The problem was compound ed when one area resident refused to deed the needed rightof-way to the county unless the trees on his property are untouched. cumpent Gov. Claude R. Kirk, Jr., and Jack Eckerd, successful drugstore executive, and vigorous rival for the Republican gubernatorial nomination have not fire into a somewhat listless Second Primary

Both the Democratic and the Republican parties are suffering through the pangs of "run-off" pri -maries. At the First Primary, neither party got out enough registered voters to produce a clean-cut victory for a gubernatorial standard-bearer.

Now, with the Second Primary to be held next Tuesday, it is the Republican party which has focussed in on the Kirk administration with such clarity that it is Kirk who appears to be THE issue, within and without the GOP.

We endorsed Eckerd as our choice for the Republicans to nominate as the best candidate who could restore good government to the state of Flori-A dat should the GOP be successful in the general elec-

We believe that events since the First Primary

Among these are the maturity of Mr. Eckerd in the political world, where he is showing himself as a quick learner and an effective doer. Right now the "run-off" primary necessitates the full attention of the registered voters, as the objective of the candidates' wooing. Thus when the Eckerd campaigners issued a tabloid claiming that the Republican party in Florida is broke, that Kirk had siphoned off for his own use in the federal excise tax on domestic airline tickets from 5 to 8 per cort. O.K. Paying larger taxes is a privilege that goes with supporting a larger government,

Truth In Taxation

But we think a taxpayer should be informed of the extent to which he is making such contributions. They should be expressed in percentage or money figures that are understandable. And there should be no subterfuge. Contrary to this, a provision of the Airport-Airways Development Act of 1970 prohibits travel agents and other ticket sellers from breaking down the basic air fare and the taxes on tickets, as was done formerly. Violation of this rule at the time of purchase or in advertising can get a licket seller a $100 fine for every violation. Congress should act to repeal or modify the "total price only" provision, since it clearly prevents travelers from knowing how much they are paying in fares and how much in taxes. If "truth in lending," why not "truth in taxing?" - Houston (Tex.) Chronicle

Advertising Power

A 70-year old advertisement for rubber horseshoes that recently appeared in an anniversary issue of Field & Stream magazine set off a small stampede for a product that hasn't been manufactured for half a century. Despite the progress in advertising art over the last 50 years, hundreds of readers failed to note that the ad was reprinted to illustrate what advertising used to be like. The magazine, though busy explaining to readers who want rubber horseshoes that they aren't available, at the same time must be delighted to be reassured of the power of vertising. - Macon (Ga.) # Spanish Recipe For Chicken

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Here comes a Spanish chicken dish, and it's good enough for company. Although it was concocled by an Andalusian who lives it Seville, it can be made most successfully in this country.

Andalusian cooks occasionally add green olives to a maincourse dish so it is not surprising that this recipe follows that pattern. Onions and mushrooms go into the dish, too, and it is garnished with crisp bacon. The sauce, thickened with eag yolks, is most delicious.

If you want to keep your of menn Spanish you might pre-menu Spanish, you might preface clive chicken with sazpacho- the soup for which Andalustan cuisine is famous. To accompany the chicken choose rice and a cooked vegetable.

For dessert you might serve a sponge-cake roll filled with cinnamon-flavored custand just as is done in Spain.

For cookbook buffs who want to delve further into Spainsh cooking, we recommend three interesting books: "The Classic Cooking of Spain" by Jeannette Aguilar (Holt, Rinehort and Winston); "The Spanish Cookbook" by Barbara Norman (Atheneum) and "The Art of Spanish Cooking" by Betty Wason (Doubleday).

Facing Teacher

School teacher, Mrs. Rose Anderson, was filed Wednesday in Circuit Court. The attractive blonde physical education instructor was charged with pessession of a narcotic drug and with possession of a hallucinogenic.

Mrs. Anderson was bound over from County Court to Circuit Court. Her arraignment (at which time her plea guilty or not guilty to the charge will be placed) is set for 9 a.m. Sept. 30 in Seminole County Circuit Court.

Meanwhile, she is free on $5,000 bail.

The information, filed by State Attorney Abbott Herring, charges that Mrs. Anderson did, in the vicini ty of 224 Carriage Hill Drive, Casselberry, knowingly and unlawfully have in her possession and control cannibus (hashish), contrary to Florida law.

Count two of the information states that she also had in her possession the hallucenogenic mescaline. Mrs. Anderson was arrested by the Casselberry police on Sept. 16. A cache of 500 mescaline tablets and a quantity of marijuana and hashish, valued at over $2,000, was reportedly found in her possession.

The Orange County teacher has since resigned her

(Editor's note: Herald reporter Marion Bethea's series of articles on Seminole schools has brought a tremendous response, majority from school teachers, Such as the following letter from a high school teacher. Of the hundreds of telephone calls and letters, there was only one negative response (which was published in last Monday's Herald). Final article in Mrs. Bethea's series will be published in Friday's Herald.)

> Your articles in The Herald have been very magnificent and thought-provoking. I would like to extend my sincere concretulations to you for the splendid editorial entitled "Patroitism Is Passe" on Sept. 16.

It was a perfect duplication of my sentiments. The Loss of prayers, disrespect for the flag, and indifference to development of patriotism for our country, disrespect for teachers as well as parents, lying, subterfuge, and stealing are all conducive to present-day riots, instability of character and wanton lawlessness.

During my period of high school teaching, discipline was a prime requisite. Also, between and in classes, unnecessary noise, loud talking or yelling in the halls was punishable by the principal. The pandemonium in teday's schools and waiting outdoors during free periods was non-

After serious thought, may I propose a solution t some of these problems. 1. Build more and smaller schools in every section or district of a county. Leave off the frills, stress the basics. Save thousands of dollars of tax money by omitting or not needing busing. 2. Require all parents to take a course in raising children before they are five years old preferably start-3. If schools get too small, have girls attend mornings, boys in afternoons. So much stress is placed today on teachers keeping up-to-date with modern math, science, etc. I'd much prefer drend today. Children are taught high school material before their minds are mature enough. Thanks for listen-
