have heretofore served white and Negro citizens on a segregated basis and which are said to be integrated now have reported no difficulties.

Lightning Hits Twice For Fireman

A cruel twist of fate hit George Reek, Longwood volunteer fireman, last Friday night when his home on Grace Boulevard caught fire from lightning while he and all other firemen and departments in the area were at Forest Lake Academy fighting the fire there which also resulted from lightning.

Neighbors, responding with equipment on hand, were able to save the greater part of Reek's home with portable fire extinguishers, however, damages to the kitchen alone were estimated at more than $1,000.

Florida Second In Personal Income Gain

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Nevada and Florida led the nation in April in gains in personal income of the family breadwinner.

April was the latest month for which state-by-state figures are available and figures released by business week information services showed every state shared in a strong, upward surge in personal income.

Average increase in the 50 states was 6.4 per cent above April of 1963, a significant rise over the 5.8 per cent year-to-year gain registered in March.

The April gains ranged from a low 2.3 per cent for West Virginia to a whopping 13.9 per cent for Nevada and 12.6 per cent for Florida.

The Florida increase puts the first four months of this year 11.1 per cent ahead of last year.

Castro Offer To U. S. Reported

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has offered to withdraw all from Latin American revolutionaries if the United States will stop abetting anti-Castro elements, the New York Times reported today.

The Times said Castro, in a three-day, 18-hour interview with correspondent Richard Eder in Havana, said he is willing to consider some international means to supervise such a joint commitment although he did not think this would be necessary.

Castro said a gesture of good faith "to avoid incidents," he would order the Cuban guards at the Guantanamo Naval Base pulled back to a distance of several hundred yards from the fence, the Times said. At present they are stationed only 50 yards away.

The paper quoted Castro as saying an early result of normalizing relations with the United States would be the release in Cuba of about 90 per cent of its political prisoners, which he estimated at "something under 15,000."
