

Oviedo Sewer Plant Dead, Williams Says; Orlando Data Lacking

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

The controversial proposal by the city of Orlando to construct a $40-million regional sewer plant near Oviedo is dead, Commission Chairman Dick Williams predicted today.

"It looks like the Iron Bridge Plant is dead," the chairman said. "We have asked Orlando for additional information and haven't heard anything further."

For more than two years, officials from both entities discussed building the giant facility on 320 acres west of SR 320. Orlando officials are expected to attend Tuesday's public hearing, despite the fact that Williams says commissioners have no interest in allowing construction of the facility under terms proposed by the city.

Williams cited two major areas of disagreement: — The hassle over who will manage the sewer plant.

— Pollution of the Little Econlochatchee. Oviedo citizens turned out for two previous meetings in which the city's plans were discussed.

At both meetings, citizens protested the plant would pollute the river, lower values of their homes and increase noise pollution. Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff was the first Seminole official to raise the question of management. Kirchhoff said citizens should have an elected body to complain to in case operations went awry at the giant sewer plant.

Paul Matthes, Orlando's public works director, said citizens could bring their protests to Orlando officials. But that answer apparently didn't appease Seminole officials.

Orlando officials say the Iron Bridge site is "ideal" for location of the sewer plant. In an April 13 letter, Matthes attempted to explain the city's position in response to demands from county officials.

But Williams said today Matthes' explanations didn't sufficiently answer questions raised by Seminole County commissioners and citizens of Oviedo.

"Not at all," Williams said.

One objection raised by citizens is that the plant will eventually reach a capacity of 48-million gallons per day. That, citizens say, would wipe out an already polluted Little Econlochatchee.

Matthes, in his letter, said Orlando "will not increase the capacity past 24-million gallons per day until a report has been prepared justifying additional gallonage."

The federal government was to pay $30-million, with the city kicking in the remainder. Scheduled for completion in 1979, the huge plant would serve 500,000 residents of east Orlando, Orange County and southwest Seminole County.

ROSS McCLELLAN

Lyman Leader: ERA 'Too Simple'

By STEVE DAVIS
Herald Staff Writer

Politics holds a special interest for Ross McClellan. Maybe that's why he was elected student government president at "Longwood," Lyman High School.

And politics is a career he may pursue. He plans to attend the University of Florida and major in political science and then perhaps law.

To prepare for the political life, Ross keeps up with all that is happening on the national and state political scenes.

Take the controversial Equal Rights Amendment, for instance.

Ross foresees problems with it, particularly on what he calls the proposed "unisex bathrooms." He thinks the principle defies rights already guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

"The ERA," says Ross, "essentially says that no states will make laws for sex discrimination, but the 14th amendment guarantees a person's right to privacy."

Ross adds that the authors of the ERA, in trying to simplify the issue, "made it too simple."

He views the power of the President of the United States as "awesome." And he is not hesitant to criticize the current chief executive.

County's Personnel Analyst

Communication Her Goal

The long-range plans have the potential of being of even more benefit to county employees.

It's called in-house training. And Gerri's experience as an instructor at Seminole Community College fits the bill.

She said she will teach in-house courses designed to upgrade skills of secretaries and clerical workers.

Williams said she will concentrate on employees below the "division level... secretarial and other kinds of skills."

County government last year introduced in-house training for top management. Now, Williams says the same concept can be applied to workers in the lower ranks.

The purpose is to upgrade skills of county workers, make them more valuable to the county and to the citizens they're paid to serve.

Gerri was division chairman at Davenport College, where she also led an in-house newsletter. She was a high school teacher and an executive secretary before joining SCC two years ago.

She is a determined and capable administrator. And plans are being to share those skills and past experiences to bear in Seminole.

The Health Robbers Chiropractors — Do They Know Limits?

By DR. STEPHEN BARRETT
Herald Services

Chiropractic claims it began in 1895 when Daniel David Palmer restored the hearing of a deaf janitor by "adjusting" a bump on his spine. Palmer thought he had helped the man by releasing pressure on the nerve to his ear.

A grocer and "magnetic healer" by profession, he did not know that the nerve from the brain to the ear does not travel inside the spinal column. But no matter, he soon became certain that he had discovered the cause of disease.

At first he kept the "discovery" secret, but by the end of 1895 he set up the Palmer College of Chiropractic to teach it. One of his early pupils was his own son, Bartlett Joshua, better known as "B.J." The boy began to help his father run the school soon after it opened. Gradually, however, B.J. took over. In 1906, Daniel David was charged with practicing medicine without a license and went to jail. When he was released, B.J. bought out his interests in the school. Business boomed, and many Palmer graduates opened schools of their own. Cash was the basic entrance requirement for most of them and some even trained their students by mail.

As competition among chiropractors grew, and as many were jailed for practicing medicine without licenses, they began to pressure state legislators to license them. Responding to this pressure, perhaps with the hope that licensing would lead to higher standards of education and practice, states began to pass licensing laws.

Chiropractors would be allowed no drugs or surgery. Most states limited chiropractic treatment to "spinal adjustment." But for what? If all disease was caused by spines which need adjustment, couldn't chiropractors treat everything?

They could. And they did. Over the years, many cases have come to light where chiropractors treated patients for cancer and other serious diseases which should have medical attention. Additional evidence that chiropractors do not know their limitations comes from advertising. The Lehigh Valley Committee Against Health Fraud has collected hundreds of chiropractic ads which contain false claims. Among them:

"There are very few diseases... which are not treatable by chiropractic methods."
"Diabetes... the chief cause lies in displaced spinal vertebrae..."

"If every person were under regular chiropractic care, the incidence of cancer would be reduced by 50 per cent in ten years."

Although spinal manipulation has a small place in the treatment of back disorders, in the hands of chiropractors it can be dangerous. I know of one man who was paralyzed from the waist down after a spinal manipulation. Unknown to his chiropractor, spinal cancer had weakened the patient's bones and the treatment had crushed his spinal cord.

From time to time, broken bones, paralysis and strokes have been noted in court cases and medical journals. So have deaths from cancer and infectious diseases where chiropractors did not know enough to make medical referral in time for proper medical treatment. Although such serious cases are relatively rare, they are inexcusable.

Chiropractors claim that X-rays help them locate the "subluxations" which D.D. Palmer imagined were the cause of "pinched nerves" and "nerve interference." But they do not agree among themselves about what subluxations are.

When the National Association of Letter Carriers Health Plan included chiropractic, it received claims for treatment of cancer.

Dr. Stephen Barrett is chairman of the Lehigh Valley (Pa.) Committee Against Health Fraud Inc.

heart disease, mumps, mental retardation and many other conditions. In 1964, chiropractors were asked to justify such claims by sending X ray evidence of spinal problems. They submitted hundreds, all of which were supposed to show subluxations. When chiropractic officials were asked to review them, however, they were unable to point out a single subluxation.

Until recently, for about $20, chiropractors could get copies of 107 advertisements to "guide" preparation of their own ads. Most of the ads are case histories, and the instructions which accompany them suggest: "Be type each ad on your own stationery for presentation to the editor. This would indicate that they are your own creations, and that the cases mentioned... are from your own files."

Wondering what approach chiropractors would take toward healthy people, our Committee once sent a perfectly well four-year-old girl to five chiropractors for a "check-up."

The first said the child's shoulder blades were "out of place" and found "Pinched nerves to her stomach and gallbladder." The second said the child's pelvis was "twisted."

The third said one hip was "elevated" and that spinal misalignments could cause "headaches, nervousness, equilibrium or digestive problems" in the future. The fourth predicted "bad periods and rough childbirth" if her "shorter left leg" were not treated. The fifth not only found hip and neck problems, but also "adjusted" them without bothering to ask permission.

Next: Fighting Healthy Teeth

Dr. William P. Webb II, chiropractor in Altamonte Springs, will respond to Dr. Barrett's observations in Tuesday's Evening Herald.

Permanent Tax Cut Studied; But Carter Promises Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is beginning work on President Carter's energy proposals while still bogged down in debate over his economic stimulus tax bill. The Senate, in its fifth day of debate on the tax bill, was wrestling today with a Republican proposal that would provide for the kind of permanent cut in individual taxes that Carter has said he will veto.

Mid-East Policy Talks On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein is meeting with President Carter for the first time to discuss the new administration's Middle East policy and views on resettling Palestinian refugees. Hussein arrived here Sunday evening, his plane landing 50 minutes late at Andrews Air Force Base in a raging thunderstorm. He was greeted by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance before traveling by motorcade to Blair House, the official government guest residence across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

Energy Control Sought

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A conference of Western and Midwestern governors, concerned about U.S. energy resources coming under the control of another country, says Alaska oil should be funneled through a Washington state port to keep delivery systems under American control. In a related development, a letter from Washington Gov. Dixy Lee Ray to President Carter, made public Sunday, urged that the United States close a pipeline route for Alaska natural gas that would minimize dependence on Canada.

Efforts Under Way To Curb Oil Spill From Runaway Well

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — American experts hope that by Wednesday they can complete capping the runaway well spewing millions of gallons of crude oil into the North Sea. The attempt was to begin today. A spokesman for the Phillips Petroleum Co., which operates the well 180 miles off the Norwegian coast, said a large crane would lower a capping device over the open pipe. The blowout Friday night created an oil slick 12 miles long and two to five miles wide.

Zaire Drive Slow, Steady

LUBUDI RIVER, Zaire (AP) — The Zaire army's drive into western Shaba province has advanced a mile west of the Lubudi river and is 19 miles from Mutshatsha, its first objective. The retreating Katangans rebels are mining the dirt road throughout the area, slowing the army's advance to a crawl. About 250 troops were reported in the government force, advancing across a front of about 250 yards on each side of the road. Moroccan troops have done no fighting but are protecting the Zairean troops' flanks and rear.

Psychiatrist Pleads Innocent

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Psychiatrist Dr. William M. Wilhoit pleaded innocent today to four counts of sexual battery and one count of perjury and asked that he be tried without a jury.

Defense attorney Joe Harrell waived the formal reading of the indictment before Circuit Judge Joseph Crowell. Asst. State Atty. Ron Johnson said the state would not consider the request for waiver of a jury trial before consenting.

Wilhoit, 56, is charged with placing four patients under a medication which rendered them semiconscious and then raping them. He's free on $20,000 personal appearance bond.

The prominent doctor is past president of the Escambia County Medical Society and the Florida Association for Mental Health.

Trial was tentatively set for July 26.

A former Manson disciple, Linda Kasabian, was a key prosecution witness at Manson's trial. The appeal said she was not ordered a test to determine Miss Kasabian's mental competence.

Kanarek said her mental health had been affected by the habitual use of the drug LSD.

Klan Leader Is 'Worried' X-Burning Will Hurt Drive

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Although the United Klans of Florida are holding a recruitment drive, the grand dragon says his group had nothing to do with more than two dozen cross burnings in the state over the weekend.

But John Paul Rogers of Lake Wales said "it's quite possible" publicity from the cross burnings could have an adverse effect on his membership drive.

"We'll have to wait and evaluate and see what it does," he said. "We're having a real successful drive with more applications than we've been able to handle."

FP&L Saves $27 Million

MIAMI (AP) — Florida Power & Light Co., the state's largest utility, reports it saved $27 million on oil during March because of record electrical production at three nuclear power units.

But officials say that coal-fired generating stations offer the long-term solution to the enormous cost of imported oil and a major investment will be made in that direction.

The savings in March are to be passed along to customers as fuel adjustments on their monthly bills.

FPL said two nuclear reactors at Turkey Point, south of Miami, and one on Hutchinson Island, near Fort Pierce, produced a record 1.38 million kilowatt hours of electricity — 44.18 per cent of the total production.

Hit Parade Singer Dead

FORT MYERS (AP) — Singer Hubert Alison Hendrie, who appeared on television with Mitch Miller and on the "Lucky Strike Hit Parade" show, is dead at 76.

He died Saturday at Fort Myers Beach, his home since 1964.

The native of Luzerne, N.Y., studied with Metropolitan Opera tenor Jean de Reszke in Nice, France, and Oscar Segale of New York City.

He is survived by his widow, Dorothy; a daughter, O. Betty Hendrie of Middletown, N.Y.; a son, Hubert O. Hendrie of Franklin, N.C.; and a sister, Clara Dildy of Glen Falls, N.Y.

Burial will be in Severance, N.Y.

Dignity Death Bill Up Again

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — "Surely a person should have control of their destiny while they're in control," says Rep. Don Hazelton, D-West Palm Beach, a new crusader for a "death with dignity" bill.

The bill, introduced for nine years in a row without success by former Rep. Walter Sackett, D-Miami, would allow Floridians to sign "living wills" refusing life-prolonging medical treatment.

The will could not take effect until two physicians certified the person was terminally ill or injured.

Hearing Set On Old Capitol

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The fate of Florida's old Capitol went to a House Appropriations subcommittee today with a scheduled hearing on a request from state officials for $3.6 million to save the old building from demolition.

Meanwhile, the Senate faced a full calendar of issues ranging from whether to abolish elections for members of the Public Service Commission to whether to outlaw rent control ordinances by passing a bill Gov. Reubin Askew vetoed last year.

On Casselberry Petitions: Election Still Up In The Air

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry City Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter said the "people's petition" demanding a special election will be considered by the city council at its 7:30 meeting tonight even though it is not on the meeting agenda.

And, he added, "We (the council) should be in a position to authorize the administration (the mayor's office) to post (the proposed ordinance) and authorize public hearings."

The Rights Issue:
Playing It By Ear

For President Carter to fashion a foreign policy placing new emphasis on human rights is going to be particularly difficult in Latin America.

But the President didn't pull back in his Pan American Day address to the Organization of American States. He outlined a "new" Latin American policy giving prominence to the human rights theme.

The first of his three points was doubtless intended to soothe the feelings of those Latin Americans who already have complained that linking our foreign aid to human rights issues is an attempt to influence their domestic affairs.

Having made that disclaimer, he goes on to say that the approach of various governments toward political, social and economic injustice will indeed "influence our relations."

Finally he warns that the historic and geographic factors which give nations in the Western Hemisphere a special relationship have to take second place at times to "global" consideration.

The theme of hemispheric unity which underlies Pan American Day has been growing harder to sustain. U.S. presidents in the last decade have shied away from trying to enunciate a "Latin American policy."

The President must strive for some consistency in that array of relationships, however, and his recent speech pointed up the difficulties he faces.

Extenuating circumstances which require the United States to equivocate on human rights are likely to be prominent in putting the Carter foreign policy into practice in Latin America.

Mr. Carter's first speech directed to Latin America was intended to be no more than a broad outline of his thinking. That it was — but an outline so broad that members of the audience may have gone home with as many questions as they had when they arrived.

Is Agency Needed?

President Carter's endorsement of an independent agency to lobby for consumers among other federal bodies fulfills a campaign pledge to consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Under normal circumstances, Clark could probably win with a $5 kitty. Polls by the Des Moines Register show his approval rating has climbed from 44 per cent in January 1973, his first month in office, to 70 per cent last month — the highest ever achieved by an Iowa senator.

Officials

WASHINGTON — Considering the paucity of first-class political talent in this country, it seems a shame to see a U.S. Senate race looming next year that could pit incumbent Democrat Dick Clark of Iowa against that state's Republican Gov. Robert Ray.

The inescapable problem with such a contest is that someone has to lose, and neither the citizens of Iowa nor the rest of us should find any pleasure in that prospect.

Dick Clark is an unusually intelligent and effective senator. Bob Ray is an exceptionally decent and able governor. Good government buffs in Washington and Iowa alike are already cringing at the thought of choosing between the two if Ray decides to challenge Clark next year.

Clark and Ray are obviously not interchangeable. The Democratic senator is an unabashed liberal, a legislative innovator who frequently operates well out in front of the pack in the Senate.

Now serving an unprecedented fourth term as governor, Ray has never in the past displayed much interest in moving to Washington, although he could have easily captured a Senate seat in 1974 when Democrat Harold Hughes retired.

Like a dozen or so other successful Republican officeholders, however, he is now eyeing a possible presidential bid either in 1980 or 1984. And some of his closest advisers are urging, him to seek the Senate seat as a stepping stone, arguing it would provide greater national visibility that he can hope to command from the Iowa statehouse.

On the other hand, Ray enjoys being governor. "When he makes a decision now, things happen. It might be kind of frustrating in the Senate, especially as part of the minority," said one Iowa Republican who is close to the governor.

Ray is considering a third option, our sources tell us. He could emulate Jimmy Carter, retire at the end of his current term and spend the two years between 1978 and 1980 campaigning full time for president.

Under normal circumstances, Clark could probably win with a $5 kitty. Polls by the Des Moines Register show his approval rating has climbed from 44 per cent in January 1973, his first month in office, to 70 per cent last month — the highest ever achieved by an Iowa senator.

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — In the comic strip "Doonesbury," the old Nixon hands got together to relive the wondrous days of Watergate. Sometime in the fall, believe it or not, it will happen real life.

By solemn count, 132 erstwhile Nixon aides have formed a club, which they call the "February Group." They took the name from the month in 1973 when the founders—Nixon loyalists who had escaped the slammer or were out on bail—established a loose association.

A poll of the membership indicated that 72 were interested in chartering a plane for a pilgrimage to visit the Recluse of San Clemente. It almost became a patriotic pilgrimage next Fourth of July, except that too many of them had already scheduled family vacations that week.

Instead, they decided to select a convenient week after Labor Day. Then they will fly to San Clemente for a few days of reminiscing with Richard Nixon about the good old days.

The idea for the reunion with Nixon grew out of a conversation between ex-white house aide W. Dewey Glower and the former president himself. Nixon was so pleased to learn about the February Group that he invited them to San Clemente.

The faces in Seminole's county and city government change with regularity. But, one need only look at the back issues of the Evening Herald to find that the major issues remain the same.
Ten years ago the issues capturing the headlines included: a squabble between city and county officials over whether a service should be provided to cities as well as the unincorporated areas; an announcement from Longwood about a proposed new city charter; high hopes for a new corporation being formed to revitalize the downtown area of Sanford and a referendum on the question of whether the office of Seminole County school superintendent should be appointive or elective.

'I'M WORKING ON IT!'
DON OAKLEY
Alternative
To The Draft,
Costs Plenty

Military conscription, which lasted through the long World War II-Cold War-Korea-Vietnam period, was an aberration in American history. Only twice before, in the Civil War and in World War II, had the nation relied on the draft to fill its military manpower needs, and then only briefly.

The ending of the draft and the return to the old American belief that except in time of overriding national emergency, a person's body belongs to himself, not to the state.
But the days are long gone when America, secure behind thousands of miles of ocean on either side, could make leisurely preparations for war, mustering its yeoman farmers and mechanics while a small professional army and navy held the line.

Not only has the all-volunteer Army failed to provide the defense strength in depth needed to prevent a nuclear war, say his critics, but it has become so costly that it is draining funds that could be used for research and development of new weapons and equipment modernization.

Since 1964, military pay has nearly doubled and now accounts for 50 per cent of the defense budget. The Army plans to spend $60 billion this year to recruit 5,000 additional soldiers, or about $12,000 each, and is not sure it will get even that small number.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated that if even if unemployment remains at its present high level, the military services will face a shortfall of 20 per cent in recruiting by 1980 simply because the number of draft-age men is declining.

Army reserve units are currently 80,000 men short of their peacetime level and the shortage will reach 250,000 by the early 1980s as the last of the World War II-era reservists reach their tours of duty, warns Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.

Another criticism is that volunteers have come predominantly from poor, uneducated and minority groups who have not been able to find work in civilian life. Blacks now make up 24 per cent of Army personnel, more than twice their percentage in the general population.

"Unfortunately, the volunteer Army has not attracted across the board our whole social spectrum in this country," says Sen. John H. Glenn, D-Ohio, "so I think we have to seriously consider going back to some form of draft."

One form of draft that has been suggested is a truly universal system in which all youths would be called upon to perform a year or two of service either in the military or in organizations like the Peace Corp or Vista.

Garland, the 26-year-old right-handed pitcher who signed a 10-year contract with the Indians after playing out his option with the Baltimore Orioles, was shelled for 13 hits and eight runs in his first two starts for an earned run average of 9.00.

Manager Frank Robinson said he probably would shake Garland out of the regular pitching rotation to let him get his sore shoulder and perhaps his head straightened out.

Garland said he had been bothered by tendonitis. His pitching coach, Harvey Haddix, said the trouble might lie somewhere else. "I think he's bothered by pressure," Haddix said. "It's a combination of things — new surroundings, his contract, the fans."

In this same malady afflicting Bill Campbell, Boston's $1.5 million mound contraction who survived only six innings in his first three games, allowing 10 hits and eight earned runs?
It is a case of "contract nerves" that caused Don Gullett, the New York Yankees' touted $2 million acquisition from the champion Cincinnati Reds, to get off to such a shaky start — yielding 22 hits and 12 earned runs in his first three starts for a 1-2 winning record?

The Yankees' owner, George Steinbrenner, the first big spender, was among the first to recognize the inherent perks lurking for players and teams tagged with the "fat cat" label after the free-agent sweetstakes.

"No doubt about it, we'll be on the spot," he warned. "The fans will expect immediate results. If they don't get them, there will be hell to pay."

True to the prophecy, the Yankees were roundly booed after dropping eight of their first 10 games, six in a row. Garland was almost booted out of the park in Baltimore Wednesday night.

Reggie Jackson, the Yankees' $2.9 million piece of bribe-abc, acknowledged that the Yankees' falling start probably was the result of players trying too hard — the gold-plated merchandise attempting to live up to price tags, the charged holdovers pressing to show up the millionaires.

The cascade of dollars which a fraction of the clubs dumped into the free agent pot so far has returned lend dividends. Cleveland, Boston and New York are mired in the second division of the American League East. The California Angels, who shelled out in excess of $5 million for Don Baylor, Joe Rudi and Bobby Grich, are struggling to keep out of the cellar of the AL West.

The Texas Rangers, who paid close to $2 million for Bert Campaneris and Doyle Alexander, are puffing around the 500 mark. San Diego, which went for $2.7 million to nab Gene Tenace and Rolfe Fingers, is battling it out with the champion Cincinnati Reds for the basement in the National League West.

Also, the people decisively turned down the possibility of an appointed school superintendent.

Now, it is being said that the Seminole County League of Women Voters, confident after its victory at the polls in having the school superintendent's office and the school board posts changed to non-partisan offices, wants the question of an appointed superintendent on the ballot again.

We'll have to wait and see whether the feelings of the people remain constant or change in 10-years time.

Florida Constitution is now called "double taxation."

The Longwood city charter in 1967 failed its referendum of the people because the people saw it as a move to oust the elected city clerk, Onnie R. Shomate. The proposed charter called for appointment rather than election of a city clerk.

Currently in Longwood, a citizens committee is preparing a new city charter. How will this one fare? It's anyone's guess. But, Mrs. Shomate is still the elected city clerk and will complete her 10th two-year term next year. And she plans to retire.

So much resistance was evidenced by the people to that charter that it never went to a referendum.

The proposed revitalization of downtown Sanford a decade ago had industrialist Jeno Paulucci as one of the proponents. That effort died.

The revitalization of Sanford now is a going and moving project and expected to be successful.

The school superintendent issue had something going for it 10 years ago. A popular superintendent, R. T. Milwee had resigned after many years on the job.

The choices among educators for his replacement were two long-time Seminole residents and members of the profession — Walter Teague, financial expert with the school system, who said he didn't want the job, and John Angel.

Then Gov. Claude Kirk, Republican, instead named as Milwee's successor, William Phillips, who lived in Orange County. He was recognized as a very able man. John Angel was turned down because he refused to change his political party from Democrat to Republican.

The people made the difference, however, in 1968 when they chose Democrat Angel over Republican Phillips. While Angel was in office, he did change his political affiliation to the GOP and he in turn was defeated at the polls in 1972 by Democrat Bud Layer. Layer had worked in Angel's campaign four years before.

Also, the people decisively turned down the possibility of an appointed school superintendent.

Now, it is being said that the Seminole County League of Women Voters, confident after its victory at the polls in having the school superintendent's office and the school board posts changed to non-partisan offices, wants the question of an appointed superintendent on the ballot again.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DEAR DR. LAMB - Please tell me the difference between hypoglycemia and hyperinsulinism. For several years I had spells of passing out and was out for three hours one day and taken to the hospital.

After a lot of tests my blood sugar was down to 40. I am on a high protein, no sugar, low carbohydrate diet and am okay as long as I stay on it. My doctor told me and put on all my papers that I had hyperinsulinism but someone else said it was just hypoglycemia.

DEAR READER - If that someone else had your problem he might not think it was just hypoglycemia. (Low blood sugar) can be caused by many factors. Liver disease is one cause. A rebound type of reaction that occurs from rapid emptying of the stomach is another cause, as may occur after a stomach operation. It can occur after drinking too much alcohol or from a variety of complex enzyme disturbances. It can also occur because of disease of the adrenal glands. Low blood sugar is a symptom but not a diagnosis.

One of the causes of hypoglycemia is an over-production of insulin. The abnormality and hence the diagnosis then is hyperinsulinism and it causes hypoglycemia. The excess insulin production lowers the blood sugar. So hyperinsulinism can cause hypoglycemia but not all cases of hypoglycemia are caused by hyperinsulinism. Regardless of the cause, a severe case of true hypoglycemia that causes the problems you describe will give up on tasks that you can't breeze right through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take nothing for granted in your delusion today. Things that look nifty on the surface could be very complicated. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might prove very unwise to let someone else make an important decision for you today. Think for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Taking on more responsibility than you can competently handle could prove extremely frustrating today. Keep your projects to a minimum. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Lady Luck could desert you today in risky, financial ventures. Don't put her to the test.

YOUR BIRTHDAY April 26, 1977 Some changes that are far-reaching effects are likely to be made this year. These are things you've been wanting to do, but up till now found impossible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others are willing to help you today but, unfortunately, they may not be the right ones to open the proper doors. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is opportunity around you today, but if it is simply handled it may not amount to much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be careful if doing business with friends today. One of you might wind up feeling they've been had. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others may throw roadblocks in your path today if you fail to treat them tactfully. Woo your allies, don't wound them. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Second effort isn't your long suit today. It's more likely you'll give up on tasks that you can't breeze right through.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am neither obese nor pregnant nor do I think that I have an abdominal tumor. Standing still would decrease my walking, slow it up, stop it altogether or use an elastic bandage or support stocking. It is most important when you are standing still or sitting, now while you are walking.

If the blow-out bothers you then you should see your doctor and see if he wants to tie off that vein. One doesn't have to be fat, female, or have a tumor in the abdomen to develop varicose veins even though the factors do increase the tendency to develop them.

replied, "It's supposed to be 21 or 22, but he probably has 19 or 20. Then she bid six."

Jim: "This time I run opposite 12 produces a good slam contract because it will make if South can score four club tricks or if something good happens in diamonds."

Oswald: "The clubs were wrong, but something good did happen in diamonds. West led his ace of spades and continued the suit. I cashed three hearts and three spades to come down to a six-card ending with just two diamonds left in my hand. Poor West had to chuck a club to keep protection for his queen-jack diamonds and I had my slam."

Double Tax, County Plan: Lawsuits Eyed

Sanford's Moore: 'A Subtle Move Toward Consolidation'

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission Monday night voted to file a lawsuit in the state courts seeking redress from Seminole County on the question of tax equalization. Court action opposing the county's proposed comprehensive plan development framework was also considered by the commission.

Both unanimous votes came after Mayor Lee P. Moore delivered a stinging condemnation of the County Commissioners' positions on both issues.

"The issues are difficult to relate," said the mayor, "but the information presented by City Manager W.E. Knowles on both issues leads in the same direction."

"What we are witnessing is a subtle movement on the part of the board of commissioners toward consolidation."

"It's too bad we're going to have to have the courts resolve" the tax question, County Commission Chairman Dick Williams said this morning. "Legally the courts are the only ones who can... we've already talked to the city once. We're planning to talk to them some more."

Chairman Williams also denied the comprehensive plan is a step toward consolidation. "There are those who are talking consolidation, but the plan doesn't contemplate any future consolidation. The plan isn't designed to do that."

"The plan is necessary. We've been through five or six years without much comprehensive planning. If anybody's got a better way, we'd like to hear from them," Williams said.

In January, Sanford, in a petition to the county commissioners, identified several services the city feels the county renders solely for the benefit of county residents in unincorporated areas, services for which city residents pay taxes.

The situation is commonly known as double taxation. Under state law, the county was required to respond to the petition within 90 days. On April 12, the 90th day, the county commission replied that double taxation does not exist.

The city's petition, which the county rejected, identified double taxation as existing in the county's "building

At Spring Hammock Site He Wants To Chop Trees

At Spring Hammock Site He Wants To Chop Trees

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

Action on a request from a Casselberry citizen to chop down 80 per cent of the trees in what county officials say is the heart of environmentally sensitive Spring Hammock was postponed for a week by the Seminole County Commission today.

A. L. Seligman, making the request, said he wants to clear the area to plant vegetables and raise horses for his children, then later possibly convert the agriculturally zoned land to timber.

Seligman replied he would "burn it on-site to keep the cost down."

Commission Chairman Dick Williams recommended postponing the decision for one week. "Maybe gardening, maybe horses or maybe something else," was how Williams described his understanding of Seligman's intentions.

The moratorium was imposed in March after environmentalists rose in protest against location of a Baird-Ray Datsun dealership on the edge of the hammock near U.S. 17-92. Though environmentalist strongly protested rezoning four acres from agricultural to commercial, the commission overrode its own professional staff and allowed the dealership.

Seligman did not request a change in zoning. His only request to the commission was to be allowed to remove the trees. Seligman said trees would be cut down on an 80-acre, but Hadden said the acreage in question is near 25 acres. Seligman said he would "burn it on-site to keep the cost down."

Commission Chairman Dick Williams recommended postponing the decision for one week. "Maybe gardening, maybe horses or maybe something else," was how Williams described his understanding of Seligman's intentions.

SURPRISE!

Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting was enlivened by the announcement of an unexpected $63,600 "bonanza" the city will soon receive from the federal government.

The pleasant surprise came as the result of City Manager W.E. Knowles "filling out some forms" about 2 1/2 years ago and sending them to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"I filled out the forms and forgot about it," Knowles said. "I never expected to hear another word."

Here's how the bonanza came about: In late 1973 the city received a $766,000 EPA grant to upgrade its sewer plant. The city was required to put up a local share to match the federal money.

"During construction of the improvements, Congress passed a new law applying to the funding of such improvements, and EPA developed new regulations.

When construction was completed in mid-1975, Knowles submitted an application for a federal refund of the difference, as specified in an EPA letter to the city.

"The fortunate result of the improvements, Congress announced Monday night. Knowles said the check "might take another six weeks to arrive."

There were quite a few merchants hit in south Seminole County, in Casselberry and Altamonte. A lot of merchants are not reporting these. We know the Altamonte Mall was hit where mostly men's clothing and probably some appliances were bought with the bad checks.

"Most of the food stores also were hit. Many of these stores will be handling them as worthless checks, so it will take some time for them to all come in," said Morris, who is not yet releasing total dollar figures on the merchandise or bank losses.

Arrested in the investigation were John J. Nolan, 34, Robert Hardenberg, 46, William L. Franklin, 25; Joy Finley, 31; and David Guarado, 21; all of Orlando. Charges included grand larceny, issuing worthless checks, forgery, conspiracy, and violation of probation. Bonds ranged from $1,000 to $20,000.

Morris said the group, which had access to rental cars, opened accounts using false names with stolen checks and hope to recover another," he said.

According to Orange County Sheriff's Department spokesman, the investigation continues with more arrests expected.

The amount will be substantial...
