Explosion under investigation

CASSELBERRY — Dennis Anderson, fire investigator for the Casselberry Fire Department spent most of today at the scene of Sunday afternoon's blast and subsequent fire that struck two stores at the Casselberry Square shopping center on State Road 436.

The fire was extinguished by area firefighters within several hours.

According to a report from Anderson's office, the exact cause of the explosion has not yet been determined. Anderson, along with Seminole County fire investigators are searching through the rubble of Kelly's Custom Parts and Accessories trying to determine the exact cause of the explosion which occurred shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday afternoon.

The store specializes in motorcycle parts and equipment.

The blast also caused damage to Rose Auto Store, adjoining the motorcycle business.

Paranormal phenomena phone

LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraskans who think they've seen ghosts, unidentified flying objects or other weird things have an answer when someone asks: "Who you gonna call?"

E.A. Kral — not to be confused with one of those "Ghostbusters" who posed that mystical question — is an English teacher interested in paranormal phenomena.

He started the Nebraska Scientific Claims Investigation telephone line three years ago with a $10,000 donation to the University of Nebraska Foundation in Lincoln.

"It seems to me it answers the question 'who do you call?' and it answers it in a responsible, professional manner. This is not a matter of reinforcing beliefs. It is a matter of trying to seek the truth," Kral said.

Explosion rocks church

CLIFTON, N.J. — An explosion Sunday rocked a church during an Easter service, blowing out windows, collapsing a portion of the floor and injuring at least four people, authorities said.

About 200 worshippers ran out of United Reform Church after the explosion tore a hole in a wall, police said.

Many of the church's windows were blown out and cars parked outside were showered with glass, police said. Part of the floor collapsed and pews fell into the basement below.

Four people were taken to a hospital with minor injuries, said police Lt. Richard Kemp.

The explosion occurred in the basement of a building attached to the church, said Fire Chief Walter De Groot. He said a gas leak was the apparent cause.

Sunrise service moved indoors

Rain or shine, worshipers go to church Easter

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Easter Sunday Sunrise church service was forced to move indoors to the First Baptist Church at 519 Park Avenue yesterday morning. While the sanctuary was not as crowded as had been hoped, attendance was relatively good considering the last minute change.

Originally scheduled to be held at Centennial Park at Fourth Street and Park Avenue, the weekend rain showers forced the service to be moved indoors. It had been hoped until just an hour earlier that the park site might still be able to be used, but light rain was again falling just prior to the 7 a.m. starting time.

The citywide service, sponsored by the Sanford Area Ministerial Association, consisted of a combination of various thought inspiring meditations by pastors of five Sanford area churches, and musical selections by members of the community as well as special vocalists.

Meditation talks were given by the Rev. Tom Tkachuk of the Congregational Christian Church, the Rev. Floyd Blake from First Baptist Church, the Rev. George Spransy from Sanford's First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Jim Cornell, assistant pastor of the First Baptist

Easter Sunrise Service worshipers were moved inside the Sanford First Baptist Church

Church, and the Rev. Elijah June of the West Sanford Free Will Holiness Church.

Special music included songs by Margaret Alloway, Sheri McNeely, and Joe Ponzillo who's magnificent voice inspired the congregation with "This Little Child" and "He's Alive". Easter hymn singing was led by Rev. Cornell accompanied by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith at the piano.

Lyman High students in the act at shuttle lift off Friday

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — When the space shuttle lifts off into space on Friday, April 5, Joe Laughlin's space and engineering technology classes at Lyman High School will have the opportunity to be a part of the action.

Laughlin, who recently earned his ham radio operators licence, will help the youngsters ask questions of the astronauts as they fly overhead.

"It's exciting," he said. "And the kids are starting to look forward to it too."

Three students and an alternate were chosen to attend the launch, which is scheduled for 9:20 a.m. on Friday, and to talk directly to the astronauts on the second day of the mission.

Jose Lopez, a junior; Jennifer McCarriek, a freshman and Sean Clifford, a senior were selected for the honor. Gary Davies, a junior, will be the alternate if one of the others is unable to participate.

"We've got a pass to get right out onto the grounds for the launch," Laughlin said. "We'll be taking a van out there early Friday morning."

Laughlin, who has been working in conjunction with the Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society (LMARS) on the project, said that the school had purchased the ham radio equipment last year for the class which emphasizes the practical applications of science.

"Basically, they can see what everything they study is used for," he noted.

In the recently completed unit about ham radios, Laughlin said the class was able to listen to conversations all over the world. He was able to conversations with amateur radio operators in the Soviet Union, England and New England.

The Lyman group was one of only 10 from across the nation who will have the opportunity to speak with the astronauts aboard the shuttle, all of whom are licensed ham radio operators.

They were chosen for the honor by officials at NASA and the American Radio Relay League based on a series of essays, prepared by Laughlin and members of LMARS, that explained what benefits the experience would have for the school.

"I guess they were impressed," he said.

The class will also experiment with using slow scan television during the mission. The process uses ham radio to project a video image on a special television.

"We won't do that while we're talking, but we'll try a couple of times during the mission," he said.

Laughlin said that while only three of the 140 students enrolled in the science class will be able to talk to the astronauts, the other students are excited about the program.

Sanford has Lotto winner

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — You could be $15 million richer today and that's no joke, even though it's April Fool's Day.

Officials with Florida Lottery in Tallahassee say no one has turned in the winning Lotto ticket sold in Sanford last week, the only ticket in the state with the six numbers drawn Saturday night — 28-29-34-37-42-44. Since there was no winning ticket sold during the week ending March 23, Saturday's ticket will be worth an estimated $15 million.

That comes to $750,000 a year for the next 20 years.

The ticket's winnings may become one of the largest in the county since the game was established 3 years ago. Seminole County's winner of the biggest jackpot was Sheelah Ryan of Winter Springs. On Sept. 3, 1988, Ryan won $55 million when her winning

SISTER speaks out against bus shelters

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford's SISTERhood has spoken. We don't want enclosed bus shelters with large advertising signs scarring our roadways.

They invite graffiti and then there is the, well, "relieving factor."

"People may want to relieve themselves behind those signs," says SISTER president Emy Gates Bill of Sanford. "I don't know of any other genteel way of putting it."

The 24-year organization wrote Fred Streeman, chairman of the Seminole County commission, and local newspapers recently urging the county to drop plans for the three-sided covered shelters sought for bus routes throughout the county. Under a design approved by the authority that operates the Tri-County Transit system, the plexiglas-sided shelters would bear two four-foot by six-foot advertising signs.

Seminole County commissioners considered a request in January to place the Tri-County Transit shelters in the unincorporated areas. County land management officials are in the process of drafting a proposed ordinance to restrict the locations where shelters can be placed.

Sanford and Lake Mary do not currently regulate shelters, although officials from both cities say shelter proposals would have to be considered by commissioners. Neither Sanford nor Lake Mary has

"People may want to relieve themselves behind those signs. I don't know of any other genteel way of putting it."

— Emy Gates Bill, SISTER president been requested to consider shelters, officials said.

Bill said the large advertising signs turn the shelters into a nuisance.

"Those signs are going to be four by six," Bill said. "That is really going to attract graffiti. That really doesn't conform to what we want to see in Sanford. Even though they say there would be no charge to taxpayers, if it is going to be ugly, it really doesn't matter even they are going to pay us."

Bill said the 35-member Sanford womens group recommends no-sided shelters that would protect waiting riders from rain and sun, but not obstruct any horizontal view.

"That would discourage people from relieving themselves behind something," Bill added.

End Castro regime, survey says

MIAMI — Most Cuban-Americans want more done to hasten the end of Fidel Castro's regime, says a new survey that indicated up to 57 percent favor a U.S. invasion of their homeland.

The Florida International University poll of 600 Cuban-Americans found 79 percent of those participating think Cuba will be rocked by major changes within the next five years. Of those who think there will be changes, 35 percent think the changes will occur within the next year.

But they were split on the kind of tactics that should be used. "I was surprised at the great diversity of opinion," said sociology professor Hugh Gladwin, one of the two investigators on the study.

"There was good support for moderate ideas and good support for the hard line. It indicates that people really want change and are willing to see the carrot and stick applied at the same time."

The tactics that were supported range from a U.S. invasion of Cuba (favored by 57 percent of those polled) to diplomatic negotiations aimed at encouraging Cuba to begin democratic reforms (supported by 59 percent).

Polo ponies face inevitable injuries

PALM BEACH — Polo is popular with the mounted, but players, polo officials and veterinarians agree that fatal injuries to horses are inevitable in the rush of the game.

"In this sport, there are collisions," said Peter Rizzo of Royal Palm Polo in Boca Raton. "It's a contact sport. It's inherent that horses will collide."

While thousands of fans gathered Sunday for the championship matches of two of polo's premier tournaments, people who dispose of animal carcasses were also standing by.

"I enjoy watching polo because it's exciting," said Margaret Ambrosine, who with her husband operates Loxahatchee Animal Disposal. "But it's rough on the horses. During polo season, we pick up a lot of polo horses that have been put down." Ms. Ambrosine said she disposed of nine horses that died of polo injuries in the last three months — the height of polo season, leading up to Sunday's World Cup at the Palm Beach Polo and Country Club in Wellington and the $100,000 International Cup at the Royal Palm Polo Sports Club in Boca Raton.

City is Finns' mecca this week

LAKE WORTH — This Palm Beach County city is a mecca this week for Finns and Finnish-Americans.

The Lake Worth-Lantana area, with an estimated 17,000 Finns who live there year-round, already has the largest concentration outside Finland, said former Lake Worth Mayor David Hinsa. Those numbers are swelling as the city readies to host the annual "Finnfest USA" for the first time.

"No vacancy" signs are already up in motels around the city. And three Finnair charters are expected to arrive early this week.

Aarne Aaltonen, editor of the Lantana-based American Uutiset, a Finnish-language newspaper, said the affair will be the biggest gathering of Finns ever held in North America.

"For an event like this, we'll have Finns from all the states," he said. "There are a lot of big events, but none this big."

Hinsa said the average family will spend more than $1,200 for lodging, food and entertainment.

Pekka Martikainen, owner of the Mecca Apartments on South Federal Highway, said 32 of 60 room reservations were cancelled in February, mainly because of the Gulf war, but even the cancelled rooms are now taken. One of his guests will be Meyo Jarmo Kolhi of Lappeenranta, Lake Worth's "sister city" in Finland.

Charges say pesticide caused sterility

WEST PALM BEACH — DBCP, a pesticide banned in the United States but still in use abroad, caused sterility in Costa Rican farm workers on banana plantations, lawsuits charge.

Sixty workers filed individual suits Friday in Palm Beach Circuit Court, claiming they were exposed to the pesticide while working for Standard Fruit Co.

Environmentalists charge DBCP has left as many as 2,000 men sterile at Standard Fruit Co. banana plantations in Costa Rica.

The suits charge four U.S. companies — Dow Chemical Co., Shell Oil Co., Occidental Chemical Corp. and Standard Fruit parent Castle and Cooke Inc. — supplied DBCP knowing it caused sterility and is a suspected carcinogen.

Castle and Cooke is the parent of both Standard Fruit and Dole Fresh Fruit Co. of Boca Raton.

Jack DeMent of Boca Raton, Dole's senior researcher and a defendant in the suits, was in charge of selecting Standard Fruit's pesticides for its banana plantations, charged attorney Charles Siegel, who represents the 60 workers.

DeMent declined to comment. "He personally made the decision as to what pesticides to use and what warnings to give or not to give to the workers," Siegel said. "The workers received no warnings."

Displaying the commemorative plaque is Larlyn Swanson, director of RSVP. Also recognized, Anthony Yakima, Winter Springs, contributed 1032 hours to the Sanford Police Department where he volunteers every day of the week.

Astronauts to walk in space again

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — The countdown is to begin Tuesday for a space shuttle mission that will have U.S. astronauts walking in space for the first time in more than five years.

If the countdown goes as planned, the space shuttle Atlantis should blast off for its five-day mission at 9:18 a.m. EST Friday.

Although the five-day flight is fairly short for a shuttle mission, it promises to be long on drama. Besides the space walk, the five-astronaut Atlantis crew will release the heaviest civilian spacecraft ever carried by a shuttle, an astronomical observatory weighing an astronomical 17 tons.

The monstrous $600-million Gamma Ray Observatory, or GRO, is the second of NASA's four so-called Great Observatories, a series intended to probe every kind of electromagnetic wavelength in the heavens. The first is the Hubble Space Telescope.

The GRO will be hoisted from Atlantis' cargo bay and set in a 279-mile-high orbit on the third day of the five-day flight. On the fourth day, astronauts Jay Apt and Jerry Ross will spend six hours in the shuttle's open bay testing tools and equipment for NASA's planned space station Freedom.

Senator works 250th job

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — A borrowed campaign gimmick helped lift Bob Graham from longshot to the governor's mansion. But as the now-senator prepares this week for his 250th "workday," he says working at nearly all manner of jobs transformed more than his political standing.

"The undiluted, unfiltered contact with the public has been terrifically valuable," Graham said. "It's made me a lot more confident and comfortable in all the situations. And it gives you a sense of having been there."

Graham will spend Tuesday pouring cement at a new bridge span connecting Tampa and St. Petersburg, figuring a work year at 50 weeks, five days a week, that job gives Graham fully a year working at jobs ranging from chicken plucker to truck driver to Navy enlisted man.

Sen. Bob Graham

Tuesday evening, Graham and past co-workers will gather at La Tropicana restaurant at Ybor City, where Graham spent a 1977 workday making sandwiches.

Graham traces the workdays to a 1974 hearing at Jacksonville Wolfson high school while he was on the state Senate education committee. As he listened to a litany of complaints, he was challenged to learn firsthand what school life was like.

That led to an 18-week stint helping teach a 12th-grade civics class in Carol City. Graham found "direct experience, as opposed to hearings," gave him better insight into problems he had to deal with in Tallahassee.

Graham planned his next political step to be the 1978 governor's race. During a 1976 meeting with Democratic political consultant Bob Squier, Graham mentioned his experience as a teacher, which spurred Squier to tell him about another client, Iowa congressman Tom Harkin.

Auto emissions test program stalls

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — An auto emission testing program for Florida's biggest and most polluted cities is beginning, but has hit a start-up snag — the testing equipment is ready but the repair program isn't.

Starting today, motorists were supposed to be able to get their cars fixed and retested at the same shop, eliminating a return trip to the inspection station.

But state officials say the testing equipment for repair shops won't be available until summer.

"It's another pain a lot of people will have to endure," said Bill Dodd of the American Automobile Association. "If this thing starts off on the wrong foot, we'll have a problem."

About 1 million Florida motorists will be subject to the exhaust tests in Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, Duval, Hillsborough and Pinellas counties because of their failure to meet federal air quality standards.

State officials estimate one in five cars will fail the test in the first year. Repairs costs statewide could hit $90 million.

The program will be launched Monday in all but Broward County, which has delayed the start by a month.

Dwight Davis, assistant chief of the state's Bureau of Emissions Control, said the state had to draw up new guidelines for the equipment, rather than relying on those from other states.

But the rules weren't approved until January, so the installation of equipment was delayed.

"We hoped we would be further along with this," Davis said.

All cars and light trucks built after 1974 must be tested before a motorist can renew tags. The fee for the initial inspection is $10.

Longwood commission agenda lengthy tonight

By NICK PFEIFAU, Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Tonight's City Commission meeting agenda is expected to be so complex and involve so much discussion that the meeting will get underway one hour earlier than normal, at 6 p.m.

Among items on a lengthy agenda tonight, are consideration of proposed changes in various ordinances that have previously been enacted, in order to modernize or update them to improve their intended purpose.

One of the ordinances deals with throwing or distributing unsolicited materials to private residences after objections to such situations have been made. After the original ordinance was passed last year, it became clear that the distribution or throwing of political materials onto personal property, had not been clearly defined because of the wording.

The suggested change, to be presented at tonight's meeting will add the words "political materials" to the original ordinance.

Another change concerns how the Deputy Mayor must be selected. According to City Administrator Don Terry, "Year's ago, Longwood citizens used to vote directly for the Mayor, but a referendum changed that, and the Mayor has been, since that time, selected by a vote from the members of the Commission."

Terry said that the problem in the change was that "they didn't clarify how the Deputy Mayor should be chosen." The present mayor, Gary Heffer, was selected at the first meeting following last year's city commission election, by drawing his name out of a hat.

During another suggested change to be discussed at tonight's meeting, the Commission will vote on who shall serve in that position by a vote of commission members, the same way in which the Mayor is chosen.

If the commissioners approve the change, the matter will be included in items to be placed on the ballot, for Longwood's Special Election set for Tuesday, July 9.

According to Terry, the main reason for the early start of what could end up to be a rather lengthy meeting is the continuation of a public hearing on the city's Comprehensive Plan and Future Land Use Plan. The total plan contains seven elements which are not only lengthy but will require considerable discussion. Terry said that because of the importance of the matter, "even though we are starting early, if it goes too long, I may request a continuance until our next meeting."

One rather uncommon item on the agenda for tonight's meeting is a request by Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning for $200 to be taken from the Confiscation Account, to pay for dental work that involved the installation of four crowns. A majority of the rather costly crown work was donated at no charge to the city. The crowns were to improve the biting teeth of Brutus, the Longwood K-9 dog.

Because of the lengthy agenda, tonight's Longwood City Commission meeting will begin one hour earlier than normal, at 6 p.m., at City Hall, 175 W. Warren Avenue.

In the air

Why is the Federal Aviation Administration always so slow in responding to safety concerns? FAA Administrator James Busey should be demanding answers to this question in view of the agency's delay in enforcing new rules to help passengers exit planes swiftly after accidents.

It has been more than a year since the FAA directed the airlines to establish better emergency evacuation procedures. But because the government has neglected to enforce this directive, many airlines have yet to change their procedures. And many carriers that have formulated plans have not yet told passengers about them, because the FAA failed to approve the revisions until just a few days ago.

What is going on here?

The aviation industry long has recognized the importance of evacuating passengers quickly from disabled planes. Studies show that passengers have only about 90 seconds to escape a burning aircraft. Hence the need for airlines to seat only able-bodied passengers by the emergency exits and to inform them that they may have to open the doors and assist others in getting off the plane.

Under the new FAA rules, the airlines are required to place cards at all seats near the exits explaining these responsibilities. Passengers unwilling or unable to assume such duties are to be seated elsewhere.

Nonetheless, it could be another three months before Northwest Airlines implements its new evacuation procedures. Ironically, on Dec. 3, 1990, two months after the new rules were supposed to have gone into effect, two Northwest jets collided on a runway at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and several passengers died while trying to get off one of the burning planes.

In February, a USAir Boeing 737 slammed into a commuter plane on a runway at Los Angeles International Airport. All but one of the 21 persons killed aboard the larger plane survived the impact but died while trying to escape the flaming wreckage.

There is no evidence that delays in implementing the new evacuation procedures are responsible for the loss of life in these two accidents. But the FAA's delays are inexcusable nevertheless.

When asked why it has taken over a year to enforce the new safety rules, an FAA spokesman cited technicalities and personnel shortages caused by the Persian Gulf crisis. Administrator Busey should not tolerate such lame excuses. Nor should the traveling public.

A giant of beauty

The billion-dollar price tag that has been placed on Walter H. Annenberg's collection of impressionist and post-impressionist art does not begin to describe the value of these sublime paintings nor of Annenberg's extraordinarily generous bequest of them recently to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

The collection, which has been on public view this year, touring the nation's largest museums, includes more than 50 of the finest works of Manet, Degas, Monet, Renoir, Toulouse-Lautrec, Cezanne, van Gogh, Seurat, Gauguin, Bonnard, Vuillard, Matisse, Picasso and Braque. That list of names alone suggests the dazzle of form and color that bursts from this exhibit and the astonishing historical completeness of the collection.

Curators around the country have praised it not just for its beauty, but for the lifetime of devoted and wise selecting that it represents. Many of the pieces, from crucial turning points in the artists' careers, provide insights into their art not previously available in any American museum.

The collector's own, perhaps more telling, assessment: "I love them with a passion." When he was offered a billion dollars for these paintings last year, he says he answered, "You are asking me to sell members of my family."

There's another family, too, that this wealthy publisher, former ambassador and confidant of Presidents Nixon and Reagan, has embraced with equally graceful magnanimity — the American public. Indeed the future generations of visitors to the Metropolitan Museum from all over the world. Not many, even among this country's wealthiest philanthropists, would have chosen to celebrate their own 83rd birthday by announcing such a gift.

Teacher's trial has wide implications

Few trials in recent memory were watched with as much horrified fascination as the Pamela Smart murder trial earlier this month in New Hampshire. And with good reason: There was murder, a large amount of insurance money at stake and a beautiful teacher who seduced a 15-year-old boy.

Since cameras are allowed in New Hampshire courtrooms, we were able to watch the progress of the trial each night on the news. And there was plenty to grab our attention: We saw video of William Flynn, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Greg Smart, sobbing through his chilling account of how he fell in love with his teacher and agreed to kill her husband. We also heard the teacher's 16-year-old intern testify about hearing the pair plot the murder. And we heard Smart's defense attorney accuse the boy of killing Greg Smart to get rid of his competition.

But the most disturbing part of the trial was Smart's emotionless testimony about withholding information from the police because she didn't want people to find out about her liaison with Flynn. She went on to say, "I didn't set out to have an affair with him, but I did. I had mixed emotions about it. ... I liked Bill, but I also loved Greg."

She "liked" Bill? She had "mixed emotions" about sleeping with a 15-year-old student? She talked about the affair as if it were no more serious than fudging a pop-quiz score for a good student who just had a bad day.

Unfortunately,

Pamela Smart's fling with a pubescent boy isn't as unusual as parents might hope. When I was in high school several students had affairs with teachers, and one teacher lost custody of her child when her husband filed for divorce. Years later, embarrassed adults whom I had known as teen-agers told me of having been accomplices for friends who wanted to keep their affairs secret from their parents.

When I taught

school in the 1970s, I became aware of several teachers who seduced students. And when I left the profession, other teachers continued to tell me similar stories. In one case, several girls went to an administrator and claimed that a teacher had fondled them and was sleeping with another girl. When the administrator confronted the girl, she admitted the affair but said she would deny it if he went any further with it. When the administrator went to the school board with the information, they refused to investigate. "They didn't want to acknowledge it, for fear it would leak out that it's been going on for several years and they didn't do anything about it," the frustrated administrator said.

I don't know if any of these teachers lost their teaching licenses because of their behavior. In most cases, I know they didn't. If this were the adult man or woman across the street who was having sex with a teen-ager, we'd be calling the proper authorities as soon as we could find a phone. I suspect the fact that we choose to look the other way has a lot to do with our concerns about casting the schools in an unfavorable light.

It's way past time we impressed upon all teachers that sex with children — any children, anywhere, any time — is a crime. It's also time we punished offenders accordingly.

Native lands stay in U.S. hands

WAIMEA, Hawaii — A 1921 federal law specifies that thousands of acres of land here are to be used as homesteads for native Hawaiians. But 70 years later, the property is instead being rented to one of the nation's largest commercial cattle ranches at an absurdly low rate.

A similarly scandalous situation exists throughout Hawaii, as thousands of descendants of the Polynesians who settled the islands centuries ago maintain a frustrating decades-long wait for access to their land. Although it has been officially designated as rightfully belonging to them, it remains under the control of others who have no legitimate claim to it.

As partial compensation to the natives for this country's 1898 annexation of their islands as a territory, the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act of 1921 set aside more than 200,000 acres of land as homestead lots to be leased to natives for 99 years.

Although the law requires that each tract is to be rented at the rate of $1 per year, they range in size from house lots as small as a quarter of an acre to parcels of several hundred acres supposedly suitable to grow crops or provide pasture for livestock.

But virtually all of Hawaii's choice agricultural land, held by wealthy owners of sugar and pineapple plantations when the law was passed, was excluded from a distribution plan that generally applied only to rocky, steep and parched terrain.

Moreover, the few prime tracts available generally have been withheld from the natives. On the island of Kauai, for example, one of the state's leading commercial sugar companies leases 14,558 acres of homestead land for only about $3.80 per acre per year.

Here on the "Big Island" of Hawaii, the Parker Ranch — a vast operation with 60,000 head of cattle — pays the same low rental fee for 32,845 acres of homestead land. A company with connections to an influential politician on the island of Maui leases 15,620 acres of homestead land there at a similar rate.

There has been no lack of hand-wringing about the situation. A report issued in 1938 by Congress' Joint Committee on Hawaii, for example, described the natives as "a landless people in the country of their forefathers."

In 1980, the U.S. Civil Rights Commission noted that the natives continued to endure "this historic loss of their homelands" because the law was being ignored. In the same year, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus charged that the law's intent had been "substantially frustrated" by the federal and state agencies responsible for implementing it.

In 1982, the Interior Department's inspector general produced a blistering critique of the statute's non-enforcement. In 1983, a joint federal-state task force concluded that "there is an urgent need and a clear responsibility" for officials at both levels of government to "fulfill the promises" of the law.

But the program remains stymied by political pressure, bureaucratic inertia, inadequate financing, discrepancies in land inventories, unlawful conveyances of land to ineligible recipients and countless other problems.

The Department of Hawaiian Home Lands, the state agency mandated to distribute the property, has awarded natives fewer than one-sixth of the originally designated homestead lands. Almost 20,000 people remain on its waiting list, some for more than a quarter of a century. Indeed, there are countless tales of people who have died while patiently waiting for a homestead.

The natives who are awarded leases, many of them poor, often are rejected when they apply for commercial loans to finance construction of homes on the tracts because they are renters rather than owners of the land and thus cannot use it for collateral. They are required, however, to pay prohibitively high real estate taxes.

Finally, the natives have compounded their problems by squabbling among themselves over eligibility to be awarded homestead property under a provision of the law that requires recipients to have at least 50 percent native blood.

Since 1921, the number of people who meet that standard has dwindled, primarily because of intermarriage. A referendum on changing the definition ended inconclusively last year.

There has been no lack of hand-wringing about the situation.

Turmoil remains in El Salvador

WASHINGTON — In the year that America celebrates the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights, the press finds itself under attack for the way it covered the Persian Gulf War. But in El Salvador, the price of reporting on the military and the government is higher than just a few angry letters to the editor.

The San Salvador office of the gutsy newspaper El Diario Latino was torched by an arsonist nearly two months ago. Now the undaunted employees are working in their burned-out building on borrowed typewriters while paper boys distribute copies using rickety public buses.

El Diario celebrated its 100th birthday last year with an employee buyout. The employees adopted an aggressive, independent reporting style publishing the kind of "balanced" stories that El Salvador's other newspapers won't touch. The circulation increased from 1,200 copies a day to 6,000.

The newspaper published in-depth articles by and about the Salvadoran military and the U.S.-backed National Republican Alliance, or ARENA, government. But it also provided extensive coverage of opposition movements. And it was the only paper in El Salvador brave enough to publish the full text of a U.S. congressional report detailing the Salvadoran military's role in the November 1989 murder of six Jesuit priests, and the subsequent cover-up.

In the polarized climate of El Salvador, even balanced news coverage can prove deadly. Employees soon began to receive death threats. They noticed suspicious vehicles with tinted windows parked near the newspaper office. Last August, the wife of El Diario's editor was shot to death by an unknown gunman. In September an employee was killed along with another journalist in a mysterious car crash. Then on Feb. 9, the office was set ablaze.

El Diario staffers immediately suspected rightist military elements in the government. An ARENA deputy accused the newspaper of staging "a self attack." Now government officials will only say they are investigating the arson. The newspaper employees say they have yet to see much progress made in that investigation.

In a Feb. 23 interview with a Mexico City wire service, the publisher of El Diario, Francisco Valencia, complained that unidentified men whom he suspected of being involved in the arson had been tailing him. Valencia is scheduled to be in New York on April 15 to receive the Freedom to Write award from PEN, the writers' and editors' society.

On the day of the fire, the ARENA government had placed its first paid advertisement in El Diario. But, for the most part, the conservative sectors in El Salvador have refused to buy ads and they view the paper as a leftist rag. The paper relies on ads from social movements, international contributions and street sales for 95 percent of its income. That doesn't amount to much and the average El Diario reporter makes only $127 a month.

But money is the least of their problems. "Of course, there is the possibility that we could be killed. There are people still interested in not having us around," one newspaper staffer told our associate Dean Boyd.

That hasn't stopped the staff from publishing. They resumed publication just two days after the fire.

"We'll continue forging ahead," one employee told us. "But it's a question of survival. We just try to get out objective news, and that's difficult enough."

Employees are working in their burned-out building.

A lot of memories will come down with walls

Aged middle school yields to progress

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The facility now known as Sanford Middle School, 1700 French Ave., Sanford, was once home to Sanford High School in the days before Seminole High School was constructed on Ridgewood Avenue, a few miles away.

The historic building, built in 1927, will be coming down at the end of the summer to reveal a modern facility that has been under construction behind the older building.

"A lot of memories will be coming down with that old building," said Dan Pelham, principal at Sanford Middle.

Pelham wants to make sure that those who feel the need have the chance to say farewell to the building that houses so many of those memories.

On June 1, there will be a celebration honoring the alma mater of the Celeryfeds.

Prior to the move to the new school facility, Sanford High School students called themselves the Celeryfeds in honor of the crop that put the city on the map in the late 19th and early 20th century.

"They will be able to come and say farewell to the building," said Pelham, who does not want to deny anyone the opportunity to see the building for the last time.

He said that Sanford High School graduates have stopped by Sanford Middle School from time to time over the past year to take photos or to simply walk through the halls of the building that will be coming down.

The cafeteria staff of Sanford Middle School will be hosting a spaghetti dinner from noon to 1:30 p.m. on June 1.

For $5, former students, teachers and friends of the school will have the opportunity to dine together in the school's new cafeteria facility.

Reservations for the dinner must be made in advance by May 1.

The money raised at the spaghetti dinner will be used to help purchase kitchen equipment for the new school.

Commemorative t-shirts will also be sold for $10 each. Orders for the t-shirts must be placed by May 1. A second chance to order the shirts will not be available.

"We're very excited about this celebration," Pelham said.

SISTER

the loss of the U.S. Navy at the airport that year, says founder Valerie Colbert of Sanford, now retired. "Everyone thought Sanford would just dry up and blow away," says Colbert. "We were a group of local businesswomen of the Business Professional Women's Club that wanted to do something to show it wouldn't."

Along with Colbert, the founders of SISTER were Margaret Ganas, Irene Lancy and the wife of a naval officer that has since left Sanford, Ruth O'Neill, Colbert said. Current members include civic activists Martha Yancey and Jean Fowler, Bill said.

And where did the name "Sarah" come from if none of the founders had that name?

"We just needed an 'S,'" said Colbert. "We knew we wanted

'SISTER' and we had 'Encourage Rejuvenation.' Any name would've done, really."

Colbert said the first SISTER project was a downtown Sanford scrubdown in 1968 where the fronts of buildings were scrubbed clean with the help of the Sanford Fire Department hoses. SISTER was also active in assuring the zoo remained in the Sanford area instead of moving to Orlando.

Lotto

numbers were selected. Lottery spokesman Ed George said the location of the winning ticket was sold can't be revealed until the winner steps forward. The location where the winning ticket was sold is used in verification of the winner, George said.

At least one of Sanford's 34 Lotto sales locations has their fingers crossed.

"There's been quite a few people wondering if it's us," said Marshall Waddle, owner of B&W Market on South Sanford Avenue. "We're going to be the ones that sold the winner, just you watch."

Waddle said the small neighborhood grocery sold about 8,000 tickets last week and is considered a lucky store for selling winners. Just six months ago, B&W sold a winning Fantasy Five ticket that paid $211,000, Waddle said.

"It generates business," Waddle said. "People think they can be lucky if they buy tickets here too."

Donna King, a clerk at the Circle K on West First Street, said customers have wanted to know if the winner has come forward yet. King said she hopes the winner bought their ticket at her store.

"It would be nice if they did," King said.

Bulgarian delegation mistaken for gypsies

Associated Press

ST. ANTHONY, Minn. — A Bulgarian delegation was ordered out of a grocery store after the manager who was worried about "gypsy-looking" shoplifters mistook the group for gypsies.

The diplomats and journalists visiting the Twin Cities as part of a U.S. Information Agency tour were forced to leave the Apache New Market on Friday, said Dana Penoff, a U.S. State Department interpreter escorting them.

"They just wanted to see what a neighborhood shopping center was like," Penoff said. "Almost immediately after we walked in, we heard this announcement that there was a suspicious group, that every shopper should be alert. It turned out that every one of us was being followed and watched."

Penoff said she would talk today to state officials about filing a human-rights complaint over the incident.

She said she tried to tell store owner-manager Vern Berggren the Bulgarians were guests of the United States.

"He said, 'Put everything down and leave. We don't want your kind of people in this store,'" she said.

Delegation member Elena Poptodorova said she told Berggren, "I'm a member of parliament, I have my credentials with me, so would you please explain why you are behaving like that to me?"

Berggren said he was concerned after hearing reports that bands of roving thieves struck stores in Minnesota and Wisconsin on March 24.

Law enforcement officials used the term "gypsies" when comparing notes about the shoplifting incidents last week. They said groups including men, women and children who spoke a foreign language distracted store clerks while others stole.

"The description was either eastern or gypsy-looking type people and when they spoke they spoke with a foreign accent," Berggren said. "They fit the description."

But Penoff said such a mistake was incredible.

Correction

On page 5B Sunday, two pictures were reversed resulting in the caption being incorrect. The photograph of Jean Metts, should have been on the right, and her daughter, Tawana Metts, on the left.

The Herald regrets the error.

Deaths elsewhere

David Wardlaw Morrah, Jr.

GREENSBORO, N.C. — David Wardlaw Morrah Jr., known for his humorous articles and cartoons in the Saturday Evening Post from 1946 to 1962, died Friday at age 77.

Best known for his "mock-German" style, he wrote for Collier's, Look and American Magazine as well as the Saturday Evening Post. Morrah's parody of "A Visit from St. Nicholas" was read annually on Arthur Godfrey's radio show.

He also wrote nine books, fiction and non-fiction. Morrah is survived by his wife, Patricia, and daughter, Elizabeth.

Samuel Joseph Powers

Samuel Joseph Powers, a White House attorney who found the infamous 18-minute gap on President Nixon's Watergate tapes, died Friday at age 73.

Serving on Nixon's legal staff during the Watergate hearings, Powers and White House counselor Leonard Garment discovered the 18-minute gap that contributed to Nixon's decision to resign in 1974.

The tape gap fueled allegations of a high-level cover-up.

Rescuers map out strategy to free injured spelunker trapped in cave

Associated Press

CARLSBAD, N.M. — A woman who broke her leg exploring a cave was trapped 900 feet underground today, and authorities said it could be two days before rescuers can get her out.

Emily Davis Mobley, 40, of Schenectady, N.Y., was trapped in a remote section of Lechugilla Cave early Sunday when a falling rock broke her leg, said Bob Crisman, a management assistant for Carlsbad Caverns National Park. The park contains the largest known caverns in the world.

Crisman said a doctor was staying in the cave with Mobley and that she was in pain but otherwise in good condition.

At least 60 people were expected to participate in rescue efforts today, including two members of a special cave rescue team from Tennessee.

But Chattanooga-Hamilton County Rescue Squad Chief Mike Geeslin said it could take days to get Mobley out.

"This could easily turn into a multiday operation," he said. "It depends on if it is a broken upper or lower leg. But it will be a minimum of 48 hours."

Mobley's husband, Bill, said his wife has about 20 years experience as a spelunker or amateur cave explorer. She is an experienced cave rescuer herself, he said.

Spelunkers often embark on expeditions in Lechugilla, the deepest cave in the United States and the fourth longest in the nation.

The cave, known to be 54.3 miles long and 1,565 feet deep, is not open to the general public.

Bill Mobley said his wife had been in the cave since Saturday with about five other members of a mapping expedition party.

Dr. Steve Mossberg, a physician from Parkersburg, W.Va., who was one of those exploring the cave, remained behind with her, officials said.

apparently did not know where the sunrise service would be held in case of weather problems. "I saw a number of people walking around the park," he said, "and we tried to get someone over there to tell them we were holding it indoors at the First Baptist Church."

According to Tkachuk, approximately $150 was received in Sunday morning's offering.

That money will be combined with the $90 received during Good Friday services at the First United Methodist Church for donation to a local agency. Last year's combined offerings were donated to the Outreach Rescue Mission of Sanford. The Rev. S. Edward Johnson, pastor of the First Christian Church, who is president of the Ministerial Association, said the decision as to what organization will receive this year's donations, will be made during the next association meeting to be held in approximately two weeks.

Regular Easter morning church services throughout the Sanford area were extremely well attended according to a number of reports. The First Presbyterian Church attendance was said to be 241, considerably more than the normal Sunday service.

Former child star arrested

Associated Press

PHOENIX — Disc jockey Danny Bonaduce, better known as Danny Partridge of television's "The Partridge Family," was arrested this weekend on charges of beating and robbing what police called a transvestite prostitute.

Police arrested Bonaduce early Sunday after officers found him hiding in a closet in his downtown Phoenix apartment, said police spokesman Sgt. Kevin Robinson.

He said Bonaduce, 31, is expected to face three felony charges.

Bonaduce said the police ac-

I'm beat to hell.

count of the incident is not what happened, but declined to elaborate.

Bonaduce allegedly contacted the prostitute at an intersection near his home. Nearby residents called police after hearing screams, Robinson said.

An arriving officer saw Bonaduce drive off, and he and other officers and a police helicopter pursued him to the apartment complex, the spokesman said.

Robinson said Bonaduce's wife, Gretchen, was at the apartment and let police in. The former child star was arrested and booked for investigation of felony flight, aggravated assault and strong-arm robbery.

Bonaduce contended that the police roughed him up and told a reporter, "I'm beat to hell."

Robinson said the victim was treated at the scene for a broken nose and a cut on the face.

Bonaduce pleaded no contest in Daytona Beach, Fla., in March 1990 to charges of attempting to buy cocaine. He was sentenced to 15 months' probation and community service.

IN BRIEF

TENNIS

Appel victorious

MIAMI — Jason Appel rolled over 16th-seed Adam Baron, 6-0, 7-5, to win the boys' 16s title. Appel, the fourth seed from Lake Mary, was tied 5-5 in the second set after powerful backhands by Baron, of Plantation, but he held for 6-5 and broke Baron at 15 for the match.

"It sets up the whole year going into this summer's national tournaments," said Appel, a 15-year-old sophomore at Lake Mary. "It makes me want to work harder."

Igwebuike trial opens

TAMPA — Minnesota Vikings place-kicker Donald Igwebuike will go on trial this week in federal court to face charges that he and two other men tried to smuggle heroin into Florida from Nigeria.

Igwebuike, 31, faces up to 120 years in prison and $6 million in fines if convicted of allegations contained in a Nov. 6 indictment that also accused Maduwauba Ihekwe and Ibezim Oledu of involvement in an alleged scheme to import 296 grams of the drug.

Oledu, of Bridgeport, Conn., pleaded guilty on March 22 and has agreed to testify at Igwebuike's trial. Jury selection is scheduled to begin Monday before U.S. District Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich.

Igwebuike, one of the most consistent place-kickers in the NFL, was linked to the case after Customs agents searched Ihekwe at Orlando International Airport and found him to be carrying several packets of heroin.

Prosecutors contend Ihekwe, a taxi driver and substitute teacher in Tampa, swallowed drugs before boarding a flight and allegedly passed more packets of heroin during a three-day stay in an Orlando hospital.

Igwebuike spent five years with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and is the club's all-time leading scorer with 416 points. Despite his success and popularity with fans, he was released prior to last season.

Minnesota claimed Igwebuike on waivers and he made 14 of 16 field goals for the team before the indictment sidetracked him for the rest of the season.

FSU's streak ends

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Jeff Hockstra's three-run homer keyed a five-run inning as Memphis State edged Florida State, 8-7, Sunday for a Metro Conference victory, ending the Seminoles' 22-game winning streak.

Memphis State (20-10, 2-4) pumped out to a 8-0 lead going into the third inning when Florida State (32-4, 5-1) rallied against starter Jason McCommon with six runs.

Ty Mueller's grand slam homer highlighted the inning before Jarrod Kilpatrick (1-1) came in and allowed only one more run in picking up the victory. Dave Moss earned his sixth save to tie a Memphis State record set by David Byrd in 1986.

The losing pitcher was Jimmy Lewis (7-2).

Florida wins again

GAINESVILLE — Kevin Polcovich hit 3-for-4 Sunday, leading Florida to a 7-2 victory over Ole Miss and the sixth straight win for the Gators.

It was the first time that Florida (22-12, 6-2) had swept a Southeastern Conference series since 1989, when Florida took three from Vanderbilt.

Freshman Matt Valdes (5-2) pitched his third complete game of the year by limiting Ole Miss (16-14, 1-8) to two runs on six hits.

The Gators broke open a 1-1 game in the bottom of the sixth inning by scoring three runs on an infield single, passed ball and wild pitch. Polcovich had his seventh three-hit game this season and Jimmy Bell broke out of an 0-for-11 slump with a double and triple.

Grant Sullivan (2-1) took the loss for Ole Miss.

PRO BASKETBALL

Rockets bounce Heat

MIAMI — Buck Johnson scored a career high 32 points and Otis Thorpe had 23 Sunday night as the Houston Rockets finished Match with a 111-103 record and a 123-103 victory over Miami.

The Rockets set a club record for wins in a month and achieved the best one-month record in the NBA this season. Their only loss came Saturday night, a 114-82 defeat in Orlando.

Houston put the game out of reach in the third quarter, outscoring Miami 41-19, with Johnson and Thorpe each scoring 12 points and Sleepy Floyd adding eight assists.

Glen Rice was the Heat's leading scorer with 16 points.

Qualifying matches wrap up today while first round opens at Heathrow

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

HEATHROW — All things considered, it's amazing that the Prudential Securities Tennis Classic at the Heathrow Tennis Club isn't further behind.

While play in the main draw wasn't scheduled to begin until noon today, there was a qualifying tournament this Saturday and Sunday to determine the final spots in the singles and doubles fields. But rains that fell on the area this weekend left the tournament seven matches short of completion.

Qualifying tournaments are mandatory at all ATP events. According to tournament director Rich Adler, that gives more players a chance at participating in the main event and, in the process, work their way up the rankings.

In the singles half of the Classic, there are four qualifying matches left to be played. They were to be played this morning starting at 10 a.m., the winners earning berths in the main draw.

There are three matches left to be played in the doubles qualifying tournament. At noon, Doug Flach and Diego Nargiso will play Mark Keil and John Sobel on the grandstand court while Alexis Hombreeher and Malival Washington will play Royce Deppe and Brent Haygarth on court No. 1.

The winners of the two matches will meet in the third and final match scheduled for the grandstand court this afternoon. The winner of that match will then move on to the 16-team doubles main draw.

On center court, Bart Wuyts and Patrick Baur will begin play in the singles main draw at noon. Following that match will be Thomas Hogstedt taking on Johan Anderson. The final match on the afternoon session on center court will be a first round doubles match pitting Jeff Brown and Derrick Rostagno against Brian Garrow and Brad Pearce.

On the grandstand court, following the contest between Flach/Nargiso and Keil/Sobel will be a first round doubles match. Steve DeVries and David MacPherson facing Bruce Derlin and David Engel. The final round of the doubles qualifying tournament will cap action on the grandstand court.

This evening's session, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., features some of the tournament's top attractions. For starters, Scott Davis and David Pate — the No. 1-ranked doubles team in the world as well as the defending Classic champions — will play Nicholas Pietrangola and Pete Sampras, a wild card entry in the doubles tournament.

Tonight's singles match will also feature a pair of wild card entries as Tim Mayotte takes on Jacksonville's David Whit. Mayotte is currently working on a comeback while Whit is the country's top-rated 18-and-under player.

Tickets for this afternoon's session are $10 while tickets for the evening session are $12. Those prices will be the same for Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday, afternoon session tickets will be $10 but the evening session tickets will cost $15. On Friday, tickets for the afternoon session are $12, $16 for the evening session.

Tickets for Saturday's afternoon and evening sessions are $21 each. Tickets for Sunday's championship round are $25.

A tournament pass is available for $125. There's also a weekend pass covering next Friday, Saturday and Sunday for $85.

To purchase tickets via phone, call 1-800-PRO-SERV. Tickets are also can be purchased in advance or on the day of competition (if available) at the site.

DOUBLE TAKES

Taking the ball deep

As the Seminole Community College baseball and softball teams head into April, both squads are looking to develop more consistent attacks. For the Raider baseball team, Dacks Rodriguez (No. 1, left) has been one of the steadier performers. Going into the season, he was a only a few doubles away from the SCC career record. Christy Blankenship (sliding into third, below) has been a dependable offensive threat for the SCC softball team. Both teams will be back in action on Tuesday, heading out on the road for North-Central Conference contests. The baseball team heads to Gainesville for a game with Santa Fe Community College while the softball team travels to Lake City for a doubleheader with four-time national junior college champion Lake City Community College.

Locals start final push to districts

By ROBERT STOCK
Herald Correspondent

GAINESVILLE — As the push to the district meet begins, Lake Mary and Lyman started their second season with solid performances at the Florida Relays Saturday night.

The Greyhound distance medley relay team was the top place winner for Seminole County, finishing second in 12:47.3. Rita Greenberg, Keesha Robinson, Katanah Bresnick and Janet Greenberg ran the 12-lap event for Lyman.

Rita Greenberg and Robinson also ran a leg on the 4 x 100-meter relay, helping the Greyhounds to an eighth place finish with a time of 52:05. Katrina Stafford and Yashonda Dupree rounded out that relay quartet.

"I was very pleased with the way we ran," said team's track coach Larry Baker. "I think we're coming along right on schedule. We still have a few weeks left until the championships take place."

For Lake Mary, Shannon Cook, Vivian Jones, D.J. Lewis, Amish Collins, Eric Adler and Tam McGinnis all through with top six finishes in their events.

Cook took fifth in the shot put with a toss of 34-11, one foot behind her teammate Jones, who placed fourth. Cook also threw the discus 98.0 to place ninth.

Lewis, a senior, turned in a strong performance in the 3,200-meter run, finishing sixth with a time of 2:33.6.

"I can't complain," said Lewis. "I didn't get much sleep last night." By the time Lewis ran his race he'd been at Percy Beard Track for 13 hours, competing and resting.

"It was a real good race," commented Lewis. "I felt good."

Three of the five runners that finished ahead of Lewis do not attend LA schools.

Collins took sixth and 15th in the 200-meter and 100-meter dashes, respectively. He ran a 23:05 in the 200. Adler enjoyed his best night this year as he finished fourth in the pole vault, clearing 12-9.

Classic a golden opportunity for hardcore sports fans

One of the great cliches in this business of telling stories about sports involves some grand, old-timey individual, sometimes kindly, sometimes crone-like, telling younger fans about the time he saw this old great player or that old star.

There are reasons settings like this become cliches, the main one being that it happens all the time. Even today, with the glut of sports programming on television, the experience of meeting or just seeing a favorite player in person is unparalleled for a fan. And it never lessens in the retelling.

If you're up for it, you have that opportunity this week.

Through design or divine grace, this week's Prudential Securities Tennis Classic will feature some of the top past, present and future American names in the game — Connors, Agassi, Mayotte, Sampras, Gilbert, Whit.

Jimmy Connors and Tim Mayotte need no introduction. Andre Agassi, Pete Sampras and Brad Gilbert are currently ranked in the top 10 in the world. David Whit of Jacksonville is the country's top-ranked 18-and-under player.

SPORTS

TONY DeSORMIER

For a sports fan of even marginal proportions, there's a certain historical, motivational factor at stake in this event, much like pop music aficionados will line up to buy tickets to see an landmark group as the Rolling Stones or Who or the Grateful Dead.

This may sound like the stuff of sports history, but during the 1980s, Connors was, relatively, one of the country's most recognizable professional athletes. Unless this attempt to extend his career over shadows his accomplishments in Steve Carlton-like fashion, Connors' position as one of the top American tennis players of all time is secure.

Let that sink in for a second. Here's a chance to see one of the great tennis players of all time, a player he may not be at the peak of his career, but that's not the point. It's who he was at one stage of his career.

It was unfortunate Connors will meet up with Agassi somewhere along the line during the Classic. With Agassi showing all the potential of a world-class player, the head-to-head battle between the two should be quite a thing. A hanging of the gavel. A struggle that would be of great historical significance.

The classic ends any match between Agassi, Sampras as the winner of the 1990 U.S. Open, another defending champion, Connors and Whit, and David, opponent of the long and beautifully competitive rivalry. Imagine being able to say with a knowing nod when Agassi and Whit meet for the umpteenth time in some major event sometime during the next century that you were there at the first one.

Finally, there's the appeal of the players' athletic ability. Not the ability to play the sport, but pure physical skills, speed, strength, agility, endurance. Tennis, especially in a setting like the Heathrow Tennis Club, affords a wonderfully unique opportunity to inspect those skills up close.

Don't mistake this as an appeal to rush out and buy tickets. According to one report, ticket sales have already exceeded last year's total. And as the premium sessions get sold out, other tournament patrons will start buying out other sessions.

Besides, if none of these reasons hasn't already occurred to you, it's time to turn in your Hardcore Sports fan membership card.

After weekend games, Miami eager for more

Associated Press
MIAMI - After making the most of its weekend as a major-league town, Miami is eager for more.
 Spring training games Saturday and Sunday at Joe Robbie Stadium sold 125,013 tickets and whetted the city's appetite for a National League expansion team.
 The exhibition games between the Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees were the first baseball played at the stadium since its football field was reconfigured early this year.
 The big-leaguers liked the support shown by Miami fans, too. Saturday night's sellout, with 67,654 tickets sold, broke two records.
 The largest previous neutral-site attendance for a major league game was 45,614 when Philadelphia played the New York Mets in Washington, D.C., in 1987. The largest previous spring training crowd was 62,968 for a game between California and Los Angeles at Anaheim Stadium in 1985. Such attendance records have been kept only since 1975.
 The Orioles won Saturday's game 9-2, and the Yankees won by the same score Sunday.
 Miami is competing with five other cities for the two National League franchises that will begin play in 1993. Also in the running are St. Petersburg, Fla., Orlando, Fla., Denver, Washington and Buffalo, N.Y.
 With the league's decision due in June, prospective Miami owner H. Wayne Huizenga figures two the two spring training games helped his chances.
 "To get this many fans to turn out sends a strong message," the Blockbuster Video magnate said. "You can always make the case of, 'Well, it's just two games. Will they support it all year long?'"
 "But listen, you can't start out any better."
 As a way of underscoring their commitment to bring baseball to Miami, Huizenga and Robbie are financing a $10 million stadium renovation. Dugouts and an infield have been installed, and a section of permanent seats was removed. The distance from home plate to the left field wall, which had been 272 feet when the Orioles played exhibition games at the stadium in 1988-90, is now 335 feet.
 There were criticisms. The infield was too hard, the lighting too soft. The bullpen locations need to be changed.

Ten college's show up for UF's 'Nude Relays'

Associated Press
GAINESVILLE - Ten college track teams produced about 45 runners of both sexes who stripped down for an unlit nighttime zip around the University of Florida track stadium in what was dubbed the 2nd Annual Nude Relays.
 But competitors in the unofficial event, run at 2:30 a.m. EST Sunday without clothes, shoes or batons, were barely seen when somebody turned on the lights.
 The hour-long competition run at the Percy Beard Track followed a post-game party for the 48th annual Florida Relays, according to Phil Wharton, a former UF track team member and Nude Relay racer.
 Participants ran several heats of a 4x400 meter relay in the buff, he told the Gainesville Sun.
 "People were really into being naked," he recalled.
 The event in the unlit stadium drew a crowd of between 60 and 100 fans. Nobody kept official times, but Wharton said, "Villanova won pretty much."
 Brian Fidelman, a former UF runner, said the Nude Relays became so popular that several legs of the heat had to be run. Of the 10 teams, one consisted of women, he said.
 But neither Fidelman, nor Wharton said which schools - apart from Villanova and UF - were represented in the uncovered heats.
 Racers and observers said a police officer walked on the track and pointed a flashlight at the unclothed runners a few minutes before the powerful stadium lights came on.
 Five or six runners, according to eyewitnesses, remained on the track to run a final victory lap to chants of "S-E-C" from the onlookers.
 Campus police reported that they responded to a noise complaint at the track before the lights came on. But spokesman Angle Tipton said officers responding to that call spotted no nudists, made no arrests, and no filed no report.
 "When officers arrived, people began running away. They did not see anyone, undressed," Tipton said. "If we came across naked people, there would be a report."
 The event was inspired by a party after last year's Florida Relays. That nude (inaugural in the stadium featured just a few runners, Wharton said.

 McGinnis turned in a time of 49.02 to finish sixth in the 330-meter low hurdles.
 The Rams' 4 x 800-meter girls relay team, comprised of Heather Bonk, Christina Olson, Nichole Burilison and Amy Mosseri, dropped 20 seconds off their previous best time while placing sixth in 10:37.51. The same foursome also participated in the 4 x 1600-meter relay, coming in seventh (25:14.0).
 "They did OK," said Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson. "It (this event) showed some of the girls that they can run a fast time if they really put their minds to it."
 Matt Bowman was the only Lake Howell competitor at the meet. He pole vaulted 11.9 to finish in a tie for ninth place.
 DeLand's Daren Williams finished seventh in the 200-meter dash with a time of 23.10.

IN BRIEF

Join softball league in Longwood

Longwood Recreation Department will begin to sign up Men's Softball teams on April 1, to begin on April 22. This will be a ten (10) week season, non-sanctioned league. Teams wishing to play should sign up early as it will be "first come, first serve." To obtain additional information call the Recreation Office 260-3447/260-3440 after March 25 for more details.

Leisure programs set

Leisure Programs at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin during the week of April 1:

Positive stress management skills — Thurs., 4/4 — 4/18, 7-10 p.m. Addresses common conceptions of what stress is, techniques on how to reduce it, and how stress can be used as a stimulus rather than a depressant. Cost: $20/per person.

Oil and acrylic painting — Fridays, 4/5 — 4/26, 9:30am-12:30pm. Basic to advanced techniques in acrylic and oil painting are taught with emphasis on use of color, composition and perspective as applied to portrait, figure, still life, and landscape painting. Cost: $35/per person.

Procrastination vs. productivity — Sat., 4/6 — 9am-2pm. Hunt Club. Explains reasons why so many of us procrastinate. "How to" steps will be given to change this behavior. Time will be spent on good time management, motivation techniques, and goal setting exercises. Cost: $10/per person.

Experienced rider course — Sun., 4/7, 9am-5pm. For the experienced motorcycle rider, this course reviews important riding skills such as proper braking, turning, speed selection and countersteering. Use your own motorcycle, and rider will also need helmet, gloves, boots, jacket, and sturdy trousers. Course approved by Motorcycle Safety Foundation. Cost: $30/per person.

Insect borers attack damaged trees

There are many species of insects in Florida that injure trees and shrubs by burrowing into plants. In most cases, however, these borers are not the primary cause of the decline of the plant. Rather, these insects attack trees that are under some kind of stress and are first weakened by that stress. Injury or stress can be caused by drought, root damage, soil compaction, construction damage, lightning, wind, wounds or transplant shock.

Some borers burrow deeply into the wood while others are found just below the bark. There are twig borers which are found only in smaller twigs and in the tips of shoots. Others injure the wood at the ground level and feed in the root crown of the plant.

Pines are the most frequently attacked trees and the borers that attack them represent the two major types of borers: The "bark beetles" burrow in the inner bark and feed on the cambium tissue and "borers" which burrow deeply into the wood of the trunk. The signs of the presence of these insects is not the same for all species, but in general, a reddish boring dust is found around the entry holes. A "pitch" may form from the entry holes and form pitch tubes. In time, the bark may appear as if riddled with "shot" from the multiple exit holes of the beetles.

A very small Asian twig beetle bores into the twigs of trees like dogwood, redbud and magnolia and causes twigs to become shrunken, cracked and eventually die. The peach tree borer is a caterpillar which attacks peaches, cherry laurel and wild plum by infesting the base of the tree.

GARDENING

Preventing the borers from infesting the tree or shrub is the best control. The fact that weakened trees are susceptible to borer attacks indicates that avoiding injury and stress is one of the best preventative methods. Provide water during droughts. Be careful to avoid root as well as top injury. Prune out dead or diseased branches quickly.

Pines or other trees that have been recently attacked by borers may sometimes be cleared of infestations by using thorough applications of the either lindane or dursban insecticides. It is not usually practical to apply preventative sprays to prevent borer attacks, but trees that have sustained injury or valued ones in the landscape could be sprayed with dursban or lindane every eight weeks beginning March 15 and continuing through September. Always follow the directions on the label carefully.

The larger borers that burrow into the trunk, like the peach tree borer, can be controlled after they enter the tree. Lindane or dursban, after mixing with water, can be sprayed into the hole. Sometimes, the insect can be dug out. Twig beetles can best be controlled by pruning off and destroying the infested parts. It is very important to prune as soon as the infested twigs begin to wilt in the spring. If they are not pruned in the spring, the beetles will continue to reinfest the tree. At this time, there is no pesticide labeled for twig borers.

For a free fact sheet on borers, please drop by the Extension Service or give me a call. Recommendations of brand names of pesticides is for educational purposes only and not meant as endorsement of any product.

All Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service programs are open to all regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Garden of Month

Sanford Garden Club has selected the home and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Fairly Carey, 205 Dogwood Drive, for the Garden of the Month award. Lucy Gressel of Hibiscus Circle chose the home for its overall attractive appearance. Colorful azaleas and begonias edge the juniper and pittosporum hedges that circle the home. Sago palms are centered in beds at the entrance way while magnolia trees, a crape myrtle and a ligustrum tree add interest to the yard.

Incomplete messages on phone recorder is irritating to reader

DEAR ABBY: I have a minor problem, but it is very irritating. It's my telephone answering machine. I made a recording saying, "You have reached (my telephone number)." Then I say, "Please leave your name, the time you called and your telephone number, and I will get back to you as soon as possible."

Abby, often callers will hang up before the instructions are finished. That's fine. Their loss.

But the other evening, I returned to find the following message on my machine: "It's 6:35; please call me as soon as possible" — nothing else. It was a woman's voice that I did not recognize. Is one expected to be clairvoyant?

And while I'm airing my complaints, how about those world travelers who send postcards signed simply, "Tom, Mary, Peggy or Bob," and expect you to know who they are? Usually, these are people we don't see very often, and the handwriting must be compared with signatures we received on Christmas cards.

I hope you print this. Meanwhile, thanks for letting me get this out of my system.

DEAR ME: You're welcome. That's what I'm here for.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a wedding, a company dinner and a commemorative dinner. At all three events, professional and amateur video camera users were present.

At the company dinner, those who were called up to receive their bonus checks were hidden by camera holders.

At the commemorative dinner, a tripod was set up directly in front of our table; when I asked the cameraman to kindly move, he refused and suggested that I move my chair. Where? We all had assigned seats, and there were no empty seats.

The wedding was a "production" produced to make the video to preserve for posterity. The wedding party and the guests were ordered around by the cameraman who was paid to get a video of the ceremony from start to finish. There were also amateur camera holders, and even flashbulbs going off! It was a farce. Abby, why must the magic of the present be sacrificed in an effort to preserve "memories"?

Please comment. These camera and video enthusiasts should not be permitted to run (and run) everything.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: I agree. The magic of the present should not be sacrificed to preserve memories for posterity.

(Contract Number E-5580) (WPI 3110047) (345 Calendar Days) (Proposal forms will not be issued after 10:30 A.M. (DeLand Local Time) Wednesday, April 10, 1991).

IN accordance with Section 337.17, Florida Statutes, a Bid Bond in the amount of five percent (5%) of the bid price shall be required for all bids in excess of $150,000 on District Contracts. Bid Bonds will not be required for bids which are less than $150,000.

Contractors must provide proof of ability to acquire a performance and payment bond in an amount equal to their contract bid price to the District Contract Administrator with their bid proposal. As such proof all bids must be accompanied by a notarized letter from a bonding company, bank, or other financial institution stating that they intend to issue a bond in the amount of your bid, should your firm be awarded the project.

A bid guaranty as specified under 1.1(1) of the general district contract specifications, here in, may substitute as proof of ability to obtain a performance and payment bond. This applies to bids submitted over or under $150,000.

Contractors pre-qualified under Department Rule 14.22 need not provide proof of ability to acquire a performance and payment bond at the time of submitting a bid.

Wage Rates: Pursuant to the Fair Labor Standards Act, the minimum wage rates for the projects included in this Notice shall be $3.80 per hour.

List of bidders will not be given out 72 hours prior to the letting. The State of Florida Department of Transportation, in accordance with the Provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (19 Stat. 232) and the Regulations of the Department of Commerce (15 C.F.R., Part 8) issued pursuant to such Act, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award.

NOTICE TO APPROXIMATE QUANTITY SUBSCRIBERS: NONE FURNISHED WITH DISTRICT CONTRACTS.
All work is to be done in accordance with the plans and project specifications of the State of Florida Department of Transportation. Unless otherwise notified by certified mail, return receipt requested, bid tabulations will be posted in the downstairs Conference Room of the DeLand District Office, 719 South Woodland Boulevard, DeLand, Florida on the 14th day from the letting date. Upon posting, it will be the Department's intent to award to the low bidder. Any bidder who feels he is adversely affected by the Department's intent to award to the low bidder must file with the Clerk of Agency Proceedings, 605 Swanee Street, Tallahassee, Florida 32301, a written Notice of Protest within 72 hours of posting of the bid tabulations.

A protest filed prior to the notice of Decision to Solicit Bids or the intended decision to award a contract shall be deemed abandoned unless renewed within the time limits provided in Subsection (1). Additionally, a formal written protest setting forth a short and plain statement of the matters asserted by the protester must be filed with the Clerk of Agency Proceedings within 10 days of the Preliminary Notice of Protest. In accordance with Section 337.17(1)(b), Florida Statutes, the formal written protest must be accompanied by a bond for costs in an amount equal to one percent of the lowest bid submitted or $5,000, whichever is less, in accordance with Section 120.53(5), Florida Statutes, failure to file a protest within the time prescribed in Section 120.53 (5), Florida Statutes, shall constitute a waiver of proceedings under Chapter 120, Florida Statutes.

Use caution with cayenne treatment

DEAR DR. GOTT: For over two years I've been on medication for high blood pressure. Currently I'm on Vasotec, Hytrin, Clonidine patches and Maxzide for water retention. I've been researching the benefits of taking cayenne pepper for its apparent ability to lower blood pressure and have been able to cut my medication in half and lower the pressure as well. What is your opinion of cayenne pepper capsules for hypertension?

DEAR READER: I have no experience with cayenne pepper for hypertension. As a general rule, natural substances, such as cayenne and garlic, are inappropriate substitutes for prescription drugs. Although some patients with high blood pressure can lower their readings by a few points, moderate/severe hypertension is usually not affected by vitamins or natural food supplements. I advise you to proceed carefully, under your doctor's supervision, and be ready to modify or eliminate your cayenne treatment as indicated.

Having said this, I want to emphasize that many hypertensives can achieve enormous benefit (without drugs) by modifying their lifestyles and adopting prudent diets. For example, exercise, meditation, weight loss, avoidance of salt, calcium supplements and stress counseling are valuable non-drug therapies for hypertension; in many instances, these alternative treatments may enable hypertensive patients to achieve normal blood pressures without prescription medicine. As with any chronic disease with serious consequences, hypertension should be monitored by medical personnel who can adjust therapy to each patient's needs.

To give you more information,

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
It is difficult to write about a good friend who has died. Jim Jacoby, one of the world's greatest bridge players, was the fifth-ranked masterpoint winner in North America, and the eighth-ranked World Bridge Federation Grand Master. He had a great will to win, but he was always courteous to his partner and opponents.
Today's hand was played by Jim in partnership with his father, Oswald. The bidding features the Jacoby transfer bid, which they developed and popularized. Three hearts was a game-try, and South bid four with his maximum.
With West holding the spade ace and diamond king, there appeared to be four losers, but Jacoby found the way home. West led the ace and another heart. Declarer unblocked his king under the ace, won the second trick with dummy's queen, and drew East's last trump. South and West discarded spades.

Next came dummy's club king, a club back to the ace, and a club ruff, but the Q-J didn't drop. Jacoby tried the diamond finesse, but it lost and West returned the club jack. It was ruffed in dummy, and at trick nine, the last trump was cashed. South discarding the spade eight. West had to keep three diamonds, so came down to the singleton spade ace. Reading the position perfectly, Jacoby led a diamond back to his ace (re-letted to see East's 10) and exited with the spade king. West had to lead away from the 9-6 of diamonds into declarer's J-7.
Jim Jacoby was a wonderful ambassador for bridge. He will be sorely missed.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 2, 1991
You could find yourself effecting change rather than being subjected to it in the year ahead. What you do for yourself could benefit others, too.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your greatest gratification today could come from your ability to salvage something others view as obsolete. As a result, you'll know how to revive an endeavor. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Occasionally, we request candid opinions from others, which often produces comments we don't expect or like. If you ask others for the truth today, that's exactly what you're going to get.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Intensified effort is required today if you hope to achieve your objectives. If you haven't been getting the results you desire, call in your reserves.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're the catalyst in group involvements today, the one who can get things moving. You'll have the ability to stir things up constructively.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Things you've left to the last minute can still be accomplished today, but your margin for error will be small. Do what needs doing, and do it right the first time.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extremely careful expressing yourself today, especially if you have to deal with a sensitive associate. You might unintentionally make comments that are difficult to retract.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're still in a good trend where financial involvements are concerned, so try to focus your efforts here again today.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your bearing and tone of voice will leave little doubt as to what you expect from subordinates today. Those you'll be dealing with will recognize your authority and respect your directions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone indebted to you is not likely to repay you without an appropriate reminder. Today is a good day to call the matter to this individual's attention.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If an old buddy's reputation is unjustly besmirched in your presence today, set the matter straight. If you were maligned in front of your friend, you could expect the same defense.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll enjoy playing the role of the puppeteer today, prompting actors to perform in the drama of life. You'll also be extremely effective as the force behind the scenes.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Remarkable results are possible today — if you have faith in yourself and your talents. Don't let negative associates limit your abilities.
